Canal Treaty Problem Faces U.S.

PANAMA (AP) — U.S. negotiators now face the problem of trying to get a new Panama Canal treaty satisfactory to the U.S. Congress from a Panamanian government bolstered by a moral victory in the U.N. Security Council.

After a parade of diplomats at the council's special meeting in Panama berated Washington for its Latin American policy, U.S. Ambassador John Scali vetoed a resolution urging his government to sign a new canal treaty with Panama "without delay."

From the outset the United States opposed holding the sixday meeting in Panama—the first in Latin America-because the obvious purpose of the Panamanians was to focus world attention on their case against the United States. The U.S. took the position that any U.N. intervention in the bilateral negotiations between it and Panama was unwarranted.

The State Department also believed that the outpouring of anti-American oratory was certain to increase opposition in the U.S. Congress to any loosening of the U.S. hold on the canal.

Despite the failure of the resolution, Panama got what it wanted out of the meeting. It focused foreign attention on the treaty negotiations.

Their Work Paid Off

The Herald Salutes Kastner, Roberts

After 17 months of dedicated hard work, the Salvation Army fund drive was hailed as a tremendous success, when more than $255,000 in pledges were received.

This successful drive was engineered by two of Sanford's hardest working community leaders, men who unselfishly devoted hours away from their homes and businesses to help their fellow men-Harold Kastner and Dr. W.

The Herald believes that without the efforts these two men extended during the fund drive. the end result may not have been the same.

Kastner, already a busy man as president of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and as a businessman, and Roberts who as a physician also has heavy demands upon his time, nonetheless stayed with the campaign until the happy news came in that "all systems were go" for the Army's planned new building at 21st Street and between Holly and Maple Avenues.

Both men, however, must seem a little frustrated with the unforeseen snag thrown into the plans when area residents complained to city fathers that the Army building might cause problems for the neighborhood. Because of the

We also urge city fathers to not allow this much-needed project to become bogged down in red tape, especially after so much hard work and community support that went into it.

In addition to Kastner and Roberts, the Herald congratulates the hundreds of other dedicated people who worked so hard to support the Salvation Army, including Capt. Billy Lyons, Mrs. Sheila Roberts, Mrs. Irving Pryor, and Mrs. Wendell Springfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith.

Japan Should Change

No Foreign Labor Policy Wrong

TOKYO - Officially, the Japanese government does not allow foreign labor into the country despite an acute manpower shortage

Unofficially, thousands of illegal immigrants enter the country each year, some brought in by unscrupulous "people brokers" who sell them into low-paying factory jobs. Ever since 1965, when manpower shortage began to be felt in Japan, Japanese industries have sought to have the Japanese government revise its "no foreign labor" policy but the government time and again refuses to consider it.

The government maintains that a large number of foreign workers would create "a serious social problem." Not only Japanese financial circles but also labor unions support the government's foreign labor exclasion policy. This policy sharply contrasts with those of advanced European nations. West Germany in particular almost

The Japanese government does allow a certain number of skilled labor and technical trainees to work in Japan. Last year about 3,000 foreigners, mostly cooks and chefs, entered Japan as trainees under governmental agreement. Even in spots where competition from our aggressive rivals is now keen, we still can take a bigger piece of the action if we apply a little imagination and come up with distinctive, novel, especially attractive products. But most of the time we don't seem to have an idea in a carload Nobody really has to tell this to the average American buyer. He can see it in his own retail stores. More often than not, the quality stuff with the twist of novelty is coming from abroad. The U.S. government can devalue the dollar again and again, but domestic purchasers are still going to shell out for the overseas products they 1

One Man's Opinion

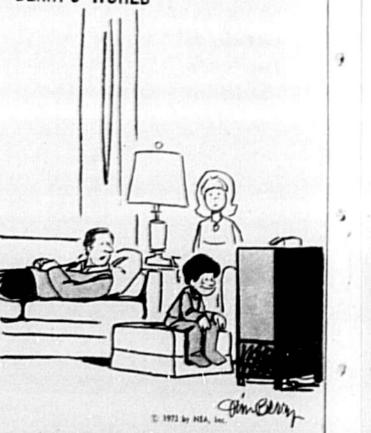

An elementary study of economics will demonstrate to the most listless scholar that devaluation of the dollar won't bring all those benefits we've been hearing about For one thing, the major imbalance is with Japan (The United States slid from a favorable $240 million 1964 to an unfavorable $4.1 billion in 1973 Japanese sold this country large amounts of automobiles. steel and electronic equipment Despite the loud outcries from some Japanese producers, devaluation of the dollar and the upward trend of the yen will not, in the main, hamper Japanese exports to the United States if the Japanese take the simple, logical steps open to them. If proof is needed as to Japanese confidence on this score, study the stocks of the major Japanese manufacturers with markets in the United States. They have done well indeed on the Tokyo Stock Exchange.

According to the logic put out by whomever is advising the Nixon administration on this matter, a nigher yen will mean Japanese goods will sell for higher prices in the United States. This is theoretically true (in simplistic terms) because the dollars the Japanese get for what they sell here will net them fewer yen than before. But these analysts forget one elemental fact. Japan basically is a middleman. It buys huge amounts of raw materials abroad, then processes these imports into manufactured goods and sells them at home and abroad As the yen is valued up, Japanese manufacturers get their raw materials at lower prices (in terms of yen) This reduces the cost of the goods they export and it lowers also the cost of goods the Japanese use at home if those items are made from imported materials. By carefully controlling where and what they buy and what they sell and where, a type of control at which the Japanese have shown virtuosity. Tokyo's exporters can achieve almost the same trading advantages they had before dollar devaluation. There is, in addition, the possibility that the United States will be in a worse position after devaluation. For a goodly amount of the things we buy from Japan and other countries are luxuries. We buy them regardless of price because prestige is associated with their use There are some economists, in fact, who hold that this buying of luxuries is the root of our trouble. These men say that nations run into trouble when the Gross National Product rises too far too fast. For then the citizenry buys so much abroad and invests so much overseas the monetary balance is upset.

at Sanford Woman's Club when the winner of the "Family-ofthe-Year" contest will be announced following the family fashion show which begins at Under the auspices of Sanford

Junior Women's Club, this is the second annual contest. In keeping with the special event, Mayor Lee Moore signed a proclamation declaring this week as Home Life Week. Around-the-clock fashions will come into full focus for the entire family when local men, women and children will model Spring's smartest styles from Seminole's fashionable boutiques.

Further adding to the enjoyment of the festivities will be the awarding of door prizes donated by area merchants. A nominal donation is asked for adults and children with proceeds to benefit Mental

This policy represents a complete turnabout from that of just a few years ago and is dictated by East Germany's alarming drop in the birthrate. At present, more people die each year than babies are being born to replenish the population - now barely 17 million

Most East German couples settle for one child. "Thank goodness, we didn't present Papa Ulbricht (the Communist party chief) with more children," Helga Behrends, the 39-year-old mother of a 5-year-old daughter declared. She added that she and her husband would prefer a Main reason for the reluctance to have more than one child, she explained, is the state's insistence that all ablebodied women held full-time jobs.

Motherhood and family are no excuse to stay home. Nearly 49 per cent or half of East Germany's entire working force consists of women and 84 per cent of all women in East Germany hold down full-time jobs.

It is the price the East German regime asks for the undeniable economic progress of the past years. East Germany is so short of labor that everybody must pitch in. ORLANDO- J. Price Butler, vice president and Orlando area manager of Stockton, Whatley, Davin & Company, has announced that the mortgage banking firm has opened a second office in the Orlando area.

Located at 400 E. Semoran Boulevard (U.S. 436) in Casselberry, Florida, the office will be under the direction of Charles E. Schmidt. A veteran of 20 years in the U.S. Air Force, Schmidt joined SWD in October, 1972 and was assigned to their Residential Loan Department in Orlando. In making the announcement, Butler stated that the new office was being opened to better serve the home builders and real estate brokers in south Seminole and north Orange counties. "The growth in this area is such that we felt it deserved a processing office close by," he said.

Stockton, Whatley, Davin & Company is Florida's oldest and largest mortgage banking firm and is now servicing a mortgage portfolio in excess of $1.1 billion.

VW Sales Best Ever

JACKSONVILLE-F. Tamussino, vice-president and general manager of Volkswagen Southeastern Distributor Inc., announced record sales of Volkswagen during February, 1973. In Florida, Georgia, and South Carolina, dealers sold 3,771 Volkswagens. This exceeded the previous largest February sales of 3,419 vehicles recorded in 1970. Tamussino also said its Porsche Audi division had the best February ever in 1973. Sales exceeded the previous largest February sales of 1972 by 110 percent.

 Recognition. Physical well-being 6 Self-esteem.

If the shopper and consumer can see through these appeals they would find valuable information that could be used in a decision about a product. You could find information such as price and size comparisons, and quality comparisons. It can also provide us with information about a new product or uses for known products. We can also learn where a specific product can be purchased. Here are a couple more examples of misleading advertising. See if you recognize

A perfume ad illustrates a een-age girl being completely ignored by all the boys in school. She sneaks off and applies some "sweet smell" perall flock around her. It's obviously unrealistic to think that because a girl uses a certain perfume that all at once she is going to become the most sought after girl in her class. Yet how many young girls either consciously or unconsciously identify with little Miss Wall Flower and buy the perfume hoping that what happened to the girl in the ad will happen to them.

Another prime example is the ads for acne preparations. These almost always show a teen-ager left out of the 'swim of things" because he or she has a bad complexion The moment he or she tries the product, the acne is gone and the person is the life of the party. In this case not only does the ad imply that the wall flower's whole answer to popularity is his or her complexion, but also that immediately upon using the product the acne disappears.

Remember the ad for a certain automobile that depicts a rather plain young man surrounded by girls just because he drives a certain model

How about the ad that implies the one application of a particular shaving lotion will make girls attack a boy that before they wouldn't even These ads appeal to needs and desires. If the approach wasn't effective, the advertiser wouldn't use it. The FTC is doing the best job it can to correct misleading ads. But the consumer can do a lot to help them by realizing when an ad is uninformative and-or misleading and Why does a person edge? - S.C., Milford, Ohio.

A. There are two kinds of people who hedge in the com-

nodities market: either speculators or the people who produce, handle or process commodities traded in a futures market. Hedging is simply the process of trading against an option. For examole, a grain elevator operator may buy 10,000 bushels of grain (not a futures contract, but the actual commodity) for cash the first part of September. In order to hedge against the price of wheat failing before he can resell the grain, he sells a futures contract for May wheat. The object of seiling May wheat short is that May is far enough in the future to allow him to sell all the wheat he owns before he has to cover his short position. Three months after he bought his grain and futures contract, the grain elevator operator sells the cash grain to a processing firm. The problem is that grain prices drifted down during those three months so that he lost five ents a bushel. Here is where his short position comes into play because the futures market likewise drifted down. So short position) a futures contract in May. The net result of the overall transaction is that the loss on the sale of the wheat he owned was made up and maybe more than offset by his gain on the futures transaction. If the price of grain had gone up rather than down, he would have made money when he sold his grain but lost on the coverage of his short or hedge position. Alhough the mechanics of the hedge are understandable. anyone who hedges successfully has made an extensive study of general economic conditions and the many facets of these conditions which affect the commodities

So What's Erogenous?

By JOANNE and LEW KOCH

Remember the story of the boy who had to write an essay containing religion, love, royalty, sex and conflict? His teacher was surprised when, five minutes after the assignment was given, he turned in this one sentence: 'My God!" said the Queen. "Let go of my leg!

"Combat in the Erogenous Zone" is the kind of title which promises everything - love, hate, sexual conflict, eroticism with an unusual, not to say perverted. twist. It promises to be a fiery feminist tract, with lengthy sections on "Man-hating" and "Lesbianism."

Like the boy's essay, "Combat in the Erogenous Zone" is not what we expected. In this case, it is much more. At 28, Ingrid Bengis has written a book which is more profound than we bargained for. It is more thoughtfulhough the thought is always tied to sex and love in its male-female and female-female expressions. It is less shocking-though in it we are given a detailed account of Ms. Bengis' numerous affairs including a pre-adolescent mini-affair with a girlfriend and a grown-up lesbian

Finally, "Combat" is more provocative than we expected because it does not titillate but rather questions our newest, as well as our oldest behavioral cliches. Take the author's views on man-hating which she sees as a serious problem. You may not have hitchhiked around the country, crashed in your sleeping bag in a room with four boys, or been molested on a crowded subway. Perhaps you were never even propositioned by a man who gave something with no strings attached and then was outraged when the sexual payment was no made in full. But you've probably had some demeaning experience at the hands of a man, so you know what she's alking about as her "attacks" of man-hating are re-

Yet Ms. Bengis does not settle for the impersonal and superficial causes of man-hating. She goes to the tangled oot of it where women and men sustain the hostility. "For most women, including myself, being sexy is both a tool, a weapon, and a source of pleasure . rather the alluring package of sex, is one of the few things that gives women real power over men. It is, in addition. I think, one of the prime sources of female ambivalence; astonishment that men can be so easily seduced and contempt for the fact that it requires such a second-rate skill, which in its 'natural' state would not be a skill at all, but an expression of deep feelings. "As long as sex remains such an important commodity for women, no matter what reforms are enacted, most women. I think, will continue, with varying degrees of requency and intensity, to feel hatred and contempt for men, since their minds can be controlled through their penises, instead of the other way around." For women, this author believes, the problem is more one of the heart controlling the genitals or vice versa the correlation between the emotional zone and the eros enous zone, the interrelation of love, sex, gestation and growth; the need for one relationship which can satisfy Il these needs.

According to Ingrid Bengis, there are no easy answers for this female condition-not abortion, not the pill, no an equality of promiscuity, not even lesbianism (which the author depicts as an alternative with as much potenal for tenderness-and callousness-as heterosexual re

She views the human struggle for love as a never-ending task, like that of old Sisyphus who was condemned to fown again as soon as he had pushed it to the top. For Ingrid Bengis, the search for an intimate, fu filling, yet not constricting bond with another human is a painful, exhausting effort that often seems futile, is never finished, but is still not to be abandoned.

Sister needs help with 'Funny Uncle'

By Abigail Van Buren E 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I live 350 miles from my young sister who is 13. She wrote and told me she is being bothered by a "funny uncle." This same uncle tried the same thing with me and my two older sisters when we lived at home. My parents knew about it at the time, but they never seemed to care or think it was very serious. Anyway, this uncle is still allowed in our house. I wrote to my sister and told her to tell a school counselor, a minister or a policeman about what's going on, could make her understand that it's not HER fault, and that there is no reason for her to feel guilty. I feel so helpless and frustrated. Is there anything I can do from here?

DEAR ABBY: My little brother is in the 5th grade and he can't read a 1st grade primer. He can't do his homework because he can't read the instructions. My mother and I help him with his homework every night, but we end up doing it for him. We can't afford a private tutor, so don't suggest that. We feel so helpless. Is there anything we can do? FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 23, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are now able to venture into new areas and obtain valuable data, then make plans for the future which could bring you success and happiness in almost any direction you wish. The afternoon is good for planning a trip. ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Know exactly what those who are important in your scheme of things expect of you and try to please them. Listening to the views of mate can be beneficial. Be more cooperative. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Discuss your affairs with associates and have a fine meeting of the minds. One will make a concession that really pleases you. Evening is fine for meeting friends and dining out. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Spend the day taking care of important duties. Try to understand fellow workers better and much can be accomplished. Speed is the keynote now. The evening should be relegated to pleasure. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make plans to entertain tonight and then make the right arrangements. Show more devotion to mate and be happier yourself. Buy a thoughtful gift that pleases loved one. LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make sure fundamental affairs are running smoothly. Buy needed items that will improve the interior of your home. Take kin out to amusements they enjoy in the early evening. Later relax at home. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Show your skill at work and impress associates. You can advance by making the right appointments. Later get in touch with persons you have not seen in a long time. Don't be too extravagant. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study the monetary side of your life during the day so you can make plans to add to present abundance. Look to business experts and banking firms for best ideas. Attend the social tonight. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Improve health and appearance early, and then attend the business or social affairs that bring the results you want. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets. Show that you have wisdom. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Daytime is fine for getting business data you need. You can easily find the right system to use in the future for greater success and happiness.

Accept an invitation tonight. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan as much time as possible to be with good friends for mutual exchange of favors. You can get ahead by studying over the weekend. Keep up with news and be better informed. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Daytime is fine for furthering your career. Also, take care of your civic duties.

Don't permit others to downgrade you in any way. Tonight you can enjoy the company of congenials. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Seek the advice of experts regarding ways to expand your interests. Then get busy making necessary plans. Evening is fine for further discussion with experts. Be wise. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those charming young people who early in life will have fixed ideas about which profession to follow, and will continue through in the field that is chosen. Success can come early in life. The latter part of life could be spent in philanthropic work. There can be much success in this life as well as happiness. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for April is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast (name of newspaper), P.O. Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

POLLY'S POINTERS Stopped-Up Vacuum Hose Unclogged by Marbles

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY-1 am sure many of the other girls have been as frustrated as I have with a stopped-up vacuum cleaner hose. After many attempts to clear it I finally hit on the idea of dropping a handful of glass marble down through the hose while I am standing on a chair so the hose hangs down straight. Shake the hose vigor ously and out comes the lint and small pieces of paper Be sure you count the marbles you put in so you pick up the same number from the floor and do not step on a stray one and have a fall. I use 14 marbles and store them in a small glass jar with a lid that is kept in a box with my other vacuum parts.-IRISH MOLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY-I made a crocheted hook rug and would like to know what I could put on the back of this rug to keep it from slipping and sliding on the floor. It is 29- x 49-inches and made of heavy weight 100 per cent acrylic rug yarn. I would be so thankful for some advice.—KATHERINE

DEAR POLLY-My Pet Peeve is with those people who drive up in front of my house or in the driveway and blow the horn as though I had curb service. They could come ring the doorbell. Often I am not dressed or it is not convenient to go out to the street to see what they want.-MARTHA

DEAR POLLY-I want to tell Mrs. C. how I have made towel wedding cakes which make a lovely shower deco ration or gift. Start the first layer with a white bath towel, folded in half, and rolled very snugly and pinned tightl as it is rolled. Use two such towels for each tier. Follow the same process but use hand towels for the second tier and then wash cloths (all matching, of course) for the third one. Lots of pins are required to hold the towels in perfect shape. Drape each finished tier with strands of pearls and place bridal couple dolls on the top. The entire cake is put on a net covered board which has an extra ruffle of white net to surround the cake. Place sprigs of artificial lilies-of-the-valley among the nei ruffles. Such cakes are lovely but do take time.

DEAR POLLY-I find that cleaning my eyeglasses with a window cleaner containing ammonia keeps them from fogging up when I go from a warm house into the cold winter air or vice versa. This is a great help when shopping.-DEBORA

DEAR POLLY-So many modern watches and small clocks have plastic faces instead of glass and ours got scratched. We have found that a little tooth powder slightly moistened and gently rubbed over these scratches usually will remove them.-DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY-If you still have some old shoulder pads lying around, sew the long sides of two together and have a potholder with a seam down the middle. This will help it fold together in your hand and give a more solid grip on a hot pan handle.—LILLIAN

LONGWOOD - Councilman E. E. Williamson Thursday night called Council Chairman William Klosky "as big a liar

Obviously unhappy about the 3 to 1 vote to authorize City Atty. S. Joseph Davis Jr. to prepare a resolution or ordinance to grant a full time salary of $5,000 and executive authority to Mayor Eugene Jaques, Williamson rose from his chair at the council table and strode to the middle of the meeting room. Pointing his finger at Klosky, Williamson declaring himself to be speaking as a citizen, said, "There sits as a big a liar as there is in the city of Longwood."

Scientists Predict California 'Quake

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) - Two government scientists have forecast the strength, exact location and pproximate time of an earthquake. Dr. Robert Wesson and Dr. William Ellsworth of the National Center for Earthquake Research said Thursday they are predicting a moderate quake within "several months" near Hollister, Calif, about 100 miles southeast of San Francisco. "If this prediction is fulfilled, it will be an important step toward more meaningful prediction, although a great deal more understanding needs to be gained about the generation of earthquakes," Wesson 29, said. "We've made a limited type of prediction in a place called Bear Valley," near Hollister, the U.S. Geological Survey scientist said. The center's chief, Dr. Robert Wallace, said the predicted quake would occur a little over four miles deep, would be felt as a sharp jolt above ground, but would not cause damage.
