Vance To Replace Kissinger

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) - Cyrus R. Vance, who served as Lyndon Johnson's world-traveling roubleshooter and tried unsuccessfully to negotiate an end to the Vietnam war in 1968, is the man Jimmy Carter has selected to replace Henry A. Kissinger as secretary of state, sources say.

Carter declined today to confirm the selection but said he wasn't denying the choice would be Vance.

NATION IN BRIEF

Carter Writing Moscow:

'Committed' To Peace

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) - President-elect Jimmy Carter said today he will send an informal message to Moscow "expressing my reciprocal commitment" to peaceful relationships and to nuclear disarmament.

He said his new Democratic administration will move aggressively for arms control greement and then begin efforts for a more comprehensive U.S.-Soviet commitment to reduce the level of nuclear armaments.

Gate Crasher Sought Dole

WASHINGTON (AP) - The New Mexico man accused of trying to crash his pickup truck through a White House gate sought an audience the day before with President Ford's former running-mate, Sen. Bob Dole.

Dole aides said the man, Steven B. Williams of Santa Fe, N.M., visited the Kansas senator's office on Tuesday, was "very forceful" and referred to himself as "an angry citizen."

Williams was arrested on Wednesday by White House police and charged with destruction of government property after he rammed his battered truck into a steel gate in front of the White House. He was arraigned Thursday and ordered held for mental observation pending a hearing next month.

Gilmore Awaits Delay Ruling

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gary Gilmore waited in his Death Row cell today to learn whether his mother would succeed against his wishes in getting the U.S. Supreme Court to delay his Monday sunrise execution. The nation's highest court and three courts in Utah were to consider a variety of pleas today seeking to stop Gilmore from facing a firing squad two days after his 36th birthday for the murder of a Provo motel clerk. Attorney Anthony Amsterdam, representing Bessie Gilmore of Milwaukie, Ore., on Thursday asked U.S. Supreme Court Justice Byron R. White, the Utah Supreme Court and a state district court to intervene in the case.

Skater Crosses Death Valley

DEATH VALLEY, Calif. (AP) - Linda Reingold, one of three persons who skated 125 miles through Death Valley, says she still loves skating but will stick to roller rinks until her bruises and blisters vanish.

Miss Reingold completed the trip Thursday, keeping her promise to skate across the valley if Jimmy Carter was elected president. She made the vow while working as a Carter canvasser on roller skates in Southern California. "I think I'll have a nice cold drink, a nice hot bath and then maybe go out and do some partying." she said after finishing.

Sentencings Under Study

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Denver criminal courts have become the first in the nation to test a new method of ending disparity in sentences for the same crimes. The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, describing the project today, said judges in several other states are watching the Denver experiment with an eye toward applying it to their own communities. The experiment involves a formula developed specifically for Denver in which points are awarded according to the seriousness of the crime and the offender's lack of stability.

Oil Boom For New England?

BOSTON (AP) - Offshore oil development will bring air pollution to the beaches and rocky inlets of New England - but not enough to threaten the way of life in its seaport towns, a federal report says. And the financially depressed region would gain thousands of jobs and billion of dollars worth of investments if a large oil strike were made in New England's continental shelf. The report is far more optimistic than a congressional study of proposed energy projects off the shores of New Jersey and Delaware released Thursday in Washington.

Police Union Seeks Pay Hike, Free Phones

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - Some 2,200 state law enforcement officers are seeking a new contract guaranteeing 25 per cent pay increases and free home telephones.

Officials of the Police Benevolent Association, the union which represents the employes, presented those demands Thursday as negotiators met for the first time to begin bargaining talks.

In addition to the 25.19 per cent pay hike and free home telephones, the union also demanded 16 paid holidays a year instead of nine and sever per cent merit raises for all employes rated satisfactory.

State Growth Rate Dips

GAINESVILLE (AP) - Florida's growth rate has dropped for the second year in a row, says a University of Florida statistician.

Bart Lewis indicated Thursday that figures to be published within a month will show that the state's growth rate dipped below 2 per cent in 1975-76, the lowest in years. He would not give the exact figure.

Legislators Live It Up

MIAMI (AP) - Some 200 legislators and state officials, mostly from North Florida, were to be feted from dawn to dusk today as a four-day Bicentennial Legislative Appreciation weekend gathered steam.

Horror Story In Tampa TAMPA (AP) - Circuit

Judge Herboth Ryder will review today the case of a retarded Tampa man who was locked in a state mental institution for 26 years on a charge that is no longer a crime.

Willard Eugene Allen, 55, was 28 when he was charged in April 1950 with "an abominable crime against nature" - homosexuality. The maximum penalty for such a crime was 20 years in prison.

At that time, two court-appointed doctors testified that Allen had an IQ of 36. They deemed him a "congenital imbecile ... totally irresponsible with a mental age less than that of a 7-year-old" and committed him to Florida State Hospital in Chattahoochee. In 1971, the law was ruled unconstitutional and deleted from Florida statutes. "This is unbelievable," as sistant state attorney John Freeman exclaimed last week after learning of Allen's case. That was when a packet ci letters reviewing the case asked a Tampa court to declare Allen innocent by reason of insanity so he could be moved from the high-security hospital to an institution for the mentally retarded.

"Shocking and terribly unfortunate ... a true horror story!" was how Steven Pfeiffer, a state hearing examiner who initiated the letters, described Allen's plight. Pfeiffer blamed a combination of legal entanglements and communications breakdowns.

Hillsborough Criminal Court Judge L.A. Grayson, now deceased, ruled Allen incompetent to stand trial and committed him to the state hospital. The prosecutor then moved to keep the charges pending until Allen was found competent to stand trial. After Allen had been at Chat tahoochee for eight years, doctors there changed his diagnosis to "schizophrenia, chronic undifferentiated type and mild retardation." The diagnosis was reaffirmed viewed. Doctors changed the diagnosis from "mild retardation" to "moderate retarda-

The Next Step Is Up To You

The Herald this week completed its series of "What Are They Really Like?"- a closeup on all candidates for local and municipal offices in Tuesday's elections in Seminole County. Similar profiles were prepared for the Nov. 2 general elections on candidates for county and statewide offices.

And, to cap it off, in the Sunday Herald, political writer Donna Estes will summarize, and review key facts regarding each of your local candidates.

We have presented this unique series as an extra guide for you, the voter. For, when you reach that bottom line, you do not want to have to make your final judgment solely on campaign rhetoric and promises and what one candidate says about another - and how he (or she) says it.

You want to know more about the man behind the politician, the campaign sign, and the slogan. What's he (or she) really like?

In the final analysis, each of you will vote for a candidate based on your studied insight, perception and understanding of him or her as an individual.

potential leader and neighbor. We hope we have helped in that endeavor.

The final step is up to you. VOTE.

Double Standard The Internal Revenue Service has an investigation under way called Project Haven. The idea is to discover some illegality by which the U.S. Department of Justice can shoot down the use of offshore trusts for avoidance of income tax.

Part of the investigation cen Trust Ltd., a popular dollar refuge in Nassau. While the inquiry was in process, a certain officer of the bank traveled to the United States. In his possession was a briefcase containing enlightening documents. The immediate problem was to separate the executive from his briefcase. An IRS informant struck up an acquaintance with the traveler. He managed to convince him that a banker's life ought not be completely immersed in arithmetic; surely there was room somewhere for fun and games. The consequence was that the executive laid aside his portable files temporarily to accept a brief "date" arranged for him by the informant. In the ensuing interlude contents of the brief case were copied for the IRS. At some point along the line, the IRS obtained an indictment against a Chicago lawyer named Burton W. Kanter. The prosecution's objective was to show that Kanter's law firm and another law firm in Miami were the principals behind Castle Bank. If proved, this would mean that the accounts of Castle Bank aren't really tax shelters because they are not foreign controlled, but rather are secretly and actually controlled by U.S. residents. The briefcase data, including account-holders' names, were designed to establish that point.

The manner by which the IRS came into possession of the names became a topic of highlevel consideration. Director of Internal Revenue Don Alexander opined that the informant's activities "involved a violation of Bahamian law." IRS intelligence chief Thomas Clancy voiced an advisory from an IRS memorandum that the agency's informant could be prosecuted for violation of Florida laws prohibiting prositution.

The high-level topic of conversation, conducted behind closed doors became public information when defendant Kanter filed a routine request under the Freedom of Information Act. He opened the $9 envelope and behold! the record of the conversation on the clandestine IRS procedure dropped out.

As you may well imagine, the IRS fury hit the shingles. Release of the document that revealed scheming in high places was blamed on low-level employes. The office of the agency's chief counsel prepared an analysis of the damage. It concluded that release of the documents endangers success of the prosecution of the fraud case against Kanter and associates.

Kanter, of course, is happy with the windfall, but claims he ought not to be prosecuted in the first place. At most, he figures, the case is a civil matter, turning on whether the Bahamas shelter is legal or illegal; that is, whether he or the IRS puts the correct interpretation on the technical rules governing offshore trusts. The principle is that tax avoidance is not illegal in as much as the IRS itself makes rules as to how tax avoidance can be achieved.

The irony is this: a private group that undertakes to conform to highly technical rules and still avoids taxes is prosecuted as criminal. On the other hand, the activities of a government group that indulges in blatant misconduct (procuring) would have — except for a bureaucratic blunder been kept even from public knowledge.

Will the real criminal please stand up?

RAY CROMLEY Carter's Shrewd Strategy

WASHINGTON - (NEA) Under the umbrella of his transition team, set up last August, candidate Jimmy Carter operated one of the most effective strategies for winning over strategically placed personalities that I've seen in a half-dozen presidential elections.

This team, preparing for a Carter Administration months before it was clear that would be a Carter Administration, was assigned a small-scale budget of $140,000 out of scarce campaign funds and sought position papers and written advice from several thousand influential citizens nationwide on what a Carter Administration's policies should be.

Now there is nothing more flattering to a man or woman, however prominent, to be asked his views on a major national issue by the presidential nominee of a major political party. And when that candidate asks for a five to eightpage written proposal on a matter with which you are deeply concerned, the flattery is most compelling.

I know one prominent man, active at high levels in a succession of Republican and Democratic administrations - with a philosophy roughly 180 degrees from Mr. Carter's - who became a convert after being asked to submit his thoughts, through he had no assurance his advice By TERRY KIRKPATRICK would be followed. This man knew, in fact, that the overwhelming advice on the subject in which he is expert was being sought from those with views radically different from his own. The unstated implication, though repeatedly denied, was that having been asked for advice, the adviser would then eventually be considered NEW YORK (AP) - President-elect Jimmy and two thousand of those solicited did in fact leading industrialist says. submit written opinions on subjects like "The most constructive thing this ad-

Mr. Carter needed votes to secure a victory. With key men and women of influence being drawn into the circle, however obliquely - and however small their actual weight in Mr. Carter's plans — the word gets around. didn't particularly like newspapers, or reporters who worked for them. I don't think he disliked them, but I guess sometimes he just wished they weren't always nosing around.

The politicians around Pierce didn't always communicate. And, if they did, it was in a language all their own. Not a language that would be easily accepted by someone trained to be an attorney. Pierce worked in county government about two years. During that time he gained valuable experience. Because that's where attorneys learn how to apply their schooling to real-life situations. As of Dec. 10, Pierce has resigned. Like Bartelby, he has said, "I'd prefer not to."

The real loser is the county. All the experience Pierce gained will go down the drain. And part of the reason for that is the feud between Republicans and Democrats on the board. Old Pierce got caught in the middle of that - and that was no place to be. County government loses good experience and potentiality for the future. I lose someone to argue

Patent System

Under Fire Sometime before the end of this year, the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office will have issued the four-millionth patent for some new and useful invention or process, or improvement on an old one. Since the first patent was issued in 1790 - for a better way of making potash - the nation has benefited immeasurably from the founding fathers' recognition that the natural desire for private gain was the world's greatest engine for promoting the general good, if properly harnessed.

The patent system has been rightly credited with adding the fuel of profit to the fire of genius" and has been revised only twice - in 1836 and in 1952. Under current law, a patentholder is granted exclusive rights to his invention for a period of 17 years.

Patent applications have risen to more than 100,000 a year while the rate of issuance lags at between 50,000 and 80,000 a year. As a result, a amber of bills have been introduced in Congress in recent years to modernize and streamline the patent process.

At the same time, unfortunately, the system has come under attack for another reason: A century ago, most patents were issued to individuals. Today, 75 to 80 per cent of all patents are issued to companies.

Some federal agencies and federal judges actually seem to view patents as contrary to the public interest, charges T. L. Bowes, executive director of Intellectual Property Owners, Inc., a Washington-based organization devoted to preserving the patent incentive. They apparently subscribe to the faulty syllogism, he says: Monopolies are bad for the Ø nation, patents are monopolies, therefore patents are bad for the nation. One U.S. senator, since retired, went so far as environmental regulations and federal energy people and an inventor is not entitled to profit from his creation.'

But we are in an era of history when, perhaps take three years to clear away the underbrush" needed to meet the unique demands of the times, Bowes points out. Developments in energy 4 generation and use, in food production, housing, transportation, communications and a host of other areas will be urgently needed.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Hua Named Foreign Minister In Government Shakeup

TOKYO (AP) - Huang Hua, China's leading diplomat, has been named foreign minister in a government shakeup expected to buttress the policy of rapprochement with the United States. Huang, formerly Peking's U.N. ambassador, replaces his old friend and longtime associate Chiao Kuan-hua. It was believed Chiao was removed because he and his wife were close to Mao Tse-tung's widow, Chiang Ching, who is under arrest with three other leaders of the radical wing of the Chinese Communist party.

Waldheim Best Bet In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - The 15 members of the Security Council begin private meetings today to work out arrangements for the election of the next secretary-general of the United Nations. Unless the Chinese veto him, Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim appears certain to be re-elected. Waldheim and former President Luis Echeverria of Mexico are the leading candidates.

Peasants Demand Land

CULIACAN, Mexico (AP) - Thousands of peasants have disrupted farm work in the state of Sinaloa to enforce demands for land, and landowners warned that their crops could suffer. The owners asked Gov. Alfonso Calderon to come to the region today to try to convince the squatters to let the farmers work.

MONTELLO, Nev. (AP) -Montello residents finally have a town they can call their own. The Southern Pacific Railroad agreed Thursday to accept the residents' offer of $20,196 for about 300 acres in and around the old railroad town in northeastern Nevada. "The people who had been working so hard for this, I can tell you they are happy today," said resident Bernice Kimber. Mrs. Kimber said the sale could entice new business to Montello, which was once a busy water stop for steam locomotives and a crew-exchange point, but now is a sleepy town of retirees.

SP spokesman Henry Ortiz said the deal would include the 288 lots in town and acreage surrounding it, plus the water and sewer system. He said residents had been leasing the 121 improved lots for between $25 and $375 a year. Montello Justice of the Peace

Del Pruitt had said the townspeople wanted to buy their land because they "just felt it was time they own it." A town committee recently gained support from the Elko County Commission to back a $20,196 short term note. Mrs. Kimber said the state has approved the loan. How was the price arrived

"That's what they offered," said Ortiz, "and that's what we decided to sell for. It must be a fair price."

Package Deadline Is Today

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Postal Service's deadline for mailing packages is today, but it says it will do its best to get the parcels delivered during the holidays on time even if they are mailed late.

The Postal Service renewed its appeals to mail early, noting that so far the flow of Christmas gifts, cards and letters has been less than expected. Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bai'ar said Thursday, "We are concerned that people mailing packages and greetings to friends and relatives may be disappointed if they don't give us every opportunity to manage our workload during a highly unusual situation."

The Postal Service annually urges early Christmas mailing. But the appeal is more urgent this year because of a strike in 15 Eastern states against United Parcel Service, the largest parcel delivery firm.

Bailar told reporters that even a quick settlement of the strike would give little relief to the Postal Service because most United Parcel customers have already made other arrangements for transporting Christmas items.

Question: My son's life is in such a dreadful state that I don' even know how to pray for him. Can you give me any suggestions? Answer: Yes, my suggestion is to picture your child as you want him to be. Imagine him as happy and healthy in every way. As you make this faith image, ask God to let you see him the way God sees him-perfect and whole.

Before a carpenter picks up his hammer, he has a picture in his mind of what he will make. The chair or cabinet or room exists in his imagination as a finished and perfect piece of work. An architect creates a building in his mind long before any actual work

A story is told of an artist who admired a ramshackle building he passed each morning on the way to his studio. To the ordinary passerby the house with its tumbledown porch, loose hanging shutters, and broken windows was only an eyesore. But the artist's imaginative eye saw something different. He saw something beautiful.

Finally, he bought the house, moved into it, and began to make the improvements he had always dreamed of. Week by week and month by month the old building took on a new appearance. At last it was transformed into a glearning white mansion of striking beauty and grace.

It takes practice to see the best in a person and the good in a situation. It's the way God sees us; it's the way love sees. I think parents have a gift for seeing the best in their children. And you may be the only one who can see your son the way God sees him as he can become, his potential fully realized.

Acting out your prayer means believing that God, and God alone, will change your son. It means you realize you can't change him, and so you won't even try. It means seeing only the best in him and treating him not as he is now but according to your faith image for him . . . as the person he will become. This kind of positive prayer can free your son to be his real self . . . and empower him to become the man of your prayer.

reported here. At the same time, two noted Roman Catholic theologians in Germany have revived proposals that the Vatican lift the 450-year-old ban of excommunication against the 16th century reformer, Martin Luther. The Rev. Dr. Daniel Martensen, an official of the theran World Federation, returning to Geneva from a visit to the Vatican, said that the question of its affirming the Augsburg Confession is under active discussion in the Vatican Christian Unity Secretariat. Meanwhile, in an international Catholic theological journal, Concilium, two noted Catholic theologians, the Rev. Drs. Hans Kung and Walter Kaspar of Tuebingen University expressed hope that "Rome may at last pronounce the word of 'reconciliation" by lifting the ban on Luther.

That possibility first was raised in 1963, but had been quiescent since. -

NEW YORK (AP) - The National Council of Churches has set up an ecumenical fund to provide bail for defendan's in cases in which there is evidence excessive bail has been set because of prejudice against the defendant's race, politics or social status.

The EAr is wondering how, since he is headed for the jobless rolls, lame-duck State Atty. Abbott Herring's chief investigator. Jack Fulenwider, could be so cheerfully whistling his way into the Winn-Dixie store early Friday evening. . . .

On the sports front, The EAr hears something new has been added at the Orlando-Seminole Jai-Alai. Perhaps pondering the day a players' shortage will send frontons scouting into the ranks of American athletes, general manager and vice-president Gordon Hulbert has launched an invitational instructional class with professional instruction. Orlando-Seminole has offered amateur play buck up his game to the point he can land a professional contract, are Henry Cooper. Gerry Lingelbach, Robert Cameron and Kalai Napalapalalai, all from varied walks of life. Cooper is a salesman at a department store.

Lingelbach is a Walt Disney World employe, Cameron a motorcycle mechanic, and Napalapalalei a singer at Disney's Polynesian Luau. Ages vary from 19 to 23. Three-hour per week practice sessions are Cruising in Longwood, The EAr picked up this tidbit. Councilman Parker Anderson asked permission to leave the room during a vote. Atty. Ned Julian advised, "Yes, you could leave. . . as I recall (Former County Commissioner Sid) Vihlen was known to do this...'' Anderson stayed. 'nuff said ...

.... The gentle breezes wafting in off the St.

Knowles Offers City Hall Design; Architects Irked By DONNA ESTES

Herald Staff Writer

A completely new approach toward the design for the proposed $1.3 million Sanford City Hall complex may be taken by Watson & Co. architects, as the result of a meeting with the City Commission and City Manager W. E. (Pete) Knowles Friday.

Three of the firm's architect's, Wayne Heasley, R. Daniel Harnly and James Swickerath, first told commissioners they could not recommend any design but a rectangular, horizontal concept for the proposed 100-by-400 ft. structure with perhaps a little "ginger bread" added to break the horizontal

But the trio changed its mind after Knowles, saying the building could be shifted slightly to make it more pleasing esthetically, taped to the commission chamber wall a drawing of an L-shpaed facility.

Knowles said "an architect friend of a friend of mine" spent three days as a personal favor drawing the design featuring the "seat of government, the legislative wing" on the first floor jutting out from the office section of the building, both connected by a lobby. In the Knowles concept, which was "just an idea," he said, the office section would be on the second floor with the first floor remaining undeveloped for future expansion. The Watson & Co. plan, with its unbroken horizontal line, has been described by Commissioner John Morris as similar in design to a "two-story car garage" he had seen in Tampa. He repeated his criticism Friday that the Watson & Co. concept had had "no character and no originality." Harnly, obviously angry that a fellow architect had drawn the sketch, asked Knowles for his name. Knowles said he was well aware of the architect's code of ethics, that the sketch was made only to illustrate an idea, and that he could be considered its author. Among changes the architects said they could easily make were a skylight over the employe's lounge, breaks in the roof to provide sunlight shadows, and extension of a stility box to the top of the building with perhaps a clock or sundial as decoration. Harnly said the architects could not possibly submit drawings of anything they did not believe in, including an L-shaped building. Morris suggested that the group consider an L-shaped design even if they don't believe

"We want to work with you on this project, rather than you working with someone else," Harnly told Knowles. Commissioner A. A. McClanahan questioned whether the building will be completed within the budgeted $1.3 million. Heasley admitted that costs are going up -some $200,000 - but that non-essentials could be eliminated, bringing it back within the
