

Hellman Portrait To Air On PBS

By RUTH THOMPSON
The movie "Julia" covered only one phase of playwright Lillian Hellman's life, but it has often been suggested that she should have a more complete life story told on television. Beginning this week is a five-part production by KERA-TV in Dallas for PBS titled, "Portrait of Lillian Hellman." Miss Hellman never seems where her play was to open. The powerful lady with the pen said no and the play's producers are looking for a more compact Broadway house.

"The Little Foxes," co-starring Maureen Stapleton, is currently being performed in Washington, D.C., before its May 7 Broadway run. You can get a personal glimpse of Lillian Hellman on "Portrait of Lillian Hellman."

The playwright was happy until she discovered that the huge Winter Garden in New York would be the theater

Sheriff Wants To Put Jail Inmates To Work

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Talk about killing two birds with one stone. Seminole County Sheriff John Polk thinks he has found a way to cure, 1) his problem of overcrowding at the county jail, and 2) the local manpower shortage resulting from cutbacks in a federal jobs program — put prisoners to work.

The idea has gotten tentative approval from Circuit Judges Kenneth Leffler and Joseph Davis Jr. as well as the county commission. All that remains is to work out the details of how many prisoners could be used in the work-release program and what type of jobs they would perform.

Polk is to meet with Leffler, Davis and commissioners Sandra Glenn and Bob Sturm sometime this month to discuss those matters.

The sheriff's proposal is a partial response to severe overcrowding at the jail, a situation which has gotten so bad that many inmates are forced to sleep on mattresses on the floor. Things become even more acute Friday through Sunday when an average of 30-35, sometimes as many as 45, people show up to serve weekend sentences.

As a result of the overcrowding, Polk has asked the commission to enlarge the 225-bed jail, less than a year after the $4.9 million facility opened its doors. He wants a 100-bed dormitory-style addition that would house persons serving weekend sentences, trustees, and other minimum security prisoners. Pricetag for the project has not been determined.

Although the sheriff said his plan would "ease a bad situation, it won't solve it. We'll still have too many prisoners. We'll still need the jail expanded."

While Polk's primary objective is to reduce the inmate population at the jail, "I've always been an advocate of making a person serving time actually serve time. A lot of them out here just sit around and watch TV. I figured with the county losing a lot of its CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) people, we could use prisoners to fill the gap."

Fourteen CETA workers will be losing their federally-funded jobs April 30 as a result of budget cuts by the Reagan administration. Another 10 CETA employees will work their last day June 30.

As proposed, Polk's plan calls for weekend prisoners to spend Friday night in jail, then report for work at a selected job site the next morning at 8 and work until 4 p.m. They would be allowed to spend Saturday night at home and report for a full day's work again Sunday morning.

"They could do any number of things," Polk said. "They could work for the parks and recreation folks cutting grass, trimming hedges, repairing fences. They could do custodial work or routine maintenance."

"During the week, we could use trustees to maybe work in the road department, or the garbage loading stations," he said. "Instead of just sitting around, these guys could do something useful and get 'good time' off," up to 11 days per month of their sentence. For example, a hard-working trustee who is serving a three-month sentence could qualify for release as much as 33 days early, the sheriff said.

Ominous New Reports

Soviet Military Circles Poland

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Despite settlement of the last labor dispute, the Soviets unleashed a new propaganda barrage against Polish dissidents and ominous new reports circulated of a rapid increase in Soviet military readiness in and around Poland.

The State Department said Friday that Soviet military activity around Poland has climbed to "unusual levels," which gave the Kremlin the capacity to intervene at any moment.

The White House said President Reagan was briefed on Poland in his hospital room and the State Department repeated that Soviet intervention in Poland would have "the gravest consequences for East-West relations."

Meanwhile, Poland's parliament Saturday postponed a scheduled Monday session because Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski is "indisposed," the official PAP news agency said.

The news agency said the session was put off until Friday because of the "temporary indisposition of the prime minister." It did not elaborate.

CBS News reported Friday that U.S. intelligence "has now picked up the start of a Soviet military airlift into southwest Poland. Sources say large Soviet airplanes have been landing today at Lignica military air base, presumably to deliver helicopters and other large equipment."

In Washington, State Department and Pentagon officials had no immediate comment on the report.

The Boston Globe, quoting high-placed government sources, reported in its editions Saturday that the Soviets were rapidly readying 12 to 15 army divisions for movement near the Polish border.

This followed a warning by Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, who was preparing to leave for a tour of NATO countries, that the danger of Soviet intervention had increased since the Solidarity labor coalition called off a nationwide strike last Tuesday.

The new Soviet moves came even though the Independent Solidarity union announced it had canceled a strike alert in the north central province of Bydgoszcz, the only place the alert had been continued since the union and the government reached an agreement Monday averting a planned general strike across Poland.

The Bydgoszcz alert was lifted after a government delegation arrived for talks with private farmers demanding the right to unionize. That issue led to an incident in Bydgoszcz March 19, when police assaulted and badly beat a group of unionists, touching off the latest crisis.

In Moscow, the official newspaper Pravda conceded labor calm had returned to Poland but accused Solidarity of waging a "struggle against the party and the state" for control of the government.

LIFT THAT BAG, TOTE THAT TIRE

Tim Ageier, 9, struggles with a bag of broken glass while Tim Hogan, 9, drags away the remains of an old tire Saturday morning as members of Cub Scout Pack 628 of Winter Springs pitch in to clean up the area around the flowing well in Spring Hammock. The well is used as a water supply by many area residents as well as travelers along Highway 17-92. Seminole County forester Mike Martin arranged the project to rid the county of its "worst eyesore."

Reagan Budget Shifts To House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House budget writers envision a budget package close to the one pushed by President Reagan, but with more funds for social programs and a little less for defense.

The House Budget Committee will begin drafting a budget resolution Monday, three days after the Senate approved Reagan's requested $36.9 billion in spending cuts for the next fiscal year.

Chairman James Jones, D-Okla., held private meetings with committee Democrats Thursday and Friday aimed at reaching a consensus on spending reductions.

Although Jones was still working on the package he will recommend Monday, he said it will include a $600 million Pentagon reduction that would come from cutting waste. The Senate made no reduction in military spending.

Interviews with committee members indicated Democrats will try to restore some funds for nutrition, education, health and energy programs.

But Rep. Delbert Latta of Ohio, ranking Republican on the committee, has said his party members are "solidly" behind the Reagan package and are not inclined to support anything less.

"The bottom line is they can't support anything other than Reagan," said Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif.

'Goodies' Swap Delights Students

They sent a box of oranges to their new friends and got back a can of dog food. But Josie Yeisley's fifth grade class at Geneva Elementary School considered the can of Alpo and other items they received last week a fair exchange.

The class has been corresponding with another class of fifth graders in Crete, Neb., since last October. The two classes were matched up—both are in small, rural towns—as pen pals through the Weekly Reader Writing Pals program.

After exchanges of letters, Mrs. Yeisley's class in Geneva sent a box of Florida citrus—oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, lemons—to Jan Morgan's class at Crete Elementary School in January as a sample of Geneva's industry.

Last week, Mrs. Morgan's class sent the box back to Geneva, but filled with items representative of Crete and Nebraska.

Along with the dog food (there is an Alpo plant in Crete), came packages of grains from Crete Mills (bulgar wheat, soy bulgar, corn flour, corn meal, corn soya milk, brewer's grits, corn kibbles, corn flakes, export feed) with pictures of the mills; a University of Nebraska Cornhuskers cup; pencils from Farmland plant in Crete; matches from the local bank; copies of the Crete High School and "Crete News" newspapers; soybeans, potatoes, radishes, an apple, and popcorn—all Nebraskan produce; maps; a picture of the state champion Crete High School girls basketball team; and, for the teacher, a set of steak knives from the Farmland plant.

Though one group of children knows orange groves, palm trees, tourists and sunshine, while the other knows cornfields, college football and snow, matched grade by grade and town size for town size, they are learning they have much in common though separated by hundreds of miles.

"It's been a great stimulant for writing," Mrs. Yeisley said. "This is the best class of letter writers I've ever had."

Besides the knowledge of how other Americans live, Mrs. Yeisley is particularly pleased with the enthusiasm for letter writing that the cultural exchange has brought out in her students.

"It's been a great stimulant for writing," Mrs. Yeisley said. "This is the best class of letter writers I've ever had."

When letters did arrive the day after the package, "they couldn't wait until they were handed out," Yeisley said.

Each of the students have one pen pal they exchange letters with regularly. Mrs. Yeisley said one student was a little disappointed after writing a long letter of several pages, then only receiving a very short one in return, but she told him to write back and encourage his pen pal to write more.

Three other classes at Geneva are also corresponding with schools in other small towns across the country. Peggy Packard's fourth graders have exchanged pictures and letters of themselves and their communities with a fourth grade class in La Farge, Wis. The third graders in Joanne Wilson's class have exchanged letters, pictures, Christmas and Valentine cards with a third grade class in Minot, N.D.

Pam Ashby's fourth grade class went a step further with a class of fourth graders in Eyota, Minn. They have been sending cassette tapes back and forth along with pictures. Each student in both classes wrote reports on some aspect of their town or state, then each made five minute recording on the tapes. Mrs. Ashby's class plans next to give first hand accounts of the space shuttle on the next tape and will include a recording of "Blast Off, Columbia," a country music song written by Jerry Rucker, the father of one of Mrs. Ashby's students.

In time, the classes may exchange marigolds—each class receives a package of marigold seeds to plant along with the name of their new pen pals. Marigolds are the symbol of friendship.

In this box, fourth graders in Crete, Neb., sent grains, fruit, vegetables, newspapers, photographs and a can of dog food to represent their town, after receiving citrus fruits from Geneva students.

An impossible dream? Not at all. Men have already gone to the moon and women will follow. This girl, if she really wants to, may be one of them.

If she really wants to. That word "really" is often the key to success. It may take hard work, courage and time, but if a person really wants to achieve, the chance is that they will.

Don't you think there must be a reason for it?

More Evidence On Shroud Presented

TURIN, Italy (UPI)—One of the scientists who conducted tests on the cloth believed by many Roman Catholics to be the burial shroud of Jesus Christ says he has evidence proving it is not a fake and could date back 2,000 years.

Swiss criminologist Max Frei, who along with 24 other scientists conducted a five-day series of tests on the shroud in 1978, presented his findings to Cardinal Anastasio Ballestrero, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Turin, Wednesday and they were reported in Italian newspapers today.

The report said the pollen found on the cloth was more than 500 years old, indicating it was imbedded in the shroud before it was brought to Europe by the crusaders. Frei concluded from pollen tests that the shroud was made in the area of the southeastern Mediterranean Sea.
