PSC Orders Hearing On Proposed Sewer Rate Increase

has ordered a public hearing to review a proposed sewer rate increase for Lake Monroe Utilities customers.

New rates will go into effect for the utility's customers on Sept. 28 but LMU officials will have to post a $50,000 bond to customers if the PSC reduces rates as a result of the hearing.

The new average monthly water rate would climb from its present $46.31 to $173.96, an increase of 275.6 percent.

Dolgner contends that part of the rate package calling for customers with larger meters to pay higher bills regardless of their actual water and sewer usage is unfair to consumers at the port.

Port officials and LMU officials have also argued about location of water meters at the industrial park. The utility has refused to grant approval for placement of a water meter inside the park to serve a proposed new building at the port.

Officials from the utility have said they want that meter and all other meters at the port to be placed at the roadside adjacent to the port complex.

That dispute has delayed construction of the new building at the Port, according to Dolgner. The Port can't proceed with construction unless the utility either approves the plan or gives the go-ahead for the Port to seek alternative water and sewage service.

Humane Society Moving

By Donna Estes Herald Staff Writer

The Humane Society of Seminole County will move the more than 50 animals it has been housing at its 2001 W. 25th Street facility in Sanford into the society's new $100,000-plus headquarters at 2800 County Home Road Friday. Helen Wolk, president of the society, said the move has been long anticipated and assistance is being given with moving the 24 to 28 dogs and 30 or more cats by greyhound racing people.

The new Humane Society shelter, a Cardinal Industries modular structure of more than 2,000 square feet, is located on a 3.7-acre site at the southeast corner of U.S. 17-92 and County Home Road, south of Flea World.

The shelter was built with funds raised by the society and matched by the Edyth Bush Foundation. The foundation offered the matching fund proposal last November, but required the society to use as its base for the dollar to dollar match only those monies raised for that purpose, or donations above those normally received. The $58,000 the society had raised before that time could not be used for matching purposes, Mrs. Wolk said.

By the end of May this year the society had raised $64,000 to be used for the match, she said. At this time, some $113,000 has been spent on building the shelter and its fencing, but there are a number of outstanding bills yet to be paid, Mrs. Wolk said.

A building fund was set up in 1981 and the society was able to get county commission agreement to lease the 3.7 acres of county-owned property as a shelter site on a 30-year lease at $1 per year, plus an option to renew the lease for another 30 years.

Over the past few months, the shelter, in addition to dogs and cats, has housed ferrets, oppossums, and

Mrs. Wolk sald a grand opening ceremony will be held at the new shelter as soon as everything is settled in.

Currently the society has three employees working in the shelter, but at the new facility a fourth will be added, she said.

Mrs. Wolk also noted that the seven animals reamining from those picked up by the Humane Society from a shelter near Oviedo last week are doing well. Two Dobermans died from the maltreatment they received at the shelter near Oviedo. The doberman remaining at the Humane Scoeity shelter "will probably make it." The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics is scheduled to release the August unemployment rate Friday. The July rate was a seasonally adjusted 9.5 percent, 1.3 percentage points below the recession high

The weekly report showed an increase in new claims for state jobless benefits of 9,000 from the revised figure of 427,000 for the week earlier. The new seasonally adjusted level of 436,000 is the highest since the week ended May 28 when it was 459,000.

West Virginia remained as the state with the highest rate of insured unemployment with a 6.4 percent rate unadjusted for seasonal factors, followed by Idaho and Washington, both 5.1 percent; Louisiana and Pennsylvania, both 5 percent: Alaska, 4.8 percent: Montana, 4.6 percent; Mississippi and Rhode Island, both 4.5 percent, and Oregon, 4.4 percent.

Ambulance Firm Vows No Pull-Out

By Micheal Beha

Herald Staff Writer The president of Herndon Ambulance Service said today his firm will not withdraw from emergency service in Seminole County when the company's contract expires Sept. 30.

Idus Willis denied published reports that the company would eliminate emergency service in Seminole County when the contract expires at the end of the month.

We'd never pull out of service unless they had set up with somebody else to take over," he said. "If we'd pull out of service we'd be cutting our own throat."

Willis said his firm would extend service under the current contract "for as long as necessary."The firm will also continue to deliver nonmergency service, even if it ulemergency service.

Herndon has provided emergency County for more than 10 years and was one of 23 companies which received the county's bid specifications for a new three-year contract.

Only an Alabama firm submitted a bid for the emergency service but that bid was rejected because it did not include a 5 percent bid bond. ambulance crews. Herndon didn't submit a bid. Willis

Mrs. Smith said county officials were unaware prior to the bid opening last week that the performance bond would be a major stumbling block.

As a result, she said, the recommended bond will likely be reduced at a staff meeting next Wednesday. specifications will be. The bond, which is intended to

The county is also seeking changes in the level of service offered. One requirement is that the four ambulances stationed for emergency use in the county not be used for non-emergency service. Another specification is that emergency ambulance personnel work 24-hour shifts followed by 48 hours off. Mrs. Smith also wants a full time supervisor for the emergency service.

Willis contends those requirements are unneccesary. He said only one of Herndon's four emergency ambulances is ever on a non-emergency call at any one time. "They're all available about 90 to 95 percent of the time." He said the requirement for shifts would cause the firm to double its staff and would cost $80,000 to $90,000 more annually. "There's nothing we couldn't live

But that figure, Mrs. Smith said, 'is not etched in stone."

Willis feels the county subsidy will have to double if all the requirements for service remain in the package.

Reagan Wants Pay Raise For Federal Employees

SANTA BARBARA, Calif (UPI) - President Reagan eased his stand against pay increases for federal employees and asked Congress to give the 1.4 million workers a 3.5 percent raise, estimated to cost an extra $1 billion.

The raise would take effect in January instead of October, the date specified by current law. A federal employees union has vowed to go to court in an effort to increase the raise and have it take effect on schedule.

Reagan proposed the increase Wednesday as an alternative to a 21.5 percent increase that the administration calculated would be needed to bring federal pay to a level on par with salaries for similar jobs in the private sector.

White House officials said a 21.5 percent pay hike would add $8.5 billion to the cost of the civilian payroll and to budget deficits now estimated to approach $200 billion a year.

Some 2.1 million military personnel, under legislation held up by an unrelated dispute over funding for nerve gas, would get a full 4 percent raise whenever civilian workers get their pay

Stone met with members of the Salvadoran government Wednesday in San Salvador after his meetings with rebel leaders in San Jose, Costa Rica.

Stone told reporters before departing for Colombia the left's Democratic Revolutionary Front (FDR) and Farabundo Marti Front for National Liberation (FMLN) "apparently reject their participation in the democratic process.

Medicare Payment Changes Could Up Hospital Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Reagan administration is costs in the multibillion-dollar health care program for advance for 468 specific ailments. The system will the aged, but critics fear the move could increase replace current pricing practices, which pass along all hospital costs of other patients.

The so-called prospective payment system, announced Wednesday by Health and Human Services Department officials and scheduled to take effect Oct. 1. is the first major change in the history of the 15-year-old Medicare program.

Under the new system, the government will reimburse Instead, Rubin said, they will encourage bospitals to be hospital costs to either the government or private estimate of those savings, he added.

Assistant HHS Secretary Robert Rubin told a news conference the changes will have no effect on benefits for the 29.4 million senior citizens eligible for Medicare. having hospitals try to recover excess costs from their nor will they immediately cut the cost of program. non-Medicare patients.

But critics questioned whether the program will work. James Hacking of the American Association of Retired Persons said he fears that by limiting the new payment plan to Medicare recipients, the government risks

"They (the hospitals) will not be coerced into changing changing Medicare payment practices in an effort to cut hospitals according to fixed payments determined in more efficient, and the increased efficiency will result in their behavior," he said, suggesting that the program savings beginning in fiscal 1986. # Administration Suspends Air Bag Requirement

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Reagan administration is suspending for one year a rule that would have required air bags or automatic safety belts in all passenger cars manufactured after today.

The Transportation Department, in announcing the suspension Wednesday, said automakers could not have met the deadline for the rule, which has an uncertain legal future.

The elimination of the Carter administration regulation requiring air bags or automatic seat belts in every new car sold in the United States has been a goal of the administration since President Reagan took

On Oct. 29, 1981, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration ordered the rule rescinded, but the U.S. Court of Appeals blocked the move in 1982.

Earlier this summer, the Supreme Court said the rescission was arbitrary and capricious and sent the case back to the appeals court with instructions that it be returned to the Transportation Department for further consideration.

The department said it intends to have new rules drawn up before the one-year suspension expires.

The latest action by the department means car manufacturers will not be required to install the so-called automatic occupant restraint systems on 1984 models. Even if the administration decides to require the safety devices - a decision considered unlikely - it could be years before such a rule is implemented.

Jim Burnley, the department's general counsel, said the suspension was ordered "to " preclude any possibility that manufacturers might be in technical violations of a requirement that, as a practical matter, could not be met."

He said a notice of proposed rule making will be issued Oct. 15 and a 30-day public comment period is being provided. Stan Hall, a General Motors spokesman, said the suspension was a "recognition that nobody could meet the deadline on time." Ford spokesman Dick Judy said the automaker believes "there is a need for a demonstration program on air bags." He said Ford plans to participate in a demonstration project with 5,000 cars purchased by the General Services Administration with air bags installed on the driver side only.

'No decision has yet been made on the form the proposed rule will take," Burnley said. At a news conference, deputy counsel Lindy Knapp said it would take at least one year for car manufacturers to design such a safety system. She declined to say whether the administration will again try to rescind the Carter administration rule, modify it or adopt it.

The announcement came just two days after Roger Smith, chairman of General Motors, wrote a letter to Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole in which he callled for further studies on the safety system.

"We should not forget that at least a decade must pass before air bags or any other passive-restraint system would be standard equipment on virtually every car on the American road, as seat belts are today," Smith wrote.

The Center for Auto Safety, an independent consumer group founded by Ralph Nader. said it does not plan a legal challenge to the one-year suspension.

Challenger 'Pumping Iron' In Satellite Launch Test

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) - The today's testing was considered an imshuttle astronauts used a robot arm to lift a 7,460-pound dumbbell the size of a truck from Challenger's cargo bay today to prove the crane can hoist giant satellites in the future.

Richard Truly, Daniel Brandenstein, Dale Gardner, Guion Bluford and William Thornton, still working the "graveyard shift" on this unprecedented night flight, were in high spirits on day three of the six-day voyage.

"Sure beats working for a living, Mary." Truly told astronaut Mary Cleave in mission control as he gazed at city lights from New Orleans to Florida 187 miles below during Challenger's 32nd orbit.

The arm exercises marked a switch in emphasis on this eighth space shuttle mission. The commercial objectives launching a satellite for India and purifying living cells for an aerospace company - were met during the first two days of flight and today the shuttle crew began preparing for the future.

Gardner, working from the rear of Challenger's cabin, flexed the 50-foot arm at 3 a.m. The 19-foot-long lead and aluminum structure, shaped like a weight lifter's barbell, moved slowly away from its berth.

The dumbbell has twice the mass of the heaviest object previously lifted by the arm. Although objects are weightless in orbital flight, they have mass which requires force to move them. The greater the mass, the greater the force required to start and stop the movement of an

Gardner, the principal arm operator, explained those forces feed back into the shoulder, elbow and wrist joints of the arm and can induce oscillations "and it's that type of thing we need to understand before we move to heavier objects.'

The arm is scheduled to lift a 20,000-pound test satellite in April and beer during the flight.

portant step in preparing for that

Gardner said in a pre-launch interview that today's exercises were aimed at demonstrating the arm could be maneuvered about with the operator unable to see critical areas of the dumbbell itself. Instead, he had to rely on views provided by television cameras.

"It's like a car that is remote controlled and you're in a room with a steering wheel, gas pedal and brake," he said. The car is out in a parking lot and on top of the tree are two TV cameras you could aim and look out into the parking lot. There are trees or other cars which block your view and your job is to take that car up and down the aisles and get it into a parking spot."

Additional arm tests are scheduled to Friday with the last two days of the flight devoted primarily to more testing with the data relay satellite required to support the Oct. 28 launch of the Spacelab orbiting laboratory in the shuttle Columbia.

Challenger is scheduled to return to Earth in the dark on Labor Day at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

The astronauts began their day at 9:28 p.m. when mission control radioed up the fight song of the University of Illinois, Gardner's alma mater.

Gardner reported two hours later that the crew was having cereal, coffee, eggs and orange juice for breakfast. Thornton, the ship's doctor, was serving as cook.

"Sounds good to us," replied Ms. Cleave in mission control. "We were thinking about a burrito run."

"That doesn't sound so good right now except for Brandenstein. He's yelling out from the middeck that that sounds good," Gardner said. Brandenstein said before launch he would miss pizza and

Does Everyone Understand Now?

New York Times columnist Tom Wicker has never been mistaken for a Reaganite. So, when Mr. Wicker argues in print, as he did last week, that leading Democrats have proposed no realistic alternatives to the president's policies in Central America, the point deserves an especially attentive

In support of his view, Mr. Wicker quoted a rambling, bullet-gumming homily on Central America by Sen. John Glenn, and then noted that former Vice President Walter Mondale had also failed to state a "believable" policy of his own, Sen. Glenn, in quest of the "ultra-moderate" label, recommends that Mr. Reagan; a) seek support from the American people, b) define the vital interests at stake in Central America, and c) "define a better balance between our talk and our show of force." That sure sounds like the right ? stuff, Mr. Glenn, but what does it mean?

Is the ex-astronaut from Ohio in favor of more or less aid to, say, El Salvador? Would he push the Salvadorans into a coalition government with communist-led guerrillas? Would he continue slipping guns to anti-communist insurgents in Nicaragua, or cut them off without a bullet? The senator from Ohio leaves us all guessing.

So does Walter Mondale. He accused the administration of "widening, Americanizing, and militarizing(?)" the war in El Salvador. Does that sound like a Mondale administration would adopt a "Salvadorization" policy and withdraw? Apparently not, as Mr. Mondale is also in favor of increasing aid to El Salvador, but tying it more closely to "social reform" and "efforts at serious negotiations."

Maybe what Mr. Mondale really wants is a "de-militarized" war, with Salvadoran government troops firing social reform at guerrillas armed with real guns by Cuba and Nicaragua. That should set the stage quite nicely for "serious negotiations."

Sen. Gary Hart, the Colorado Democrat, favors a Ted Kennedy bill that would tie the President's hands and discourage any more military aid to friendly governments in Central America. That done, Sen. Hart foresees "a more constructive aipiomatic, economic, and political solution to the conflicts... in a way that would fashion a long-term policy that would be constructive, that would be positive and would align us with the best democratic nations in the region." Huh?

California's own Alan Cranston evidently sees another Vietnam under every rock in Central America. Returning last week from a quickle tour of Latin nations, Sen. Cranston pronounced the Reagan administration on the wrong side of. "social change," called for a withdrawal of the U.S. Navy from central American waters, and urged negotiations with Cuba.

Even Fritz Mondale might recognize that as a formula for a Vietnam-style defeat, without the war of course.

Clearly, Tom Wicker was right. The Democrats have failed not only to agree on a Central America strategy, but most seem unable even to articulate Maybe President Reagan's approach strengthen our allies, promote elections rather than socialist-style "reforms," send the Navy to show resolve, and keep the door open for diplomacy — is less than perfect. Maybe a bit of fine tuning, a touch more of this and a pinch less of that, would yield better results sooner.

But Mr. Reagan does have a strategy. It addresses all facets of the crisis in Central America - economic, political, military, and diplomatic. What is more, it is getting results.

The Salvadoran army, fighting in support of an elected government, is doing better against the guerrillas. Guatemala is closer to elections, and is winning its war against Cuban-backed insurgents. Honduras and Costa Rica have elected governments friendly to the United States. And Fidel Castro and Nicaragua's Marxist dictatorship are sufficiently impressed by all this to try moving their "revolution without borders" from the: battlesield to the negotiating table.

Even if critical Democrats could agree on what they would do differently, the onus would still be on them to show plausibly how their policies. would achieve more.

BERRY'S WORLD

Sanford has become something of a bad guy in many Lake Mariana' eyes in recent months since the city began pushing Lake Mary to get its own water supply.

Both cities have their own particular and understandable sides in the issue.

Sanford has supplied the city with water for more than seven years, under contract, but with rapid growth striking Lake Mary and enough housing units on the drawing boards to at least double Lake Mary's size or perhaps even triple it, Sanford got concerned about whether its supply would be sufficient to serve development of its

The word thus went out to Lake Mary to get its own water supply as quickly as possible and in the meantime, as an incentive for action, the city commission limited new water connections to 10 percent.

Theoretically the 900-plus active customers Lake Mary had at the time could only be increased by 90, under the Sanford

What actually happened was that the Sanford notification used the word "connections" and Lake Mary chose to add to its number of customers, connections people paid for years ago and haven't used and connections the city had either been asked for approval or had granted up to that point, making the number more than

From Lake Mary's point of view, having been incorporated only 10 years, it has had to react to the most severe problems first as it has been gaining more and more experience in self government during

With the opportunity for growth and thus more revenues at hand, the Sanford edict appeared overly harsh and practically Impossible to meet unless Lake Mary totally halted growth.

No matter how speedily it acted, a water supply could be as much as 18 months

Anyway, no matter how bitter towards Sanford some Lake Marians may be, Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore often reveals the soft spot he has in his heart for Seminole County's smallest city.

A major concern of his while he was voting along with other commissioners to protect Sanford's water supply by limiting Lake Mary's water connections was that it might appear to Lake Mary that Sanford was threatening the city.

And early this week as the Sanford City Commission was discussing revenues from the county imposed 4-cent per gallon tax. Moore noted "that poor little Lake Mary" is slated to receive only $30,000 as its share the first year when the city needs help so

It brought back to mind how pleased Moore was several months ago when he was invited to participate in a parade in Lake Mary and was given a certificate of honorary citizenship of that community.

He said at the time that Lake Mary had apparently forgiven him the transgression of suggesting that Lake Mary might be better off to annex to Sanford rather than incorporate some 10 years ago.

Moore, invited in 1973 to speak before the Lake Mary incorporation committee. suggested annexation as a better way to the horror of the committee.

While Sanford is no doubt Moore's first love, Lake Mary is not far behind.

On The Middle East Mess

By Helen Thomas UPI White House Reporter

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) -President Reagan must be wondering what it is about August and the Middle East that plays havor with his vacation.

Everytime he has gone to California for a summer respite from his official White House duties for the past three years developments in the Middle East have interrupted his leisure.

In 1981, U.S. planes shot down two Libyan jets in Mediterranean waters. In 1982, in the aftermath of the Israeli invasion of Lebanon, Reagan unveiled a peace plan for the Middle East and moved to send 1,200 Marines there as part of a three-nation peace-keeping

This year. Marines are at the barricades and being fired upon by various warring Moslem factions who are resisting consolidation of the country by the Lebanese army.

Despite the setbacks, and there have been many in the past year, Reagan insists that his peace plan is "definitely

But, the U.S. policy is as confusing as Arab factionalism.

After the United States vetoed a U.N. Security Council resolution calling the Israell settlements on the West Bank illegal, Reagan delivered a radio speech last Saturday contending the settlements are "an obstacle to peace."

In recent speeches he also has spoken of the legitimate rights of the Palesti-

Some observers believe Reagan reaffirmed U.S. support of U.N. Security Council resolutions dealing with the Israeli-Palestinian problem and territorial borders as a result of sharp criticism by Jordan's King Hussein in a Los Angeles Times interview.

"The settlements are illegal, that is the long and short of it." Hussein said and expressed shock and disappointment over the U.S. veto.

Many diplomatic observers have written off Reagan's peace plan because it has been stalemated by rejections by both the Israelis and the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The lack of momentum in the peace process can be partly attributed to the administration's preoccupation with efforts to stabilize Lebanon and to help it to attain its sovereignty along with the withdrawal of Syrian, Israeli and Palestinian troops.

Those diplomatic efforts have run into severe problems and outbreaks of new fighting. Failure to agree to evacuate Lebanon has put an Israeli-Lebanese agreement on troop withdrawals currently on hold.

JEFFREY HART Rosenbergs Were Guilty

Well, the current movie based upon communist, was less zealous than E.L. Doctorow's novel The Book of Daniel seems to be in deep trouble. The novel and the movie are about Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, and assert their Innocence.

Now comes The Rosenberg File by historian Ronald Radosh, co-authored by Joyce Milton, which shows beyond a shadow of a doubt that the Rosenbergs were guilty of esplonage.

For the last 30 years there has been an on-going crusade to the effect that the Rosenbergs were framed by the U.S. government and falsely accused of atomic esplonage, and that they went to the electric chair as martyrs to "Cold War hysteria."

Well, you can argue about the death penalty in general and also as applied to this case, but the fact of their guilt is established, not only in the courtroom but for history.

Julius Rosenberg was not a smalltime spy. While he was working as an inspector for the U.S. Army Signal Corps, he passed on radar technology to the Soviets. After he left the Signal Corps and went to work for Emerson Radio in 1945, he stole a proximity fuse - used in connection with the Norden bombsight — and passed that along. He became the center of a major spy network that included scientists and other pro-Soviet spies in Cleveland, Rochester, Buffalo, and Schenectady. Through the courier Harry Gold, he received information from Klaus Fuchs, one of the leading scientists working on the atomic bomb in Los Alamos. His brother-in-law David Greenglass, also working in Los Alamos as a technician. passed him reports and diagrams which Rosenberg handed over to Soviet agents in New York. Greenglass, though a Rosenberg. At one point Rosenberg. walking with him along a New York street, told him that they were in fact 'soldiers" in the cause of Stalin.

Radosh, who began his researches convinced that the Rosenbergs were innocent, found this notion overwhelmed by the documentary evidence, much of which was made newly available under the Freedom of Information Act. He argues, and the reviews have stressed, that Ethel Rosenberg was far less guilty than her husband and that her execution was a miscarriage of justice.

She may have been less guilty, and there is clear evidence that the government used the threat of her execution in the hope of getting her husband to talk to reveal the identities of as yet unknown Soviet agents - but virtually every page of The Rosenberg File demonstrates that Ethel Rosenberg was up to her ears in Soviet esplonage.

Ronald Radosh, who considers himself a man of the political left, has had his eyes opened in the course of his adventures with the Rosenberg case.

In 1979, he published a preliminary article in The New Republic magazine, concluding that, on the basis of the evidence he had seen, Julius Rosenberg was the central figure in a spy network whose activities were far more extensive than had ever been realized. "People I had known for years." he writes, "stopped talking to me. Others suggested that I had become by this one act an 'enemy of the people.'

In the course of his researches for this book, Rodosh interviewed former officials of the American Communist Party, including lawyers who had spent their lives battling for the party in the

ANTHONY HARRIGAN What Are Vietnam Lessons?

Time and again in the debate over communist Nicaragua there is talk of 'the lessons of Victnam." What are those lessons?

They are sharply etched on my mind. In 1965, I arrived at Da Nang. South Vietnam, to serve for a short time as a correspondent attached to the Marine Corps' 365th helicopter squadron — the first Marine air unit in the country. For something over a week. I flew with the squadron on its missions to mountain outposts on the Laotian border and to the vicinity of the old capital of Hue, where small scale battles were in pro-

Every time the helicopters took off from Da Nang and the other take-off points, they came under fire from the Vict Cong who posed as peasants in the ricefields. Under the rules of engagement established by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Marine gunners could not fire until fired upon. 1: inquired of the squadron commander, Lt. Col. Joe Kohler why the helicopters: wren't equipped with rockets. He told me that Washington forbade the use of! such weapons. They were considered! "provocative."

Therein is a lesson of the war in: Victnam. American forces, engaged in deadly combat with communists, had to fight with one hand tied behind their back. As U.S. Sen. Strom Thurmond said at the time, the United States was fighting a no-win war. Weak-willed: leaders denied American armed forces; the right to go out and win the war. The United States had the means to do so. For example, the U.S. could have bombed the dikes of the Red River. flooded North Vietnam, and crippled it. North Vietnam's vital port of Halphong! could have been mined and closed early in the war. Again, there wasn't sufficient intestinal fortitude in Washington. The result of a weakness of will was the loss of South Vietnam to communist! aggressors. Other results include the communist concentration camps in former South Vietnam, the boat people, and the appalling holocust in Cambodia.

Today, President Reagan evidences the will to prevent the expansion of the communist beachhead in Central America. The liberal-dominated House of Representatives is insistent on an appeasement policy that would allow the Nicaraguan surrogates of Cuba and the Soviet Union to conduct a revolutionary war without frontiers that threatens to bring the entire region within the communist orbit. Unless the Nicaraguan communist regime is brought down, one can be sure that within a few years one Central American country after another will be subverted, the anti-communist leaders in those countries will be imprisoned in "reeducaton" camps, and Soviet warships will operate out of Central American ports. Then, the peril to the United States will be very direct.

Defective Formula Caused Disorders

WASHINGTON — An appailing muniber of American children are suffering from mental and physical disorders caused by a blunder in the manufacture of their baby formula. Some of them might have been spared if the formula maker had heeded an early warning that its product lacked an essential ingredient. Here's the shocking story: In March 1978, Syntex Laboratories Inc., of Palo Alto, Calif., decided to lower the sodium content of its infant formula. Neo Muli Soy. So it stopped adding sait - sodium chloride.

But this also removed the chloride, an essential nutrient in babies' diets. With only six measurements of chloride per liter. Neo Muli Soy was already low in the vital ingredient. The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends a chloride level of 11 to 29 measurements per liter for infant formula, which may be the baby's only food during the early

The company wasn't aware of the chloride problem; it had stopped testing for it a few months before the change in formula. Pediatricians across the country were also ignorant of the problem, relying on a reference guide that put the chloride level of Neo Mull Soy still at six measurements.

The result was that 20,000 to 50,000 babies each day were being weaned on a product that was virtually without a trace of a vital nutrient. In effect, they were being starved.

Lack of chloride in the diet can cause a condition known as metabolic alkalosis, which brings on a variety of learning disabilities and growth disorders. Teeth may crumble, the child's growth may be stunted, there is a higher-than-average incidence of convulsions and many victims have problems with speech, memory and attention span.

No one knows how many bables who took Neo Mull Soy have experienced these disorders in laters years, but one parent, Lynne Pilot of Arlington, Va., has reason to be particularly bitter. Her infant son went on the formula in June 1979, and became ill after taking Neo product was recalled in August 1979 in therapy for learning problems.

Syntex executives insisted the company didn't learn of the chloride problem until July 2, 1979.

But on May 15, 1979, Dr. Neil Buist of the University of Oregon sent a letter to Syntex asking "if there have been any reports of electrolyte disturbances using Neo Mull Soy as a result of the low chloride content in this infant formula."

On May 30, Dr. John Ingram, director of medical services at Syntex, replied tersely: "In the 10 years that Neo Mull-Soy has been on the market, we have no reports of electrolyte imbalances, specifically regarding chloride."

A Syntex spokesman admitted to my associate Vickt Warren that Ingram never actually checked the chloride level but believed it to be 9.7 measurements.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee, wrote to Syntex President Paul wings.

Mull Soy for only one month. The Freiman last July and demanded to know why Freiman had said that the too late to benefit her son, who has been company first learned of the chloride problem on July 2, 1979 - and failed to mention the Buist letter.

> Freiman wrote back that Buist's letter 'was purely an inquiry ... (and) did not indicate that he had any cases or knew of any patients with problems."

Footnote: Syntex reformulated Neo. Mull Soy and reintroduced it in September 1979. But due to lagging sales, the company ceased production in the fall of 1980. WATCH ON THE PENTAGON: WIII the Rapid Deployment Force show the

Bug Spray Killed Horses, Tests Reveal

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) - University of Florida laboratory tests indicate high concentrations of a bug spray killed 48 rodeo horses at a west Jacksonville pasture, a toxicologist said Wed-

Dr. Richard Lipsey, an expert hired by the owners of the dead horses, said preliminary findings from the lab tests show the insecticide caused a complete breakdown of the horses' nervous system.

The tests were conducted on tissue samples taken from the horses' brains. How the highly-toxic chemical, used in minute concentrations to spray mosquitoes and other insects, got on the pasture remains a mystery. Lipscy said.

He said the brand name of the spray still has not been determined.

Earlier, Lyle Wiggins, one of the horses' owners, said a plane had sprayed the area for mosquitoes for two days just before the horses began dropping dead last Thursday.

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Gov. Bob Graham and the Cabinet will be asked next week to boost rates for passengers on state planes who are not on official state business.

Leonard Melton, assistant executive director of the Department of General Services, outlined the billing proposal for Cabinet aides Wednesday. It would require non-working passengers to be billed at a full recovery rate. Passengers on official state business will continue to be billed at a lower rate based only on the operating costs of their particular flight.

The proposal would implement a new state law that came in response to a critical audit of the state's fleet of aircraft earlier this year by Auditor General Ernest Ellison.

The Ellisoit audit said that because passengers were billed at a rate based on operational costs - which would not include such factors as pilot salaries and other fixed costs - the state actually recovered only 48 percent of the total costs connected with the aircraft.

Walesa Calls Protests 'Our Biggest Success'

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) - Despite violent clashes with police, Solidarity founder Lech Walesa said nationwide protests against the Communist regime were "our biggest success, the biggest we have ever scored."

Street fighting Wednesday approached riot levels in Nowa Huta, a suburb of Krakow, on the third anniversary of the birth of Solidarity, the first trade union independent of government control in the Communist East Bloc.

Witnesses said police fired an indiscriminate barrage of tear gas and concussion grenades at Solidarity supporters and innocent passersby in Krakow, about 150 miles southwest of Warsaw.

Infuriated by the attack, which reportedly began as they walked quietly out of the giant Lenin Steel Mill, the Nowa Huta demonstrators answered the police with a volley of stones from a trolley roadbed.

Tens of thousands of people turned out across the country Wednesday to take part in marches that were intended to be peaceful. Even larger crowds were believed to have joined a two-hour boycott of public transit nationwide.

Drugs, Discipline Still Seen As Major Problems: Poll

and drugs - continue to plague schools, according to a Gallup Poll survey commissioned by the education honorary society Phi Delta Kappa.

Two other schoolhouse problems, as perceived by the public, are poor curriculum and poor standards, plus lack of adequate financing.

The report, to be published in the September issue of the Phi Delta Kappan, is the 15th annual one, but did not differ greatly from the last three.

Respondents did not blame discipline problems on schools alone. Rather, they linked discipline problems to lack of discipline in the home and lack of respect for law and authority thoughout society.

As for drug and alcohol problems, the public favors an attack that includes instruction in drug and alcohol abuse.

Other problems of an non-academic nature would be handled by providing instruction in driver education, parenting and parent training, and the dangers of nuclear waste.

Slightly less than the majority, however, favor teaching about the dangers of nuclear war, a very cotroversial subject on the schoolfront these days.

The Gallup survey, taken last spring. is notable in that it is based on one of the first probes of public attitudes shortly after release of the searing report from the National Commission on Education.

That report recommended tougher standards, a longer school day and more homework to keep schools from drowning in mediocrity. For teachers it advised higher standards, in service training. merit pay and other reforms.

Interestingly, the Gallup report was much in agreement with commission suggestions, including a call for improvements in mathematics, English. science, U.S. history, and, for the college bound, the study of a foreign language.

The fact the Gallup reports have not differed markedly over the past three years appears to show that the commission report is in line with the public's perception of what's wrong with public

There were some exceptions. For in the curriculum, example, the public is not yet convinced Ratings given in that the school year should be lengthened from 180 to 210 days or the school day by one hour, as the com-mission advised.

But the trend of public opinion seems to be in that direction. For example, in the 1982 poll, 37 percent favored and 53 percent opposed making the school year

The current poll shows 40 percent favoring the longer year and 49 percent opposed.

On the commission's recommendation for merit pay for teachers and steps leading to top-paid master teaching slots. 61 percent of the public favor and 31 percent oppose.

In the Gallup survey, respondents favor, 75 percent to 20 percent, the commission's recommendation that boys and girls be promoted only if they can pass examinations - another of the commission's recommendations.

The publile also favors more homework and integration of computers

Ratings given local schools resumed a slide that staned in 1974 and hit bottom between 1980 and 1982. This year only 31 percent of respondents gave their local schools an A or B rating. In 1974. 48 percent did so. This year 20 percent gave a D or F rating compared with only 11 percent in 1974.

Asked to look ahead to schools of the year 2,000, respondents saw:

-All students with access to computers, vocational training with more importance in high school, and more attention to teaching students how to

-What is covered in the first two years of college will be covered before graduation from high school.

-Boys and girls will start school at age

Rams' Arsenal Of Destroyers, Battleships To Help Transition

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Entering only its third year of existence, the Lake Mary High football program has taken some giant steps up. In 1982, the Rams had a varsity team for the first time and came in at the 3A level of competition. In 1983, Lake Mary makes the transition to 4A where it will become a member of the Five Star Conference.

Although Lake Mary's program is on the rise, at times it seems it is trying to walk up a down escalator. Last year, under coach Roger Beathard, the Rams were just 1.9 as a 3A team and its only victory came over 2A Wymore Tech. But, Lake Mary did not have any seniors last year and it will look to its first seniors for leadership in '83. Lake Mary will have seniors, but it will also have a tougher schedule as its first three games are against Five Star opponents (De-Land, Lake Brantley and Lyman).

In addition to the first seniors at Lake Mary, the Rams will be guided by a new head coach, Harry Nelson, a former state championship coach at Bishop Moore. Nelson stepped in and immediately installed his own system. In 1983, Lake Mary may not be considered a contender, but it certainly won't be a pushover.

Nelson feels the Rams have an added advantage by having its open date on the first week of the season. "Any other year it would be a disadvantage," Nelson said. "But, it will be an advantage this year. This team needs the extra time to get

"Sometimes (in practice) we have sparks of greatness," added Nelson. "And sometimes its followed by periods of frustration."

its opposition for one half. Nelson will be assisted on the varsity level by coaches Fred Almon, Al Parker. Doug Peters and Bob Becker. Becker coached at Lake Howell for the past and Charles Reynolds.

OFFENSE Backfield - Sophomore Ray Hartsfield will get Nelson's nod a quarterback with depth coming from Mike Huff, "If I could combine the two, I would have a great quarterback," Nelson said. "Hartsfield runs like the wind and Huff is an excellent field general."

The Rams are deep at running back with three returning to that position from last year along with a pair of promising newcomers to the backfleld. Fleet-footed Patt Murray was the team's leading rusher a year ago, as a sophomore, with 285 yards on 80 carries. With a bigger and better offensive line. Murray will gain a lot more yardage in '83. Junior Charlie Lucarelli will also return at running back after an up and down '82 season. Lucarelli was instrumental in Lake Mary's first football victory (over Wymore Tech), but an injury caused him to miss some of the season.

Powderkeg Scott Underwood, who started on the Junior varisty last year and moved up halfway through the season, will see plenty of action in his junior year at fullback. Senior Neal Wellon and sophomore Jose Del Rosario will also get a lot of playing time at running back with additional depth coming from Mark Tryon and Will LaValle.

Receivers - Nelson said his receiving corps doesn't have a whole lot of speed but they are big. Heading the list is junior Donald Grayson who was tried at numerous positions last year but will be molded into a fine receiver by Nelson. Grayson has a good pair of hands along with speed and the strength to run over several years. On the juntor varsity and tacklers if need be. Grayson is joined by freshman staff are Bill McDaniel. Jim Troy Stutts in his first year of varsity ball Hughes, Marshall Hinson, Steve Collins along with Keith Wallace who was injured for most of last year and Byron Washington. Duke Ashley and Jay Griffith add depth.

> Line — "Huge battleship types," says Nelson, led by 230-pound senior center Ned Kolbjornsen who should emerge as one of the best in Seminole County. The guards are also big with 6-1, 235-pound sentor Ed Ades at one guard and 5-10, 230-pound senior Cornell Young at the other. The tackles are 225-pound Jay Gilliland and 205-pound Mike Galvani. Bill Vickers and Mark Swartz will also see a lot of playing time on the offensive line with depth coming from Steve Kalser, Fred Barnes, Scott McCaskill, Tom Miller and Anthony DelRocco. DEFENSE

> Line - "They aren't the battleship types, but more like destroyers and PT boats," Nelson said. Junior Don Meyer, one of the Rams defensive standouts a year ago, will be back at one defensive end with the other end up for grabs as Hugh Blair, Todd Nedrow, Chris Eirod, Scott Kutz, Jess Reynolds, Steve Machione, Walter White and Eric Hagen are all listed as defensive ends. The defensive tackle slots are secured by 210-pound Marty Hopkins and 205pound senior Jon Bonham while Junior Darrin Washington will be at nose guard. Depth at DT comes from James Williams, Gerald Burwell and Paul Owen while David Cox backs up Washington at nose guard.

Seminole Attitude Encourages Posey

Seminole High football coach Jerry Posey knows he has to start from the beginning to erase the sting of last year's 0-10 season. And the personable Tribe chief began this fall's practice with a big emphasi on the letter "A" — as in A-T-T-I-T-U-D-E.

When asked to pinpoint the difference he sees from this year to last, "attitude" was the first word to tumble out of Posey's mouth.

'The attitude is completely different," said Poscy Wednesday night. "Everybody out here is dead serious. A lot of the guys that returned from last year are very determined that they will give a better showing this year." Posey ticked off the names of Ed Rinkavage, Tim Lawrence, William Wynn and Mike Futrell as the ones leading the way. All are seniors and all are producing the senior leadership that was missing from last year's squad.

"Even though we don't have a large number (20) of seniors, they seem to have better control this year," continued Posey. "And the juniors aren't afraid to step up either.'

The juniors number 32 which gives Seminole 52

players to work with. As usual with Tribe teams, the backs and the defense will be strong. Defensive coordinator Dave Mosure spent the summer mulling over the advantages of the multi-talented Wynn and decided a move to the outside linebacker post would benefit the 'Noles, if, someone filled the void in the middle.

Seminole cashed in on both moves. Rinkavage, a rugged performer who will go both ways, has been a stopgap at MLB, while Wynn has excelled outside. "Wynn has got better speed out there and better quickness, along with good range," said Posey. 'Rinkavage has been able to handle the middle.

The linebacker shift also helped Fred Brinson. Sanford's "Incredible Hulk" has moved his muscle into a defensive end position where he feels more comfortable. "Brinson is playing with a lot more reckless abandon," said Posey. "Last year, he was kind of afraid he would make a mistake at linebacker. He's not that way at defensive end."

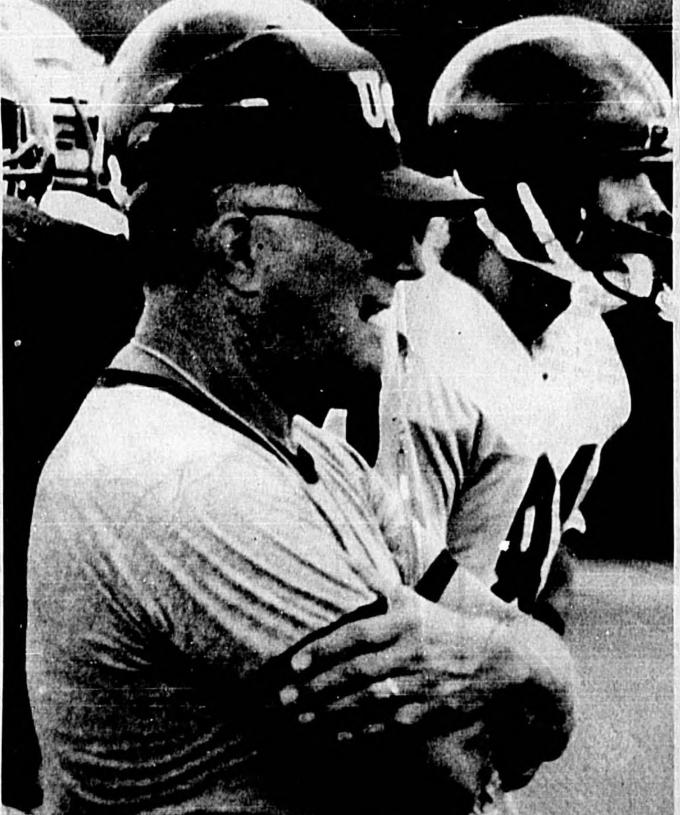

Brinson will team with senior Tracy Holloman to give the Tribe a nice set of bookends, which brings back pleasant memories for Posey. "Brinson and Holloman are beginning to remind me of the past when it was standard procedure that our defensive ends were the best athletes on the team," he said.

The ends may be impressive, but the best athletes at Seminole are usually found in the backfield. This year should be no exception. Senior Tim Lawrence has returned a very determined young man and he should use his quickness and power to grind out huge chunks of yardage from his fullback slot. Junior track standout Clifton Campbell will use his 440 dash speed to turn the corners from his halfback spot. The final halfback spot is a race between Dexter Jones and Jo Jo McCloud, both juniors. "All four can get out and go, so we'll be happy with any one of them." quipped Posey

The quarterback spot is manned by Futrell and backed by Junior Mike Whelchel. Both are doing a pretty good job, according to Posey, but he would like to see a little better passing from the two. "We're still not real pleased with our passing game," said Posey. "But I can't remember too many years when we have been going into the season."

Posey did point out, however, that the coaches had the same feeling two years ago about David Litton, but the senior field general crased it with a solid year which led to district and conference championships.

Could it happen again?

Dec. 23. Saban, who O.J. Simpson says "saved my career" with the Buffalo Bills, doesn't know yet whether he'll feel like Patton, marching home in triumph, or Custer, massacred beyond belief.

Friday night, UCF and Saban head for their first battle. Saban has been through a few - in the National Football League and on the NCAA battleground. But," he's probably never had a goal like the present. He intends to take the Knights, who went 0-10 against a Division II and Division I-AA schedule last year, and have them playing Division I football within five years. 🦼

"I'd been out of football two years," said Saban about his time spent working as president of the New York Yankees. "Being away from football made me realize how terribly I missed It. I belonged in football and I wanted to get back. When I heard about UCF, I got very excited. This area has all the potential in the world."

His players got excited, too.

"I like him (Saban) a lot," said Oviedo linebacker Tom Johnson, who has earned a starting spot as a freshman for UCF. "He's more or less a father image to you. He definitely knows what he's talking about. It's going to depend whether we can put it all together to see if we have a good season.

"Friday's a big night for us. We've had to learn a lot of new stuff, but I feel pretty confident we'll have a good game. All we have to do is go out and prove it," Johnson .

Lyman graduate John Poor is equally excited. "Lou Saban is a big time coach," said freshman Poor who will see action as a punter and tight end. "He's really" making this program serious. He knows this is no joke. and he wants us to become as big as Florida or FSU.

Another county product Danny Allen from Lyman played two years ago for the Knights, but rates what he sees from Saban and staff as a plus. "They've done a lot better job recruiting," said Allen. "Everything is more professional. I think we can be pretty good. This first game is a big one. If we can get by it. I think we can winmost of our games. It'll be different with Saban,'

The county's fourth player - starting center Jim Bray - has been through three wars already with the Knights. "The biggest difference I see is the coaching." said Bray, who played his prep ball at Lake Howell. "Nottaking away anything from (Don) Jonas or (Sam) Well. who worked had, but the staff here now is more intense and knows their fields a lot better.

"I see a big turnaround regardless of what the record will show. This is a beginning. We're ready to go. We'll other a lot better brand of football this year. It should be an exciting year for us and the fans.'

Phillips Forgives Perry, But Will Rozelle?

New Orleans Saints coach Bum Phillips has decided to forgive Vernon Perry - but NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle might not be as kindhearted.

Phillips welcomed back the veteran defensive back Wednesday, who was released by the Oilers earlier this summer. But it does not mean Perry is free to put on the pads right away.

Perry faced drug possession charges and three misdemeanors last April after a routine check of his Jackson, Miss., lounge. He now must have a hearing with Rozelle before becoming eligible to play. He will not count against the Saints' 49-man roster for two weeks.

"We'll schedule a hearing to review his situation as soon as possible." NFL puclic relations director Jim Heffernan said during a telephone interview in New York.

'He (Perry) was operating a (night) club, 1 believe," Hessernan said. "The police came in for some other reason and he apparently said, 'You can't come in here.' They said, 'Oh yes we can.' That led to a search.'

Phillips said while he did not know what action Rozelle would take, he plans to "see if Vernon can still play football.

"Just talking to him (Rozelle) doesn't mean he'll get to play right away, either," said Phillips, who coached Perry when both were in Houston. "I don't know. It could be like when (Greg) Stemrick went to talk to him

Stemrick left the Vero Beach camp after

Rozelle ruled he would have to sit out four regular-season games before becoming eligible to play.

Elsewhere in the NFL Wednesday:

- The Browns said surgery on punter Steve Cox to remove a blockage between his brain and spinal cord was successful. Cox experienced headaches and blurred vision and the condition worsened during an exhibition against the Raiders Friday night. Cleveland signed punter Jeff Gossett to replace Cox during his recovery.

- The Seahawks acquired defensive end Darrell Irvin on waivers from Buffalo. Irvin. entering his fourth pro season, played in all nine games last year for the Bills. Seattle waived rookle defensive end Junior Poles of Boston College.

- The Eagles cut center Les Studdard. acquired from Kansas City on Monday for an undisclosed 1984 draft choice, and re-signed center Mark Slater, a 5-year veteran cut Monday.

- The 49ers waived wide receiver Merv Lopes, a free agent from the University of Hawaii. Lopes was taken off the injured reserve list and the squad stands at 49.

- The Lions acquired veteran tight end Reese McCall on waivers and released tight end Gary Shirk. McCall was Baltimore's No. 1 choice out of Auburn in 1978 and played with the Colts for five seasons before being traded to Tampa Bay in the off-season.

- The Bears placed wide receiver Rickey Watts on injured reserve and re-signed tackle Andy Frederick. Frederick, who was traded from Cleveland, was waived Tuesday by the Bears. He cleared waivers and was re-signed.

The Bengals reclaimed defensive back John Simmons after he was cut by Cincinnatt Monday. Simmons, a third-year cornerback from Southern Methodist, will take the roster spot of safety Bryan Hicks, who was placed on injured reserve with a bruised shoulder.

- The Patriots claimed running back George Peoples off waivers and placed running back Larry Cowen on injured reserve. The club also announced that the $12 million improvement plan at Sullivan Stadium has been completed, and each season ticketholder will receive two free tickets for Sunday's opener against Baltimore.

- Packers coach Bart Starr said he's not sure how many quarterbacks he will carry on his active roster. Starter Lynn Dickey has back spasms but expects to play. Starr is deciding whether to put both David Whitehurst and Rich Campbell on the active roster for Sunday's opener in Houston.

- Vikings coach Bud Grant said tight ends Bob Bruer and backup Steve Jordan both have sprained ankles and were the biggest question marks for Sunday's opener in Cleveland.

Rams Win 9 Blue Ribbons

The Lake Mary cheerleaders rejoice after winning nine blue ribbons during a recent National Cheerleading Association camp at Tampa. The girls, who are led by captains Caren Bessner, D'Ann Haynes and Cyndi Smith also won a spirit award. Varsity, junior varsity and freshman squads all competed. The Rams open the prep football season on Sept. 16 at home against Bishc Moore.

tackler in 1982 with 64 solos and 29 assists while Hopkins ranked ninth in tackles (49 solo, 20 assits) and first in turnovers with one interception and four fumble recoveries. Hopkins and Caughell will be looked up to for leadership on defense for the Rams in '83. Depth is provided by Dave Mitro and David Hornvak.

Secondary - The leader of the secondary will be senior Reggle Anderson who is coming off a fine '82 season and comes in nearly 20 pounds heavier but still as fast as ever. Anderson will be joined in the secondary by junior Scott Sperazza, the starting quarterback much of last year, senior Tim Curtin and junior Todd Beauchamp. Depth comes from John Ames, Robert Isaacs, Robert Dawson, John Gerry, Leroy Young and Brent Molle.

Kicking - Hopkins and Caughell were both effective punters last season and they will both be up for the job in senior leadership is excellent, now we although Nelson said Underwood may get a chance at that spot this season.

OUTLOOK

The Rams have 20 seniors, 30 juniors and 10 sophomores on the team and the seniors will have the biggest responsibility in providing leadership. Nelson also said he has four out-of-state transfers who could play important roles this season, but he won't say who they are until he is sure about them. One thing is for sure, though, Lake Mary will have a very rugged road ahead of it in 1983 as it jumps into 4A and the Five Star Conference.

"Talk about a mountain to climb." Nelson said. "We were 1-9 as a 3A team and now we're 4A. If we do it (have a winning season) it will be the greatest gift I can give this school.

"If we jump off to a good start, we have a good chance to win some ballgames. We have good speed and size and the '83. Hopkins was the best place-kicker need to get that winning attitude.'

REGAP — Wonderful And Worthy Endeavor

By S.W. Happy Ison Special to Evening Herald

A few weeks ago there was a very interesting and heart warming story in the Racing Record about REGAP, Inc., Retired Greyhounds As Pets. It is really a wonderful and worthy endeavor and hopefully you, you, and you and hundreds more like you will jump on the bandwagon:

This program is needed and needed badly and a great big pat on the back should be given to Ron Walsek and his wife Jan for the honest work they are doing. They came to Super Seminole where they received close to $1,000 dollars in donations from leadouts. trainers, owners and the track. Owners Garry and Fran Duell pushed for Walsek's appearance.

Did you know that dogs can have strokes just like humans? What a beautiful experience to see a fun loving greyhound who had a stroke standing there and gathering all the affection you wanted to give him. He was petted, stroked, made over and everyone who stopped by couldn't believe he had suffered a stroke.

A large number of trainers and owners who make a living off greyhounds were there to encourage patrons to adopt a greyhound. They love the dogs as much off the track as on. The Walseksn own two greyhounds; one a veteran racer and the one they brought with them, Sea Spirit Jane, who never raced due to injury. You could tell that Jane just loves her home and is a credit to her breed. It is a shame that some tracks ignore REGAP. Every track in Florida and even the state should care about what happens to greyhounds who have finished racing because of age or injury.

REGAP is a program of non-profit and hard work with many doors closed to them at this time for unknown reasons. The Walseks can feel proud of the work they have already done. My mother always said that many hands make work light and REGAP needs your hands. Write REGAP, INC., P.O. Box 41307, St. Petersburg. Fla., 33743. Let's help overcome these insurmountable odds. Come to think of it, that's the name of AP greyhound. Pam. my w has never been happier and he has brought a lot of joy into our hearts, so much so that his new name is Hi Luv.

Open up your heart, racing fans, and help REGAP. It is a warm and tender feeling that you will never forget.

United Press International Not even a former Indian could break the curse of the mighty Chief Noc-A-Homa.

Ken Oberkfell drove in three runs with four singles Wednesday night and the St. Louis Cardinals spoiled the National League debut of pitcher Len Barker with a 6-3 victory over Atlanta, the Braves' third straight loss.

The Braves acquired Barker Sunday from Cleveland to help them in the pennant drive, but the fireballing righthander just couldn't quite hack it in his first outing against the World Series champions.

"I am not really happy with the way I pitched," said Barker, who had an 8-13 record with the Tribe. "I pitched behind a lot and that cost me the game. You can't pitch that way and win.

'There is pressure but that didn't bother me out there. I was just off a little bit and then I had to come in with the pitches and they hit them. I didn't think they hit me that hard but that doesn't matter, they still scored the runs." The loss kept the Braves 1 1/2 games behind Los Angeles, which lost to the Mets 7-1, in the NL West. On Aug. 16, with a 6 1/2 game lead, the Braves removed team mascot Chief Noc-A-Homa's teepee from its home in the left-field bleachers to make room for an additional 250 seats, and ever since then, the Braves have lost their reservation in first place, losing 12-of-19 games. They went 11-16 in the month of August.

Joaquin Andujar, 6-13, allowed two runs over 5 1-3 innings to pick up the victory with help from Bruce Sutter, who entered in the eighth to pitch out of a Jam and earn his 16th save.

The win moved the Cards to within 2 1/2 games of the Pirates in the NL East.

'We're very much in the race," said Oberkfell, "The last month of the season you are playing against teams in your division - teams that we have to catch. All we have to do is try to stay close until we start playing head-to-head."

The Cardinals took a 2-0 lead in the second on four straight singles and a two-base error by right fielder Claudell Washington.

St. Louis waited out a 31-minute rain delay while batting in the fifth and then scored three runs. Ozzle Smith singled but was forced on a fielder's choice grounder by Willie McGee. After the rain delay, lorg singled and Van Slyke followed with an RBI single to score McGcc. Pete Falcone relieved Barker and allowed a two-run single to Oberkfell.

Mel Hall hit a pair of solo homers for Chicago, giving him five in his last 11 official at bats and 14 for the season.

Rangers 5, Tigers 1

At Detroit, George Wright and Dave Hostetler hit solo homers and the Rangers turned five double plays to drop the Tigers four games behind first-place Baltimore in the AL East. Wright's 15th ly threw 85 pitches, giving up two runs homer of the year and Hostetler's 10th on five hits while striking out four and made a winner of John Butcher, 5-5. Glenn Abbott, 5-4, took the loss. Orioles 10, Blue Jays 1

White Sox 7, Royals 3

Chicago also extended its lead over the second-place Royals to 10 1/2 games in the AL West. Floyd Bannister, 13-10, allowed nine hits and struck out nine for his 10th victory in 11 decisions since the All-Star break.

Indians 7, Angels 5 At Anaheim, Calif., George Vukovich laced a two-run single with two out and the bases loaded in the 10th inning to lift the Indians. Rick Sutcliffe, 15-9, worked 1 2.3 innings of relief for the victory.

Luis Sanchez fell to 8-7. Yankees 6, A's 4

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) - New York Yankee pitcher Shane Rawley may not have been his sharpest against the Oakland A's, but his efforts were good enough to earn him his fourth consecutive victory.

New York defeated the A's. 6-4, at the Oakland Collseum Wednesday night with Yankees Don Baylor and Rick Cerone each picking up two RBI.

Rawley, 14-10, gave up seven hits over seven innings, striking out two and walking four. Rich Gossage pitched the final 1 2-3 innings for his 15th save.

"He didn't have his good stuff out there tonight compared to his last three wins." New York manager Billy Martin said. "He didn't have good pop on his fastball." Catcher Cerone said, "We changed our game plan midway through the game and started using the slow stuff earlier in the count."

Study Says Navy Will Grow Okay

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Navy, as it builds toward its goal of a 600-ship fleet, should have little trouble finding enough career personnel to run those ships, the Congressional Budget Office says.

If the fleet expands as planned, the Navy will need about 626,000 active duty personnel, 66,000 more than now on duty, the CBO report said.

The Navy's recruiting efforts will be primarily concerned with the supply of enlisted personnel, since "increasing the number of officers, reserve personnel or civilians does not appear to present a major problem at this time," the CBO said.

The budget office based its projection on assumptions that the military services will receive a 4 percent pay raise in January and comparable raises later to keep pace with the private sector.

"Under these assumptions, the Navy should be able to obtain adequate numbers of career personnel," the report said.

An upswing in the economy will cut civilian unemployment and make retention of military personnel more difficult, but the report estimated Navy career enlisted personnel will grow from 219,000 by the end of 1983 to 259,000 by the end of 1988, meeting the Navy's objective for that year.

While Congress has complained about the costs of the administration's effort to bolster the fleet during the next decade, the lawmakers so far have gone along with

The Navy now has about 500 deployable ships. Congress appropriated $16.1 billion for 1983 to buy 14 new ships and convert three others. The Navy's five-year building plan includes 124 new ships with a projected cost of $93 billion.

By 1988 the Navy would have 14 deployable carrier battle groups - one less than the long-run goal of 15 and 582 deployable ships.

If additional ships are authorized for 1989-90, the Navy could reach its long-term objective of 610 deployable ships in the early 1990s.

deployable snips in the early 1990s.

The budget office said the short-term outlook for recruiting crews for those ships is favorable, "despite a forceasted decline in the youth population through the forecasted decline in the youth population through the

"Even if recruiting high-quality manpower should prove more difficult than these projections indicate, the Navy could increase the number of female recruits or recruits with previous military service - neither of whom is now in short supply," the report said.

Navy military personnel costs would rise with the expansion, from $12.5 billion in 1984 to $16.7 billion in and hemophiliaes, but said it is 1988 and would total $73 billion over the five-year too soon to tell if the substance period 1984 to 1988, the CBO noted. Civilian personnel costs would total $45 billion.

If Congress insists on holding down those costs it could limit future pay raises to those sectors of the Navy that experience shortages, the study said.

Shyness Hereditary?

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) - About two-fifths of all Americans consider themselves shy and about half of those timid people may have inherited the trait. new studies indicate.

"Shyness may be a personality trait with a substantial genetic component," Jonathan Cheek of Wellesley College in Massachussetts said.

Warren Jones of the University of Tulsa noted, "With divorce rates climbing, the emergence of the singles bar scene, the fading of the 'Walton family' that has three generations eating dinner together, social relationships are getting more complex.

"With less ritual and more complex situations and alternatives, the shyness issue is a national

Although shyness is an age-old phenomenon, it is only in the last four years that researchers have probed possible genetic roots.

Check said "evidence indicates nearly half of the 40 percent or so of Americans who consider themselves shy have an inherent genetic component that predisposes them to shyness," Cheek said.

He discussed a Harvard University study of bables 21 to 48 months old in which about half the toddlers developed high heart rates when shown new stimulants such as unfamiliar people or different

This and other evidence of a "genetic predisposition or susceptibility to shyness" have important implications for treatment.

"Shy people with the physiological sensitivity to the unknown need to be taught to deal with this arousal and cope with the stress that it produces."

Boom Global Population Pushing 5 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Earth's population reached the 4.7 billion mark in June after the greatest yearly increase in history, the Census Bureau reports.

Despite the leap, the annual growth rate remained basically steady at 1.75 percent for 1982-83, the Census Bureau

The world population stood at 3.7 billion in 1970 and was officially estimated at 4.7 billion at the end of June, up more than 800 million from the 1972-73 figure. In 1980, the global population was just less than 4.5 billion: it was 3.1 billion in 1960.

The rate of increase peaked at 2.2 percent in 1964-65 amid widespread fears of a "population explosion." But the rate declined slowly over the next five years and sharply in the following five, the bureau said. The rate since has fluctuated around 1.7 percent to 1.8 percent a year.

But the gain in the 12 months that ended June 30 was the greatest numerical leap in history.

Five nations account for just more than half the world's population. Fiftytwo percent of the people are in China-India, the Soviet Union, the United States and Indonesia. In that order.

The five greatest contributors to the 1982-83 increase were India with 15.5 million, China with 15 million, Indonesia with 3.3 million. Brazil with 3 million and Bangladesh with 2.9 million, the Commerce Department agency said.

For the United States, the growth rate for the 12-month period was 0.9 percent. with the population rising from just more than 232 million to nearly 234.2 million.

European nations, the bureau reported, accounted for 1.5 million of the increase, and five nations - East and West Germany, Hungary, Denmark and Malta - lost population.

The 82 million increase in the world's population at the 1.75 percent growth rate contrasted with an increase of about 81 million in 1981-82 when the growth rate was about the same.

Bureau official Samuel Baum said the highest annual growth rate for the past year was the 10.7 percent posted in the United Arab Emirates on the Persian Gulf, where the rise was due to large numbers of immigrant workers.

Excluding the 10 percent decline in Djiboutl, attributed to refugees from the conflict between Ethlopia and Somalia. the largest percentage drop was 0.9 percent in 1982-82 in Martinique.

Baum said population gains in the 4 percent to 5 percent range in several African nations — including Chad. Kenya. Gabon and Libya — were altributable both to refugee movements and high natural growth rates.

The finding was reported as the Red Cross confirmed that it had recalled more than 5.500 vials of a special plasma product used by hemophiliaes because one donor of blood for the product had died from Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

Chemist Veena Dayal told reporters at the annual meeting of the American Chemical Society she had found abnormally elevated levels of a protein in the blood plasma of AtDS victims and certain hemophillacs, but not in other patients she tested.

Ms. Dayal, of St. Michael Medical Center in Newark, N.J., said she hoped the protein could be used as a marker in a test for AIDS in both suspected victims and in donated blood. She said she could not make any predictions, however, because she had tested only a small number of patients - 16 AIDS patients and 14 hemophiliaes and a few "If I speculate and if I'm The Red Cross said the recall stress may play a role in the onset and progression of the disease. Mandel said. mysterious Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, psychologists say.

... Emotional Stress May Play A Role In AIDS

"Emotional and behavioral factors may have both direct and indirect effects on the status" of the deadly ailment, which has killed 805 of its 2,094 mostly homosexual victims, Jeffrey Mandel of the University of California at San Francisco said. "For example, an indirect effect of emotion is the patient who, out of fear of discovering that he or she has cancer, avoids seeing a physician," Mandel said, "This behavior may result in delayed cancer detection, with the unfortunate result that more invasive treatment may be necessary."

An example of a direct effect of emotion, he said, is its suggested connection to immune suppression and growth in cancer.

A pilot study of patients with Kaposi's Sarcoma, a deadly cancer associated with AIDS, shows many suffered unusual stress in the year before diagnosis. Preliminary results indicate emotional factors may medical understanding and treatment, psychological interventions can positively affect not only the quality but possibly the quantity of life following a diagnosis or potential diagnosis of AIDS."

Playtex*

Psychologist Paul Dague of San Francisco, stricken with the dreaded ailment 18 months ago, told reporters he went through an emotional breakup with his long-time gay lover and a traumatic reunion with his teenage daughter the year before his disease was diagnosed.

His fear, anger and depression were augmented by "a public hysteria" that forced him to avoid crowds so people would not stare at his lesion-scarred face, he said.

The public's unfounded fear, he said, has driven many AIDS victims from their homes and work, forcing them to live and eat alone and increasing their guilt about their sexual activities and identity.

New York psychologist Harold Kooden said many people were using AIDS as a cover for "expressing their homophobia. Allowing the hysteria to go on is paving the way for demagogues of hatred."

DEAR ABBY: This June was our 15th wedding anniversary. My husband told me he was so busy that I should just go and buy myself something. (Was I supposed to buy my own card, too?)

Two days later, my boss asked me to run an errand for him on my lunch hour. I nearly rear-ended the car ahead of me when I saw my "too busy" husband getting out in front of a very nice restaurant with a woman he works with.

When I asked him about it that night, he became furious and accused me of "spying" on him. (In broad daylight on a busy street - this is "spying?" Then he said he took her to lunch to celebrate her 10th year with the company, I can't describe my hurt.

Abby, he didn't forget our anniversary. It just wasn't important to him. Later he sald he was sorry and wanted to make it up to me by hopping in the sack. He got angry when I couldn't respond. I didn't feel I was made love to - I felt used.

I'm tired of being married to this thoughtless, insensitive man. He won't change. Am I a poor sport for wanting to throw in the towel?
