

Outlook For Fuel Change Gloomier

HENRY KISSINGER
—Cutoff ending

WASHINGTON (AP) — An end to the Arab oil embargo, whenever it comes, will not bring an immediate end to the United States' energy problems.

Eric R. Zausner, an assistant administrator of the Federal Energy Office, said in an interview Tuesday that a nagging oil shortage could drag on for months or years after the embargo is lifted.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger indicated Tuesday that the oil cutoff, begun last October, would end before Arab and Israeli troops complete their withdrawals from their confrontation lines in the Middle East.

Kissinger did not say when the oil might start flowing again, but his prediction seemed to suggest within a few months.

Asked how this would affect the U.S. energy crisis Zausner, the FEO's data-watcher, pointed out that improvement would be as slow to arrive as was the impact of the embargo.

Considering the travel time of oil tankers from the Persian Gulf, it took almost a month for the October start of the embargo to reduce oil imports at U.S. ports, and the full impact was not reached until this month.

Zausner said it probably would take at least four to six weeks or more for Persian Gulf oil to begin reaching the United States once the Arabs release it. He said it could take longer depending how rapidly Arab oil production returns to past levels.

"It could stretch beyond four to six weeks before we even get back to last September's import level," said Zausner.

From an all-time high of 7.1 million barrels a day in early November, the embargo has cost the United States a drop in imports of about 2.2 million barrels a day and the loss may still be increasing.

Even if the Arabs restored previous shipment levels the United States still would not be getting enough, Zausner said. "We have to get more oil than the pre-embargo levels to meet our rising demands," said Zausner.

Over the past year alone, U.S. daily demands for oil increased by 1.5 million barrels, an average increase of 125,000 barrels per day, all of it furnished by foreign oil.

Big Oil Tax Breaks Change Demanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversial issue of gasoline rationing and energy conservation have taken a temporary back seat to a growing congressional demand for a change in the tax breaks given big oil.

President Nixon, in an energy message to Congress today, was expected to include his own proposal to tax excess profits by the oil companies.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said, "Our tax policy, instead of encouraging energy development in the U.S., has made the Arab nations self-sufficient." He spoke Tuesday as his investigations subcommittee wound up its second day of quizzing oil company executives on the extent of the energy crisis.

Energy Legislation Awaits Congress

While congressional attention focuses on emergency energy legislation, a host of other energy-related bills are waiting in the wings.

The emergency bill now before the Senate would be before President Nixon sweeping powers to ration and conserve fuel supplies.

Several of the other bills are designed to develop new fuel supplies as part of the President's announced goal of achieving national energy self-sufficiency by 1980.

A bill already passed by the Senate and awaiting action in the House would authorize a 10-year, $20 billion research and development effort into alternate sources of energy.

The Senate Commerce Committee is winding up hearings on deregulating the price of natural gas at the wellhead—a step many oil men say would produce more additional fuel supplies than anything else. However, the House Commerce Committee has not scheduled hearings on a similar bill.

The Senate has passed a resolution authorizing the tapping of naval petroleum reserves in Alaska and at Elk Hills in California, but the House Armed Services Committee has yet to schedule hearings on a similar resolution.

House committees have reported out bills that would clear the way for the construction of deepwater ports needed to handle super-tankers. Members of several Senate committees are expected to take up the matter within three weeks.

Passage of the emergency energy bill is being held up by the objections of Republicans and senators from oil-producing states to a provision that would put a lid on excess profits earned by the petroleum industry.

Finance chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., has called the provision "idiotic," and is holding two days of hearings designed to expose its weaknesses.

Ashland Oil Considering New Town

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP) — A spokesman for Ashland Oil, Inc., said Tuesday the firm is planning the development of an economically self-sufficient "new town" about 20 miles west of Fort Pierce, Fla.

Harry Wiley said it would be located on a 25-square-mile site and would include various residential and service facilities and a number of industrial installations both large and small.

He said Ashland may also build a petroleum refinery and an off-shore loading facility to serve only the refinery.

Although he said it was too early to discuss investigations under way now, Wiley said efforts are "directed toward developing a uniquely practical and desirable self-contained town that will become a major asset to the Florida economy."

He gave no estimate of the cost involved, but noted the Harrison Land Development Co. is taking part in the study. The project, he said, "includes work by land-utilization specialists, community planners, architects and environmental experts."

Harrison Land owns ranching and citrus-growing operations in St. Lucie County, Fla., and is experienced in development activities, Wiley added.

Kissinger Predicts Oil Embargo To End

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has predicted that the Arab oil embargo will be lifted before the projected 40-day disengagement of Israeli and Egyptian forces is completed.

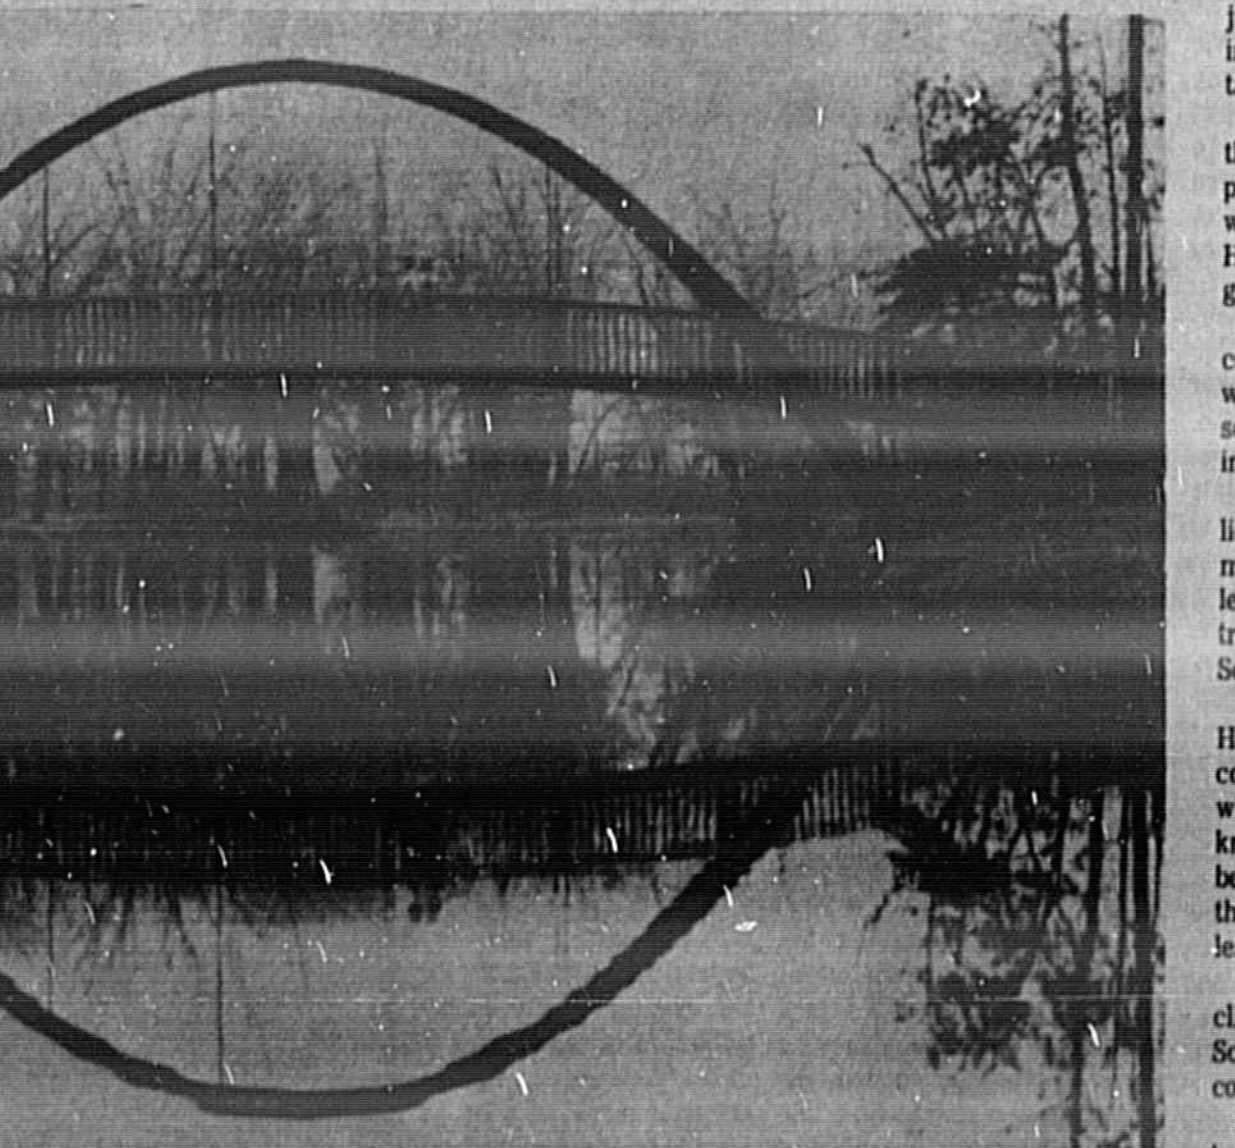

"We have had every reason to believe that ending the oil embargo. We would therefore think that failure to end the embargo in a reasonable time would be highly inappropriate," Kissinger said Tuesday at his first news conference since returning from the Middle East.

Asked whether he believed the embargo would be lifted after the 40-day disengagement period, Kissinger replied, "I think in more ambitious terms."

"Both sides found it easier to accept a U.S. proposal as to the limitation of their forces than to accept limitations which seemed to be demanded by the other side," Kissinger said.

"This does not constitute a U.S. guarantee. It was a device by which the United States made it possible to convey to the other acceptance of certain limitations on the armaments," he said.

However, Kissinger acknowledged that the United States will be involved in the Middle East if the agreement breaks down.

Ziegler In Old Role
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald L. Ziegler is back. President Nixon's press secretary has returned to working with the news media, having survived high-level recommendations that he be replaced because he lacked credibility. Ziegler returned to the White House press room Tuesday and announced he plans to give more briefings.

Beef Prices Rising
NEW YORK (AP) — Millions of Americans are finding beef prices on the rise after a brief spell of stability. An Associated Press survey shows beef prices at the retail level rose 10 and 20 cents on most items in the past two weeks. The boosts reflect higher wholesale costs — up about 25 or 30 per cent since the beginning of December. People in the industry say the higher wholesale costs are the result of production cutbacks stemming from last year's freeze. Government officials said Tuesday retail food costs during 1973 rose 20.1 per cent. The December boost was three-tenths of one per cent.

More Bases To Close
WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense officials say the Pentagon is looking to cut cuts by about $500 million a year with a new round of military base closings and reductions.

The individual armed services have started submitting base lists for consideration by Defense officials, the Associated Press has learned. Final decisions have not yet been made.

Because of the nation's economic troubles officials anticipate more resistance than usual in the next round. Congressmen always object to shutting down bases in their home districts and Pentagon officials expect them to oppose more bases than in the past.

"There is a great deal of concern that their affected constituents may have difficulty getting other jobs in a faltering economy."

Gyro Plagues Skylab
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Frequent faltering of a control gyroscope has prompted the early dispatch of the Skylab 3's prime recovery ship. But space officials say astronauts Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson can probably complete their 15-week mission even if the ailing stabilizer breaks down. Space officials said backup systems probably could hold the station steady without the gyroscopes. The Skylab 3's mission. Some scientific experiments would have to be curtailed, however.

Hot Fashions Retained
NEW YORK (AP) — Gustave Tassel's spring collection for the House of Noelle looks snappy and dressy but very hot. Tassel has kept the late Noelle's huge neck bows, which are crisp, flat and sexy. But they're devils on warm spring days. So would the satin and taffeta blouses which appear even hotter in black and brown. Hopefully, the woman who buys them will sleep from cool intention to cool restaurant with no fear of tell-tale signs of disfigurement from the heat. Prices aren't set yet, but will probably be high.

Heart Work Widespread
MARCO ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Doctors in several medical centers around the nation are working to save damaged heart muscles after heart attacks. If they can reach the muscles within a few hours after an attack they think they can reduce the amount of damage. The new work indicates the heart attack process is not necessarily over when the patient is wheeled into a hospital emergency room. Research is under way at Cedars Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles and Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, Mo.

Mass Murders 'Mastermind' Sought Death

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Miss Williams also testified Tuesday. But she was allowed to give her account behind closed doors in the chambers of District Court Judge William Hatton because she is a juvenile.

Kerley testified Corli was about to sexually assault him when Henley intervened.

"Wayne said, 'You've gone far enough, Dean,' Dean jumped up and ran at him with his hands raised and said, 'Kill me, Wayne, kill me.' And that's what he did," Kerley said.

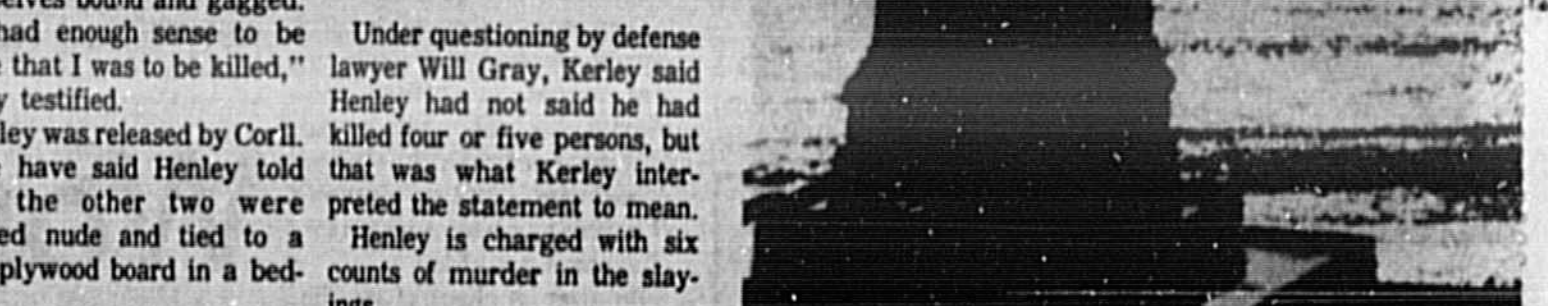

Corli's death has been ruled self-defense.

"Wayne said maybe we should just leave. I said no, we should call the police, and he said okay," Kerley testified.

The three went out on the sidewalk after calling police. Henley then said "he had done that four or five times," Kerley testified.

Under questioning by defense lawyer Will Gray, Kerley said Henley had not said he had killed four or five persons, but that was what Kerley later pretended the statement to mean.

Henley is charged with six counts of murder in the slayings.

Dean's Testimony Standing Scrutiny?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last July, the prosecutor's office subpoenaed the tapes of one presidential conversation. The demand was before the Senate Watergate committee and federal grand juries apparently is withstanding the test of the Watergate committee.

On Oct. 23, the White House agreed to give the tapes voluntarily to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who subsequently turned over the Watergate portions to the prosecutors.

The White House had notified Sirica that two of the conversations sought never were recorded and that a third contained an 18-minute gap that had obliterated all references to the Watergate break-in.

Last week, Sirica referred those three cases to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski with a recommendation he present evidence to a grand jury. Jaworski's staff began presenting the case to a grand jury on Monday.

According to a memorandum filed in court last August in support of the subpoena issued by the prosecutors, the crucial meetings involving Dean occurred on Sept. 15, 1972, and March 13 and 21, 1973.

Dean said that at the Sept. 15 meeting the President congratulated him on the "good job" he had done and said he was pleased the case had "stopped with Liddy."

Williamson To Ask Probe Of Longwood

LONGWOOD (AP) — The town is a party, when authorized by ordinance or resolution so to do.

A search of city records shows only two resolutions authorizing Jaques to sign documents on behalf of the city during the past year.

Authorizations have been given by simple motion.

Williamson said the charter action came to his attention in recent weeks. "I have to do something about this or I will be failing in my sworn duty to the people," he said.

Williamson said in spite of his negative vote a bill to a local automotive wholesaler was paid for the auto parts of a type vehicle the city does not own.

He said he has received reports a land developer tapped into city water lines two times without receiving a prior permit from the city.

Williamson said 11 building applications filed in November, 1971 carry Jaques' signature where builders are requested to sign under the statement, "I hereby agree that I will abide by all ordinances of the City of Longwood."

Pointing to Ordinance 124, Williamson said the law requires occupancy permits be granted only for a three-week period after the trailer has been provided with full sanitary facilities.

A six-month permit is allowed, he said, when a person files with the city council plans and specifications for the building of a home upon the premises.

Yet, Williamson said, other trailers have been allowed to park for extended periods of time in direct violation of the law.

"All these things need to be straightened out," Williamson said. "We all look south of office to uphold the law and that is what we have to do — all of us. I want these things looked into."

Prices Continue To Climb

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices continued to climb today, extending Tuesday's rise.

The Dow Jones industrial average was up a fraction, and advanced led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by more than 2 to 1.

Opening NYSE prices included Florida Gas, down 7/8 to 11; American Telephone, down to 50 1/4; Sony, up to 25 1/4; and Mountain Fuel Supply, which fell 14 Tuesday, up 1 1/4 to 71 1/4.

Mountain Fuel traded Tuesday for the first time since Jan. 14, following changes by the Utah Public Service Commission in the method of calculating the company's utility rates.

On Tuesday, the Dow rose 8.84 to 863.47 in moderately active trading.

Brokers said the gains were largely the result of Secretary of State Kissinger's optimistic appraisal concerning an early resumption of Arab oil shipments to the United States.

Analysts noted that the market tended to overlook negative news about inflation and signs of an economic slowdown, responding to the more immediate concern of short oil supplies.

Contractor Fined By Colleagues

By CHRIS NELSON
Herald Staff Writer
The Seminole County Mechanical Contractors' Examining Board Tuesday unanimously imposed a maximum fine and severely criticized one of its own members for ignoring legal requirements to get a permit before doing work.

William Jack, a charter member of the board and owner of Sanford Heating and Air Conditioning Co., was fined $50 and ordered to double the cost of inspecting the illegal job — which ever is greater — by his colleagues.

Jack could have had his company's name lifted, preventing him from working in the county.

"It's most embarrassing the first charges (brought under the new ordinance) happen to a member of the board," Roland Cousineau said.

Cousineau, who led aggressive questioning of Jack and David Gundling, the county building official who pressed charges by letter Jan. 10 against Jack, added, "I suggest to Mr. Jack that he examine his procedures in the office to make sure all permits are taken out in the future."

Jack told the board he thought a permit had been taken out on the $2,100 job by a private home on Magnolia Avenue in Sanford, and denied receiving a Dec. 4 letter from Gundling warning him about two other jobs done without permits.

"You better start reading your mail," Cousineau told Jack before adding that prior to passage of the ordinance last Spring, contractors systematically ignored the permit procedure in order to avoid inspections.

Jack earlier said two of the three jobs cited by Gundling in his December and Jan. 10 letters involved emergency repairs to home heaters — jobs his colleagues agreed would not be covered by a vaguely worded section of the ordinance.

At Tuesday's hearing, however, Jack admitted two of the three jobs involved installing air conditioning units for $1,600 to $2,100 — without the permits clearly required by law.

In another case Tuesday, the board found that former county school board chairman Al Keeth unintentionally violated the ordinance by not requesting final inspection for work done on a church air conditioning unit.

Keeth, who purchased a permit prior to doing the job, as the law requires, was lightly reprimanded for being "naive" by the board.

Board Chairman W. C. Hallback, Ned Vosca and Gundling agreed that since air conditioning firms — unlike electrical contractors — had never been required to get permits prior to last year, a period of "education" was still in effect.

Hallback said the next mechanical board newsletter will recommend all licensed mechanical contractors "familiarize themselves" with the ordinance, and Gundling was asked to circulate a letter calling attention to permit and inspection requirements.

Gundling Tuesday blasted the electrical industry — and the county electrical board — for ignoring national safety codes and dodging permit inspection requirements.

Murder Trial Set For Feb. 11
Helen Rose, 31, of Sanford, indicted by the Seminole County Grand Jury on second degree murder charges pleaded not guilty and waived appearing at her Monday arraignment where trial was set for Feb. 11 in Sanford.

Ms. Rose, of 1705 Peach Ave., remains free on $1,000 bond. She was charged in connection with the Jan. 6 shooting death of a 44-year-old Ira Patterson of Sanford.

Sanford police found the body of Patterson slumped over the steering wheel of his car parked in the Academy Manor subdivision. Police said Patterson, of 1628 Knox Ave., Sanford, was shot in the head and the neck.

On Trailer Law Talk Seminole Sets Deadline

By CHRIS NELSON
Herald Staff Writer
A March 12 deadline to hammer out the revamping of Seminole County's "anti-mobile home ordinance" — promised last summer — was pledged by commissioners Tuesday night to a standing-room-only crowd of CROP (Committee to Resist Corrupt Politicians) supporters.

The board admitted it had not followed through on its Aug. 24 promise to provide a permit system for residential trailers on land not included in mobile home parks or subdivisions.

The crowd and the commission gathered officially Tuesday to discuss a proposed amendment to the trailer lie-down ordinance which would make it illegal for anyone to move a residential trailer to a plot without being shown proof the land is zoned for mobile homes.

The amendment passed over the opposition of Greg Drummond and Sid Vihlen Jr., with Chairman John Kimbrough casting the deciding vote. Commissioners Dick Williams and Mike Hattaway voted in favor.

Speaking to the large vociferous crowd, Williams, who suggested the March 12 public hearing, said "the key question is when are we going to do something about the large ordinance."

In a mixed question and answer debate between CROP representatives and the board on the "large" ordinance and the amendment, under discussion, commissioners admitted no permits for trailers on land not previously housing trailers were being granted.

CROP claims the present gap in the law also prevents mobile home dwellers from fixing trailers on agricultural land, even though the trailers are technically "grandfathered" and have automatic two-to-four year extensions of present permits.

At the Sanford Civic Auditorium public meeting Aug. 24, commissioners promised to draft a new ordinance providing a "one-time-only" permit system for trailers already on agricultural land.

Nothing has been done since. CROP members charged Tuesday, adding that people who want new trailers are still out of luck.

It's an "unfortunate situation," Kimbrough agreed.

Troops, Tanks Pull Back

Associated Press
Israel troops and tanks began pulling back from the west bank of the Suez Canal today, two days ahead of schedule, military sources said.

The Israelis, withdrawing to lines about 12 miles east of the canal, also began digging up thousands of land mines and communications lines from the sands of occupied Egypt proper.

The desert road from Cairo to the city of Suez at the southern terminus of the canal was opened to the Egyptians, the sources said. The road has been closed since last October's Arab-Israeli war when Israeli forces occupied almost 1,000 square miles west of the canal.

Civilian newspapers published reports from Israel saying helicopters and convoys of trucks were moving the Israeli equipment off the west bank.

The withdrawal was scheduled to begin Friday at the latest in accordance with the Egyptian-Israeli disengagement agreement negotiated last week by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Egyptian and Israeli generals were to meet again today at Kilometer 101 on the Cairo-Suez road to complete the arrangements for the disengagement. The two chiefs of staff, Lt. Gen. Mohamed Gammay and Lt. Gen. David Elazar, are to sign agreements covering these arrangements at a meeting Thursday.

The withdrawal of forces is to be completed by March 5, with the Israelis occupying new positions some 20 miles east of the canal, a United Nations force between the two armies and the Egyptian forces on the east bank of the canal reduced.

Dutch Tanker Rescues 23 Men

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A Dutch tanker rescued 23 South Vietnamese crewmen of a patrol boat sunk last Saturday in the battle for the Laccade islands, the Saigon command announced today.

The command said two of the men died shortly after they were picked up and two others were in serious condition.

Saigon's chief military spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, said South Vietnamese ships and a spotter plane were searching for the other 59 crewmen of the sunken ship. But he said the survivors reported their captain and a large number of their shipmates were still aboard when the ship went down.

The survivors stayed afloat for 79 hours in life preservers before the tanker Kopionella picked them up about 175 miles east of Da-Nang and about 50 miles west of the Paracel archipelago, Hien said.

He said the men reported: Their ship was hit by a Chinese missile and set afire last Saturday morning. The captain ordered the crew to abandon ship but stayed aboard himself, and a "large number" of the men remained with him. An hour later, the Chinese opened fire again, and the boat sank six hours later.

The survivors were picked up at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Hien said. They were transferred early today to a South Vietnamese patrol craft and taken to a hospital in Da-Nang.

After the battle last Saturday and Sunday, Saigon said a Chinese amphibious force overran a garrison of 62 South Vietnamese who were put ashore to reinforce the Viet.

The size of the rebel force was not known. But military sources said 13 persons were killed and more than 20 wounded by 75mm cannon fire in the area, and the Khmer Rouge overran a militia company just north of the Prek Tnakt river, killing two militiamen and wounding 11.

The Embassy said Kosh, a former Marine officer, was a liaison officer with the South Vietnamese navy in Da-Nang. It said he went to the Paracels on Jan. 15, before the trouble developed, on a South Vietnamese navy boat making a routine inspection.

People In The News

Rep. John Dowdy

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Former Rep. John W. Dowdy, 61, has been ordered to begin serving six months in prison for perjury next Monday. The Texas Democrat who served 20 years in Congress is to report to the Springfield, Mo., Federal Hospital. U.S. District Court Judge Rosel C. Thomsen denied a motion on Tuesday to reduce the sentence. But he ordered a review of Dowdy's physical condition by doctors at the prison hospital and said he would hold another hearing on Dowdy's request afterwards. Dowdy was convicted by a federal jury Dec. 30, 1971, on charges he conspired to accept a $25,000 bribe from a contracting firm. He also was found guilty of obstruction of justice, illegal use of interstate facilities, and five counts of perjury. Last March the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., overturned all but three counts of the perjury conviction.

Would-Be Adventurers Swindled By Promoters

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Four would-be adventurers who paid nearly $3,000 to join an Amazon River expedition were left sitting in motel rooms while the phony promoters skipped out with the loot, police say. Police said Tuesday they had filed grand larceny and conspiracy charges against Earl Huddleston, 40, and Ernest Stout, about 44. The men, both of Maryland, used newspaper and television advertisements to attract investors for the never-planned expedition, police said. "They advertised in quite a few newspapers throughout the country," said Miami Beach police Sgt. James Casey. Both men apparently fled the state and were being searched for, Casey said. The ads, entitled "Expedition Amazon," read: "Mineral and archeological exploration forming aboard research vessel for the Amazon River and jungles of South America."

Casey said at least six men came to Miami Beach and checked into a motel to await the start of the expedition, which was to cost each of them $2,500. The motel turned out to be the one where Huddleston had stayed in 1972 while promoting a similar expedition and had skipped out on a $300 motel bill, police said.

Pro-Con Abortion Rally Staged In New York City

By BARTON NEPPEBT
Associated Press Writer
Abortion supporters and opponents rallied, picketed, petitioned and staged symbolic funerals to mark the one-year anniversary of a Supreme Court decision which invalidated most anti-abortion laws. In New York City, several hundred midtown Manhattan strollers crowded the steps of St. Patrick's Cathedral as a feminist group crowned a woman "pope." The bogus pontiff then issued an "encyclical" denouncing "1,000 years of blasphemous sexist oppression by the Catholic Church."

Farmers Planning Large Corn Crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers say they will plant the biggest corn crop in fourteen years next spring, an acreage boost that could rebuild large grain surpluses by late 1975. Farmers in 35 states have told the Agriculture Department that they will plant 77 million acres of corn this year, up 10 per cent from 1973. The increase was nearly double a 5.5 per cent hike projected earlier by USDA experts. The 35-state area accounts for about 98 per cent of the national corn acreage, but the remaining states could add another 1.3 million acres, for a national total of 78.3 million acres. That, according to department records, would be the most corn since farmers planted 81.4 million acres in 1951. Officials had projected a 1974 crop of 6.3 billion bushels based on planting 75.3 million acres. Thus, unofficially, if the plantings materialize and farmers have enough fuel and fertilizer, the 1974 crop could exceed 6.8 billion bushels, compared with the record last year of 5.6 billion. A crop of that size would be approximately 600 million bushels larger than anticipated needs in the 1974-75 crop year. It would mean a surplus of around 1.3 billion bushels by Oct. 1, 1975, the most since 1964. Corn reserves on Oct. 1, 1972, at the beginning of record export shipments, totaled slightly more than 1.1 billion bushels. They were down to 666 million last fall. A planting report also showed a substantial boost in 1974 wheat prospects.

Miss Johnson is a 1964, graduate of Crooms High School, where she was a member of the Tri-Hi-Y, Theatrical Society and the Panther Gazette. She received her A.A. degree from Seminole Junior College and in 1971 her BA from Florida Technological University. She is presently employed as an instructor at Forest City Elementary School. Sgt. Butler is the grandson of Mrs. Gustie Churchhill of Eubala, Fla. and Israel Butler of Darien, Ga. He was born in Darien, Ga., where he graduated from Podd-Grant High School in 1964. Sgt. Butler has done two tours of duty in Vietnam and a tour of duty in Korea. He is presently a Drill Sergeant in Fort Jackson, S.C. The wedding will be an event of February 21, at St. Luke Missionary Baptist church, Sanford, at 8 p.m.

YMCA To Hold Annual Meeting

The Metropolitan Orlando YMCA, now known as the Central Florida YMCA, has scheduled its 28th annual members' dinner meeting for Jan. 23 at 7 p.m. in Fellowship Hall of First Presbyterian Church, according to Wallace E. Hughes, president of the board of directors. Invitations have gone out to members of the seven branches, which include Central, Winter Park, Northwest, South, Seminole, West Orange and Osceola. Enrollment and participating members of the total Central Florida Association topped 40,000 for 1973, a record high for the "Y." The program for this year's annual meeting will be a departure from the usual format of speakers and celebrities of former meetings. It will consist of the presentation of a series of vignettes—"The YMCA on Parade"—featuring highlights and superlatives of the "Y" program year. Included in the program attractions will be President Guy and Indian Princesses with a membership of nearly 5,000.

The Seminole Branch will present its national champion Junior Pro Basketball Drill Team in action. The Winter Park championship swim team, with its All-Americans will be featured as well. In addition, the top ten-age program of all Florida YMCAs, including Youth Legislature, will dramatize several of their outstanding programs. Finally, physical fitness, a program pioneered by the "Y," will be graphically and colorfully demonstrated in a series of gold and bronze tableaux. Other features of the 28th annual gathering will be the election of new directors to the Central Florida Metropolitan Board and new officers for the coming year. Rotating off the board are Charles Bosserman, Frank Hubbard, John R. McPherson, William V. Roy, James Fenner, Paul Guthrie and Gary McDonald. Other officers in addition to Hughes are Robert E. Smith, president-elect; Charles Slepker, vice president; T.E. Triplett, treasurer; and Mrs. John Sterchi, secretary.

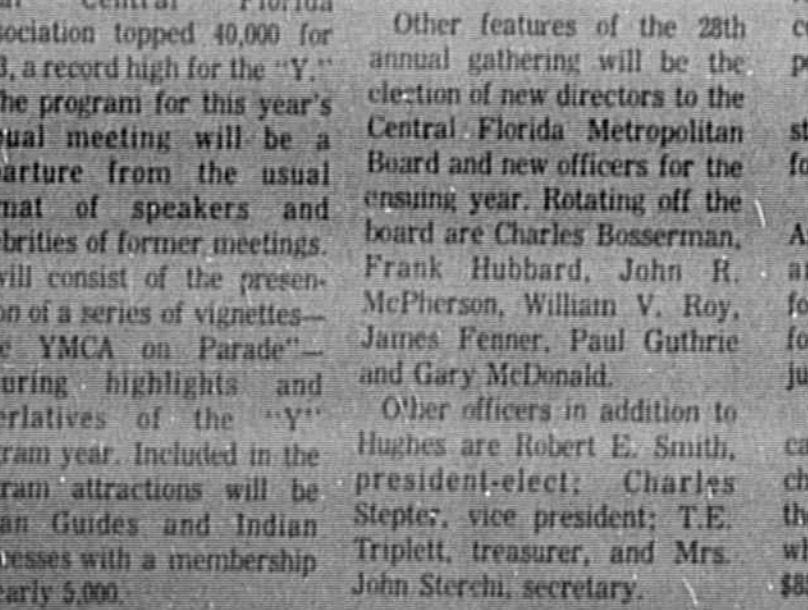

DAR Awards Girls As Good Citizens

Three Seminole County high school senior girls have been named Good Citizens in the annual contest sponsored by the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution. Jane Chitty, Rhonda Henderson and Carol June Stein are now eligible for state and national competition. Sallie Harrison Chapter, DAR, sponsored the local competition and will present pins and certificates to each girl. Each girl was selected on the basis of outstanding qualities of leadership, dependability, service and patriotism. The three school winners submitted a questionnaire related to United States government, state government, patriotism, community service, and personal school activities. Carol June Stein, representing Lyman High School, has been outstanding in her academic achievements as well as in her musical achievements throughout Florida, the United States and the world. She is presently Keyettes president, and has participated in numerous other extracurricular activities. She has taught at Temple Israel and has been active in other organizations and benefits related to her synagogue. She has appeared on the C.P. television, worked with underprivileged children, taught Headstart, performed for foster homes.

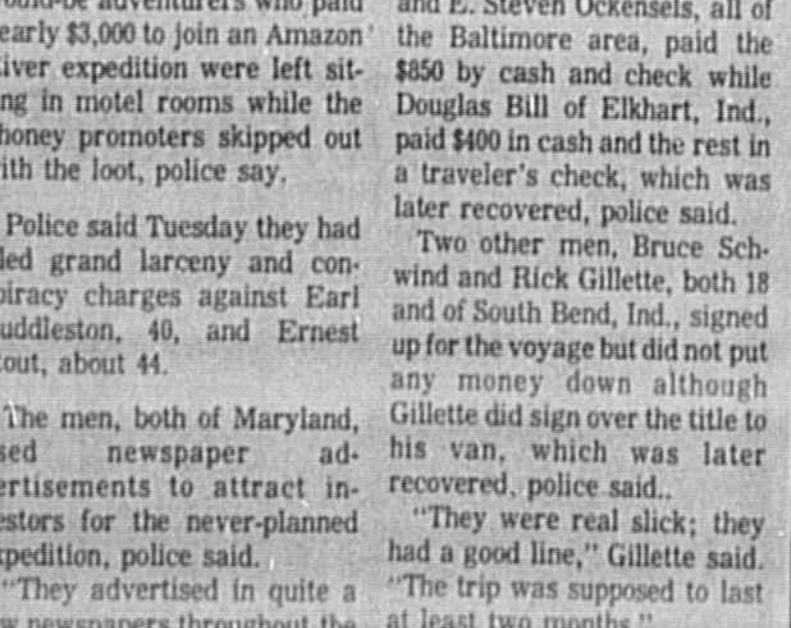

When asked how girls can show their patriotism, Carol stated, "By doing good for her country and her community and by being an example world wide to show how great America really is!" Rhonda Henderson, Seminole High School, a Girl's State nominee, is taking courses in that school's advanced curriculum. She has been Anchor Club treasurer and Para-Medical Club secretary, a member of Keyettes and Tri-Hi-Y Club. An active participant in her church, she also has visited nursing homes, orphanages and has contributed to the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon. When asked, "What do you think could be done in your community to further Good Citizenship," Rhonda answered, "By being considerate of others—of their needs, wants and rights; by supporting his religion and respecting the right of people who have different religious beliefs; and by standing up for what he believes is right and take action against what he knows is wrong."

Trinity Now 10-3 Patient Saints Dump Patriots

By DOUG STORUM Herald Staff Writer

The Trinity Prep Saints came on like gangbusters last night, clipping defensive hand cuts on highly touted Lake Brantley scoring as Steve Hargis and scoring a patiently disciplined offensive attack, in rout to a solid 55-41 victory on the Patriots' home floor.

Trinity enjoyed a well balanced scoring effort led by Pat Crimmins with 13, John Lapp and Doug Dyson 12 each, Jim Nussbaum adding eight and Walt Morgan chipping in seven hard earned points.

Ray Bowling netted 21 points, 19 for Brantley and two which were credited to Trinity Prep on a wrong way layup, while little Toby Strober hit consistently from outside of 12 markers.

Newcomer Wright Bright Spot But Hounds Still Fall To Jones

By JOHN CHERWA Herald Correspondent

ORLANDO — The Lyman cagers played one of their better games of the year utilizing the offensive punch of Andy Gidus and Bernard Wright but was unable to contain Jones' "big man" Anthony Givens as the Hounds fell short in their comeback try 59-54.

With 4:59 left in the contest the Lions led the services of senior Jim Clements when the star defensive performer fouled out right after Randy Brown had rebounded and put the ball back up to give Sanford a 59-58 lead.

Ricky Russi, usually more of a playmaker than scorer, was second in the Seminole scoring column as he bagged 13 of the evening's action. Randy Brown, always in double figures, hit on 5 of 8 shots for 10 markers.

Head Coach Rick Steinke found a new point guard in the form of Bernard Wright. Wright was moved up to the varsity squad for the Clearwater game and Steinke decided to keep him. Wright and Gidus worked for shots under the basket most of the evening with Gidus getting 21 and Wright 13.

Survey Shows
Area Parents Strong On Later School

By JEAN PATTESON
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County parents overwhelmingly oppose sending their children to school in the dark, according to the results of a public opinion survey conducted by The Sanford Herald last week.

"I think Mr. Nixon has blown it again!" commented Mrs. Arnold Smith of Longwood.

Although her children are unaffected by the change to Daylight Savings Time (DST) Mrs. Smith said if it had her children would not walk to school.

"For me to drive them only defeats the purpose by using gasoline I would not normally use," she wrote.

Parents were invited to complete a survey form by checking whether they were satisfied with the present hours; whether they would favor a one-hour later starting time; or whether they would favor a half-hour later starting time. Space was made available for other suggestions.

Sixty-two parents and concerned citizens replied to the survey; they represented 139 school-going children.

Of these parents, 35 favored a one-hour later starting time; 17 thought a half-hour later would be satisfactory; and only 10 said they were satisfied with the present school starting times.

"Outlaw DST forever," suggested Mr. and Mrs. William H. Speaker of Sanford, who have no children attending school, but favor a one-hour later starting time for those parents who do have children going to school in the dark.

Also favoring the one-hour later starting time was Mrs. Dorothy Polk. "No matter what the safety of our children should come first," she commented.

Mrs. Ada Sires of Sanford enclosed a petition with her survey form. Addressed to Gov. Reubin Askew, the petition requests the governor reconsider his decision and order DST be changed back to EST.

"DST has caused nothing but disruption to our entire state," reads the petition. "More energy is consumed by the increased use of fuel for heating, lighting and gasoline consumption (parents now transport their children to school rather than allowing them to walk, ride bikes or wait for buses in the dark)."

Mrs. Marianne Behr, mother of four, commented: "I have found since leaving Volusia County two years ago, that unlike Volusia County, the safety of the children is the last concern in Sanford schools."

Mrs. Behr favored a later start for schools, be it a half-hour or one-hour later. She said she has kept her six-year-old child home for three weeks while she has attempted to establish who is responsible for his safety both travelling to and from school, and at school.

"I have called the school superintendent to no avail," wrote Mrs. Behr. "No one would answer directly my question as to whether they are responsible for my child's safety. I wanted to send him to a different school but I was told either Pinecrest or stay at home. This is a disgrace, but no one seems to care."

Mrs. D. J. Tossi favored a half-hour later starting time, but commented a return to regular time (EST) would make the disruption of school schedules unnecessary.

Children Like To Work

Maturity Alters Chore Attitude

By BOB HARING Associated Press Writer A man reaches a peak when his first son gets old enough to shovel the snow.

But that joy is more a plateau than a peak. For a boy willingly undertakes these tasks for a very limited number of years.

Soon his excitement at being allowed to shovel the snow by himself, his thrill at being trusted with the growing snow-er will fade. The joy of many chores dries with the arrival of interest in sports or girls — or both — or the higher motive of performing for pay the tasks his parents once granted grudgingly as a reward for ascending boyhood.

In fairness, be it noted that such plateaus are not exclusively male domain. Girls may not pursue snow-shoveling or grass-cutting — although if that's their pleasure let "em — as one boy's interest slides off the plateau on the far side of snow-shoveling as recreation, the next becomes old enough to demand his chance.

It is a wise father who encourages the toddler to trail his rag brother into the cold armed with a toy shovel and a willing spirit of imitation. If there is a rule to such things, it is that the second son will start earlier than the first. And the third earlier still.

Kissinger, Aides Frustrated

Mideast Phones Plague Peace Diplomats

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Joe Sisco has to shout to be heard you can assume communications aren't very good.

In Jerusalem, a mixed team of Israelis and Americans were modifying an Egyptian disengagement plan. At the other end, in Aswan, were Harold Saunders, a top Kissinger aide from the National Security Council, and Ambassador Hermann Eilts.

Telephone lines between Cairo and Aswan vary from poor to terrible. Sisco had to telephone the State Department operations center in Washington, which kept a line open to the Saunders-Eilts team in Aswan.

At the Jerusalem end and the basic draft proposal in Aswan. And the fellow at the operations center in Washington had neither as he tried to relay the changes.

Kissinger and Sisco could laugh about it all the next morning as they flew to see Sadat in Aswan. By then, the compromise disengagement plan had crystallized to the point where they were reasonably certain it was acceptable to both sides. When Kissinger had set out in the rain from Andrews Air Force Base past midnight on Jan. 10 he knew the odds were good that he could bring Egypt and Israel closer together — perhaps close enough to reach an agreement at the suspended peace conference in Geneva.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan had brought him a fairly well-developed proposal for a pullback of Israeli forces from the Suez Canal in exchange for a "thinning out" of Egyptian troops and armor on the east bank.

Dayan recommended that Kissinger sound out Sadat and the secretary of state had agreed. Kissinger wasn't planning to take the soundings in person. But the word came from Cairo: Be in Aswan Thursday morning. Kissinger delayed a day to clear his desk and arrived Friday night. He went to see Sadat immediately.

Naturally enough, Egypt wanted to control more of the east bank than Israel had proposed. But a senior American official aboard the Kissinger jet said the differences "were manageable."

As he shuttled back and forth, Kissinger did not propose solutions. But he did cut off propositions that he knew would produce stalemates and insisted that only negotiable offers be made.

On Tuesday, a cold winter rain fell in Jerusalem. Kissinger went through a long day and night of conferences. He reported to newsmen that Israeli leaders were finding "constructive aspects" to the Egyptian counter-offer.

By Wednesday morning Kissinger had concluded that he might be able to go beyond simply framing "terms of reference" to guide negotiators in Geneva to nailing down an actual settlement.

As it later turned out, he also had decided to assemble some eight or nine "understandings" that included an implicit promise by Egypt to eventually allow Israeli ships to use the Suez Canal.

Each star represents a first-place ranking in the areas of Membership, Marketing and Informational activities, according to a FFFB spokesman. Walter J. Kautz, president of the $8,000 member Florida farm organization, said the membership award was based on the FFFB surpassing its membership quota for the past year, and for an unprecedented 32 years of continued growth.

An expanded information program geared to needs of farm bureau members, the news media and the general public, resulted in a first-place star in this classification, Kautz noted. To receive the award, the Florida organization competed with other state farm bureaus across the nation with 20,000-60,000 members.

Each state, except Alaska, has a farm bureau organization which comprises the 2.3 million member AFBF.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
During World War II a New York friend of ours who grew up in North Carolina was in the Marine Corps. Her job was to teach recognition of planes and ships (one of them the USS North Carolina) to Marine air pilots. After the war, the USS North Carolina was preserved as a state memorial and anchored at Wilmington.

On a recent trip to Wilmington our friend toured the ship. In the galley she found a recipe for Hermit's posted as an example of the kind of food served aboard during the war. She scribbled down the ingredients — 48 pounds flour, 1 pound salt, 3 dozen eggs and so on. When she returned to New York she baked the cookies using the original ingredients but reducing them to family size.

Then she got out her model of the USS North Carolina — a memento of her Marine Corps teaching days — and displayed it when she served the Hermit's! Here's her thirty recipe:

HERMIT'S
3 cups unsifted flour
1-3rd cup nonfat dry milk
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup margarine
1 cup sugar
1 cup dark corn syrup
2 tablespoons water
1 egg

1/2 cup raisins
Grease and flour a 15 by 10 by 1 inch jellyroll pan.
Thoroughly stir together the flour, dry milk powder, baking powder, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg.
In a large mixing bowl cream margarine and sugar. Add corn syrup, water and egg. Gradually and thoroughly beat in flour mixture. Stir in raisins. Turn into prepared pan, spreading to edges.

Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until edges are brown — 25 minutes. Cool in pan placed on wire rack. Cut into 3 by 2 inch bars. Remove with a small metal spatula. Store in a tightly covered tin box.

New Cookies Delight Kids

FLORIDA COOKIES
FRESH NEW TASTE

Kids of all ages like nothing better than dipping into a cookie jar that's replete with freshly baked cookies. And the recipes that follow for three luscious kids — French Lace

Cookies I. Orange, Orange-Chip Crisps, and Florida Polka Dots — have one sparkling ingredient in common, Florida frozen concentrated orange juice, used thawed and undiluted.

The naturally pure, tart-sweet concentrated orange juice gives such fresh-tasting, zesty flavor and moistness to the three cookies that you'll find it hard to select a favorite. That is, if they last that long!

The French Lace Cookies I. Orange are crunchy with nuts, the Orange-Chip Crisps are a variation of the beloved chip cookie made with semi-sweet chocolate morsels, and Florida Polka Dots are sandwich-type cookies frosted half with Sassy Orange Frosting and half with chocolate.

The word cookie comes from the Dutch "koekje" a diminutive of "kek", cake. Just to think of all the lovely ways you can enjoy these cookies — with ice cream, at an afternoon tea party, or with a refreshing pick-up of chilled orange juice — should be enough to make the baking finger itch. And remember, whatever concentrate is left in the can may be reconstituted with three equal parts water for the healthful beverage you deserve after all this baking!

FRENCH LACE COOKIES I. ORANGE

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup finely chopped nuts
1-3rd cup corn syrup
2 tps. Florida frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed, undiluted
1/2 cup butter
2-3rd cup packed brown sugar
1 tps. grated Florida orange rind
Sift flour and stir in nuts. Bring corn syrup, undiluted orange concentrate, butter, brown sugar and orange rind to boil in saucepan over medium heat; gradually stir in flour and nuts. Remove from heat. Drop batter by level teaspoons about 3 inches apart on lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in 375 degree F. oven from 5 to 6 minutes. Remove from oven; allow to stand 5 minutes before removing. Remove cookies gently with wide metal spatula. If cookies cool too much and are difficult to remove from pan, return to oven for a minute.
YIELD: Approximately 4 dozen cookies.

ORANGE-CHIP CRISPS
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten
5 tps. Florida frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed, undiluted
1 pkg. (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
1 tps. grated Florida orange rind
Sift together flour, soda and salt. Cream shortening; gradually add sugar and beat until mixture is light. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with undiluted orange concentrate, beating after each addition. Stir in semi-sweet chocolate morsels and orange rind. Drop by teaspoons about 2 inches apart onto greased baking sheet. Bake in 350 degree F. oven 10 to 12 minutes.
YIELD: About 4 dozen cookies.

FLORIDA POLKA DOTS
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
1 tps. Florida orange rind
1 egg, unbeaten
2 tps. Florida frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed, undiluted
Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter, beat in sugar and rind. Beat in egg until very light and fluffy. Add flour mixture alternately with orange concentrate, easy to handle, if necessary. Roll out 1/3rd of dough at a time on floured board; cut out circles with 2-inch round cutter. Then cut an equal number of 1 inch circles. Place on greased cookie sheet. Bake in 350 degree F. oven about 6 minutes. Remove from cookie sheet; let cool before frosting. Spread Orange or Chocolate Frosting in large cookie, top with small cookie sprinkled with confectioners' sugar if desired.
YIELD: Approximately 3 dozen cookies.

Sticky Buns

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
A neighbor of mine makes the best Sticky Buns I've tasted in a long time.

In our country, Philadelphia is the home of the Sticky Bun. But the following Sticky Buns differ from the Philadelphia version: they hold no raisins and the flavorful topping, instead of being sweetened only with sugar, has light molasses added — just enough to point up flavor. My friend is from a Pennsylvania-German family and cooks of this background often use molasses as a flavorful sweetener.

SUPER STICKY BUNS
1/2 cup milk
1-3rd cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 packages active dry yeast
1/2 cup warm water
2 eggs
5 1/2 cups unsifted flour, stir

to aerate before measuring
2 tablespoons soft butter
2-3/4 cups sugar mixed with
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
Topping, see below
2-3/4 cups chopped pecans
In a small saucepan, scald milk; off heat add 1-3rd cup butter, the sugar and salt; stir until butter melts; cool to lukewarm.

In a large mixing bowl, dissolve the yeast in the water; whisk in milk mixture and eggs until blended. Add 3 cups of the flour and mix until smooth. Gradually and thoroughly mix in 2 more cups of the flour — dough will be soft.

Turn out onto a lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and elastic (5 to 8 minutes), using the remaining 1/2 cup flour to keep dough from sticking.

Place dough in large greased bowl; turn to grease top; cover. Let rise in a warm place until double in bulk — 30 to 40 minutes.

Divide dough in half; on a lightly floured surface roll out one half to a 14 by 10 inch rectangle; spread with 1 tablespoon of the soft butter and sprinkle with half the sugar-cinnamon mixture. Startline at long side, roll up and pinch edges to seal. Cut into 9 slices; set aside. Treat remaining half of dough the same way.

Make up Topping. Divide this syrup between 3 greased 8-inch square cake pans. Sprinkle nuts over syrup. Place 9 slices of the dough, cut sides down, in each pan.

Cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk — 30 to 40 minutes.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until golden-brown — 25 to 30 minutes. Turn out on wire racks. Wonderful served fresh and warm from the oven. Makes 18.

Needle In Haystack Gifted Child Hard To Identify

By RON WELLS
Copley News Service

Academically gifted children aren't limited to the white, upper- or middle-class social and economic levels.

Quite often these children are from culturally disadvantaged backgrounds. For these children their meaningful education is usually obtained in the streets with the emphasis on survival.

Until last year, little had been done to identify academically gifted children from culturally disadvantaged backgrounds as they entered kindergarten, first or second grades.

In fact, the accepted educational practice has been to wait until a child shows his or her academic superiority before any extensive IQ testing is recommended.

"Where ghetto children are concerned, we've found that their culture doesn't support the belief of children being gifted," said Mrs. Charlotte Malone, a teacher with the San Diego, Calif., City Schools, in an interview. "Usually, peer groups ridicule these children who start showing their giftedness in class. Once this happens these children turn off to learning in order to become more like the other children."

Mrs. Malone is quite familiar with gifted children and their problems. Not only is she the mother of four academically gifted children, but she chairs the Committee on Education for Teachers of Gifted Children, which is part of the Council for Exceptional Children, and has done extensive research on identifying gifted children.

As part of a team teaching program, Mrs. Malone works with 60 children of kindergarten, first and second grade ages who are from disadvantaged families.

"The class is unique because it has a cluster of academically gifted children in it," she said.

"This is the first time there has ever been a gifted cluster in a class consisting of these grade levels and this socioeconomic level."

According to Mrs. Malone, when she began her research it was believed that the teaching team wasn't instructing the children correctly. Now it is felt that the tests which were in use at the time weren't right for these children.

Most of the available tests for identifying children with high IQs were and are based on the scores made by children from white, middle-class families.

Vickie Babcock's
Applesauce Raisin Bread

1 1/2 cups flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1 cup quick oats

1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1/2 cup salad oil
1 cup applesauce
1 cup raisins

Combine dry ingredients. Add eggs, salad oil and applesauce and stir till well combined. Stir in raisins and fill greased 9x5x3 loaf pan. Bake at 350° for one hour. (note: a cracked top is normal). This recipe is from Vickie Babcock of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. She bakes with Minute Tapioca and adds a lot of food value for the money.

Overseas Sales Responsible? Fertilizer Shortage Confronts U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Farmers throughout the Southeast are wondering if they'll have enough fertilizer for the spring planting. They're also wondering how a nation that has a fertilizer shortage now could have been selling it overseas a few months ago.

Like most shortages that have affected the nation in the past few months, the fertilizer shortage is a result of the energy crisis.

In some cases, companies that make fertilizer couldn't get raw materials because the shippers couldn't get fuel for their trucks.

In the case of nitrogen fertilizer, natural gas is one of the raw materials used to make them, and there is a shortage of natural gas.

Many farmers say the worst part of the problem is the uncertainty about what next spring will bring. They needn't feel alone, because officials at the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington say they're just as mystified.

Robert Lee Scarborough, who runs a large farm in Richland County, S.C., says he has been warned to expect a fertilizer shortage, "but I haven't faced it yet. I do have a large order in for fertilizer, and it hasn't got here yet."

"You never know what the situation might be by spring planting. I hope it doesn't get worse. Fertilizer already is costing about 50 per cent more than it did a short while ago and this will increase the cost of growing, and I figure the cost of food at the grocery store's," Scarborough said.

His last statement helps explain why agriculture got top priority on the federal government's fuel allocation list and why agriculture officials are scrambling to reduce fertilizer shortages.

A reduced supply of food means increased costs at the supermarket — increases glaringly evident to shoppers who can compare the price of a carton of groceries this week with the week before.

Tom Warren, assistant to the president of the South Carolina Farm Bureau, says, "The farmers of our state are expecting a fertilizer shortage, and already we have had reports that nitrogen fertilizer isn't available. We are concerned and we are worried about our spring planting."

Alabama's commissioner of agriculture and industries, M.D. "Petey" Gilmer, said recently that "if present reports are to be accepted, shortages of fuel and fertilizer seem inevitable in Alabama. If our farmers receive less fertilizer in 1974, production of food and fibers seem certain to be curtailed. Prices will then almost automatically go up."

This week's fuel allocation announcement should take care of part of the problem, but Gilmer's warning about fertilizers still holds true, USDA officials say.

Glen Landreanu, commodity director for the Louisiana Farm Bureau, says fertilizer supplies increased after the price freeze ended.

While the freeze was on, a lot of American fertilizer was sold in foreign markets for higher prices. Landreanu says fertilizer supplies now seem to be climbing, but so are prices.

"For example, these prices are as of Jan. 1, ammonium nitrate is up 29 per cent, anhydrous ammonia is up 40 per cent, urea is up 32 per cent and nitrogen solution is up 34 per cent," he says.

A USDA spokesman in Washington said present estimates show that the demand for fertilizer will exceed supply by at least 10 per cent.

He admitted that one reason "is a lot of sales overseas during the price freeze. It is similar to the wheat deal — there was no government control over individuals selling to foreign markets."

Nixon administration officials said last week they might reimpose controls on the fertilizer industry if prices continued to climb.

USDA officials add that while consumers may complain about rising food prices, reducing exports is a ticklish situation.

"Agricultural exports are our largest earner in foreign trade," says the USDA spokesman. "This country produces about 25 per cent more food than it can use. In theory, I guess, we can reduce our food exports to insure a plentiful domestic supply. But what will that do to our balance-of-trade payments? And how about nations that have come to depend on us for certain food products?"

Doll Story Gives View Of Yesterday

By HELEN M. PAGEL
Copley News Service

Years ago girls of 11 or 12 never had to worry about dating. They were still playing with dolls. In fact, most girls didn't give up dolls for good until they reached 13. And then, they were still playing with dolls — and almost tearfully and almost reverently, the dolls were packed away, to be looked at once in awhile and finally forgotten. There was one such collection which spanned almost a century.

The oldest doll of all was Ada, who was purchased in the late 1870s for a little girl who never forgot her. But Ada was carefully laid away and is as beautiful and charming as ever.

Her body is cloth stuffed with sawdust, her hands and forearms are leather and she wears red and white striped stockings and black cloth shoes.

Her head is of Parian Bisque, with very blue eyes, very pink cheeks and red lips. Her blonde hair is arranged in little curls across her forehead and knotted into a figure eight with ringlets in the back. There is a black velvet ribbon across the front of her hair, and another one with a gold cross suspending it around her neck, and her delicate little ears are pierced for earrings.

Altogether, she is a perfect dream of a doll.

There should have been a wax doll there, too, but Flora, who belonged to another little girl who did live to grow up, was herself the victim of oversolicitation. For her little mother, in an effort to keep her from catching cold, had once placed her in a chair close to the stove, and that was the end of poor Flora.

Then came Laura, who belonged to another little girl in the early 1900s. Laura is only about eight inches high and her body is covered with cloth of a bright floral pattern.

Her head is china with brightly painted features and black hair. Her forearms and hands are china, as were also her lower legs and feet on which were painted black slippers with blue ribbons which crisscrossed to her knees.

But Laura led a hard life and her arms have been replaced with cloth ones, her feet are broken off and her head, which was broken into three pieces, shows definite cracks where it is glued together.

Choice Dictates Success

By HILARY ABRAMSON
Copley News Service

What separates successful people from failures?
Choice.

So says Dr. William Glasser, a 48-year-old Los Angeles psychiatrist whose theories on therapy and education have made him famous, rich and in demand as a speaker.

People tend to behave as they see themselves, he said.

"When you fail, you begin to look at yourself as a failure and act like one," he said in an interview.

For people to consider themselves successful they must have two ingredients — someone who cares about them and about whom they care and something to do with their lives that they judge worthwhile.

"We need others to have a worthwhile identity.

"Retreat feels good at the beginning, but if we can't find something to do with their lives that they judge worthwhile, I've got that no one can take away is myself."

"Making it by ourselves is not part of the human condition." Glasser is best known for rejecting what is classically called mental illness.

He traced the steps people take toward failure.

First, they may become involved with their own feelings. Become self-righteous.

"For instance," he said, "depressed people become involved with their own depression. It reduces the pain and helps them avoid facing the reality of being lonely or making bad choices."

"People hold onto being depressed often because it took so long for them to achieve it."

People may become involved in a world of their own.

"We often define this as crazy," he said.

Or they may become physically sick.

"To undo this behavior, it must start with the person. In the beginning or at the end, the patient has to make a decision here and now to change his or her way of life."

Glasser was graduated from Western Reserve Medical School in 1950. Three years later he was consulting psychiatrist to the Ventura, Calif., School for Girls.

His work in this reform school changed his life and enabled him to challenge conventional psychiatry.

Nine years later he wrote "Reality Therapy."

His theory diverges from traditional therapy by rejecting mental illness and the need to probe the past for roots to current problems.

Glasser starts with today's problems and goes on from there.

He founded a Reality Therapy Institute in Los Angeles to spread his word and after publishing a book on "Schools Without Failure" in 1969, he opened an Educator Training Center in the same area.

His theories of success and failure in general apply realistically to school, he maintains.

The model? That reform school in Ventura.

(Do not use wing tips in this recipe but save them to add in making broth.) Mix remaining ingredients and marinate chicken in mixture in refrigerator, lightly covered, for several hours or overnight, turning a few times. To cook on an indoor or outdoor charcoal grill, arrange chicken on grill about 3 inches from medium coals; grill until tender — 7 to 10 minutes on each side; spoon marinade over pieces several times during broiling. Or arrange chicken on a rack in a shallow roasting pan; bake in a preheated 450-degree oven until tender — 35 to 45 minutes; spoon marinade over pieces several times during baking. Makes about 32 pieces. Serve pick-up fashion with paper napkins.

Casselberry Student Is Killed Walking To School In Darkness

A 13-year-old Casselberry boy was struck and killed Wednesday morning, bringing to six the number of Florida children who have died while heading for school in the dark.

Robert T. Allen was hit by a car at 7:30 a.m. about five blocks from his home and almost a mile from South Seminole County Middle School. He died two hours later in an Orlando Hospital.

The driver of the car, identified by Casselberry Police as James Cartwright, of Maitland, was charged with driving too fast for road conditions.

Police said, however, Cartwright was within the legal speed limit (35 miles per hour) but fog hampered his view.

The Florida Highway patrol reports that the other five children who perished on their way to schools include Richard Toudt, 6, of Tampa suburb of River-view, killed when hit by a car while crossing U.S. 301 to board a school bus Wednesday.

The six deaths in Florida since clocks were moved back an hour on Jan. 6 include Charles Van Iderstyne, 15, of Boca Raton, killed Tuesday while riding his bicycle to a friend's house before school began.

State Education Commissioner Floyd Christian, listing the accidental deaths of the aid of Florida congressmen in efforts to return the country to Standard Time.

Christian sent a telegram to the congressional delegation after two of the youngsters were killed Wednesday.

"In light of this terrible toll and in light of evidence in this morning's newspapers that the change to Daylight Saving Time has resulted in the small electrical savings of only one per cent. I want to urge you to seriously consider the introduction of legislation to return the nation to regular time," he said.

The Florida Highway Patrol said the Casselberry accident occurred in "very heavy fog" near the corner of Lake Drive and Holiday Drive.

At the school board's Friday meeting a one-half-hour later starting time was adopted, but apparently it has not eliminated the children walking to school in dark and fog.

The school board did not discuss a time change at Wednesday's meeting.

"I don't think a change would put the school children out of phase with the community and would 'fool up' activity and meal schedules," Board Chairman Darie Sims said he would like to make the change for an hour, but it was almost an impossibility. "My advice to those who do not like their children's school starting time would be to complain to the President," Sims has said.

Okayed By Referendum Board To Build 3 New Schools

Yielding to their attorney's advice in an abrasive, disputed meeting, the Seminole County School Board Wednesday voted to construct three new schools, including a Jackson Heights Middle School in Orlando — target of a mass protest at last week's meeting.

At the same time, the board agreed to live up to bond referendum promises and advertise for construction bids at two other schools, Lake Howell High and Winter Springs Elementary.

The three were promised to the voters in the four mills voted last year.

The board did not make a final decision on zoning for the 1974-75 school year because board members said they needed more time to analyze the situation and they wanted provide their own transportation.

The Lyman attendance zone to be established between I-4 and U.S. 17-92, with seniors allowed to remain at Lyman provided they live east of I-4 and provide their own transportation.

Establishing the western attendance zone for Oviedo at U.S. 17-92, establish Oviedo High as a school for grades 9 to 12 in the morning and grades 9 to 11 in the afternoon; and next year's seniors in the Lake Howell attendance zone be provided transportation to the morning session.

Layer asked that juniors as well as seniors be allowed to continue at their respective schools.

Board Member Jean Bryant said "I cannot reach a conclusion," Mrs. Bryant said she wanted to consider a spot survey proposed by State Rep. Vince Felchel that would provide input on the possibility of expanding upon existing schools.

The board has for five weeks been considering school zones and parents have packed the meetings, offered statistics, solutions and petitions for action, but the board Wednesday felt it needed more time to consider the alternatives.

FPC Officials Dispute Power Plant Theft

Florida Power Corp. officials today at the Enterprise plant, which earlier this month reported 500,000 missing gallons of fuel oil, said today that much fuel could not have been stolen, despite the firm's St. Petersburg headquarters maintaining it was.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said the plant uses about 250,000 gallons of fuel a month, and not 500,000 gallons a week, as St. Petersburg officials earlier stated.

The Enterprise power facility, rocked already by the "early retirement" of D. J. Parker as plant superintendent, today reeled under the news that a promised promotion to plant superintendent for Harold Stutz, Parker's former assistant, is being withheld.

Stutz, a longtime FPC veteran, today indicated he will join his former boss in "early retirement."

The Enterprise executives say they are upset over Parker's retirement since it was based on a poor performance rating given him by George Marshall, production superintendent.

However, a company spokesman said today that Marshall, who has been with the plant, had consistently given Parker top ratings.

Parker, company spokesman said, will be allowed to remain on full salary until his July retirement, but all responsibility has been taken from him.

Public Service Commissioner Paula Hawkins, plant officials say, will soon investigate the plant, but Ms. Hawkins could not be contacted today to confirm the report.

Plant spokesman said all of the fuel is trucked into the facility and would have to leave the same way. Thus, it would necessitate a minimum of 70 trucks to haul away the 500,000 gallons—a feat Enterprise

Head Lice Infesting Seminole Students

Head lice infestation has caused an increasing number of children to be sent home from school over the past few weeks, according to Dr. Julian Fried, director of the Seminole County Health Department. He is appealing to parents to take steps to help eliminate the problem.

"It's a matter of home sanitation and care, not a medical problem," explained Fried, who said the lice are easy to get rid of through one or two treatments with either Kwell Shampoo (available only with a doctor's prescription) or A-200 Pyrethrin (available without prescription).

This problem has been experienced previously and apparently rears its head at intervals, said Fried. Six months ago there was an outbreak in the northern end of the county; the current outbreak seems more prevalent among elementary level pupils in the south end of the county.

Some 20 to 30 children have been sent home from school in one day, said Fried.

Head lice are not hard to get rid of. It requires the vigilance of the parent. It may occur in any kind of home, rich or poor, clean or neglected. One child may infest a group of children with whom the child comes in close contact.

The new style of long hair for boys has made them more susceptible as long-haired girls have previously been.

In addition to the shampoo treatment, it is sometimes necessary to use a fine tooth comb to get rid of all the nits. A hot vinegar and water rinse often loosens nits and makes them easier to comb out.
