

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
(c) 1972 by Charles Tribbiani, N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My best friend, a 40-year-old divorcee with two children, joined Parents Without Partners last year. She met a swell man (a widower with three children) and they are being married soon, and I am so envious I am ashamed of myself.

I would love to join Parents Without Partners and meet a nice gentleman with a family who wants to meet a nice lady with children.

I am 42 and have three wonderful sons who need a father. The problem is I am still married. My husband is never home and I am tired of being both mother and father. If I could find a man who really wanted to stay home and be a family man I would love the one I'm married to so fast he wouldn't know what hit him.

DEAR PARENT: Sorry, but you don't qualify for membership in Parents Without Partners, because technically you HAVE a partner. I suggest you get some counseling to improve your marital relationship, and get that silent partner job you're doing a more cooperative time. Widows and divorcees have enough competition without married women who would like a change.

DEAR ABBY: I am 76, and I am NOT senile, but something has puzzled me since my teens. I was secretary to a psychiatrist for many years, but could never pick up the courage to ask him about my problem, if you can call it a problem. [Unfortunately, he is dead now.]

I can "see" things that are not there. For instance, I glance down on the floor, and in the figured linoleum pattern I can actually "see" an animal, bird, or the profile of a person! At times I can look again and see the same image, and at other times, no matter how hard I try to see that image again, I can't.

These are not just crazy lines all over the linoleum, yet at a glance they go together to form a distinct image. I can see these images in the breeze, in clouds, and in some hedge-podge modern paintings. And if I look a moment later, the images I clearly saw are gone forever.

DEAR PUZZLED: The images are conjured up by your imagination, and I dare say there is not a person alive who has not had the same experience, so don't let it bother you.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning rewards for being honest: I was raised on a farm in Indiana by a father who didn't spare the rod, and I thank God for him every day of my life. When other kids were being rewarded for being "good," my father used to say, "It's not what you'll get if you're GOOD, it's what you'll get if you're NOT GOOD you ought to worry about."

POLLY'S POINTERS

Vinyl Tape Repairs Couch Scratch Marks

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY:—My answer to Mrs. C. W. whose cat scratches her black vinyl covered couch is that it may be repaired by pasting small pieces of self-adhering black vinyl tape over the holes. This will prevent further tearing and the tape will be practically invisible if it is put on carefully. If necessary, the tape can be removed occasionally. Also, Margie who deplored the fact that duty and produce products were at the beginning of her super-market route, needs only to reverse her route so that her last stop will be at the crushable items stands. Perhaps she will need to walk a bit more but she will avoid a lot of frustration.—ELLA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY:—Could anyone give me suggestions on how to remove marks made by plastic tablecloths that ate into the varnish on my pine tables? The marks are quite visible and I do not want to refinish the tables as they are only a few months old. Thank you for any help.—MRS. R. H.

Highlights TV Time Previews

8-9 (CBS) Carol Burnett. Another central-theme program, this time a salute to the great musicals from M.G.M., with the help of guests Ruth Brown and singer John Davidson, as well as the regulars. Funny skits has Ruth playing a "retiring" beauty queen discussing the year-that-was program with the perennial contest winner, played by Harvey Korman.

8-10 (NBC) Adam-12 "The Surprise." The only thing that's a surprise to Malloy about his birthday party from his colleagues is the present. All through a day of investigations and emergency calls, Malloy talks to Reed about the party.

8-9 (ABC) The Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau. "The Smile of the Walrus." This, the first of this year's series of Cousteau's special, is an intensive study of the giant walrus. Most interesting camera work, especially showing the spring migration from their Alaska Walrus Island sanctuary northward to the Arctic Circle. There is a study, too, of the Eskimo program to prevent their natural source for food.

9-10 (CBS) Medical Center. Potential cancer cures create immense interest, especially among desperate victims. A wealthy woman is afflicted in this episode and pleads for special treatment of an untested formula developed by a research scientist (played by Ken Howard). Dr. Gannon has to decide to heed the patient (played by Kay Medford) or respect the scientist's secrecy.

9-10 (ABC) Burt Bacharach Special. Another great hour of music from one of the leading composers of the day. Bacharach has been given support from Sammy Davis Jr.,

Anthony Newley and Vikki Carr. A captivating sequence is a duet with Sammy and Newley on a medley of Newley-Leslie Bricusse songs. It's an absolute enchanting hour.

10-11 (ABC) The Wonderful World of Agravation, Part XII. Another fun-filled hour with Alan King and a scintillating lineup of guest, Lee Grant, Tony Randall, Jack Klugman, Larry Storch, Ron Carey and Timmy Rogers. As per usual, Alan's satirical sketches scorch the medical profession, divorce, taxi drivers, the telephone company, women's lib and big-city crime.

10-11 (NBC) Search "The Adonis File." What we have here is a kidnapping and a $10 million ransom payoff, not so much to free the hostage, but to keep a very important public figure out of a scandalous exposure. Bill Bixby plays the host of the top nighttime show who announces he's going to run for the U.S. Senate. Soon after, his mistress is kidnapped and Lockwood (Hugh O'Brian) takes charge. He has orders to deliver the ransom to avoid the scandal.

Dead Child's Father Jailed

Starvation Death Leads To State Custody Of Five Other Children

MIAMI (AP)—Five hungry brothers and sisters of a 3-year-old boy who died of starvation have been taken away from their mother and jailed father and placed in the state's custody.

Juvenile Court Judge Dixie Chastain Wednesday ordered the five kept in protective custody for at least the next 30 days after hearing testimony that the children were ill-fed and ill-cared for in a home too filthy for human occupancy.

"I love my children, I want them back," wept Lolis Nozza, who was present during the custody hearing involving her children: Tara, 1, Nicholas, 5,

Casselberry Asked To Rejoin CALNO

To Rejoin CALNO

LONGWOOD—The City of Casselberry, which had previously withdrawn from the CALNO Council of Local Governments, will be invited back into the fold contingent on payment of a total of $3,250 in fees. On making the motion, Mayor Granville Brown of Winter Springs remarked that it would be difficult to do the best job without Casselberry participating. He indicated that he discussed the matter with Acting Mayor of Casselberry Edith Duerr and City Manager Ron Bergman and found them receptive to the idea.

The Council declined an invitation from the Orange County League of Mayors for South Seminole cities to join, but said they had no objection if the cities in North Orange would like to join CALNO.

The representatives from Altamonte Springs, Longwood, and Winter Springs — agreed to providing a mutual aid agreement for fire protection between the cities and in the case of schools, outside the city limits.

CALNO is endeavoring to update land use maps and is having a base map of the whole area made up. They also want to help combine the resources of the participating municipalities to study population and fire control districts.

An important meeting to discuss regional requests for sewer funding is scheduled for 9 a.m. Wednesday at Altamonte Springs.

In Statewide Survey Students Are Scored Highly

By BILL SCOTT

Results of the statewide reading assessment of selected second and fourth graders show that Seminole County students in the grades tested did well in comparisons with other counties in the state.

The tests, part of the Educational Accountability Act, passed by the state legislature in 1971, were conducted in grades two and four in each county elementary school in February, 1972.

A random sampling of students was used. At grade two, Seminole County tested 488, and at grade four the tests were given to 504.

Scoring of the tests, which were prepared by the Center for the Study of Evaluation at the University of California, was done by Software Programming and Associates of Titusville.

Comparing Seminole County with the state range of achievement, the test results showed that at grade two, 65 per cent of the tested students were within the state range; 30 per cent were above the range and only five per cent of students were below the state range.

In grade four, tests disclosed that Seminole did even better with 55 per cent of those tested scoring above the state range in the 41 items used in the tests. Approximately 40 per cent were within the state range and only five per cent were listed below.

In section three of the tests, which identify skills or abilities that are being measured, there were none listed below the state percentage, in such fields as fine visual form, classifications and relationships, in grade two. At grade four, Seminole students were above state percentage in initial consonant, final consonant, syllabification, rhyming words, fine visual forms, consonants, vowels, structural analysis, sequence, details, outcomes, vocabulary, antonyms, compound words, punctuation, alphabetization, writing structure and grammatical structure. There were no Seminole fourth graders under the state percentages.

Deputy Fred Johnson arrested Johnny Henry Doby, 49, of 115 Esplanade Way, Casselberry, was charged with possession of barbiturates, methaqualone, and possession of marijuana (less than five grams).

A classroom at South Seminole Middle School was entered, but apparently nothing was taken. Entry was gained through a window.

Editorial Comment

New Form Of Skyjacking Now Appears

All of the details of the tragic skyjacking of the Southern Airways jet are not yet and may never be fully known.

But at least this much is sure. This was a new variety of hijacking. What is known makes the fact of its occurrence and the persons concerned important beyond the usual.

When the piracy was first reported over the skies of Alabama there was no indication of what the passengers have now reported "28 hours in hell" would ensue.

But they did. Now it is specifically in the laps of the companies and agencies involved to see what lessons can be learned and what new steps are practical.

Over these tragic years for air travelers, who have endured threats of loss of life as the hard motivations of the hijackers have reflected international rivalries, greed and some cases of truly wretched reasoning, preventive and corrective steps have been tried. Most have failed.

In the case of international hijacking where international agreements are needed, national interests have blocked the actions. Hope for the UN to take the lead in this obviously global challenge has been in vain.

But such dastardly deeds as the Southern Airways affair must be analyzed and this challenge met.

Common sense argues that when they cease to be profitable the hijackers will stop this high-stakes gamble. As a matter of record they have proven to be real long shots for most of the gamblers.

It also seems to be that the great urban airports where effective screening and searching is done are being deserted and other smaller airports where such preventive means are not in force are used to attract the criminals.

This must be one of the concerns that the committees and experts who are being mobilized by those who are truly concerned and by some politicians who see in this a means to keep their names before the public favorably, should dig into.

Freedom to fly without fear of hijacking is something that should be regarded as a prime American right. But in the search to achieve it, the word "now" is to make progress slowly but surely.

Terrorism early found the hijacked airplane an effective weapon. But there have been ways found to lessen this hazard and, indeed, to force terrorism into other channels.

You Really Open More Than Mail

By HAL BOVLE NEW YORK (AP)— Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

When you get to thinking how important you are, you might consider that. You are only one of several people on earth; the sun is large enough to contain a million earths; there are 100 billion stars like the sun in the Milky Way, and there are at least 100 million galaxies like the Milky Way in known space.

One out of eight Americans scores. And about one in every three who scores denies it.

Few who ever lived could have loved a garden more than Sir William Temple, 17th century English statesman and author. In his will, he directed that, while the rest of his body was to be interred in Westminster Abbey, his heart should be removed and buried near the sundial in the garden of his estate.

Quotable notables: "A conference is a meeting of a group of men who, singly, can do nothing but who, collectively, agree that nothing can be done." — Fred Allen.

Know your language: Many people think that the word longshoreman, for someone who loads ships, is descriptive of the robust appearance these men often have. Actually, it originated from "along the shore men," a designation of where they work.

Expensive surface: It takes 50,000 gallons of paint, varnish and lacquer to coat a battleship.

Sign in a Manhattan taxicab: "I love to be told where to go but not how to get there."

Good advice, bad example: Horatio Alger Jr. never practiced what he preached. In more than 100 books, he assured young people that luck followed pluck and hard work always led to prosperity. But he liked to step along the primrose path, and he died penniless.

Strange deaths: Most men die uneventfully in bed, but all don't. Here are a few weird exits from life:

Aeschylus was killed when an eagle dropped a tortoise on his bald head.

Howard, a starving poet, was given a coin, bought a loaf of bread and died swallowing the first morsel.

Francis Bacon contracted a fatal cold while stuffing a fowl with snow as an experiment in refrigeration.

It was Walter Bagehot who observed, "Men who do not make advances to women are apt to become victims to women who make advances to them."

Now comes Nixon with a highly favorable grain deal, a wide range of trade concessions, a multibillion-dollar technical aid and grants agreement and other investment and aid measures in a variety of lines—which could set the Soviet Union on the way to meeting the more pressing of its consumer demands, easing the growing political pressures on the Kremlin's men.

What Nixon strategists hope is that the bureaucrats who rule in Moscow will not be willing to sacrifice U.S. accommodation and these dollar-ruble advantages for power showdowns in the Middle East, Asia, Africa or Western Europe.

Nixon's advisers don't expect the Soviet Union to give up its goals, or to start down a peaceful path. They do hope the Kremlin's men, thinking of trade, grain, gas and investments, will take fewer risky chances and will abort some of their more dangerous aggressive techniques.

The objective is not Utopia — but a slightly greater chance for peace.

Negotiations with China have barely started. But there are hopes here that the same approach can be made. It is known the Chinese are badly in need of technical aid and investment.

Richard Nixon has been accorded a Roman triumph. Just as the Romans commissioned a wreath-bearer to follow behind the hero of the moment and whisper, "Remember you are only a mortal," so the American electorate has temporarily commissioned a wreath-bearer to follow behind Nixon, Nixon's overwhelming presidential victory by maintaining the opposition party in control of both houses of Congress—as if to say, "Remember, this is our government, you are only one branch of it and your power is not without limit."

So lopsided a mandate for one candidate can also be seen as just the opposite, a lopsided repudiation of the other candidate. Politics analysts will be kept busy for a long time trying to decide to what extent this election was the one and to what extent it was the other. There is much for them to chew on.

For instance, although Mr. Nixon carried normally heavily Democratic Cuyahoga County (Cleveland), Ohio, out of some 679,000 voters who went to the polls, 59,000 could not bring themselves to vote for either presidential candidate but cast blank ballots.

There is also much for the Democrats to ponder as they attempt to recover from the greatest presidential debacle in the history of the party.

Was George McGovern, as he suggested even in the hour of his defeat, merely a little ahead of the nation? Does he stand on ideological ground the majority of Americans are heading toward, perhaps by 1976?

Or was McGovern really four time years behind the times, campaigning actually against Lyndon Johnson as he tried vainly to ignite the issues of the Vietnam war, a very vague, popular distrust of the government, and so on?

In short, was McGovern to the Democrats in 1972 as Barry Goldwater was to the Republicans in 1964, or have fundamental changes been made in the grass-roots makeup of the party which will never permit it to return to what it was before McGovern?

It apparently originated a relatively minor Red Tide, a relatively minor Red Tide, said Beaumaurage, supervisor of the Florida Marine Research Laboratory.

He said the outbreak was small by comparison to Gulf of Mexico standards, where Red Tide inundated the beaches with dead fish in the Sarasota-St. Petersburg area last year, causing an exodus of tourists.

However, Morrissey said any outbreak at all on Florida's East coast was "very unusual." Biologists believe the tide originated in the Gulf and rode currents north to Palm Beach where heavy rains washed the organism toward the beaches.

How the organism multiplies is not fully understood, but state officials say it may have been nourished by rain water.

So far an offshore wind has kept the Red Tide away from beaches in the Miami area, where the tourist season is just getting into full swing.

"I hope it's just a localized incident," said Nystrom. "We've got our fingers crossed."

Seminoles Have Peach Bowl Bid If... They Win

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Florida State will be invited to play in the fifth annual Peach Bowl at Atlanta Stadium Dec. 29 if the Seminoles win their final game of the season Saturday night, the Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel reported today.

George Crumley, executive director of the Peach Bowl, said in Atlanta Wednesday the selection committee had narrowed its choice to Florida State or North Carolina State as one of the teams. "We will definitely take one of these teams," Crumley said, "and perhaps both, with their outstanding offenses, a pairing of the two would make a helluva game."

Crumley said Peach Bowl scouts would be at Columbia, S.C., Saturday night to watch the Seminoles and the Gamecocks.

The main obstacle between the FSU-N.C. State pairing appears to be the Peach Bowl's desire to get a game that would offer more inter-sectional flavor. The primary opposition for FSU or N.C. State, Crumley explained, would come from a list that includes Iowa State, Texas Tech, Arizona State and West Virginia. It also is possible that Georgia, with a win over Auburn Saturday, could move into contention, the Sun-Sentinel said.

Pickin' were kind of slim this past week with only three conference games on schedule, but the three games had six SEC teams playing each other. Alabama put on an awesome show on national TV, doing what they do best; physically rolling up the ground yardage to do in the LSU Bengals, 35-21. A very close game through the first half, with both teams blowing scoring opportunities, but maintaining a 7-7 halftime score. The Tide offensive interior line was the difference in second half, constantly getting the jump on the LSU defenders.

Meanwhile up in Lexington, Kentucky edged Vanderbilt 14-13 in a very even game with Kentucky running and passing for 228 yards and Vandy for 227. Both teams had one interception and Kentucky lost two fumbles to Vandy's one. Can't get much more evenly matched than that.

Florida vs Kentucky

Gators at home again this week, could get a bowl invitation should they take Auburn and come Kentucky team. For some reason the Wildcats play very well against the Gators.

Florida, after losing a close game last week might be down. Gators are favored by most authorities from 12 to 20 points. It'd love to believe that, but if Florida wins it will be by three or less.

Seminole Classic Completes Field

The tournament is being cosponsored by the United States Bank of Seminole and the Florida State Bank. John Mercer at the United States Bank and Howard McNulty of Florida State Bank are two of Seminole County's top athletic boosters. Quite An Honor But Allen Wanted Flag

By JERRY LISKA CHICAGO (AP) — "I asked for when I came here was one year of peace of mind," said the American League's newly honored Most Valuable Player for 1972.

First baseman Dick Allen, his image as a moody, controversial former National League star behind him, made it plain Wednesday that finding "a home in Chicago where I really feel like a human being" spurred his superb A.L. debut with the White Sox.

A general Allen, garbed in a maroon suit replete with matching boots, touched all proceeds from admissions and the concessions will go into the fund. All items for sale in the concession stand were donated by area merchants.

MAJOR HOOPLE'S FOOTBALL FORECAST

HOOPLE Fearless Forecaster Egad, friends, seldom has your faithful correspondent witnessed a day when the up-said-and-down-said-eleven enjoyed in o're spectacular success than they did last Saturday — um-kump! The dope bucket was hoisted with reckless abandon all the way — kaff-kaff — from the ancient Pacific 8, and from the Midwest to the deep south.

Several other powers looked to move up in the nation. Michigan — Penn State (8-1), Notre Dame (7-1), Texas (7-1) and Auburn (7-1-1) call 'em: Penn State 42, Boston College 20, Notre Dame 22, Miami (Fla.) 14, Texas TCU 15, and Auburn 29, Georgia 13.

In Final Week Scribes See Tribe Winning

If the majority of The Herald forecasters are correct in their predictions, the long losing streak presently encompassing the Sanford Seminole football team will come to an end.

In the final week's prediction there are not one but two scribbles picking a week Sanford crew to come out on top in their final game with DeLand.

After last week's result the lead still belongs, as it has all season, to assistant sports editor Herky Cosh. Cosh correctly picked five of six games last week and now has a 33-11 mark on the year.

Meanwhile the all out bid by sports editor Gary Taylor to overtake Cosh fell a little short and he and sportswriter J Richards are now sharing the second spot. Both are in with season records of 30-14, three games behind Cosh.

Another top game on the agenda this weekend finds the reigning Lyman Greyhounds traveling to the field for Princeton Winter Park to battle the unbeatn but once tied Wildcats. The four straight wins by the Hounds has not impressed The Herald scribes. They take on the unbeaten Barrecuda's, The Lions presently stand at 14 while the host team has won nine in a row and the "experts" are of the opinion they will make it 10. Cosh feels the "Cudas will race to a 42-0 triumph. Taylor is picking the New Smyrna crew by a 21-14 edge. CONSENSUS: Winter Park 23, Lyman 14.

On Hospital Sale

Commission Opinion Is Sought

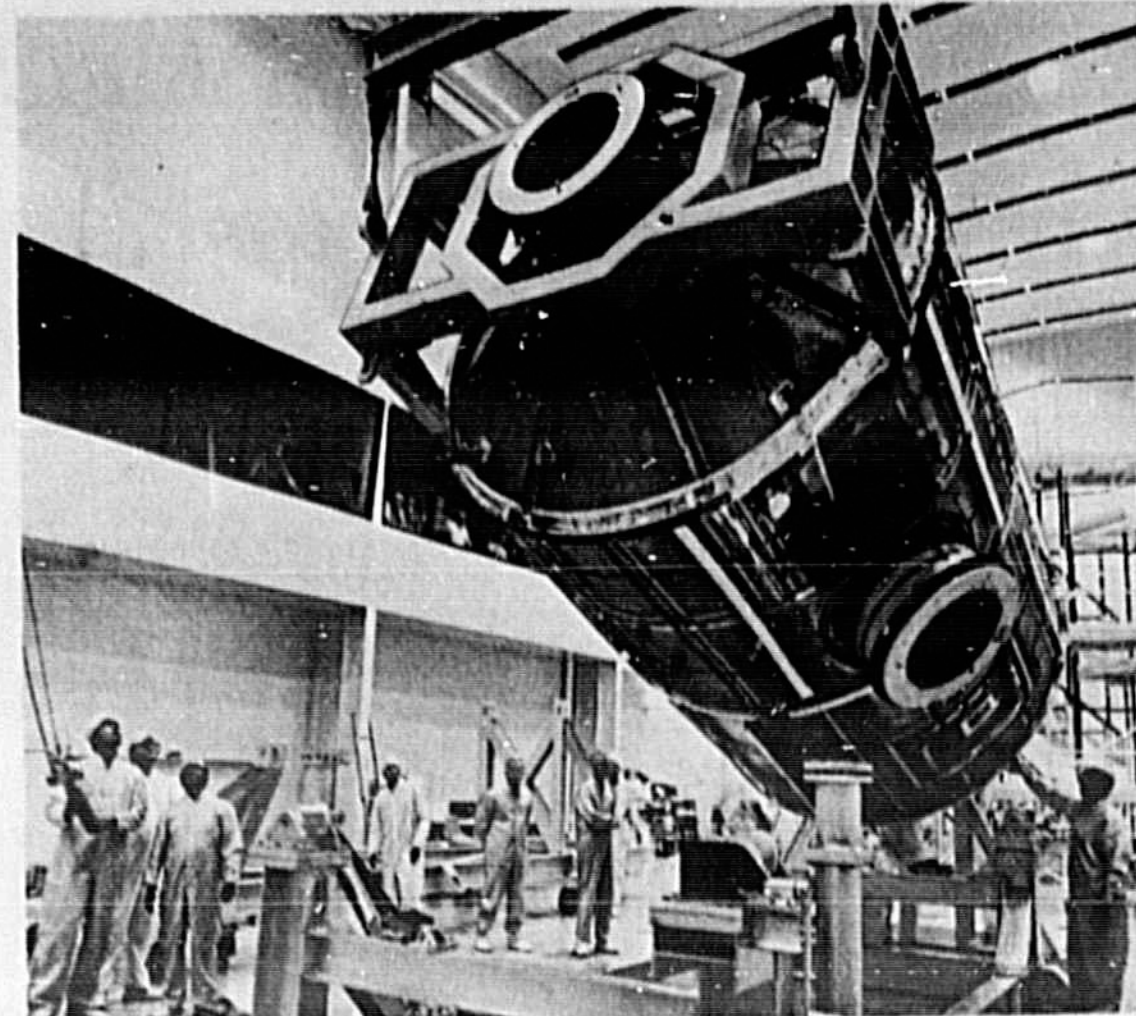

By BILL SCOTT

Citing problems caused by the investigation into the possibility of selling the Seminole Memorial Hospital and the resulting publicity, hospital trustee chairman John Schirard Jr., and the other hospital trustees have dispatched a letter to Seminole County Commission chairman Greg Drummond, asking the commission to make a formal announcement concerning its position on the hospital sale.

The letter, approved at a Monday trustee session, was made public today in news media as promised by chairman Schirard and lists the following "serious problems" resulting from the sale proposal.

1. "Donations and contributions of both money and equipment to Seminole Memorial Hospital have ended. Memorial gifts and bequests are no longer being made to the hospital.
2. "Employment has been reduced by several of our past contributors, that they will make no additional contributions unless they are assured that the hospital is not going to be sold to private interests," the letter advised.
3. "Questions about continued employment and salary of the hospital is sold are of concern to all present employees.
4. "Those employees with long enough employment to be near 'vesting' under the provisions of the Florida Retirement System are particularly concerned about the loss of this benefit that they have worked for."
5. "We have been told by several of our past contributors, that they will make no additional contributions unless they are assured that the hospital is not going to be sold to private interests," the letter advised.
6. "Employment problems have arisen. Recruitment of employees from outside our immediate area has become practically impossible because of the uncertainty that is raised in their minds," the letter added.
7. "The trustee chairman advised that letting the situation continue 'up in the air' as it now is, can only make the trustees problems more serious and will create new ones, if the rumors are allowed to continue.
8. "A possible sale of the county-owned facility to one of several private interests has been under investigation by the county commission for the past eight months, but a decision on a probable sale of the facility has never been announced.

Kissinger, Tho Peace Talk Set

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger is expected to leave for Paris at one time, perhaps today, for his climactic meeting with chief North Vietnamese negotiator Le Duc Tho.

Secretary of State U. Alexis Johnson and William Sullivan, deputy assistant secretary of state for Southeast Asia.

As of this morning, the White House had said nothing about Kissinger's imminent journey though it had promised to give advance notice of his departure. But officials stuck by their predictions he would start the final round of talks with Tho before the week is out.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray said Wednesday the United States feels it has obtained an "agreement in principle" from four nations to take part in supervising a cease-fire.

He did not list the countries, but Canada, Indonesia, Hungary and Poland are reported to have agreed to participate, pending what Bray called "an opportunity to explore at some greater length... the details and fine print" that emerges from the Kissinger-Tho talks.

While Tho stopped in Moscow Wednesday on his return from Hanoi, Kissinger kept up his telephone consultations with President Nixon at nearby Camp David.

On the North Vietnamese side, it was learned that Hanoi has been in touch with the four supervisory nations, as well.

And Kissinger continued his own consultations with National Security Council aides and State Department experts. He met Wednesday for the second straight day with Under Secre-

Hanoi radio also said North Vietnamese economic teams were circulating among allied nations concerning reconstruction aide after the fighting stops, a development U.S. sources indicated meant the North is preparing for a ceasefire.

Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company representative, Robert Swenden, appeared before the County Commission Tuesday, requesting a reappraisal of the county tax structure.

Shedden said that the Telephone company feels it is paying a disproportionate share of occupational taxes in their service area. He said that the telephone company is the only utility with rates set up on the number of telephones in service and not on a flat fee basis as are the other companies such as Florida Power and Light and Florida Gas Companies.

County tax assessor, Troy Ray stated that the rating system was equated back under different circumstances, and was based on usage of the system.

Commissioner Sid Vihlen, acting chairman, said that the occupational tax should be based on volume and extent of service. He commented that it would appear that the telephone tax rates are too high and the Florida Power and Light tax rates too low. According to his statement, some smaller business are paying the same tax as Florida power and Light, and that some adjustments are necessary.

"This Board of County Commissioners can, by ordinance, adjust the rates," Vihlen said. Acting County Attorney, Howard Marsee agreed that this can legally be accomplished. A meeting with Ray and Marsee was scheduled to research the entire occupational tax structure and present a report later.

He said that the building would still be subject to final inspections and that the contractor would not be relieved of responsibilities or obligations to complete the job as a result of the certificate issuance.

Acting County Attorney, Howard Marsee, stated that the McKibbin Insurance Company would cover that portion of the building occupied by the county.

Rod Layer, administrative assistant, said that the locks on the new building were converted on Monday, the 13th, placing the courthouse in County control and that furniture was being moved in.

Matz then requested a change order which would allow the contractor to change the size of the benches in the courtroom. He said that the line of vision is cut off at the present height of the benches and he further recommended that the witness box be raised up seven inches. The work will cost $2,722 plus tax. In defense of the request, Matz said that this was the first modification requested by the architects, due to personal oversights. "Only 14 change orders on the entire job and this is much less than on other jobs of such magnitude."

Layer reported another problem which could possibly delay the scheduled opening on December 4. He said that when the crews began moving furniture into the building, they discovered that some of the furnishings will not fit where originally specified because a number of electrical and telephone floor outlets are installed in the wrong locations.

He told the Board that he had scheduled the men to begin relocating or adding approximately 50 outlets, on all four floors. This will necessitate in some cases, cutting into the recently installed carpets and plugging holes for the outlets.

Acting chairman Sidney Vihlen requested that this work be delayed until he could go over and inspect the building.

"I know something about electrical work and I will try to find an easier way to correct this situation than cutting carpet, chipping concrete and repairing those outlets."

On Second Cancer

Laird Sees Peace That Will Last

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today he is hopeful and confident President Nixon's foreign policy initiatives "will indeed lead to a peace that will last" in Vietnam and in the world.

"With continued dedication to strength and partnership as the essential foundation for meaningful negotiation and with the continued support of Congress and the American people, we are reaching that goal," he said.

Laird's speech was prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the National Security Council. Laird said Nixon's approach to national security represented a fundamental departure from past policies and attitudes. "Those who fashioned our foreign policy in the past decade perceived the role of the United States as the ultimate guarantor of peace in the world—in effect the problem solver for all of the world's security ills," he said.

But under the Nixon doctrine of helping America's allies help tirely independent one in another part.

Researchers Richard F. Morton and Umberto VillaSanta of the University of Maryland School of Medicine reported Wednesday that a followup study of 1,563 consecutive cases of primary — that is, first time — invasive cancer uncovered the development of only 30 new cases. The report on their study involving patients treated with radiation between the years 1932 and 1970 was presented Wednesday to the centennial convention of the American Public Health Association.

Declaring that the followup was complete for all but 69 patients who were lost and untraceable, they said the 30 new cancers of different organs and of different cell type from the previous cases included malignancies of the breast, lung, stomach, gall bladder, pancreas, colon, rectum, and other organs and tissues.

The overall rate was then compared with the rate to be expected for first time cancers of those specific sites in the general population for persons in comparable age groups.

Declaring the "expected" number turned out to be 29.2 — virtually the same as the number observed in their own study — the researchers said:

"The results of this study suggest that the incidence of new cancers in an irradiated population of previous cancer patients does not differ from that occurring in the general population."

"This conclusion is certainly contrary to clinical opinion as stated even in contemporary literature... (that) ... 'the most frequent preliminary sign of cancer is previous cancer of another kind.'"

The scientists made plain throughout their report that when they talked about "new" or primary cancers they were talking about entirely new and independent malignancies — not cancers that had spread to a new site from a primary cancer elsewhere in the body.

Geneva Gems

By LIZ MATHEUX
It surely was good to see Florence Wallace looking as festive and so chic at the polls. Florence, as you will recall, has been home-bound for more than six months while she recovered from a very dreadful accident which nearly removed her smiling face from our midst.

Also good to see Margie Brademeyer Rogers, a former Genevian, who now resides over toward Orange County way.

Guess it has slipped my mind (pardon the expression) to tell you that we are really practicing some very lovely Christmas songs under the capable leadership of Mrs. G. Bishop when we meet at her home on Tuesday evenings. I do believe that Julie (Mrs. Bishop) could even get sweet tunes from a log.

Surely it is too bad that more adults were not invited to see the fabulous "spook house" which the young ladies of the Geneva Baptist Church sponsored. It was so real that I am still shivering... complete cob webs, through the doorway of my favorite Sunday school teacher's white marble dockings, screams and the whole gory bit.

The film "For Pete's Sake" was a grand success and shown to a greater than capacity audience. In fact the Geneva Baptist Church has not been so packed since Easter!

Recent guests at the home of Marie Mathieux (my most favorite brother-in-law) were Mr. and Mrs. Ken Pratt from Higgins Lake, Mich. visiting and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coe also visiting.

Oops, I almost forgot while chatting about Florence Wallace to tell you that her sister, Miss Inez Taylor of Los Angeles, is visiting with her for a few weeks.

Cold weather can be but a short spell off because I saw Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Putnam at the Post Office both looking fit and ready to join in community activities once again.

They are responsible for our substantial Volunteer Fire Department headquarters as they very graciously allow the department to house the equipment in their more than ample facility.

A recent guest of Florence Kizler was her very charming mother, Mrs. Pearl Batten from Lady Smith, Wis.

Surely am very to have to all you that Mrs. Cleo Dunn will have to return to the hospital where she will have more surgery on her elbow. Mrs. Dunn is the mother of Jerrell Dunn and has visited many times in our community. She resides in Adel, Ga.

One of the things which I just like to do, especially with my husband, is to go window shopping and occasionally shopping which is just what we did this past weekend and ran into several persons whom we had not seen for just too long a time.

We saw Mrs. Winifred Stiles and she told me that she and Theo had just celebrated their 5th wedding anniversary. As she reminisced she told us that she and her hubby had met in Cardiff, Wales and were being married as the very first American. They both were peeling forth the tidings of the end of World War I.

God, that is a good long time to be married. I just wonder if my grandma ever was able to put up with me for that long!

Also saw Mrs. Dorothy Webster who said that she was really enjoying her recent retirement from teaching school. Det says that she is just sleeping late, reading a lot and going wherever she feels the urge. That could be fun too.

I must not forget to tell you that Joe and I were also more than delighted to see Doris Eider Miller, a friend whom we have not seen for more than eight years. Then we saw Nicky Constantine. We did more renewing old friendships than we did actual shopping, but that really gave us a big boost. It is so good to see old friends.

There are more large tables with names just as appropriate and eight capsule tables — sixteen holiday tables for you to see.

She Adds Warmth To City Buildings

BY EVE SHARBUTT AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Pamela Waters creates what she calls welcome mats.

They're not made of rubber or straw to put outside the front door. She designs welcome mats for office buildings by creating an atmosphere of warmth and comfort in the lobby and outside plaza area.

Most builders rip down all the neighborhood functions and put up a sterile, cold file cabinet. I think you should give the building a sense of belonging, make it a place where people feel welcome, like a hearth."

Pamela is currently putting finishing touches on a brick-faced area surrounding a new, 38-floor office structure on Third Avenue. The building will even have a wood front porch fitted with seats.

The sidewalks are bricked in three colors. A curving red path guides people the option to walk in something other than a straight line, and it is outlined in lighter colored bricks. Thus the path emphasizes entrances to the new building.

"I always hated not being able to find the door in some buildings," the designer said.

To mark entrances to loading docks in the building, Pamela had tire tracks of brick laid in the driveways. In the tall walls bordering the next building, bricks of varying colors form graphic illustrations of a truck with a boy driving on a road.

Don't forget the birds. If you have planted the shrubs which they love to feed on, those with berries pyracantha, ardisia, Brazilian pepper, etc., you will not only keep the beautiful feathered friends near but will afford great pleasure to everyone who watches them.

Social Department Meets For Luncheon And Cards

Dear Abby

Wife REALLY mops up exhausted husband

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband complained that he was too exhausted after work to mow our lawn, so my 13-year-old son and I did it, and believe me, it was no small job. Meanwhile my husband disappeared. About sundown I was shaking the mop from an upstairs bedroom window and I happened to look across the way, and there was "Exhausted" hammering away on my neighbor's roof! My neighbor is a young, pretty widow who I hear hasn't paid (in cash) to get anything done around her house since her husband died last year.

Well, I went right over there and climbed up the ladder he used to get on her roof, and I hit him a good one with the mop. I told him that I had had much energy to get on home because I had a few jobs for him. The widow saw it all and chuckled. He came home shortly afterward but was so mad he wouldn't speak to me. All thru supper he wouldn't even look at me, and that was the first night he ever went to bed mad.

Now, you be the judge, Abby. Should I be mad at him for refusing to mow the lawn, but going next door to work on that lady's roof? Or should he be mad at me for going after him and making him come home?

RIGHT OR WRONG

DEAR R OR W: It's a draw. But a man is slow to forgive a woman who publicly humiliates him. You should have let him take his own sweet time getting home—and THEN hit him with the mop!

DEAR ABBY: When someone carries a cake, pie, salad or something like that to my home, I never return, the pan or bowl it came in empty. My mother taught me that. Well, yesterday my sister in law dropped off a collection of my pots, pans, and bowls she'd had at her house for over a year. They weren't empty, either. And you know what she had in them? A bill for strage!

Was this supposed to be funny? NOT LAUGHING

DEAR NOT: I hope so.

DEAR ABBY: To the parents of "Twenty Six and Single": I didn't write that letter, but I could have. I know you love your daughter, but you will lose her if you don't accept the blessing that she is a happy, productive person even though she isn't married and has no prospects yet.

She may not need you to look after her children, but she needs you in other ways. Would you rather that she had an unhappy marriage, or one that ended in divorce? Or that she just lived with her boy friend?

Making your daughter feel that she has "let you down" because she isn't married yet will give her feelings of guilt, worthlessness and insecurity, which are bound to make her less attractive to any man she might meet.

Making her feel loved, worthwhile and secure will give her a glow that will attract the right kind of people to her.

Pray for the strength to avoid being negative about boy friends and dates and prospects of marriage. If your daughter has any good news, you will be the first to know.

—TWENTY SIX AND SINGLE, TOO

POLLY'S POINTERS

Make Toy Stophlights From Beverage Rings

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is both interesting and educational for the children. Use these plastic rings that hold canned pop together to make stoplights for kindergarten or first grade children as in these grades they are taught the color of stoplights and how to use them when crossing streets. Put green, red and yellow paper in back of the circles, trim and staple in place. Staple on to a cardboard large enough to make it all look like a stoplight box. Hang or put on a stick. This has worked out for our four children.—HELEN

DEAR POLLY—I have recently purchased some perma-pressed muslin sheets (I did not realize they were muslin) and after using them a few times they have become stiff and brittle. They are no longer comfortable to lie on so I hope someone can tell me how to get rid of this and how to keep it from happening again. How did this happen in the first place?—SHIRLEY

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve concerns the last few minutes that stores are open in the evening. The clerks are grouchy at the end of the day. The customers understand the situation. The clerks also should realize that many of us have to come late, near closing time, because we, too, work late and have no other opportunity.—PAT

DEAR POLLY—I am answering Mrs. J. E. whose baby has spilled up on her indoor-outdoor carpeting and this left white spots she cannot remove. I suggest that she cover the spots by using a felt tipped marking pen in a color that matches the carpet color.—MRS. E. E.

DEAR GIRLS—Our information from one manufacturer has some suggestions that might be followed for future baby accidents. Act promptly and blot up liquids with clean absorbent cloth or a sponge. Remove solids with a dull table knife. Apply a detergent-solvent solution, dry and follow with a drying solution, if necessary. The detergent solution suggested is one teaspoon of a natural detergent such as used for delicate fabrics, one teaspoon white vinegar and a quart of warm water. The drying solution could be any commercial product used for removing spots from clothing.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I find that taping my shoulder straps to my shoulders with the tape used for hair styling does not irritate my skin, keeps the straps from falling down underneath sleeveless blouses and dresses and holds all day. My friends agree this is a great idea to help one stay neat looking.—PUFF

D'Artagnan was not only the greatest swordsman in France but he was a great strategist. He knew there was a time for daring and a time for safety.

What should he do after the wily Rochefort jumped to four hearts? A mere four-spade call was likely to be an undrill. A heart cue-bid would probably just elicit a further diamond bid from Porchios sitting North. A six-spade bid might leave him high and dry and wrecked on the rocks of distribution, but D'Artagnan tried that bid. Rochefort considered seven-heart save, but he had too much defense and he knew that all D'Artagnan's slams were not guaranteed by the Bank of France.

Jussac opened a heart. D'Artagnan ruffed and saw

American 'Fast' Food Appeals To Japanese

KYODO
Copley News Service

TOKYO — "Fast" American food is fast becoming part of life here in Japan, what with westernization of Japanese eating habits and inherent impatience of the people of this country.

Common today are food stands serving fried chicken, hamburgers, doughnuts, hot dogs or spaghetti on the streets and in apartment stores of Tokyo and Osaka.

Fast food seems to be appealing especially to the younger generation who go for anything modern. Some here call fast food "fashion food" because the habit of eating a snack on the street, standing or walking, has become a part of the young as well as wearing a pair of jeans.

Fast food business in Japan was not started by the Japanese but by American restaurant interests.

U. S. fast food business began to move into Japan after World War II when the Japanese government liberalized food service business in the second round of capital liberalization.

Most American restaurant interests in Japan either established a joint firm with Japanese companies or set up a wholly owned company. Among them, Kentucky Fried Chicken entered into partnership with Mitsubishi Corp. and McDonald hamburger with Fujita Shoten and Daichiya Baking Co.

Now there are more than 30 firms dealing in fast food. Business is so good that some restaurants which opened in the last year are enjoying profits amounting to nearly $6,000 daily.

Not to be outdone, large Japanese department stores have also joined hands with foreign capital and opened fast food corners to attract more customers. At present, department stores serving fast food are located in Tokyo, Osaka, Yokohama, Hiroshima and Kyoto. It is certain that department stores in smaller cities will be following suit.

Other categories of business getting on the bandwagon are public relations firms, pharmaceutical companies and even a forestry firm, of Hikkaido, reportedly plans to set up "instant steak houses."

The catchphrase used by fast food service is "Fast Food Tastes the Same Anywhere." Material, preparation and packing are all standardized. Only the kitchen equipment is made to Japanese specifications. The rest of the operation conforms to the U. S. standards set for fast food service.

According to head of the business department of Kentucky Fried Chicken, Japan, spot checks are made on its chain restaurants several times a month and if any violation of the prescribed standards is found, the restaurant is fined.

There are several reasons why fast food is taking root in Japan where people once loved the leisurely meal and were particular about the taste of food.

First, life in Japan has assumed a quicker tempo.

The Japanese, especially the young, now go for speed and modernistic styles. Fast food is consistent with this trend. In keeping with the trend, a major minutes, allowing the diner to spend the rest of the lunch hour resting or enjoying recreation.

Street stalls serving Japanese hotpot are popular among low-wage earners, including office workers who like to have one for the road before going home. The hotpot is food that invariably goes with sake (Japanese wine).

Second, diversification of eating habits resulting from more income has created a tendency to eat out more frequently than before.

Motorists, whose number is steadily rising, would rather take a quick bite at a drive-in restaurant before going home than prepare a meal at home. A housewife eating hot dogs with her children at a department store or supermarket is not a rare sight these days.

Although the American type of fast food is relatively new to Japan, the Japanese have had their own version of fast food, "Soba" (buckwheat vermicelli). Japanese hotpotch served at street stalls and lunches delivered to order at offices are Japanese fast foods, although they are not as fast as the American variety.

Soba is a favorite lunchtime repast for Japanese office workers. It is quickly served and can be eaten in a matter of

A Global Link New Satellite Helps 'Hams'

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

Thousands of ham (amateur) radio operators all over the world now have a new global link to knit them even more closely together. The recently launched satellite OSCAR allows hams to talk with each other anywhere, anytime.

OSCAR is an alphabet for Orbital Satellite Carrying Amateur Radio. It was launched piggyback aboard a weather satellite, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's NOAA-A.

The satellite with the boy's name was provided by an international group of amateurs working through the Radio Amateur Satellite Corp. (AMSAT). Both spacecraft were hurled into a 900-mile-high polar orbit by a Delta booster.

OSCAR is designed to link together what the National Aeronautics and Space Administration calls relatively low-powered earth terminals.

They're ham radio stations. Powered by solar cells which pull their energy from the sun's rays and a backup battery, OSCAR weighs only 40 pounds.

Its primary payload is a two-to-ten-meter linear translator with a bandwidth of 100 kHz. And for ham operators who want to talk around the world through OSCAR, its input frequency is centered at 29.5 MHz, and the output centered at 29.5 MHz. Peak output power of the satellite transmitter is about one watt.

The payload also includes a message storage device which can be loaded from the ground with Morse code messages to be transmitted repeatedly by the spacecraft. Control of OSCAR comes through a 21-function command system and is the responsibility of AMSAT.

Space agency officials advise ham radio operators to get with OSCAR as quickly as possible, for this design lifetime is perhaps only a little more than a year.

Hams who want to know more about OSCAR and what he can do for them may obtain detailed

Search Is Endless Hangover Cure Is Sought

By TOM HORTON
Copley News Service

Wherever you find widespread suffering you will find those who are eager to save us from such, at a price. At last count, there were three companies trying to save me from my hangover.

The hangover is an ancient affliction — the Bible speaks of its unholiness terms — but the business of grappling with it in a purely scientific fashion is a relatively new one. Judging from the litter of unused containers of miracle cures to be found inside my medicine cabinet, the business of the hangover is becoming a big one.

This noble struggle against nature's discomforts resulting from overindulgence was once restricted to voodoo treatments, home remedies and lastly, cure-alls served up by sympathetic doctors licensed only to serve adult beverages. More often than not, the drinking man of the past turned to the same source for relief from which he drew the sickness. In saloon parlance, it is called the hair of the dog that bit you.

Science, however, conquers all, and science is out to conquer the hangover. I am not afflicted by the hangover. I am demobilized by it. I thank God for that. The hangover is part of man's ecological balance. It is nature's way of reminding man that he may abuse his body at will, but he must be prepared to suffer the consequences. Were it not for the hangover, drinking would be an ever greater curse to the workingman, for he would be able to indulge himself slavishly without any thought to tomorrow.

Because it is so common, the hangover is like the common cold. Everyone has a private cure for it. This may range from variations of the hair-of-the-dog theory to massive doses of vitamin B-1 or seasick pills. Cold beer, warm beer, stale beer, beer with tomato juice, hot coffee, Alka-Seltzer, bloody marys, V-8 juice, cow's milk, or even all of the above blended with a raw egg — there is a brand of some remedy for every brand of hangover.

Man will go to great lengths to overcome the hangover. I have one friend who gave up on all the traditional weapons and decided that the only way to effectively remove the curse from his body was to sweat it out. After an evening of overindulgence, he purchases himself by working in the yard, preferably under a hot sun.

"Sweat it out; that's the only way," he says. Unfortunately, he has run out of How-

Hot bread turns meal into gourmet status

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

Any meal — from ordinary to gourmet — gains gustatory interest from a hot bread.

The bread can be either the quick or yeast variety, depending upon the time and taste of the maker and partaker.

Recipes from each category are featured today.

Spoon Bread, a southern favorite, represents the quick variety. It is made with cornmeal and eggs and flavored with shredded Cheddar cheese. It can accompany other favorites of the South, ham, a tossed green salad and pecan pie.

No Knead Herb Bread is a good-eating whole wheat bread mildly flavored with onion-garlic and Italian seasoning. It can be prepared quite easily, even by the most inexperienced baker.

MARYLAND SPOON BREAD (Makes 6 to 8 servings)
1 1/2 one-third cups instant nonfat dry milk
1/2 cups water
1 cup white or yellow corn meal
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg yolk
1/2 cup butter
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 1/2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
1 egg whites

Mix instant nonfat dry milk with water. Combine corn meal, liquid instant and salt in 2-quart saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a full boil. Add egg

1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 to 1 1/2 teaspoons garlic salt
1 to 1 1/2 teaspoons Italian seasoning
2 packages active dry yeast

Heat over low heat until warm.

1 cup water
1 cup milk
1/2 cup cooking oil
1 egg

Add egg and warm liquid to flour mixture.

Blend at lowest speed until moistened.

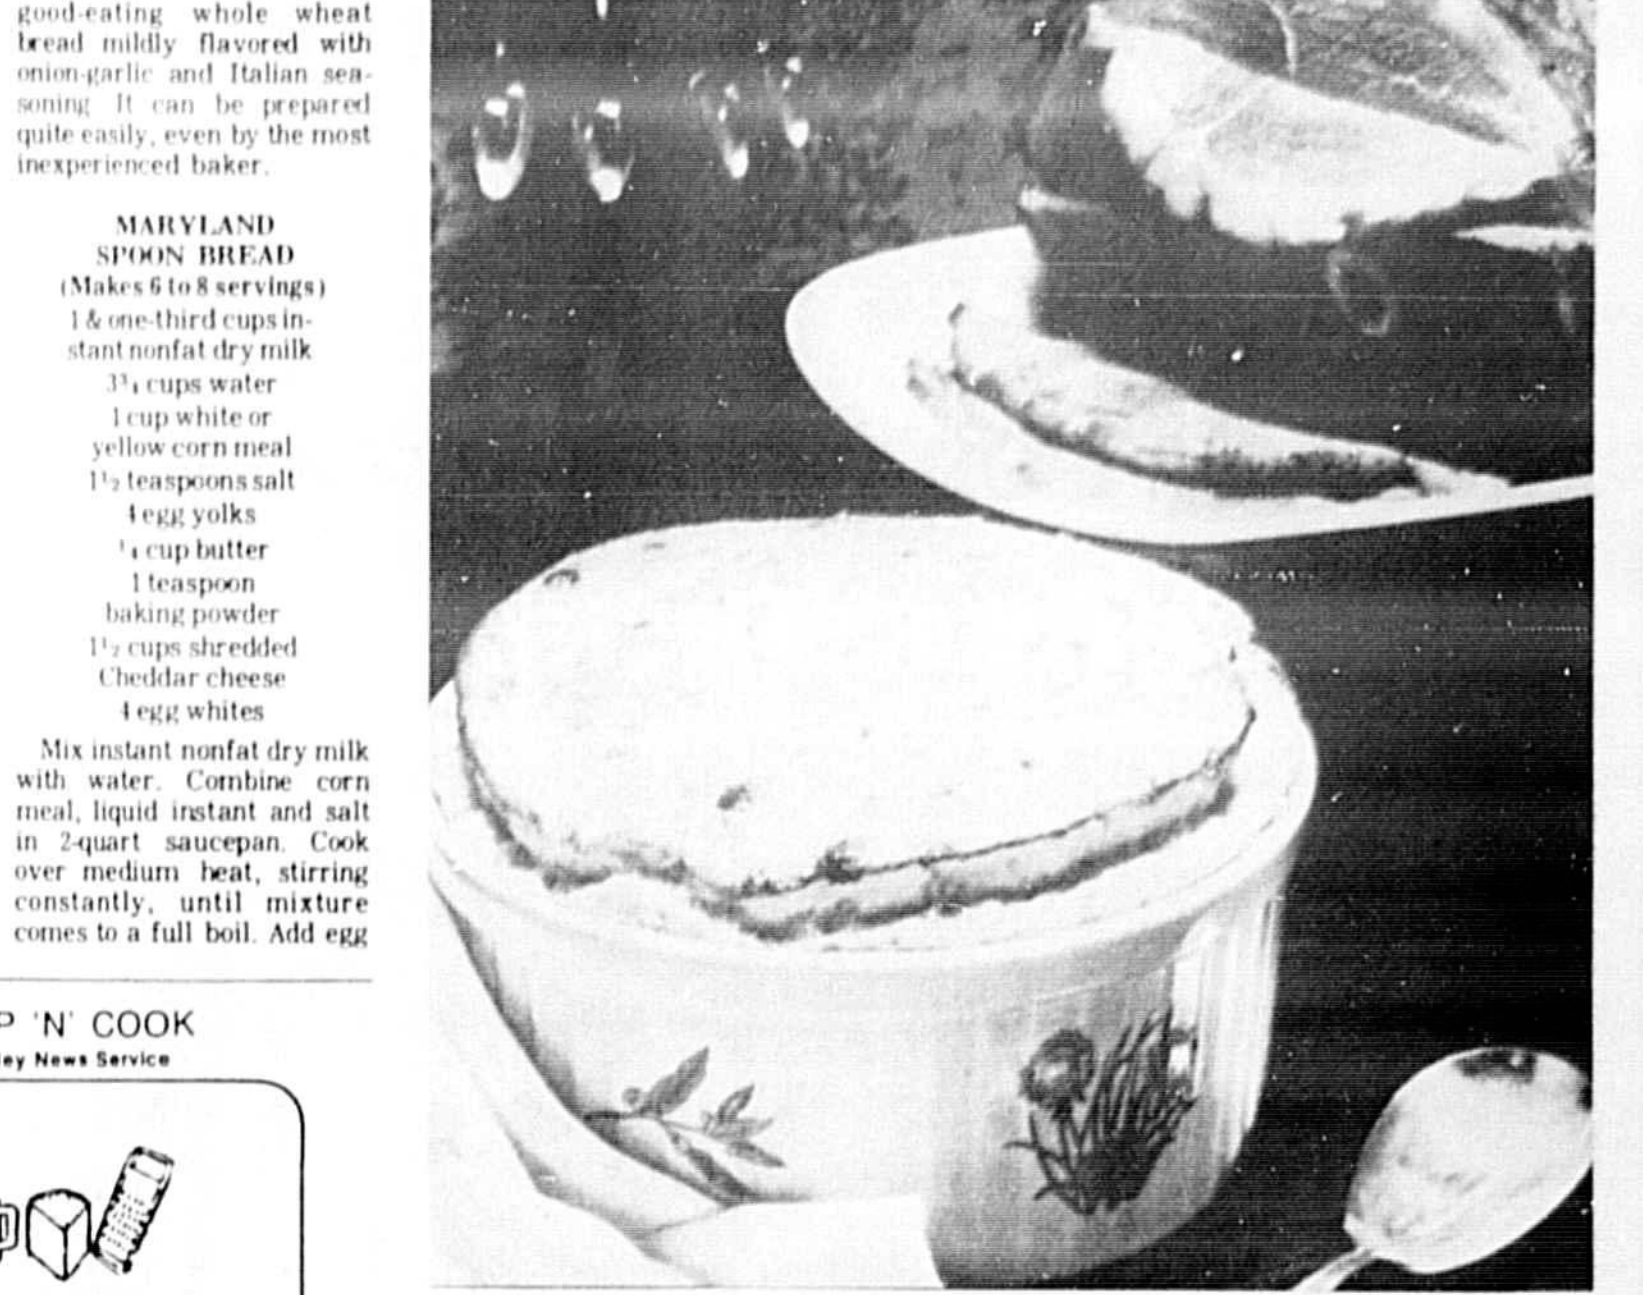

Beat three minutes at medium speed.

1/2 to 1 cups unbleached flour
By hand, gradually stir in flour to form a stiff batter.

Rising
Cover dough; let rise in warm place until light and doubled — about 90 minutes. Stir down dough; spoon into greased pan.

Bake
Bake at 375 degrees for 65-90 minutes until loaf sounds hollow when lightly tapped. Remove immediately to cool. Brush with butter and sprinkle with coarse salt, if desired.

High altitude — 5,200 feet. Bake at 400 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes.

American 'Fast' Food Appeals To Japanese

By KUYODO
Copley News Service

TOKYO — "Fast" American food is fast becoming part of life here in Japan with westernization of Japanese eating habits and inherent impatience of the people of this country.

Common today are food stands serving fried chicken, hamburgers, doughnuts, hot dogs or spaghetti on the streets and in department stores of Tokyo and Osaka.

Fast food seems to be appealing especially to the younger generation who go for anything modern. Some people here call fast food "fashion food" because the habit of eating a snack on the street, standing or walking, has become as much a part of the young as wearing a pair of jeans.

U. S. fast food business began to move into Japan after March, 1960, when the Japanese government liberalized food service business in the second round of capital liberalization.

Most American restaurants in Japan either established a joint firm with Japanese companies or set up a wholly owned company. Among them, Kentucky Fried Chicken entered into partnership with Mitsubishi Corp. and McDonald hamburger with Fujita Shoten and Daicchi Baking Co.

Now there are more than 20 firms dealing in fast food. Business is so good that some restaurants which opened in the last year are enjoying profits amounting to nearly $6,000 daily.

Not to be outdone, large Japanese department stores have also joined hands with foreign capital and opened fast food corners to attract more customers. At present, department stores serving fast food are located in Tokyo, Osaka, Yokohama, Hiroshima and Kyoto. It is certain that department stores in smaller cities will be following suit.

Other facets of business getting on the handwagon are public relations firms, pharmaceutical companies and even a forestry company. The forestry firm, of Hikkaido,

reportedly plans to set up "instant steak houses."

The catchphrase used by fast food service is "Fast Food Tastes the Same Anywhere."

Material, preparation and packing are all standardized. Only the kitchen equipment is made to Japanese specifications. The rest of the operation conforms to the U. S. standards set for fast food service.

According to head of the business department of Kentucky Fried Chicken, a Tucky Fried Chicken, Japan, spot checks are made on its chain restaurants several times a month and if any violation of the prescribed standards is found, the restaurant is fined.

There are several reasons why fast food is taking root in Japan where people once loved the leisurely meal and were particular about the taste of food.

First, life in Japan has assumed a quicker tempo, although they are not as fast as the American variety.

Soba is a favorite lunchtime repast for Japanese office workers. It is quickly served and can be eaten in a matter of minutes, allowing the diner to spend the rest of the lunch hour resting or enjoying recreation.

Street stalls serving Japanese hotpot are popular among low-wage earners, including office workers who like to have one for the road before going home.

The hotpot is food that invariably goes with sake (Japanese wine).

Japanese electric appliance maker has developed a small computer designed for speeding up service at drive-in restaurants.

Second, diversification of eating habits resulting from more income has created a tendency to eat out more frequently than before.

Motorists, whose number is steadily rising, would rather take a quick bite at a drive-in restaurant before going home than prepare a meal at home.

A housewife eating hot dogs with her children at a department store or supermarket is not a rare sight these days.

in the now-it-can-be-told department someone at last has figured out what Edith and Archie of TV's "All In The Family" are singing near the end of their introductory theme song every Saturday night.

The indistinguishable words come right after: "Everybody pulled his weight." What they're singing is: "Gee, our old La Salle ran great, those were the days."

Search For Boggs' Party Leads To Lost Hunters

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

One of the greatest air-sea land hunts in history — the search for House Majority Leader Hale Boggs and three companions whose small plane vanished in the icy reaches of Alaska — is a grim chapter in U.S. aviation history. Yet it had an amazing and happy footnote involving the rescue of four hunters who, for all the world knew, were not even lost or missing.

Wayne Taylor, an engineer from Cubic Corp., San Diego, Calif., was flying in an Air Force helicopter along the shore of the Alaskan Gulf between Anchorage and Juneau, trying to pick up a radio signal from the Boggs' plane with Cubic's new air-to-ground detection-rescue device. It is called the electronic location finder (ELF) and can pinpoint downed airmen without a visual sighting if they can send a radio signal.

When ELF monitored a weak signal from the ground, Taylor used the device to direct the helicopter crew to a landing on the gulf shore. They found four duck hunters, marooned and hopelessly lost, their plane washed out to sea after an emergency landing in the surf.

"We had been listening for a military channel radio signal, but we followed this weak civilian 'beep' anyway," Taylor recalls. "It was one of those strange coincidences which saved the lives of four men nobody even was looking for."

Public Reeducated Milk Makes A Comeback

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—(NSA)—The dairy farmers of California were in a panic. The decade of the '70s dawned upon them darkly. At the very moment the population of their state had exploded into the biggest in the nation, their sales were on a progressive downward spiral.

The average Californian went from 148 quarts of Class I milk products consumed in 1957 to 125 quarts in 1970.

To appreciate their anxiety, you should know that more than $1 billion dollars worth of milk is sold in California annually. It's big, big business.

"At my high school, De Soto High, we had a lot of soft drinks, a lot of candy. And at the time I didn't know that they were really bad for you. All I wanted was the sweet taste that I got from them. But now that I've grown up and I know better, ah, I've turned myself over to milk."—Vida Blue, baseball pitcher on television commercial.

What the heck, the milk industry is already as up-to-date and automated as IBM. When the dairy farms of southern California were squeezed out by residential tracts, instead of bringing the cows historically to pasture, they brought the pasture to the cows by layering them in modern feeding structures, automated the milking process with push-button controls, even down to bathing and artificially inseminating them, and if there were paranoiac cows as a result, who could read a cow's mind anyhow?

In 1971, the California Milk Advisory Board, a quasi-state agency which represented the dairy men (they had split away from the national American Dairy Association), invited 56 agencies to bid for its business. The field was narrowed down to eight, and on a rainy February night in Modesto, the final presentations were heard on The Selling of the Milk, California style.

That has now, a year and a half later, risen to a billion of $4.5 million, the result of

Dear Consumer Don't Be Taken In Holiday Giving

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
White House Office of Consumer Affairs

The holiday season is just around the corner, and with it are many requests from charitable organizations asking you to give "in the Christmas spirit."

Most requests come from worthwhile organizations. But there are still a handful of questionable groups trying to take unfair advantage of your generosity.

To insure that you contribute wisely, here are a few pointers to keep in mind when you're asked to give this holiday season and in the months ahead:

- Don't give until you know the facts. If you have doubts about a certain organization, don't hesitate to question the solicitor or to write to the national headquarters and ask for information. A reputable charity will answer you.
- In addition to writing to the organization, you may want to contact the Council of Better Business Bureaus, 1159 17th St., N.W., Washington, DC 20036. The CBBB has a free Solicitations Reviewing Service covering 3,000 national organizations.
- If the charity you are checking out is on this list, you will receive factual information on the organization's background, financial status and charitable activities. If the organization is not on the CBBB list, you will still receive this information, but it will take longer to compile.
- For information on a local organization or group, check with your local Chamber of Commerce or Better Business Bureau.
- Get a receipt. This is especially important when money is being collected door-to-door. Unless you pay by check, a receipt will be your only record of the contribution. Remember: Contributions to qualified non-profit charities are deductible from Federal income taxes.
- Know if you're buying or contributing. Often times,

Ingenuity Needed To Solve Nightmare

Kyodo —
TOKYO — The Japanese, for all their ingenuity, have not yet come up with a plan to solve the nightmare of Tokyo's traffic — at least one that can be agreed upon.

A drastic plan recently put up by the Tokyo metropolitan government is meeting opposition from other agencies, including the police.

The plan was drafted after several students at a junior high school in Tokyo suddenly were taken ill, presumably from the effects of smog.

Authorities were puzzled over the fact that only this one school was involved. They wondered whether the students, mostly girls, had really suffered from poisonous effects of oxidants — the main pollutants of photochemical smog — or whether it was a case of mass hysteria.

In an attempt to find out, health officials stayed at the school after class hours to act as guinea pigs. None of them, however, developed any of the previously reported symptoms, such as pain in the eyes and sore throat.

Even so, metropolitan health officials were certain the oxidants were the cause of the trouble, and it was decided to do something about it. Since it is known that automobiles are the chief polluters of air in Tokyo as in other major Japanese cities, the plan was aimed at curbing the movement of motor vehicles.

Among other proposed measures, it provides for prohibiting all privately owned cars from entering central Tokyo on days when a smog alert is issued, and allowing cars bearing a license ending in an even number to enter Tokyo on one day, and those with an odd number on the other day.

The plan also calls for a corridor to be drawn at certain major traffic arteries to control traffic movement when a smog alert is in effect, and at other times when traffic restriction is deemed necessary.

If this idea were enforced, privately owned passenger cars and station wagons would not be able to cross certain points in Tokyo between 7 and 9 a.m. even during normal periods.

Ambulances, fire engines, doctors' cars on urgent calls, trucks hauling fresh food and other special vehicles would not be restricted, but critics are dubious of how such vehicles could be distinguished. They also point out the need for an unusually large number of policemen to enforce such measures.

The metropolitan police department, strongly opposing the plan, argues that there would be a rush of cars entering central Tokyo after the smog warning is lifted, resulting in an increased volume of exhaust gas permeating the atmosphere.

Police also fear that life in Tokyo would be seriously disrupted if so many motor vehicles were stopped from entering the city in the morning.

Superintendent General Tadamichi Honda said if such a plan were put into practice, traffic congestion in Tokyo would be worse than ever, and road accidents would rise sharply.

The police take the stand that no traffic control as drastic as that conceived by the metropolitan government should be enforced at this time, when the relation between photochemical smog and air pollution has not yet clearly established. Instead, they suggest an expansion of public transportation systems in Tokyo, such as subways and buses, installation of more parking meters and stricter action on illegally parked cars.

A police survey revealed that parking meters could considerably reduce the number of parked cars in downtown Tokyo. At present there are 889 parking meters. The police suggest increasing the number to about 20,000.

Social Security Tax Hurts Low Incomes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Brookings Institution study says the Social Security tax not only is rising faster than other federal taxes but also is increasingly unfair to lower income workers.

In an analysis by economist John A. Brittain published by Brookings Thursday, the institution said Social Security, or payroll taxes, urgently need to be reformed so that workers would pay on their ability to contribute.

The 285-page report says the working poor, those earning less than $4,200 a year, currently are paying a Social Security tax of about 13 per cent, even though their earnings are so low they are exempted from paying income tax.

Middle income families also are hard hit, the report says. A married couple with an income of $10,800 next year may pay a higher rate of income tax and Social Security tax combined than a family earning $23,000, it said.

The maximum combined Social Security tax on employers and employees rose from a total of $60 in 1949 to $811 in 1971 and will jump to $1,324 in 1974.

The report said rises in the tax rate have been virtually unchallenged because many taxpayers believe "that their payments are vested in their own names, or at least that the prospective benefits are worth the cost."

"Then, too, the rates seem low in comparison with those of the federal income tax. Most wage earners don't realize how much they are actually paying," Brittain proposed the payroll tax be restructured through exemptions and deductions, such as in income tax, or through the gradual replacement of the payroll tax by the income tax.

There has to be a moral there, somewhere. Yeah, I know you don't like to see all of those horrible auto accident photos, much like those in today's issue. However, did you know that in spite of the fact that all of the surrounding counties to Seminole while their auto-related fatalities continue to rise and exceed comparable periods of last year, here in Seminole ours continues to drop. Don't blame us... we're trying to do it. SAVE YOUR LIFE!

Food Store Robbed, Sanford Men Held

Three Sanford men and a 16-year-old Midway juvenile were charged with armed robbery by Patrolman Jim Pleicones of the Longwood Police Department last night.

Timothy Joseph Bradley, 18, of Rt. 2 Box 302, Robert Lee Addison, 23, of 69 Castle Brewer Court, and Norris Chisolm, 22, of Rt. 2 Box 283, were jailed under $10,000 bond each. The fourth suspect was turned over to juvenile authorities.

The four men were charged in the armed robbery of the Little Dixie Food Store at the corner of Church Street and East Lake Avenue in Longwood. The Longwood Police Department received a call on the robbery at 8:01 p. m. last night.

Longwood officers were alerted to be on the lookout for a tan colored 1962 Chevrolet. Pleicones spotted the vehicle and had the suspects in custody only seven minutes after the robbery took place.

Pleicones, joined by other Longwood officers, searched the car and recovered over $600 taken in the robbery. A "small caliber handgun," used by one of the suspects, was also recovered from the car, according to Longwood Chief Wesley Dowell.

Lake Minnie Site Selected New Condominium Planned

By BILL SCOTT
A multi-million dollar condominium complex to be located on 41 acres on the south side of Lake Minnie, on the east side of Highway 17-92, across from the entrance to Sunland Estates, was disclosed at Thursday night's Sanford Planning and Zoning Board by an attorney for the developers. Known as Northridge Inc., the complex will ultimately consist of 480 total, one and two-story condominiums according to the plan drawings presented to the zoning board for consideration prior to bringing the property up for a public hearing to annex.

Vernon Mize, attorney, representing the developers of the property, said the first phase of the construction would consist of 198 units at a density of 12 per acre.

Mize said an annexation petition is being filed with the city today with a probable hearing set for Nov. 27 before the city commission.

Art Harris, zoning board chairman, said the board would recommend the property when taken into the city should be zoned MH-1 (multiple residential).

Developers of the property include the following: John S. Almeida, president of Northridge Inc., Raymond Emmele, Charles Perry and Annette Perry, his wife; Gerald Tannenbaum and Lois, his wife, all of Gainesville and Altamonte Springs.

Green River Construction Company of Altamonte Springs, whose president is Harold Salomon, is also listed as one of the Northridge owners.

In another action Thursday night, the zoning board heard real estate broker Garnett White disclose plans to build a 3,000 square foot service building to be located on Commercial Avenue, between Laurel and French Avenues in downtown Sanford.

White was told that due to the new zoning regulations, just adopted by the city, the development would require "on site" approval and asked the applicant to submit a site plan listing proposed parking spaces, sewage and drainage, ground elevation and other information before the board could proceed to approve the development.

'Song Of Christmas' Theme for this year's Christmas Parade in Downtown Sanford will be "Song of Christmas." The entry submitted by seven-year-old Ellen Marie Wilkie, daughter of Bernard A. Wilkie of 1601 Sanford Ave., was chosen by the Sanford-Seminole Jaycees.

Ellen will ride in a place of honor in the parade scheduled for Nov. 30 at 7 p. m.

Greenbelt Approved On Zoning, Services

By ANN SIECZKOWSKI
The hearing, which was sparsely attended. Wilco's development, called Greenbelt, is located in the south east section of the Lake Mary Boulevard-I-4 intersection. Population by 1981 is estimated to be 17,285, 728 of which total will be school age children in secondary levels and 1,289 in elementary levels. The residential value of the property is estimated to be $20,817,000 by 1981 and another $22,400,000 in commercial value. Company officials said that estimated taxes to be generated by this project will be approximately $2,928,304 by 1981. He estimated the present taxes per resident in that area as $85 to $92 per unit. In 10 years, that tax figure is expected to be $70 per unit.

There will be 2,211 single and multifamily units costing from $22,000 to $36,000 per unit.

As with other developers, two elementary and one secondary school sites were promised within the project and the developer to enter into a lease-purchase agreement with the school board if legally possible, that decision having to come from Tallahassee.

Wilco agreed to four-lane Lake Mary Boulevard from I-4 to the entrance to Greenbelt and to donate right of way from the property. Also in their road program is an agreement to four-lane Humphrey Boulevard through the project to Lake Emma from Longwood and Lake Mary Road. Lake Emma Road will be four-laned through the length of the property and the company agreed to participate by providing its proportional share in the traffic signals required at Lake Mary Boulevard and I-4.

Commissioner John Kimbrough's questions about fire protection were apparently answered when Wilco went just a step further than some of the other developers by agreeing to purchase $7,000 in fire fighting equipment over a period of a few years. He said that a $10 per unit donation would be set up to be applied toward fire protection from the Lake Mary Volunteer Fire Department. Fire district revenues expected from Greenbelt per year after 1981 amount to $34,210.

Off-Duty Officer Makes Arrests

By GARY TAYLOR
An off-duty sheriff's deputy was credited with the apprehension of three suspects wanted on felony warrants by the Daytona Beach Police Department, according to Sheriff John Polk.

Deputy Hon. Morton got off duty at 7 a. m. Thursday.

During the night, the deputies had been searching for a Chevrolet pickup truck with a home-made camper, believed to be heading from Volusia County to Geneva.

Not satisfied that the subjects had not been spotted, Morton got in his private vehicle and went to Geneva to review the search.

Around 11 a. m., Morton called for assistance and was joined by Sgt. Roy Hughey and Deputy Dave Hall. Morton led the others to the house just east of Jungle Road, where the pickup truck was parked in the front yard.

According to Polk, Hughey approached the front door, while Morton and Hall covered the rear door. As the owner of the house, Keith Everett Hyde, came to the front door, the three suspects tried to escape through the back door and were arrested by Morton.

Raymond Michael Streetman, 27, of Brunswick, Ga. was charged with four counts of assault with intent to commit a felony, to wit: murder. The charges attempted from a shooting incident in a Daytona Beach bar. Bond was set at $20,000.

Robert Hobson Osburn, 22, and Sandy Buxton Bufon, 30, were each charged with accessory after the fact and jailed under a $5,000 bond. The three suspects were turned over to Daytona Beach authorities.

In other action: Deputies are investigating the theft of $75 worth of tools and an unknown amount of property from the residence of Norman Singletary, 2874 Sanford Avenue, Sanford. Entry was gained by cutting a screen.

Det. Jerry Cashaw is investigating a break-in at the residence of Mrs. Linda Houshig, 108 Stoney Ridge Court, Woodlands. Several items were missing from the house, but a complete inventory has not been made yet.

Agnes Wise, 5180 Lake Howell Road, Casselberry, reported a $50 girl's bicycle taken. Charles A. Mitchell, 2500 Howell Branch Road, told deputies his Buick sedan was taken.

Patrolman Herb Shea Jr. of the Sanford Police Department is investigating the theft of a wallet and $110 cash from the purse of a woman shopping at Penneys in the Sanford Plaza. Hilda Dewick, 613 Myrtle Avenue, told the officer she set her purse on the floor while trying on some clothes.

Patrolman Robert Nicholas investigated the theft of $20-$25 from a vending machine at a service station at 2900 South Sanford Avenue.

PUD Is Mobile Homes

By BILL SCOTT
Carriage Cove, a planned unit development (PUD) on the 220-acre tract commonly known as the Williams property, located south of Airport Boulevard, east of I-4 and north of the Old Orlando Highway, went before the Sanford Zoning and Planning board Thursday night for consideration of approving an 87-acre parcel for use as a mobile home center.

Martin Newby and Edward Redington, appearing for Dressel's Interstate Development Corporation, developers of the PUD, showed the site plan for the complex, but were told by Art Harris, zoning board chairman, that new regulations state the plans must be submitted 10 days ahead of time for study before the board could take action.

Harris also advised the developers to bring in the engineering plans for perusal before final action could be taken Dec. 7 on approval.

The zoning board, on another item, deferred taking action on a new plan for the proposed Lake Mary Estates development, a complex single and multiple housing along Lake Mary Boulevard.

Chairman Harris said the plan, as submitted by Lawrence Jackson and Anthony Nicholson, Winter Park owners, was not what was recommended by the zoning board at an earlier meeting. "We asked for a five to six acre park in the development, but this plan does not have it, so let's send it back," Harris said.

Trooper Insists He Won

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — A city meter maid and a state policeman played a game of "tag" and the trooper insisted he won.

The meter maid was ticketed for an unmarked state police car for overtime parking Thursday when the unmarked trooper emerged from the Erie County Courthouse and explained that he was an official business.

"I can't help that," the meter maid replied. "You parked overtime."

"I'm serious," cautioned the trooper, who asked not to be identified. "This was an official police stop."

The woman kept on writing.

The trooper, noticing that the meter maid's car was double-parked on a local street, then calmly pulled out his arrest book and cited her for illegal parking on a state highway.

"It was a fair trade," the trooper explained later. "Fifteen dollars of the city's money for $1 from the state."
