

RAIL UNION CHIEFS WILL AT ONCE SERVE NOTICE ON THE R. R. LABOR BOARD

That Overwhelming Majority of Men Want Strike ON JULY FIRST

AND THAT OFFICERS OF UNION WILL ABIDE BY DECISION OF THE WORKERS

(By The Associated Press) CINCINNATI, June 16.—Rail union chiefs are considering today serving formal notice on the Railroad Labor Board that an overwhelming majority of the 1,225,000 shop craft and maintenance of way employees voting in favor of strike on July first and that officers of the union would abide by decision of the workers.

CINCINNATI, June 16.—By the vote of every delegate, the American Federation of Labor convention here yesterday endorsed the nation wide coal strike that since April 1 has kept a half million miners from work and also indicated by a demonstration, its approval of the threatened walkout of more than 1,000,000 railroad workers.

The demonstration was loud cheers from all parts of the big convention hall when B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employe department of the federation, told the convention that the rail union officials would not interfere to stop a strike.

"It is believed," declared Mr. Jewell, "that the membership is prepared to meet the test, and if they so desire, their decisions will be complied with."

The endorsement of the miners' strike was given by a rising vote, cast by the delegate amid their own cheers, and afterward William Green, secretary-treasurer of the miners' union, declared that the miners were in the fight to the finish, and he said it might be necessary to ask other unions for financial assistance.

Other developments also marked the convention session, although it was cut short so delegates might attend a barbecue, staged on a river island, 20 miles from this city. The "one big union" plan, advocated by William L. Foster, was rejected by the convention without debate, and later announcement was made that Mr. Foster would hold a mass meeting a week from last night. Plans for unionized workers also were laid by the convention, which in addition adopted a resolution declaring in favor of an "intensive organization to combat the open shop."

Aside from the convention work, the executive council of the federation gave its final consideration to the recent decision of the supreme court in the Coronado coal case, and prepared its report criticizing the decision. The council decided not to propose any means for overcoming the decision on account of the convention having ordered a special policy committee to outline a program centering on the Coronado and other decisions.

Appointment of this committee, vested with broad powers, was authorized by the convention after hearing Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, and after indicating the approval of the congressional veto of the supreme court decisions, a proposal similar to one adopted by the federation two years ago.

The railroad strike threat came before the convention by an impromptu speech of Mr. Jewell, who said that the rail employes were "convinced that certain sinister interests" had been endeavoring for more than two years to maneuver there might be hope of crushing the organizations. He added that officers of the unions believed the time had arrived to determine "whether organized labor can be crushed without killing every individual member."

"We hold that it cannot be done," he concluded.

The "one big union" plan met its death without debate, coming unexpectedly in a report of the organization committee recommending rejection of the resolution introduced by E. H. Fitzgerald and others representing the railway clerks.

LEESBURG WANTS RIVER FOR INLAND WATERWAY BOOSTS ST. JOHNS PROJECT

Gilbert Leach, editor of the Leesburg Commercial, can see as far ahead in the future development of Florida as any man in the state and while living on what will eventually be one of the main arteries to the St. Johns river sees at this time the great possibilities of the St. Johns river and the big idea of all the counties of Central Florida getting together on the one project and then assisting other sections for laterals to the main artery of trade and travel. In Tuesday's edition of the Leesburg Commercial, Editor Leach has the following lucid and convincing article about the meeting here last week and the work that has been done and is to be done toward getting the recognition of the U. S. government of the superior claims of the St. Johns river over any other project in the south:

"Thursday afternoon at Sanford was held a meeting which is of vital interest to the whole of Central Florida. It was a short session of the Central Florida Water Traffic League an organization to promote water routes through Central Florida, using the St. Johns river and the chain of lakes as the basis.

"It will be remembered in this connection that the Commercial carried a story in the issue of May 19, regarding the plea of this body before the United States commissioners for this route, and that the authorities considered the proposition with favor.

"At the meeting in Sanford Thursday a new map was drawn up which shows the proposed water routes and which will be shown to the United States Engineer at the meeting in Sanford June 27. The map pictures each proposed route, the railroads and all the canals which have already been completed. It also shows all the hard surfaced roads in Central Florida. Possibly the most interesting thing depicted by the map is the great extent of land that would be drained by the proposed canal system.

"Another valuable point brought out by the meeting was that a number of fruit growers have agreed to send a certain amount of their product by water if these canals are constructed. Reports from all over this section indicate much interest and enthusiasm over the new waterway as proposed. The main thing that the association needs now is members and they are urging all spirited minded citizens to join the body and help with the project.

"All Central Florida hoists for the St. Johns waterway. Those who know contend it is the logical route for the water thoroughfare between Jacksonville and points south. This section of the state with its enormous volume of business, with its industries, truck farms and growing activities, demand this water highway.

"The St. Johns river has its source in Brevard county and its current flows northward through Orange, Seminole, Lake, Volusia, Putnam, Clay, St. Johns and Duval counties to the sea. The area drained by this river is the lake region of Florida and a deeper waterway would give access to some of the richest lands in the state not to mention the picturesque country that has been called the Switzerland of the United States.

"Possibly the fact that will carry more weight in the hearing than any other is the tonnage figures showing the great shipments from Central Florida and the vast improvements being made in this section."

As Provided Under the Terms Anglo-Irish Treaty NEW CONSTITUTION

WOULD PLACE IRELAND ON THE SAME BASIS AS CANADA AND OTHER FREE STATES

(By The Associated Press) DUBLIN, June 16.—Voters of Southern Ireland went to the polls today to elect an Irish parliament as provided under the terms of the Anglo-Irish treaty.

LONDON, June 16.—The draft of the new Irish constitution made public last night on the eve of the Irish elections gives, as the document itself states, force of law to the Anglo-Irish treaty and expressly declares that any provisions of the constitution or any amendment thereto, or any law enacted under the constitution, which is in any respect repugnant to the treaty, shall be void and inoperative.

The constitution thus embodies connection with the British Crown, as already established in the treaty, and generally places the relations between Ireland and the Empire on the same basis as Canada and the other dominions.

The constitution requires every member of the Free State parliament to subscribe faith and allegiance to the constitution and swear to be faithful to the King in virtue of the common citizenship in the British commonwealth of nations.

The document contains 79 articles and is considered an up to date instrument, not only granting female suffrage, proportional representation and a referendum to the people, but also empowering the people themselves to initiate legislation. It gives to the chamber great power with respect to money bills, without control from the senate, thus duplicating the position as between the British House of Commons and the House of Lords.

It exempts the Free State from active participation in war without the consent of parliament, except in the case of actual invasion, and gives the Irish supreme court the fullest powers, only stipulating for the right of citizens to appeal to the King in council against the supreme court's decision.

It provides for freedom of religion and conscience, gives Free State citizens full protection against arbitrary power of court martial and extends to parliament exclusive control over the armed forces, as stipulated in the treaty.

PREVENT THE MOSQUITO

The Times is undertaking to render a service to this community by giving prominence to the Model Mosquito Ordinance as drafted by the State Board of Health, in this issue. The publication of this Ordinance is not official, in that it has not been ordered by the city council, but it does seem to us that the people of Melbourne and the surrounding community ought to be sufficiently alive to the situation to act in a matter of this kind without being compelled to do so by law.

It is a well known fact that this particular section is bothered less with the mosquito pest than are many other sections along the coast but with a little individual effort on the part of our citizens we can reduce the number that we do have to a degree that will surprise the natives. Why do the mosquitoes come in swarms usually after the first summer showers, to disappear again after continued dry weather? Largely because the rains fill the rain barrels, tin cans and other receptacles where the pests are propagated. Then, as the water is evaporated from many of the smaller breeding places the pests are reduced very materially in number.

How many mosquitoes are being brought to life on your own premises every week, Mr. and Mrs. Citizen of this community? You can get fairly good idea of the number by making a careful inspection of your backyard—and do not forget that water tank that is not thoroughly screened. After every precaution is taken by each individual citizen it will then be time for the city working in conjunction with the several civic bodies, to organize a systematic raid on the places where tin cans and other water holding receptacles have been dumped. Read the Ordinance on the front page of this issue of the Times and then resolve that you will do your duty to yourself and to your neighbors.—Melbourne Times.

SHOW US THE LAW.

There is so much disrespect for the law, there are so many so-called technicalities which are really loop holes through which the lawyers can crawl with their clients, there is so much evading of the direct letter of the law and so much negligence in every department of justice that people are despairing of getting justice and you hear it said repeatedly that the general public does not and cannot get a square deal in the courts. This, of course, rests with the people and if they do not get justice there is a recourse for them to take and that recourse is to take out the officers of the law and put in others.

It is disrespect and disregard for law that makes the Ku Klux Klan possible. They handle cases that the law cannot or will not touch and it is by this fact alone that the Klan stands despite all the objections raised to it. The Reporter-Star cites a case as follows:

"Macawber was more of a philosopher than a dunce when he told the court, 'that if that be the law, then the law be an ass.' His remarks were addressed to a condition.

The English court conditions as portrayed by Dickens have their counterparts in America. Law in this county performs some peculiar antics. Usually in the lower courts. The higher courts as a rule sweep away the rubbish and administer justice.

"In an Indiana court a lad not quite ten years old is convicted of deliberate murder of his little nine-year-old playmate because of a dispute over a baseball mit. The gravity of the crime, and the stoical attitude of the lad is so impressive, that the sad hearted parents recognize the need of reformatory treatment. But the court, nor the governor, nor the legal department do not know what to do with the boy because of the technicalities of the law. He is too young for the regular state reformatory, and lacked just a few months of being old enough for the boys' school provided for juvenile offenders. All these officials were baffled. They did not know what to do with him.

"Here is a boy waiting for his sentence for more than a week. Nobody disputing his guilt, no effort to evoke the penalty for his wrong-doing, yet nobody knew where to put him under the law. Finally after a conference between the governor, the parents and the attorney who represented the boy it is agreed to send him for one year to the 'state boys' school' by which time he will have arrived at an age where he will satisfy the technicalities of the law and can be removed to another penal institution. At the end of a year, other technicalities may be found by lawyers and parents that will puzzle the courts and the boy will be turned loose on society without the needed reform. It is these extreme technicalities that breed contempt for law and encourages criminals."

FINDING GUT ABOUT ALCOHOL

The only way to find out whether the prohibition law is a good law by making it work as it was intended to work. If the Volstead Act is rigidly enforced, and if all decent citizens will act together—and individually—to help enforce it for about five years, then everybody will know the Act ought to be retained as it is or modified.

Without such trial, attempts to decide on the merits of the law are futile.

In Ohio the inability of the dry forces to enforce the provisions of the Act have become not only a joke but a scandal. Nor is Ohio the only state in which such conditions obtain. All the border states, north, south, east and west, find it only too easy to import liquor. With hundreds of bootleggers and thirsty citizens conspiring to out-guess the officials, the results are absurd.

It is impossible that the Volstead-Act is bad. It is unlikely, but it is possible. The only way to find that out, we repeat, is for all decent citizens to unite in aiding its enforcement. If every citizen will take the same law-abiding stand in regard to this matter that he does in regard to other laws, the trick will be turned. The public wants no czarism in this affair no huge army of dry maintenance men taking all sorts of unpleasant and exorbitant measures. But without an enormous army the law cannot be enforced while otherwise decent citizens work against it. A handful of such enforcement men can do all that is required if they have the support of the public. Give that support for a while—and then it will be easy to know what is right to be done.—Pensacola News.

BANKS AS FACTORS IN BUSINESS

A national bank in the Middle West is soliciting patronage through an advertisement reading: "Commercial agencies are never given information with regard to the worth or financial condition of any depositor or borrower. Confidence never once abused has made us a banking house in which you can place the fullest trust—no matter what your problems may be."

This is a very unusual policy for a national bank to adopt, because the strength of the present credit structure has been built largely by reason of the ratings and reports published by the commercial agencies, and the fact is undisputed that unless the representatives of the agencies are given a hearing in making their investigations it would be impossible for them to function.

All progressive banks use mercantile agency service, and it is fitting for them to co-operate to the extent of abiding by the principles that make the work performed by the agencies possible. There was a time when credit granters were not expected to divulge information regarding their relationship with a debtor, but in this enlightened day the error of reticence of this nature is recognized and information is freely given when properly requested.

MICKIE SAYS

WE ENJOY TH' NEWSPAPER BUSINESS, BECAUSE WE KNOW EVERY ISSUE WE GET OUT IS BOOSTIN' TH' TOWN A LITTLE, WHILE TH' ADS ARE HELPIN' MAKE BUSINESS BETTER FER OUR MERCHANTS

It profits a bank to be broad-minded in its dealings with the commercial agencies, because many times the reporter can give the bank more information than he receives from the cashier. A reporter always appreciates any special consideration the banker extends, and invariably reciprocates from time to time by imparting to those who are obliging, with voluntary information of importance regarding some accounts in which the bank is interested.

Looking at the attitude of this bank in another light, it would appear as if it were catering to concerns whose financial affairs are not in the best of shape, for no concern in good standing should have any objection to the opinion of its bank being expressed in a report. What would the commercial world think of a manufacturing company that, instead of exploiting its products and service, would advertise that it would not give any information to the commercial agencies regarding the accounts of its customers.

A bank has an obligation to a depositor and, if he chooses to give the name of the institution as a reference, the banker should supply the customary data. Furthermore, the inference has always been that if the banker does not talk at all, or even hesitates to talk freely about the affairs of the subject, the facts in his possession are unfavorable.

Banks, as a rule, have done much to stabilize credit and promote commerce, but the policy of the institution in the Middle West is a step in the wrong direction.—Public Ledger Service to Credit Men.

LADY ASTOR ON PROHIBITION

Lady Astor has left us laden with presents for her six children. She is carrying back with her $150 worth of toys, etc., nicely wrapped in parcels, which the youngest member of her family will unite with bright eyes and smiling faces, and the first thing she will do when she reaches her home will be to distribute these presents. Lady Astor's final remarks before sailing included her present views on prohibition, which, unlike Mrs. Asquith's, are not likely to get her into any trouble. Lady Astor declared that from what she had seen and heard of prohibition in this country and Canada, she was convinced that it had been a "big contribution to the spiritual regeneration of the world," and that the net result for America had talked to special workers, Salvation Army people, etc., and believed all they told her with regard to prohibition having uplifted the poor, greatly reducing their tasks. While it had been affirmed that rich people could get all they wanted to drink in America, she had seen nothing of this condition herself. All the same, she was not going to advocate prohibition legislation in England, she said, though she should support local option by direct vote laws.

Aprons of this subject, it seems to be conclusively proven by statistics, obtained by a thorough investigation of the results of prohibition, that it is decidedly a success. While there have been some evil born of it, the net result is, as Lady Astor said, all to the good. A short time ago a circular letter was sent to 486 American colleges to ascertain whether or not prohibition had diminished drinking among the students, and the replies were overwhelmingly to the effect that there had been a marked decrease in the past three years.

There has been one result from prohibition which should appeal particularly to women. Drinking has been a powerful contributory influence to immortality, and many a poor girl can trace her downfall to her first drink. Before prohibition all intoxicants were as free as water, even the most reputable restaurants and hotels served drinks unhesitatingly to women; the saloons and disorderly places were all the time growing closer together. Now things are very different. It is true that "something to drink" can be obtained if one has the money to pay for it, but this fact restricts drinking and "treating" to a comparatively few, and innocent girls are therefore much less exposed to the danger resulting from the insidious cocktail. At all events, while the Wisconsin Legislative committee on vice finds that "the chief cause of the downfall of women and girls is the close connection between alcoholic drink and commercialized vice," the Chicago vice committee, agreeing to this, states positively the conclusion that:

"Viewed as a whole, the new aspects of the problem of sexual immorality in the United States clearly reveal enormous benefits as the result of prohibition."

Therefore I think we are perfectly safe in banishing all doubts on this subject, and in hugging to our souls the conviction that prohibition has been a blessing to the country. It has been quite difficult to convince some of us of this fact, but now that all the countries are heard from, so to speak, it seems time to capitulate. From the jails, poorhouses, hospitals, missions and all places as well known to the drunkards of yesterday, come overwhelming proof of the benefits of prohibition. There will always be drinking so long as the manufacture of liquors and other intoxicants goes on; there will always be unhappy evidences of the evil effects of drinking, but prohibition has certainly diminished these evils, and for this we should be infinitely grateful.

DON'T LIKE STATE DIVISION.

There are many in the state who would like to see the capitol removed from Tallahassee to some central spot in the state but they would not like to see the state divided. There are many things to be considered about state division and the Tampa Tribune sums them up very concisely in the following:

"It is pitiful to see how some who started out to advocate the removal of Florida's state capital have gone off chasing the 'will o' the wisp' of state division!"

"The Tribune doubts very seriously whether if put to the vote which must be taken, that any appreciable demand for state division would be found. Every question of sentiment, association business and economic demand, cries out against the thing for the cost, the delay, the confusion, and most of all, the division, which would result if the movement continued.

"Two states instead of one. Two state capitals with a duplication of state offices from governor, supreme court and all, down to the varicest constable, would be the lot of the people. Two sets of United States senators, and congressmen would have to be elected. A satisfactory apportionment of the state's expense account, and a division of its income would be needed. Two of everything that pertains to the state's functioning would be needed. This would not mean handing over the old set of officers, departments, and system to one of the new states and holding elections for only the other. The officers and department heads of the Florida state machinery are the servants of the Florida as it stands today. Neither half, if created into a new state, would be content to, nor could, hand over to the other that machinery and equipment now functioning.

"In addition to this trouble, delay, expense, and annoyance, there is to be considered the fact that two additional United States senators would be created from the 'Solid South.' The Republican administration is in control. If it conducts itself sanely in material matters, for the duration of this congress, it will, in all probability retain control in the November elections. Then he must be indeed an optimist who can see a Republican senate and a Republican chief executive approving and constituting another 'Solid South' state with its up-setting addition of two new Democratic United States senators!"

State division looms like a beacon star to those who have not considered the maze through which it is gleaming. Those who attempt to follow it soon will find that instead it is, indeed and in truth, an ignis fatuus, that will-o'-the-wisp which leads you on and on into greater depths of gloom and distraction, and which, when approached at nearness, disappears as a mist leaving the eager pursuer lost indeed."

PLAN TO CREATE CIVILIAN NAVAL RESERVE FORCE

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 16.—The navy department plan to create a civilian naval reserve force, similar to the national guard, was adopted yesterday by the senate in accepting an amendment of the appropriations committee increasing the House provision of $50,000 to $3,000,000 to begin the work.

Under the plan of the department 3,000 officers and 10,000 enlisted men would be molded into a civilian reserve force, paid for one month's service annually, and be subject to call to duty. Reservists would receive two weeks training annually on naval vessels.

The naval reserve plan was adopted during initial consideration of $249,000,000 naval budget. Major contents went over until today. Senator King, Democrat, Utah, criticizing alleged "extravagance" in the appropriations, and giving notice that he would make an effort to reduce the navy personnel of 86,000 men voted by the House and left unchanged by the committee. Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, also criticized the size of the budget.

GREAT MAJORITY FAVOR R. R. STRIKE

(By The Associated Press) CINCINNATI, June 16.—By an overwhelming majority in favor of a strike is being cast by members of eleven shop crafts and maintenance of way unions, said a formal statement issued here last night by the heads of the Unions affected by recent decisions of the railroad labor board, who added that the decision of the members would be complied with by them. The combined membership of the unions affected totals 1,225,000 men.

"We would not feel the strike to be the only solution," said the statement, "if the attitude of management did not block all possibility of the other and better alternative." The statement criticized wage cuts made by the railroad labor board, declaring "it has so reduced standards that the strike becomes an act of self-preservation."

Next Legislature Well Qualified By Former Experience

Many Members of 1923 Body Formerly Served—Four New Senators

With final figures now in from the June 6 primary election, statisticians have compiled interesting figures on the next state legislature, these figures on the next state legislature all ures indicating that the 1923 body will be composed of well experienced men, particularly with reference to the senate.

In the house of representatives, carrying a total membership of eighty-four, twenty-six of next year's body were members of the session of 1921. Seven are former members of the lower house, two were attaches of several years' standing and forty-nine are new men.

Thirty-six of the house membership are already well versed in their duties.

The senate count shows that out of a total membership of thirty-two, fourteen are holdovers from the last session. Nine were members of the 1921 senate and were returned to office in the election. Nine members are new, but of this number five were formerly members of the lower house, giving only four entirely new members for the upper body.

MOSQUITOES DOOM SEEN IN FLORIDA

Active anti-mosquito campaigns all along the East Coast, which promise to develop into a statewide drive to rid Florida of these pests, is reported by George W. Simons, chief sanitary engineer of the state board of health, who is in Orlando on official business.

Mr. Simons said that Titusville, Miami, Daytona Beach, New Smyrna, Perry and other cities were taking great interest in the movement. Several of the cities, he said, have adopted the state board's "model mosquito ordinance," and are carrying on publicity and educational campaigns in behalf of the work.

He said that while Orlando is fortunate in having but few mosquitoes, the problem of getting rid of them is one which should interest the entire state.

YOUNG GIRL DROWNS AT CORONADO BEACH

(By The Associated Press) DAYTONA, Fla., June 16.—Miss Henrietta Fairweather, 16 year old daughter of Mrs. J. H. Fairweather of New Smyrna and Indianapolis, was drowned while swimming in the surf at Coronado Beach, New Smyrna, yesterday with a party of young men and women. Her body was recovered.

Her swimming companions were unable to account for her death. She had ventured out afar in the water and they did not know of her plight until they came from the surf. Her mother recently returned to Indianapolis and the young women had been visiting her sister at New Smyrna.

Crop Prospects Are Bright in Florida Says Federal Bureau

Most Of Citrus Belt Has Had Good Rains and Heavy Bloom.

(By The Associated Press) GAINESVILLE, June 15.—Crop production prospects are "decidedly encouraging" in Florida according to the monthly review of the Federal Bureau of Crop Estimates, issued under date of June 10.

Citrus fruits are recovering from dry weather damage and are showing a heavy late bloom, tomatoes, watermelons and other truck crops are moving in greater than usual volume and virtually all staple crops are well cultivated and making excellent growth.

Recent rains have done some damage especially to the cotton crop. Most of the citrus belt has had good rains and new growth and heavy late bloom make prospects more optimistic. While no estimates of production for the 1922-23 season can be made, at this time with sufficient accuracy to justify its publication, present conditions point to a somewhat larger crop than that of the season just closing, says the review.

Rumors of outbreaks of citrus canker in the state are circulating. The State Plant Board has authorized the following statement in regard to the situation, "An outbreak of citrus canker has occurred at Davie, Florida, a small isolated settlement in the Everglades. No other cases of citrus canker have been found in Florida during the past twenty months."

Harvesting of the State's Irish potato crop is nearing completion. A light movement from Central Florida continues, along with shipments from Northwest Florida. From a standpoint of yield and production the season has been very satisfactory but prices ranged rather low for the bulk of the crop. Production is estimated at 2,500,000 bushels last season.

Production of tomatoes will be the largest of which the Bureau has any record. Based upon East Coast shipments, where the season is almost over, and reports from the West Coast and Central Florida, production will be at least 150 per cent of normal. Movement from the State is well over 9,000 cars and will probably exceed 11,000 by the end of the season, says the Bureau. Last season's total movement was 5,777 cars.

Based upon acreages: 35,400 this season and 18,700 last season, production of watermelons should be practically double that of last year, which was 8,116 cars. Dry weather through lower Florida and parts of central Florida early in the season and father too much rain at the present time will reduce production considerably and a crop of around 13,000 cars is likely if prices justify harvesting and shipping from the total commercial acreage in the state.

Daily Fashion Hint

CAPE AND SLIP-ONS PROMINENT

Capes do their share toward producing graceful draping effects, and they are among the most popular of the season's fashions. The model pictured here is in check serge and corresponds with the dress with which it is worn, and which is trimmed with taffeta ribbon. A straight wide collar, terminating into a scarf, finishes the neck of the cape. Medium size requires 3 1/2 yards 54-inch material and 6 1/2 yards of ribbon or braid.

The slip-on frock to the right, is made up in a combination of foulard silk and satin crepe. The long, one-piece sleeves are set into large armholes, and gathered into straight bands. As the front and back of the dress are made into three sections each, the introduction of contrasting material is greatly simplified. Medium size requires 3 1/2 yards 36-inch figured, and 1 yard plain silk.

BEAR FIGHTS FLIVVER ON SEBRING ROAD BRUIN SHY ONE CLAW

SEBRING, June 15.—Rumors that bears are extinct in the lower end of the peninsula are greatly exaggerated. Grover Strickland of Sebring and H. K. Steele of Zolfo, are assured of the fact and have no compunction in declaiming the correctness of the age old maxim, "Discretion is the better part of valor."

They have one claw to show for their exploit, but modestly disclaim that they captured the claw—one automobile is credited with resisting bruin's efforts while the two young men hastened away.

The two young men headed for Avon Park and had just crossed Josephine Creek eight miles south of Sebring, in a perfectly civilized neighborhood. They hadn't noticed any cattle on the "right of way" and there being no hired speed cop in the Highlands county they might have been making as much as twenty miles per hour when something waddled out of the brush alongside the highway and headed across the road.

The automobile hit bruin amidships and immediately stalled, while his bearship clawed and fussed. The two men hadn't come prepared for battle and left the auto and the bear to handle the war alone.

The bear waddled on his way, minus one claw, as soon as he extricated himself from the oil pan, brake, springs and rods and other underthings of the automobile, and the drivers returned to their auto and proceeded to Avon Park. The claw, they say, was caught in the spring under the machine where bruin left it in his haste. The auto was undamaged.

PREVENT THE MOSQUITO

The Times is undertaking to render a service to this community by giving prominence to the Model Mosquito Ordinance as drafted by the State Board of Health, in this issue. The publication of this Ordinance is not official, in that it has not been ordered by the city council, but it does seem to us that the people of Melbourne and the surrounding community ought to be sufficiently alive to the situation to act in a matter of this kind without being compelled to do so by law.

It is a well known fact that this particular section is bothered less with the mosquito pest than are many other sections along the coast but with a little individual effort on the part of our citizens we can reduce the number that we do have to a degree that will surprise the natives. Why do the mosquitoes come in spells usually after the first summer showers, to disappear again after continued dry weather? Largely because the rains fill the rain barrels, tin cans and other receptacles where the pests are propagated. Then, as the water is evaporated from many of the smaller breeding places the pests are reduced very materially in number.

How many mosquitoes are being brought to life on your own premises every week, Mr. and Mrs. Citizen of this community? You can get fairly good idea of the number by making a careful inspection of your backyard—and do not forget that water tank that is not thoroughly screened. After every precaution is taken by each individual citizen it will then be time for the city working in conjunction with the several civic bodies, to organize a systematic raid on the places where tin cans and other water holding receptacles have been dumped. Read the Ordinance on the front page of this issue of the Times and then resolve that you will do your duty to yourself and to your neighbors.—Melbourne Times.

SHOW US THE LAW.

There is so much disrespect for the law, there are so many so-called technicalities which are really loop holes through which the lawyers can crawl with their clients, there is so much evading of the direct letter of the law and so much negligence in every department of justice that people are despairing of getting justice and you hear it said repeatedly that the general public does not and cannot get a square deal in the courts. This, of course, rests with the people and if they do not get justice there is a recourse for them to take and that recourse is to take out the officers of the law and put in others.

It is disrespect and disregard for law that makes the Ku Klux Klan possible. They handle cases that the law cannot or will not touch and it is by this fact alone that the Klan stands despite all the objections raised to it. The Reporter-Star cites a case as follows:

"Macomber was more of a philosopher than a dunce when he told the court, 'that if that be the law, then the law be an ass.' His remarks were addressed to a condition.

The English court conditions as portrayed by Dickens have their counterparts in America. Law in this county performs some peculiar antics. Usually in the lower courts. The higher courts as a rule sweep away the rubbish and administer justice.

"In an Indiana court a lad not quite ten years old is convicted of deliberate murder of his little nine-year-old playmate because of a dispute over a baseball mit. The gravity of the crime, and the stoical attitude of the lad is so impressive, that the sad hearted parents recognize the need of reformatory treatment. But the court, nor the governor, nor the legal department do not know what to do with the boy because of the technicalities of the law. He is too young for the regular state reformatory, and lacked just a few months of being old enough for the boys' school provided for juvenile offenders. All these officials were baffled. They did not know what to do with him.

"Here is a boy waiting for his sentence for more than a week. Nobody disputing his guilt, no effort to evoke the penalty for his wrong-doing, yet nobody knew where to put him under the law. Finally after a conference between the governor, the parents and the attorney who represented the boy it is agreed to send him for one year to the 'state boys' school' by which time he will have arrived at an age where he will satisfy the technicalities of the law and can be removed to another penal institution. At the end of a year, other technicalities may be found by lawyers and parents that will puzzle the courts and the boy will be turned loose on society without the needed reform. It is these extreme technicalities that breed contempt for law and encourages criminals."

FINDING OUT ABOUT ALCOHOL

The only way to find out whether the prohibition law is a good law by making it work as it was intended to work. If the Volstead Act is rigidly enforced, and if all decent citizens will act together—and individually—to help enforce it for about five years, then everybody will know the Act ought to be retained as it is or modified.

Without such trial, attempts to decide on the merits of the law are futile.

In Ohio the inability of the dry forces to enforce the provisions of the Act have become not only a joke but a scandal. Nor is Ohio the only state in which such conditions obtain. All the border states, north, south, east and west, find it only too easy to import liquor. With hundreds of bootleggers and thirsty citizens conspiring to out-guess the officials, the results are absurd.

It is impossible that the Volstead Act is had. It is unlikely, but it is possible. The only way to find that out, we repeat, is for all decent citizens to unite in aiding its enforcement. If every citizen will take the same law-abiding stand in regard to this matter that he does in regard to other laws, the trick will be turned. The public wants no czarism in this affair no huge army of dry maintenance men taking all sorts of unpleasant and excessive measures, but without an enormous army the law cannot be enforced while otherwise decent citizens work against it. A handful of such enforcement men can do all that is required if they have the support of the public. Give that support for a while—and then it will be easy to know what is right to be done.—Pensacola News.

BANKS AS FACTORS IN BUSINESS

A national bank in the Middle West is soliciting patronage through an advertisement reading: "Commercial agencies are never given information with regard to the worth or financial condition of any depositor or borrower. Confidence never once abused has made us a banking house in which you can place the fullest trust—no matter what your problems may be."

This is a very unusual policy for a national bank to adopt, because the strength of the present credit structure has been built largely by reason of the ratings and reports published by the commercial agencies, and the fact is undisputed that unless the representatives of the agencies are given a hearing in making their investigations it would be impossible for them to function.

All progressive banks use mercantile agency service, and it is fitting for them to co-operate to the extent of abiding by the principles that make the work performed by the agencies possible. There was a time when credit granters were not expected to divulge information regarding their relationship with a debtor, but in this enlightened day the error of reticence of this nature is recognized and information is freely given when properly requested.

SHARPE'S

It profits a bank to be broad-minded in its dealings with the commercial agencies, because many times the reporter can give the bank more information than he receives from the cashier. A reporter always appreciates any special consideration the banker extends, and invariably reciprocates from time to time by imparting to those who are obliging, with voluntary information of importance regarding some accounts in which the bank is interested.

Looking at the attitude of this bank in another light, it would appear as if it were catering to concerns whose financial affairs are not in the best of shape, for no concern in good standing should have any objection to the opinion of its bank being expressed in a report. What would the commercial world think of a manufacturing company that, instead of exploiting its products and service, would advertise that it would not give any information to the commercial agencies regarding the accounts of its customers.

A bank has an obligation to a depositor and, if he chooses to give the name of the institution as a reference, the banker should supply the customary data. Furthermore, the inference has always been that if the banker does not talk at all, or even hesitates to talk freely about the affairs of the subject, the facts in his possession are unfavorable.

Banks, as a rule, have done much to stabilize credit and promote commerce, but the policy of the institution in the Middle West is a step in the wrong direction.—Public Ledger Service to Credit Men.

LADY ASTOR ON PROHIBITION

Lady Astor has left us laden with presents for her six children. She is carrying back with her $150 worth of toys, etc., nicely wrapped in parcels, which the youngest member of her family will unite with bright eyes and smiling faces, and the first thing she will do when she reaches her home will be to distribute these presents. Lady Astor's final remarks before sailing included her present views on prohibition, which, unlike Mrs. Asquith's, are not likely to get her into any trouble. Lady Astor declared that from what she had seen and heard of prohibition in this country and Canada, she was convinced that it had been a "big contribution to the spiritual regeneration of the world," and that the net result for America had talked to special workers, Salvation Army people, etc., and believed all they told her with regard to prohibition having uplifted the poor, greatly reducing their tasks. While it had been affirmed that rich people could get all they wanted to drink in America, she had seen nothing of this condition herself. All the same, she was not going to advocate prohibition legislation in England, she said, though she should support local option by direct vote laws.

Appropos of this subject, it seems to be conclusively proven by statistics, obtained by a thorough investigation of the results of prohibition, that it is decidedly a success. While there have been some evil born of it, the net result is, as Lady Astor said, all to the good. A short time ago a circular letter was sent to 486 American colleges to ascertain whether or not prohibition had diminished drinking among the students, and the replies were overwhelmingly to the effect that there had been a marked decrease in the past three years.

There has been one result from prohibition which should appeal particularly to women. Drinking has been a powerful contributory influence to immortality, and many a poor girl can trace her downfall to her first drink. Before prohibition all intoxicants were as free as wa-

er, even the most reputable restaurants and hotels served drinks unhesitatingly to women; the saloons and disorderly places were all the time growing closer together. Now things are very different. It is true that "something to drink" can be obtained if one has the money to pay for it, but this fact restricts drinking and "treating" to a comparatively few, and innocent girls are therefore much less exposed to the danger resulting from the insidious cocktail. At all events, while the Wisconsin Legislative committee on vice finds that "the chief cause of the downfall of women and girls is the close connection between alcoholic drink and commercialized vice," the Chicago vice committee, agreeing to this, states positively the conclusion that:

"Viewed as a whole, the new aspects of the problem of sexual immorality in the United States clearly reveal enormous benefits as the result of prohibition."

Therefore I think we are perfectly safe in banishing all doubts on this subject, and in hugging to our souls the conviction that prohibition has been a blessing to the country. It has been quite difficult to convince some of us of this fact, but now that all the countries are heard from, so to speak, it seems time to capitulate. From the jails, poorhouses, hospitals, missions and all places as well known to the drunkards of yesterday, come overwhelming proof of the benefits of prohibition. There will always be drinking so long as the manufacture of liquors and other intoxicants goes on; there will always be unhappy evidences of the evil effects of drinking, but prohibition has certainly diminished these evils, and for this we should be infinitely grateful.

DON'T LIKE STATE DIVISION.

There are many in the state who would like to see the capitol removed from Tallahassee to some central spot in the state but they would not like to see the state divided. There are many things to be considered about state division and the Tampa Tribune sums them up very concisely in the following:

"It is pitiful to see how some who started out to advocate the removal of Florida's state capital have gone off chasing the 'will of the wisp' of state division."

"The Tribune doubts very seriously whether if put to the vote which must be taken, that any appreciable demand for state division would be found. Every question of sentiment, association business and economic demand, cries out against the thing for the cost, the delay, the confusion, and most of all, the division, which would result if the movement continued.

"Two states instead of one. Two state capitals with a duplication of state offices from governor, supreme court and all, down to the varicest constable, would be the lot of the people. Two sets of United States senators, and congressmen would have to be elected. A satisfactory apportionment of the state's expense account, and a division of its income would be needed. Two of everything that pertains to the state's functioning would be needed. This would not mean handing over the old set of officers, departments, and system to one of the new states and holding elections for only the other. The officers and department heads of the Florida state machinery are the servants of the Florida as it stands today. Neither half, if created into a new state, would be content to, nor could, hand over to the other that machinery and equipment now functioning.

"In addition to this trouble, delay, expense, and annoyance, there is to be considered the fact that two additional United States senators would be created from the 'Solid South.' The Republican administration is in control. If it conducts itself sanely in material matters, for the duration of this congress, it will, in all probability retain control in the November elections. Then he must be indeed an optimist who can see a Republican senate and a Republican chief executive approving and constituting another 'Solid South' state with its upsetting addition of two new Democratic United States senators!

State division looms like a beacon star to those who have not considered the maze through which it is gleaming. Those who attempt to follow it soon will find that instead it is, indeed and in truth, an ignis fatuus, that will-o'-the-wisp which leads you on and on into greater depths of gloom and distraction, and which, when approached at nearness, disappears as a mist leaving the eager pursuer lost indeed."

PLAN TO CREATE CIVILIAN NAVAL RESERVE FORCE

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 16.—The navy department plan to create a civilian naval reserve force, similar to the national guard, was adopted yesterday by the senate in accepting an amendment of the appropriations committee increasing the House provision of $50,000 to $3,000,000 to begin the work.

Under the plan of the department 3,000 officers and 10,000 enlisted men would be molded into a civilian reserve force, paid for one month's service annually, and be subject to call to duty. Reservists would receive two weeks training annually on naval vessels.

The naval reserve plan was adopted during initial consideration of $249,000,000 naval budget. Major contents went over until today. Senator King Democrat, Utah, criticizing alleged "extravagance" in the appropriations, and giving notice that he would make an effort to reduce the navy personnel of 86,000 men voted by the House and left unchanged by the committee. Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, also criticized the size of the budget.

GREAT MAJORITY FAVOR R. R. STRIKE

(By The Associated Press) CINCINNATI, June 16.—By an overwhelming majority in favor of a strike is being cast by members of eleven shop crafts and maintenance of way unions, said a formal statement issued here last night by the heads of the Unions affected by recent decisions of the railroad labor board, who added that the decision of the members would be complied with by them. The combined membership of the unions affected totals 1,225,000 men.

"We would not feel the strike to be the only solution," said the statement, "if the attitude of management did not block all possibility of the other and better alternative." The statement criticized wage cuts made by the railroad labor board, declaring "it has so reduced standards that the strike becomes an act of self-preservation."

Next Legislature Well Qualified By Former Experience

Many Members of 1923 Body Formerly Served—Four New Senators

With final figures now in from the June 6 primary election, statisticians have compiled interesting figures on the next state legislature, these figures on the next state legislature allures indicating that the 1923 body will be composed of well experienced men, particularly with reference to the senate.

In the house of representatives, carrying a total membership of eighty-four, twenty-six of next year's body were members of the session of 1921. Seven are former members of the lower house, two were attaches of several years' standing and forty-nine are new men.

The senate count shows that out of a total membership of thirty-two, fourteen are holdovers from the last session. Nine were members of the 1921 senate and were returned to office in the election. Nine members are new, but of this number five were formerly members of the lower house, giving only four entirely new members for the upper body.

MOSQUITOES DOOM SEEN IN FLORIDA

Active anti-mosquito campaigns all along the East Coast, which promise to develop into a statewide drive to rid Florida of these pests, is reported by George W. Simons, chief sanitary engineer of the state board of health, who is in Orlando on official business. Mr. Simons said that Titusville, Miami, Daytona Beach, New Smyrna, Perry and other cities were taking great interest in the movement. Several of the cities, he said, have adopted the state board's "model mosquito ordinance," and are carrying on publicity and educational campaigns in behalf of the work. He said that while Orlando is fortunate in having but few mosquitoes, the problem of getting rid of them is one which should interest the entire state.

Mr. Simons reported great progress in enforcing health laws all over the state, commenting especially upon the number of cities that have recently voted bonds for extension of sewerage systems, and adoption of other progressive measures. The entire state, he said, is watching with great interest the efforts of Pure Food Inspector Jesse Hamilton to enforce the sanitation laws with respect to dairies, expressing the belief that the example set by the local inspector will be followed elsewhere.

YOUNG GIRL DROWNS AT CORONADO BEACH

(By The Associated Press) DAYTONA, Fla., June 16.—Miss Henrietta Fairweather, 16 year old daughter of Mrs. J. H. Fairweather of New Smyrna and Indianapolis, was drowned while swimming in the surf at Coronado Beach, New Smyrna, yesterday with a party of young men and women. Her body was recovered.

Her swimming companions were unable to account for her death. She had ventured out far in the water and they did not know of her plight until they came from the surf. Her mother recently returned to Indianapolis and the young women had been visiting her sister at New Smyrna.

Crop Prospects Are Bright in Florida Says Federal Bureau

Most Of Citrus Belt Has Had Good Rains and Heavy Bloom.

(By The Associated Press) GAINESVILLE, June 15.—Crop production prospects are "decidedly encouraging" in Florida according to the monthly review of the Federal Bureau of Crop Estimates, issued under date of June 10. Citrus fruits are recovering from dry weather damage and are showing a heavy late bloom, tomatoes, watermelons and other truck crops are moving in greater than usual volume and virtually all staple crops are well cultivated and making excellent growth. Recent rains have done some damage especially to the cotton crop.

Most of the citrus belt has had good rains and new growth and heavy late bloom make prospects more optimistic. While no estimates of production for the 1922-23 season can be made, at this time with sufficient accuracy to justify its publication, present conditions point to a somewhat larger crop than that of the season just closing, says the review.

Rumors of outbreaks of citrus canker in the state are circulating. The State Plant Board has authorized the following statement in regard to the situation, "An outbreak of citrus canker has occurred at Davie, Florida, a small isolated settlement in the Everglades. No other cases of citrus canker have been found in Florida during the past twenty months."

Harvesting of the State's Irish potato crop is nearing completion. A light movement from Central Florida continues, along with shipments from Northwest Florida. From a standpoint of yield and production the season has been very satisfactory but prices ranged rather low for the bulk of the crop. Production is estimated at 2,500,000 bushels last season.

Production of tomatoes will be the largest of which the Bureau has any record. Based upon East Coast shipments, where the season is almost over, and reports from the West Coast and Central Florida, production will be at least 150 per cent of normal. Movement from the State is well over 9,000 cars and will probably exceed 11,000 by the end of the season, says the Bureau. Last season's total movement was 5,777 cars.

Based upon acreages: 35,400 this season and 18,700 last season, production of watermelons should be practically double that of last year, which was 8,116 cars. Dry weather through lower Florida and parts of central Florida early in the season and father too much rain at the present time will reduce production considerably and a crop of around 13,000 cars is likely if prices justify harvesting and shipping from the total commercial acreage in the state.

Daily Fashion Hint

CAPES AND SLIP-ONS PROMINENT

Capes do their share toward producing graceful draping effects, and they are among the most popular of the season's fashions. The model pictured here is in check serge and corresponds with the dress with which it is worn, and which is trimmed with taffeta ribbon. A straight wide collar, terminating into a scarf, finishes the neck of the cape. Medium size requires 3 1/2 yards 54-inch material and 6 1/4 yards of ribbon or braid. The slip-on frock to the right, is made up in a combination of foulard silk and satin crepe. The long, one-piece sleeves are set into large armholes, and gathered into straight bands. As the front and back of the dress are made into three sections each, the introduction of contrasting material is greatly simplified. Medium size requires 3 1/4 yards 36-inch figured, and 1 yard plain silk. First Model: Pictorial Review Cape No. 9895. Sizes, 16 years and 36 and 42 inches bust. Price, 35 cents. Dress No. 9605. Sizes, 14 to 20 years and 34 to 42 inches bust. Price, 35 cents. Second Model: Dress No. 9911. Sizes, 34 to 44 inches bust and 16 to 20 years. Price, 35 cents.

BEAR FIGHTS FLIVVER ON SEBRING ROAD BRUIN SHY ONE CLAW

SEBRING, June 15.—Rumors that bears are extinct in the lower end of the peninsula are greatly exaggerated. Grover Strickland of Sebring and H. K. Steele of Zolfo, are assured of the fact and have no compunction in declaiming the correctness of the age old maxim, "Discretion is the better part of valor."

They have one claw to show for their exploit, but modestly disclaim that they captured the claw—one automobile is credited with resisting bruin's efforts while the two young men hastened away.

The two young men headed for Avon Park and had just crossed Josephine Creek eight miles south of Sebring, in a perfectly civilized neighborhood. They hadn't noticed any cattle on the "right of way" and there being no hired speed cop in the Highlands county they might have been making as much as twenty miles per hour when something waddled out of the brush alongside the highway and headed across the road. The automobile hit bruin amidstships and immediately stalled, while his bearship clawed and fussed. The two men hadn't come prepared for battle and left the auto and the bear to handle the war alone.

The bear waddled on his way, minus one claw, as soon as he extricated himself from the oil pan, brake, springs and rods and other underthings of the automobile, and the drivers returned to their auto and proceeded to Avon Park. The claw, they say, was caught in the spring under the machine where bruin left it in his haste. The auto was undamaged.

GUN CLUB MEET YESTERDAY CONSIDERABLY DAMPENED BY WEATHER

Rain again put the damper on the shooting yesterday at the traps of the Sanford Rod & Gun Club.

After the rain the contest was very good, with fifteen contestants at the traps and excellent shooting conditions.

The crowd of spectators was not so large yesterday perhaps on account of a misunderstanding of some which also may have kept several regular contestants away.

The members of the gun club were certainly welcome to the use of the grounds and that the Elks Club wanted them there and wanted them all to become Elks.

It is probable that the Gun Club division of the Sanford Rod and Gun Club will have a meeting this week to elect new officers and reduce the membership fee in the Gun Club division to $1.00 a year or thereabouts.

The yesterday's score as well as the season's average of all contestants are shown below:

Table with 3 columns: Name, Yest. Score, Season Aver. Lists names like Wight, R. B., Coleman, J. B., Hill, W. C., etc.

MYSTERIOUS KILLING OF R. R. CONDUCTOR

(By The Associated Press) JACKSONVILLE, June 16.—Officials of this county and railroad special agents continued last night their efforts to round up negroes believed to have been unauthorized passengers on a Seaboard Air Line railroad freight train.

Jenkins' body was brought to this city. Other members of the freight train's crew reported that the first they knew of the conductor's death was when they saw his lantern beside the track as the freight pulled out of Thallman after switching there some time.

Two negroes were arrested while search centered on a third who escaped when the special agents of the railroad bore down on them.

A coroner's jury at Thallman returned a verdict to the effect that Jenkins was killed by unidentified parties. He was apparently shot to death while working on a hot box.

INDIANA OPERATORS
CALL OFF CONFERENCE
(By The Associated Press)

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 16.—Withdrawal of their acceptance of an invitation to meet the United Mine Workers in a joint wage conference was announced last night by the policy committee of the Indiana Bituminous Operators' Association. The Indiana operators in the future will deal only with the miners of this state, the committee announced. The action follows similar action taken by the Illinois operators, a statement by the committee said.

WEATHER AND CROP CONDITIONS IN FLORIDA FOR THE WEEK ENDING JUNE 13, 1922

Temperature: Temperature about normal over the section, except portions of the peninsula where the average ranged from 2 degrees to 3 degrees daily above the normal; mid-day temperatures were particularly high during the last days of the week. The percentage of sunshine was above the normal, ranging from 72 to 92 per cent.

Rain: There were light showers and a few locally heavy rains, but as a rule no rain of moment occurred, and much of the section was without precipitation; fortunately none was needed.

Crops: The absence of rain and the ample sunshine were favorable for farm work, which progressed very satisfactorily; most crops were getting grassy, and there is still complaint of grass, but the hot sunshine enabled farmers to do much work in that line. The cloudless days an dhigh temperature, however, did considerable damage to tomatoes and melons, although heavy shipment continued. Some corn on low lands where the soil has continued too wet for a long period previous to the present fair weather is poor, but the corn crop, as a rule, is good, and favorable progress was made during the week; much of the crop has been "laid by." Roasting ears are abundant in all sections. Cotton, a dry, hot weather plant, improved with the cessation of rain, although the rather sudden change from moderate temperatures to excessive heat was rather unfavorable. Plants are fruiting well; there are local reports of weevil but the pest is as yet inactive. The cane crop is making good progress. Peanuts are doing well, but that crop, too, is troubled to some extent with grass. The bulk of the sweet potato crop was planted during the last "rainy spell" all of which is making favorable progress. Velvet beans, peas, and minor crops made fair to good growth. Tobacco is excellent; much was harvested during the week. Ranges are in good condition.

Senator Denounces Eastern Press For Condemning Tariff

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Metropolitan newspapers, especially of the eastern seaboard and importing houses and department stores of the country, were attacked in the senate yesterday by Senator McCumber, republican of North Dakota, who charged that they were spreading an "insidious and poisonous propaganda" against the pending tariff bill to further their selfish interests and to maintain "extortionate" profits.

Assailing particularly New York, Boston and Philadelphia newspapers, the committee chairman said the Republicans had decided to change their policy of keeping silent on the subject of profits and were now ready to meet the arguments, especially of the "so-called Republican press, who have so capriciously condemned this bill."

Senator McCumber's speech, nearly two hours in length, immediately precipitated replies from the Democratic side and brought a resolution by Senator Walsh, Montana, calling upon the attorney-general to advise the senator whether steps had been taken or were to be taken to establish whether a conspiracy existed among the interests mentioned by the North Dakota senator. The resolution asked that if such combination existed, prosecution of those suspected be instituted under the anti-trust laws.

The Montana senator sought immediate action on the resolution but Mr. McCumber objected, saying he was heartily in favor of an investigation of the facts and incidents presented but did not believe the Walsh resolution was in accord with the situation laid before the senate. The resolution went over a day under senate rules.

Senator Underwood, Alabama, Democratic leader, criticized the tariff leader's stand as "most remarkable and entirely new in tariff discussion." He declared that on the position taken by Mr. McCumber, the Republican protectionist no longer had left any appeal to American manufacturers or labor.

"The senator has shown," said Mr. Underwood, "that the profit taking by some of these people ranges as high as 2,200 per cent. If that be true, how can he or his committee expect to protect American labor with 50 per cent duty. What appeal has he left to the American manufacturer? I say if his committee have perpetrated a gigantic fraud on the American people."

Charges that importers of foreign merchandise have taken millions of dollars annually in unjust profits from the consumers of this country, chiefly women, were made by chairman Lodge of the senate finance committee in a formal statement issued yesterday in behalf of the committee.
