Veteran's Day

Lebanon, Grenada Heroes Honored

Americans have an obligation and a sovereign duty to defend their freedom and liberty.

That was the Veterans Day message to about 100 people who gathered for ceremonies today at Memorial Park in Sanford.

The Rev. Amos Jones of St. Pauls Missionary Baptist Church in Sanford said the nation was created by people who were willing to fight for their way of life, the American Way. We must continue to possess that spirit for the nation to continue, he said.

He paid tribute to veterans, particularly those who have fought in the recent conflicts in Grenada and Lebanon.

"Perhaps the invasion of Grenada was necessary and will be necessary again to stop further situations like the one in Beirut," said Jones. "We honor those who were triumphant in Grenada and those who took the brunt of the cowardly terrorist attack in Lebanon."

More than 230 Marines died when a truck full of explosives driven by a terrorist exploded in the American compound in Beirut while the Marines slept.

Jones also honored the families of veterans who have patiently waited for their loved ones to return home.

"Courage is not only in those who put their lives on the line but those who sit at home and wait with uncomplaining fear," he said.

National Guard Commander Richard Basinger of Sanford spoke on behalf of veterans.

"It is a duty and a privilege to protect our freedom," he said. "It's our destiny to be the land of the free and the home of the brave."

If Out Of Court Pact Can Be Reached

Sanford Opts Not To Fight Blacks' Suit On Districting

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Agreeing with Mayor Lee P. Moore's summation that "there ain't no way we can win," the Sanford City Commission voted 4-1 Thursday to negotiate settlement of the federal lawsuit filed by five black residents to change the city's system of electing officials.

The lawsuit asks for a change in the at-large elections for city commissioners to election by district. Assistant City Attorney Ned Julian Jr. stated early this week that the purpose of the suit is "to guarantee a black will be elected to office."

Only Commissioner Eddie Keith voted against negotiation. Referring to two previous decisions by Sanford voters turning down districting, Keith said: "When people get to where they can't choose their own form of government, we are in a hell of a lot of trouble. Why doesn't the court set up an ideal form of government? If we don't start fighting government-by-judges, we are all going to be under one form determined by the judiciary. It's time to fight for democracy and homerule. Where did these five (who filed the suit) get the right to represent all the blacks in Sanford? They had no election. How many blacks want districting? We don't know that. I'm for fighting."

Commissioner David Farr made the motion authorizing City Attorney Bill Colbert to negotiate for settlement.

Farr's motion said: "Continue our efforts to resolve the situation and authorize the attorney (Colbert) to meet with (David) Lipman (attorney for the plaintiffs in the suit) and try to effect a settlement that we can live with, but give him (Lipman) the message that if there is no resolution during this round of negotiations, we are willing and able to go to court."

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles, advising Farr that one never "offers an olive branch with a hatchet," urged Farr to amend his motion to take out the threat of further court action and substitute a phrase to "exhaust all possibilities of resolution and notify the judge if impasse occurs."

Farr accepted Knowles' advice and the motion approved read: "Continue our efforts to resolve the situation and authorize the attorney to meet with Lipman and exhaust all possibilities of resolution and notify the judge if impasse occurs."

Farr reminded his colleagues that they were neither compromising nor capitulating by agreeing to negotiate. He pointed out that the commissioners earlier offered to settle the suit by creating residency districts for four commission seats with all five posts, including the mayor, elected at large.

Knowles said today that city commissioners were polled informally about a possible settlement in early October after Federal Judge Elizabeth Kovachevich at a hearing ordered attorneys for both sides to "work something out."

Colbert on Oct. 21 offered the city's terms of settlement. On Oct. 25, Lipman rejected the offer. Lipman instead suggested that the city consider creating five single member districts in the city or a seven member commission with five elected within districts and two running at-large.

Thursday's meeting was opened with invocation by Farr, seeking divine assistance and guidance. Farr in his prayer said the commissioners were "at their human wit's end."

Moore recapped the situation and said he would make no recommendation to his colleagues. He said the lawsuit had already cost the city money.

"If we settle now, we have to pay our attorney's and their attorney's fees. If we go further and win, we have to pay sizeable fees for both attorneys and costs and if we lose, we have to pay."

"There ain't no way we can win," he said.

He said a meeting should rightfully be held privately in the attorney's office and a decision made there on strategy for the lawsuit. Because of the Sunshine law, "we don't have that privilege. So much for equal justice before the law."

He said the word "access" to voting used in the voting rights suit won by the city of Seima, Alabama, appealed to him. He said the reason no black has ever been elected in the city of Sanford is because black candidates have not been willing to ask whites for their votes. He analyzed the black precincts in Sanford, saying as he had before that blacks have the strength to change any election in the city if they would just vote.

"If a black were committed and blacks had enough interest to turn out their own people to vote, they would win," he said.

Of the five persons who filed the suit against Sanford under the federal voting right's law, Moore said one is not registered to vote and two others did not vote in the elections last year when a districting proposal was on the ballot. "In that election they did not organize themselves to vote," he said.

Favoring at-large elections, he said it is a matter of personal pride to him that every citizen in the city of Sanford had an opportunity to vote for him. He also said that the Kay Thompson, 60, of Lake Mary, tries to high jump three-foot six-inches in Thursday's decathlon competition at the Golden Age Games. She failed in three attempts, but won a silver medal in the women's 55-to-64 age bracket.

Games Cool Day For Events Follows 'Hot' Contest

The weather was cooler and breezy for today's Golden Age Games events in contrast to the "hot" acts that performed at Thursday night's Talent Show. Today's events included the six-mile leisure walk, the half-mile bicycle race, canasta, bridge, dominoes and archery.

Sanford's ninth annual Games will conclude Saturday with track and field events for men and women 55 years and older scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. at the Seminole High School stadium.

The senior athletes will be vying for medals in 50 yard dash, 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, 440 yard dash, one mile run, discus throw, football throw, running long jump, shot put, softball hit and throw, and high jump.

Also on tap Saturday will be the shuffleboard tournament hosted by the Sanford Shuffleboard Club beginning at 9 a.m., horseshoes, 9:30 a.m. and croquet at 1 p.m.

The Talent Show attracted an audience of nearly 500 persons, officials said. The audience danced to organ music before and after the two-hour show.

The "Chamber Maids" men's ballet number and the Elks Top Hats brought down the house and Minnie Kane, 69, of Sanford was back by popular request doing her Charleston.

There were about 20 acts competing including an imitation of the singer, "Tiny Tim" by 70-year-old Jack Smith of Inverness, who won second prize in the singing category. Gene Swarback, 59, of Daytona Beach took the top voice honors. Flutist Bob Ashton, 62, of Missouri won in the musical instruments category. Alice Bedwell, 58, of Tennessee in recitation. David Field, 66, Vero Beach in comedy, and Casselberry's 58-year-old "The Radiant" Rosemary Reavis, as she is known, danced her way to a gold medal.

Gonzalez Holds Decathlon Title

Gilberto Gonzalez, 71, of San Juan, Puerto Rico, continued his mastery of the decathlon in the Golden Age Games, winning in his age bracket for the third consecutive year.

Gonzalez narrowly edged Donald Hull, 65, of Port Orange, Thursday for the title in their first year of head-to-head competition in the men's 65-and-older age group. Hull is a previous winner in the men's 55-to-64 age group and last year captured a silver medal in that age bracket.

"It was a tough competition," Gonzalez said. "He (Hull) is still improving."

Hull captured the 50, 100 and 220-yard dashes but Gonzalez won the field events, taking first in the shot put, discus, high jump and long jump.

Gonzalez and Hull both competed recently in the Masters World Games for athletes 65-and-older held in San Juan, Puerto Rico. The bronze medal winner was Peter Gulgin of Punta Gorda.

Another world-class athlete, Mary Bowermaster, 66, of Fairfield, Ohio, captured first place in every event in the women's age 65-and-up decathlon. Mrs. Bowermaster also competed in the World Games, winning two gold medals and a silver medal. Anna Summy, 66 of Harrisburg, Pa., won the silver medal.

In the women's 55-to-64 age group Marge Ricker, 59, of Orlando, manager of the Orlando Rebels softball team took first place. Kay Thompson, 60, of Lake Mary, won the silver medal and Marie Louise Holbert, 61, of Kirkwood, Mo., won the bronze medal.

Harvey Carlen, 56, of Palmetto, Fla., competing in his first decathlon, took the gold medal. Marshall Davenport, 55, of Naples, took the silver medal. Davenport won a bronze medal last year. Joseph Cepuran, 59, of Sanford won the bronze medal.

Thursday's events included the 100 and 220-yard dashes, discus throw, softball throw and high jump.

On Wednesday the competitors ran the 50 and 440-yard dashes, long jump, softball hit and shot put.

Casselberry Man Seeks County Commission Seat

A 50-year old Casselberry man who has never held public office has announced his candidacy for the Seminole County Commission seat now held by Barbara Christensen.

Carl Patin, 200 Bauer Drive, said in spite of his lack of experience he feels he's better qualified than Mrs. Christensen to help the county deal with its problems.

"I think the county deserves better than what we have now," Patin said. "There is a lack of intensity in dealing with growth."

Growth is the biggest concern facing Seminole County, he said. Projections call for the county to nearly double in size within 20 years. Patin said the commissioners "react to growth."

"I'd rather plan for it now," he said. Patin is retired from the U.S.

Navy and has 23 years of management experience in the military and private life. He holds bachelor's and graduate degrees in management from Rollins College and teaches management at Orlando College. Patin also is an adjunct faculty member at Seminole Community College and Florida Southern College.

He is chairman of Casselberry's code enforcement board, a member of the Seminole County Historical Commission, and a representative on the Area Agency on Aging. He has also served on the East Central Florida Planning Council and the Orlando Human Relations Commission.

Patin is a Democrat "and proud of it."

He said he doesn't feel his party affiliation will have any impact on the race. "The electorate will look at a candidate rather than the party," he said.

In 1980, Republicans swept the county offices and Mrs. Christensen defeated incumbent Commissioner Bob French, a Democrat, in the District 1 race.

NATION IN BRIEF

Police Chief's Wife Jailed For Protest

PLYMOUTH, Minn. (UPI) — The wife of the Minneapolis police chief is spending her 10-day jail sentence drinking herbal tea and reading Jane Austen at the Hennepin County workhouse overlooking scenic Parkers Lake.

Erica Bouza, serving a 10-day sentence for trespassing, was arrested with 576 other people last month during a demonstration at Honeywell Inc.'s corporate headquarters.

"I came here as an immigrant (from England) and I'm grateful to this country," she said. "This may sound strange, but this is my way of paying America back — by raising the people's consciousness."

"I'm not embarrassed," Police Chief Anthony Bouza said. "I think she has every right to air her own beliefs in a legitimate fashion. I'm sure she will come out spouting all kinds of comments about prison reform," Bouza said.

Amway Fined $25 Million

TORONTO (UPI) — Amway Corp., an international firm offering thousands of people a chance to make their fortune the "American Way" by selling consumer goods, said it unknowingly defrauded the government but would pay a record $25 million fine.

Amway and its Canadian subsidiary were ordered to pay the fine — the largest for fraud in Canadian history — after pleading guilty Thursday to two charges of defrauding the government of more than $28 million in import duties over 15 years. In U.S. dollars, the fine amounts to about $20.25 million, the fraud $22.32 million.

Amway and Amway Canada Ltd. cheated the government out of more than $28 million in undeclared duties on goods imported from the United States, the prosecution said.

2 Housing Authority Members Reappointed

Gov. Bob Graham has reappointed Clarence L. Sapp and Mrs. Kathryn P. Downer to the board of commissioners of the Seminole County Housing Authority.

Sapp, 49, of Oviedo, is maintenance director at Jackson Heights Middle School in Oviedo while Mrs. Downer, 38, of Sanford is a homemaker. Their new terms will expire September, 1987.

Other members on the board are Glenn McCall, Sanford businessman; Larry Blair, also a Sanford businessman; and Mrs. Mary Smith, a homemaker.

The board administers a 32-unit apartment complex for low-income families in the Oviedo area. The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development recently approved a $600,000 grant for modernization work at the complex. The work is slated to begin shortly after the first of the year, according to authority chairman McCall.

Retailers Looking Forward To Holidays

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Retail sales broke through the $100 billion level for the first time in October, climbing 1.1 percent to set the stage for what analysts say could be the strongest Christmas selling season in five years.

The Commerce Department Thursday said only construction materials suffered a sales setback in October, part of a slowdown in the housing industry being blamed on continuing high interest rates.

Without auto sales the overall advance would have been considerably less, 0.5 percent, but still enough to keep hopes alive that the American consumer is ready to forget about the last two recessions.

The holiday season is crucial for retailers who hope to move 40 percent of their yearly volume after Thanksgiving.

Retail sales in October totaled $100.2 billion after seasonal adjustment, the department said. September's retail sales were up a revised 1.3 percent, 0.4 percent of the gain independent of vigorous auto sales.

"It spells Merry Christmas," economist Sandra Shaber of Chase Econometrics said. "In terms of what we're forecasting, this would be the strongest holiday shopping season since about 1978."

At the same time, Mrs. Shaber pointed out that even the strong auto sales are not as vigorous as those that occurred in the recovery after the 1974-75 recession and that a far larger proportion of the sales are for imports.

Some of the apparel and department store sales do not represent growth but just rebounds from dismal sales in the midst of August's heat, she added.

"I don't think anyone should expect to see the kind of spending spree we saw last spring," Mrs. Shaber said.

Earlier the Labor Department reported business inflation was scarcely visible in October, up only 0.3 percent. So far in 1983 the prices businesses pay each other are increasing at a very weak 0.6 percent when figured at a yearly rate.

Food prices were up 1.1 percent at wholesale, part of a stronger growth trend expected for at least several months. But even with the effect of food prices factored in, analysts say 1983 could have the least business inflation in 19 years.

The Labor Department also reported that new claims for state unemployment benefits dropped by 7,000 the last week of October.

And in an analysis of new car prices, the department said Detroit's 1984 model cars are an average $221.70 more expensive than 1983 models, about half of which pays for quality improvements ranging from fuel economy to improved corrosion protection, the government said Thursday.

Were federal standards for bumpers not relaxed for the new models buyers would have paid another $12.09 a car for the kind of protection they were given in 1983, the Labor Department said.

Federal Reserve System economists said Thursday that consumer installment credit expanded by $2.4 billion in September, compared to a $3.4 billion rise in August.

On Wall Street, the stock market made its second consecutive gain Thursday, up more than 3 points to close at 1,234.87.

George Wentis, center, receives one of two medals he won in the Golden Age Games photography competition. At right is Paul Carroll of Sanford who was awarded the bronze medal. Presenting the medals is Doris Dietrich, representing the Evening Herald which sponsored the contest.

Wentis Snaps Up Photo Medals

"I'm so surprised," said George Wentis, who won both first and second prize in the color photography contest at the Golden Age Games.

Wentis won a gold medal for his photo of a snowy woods and brook scene entitled "Winter's Beauty."

Wentis, 66, of Port St. Lucie, said he took the picture when he was visiting a suburb of Rochester, N.Y.

"We had just had a new snow fall and it was beautiful," he said.

His silver medal was for his photo called "Fog Over Venice," which he took when he and his wife were visiting Italy last September.

And if two medals weren't enough, Wentis also snagged an honorable mention for a third photo he entered in the contest.

Photography "is just a hobby I got into way back," said the retired General Motors design engineer. "It gives you a chance for self expression and creativity."

He played tennis in the games last year and his wife has also won a swimming medal in the competition this year.

Wentis said it "feels terrific" to win and see "your efforts rewarded and feel you've done something right."

Games Pancake Race 'Rather Silly, But It Was Fun'

The competition was hot, but the pancakes were cold at Thursday's Golden Age Games pancake race.

Wilber Ott, 69, of Bartow, flipped his way to his fourth pancake race gold medal in the men's competition.

Ott said he missed out on the pancake race his first year at the Games, but now the race is something he looks forward to each year.

The retired semi-trailer mechanic said he eats pancakes about twice a week, but wasn't tempted to sample the cakes used in the race. Not only was there no butter or syrup provided, but they looked a little odd.

Felt a bit unusual, too, Minnie Kane, gold medalist in the women's race said. "Compared to my own these pancakes seem a little heavy."

Her evaluation was confirmed when after the races, pancake maker Paulee Stevens of Sanford revealed her recipe and its secret ingredient — sawdust.

Stevens said she adds one-half cup of sawdust to her regular pancake mix and fries the cakes at a high temperature, "to keep from blowing away in the wind as they are tossed into the air."

During the competition, contestants carry a skillet of pancakes, toss the cakes and catch them as they run a marked course.

The women in the second of two races in the women's competition ran into trouble when they failed to flip their flapjacks at the proper spots on the course.

All four were disqualified. It really didn't amount to a pile of pancakes. Race official Paulee Stevens said if "they had run again it wouldn't have made any difference because the first group was so fast."

Anna Bojorkman, 63, won the silver medal in the women's competition and 63-year-old Loretta Falord took third place.

Bob Fleischmann, 62, of Ellenton came in second in the only men's pancake race and Robert Starke, 66, took home a bronze medal.

Fleischmann said: "I didn't expect to win at all, or even place. It seemed rather silly, but it was fun." —Susan Loden

Undercover Drug Operation Nets 2 Seminole Men

Two Seminole County men have been arrested in an undercover drug bust involving marijuana, cocaine, an unidentified type of pill and firearms.

On three occasions between Nov. 1 and 9, Seminole County sheriff's agents reported that they made contact at a Casselberry restaurant with a man who then took them to a Casselberry residence.

On each occasion, the man entered the residence and returned with a bag of marijuana which he sold to deputies for $30, a sheriff's report said.

At 4:50 p.m. Wednesday, agents arrested Willard Eugene Thornhill, 24, of 247 W. Park Ave., Longwood, at the restaurant, then proceeded to a home at 280 Plaza Oval and arrested John Thomas Mikalski, 42. Inside the house agents found about two dozen bags of marijuana, cocaine, about 1,000 pills, drug paraphernalia and several firearms, the report said.

The value of the drugs has not been determined, deputies report.

Thornhill and Mikalski were taken to Seminole County jail. Mikalski posted $8,000 bond and was released Thursday. Thornhill remained in jail today in lieu of $1,500 bond.

Both men were charged with possession of a controlled substance. Mikalski was also charged with intent to distribute a controlled substance and Thornhill was charged with sale of narcotics.

maximum sentence of life in prison if convicted, Assistant State Attorney Kurt Erlenbach said.

The body of an infant boy was found last month behind the girl's bed at her parents' home in Oviedo.

The teenager's mother took the girl to the Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford Oct. 17 after she complained of pains, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

A physician at the hospital, who suspected that the teenager had given birth to a baby, contacted the sheriff's department the next day, but she denied giving birth.

After the girl's parents gave deputies permission to search their home, the body of a full-term baby was found. The body was wrapped in a towel and placed inside a paper sack that was inside a plastic bag, reports said.

RAPE REPORTED

An Orange County woman was abducted from the Butler Plaza Shopping Center near Casselberry, taken to a remote area and raped Thursday afternoon, Seminole County sheriff's deputies report.

The woman was reported to have been entering her car when a man in his early 20s threatened her with a gun and forced her to drive to the junction of Dodd and Dyke roads, deputies report.

The woman reported she was then raped and later was ordered to drive back to Butler Plaza with the assailant. He reportedly left her at the shopping center.

FIREARMS STOLEN

Someone stole several firearms, valued at a total of $1,375, from a Sanford man's home between 5:15 and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

William Paul Pfeiffer, 26, of 401 1/2 Holly Ave., said the thief pushed in the window air conditioner in his bedroom and entered through the opening.

House Backs Plan To Keep Phone Rates From Skyrocketing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a stunning setback for American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the administration, the House easily approved legislation to keep consumer telephone bills from skyrocketing after the Jan. 1 divestiture.

The bill to amend the Communications Act of 1934 passed on an unexpected voice vote late Thursday night virtually unchanged from the version approved two weeks ago by the House Energy and Commerce Committee. A similar bill has passed the Senate Commerce Committee and leaders have agreed to try to get it to the full Senate for debate before the end of the month.

The House action was a huge setback for AT&T, which decried the bill as a "charade" and in the past week had stepped up a massive lobbying effort to defeat it. It was a victory for consumer groups that said controversial "access" charges and other new tolls relating to the AT&T breakup could double or triple local phone bills.

"This is the most important piece of consumer legislation to be acted upon by this Congress," said Rep. Timothy Wirth, D-Colo., the chief sponsor of the Universal Telephone Service Preservation Act of 1983.

Republicans generally opposed the bill, the first piece of telephone legislation to pass the House in 49 years, and Democrats supported it.

The measure blocks parts of a Federal Communication Commission order allowing AT&T to charge residential customers a flat $2 monthly rate and small business customers $6 for their access to long-distance phone services after divestiture.

The Justice Department Wednesday sent a letter to the FCC in support of the AT&T charges and urging the agency to impose them Jan. 1 instead of April 3, as it has planned.

The bill guarantees low-cost "lifeline" phone service to the poor and elderly and provides a Universal Service Fund for small and rural phone companies with low revenues. It also charges businesses that build their own long-distance phone networks to "bypass" local phone systems $25 a month.

JEWELRY TAKEN
A thief stole about $250 worth of costume jewelry from a Sanford woman's home between 8 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The thief entered the home of Gale Francis Shilke, 40, of 218 Riverwinds Drive, in an unknown manner, a Sanford police report said.

SURVEY SITE THEFT
About $1,600 worth of surveying equipment was taken from a survey site in the Tuskawilla area Tuesday afternoon, police report.

Phillip Hampton, 36, said his transit and tripod were set up on an unnamed dirt road off Wagner's Curve. He said they disappeared around 4:15 p.m., the report said.

Ma Bell Gets To Keep $8.5 Million Rate Hike

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Public Service Commission is standing behind an 88.5 million mini-rate increase granted Southern Bell Telephone Co. last week.

While it refused to take back part of the increase Thursday, it also refused to make some rate base adjustments sought by Southern Bell, prompting a spokesman for the utility to say a new rate increase petition could be filed soon.

The actions came during a hearing on whether Miami-based Southern Bell is going to suffer when the sale of telephone equipment to consumers is transferred to American Telephone & Telegraph Jan. 1 as part of the corporate breakup of giant AT&T.

Con Game Was No Crime

MIAMI (UPI) — A wealthy elderly woman found talking to herself on a street corner gave two con men jewelry, thousands of dollars and her brand-new $23,000 Fleetwood Cadillac, but police say they can't arrest the men.

The 65-year-old Hobe Sound woman, whose name was withheld, went on a two-day check-writing spree with two unidentified men who met her in Miami County and accompanied her to the Miami area, police said Thursday.

"From what we can determine, she stayed with the men and gave them her money, her jewelry and her brand-new car willingly," said Sgt. Nelson Perry. "It is obvious that she is suffering from some kind of mental illness."

Child Support Settled

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The 1st District Court of Appeal has unanimously ruled that an Okaloosa County woman does not have to turn over child support payments she collected to her former husband even though he reared her child and was not the father.

Deciding against Ray Thompson Thursday, the appeal court said the former wife, Lillian Korupp, could keep some $15,000 in child support to use for her child's education.

Decathlon Score Keeper: Complaints Surprise To Him

Vic Arnett, Sanford Kiwanis Club member, said today reports of contestant grumbling over score keeping during the Golden Age Games decathlon took him completely by surprise. The Kiwanis club sponsors the decathlon and Arnett serves as chief official at the events.

"Nobody asked me anything about the decathlon," he said today. Yesterday the Herald reported Arnett defended the officiating. He said that was not true.

"No contestant raised any question about the scores that I am aware of."

However, Arnett said he will investigate the charge that Ernie Hammond of Illinois may have been victimized by the officiating in the 50-yard dash.

Veterans Day: Renewed Meaning

Today, November 11, 1983, Americans will pause to remember and honor those men and women who have answered their country's call to arms in times of need.

In speeches, ceremonies and numerous other ways we will again be reminded of the sacrifices these Americans made for their fellow countrymen and the cause of freedom.

Yet this year we need no reminders.

Events make us painfully aware of the sacrifices of those in uniform.

Young Americans recently perished in a senseless and brutal attack in Beirut. The fact that they were deployed as peacekeepers rather than combatants makes their deaths all the more difficult to understand or accept.

In the coming weeks and throughout the Presidential election year, we will engage in a national debate to determine our future military role in Lebanon and elsewhere in the world.

This is as it should be.

While we will surely hear from the isolationists and proponents of Pax Americana, the real trick is to define the parameters of a military presence consistent with our vital interests and capabilities.

Meanwhile, Americans have entered the decade of the '80s possessed of a new realism concerning the world in which we live.

We accept that even peaceful nations must be militarily prepared. There is a recognition of an erosion of our military capabilities and a willingness to act to correct the situation.

Increased applications to military academies suggest that our young people no longer view military careers with disdain. Recruiting offices reported a surge in interest in enlistment following the Beirut tragedy.

We do not greet these trends with ecstatic celebration. We would all prefer to live in a world free of arms and armies. But they signal a welcome and needed change from the naivete which held that a desire for peace was all that was necessary to bring it about.

We share this planet with forces and nations hostile to our existence, hostile to those values we hold dear. Secure in our liberties and our general well-being, we would prefer a competition of ideas and economics. Totalitarian systems which as a matter of fact repress freedom and as a matter of fact repress economic failure only compete with armed force.

Our freedoms are too precious to risk through an inability to resist or deter hostile force.

The courageous acts of those seeking to flee tyranny should serve to remind us of the full value of the liberties we may sometimes take for granted. For it is a hunger for freedom that sends Vietnamese and Haitians to sea in overcrowded, leaky boats.

It is this same yearning which leads Eastern European families to leap the Iron Curtain in flimsy, homemade balloons.

On Veterans Day we will, each in our own way, offer grateful thanks to those who have given so much that we may remain free.

On this Veterans Day we should also acknowledge the sad truth that in this imperfect world we must stand ready to defend our liberties.

Most school children know Patrick Henry's "give me liberty or give me death" statement. Let us also remember the question that prefaced that brave remark: "Is life so dear or peace so sweet as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery?"

AROUND THE CLOCK

By Charles Cobb

"Give but give wisely." is the advice of the Better Business Bureau of Central Florida.

Making private donations to charitable causes is a strong tradition in America. Last year $53 million — nearly 85 percent of the money donated to charities — came from individual donors.

The BBB recommends that you question solicitors before you donate to their charities.

For telephone, door-to-door and street corner appeals, be sure to ask "who, what, where and why" of the solicitor. Most legitimate groups will encourage interest in their activities and finances.

Always ask the door-to-door solicitors for identification including their name and the benefitting group's name. Always ask telephone solicitors for the name, address and telephone number of the benefitting group so you may inquire for more information.

Before you donate your money ask the solicitor if he is a volunteer, an employee or a paid solicitor. Does he receive a commission or percentage of the contribution?

When an appeal is combined with the sale of merchandise or admission ticket to an event, how much of the price will actually benefit the charity? If you are not sure phone the BBB in Orlando at 843-8873.

For the BBB's quarterly report on "Give But Give Wisely" send 25 cents and a self-addressed envelope to: Better Business Bureau, 620 E. Colonial Drive, Orlando, Fla. 32803. And remember: wise giving is informed giving.

Argentina Revolution Is Feared

WASHINGTON — Intelligence sources raise two equally alarming possibilities in the wake of the election of moderate Radical Party leader Raul Alfonsín as president of Argentina: a military coup to prevent his scheduled December inauguration or renewed leftist terrorism if he makes it into office.

I sent my associate Dale Van Atta to Buenos Aires to look behind the scenes of Argentina's first election in 10 years. He spoke to both Argentine and American sources and found they shared the same concerns over the country's future.

Heading the secret agenda of a recent meeting of the U.S. Embassy's "Intelligence Group" — senior Central Intelligence Agency, Defense Intelligence Agency and Foreign Service officers — was this ominous item: "Possibility of military intervention prior to inauguration."

The sources would not estimate the likelihood of a military coup but they agreed that Alfonsín's landslide victory over Peronist candidate Italo Luder was probably the best deterrent to the generals and admirals. His clear popular mandate is in sharp contrast to the public's contempt for the top military brass, which capped years of misrule with a humiliating defeat in the Falklands war.

The chief cause of apprehension is Alfonsín's emphatic pledge to bring the top brass to book for the disappearance of perhaps 20,000 Argentines during the anti-leftist "dirty war" of the 1970s. If he persists in this determination, the military may move in to save their own skins. The armed services are still controlled by men with plenty to hide. It seems improbable that they'll hold still for open public disgrace.

That's why many military leaders quietly backed the Peronist candidate. Luder indicated he might be willing to make a deal with the generals. In the tradition of Peronist military backscratching that has endured through four decades of seigniorial power.

Alfonsín dropped no such comforting hints. But he will undoubtedly have to compromise, probably by prosecuting enough of the responsible military leaders to set an example, but not so many that the entire officer corps feels threatened.

The second item on the Intelligence Group's agenda was "Terrorism potential after inauguration." In the worst of the "dirty war," leftist terrorists murdered 800 Argentine officials and family members.

The biggest terrorist group was the Montoneros. They were originally Peronist-backed and, in fact, dozens of them marched in hoods at a pre-election party rally. Though some in the crowd gave them the Argentine equivalent of a Bronx cheer, the Montoneros still have Peronist supporters who may turn to terrorism to avenge the party's election defeat.

The election and its immediate aftermath were surprisingly non-violent, considering the bitterness manifest in the campaign.

New Surgery For Colon Disease

By Lidia Wasowicz
UPI Science Writer

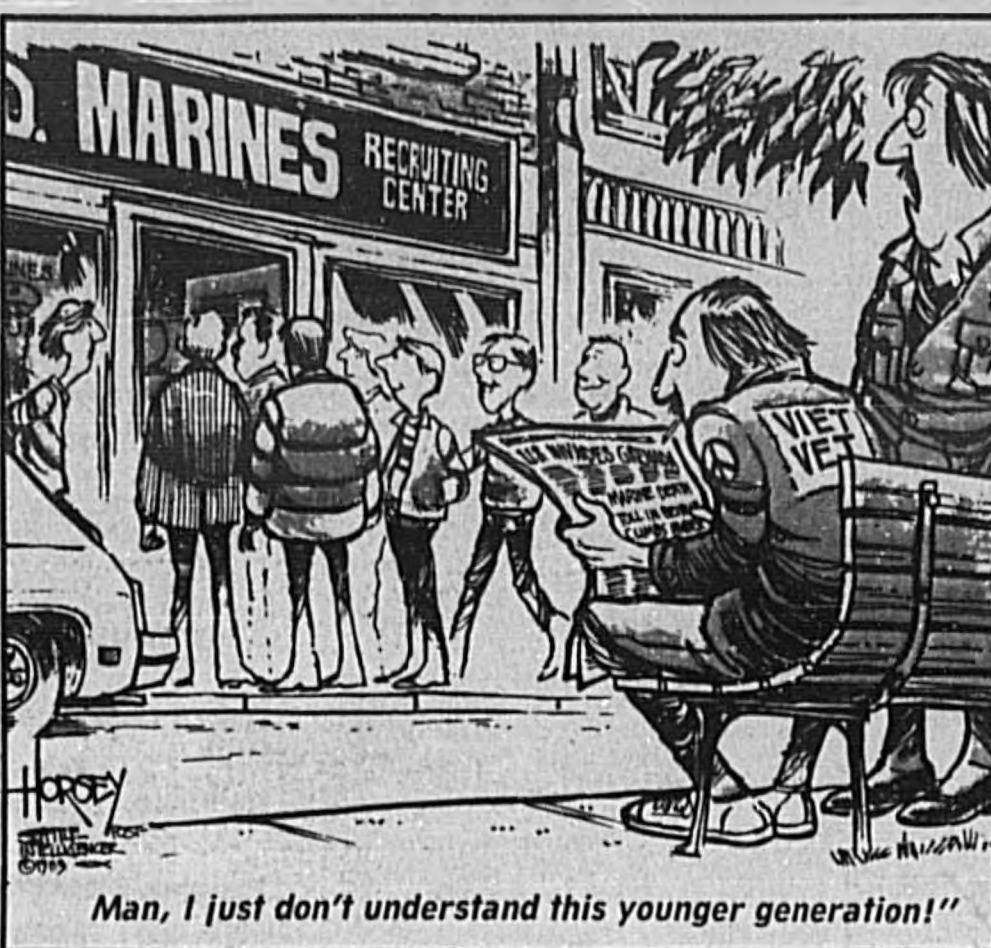

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Seven years ago, Robert Rhoads, a Montana electrical engineer, was told he suffered from a rare genetic disease of the colon that was bound to turn cancerous.

His only option was to have the colon removed. This surgeons did, leaving only about 8 inches in. But the disease returned, leaving Rhoads with an alternative he was not sure he could endure.

Like 2 million other Americans, Rhoads would have to undergo a permanent ileostomy — in which part of his small intestine would be pulled out through an incision in his abdomen and attached to a disposable sac to serve as an outlet for digestive wastes.

But late last year, Rhoads met Dr. James Becker of the University of Utah Medical Center. He is the only surgeon in the Intermountain West performing a new alternative to ileostomy and a similar operation, colectomy, in which the colon is pulled through the abdomen.

Less than four months following Becker's 6 1/2-hour alternative operation — "which caused much less pain than I had anticipated" — Rhoads is working Man, I just don't understand this younger generation!"

WILLIAM RUSHER

If Reagan Didn't Act

NEW YORK (NEA) — Once you make up your mind that the media and the Democratic politicians are going to criticize Ronald Reagan no matter what he does, it becomes easy to see why he so consistently fails to please them.

Can't you just imagine what they would be saying today if several hundred American medical students were being held hostage right now on Grenada by a ruthless thug who had murdered his own prime minister?

"Did Mr. Reagan learn absolutely nothing from the Iranian hostage crisis?" "Surely he ought to have known better than to take the word of an anti-American military junta for the safety of so many young American lives." "Is this where Mr. Reagan's constant bluster leads — to impotence and humiliation?" "Rash measures won't save American lives now; we can only wait — and hope."

Instead, seeing the government of Grenada overthrown by a coup whose ringmasters might well have thought of the Iranian hostages as a useful precedent for assuring their own survival, Mr. Reagan acted swiftly and firmly to assure the safety and freedom of every American on the island. So now his critics have been compelled to turn the record over and play the flip side:

"Was it really necessary to resort to force?" "We had, after all, the pledge of the new government that Americans on the island were free to leave if they wanted to." "What is Mr. Reagan's policy going to be when he runs out of Marines?" Etc., etc.

The legal justification for U.S. participation in the invasion of Grenada is also impressive. It isn't merely based (as certain critics have suggested) on some supposed right to oust any communist or democratic regime that happens to exist.

In the first place, there was no effective "regime" on Grenada, undemocratic or otherwise, at the time of the invasion. The pro-communist prime minister, who had seized power several years ago and never made good on his promise of free elections, had himself been overthrown a couple of weeks earlier by his own deputy prime minister, backed by the government's armed forces. Then, apparently just to make sure, the toppled prime minister was killed, along with most of his cabinet and assorted civilian bystanders, by the military. The deputy prime minister thereupon went into hiding (or house arrest), and the soldiers took over, more or less. Their only legislative act, however, was to impose a 24-hour shoot-to-kill curfew on the populace. Quite a "regime!"

At that critical point, Sir Paul Scoon, the governor general who had been appointed by Queen Elizabeth prior to the first coup, in her capacity as head of the Commonwealth, managed to smuggle a request to Grenada's neighbors and allies in the Organization of Eastern Caribbean States calling for military help under their treaty of alliance. In theory, such help was to be forthcoming only against foreign intervention, not domestic coups; but the presence of nearly a thousand Cuban troops in Grenada, playing some obscure part in the series of coups, makes it difficult to argue that there was in fact no foreign intervention.

Since the island nations in the OECS had few soldiers and no means of transporting them to Grenada, they in turn appealed to the United States. As we have noted, Mr. Reagan already had, in the threat of another hostage crisis, all the moral justification he needed for taking an active hand in the situation; but the legal justification provided by the appeals of the OECS likewise seems watertight.

The political fallout is another question. Coming just days after the car bomb disaster in Beirut, the invasion of Grenada creates a superficial impression that Mr. Reagan has suddenly taken to troubling the Marines into all sorts of problematical situations all over the world. (In point of fact, of course, the Marines in Lebanon are part of a multinational "peacekeeping" force, and under orders not to fire unless fired upon.)

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Seminars For Future Leaders

KEYSTONE, Colo. — High in the mountains west of Denver, the Shavano Institute of Hillsdale College is conducting an important educational program for Americans who hold leadership positions in American society.

Men and women whose achievements have already provided them with significant influence in their communities and professions are given an opportunity to talk to scholars and commentators with insights into the problems and opportunities facing the nation.

Dr. George C. Roche, III, President of Shavano and Hillsdale, emphasizes the opportunity for renewal of American society in the years ahead, with a focus on limiting government intrusions in the country's economic system.

Those who lecture at the Shavano Institute speak off the record, and the discussions between people from different professions and disciplines leads to valuable exchanges.

One recent talk traced the history and sources of radicalism in American life. The speaker noted that there were more radical newspapers in the 1880s and 1890s than there were even in the turbulent 1960s, when so-called alternative papers sprang up in cities and on college campuses. The speaker pointed out that while the vast majority of immigrants in the early period sought total Americanization, there were elements that brought to these shores the hostility towards free economic institutions that characterized revolutionaries in Europe. Some of these early radical movements are related to late 20th century radicalism.

The speaker also cited the effect of the Great Depression in radicalizing many influential writers and academics. He asserted that there is no possibility that the radical forces in American life will waver away in the years ahead as they are too well-entrenched in places of influence and too well-financed.

This guest lecturer at the Shavano Institute focused attention on the trans-national character of leftist hostility to free institutions, citing the links between Left groups in the United States and Europe. The European impact on American political thinking is considerable. In West Germany, the so-called "Green" movement, which is determined to advance the Soviet Union's goal of disarming the West, is currently engaged in violent activities which bring to mind the mob violence of Hitler's brown shirts. In time, something like the "Green" party may emerge in the United States. The constituent elements already exist here.

The goal of the Shavano Institutes is understanding of the nation and the world. From understanding should flow ideas for action to protect and strengthen the spirit of liberty under law that is fundamental to the United States. The Shavano Institute also provides important opportunities for association among leading citizens who share the same concerns about safeguarding American freedoms which are under intense ideological assault. By getting to know one another at Shavano these leaders can learn to work together to protect American values and institutions.

full time, riding his bike, fishing and even jogging.

"I'm back to normal daily activity and diet," said Rhodes, 39, of Kalspell, Mont. "I have a tremendous appetite and no longer feel tired or weak. This literally gave me a new life."

The complex, tedious procedure — performed at only a handful of academic centers around the country — is called total colectomy, mucosal proctectomy, endorectal ileoanal pullthrough with temporary loop ileostomy.

All those who have already had ileostomies and colostomies, those suffering ulcerative colitis and those with certain inherited diseases, would be candidates for the new operation provided their condition has not turned cancerous, according to Becker.

Becker said the operation is possible in these cases because the diseases are confined to the colon lining and tissue — or mucosa — and do not involve the muscle layers.

The muscles are essential to complete the normal digestive process, said the surgeon, who has performed 23 such operations since coming to Utah from the Mayo Clinic last year.

The pullthrough surgery, which Becker calls "a cancer prophylactic," must be performed before the onset of malignancy.

A recent operation on a 28-year-old man suffering from severe ulcerative colitis — chronic inflammation of the colon and rectum characterized by bloody diarrhea — lasted 10 hours, 15 minutes.

Ulcerative colitis is a condition difficult to treat medically, with such complications as anemia, arthritis and skin, liver and eye problems and a 20 percent malignancy rate after 20 years.

Becker, assisted by four doctors and two nurses, began by removing the damaged colon and the inner infected layer of the rectum.

The surgeon cut and sewed the end of the ileum — the last 10-12-foot segment of the small intestine that had been attached to the colon — into a pouch.

Since the colon serves mainly as a storage organ, absorbing water from the intestinal content, the pouch is needed to serve as a substitute reservoir to avoid frequent and primarily liquid discharges, he said.

With all his strength, Becker pulled until the pouch end of the 22-foot small intestine was squeezed inside the rectal walls, then sutured the pouch's apex to the anus.

Until this area heals, the patient will live with wastes flowing through an incision in the small intestine and abdomen. Some nine to 10 weeks later, the hole will be stapled together and digestion will resume its normal route.

The $15,000 procedure has been so successful — no deaths and a 5 percent to 10 percent infection rate (none at Utah) — it is no longer considered experimental and, thus, is covered by insurance.

Although many patients adjust well to permanent ileostomies, others dread its "lifelong incontinence, care, smell, expense and tremendous psychological and social implications" so much, they allow their disease to linger and avoid surgery, Becker said.

"All this is changing because of this new operation. We can offer definitive surgery much sooner," said Becker, whose youngest patient was 11.

Although not in a high-cancer risk category, children suffer such serious side effects as growth retardation from steroids used to treat ulcerative colitis.

It is too early to tell about long-term effects of the pullthrough procedure, but early results "are very good," Becker said.

Poinsettias Color Christmas Season A Cheery Red

Highly prized throughout Florida and widely beloved as a symbol of the Christmas season is the poinsettia. No other flower can make such a brilliant show of bright red throughout the festive weeks of December and January.

The poinsettia, Euphorbia pulcherrima, is a member of the spurge family which includes common ornamentals like crown-of-thorns, copper-leaf, castor-bean, and Florida's colorful crotons. The naming of the poinsettia is a story in itself.

The common name, poinsettia, honors Joel R. Poinsett of Charleston, S. C. who as United States

Minister to Mexico introduced this plant from Mexico about 1830. The genus name, Euphorbia, comes from the Greek physician Euphorbus and includes many herbs and shrubs having acrid milky juice. The species name, pulcherrima, is from the Latin adjective pulcher — meaning beautiful or handsome. The Romans used intensifiers which they tacked on to their adjectives. Thus when the old botanist Karl Ludwig Willdenow was searching for a suitable name for the new Mexican plant he described about 150 years ago; he couldn't avoid calling it "the very beautiful Euphorbia," or Euphorbia pulcherrima. This example of how a plant is named points out the importance and significance of the scientific naming of all plants. The descriptive nature of the name is obvious when we learn the Latin meaning and the name is the same for all people since it is in Latin or Latinized form of Greek.

Another interesting point about poinsettias is their "flowers." The true flowers are small, green and yellow and inconspicuous. The showy red parts, often called flowers, are not parts of the flower; instead, they are highly modified petal-like leaves, which the botanist calls bracts. The so-called white flowers of the dogwood are also bracts.

Poinsettias are predominately greenhouse grown as pot plants for Christmas in most of the United States, but in Florida they can be utilized as colorful landscape shrubs. In north and central Florida they can be frozen to the ground before flowering so are best used as pot plants. Varieties having red, white and pink bracts are available.

Another excellent use of poinsettias is as cut flowers. The bracts need to be treated to coagulate the milky sap and reduce wilting. Immerse the cut end of the stem in hot water for one minute and then place immediately in cold water. An alternate method is to singe the cut end of the stem over a flame for a second or two and then place in cold water. Cut the flowers at least 18 to 24 hours before they are to be used and store in a cool place.

If you're given a potted poinsettia for Christmas, don't throw it away after the holidays. Save the plant until there is no danger of a freeze and plant it in your home landscape. By next Christmas you will add a great deal of "spirit" and color to your home — inside and out!

The culture of poinsettias is relatively simple but sometimes problems are encountered that can be challenging. A bulletin with details on poinsettia culture is available from our office.

All Extension Programs are open to anyone regardless of race, color, sex or national origin.

Next-Door Games Prod Neighbor To Call Clergy

DEAR ABBY: Something is going on in my neighborhood that has me on edge. A divorced woman with a 10-year-old daughter has her boyfriend living with them. The three of them are together, laughing, playing games and so on. This woman thinks she is a great mother because she has a "happy" child. The fact that this mother is living in adultery and committing fornication right before her daughter's eyes does not seem to bother her. Now I saw something indecent take place between that 10-year-old and her mother's boyfriend. I called two priests and a minister. One priest said, "Don't say a word" the other priest said, "Tell the mother," and the minister said, "Write the mother a letter."

Dear Abby

I went over there and spoke to the mother, and all she said was, "Oh, they are very close. They love each other!" This woman sometimes leaves her daughter in the house alone with her boyfriend. If she isn't an unfit mother, I don't know what "unfit" is.

What should I do?

A CONCERNED NEIGHBOR
DEAR CONCERNED: You did not disclose what you "saw" that you perceived as "indecent." I appreciate your good intentions, but every community has some kind of child-protection agency, so if you saw something "indecent" going on, go to the authorities and make an official complaint. But be prepared to back up your suspicions with some hard facts. A person is still presumed innocent until proven guilty.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I was given a baby shower that was attended mainly by my mother-in-law's friends. I promptly wrote my thank-you notes for each gift, and in so doing I addressed each woman as "Ms." (Most were married, a few widowed and several were unmarried.)

A few days later, my mother-in-law called to say that one of her friends was offended by being addressed as "Ms." Then my father-in-law got on the phone and told me I was never to address any of their friends or relatives as "Ms."

I tried to explain that I meant no offense — that this was a new trend so that all women, regardless of their marital status, would feel equal, but he insisted he liked the old way better and in the future I should forget the "Ms."

Did I make a "Ms"-take?

MS-UNDERSTOOD
DEAR MS-UNDERSTOOD: You made no "Ms"-take. Your father-in-law mis'd the point.

The Principals

Epps, Reynolds: Mixed Emotions

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Seminole and Lake Mary meet for the first time this evening on the football field, but neither of the schools' principals is going overboard about the initial encounter. Kickoff is 8 p.m. at Lake Mary.

No pregame oratories are scheduled. No Thursday night bonfires. No ultimatums to the head coaches.

Maybe, Seminole Principal Wayne Epps and Lake Mary Principal Don Reynolds should call it the rivalry which isn't a rivalry. Both, of course, want to win, but each has mixed emotions.

"To be completely honest, I don't have any strong feelings toward it," said Reynolds Thursday. "I put in better than 20 years (eight as principal) at Seminole High. I can't get a real good feeling."

"I really like to beat some of these other schools in the county, but when Seminole doesn't play us I always pull for them to win."

Epps is equally low key. "When you play any new school, you like to begin the rivalry with a win," Epps said. "But a rivalry is something that has to develop."

Both Reynolds and Epps said they feel the Lake Mary-Seminole clash will not be foremost in the county, since both schools have stronger ties — rivalry-wise — to other schools.

"We're the first breakaway school from Seminole, but Sanford ranks just third on schools from which we have taken students," said Reynolds. "Lake Brantley is number one, then Lyman, and then Seminole."

"Most of our kids would rather beat Lake Brantley or Lyman, unless, of course, you talked to (wide receiver) Donald Grayson or some other Sanford kids. They live in Sanford and they want the bragging rights."

Epps, too, feels Lake Brantley is the Rams' main rival. "There really aren't that many kids that have played together on Seminole and Lake Mary," he said. "Lake Brantley is definitely more of a rival than we are."

Neither Epps nor Reynolds went on a limb and picked a winner, but both expect the game to be a highly contested and a close encounter.

"The game is a toss-up," said Reynolds. "We're the new kid on the block and they want to beat us. I think they have the edge emotionally, but we might have the edge talent-wise since they lost those three players. (Tim Lawrence, Bryan Debose and Mike Tanner were dismissed from the team for breaking training rules.)"

Epps said he would agree, except... "Under normal circumstances I would say that the established school had the edge," he said. "But with Lake Mary's unexpected success (4-4 record with its first senior class), it makes it an equally important game to them too."

"A win would give them a shot at a winning season which is quite an accomplishment for their first year in the Five Star Conference."

Epps, like most observers of the Tribe, has been unable to gauge this year's squad, but he does expect Seminole to shake its two-game doldrums.

"I just hope the team that played Lyman (20-11 victory) shows up for us and not the team that played Lake Brantley (28-0 loss)," concluded Epps.

GUESSES — Nelson is 49, Posey is 43, Seminole by 6 over Lake Mary, Lyman by 20 over Mainland, Apopka by 21 over Lake Howell, Lake Brantley by 3 over DeLand, Osceola by 12 over Oviedo, Nicholls State by 10 over UCF, Gators by 18 over Kentucky, Miami by 1 over FSU, Georgia by 2 over Auburn, Bucs by 13 over Browns and Dolphins by 14 over Patriots.

Intensity Will Be There

The first meeting between Sanford's Fighting Seminoles and the Lake Mary's Rams gets underway tonight at the Lake Mary Sports Complex. An overflow crowd is expected for the 8 p.m. kickoff between the 4-4 Rams and the 3-5 Tribe.

Although the principals and the coaches have been playing it low-key thus far, you can bet the intensity on the field will be anything but that when both teams come tumbling out of the locker rooms and get a glance at each other.

With the two schools just five miles apart, it's only natural that the participants have crossed paths several times while undergoing the football process which begins with the Seminole Youth Sports Association progressed to freshman football and then to the junior varsity.

Three Rams in particular — wideout Donald Grayson, quarterback Ray Hartsfield and tailback Neal Wellon — live in Sanford and would like to have something to remind their buddies about when they see them in the local gameroom.

"We figured this would be the big game of the year just because of the natural proximity," said Seminole coach Jerry Posey. "I just hope we don't play like we did last Friday."

Last Friday, or "Black Friday," was definitely a day to forget for Seminole faithful. Lake Brantley's Patriots put a 28-0 licking on a listless Seminole team. A better effort is needed tonight against the Rams, who were impressive while smothering Spruce Creek, 21-6.

"Lake Mary has a very good backfield," said Posey. "They don't just have one outstanding runner, they have three of them. I think (Charlie) Lucarelli is the big man, but you can't ignore (fullback Scott) Underwood or Wellon either."

Underwood, a stocky, hard-running fullback, was the main man against Spruce Creek, running for 102 yards on 15 carries. Underwood, a junior with 455 yards on the year, ran effectively between the tackles all night.

"That's the first time we've ran that well between the tackles all year," said coach Harry "The Ram" Nelson. "But, I doubt very much that they will give us that play."

If Seminole doesn't, Lake Mary will go with junior Lucarelli and senior Wellon on the traps, crossbucks and sweeps.

Hartsfield, just a sophomore in his first year of playing quarterback, has been spectacular at times. "He sure doesn't play like a sophomore," offered Posey. "Hartsfield can throw the ball and he's dangerous when he scrambles, too."

When he throws the ball, it usually is in the direction of wideout-tight end Grayson. The Sanford junior is a strapping 6-2 and 200 pounds with a pair of hands like Venus flytraps. Grayson leads the county with 25 catches for 395 yards and five TDs.

While the Rams have been explosive all year on offense, the defense has taken its lumps on several occasions, especially against Seminole County teams. "I knew somebody would bring that up," said Nelson. Lake Mary is 0-3 in the county, losing to Lake Brantley (32-6), Lyman (20-0) and Lake Howell (32-6).

"Seminole will be higher than a kite," said Nelson. "It's the same every time we play a county team. Everybody's vicious against Lake Mary."

Seminole has been vicious on occasion this year. It has beaten Lyman (20-11) and Lake Howell (29-27) in its two best performances of the year.

The 'Noles beat those teams, though, with fullback Tim Lawrence and defensive tackle Bryan Debose. Both had a chance to be all-conference performers, but both were dismissed from the team, along with Mike Tanner, for breaking training rules before the DeLand game.

"I think that will eventually end up helping them," said Nelson of the incident. "They were a little confused last week, but they'll come out ready to play Friday."

Laid Back Posey, Outspoken Nelson Take Different Paths To Success On Football Field

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Jerry Posey and Harry Nelson don't drive the same model car. You won't find them on the same road either. Both have taken different paths to their football success.

One low-keys, the other screams. One tactfully strolls the sideline, the other works it like a man possessed. One harnesses his emotions, the other bears them for the world to see.

Jerry Posey — southern-reared and laid back.

Harry Nelson — northern-raised and outspoken.

Both Posey and Nelson, though, have one thing in common. They win. During the 43-year-old Posey's eight and one-half years at Seminole High School, he has compiled a 48-43 record which has included a record-setting three Five Star Conference champions. The ledger was much better until last year's 0-10 disaster. The highlight was an 11-0 season in 1976-77, which unfortunately was marred by an ineligible third stringer which chopped off two wins.

See POSEY, Page 7A.

Spencer, Lake Induction Tonight

More than football will be offered at Lake Mary High School tonight as the two newest members to the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame — Emma Spencer and Buddy Lake — will be inducted at halftime of the Rams-Seminole football game.

Miss Spencer, 77, was born in Sanford in 1906 and enjoyed a very successful athletic career as a high school and college participant.

She attended Florida State Teachers College (now FSU) before launching a successful career as a coach throughout the United States. In 1964, she returned to Sanford and began teaching and coaching (Seminole Community College), and has continued to do so ever since.

Lake, 70, was an outstanding athlete at Sanford High School before playing minor league baseball in the Florida State League where he pitched a no-hitter, won a batting title and hurled a 19-inning shutout which he won with a homer in the top of the 19th inning.

Silver Hawks Prepare For Powerhouses — Homecoming For Lyman, Patriots

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

With all the adversity facing Lake Howell's Silver Hawks in the final two weeks of the prep football regular season, it would be easy for coach Mike Biscaglia and his team to just pack up their equipment and call it the quits right now.

The Hawks have received a lot of bad news since last Thursday's game against Mainland. In that game, wide receiver John McKay broke his collar bone and, of course, he won't be back. If that wasn't enough, receiver Jeff Solomon and starting center Mark Pafford are both ineligible for the last two games because of grades.

And who are the Hawks' last two games against? Well, tonight at Lake Howell High, the Silver Hawks host Apopka's Blue Bunters, the state's sixth-ranked team and already the District 4A-P champion. Next Friday, Lake Howell plays Winter Park's Wildcats at Winter Park. The Wildcats are ranked fifth in the state and have already clinched their district title.

However, don't look for Lake Howell to go to an early grave. They'll stick around for the last two weeks, and, no matter how tainted they are, the Silver Hawks will fight until the final buzzer.

"It's quite an opportunity to play the state's sixth and fifth ranked teams," Biscaglia said. "They (Apopka and Winter Park) have already won their districts, but we can still spill their perfect records."

Apopka is 8-0 overall and 7-0 in the Five Star Conference while Lake Howell stands at 5-3 overall and 4-3 in the conference.

"We're really hurting," Biscaglia said.

"First we lost McKay to an injury and then two more starters to grades. We're going to have to juggle some things around with three starters out."

Although the Hawks will be without two of their top receivers, Lake Howell's leading receiver, Jeron Evans, will be back in action after head and neck injuries kept him out of last week's game. Filling the spaces left by McKay and Solomon will be Jack Colson and Jim Daniel, both capable receivers for quarterback Darin Slack to throw to.

After a fine performance last week, Slack is still on top in the county passing department with 39 completions in 105 attempts for 831 yards and nine touchdowns. Evans has 11 receptions for 332 yards (a 30.2 yards per catch average) and two touchdowns. Daniel has eight receptions for 85 yards.

Jay Robey continues to lead the county in rushing with 664 yards on 111 carries. Solomon was the Hawks' second-leading rusher. With Solomon out, Lake Howell may go to Bill Lang a little more. Lang, one of Florida's top defensive secondary men, saw some action at running back last week and he contributed a touchdown run to the Lake Howell victory.

Defensively, linebacker Steve Cina leads in tackles with 75 (48 solo and 27 assists). Lang is second with 67 (45 solo and 22 assists), defensive back Troy Quackenbush is third with 52 (32 solo and 20 assists) and defensive lineman Rick Pugh is fourth with 46 (31 solo and 15 assists). Pugh also leads the team in quarterback sacks with five.

Tonight, the Lake Howell defense will have to contend with one of the most potent offenses in the state. Apopka's fleet-footed running back, Sammie Smith, has gained over 1,100 yards in eight games. Quarterback Rodney Brewer is one of the top passers in Central Florida and receiver James Jones is Brewer's main target.

DeLand at Lake Brantley
Lake Brantley's Patriots, 6-2 overall and 5-2 in the conference, are looking to end the season with three victories (including a post-season bowl game) and end up with the best record (9-2) in the school's history. But, the Patriots will take those games one at a time, starting with the DeLand Bulldogs tonight at Lake Brantley High Stadium in the Patriots' homecoming. Kickoff is 8 p.m.

"DeLand is hard to predict," Lake Brantley coach Dave Tullis said. "But, they did play right with Apopka and scored 48 points against Seminole so, when they are on, they can be as good as anybody."

After DeLand, the Patriots take on Gralando Boone next Friday and Lake Brantley is already scheduled to play in a post-season bowl. The Patriots will go up against West Orange High in the Elks Bowl on Wednesday, Nov. 23, at 8 p.m. at West Orange High in Winter Garden.

Lake Brantley's top priority tonight is fighting off the Bulldogs and avenging last year's loss when DeLand pulled out a 17-0 victory and spoiled Lake Brantley's homecoming. "Our main goal is to beat DeLand and play better than we did last year against them," Tullis said. "We're going for the school's best record, but we have to do it on game at a time."

The Patriots will be without four players tonight who are sidelined with injuries. Running back Bill Black is out for the rest of the season because of a knee injury suffered last week against Seminole when he was blocked below the waist. Black had surgery on his ligaments Thursday. Out for tonight's game are receiver Brad Dunn, wingback John Harris and running back Allen Armstrong.

Greg Shatto is Lake Brantley's leading rusher and, after a fine performance last week, he moved up to fourth in the county with 474 yards on 74 carries, an average of 6.4 yards per carry.

Defensively for Lake Brantley, linebacker Donnie O'Brian leads in tackles with 74 (49 solo and 25 assists). Byron Bush has 55 tackles (35 solo and 20 assists) and Pat James has 53 (31 solo and 22 assists). Defensive back Scott Salmon has come up with some key interceptions this season and last week, against Seminole, he ran back a punt for a touchdown and ran in a two point conversion.

Mainland at Lyman

Since Lake Brantley is playing in the Elks Bowl, Lyman's Greyhounds are looking at a Rotary Bowl bid. The Greyhounds have a good shot at it as they go up against two of the weaker teams in the Five Star Conference, Mainland and DeLand, the last two weeks. A win tonight will secure them the bid and the host's role.

Lyman is coming off a disappointing loss to powerful Apopka, but the Greyhounds shouldn't have too much trouble with Mainland's Buccaneers.

The Greyhounds' leading rusher is Phil Germano, who has picked up 378 yards on 96 carries. Quarterback Greg Pilot is the second-leading rusher with 285 yards on 36 carries. He also has completed 17 of 34 passes for 177 yards and two touchdowns.

Defensively for the Greyhounds, Mike Henley has had an outstanding season thus far and he is second in the county with 88 tackles (42 solo and 46 assists). Other leading tacklers for Lyman include Burger King Defensive Player of the Week Mike Crespo with 68 (35 and 33).

Osceola Kiammee at Oviedo

Oviedo is trying to make amends after beginning the season with a 1-5 record and the Lions are riding a two-game winning streak and now stands at 3-5. Coach Jack Blanton's goal is to finish the season at 5-5 but that will be a tough task since the Lions meet Osceola Kiammee's Kowboys tonight and Lake Mary's Rams next Friday. Tonight is Parents Night.

Inexperience was the Lions' major problem in the early going, and, since the team has gained some experience, they have played much better. Last week, Oviedo went into Cocoa Beach and came away with a 14-13 victory against a very tough team.

Oviedo's leading ball carrier is Barry Williams who has gained 598 yards on 102 carries. J.W. Yarbrough is next in line with 403 yards on 75 carries. Charles "Pop" Bowers has picked up 253 yards on 33 carries (a county-leading 7.6 yards per carry).

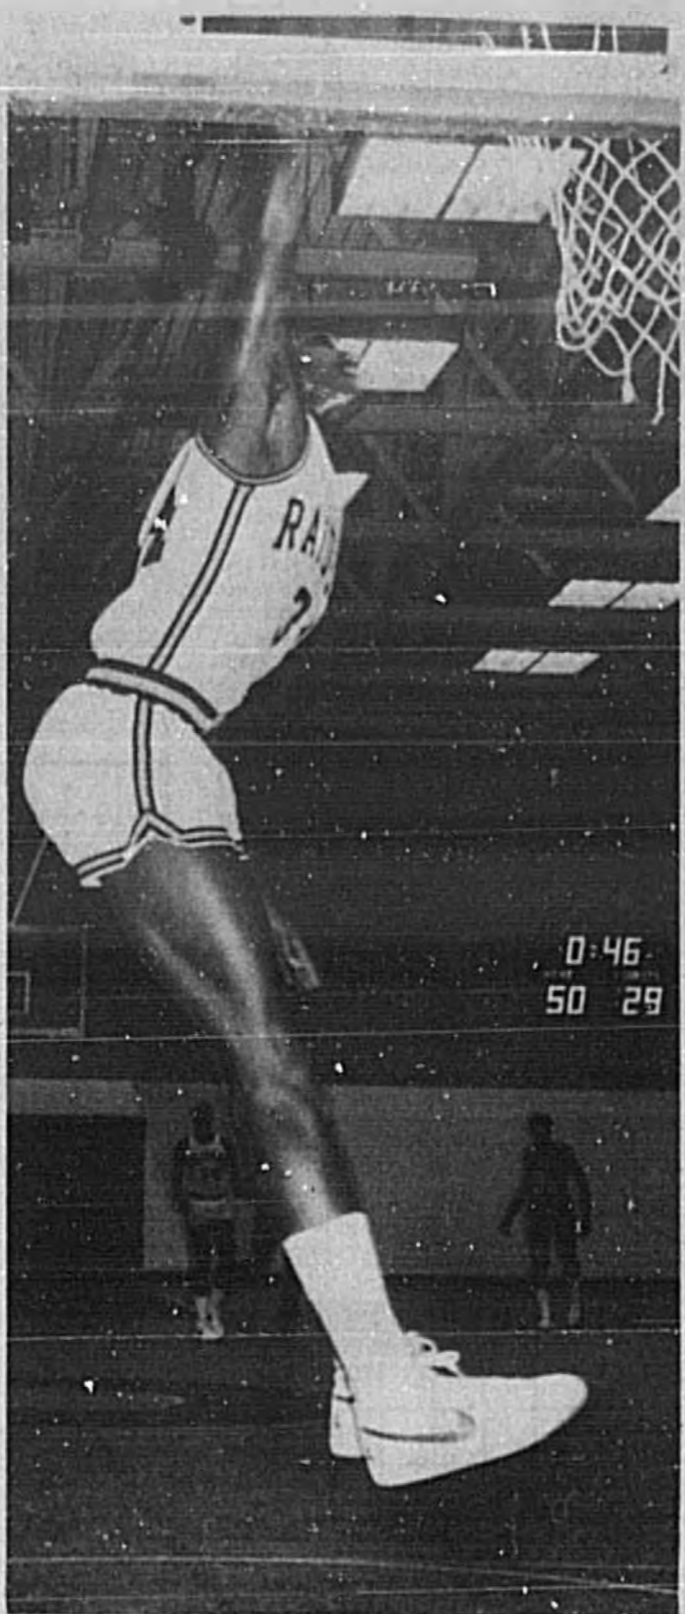

'Payton Place' Haunts Caribs As SCC Romps

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

It was Payton Place at the Seminole Community College gym Thursday night, but SCC guard Jim Payton wasn't very hospitable. He kept falling down in front of his College of Bahamas' guests.

Raider coach Bill Payne didn't mind, though. Every time Payton fell down, he took a Bahama player with him. The sophomore guard drew six charging fouls, handed out six assists and threw in 17 points as the Raiders successfully opened the 1983-84 season with a lopsided 104-65 victory over COB.

"Coach Payne told me, 'they just drive to the basket and they don't care who's in the way,'" said Payton who led SCC by drawing 31 offensive fouls last year. "I just shuffled around a little like I was moving out of the way, then stood still and got hit."

The strategy paid off as the Raiders hurried and harried the Caribs all night. "We didn't play so, but we did do some good things," said Payne, who is getting his team ready for Saturday's big matchup with Manatee at Bradenton. "Jimmy played a good game, though, and so did (Lenny) Grace and (Bernard) Merthie."

Grace, undergoing his first juco test after a splendid career at Orlando Boone, tossed in 16 points and handed out several sparkling assists. Merthie, a sophomore from Sanford, came up with five steals, 17 points and a handful of assists. Sophomore forward Delvin Everett, had had two vicious slam dunks, added 12 and center Luis Phelps chipped in 10, although he sat out the second half after twisting his ankle in the early going.

The Raiders, 1-0, broke to a quick lead over the smaller (no starter over 6-4) Caribs and never trailed. Phelps dunked early for a 7-4 lead, then Grace started a 10-point run which gave SCC a 19-8 bulge with 12 minutes to play in the half.

The Caribs, 0-2, pulled within five, but Mike Phillips, Artis Johnson and Doug Bell all came off the pine to score buckets to put SCC up by 12 with 8:03 left.

A Mike Tolbert dunk at the six-minute mark lifted the lead to 32-15 and four free throws by Payton sandwiched around a slam by Grace put the game away with two minutes to go in the half, 46-25. Everett slammed another one and Payton, who hit nine straight free tosses and 11 of 13 for the game, gave the Raiders a gigantic 54-33 lead at intermission.

It was just an omen of things to come, said Payton. "We were all looking ahead to the Manatee game," said the ex-Spruce Creek standout. "But coach Payne got us motivated at halftime. His body language made up come out and want to bury them."

Which they did...immediately. Everett and Merthie stuffed in back-to-back dunks. Bell hit two free throws. Grace whipped in a 15-footer and Bell, a 6-9 backup center, clicked again for a 64-37 lead.

The Caribs crawled back a little, but then Jay Adkins dropped in a rebound bucket. Payton hit two more charity tosses, Grace feed Merthie for a basket and scored himself for an 80-43 bulge with 12 minutes to play.

"It was a sloppy game," said Payne about the combined 63 turnovers, 37 by the Raiders. "Our intensity was a little bad, but I'm sure we were looking ahead to Manatee."

And a little more body language.

RAIDER RAP — Thursday's game was the 500th in SCC's history, not the 500th in the Raider gym. The gym has only been in existence eight years as SCC baseball coach Jack Pantellas so astutely pointed out.

5 Good Teams Run For 4 'Bids' Saturday

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

It's too bad that a team ranked in the top 10 in the state doesn't automatically get a bid to the state championships. Five boys teams competing in Saturday's 4A-3 Region Cross Country Championships at Lake Mary High have been ranked among the top 10 in the state this season. Unfortunately, only four of those teams will be able to qualify for the state meet next Saturday at the DeLand Airport.

Those five teams include, Winter Park, Orlando Oak Ridge, Lyman, Lake Mary and Orlando Edgewater. The top four teams from the regional meet and the top five individuals qualify for the state meet. Saturday's meets under way with the girls race at 9:30 a.m. and the boys race at 10:15. Admission is $2.

Last year, Edgewater won the region crown with Lyman in second, Lake Worth John I. Leonard third and Winter Park fourth.

At last week's district meet, Winter Park and Oak Ridge were the top two teams followed by Edgewater, Lyman and Lake Mary. Seminole also qualified for the regional meet. Winter Park and Oak Ridge figure to be the favorites again this week with Edgewater, Lyman and Lake Mary all battling for a top four spot. Lyman came out on top of Lake Mary last week for the first time since the early in the season.

District 6 will also be in the regional meet, and the strongest teams out of that district are West Palm Beach Twin Lakes and Lake Worth John I. Leonard. Neither team is considered as strong as the top five teams out of Lake Mary's district but they do have an outside chance at a top four spot. Other teams from District 6 to qualify for the regionals include, Lake Worth, Stuart-Martin County, Merritt Island and Melbourne.

Individual qualifiers out of Seminole County include Lake Howell's Ken Cheeseman (the district champion with a time of 14:59) and Lake Brantley's Mike Garrigues (third in the district at 15:12). Cheeseman, who finished second in last year's regionals with a time of 15:31 at Boca Raton, will be the favorite to win the region as the top finisher out of District 6, Lake Worth's Marco Hakama, won with a time of 15:40. The top eight out of District 5 ran better times than Hakama.

Last week, Lyman's three of Lyman's top five came in ahead of their Lake Mary opponents. Doug McBroom led the way with a fourth place finish and a time of 15:22. Marc Overbay turned in an outstanding performance with an 18th place finish. Lake Mary's top finisher, Derek Tangeman, came in seventh at 15:32 and the Rams' second finisher, Mark Blythe, was 22nd at 16:26. After two finishers, Lyman had a team score of 22 and Lake Mary's was 29. The Rams couldn't overcome that early deficit even though two of its next three came in ahead of Lyman's.

Lake Mary would have to beat either Lyman or Edgewater Saturday, and maybe both if the teams from District 6 pull off any surprises.

The girls meet could also see five, maybe six teams battling for four spots. District 5 champion Lake Howell and runnerup Lake Brantley are the favorites and, barring any injuries, they shouldn't have any trouble being in the top four. Orlando Colonial, Orlando Boone, Lake Mary and possibly District 6 champion John I. Leonard will fight for the other two spots. DeLand also qualified out of District 5 while other District 6 qualifiers include, Twin Lakes, Martin County, Merritt Island, Palm Beach Gardens and Vero Beach.

Last year, John I. Leonard won the region title followed by Winter Park in second, Lake Brantley third and Colonial fourth. Spruce Creek's Carmen Gardner was the individual champion.

Look for Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks to pack as tightly together as possible while Lake Brantley's Kathryn Hayward and Joanne Hayward try to stay as far ahead of the pack as possible. Also keys for Lake Brantley are, Barbara Holmes, Kim Lubenow, Traci Rowland and Kim Pacetelli. They have to try and break up Lake Howell's pack to open the door for a Lady Patriot victory.

Lake Howell's pack includes sophomore Angle Smith, freshmen Lisa Samocki, Martha Fonseca, Mary Fonseca, Junior Lyn Lucas and Nancy Nystrom and Amy Ertel provide added depth and move up toward the front when a teammate falls back.

Kathryn Hayward finished second at districts behind West Orange's Louise Schweitzer (11:35) who qualified for regionals as an individual. Hayward's time of 11:42 was her best of the season. The Lake Brantley senior finished fifth in the region last year with a time of 12:32.

In the fight for the second two state qualifying positions, Lake Mary must overcome Boone and possibly Colonial for a state berth. If the Lady Rams fail to qualify, freshman standout Sue Kingsbury will have to finish in the top five to go to state. Kingsbury was fourth in the district meet with a time of 12:06, her best of the season except for the Daytona Beach Run. If the Lady Rams are going to make the state meet, they need good performances from Tracy Blakely, Fran Gordon, Andrea Beardale and Niki Hays. All four ran their best times or close to their best times of the season in last week's meet.

Colonials' top four runners finished in the top 10 at districts, but its fifth runner was way back in 45th. The farther back that fifth runner is, the better chances a team has of beating Colonial. The top four for Colonial include, Laura Wick (5th at districts), Joan Wersinger (6th at districts), Justine Story (7th) and Karen Bean (10th).

The top finisher out of District 6, John I. Leonard's Wendy Croteau, matched Kingsbury's time of 12:06. Schweitzer is the individual favorite for Saturday's race while Orlando Evans' Debra King also qualified for regionals as an individual as she finished third at districts.

Duran Regains Pride — Hagler Keeps Title With Unanimous Decision

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Roberto Duran has already won three world championships. He would have liked another, but in defeat he regained forever the only thing that really matters — his pride.

Combining his ring savvy with a truckload of courage, Duran pushed middleweight champion Marvin Hagler to the limit Thursday night before Hagler unleashed a furious attack in the final two rounds to seal a unanimous decision and retain his crown.

Hagler's performance proves he belongs among the best ever in the middleweight division. And Duran's performance went a long way towards erasing the strange memory of his "no mas" fight with Sugar Ray Leonard.

Duran was vilified as a traitor and a coward in his native Panama three years ago after quitting in the eighth round of that title fight against Leonard. Thursday night, he attempted to become the first boxer in history to win titles in four weight classes.

But Hagler, considered by many to be the best fighter in the world today, made use of his combinations and superior boxing skill to hold off Duran's charges.

Pro Boxing

"I felt I beat him but he's a very gutsy warrior," Hagler said minutes after the decision was announced. "I tried to knock him out early but I couldn't. He was real quick in there. I didn't expect that speed. He was very clever and he tried to sucker me into making a mistake."

Duran managed to score inside in the early going but Hagler took control in the sixth round when he sent Duran backward with a series of combinations. Hagler switched from a right-handed to left-handed stance and ripped two lead rights to Duran's head early in the round and backed up Duran with combinations.

Hagler dominated the fight from there on as he outpunched Duran at least three to one. Hagler worked well inside, landing lefts and rights to the body and then pumped away at Duran's head.

But Duran brought mists from the Panamanian fans when he began sneering at Hagler and ripping right-hand leads to the champion's head, raising a big welt along

"I hit him hard in the 12th and I had him in trouble," Duran said. "But I was just too tired to go after him anymore."

The ring-wise Duran used every trick in his attempt to get at Hagler and the champion seemed confused as to how his eye absorbed such a beating, alternately blaming butts and thumbs. But he also admitted he caught many clean blows.

"He caught me a few good times with that lead right," he said. "But it didn't really bother me. About the 12th round I was concerned when

...Posey, Nelson

Nelson, 49, didn't lose during his first three seasons as an assistant coach. While working with former UCF basketball coach at Xavier High in Appleton, Wis., Nelson, 86-67-3 in 15 and one-half years as a head coach, helped Clark to 27 consecutive victories. Later, in 1970, at Orlando's Bishop Moore High as head coach, Nelson and the Hornets won the state 3A championship.

The backgrounds, too, are opposites. Posey lived in Haines City where he was a decent football player and an outstanding trackman. He wasn't hotly recruited to play football and ended up going to South Georgia College before finishing at the University of Florida.

"Like most people coming out of high school, I thought making big money was the most important thing in life," said Posey. "I was going to be an engineer like my brother until I took my first chemistry test."

Needless to say, the chemistry threw Posey for a loss, but he regrouped. "I thought back to all of the good times I've had in athletics and decided that was what I wanted to do with my life," he continued. "If it weren't for athletics, I probably would have skipped some classes. I enjoyed playing and I really like to coach."

Nelson, meanwhile, was a hotshot running back at Crane Tech High and Steinmetz High in Chicago. Prior to his senior year, he moved to Appleton. After a stellar senior year, he settled on the University of Wisconsin.

Then, came the war. "I started out as a flashy halfback as a 17-year-old and ran the gamut. When I came back from the war, I figured I was too old to go to Wisconsin again," said Nelson. "I went to Oshkosh (Wisconsin State). There, I went from halfback to tight end to tackle. What a transition."

Despite the marked differences in style, each sees similarities.

"We're both intense and want to win," said Posey. "I'm kind of an introvert. I keep my emotions inside. Harry is an extrovert. He lets it out."

Nelson agreed. "I'm emotionally immature," Nelson laughed. "Posey is a mature guy. I'm still a 49-year-old teenager."

"But I think the emotion has saved me. I'm usually easy going which might make me too low key," Nelson said.

Posey and Nelson both feel personalities of coaches are prevalent wherever they roam. "I'm the same way, obnoxious, whether I'm a coach or a teacher or a father," said Nelson.

"I'm the same in the classroom, on the field and at home," said Posey. "I'm sure Harry gets the same satisfaction out of coaching that I do. We're just different personalities."

Avoid Source of Winter Hay Fever

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have an unusual problem. I have hay fever in the winter. I have heard that most people have hay fever in the summer from ragweed or other pollens. But the reason I have mine in the winter is that I am allergic to cedar.

When the cedar season rolls around I am miserable. My nose is swollen and raw and drips. It even affects my breathing. There is a lot of cedar where I live and it is impossible to avoid it. What do you suggest?

DEAR READER — See your doctor. You may want to see an allergist. Yes, there are many more people who have allergies in the growing season, but some are allergic to cedar and others to molds, or even to household pets.

But the treatment is usually along the same line. You do need to avoid the source as much as possible. Judging from your letter, if there were no cedar you would have no problems. You need to practice the same avoidance techniques we recommend to ragweed victims and try to keep the pollen out of your house.

For best results it is wise to begin desensitization shots early — well before the season of the particular allergy is at hand. Check with your allergist about a program for you, but don't expect it to be a quick affair. Best results are obtained by a program that may involve a year-round effort.

Some people do well with some of the nasal sprays containing corticosteroids. But caution must be used in the choice of medicines. Absorbing too much can induce corticosteroid changes in the body. Others do well on antihistamines. If you use those, to get the best results try to take them regularly whether you are having an attack at the time or not.

DEAR DR. LAMB — After the birth of my third child in 1977 I had to have freezing done to my cervix. The doctor did a biopsy and he said I had borderline dysplasia. The freezing procedure took about 10 minutes.

I would like to know what dysplasia is and if it could come back. I have a Pap smear once a year now, but sometimes I still have some infection and pain. I'm 31 years old and had my tubes tied after our third child.

DEAR READER — Dysplasia really means the cells are not of normal structure. If they are just a little abnormal they will not be cancerous. But more severe abnormalities of the cells would be classified as carcinoma in situ, which means early pre-invasive cancer.

You must have had cryosurgery, using cold to remove the areas of abnormal cells. Again I would tell you this is not cancer. After the diseased area is removed it is important to have regular follow-up examinations. Evidently it has been six years since your treatment, so you are unlikely to have changes from your dysplasia.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY NOVEMBER 12, 1983
You are likely to be rather restless this coming year. In some instances this will work to your advantage, urging you onward, but in others you could become impatient and change course too often. Be consistent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try not to treat persons in your charge arrogantly today. If you do, it will cause resentments they'll long remember. Order now: The New Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Send $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to give your zodiac sign. Mail an additional $1 for your Scorpio Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your tolerance or patience with persons who are not wholly supportive of your opinions may be at a low ebb today. Try to see their points of view.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do not permit yourself to be pressured by friends today into doing things you cannot afford. You know what your financial limitations are.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be realistic regarding your goals and objectives today. If they are too impractical, you might end up spinning your wheels.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do not be your own worst enemy today. When your better judgment tells you not to do something, avoid going against your own wisdom.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Avoid situations today that could obligate you to others. Your most sensitive area will be in dealing with friends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be on guard at all times today so that you do not unintentionally offend someone whose cooperation you now need. It could cost you an ally.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be very selective regarding persons you choose today to help you with critical tasks. Avoid those who would rather be a chief than one of the Indians.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There's a possibility you'll be let down today if you place your faith in somebody who doesn't warrant it. Use your best judgment.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) To maintain harmony on the home front today, you and your mate may have to find a common ground. Be prepared to make some concessions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're the type who goes out of your way to be of service, but today you might look for excuses to dodge being helpful.

WIN AT BRIDGE

agreement was that West's pass was for penalty.

The Jack of spades was opened and won in dummy. The Jack of diamonds was led and covered by the king and ace. The ace of spades and Q-10 of diamonds were cashed and the six of diamonds ruffed by dummy's nine of trumps. Six tricks to South as a starter.

A low heart was led and won by West, but South was now sure of four trump tricks to make his redoubled contract with two overtricks and a plus score of 1,510 points.

A small club lead by West would have held South to just one overtrick, but a 1,110-point minus against a part score is unfortunate indeed and an example of "Live by the sword, die by the sword."

East could have passed to two clubs, but in high-level IMP competition the tendency is to compete whenever possible, as evidenced by the fact that the other East doubled also.

The other South also redoubled, but that East couldn't stand the pressure and eventually his side got off the hook for a mere 200-point loss and a big profit on the hand.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

It was the final match in the 1983 Grand National Teams.

At both tables South opened one club, North responded one heart, South bid two clubs and after West and North had passed, East reopened with a takeout double. Both Souths redoubled, both Wests and Norths passed and at one table East decided to pass also since his partnership

Crawford Denies Initiating Lawsuit

Reports that the lawsuit filed against the city of Sanford to bring about district voting was initiated by a small group of white citizens apparently are incorrect, according to one white resident said to have played a key role in the issue.

Reports have been circulating in Sanford that at least three white persons were active in calling meetings to encourage the lawsuit — before it was filed — and that they were instrumental in getting the five blacks to file the suit.

Louise Crawford, former equal employment opportunities officer for Seminole Community Action, is one of the whites the reports claim initiated the move before the lawsuit was filed. Mrs. Crawford today vigorously denied the claim and said she and the other two whites, John Hedrick and Treena Kaye, provided the plaintiffs some assistance after they asked for it.

"This matter was initiated exclusively by blacks who came to the legal services (Central Florida Legal Services CFLS) office in Sanford complaining they were angry and frustrated because they felt disenfranchised ... left out of the political process in Sanford," Mrs. Crawford said.

She denied any meetings were called or held at her Franklin Arms Apartments home specifically to discuss strategy for bringing about the lawsuit. "I have friends, such as Treena, who come to my apartment often, but at no time did I call a meeting regarding initiating the lawsuit, nor did I invite people over for that reason," said Mrs. Crawford.

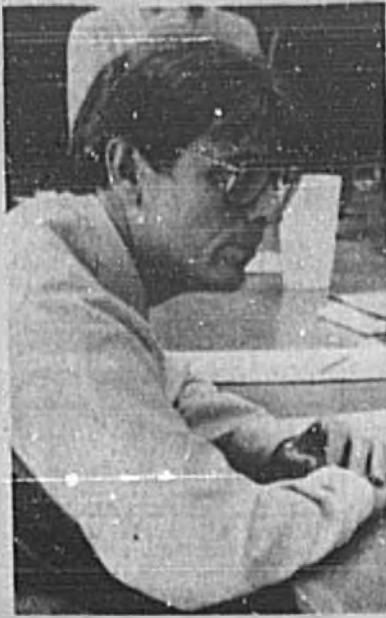

Mrs. Crawford, also a member of the board of directors of CFLS, said she and Mrs. Kaye, managing attorney at the CFLS, as well as Hedrick, a law student at FSU who was an intern at the legal services office in Sanford, did give the blacks interested in filing the lawsuit some guidance and research materials to assist them. "But we did not initiate the action."

The reports circulating are that the white residents not only initiated the action because of minorities feeling they are left out of the political process because of at-large elections, but that it is not clearly a black vs. whites issue. The reports say there are several whites living in nearly all-white sections of the city who also feel they are not getting adequate representation by city commissioners elected at-large, and want district elections so they can vote for candidates who live in their district and who, they feel, will represent them exclusively.

Mrs. Crawford said she agrees that the issue is not necessarily a black-white issue, and that there are whites who also favor district elections.

Mrs. Kaye agreed with Mrs. Crawford's version of the sequence of events today, and added her office is involved in the lawsuit in that it represents one of the five plaintiffs.

Mrs. Kaye said the entire matter was initiated when one of the plaintiffs, Hannah Pinkney, came to the CFLS office and sought assistance. "We represent the poor people and Mrs. Pinkney qualifies for our service," Mrs. Kaye said she has filed a notice with the court indicating her office represents Mrs. Pinkney in the case.

method of electing a city commission in Sanford had been determined by the city's people rather than by some judge who neither knows the community nor the people.

"If we go to district voting we will be going backwards to ward politics," Moore said, adding this would be divisive. He said the plaintiffs in the lawsuit are doing a disservice to their own people and the community.

He said the commission had a tough decision ahead, especially when the costs of fighting in the court were concerned. Earlier Colbert and Julian said a court fight would cost the city a minimum of $250,000 for Lipman plus costs and their fees. "I don't make a decision involving $250,000 every day, but I have made them," Moore said.

Reaffirming his earlier announced decision not to seek re-election to the mayor's office, Moore said he can do what he was elected to do.

"If we go to trial and win, we are only buying time," Moore said, "and we have to decide what time is worth. I can't see pride and prejudice as a justification for spending the money."

Basically, Moore said, he is willing to compromise, but not to capitulate. "If Judge Kovachevich wants to see this settled based on capitulation, I can't support that."

Farr said he agreed with Moore's analysis, but isn't sure that the city can afford the other costs associated with a lengthy trial and the "unsettleness" it would bring. He said he does not favor single member district commissioners for small cities. As a city grows larger, however, Farr said it is difficult for an elected person who lives on one side of the town to know and understand the problems encountered by residents on the other side of town.

W.E. 'Pete' Knowles
... "Never offer an olive branch with a halchot."

"Now might be the time to resolve the issue by allowing single member districts and black and white doesn't enter into the consideration," Farr said.

"The easiest thing to do would be fight. If we want to be heroes for one or two years we will go to trial and later some will wonder why we spent the money. The fact is that there are apparently insurmountable odds against winning and that is a difficult pill to swallow," Farr said.

Commissioner Milton Smith, who seconded Farr's motion to negotiate for settlement, said he has talked to many attorney-friends, who have all told him that the trend in the federal courts in the southeast "is not good as far as democracy is concerned."

"Federal judges have more power than anyone can think of," Smith said. "They can take away the voting of 25,000 people in Sanford and this disturbs me."

Smith asked Colbert if a decision on whether to fight the issue in court or settle could be delayed another 30 days. Colbert said earlier that Judge Kovachevich wants to know by Dec. 2 or 3 which direction the city will take.

Colbert said he could ask, but he wasn't sure the response from the court would be favorable. Moore asked Smith what purpose a delay would serve and Smith said he doesn't like to be rushed into a decision.

"I'd like to preserve some of the democratic process by putting the issue of single member districts on the ballot with a second question about whether the people would prefer the city government as it is," Smith said. "If minorities want single member districts, they could vote it in."

Colbert said he doubted the court would give additional time for this purpose.

Colbert said he needed to know which direction the city wants him to go. "The point is that I must do one thing (preparing) to litigate and another series of things to settle the suit," he said. Smith responded, "How do we know whether we want to go all the way until we know what they are proposing?"

Commissioner Ned Yancey asked why the commission should turn over and play dead because a few people say so. "If one wants something, he should work for it," Yancey said. He talked of his own first election which he lost by seven votes. "But then I didn't run to the court and say they should put me off," he said.

"I have never denied anyone his right to vote for anyone he pleases," he added.

Moore, gathering his colleagues together to make a decision, said their philosophical conversation "doesn't mean a hill of beans."

"The mayor threw out for discussion a suggestion he got from Knowles earlier in the week. He said Knowles suggested the city draw district lines totally for the Goldsboro and Georgetown area with commissioners to be elected from each and the other five commissioners to be elected at large."

Knowles said the only way the city could profit from the lawsuit was to get at least something it wants in the end. He also said that Lipman can't lose.

"He wins no matter what the city does," Knowles said. "I love a good fight when there is a chance to win. But we can't win with this one."

Knowles said since Lipman wants a guarantee that the blacks will have an elected official, setting two districts totally within black areas would make this possible. "We can carve out two districts so that they will have an absolute guarantee of winning. They don't want to work for a candidate nor do they want to have one win on merit," Knowles said.

Farr objected, however, calling the proposal "gerrymandering" and "appeasement."

"If we carve the city into four districts, there is no way of assuring that a black will win," Moore said. "There's no point in going into negotiations unless the other side is going to get something it wants."

Moore said a time would have come when a black would be elected to office in Sanford routinely. Pointing to Alfred DeLattibeaudiere, who is one of the plaintiffs in the suit and who failed in an attempt to win Sanford office previously, Moore said DeLattibeaudiere is "probably the least qualified for public office."

DeLattibeaudiere was out of town today and unavailable for comment.

Keith said times have changed in Sanford. "There is no fence around the black communities. The NAACP has told them to move around and they are — onto Park Avenue and elsewhere."

The lawsuit, filed by DeLattibeaudiere, E.N. Smith, Samuel Wright Jr., R. Fletcher McGann and Hannah Pinkney, Sanford residents representing themselves and others of the same class, charges that the Sanford election process excludes "black representation and participation and cancels out black voting strength."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Details On Heineken Hunt Being Kept Secret

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (UPI) — Police struggled today to win the release of multi-millionaire beer brewer Freddie Heineken, whose kidnappers demanded a news blackout on details of the investigation.

Police and Heineken Breweries officials have said nothing about the crime since the abductors threatened in a letter to the company Thursday that Heineken would be killed if further statements were made to the news media.

Amsterdam police also declined to say whether they had proof that Heineken, 60, and his chauffeur, Ab Dodderer, 57, were still alive.

Brewery spokesman Robert Elfrink said the kidnappers promised to contact the company, which set up a crisis team to negotiate for the release of the two men seized by three hooded gunmen as they left work Wednesday.

Aquino's 'Killer' Cheered

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Thousands of cheering Filipinos, many waving banners saying "you were not the one" and "the killer is alive," lined a funeral procession for the man the government says assassinated opposition political leader Benigno Aquino.

The early morning procession to a cemetery on the outskirts of the capital began a day of citywide protests against the government of President Ferdinand Marcos and American support for his embattled regime.

Galman, described by the government as a "notorious killer and gun for hire," died Aug. 21 in a volley of military gunfire seconds after Aquino was felled by a single bullet as he stepped from a plane bringing him home from a three-year exile in the United States.

Golden Age Gamers

So Who Says You Have To Be Young To Be Good?

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

If the Madison Avenue types are to be believed, if you're over 30 (and that's pushing it) you're over the hill. Movies, television, fashions, advertising all make their best pitches to the youth market. But there are plenty of folks over 55 who are definitely not over the hill and refuse to be relegated to rocking chair and old folks home.

Sanford has had a chance to watch more than 2,000 seniors show their stuff this week as it played host to the ninth annual Golden Age Games which conclude Saturday.

It is doubtful many teenagers could have maintained the hectic pace set by the 'Gamers' as they went from one event after another in search of the gold. These competitive oldtimers have an indomitable spirit that won't quit, taking them from the running track to the tennis court, pool to

With that kind of spunk, the hardest hurdle to get over is admitting you are old enough to qualify to enter — after that everything is easy.

Typical of those embodying that kind of Olympic spirit is Ellen B. Julius, 72, of Wachula, who entered the Games for the second time this year. Wearing an elastic bandage on her leg, she entered the 2-mile racewalk for the first time, finishing in 31:05 to win first place for her age group. This in spite of a bad leg, which she smashed last year while bike riding. Why did she push herself so hard? "I just wanted to prove my leg is not as bad as they say it is," she said.

Some of the competitors, with their trim physiques and hardened muscles, train all year for the Games, while others come for the fun and fellowship and may enter on a last minute whim.

James Mason, of Sanford, who will be 95 in December, is one of the oldest entrants in the Games. Bowling is his sport and he practices four times a week.

Some of the 'Gamers' hold titles in such events as horseshoes, bike racing, or swimming or have competed in similar events for seniors in their home state.

'Gamers' come from all over the country and quickly make fast friends with other seniors and look forward to competing against them the next year.

This was national masters synchronized swimming champ 65-year-old Louise Wing's fifth year at the Sanford Games. She kept her perfect record intact, again winning the gold medal in her age group for the women's synchronized solo event held at the Sanford Bath and Tennis Club.

This year brought a first for the Games — male entries in the synchronized swimming competition. Medal winner in the men's solo 60-64 age group was Eddie Rose, 60, of Altamonte Springs. Rose is in the Fort Lauderdale Swimming Hall of Fame, but for his diving skill, not his grace in synchronized swimming. He is a former professional diver who provided comic relief in aquatic events, in which his wife, Mary, and her sister, Fran Gloc, were swimmers. Mary and Fran were instrumental in getting synchronized swimming included in the Golden Age Games schedule of events and are on the executive committee for the Games.

George Tuttle, 59, of Sun City Center, entered in the solo synchronized swimming event for men 55-59 and also brought home a gold medal.

Drama At 'The Citadel'

By Elaine Thompson
In this business you look for great drama that you can recommend. That's why "The Citadel," a 10-part miniseries premiering Nov. 20 on PBS, based on the novel by A.J. Cronin, is a masterpiece I wouldn't miss a minute of.

While the series might be an irritant to some branches of the medical fraternity and perhaps a little long, it remains faithful to the ideas set forth by Cronin.

Ben Cross, the star of the Oscar-winning "Chariots of Fire," portrays Dr. Andrew Manson, an idealist who sets up a practice in a poor Welsh mining community. He marries the right woman, Christine (played by Clare Higgins) but doesn't know it and flirts with fame, trying to find himself.

In "The Citadel," Dr. Philip Denny (played by Gareth Thomas) starts out as an out-of-focus, alcoholic physician, the buddy of Dr. Manson, who evolves towards stability and responsibility as the years go by.

Off camera, Gareth and his wife, Sheila, also in show business, have a happy marriage.

With any marriage lasting these days being good news, it's nice to see a romance that's thriving.

Mrs. Thomas confided that it was good-natured cameraderie that has kept them together since they met 14 years ago. She got so fed up teaching drama to students who were testing their tastes

"too young, too early for all of them to be motivated," that she learned the makeup business and applied to BBC and was hired.

"I was an assistant, then," Mrs. Thomas recalls.

Olympic Art Show At Disney

The U.S. Olympic Hall of Fame exhibit, appearances by renowned sports artist Wayland Moore, and the work of 200 artists, photographers and craftpersons highlight the ninth annual Festival of the Masters outdoor art show being held at Walt Disney Village, Lake Buena Vista, through Sunday.

The popular art festival, sponsored by Coca-Cola, draws award-winning artists from 28 states and features outstanding displays of art in an outdoor setting adjacent to waterways, restaurants and shops.

As a special feature, Coca-Cola will present its U.S. Olympic Hall of Fame memorabilia collection under the Captain's Tower.

Moore has painted action photos of Olympic Hall of Fame medalists and original artwork for the official U.S. Olympic Hall of Fame poster. He will be available to autograph posters throughout the day Saturday and Sunday.

One of the most popular events at the Village, the art festival features a wide variety of art works including sculpture, oil and acrylic paintings, watercolors, drawings and graphics, ceramics, crafts, photography and mixed media.

Artists are selected on the basis of quality of work and ability to meet the "masters" requirement which specifies that applicants must be a first, second or third place winner at a juried art festival held within the past three years.

Festival hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. all three days with a special awards ceremony scheduled for 3 p.m. Saturday.

The art festival is free to the public. Special parking and transportation services are provided throughout the three-day event.

Fort Mellon Park.

It is not too late to enter the latter two events.

If you missed out on this year's Games and are eligible plan to enter next year. There are events for everyone, including those with less physical exertion such as bridge, canasta, cribbage, dominoes, hobby show, dancing, talent show, photography and knitting.

Ex-Valet Makes Gossip

NEW YORK — A dinner in Barbra Streisand's honor will be held at the Sheraton Center. She'll room across the street at the Hilton... Sylvia Kristel is showing her semi-naked paintings in Paris... Pamela Wilcox, the late Michael Wilding's buddy, is doing a Wilding biography that won't please Elizabeth Taylor... Prince Charles' ex-valet, Stephen Barry, was hired as a gossip columnist for Boy Zone, a London monthly fashion magazine. It beats pressing pants. Holt, Rinehart & Winston dredged up $125,000 for Herb Gluck's biography on Mickey Mantle... Marilyn Michaels and her husband the doctor welcomed a 6-pound, 5-ounce Mark Edward Wilk into the world.

The tough and terrific Bette Davis is sufficiently healed to return to work now. She must relearn to use her hand and arm. Miss Davis, who fought her illness with the same vigor with which she's known to do everything, works out daily with a therapist. Her progress has been called "remarkable."

Miss Davis begins work on the TV series "Hotel" in January. In February, subject to shooting schedules, she will co-star with Anthony Andrews (of "Brideshead Revisited"). Together they'll remake that oldie, "The Aspern Papers."

The King of Morocco travels light. At the Plaza he unpacked only a small staff of personal cooks and they requisitioned a seldom used, old kitchen in the hotel.

Come '84 Johnny Carson's line of menswear will be in Sears department stores... On her return to London, Julie Walters, Michael Caine's co-star in "Educating Rita," bad-mouthed Beverly Hills. She said she stayed in her room most of the time because she didn't feel at home.

Good Guy Carradine Changes Pace For 'Chiefs'

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Keith Carradine, who won an Oscar in 1975 for his song, I'm Easy, and who has played clean-cut nice guys in 20 movies, radically changes pace as a mass murderer in Chiefs, a new miniseries.

Second youngest of the acting Carradine clan (Papa John, brothers David and Robert), Keith plays Foxy Funderburke, one of TV's scariest killers.

Keith and Charlton Heston appear in all three two-hour segments of the CBS-TV special, telecast Sunday, Tuesday and Wednesday which also stars Wayne Rogers, Brad Davis, Billy Dee Williams and Stephen Collins.

Of his switch from leading man to arch-villain, the handsome Carradine said, "In this business you've got to overcome success as well as failure."

Pressing his point, he said an actor succeeds by establishing himself as a leading man only to learn that good roles are falling to actors with more versatility.

"Once you succeed, the producers want to keep you doing the same thing," he said. "They feel you'll automatically deliver the sort of performance you have in the past.

"I've heard people in casting say I was 'too nice' for a lot of roles. And I said to hell with that.

"I have as large an ego as any actor. I like to think I can play anything. So I hope old Foxy Funderburke breaks the mold."

Keith's transformation in Chiefs is chilling. He is a menace of astonishing proportions, murdering scores of teenage boys over a period of 40 years, eluding three chiefs of police, played by Rogers, Davis and Williams.

Keith had to look no further for advice on how to play a heavy than his father. The senior Carradine made a career of villains going back to The Prisoner of Shark Island in the 1930s.

"I was aware that playing against type and the nature of the role was dangerous because it could be one-dimensional," Keith said. "I had to give him enough depth to be interesting.

"Dad told me he had a bone to pick with the actors who played Dracula because the vampire was a victim of his immortal state and took no pleasure from his drive to seek human blood.

"I thought the key to Foxy was that he took no pleasure in what he did. He suffered from a compulsion over which he had no control."

During production of Chiefs Keith checked out his performance by attending screenings of the dailies, something he rarely does.

"Watching dailies can make you dangerously aware of how your face works," he said. "It can make you self-conscious during the performance and interfere with your concentration. You can become unnatural and mannered.

"That's one good thing about working in the theater. There's no way to step aside and look at your work. You're more attuned to your natural instincts because there are no technical details, like close-ups, to deal with.

"But playing my first out-and-out villain made me curious to see how Foxy was coming across. Seeing a few dailies helped."

Among the few times Keith has strayed from his leading man image was Pretty Baby in which he bedded 11-year-old Brooke Shields. As the photographer in the film, his character was more seduced than seducer.

Keith had spent almost a year on Broadway starring in Foxfire when he was offered the Chiefs script. He quickly accepted the offer.

"I recognized the part as an exploration and an opportunity," he said. "There were other considerations. It had a top director in Jerry London and first rate professional cast.

"So I packed up for the South Carolina locations for 10 weeks. I was right about the professionals, nine out of 10 scenes were shot in the first take. When I saw the finished product I was overwhelmed at how good it was."

Keith immediately repaired to Hollywood to co-star with Genevieve Bujold in Choose Me and the more familiar territory of leading man, playing a Vietnam War veteran. A few days after completing Choose Me, he joined Nastasia Kinsky and Robert Mitchum in Maria's Lovers, again reverting to good guy.

"Foxy helped satisfy my desire for versatility," Keith concluded. "I hope he convinces producers."

'Amityville' Horrors Will Continue In 3-D

DEAR DICK: I've watched Amityville II twice. Now I'm wondering if they will make Amityville III, because at the end of Amityville II they leave a lot of clues for another film. What can you tell me about that? — K.K.H., Nolanville, Texas

The next Amityville film is heading your way. It is called Amityville 3-D, which tells you that it's not only the third in the series, but is also in 3-D. Now the horrors come at you from all directions. It stars Tony Roberts and Candy Clark.

DEAR DICK: I have a bet going with a friend. I say Lily Tomlin and John Travolta are not brother and sister. She says they are. Could you clear this up for us? — L.J.B., Worland, Wyo.

Consider it cleared. Lily and John are 100 percent unrelated.

DEAR DICK: In a book I came across a picture of Billie Dove. A friend of mine said she was still alive. Is it true? — M.B., Nevada, Mo.
Yes, she is. She's 83.

Ask Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: I have always wondered why Sean Connery did not play 007 in the James Bond movie On Her Majesty's Secret Service, which starred George Lazenby. Wasn't this film made during the height of Connery's era as Bond? I know the rest of the characters (M, Q and Miss Money Penny) were played by the usual actors, so why not Connery? — J.R.P., Lake Jackson, Texas.

At the time (1969), Connery and the producers were having a big fight over money and contracts. So Connery went off and signed to do another film — Shalako — and the producers got Lazenby instead.

They both regretted their stubbornness later.

DEAR DICK: Several years ago, there was a miniseries called The Awakening Land with Elizabeth Montgomery. Her name on the series was Sayward. My husband and I admired the name and the character so much we named our daughter Sayward. We would like to find out the derivation of the name. How could we get the information? — R.F., Springfield, Mo.

The place to start would be with the book the series was based on. It was a novel — actually a trilogy — called The Awakening Land and it was written by Conrad Richter. It's possible he explains the name in the book. If not, write to him in care of the book's publisher.

DEAR DICK: Would it be possible for you to tell me where I might be able to get a record of "Moving On Up," the theme song from The Jeffersons? — L.J.G., Mobile, Ala.

It's possible for me to tell you that it's impossible for you to get that record. Amazingly, the sprightly tune has never been recorded.

Aggie's: Take Their Food Preparation Seriously

Come to one of the liveliest places in town . . . Aggie's, that restaurant at 2520 S. French Avenue in Sanford.

If you're interested in enjoying fine food at reasonable prices, prices that haven't changed in more than a year, try this delightful restaurant. It's away from the bustle of crowds and the management aims to please.

A prime rib for the hearty appetite, the Diamond Jim Brady, is offered for a mere $11.95. A more modest version, dubbed the Lillian Russell, carries at $9.50 tab. And these dinners are among the highest priced on the menu.

The people at Aggie's take pride in their dry-aged prime rib preparing it in special ovens where low temperatures turn out an elegant dish.

Also for beef lovers, there are five steaks and a shish kebab from which to choose, or steak oregano, strips of beef prepared with garlic and seasonings, a Hellenic touch. Along this line of fare are roast leg of lamb for $8.95, chicken Athenian, broiled and basted with lemon and butter, and the combination plate of Greek delicacies with moussaka and dolmades, all from family recipes.

From the sea come 10 fish dishes, shrimp scampi, scallops, lobster tails and flounder stuffed with crabmeat, among them. Prices start in this tempting category at $7.95.

If you dare, consummate the feast with a luscious homemade dessert, perhaps an Aggie's Surprise, a mystery concoction.

Early bird specials are offered from 4:30 until 7 seven nights a week with prices starting at $5.95. Luncheon specials are offered each noon and reduced drink prices and free hors d'oeuvres are provided during the attitude adjustment hours from 5 until 7.

Reservations are now being accepted for holiday parties with private banquet facilities for the affairs.

Mike Evans is currently entertaining Friday and Saturday nights.
