PLAN OFFERED BY MCADOO TO AID INDUSTRY

Creation Of National Economic Board To Stabilize Business Suggested In Talk

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—(AP)—Creation of a "national economic board" to stabilize conditions in industry and agriculture and to prevent waste and unemployment was suggested by William Gibbs McAdoo in an address here last night.

The former secretary of the treasury said the idea grew out of the work of the war industries board, which temporarily supervised industry during the World War. The suggested body would act under the sanction of the government, he explained, and in an advisory and cooperative capacity.

"Such a board or council," said McAdoo, "could render service of incalculable value in stabilizing conditions in industry and agriculture and in preventing waste and unemployment. It could also contribute to the prevention of overproduction by determining in advance the amount of national output."

CHURCH SESSION
MONTREAT HAS
ANNUAL ASSEMBLY

Termination of Presbyterian
1931 Deliberations

MONTREAT, N. C., June 4.—The general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States adjourned its 103rd session here yesterday afternoon after a week of deliberations. The assembly also will be held at Montreat, it was decided.

The assembly adjourned after a session in which loans ends the assembly's work were picked up and farewell speeches delivered.

The morning session was devoted to consideration of a recommendation by a select committee of the country church department to be abolished, and just before the assembly voted to vote on the department, which was organized in 1925 to promote work in rural areas.

Opposing the committee recommendation, the Rev. C. O. Parsons of Gadsden, Ala., said five years ago "there seemed to be a real need for an effort to have the country church from the top," and asserted that the situation "is much more critical now."

Other speakers described the department as "desperately needed" while those who overruled the Presbyteries and of other departments.

The director of the department, Rev. Henry McLaughlin of Richmond, Va., was re-elected for three-year term, after an effort to reduce his term to one year failed.

The Rev. R. H. McCallin of Jacksonville, Fla., was appointed to serve a three-year term on the same mission executive committee. A one-year term was given to Mr. Andrew Bremlett, also of Jacksonville.

PITTSBURGH, June 4. —(AP)

The general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. adjourned to hold its 103rd meeting in Denver, Colo., and adjourned the sessions here yesterday. The assembly formally commended the "effort on the part of a group of substantial citizens throughout the country to establish and maintain a national daily newspaper to be published in New York, the same to be distinctly Christian in its spirit and outlook, and to stand for noble causes and enterprises which embody our highest ideals."

News toward establishment of such a paper were initiated by the Methodist denomination at an assembly two years ago.

Leaders said tentative negotiations were being conducted by Stanley High, editor of the Chicago Herald, published in Chicago.

PITTSBURGH, June 4.—(AP)

Pennsylvania grade crude oil was advanced to the lowest price since Dec. 15, 1918, yesterday. Cuts of 10 and 15 cents a barrel were announced by leading purchasing centers here.

Debunking Another Myth About This Florida Citrus Business

April 25, 1931

Presidents and Directors of the Florida Citrus Exchange, Sub-Exchanges and Associations. Gentlemen:

Here are facts about recent progress and development in your organization. They are given to you gentlemen so that you will have definite data on the general picture with which to meet the wave of argument and criticism which is being leveled against the organization as usual during the grower withdrawal period. We believe that this information will be of value to you in talking to growers, both in and out of your organizations.

The Florida Citrus Exchange has made marked progress in its organization development within the state. We have a far larger, stronger and more closely knit organization than ever before.

You are familiar with the increase in the percentage of the total crop which has been brought under the control of cooperation. It has been increased from 35% to approximately 45% during the past two or three seasons. And this increase has not been obtained entirely through mergers of independent grower-shipper organizations, but has been obtained largely through successful organization contact with individual growers.

Increase of Grower Membership. Consider the records for the past season to March 1st. The organization added 1133 new members (not including grower-shippers) owning 23,357 acres of grove properties. During the same period only 287 growers, owning 5843 acres, left the organization for one reason or another. This leaves us a net increase during the period of 856 growers, owning 17,714 acres.

It is also important to look at the distribution of volume per association. It has long been a policy of this organization to eliminate weak associations or associations which had practically no chance of obtaining adequate volume for economical operations, or to build such associations through strong management into units which could operate satisfactorily in the interests of their grower-members.

Average Volume Per Association Doubled. In 1924-25 the organization operated 110 packing houses and packed 8,274,320 boxes of fruit. The average per house in this large crop year was 75,218 boxes. Pursuing this policy steadfastly through the intervening seasons to date, we come to this present season with 193 houses, which will pack an estimated total of 10,025,000 boxes, or an average of 52,000 per house. In other words, the average per house has been nearly doubled since the 1924-25 season. This volume increase per house is highly desirable in that it has brought about much more economical operations and permits a far more satisfactory handling of the fruit in the house.

Much of this development within the associations may be traced to a participation of personnel in the associations and sub-exchanges. The detail of the changes which have been made from time to time during the past few seasons is too great to detail here, but we can readily see that the organization is growing and becoming more and more efficient in its operations.

GO AHEAD. If you must, and believe that you are getting along all right without an organized citrus marketing system.

That may be true in your case—IF you don't depend for a living on a prosperous industry. But such apathy is giving everyone who does a look of headaches and skimpy meals.

How long will you believe in fairy tales? No will-o'-the-wisp plan will ever make citrus consistently profitable. It takes good, sound, hard work, plenty of hard work, plus a concentration of volume control in a marketing agency competent to apply successfully the fundamental principles of merchandising to every citrus crop.

And that's why you should support the Florida Citrus Exchange. It is a grower-controlled, non-profit organization able and eager to serve. Its hard-working Board of Directors and employees have produced. Progress has been made. Results have been obtained.

But it lacks the power of 75 percent minimum control of the product. Every plan tried has developed into a beautiful bubble only to burst into a disappointing and costly failure. Certainly now is the time to use the only plan remaining—the only one never given a chance.

That plan is adequately supported cooperative marketing. It is the only plan which has proved successful in similar situations elsewhere. It is the plan backed by economical experts and the Federal Government.

It can and must work in Florida.

Read this letter of General Manager C. F. Combs to a grower. It is a President's report on the organization. It is a fact of accomplishment and progress in an organization which is recognized by the Federal Farm Board as the only hope of profitable organization in the Florida citrus industry.

Florida Citrus Exchange

Tampa, Florida

Upon the demoralization of the canning industry, which in itself is proof of the fact that the independent canner is unable to manage the canning business, the Florida Citrus Exchange has seen the advantage of getting into the canned grapefruit deal, making possible the use of its cooperative control of the raw product to force a stabilization of the canned grapefruit industry in the interests of the producers. The plan for cooperative activity in the canning industry are rapidly progressing and have reached a point where it is safe to assume that this phase of the industry will be made a highly profitable one for the producers.

That all of these factors of organization development such as the Exchange, the grower and pure efficient handling of the fruit by the Federal Farm Board has given the organization a remarkable record of success. The Federal Farm Board is actively working to build the organization up.

Attraction Requested of National Leaders

Further the Florida Citrus Exchange is a fact of accomplishment and progress in an organization which is recognized by the Federal Farm Board as the only hope of profitable organization in the Florida citrus industry.

Weekly bulletins were received by the citrus department in connection with the national conference. These bulletins have been very helpful in the development of the Florida Citrus Exchange.

satisfactory movement of the type of fruit we had to offer.

All of these developments in sales produced highly satisfactory results. Each division and district saw an increase in business as a result of closer concentration in the development of new car lot buyers and customers. The F.C.E. business of the Exchange has been increased to the highest point during the past five years. This type of business was especially important this season as it permitted a wide distribution of our fruit and relieved the concentrated industrial centers of population where unemployment and hard times were most prevalent. The Exchange private sales as of this date have been 88.5% of the total, as opposed to the custom volume of 41.7%.

Export Sales Tracked

Florida Citrus Exchange export sales are three times as great as they have ever been, and for the first time in the history of our export business, Mer-Juce grade of fruit has been shipped. One-third of this season's volume sold at export was second grade quality. All of this fruit was moved at prices equal or better than prices available in the domestic market.

The bulk deal, usually a menace to proper merchandising, was handled by the Florida Citrus Exchange to good advantage. Certain of the specialty and dealer service men were placed in strategic positions in the country, particularly in the middle west, and made responsible for the development of a definite volume of bulk business. This movement was confined almost entirely to small towns and to markets where that type of fruit shipment made possible completely successful competition of our fruit with that of California and Texas. The Exchange in handling bulk fruit, it may be said that practically none of the Exchange volume moved in that manner was a factor in the demoralization of fresh fruit markets because of bulk competition. As handled the bulk deal was a vital factor in widening the distribution of Exchange fruit and relieving the 25 to 30 percent of a considerable volume.

Developed Successful Movement in Domestic Consumer Package

Another important development for which the Exchange is entirely responsible is the movement of fruit in ten-pound bags. This is a new handling factor on which we have been working for the past two years. This season proved the advantages originally seen in the development of this idea. Upwards of 100,000 units of fruit of domestic origin have been sold in these units. This new movement has been very successful in the market and has been a very important factor in the development of the Florida Citrus Exchange.

houses. It is possible that a continuation of these conditions and arrangements may be maintained.

In accordance with its policy of economy, the Florida Citrus Exchange has been alert for new developments in the fruit packing and handling methods which would make possible a reduction of these costs. It has introduced first in the experimental work completed with the development of the new Steel-bound cylindrical containers for citrus fruit which have very considerable possibilities for a reduction of material costs when those necessitated by the present standard box.

Thus, in the perfection of general sales methods, the plan used on bulk fruit distribution and the development of the new package, the Florida Citrus Exchange has demonstrated its flexibility as an organization. It met every emergency. It was not hindered by any definite policy of sales, but adopted the means best suited to the situation as that situation arose.

Renewed Development Sales Campaign

Final and adequate evidence of the general recovery and strengthening of the domestic market for citrus fruit is the renewed activity of the Florida Citrus Exchange Sales Campaign. This campaign is being conducted by all of the most desirable dealers and commission merchants in the country. While the Florida Citrus Exchange has been handling decisions during the season for the past 10 years or more, it was not until this season was organized that there was this concerted effort to place the organization in a position of successful competition of our fruit with that of California and Texas. The Exchange in handling bulk fruit, it may be said that practically none of the Exchange volume moved in that manner was a factor in the demoralization of fresh fruit markets because of bulk competition. As handled the bulk deal was a vital factor in widening the distribution of Exchange fruit and relieving the 25 to 30 percent of a considerable volume.

Large Advertising Campaign in History of Organization

Tied in as an integral part of the sales work of the Exchange this season was one of the largest and most productive advertising campaigns in the history of the Florida Citrus Exchange. This campaign was conducted by all of the most desirable dealers and commission merchants in the country. While the Florida Citrus Exchange has been handling decisions during the season for the past 10 years or more, it was not until this season was organized that there was this concerted effort to place the organization in a position of successful competition of our fruit with that of California and Texas. ### IDE GLIMPSES REVEALED OF RATOR LEWIS

What Talked Of Is Trimmed Home By Himself

VICTOR HANLEY
SANFORD, June 5.—(Copyright by the Associated Press.)—What talked about beard in the state is trimmed at home. Representative Lewis, who is now more nearly what the whiskers, parted out at the chin, still single out unmistakably in this shaven age.

at a rakish angle, in his button hole and gleaming from his ankles, Lewis is ever the smart but the stories of his purchases of clothes are ex-he has it that he buys 10 suits at a time, but he is actually two. He does a good many ties, handkerchiefs and socks, and they all match.

politeness with men, with women are his new rule. In the supposition that he defeated Ruth McCormick by more than 100 votes, he always referred to his opponent as "the lady" and when he found it necessary to refer to the enemy, he pointed out that she was "sure she was being fair."

he carries his chivalry into his contacts, into the streets, the office, the country store. He speaks to persons he has never met before, stops a gang of workmen in the middle of the street to shake their hands, holds up an entire campaign party while he chats with a little farm girl.

any of his private letters are sent "I pray you feel free to demand me for any service in my power."

was once an instructor of Greek and Latin at the University of Wisconsin, he speaks French, German, Italian, Spanish and English to great audiences in their native tongues.

House Passes Race Bill Over Veto Of Governor Carlton

for each race meet to be fixed by the state commission. The limit on any one horse race meet is 45 days, and on any one dog race meet, 10 days.

The vote was called in the House at 4:45 P. M., after hot debate marked by a charge from the floor by Representative Lee of Highlands that he had been approached and offered money to stay away from the House when the vote was taken.

The roll call:
For overriding the veto: Speaker Lewis, Albury, Andrews, Barrow, Bass, Beasley, Booth, Blount, Brown, Burnett, Chappell, Coffey, Collier, Darr, Davis, Douglas, Durand, Elliott, Finlayson, Goff, Harrell, Holmes, Horne of Jackson, Keen, Kehoe, Kendrick, Kennedy, Lea of Manatee, Lewis, of Palm Beach, Luder, Madison, Mason, Matthews of Gilchrist, Moon of Citrus, Moon of Marion, Morton, McRoy, Page, Peoples, Roberts, Robineau, Rogers, Smith, Sted, Stewart, Erickland, Stone, Trammell of Calhoun, Walker, Warner, Watson, Westbrook, Wood, Yearly, Zim—55.

Against overriding the veto: Apperson, Black, Brock, Caldwell, Chapman, Fuller, Hagan, Horne of Madison, Kanter, Laramie, Lee of Highlands, Mitchell, McKenzie, Parker, Pappell, Sapp, Shackelford, Sledge, Strom, Tomanello, Trammell of Brevard, Ward, Wentworth, Wester, Whitman, Wicker—20.

Paired votes, permitted under rules when representative is absent, were:
Bledsoe, yes, and Lowe, no; Bulard, no, and Teague, yes; Mathews, Duval, no, and Walnwright, yes; Rowe, yes, and Sturke, no; Taylor, no, and Kelly, yes; West, no, and Nordman, yes.

Representative Collier of Collier, voted to sustain the veto but changed his vote before the result was announced.
The vote was challenged, after it was announced by Speaker Lewis, by Representative Tomanello, Oklawaha, who asked for verification. The roll was checked and found to be correct.

Motion for reconsideration by Representative Chappell, Dade, was ruled out of order.
"The motion is not reconsiderable," Speaker Lewis ruled.
Tomanello said he did not count the pairs were not to be counted, and asked reconsideration on that ground.

Representative Lowe, Hillsborough, who was paired with Representative Bledsoe, Hillsborough, announced he thought paired votes were to be counted and asked, after the vote was announced, to have his vote registered for sustaining the veto. He was ruled out of order.

Governor Carlton in last night declined to comment. He declared his position had been set forth fully in his veto message.
Opponents of the bill fought bitterly against rejection of the veto. A great crowd, thronging the House floor and galleries, heard Representative Lee, charge that he had been offered money to write from the chamber, and voice no opposition to the bill.

Hoover Is Seeking Two Successors For Farm Board Post

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—President Hoover has turned his attention to the task of finding two Farm Board members to succeed Commissioners Tamm and McKelvie, both of whom have resigned.

He conferred yesterday with Chairman Stone of the board. Stone did not discuss the shooting afterward and there was no indication from the White House that any decision had been reached.

There was a possibility the President will not make the appointments until after his trip to Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, which begins on June 14, although there were indications that Teague's successor, at least, would be named before that time.

Teague already has left Washington for his California home, but McKelvie has not officially severed his connection. His term expires June 15 and he has asked to be relieved before that time.

A strong movement has developed among the members of the Florida Congressional delegation for the appointment of Burdette G. Lewis, manager of the J. C. Penney Farm in Florida.

A. C. Harrison of Santa Paula, Calif., an associate of Teague's movement in that state, also has been mentioned for the post of handling fruit and vegetable affairs for the board. He is understood here to have the support of Teague.

John Shary of Mission, Texas, head of the citrus growers of that state, also has been mentioned to succeed McKelvie. He is identified with various farm organizations and is a farmer.

WHERE GEORGE WASHINGTON CROSSED THE DELAWARE

Almost at the same spot where George Washington made his famous crossing of the Delaware River, troops of the 16th and 18th U. S. Infantry crossed during recent maneuvers. Modern in travel have changed, however, and this time the American soldiers made the passage with modern equipment and in record time.

Persons applying for elections must pay the cost of the elections. Racing in each county is limited by the bill to 50 days for horse meets and 90 days for dog meets. Track owners must pay the state

Gambler Is Freed Of Blame In Reno Gun Duel Slaying

RENO, Nev., June 5.—(AP)—William Graham, one of Reno's big three gamblers, was exonerated of blame by a coroner's jury late yesterday for shooting to death F. L. McCracken, another gambler.

McCracken met death early yesterday as guns blazed in the Haymaker Club, just as many a gambler died in old bonanza days. The jury found Graham fired in self defense.

Previously the jurors listened to half a dozen witnesses who said McCracken had vowed "to get" Graham, and that Graham fired only after McCracken had shot twice.

Antonio Gaigrando, partner of the heavy taken down that bar entrance of the Haymaker Club, said McCracken drunk and quarrelsome, was in the club about midnight. When Graham, who had been playing cards, tried to quiet him, McCracken was reported to have made a motion toward his hip pocket whenupon Graham struck him down.

Vowing revenge, McCracken was declared to have left the club and gone to his room a block away. He returned early yesterday morning and he fired as he entered the club. The first shot narrowly missed Gaigrando. The second tore through the heavy part of Graham's arm, but inflicted only a slight wound.

Graham meantime had taken his own gun and shot at McCracken, firing struck the gambler in the head, killing him instantly.

The shooting occurred in Miami on Saturday night. Mann was returning home from a social gathering when he was shot.

The Miami Ice Association is a prominent organization in the city. It is known for its involvement in the racing industry.
