Kwiatkowski The Politician

year was 1966 with the advent of Bill Gunter on the political horizon. Gunter was re-elected state insurance commissioner this past Tuesday carrying 75 percent of the vote cast in Seminole County. Gunter had as much and, in some cases, more support throughout the state.

In 1966, however, Gunter wanted to be a state senator. He was and is a Democrat and that was a bad year for the Democrats. Republicans, as an official of the Democratic Party locally said, "were coming out of the woodwork like termites" and the Democratic house was crumbling around the state.

The first Republican since Reconstruction won the governor's mansion. Gunter was unwilling to change his party, bucked the tide and won his first election on his first try for public office. "I had never been involved in a political campaign before," said Kwiatkowski. "Bill and I were both active in the Jaycees at the time."

"He asked if I would like to become involved and when I said I would he gave me 13 south Seminole County precincts to organize for him. It was my first indoctrination into politics. I was a neophyte. I made up for my lack of experience with enthusiasm and by busting my bottom working for him. We won all 13 precincts. And Gunter was elected a state senator representing Seminole County."

"I lasted only a year. In 1967 there was reorganization and Seminole lost Gunter as its state senator. In 1968 I worked for a number of candidates and got involved in the Democratic Party. There wasn't much of a party structure then, just a loose organization of friendships."

"The Republicans were well organized and I felt if we were well organized we could do something too," said Kwiatkowski. "In 1970 a lot of us were involved. We had two candidates and took on the northern Democratic establishment. We lost. But in 1972 we put together the campaign for Mike Hattaway and from the experience we had gained, we did it right — we found the winning combination."

"In 1974 Bobby (Hattaway) and I ran and won," he said. Bobby Hattaway won his first term in the Florida Legislature, beating out an incumbent. Kwiatkowski won the seat on the county commission which Greg Drummond, a Republican, had occupied. Drummond had not sought re-election. Hattaway was re-elected this week to a third term in the Florida House.

As happens in election years, Kwiatkowski summed his office. It was 1975, the year of the clay pit controversy, that "raised quite a few political futures," said Kwiatkowski. "I will always be involved in the political process because the political process involves my destiny. For me not to be involved in my own destiny would be foolish."

"While working for the Democratic party in the state conducting seminars, my political philosophy has evolved. It is simple. It goes like this: 'The best thing you can do for government is give a little bit of yourself.' If this was practiced, we would be better off than we are today."

"I have served with these two thoughts in mind. I'm a political history buff. I've done a lot of reading on Harry Long, Daley, Tammany Hall to see what politics can do. "Politics can do a lot of good and politics can be used in an evil way. It is an interesting thing that in politics the rules are unwritten. You learn the rules by observing them or by violating them. It always involves a game plan for the spectators and a game plan for the players. If government is going to involve you, it is better to be a player than an observer," said Kwiatkowski.

"It's interesting that even the biggest get caught sometimes in one of the errors. The players know it is an error, but the public doesn't. What the spectators perceive an error when it is not. "To be active involves a combination of the marketing process in the right mixture of product, promotion, game plans and price. "It is all right for a lawyer to practice law and all right for a doctor to practice medicine but when a politician practices politics, people see something sinister about it," said Kwiatkowski.

"Yet the word 'pol' is a Greek-based word meaning people. "Serving in county government is a tremendous learning process. It takes a year to learn what's going on. In the state from one legislator to another."

"Government is a lot different than it is perceived by the people. Again to learn the rules, most of which are unwritten, and to become a player takes some time. There are no shortcuts," said Kwiatkowski.

Woman Given Probation In Husband's Stab-Murder

By DENNIS FEOLA
Herald Staff Writer

Eloise Warren, 38, has been sentenced to 15 years probation in connection with the stabbing death of her husband. Mrs. Warren pleaded no contest to the manslaughter charges on Sept. 4 for the June 18 stabbing of Eddie Ray Warren.

The stabbing occurred at the couple's Sanford home at 815 E. Ninth at 11:30 p.m. Warren died one hour and fifteen minutes later on the operating table at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Among the probation requirements issued Thursday by Circuit Judge Robert McGregor is that she pay the hospital bills which resulted from the incident.

The mother of three children will also be subject to search by law enforcement authorities at any time and she is not allowed to carry a knife anywhere outside her kitchen.

Mrs. Warren's attorney, Jack Bridges of Sanford, said the woman was for years the object of spouse abuse.

Friends reported Mrs. Warren's 38-year-old husband used to beat her regularly. On the night of the murder, the couple was reportedly arguing over a divorce sought by Mrs. Warren and her husband began hitting her and she grabbed a knife and stabbed him once in the back.

The skull was discovered Oct. 2 by a Deltona man walking in the area. There have been reports the Volusia County Sheriff's Department has a suspect already in custody on other charges.

The store was still open but no one saw anything, according to records. Damage was estimated at $300.

In the early morning hours of Wednesday someone threw a piece of concrete through a window at the store causing $100 damage.

MACHINE STOLEN
A restroom vending machine was stolen from the Fina service station at 2500 S. French Ave., Sanford. William Richardson, manager of the station, told police the machine was taken off the wall of the restroom. He estimated its value at $180.

CAMPAIGN CASUALTY

"I'm sure going to prosecute," said Sanford City Commissioner A. A. McClanahan today. "What for what? The vandals who pulled up his sign on French Avenue only a few hours after he had implanted it, that's who."

McClanahan, seeking re-election to his District 3 commission seat, recalled that he and Commissioner John Morris were "ripped out" in the last election four years ago. Fifteen candidate signs were destroyed then, he said. McClanahan has issued an all-points bulletin for the latest vandals.

Harvey, as president. Grooms is contending that meeting was illegal. John Chambliss, the lawyer representing Grooms and the SECA said the organization is considering several options to determine which of the boards is legal.

Among the options is the court and working through the Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC). Chambliss said. "We would have several things going simultaneously to get it worked out," Chambliss said.

Grooms said today he was serious about taking the matter to court, but also thought the PERC route might be effective. PERC would be asked to issue a restraining order to halt the second team from bargaining and let the team headed by Grooms continue to bargain, he said.

This may have to be done at the same time the court is being asked to determine which is the proper board of directors, Grooms added. At Thursday night's meeting, several SECA employees asked Cowley whether the school board should go to court. Julian said today it is a possibility, but he would not recommend it to the board. "I guess if two competing groups demanded for us to bargain with them, the school board could file a suit asking the court for a statement," he said.

"But I wouldn't recommend the school board getting into it because I really don't think public bodies should get involved in the private problems of the organization."

"To bargain with the group would place us in a pick-and-choose situation," Cowley said in addressing the group. "I'm disappointed Grooms is using delaying tactics to thwart SECA and the school board in our efforts to get a mutual agreement," he added.

"If he is serious he will file the suit asking the court to make the determination as to which board is legal and then we can get on with the business of bargaining and mutual agreement," Cowley said.

Family, Friends On Deaths: They Just Don't Know Why

By DENNIS FEOLA
Herald Staff Writer

Friends and family remain baffled today as to the motive behind the murder-suicide of Rick and Eloise Brown. The couple had been separated about two months after three years of marriage, but friends and family members said there was never any indication of violent disagreements. "I can't shed any light on the matter," Dr. Earl Weiden, president of Seminole Community College, said. His 24-year-old daughter was shot, apparently twice by her husband, who was waiting outside her apartment Thursday morning with a shotgun. After firing twice at his fleeing wife, Brown turned the 12-gauge shotgun on himself and shot himself in the face. "There was no indication. They seemed to be a happy, normal pair," Weiden said.

A close friend of the family, Donalene White, said the matter was discussed at the family's home Thursday evening, but there were no answers. "Apparently, he was never a violent type of person," Mrs. White said. "There was no preliminary warning. There was never any indication this could happen."

Weiden said his daughter had never indicated her husband was in any way violent. Brown, 38, a graduate of Seminole High School whose parents reside in Panama City, was dead at the scene. Mrs. Brown, also a graduate of Seminole High School and an employee of the Flagship Bank of Sanford, was pronounced dead at Florida North Hospital. Brown drove to the Springwood Village Apart-

Lake Mary Gets Property Option For Proposed Park

By MAX ERKLETTIAN
Herald Staff Writer

City officials in Lake Mary are playing a waiting game in their effort to secure a one-block site adjacent to Crystal Lake Beach for a city park.

The city has been granted a one-year option to buy the land by trustees of the Thomas Connor estate which owns the land. Sea Girt, N.J., attorney James H. Clayton, representing the estate, has informed the city the option security down payment of $3,750 can be applied to the purchase price.

The city has asked for a one-year option in an effort to buy time in which to secure a state grant for the $27,500 purchase price.

Dan Gerdisan, representing the State Department of Natural Resources division of getting money for the purchase of the park area "about 50-60".

If state funding is not available, city officials may consider using funds from the city budget for purchase of the park, according to City Councilman Pat Southward. The option to buy the land will not expire until December 1979.

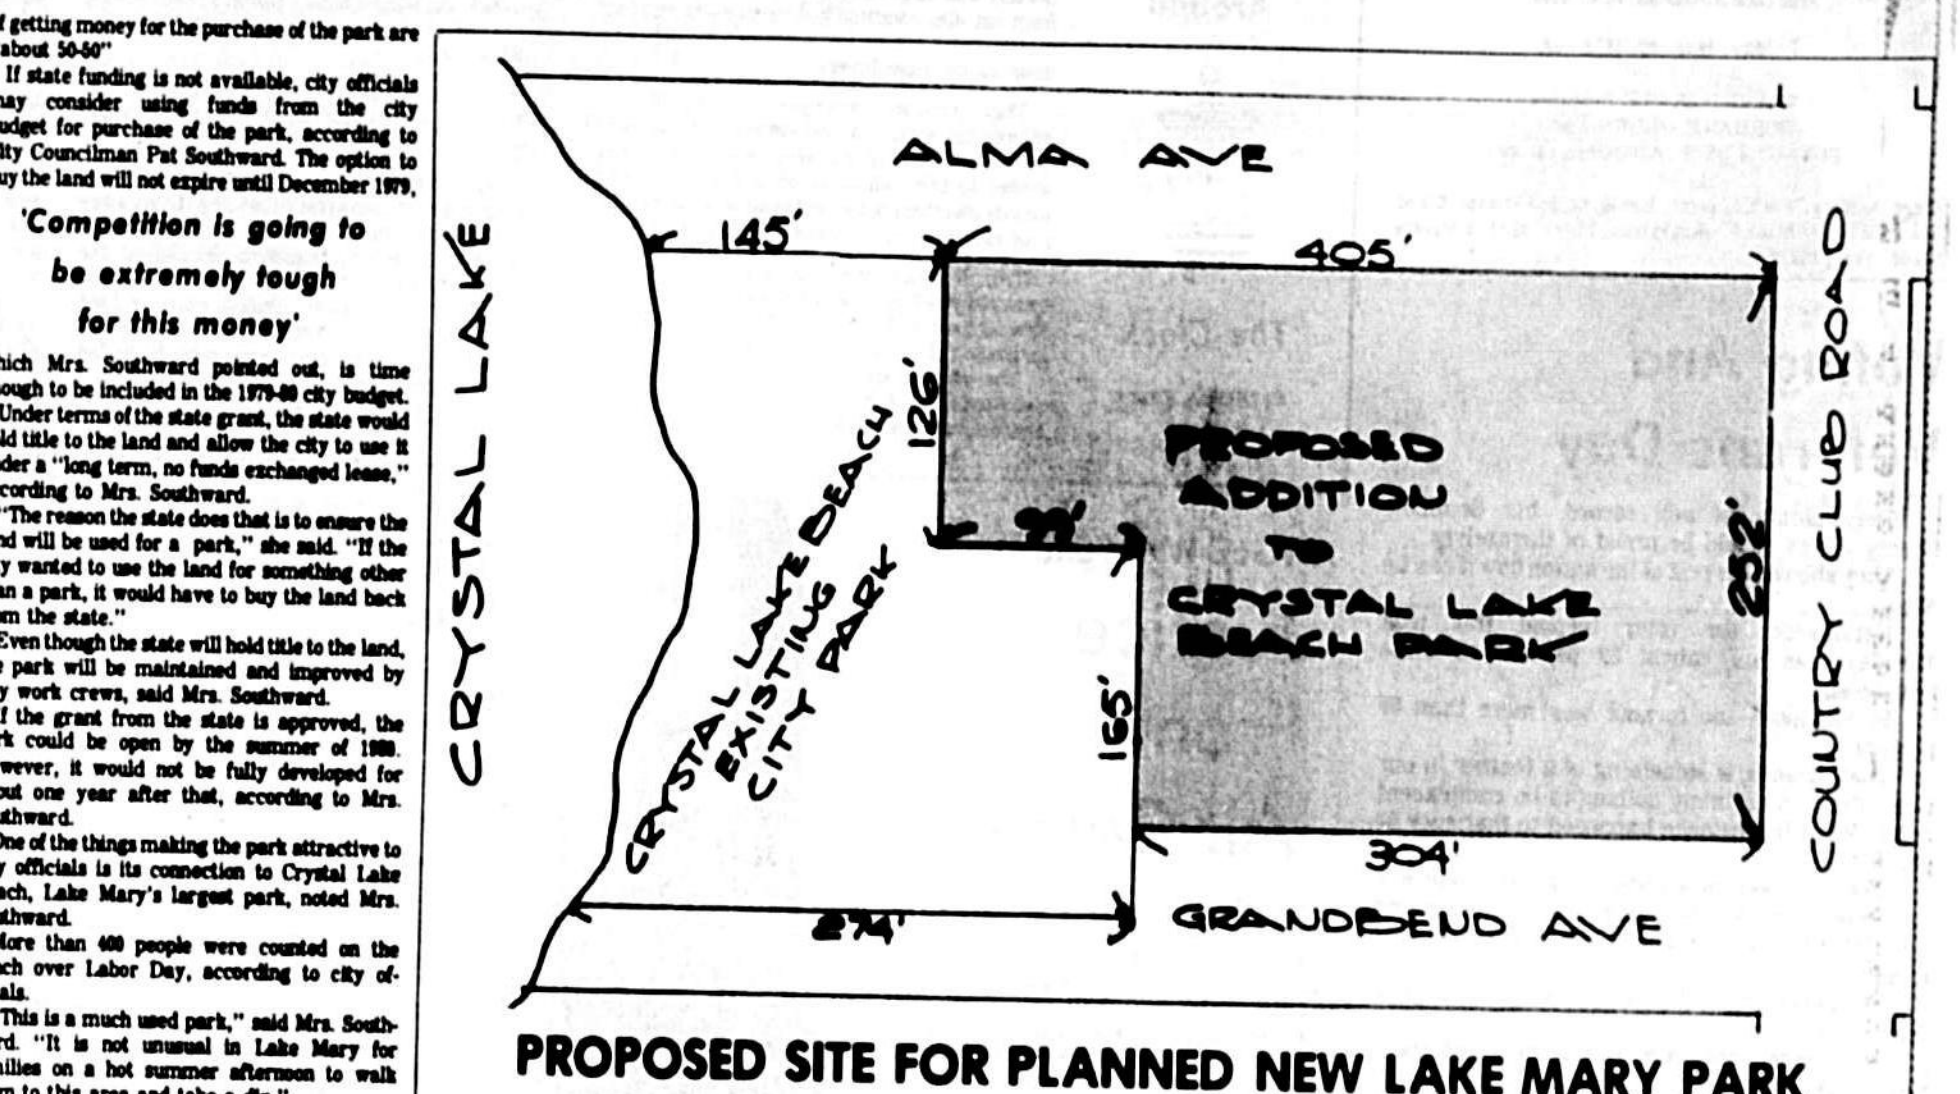

"Competition is going to be extremely tough for this money" which Mrs. Southward pointed out, is time enough to be included in the 1979-80 city budget.

Under terms of the state grant, the state would hold title to the land and allow the city to use it under a "long term, no funds exchanged lease," according to Mrs. Southward. "The reason the state does that is to ensure the land will be used for a park," she said. "If the city wanted to use the land for something other than a park, it would have to buy the land back from the state."

Even though the state will hold title to the land, the park will be maintained and improved by city work crews, said Mrs. Southward. If the grant from the state is approved, the park could be open by the end of the summer of 1980. However, it would not be fully developed for about one year after that, according to Mrs. Southward.

One of the things making the park attractive to city officials is its connection to Crystal Lake Beach, Lake Mary's largest park, noted Mrs. Southward. More than 400 people were counted on the beach over Labor Day, according to city officials.

"This is a much used park," said Mrs. Southward. "It is not unusual in Lake Mary for families on a hot summer afternoon to walk down to this area and take a dip."

Some Information On Using Insulin

DEAR DR. LAMB—I would like to know if you have any information about the drug insulin? What diseases is this drug used for? What are the after effects of insulin and what happens if you have an overdose?

DEAR READER—Insulin is not a drug. It is a hormone. It is a protein. The insulin protein is made up of a combination of many different amino acids. Its chemical structure is relatively complex.

The islets of Langerhans in your pancreas form insulin. The insulin is a major factor in controlling the level of your blood glucose (sugar). If you don't produce enough insulin, that is one cause of diabetes, usually a high blood glucose level. This is the main reason for giving insulin to anybody.

In the past, small amounts have been used in an effort to try to stimulate people's appetites, or larger amounts have been used to induce insulin shock in psychiatric therapy. But, in general, the main purpose of insulin is in individuals who don't produce enough insulin themselves, and that means in the treatment of diabetes.

Too much insulin can cause you to develop a low blood sugar. You can have mild symptoms of this with sweating and tremulousness, or the symptoms can progress to the point of being in shock. To give you a better understanding of insulin's role in diabetes, I am sending you The Health Letter, number 3-11, Diabetes: Diagnosis, Prevention and Management.

DEAR DR. LAMB—About two years ago I was cutting grass with a gas lawnmower. In order to start it I had to wind up the arm of the mower. It was not easy to do and I had to do this several times a day with my right arm.

That summer I noticed that the right side of my chest was larger than the left side. I also noted that the left side went in, especially at the top, under the collar bone to the left of my breast bone. My pediatrician said I have a pigeon chest. Could this have been caused by the excessive development from starting the lawnmower? I am 14 years old, 5-foot-4 and weigh 110 pounds.

DEAR READER—A deformity of the breast bone (sternum) and chest area is not uncommon. This can be with the breast bone bowed forward causing the chest cage to be in the shape of a chicken's breast, which is the source of the term pigeon chest. Or, the breast bone could be depressed inward, called pectus excavatum.

Grand Master Visits Local Lodge

Sanford Lodge No. 27, 1301 F and Semicola Rebekah Lodge No. 43 honored Ben Brody, grand master of the Jurisdiction of Florida, with a dinner and meeting at the Odd Fellows Hall.

The highlight of the evening was the inspiring address by the grand master. He spoke on the Center Link in Odd Fellowship, Brotherhood Love. He told of the wonderful work being done by one branch of the order for retarded children in Canada and the United States.

Ben Brody said his objective this year was to curtail the loss in lodge memberships. He said, "All fraternal organizations are having this loss of members. A lack of communication between lodges, members and their communities is the cause of this decrease in memberships."

He suggested that lodges have more interesting programs and that new members be placed in jobs with more responsibilities. He said "If memberships in fraternal organizations are not increased today there will be no tomorrow."

Ben Brody proved himself to be a gifted speaker and a talented artist. Over 40 years ago he made a sketch of Thomas Willey, founder of Odd Fellowship in America. He had beautiful parchment copies of this sketch. He autographed and gave these prints to all desiring them.

Distinguished guests attending were Ralph Michel, past grand master of Florida; Paul Eriksen, acting noble grand of Sanford Lodge and past grand master of Ohio; Cecil G. Wood, grand junior warden of the Grand Encampment of Florida; Past district deputy grand masters attending were Homer Gleason, Theodore Schneider and Henry Jamerson.

Also Gladys Ross, past president of the I.A.P.M. of Virginia; Barry Butler, chaplain of Sanford Lodge; Ada Wood, noble grand of Leesburg Rebekah Lodge and Margaret Schneider, noble grand of Seminola Rebekah Lodge G, were in attendance.

The dinner was served buffet style. The dining table was festive with shimmering decorations. The centerpiece on the speaker's table was a large cake topped with a horn of plenty.

Ralph Michel of DeLand furnished the musical interlude between the dinner and meeting.

SCC Hosts Jamboree

By JIM HAYNES Herald Sports Editor

Now that the curtain is up on the Seminole Community College basketball team, its slip is showing with only one dress rehearsal remaining before next Wednesday's season opener at home against Polk of Winter Haven.

The host Raiders tipoff Saturday's action at 10 a.m. against Valencia. SCC comes back at 2 p.m. against Florida JC.

Halves begin on the hour running through the 4 p.m. finale between St. Johns River and Lake City. In between, Central Florida meets St. Johns River at 11, Florida JC of Jacksonville faces Daytona Beach at noon, Lake City tackles Central Florida at 1, and Valencia takes on Daytona Beach at 3.

"There will be a lot of college recruiters on hand, because I have already heard from many of them," said SCC coach Joe Sterling.

Admission to Saturday's action calls for a $1 donation. Me while, Sterling received word that one of his two returning sophomores, Mike Boggs, will be lost to the team until after Christmas.

Boggs, 6-4 center from Gassaway, West Va., had considered surgery on an injured shoulder, but hoped he would be able to avoid it. However, it was apparent in Tuesday night's 108-94 win over the Alumni that he wouldn't be able to avoid surgery. Thus he plans to have it immediately with hopes of returning for the second half of the season.

"We have a couple of major disappointments," said Sterling, "and Mike's condition is one of them."

Sterling noted the overall inexperience of his freshman-dominated team was evident despite the high-scoring victory Tuesday.

"We have a long way to go," he said. We are seeking fitness. Jimmie Rogers, Frankie Carter, Robert Laling and Curtis Smith showed they can score. But we still have to put together the whole package.

Caldwell Comeback Earns Him Honors

NEW YORK (UPI)—He was the pitcher no one wanted. "Damaged goods" was the reply whenever his name was mentioned. But Mike Caldwell refused to believe his big league career was over just because a surgeon's knife cut into his elbow four years ago.

Thornton of Cleveland, pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of Texas and outfielder Arno Ottis of Kansas City each received one vote. Given a chance to start on every 4-day basis by new Manager George Bamberger, Caldwell responded by posting a 23-9 record and a 2.37 earned run average, to finish second behind New York's Ron Guidry in the voting for the AL Cy Young Award.

Holmes Puts WBA Title On The Line

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—World Boxing Council heavyweight champion Larry Holmes, trying to get out from under Muhammad Ali's shadow, puts his title on the line tonight for the first time, meeting underdog Alvaro Evangelista of Spain in a scheduled 15-rounder at Caesars Palace.

Larry on television, the more they'll come to believe he is the best heavyweight in the world today. And he will be the best for the next five years.

No bets on Holmes are accepted although a bettor can take Evangelista at 1-4.

Eight down, two to go. That's the story for most Seminole County High School football teams as the season has dwindled to a precious few.

The key game tonight finds Seminole taking a short jaunt down 17-82 to visit Lyman. Also, Deland is at Lake Brantley and Oviedo plays in Apopka.

Kickoffs are at 6 o'clock.

And on Saturday, a crucial game which will determine which team advances to the state playoffs, Trinity Prep meets Orlando Luther at 2 p.m. in Slavia.

Packers To Host Fading Cowboys

By United Press International Vince Lombardi's Green Bay Packers frustrated the Super Bowl hopes of the Dallas Cowboys in 1968 and 1969 behind a cool quarterback named Bart Starr.

Sunday, revitalized Green Bay gets a chance to restart its traditional role with Starr roaming the sidelines as coach. Although the NFL Central Division leader hosts the fading Cowboys at Milwaukee.

Green Bay, 7-3, and leading the division by one game over Minnesota, have lost to Dallas only once in nine meetings, but one of the Packers' main strengths — a low turnover rate — deserted them last week in a 10-10 loss to Philadelphia.

The Packers turned the ball over five times, surrendering a 300-10 yard advantage and an infuriating Starr.

"Quite frankly, I thought it was a game we should win and could win," Starr said. "We have three huge toughies ahead in a row (Denver and Philadelphia follow), and we have to be ready to play."

Ah, Those Sundays Of Yore And Now

Sunday in the park.
The band arrives and starts filling the gazebo with chairs, music stands and instruments.
The people arrive and start filling the lawn with folding chairs, blankets, bicycles, and children.

Sunday in the park as it might have been 75 years ago.
A free concert by the local band. Children running and playing. Older folk chatting. Musicians warming up and tuning their instruments.

Pop songs, marches, tunes familiar and not, fill the block of Centennial Park in Sanford.

The community band from Seminole Community College directed by Dr. William Hinkle. People making music for the fun of it. People listening for the same reason.

An afternoon's entertainment presented as part of the Sanford Salutes program by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and the City of Sanford.

The weather is Florida perfect. A touch-football game springs up nearby.

People in the neighborhood listen and applaud from their front porches. A couple listening in a car give the band appreciative toots from the horn.

Some of the younger children stretch out on their blankets and eyelids droop in spite of the music.

An elderly woman sitting under a tree nods her head as well. Snapping awake from time to time, she fights a head that sinks slowly toward her chest.

Local politicians and office-seekers stroll through the crowd shaking hands and showing their name tags.

A dog rolls onto his back, legs skyward, enjoying a scratch.

Sunday in the park as it might have been 75 years ago.

Lillian Gish: From Griffith To 'Today's' Generation

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Robert Altman is one of the today generation of movie-makers.

D.W. Griffith was one of the great pioneers of movie-making.

It is hard to imagine much of a link between the two, but there is at least one.

Lillian Gish.

She made a short for Griffith in 1912 — 66 years ago — and was one of the stars of "The Birth of a Nation" in 1915. And she is also one of the stars of Altman's "A Wedding" in 1978.

She is 82 now, but as eager and excited about her current film as any of the younger actors in Altman's brilliant cast.

She talks often about the past, as so many elderly people do.

Here is a healthy interest in the past, which is coupled with a similar healthy interest in the present.

Her feeling about Altman and his particular brand of film is mixed.

After she was cast — she plays the groom's grandmother, the matriarch of a wealthy family — Altman arranged for her to see one of his earlier works, "Nashville."

"When I saw that picture," she says, "at first my reaction was that Mr. Altman really didn't like the human race. And that bothered me, because I do like the human race."

"But when I thought about it some more, and when I did this picture, 'A Wedding,' I came to the conclusion that all he is trying to do is show us our faults. Now that I know him, I realize that he does love the human race, because he is a very lovely and very kind person."

She says that Altman let her do anything she wanted to do with her part, even let her wear whatever she wanted to wear.

Miss Gish also said that Altman let her discuss how she wanted her face to be lit.

"I told the cameraman what I have learned in my many years of acting in films," she says.

"And that is that the most important thing in lighting is to light the eyes. If the eyes are lit, the rest of the face looks all right."

Her career began when she and her late sister, Dorothy, worked with their actress mother in plays throughout the Midwest.

They began their film careers as teen-agers in New York and they became D.W. Griffith's favorites.

Those were silent films, of course, but the Gish sisters made the transition to talking pictures with ease, because they had had considerable stage training.

"When movies started to talk," she says, "I made one — 'The Swan' — but I was unfortunate in the director. After that I thought, 'Oh, dear, if I'm going to see my voice, I'll go back to where I came from, instead of putting it in a tin can' so I went back to Broadway, and did 'Dicks' Yarga."

Since then she has made many movies and appeared in many plays, pretty much dividing her time between the two. Even as late as two years ago, she appeared on Broadway in "A Musical Jubilee" — at 80, she sang and danced.

That's a sign of how modern Lillian Gish remains.

She often lectures to audiences now, and goes on cruises where she talks about the early years of films.

She says she is generally too busy, at home in New York, to see many movies. And she doesn't watch television often — "It's just such a change each other and please change each other."

Her next project is a pet of her own. She has assembled a sort of film history she calls "Infinity in An Hour" covering the period from the beginning of the industry until 1928 — "That is the period when we in America ruled the world of film, when we built the movie cathedrals around the world."

But even though that project deals with the past, she has one eye on the future.

She says she enjoyed working with Altman and, apparently, the feeling was mutual.

"Any time he has something he thinks I'd do," she says, "I'd be delighted."

"GM of Magi" Joanne Worley, Robert Alda, Jim Beckus and Peter Graves join Debby Boone and John Rubinstein at NBC's color studios in Burbank, Calif., later this month for the filming of "GM of Magi," a 30-minute musical special based on the O. Henry short story to be aired at Christmas.

Lillian Gish: "If I had a child, and could give her one gift, it would be the gift of curiosity."

Plugging In The Open Time

Now that network scratches have been announced, how will the big three plug in the open hours? ABC and CBS plan to juggle present series into new time slots and to revive temporary series.

To fill in the gaps left by "Operation Peticoat" and "Apple Pie," ABC moved "Welcome Back, Kotter" from Mondays to Saturdays and "Carter Country," still on Saturday, to a half-hour later broadcast slot on Saturday evenings.

"Lucan," the wolf-boy series that aired last year, returns to the Monday night slot before "ABC's NFL Monday Night Football" starting Monday, Nov. 13. The CBS shuffle is a little more complicated.

On Sundays, "All in the Family" moved forward an hour, as did "Kas" and "Kas." "Dallas," previously broadcast on Saturday nights, moved to the Sunday night slot following "Kas."

In addition to the new Sunday schedule, CBS will present special programming on Saturday evenings. On Nov. 18, "The Bible... In the Beginning," starring George C. Scott, Aya Garo and Peter O'Toole and France Nere in the lead, presentation. On the 26th, a special broadcast of "Spiderman" has the early hour, and "Ozco," starring Richard Harris in the tale of a killer whale seeking revenge for the death of his mate, runs in the later hours.

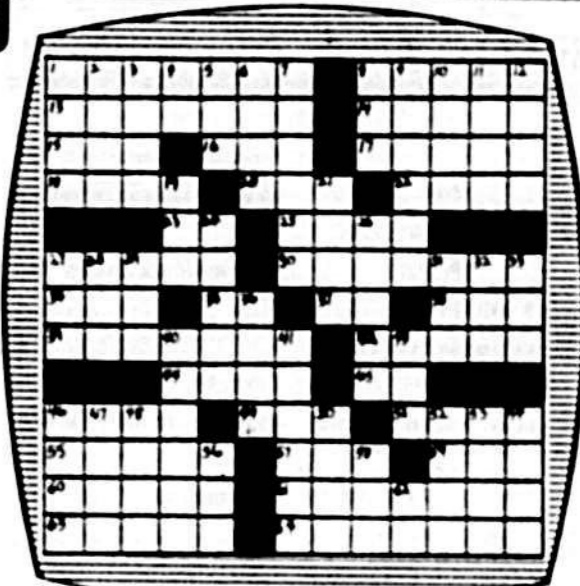

NBC has scheduled the nine-hour miniseries, "Backstairs at the White House," for four evenings in January, beginning Jan. 15. Olivia Cole and Leslie Uggams star as Maggie Rogers and Lillian Rogers Parks, the mother and daughter domestics whose careers spanned 33 years in the White House — from the Taft through the Eisenhowers.

Another White House expose turned miniseries is John Deen's "Blind Ambition."

CBS began filming Dean's account of the Watergate crisis in Washington, D.C., on Oct. 30.

The eight-hour drama will also draw from Moore's Dean's book, "Mr. Martin Sheen and Theresa Russell star as the Deans.

John Deen will play Attorney General John Mitchell.

One role Dustin Hoffman has seldom played during his acting career is that of a father. But he seems to play the part well in his 7-year-old daughter, Jesse. Next year, Hoffman will repeat the role in scenes as the single parent of a 6-year-old boy.

Kaz: Big Mouth Entertainment

By DAVID HANDLER
Martin Kazinsky is an actor with all the rough edges. He misplaces his modifiers, plays drums in a seedy nightclub and wears outfits that look like they glow in the dark. Personality-wise, he's a cross between John-Boy Walton and Tony Baretta. He's also an attorney.

"Kaz" is a familiar duck-out-of-water story. You remember it. It usually goes: naive country boy ends up teaching them city slickers a thing or two about life.

Here, Kaz (Ron Liebman) is hired fresh out of the house of numbers by Bennet (Patrick O'Neal), stylish head of a slick, powerful law firm. Kaz doesn't know from fact or oscar, but he works hard and he cares. Along the way his frank, earthy charm melts the coolest of sophisticated hearts. And his street-honed wit wins over the crusty judges.

The idea isn't particularly fresh but "Kaz" carries it off with interesting stories and likeable characters. This new 60-minute entry from CBS is a solid one.

PATRICK O'NEAL, RON LIEBMAN

There's nice friction between Kaz and Bennet, who serves as both mentor and enemy.

Bennet tries to teach the big mouth often jeopardizes his chances for settlements, that compromise is the way of the legal world. "You want me to crawl?" asks Kaz. "Yes," returns Bennet. "Try to learn how to bend. You can do it. Believe me, you can do it."

Bennet throws Kaz diffihit-and-run driving. "I'm afraid," she cries. "Lady, you know who ain't afraid!" Dead people."

On the other side, tough characters are won over because he speaks their language. "I know where you're coming from," Kaz says to the street kid turned baseball star. "We're from the same neighborhood."

"Yeah," grins the athlete. "I guess we are."

An added bit of spice is Kaz's girlfriend Katie (Linda Carlson), a newspaper columnist with whom he shares a moderately adult TV relationship.

They don't always get along. "Can't we be civilized about this?" he asks, when she becomes involved in one of his cases — on the wrong side. "What would you know about being civilized?"

"Not all of us had the advantages of a middle-class background," he shrugs.

Courtroom work is fairly minimal. Kaz is no Perry Mason.

Often he settles out of court, a touch of realism that suits this venture.

When he does go to court there's a good rivalry with a rather amiable but dedicated assistant DA.

It's becoming harder and harder for the TV viewer to find a show which takes a simple premise and executes it with the proper blend of character, story and wit.

Some call it "Kaz" and some call it "Kaz."

Crenna: Give Him Pride Of Directing Over Acting

By VERNON SCOTT (UPI) — Richard Crenna leads an ambivalent professional life, swinging from directing to acting, with equal facility and without preference.

This year the multi-talented Crenna will have starred in four TV movies and two feature films as well as directing a half dozen television shows, including a pair of pilots.

Directing, he finds, demands more time and responsibility than acting.

"The big difference involved is creativity," he said. "The director has much more creative input and is more artistically involved. The actor makes only a fragmentary contribution."

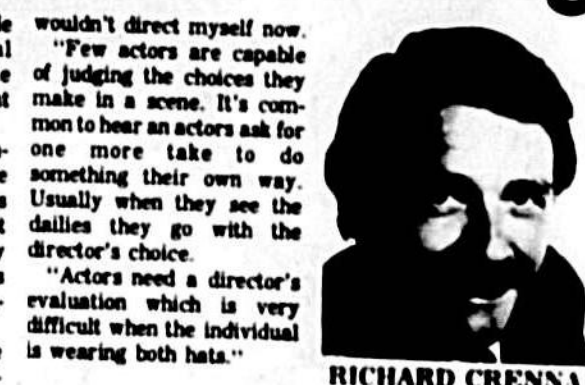

Crenna illustrated the difference with his appearance in chapter five of "Centennial" which airs on NBC Nov. 11. He plays Col. Frank Skimmerborn, a villainous militarist who conducted a vendetta against Indians in the west. He would much rather have directed "Centennial" than acted in the 35-hour series.

"There's more pride involved in putting it all together than simply being a part of the cast," he said.

"Anyway, I've always wanted to direct an historical drama and a western. 'Centennial' is both."

Crenna, who began acting as a child in radio, and who starred as juvenile Walker Denton in "Our Miss Brooks" and as Luke McCoy in "The Real McCoys," began directing episodes of "The McCoys."

"I directed 'The McCoys' in our fifth and sixth seasons because I knew what my character was all about and could concentrate on directing," he said. "But I

'The Word': Long Tale Of Conflict

David Janssen, James Whitmore and Florida Bolman star in "The Word," a four-part dramatization of Irving Wallace's best-selling novel, to be broadcast in four parts, Sunday, Nov. 12; Monday, Nov. 13; Tuesday, Nov. 14; and Wednesday, Nov. 15, on CBS.

Eddie Albert, Geraldine Chaplin, Hurd Hatfield, John Huston, John McEnery, Ron Moody, Diana Muldaur, Kat Mulgrew, Janice Rule, Martha Scott and Nicol Williamson also head the international cast.

Filmed on location in Los Angeles, Rome, Amsterdam, London and New York, "The Word" is the story of a public relations executive caught in a deadly intrigue surrounding the publication of a controversial document that appears to be a long-lost ancient eyewitness account of the life of Christ.

Steven Randall (Janssen), the cynical public relations expert hired to promote a new Bible based on the find, is eager to find something to believe in, at a time when his personal life is in shambles. He remains unswayed by his critically ill father (Huston), a stalwart minister, and the novel Thanksgiving feast. (R)

Ask Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Please settle an argument. Who portrayed the villainous Captain Muncie in the 1947 film, "Brute Force," with Burt Lancaster? Also, was this the same actor who starred as Mr. Kimble in the TV series, "Green Acres"? I say no. Who's right? THOMPSON, Stockton, Calif.

You are. Hume Cronyn was Muncie in "Brute Force," while Alvy Moore was on "Green Acres."

DEAR DICK: We are regular viewers of Lawrence Welk's show. Whatever happened to his Italian daughter-in-law? ELEANOR VAN SKIVER, Tucson, Ariz.

Bet you're not regular readers of this column, because I've answered that question at least twice before. She left the show to go on her own, and is currently putting her act together.

DEAR DICK: I went to a high school with Brenda Benet, who was just beginning an acting career when she married Bill Bixby. What is she doing now? Are they still married? Does she plan to resume her career ever? She was so talented. SALLY BYRD, Mountain Ranch, Calif.

So talented — and so gorgeous. Brenda was (is) one of the loveliest ladies around. She is also very happy now as Mrs. Bixby, and busily raising a 4-year-old son. Maybe, someday, she will think about resuming her career, but currently she is content just doing what she's doing.

DEAR DICK: Is Curt Dawson, from "Guiding Light," any relation to Richard Dawson, of "Family Feud"? B.E.M., Kalamazoo, Mich.

No.

There's TV's 'Quincy' --And Seminole's Dr. Garay

DR. G.V. GARAY: "Quincy" is fiction. If you behaved like that, you would be in jail.

"The people have to realize the one-man show is gone. You have to work in cooperation with everyone else. Alone, we don't do anything."

"In real life there are many interesting and exciting stories. You don't have to get so far-fetched."
 DR. SARA IRRGANG: "For once, I don't have to explain what a medical examiner does."

'QUINCY' AKA JACK KLUGMAN

A pollster surveying doctors on cigarette smoking contacted Dr. G.V. Garay. "Do you advise your patients to quit smoking?" the pollster asked.
 "I advise them," Garay replied, "but they don't listen."
 The surveyor didn't know it, but Dr. Garay's "patients" can't listen because they have no choice in the matter—they're dead when they get to him. He's the medical examiner.
 Garay has been Seminole County's Medical Examiner and senior pathologist at Seminole Memorial Hospital since 1971.
 The journey from Las Cruces, Cuba, to Sanford has been a long, and at times, a perilous experience for Garay.
 He spent 15 years as director of public health for the city of Las Cruces after graduating from the University of Havana. He had a thriving general practice and was involved in cancer research.
 In 1961, Garay and his wife, Hilda, sent their three children to the United States in preparation for their leaving the communist country. The children, ranging in age from eight to 14, ended up spending almost two years in an orphanage when Garay was denied a passport.

 "We were desperate to leave there," Garay recalls. "We tried all means to get permission. Then we decided to escape. We organized a group of people more or less in the same position. There were about 15 of us," he said.

Next: Dr. Irrgang's 'Whydunnit'

"We made arrangements with a sailor to get a boat. We attempted two times to leave, but with Castro's troops patrolling it was impossible to get to the shore," Garay said.

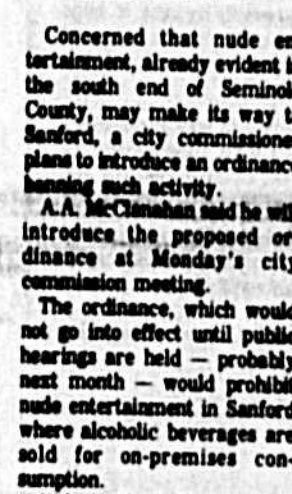

The group decided to make their getaway on Jan. 1, 1962. Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro had planned his annual New Year's speech in Havana and thousands, including most of the country's troops, were expected

Sanford Nude-Show Ban? Commissioner Readies Ordinance

By MAX ERKLETTIAN
 Herald Staff Writer

A.A. McCLANAHAN

Concerned that nude entertainment, already evident in the south end of Seminole County, may make its way to Sanford, a city commissioner plans to introduce an ordinance banning such activity.
 A.A. McClanahan said he will introduce the proposed ordinance at Monday's city commission meeting.
 The ordinance, which would not go into effect until public hearings are held—probably next month—would prohibit nude entertainment in Sanford where alcoholic beverages are sold for on-premises consumption.
 And a poll of other Sanford commissioners indicates the measure will be unanimously approved.
 McClanahan said he has been researching the matter for more than a year and revealed his intent about two weeks ago, even before Seminole County Sheriff John Polk made a similar proposal to county commissioners to cover the unincorporated sections of the county.
 Polk had expressed the same fears of nude entertainment moving into those unincorporated areas of the county, pointing out nude entertainment already exists in certain cities within Seminole County.
 The ordinance McClanahan said he will introduce Monday is a broad piece of legislation which makes nude entertainment a misdemeanor, and the entertainer as well as the owner of any establishment the power to file an action in circuit court to enjoin, restrain or otherwise prevent such nude entertainment within the Sanford city limits.

 "The key to this ordinance is the fact that it brings to the city power to bring suit to restrain actions of this nature," McClanahan said.
 "A year ago in October 1977, I started reviewing various ordinances of this nature trying to find one that stood the court tests," recalled McClanahan.
 "One by one these ordinances have been knocked down, but this one appears to be the first ordinance that has withstood the court tests."
 The McClanahan ordinance is modeled after one used in Lee County.
 Clubs providing nude entertainment already existing in the county led to McClanahan's proposal, he said.
 "I became concerned from driving down 17-92 consistently by Club Juana and Circus Circus and that other place," said McClanahan. "I suddenly realized that if it was there we would not be far removed from such things and I want to try to preserve the quality of life here."

 McClanahan's fellow commissioners gave their support to the ban on such clubs when he called the Board of Commissioners on Monday.
 "I am definitely for it," said Commissioner Eddie Keith.
 "We don't need those things in Sanford and I shall be most happy to support a measure that,"
 Commissioner Julian Stromstrom added his endorsement of the proposal but noted he would like to review the ordinance.
 Commissioner John Morris endorsed the concept, but said the city probably has measures to prohibit such clubs through its building codes and licensing measures.
 "Well, of course, what can you say against an ordinance like that," commented Mayor Leo P. Moore. He shared Morris' view that present city ordinances would probably provide a means for banning such operations. However, he added, "I don't see anything wrong with passing this."
 McClanahan also hopes to be able to discuss the possibility of drafting an ordinance banning bottle clubs that open after hours close.

Kwiatkowski: County Plan 'A Maze, Albatross' Today

By DONNA EBYES
 Herald Staff Writer

County Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski will go out of office in nine more days "with a smile on one hand and a sense of disappointment on the other."
 "I want to stay around, but I know it's all over," he said thoughtfully in the courteous county commission conference room. "I hope someone else takes on the challenge."
 The four years in office for Kwiatkowski haven't been easy ones. A power—one of the majority—in the beginning of his term, he is completing his last days in this elected office as a minority of one, often voting at odds with his colleagues as a member of the loyal opposition and drawing off other times that one side and then the other as his own light debate the way he will go.
 "The last two years have helped. Initially, I was one on the other side and that was good. But now I have more power in being a minority," said the 49-year old student of government and politics.
 "If you are not one of three-halves—three solid votes—and if you have three halvers (three opposing members who have joined together) the way to win is to be in the other way—a minority of one."
 "That way you can all back and forth, take pot shots and contribute nothing. If you catch the majority you are a hero or the majority has to prove to you or get your agreement to get you off their backs. If you cannot be a member of a strong majority put together on a mandate of the people, the next best thing is to be part of a strong minority."

 "I've been controversial for four years, but I don't mind being controversial. If you have that reputation, you are either accepted or people can't stand you. You can make other individuals prove their points."
 "I'm not very old. I am not going to move tomorrow. Now, I'll have the opportunity to practice my profession—advising."
 "(Commissioner) Ed Vilian pushed the idea of a county administrator. A strong hard-work administrator is good and that is with a good decision. A last potato was the decision to go into urban services."
 "The county-wide fire department that we created was a good idea and it has worked out beautifully. We made the decision for the county to go into the water-works business and to directly or indirectly go into urban services and then compete with the cities," said Kwiatkowski.
 "The restructuring of county government was a good decision. When the concept was put together on unincorporated town management with the board of county commissioners as the planning and policy-making organ."
 "A lot of responsibility has been shifted downwards from the
