Starks files suit in shooting case

ORLANDO — A legislator has filed a civil suit against a political opponent charged with attempted murder by shooting into the lawmaker's house and wounding his wife.

The suit filed by State Rep. Bob Starks against Eric A. Kaplan asks compensation for medical expenses, pain and suffering, mental anguish and inconvenience. No specific amount is cited.

Kaplan, who has denied firing into the Starks' home near Maitland and injuring Judy Starks, hasn't been tried on the criminal charges.

He withdrew from the District 34 race in Seminole and Orange counties shortly after his arrest in September. Without Democratic opposition, Bob Starks, a Republican, won the race.

Kaplan, 28, a property manager in Altamonte Springs, remains free on $100,000 bail.

Mrs. Starks was shot once in the left calf as she slept when the assailant fired five times into the house. Her husband was not home.

Lotto lump sum payoffs pondered

TALLAHASSEE — A House panel asked Florida Lottery officials to estimate costs of letting winners collect jackpots in lump sums rather than 20 annual payments.

State Rep. Steven Feren, D-Sunrise, said elderly constituents sometimes object to the current method of paying lottery jackpots in 20 annual installments.

"One of the questions we hear is 'Why should I buy a lottery ticket?' They're not going to be around that long," Feren said Tuesday.

Lottery Secretary Marla Mann said she'd supply the Lottery and Pari-mutuels Subcommittee with a list of probable costs and also a compilation of facts about the average lottery ticket buyer.

Rep. Jim King, R-Jacksonville, suggested a test program to determine whether making lump-sum jackpots available would boost ticket sales.

Mann said the Department of Lottery has turned up no evidence that lump-sum payoffs would either stimulate or reduce sales.

She said it isn't known if sales could rise enough to compensate for the extra money it would cost the department to pay a lump sum jackpot, rather than invest the smaller amount necessary to pay the winner over 20 years.

Sanford fined for contaminants in Lake Monroe

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Environmental Protection Agency has announced it is penalizing the City of Sanford for polluting Lake Monroe. The fine has been set at $27,113.

According to the EPA, the city is being fined for "...discharging pollutants from its wastewater treatment system into waters of the United States, in violation of National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System permits."

The specific area involved is the reclaimed water discharge area, into the St. Johns River from the wastewater treatment system at 300 N.

This can probably be paid by just trimming a few other items. It won't produce any problems or reductions in service.

Convicted of molesting girl, youth minister to be sentenced

By GEORGE DUNCAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — George Wayne Clyatt, the youth minister who a Seminole County jury convicted of engaging in a sexual act with a child, will be sentenced Thursday morning.

Clyatt was accused of molesting an Altamonte Springs girl who was a member of his congregation. The victim said Clyatt molested her when she and another member of the youth group stayed over night at his house in preparation for a candy sale the next day.

Clyatt had claimed the teen-ager had made up the story.

However, prosecutors brought an expert witness to the stand who testified that the young girl did show emotional and psychological signs of sexual abuse. Dr. Barbara Mara, a clinical psychologist who specializes in treating victims of sexual abuse, said the victim did show symptoms consistent with sexual abuse, including an anxiety disorder brought on by a traumatic event in her life.

A second woman, who was 20 years old at the time of the trial, told jurors that Clyatt molested her several years before, when she was a member of a Holly Hills church where Clyatt served.

Assistant State Attorney Stewart Stone, who prosecuted Clyatt, said the defendant is looking "at a good number of years," for his offense.

Clyatt will be sentenced by Judge Alan Dickey. Stone, who is also handling the case of former NFL football player Lewis Billups, said his office is still investigating the matter but that charges will be filed.

However, some investigative work still needs to be done before official charges can be filed, he said.

Contractor set, Lake Mary road project resumes

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — A new prime contractor for the Lake Mary Boulevard widening project has been selected. The Seminole County Commission is expected to approve the choice before the end of the day.

Hewitt Contracting Co., Inc., of Okahumpka, Florida has been selected by the bonding agency, Insurance Company of America. The selection has now been forwarded to the commission, and a motion for approval is scheduled during a 1:30 p.m. meeting today.

Hewitt's low bid was for $2,580,928.41.

The County has been holding the remaining contract fund of $2.8 million, which includes money withheld during the original contract. The difference of $228,650 would be forwarded to the bonding agent.

According to the proposed contract, Hewitt will be required to complete the widening project by the original completion date of June 14, or pay a penalty of $1,000 per day for each day of work required beyond that date.

SANFORD — Consideration of the Seminole Towne Center Redevelopment Agreement was postponed again last night. The Sanford City Commission tabled it until at least Jan. 11.

"We were in phone conversations with the mall developers as late as today," City Manager Bill Simmons said last night, "but the tri-party agreement is still not ready for official presentation."

Simmons said he was hopeful the agreement wording could be finalized in time to have it by this Friday, for commission study, prior to Monday's regularly scheduled meeting.

"Everyone is in agreement that we want to get this right," he said, "we all want to move it along at a good pace, but in order to do that, all of the details must be completely finalized."

Simmons explained that the developer, Melvin Simon and Associates, wants to get the agreement in place before closing on the financing and land purchase.

6,000 full-time SCC students back to books

By VICKI DeBORRER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Classes at Seminole Community College began yesterday with little change from last semester.

According to school officials, enrollment figures remained nearly the same at about 6,000 full-time students.

The number of part-timers fluctuates a great deal from semester to semester, officials said. The official enrollment figures on part-time students are not yet available.

"We will compute the official numbers after the students are through with the drop-add process next week," Dr. James Sawyer, vice president for student information services at the college, said this morning.

Students, who were able to complete registration as classes were about to begin yesterday, may alter their schedules through Jan. 11 without penalty.

Tuition at all state two and four year colleges was raised last year.

The cost at Seminole Community College for a semester of work went up about 10 percent to $33 per credit hour. Most classes average about $99 for the semester.

College officials said that the rise in tuition costs did not affect the enrollment at SCC at all.

"We are still the best post-secondary educational value," said Sawyer. "It is much more cost effective for the local student to come to school here, close to home, than it would be to go to a four year institution."

Sawyer said that the school has See College, Page 6A

Plane runs into trouble

30 hurt when jetliner hits heavy turbulence

By ERIC FURBER
Associated Press

MIAMI — A San Francisco-bound airliner hit heavy turbulence shortly after takeoff on Tuesday, sending passengers crashing into the ceiling of its cabin. Seventeen people were taken to hospitals, while 13 were treated at the scene.

American Airlines Flight 1530 ran into trouble west of Lake Okechobee soon after takeoff and was forced to return to Miami International Airport, said Anne Edridge, spokeswoman for the Federal Aviation Administration.

Passengers said the plane hit some light bumps, then suddenly plunged. Those without seatbelts were sent crashing into the ceiling.

"When we hit the big jolt, it sent people flying ... for a few seconds the plane seemed out of control," said Pat Jennings, 30, of San Francisco, who was bounced awake.

A woman and a baby beside her struck the ceiling, he said. The woman appeared dazed as she was later wheeled off the plane. The baby reportedly suffered minor head injuries.

Several people lay in the aisle with flight attendants helping them at the plane returned to Miami, Jennings said.

Joe Toledo, 33, was taken from the plane on a stretcher with what he said was a broken leg.

"I'm lucky to be alive. It was pretty spooky in there," he said.

American Airlines spokeswoman Patricia San Pedro said the injuries were "basically fractures or sprains," the most serious of which was a broken leg. Some also reported head injuries. Metro-Dade Fire Department spokeswoman Laverne Guillen said 17 people were taken to area hospitals and 13 were treated on the scene.

Five injured crew members were brought to Doctors Hospital, four passengers were taken to Hialeah Hospital, four to Palm Springs Hospital and four to Palmetto General Hospital, said Guillen. No identities were released late Tuesday, but all were in stable condition with mostly bumps and bruises, said hospital officials.

One woman who apparently wasn't wearing her seatbelt "just flew up through the air, hit the ceiling and dropped down to the aisle and broke her leg," said Sue Chow of Mill Valley, Calif.

"You had the feeling that it was the end of the world," said Chow, who was wearing her seatbelt. "I just sort of white-knuckled onto the armrest and made it through."

The Boeing 787-300, carrying 314 passengers and nine crew members, returned to the airport just after 3 p.m. EST and nine ambulances were sent to the scene, said airport fire-rescue dispatcher Carlos Rodriguez.

Rodriguez said the plane had more than 70,000 pounds of jet fuel aboard but landed without incident.

The pilot reported the turbulence about 40 miles northwest of the rural Hendry County town of LaBelle, when he was flying at 31,000 feet, officials said.

It occurred just as the National Weather Service issued heavy thunderstorm warnings for the area, which was hit Tuesday by unseasonably heavy rains. But Mr. Edridge said she could not say if the bad weather caused the problem.

Shortly after the pilot reported the turbulence, he said the plane would be returning about 3:45 p.m., said Rodriguez. But the plane showed up early at 3 p.m., sending fire engines and ambulances scrambling to the scene.

Ma. San Pedro said maintenance people had checked out the plane, which appeared to be undamaged. The passengers were to be rerouted to San Francisco later Tuesday.

Blood supply critically short

MIAMI — South Florida's supply of blood — sharply reduced in the aftermath of Hurricane Andrew — is on the verge of a life-threatening shortage, Red Cross officials said.

"This year our traditional post-holiday blood shortage is compounded by lack of blood donations from hurricane-ravaged areas of south Dade County," Bernard Pino, chief blood-services officer for the region, said Tuesday.

"We've seen it coming. The problem is doing something about it. At present, the Red Cross in South Florida has less than a one-day supply of O-negative and B-negative. We like to keep a three-to-five day supply here at the center in Miami."

Pino said that blood collections for November and December were about 30 percent below what we would have liked.

Drowning victim's parents sue park

TAMPA — The parents of a boy who drowned at the Adventure Island water theme park have filed a lawsuit alleging the park and its lifeguards were negligent.

Charles Keels, 10, of Port St. Lucie, had gone to Adventure Island on July 29 with his uncle. He rented an inner tube to float in a wave pool, and either jumped or fell off.

The lawsuit contends several swimmers noticed Charles floating below the water, but the lifeguard failed to act until he was told the child wasn't "floating around."

Parents Beatrice and William Keels Jr. complain that Beach Entertainment Corp., the park's owner, failed to properly warn their son of the dangers and risks of the wave pool and to provide adequate lifeguard services.

A park spokeswoman did not immediately return a telephone call Tuesday.

Investigators unable to identify bones

TAMPA — Investigators say they may never prove with absolute certainty whether the bones pulled last week from a septic tank were those of 3-year-old Matthew Alred, who vanished 19 years ago.

They also may never prove how the person died, although Hillsborough County sheriff's detectives are investigating the death as a murder.

"It will be presumptive," said Dr. Robert Pfleger, of the Hillsborough Medical Examiner's Office, who might have to rely partly on circumstantial evidence to sign Matthew's death certificate. "It won't be 100-percent certain."

The remains were discovered Thursday morning by workers cleaning out a septic tank in the back yard of a home across the street from where the child once lived. The owner of that home died several years ago, authorities said.

Hunter finds woman's body

GAINESVILLE — A deer hunter found the body of a young woman Tuesday floating in a muddy creek near this college town and authorities are investigating it as a murder.

Alachua County sheriff's officials hadn't identified the woman, who was in her late teens or early 20s. They would not reveal how she was killed, saying only that she died within the previous 24 hours.

Investigators were checking into recent missing persons cases in Alachua and nearby counties but as of late Tuesday had no possible victims, said sheriff's spokesman Lt. Barry Gentry.

An autopsy on the body is scheduled for Wednesday. David Hays, a Gainesville resident, said he found the body near the bank of a creek about six miles southeast of Gainesville along the state's L-88 highway, a major transportation area. He saw the woman's body but did not see a small amount of blood near the woman's head and the unidentified body was dressed in black shorts and tennis shoes.

PSC swears in youngest member

TALLAHASSEE — Julia Johnson has become the youngest member and the first black woman to serve on Florida's five-member state Public Service Commission.

As family and friends looked on, Johnson, 38, was given the oath of office Tuesday by state Supreme Court Justice Lester Shaw.

Gov. Lawton Chiles appointed her on Nov. 26 to succeed commission member Betty Bailey. She was one of six nominees for the $60,000-a-year job, including Bailey.

Chiles said the commission was part of his effort to expand minority participation in government, and Johnson had said, "It took some political courage to make an appointment of someone who is young, minority and female."

In her hometown of Clermont, former Republican state Sen. Dick Langley admitted he's been Early's stand for years and called the appointment "a political move, making women and blacks happy with one vote."

"But the governor didn't go wrong with this vote," Langley added, saying he's also a friend of the Johnson family. "She's a local girl made good and we're proud of her."

Tightrope walker out for record

By Associated Press

ORLANDO — Two hundred days on a high wire: that's the mark Jorge Ojeda Guzman wants to write into the Guinness Book of World Records.

Guzman, 38, began his attempt on New Year's Day, 30 feet above the ground in a tourist-commercial strip near the Orlando-area theme parks.

"I know I can do it," he shouted down from his perch Monday.

Guzman wants to break the record of 185 days set in 1973 by Frenchman Henri Rochetais. And Rochetais may come here to help publicize the stunt, said spokesman Ernie Pappas of the Great American Bazaar, which is providing the site.

Guzman performs several stunts a day — walking, jumping rope, doing handstands.

Guzman, who's appeared with circuses around the world, will sleep and rest in a 3-by-3-foot wooden enclosure with a canvas top. He is using a small portable toilet, which he lowers to the ground for cleaning.

And he raises his dinner to his perch in a basket. His wife, Vicki, assists on the ground.

His inspiration was his 8-year-old daughter, Grace, who read about Rochetais's exploits two years ago in a newspaper.

"She said, 'Hey daddy, you ought to try this,'" said Guzman, who moved his family to Orlando last year after completing a yearlong tour of Japan.

Aside from the obvious challenges, Guzman will not be totally deprived of modern conveniences.

He has a miniature black-and-white television, a cache of books and a cellular telephone.

HRS official says state should create clinics for AIDS children

By JAMES MALLON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Florida should do more for children with AIDS, a state health official said, calling for the creation of a network of clinics.

"There is going to be more and more children every year who we know before they're born are likely to have AIDS," Dr. J. Michael Cupul, director of Children's Medical Services for the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, said Tuesday.

One in every 180 babies born in Florida tests positive for HIV, the virus that causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome, and estimates from 30 percent to 50 percent of these infants develop AIDS.

"Florida is second in the nation in prevalence of pediatric AIDS," Cupul told the Governor's Red Ribbon Panel on AIDS.

The 11-member task force held public hearings throughout the state last month and plans to make recommendations to Gov. Lawton Chiles.

New York state has the highest prevalence of pediatric AIDS, but just one of the 38 states with the highest rates of pediatric AIDS — New York City.

Florida has several cities on the list: Miami, West Palm Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Tampa, St. Petersburg and Jacksonville.

HRS knows of nearly 750 children and teenagers in Florida with AIDS, a fifth of all children in the country who have AIDS. But many children die of AIDS before they are counted.

"Studies have indicated that for every child who actually had AIDS ... another two to 10 children are HIV infected," Cupul wrote Lois French, the former lawmaker who is heading the panel.

POLICE

Car theft solved

Sanford police arrested Daniel Lee Collins, 20, 2507 Georgia Ave., Sanford, on Monday. He was charged in connection with the theft of an automobile on Dec. 28 from Petrina and Nevine Simmons. The vehicle was recovered shortly after the theft in a wooded area in Volusia County. Collins has been charged with burglary and grand theft, auto.

Failure to sign

Sanford police arrested Thomas Lee Gilchrist, 45, 121 Scott Drive, Sanford, during a traffic stop at First Street and Mangouline Avenue on Monday. He was charged with driving with a suspended license. Police said he refused to sign his citation, and they filed an additional charge against him of failure to sign/accept a summons.

Habitual offender

Sanford police arrested Luke Allen Criswell, 31, 141 Country Club Drive in Sanford on Monday. Police said he was involved in an auto accident at 1908 French Avenue. A computer check revealed his license had been suspended a number of times in the past. He was charged with being a habitual traffic violator.

Warrant arrests

Wayne Lavantis Pace, 29, 1805 W. 13th Place, Sanford, turned himself in at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Monday. He was wanted on two warrants for violation of parole on a conviction of possession of more than 20 grams of cannabis, and violation of parole on a conviction of sale of a controlled substance, cocaine.

Francis Earl Lewis, 49, of Deltona, was apprehended by Sanford police during a traffic stop on Highway 17-82 and Lake Mary Blvd. Monday. He was wanted on a warrant charging him with violation of parole on a conviction of driving under the influence of alcohol.

Dennis Richard Lambert, 39, 108 Lakeview Drive, Sanford, was apprehended by Sheriff's deputies near S. Oak Avenue in Sanford. He was wanted on a warrant for failure to appear on a charge of battery. During the arrest, Lambert was also charged with possession of cannabis, resisting arrest without violence, and driving with a suspended license.

Domestic violence

Brian Keith Knight, 26, 1015 Bay Ave., Sanford, was arrested Sunday by Sanford police. He was charged with domestic violence, in connection with a dispute with a female at his residence.

Leroy Whetstone, 30, 1119 W. 12th Street, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police early Tuesday. Officers said he was involved in a dispute with a female at his residence. He was charged with aggravated battery/domestic violence.

Incidents reported to the Sheriff

135 in electric tools and hand tools were reportedly stolen Monday from a shed owned by Clarence Jerome Thompson, at 2790 Celery Avenue, Sanford.

Checks and credit cards were reportedly removed Monday from the unlocked vehicle of Scott Stone, parked near 757 Minerva Lane, Lake Mary.

Norma Lee Macks, of Sanford, reported an attempted armed robbery at a convenience store at 4800 W. S.R. 46 early Tuesday. She told deputies several persons approached her as she was walking to her vehicle. She said one man pointed a gun at her and pulled the trigger twice. When the gun misfired, she said the men fled on foot.

Incidents reported to Sanford police

A burglary was reported on Monday at A&N Sports, 501 S. French Avenue. Bert Nelson, owner, told police someone broke through the front glass door, and attempted to remove shotguns. He said the guns fell and broke open two glass containers. When officers arrived, they reported seeing two men running from the area.

2,280 in miscellaneous property was reportedly stolen Monday from the home of Homer Payson, 1401 W. First Street.

Jewelry, a TV and a VCR were reportedly taken Monday from the home of Wallace Crumly, 1910 Lake Avenue.

847 in property was reportedly taken Monday from a shed owned by James Sharp, at 1506 S. Park Avenue.

An undetermined amount of jewelry was reported stolen Monday from the home of Jerry Ramos, 924 Cedar Creek Apartments.

Sunglasses and a mountain bike were reportedly stolen Monday from a van owned by Jeffery Jarrett, at 2820 Marshall Avenue.

Warrant arrests

Wade Alan Garrett, 26, 136 E. Floyd Ave., Lake Mary, was arrested by Lake Mary police Friday. He was wanted on a Pinellas County warrant for contempt of court.

Melony Despe Antonio, 21, of Orlando, was located by Sheriff's deputies at her place of work on Central Florida Parkway Thursday. She was wanted on a Pinellas County warrant for violation of parole on a conviction of petit theft.

Patrice Nicholson, 34, #85 Shenandoah Village, Sanford, was arrested at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Thursday. She was wanted for failure to appear on a charge of retail theft.

Evonda Johnson, 22, 1603 W. 11th Street, Sanford, was arrested at 13th Street and Southwest Road by Sheriff's deputies on Thursday. She was wanted for failure to appear on a charge of theft.

Jose Quiles, 25, of Orlando, was located at 100 S.R. 434 by Longwood police Thursday, during a traffic accident investigation. Quiles was wanted on a Seminole County warrant for failure to appear on a charge of child abuse.

Ronald Lee Pratt, 39, 355 Evansdale Road, Lake Mary, was arrested by Sheriff's deputies at the jail Sunday, following his extradition from Lebanon, Va. He was wanted for violation of parole on a conviction of battery, disorderly conduct, violation of parole for aggravated battery, and violation of parole on a charge of robbery.

Authorities probing attack as hate crime

By PAT LEONER
Associated Press Writer

TAMPA — Authorities released sketches and called on the public to help find three white men they say kidnapped, robbed and torched a black man in a random attack being investigated as a hate crime.

Surgeons spent three hours Tuesday grafting skin to cover second- and third-degree burns on Christopher Wilson's arms and chest. They were pleased with the surgery and said he likely will have another procedure within 10 days.

"The surgery was successful and Chris is doing well," said John Bishop, physician assistant at Tampa General Hospital where Wilson was listed in serious but stable condition.

Wilson, 31, of New York, has been hospitalized since the New Year's Day attack when he was abducted at a suburban shopping center where he had gone to get a newspaper. Two armed men forced him to drive his car to a remote area 15 miles away, robbed him, shouted racial slurs, poured gasoline over him and set him afire with a cigarette lighter, police said.

A third man followed in a white van. When the men fled, Wilson ripped off the burning clothes, rolled in the dirt and ran to a house nearby for help.

"We are asking public assistance in this case," Hillsborough Sheriff Cal Henderson said at a news conference Tuesday, calling it a hate crime and a horrifying attack.

"The victim, who miraculously survived this vicious attack, was unable to give complete details to our detectives until late yesterday," he said.

Wilson's mother, Enid Plummer, had been critical of investigators for being too slow to react to the racial epithets.

"I am relieved that the Hillsborough County Sheriff has confirmed that it was racially motivated. The only thing I really wanted everyone to know is that this was not just a robbery," she said later Tuesday.

"Since this has been elevated to a hate crime under the Florida statutes, we are proceeding toward a full-blown civil rights investigation," said Oscar Westerfield, assistant head of the Tampa FBI office.

Wilson, a brokerage clerk who works in Hollywood, Fla., and New York, was visiting his girlfriend Joan Benoit in Valrico when the attack occurred.

The police composites made from Wilson's descriptions show two men in their 20s, with medium builds, one with light brown collar-length hair and mustache; the other with short black hair and facial stubble who was last seen wearing a maroon shirt emblazoned with "Missouri."

Wilson didn't give investigators enough information for a composite on the third man in the van, deputies said.

Florida's hate crime law allows stronger punishment for crimes motivated by prejudice because of race, creed or religion.

In this case, under investigation as an attempted murder, kidnapping and robbery, the enhancement would have little effect since attempted murder is a first-degree felony anyway, Henderson said.

Westerfield said the FBI is investigating the case under the new federal carjacking law which provides tougher penalties than civil rights violations.

House holds seminars on sexual harassment

By GARY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The state House is holding seminars for lawmakers and staff on sexual harassment, two years after a scandal involving a leading legislator and a female former aide.

"This body will not condone, nor will we tolerate, sexual harassment," House Speaker Bolley "Bo" Johnson, D-Milton, said Tuesday. "There is no justification for putting up with such behavior."

The three seminars are intended to make crystal clear what sexual harassment is and what victims can do about it. Florida State University psychology professor Joyce Lynn Carbonell and John Sample, a personnel consultant, are presenting the sessions.

"We are learning how to prevent these unpleasant kinds of experiences from happening," said Rep. Elaine Bloom, D-Miami Beach.

Sensitivity about sexual harassment increased markedly in the Legislature following the sensational 1991 hearings involving Rep. Fred Lippman, D-Hollywood, and former aide Kathie Jennings.

Jennings was paid $47,000 to keep quiet about her allegations, which surfaced two years later and led to the hearings. Lippman was removed as House majority leader as a result.

The House also included sexual harassment as a topic in orientation for new lawmakers in November.

Hazard of drunk driving: Citizens are more aware

Law enforcement officers were out in full force last Thursday night. New Year's Eve has traditionally been considered a hazardous night because of drunk drivers.

The citizens however, are becoming more aware of the dangers as well as the consequences. They either arranged for designated drivers, didn't drink, or exercised maximum caution and remained at home.

The Sheriff's department, in a cooperative venture with area police, made a DUI sweep through Seminole County last Thursday night. The goal was to apprehend drunk drivers who are a hazard to others as well as themselves.

Department figures show the concentrated effort produced only 12 arrests in the entire county. The number was higher than last year's New Year's Eve, because of the bad weather that kept many people home at the beginning of 1992 compared to the excellent weather this year.

Sheriff's spokesman George Prochel said the number is lower than could be expected, but added that even 12 arrests are 12 too many.

In Sanford, acting Police Chief Ralph Russell was pleased with the reduction in DUI incidents, not just during the holiday, but for the entire year. He listed a total of 87 cases within the city limits during 1991, but only 35 in 1992.

Longwood Police Chief Greg Manning commented that the New Year's arrests were probably fewer than on the average weekend. He attributed it to an increase in public awareness of the problem.

The Florida Highway Patrol said its DUI arrests over the holiday weekend were no more than on a normal two-day weekend.

Lake Mary Police Chief Richard Beary said he is convinced that the awareness programs launched by the media and law enforcement agencies are beginning to work. He said the public is becoming more informed of the dangers of drinking and driving, as well as the consequences.

A first DUI conviction could lead to a suspension of a drivers license. Additional convictions could result in a jail term, and the worst punishment of all, a fatal accident.

For the people who might have partied with alcohol but refrained, we commend your continuing concern. For those who tipped but arranged to get home by some other means, thanks for showing consideration for all of us.

It's difficult to know how many are alive today because of the protection offered by our law enforcement agencies. But whether we know or not, each of us should give them a round of applause.

Regardless of whether people are becoming more cautious, or more frightened of the consequences, the motorists of Seminole County did quite well on the New Year's holiday.

Thoughts on coverage

Recent articles in both the Sanford Herald and Orlando Sentinel seem to indicate that my efforts as a new school board member in Seminole County are creating somewhat of a credibility problem for fellow board members and staff. One might even infer that I can expect little cooperation.

Although I will agree that more questions are being asked openly of both board members and staff, I feel that everyone is willing to have open dialogue on these important issues. In fact, the decision in November to further evaluate the need for a seventh high school was made by a 5-0 vote of the school board.

School Superintendent Dr. Paul Hagerty immediately put together a committee to evaluate alternatives in the school design, scheduling, and year round education. Through open dialogue and exploring all alternatives, I truly believe the board will make the correct decision based on the educational needs of our students and fiscal responsibility to our taxpayers.

Whatever the decision, the support of all stakeholders is extremely important. These groups include all school system employees, parents, students and taxpayers. Education is too important to allow divisiveness or political agendas to take over. I believe that each school board member is open to new ideas and is willing to change from tradition if it will enhance education. I encourage the media to report the issues as accurately as possible realizing their impact on public opinion could also affect our children's education.

Renaissance: Something old, not blue

HILTON HEAD, S.C. — The annual weekend retreat is called "Renaissance." It's where Bill Clinton and his family repair for a New Year's break. It's enjoyable: endless off-the-record panel discussions, bike-riding on the beach, golf and tennis. And this time "renaissance" — or "rebirth" or "revival" — is the right theme to consider as we move into a new year.

Will we begin an American renaissance in 1993? Might it be matched by a global renaissance?

America has a lot going for it. First is the soon-to-be new president. Watching him now one senses a man who is wearing his new mantle well, and who will wear well as the years go on. There was some reflexive hagiography and presidential myth-making in the air here, but it wasn't coming from Clinton. His style is easy and elegant; he pays attention and is knowledgeable. And Hillary Clinton is a forceful and impressive woman. My sense is that many conservatives may end up pleasantly surprised by some of her views.

America is also on track because we don't have some of the problems that Clinton ran to solve. The economy is coming out of its ninth cyclical recession of modern times. Each one is scary, and yet the magic of the market — not the magic of any specific president — keeps the fluctuating line on an ascendant course.

After all, even the "bad scenario" yields the portrait of a nation that has achieved the highest standard of living in history, going still higher, but at a slower rate than it wishes. (The operative words are "still higher.")

The global situation is turbulent, but for the first time in half a century the turmoil is sub-apocalyptic. The signing of START II is grand news, but the hawks were right: The big problem was not the number of missiles but the fact that there were bad guys who might threaten to use them. They've gone away, leaving America as "3-S" — the Sole Surviving Superpower.

It's not something new. It's a better way of doing something old.

The idea that "America will not be No. 1" has gone from wrong to stupid. It's not just that Japan and Germany are taking their turn in the economic tank. The Cold War victory was cultural as well as geopolitical; it certified that the American way of life is the accepted revolutionary global ideology.

The Gulf War showed that America can continue to lead, after the Cold War, when our national interests are at stake. The current expedition to Somalia tells us even more: that we are invited to lead even when our direct national interests are unthreatened. In Somalia, we have been asked to take humanity to a better place. Such an international asking has little parallel in human history.

So why do we need a renaissance? There has been an erosion of some of that revolutionary American way of life, which has been rooted in the idea of self-reliance. Clinton properly dwells on the need for a renaissance of "personal responsibility." His campaign theme of "no more something for nothing" gets to the heart of our most obvious problems, like crime, welfare and education, and some less obvious ones as well.

Time right to free Jean Harris

BOSTON — To give you an idea of how long ago Jean Harris became Prisoner 81-G-0088, try a few cultural markers. It was before Charles married Di, and before Thelma met Louise. It was before "Smart Women, Foolish Choices."

It was before "Fatal Attraction" played in the movie theater and sexual harassment played in the Senate hearing room. Before co-dependency became a 12-step program and of course, before the battered woman's defense was admissible in court.

When Jean Harris was convicted of killing "Dietco" Herman Tarnower in the winter of 1981, we hadn't even figured out that crash diets were crashing failures. Tens of thousands of Americans — even Julia Child — were following the dictates of the Scarleteen Diet book which Tarnower had dedicated to Jean.

And also to "Susanne, Phyllis, Terry, Elizabeth, Janet, Barbara, Elaine, Frances, June, Sharon, Ruth, ...." just some of the other women in his life.

For long months, Jean Harris, the headmistress of Madeira and scorned mistress of Bonradale, was the star of the tabloid firmament. She was a 67-year-old uppercrust blues heroine whose man done her wrong. She was Everywoman who was ever dumped for another, younger woman after 14 years.

There were otherwise reasonable women who didn't care whether Harris dunnit or not: She was the victim and they wanted her acquitted. There were others who saw Harris as nothing more than another jealous murdering woman: They wanted her convicted.

In court, Harris testified that she was trying to kill herself, not her scornful lover. Later, her advocates claimed that she was not herself that day, but an addict in withdrawal from the amphetamines Tarnower had prescribed.

But in the end, the only opinion that mattered was the jury's. They found her Guilty of Second Degree Murder. Fifteen years to Life.

I thought then and think now that Jean Harris was a woman who had learned to well how to swallow mouthfuls of humiliation in return for bits of attention. She was every woman who hung onto a relationship by her fingernails while her self-esteem eroded like a crumbling window sill on the 16th floor. She fell into the abyss.

Now, after nearly 12 years in prison, 81-G-0088 has been granted clemency by the Governor who had refused it three times before. As she was heading into coronary bypass surgery, Mario Cuomo set the 69-year-old woman on the path to freedom. He attributed his act to her health and to something else: her "above average behavioral record during her incarceration."

The irony is that Jean Harris became a model prisoner by fighting the prison model. The irony is that she was "rehabilitated." Not by the system, but in opposition to it.

"One fights to stay whole in prison," she wrote from her cell. Indeed, the self-esteem that eroded in long years of her destructive relationship with Tarnower was, remarkably, rebuilt in resistance to prison's attempt to destroy her.

In one of the three books she wrote, prisoner 81-G-0088 described, in unsparring, unself-pitying detail, the petty tyrannies of "correction officers." She described the constant humiliations of strip searches, the deadening routines of waiting before as many as 18 locked doors on each walk to and from meals.

With black humor and compassion she saw life around her in society's warehouse for the criminal, the insane, the abused and abusive who were allowed one bizarre courtesy — to be called "ladies." "How do you teach anything to a human being stripped of all personal dignity?" she asked.

Yet, she found an answer. In prison she also became an advocate for reform, organized programs as if it were her school, taught classes for pregnant mothers, worked at the prison children's center. The old headmistress ran up good marks even in the hostile "learning environment." She earned that "above average behavioral record."

In the years that Harris spent behind bars, we have become more sensitive to emotional abuse. We label people as "victims" with both more sympathy and more abandon.

In some ways Jean Harris' strength is a rebuttal to those advocates who chose to see her as "a victim." In other ways, it's proof that even a seed of self-esteem can grow again.

But either way, this woman has done her hard time. "Reform" has become an appendage to me," she said once. "It's like another skin, and I lie in it and I always will."

It's 1993 and time to free Prisoner 81-G-0088.

Will trade pact bring democracy to Mexico?

WASHINGTON — Historically tainted by allegations of election fraud and voter irregularities, local elections in the city of Chicago — where the slogan "vote early and vote often" was born — might not seem the best classroom for a foreign observer to watch democracy in action.

But for Javier Livas, a prominent Mexican lawyer affiliated with his country's conservative opposition party, the National Action Party (PAN), last November's Chicago elections featured a degree of openness he might wish for Mexico.

"I was granted access all over," he told us. "We visited the board of commissioners. We had access to the voting precincts and talked to the election judges. We could make comments on how things were going. Everything was total transparency. ... This is a right we don't have in Mexico." Livas points out that the United Nations and Organization of American States (OAS) observers are banned from monitoring Mexican elections.

Less than a week after the ballot in Chicago, Livas was back in Mexico for three state elections that Mexico's ruling party, known in Spanish by the initials PRI, had pledged would sound the death knell for long-standing election fraud south of the border. However, the elections turned out to be a page from Chicago's corrupt past, and were even bad by Mexican standards, Livas told us.

"This was the most blatant fraud in Mexico since 1985," he claimed. As usual, the PRI claimed huge victories in all three states and denied charges of voting irregularities. Local Mexican elections were once of little concern to average Americans, but today they have important implications. The North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) is hailed as 21st-century gold rush. But much of Mexican society, at least politically, is still stuck in 19th-century custom, in which fraud and corruption are the rule rather than the exception. Up to now, any effort to raise the subject of Mexican democracy during the NAFTA debate is shot down as an effort to sabotage the trade pact.

This poses an early test for President-elect Bill Clinton, whose endorsement of NAFTA was belated and half-hearted. Clinton will have to explain how his new emphasis on democracy and human rights squares with Mexico's tawdry track record.

And if he doesn't have enough hot spots to worry about, Clinton may be forced to address the problem soon. After last November's mayoral elections in the quiet border town of Matamoros, a crowd of 2,500 gathered in the town square to protest the PRI victory that the crowd claimed was fraudulent. After violence erupted, the crowd was dispersed with tear gas and rifle-butt blows. Dozens were arrested.

Why is the PRI tightening its grip? Observers say President Carlos Salinas is reacting to a backlash within his own party over a recent pattern of accommodation with the opposition. Since Salinas assumed office in 1988, four of his party's governors have agreed to step down amid charges of election fraud. Prior to 1988, the PRI had not given up a single state governorship to opponents since it came to power in 1929.

Rather than risk undermining their political base in the years leading up to the 1994 presidential elections in Mexico, "the government returned to the old system of fraud," says Ricardo Villa Escalera, an unsuccessful PAN gubernatorial candidate in the state of Puebla.

Local Mexican elections were once of little concern to average Americans, but today they have important implications.

Home alone

Illinois case highlights plight of many kids fending for themselves

By DAVID FOSTER
Associated Press Writer

The case of two young Illinois girls left home alone while their parents went to Mexico on a nine-day Christmas vacation has drawn howls of outrage from parents everywhere.

Children's advocates say it's just one more case — albeit an extreme one — in an epidemic of child neglect in America.

State child-welfare agencies received 1.2 million reports of neglect nationwide in 1991, and investigators substantiated neglect in about 40 percent of them, according to the National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse.

Reported cases are "just the tip of the iceberg," added Peter Berliner, spokesman for the Children's Alliance, an advocacy group in Seattle.

Alcoholic or drug-addicted parents regularly neglect their children, he said. Poor working parents, especially single parents, often leave their children alone because they can't afford or find day care.

"While the Illinois case may be dramatic, it's only in degree," Berliner said. "Kids get left alone more than we'd like to admit. A large number are essentially raising themselves."

Joy Byers, a spokeswoman for the National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse, said child neglect "crosses all the lines — social, economic, racial."

David and Sharon Schoo lived in a comfortable, Tudor-style home in St. Charles, a suburb of Chicago. The home has a pool, swings and a playhouse in the backyard.

The Schoos were arrested Dec. 28 on their return from Acapulco. Their children, 9-year-old Nicole and 4-year-old Diana, were discovered at home Dec. 21 after they called 911 because a smoke alarm went off accidentally.

The parents were charged with child abandonment and cruelty to children and freed on $5,000 cash bail each. The children were put in a foster home. Their lawyer, Gerard Kepple, said that when the facts were known, the case would "turn out quite differently" from people's impressions.

It wasn't the only holiday tale of alleged abandonment or neglect.

In Austin, Texas, an 8-year-old boy who authorities said was abandoned by his father spent two days alone in a motel room before police discovered him on Christmas Day. The father was later arrested in Bellingham, Wash.

—In Rochester, N.H., a mother was charged Sunday with endangering her three children, ages 3 and under. Police said she left the sleeping children around 9 p.m. Saturday and was arrested when she returned five hours later.

—In Reno, Nev., a casino security guard on Saturday heard a 15-month-old baby crying alone in a hotel room. The father was arrested when he showed up 30 minutes later. The mother was arrested at a slot machine.

Just what constitutes neglect? Some states set a minimum age for leaving a child unattended, usually between 10 and 12, while others do not.

In Washington state, for example, "it's a judgment call, based on whatever might cause physical harm or risk to the child," said Gordon Schultz, spokesman for the state Department of Social and Health Services.

And what constitutes risk? Consider the case of Brian Irish and Stephanie Hamilton of Puyallup, Wash. Their two children were asleep, and the parents figured it was safe to go out to buy some beer.

When they returned less than an hour later, their mobile home was ablaze, and their children, 11-month-old Alisha and 5-year-old Nathan, were dead. A jury convicted them in March of manslaughter.

There are risks for school-age children, too, said Joyce Johnson, spokeswoman for the Child Welfare League in Washington, D.C.

Lack of child care has forced many parents to turn their children into "latchkey kids" who spend two or three hours alone at home each day while waiting for their parents to return from work.

In a study of 447 children ages 5 to 9, Johnson's group found that 42 percent were left alone occasionally or regularly. But most of the children did not know basic precautions such as not opening the door to strangers.

"When you leave children alone, you place them at risk," Johnson said. "We think children should never be left alone. Period."

Even if nothing bad happens immediately, leaving children alone can violate their sense of security, Byers said.

"It's terribly frightening for children to think they might be on their own," she said. "Children need the supervision of adults. They need protection and guidance. If they have to fend for themselves, they are more likely to grow up not trusting other people."

Budget may show deficit increase

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Republicans and Democrats are fencing over new estimates by President Bush showing that President-elect Clinton will inherit federal deficits even worse than the Bush administration projected during the presidential campaign.

Bush was releasing his final budget today, just two weeks before leaving office.

One top GOP congressional aide said the document would show red ink exceeding $300 billion in each of the coming two years, worse than administration projections made only last summer.

The reasons: Congress' delay in providing money to rescue crippled savings and loans, meaning the money will be spent later rather than sooner, and growing health care costs.

Republicans said the new figures would show how hard it will be for Clinton to honor his campaign pledge of cutting budget deficits in half in four years. Democrats said they feared the outgoing president might understate the problem, thereby shifting the blame for unexpectedly high deficits to Clinton.

"We'll end up here in another dispute," said one Democratic aide who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, who is Clinton's choice for treasury secretary, said the latest deficit projection "reinforces the administration having to work to cut that deficit." He told a news conference that trimming the deficit was "not going to be without pain."

Bush's $1.5 trillion spending plan for fiscal 1994, which begins Oct. 1, was to propose no new policies, said aides who demanded anonymity. Instead, it is a relatively slim document that provides eight different scenarios showing what the budget would look like for the next five years under differing assumptions about the economy and federal spending.

The deficit for fiscal 1992, which ended Sept. 30, was a record $290 billion. Just last July, the Bush administration said it expected the budget gaps to be $274 billion in 1994 and $218 billion in 1995. Those figures assumed the savings and loan bailout funds would be provided in 1992.

Clinton will submit his own budget for fiscal 1994 within weeks of taking office.

The annual budget used to be due in mid-January, making it the responsibility of the outgoing president every four years to meet the legal obligations of producing a complete budget.

However, in 1990, Congress changed the law making the budget due the first Monday in February.

Thus, Clinton becomes the first incoming president required to almost immediately produce a budget — a pressure that Bush's submission might help alleviate.

For Clinton, the higher the actual deficit, the tougher it will be for him to find enough tax increases and spending cuts to reduce the deficit. Clinton and many economists say whittling record shortfalls is crucial to reviving the still-lame economy.

Clinton's campaign pledge to halve the deficit in four years relied mostly on strong economic growth, plus cuts in defense spending, tax increases on the rich and other savings.

At the time, Clinton said that without any deficit-reduction action at all, he expected the shortfall to dip to $268 billion next year, $212 billion in 1995 and $193 billion in 1996. He said the numbers came from the Congressional Budget Office.

But Republicans called those figures unrealistic. They said Bush's new figures showed that Clinton's plan would never work.

"It's obvious Clinton's plan won't cut the budget deficit in half," Sen. Pete Domenici of New Mexico, senior Republican on the Senate Budget Committee, said Tuesday. "It's going to be incumbent on the president to tell us what his changes in his plan will be."

experienced a great deal of growth over the last few years while some other community colleges and four year institutions across the state have remained stagnant.

"We're looking forward to greater successes," Weldon said this morning.

possibility that work might resume on the boulevard by the day after the contractor was approved. He said with local subcontractors to be utilized, the re-start could be accomplished quickly.

The wording of the motion to be recommended at today's meeting says a Notice to Proceed, "effective this date," will be expedited. It says the Notice will allow Hewitt "to officially start to mobilize their manpower, equipment, subcontractors and material suppliers."

Assistant County Attorney Henry Brown said this morning that he doubts construction could immediately resume. "Hewitt was only informed early yesterday that they had submitted the low bid," he said, "and I know they have already assigned a project manager, but it will probably take a few days for them to get all of the sub-contractor arrangements finalized."

According to an agenda memorandum for the meeting, county officials have learned from Hewitt's bonding agent that the company has no current default claims against it.

The road project came to a complete halt in July when the original prime contractor, John Mahoney Construction, announced that financial problems prevented it from completing the 3 1/2 miles of widening between Country Club Road and Interstate 4.

The problem of finding a new prime contractor subsequently fell into the hands of the bonding company which was forced to delay re-bidding until all original agreements were broken with Mahoney.

Lake Mary citizens and business owners meanwhile, continue to send signed copies of a pre-printed letter to Rabun, urging him to get the stalled project back into operation. The letter accuses the County Commission of being "very negligent in their responsibilities regarding this matter, and have in fact displayed a very arrogant and careless attitude about the whole issue."

Brown said this morning, "Getting the paperwork completed with all of the legal requirements took time, but we want to be certain all areas of this contract are closely examined and properly drafted before we take formal and final action."

Poplar Avenue. The EPA said Sanford was issued a permit for "discharges into Lake Monroe which empties into the St. Johns River. Specifically," it continued, "the city exceeded the effluent limitations of the permit by failing to meet the Chronic Whole Effluent Toxicity (WET) limitations."

It adds, "The facility also failed to perform additional WET tests in the timeframe required by the permit, for the unacceptable chronic toxicity found in the January and March 1992 WET tests."

The filing states that the effluent limitation for ammonia nitrogen was exceeded for the period January through April, 1992.

City Manager Bill Simmons said most of the problem centered on the testing procedure. "We tested it when we should have in January of '92," he said, "and we were given two weeks to submit the results."

"That particular test came back with the wrong results," Simmons said. "And we were to have re-tested the area within two weeks."

He continued, "But when we sent the first tests to the lab, we didn't get the results back for four weeks, which was already too late to satisfy the EPA and from that point on, it just snow-balled."

He added that subsequent tests had proven both favorable and unfavorable. "It's a pretty strenuous test," he said, "one that wasn't required when we first received our permit from the Department of Environmental Regulation. The EPA made quite a few changes in early 1992, and I understand not only Sanford, but other cities are also getting hit with similar charges."

"We have several choices," he told the commission. "One of them is to appeal and take this to a hearing, but we still have to determine which alternative we may take."

Should the city decide to pay the $27,113, Simmons said the money would have to be taken from the Utility Fund.

"At least the EPA's charge is lower than what they first wanted," Simmons said. "When they originally filed this complaint, they wanted over $38,000. If we discuss it further with them, maybe we can even get the amount reduced."

Public Works Director Paul Moore explained that the money taken from the Utility Fund would not cause any increase in water bills. "We have a $6 million dollar budget for the department," he said, "and this can probably be paid by just trimming a few other items. It won't produce any problems or reductions in service."

Moore added, "If the city pays the fine, it would probably be a great deal less expensive than if we have to take it into an appeal and pay for legal charges."

No representatives of the developer were on hand during last night's meeting.

The mall development is still scheduled for this Thursday night's workshop meeting of the Planning and Zoning Commission. P&Z is to discuss required parking stall length, width and angle requirements, parking drive aisle widths, landscape buffer and tree requirements for off-street parking and vehicular circulation areas, and landscaping on property adjacent to streets and parcels.

The P&Z workshop meeting is open to the public. It will be held beginning at 6 p.m. in the city commission room of the Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Avenue.

IN BRIEF

LOCALLY

Magic nipped again

ORLANDO — This time, experience was on the side of the New Jersey Nets. "We've been together longer," Drazen Petrovic said after a 102-99 victory over the Orlando Magic, which has lost four of its last five games, including three straight.

Rollins upset

WINTER PARK — George Karageorgos scored 22 points and Bentley hit 11 3-pointers to upset Rollins 72-69 Tuesday night. The Falcons (8-2) took a 35-32 halftime lead behind eight points by Karageorgos and John Saragino. Bentley led the entire game except for a brief 10-9 Rollins lead after a Brian Nason 3-pointer with 16:39 to go in the first half.

AROUND THE STATE

Heat edge Pistons

MIAMI — Harold Miner came off the bench to score 19 points. Rony Seikaly had 16 points and 17 rebounds and Glen Rice added 17 points as the Miami Heat bested the Detroit Pistons 89-83. For Detroit Isiah Thomas scored 25 points and Joe Dumars 19.

Tampa whips Mass.-Dartmouth

TAMPA — DeCarlo Deveaux scored 28 points, including five 3-pointers, as Tampa defeated Massachusetts-Dartmouth 93-82 Tuesday night.

FIU wins squeaker

MIAMI — Dwight Stewart scored 16 points and Florida International held off a furious rally by Cleveland State to win 74-73.

ADDITIONAL

Jackson in Hall

NEW YORK — Once again, Reggie Jackson is alone in the spotlight. Jackson, whose clutch hitting, charisma and controversy elevated him to a level all his own, was the only player elected to the Hall of Fame. Jackson was named on 93.6 percent of the ballots cast by members of the Baseball Writers Association of America, the 10th-highest total in history. He became the 29th player to make it to Cooperstown in his first year of eligibility.

Bears fire Ditka

LAKE FOREST, Ill. — Mike Ditka's 11 years as coach of the Bears ended in an emotional firing that lasted less than six minutes. The 53-year-old Ditka, who led the Bears to the 1986 Super Bowl title, was dismissed nine days after the end of a disastrous 5-11 season. Ditka, who will remain with the team as a consultant, had a 106-82 regular-season record.

Now that's an ugly tie Fans change result of Ram-Cougar match twice

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — Contributors to countless victories in the past, the home crowd very nearly cost the Lake Mary High School wrestling team a loss Tuesday night.

After 220-pounder Paul Clayton won his match by pin, securing a 34-34 tie for the Rams with the University Cougars (7-1-1), Lake Mary fans mobbed Clayton, lifting him into the air.

The referee thought the celebration inappropriate and penalized Lake Mary a team point, in effect, giving University a 35-34 win.

But as the referee explained his ruling to Lake Mary coach Doug Peters, a University supporter left the stands and began berating the official, earning a one-point team penalty against the Cougars, retying the score at 35-35. "It was unfortunate," said Peters. "It was a match between two very good teams. Randy Jease (the University coach) and I have coached against each other for the last 10 or 12 years. Usually, being at home was the difference. Tonight, it was a big difference."

Peters actually meant that the Lake Mary crowd helped the Rams wrestle their way to a 34-34 tie. With several key wrestlers out for various reasons, Lake Mary was going to give away quite a few points, including six because of a forfeit in the Heavyweight class.

The Rams quickly built a 22-0 lead as Rich Bradley (103 pounds), Nate Mitchell (119 pounds) and Corey Cullins (125) each won their matches with pins while Kevin Dunn (112 pounds) scored a major decision. But then University started climbing back into meet, winning five of the next six contests.

While it may sound awkward, several of the younger Rams played a huge role in keeping Lake Mary from suffering a loss by not losing their individual matches too badly.

Because a team gets three points when a member wins by a decision, four by major decision, five by technical fall, and six by a pin, it was important for the Rams filling in for the regulars to keep their matches as close.

"University's strong suit is the middle weights," explained Peters. "Aaron Reedy (145 pounds), Chris Foster (150 pounds) and Jamie Orras (130 pounds) did well not to get pinned."

Their efforts, along with wins by decision from Pat Paroline (135 pounds) and Jean Pierre (171 pounds), helped Lake Mary forge a 28-28 tie with two matches to go. Because the Rams knew they were going to forfeit at Heavyweight, Clayton had to pin his opponent to give Lake Mary a tie.

"Clayton had beaten the kid in the Christmas Tournament, but this time, he had to pin him," said Peters. "Clayton had him on his back twice in the first period but couldn't get him."

"When they got to the third period, both wrestlers were exhausted. I didn't think it was going to happen, but Clayton reversed out and pinned the kid."

That's when things really got interesting. Lake Mary, 4-0-1, will host Colonial Thursday.

Hawks topple Tribe

By DEAN SMITH Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Saving the best for last.

For 34 minutes Tuesday night, the Lake Howell girls' basketball team stayed close to homesteading Seminole during their Seminole Athletic Conference contest at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

But just when it seemed like the Silver Hawks might not be able to catch the Tribe, Lake Howell's Kelly Kohn went on a long-range scoring binge, nailing three 3-pointers and putting back a rebound to score 11 straight points and tie the game at 38-38 with 4:04 left.

Seminole regained the lead twice more, at 38-36 and 40-38, but each time the Silver Hawks would answer immediately.

Finally, with 0:35 to go, Deanna Graves made her only basket of the evening, a "three" from the left corner that gave the Silver Hawks their first lead of the game, 43-42. Seminole was unable to come back and Graves hit a free throw with 0:01 left to make the final score 44-42.

The junior varsity game also went to the Silver Hawks by the score of 50-28.

Seminole took the quick lead as Nikki Washington dominated the first quarter, scoring all 12 points as the Tribe went up 12-7. Seminole continued to build its lead, leading 32-23 at the end of three periods. But poor shooting and even poorer shot selection kept the lead from being much larger.

"Poor shooting and bad attempts killed us tonight," said Seminole head coach John McNamara. "Even the shots that went in were poor attempts, we were lucky to be ahead."

"I told the girls yesterday that we needed to beat both Lake Howell and Lake Brantley if we wanted to win the conference. But we played

'Balanced' Rams roll over Patriots

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Sometimes a balanced attack isn't what it appears.

On Tuesday night, for example, all nine players on the Lake Mary High School girls' basketball team contributed points during a 64-43 win over the Lake Brantley Patriots in a Seminole Athletic Conference confrontation.

While having all players contribute to a victory is every coach's goal, it was more of a necessity Tuesday night for Lake Mary coach Anna Van Landingham, who juggled her lineup constantly during the contest.

"Well, we won, that's about all that can be said about this game," said Van Landingham. "The good news was the play of our bench. They were ready to play and they provided the spark we needed to get going."

Van Landingham lauded the play of reserves Karely Beitel, Laura Ragucci, and Jennifer Grelasing (nine points, a team-high eight rebounds, and six steals), who contributed quality minutes for the Rams.

Lake Mary point guard LaShawn Merrick had a team-high 13 points (including a pair of three-point field goals in the final two minutes to ice the game) to go with seven assists while Karen Morris and Dawn Ferguson each added 11 points.

"It was a really positive way to come back from the break," said Van Landingham. "The girls did what they had to do to win."

Over the next 12 minutes, Lake Mary outscored the Patriots 32-9 to take a 38-17 lead at halftime. Included in that stretch was a 22-3 run.

According to Lake Brantley coach Karen Szweczyk, the Patriots weren't physically ready to play, having been idle for most of their winter break.

"We've been back since Dec. 28, but half of the team was gone during the break," explained Szweczyk. "We've been working on conditioning, but we're not game fit. The fatigue from being out-of-shape is part of what caused our 30 turnovers tonight."

Lake Mary also won the junior varsity contest, 40-24.

Weaver notches first win on asphalt track

By PAUL MARSELLA
Special to the Herald

SAMSULA - Randy Weaver of Crossville, Tenn., has 101 feature wins on dirt. On Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway, he notched his first ever asphalt feature triumph in a 100-lap Late Model main event.

"I'm so excited, I can't speak," said the 23 year old Weaver, who has been racing for seven years. "Words just can't explain how I feel. I wanted this win as much for Bob and Diane Clark as I did for myself. They believed in me and gave me the chance. This win is for them."

Weaver, driving the Bob Clark Camaro, qualified sixth fastest for the evening and started the race from the outside pole position. But at the drop of the green flag, David Russell outdueled Weaver for the lead, while Wayne Anderson moved into second place.

Weaver assumed the lead on lap 18 when Russell and Anderson made contact and spun out, bringing out the caution. On the restart Weaver maintained the lead ahead of Jack Cook, James Powell, Orr and Jimmy Britts.

Despite repeated challenges, Weaver maintained the lead until lap 73, when he slipped out of the racing groove, allowing Cook to take over the point with an inside pass coming out of turn four. Orr, running bumper-to-bumper with Cook, also got by Weaver to take over second.

Cook held onto the top spot until lap 88, when he and Orr swapped paint, necessitating the seventh caution period of the night. The incident moved Cook and Orr to the back of the pack and gave Weaver the lead and the trip to victory lane.

On the final restart, Powell, Britts and Guy Thomas were able to close on the race winner and mounted a strong charge to take the win. But Weaver held his line and crossed the stripe a car-length ahead of Powell.

"This was a good finish for us," said Powell, who is also a regular dirt tracker. "We were strong all night and our luck held out. Usually when we come to this track, some dumb thing always happens to us."

Crossing the line behind Powell were Britts, Thomas and Russell.

"I'm real pleased with our performance," said the 26 years old Britts, who has been racing for six years. "Our plan was to be patient and not abuse the car. Some of the guys made some bad judgment calls and took themselves out of the race."

"We kept our line, waited for the right time and made our move. Even though we raced on old tires we were able to stay close to the front all night. I'm happy it was a good race."

Thomas was another driver that was satisfied with his showing.

"This is still basically a new car for us," said Jacksonville resident Thomas. "We really only have two races on it. The last two hundred-lap race here we crashed with eight laps to go. We're still trying to get the car sorted out. We're close to the set-up we want and we'll be ready for speed weeks."

The race took 55 minutes to complete with eight caution periods. Of the 24 cars that took the green, 10 were still on the lead lap. Weaver took home $2,000 for his winning effort.

One of the cars to finish on the lead lap, in ninth place, was Bob Clark. Weaver's car owner.

Orr opens New Year with wire-to-wire win

By PAUL MARSELLA
Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - Montverde's Pete Orr, driving the Horses Around Farms Camaro, dominated racing action Friday night at Orlando SpeedWorld as he handily won the FASCAR sectioned 50 lap Late Model feature event.

Orr, who set the evening's fourth fastest qualifying time, started the race on the outside pole and led every lap to claim the win despite an early race challenge by Wayne Anderson.

"Thanks to the crew, the car was really hooked up tonight," said Orr, who is the 1992 World Series defending champion. "For the last month, we have been very competitive. I hope winning the first race of the New Year is an indication of what we will do the rest of the season."

On a lap 34 restart, Mike Pritts dove underneath Anderson to take over second place, which he held to the checkered flag. Anderson was third over fast qualifier Ronnie Roach. Dave McCabe rounded out the top five.

When Mike Todd and Jacob

Warren tangled while battling for the lead in the Limited Late Model feature, Howard Osteen inherited the lead and went on to claim his first ever Orlando SpeedWorld win.

Following the Lakeland driver to the stripe were Todd, Warren and George Murphy.

The same scenario took place in the Mini-Stock Division as race leaders Bobby Sears and Darren Jackson tangled, handing the lead and the win to Kelly Jarrett.

Following Jarrett were Gene VanAlstine, Lawrence Usher, Richard Newton and Sears.

Bruce Thompson was a first-time winner in the Modifieds, leading all the way to win ahead of John Lovelady, Dave Savicki, Dwayne Palmer and Mark Miller. Sanford's John Ripley led from green to checkers to win the Sportman feature, trailed by Dale Howard, Bill Loomis, Guy McRoberts and Jim Kinsey.

The Bomber win went of Greg Noe, Wally Semrow, Glen Castro, John Smith and David Gould completed the top five.

Tony Lagano topped the Run-Abouts, outracing Jody Flynn, Brian Schlimmer, Chuck Vola and Mike Mingleone.

In a fog tonight, whenever I went to substitute, we would get confused as to who was supposed to be where in the zone and (Lake Howell) got easy shots. I guess we can start concentrating on getting ready for the district tournament now.

The loss dropped Seminole to 11-7 overall and 0-3 in the SAC, while Lake Howell improved to 15-3 and 2-0, with both wins coming against Seminole.

The Tribe will be in action at home again tonight against Spruce Creek with the JV's starting at 6 p.m. The Silver Hawks will host Lyman in a big SAC contest Thursday, with the JV's tipping off at 6 p.m.

Kohn led the Lake Howell offense with 17, while Lori Marchiacella added seven points and 10 rebounds and Christine James six points.

Washington was the game's high scorer with 20. Tennesha Eason chipped in with 10 despite sitting out a large portion of the game in foul trouble.

Ask for second opinion on ALS

DEAR DR. GOTT: Are there any diseases other than ALS that can cause fasciculations? My father has been diagnosed with ALS, yet we have some doubt because as long as he remains on antibiotics, he continues to grow stronger. All testing performed was done during a bout of the flu and pneumonia, and we are wondering if we should obtain a second opinion.

DEAR READER: Fasciculations are brief, visible, random, irregular muscular twitches. They can occur in healthy people, especially the elderly. Fasciculations are also a consequence of lower motor neuron diseases; that is, any disorder or disruption of the nerves leading from the spine that govern movement.

Such diseases include multiple sclerosis, syringomyelia, amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (also known as ALS or Lou Gehrig's disease) and others. These disorders are serious and are always associated with obvious neurological signs (in addition to fasciculations), including weakness and difficulty moving.

To my knowledge, antibiotics will not affect ALS. If your father has been diagnosed with this condition and is improving on antibiotics, somebody may have goofed. By all means obtain a second opinion from a neurologist as soon as possible, at a time when your father is not suffering from an infection, such as flu, which can throw off the testing.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've had athlete's foot for nine months. My doctor prescribed Nizoral, Loprox and I had a shot of cortisone that didn't help. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER: Athlete's foot, a fungus infection of the skin, is almost always cured by anti-fungus drugs, such as the ones you mention. However, this common foot infection sometimes becomes chronic when bacteria cause a double infection or if there is an underlying skin disorder, such as eczema. In such cases, additional medicine, such as antibiotics, must be employed. I suggest you see a dermatologist for a definitive diagnosis because nine months is too long to suffer from such an annoying condition.

WIN A...

By Phillip Alder

If you bought and enjoyed "The Best of Robert Gray, Book One," you are sure to want Book Two ($5.50, The Bridge World, 39 West 94th Street, New York, NY 10025-7124).

Gray, who lives in Scotland, wrote many excellent articles for The Bridge World magazine. The material is advanced, but the text is lucid and entertaining.

Today's deal comes from the chapter entitled "The Ace of Spades Woman." Against four hearts, West cashed his top diamonds, showing a doubleton in the process. (Ace from A-K, when not doubleton, is traditional in Britain.) Then West switched to the club 10. How should South plan the play?

The one-heart opening is standard in Britain, where four-card majors and the weak no-trump reign supreme. The two-spade rebid was aggressive.

Declarer won the club switch in hand and drew trumps. Having placed East with the spade ace, South planned to lead a low spade through East and duck a spade on the way back, hoping to bring down the ace. But just in case the ace was singleton, declarer decided to eliminate the clubs first. Then, when in with the spade ace, East would have to concede a fatal ruff-and-discard.

Everything looked promising for a Southerly victory, but on the third round of clubs, East discarded the spade ace. Now declarer couldn't avoid two spade losers: one down.

Declarer was guilty of not counting. Once East followed to three hearts and two clubs, 12 of her cards were known. Declarer had to assume the 13th was the spade ace, and should have led the suit after the second round of clubs.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

Jan. 7, 1993

Your problems in the year ahead might be due to excessive opportunities rather than too few options. It will be up to you to evaluate each one carefully so you don't waste time on the less propitious.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It might be wiser to take a firm stand today instead of trying to be all things to all people. This could turn out to be the least complicated of your choices. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Duties or responsibilities that demand immediate attention should not be ignored today. Postponing your activities could compound your problems.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There is a possibility a friend might disappoint you today by not including you in a social involvement. Don't blow this out of proportion, because it is just a careless oversight.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You are the type of person who isn't afraid to tackle more than one endeavor simultaneously. However, if you attempt to do so today, your adeptness might desert you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be extremely careful today about repeating secondhand information. Don't pass a story to others unless you know for sure it is predicated upon facts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A friendship could be placed in jeopardy today if there is too much emphasis on material things. This could arouse self-interest in you, as well as in the pal involved.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you have to negotiate an important matter today, don't underestimate the person with whom you're dealing. The trump cards you think that you are holding could be in his or her hand.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're not likely to be very effective today working under pressure. There's a good chance you might impose these conditions upon yourself by the way you handle things.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Under most conditions you tend to be well-controlled and practical, but today these fine qualities might be hidden behind inclinations to take rather foolish risks.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you fail to do your own thinking today, there's a chance others will make decisions for you which might not serve your best interests. When you come to this realization it may be too late.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try to avoid someone today with whom you've had a recent disagreement. This situation needs a bit more time to heal before you can be true buddies again.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Suppress impulses today to take physical or financial risks. Don't let boldness or brashness take precedence over common sense.
