

Attractive Xmas Decorations May Be Arranged Cheap

By RUTH PRICE
Almost everyone will use electric Christmas tree light this year but how many homemakers will take full advantage of the other decorative possibilities lying dormant in wall sockets and ceiling fixtures?

One woman of our acquaintance makes her home fairly glow with the Yuletide spirit each year by dressing up the lighting effects in her home with equipment that didn't cost much more than $10 in all, and which she has used year after year to good advantage. She states that anyone can transform her home into a Christmas fairyland for as little as $5 invested in inexpensive and other lighting equipment.

This ingenious housewife starts the pleasant job of decorating her home for Christmas by dressing up the wall fixtures. A red bulb substituted for the ordinary white one, and a small wreath draped behind the fixture, do the trick. On chandeliers, she uses special shades ornamented with Santa Clauses and other Yuletide icons, more red bulbs, and holly and mistletoe tied on with red and green ribbons.

The shades cost only ten cent to a quarter, and can be used over and over again. One of the most effective of them is shaped like a pompetta, and fits over the socket in such a way that the bulb becomes the center of the flower.

At the front window, she places an inexpensive little fixture, a tiny green Christmas tree flanked by electric candles. On the mantle, and every place else where opportunity presents, she places small artificial trees, one lighted with the ordinary varicolored Christmas tree bulbs, one with blue lamps and one with novelty bulbs shaped like toys and figures of Santa Claus. In odd corners, judiciously hidden lights give color and life to paper-mache Santa Claus, slightly and reminiscent which would be only a fraction as attractive without the lighting effects.

One word of caution must be given those who plan similar decorations for their own homes this year—don't forget to make this extra lighting safe as well as attractive. Be sure your cords bear the seal of approval of the Underwriters' Laboratories, and don't string them under rugs or doors or near radiators where the insulation could be damaged.

Make sure, also, before adding this extra equipment, that you have proper fuse protection in the event a short circuit should occur. Possibly the best assurance is a set of fustate, the non-temperable fuses which manufacturers introduced a year or so ago. The 15-ampere size should be used as it is the proper one for ordinary household circuits. These devices avoid the danger of using the wrong size by mistake or having someone destroy their effectiveness by tampering; so they are practically fool-proof.

And when the holidays are over, don't forget that the shades and bulbs and other equipment will be just as fresh and attractive next year if you store them away carefully in a clean, dry place. They represent an investment that will give you pleasure for a long time to come.

Household Hints

From all sides we hear the need for more and different menus for the holiday occasions. So here is a selection—from the "full-sized" turkey dinner to the simple, well-balanced menu which is much less work for the cook, but which may be equally as festive.

The keeping qualities and flavors of the bread or cookies depend largely on the care you give the container. ### Various Agencies Aid In Drive To Hike Citrus Sales

LAKELAND, Dec. 15.—Chambers of commerce, civic clubs, business, transportation companies, shoe stores, clothing stores, restaurants, drug stores and grocery stores, all are co-operating in a tremendous effort to aid the Florida citrus grower through the national citrus sales drive now being conducted throughout the country.

Backing of this worthy effort to boost Florida's greatest quality crop of oranges, grapefruit and tangerines in a consumption, the intensive and highly organized distribution facilities of the 27,000 members of the National Association of Food Chain Stores. With the completion by this group of the first of three national sales drives, movement of fruit to the markets is reaching unparalleled figures.

Weekly shipments, during this first sale effort by the chains, increased more than 81 percent over the preceding four weeks period. The four weeks prior, shipment of all citrus from Florida averaged approximately 1600 cars. During the actual chain sales period when purchases were being made for distribution, weekly inter-state shipments reached the astounding average of 2917 cars. This means that more than a million boxes of citrus fruit were being offered to and consumed by the buying public each week from Florida citrus growers alone.

Using advertising as their greatest sales weapon, chain food stores of Florida are putting great effort into the much needed development of the potential market here in the state. Growers and shippers are thus offered an opportunity to see first hand the type of advertising which will produce the best results. Backing this up is the finest kind of store display and merchandising work.

Fruit cakes require long, slow cooking. To help prevent scorching, line the pans one inch from the top, with two thicknesses of heavy waxed paper or brown paper, well buttered. Do not remove the paper until time to serve the cake as it helps keep it moist when stored.

As soon as fruit cakes are removed from oven let them cool on a rack. Wrap them in several thicknesses of heavy waxed paper, held in place with rubber bands. Store them in a covered earthenware jar in a cool place. Add an orange to the jar for additional flavor and a little moisture.

If your family is against leftovers try mixing them with other foods. Or never serve any warmed over food the day following its first appearance. Wait at least a day; the chances are the family will forget it is a leftover.

World Inquiring About Future Of New Turk Leader

Inonu Is Different Type From Ataturk Who Was Dominant

What happens in the future of Turkey will depend on the type of leader who succeeds Ataturk. The death of Ataturk, the founder of the Turkish republic, has created a vacuum in the leadership of the country.

ANKARA, Turkey, Dec. 14 (AP)—Now that General Inonu is in the chair of Turkey, the world is inquiring about the type of leader who will succeed Ataturk. Inonu's second year in office will be a test of his ability to continue the policies of Ataturk.

His name is important in Turkey because it comes from a battle the general won in the Anatolian locality of Inonu. It was one of the pivotal battles in the bitter Greco-Turkish war of 1919-21 which paved the way for Ataturk's founding of a new Turkey.

Kemal Ataturk gave Inonu his name. Now Inonu is in line for the name of Ataturk himself—for most everybody in Turkey believes that the slender little man taking command at a critical moment in the country's history will prove himself to be a second "father of the Turks."

ligious, political and social customs to be completed. There is a local political situation of near-volcanic possibilities which Ataturk kept from erupting at times only by the use of ruthless force.

Ataturk thought so, too. That's why he called him in before he died and made up the friendship which was broken off a year ago. The two had fought together in the World War. Inonu was chief of staff at Gallipoli when Ataturk kept the Allies from seizing the vital peninsula.

The general was Ataturk's promoter and confidant until 1937. Then the long association suddenly terminated presumably in a squabble over foreign policy. The premier remained in the national assembly but except for that played the role of an ex-number 2 man.

He is the father of two young sons, one in the city of seven. He and his wife are looked up to as model parents. In fact, she is held in such esteem the country once considered inaugurating a national mother's day in her honor.

Unlike Ataturk he is a tactician but at official functions will lift a cup of champagne to the health of his guests. He can manage a sedate fox-trot when it is required. He loves horses and is an expert rider, speaks English, French, and understands German, prefers English-cut

New Russian Car Pride Of Soviets In U. S. Capital

There is a lively demand at home. Officers need many. A few are able to buy them. Still more receive them for meritorious service. Scientists, engineers and noted figures are likely to get one almost any time if production keeps up as planned.

Washington's ZIS-101 is piloted by an American negro chauffeur named Edward. Edward would be in a fine fix if clothes and American administrative methods.

something went wrong with the car unless he knew instinctively how to repair it. The book of directions is in Russian, of which Edward knows not a word.

The car is slightly narrower through the wheel than current models of high priced American cars. Contrary to most European models, it has a left hand drive.

It was made in Russia to the last bolt, said Mr. Oumansky, even the synthetic tires, which cost twice as much as natural rubber. Reputedly they wear longer but have less road-grip.

New Supplies Of Oil Sought By Australia

It is no accident that the burst of activity in New Guinea accompanies a great expansion of the Australian Government's aims program. The Federal Government has kept closely in touch with the corporations and has made its technicians available for advice in the field.

The target of the corporation conducting this search is Australian Petroleum, with stock valued at $5,000,000, an American-British-Australian organization. Australian Petroleum has taken over a special oil permit covering 19,000 square miles of New Guinea previously held by Oil Search Corporation.

Radio Tuned To Russia

It has a straight-eight motor and gets about 15 miles to the gallon. It has a heater, the usual gadgets and gauges and a radio with both long and short wave which is tuned to Russian stations.

Edward said the car took readily to American gasoline. BUTTE, Mont.,—One Butte city employe thinks he has made the record buy in automobiles for all time. He bought eight of them for $11-12 1/2 cents each—recently when the city ordered for bids but none was received.

Talk Of Ickes In Chicago Politics Arouses Interest

Windy City Would Attract Attention If He Decides To Run

CHICAGO, Dec. 15. — Between now and 1940, when the national political parties will name their next Presidential candidates, there will be no more important election anywhere in the country than Chicago's mayoralty election next April.

The Democrats are firmly in the saddle in Chicago. If, however, the Republican party should wrest control of the city's second largest city (and with it control of Illinois and its fat block of twenty-nine electoral votes) from the Democrats next April, Republican leaders from coast to coast would be able to look forward to the 1940 Presidential campaign with a new optimism.

Aside from the national significance attached to Chicago's mayoralty election, the current primary shadow boxing of Mayor and potential candidates for Mayor indicates that the next three months are going to be interesting and educational for the Chicago electorate.

There is, for example, a small but stalwart movement to draft Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, to return to Chicago to run for Mayor either as a Democratic or third-party candidate. Mr. Ickes has not said yet whether or not he will enter the primaries, but there can be little doubt that he would relish an opportunity to attempt to give Chicago its long-overdue house-cleaning. Supporters are trying to convince Mr. Ickes that he has a chance of winning the Democratic nomination and ultimately the election, but the best bet today is that he will not run.

Although neither of them has announced his candidacy, the leading contenders for the Democratic nomination are the leaders of the two widely split factions of the Democratic party in Chicago, Mayor Edward J. Kelley, junior partner of the incumbent Kelly-Nash machine, and States Attorney Thomas Courtney, who has been laboring under native handicaps to establish for himself a reputation as Chicago's Thomas E. Dewey. Chicagoans should have a superb chance to learn something about their municipal government and their county law-enforcement agency if these two really let loose at each other in a primary campaign.

On the Republican side there is thus far only William Hale Thompson, sixty-nine years old, three Mayor of Chicago. "Big Bill" was first elected as a re-

HEENEY, Alaska, Dec. 15. — The Eskimo men who live in the village of Heeneey would be out of luck this winter if the natives are making their own refrigerators. form candidate in 1915, but by original supporters were quickly disillusioned. He won reelection for his third term in 1927 by defeating King George of England across four thousand miles of land and sea. Today he is ready to do and die for his party once more. His views still quite remote from the desperate need of Chicago for efficient municipal government, have been modernized. Today "Big Bill, the Builder," as he calls himself, has decided that "Keep America Out of War" is a pertinent slogan for a mayoralty candidate.

The regular Republican organization, however, will almost certainly not support "Big Bill." The present favorite appears to be thirty-five-year-old Dwight H. Green, who is rated as an able, honest lawyer, with an attractive personality. Mr. Green, as an Assistant United States Attorney, was an outstanding figure in the successful prosecution of "Scarface Al" Capone for income tax evasion. He was United States Attorney at the time of the collapse of the local public utility company, and was replaced by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings to handle the criminal prosecutions that followed. He was succeeded by Michael I. Linn, who might today have been in the mayoralty race but for a recent appointment to the United States District Court.

The draft Ickes drive is being led by Paul H. Douglas, a professor of economics at the University of Chicago. Headquarters have been set up. Skeleton organizations already have been established in a dozen of Chicago's fifty wards. A quarter of a million Ickes pledge cards have been distributed in the last week in an attempt to elicit a public demand of appreciable proportions.

Cleveland's Head Of Welfare Work Has Stirring Life At Forty, Then Went To Work Aiding Poor

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15. — Many a man dreams of making a fortune and retiring in his forties. Fred William Ramsey did it—and then assumed the biggest job of his career.

As director of welfare here, he's fighting some of the city's most stubborn social ills. His money from the state is running low, and he can't be able to have more until the legislature meets in January.

Eleven years ago Ramsey was sitting on top of his own pretty good-sized wealth as president of a $10,000,000 industrial product concern.

He had started out as a stockroom boy. Successively, he was office boy, tin opener, salesman and purchasing agent. Then president.

With that, Ramsey decided he had made enough in his lifetime, and instead of retiring to a country estate, at 42, he plunged into social service work.

In Cleveland's Blue Book.

During the past 10 years Ramsey has been Cleveland's chief money raiser. He has raised most of three years' chairman of the Community Fund. For a while he was General Secretary of the YMCA National Council.

Three years ago, Ramsey, who is listed in Cleveland's Blue Book, a who's who of the city, became director of welfare in the city, generally considered a thankless job. He has organized most of the job purely on a service basis. I feel I had to have something to do, and this seemed worth while.

At this job, he ran smack into a crisis last spring when relief money from the state ran out. Cries of "We want food" were heard in Cleveland, and the families became dependent on his ability to find relief for them.

Then that of State funds.

He combed the relief rolls to find the neediest cases, and kept the relief machinery functioning on a hand-to-mouth basis until new state money was obtained. When his administrative relief workers went unpaid, he dug down in his own pocket. He summed up his economic policy thus:

"For many years to come, and perhaps permanently, millions of our unemployed must look to the federal government for their work."

"We all live in the hope that a new industrial era will dawn in some new device which everyone will want and need—an era such as the internal combustion engine brought."

"Pre-fabricated houses may bring it, or possibly television. Then again perhaps there can be no solution without a world-wide economic adjustment and an international short working week."

The government reports the average annual cash income per person on a farm in the best cotton states is $150 compared with $346 in the other 38 states.

Tests Show Earth May Have Cellar Lined With Jewels

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. — (AP) Perhaps the earth has a "basement" of green gemstones some at a depth of about 400 miles.

Discovery of a sharp change in the properties of the earth at that depth is reported in Nature by K. E. Bullen of Auckland, N. Z. The evidence is an increase in electrical conductivity, obtained by peering with electric currents sent deep into the earth.

Backing up the electrical evidence, says Mr. Bullen, is the fact that earthquake foci, the subterranean points where the quakes seem to originate, do not go deeper than about 100 miles. There is also the evidence, he said, of quake waves. They increase speed about 400 miles down, and the higher rate is apparently due to entry at that point into denser material.

The findings of electricity and seismographs would be explained, Mr. Bullen says, if the earth at 400 miles down is made of ordinary. This is a greenish stone, also called chrysoberyl. Some of the forms are very precious. They are sometimes called green garnet.

The 400-mile form, suggests Mr. Bullen, would have to be made of cubic crystals to account for its density. Normally, cubic crystals are orthorhombic, an irregular form in three planes.

The Senate of Eire by a 98-15 vote declined to elect Senator Patrick Baxter to position of vice-chairman because he had not a competent knowledge of the Irish language. There was no other nomination.

Interstate Trade Conception Gets Jolt From Ruling

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. — (AP) — It is getting so a man can hardly blow away the smoke from a cigarette without finding himself engaged in (or affecting) interstate commerce.

So broad is the scope of the Supreme Court decision in the case of Consolidated Edison company of New York against the national labor relations board that a whole new scanning of the horizon of federal regulation seems likely.

Consolidated Edison is a tremendous power company in part of the number of kilowatts of energy it shoots along its network of wires and cables. Nevertheless, it operates in New York State almost (but not quite) to the exclusion of all other territory.

It sells power to city docks, to railroads and to enterprises which operate the tunnels connecting New Jersey with New York. At no point does it transmit power under its own control outside of New York State. It sells a very small portion to companies which in turn use it in interstate commerce.

Now the national labor relations act provides, roughly, that federal regulations of labor bargaining shall apply to companies engaged in interstate commerce, or whose business "affects" interstate commerce. Under this act, the labor board claimed authority over the relationship between Consolidated Edison and its 40,000 employees. It is agreed that none of the Edison employees engage in interstate commerce. But the labor board contended that sale by the firm of a small portion of its power to companies which use it in interstate commerce brought Edison under federal jurisdiction. The board held that in event of labor trouble a power shut-down would "affect" interstate commerce.

The supreme court agreed. In the nearest recent approach to this decision the court upheld the labor board in its contention that a California fruit company which shipped 25 per cent of its fruit in interstate commerce was directly subject to the labor act. Now it reaches out to extend the act to a company which of itself does not engage in interstate commerce, but simply sells its products to those who do.

In explaining its case, the court pointed out that a labor strike would leave the docks without lights, thus "affecting" not only interstate commerce, but foreign commerce as well.

Moreover, it pointed out that a radio station uses the power, and in event of a shut-down the radio broadcast across state lines also would be affected.

Two years ago the court upset the tariff and production control act by asserting that the industry was local, not national, in character. What now is to offset an argument that coal mining is in interstate commerce because coal is sold to companies which engage in interstate commerce? That is one of the possibilities.

The court has veered about within two years to a course that surely broadened a federal control over such matters as labor and industrial conditions. In the Consolidated Edison decision a member of the court for the first time gave no presentation of the change. In his dissent, Justice Brandeis, rather feebly referred to "the point" when the court was deciding another way and he was one of the majority instead of the present slim minority constituted by himself and Justice McHugh.

Daddies Get A Break From Two-Toned Doll

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 15. — Arthur Petrov spent 11 years of his spare time working on an invention. He finally got it a doll that says both man and papa. People, especially fathers, have long recognized the unhappy fact that pop was getting a raw deal with dolls. But no one was able to do much about it.

The voice box of the Petrov doll is composed of 24 pieces come out as the doll is tilted from side to side.

Originally a steam engineer, Petrov has been in the doll doctor business since 1918.

Since its completion six years ago the Dniepropetrovsk hydroelectric plant, largest in the Soviet Union has produced 95,000,000,000 kilowatt-hours of power.

Fort Wayne Is Successful In Clearing Slums

$2.50-A-Week Houses Are Built On Lots Bought For $1 Each

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Dec. 15.—With new houses for $2.50 a week, built on lots acquired for $1 each, the Fort Wayne Housing Authority hopes to do away with slums.

The first houses are up and occupied. Work is being hurried on others. If the first project of 50 dwellings meets no serious obstacles, a second project of 150 units will be started.

The houses are being now prefabricated by WPA workers in a low-rent factory. The sections are trucked to the lots, where other WPA workers erect them. The WPA figures each house costs about $1,300, of which $500 is for materials. Labor makes up most of the balance.

Sites for these houses are acquired from owners of vacant lots and lots containing old shacks. The owners have been paying taxes for years, while waiting for a chance to dispose of the lots.

Fort Wayne's Housing Authority pays $1 for each lot and agrees to pay all costs of title search and transfer. Also, it promises to recover the lot to the original owner for $1 at any time he finds a better use for it. The houses can be dismantled in 24 hours and moved to another site.

Each house is designed for a family of four. One room, 20 x 12 feet, serves as living room, dining room and kitchen. Besides this there are a bathroom and two bedrooms.

The city housing authority, which holds title to the homes, is tax-exempt, is non-profit, and possesses power of eminent domain. It gets its running expenses from the city and is in essence an agency of the city.

Sanitary Homes Wanted

The idea was born in the spring of 1930 when the state planning board joined in a campaign to provide better and more sanitary homes for unfortunate families. The first step was to enter the aid of Purdue university, experimenting with a prefabricated, low-cost home.

When Purdue's model dwelling was ready, it was erected in an Indianapolis slum area. Last May, William B. F. Hall, chairman of the Fort Wayne Housing Authority, asked the F. H. A. in Washington if Fort Wayne could build houses like the Purdue model in its slum-clearance program.

In that query Hall attributed

New Sugar Cane Harvester Would Take 50,000 Jobs

RAYON COLE, inventor of a new sugar cane harvester, says that 50,000 jobs may be replaced in the cane fields.

All the cane in Florida is harvested by hand. The work is so arduous that 1,000 men are employed in Florida, and 2,000 in Louisiana. That would help solve a great problem if the cane could be harvested by hand, says Cole.

He says the new harvester, now dependent upon being shown the cane, would take the place of the hand harvester. A big cotton gin means a big cane harvester. That happened last year and the harvester for the planters to 1,000,000 bushels of cane.

Wanted: A one-time navy of 100,000 men to harvest the cane. The harvester would take the place of the hand harvester. The harvester would take the place of the hand harvester.

Never Before Have Tires Been Put to Such Gruelling Torture

Ab Jenkins, World's Safest Driver, Establishes 87 New Records for Safety, Speed, Mileage and Endurance... He Drove 3,774 Miles in 24 Hours on the Sharp Granite-like Surface of the Bonneville Salt Beds at Average Speed of 157.87 Miles an Hour

AT SPEEDS as high as 180 miles an hour—with the hot, coarse, abrasive salt grinding, tearing, scorching his tires—Ab Jenkins' special racer, weighing nearly three tons, pounded over the Bonneville Salt Beds last week at such terrific speed that it caused the surface to break up. Before the end of the run the track was so pitted and rough that it was almost impossible to hold the car on its course. Yet Jenkins set 87 new World, International and American speed records on Firestone Tires.

Building tires capable of establishing such records is made possible only because of patented Firestone manufacturing processes. These exclusive features enable Firestone to provide car owners with tires that are extra safe.

For the greatest protection of yourself and your family equip your car with Firestone's TRIPLE-SAFE Tires. By TRIPLE-SAFE we mean—

- 1 PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING — The scientific tread design gives longer non-skid mileage and stops your car up to 25% quicker.
- 2 PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS — Firestone Tires run up to 28 degrees cooler because every fiber of every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. This counteracts the internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.
- 3 PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES — Two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread add strength to the tire and give extra protection against punctures.

Now is the time to make your car tire-safe for fall and winter driving. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with a set of new FIRESTONE TRIPLE-SAFE Tires—the safest tires that money can buy!

At length, some 50 years ago, there appeared the permanent organization of a Pan-American union. But, still, even today, that organization represents more of hope for Pan-American solidarity than it does of past achievement.

U. S. Mistakes In those formative years so absorbed were we in the winning of the west that we left South America to Europeans and Asians. In 1897, for instance, we shipped to Latin America more than one-tenth of the $110,000,000 worth of goods it bought in the world market.

But American genius for empire building was yielding dividends below the Rio Grande. William Wheelwright pioneered steam navigation and railroads. Henry Meigs blasted roadbeds for rails through the Andes.

These were followed by the Guggenheim copper developments in Chile, and other enterprises. Along with these American pioneers went a horde of American adventurers and promoters who, left a different trail. Quick profits their sole objective, fraud and bribes their bait, they neither understood the more leisurely and formal Latin, nor respected him.

They clouded the dream of an American family, and sowed the seeds of discord that led eventually to "The American Illusion," an impressive literary job from Brazil by Eduard Prado. He accused Uncle Sam of insincerity, and urged his fellow Latin to strike out alone, independent of the colossus of the north.

Likewise, Theodore Roosevelt's threat to use our navy and marines to keep the peace below the Rio Grande went a long way to stimulate hatred. The Monroe Doctrine long was a smarting point, too—South Americans feeling that it set us up as a sort of headmaster.

Summing our errors, Secretary of State Elihu Root attended the 1906 Pan-American conference in Rio de Janeiro and did what he could to give a better impression of Uncle Sam. And, later, in Santiago, Chile, he foresaw a new era.

The light lit by Henry Clay was beginning to shine, although the World War was to afford the first full warm glow of American solidarity some 10 years later.

Woman President Of Railway Tells Way To Succeed

Striking Out Alone I believe every girl should have business training, regard less of her station in life. She may have her heart set upon marriage and family as a career, but a little knowledge of business requirements and methods will help her understand better some of the husband's problems.

As far back as Mrs. Alden can remember, someone in her family worked on the Burlington road. Her uncle, Walter J. Jarvis, her father, Harry E. Jarvis, and an older brother, Fred S. Jarvis, were secretaries to Burlington presidents, vice presidents or division superintendents.

As a child she heard the Burlington's business, board meetings, mortgages and policies discussed time and time again. So it seems natural to her that the Burlington should be the major part in her life now.

Started During War Mrs. Alden started to work for the railroad during the World War. She helped handle Liberty Bond sales to its employees. She continued with the road and recently was elected to succeed Charles L. Sturgis, 78, as secretary, when he retired after 58 years of service.

Railroading offers a few opportunities to women, Mrs. Alden says, but she doesn't think that they are greater than those in any other business. Her work, for instance, is filled with details, legal interpretations and application that thrill her, but might bore the next woman.

She tried mixing housework and business, but found the days were too short for both. So she stuck to railroading.

The Aldens were separated by divorce in 1923. Mrs. Alden lives with her twenty-five-year-old son, John Jarvis Alden. His interests lean toward radio, advertising, music and writing. The two enjoy a close companionship.

Mrs. Alden has a variety of hobbies, topped by her desire to grow flowers, get out into the open country, swim and travel. She chooses books relating the experiences of others in foreign lands, likes good, fast moving mystery yarns and won't play cards because she would rather visit than worry about ails, bills or scores.

She is president of one and a member of another. Chien business and professional women's club and draws a line between these and purely social organizations. She prefers the business women's groups, she says, because there she finds hard-headed, hard-working members of her sex who are striving for recognition in a man's world.

Couldn't Buy Legs So He Made His Own OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Unable to buy a pair of artificial limbs after he lost both of his legs in a train accident, Henry Falls, Negro youth whitened some from an old cottonwood log.

Representatives of artificial limb manufacturers who later saw the pair of wooden ones Falls made, said they were a remarkable piece of workmanship. Falls was guided by the illustration in a catalogue of artificial limbs he obtained. His only tools were pocket knife, rusty saw and hammer.

same way that the biggest potatoes come to the top in a fast-moving car on a freight train, he said.

"Pretty soon you find all the little potatoes at the bottom because that's where they apparently want to be," Scott says. "The big ones are at the top where they belong. That's the way it will be in Technocracy."

Once Technocracy is set up, it would pay off in "energy certificates." Money as such would be abolished, but each citizen's standard of living would be approximately what $20,000 a year would sustain.

Debs, lawsuits, insurance, class distinctions and 95 percent of crime would go out along with money and politics.

Scott calls his plan running things as a "blueprint." He wants to apply it to the whole North American continent as a unit, under a "confidential director." He is not interested in Europe or Asia.

He does not foresee direct action by the Technocrats, nor does he believe any other uprising could succeed in the United States. "We're against Nazism, Fascism and Communism," he says. "We're also against democracy."

Unity Of Americas Has Been Visioned For Full Century

And most important of all, our President James Monroe had 18 years before warned European nations of American presence so vigorously that his pronouncement lives today as the cornerstone of United States foreign policy, the Monroe Doctrine.

At length, some 50 years ago, there appeared the permanent organization of a Pan-American union. But, still, even today, that organization represents more of hope for Pan-American solidarity than it does of past achievement.
