New transportation boss hired
SANFORD — Dr. Joseph Wise, the director of transportation for the Orange County school district, has accepted the same position in Seminole County.
Wise replaces Jerry Klein, who resigned last month to take over the top transportation job in the Dade County schools.
Wise, who also served as the chief negotiator for the Orange County school board, will begin his duties here in two weeks.
His annual salary in Seminole County will be $56,376.

Chamber business after hours
SANFORD — The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce will hold its May Business After Hours gathering this Thursday, from 5 until 7 p.m. The gathering will be hosted by the CPA firm of Greene and Dyeus, located at 205 N. Elm Ave. All Chamber members, prospective members and their guests are invited to attend. For further information, contact the chamber office at 322-2212.

Bubble task force trouble
GENEVA — The first organizational meeting of the Geneva Bubble Task Force today will be short two members.
David Wright, an engineer whose appointment caused some controversy among Geneva citizens, has notified the county he cannot serve on the committee, said County Manager Ron Rabun. Wright, formerly of Camp, Dresser and McKee, has accepted a job with another firm and notified the county there is a conflict, said Rabun. Geneva folk opposed Wright's appointment because they believed he did not have as much experience with the bubble as their preferences.
Also, Rabun said Tom Ball, who developed a borrow pit near the bubble, cannot serve as the borrow pit industry because he is not currently involved in dirt mining. Rabun asked commissioners to consider new appointments at their next meeting May 25.

'Bang' on Endeavour traced
CAPE CANAVERAL — NASA engineers believe they have identified the source of a mysterious "bang" in the shuttle Endeavour's engine compartment.
The noise was heard during a leak check when pressure was applied to a fuel line last week.
"We have a leading suspect," said Kennedy Space Center spokesman Bruce Buckingham said Tuesday. "We think a ball inside a flexible joint on a fuel line got pinched. We can live with it."
Scratches on the metal sphere, slightly smaller than a golf ball, and some metallic debris inside the joint support this tentative finding, Buckingham said. The joint is on a 17-inch diameter line that carries liquid hydrogen from the shuttle's external tank to the orbiter's three main engines.

County: Sheriff's office priority over court expansion

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners unanimously agreed to consolidate sheriff and public safety operations into one building at Five Points, scrapping a consultant's $200,000 recommendation to rank a courthouse expansion as the top building priority.
Commissioners said Tuesday they were uncomfortable with the consultant's projections that court caseload will more than double during the next 17 years. They ranked the headquarters consolidation of the Sheriff's Office and Public Safety Department as their main priority, followed by the courthouse expansion and administrative offices expansion as third.

The consultants had estimated the building program would cost between $71.5 million to $78.2 million. About $40 million of the amount would be needed to build a five-story expansion of the courthouse east of the existing judicial building. Because the Sanford parking lot would be needed for the expansion, a $7 million parking garage is included in the $40 million courthouse project.

Although commissioners are moving away from the consultant's recommendations, County

Manager Ron Rabun said it will still be valuable in providing information for future decisions.

The ranking Tuesday marked the first direction given by commissioners following three previous meetings to discuss the county's office construction needs. They still have many decisions to make, including what to build, where to build, when to build and how to pay for the construction. More discussions will be scheduled.

Tuesday, commissioners showed little agreement as they grappled with the $70 million decision, prompting commissioner Dick VanDerWeide to comment "We're so nervous here we

Teacher charged with molesting students resigns

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — The Seminole County school board yesterday accepted the resignation of a teacher suspended without pay who has been charged with 42 counts of child molestation.
Stephen A. Paterson's resignation is effective at the end of the school year, on June 6, according to John Reichert, the district's director of personnel.

According to Reichert, the district has filed a formal complaint with the state Education Practices Commission so that investigation can be conducted into the charges against Paterson.

That investigation could lead to the revocation of Paterson's

Lake Mary to consider CALNO plan

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The City Commission will discuss a proposal by the local council of governments Thursday night. The plan deals with resolving disputes between government bodies.

Called the CALNO plan, the acronym has lost its original concept, indicating the cities which took park. They were (at the time CALNO was formed) Casselberry, Altamonte Springs, Lake Mary, and North Orlando. The latter eventually became Winter Springs.

CALNO subsequently was expanded to include Sanford, Seminole County and the School Board of Seminole County.

As indicated in the documents to be presented to the commission, the intent of the interlocal agreement is to "provide a process for resolving intergovernmental disputes when informal negotiations have proven unproductive. It also allows participating jurisdictions to draw others who may wish to avoid or delay discussing an issue into productive dialogue."

The document says "The revision may be used when litigation is

Trash bins yield valuable paintings

CORAL GABLES — A tip led police to nine stolen paintings worth more than $1 million in trash bins but didn't recover a valuable work by Wilfredo Lam, sometimes referred to as "the Picasso of Cuba."

Thieves took 11 paintings worth more than $1.5 million from the Gary Nader Fine Arts Gallery in Coral Gables. The theft, which included nine by Lam, was discovered May 11.

The thieves left behind a more valuable painting by Chilean artist Robert Matta valued at $1.5 million.

Police searched several trash bins early Tuesday and found nine of the pieces, including seven Lam paintings as well as works by Fernando de Szyszlo of Peru and another Cuban, Rafael Soriano. The paintings recovered were valued at more than $1 million, police said.

Lam, a Fidel Castro supporter who died in 1982, has been described by art experts as a master of surrealism in Latin American painting.

"We're very happy and relieved that most of the paintings were found," said Mariangela Capuzzo, assistant director of the gallery. "On the other hand, we are heartbroken that two important pieces have not been found."

license to teach in the state.

Paterson, who has been charged with 42 child molestation counts, including committing lewd and lascivious acts on a child and with engaging in sexual activity with a child in his custody, had been suspended without pay from his job as a band director at Lakeview Middle School.

Two-and-a-half years ago, Paterson was reprimanded by the school board after parents complained that he had allowed students to hear an audiotape of inappropriate material and that he had discussed masturbation with the young men in the school's band during lunch.

While Karen Wild, executive director of the education practices commission, would neither confirm nor deny if there is an investigation in progress, she did say that if a complaint has been filed by the district an investigation would be conducted.

According to Reichert, a complaint was also filed against Paterson with the commission two years ago after he was reprimanded by the school board.

Wild said that investigation concluded that there were not sufficient grounds to take on the information they had at that time, to take away his teaching certificate.

Following the current investigation, if it is recommended that there is justification for removing his license, Paterson would be allowed the option of surrendering his certificate voluntarily; he could admit to the allegations and submit to an informal hearing on the matter or he could dispute the findings and request a formal hearing with an officer of the division of administrative hearings.

According to Wild, the final option would take at least six months and as long as two years.

In the meantime, Wild explained, Paterson could, technically, apply for a teaching job, but she said it is unlikely that he would be hired in light of the criminal charges against him.

According to his letter of resignation, however, Paterson has said that he has "enjoyed the opportunity" of working in the school district, but that he has now chosen "a different career path."

He did not indicate what that career path might be.

Neither Paterson nor his attorney Cheney Mason were available for comment today.

Johnny Lee Knight, his left arm heavily bandaged and in a sling, appeared to limp slightly as he entered the courtroom at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility for his first court appearance. Knight was wounded and apprehended after the early morning robbery of the Winn Dixie store on Highway 17-92 and Lake Mary Boulevard.

Knight was released from Orlando Regional Medical Center Sunday and taken to JEPFCF.

Knight identified his cousin, James Williams, 2020 Alexander Ave., Sanford as the other suspect in the robbery. Williams was arrested late Sunday.

Judge Fredric M. Hitt appointed the local public defender's office to represent Knight and a special public defender to handle Williams' case.

Williams was led into the courtroom with dozens of other prisoners scheduled to make their first appearances at the 1:30 p.m. court hearing. Knight was brought into the courtroom almost one hour later when the proceedings began and was seated at the opposite end of the row where Williams was seated.

Hitt said after the public defenders had met with their clients, they might wish to seek a reduction in the bonds.

Further, Hitt said, the state attorney might want to ask for an increase in the bonds.

Both men are charged with armed burglary, armed robbery with a firearm, seven counts of aggravated assault, seven counts of armed kidnapping, grand theft, grand theft auto, possession of a weapon in the commission of a felony, two counts of shooting in an occupied building and vehicle and attempted murder of a law enforcement officer.

Riot retrieval witness: Miami officer took careful aim at motorcyclist

By IRE FLORES
Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO — An eyewitness to a shooting that triggered three nights of violence in Miami says the police officer who killed a black motorcyclist stepped into the street and carefully aimed his revolver.

Testimony by Eddie William Johnson contradicted defense claims that Colombian-born officer William Lozano fired in a split-second act of self-defense as the speeding motorcycle sped straight toward him 4 1/2 years ago.

"He aimed in the direction the motorcycle was coming in," said Johnson, 50, a truck owner-operator who was talking to Lozano and his police partner moments before the shooting incident in Miami's predominantly black Overtown neighborhood.

"Did you ever see the motorcycle swerve toward the male officer?" asked prosecutor John Hogan.

"No," Johnson replied on Tuesday, adding that the cycle carrying two black men was traveling at 60-70 mph in the northbound lane of N. W. 3rd Avenue and Lozano was in the southbound lane about two feet from the center stripe.

The cycle was fleeing another officer in a patrol car.

Passenger Allan Blanchard, 24, was fatally injured when the cycle crashed into a parked car.

In cross-examining Miami police technician Ralph Garcia, defense attorney Mark Seiden said then-Mayor Xavier Suarez may have helped incite rioters.

The mayor climbed atop a car in the middle of the crime scene, talked to the milling crowd and then uncovered the victim's body for the angry, shouting people to see, the lawyer said.

"The mayor lifted the sheet and allowed the crowd to see that decedent," Seiden said, adding that that was when rocks and bottles started flying. "That was a totally terrible technique, wasn't it now?"

"Yes, that's where everything started getting out of hand," responded Garcia, who was at the scene gathering evidence.

Jurors also were shown a graphic videotape that documented the start of rioting.

The video, taken by another police technician shortly after the shooting, showed scores of people milling around the covered body of the victim and a pool of blood on the street. Near the body is the wrecked motorcycle and a smashed-up car that it hit.

Angry shouts and screams precede a shower of rocks, and then the videotaping is stopped because the cameraman has to scramble for cover. Seiden had the video shown to the jury when Garcia said it was part of the evidence.

The mayor was not shown on the videotape.

Johnson said he was talking to Lozano's partner, Dawn Campbell, on the sidewalk next to their parked patrol car when "a motorcycle caught my ear." When Johnson first saw the cycle at a distance, "I said to no one in particular, 'Where the hell is he going?'"

Johnson said Lozano was standing in the back of the parked patrol car using his police radio. Lozano "peered around the trunk of the car. The police officer put his radio up and made a few steps."

Then he took a few more steps, Johnson said, "and ladies and gentlemen, he pulled his gun. . . The motorcycle was coming and his (Lozano's) hands were moving in the same direction. I ducked. I heard a shot."

Defense attorney Roy Black pointed out contradictions in Johnson's testimony from earlier statements, but he was unable to shake the bearded, firm-voiced witness.

Lozano was convicted in late 1989, but an appeals court threw out the verdict.

Falsely Indicted man sues

By Associated Press

FORT LAUDERDALE — A man who police now say was falsely indicted for murder and jailed for 16 months is suing.

Stephen Rosati filed the lawsuit Tuesday in Broward Circuit Court against the two detectives whose investigation led to his arrest. The suit didn't specify damages.

"I won't ever be the same," said Rosati. "I lost my zeal for life."

The suit seeks damages for loss of his constitutional rights as well as for monetary losses and mental anguish caused by his imprisonment.

"It was a living hell," he said. "My prayers helped me get through it. I hope it doesn't happen to many other people, but I'm sure it does."

On Sept. 12, 1990, Rosati was arrested by six Rhode Island state troopers and two Broward County detectives — the lawsuit's co-defendants, Steven Wiley and Dominic Gucciarolo. The two Broward detectives were called for their response Tuesday, but were unavailable.

Rosati was interrogated, arrested, extradited and subsequently indicted for the murder of Joe Viscido Jr., a 26-year-old man who was shot during a drug deal gone sour in Deerfield Beach on Oct. 12, 1986.

One of the unusual features of the case was the independent investigation by the victim's father, Joseph Viscido, who spent $50,000 to find his son's killers and point them out to police. His investigation led to the arrest of Rosati and two others.

Appreciation banquet Teachers honored in Oriental splendor

By SARABECCA ROBIER
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — On Thursday, May 6, the PTA of Wilson Elementary School hosted a lavish Teacher Appreciation banquet in the teacher's lunchroom and multi-purpose room which reflected the luxury of a fine Chinese restaurant. There were oriental art and artifacts, lots of live flowers and plants forming a tea garden, wishing pond, and paper dragons to set the mood.

The bulk of the Chinese food was supplied by Orient IV at cost, and Fred from Orient IV was on hand to load into the waiting cars. There was enough food to feed a total of 75 — 80 teachers and 15 non-instructional staff.

First Union Bank donated a large sheet cake and PTA's Susie Smith baked a pineapple upside-down cake. Judy Baschore and Gaye Clark donated oriental artifacts and Sharon Baragona lent her oriental lamps for the occasion.

More thanks to Fairfield Farms Nursery in Sanford and Contemporary Gardens in Lake Mary for lending such beautiful plants. Also, the committee thanks Wal-Mart for giving the pool and stepping stones used for the wishing pond.

Jeanne Thompson made the paper dragons and the PTA even made little handpainted cards with a penny scotch taped on and printed "Make a Wish!" for each teacher to use at the wishing pond.

Barbara Nixon, who appears to be enjoying her first year as principal of Wilson Elementary, said, "This is so gorgeous. I can't believe what these ladies have done. This is just one example of what they do day in and day out. We've been blessed with the most wonderful PTA."

'Safe Streets' plan

Study: Chiles' jail plan may require second tax increase

By GURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles' prison-building plan falls far short of its 21,000-bed goal over five years, won't halt early inmate releases in Florida and could mean a second big tax increase by 1998, a study says.

An independent analysis of the "Safe Streets" proposal obtained Tuesday by The Associated Press also shows the governor's 25-cents-a-pack cigarette tax increase would actually grow to more than 42 cents by the time all the prisons are in place — in the year 2001.

And even if sentencing guidelines are changed to divert some less violent offenders from prison, the program falls 19,847 beds short of what's needed to stop releasing criminals early by the turn of the century.

The analysis, by the Legislature's non-partisan Economic and Demographic Research Division, shows that only 15,225 prison beds would be in use by July of 1998.

Chiles has repeatedly called the plan "a five-year, 21,000-bed" proposal that would keep violent offenders behind bars for most of their sentences.

"There's a lot to this that doesn't meet the eye," said Republican Sen. Locke Burt of Ormond Beach, who chairs the Senate budget subcommittee on corrections. "The cigarette tax isn't enough to pay for it and the 22,000 beds won't eliminate early release. So what's the governor selling?"

The governor has summoned legislators to the Capitol for a two-week special session on his plan, beginning May 24. He vetoed a 7,000-bed plan passed by the Legislature.

Chiles' Press Secretary Julie Ambender said the governor has never tried to claim the "Safe Streets" program is the ultimate solution to the overcrowding problem.

"He's been very clear that this takes a giant step forward, but it's not the be-all and end-all," she said. "The governor has been extremely forthcoming. We need to make a long-term commitment to solving the problems."

It would take until July 2001 for all the beds — actually 22,028 plus 1,028 for juveniles — to become available. And there's not enough money in the

State could gain millions if some welfare cases dropped

By GURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The state may be able to drop 20,000 cases from welfare rolls and gain $50 million because growth in the program isn't meeting projections, officials said Tuesday.

For five consecutive months, the caseload for the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program has failed to meet a forecast made by state economists. That could be a result of the economic recovery.

The Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services has recommended a new AFDC forecast to reduce the expected caseload for fiscal 1993-94, which begins July 1. If the projection is reduced, the state would get a windfall of cash that can be spent elsewhere.

A conference of legislative and executive branch economists would also examine the Medicaid caseload and whether it, too, might be reduced.

Gov. Lawton Chiles plans to call for such a forecast in a matter of days, with hopes some of the money can be used for his 21,000-bed prison construction plan.

"He wants the information to be made precise so it can be factored into the 'Safe Streets' plan," said Ron Sachs, the governor's communications director. "We want that information going into the special session."

But Sachs said the money won't entirely solve the problem of paying for the prison construction. Chiles is seeking an increase in the state cigarette tax to raise more than $200 million in the plan's first year.

An error in the HRS welfare computer earlier this year led to removal of 235,000 Medicaid cases from the rolls, freeing up $173 million that helped legislators avoid a tax increase to balance the budget. Sachs said the computer played no role in the AFDC changes.

"This is not a computer mistake," he said.

AFDC is a state-federal program that provides cash grants to poor families, generally headed by just one parent. Medicaid provides health care for poor people.

Less rain, but county still on sound footing

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Local rainfall in April fell below normal but Seminole County's water situation is still on sound footing.

A total of 1.72 inches of rain fell in a Sanford rain gauge monitored by the St. Johns River Water Management District. That's seven-tenths of an inch below the 2.42-inch normal for April as established by the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration for the years 1951 to 1980.

Although rainfall was below normal for the second consecutive month in April, the average rainfall for the past year was above normal. The total rainfall amount for the past six months was 10.37 inches above normal and the total rainfall for the past year was 16.58 inches above normal.

Based on the yearly rainfall excesses, Sanford is the third "wettest" location of the 12 spots monitored each month in the 19-county district.

Much of the rain that falls on the ground eventually creeps deep underground to a limestone layer where wells draw it back up again for use. The district tracks wellwater levels to determine the healthiness of the drinking water supply.

A monitored well in Geneva was recorded at 20.62 feet above mean sea level in April, 1.24 feet below the March recording. Still, the April level is only 1.19 feet below the 11-year record reached in January and almost four feet above the record low reached in May 1990.

A monitored well near Longwood was recorded at 38.64 feet above MSL, 17.16 feet above the record high reached in September 1980 and only 4.65 feet above the lowest point the level reached, which was in April 1990.

Gay lawmaker is offering a compromise on military service

By DONNA GABBAYA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — A gay congressman is offering a compromise on permitting homosexuals to legally but quietly serve in the military, conceding that the American public isn't ready for President Clinton's move to completely lift the ban on gays in uniform.

Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., proposed a solution Tuesday that would allow gay and lesbian service members to do as they please off base as long as they keep their sexual preference secret while on duty.

Faced with strong sentiment against Clinton's proposal in the Senate Armed Services Committee and elsewhere in Congress, Frank said the president didn't have the votes to overturn the existing ban on gays in the military.

A White House official said he thought Clinton might be willing to accept the Frank compromise, especially if Sen. Sam Nunn, chairman of the armed services panel and an opponent of lifting the ban, agreed to it.

"Obviously, Frank speaks to the (gay) community better than anybody else in Congress and if Senator Nunn agreed with it, I think there's a good chance the president would as well," the official said, speaking on condition he not be named.

White House spokeswoman Dee Dee Myers said she hadn't heard about Frank's proposal, and wasn't sure if Clinton would agree with it. "The president believes we have to go further than 'don't ask, don't tell' — that the standard ought to be conduct," she said.

Frank said his reason for accommodation was based on political fact.

"Reality says for an indefinite period lesbians and gay men are going to have to not discuss their sexuality," he said. "I regret that we can't move immediately to removal of the ban. I don't think the votes are there. I don't think society's quite ready for it."

Frank also said the widespread resentment in the military to homosexuality may make his proposed policy change the standard for years to come. Based on "the inbred dislike of gays and lesbians it may be a very long time before we go further," he said.

Under his plan, gay and lesbian service members would have to keep their sexual orientation secret while on duty but would be allowed to engage in homosexual activity privately and on their own time.

If someone finds out about off-duty behavior and turns the individual in, the military's answer should be "we don't want to hear about it," Frank said.

"It's a policy that says 'don't ask, don't tell and don't listen and don't investigate,'" Frank told reporters. "Basically the policy ... is 'don't start, don't get into the whole thing.'"

Frank's plan is similar to that of Nunn, D-Ga., who has suggested a policy of not questioning recruits about their sexual orientation.

Every home should not house guns

Regardless of what one Florida legislator says, every household in Florida should not be required to have a gun.

Rep. Al Lawson, (D) Tallahassee, made the suggestion. He is chairman of the Legislature's black caucus. He said he may make the proposal during the special session called for later this month to deal with prison construction.

If every household is required to have a gun, we would be opening the door to more problems than we already have. Children could find themselves a new play toy. Friends and neighbors could be accidentally shot. Burglars would have more guns to steal.

Many households already have guns. When they are owned for strictly legitimate reasons, we see no problem with this.

Some firearms are used for hunting, while others are purchased for home protection. Problems are generally avoided because most gun owners exercise caution in their control and safe storage.

Other families would absolutely refuse to possess a gun, even if mandated by the state. They have their rights just as everyone else. Having a gun in the house is not as simple as owning a television set.

Guns must be kept in secure areas away from children. Owners who may not be able to handle them, their owners and/or users should be fully trained in their operation. Preferably, the training should be by qualified people such as law enforcement agencies.

People must also be familiar with the laws regarding the use of firearms. For example: If a person walks into a private home, does the owner have the right to pull a gun and shoot? If a person looks outdoors and sees someone burglarizing a car, can the burglar be shot?

The state should never be allowed to mandate that every home owner have a firearm. It could be opening the door to more deaths and injuries.

This is not the wild west when the gun was the only law of the land. When the matter is brought up during the special legislative session, we urge the lawmakers to reject it and concern themselves with safer solutions to the problem of crime.

Quagmire in Clinton's Quomercia

Is President Clinton now "President Quota"? Republicans may make that case, helping themselves, and helping America.

The Clinton campaign for "diversity" in appointments is a bad joke. The U.S. government now has high jobs earmarked for "skirts." But "non-Hispanic white females" complain they are losing out to "twofers," that is, black or Latino women. Many deserving white males have been kept out of government. Loyal Democrats, they march silently to oblivion. Welcome to Quomercia.

What comes next? Don't ask. Consider the story recounted by James Adams of The Sunday Times (London). It concerns the head of a Clinton transition team who, when not offered a job, complained to a White House official. He was then told his team had no "OGs" (openly gay men), revealing his unwillingness to encourage diversity in government. No job.

Beyond that, there is a passage in the new Clinton education proposal that apparently seeks to avoid the strictures against "race-norming" in the 1991 Civil Rights Act.

And consider Professor Lani Guinier, Clinton's selection as head of the Civil Rights Division in the Justice Department.

Judging from her recent (1991) law journal writings, she believes a) in quotas for minorities in local legislatures; b) that quotas aren't enough; c) that minorities should have the right to veto many significant laws passed by the majority; d) that the minorities must be "authentic" (not "middle class blacks," because "black representatives are not just physically black"); and e) minorities should be entitled to enact, alone, a proportionate share of legislation, for example, establishing "set-asides."

In theory, such wild action would need a constitutional amendment. But voters would oppose it. So Professor Guinier has another

The Clinton campaign for 'diversity' in appointments is a bad joke.

Idea: Administer and re-interpret the existing Voting Rights Act to make it happen, which would put federal resources behind a court defense. In her powerful new position, if confirmed, she would be in charge of all that.

Guinier's articles are not idle academic speculation. Reading them, it is clear that she believes passionately in what she writes.

Finally, we will soon see what Clinton does about the appointment of a new Supreme Court justice. The Wall Street Journal reports from the White House: "Questions are raised about some possible candidates. Highly regarded federal judges Amalya Kearse, Stephen Greyer and Jose Cabranes are seen as too conservative. ... Advisers agree that final choices won't be narrowed until the president's wife weighs in, which she hasn't yet."

Too conservative? Perhaps they oppose quotas. And what about Hillary Rodham Clinton? It's said, unsubstantiated, that she and two friends, Marion Wright Edelman and Susan Thomas, work behind the scenes doing the quota stuff. But it doesn't matter. No one elected Mrs. Clinton. It is Bill Clinton who is president. He alone is responsible. His party faces elections next year. Will Republicans make the case?

Another Vietnam? Holocaust?

BOSTON — Which is it to be then? Another Vietnam? Or Another Holocaust?

With each day and each failed truce, it gets harder to witness the conflict in Bosnia without feeling compelled to do something. With each day and each failed plan, it gets harder to imagine what we could do that would do any good.

The arguments about American action and inaction in Bosnia are now being waged with historic surrogates. Analysts and advocates are reaching into the grab bag of the past for the proper grid to put over our present dilemma.

At a Midwestern high school last week, a student raised the ghost of Vietnam before President Clinton. At the opening of a museum two weeks ago, Elie Wiesel raised the ghost of the Holocaust. We hear these ghost stories in public and often in the privacy of our own minds.

On the one hand, we are warned, Bosnia could be another quagmire. A quagmire with forests instead of jungles. On the other hand, we are warned, Bosnia has become another Holocaust. The final solution is now ethnic cleansing, and this time we can't say we didn't know.

The lessons of Vietnam are repeated as if we were cramming for an exam. Lessons about the limits of power: Don't get into a war unless you have determined a way out. Don't pretend that you can put your toe into a conflict without putting the body at risk. Don't start without the country's support.

The lessons of the Holocaust are repeated too on the chalkboard of our national conscience. Lessons about the need for action: There are times when intervention is moral and abstention is immoral. Those who don't resist genocide may be silent accomplices to it.

Both these ghosts seem to ask the same question with equally deep conviction: haven't we learned anything from history?

Well, it's said that those who don't learn from history are bound to repeat it. But in what was once Yugoslavia, it sometimes seems that those who do learn from history are also bound to repeat it.

When the lid of the Cold War was lifted from that Balkan territory, centuries of hatred emerged as fresh as yesterday's injury. In Bosnia, massacres from the 14th century are used to justify revenge in the 20th century, as Serbs, Croats and Muslims make memories for the 21st century.

The Serbs, who were once our allies in World War II, have now become the ethnic cleansers, purging Muslims. The Croats who sided with the Nazis and fought Serbs, now imitate them. Every side of this conflict uses history as proof of their innocence.

But the past has always offered more lessons than recipes. This debate about what to do and whether to do it, isn't really about repeating history. It's about making history.

In the Cold War Era — for which I am not at all nostalgic — America took sides automatically with the enemies of our designated enemy: the evil empire. We knew where we stood.

Now we're on much shakier ground. The principles by which and for which we're willing to make war are unclear. We are writing them as we go along — to Kuwait, to Somalia, and maybe to Bosnia.

Do we follow the TV cameras to war? Is it CNN that makes genocide in Bosnia worse than in Cambodia? Are the rapes in Bosnia more of a good to "do something" than those in Kashmir or Peru because we have seen and heard the stories?

Do we make war only in our "national interest"? Is our national interest just oil in Kuwait or is it also peace in the Balkans? Do we drop the standard of realpolitik for a standard of moralpolitik? If the military is to be a humanitarian agency, what are the humanitarian results of dropping bombs from high altitudes or of arming opponents? If we don't take a moral stand, though, is that a green light for mayhem?

Why Americans? Why not?

I'm not alone or ashamed to feel bombarded by questions without answers. Like others I grasp at the straw the president has held out that "we will be able to take some steps that will make peace more likely." But I doubt it.

Every impulse that I have says to go slow and not to go alone. Every other impulse says that one country's caution may be a Muslim family's ruin, a city's devastation.

Under it all, I share a deep foreboding. Not that we are creating Another Vietnam or Another Holocaust or even Another World War I. But that someday, people faced with another conflict will look back on our painful decisions, shake their heads and warn each other ruefully about "Another Bosnia."

The final solution is now ethnic cleansing, and this time we can't say we didn't know.

Ideals intact, status secured

WASHINGTON — Every Tuesday, Democratic and Republican senators go their separate ways for two hours to eat lunch and plot strategy in a secret session that's known as "caucus."

At one recent Democratic session, Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., committed an act of virtual heresy: He rose to pitch an amendment that would finally force all members of Congress to reveal all of the gifts, free meals and assorted perks that lobbyists shower on them every year.

Wellstone's colleagues spent nearly 20 minutes getting over their hearburn.

"Why do this?" asked one incredulous senator.

"It's just not necessary," growled another.

"When I go into caucuses there are things I say that are not well received," said Wellstone with considerable understatement. "It's happened more than once." To Wellstone his colleagues were simply trying to stall.

It was like, "We'll get to it sometime in the future ... maybe ... hopefully!" he recalled. "I don't think my (caucus) speech received a good reception."

But within 24 hours, Wellstone — a wrestler in college — pulled a reversal on the Senate. When they left their behind-closed-doors caucus and debated the amendment publicly, it passed without opposition as part of a broader bill that regulates lobbyists.

And they were allowed to vote for it in the most politically pain-free method known — by simply passing it "without objection."

This protects senators from having to vote yes or no — a "yes" vote would have offended lobbyists, while a "no" vote would have offended voters back home.

Passage of the amendment also marked a personal passage of sorts for Wellstone: the sealing of his new esteemed status within the Senate. It's been one of the more intriguing political odysseys in Washington.

Just two years ago, one major newspaper reported that Wellstone was "on the cutting edge of irrelevance ... and plummeting in popularity back home" — a sentiment shared by many and backed up by abysmal approval ratings.

But after his legislative victory, Wellstone was hailed by The New York Times for his "adherence to principle" which "shamed the Senate into doing the right thing." In a fitting postscript that dramatized his emergence as a player, Wellstone was holed up in his office for a couple of hours with Hillary Rodham Clinton plotting health-care strategy.

"These last couple of weeks have kind of been a dream come true for me," he told our associate Ed Henry. "All of the issues that I campaigned on (in 1990) are now coming to the forefront."

Wellstone was elected three years ago as a pioneer to the "outsiders" who eventually gave incumbents fits in the 1992 election. Outspent by his opponent six to one, he campaigned on issues that are on the cutting edge now, but were just blips on the screen then — health care, the economy and government reform. He was crisscrossing Minnesota in the fall of 1990 in an old green bus — long before the Clinton/Gore ticket made that mode of transportation fashionable.

But this young senator in a hurry hit plenty of roadblocks early on, which forced him to temper some of his more inflammatory rhetoric. It's a lesson that should serve as a beacon for all 12 of the freshman senators who were swept into office last November. "We have a most unusual mandate, which is to be 'outsiders (who are) effective on the inside,'" Wellstone told us. "If that's not a contradiction, then it's a very interesting challenge."

Senators go their separate ways for two hours to eat lunch and plot strategy.

Bonds supported by state sales or property taxes are two financing proposals which will be considered by commissioners. Commissioner Larry Furlong said he won't support any financing scheme that doesn't consider a new construction impact fee and service fees.

VanDerWeide and commissioner Bob Sturm strongly endorsed a package approach, deciding on the entire office needs plan for the next 20 years and financing them together. The "Over 50 Club" has been in existence for approximately 15 years. Jim Gunster is the current president.

"While we help in the Golden Age Games," Gunster said, "we are primarily a social club. We get together and plan for our outings, keep in touch with our members who may be ill, and generally have a good time associating with each other."

"This started back in the 70's," he said, "as a group from All Souls Catholic Church. Since then we have grown and our members include all denominations now."

Among some of the outings the club has Gunster listed several trips and cruises.

"A great many of our members are much older than what the name implies," Gunster added. "In fact, we sometimes refer to it as the "Way over 50 Club."

While the group has been holding regular Wednesday dances at the Civic Center, it was announced that the events will stop during the months of July and August. They will resume each Wednesday as of September 15.

imminent, or when litigation is not imminent but resolution of an issue has nevertheless not been reached and is unlikely through informal negotiations."

In addition to resolving disputes between government bodies, the plan would also allow any participating jurisdiction to convene facilitated intergovernmental negotiations to resolve a conflict at the staff level.

Lake Mary has had, in years past, disputes between several department heads which may have been more easily resolved through an agreement such as this.

Mostly however, it involves methods to be used in mediation, who would be used as an outside facilitator when required, and establishes strict steps regarding time periods during which various steps could be taken, to avoid long, dragged-out negotiations or conflicts.

The matter was to be brought to the Lake Mary City Commission for initial consideration during the May 8 meeting, Commissioner A.R. "Doc" Jore is the Lake Mary representative to CALNO.

The proposal was tabled at that time however, pending input from City Attorney Ned Julian who was unable to attend the meeting.

If the commissioners agree to the substance of the agreement and has no objections to the wording or intent, City Manager John Litton is recommending approval and the granting of the Mayor to execute the document once other government entities have examined the document and made similar acceptances.

The CALNO plan is scheduled for the agenda of the regular meeting of the city commission, in the commission chambers of Lake Mary City Hall, beginning at 7 p.m., Thursday, May 20.

nation and the rates of breast cancer in that nation, she said. There also have been studies that show migrating women soon adopted the breast cancer rates of their new country.

But London said the association between vegetable fats and breast cancer was not borne out in the new study.

For the study, researchers took samples of adipose cells from female volunteers. These are cells that store fat for up to two years after it is consumed and forms a record of the relative amounts of different types of fats that a person eats, said London.

Adipose specimens were taken from 280 women with breast cancer, 174 with benign breast disease and 297 women with no such disease. The specimens were then analyzed for the proportions of various types of fats.

London said the results showed that women with elevated levels of the vegetable fats were at no greater risk for either breast cancer or for proliferative benign breast disease, a condition that often precedes breast cancer.

Results based on the adipose studies are much more reliable than some dietary studies that depend upon patients recalling what and how much they ate in the past, she said.

Lawmakers split on a new kind of first lady

By KAREN BALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Hillary Rodham Clinton gets rave reviews on Capitol Hill for political savvy and command of detail. But some wonder if her health care meetings aren't a bit superficial, given the kid-glove treatment she gets as first lady and the lack of specifics she provides.

"How do you strongly disagree with the president's wife?" says Sen. Dan Coats, R-Ind. He says her first lady status has dampened the normal give-and-take between Congress and the White House. "Nobody gets ticked off. They don't raise their voice. They don't challenge her."

That's one way to make policy, Coats says. But Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., brushes aside such complaints, saying lawmakers have been surprised by just how well prepared Mrs. Clinton is as she seeks support for sweeping changes in the nation's health care system.

She knows what we call the hot buttons with each senator," says Pryor, a longtime political friend of the first family. "It's not like she's having her mail read for her. I think people are just kind of in awe of this superwoman. They're not used to it."

Mrs. Clinton complimented Sen. Tom Daschle, D-S.D., for example, on his newspaper article on the hidden costs of health care. And she was lavish in her praise for Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan's letter to the White House on the problem of mental patients who have been turned out into the streets.

This about-blend of high policy and political blarney can't hurt Mrs. Clinton in her role as the administration's top health lobbyist.

And superwoman or superficial, she does seem to inspire fear awe in 16 Republicans and Democrats alike, with both her smarts and knowledge of the health care issue.

But critics are quick to add that in describing her developing health care package, she paints with a fairly broad brush.

"I think she's extremely capable," said Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa. "But when you get down to making decisions, and getting to the bone, you can only ask surface questions."

Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., said one part of the problem is that senators take up much of the time at health care meetings discussing their own agendas. Mrs. Clinton shows extreme "patience and endurance" in letting them talk to their heart's content, says Kassebaum.

"My disappointment is, it's hard to get give and take," she says. "Every meeting I've been to, people want to tell her what they think."

Since taking on the health care assignment, Mrs. Clinton has come to Capitol Hill frequently to confer with congressional leaders and rank-and-file lawmakers alike. Republicans, while publicly respectful, have at times snickered privately, stressing the public relations side of the first lady's high-profile arrivals and departures.

Some Democrats suggest, though, that if the atmosphere in the meetings has not quite cracked with electricity, that may be because critics can be intimidated by Mrs. Clinton's command of the issue.

"Sure, she's the president's wife and you've got that," said Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa. "But if people have been muted, it's because they know she knows more than they do. Besides, everyone feels like there's plenty of time for throwing hand grenades later."

For all the eyebrows that shot up when Clinton named his wife to head his health care task force, Mrs. Clinton has turned many congressional doubters into believers.

They're impressed with her energy, intelligence and patience. Perhaps most of all, they say her straightforward style is refreshing.

English-only ordinance repealed

By KAREN TESTA
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — The new political order in South Florida took its clearest shape yet when Dade County's governing body nearly halved of it. Hispanic repealed an English-only ordinance enacted after the 1980 Mariel boatlift.

"What we are doing today is building a more just society in Miami," said Maurice Ferré, a Dade County Commissioner member who is Puerto Rican.

The unanimous vote Tuesday came after a raucous five-hour hearing in which opposing sides belted out competing renditions of the Cuban national anthem and "God Bless America."

The Mariel boatlift, which brought 125,000 Cubans to the United States, severely strained Dade County social services and crime in South Florida increased, prompting the English-only campaign. The policy, passed by referendum, barred the county from utilizing any language other than English or promoting any culture other than that of the United States.

Although emergency safety and voting materials such as ballots were exempted from the ordinance, all other county publications had to be printed in English and county business — including hearings and conversations between commissioners and constituents — had to be conducted in English.

With the repeal of the ordinance, transportation information can be printed in multiple languages, as can information about such topics as AIDS, child abuse and trade. Also, the county can hire interpreters for public meetings.

Dade County has changed dramatically since the ordinance was passed 13 years ago. In 1980, its population was one-third Hispanic and the commission was mostly white.

Today, more than half of Dade's 2 million-plus residents speak Spanish, and the 13-member commission elected last month under an overhaul ordered by a federal judge has six Hispanic, four black and three white members.

"We can't turn the clock back," Commissioner Betty Ferguson said. "Time marches on, and it's time to declare Dade County multilingual and multicultural."

Supporters of the English-only ordinance argued that repeal would be insulting, unpatriotic and expensive. Many said they were angry at the large number of Latin Americans who have moved to Florida since Fidel Castro took power.

Never has there been another ethnic group coming to this country that has required 33 years to learn the English language," said Dorothy Bornstein of Miami.

James Jones of Hialeah, a supporter of the English-only ordinance, said repeal should be left to the voters. "Something that came by referendum should have left by referendum," he said.

Warren adds to Limited Late Model lead with 13th win

By PAUL MARABELLA
Special to the Herald

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Current Limited Late Model PASCAR points leader Jacob Warren held off a charging Michael Williams to win the 13th win of the season Saturday night, May 15, at New Smyrna Speedway.

At the drop of the green flag, Williams took the early lead and pulled to a four-car advantage over the rest of the field.

Warren started the race from the sixth position and drove into second place by the fourth lap. After three laps of close quarter racing with Williams, Warren took the lead by the fifth lap.

Because of several caution flags that bunched the field for new restarts, Warren edged ahead of Williams by a few inches.

"The car wasn't great tonight," said the 21-year-old Warren. "I think I had an attitude problem. It wouldn't go where I wanted it to. I knew I had to get to the front early, keep Michael (Williams) in sight, and stay out of trouble if I was to be in the race at the end."

After each of the three caution periods, Warren and Williams restarted the race side by side with Warren taking the advantage after each new green flag.

"We have a real good car but not enough motor," said 23-year-old Williams. "I don't have a lot of money, so we're a low-budget operation. We just come out every week and run the best with what we have."

On lap eight, John Willis blew an engine and the car immediately erupted into a ball of fire as it ate the outer retaining wall. The car received extensive damage but Willis was not injured.

"Everything happened so quickly," said Willis. "The engine blew and then the wall of the retaining wall came back and I was in the car."

Warren, who has been racing for less than a year, now has 13 wins in the season. He is currently the division points leader at both New Smyrna Speedway and Orlando Speedway.

"I'm where I'm at because of a lot of people," said Warren. "I have to thank Leroy Porter, Dennis Boyd, James Hall, and my crew, Darren and David."

Greg Froemming was the dominant force in the Late Model feature event until an accident with nine laps to go dashed his hopes for a victory.

After minor repairs, Froemming took up the hunt and came back with a sixth-place finish.

"We really had the race going our way tonight," said Froemming, who is winless at the New Smyrna Beach speedway.

Warren was in charge all night long. Even on the restarts, he could pull away from the rest of the field.

On the restart following Froemming and Rogers' tangle,

Restart launches Peters to Limited win

By PAUL MARABELLA
Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — With two laps to go, Winter Park's Tommy Peters got by Jacob Warren to take the lead and went on to victory in the Limited Late Model feature race Friday night, May 14, at Orlando Speedway.

Timmy Todd dominated the first 13 laps of the 15-lap event but lost his engine coming out of turn two with two laps to go.

After the race was halted to clean up the track, Peters and Warren took the green flag on the restart. Peters jumping to the advantage, a last-lap charge by Warren came up short as Peters took the checkers by two car lengths.

"This is my first feature win," said Peters, who recently moved up from the Bomber division. "I was really nervous, but I started to get loose and I really had to work to keep it on the track."

On the restart, I was worrying about Jacob (Warren) getting by me. When the flag dropped, I got a good start and just tried to concentrate on what I had to do and ran my own race."

Trailing the lead duo across the stripe were Mike Brando, Mike Lieberman, and Mark Miller.

Jack Cook dominated the Late Model feature event until he got caught up in lapped traffic with five laps to go. While attempting to get by slower cars, Wayne Anderson took a low groove and got by Cook for the lead.

The following lap, Cook and Anderson tangled with Anderson spinning onto the infield.

On the restart, Anderson regained the lead and raced to his eighth win of the season. Cook took the flag for the runner-up spot, only to make contact with the outside retaining wall and the third-place car of Scott Bramlett.

Wayne Akers finished fourth while Fred Strube came in fifth.

Mike Hughes went green flag to checkers to win the Bomber main event. Finishing format was changed to take the winners and runners-up from each division and put them in a one-game playoff to determine the City Championship Series contenders.

Monday afternoon, the National Division champion Cardinals (13-0-1) and the National Division runner-up, the Royal Club Royals, 13-9, and the Expos rounded up the American Division champion Kiwanis Club Orioles, 24-5.

The series will have a couple of interesting twists, as the Cardinals, managed by Otis Rutnes, will be looking for their third straight city crown since the league was changed from the Florida Junior Major Baseball

Enjoy nutritious goodness of salmon wrapped in a tortilla laced with spices and salsa

Salmon stars in Tex-Mex dish

It's been a long day, and you have neither the time nor the inclination to stand in the kitchen and cook a full-fledged dinner, yet you do not want to subject your family to the standard choices of spaghetti or a ready-made microwave meal. You want something different, and something healthy.

"Speed scratch cooking" is the name of the game — a meal assembled from healthy "scratch" ingredients in double-quick time. After all, a nourishing and tasty dinner need not take hours of fussing in the kitchen to create. This one is a spicy Tex-Mex salmon concoction that will have your taste buds tingling.

Salmon is generally perceived as a "stand alone" dish — either baked or grilled. But as this "Lone Star" dish will show, salmon lends itself easily to a variety of spicy combinations. The ingredients — bought at the supermarket and stored, or procured at short notice from the refrigerator can be assembled in a jiffy. They do not contain artificial flavorings or preservatives. And this easy to prepare dish, which uses a boneless, skinless salmon fillet, is an ideal meal for the entire family.

SALMON IN TORTILLAS WITH SALSA CREAM AND AVOCADO
(Serves 4)

3/4 cup prepared salsa, medium or spicy, depending on taste
3/4 cup diced fresh tomato
3/4 cup peeled, seeded and diced cucumber
3/4 cup sour cream
1 1/2 lbs. skinless salmon fillet
1 ripe avocado
4 oz. sprouts of choice (radish, alfalfa, onion, etc.)
4 flour tortillas (approx. 9 in.)
1 packet fresh salsa spices

Preheat the oven to 425°. Wrap the tortillas in foil. To make the salsa cream, combine the salsa, tomato, cucumber, and sour cream. Season with salt and pepper, if desired. Cut the salmon fillet into four equal portions and arrange in a baking dish. Brush the salmon with oil, and sprinkle generously with the salsa spices (you will not use the whole envelope.)

Put the salmon and the wrapped tortillas in the preheated oven. Cook until the salmon is done. The cooking time may be determined by using the rule of 10 minutes of cooking time for every inch of the fillet's thickness — e.g., a fillet that is 3/4 of an inch thick would cook for 7 1/2 minutes. While the salmon is baking, peel, pit and slice the avocado. Set aside. When the salmon is done, unwrap the warm tortillas and lay them out on plates. Arrange one portion of salmon on each tortilla, top it with a generous spoonful of the salsa cream, followed by the sliced avocado and a small handful of sprouts. Fold the tortillas over the filling, and serve with the extra salsa cream on the side.

I got good grades and never got into any serious trouble. I never got close enough to a boy long enough to get pregnant. I'm not saying kids should get hit every day in the week, but when they deserve it, they should get it — but good!

I am now married and expecting my first child, and I plan to discipline my child the way I was. I wouldn't ever abuse my child, but there's nothing wrong with a good smack across the cheek if a child calls a parent a dirty name.

New mom gives her hand to old-fashioned discipline

DEAR ABBY: I am a faithful reader and usually keep my opinions to myself, but that letter from "Sad Dad" really got to me, so I am writing to make myself feel better.

First of all, just look at the children of today. They need more discipline than just a good "talking to."

When I was young, I talked back to my mother just once, and I was promptly backhanded across the face, and I never did it again.

My parents were not divorced like at least half the parents are today — so I couldn't run to the other parent who would make me feel like I did nothing wrong. The only thing my parents agreed upon was disciplining me. I was belted, backhanded and whatever it took to keep me in line.

I got good grades and never got into any serious trouble. I never got close enough to a boy honesty, but you and I part company when it comes to "disciplining" a child.

DEAR ABBY: I guess this is a good time to bring this up, since some people are starting to keep notes for their annual "newsletter" to enclose with their Christmas cards. I hate those newsletters, and so do most of my friends.

They are not personal, and most of the people they are talking about are no one you ever heard of. Besides, it is not exactly cheery to read all the bad news they send you, such as, "Merry Christmas — my husband died last August."

Abby, with this year's Christmas cards, I got the following news:
Husbands' deaths...two Mothers' deaths...three Operations...four
Very sick...five
Terminal...three

President's potato pie

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Sweet potato pie, a Bill Clinton favorite, doesn't have to be a fatty, calorie-laden treat. First, the standard recipe, then a healthier version provided by the Rodale Food Center:

Sweet Potato Pie Standard Recipe

Pastry dough for deep 9-inch pie crust

- 3 well-beaten eggs
- 2 cups mashed cooked sweet potatoes
- dash of molasses
- 1 cup brown sugar, or 3/4 cup white sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 3/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 1/4 cups evaporated milk

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Line a pie pan with the pastry dough.

Combine the remaining ingredients in a large bowl and beat until smooth and well blended. Pour into the lined pan.

Bake 15 minutes, then reduce the heat to 300 degrees, and bake for about 30 minutes longer until the filling is firm. Remove from oven and let cool on a wire rack.

Diagnosing, treating nodules on thyroid

DEAR DR. GOTT: What causes nodules on the thyroid to appear and what is the appropriate treatment?
DEAR READER: There are four fundamental types of thyroid nodules: cancer, benign growths, cysts and hyper-functioning nodules. No one knows why these lesions form.

Thyroid cancer often begins as a hard lump that can be felt in the thyroid gland, low in the neck. The tumor is diagnosed by needle biopsy and treated with surgery.

Benign growths also form lumps but, on biopsy, they are found to contain normal thyroid tissue. In most cases, no treatment is required -- although if the lumps are large and unsightly, doctors often prescribe thyroid supplement pills to shrink them.

Cysts are fluid-filled bumps that are not a threat to health. Previously diagnosed by thyroid ultrasound examination (which shows the fluid), most authorities now recommend needle biopsy because some cancers are associated with these cysts. At the time of the biopsy, the cysts can be drained. Patients usually take thyroid supplements to prevent reaccumulation of the fluid.

Hyper-functioning nodules produce too much thyroid hormone, leading to hyperthyroidism: nervousness, weight loss and tremulousness. They are diagnosed by a radioactive thyroid scan, which documents the over-activity. These nodules are never cancerous and are treated with radioactive iodine therapy or surgical excision.

Family physicians can diagnose and treat thyroid nodules, using specialists, as needed.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Perhaps you know the mathematical trick by which it is apparently possible to prove that one equals zero. The snag is that during the "proof," you divide by zero, which is, of course, impossible. You can take nothing from something an infinite number of times.

But Houghton Mifflin has shown that two can equal one by publishing a book that is two-in-one. It is called "Blocking, Unblock and Safety Plays in Bridge" ($10.45, The Bridge World, 39 West 94th Street, New York, NY 10025-7124). It is a combination of two short books, "Blocking and Unblock Plays in Bridge" and "Safety Plays in Bridge," by Englishman Terence Reese and Frenchman Roger Trezel.

Today's deal comes from the first half of the book.

Playing in three no-trump, you have eight top tricks: one spade, three hearts and four diamonds. The ninth trick is available in clubs, but you must lose the lead once, and perhaps when the opponents win with the club ace, they can cash enough spade tricks to defeat you.

The immediate reaction is to hold up the spade ace for one round, but you should consider the situation analytically, not intuitively.

If the spades are 4-3, you are in no danger. So assume they are 5-2. This means that East has K-x or Q-x of spades. (If East has two low spades, West would have K-Q-J-x and surely would have led the king.) You can block the suit by winning immediately with dummy's ace. But suppose you hold up the ace; then you will go down if the suit is 5-2 and West has the club ace.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bada Osof
YOUR BIRTHDAY
 May 20, 1993

Solid achievements are possible in the year ahead if you're willing to change tactics and procedures that have proven to be unproductive. The adjustments might be a bit trying, but they'll be worth it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Difficult objectives can be achieved today, provided you have adequate staying power. Don't flee from the kitchen when it starts heating up. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 4485, New York, NY 10163.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do not jump to conclusions today, especially if you don't have all of the facts at your disposal. Conditions are likely to be representative of early assessments.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Make it your policy today to focus on your own affairs. There's a chance you could inherit someone else's problem if you stick your nose in another's business.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) People whom you'd least expect to help could be the ones who do the most for you today. Don't collapse if the people on whom you're counting don't come through for you. Others will.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The resentment you're harboring against a co-worker could be predicated upon a faulty assumption. Don't rush to judgment today in this instance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Things you're better equipped to take care of yourself should not be delegated to others today. Your chances of having them done properly aren't good.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Just because you've gotten away with it before, don't try to push your mate to extremes today. If you do, the rubber band may snap and you may regret your actions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If confusion prevails in your work today, it might be due to faulty information you've been given. Go back to your original source and do a recheck.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be held accountable today for any fund entrusted to your care. Make sure your spending mode is in accord with the wishes of those whom you represent.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Avoid associating with individuals today who band together as a means to hold away over others. This arrangement could take on serious overtones that you'd rather not be involved in.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't base critical decisions today on conclusions that you've drawn from the past. Look for new sources of validation in order to better understand a present situation.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try to minimize financial involvements with friends today, because this is a critical area where complications could erupt. These events could be precipitated by either you or a pal.
