

County Eyes Sewage Treatment Needs

By Michael Deha
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County officials are studying potential demands for sewage service in the southern part of the county to determine whether the county needs more sewage treatment capacity.

Ken Hooper, environmental services director for the county, said there is a definite interest in plans to expand Altamonte Springs' 7.5-million-gallon-per-day sewage treatment capacity.

"We're trying to find out how much we want," he said.

The extra capacity is available at Altamonte's plant because the federal government ordered the facility to make additional capacity available for wholesale customers of the city's sewage plant.

Don Newman, Altamonte public works director, said the city has "offered all of our wholesale customers the opportunity to participate in the plant's expansion."

He said the city is prepared to increase capacity at the plant by about 5 million gallons. "But I don't think we'll need to build nearly that much."

Seminole County currently sees the plant only as a small amount of its sewage — 50 million gallons annually — for treatment. Customers currently pay $635 per sewer hookup and $1.13 per 1,000 gallons of water use.

Those costs will not increase, Newman said for the increased capacity at the sewer plant. The connection fees are being used to finance the construction. The only major expenditures facing the customers may be the laying of lines and constructing lift stations, if necessary, he said.

So far, no responses have been received from the city's customers in Maitland, Edgewater, north Orange County and Seminole County, he said. But he anticipates that Orange County, Seminole County and perhaps one of the municipalities will make a commitment to participate in the expansion.

The wholesale customers also have the opportunity to take part in the city's APRIOT project. APRIOT, which stands for A Prototype Residential Community of Today, is a plant that treats sewage for local irrigation use.

Newman, who developed APRIOT over the past year, said Altamonte is prepared to send its customers back half of the sewage they send to the plant as treated effluent for irrigation.

He said APRIOT will provide substantial financial savings by reducing the amount of water that must be pumped out of the area's aquifer by using the treated effluent for irrigation.

"It's the best program I've ever seen that substantially reduces withdrawals from the freshwater aquifer," he said.

Hooper said county officials are studying APRIOT to determine whether county participation is feasible.

Altamonte Springs officials have made no formal offer for participation in either project, Commissioner Sandra Glenn said.

"It's only a concept at this time," she said. "There've been some estimates made. We would have considerable problems for laying new lines and lift stations."

County officials are also reviewing the projected sewage needs of the entire county to determine what areas could utilize septic tanks rather than hooking up to sewage systems.

That study could result in a change in the county philosophy on septic tanks. Currently they are permitted only on lots of 1/2-acre or more in areas where the soil is acceptable for their use.

But at least one commissioner, Robert G. "Bud" Feather, supports increased use of septic tanks because of the high cost of sewage treatment and a shortage of sewage disposal capacity.

Sanford City Commissioner Ned Yancey, a chamber director, and his wife, Martha, the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce's "goodwill ambassador," were honored at the chamber's 13th annual John S. Krider Memorial Topper Award reception.

The joint award was presented to the couple for their outstanding service to the community for the past year. The Yanceys were honored for their contributions to the chamber's past presidents. The presentation was made at a banquet Friday night in the Civic Center.

New Manager Says Job Doesn't Cut Social Security Pay

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Alma R. Ortiz, the new branch manager of the Social Security Administration office in Sanford at 300 S. Melbourne Ave., said keeping the public informed on Social Security regulations and benefits through the media will be one of her priorities in her new job.

Mrs. Ortiz came to Sanford in February from the Social Security office in West Palm Beach where she was operations supervisor.

She was transferred here to replace John Pelt, former branch manager who transferred to the Deland office to nearer his home.

Born in Cuba, Ms. Ortiz lived in Tampa most of her life and was graduated from the University of South Florida in 1973 with a degree in Business Administration. She started working for the Social Security Administration in 1974 as a service representative in Tampa. In 1976, she was transferred to the office in St. Petersburg, where she served as claims representative until moving to West Palm Beach.

She said the Social Security office here serves the entire Seminole County area.

"In this county we serve 23,100 beneficiaries who receive Social Security benefits and 1,099 recipients who receive Supplemental Security Income benefits," she said.

"The goal of our office is to provide good and expeditious service to the community we serve and to develop a good public information program which will keep our community informed of all the services we provide."

She said one of the most common misunderstandings is that many persons don't understand that they can work and still get Social Security benefits. "If they are under age 65, the limit they can work is a year, from 65-69 it is $6,500 a year, and from 70 up there is no range for the earnings."

"If they earn more than the limit, we withhold half of what they make, but that amount is not their benefits. Under the bill just passed by Congress, the annual earnings test will be on one out of every three dollars by 1990 for those 65-69 for them." "That will be a break for them."

She said that under the amendment, self-employed persons now paying 9.35 percent of their earnings into Social Security will be increased to 13 percent by 1988.

"A lot of people lose a lot of years because they are working and they believe they are ineligible and don't come in," she said.

Anxiety over the prospect of the system going bankrupt or changes in Social Security regulations has brought more people in to inquire and file for benefits, she said.

"The Congress will never let the Social Security System go broke," she declared.

"Every disabled individual who is receiving benefits is now being reviewed periodically to determine if they are able to go back to work. If so, their benefits cease once they are re-able," explained Ms. Ortiz. "Also taken into consideration in the decision are their vocational background, work experience or education."

The media has focused on some cases where severely handicapped individuals were reviewed and lost their benefits. "This can happen," she admitted. "But unfortunately you just hear of these few cases where something happened."

"A lot of people think it is the only retirement plan they need and they can depend on it to meet their needs. But it was only meant to be a supplement," she added.

More Are Honored

See Page 18A

George Touhy, a past recipient of the award, noted that this is the first time the award has been presented to two people rather than a single individual, called the couple the "dynamic duo." He said they are "contributing immeasurably to the community, pointing to Yancey's service to the City Commission and Mrs. Yancey's work in several civic clubs in addition to their chamber activities."

Mrs. Yancey, speaking for herself and her husband said, "We are so happy you chose us." While Yancey held the plaque, Mrs. John Krider presented Mrs. Yancey with a bouquet of carnations.

The choice of the Yanceys was obviously a popular one with the audience. The Yanceys received a standing ovation.

The Yanceys join a list of distinguished recipients including the late John Krider for whom the award was named. He was a county commissioner, a city commissioner and chamber executive manager for 1914 years. Others who have received the award, in chronological order, are: Leo P. Moore, Mack N. Cleveland Jr., Dr. George Starke, Harold Rastner, Harold Deane, Walter O'Connell, W. Scott Burns, Garnett White, John Krider and Mrs. Yancey.

The Yanceys have been working as chamber volunteers since 1976, within months after moving back to Sanford in 1975.

On a visit to Playhouse Bank after their return to the city, James Springstead, bank official active in the chamber, urged the couple to get involved in chamber work and activities.

The Yanceys went to the chamber and offered their assistance and their involvement in every aspect of chamber work began.

"We help wherever we can," Mrs. Yancey says. "We are a part of everything that goes on in the chamber."

"I feel the chamber has helped me more than I have it," she says. "Jack Horner (chamber president) is like a brother to me." Recipient of the Kiwanis Club's "woman of the year" award, she said she gives much of the credit for winning the award to the chamber.

The chamber nominated Mrs. Yancey a finalist for "woman of the year" award last year.

After their marriage, Yancey served a four-year stint in the U.S. Air Force and worked 15 years for the post office in Starke before joining the Bureau of Federal Prisons in Atlanta.

In Starke Mrs. Yancey operated "Martha's Dress Shop." In Altamonte she worked for a leading department store in Jeter-Lauder cosmetics before accepting a position with Dorothy Gray Cosmetics as a training supervisor with 22 states in her region.

When Yancey retired from federal service after 32 years, the couple moved back to Sanford to make their permanent home.

In 1980 Yancey was elected to a four-year term on the Sanford City Commission.

They are the parents of two sons and a daughter, and grandparents to two boys and two girls.

IN BRIEF

Exxon Will Challenge Oil Overcharge Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Exxon Corp. is challenging a federal judge's opinion that holds the nation's largest oil company liable for $695 million in damages of crude oil overcharges.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Flannery said Tuesday that Exxon had to pay the price of oil taken from its Houston fields in Wood County, Texas, between 1976 and 1981.

The federal court's decision is in effect at the two-year pricing level with "oil" oil prices set at an even and "new" oil prices set at a higher level.

Flannery said Exxon had "oil" oil from the field near Tyler, Texas, as "new" oil.

Jack Bennett, spokesman for Exxon in New York, called the judge's opinion "incorrect and unfair," and said the company will "proceed promptly in the courts to correct this decision."

He said Exxon seemed to be applying retroactively regulations "that were not even announced by federal energy officials until almost two years after the transactions began."

He ordered Exxon to make payment to the Texas state to the overcharges plus interest but did not set an amount. Depending on how the interest on $695 million in overcharges are assessed, Exxon's liability could approach $1 billion.

NATIONAL REPORT: Avalanches, mudslides and power failures plagued the West, while large hail and damaging winds accompanied thunderstorms in the southeast. Heavy snow blanketed the Great Plains in a massive spring storm from the Pacific. The National Weather Service said a tornado touched down near Del Rio, Texas, thunderstorms in the area also produced winds up to 70 mph. A tornado watch was issued for a large portion of central and south Texas. Winter storm warnings are in effect in areas of Nebraska, South Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota and Kansas. Friday's snow in the mountains of northern Utah triggered avalanches, knocked out power and mangled traffic. Up to 2 feet of snow blanketed Utah, Salt Lake City, and other areas. At least five avalanches in Big and Little Cottonwood Canyons closed roads and stranded skiers indefinitely. Power was out in Los Angeles where workers around the clock dug out from tons of muddy debris that slid from rocky hillsides onto Pacific Coast Highway for the second time in less than 24 hours. The mud-and-ash cleanup along a mile stretch of the highway is expected to last until Monday, says the Department of Transportation officials said. The Great Plains showed out from snow that blanketed sections from Kansas to southern Minnesota. Twelve inches of snow fell in Crawford, Neb., and in five inches covered the Panhandle and northeast.

Sanford Family Escapes House Fire

A Sanford family crawled to safety through smoke as a fire swept through their house at 3:23 a.m. today.

The blaze, which caused about $50,000 worth of damage and suffocated a pet dog, started in the utility room of Walter J. Gardner's home at 121 S. Scott Ave. Gardner, who works at Central Florida Regional Hospital as an anesthesiologist, his wife and son crawled through the smoke-filled room as the fire raged through the utility room and caused about $6,000 damage to a Honda car parked in the garage.

William C. Galey, Sanford fire chief, said that the fire was accidental and started from an electrical short in the utility room light.

"We confined the fire to the utility room and it came out of the top. There was no injuries but a pet dog was suffocated in the master bedroom where the Gardners were sleeping. They crawled out of the bedroom to escape the smoke," said Galey.

The heat in the garage was so intense that it cracked and blew out the windows of a Honda parked in the garage, said Galey. He estimated that there was about $50,000 worth of damage to the house and about $6,000 damage to the Honda.

"If we had caught the fire it could have caused a lot of damage," said Galey.

It took less than an hour to control the blaze which left structural damage to the utility room, the roof and roof timbers, heavy smoke damage to the kitchen and damage from fire water to the entire house.

Gardner could not be reached for comment Saturday morning.

THREE BURGLARY SUSPECTS ARRESTED

Sanford Police arrested three burglary suspects in a series of break-ins late Wednesday night and early Thursday morning.

A silent alarm alerted police to a break-in at Army and Navy Surplus Store, 313 Sanford Ave., at about 10:40 p.m. Wednesday.

When police arrived on the scene they found Regional Brynka, 24-78 Lake Moore Terrace, Sanford standing behind a palm tree. A window frame on the building had been torn away triggering the alarm. Brynka was arrested for attempted burglary.

In the other two unreported burglaries, Sanford Police charged James Key of Sanford with a break at the Wal-Mart Super Station, North Fresh Avenue, just after midnight Wednesday.

In a third incident, Larry Darrell Frederick, 52 Castle Brewer Court, was arrested in Magnolia Ave., at about 1:14 a.m. after it had been found that Pope Auto Parts, 5 Park Avenue, had been broken into. He was charged with burglary and grand theft.

OUTBOARD MOTOR STOLEN

The sub shop is owned by Larry Herman of Longwood.

SAFE STOLEN

Thieves, who used a pick axe to smash their way into Mary Day's Longwood home, walked off with a heavy safe after breaking in at about 12:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Police believe there were two men because of the size and weight of the safe. The crooks made their entry by smashing through a window with a pick axe.

The thieves then took a dolly from under a baroque chair and used it to wheel away the safe.

A broken pick axe handle was found lying in the bedroom.

KING PINE TAKEN FROM DOOR

A burglar took the king pine out of a door leading from the garage to get into Arthur McDonald's home at 182 Hawthorne Drive, Altamonte Springs, at about 10 p.m. Tuesday and 7:50 a.m. Wednesday. Nothing appeared to have been stolen police said.

MAN HELD AFTER ATTACK ON POLICE OFFICER

Two men were arrested at the Altamonte Mall Thursday at about 6 p.m. after one had jumped on the back of Altamonte Springs Police Officer Jack Fowler and another had tried to grab his revolver.

The incident happened after the police officer had seen a truck parked in a handicapped parking area and had started writing out a citation. Five men had walked from the Mall and when they reached the truck Fowler approached the driver, Ricky F. Glad, 421 Center Street, Altamonte Springs, for him to sign the citation.

Glad, who was the driver, started swearing at the police officer and took his citation book and pencil and threw it down, causing all the pink slips to blow away.

Fowler had tried to detain Glad and Richard Eugene Gross, 421 Center Street, Altamonte Springs, who had come across from where the other three had been standing and tried to grab the police officer. Gross had been told to stand back and not interfere and this made him "very angry," said the report.

Gross then jumped on Fowler's back, the report said, and a third unidentified man had grabbed at the police officer's radio and threw it to the ground. A security guard, who had earlier come out and told the five to stay away from the Mall because they had been making law, suggestion and pinching the buttocks of women, hit one of the men with a flashlight.

Fowler, the report said, was then able to push Glad away and turn his attention to Gross, who had tried to grab his gun. Gross says the report but after other officers arrived both men were arrested.

Gross was charged with aiding an escape, resisting arrest with violence and escape. He was being held Friday on $5,000 bond in Seminole County Jail.

Glad was charged with resisting arrest, resisting arrest with violence and disorderly conduct and held Friday on $5,000 bond.

Lake Mary Housing Projects Under Way

By Donna Bates
 Herald Staff Writer

Two new housing developments are under construction in Lake Mary and two others will begin as soon as final details are worked out.

City Manager Phil Kullies said Cardinal Oaks, Phase II, and Cardinal Oaks Estates are both under construction by D & R Development. The two developments will have 100 units each.

Meanwhile, preliminary plans have been approved by both the Planning and Zoning Commission and the City Commission for Lake Mary Woods off East Road south.

And preliminary plans have been submitted to the Lake Mary Board of Mayor and City Council and Second Road, Kullies said.

Larry Dale of D & R Development has completed the construction of houses in the first phase of Cardinal Oaks, a 68-acre subdivision with 90 houses, Kullies said.

Phase II is slated to have 70 lots and 22 of them have been sold already, he said. Phase III is also under way for home sites, Kullies said. Homes in this development will be in the $90,000 and up price range.

Three of the right lots in Dale's Cardinal Oaks Estates have been sold, Kullies said. Lots range in size from 12 to six acres each and will range in price from $125,000 to $150,000, he said.

Kullies said Lake Mary Woods is to be developed by Clark & Julian. Builders in the 182-unit subdivision will be constructed in the first phase.

Engineers for the development are McInosh & Associates, which is currently preparing plans for the construction of water lines, Kullies said.

He added that Lake Mary Woods streets begin construction until water lines are installed by the developers of Lake Mary Woods.

Lake Mary Woods, once its water lines are installed, will be connected to the Sanford water main on U.S. Highway 17-92. A Lake Mary master water line will be installed where the Lake Mary Woods lines connect.

Lake Mary purchases all of its water supply from the City of Sanford.

Bishops Completes Nuclear Statement

By David Anderson
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cardinal Joseph Bernardin of Chicago, a conciliant consensus builder, has managed to hold together the hawks and doves of his five-bishop committee drafting a pastoral statement on nuclear war and peace issues.
 Bernardin has announced the committee finished its work Thursday and that its final draft will be "presented to the bishops with the unanimous support" of the committee.
 That does not mean, Bernardin added, "that all the members agree with every point in this long, complex document but that all support it as a whole."
 The National Conference of Catholic Bishops will meet in a special two-day session in Chicago May 1-2 to debate, perhaps amend and vote on the controversial statement.

 When the committee's second draft was debated at the bishops' conference's meeting in November, it drew sharp criticism from both high-ranking Reagan administration officials as well as conservative Catholics.
 Bernardin, in his statement, did not comment on the substance of the new draft but sources close to the committee indicated there were few if any substantive changes from the second draft which endorsered as important first use of nuclear weapons or their use against civilian populations.
 It also questioned the U.S. policy of nuclear deterrence, arguing deterrence was acceptable only if it led to positive steps toward disarmament.

 But Bernardin did say the new draft treats more extensively the "moral argument on the question of deterrence."
 In addition, Bernardin said the document also gives "particular attention" to the issue of U.S.-Soviet policies and relationships, one of the areas most criticized by the Reagan administration in their comments on the proposed pastoral statement.
 It will also spell out more clearly the different levels of moral authority — the bishops to which the letter's address is being sent to Catholic church members.

Hong Kong Bound

The Rev. Dale McClain and his wife, Polly, of Casseberry, scheduled to leave in April for Hong Kong as missionaries, were honored at a farewell dinner at Community United Methodist Church of Casseberry recently. Veteran OMS International missionaries, they have lived here for several years while they have been serving as southeast district director of development for OMS. Mrs. McClain was born in China to missionary parents and the couple served there until 1949 when forced to flee the Communists. They later served in India, Hong Kong and Indonesia. The event was hosted by the Christian Homekeepers Class.

Church Sponsors New Troop

The Boy Scouts of America Central Florida Council Seminal District, working together with the First Christian Church, Truist and Sanford Ave., Sanford, will use a knot to symbolize the cooperation between the community and the Boy Scouts. As the knot is tied, the new Cub Pack and Boy Scout Troop 844 will be born. They will conduct weekly meetings in the church hall on Tuesday nights from 7-9:30 p.m.
 Tom Peterhoff, scoutmaster for Troop 844, resigned as assistant scoutmaster of Troop 568 of Sanford to accept the new position. Two days after Troop 808 received the Best Troop award at the District Camporee.
 Peterhoff said the new troop will be an active outdoor troop with campsouts scheduled each month with canoeing, hiking and pioneering a major part of its activities.

 Assistant scoutmasters will be Mike Cilio, who has 14 years in adult scouting, and Charlie Bousler, who has 48 years as a regular scoutler. Bousler is District training chairman. Also assisting will be Dick Kirendall, who has more than 20 years as a scoutler. Bill Perkins and Jack Hansen will head up the Leadership for the Webelos Den of the pack.
 Linda Peterhoff will be cubmaster assisted by Susan Nicholas, leader of the Coach Betsy Pringle, den leader, and Darrel Presley, Webelos leader.
 Tony Montgomery is committee chairman. Janet Montgomery is secretary and treasurer of the unit.
 Peterhoff is establishing a Boy Scout-Cub Scout uniform bank. Anyone with extra books, patches, uniforms to donate or desiring information on joining the units may call 252-5100. The pack is open to boys 7-10 years and the troop to boys 11-18.

Marijuana Church Head Is Arrested

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fanatical followers of the "Church of the Realized Fantasy," which delivered marijuana door-to-door, will have to receive their sacrament elsewhere because the church's "pope" has been arrested.
 Mickey Cezar, 41, the self-proclaimed head of the church, was arrested on charges of selling 3 pounds of marijuana to a undercover officer, police said.

"He had a dial-seed service," said Police Lt. David Lynett. "It was the No. 1 issue as he sold to us. He was it — he was the Realized Fantasy church."

Cezar was arrested Thursday in Greenwich Village and charged with selling the drug. Lynett said the operation was shut down and he is in serious trouble, he said.
 Cezar's "church" claimed to have been selling up to $30,000 a day in marijuana.

Computer To Find Missing Children

A privately donated computer to link missing children reports statewide places Florida in the forefront of a national program of missing children.

The computer system, to be operated by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE), will be installed in Tallahassee recently, was donated by Florida Tech, Inc. of Tallahassee.

On the state level, Florida has taken a leadership role in addressing the problem of missing children. This computer system provides another valuable link to an increasingly tight chain of resources. The Federal Missing Children Act establishes a national clearing house of information, using the FBI's Crime Information Computer, to help law enforcement officials find missing children.

With this new state computer network, Florida law enforcement officials will have the most up-to-the-minute information in the physical description of all children reported missing in our state. This will give them an enormous edge in the search for missing children.

Florida has the combined benefits of the federal Missing Children Act, its State Missing Children Act, the FBI's national computer system, and the state's local voluntary programs to fingerprint children. Our state also will benefit from a commitment by the FBI to intensify its investigation of possible child kidnappers, expand its training program, and assist in handling of parental abduction cases.

Sincerely,
Sen. Paula Hawkins,
Sponsor of the Missing Children Act

New Frontier Found

We are Americans who have made our home in Latin America for seven years. Since 1980, when you published my last letter, we have seen much distorted news of the Americas coming out of the U.S. and would like to set the record straight for the Herald readers.

I (Paul Harbor) and my wife and six children, including a 13-year-old son, live in Costa Rica, bag, baggage, grandmother, Spanish and know little about the country. Before, our rural neighbors accepted us and graciously taught us and language, culture, and how a slightly faded family could enjoy life in a foreign land. Truly, our delightful adventures there merit a book, at least!

My husband's deep love for the (Port) Harbor and water and river views, prompted a further move two years ago to Colombia's Caribbean coast. There, we found a lovely, old colonial plantation on the Pan American Highway near Santa Maria the oldest 1457 year old most fascinating city in all the Americas.

Imagine, if you will, grinding pulp in a gentle sand river beaches, blue sea and sky, peaceful palm trees and a stable, democratic government and a satisfying low cost of living.

Like Columbus, we have discovered a new frontier with a vast potential and, being human, are driven to sell others about our dream-venture. If you are interested in the future of the Americas land the Florida Coast, contact Santa Maria, we wish you would (health) and (wealth) and the time is your own!

Record Set Straight

The March 18 issue of the Evening Herald contains an article reporting Seminole County Post Authority's March meeting. The article attributes statements to SCFPA staff members which are alarmingly incorrect and misleading. I am led to assume that an editorial board, acting objectively on behalf of those staff members has deteriorated to a point where their reliability may have reached questionable levels. I would prefer to believe, however, that the March 18 article deviated from the staff members' actual utterances.

I am certain that as conscientious citizens, committee members should seek out the facts and truths that affect SCFPA and its operations, and would not be apprised of the following:

Reported allegation: The LMU services were authorized and proposed by LHMU. Heretofore, we were promulgated and proposed by the PSC Staff and not LHMU in response to the PSC report and proposed rates. LHMU has formally taken a deferring position to the findings of that unbiased team of competent professionals.

Reported allegation: The new rates would discourage any SCFPA progress, with needs of 125,000 gpd or more, from seriously considering SCFPA facilities.

Fact: All the new rate would not be given to that cited example. Before utility rates are changed, addressed by a SCFPA project, they would already have been aware that the DER permitted capacity has and will continue to preclude consideration of a user with even 25 percent of the stated needs. Both the same capacity restrictions by DER and the proposed rates will also be imposed upon 144 Industrial Park customers.

Reported allegation: The PSC will subsequently be reviewing the records of the customers and LHMU following the March 3 hearing but before the decision by the PSC board.

Fact: The PSC has already poured over the LMU records prior to the March 3 hearing regarding the rate change. Out of 5 of LMU 34 customers, only one is proposing the same objectives. PSC will again re-view LMU records as well as reviewing those of LMU customers.

Reported allegation: Dr. Harkin's needs are could inhibit SCFPA growth.

Fact: All that's going on is a matter of the professional entity that "promulgated" the proposed rates. If the growing awareness that SCFPA is at risk to crippling its operations, if you are interested in the future of the Americas land the Florida Coast, contact Santa Maria, we wish you would (health) and (wealth) and the time is your own!

Bankrupts should Be Absolute Last Resort

Q. I am 68 years old and for reasons beyond my control I have debts that I simply cannot pay. I have read that many people are able to get their debts resolved by filing for bankruptcy. Does this sound like a good idea?

Growing Older
R.S.P.
Claude Pepper

A bankruptcy should be a last resort because of its effect on your ability to obtain credit in the future. There are alternatives that might work for you.

Many cities have non-profit consumer credit counseling centers which are sponsored by the National Foundation for Consumer Credit Counseling. I understand that these centers, by mutual agreement with creditors in a given area, help people restructure their debts to such a way as to make payment possible and bankruptcy unnecessary. You might wish to leave one of these centers to your area.

Should that not prove helpful, you should consult a qualified bankruptcy attorney who can advise you as to available alternatives.

There are various forms of bankruptcy. Some require that a portion of the debt be repaid; others discharge all debt. A professional counselor can advise you on the best alternative.

which of these procedures best suits your needs.

Older people should be particularly careful in assessing bankruptcy alternatives. While bankruptcy laws generally make some exemption for equity in a home, the level of this exemption may not reflect the fact that older people generally have more equity than younger people.

While bankruptcy serves a useful purpose, it is not the best solution for everyone and certainly should not be used capriciously.

Q. I am a senior in college and expect to go on for a graduate degree. I have read about your work on behalf of the aging, and I think it's great. Will you be doing anything about young people? Benefits being paid to retired people are costing fantastic amounts, and this is only 1983. What will I be looking forward to when I retire?

A. We hear this question a good deal. And you are correct that deferring the issue will cost the costs of Social Security and Medicare soaring. Moreover, we are now observing a significant increase in longevity, so there are more people getting benefits. However, older people want to remain active in the work force and not be forced to retire just because they have reached a certain age. These people should be allowed to continue to be productive and to pay taxes, thereby contributing to finance present and future social programs.

That is why we must abolish the mandatory retirement age of 70 and increase work opportunities for those who are ready to go on Social Security. For those who are on Social Security, and for those who will be during the next 75 years — as far into the future as we can see — Congress is completing action on a package that will make our social security system sound and solvent. Rest assured. You can look forward to getting the benefits you deserve when you retire.

REP. CLAUDE PEPPER, U.S. House Select Committee on Aging

TIGHTENING THE SCREWS

As the Federal Reserve Board tightens the screws on credit, the banking industry is expected to face a new round of consolidation. Some banks are expected to merge, while others are expected to be sold or liquidated.

The Federal Reserve Board has raised the reserve requirements for banks, which will force them to hold more cash or government securities. This will reduce the amount of money available for lending.

The banking industry is expected to face a new round of consolidation. Some banks are expected to merge, while others are expected to be sold or liquidated.

Worldwide Drug Trade

LONDON (UPI) — The narcotics trade, an epidemic in the United States for years, has gained a foothold in the European drug network of terrorism, gun-running and high-level financial racketeering investigators say.

Britain, which once peddled opium to China as an instrument of state policy, has become a center of an international drug trade. In Paris, an enormous market for heroin.

It had only 62 registered heroin addicts in 1968. Last year, the Home Office reported more than 4,000 addicts seeking treatment by 25 percent in one year.

But the tip of the iceberg. The Department of Health and Social Security estimates there are at least 20,000 heroin addicts in Britain and at least as many in other European countries.

In West Germany, where 383 mostly young people died of drug overdoses last year, Interior Minister Friedrich Zimmermann said Berlin was "overrun by narcotics."

also is the second most serious cause of death in young people after traffic accidents.

What the United Nations calls "an ironic twist" is the situation in the Arctic arctic circle area for manufacturing heroin countries to be exported from Europe to producer countries.

Cocaine "smuggling" also is becoming increasingly popular in Western Europe. The U.S. International Narcotics Control Board in Vienna, Austria, said cocaine is having a "serious adverse impact on countries' economic, social and political fabric."

"In social and economic terms, the impact of the drug trade is staggering, particularly when taking into account the crime and violence which emerge in its wake, and its erosive impact on the social fabric of the community."

Well-publicized drug hauls by police and customs can give only a hint of the far larger amounts believed to be escaping detection.

An Austrian customs officer in June last year seized a ton of heroin, 64 tons of marijuana and nearly 700 pounds of cocaine. The Interpol spokesman said traffickers are breaking up consignments into smaller and diversifying their routes, making the task of detection agencies more difficult.

In the United States, the Drug Enforcement Administration estimates that narcotics trade in 1980 amounted to $90 billion. It believes 450,000 Americans are dependent on heroin. A 24 million use heroin a year, 12 million use marijuana and 12 million use cocaine.

Unaccounted millions more to be used more dependent on tranquilizers and sedatives.

The weary business behind the drug traffic and the large amounts of heroin addicts has spawned crime and corruption on a global scale.

South American nations depend on it. Smoother frontiers for crimenal organizations launder unprofitable profits. The Mafia, helped by left wing terrorists, defies the law and pours deadly heroin into the United States and Western Europe from clandestine laboratories in Sicily.

The United Nations, in a recent report, said that the drug trade continues to deteriorate in most parts of the world. It said, "The number, variety and potency of drugs illicitly used are growing. Black production is expanding and trafficking thrives."

President Reagan has set up 12 regional task forces to fight narcotics trafficking and abuse, in addition to the force established in 1979 to deal with the $12 billion-a-year drug trade in that field.

As a result, European governments are braced for an increase of trafficking. In case drug operations should be shifted to Europe from the United States.

The Mafia is reported to be heavily involved in the drug trafficking that stretches from the poppy fields of southwest Asia through the drug smuggling airports of New York, London and Miami.

Investigators say the optimum is turned into morphine in pharmaceutical laboratories in the Middle East. The drug is smuggled to Italy where it is further refined into high-grade heroin.

U.S. and Italian police say between 2 and 4 tons of heroin a year are smuggled into the United States from Italy — more than half the total amount believed to be reaching U.S. shores.

"Tall the public relations department not to worry... this time, we're recalling WORKERS, not cars..."

A Grandson For Papa Doc

By Dicky Belmont
PORT-ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—The vibrant and gassy Italian people have plenty to talk about these days. There is now an heir to the Duvalier dynasty—a grandson for the late "Papa Doc."

Waga like to call the first child for President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier the product of 18 months' pregnancy of the new heir.

That's a reference to several miscarriages mother Michelle is reported to have suffered before successfully giving birth Jan. 31.

Mr. Duvalier, who is proud of her slim good looks and dislikes public talk about her private affairs, never confirmed her miscarriages.

She never even formally announced her pregnancy. But anyone who saw the weekly security pictures published in local newspapers could keep track of her pregnancy of the new heir.

Mrs. Duvalier stayed out of original pictures published of the baby boy and father, diplomats said, until she could shore her extra post-natal pains.

The new baby, who shares the palace with two half-brothers from Michelle's first marriage, has been saddled with the lengthy title of Francois Nicolas Jean-Claude II Duvalier.

Officials insist the misnamed "II" be used in all public mentions of the new heir.

This leads Duvalier-watchers to speculate the president has changed his mind about telling reporters before his marriage two years ago that he hoped none of his children would hold the Haitian presidency.

He told the Duvalier family for 25 years now.

Francois was the "Davy" father, "Papa Doc" the proud father. In 1971, and Jean-Claude is the second son's name. But the only Nicolas Haitians can think of is the first Emperor Russian czar, whose name takes no "II" in French.

Songwriters and punsters have had a field day with the baby's name and need not be told that the "na-na" bands that parade city streets chanted a dilly saying that wanted "nicole in seven up," which loosely translated means "teacher Celsa our Seven-Up."

Diplomatic sources and local observers wonder what chance baby Duvalier has of inheriting the white national palace, given the proliferation of plots against his 31-year-old father.

The Miami-based Hector Baber exile group slips agents in and out of the country with relative ease and is suspected of planting at least five bombs in the capital city in 1982, including one that killed three people near the presidential palace on New Year's morning.

"I wouldn't laugh at them" said one well-informed diplomat. "I'd add that while the exiles "may be amateurs, they may get outside help."

The inception of the government's security apparatus against a small cadre group is not just on any homogeneous plotters who may have their own plans for insurgency, the diplomat said.

Those who regularly shake up his cabinet, to prevent ministers from becoming too powerful, has placed the name of at least two former right-hand men on a blacklist here at the International Airport to prevent them from leaving the country without official permission, the diplomat said.

The two men — Edouard Bernassut, former minister of interior and national defense, and Henri Bayard, former minister of the presidency — apparently were considered too ambitious by Duvalier, the sources said.

New Technique Offers Hope To Tumor Victims

By Charles Taylor
ATLANTA (UPI)—Last month Kenneth Miller had a golf ball-size tumor, its diameter six inches. But a growing double vision, stiffness and pain, but a neurologist refused to operate.

Today, the 68-year-old Wiermer, Fla., carpenter is free of symptoms and on his feet. He received a benefit of a comparatively new medical technique called embolization.

With new refinements, embolization now offers hope to thousands of people with vascular tumors, according to Dr. Ira Braun P. Braun, a neurosurgeon at Emory University Hospital.

Embolization involves the insertion of a small catheter into the femoral artery and the guide to reach the tumor. The flexible tube is worked up through the vessels leading to the tumor. When the catheter reaches the tumor, thousands of small particles or emboli — polyvinyl alcohol foam — are released, stopping the flow of blood to the tumor.

With the supply of blood cut off, Miller's tumor began to shrink almost immediately, said Braun. The 49-hour procedure was done on a Tuesday and except for some minor neck pain, Miller was up and around and "feeling great" the next day.

"My head feels its normal size," Miller said. "I have no balance problem and my high-blood pressure is gone. Embolization is not without risk, especially in the head and neck, according to Braun. Misdirected emboli can cause blindness, stroke or death. That's why the technique is preceded by angiograms. A study of the blood vessels at the tumor site to make sure the blood supply to the tumor area is the correct area when the emboli is released.

Embolization is effective only to make sure tumors are benign and malignant. Braun said.

Miller's tumor was a meningioma, said his physician, who was hired in 1976. He had influenza at that time and was ill for three weeks. When he recovered he had lost hearing in his right ear.

About 18 months ago, Miller began experiencing frightening symptoms.

"I had constant dizziness, constant pressure and pain in the back of my head, loss of balance," said Miller.

He went to a chiropractor, a neurologist and a neurosurgeon before the problem was finally diagnosed in February, 1982. But the neurosurgeon declined to operate because Miller, a Seventh Day Adventist, could not accept blood transfusions.

"A couple of weeks ago, a friend saw Dr. Braun explain the procedure on cable television," said Miller. "I called Dr. Braun, he got information and my X-rays from Hollywood (Fla.) Memorial Hospital."

Miller checked into Emory Hospital on March 13th and three days later was ready to go home.

The tumor that caused Miller's "dumb" loss and the angiogram, said Braun, and it probably will not return. But if it does, another embolization can be done.

Braun has performed embolizations on many other patients and says, "The ones I've done have all improved." He said there are thousands of tumor sufferers who would be candidates for the procedure.

"A lot of physicians don't know about it," Braun said, explaining that an embolization is not the kind of procedure that causes a tumor to "dumb" a hospital.

"Embolization will become more important in medical research, according to Braun, because "it's a better technique now."

"We have better catheters, better embolic materials. It has evolved into a procedure that is a lot more useful than when it was first done," he said.

Post-Tito Yugoslavia: A Long Way From Belgrade To Warsaw

By Ruth Gruber
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — "This is the solution of local agriculture" a Belgrade woman asked a visiting friend, pointing on the latest copy of Yugoslav black market. "Answer?" "A polo who flees to Yugoslavia."

Three years after the death of its longtime leader, President Josip Broz Tito, Yugoslavia is in the grip of one of its most serious political crises — a combination of deep economic and social ills and the political opposition is rumbling.

But Yugoslavia is still a shippers paradise compared to Poland and despite some surface similarities, it is still a long way from Belgrade to Warsaw.

For the most part Yugoslavia rears the compact.

"Our situation is not similar to the situation in Poland," Deputy Prime Minister Borislav Bredine said in an interview.

The fact that our two countries have certain similar problems does not mean that there are the same causes.

"Poland's problems are Poland's problems. Ours are our own."

Poland, a member of the Warsaw Pact, is run on the classical Communist system, with one male seat of central authority. The population of 36 million is virtually all ethnic Poles, with 80 and 90 percent are devout Roman Catholics.

Yugoslavia, while a Communist country, is not part of the Soviet Bloc and is highly decentralized both politically and economically. Its 22 million people break down into a host of ethnic minorities.

The country is divided into a federation of six ethnically structured provinces and two provinces, each with its own government.

"The economic system is based on 'socialist' self-management" by which individual factories are not made to make their own policy.

"In Poland, they found out that the government was responsible for poor western development," he said.

Said a Western diplomat, "In Yugoslavia it may be like that. Fuga carism: I've seen the enemy and he is he is."

Regional rivalries are strong and ethnic politics differ.

A play recently was banned as "nationalistic" in Yugoslavia province. It went on to play to packed houses in Belgrade and was given an award in the northwest republic of Slovenia.

"It's much more complicated here than in Poland," said Milovan Djilas, the former Yugoslav Vice President who became a dissident and spent nine years in jail for his views.

"There is no Solidarity and no Catholic church," he said — meaning no unifying opposition force that would create a mass alternative to the Communists.

Said a Yugoslav journalist, only half-joking, "If something does happen here, it will be like the British, not like in Poland."

Still, subtleties are worried that the economic straits may lead to political unrest as they implement a tough austerity program that foresees a sharp drop in public consumption and in living standards.

Partly on the basis of the program, the United States has coordinated an economic aid package via the International Monetary Fund to help Yugoslavia with its debt payments.

Miga Alibabic, current head of the Communist party's 24-member National collective presidency, warned last fall: "In one recent incident, shoppers in the southern city of Titograd rioted after growing frustrated standing in line for detergent, which was put on sale for the first time in a month."

Most observers say the Titograd trouble grows from mistakes on the part of the local authorities who made a number of blunders in serving customers, either preventing shopping hysteria by advertising the detergent would go on sale at one certain hour.

Benefits For Millions In Benefits

American workers in 1981 "earned" almost half a trillion dollars extra above their regular salaries and wages. According to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, workers received employee benefits worth $485 billion or more than three times their level of a decade ago.

The estimate is based on the Chamber's yearly survey of benefits paid by private employers and is reported in the Department of Commerce's report on "Employee Benefits in 1981," which amounted to almost $1.1 trillion, including pay of all government workers.

According to the Chamber's Survey Research Center, which compiled "Employee Benefits in 1981," the annual survey of private employers showed they spent an average of $6,027 per employee on benefits last year, or 37.3 percent of payroll, a record high for the 36-page publication of data, tables and charts which provides a definitive report and latest trends and developments on employee benefits. The Chamber began making the surveys 34 years ago on a biennial basis and now makes them annually.

The 1981 study covers information from 1964 representing companies whose benefit payments ranged from less than 16 percent to as high as 69 percent of payroll and cost from under $3,000 to more than $11,000 a year per employee.

Richard W. Rahn, vice president and chief economist for the Chamber, emphasized the yearly growth in employee benefits has two major consequences: It enhances workers' security and well-being and it increases the employer cost of doing business.

Payments for vacations, holidays, sick periods and other time off, according to Dr. Rahn, now constitute almost 40 percent of the cost of benefits, up from 37.37 in the case of the average yearly benefits package.

Over the years benefits have grown dramatically. Ten years ago, for example, they averaged $8,254 per year per employee. They rose sharply up until 1975, according to Chamber records, and since then the yearly growth in benefits has slowed to an average of 3.5 percent.

Where benefits will stop, of course, nobody knows. So far, at least, it appears that neither employers nor employees believe they have had too much of a good thing.

James Walker, a retired government economist, has a complaint not likely to get much attention in the vast federal bureaucracy in the Nation's Capital. His federal pension, Walker says, keeps "compounding" his cost-of-living increases until today it amounts to $2,400 a month, or about $28,000 a year — "more than 11 percent more than I deserve and half of a lot more than I need."

Walker, according to an article in the Washington Post, has written to budget chief David A. Stockman requesting that a temporary freeze be placed on further cost-of-living increases in federal retirement pensions, including his own.

When he retired in 1967, he was earning $17,000 a year as an economist for the Department of Labor. Walker's pension grew in comounded fashion because of numerous cost-of-living adjustments received by federal retirees. Until 1976, the government made cost-of-living adjustments twice a year and sometimes almost every three months.

Thanks to circuit of overly generous federal pay policies, chiefly the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, these cost-of-living adjustments now are made only once a year, at a savings of millions of dollars to taxpayers.

About 1.4 million government workers enjoy a retirement bonus shared by only a few retired workers from private industry. According to a survey by the U.S. Department of Labor, only 3 percent of workers in private industry are indexed to the Consumer Price Index (CPI). And of these few, most place a cap or limit of 3 percent on cost-of-living increases. There are no such limits on federal indexing.

Still taxpayers such as Ted to believe that federal pay policies lag behind those in the private sector. The studies on which those claims are based do not even take into account forms of compensation such as bonuses.

In defending federal pay policies, a spokesman for a union representing government workers contended most federal retirees are not as highly rewarded in retirement as Walker. The average pension, he said, is about $11,000 a year.

"It's just not typical," the spokesman said, speaking of Walker.

"This may well be the understatement of the year. How often do you find a federal worker asking for a reduction in their government checks?"

Orlando Area Employers See Good Jobs Outlook

Employers in the Orlando area predict a rise in hiring activity for the next three months according to the quarterly Employment Outlook Survey conducted by Manpower, Inc., the nation's largest temporary service firm.

Gay Hopkins, manager of Manpower's Orlando office, said that 60 percent of the area's employers polled plan to increase hiring in the second quarter of 1983 (April, May, June), up slightly from 57 percent in the first quarter.

Manpower's Orlando office reported that 70 percent of area employers expect to hire more workers in the second quarter of 1983, up from 67 percent in the first quarter.

Overall, the 21 percent of employers planning to hire more workers in the second quarter of 1983, up from 18 percent in the first quarter, is the highest level since the recession in 1981.

LA High, Detroit Low In Drive Cost Survey

DETROIT (UPI) — Los Angeles drivers again paid the most in 1982 to operate their autos while costs for Detroit motorists were again the lowest among 20 major cities in a new survey.

The annual study by the nation's largest lending-oriented agency found the cost of driving a new car in Los Angeles averaged $8.82 for a compact with air conditioning, automatic transmission and power steering and brakes.

The 20-city survey averaged 47.21 cents per mile for the car, but Detroit's 46.12 cents per mile was the lowest.

However, Hertz said the study confirms a sharp decline in new passenger car ownership and operating cost increases that had been in the double-digit range.

"It is a surprise to see purchases hold steady and if car loan interest rates and gasoline prices continue to fall, 1983 could beat American motorists' best decline in auto operating costs since 1964," Hertz said.

The agency in January released a study showing that overall, nationwide, the average driving cost is $18.15 a mile.

44.67 cents per mile, Hertz said expenses in major cities normally are higher than in smaller cities. Los Angeles was higher because of higher insurance, tax and labor rates.

Hertz conducted the 20-city study based on a 1983 car purchased new and driven for five years. Purchase prices in the 20 cities averaged $8,825 for a compact with air conditioning, automatic transmission and power steering and brakes.

The 20-city survey averaged 47.21 cents per mile breaks down to depreciation of 13.3 cents, insurance and license costs of 11.67 cents, maintenance and repairs of 2.84 cents and gasoline of 8.92 cents.

Joining Los Angeles in the 50 cents plus per mile category were New York at 56.03 cents, San Francisco at $43.33 cents and Miami at $40.64 cents. While the 50 cents plus per mile category was Detroit at 46.12 cents, it recorded the largest increase for the year, 5.33 percent.

Major improvements are also visible in the finance, insurance and real estate sectors. The highest level since the recession in 1981, 19 percent had planned staff reductions in the first quarter of 1982. 10 percent had planned staff increases in the second quarter. Companies that will decrease employment in the year's 13 percent this year, the highest level since the recession in 1981.

Also, 60 percent plan no changes for the next three months and 2 percent expect to increase their staffs. The major area of improvement in job opportunities is expected to occur in those sectors which were hardest hit during the recession — construction, food and manufacturing of durable goods. Jobseekers in the troubled Midwest are likely to find a much brighter job outlook in survey figures the best reported for that region of the country during the past three years.

Rainesaving Fan, Ready For Expos

By Chris Porter
Herald Sports Writer

WEST PALM BEACH—Catcher Gary Carter is about to be traded to the Montreal Expos and will be the team's MVP, and Carter, his teammates and manager Bill D'Armentano feel that the Expos' time has come. Expectations are high for the Montreal Expos. Raines has kicked the longball habit.

Wednesday's Spring Training game with the Philadelphia Phillies and Thursday's matchup with the Cincinnati Reds.

St. Louis Cardinal, Raines was 3-8 with three stolen bases and the former St. Louis High star is ready to be the team's MVP. "I've had a lot in a seasonal rookie season, Andy, he is as content as he ever was," says manager Davey Johnson. "I don't think there's a better player out there." Raines said he for the Expos 61 victory over Philadelphia Wednesday on a low point, and it will help me out as far as being strong enough to go through the season."

Raines had one hit in three at-bats in the season's first game.

with one stolen base against the Phillies and went 1 for 2 with a pair of thefts Thursday against the World Championship Cardinals. His stolen base total for the Spring is now 11. The Expos are 12-17 in the exhibition season.

"I think we are the team of the 80's," I mean sure—WR74's good mixture of youth and experience and shouldn't be making any more changes for a while. The team is the most consistent with win. St. Louis never had more than three games in a row last year."

Raines said the Expos have just about everything it takes to win the National League East Division and it should go down to the wire. "The only thing we really need now is to win more regular seasons," Raines said. "We have good starters and late inning relievers, but we're looking for some good middle relievers in Spring Training."

The key for Raines, the Expos' lineup, hitting and the National League's top base stealer the past two seasons is to get on base as his hard hitting teammates do their thing. "I need to be consistent at the plate and have a good on-base percentage," Raines said. "When somebody fast gets on the base, you can make pitchers make mistakes and hit easier for himself. And, with guys like Gary Carter and Al Oliver hitting behind me, I need to be on base."

RAINES RAP — The Expos will be playing the Los Angeles Dodgers at Vero Beach on Sunday but Raines will not play. Raines and a Montreal split squad travel to New Orleans Wednesday for a game with the New York Yankees at the Superdome. The wife, Virginia, is awaiting the Raines' second child in July.

Little Majors Open On Monday, Organize C's For Cooperation

The Sanford Little Major Baseball League will open the season as planned Monday, according to Recreation Director James H. Jernigan.

Because of enforcement of the 80 percent rule, some players will feel the season may be in jeopardy because players were being disallowed from being out by having to pay the fee in advance.

Jernigan said the league will have the rosters will contain at least 12 players for the 14-team league and 10 for the 12-team league. A veteran of 22 years with the recreation department, Jernigan was not worried when the season was cancelled and he experienced little in the turmoil at various times always been," said Jernigan. "We had an exceptionally high turnout last year, but that was unusual. I don't think we'll have any trouble getting 15 players on a team. They will trickle in during the next two weeks."

Jernigan said during the season there has been a relaxation of the fee collection for the past week and a half. "We're never going to turn anybody away from a game. We do hope to collect the money by the first week of the season, but we know that may be unrealistic."

Player "Slick" Franklin Jr., 17, of the defending city champion Puyeffa Jr.'s, said he was upset with the league's decision. "I'm not going to have a draft," Franklin said. "The recreation department is not assigning players. How can they do that?"

Jernigan said the players will be assigned to teams for a competitive balance and that it is done this way every year.

The Little Major League (10, 11, and 12 years old) is made up of two divisions. There will be three teams in Orlando through Friday at 5 p.m. at Park Mobile Park, Westside Field and Bay Avenue Field. Jernigan said games will be played on Friday and Saturday. Tuesday night games will be played at the Park Mobile Park.

Comprising the American League teams and coaches are Summerville (Franklin), Buell's Chevrons (Bill Harkness), Seminole Petroleum

Baseball

(Dorothy Bloodgood, DAVI) Johnny Williams, Adcock Roofing Inc., and the Florida Industrial Industries (Jim Clayton).

There are six teams in the Junior League (12-14 years old). The teams and their coaches are: Elks Club; Kwana (The Coastal, RKO, Kogan, J.H. Moore, Bill Duke); Knights of Columbus (Alvin Williams); and the Little League Bayside Motor Line is a new team.

Sanford's third league — the Pee-wees — will hold tryouts on April 12 and open play sometime in May, according to Jernigan. The Pee-wees are eight and nine years old.

Despite the consternation felt by some coaches, Jernigan said he feels the league will have a productive year. He did stress, however, that the cooperation of the coaches will be important.

"I think if we get the cooperation of the coaches we'll have a good year," said Jernigan. "It depends on the attitude of the coaches. If we have a good attitude, the recreation department will be happy to help us. We hope the coaches do too."

Raiders Finally Erupt For Luckless Francis Thigpen, Holzworth Rip Rhode Island, 18-1

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Sanford Community College hurler Pete Francis carried a stingy 18-1 record over the course of Friday's game with Rhode Island College. When a pitcher insists the opposition is such a superior scoring place is usually readily and enthusiastically in cooperation is just getting started.

Along with Francis' record ERA, however, the sophomore left-hander also carried a 0.33 record. "He's been great absolutely no support," said SCC Manager Jack Passaic. "Before Francis could miss one more pitch, he was out of the game. The Raiders erupted for 15 hits to hand the overpriced Francis a much-needed 18-1 victory over overmatched Rhode Island."

Francis was so prepped at Stronungstad High in Spring Hill, was excellent, per usual. He gave up just repped four hits and drove in three. Tom Veazy singled in one run in a 1-0 victory, hitting and lined another out with a fielder's choice.

The Raiders, 14-13 and 4-2, jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first inning as shortstop Mike Sims singled, moved up on a sacrifice by Joe Pastucci and scored when Thigpen reached on an error. Steve Page followed with a double to score both runners.

Thigpen's three-run blast kept the six-run explosion in the fourth. SCC picked up two more in the fifth and one in the sixth. The seventh eighth featured homers by Thigpen and Holzworth, both live-drive errors, the left-field fence, which sent the Rhode Island boys packing.

The Raiders' second four-run inning was capped by a pair of home runs by their 15 hits. SCC played Central Florida Saturday at home before taking in Valencia in Orlando on Tuesday. Game time is 5 p.m.

Seminole Takes 4th Straight Perkins' Homer Lifts Lyman

DAYTONA BEACH — A little luck, a clutch hit and what is getting to be a usual outing for right-hander Greg Hill helped Sanford's Seminole to a 3-1 victory over Seabreeze here Friday night in eight innings.

Pee Wee's 200-200 single in the second inning set the tone for the 1-1 deadlock before Terry Huron's square-bunt single chased Seabreeze's pitcher, and in another inning, Hill, again, struck in another square-bunt performance. Hill's lead-off homer allowed just four hits and striking out 12 to raise his season total to 15 in the five Star Conference encounter.

The victory pulled the Seminole over the year six record in the conference. The victory was the fourth straight for Sanford. The next three were 7-0, 4-0 and 1-0, the ninth makeup game at Longwood Tuesday night. The lead is now 11-3 with a 7-3 record, the same as Deland. Lyman topped 64 Lake Huron 4-3 Friday night.

"We're still in the picture," pointed out Seminole manager Bobby Lyman. "Hill's night was a clutch catcher good game. Come to think of it, I think I pitched a bad game in a long time."

Hill, a 6-5 220-pounder, went 2-0 in the first game and came out with a victory. Seabreeze scored in the first inning on a home run by Lyman and stole second, then came home on a base hit by David Wesley, who had a home run in the first and four runs and two hits and three stolen bases. after the single. "I've done had another great game," said Lyman. "I've earned his thumb in the second inning. I've pitched a great game and he's got it out and caught a ball of a game."

On the other hand, the Seminole until the seventh, although Seabreeze had runners in the first, second and third. Third catcher Tony Cox drew a sac bunt and Seabreeze was replaced by pinch-runner James Huron. Seabreeze sacrificed his year six record in the conference. The victory was the fourth straight for Sanford. The next three were 7-0, 4-0 and 1-0, the ninth makeup game at Longwood Tuesday night. The lead is now 11-3 with a 7-3 record, the same as Deland. Georgia, better known for running back than power forwards, rocked the NCAA Tournament Friday night with a 70-67 victory over St. John's in the semifinals and the Midwest Regional.

St. John's, which had a 10-0 run, threw by Chris Mullis with five minutes left. He shot 6-7 and set up an 11-0 run that ended with a foul by Fair at the buzzer.

For Georgia, 23-9, Fair, a 6-foot-7 center, was backed by Lamar Howard at the point and Tom Fleming with 10. Mullis had 10 points for St. John's, which closed its successful season with a 70-67 victory over North Carolina.

Meyer, DePaul Just 2 Steps Away

By United Press International
DePaul coach Jay Meyer, 60, whose only National Invitation Tournament title came 26 years ago, is two steps away from another championship. Two large steps.

Meyer said he would have the chance to go on to New York, but he's going to have to play a bit better if he are to beat Nebraska. DePaul's lead over the Blue Demons was magnified by an error on the part of the Blue Demons. DePaul owned a 44-43 lead when the Blue Demons outscored Ole Miss 12-3 to take a 96-45 lead with 10:47 remaining. The Blue Demons scratched the lead to 15 points before the Rebels staged a mid-swing comeback.

DePaul, which led by as much as 11 in the first half, saw the Rebels tie the game at 25 in the opening three minutes of the second half. DePaul owned a 44-43 lead when the Blue Demons outscored Ole Miss 12-3 to take a 96-45 lead with 10:47 remaining.

half as the Rebels closed the gap to 21-20 at halftime.

But DePaul's follow-up negated the scoring output midway through the second half and the Blue Demons' own defense kept Ole Miss from scoring regularly inside.

Mississippi coach Lee Hart agreed the press helped turn the game around. He acted his starting center, Roger Stutz, had gone out with his fourth foul and his team trailing by five.

"Roger's my only center, and we had a center showing it to send him away two straight times," Hart said. "We've been ping-pong'd between all year and DePaul put a lot of pressure on us."

Nebraska, Wake Forest and Fresno State gained semifinal berths Thursday night.

Nebraska topped TCU 67-47 after a rebound court at 14:03 at the start of the second half. The Cornhuskers took a 12-2 lead in the first five minutes and never let the Horned Frogs get within seven.

Phillies Have Big Numbers For Hurlers

By United Press International
The Philadelphia Phillies, a team in search of its healthy starter last season, have the numbers on their side this year.

They have 18 pitchers on their spring training roster, including 11 healthy veterans plus a couple of promising minor leaguers. But when the Phillies begin their season in early April, they probably will be able to take no more than 10.

Miami-Honors Jailed

Anti-Castro Exile

MIAMI (UPI) — City officials here today held a "Orlando Boech Day" in honor of the Cuban exile who has been in a Venezuelan jail for seven months awaiting trial in the bombing of a Cuban jetliner.

The Cuban-born physician is charged with the explosion aboard an airplane in 1976 in which 73 people were killed. Cubans in Miami have been demonstrating in protest of the government there for a disposition of the case.

Boech began a hunger strike last week to protest the "harsh" conditions in which he also began fasting in protest, and eventually, after vital Friday during "Orlando-Boech Day."

There is a feeling in the Cuban community of complete support for Boech's cause and the city should be sensitive to that feeling," said Commissioner Donato Perce, who introduced the resolution to honor Boech.

Boech's wife was reported by telephone Thursday that her husband's case has been transferred from a military court to a civilian court.

Many Honored; McCollum Basts Bill

By Donna Bates
Herald Staff Writer
U.S. Rep. McCollum, R-Alabama Springs, today introduced legislation passed by the U.S. House of Representatives the "one piece of legislation to come down the road in many years" he had remarked before the membership of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce at its annual awards banquet Friday night.

"The House voted strong for a five-year budget that doesn't just reduce military spending, but also for a tax increase per person of 75 cents," he said. "Two-thirds of the revenue does not go to reducing the deficit, nor $181 billion will go for more social spending."

Called to speak on behalf of the chamber, McCollum said the federal government needs to be reformed in order that its best representation of the people comes from the local level. He said local government and the community must work together to help bring about this type of cooperation and for becoming large and developing.

"The efforts you put forth make the community what it is," he said in representing those in the community.

McCollum, completing his year's service to the chamber as chairman of the board of directors,

Mrs. John S. Krider, right, widow of the man for whom the topper award was named, congratulates this year's recipients, Martha and Ned Yancey, and hands Mrs. Yancey a red carnation corsage. The late John Krider was executive manager of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce for 10 years. The Yanceys received the 12th annual award Friday night.

Opera Star She Likes Roots And Real People

By Lou Drew
Special to the Herald

For many of us, opera brings to mind plump women in gowns five sizes too small and the recitatives too old, screaming words we cannot understand in a story we do not care for.

And for too few of us, opera is a whole composition of many art forms, created and performed by the talented few who devote their lives to the music, the lyrics, the costumes, the scenery, the lighting and every facet of a production where the heart's emotions are splattered on stage—where people do not merely be drawn and die, they stand up and scream while their nerve selves are feeling before the most tragic moment of their music-before lives.

Sanford now has one of these devoted opera singers, Rose Wildes' figure is far from plump, "I her robust soprano, singing like a bird, but I am not like a good many famous human performers, she stresses the importance of her "virtuosities."

"I'm a person just like anyone else. I'm not a professional. I'm normal," insists Mrs. Wildes.

But it is not the average 40-year-old wife and mother who has performed with the New York City Opera, the Metropolitan Opera Studio, the Orlando Opera Company and a host of opera groups up and down the East Coast, in addition to recitals and concerts as far West as Oklahoma and California.

To look at this renowned soprano who sang such roles as Zerlina in Mozart's "Don Giovanni" and Sophie in Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier," not to mention Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado" and "H.M.S. Pinafore," one would rarely guess her achievements. She loves to fish, but she wears flannel shirts.

And it is not rare to have those who come in contact with express their distaste when Mrs. Wildes sits at her piano, rises her shoulders, breathes a cloud of air and emits a sound so cadaverous you find yourself looking at the windows, waiting for the glass to shatter.

The glass does not break, as she tells her oftentimes flustered and sixth grade auditors, "That I do break, quite a few glasses washing dishes in the kitchen sink."

In addition to her regular operas, concerts and recitals, Mrs. Wildes visits area schools, introducing the children there to the art she has chosen as a career.

"I think when I come to fit the schools, the teachers and principals don't really know how the kids are going to react," said Mrs. Wildes. "But they come enjoy it, and they enjoy it."

These school performances looked through the Orlando Opera Company are what she refers to as "a one-woman show." They are teaching experiences for the opera singer, who admits, "It takes everything out of me." Mrs. Wildes, a perfectionist at heart, must prepare for the 90 minutes of concert, changing costumes, singing, teaching and entertaining the youngsters. "I tell them a little about opera and explain how aria (soprano solo) fits into the opera. She continued, "The whole idea is to prepare these young people for opera, so they get some of the joys and joys associated with opera."

One of the most widespread myths concerning the drama set to music is the stereotyped appearance of the performers. "There's more to opera than big fat people screaming at an audience," said the Jacksonville native.

And there's more to becoming an opera singer and star than stepping up on a stage for the few hours the show is performed.

"The job doesn't start and end on stage," said the vivacious Mrs. Wildes. "There's a lot in it."

Her musical mind has to get started sometimes months in advance for a one-evening performance.

"For example," said Mrs. Wildes, "I'll be doing a one-night concert in April. Already, my recitatives and arias are cut to April 4." The Palm Beach performance has required an in-depth study of some Emily Dickinson poems. "You have to know what I mean before you can sing it," said Mrs. Wildes.

Following that vital understanding is pure concentration on the part of the soprano. "On day before a performance, my mind is concentrating on it. I want to know down to a tee what I'm going to do—no surprises," she explained.

The mother of what she described a 16-year-old "accomplished flutist" said she would still high school youngsters contemplating a career in the opera that it takes "a burning desire." In addition to knowing Italian, German and French, Mrs. Wildes stresses, "You have to want it more than anything in the world."

This newcomer to the Sanford community considers herself therefore fortunate to have had both family and the opera. "It's a self-centered sport. And it's hard to have a family."

She married her husband, Wayne, "right after college." She obtained her bachelor's degree in Voice from Florida State University, Shalby thereafter in 1966, the young couple had their daughter, Johanna. "In '67, we moved to New York," explained Mrs. Wildes. "I was going to find fame and fortune," she said with a smile. "I wouldn't say I get either one."

Yet, she sang solos for the New York City Opera. "And I did cover one role at the Met."

She worked for four years with the Metropolitan Opera Studio. "It was a company of young performers representing the Met and the schools. So it was as well to high school to do pretty much what I'm doing in the schools now."

Mrs. Wildes admits she hit in those city schools with flying paper "pins" and "pelt balls." She said frankly, "Occasionally we had to leave because we couldn't hear ourselves sing. I swear I would never teach again."

But out of the city and back to the Sanford airport countryside, Mrs. Wildes is learning to forgive the youngsters of the past as well as herself. "I think I'm probably diseased with perfectionism."

She began playing the piano at age 5½, and before making her home in the Central Florida area in 1975, the opera singer said she found it "hard to do anything other than music."

In New York, she added, "I had good roles and had roles." Still, her "disease" relapsed, and the singer had to sing her best for both. She found herself having to shift priorities, from home to the stage, a practice Mrs. Wildes says she must still perform.

"I have to change my priorities every now and then. Some days my daughter comes first, sometimes Wayne and the house. Sometimes life just forces you into decisions." A singing career in New York, she decided, was to take a backseat to the family.

"I left because Wayne couldn't stand New York anymore," said Mrs. Wildes. "Now I would never go back unless I had that burning desire."

The burning desire for fame and fortune has been somewhat replaced, according to Mrs. Wildes, by several "waves of her life."

Although she continues to perform opera, concerts, recitals and teach local youngsters, this new Sanford resident is reaching for the high notes of that career, country living.

She and her husband moved into a historic Ohio

Friends Of 35 Years Gather For Dinner

"A faithful friend is a strong defense and he that hath found a treasure." This saying certainly holds true to a small group of long time friends who recently held a long awaited reunion.

About 35 years ago five couples lived in a small community in Long Island, N.Y. called Amityville. These friends all shared various interests, dined together, socialized together and even raised their children together. Slowly, as time went by, each one moved away, leaving nothing but good memories. But this group kept in touch via phone calls and letters. One day, someone had an idea that became a reality.

Both the Lieberson and the DeLuca are residents of the Forest, and said the reunion was wonderful. Speaking of the Liebersons, they had some other company recently. Their daughter, Rose-Marie Skuggerve, her husband, Gerald and their grandson, Carl, all came down from Babylon, N.Y. last week. The cost took in terms of Disney World, Epcot and some of the beautiful beaches.

Not to be left out, their other daughter, Barbara Matanza, husband, Richard and grandson, Adam and Bryan, from Amityville, will be arriving later in March. The Matanzas are living in the lovely oak house in Amityville next door to the Zusskis.

Unfortunately, Edith Lieber's brother became and has had major surgery. She is now recovering in the Wehr Park hospital. Get Well wishes are extended to all.

Speaking of having southern friends, our household has also been quite busy. Our stepson, Eric Warner, who is now 6 feet 9 inches, and is only a sophomore in high school, came for a week from Birmingham, Ala. After such tiring commuting and fun, he returned home, a bit tired, but unscathed and very satisfied.

My mother and father also came down from Port Washington, Long Island, N.Y. Both Bill and Lillian work for television stations in the New York area. Moon is a tax specialist for Metro-Media TV, while dad works on the set of "Quinted Light."

These vacation included the beautiful Florida sunshine, hot sun and some mighty fine dining out.

"In a sense, it's our type of family reunion because it's the only time we all can get together. My sister, Pat, her sons, Frank and Brian, live in Orlando, and we all really look forward to their visit."

Defeat and Victory

One hundred sixty-two feet high and one hundred forty-seven feet wide Napoleon built his arch of triumph. Proudly it rises above the Place de l'Escole reminding the world of an Emperor's early vicissitudes — and later defeats.
On the road from Bethpage to Jerusalem centuries before there had been another arch of triumph. Nature had fashioned it of palm trees. Beneath their bowing branches the Prince of Peace rode into the city that was to crucify Him.
Jesus, unlike Napoleon, never had need of a gigantic monument to help the world remember Him. The doors of a million sanctuaries bespeak His victory. Men pass through them not to gaze upon the majesty of carved stone, but to worship and serve the Son of God.
Napoleon sought for himself a transient glory at the price of other men's blood.
Jesus sought for all men eternal life — at the price of His Own Blood!

The children of the Lutheran Cathedral schoolbook define this as "daring or saying anything which may destroy, shorten or hamper his life."

In Thomas Hardy's novel, "The Return of the Native," Clym Yougher, brooding over Estuonia's drowning for what he feels responsible, says, "She is the second wife I have killed this year. I was a great cause of my mother's death. His marriage had caused a moral breach in their relationship and I am the cause of every loss."

Lent: Respect For Life

The Fifth Commandment: Thou shalt not kill (Exodus 20:13 and Deuteronomy 5:17). One definition of sin (and a few definitions are better) is "breaking the Ten Commandments." Did even people who accept this definition see, for the most part, inclined to press innocent to any sin against the Fifth Commandment?

"I have never killed anybody," they pretend. "Martha Luther, however, went beyond a literal interpretation of the commandments. In the case of this one, we are not only forbidden to kill. "We should fear and love God that we may not hurt our neighbor in his body, but help and defend him in every bodily need."

The commanders of the Lutheran Catechism textbook define this as "daring or saying anything which may destroy, shorten or hamper his life." In Thomas Hardy's novel, "The Return of the Native," Clym Yougher, brooding over Estuonia's drowning for what he feels responsible, says, "She is the second wife I have killed this year. I was a great cause of my mother's death. His marriage had caused a moral breach in their relationship and I am the cause of every loss."

Luther also considered the commandments to be not only prohibitions against wrongdoing. We must "love and defend" our neighbor "in every bodily need" if we want to get a passing mark on this commandment.

Hirsute Corpses Prompt Reader's Cutting Pleas

DEAR ABBY: Something has been bothering me for a long time and I hope you can do something about it.

I am up in years (72) and have had the hormonal changes which seem to bother me. When I get my respects to someone who has gone bald - especially the older ones - I get a shock when I see moustaches on the faces of women!

I do hope you publish this, Abby, so future directors will do something about it. It doesn't sound like hair, but I think it's important.

LOVE FROM
ORLEANA
 Dear Love: Please direct your letter to make the deceased appear as lifelike as possible, so a woman has no negative, therefore, to have there. (P.S. It's probably more conspicuous when they're laid out from the perspective.)

DEAR ABBY: (often see letters in your column about folks who make a habit of leaving their clothes on the floor.)

I am reminded of the young woman who was temporarily employed in our office about 50 or 60 years ago. She and her husband were newly wed and living with his parents.

One morning she came to work wearing a suit was thoroughly upset with her mother-in-law. It seems that the (i.e. daughter-in-law) returned home from work and found her clothes nailed to the floor - just where she left them!

Dear Abby

DEAR LADY: Tacky. But effective.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is causing a tremendous dilemma in my life. I live 3,000 miles from my 82-year-old mother, and we write each other several times a week. She shares my letter with her sister with whom she lives. She also sends my letters to a niece who lives in another city.

I've objected to this for years and have told her so, but she has continued to do this against my wishes. I wouldn't mind her sharing some of the news in my letters, but to simply hand them over infuriates me.

She is constantly telling me not to mention something she has told me in her letters to me. Recently we had some bitter words over her phone because of something I mentioned in one of my letters. I told her these letters were for her eyes only and I should be able to write to whomever I darn please. She said, "Write the high school newspaper!"

What is your opinion? Must I copy everything I say in my letters to my mother and defer to her in a polite way? Or am I justified in being angry that she shares my letters without my permission?

DEAR NO HONEY: Yes, you are justified in being angry, but you are not entirely blameless. Even though you should be able to write to whomever you darn please to your mother, you do know you can't if you're wise, you won't.

DEAR ABBY: When I threw my last bouquet at my wedding reception, guess who caught it? My husband's mother!

Abby, I had my bridal bouquet specially made with silk flowers in the color scheme of my wedding, intending to preserve it along with my wedding gown and veil.

Should my mother-in-law have returned the bouquet to me? She has not offered it back.

DISAPPOINTED
 Dear E A A: According to Emily Post, the bride/mother who catches the bride's bouquet keeps it, but I'm sure if your mother-in-law knew how much you wanted it, she would have given it to you.

Incidentally, traditionally the bride tosses her bouquet to her bridesmaids, and the one who catches it is supposed to be married next, so your mother-in-law really should not have been in the competition.

Best wishes married! Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple "do-you-own-thing" ceremony, Abby's new book, "Send $1 to a long, self-addressed, stamped, 17 cent envelope. In Abby's Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38922, Hollywood, Calif. 90038
