

Summary Is Made Of 2 Candidates' Positions On Issues Of Campaign

By CHARLES F. BARRETT
WASHINGTON (AP) — A capsule summary of views expressed by Dwight D. Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson on major issues:

KOREA

Eisenhower — Dangling by Truman administration led to Communist aggression; that made decision to intervene inescapable. South Koreans should be trained to man the front lines, reducing U. S. losses. The Democrats can't be counted on to find a solution. Eisenhower will go to Korea personally to see what should be done toward ending the war.

Stevenson — The decision to intervene may be a turning point in history, preventing a bigger war. Republicans have wavered between reckless calls to expand the Korean war and weak-kneed moves to quit the U. S. for many months already. He has been doing all it can to train South Koreans and put them in the line. Stevenson will not make false promises of an easy way out even if it costs him the election.

CORRUPTION

Eisenhower — There has been corruption involving a minute fraction of federal employees, and many of the cases have been exposed by Democrats. Stevenson could do a better job fighting dishonesty because he has learned as governor of Illinois how to wield the axe on both parties.

Stevenson — Venality and outright theft of the people's money has been staggering. Much worse, the administration has consistently condoned corruption. No man who owns his election in any degree to the administration can clean up. He would rather be defeated than be elected by men who have lost their morals.

COMMUNISM

Eisenhower — Communists have plundered the U. S. of highest diplomatic and military secrets. It is time to clean out a leadership that has failed to see Communists slipping into vital government offices, that has been complacent and has tolerated Russian spies.

Stevenson — He would deal more handsomely with Communists. Eisenhower clamors loudly but what would he do? Would he fire FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and other security officials, who have infiltrated the innermost ranks of the Communist party and exposed one conspirator after another?

MCCARTHY

Eisenhower — Eisenhower seems to have embraced or been embraced by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), defamer of Gen. George C. Marshall, "champion of slander." A few "pettlers of hate" would not be important if they had not been included in the leadership of Eisenhower's campaign. All his talk, McCarthy has yet to uncover evidence leading to conviction of a single Communist agent.

Stevenson — He supports McCarthy as a member of the Republican organization. He and McCarthy have the same goal of riding the government of the subversive and disloyal, but they differ on method. Eisenhower will never approve unjust damaging of reputation. He has no patience with anyone who criticizes Marshall, a great patriot.

"SURRENDERERS"

Eisenhower — Stevenson has been taken over body, boots and breeches by the Truman administration and stands revealed today as a captive candidate. The Democrats offer not a change of heart but only a change of face.

Stevenson — The biggest fact in the pre-election picture is that Eisenhower has surrendered to Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and the Republican Old Guard, a team of isolationists and reactionaries who have opposed progress at home and abroad for 20 years.

CIVIL RIGHTS

Eisenhower — He has been very much impressed by a bill in Congress to set up a federal commission to promote fair employment practices, to act only if states themselves do not take proper steps against discrimination. He would support a move to change congressional rules to stop ceaseless debate. (Fillbusters have been used in block civil rights bills in the past).

Stevenson — The gravest charge against the Truman administration may be shoddy cheap politics in the field of human rights. Women have been left uncorrected to win votes in election after election. He would end segregation in the District of Columbia, which the Truman administration did not do. He would exert leadership to persuade the states to end job discrimination without federal compulsion, an impossible handle.

ORGANIZED LABOR

Eisenhower — He would not repeal but would favor amending the Taft-Hartley Act. The law could be used to break unions, and that must be changed. Stevenson wants compulsory arbitration or seizure power. Eisenhower rejects compulsion on grounds the right of men to leave their jobs is a test of freedom.

Stevenson — The Taft-Hartley Act has not improved labor relations and must be repealed. A substitute law should not attempt a precise formula for all national emergency strikes but should give the President a choice of mediation, continued private negotiation, arbitration or seizure. The right to bargain does not include the right to stop the national economy.

FARM POLICY

Eisenhower — Farmers have been helped to their present prosperity by Democratic programs such as price supports, soil conservation, flood control, rural electrification, research. Democrats will keep price supports at 90 per cent of parity. Although Eisenhower also endorses 90 per cent supports, Sen. Taft opposes them and Republicans have again and again voted against farm programs in past years.

Stevenson — He and the Republican party will continue 90 per cent supports. Accusations to the contrary are false. Republicans will halt the trend toward regimentation of farmers by Washington and seek farmer participation and cooperation. Democratic politicians have used farm programs to win votes.

Inflation

Eisenhower — Inflation is a policy of the present administration, designed to fool the people by giving them more money than it is worth. Controls over prices are weak stopgaps. The administration has ignored really effective inflation controls over money and credit.

Stevenson — The Republican Old Guard is the best friend of inflation ever had. It voted against price controls. We have inflation today because the Kremlin started the Korean War. Stevenson favors control by direct ceilings, when needed, credit and monetary policies, and a pay-as-we-go budget if possible.

TAXES-SPENDING

Eisenhower — The U. S. must press forward with religious fervor to try to reduce spending and taxes. But the budget should be reduced only as national security permits. Cuts of tens of billions would be like disbanding the Army, renouncing friends abroad and crawling in a cave to await destruction.

Stevenson — The present expenditure program is reckless and extravagant to the point of sheer folly. Democrats are sane and self-satisfied and complacently say nothing much can be done. Republicans say big savings are possible without reducing defensive power. (Sen. Taft, in a statement he said was approved by Eisenhower, said 10 billion could be cut next year and another 10 billion the following year.)

RESEARCH ASSISTANT W. D. McCloskey holds one of the available chimpanzees at the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., that was used during experiments with polio virus. The University has just announced that six children have been vaccinated against the three recognized forms of polio, the first humans ever to receive such treatment against the dreaded disease. The vaccine used to inoculate the children was made from the spinal cords of monkeys. (International)

SEMINOLE COUNTY DEMOCRATS FOR EISENHOWER

LISTEN TO GOV. JIMMY BYRNES OF SOUTH CAROLINA TONIGHT OVER WTRR 8:00 P. M.

Was This Trip Necessary?

These days, all Americans are asking themselves:
"Did we have to get into this Korean mess?"
"Couldn't it have been stopped early in the game?"
And parents of draft-age sons are asking themselves:
"Is my son paying for Administration bungling in our foreign policy?"
Questions like these deserve answers—demand answers. If the Administration can't reply frankly—to your satisfaction—it certainly doesn't deserve your confidence. And this November, it surely doesn't deserve your vote!
Of course, the State Department has tried to explain. But if you're still not satisfied with their story, it's time to turn somewhere else—to someone else. It's time to listen to Dwight D. Eisenhower.
And here are Ike's own words on the reasons behind the Korea mess:

- "Why are we at war in Korea?"
- "We are in that war because this Administration grossly underestimated the actual threat."
- "We are in that war because this Administration allowed America, in a time when strength was needed, to become weak. Consequently it felt impelled to take its forces out of that region."
- "We are in that war because, having helped set up the Korean Republic, and knowing that strength was being massed against that Republic north of its borders, there was a failure to build up adequate strength in Korea's own defense forces."
- "We are in that war because this Administration abandoned China to the Communists."
- "We are in that war because this Administration announced to all the world that it had written off most of the Far East as beyond our direct concern."

EISENHOWER WINS

Seminole Freeholders Approve Hospital Bonds

General Eisenhower Carries Every Precinct In County Except 2 Of Them

Dwight D. Eisenhower carried Seminole County in his race for president by a majority of 1426, or about 4 1/2 to 3 and won every precinct in the county except two, Sanford No. 1, and Chuluota. The Herald's unofficial returns showed the vote was 4401 for Eisenhower, 2981 for Stevenson.

An overwhelming majority was also given by Seminole County freeholders for the hospital bond issue which final returns showed was leading by about five to one and which was approved in every precinct except three, Chuluota, Goldenrod, and Oviado, the last of which split 127 to 127 on the issue.

Also approved by Seminole County voters was the county zoning act submitted to them in the form of a referendum. The act was approved by a vote of 1984 to 1523 in Sanford, and in the county as a whole by 2773 to 2324. The rural precincts voted against it by 789 to 801.

Dan McCarthy won a five to one victory over his Republican opponent, Harry S. Swan, in this county, receiving 5261 votes to 1072 in the Herald's unofficial tabulation. McCarthy carried every precinct in the county.

Though Eisenhower lost Sanford precinct No. 1, he carried Precinct No. 3 by 1051 to 610 for Governor Stevenson, and also Precinct No. 15 (the new Sanford precinct) 1093 to 800. His total vote in the city was 2473 to 1926, without the absentee ballots included.

The rural precincts he carried by almost two to one, or 1933 to 1025. His best vote was in Lake Mary where he received 920 to 95 and in Slavia where he got 45 to 12. His closest vote was in Lake Monroe which Stevenson lost by 128 to 140.

Eisenhower polled 2741 more votes than Governor Dewey in 1948 and 1669 more than both Truman and Thurmond put together four years ago. The vote then was 2264 for Truman, 1165 for Dewey and 1062 for Thurmond.

With 7822 registered freeholders in Seminole County the hospital bond issue carried by 3975 to 874, or between four and five to one. With 3941 votes necessary to make it a valid election, a total of 1448 freeholders marked their ballots, or a margin of 1013.

Seminole freeholders voted for the bond issue by a majority of nearly ten to one, while the county approved it by better than two to one. The vote in the three Sanford precincts was 2848 to 811 in favor of the hospital, while the county voted for it by 1234 to 563.

Sanford Precinct No. 3 gave the hospital a majority of almost 12 to 1 by voting for it by 1232 to 106 while Sanford Precinct No. 15 was not far behind with a vote of 1138 to 131. The hospital made its worth showing in Chuluota which had only one vote for it as compared with 44 against it.

Speer Is Elected Head Of Bar Assn.

George A. Speer Jr., County prosecuting attorney, was elected president of the Seminole County Bar Association last night at an outdoor supper meeting at the residence of G. W. Spencer, immediate past president.

Other officers elected were A. Edwin Shinholser, vice-president, and Karlisle Housholder, secretary-treasurer. All officers were elected to serve one-year terms.

Mr. Spencer, out-going president, was commended by the group upon his efforts in reestablishing the association. Prior to the meeting, the group gathered on the terrace for a chicken barbeque supper. Later they retired to a television set to watch and hear election returns.

FARM CONVENTION AT WINTER PARK

McCarthy (Special)—Doris, will address the eleventh annual Florida Farm Bureau State Convention. It was announced here today.

Mr. McCarthy is slated to speak at 10:40 a.m. Nov. 17, in the Monte Carlo Hotel, Miami Beach, first morning of the two-day convention.

Tom McClean, executive secretary of the big farm organization, said representatives from 15 Florida counties are expected at the convention. He'd like to extend an invitation to the delegates. He said, adding "All meetings are open to anyone who is interested in agriculture."

Wins City Race

J. Denver Cordell (above) emerged as the victor in the race yesterday for the post of City Commissioner. His opponent in the election was Col. J. Chesterson.

Denver Cordell Wins Election To City Commission

Final Count Gives Him 993 Votes To 528 For Chesterson

J. Denver Cordell was elected the new City Commissioner in the municipal election yesterday, receiving a plurality of 465 votes to defeat the other candidate in the race, Col. Paul J. Chesterson.

The final count by City election officials, who wrapped up their duties by 8:30 a.m. yesterday, was 993 votes for Mr. Cordell and 528 votes for Colonel Chesterson. An official canvass of the ballots of the election was conducted at noon today by the City Commission at a special session, and they found the officials' tallies correct.

Mr. Cordell commented today, taking off a few minutes from his busy work in his garage, "I am proud to feel that the people have fit to elect me as City Commissioner."

"I hope that I can serve the people well for three years and that, at the end of that time, they'll have the same faith in me as they do now."

"I have the highest regard for my opponent in the race and he certainly was a gentleman all through the campaign. I'm sure he would have done a swell job if he had been elected City Commissioner."

Mr. Cordell and his wife, Nell, have two sons, Terry, 17, a senior at Seminole High School, and Jimmy, 13, a student of the Junior High School. The family resides at 9826 Elm Avenue.

The newly-elected commissioner came to Sanford in 1926, during which time, except for a break of three years in service in the U. S. Navy, he has been engaged in repair work, for the last seven years with his own business, 402 East Second Street.

The total of 1,522 ballots cast in this year's election fell far short of the 2,693 ballots cast in the municipal race last year. Of this year's total, 90 ballots were spoiled and one ballot was cast for Joe Routh. Some ballots were spotted by voters voting for both candidates on one ballot, according to H. N. Beyer, City Clerk, while others used check marks instead of "X's."

The number of ballots cast in this year's election represented about 48 per cent of the total number of registered voters eligible to vote in the contest, 3,294.

However, Mr. Beyer considered the voting "very good, considering there were just two candidates running for the office and there were no side issues at stake."

The new commissioner will join other members of the Commission Jan. 6 for an organizational meeting, at which the members of the City governing body will elect a mayor from their own group.

Other members of the Commission are Mayor W. H. Stemper, John Kader, both of whom were elected last year and have two years yet to serve, Randall Chase, elected last year and who has one year to serve, and John Levy, who

Coalition Of Voters Gives Florida To Ike

Republicans And Dissident Demos Join Hands For Victory Of Big Proportion

By MALCOLM B. JOHNSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

A coalition of resurgent Republicans and dissident Democrats gave Florida's 10 electoral votes for President to Dwight D. Eisenhower Tuesday.

Returns from 1,375 of the state's 1,684 precincts showed Democrat Adlai Stevenson had 378,473 popular votes to 479,130 for Eisenhower.

It was only the sixth time in 107 years of statehood and the second time since Reconstruction days that Floridians have broken away from their tradition of voting for the Democratic candidate no matter what.

Eisenhower's 55 per cent of the total vote didn't quite match Herbert Hoover's 56.8 per cent in 1928, but it was a much different sort of a victory.

There were no such issues as Catholicism and prohibition, which defeated Al Smith.

This time, Eisenhower supporters built their victory by combining old line Republican votes with those of Democrats who rebelled at such party programs as national health insurance, federal control of interstate oil and federal policing of industry against racial discrimination in employment.

It started four years ago, when President Truman won the state's electoral vote without a majority of the popular vote because 90,000 Democrats turned away from the party but voted for States Rights J. Strom Thurmond in preference to Thomas E. Dewey.

This year, with only the choice between Stevenson and Eisenhower, voters in nearly every county which refused Truman's leadership four years ago went to Eisenhower.

On top of that, they reversed the strong Democratic voting records of populous Dade and Brevard Counties and won both for Eisenhower hands down.

It couldn't be called a Republican victory, really. Eisenhower got four times as many votes as there were registered Republicans. Much of the most effective campaigning was done by organizations which called themselves "Democrats for Eisenhower."

But the Republicans made some important gains in territory where they always have been strongest.

They took over nearly all the local offices in Pinellas and Hardee Counties, sent six men to the State Legislature more than ever sat there at once since carpetbaggers controlled the assembly just after the Civil War and might even come up with a representative to Congress.

Democrat Courtney Campbell, Dunedin, will win lead over Republican William C. Grams, St. Petersburg, for Congress from the First District. It was so close that the counting of more than 7,000 absentee ballots on Friday might swing it to Grams.

Dan McCarthy, Democratic nominee for governor, was elected easily over Harry Swan, Republican.

Democrats won all other positions in the delegation to Congress. They took all other state offices, too, without opposition.

Eisenhower ran up big votes on the East Coast, the West Coast surrounding Tampa Bay and in Central Florida.

Stevenson, as was expected, swept swept North and West Florida with ease. But that section doesn't carry the weight it used to. Dade County alone cast more votes Tuesday than the total number of registered voters in the Sarasota River.

And Dade County, which gave 53 per cent of its votes to Truman in 1948, gave 56 per cent to Eisenhower and sent him off with a majority of 88,000 votes.

Of the 10 biggest counties, only two went to Stevenson. He took Duval by the narrow margin of 4,000 votes 58 per cent. He got 51 per cent in Escambia, but it didn't amount to enough votes to help much.

Eisenhower got 71 per cent of the votes in Pinellas County; 70 per cent in Sarasota, Orange and Lake; and 68 per cent in Broward, 67 in Palm Beach, 68 in Volusia

Amendment For Schools Is Only One To Carry

Seminole Joins In Approving No. 1 Rejecting Others

By The Associated Press
Florida voters approved a constitutional amendment entitling school construction to use automobile license tag money for school construction but rejected 10 others in Tuesday's voting.

The school construction amendment, No. 1 on the ballot, won approval by almost two to one with 1012 of the state's 1,684 precincts reported.

An amendment proposing to add three Supreme Court justices was beaten down by almost three to one and amendments creating new state senatorial districts in Monroe and Bay-Washington counties lost by more than two to one.

Returns from 1012 of the 1,684 precincts at noon today gave these results for the proposals:

1. Enlarging enough tag money for 30 years to guarantee present state school construction allocations to counties and authorizing bond issue loans against future income for building now— for 228,823 against 138,555.

2. Adding three justices to the State Supreme Court and giving it administrative supervision over all lower courts — for 98,713, against 195,898.

3. Authorizing the Legislature to grant county charters which would give county commissioners law-making power — for 121,121, against 184,459.

4. Providing additional judge for Leon County and rest of Section and Judicial Circuit — for 97,221, against 195,898.

5. Authorizing the Legislature to grant county charters which would give county commissioners law-making power — for 121,121, against 184,459.

6. Providing additional judge for Leon County and rest of Section and Judicial Circuit — for 97,221, against 195,898.

Ozier-Weller Gets Depot And Station Contract For ACL

A contract of approximately $165,000 has been let to the Ozier, Weller and Ozier construction partnership by the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad for the construction of ACL general offices, a freight depot and a passenger station on McCracken Road, west of Sanford.

Construction of the building to house the various units will begin in about three weeks and will take about nine months in reaching completion. The building will have an all buff brick exterior, will have the identifications of the City and the railroad, will stand about 100 feet away from the structure.

The building will be extremely modern in appearance and extensive use will be made of ceramic and quarry tile in acquiring it.

Mervyn W. Ozier, member of the partnership, said this morning that more than 80 per cent of the sub-contracts will be let through local firms. He added that some small contracts still are not let, and that interested persons might contact him.

GOP Control Of Both Houses By Slim Hold Seen

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Republicans appeared almost certain today to win control of both houses of the new Congress on the basis of late returns from the elections.

With only five Senate and 28 House seats still undecided, the Republicans were well ahead in the House and topped the Democrats by one in the Senate. Trends in the unsettled races pointed to wide GOP margins in both House and Senate when final returns are posted.

The building will be extremely modern in appearance and extensive use will be made of ceramic and quarry tile in acquiring it.

Landslide Develops As Ike Goes Into Office With Majority Of 6 Million

By JAC KHELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

GEN. Dwight D. Eisenhower won the presidency today with the greatest popular vote ever given a candidate, and his landslide apparently had swept the Republicans into three-edged control of the new Congress.

The party balance in both Senate and House was so close, however, that in mid-afternoon neither was definitely in the bag for the GOP although there was only a handful of races yet unsettled.

In the aftermath of the great outpouring of Americans who liked the President Truman made a gesture of ranks caving behind the 62-year-old war hero whose election he had fought so bitterly.

From his anti-time campaign train, en route from Independence, Mo., to Washington, Truman telegraphed congratulations to Eisenhower. He offered the President-elect the use of the presidential plane "Independence" for the trip to Korea, which Eisenhower pledged during his campaign he would make.

Truman suggested, too, that Eisenhower send a representative to help with the government budget which is to be submitted to Congress early in January.

Eisenhower thanked Truman for the offer of the Independence, but said he would use a military plane and would let the Secretary of Defense know when he wanted to leave. The general plays a rest at Augusta, Ga., before the trip.

Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic hopeful who went down to crushing defeat, had long before sent his congratulations to Eisenhower and pledged his support.

As to Congress, the situation shaped up in this fashion this afternoon.

House, where 218 votes are needed for control.

The Republicans had elected 214, the Democrats 197, and one independent had a seat still unsettled. Four Republicans and 14 Democrats in addition there were undecided contests in five new districts.

Senate, where a 60-40 division would mean nominal Republican control through the breaking of GOP Vice President elect Richard Nixon.

Democrats were certain of 45 seats including holdovers. The usual Republican total was 46 if Wayne Morse of Oregon, who supported Stevenson for president, is counted with the GOP.

Republicans were ahead in three unsettled Senate contests and Democrats in two.

Democratic stalwarts who lost out in the election included Sen. Ernest McFarland of Arizona, the party's floor leader, and Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, usually a strong supporter of the Truman administration.

Late returns pointed toward a probable total vote in excess of 55 million.

With about 29,000 voting units still not reported, Eisenhower's aggregate vote was close to the 36-million mark. The previous record was 27,751,597 received by Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936.

But despite the Eisenhower breadth of the land including a deep ballot wedge into the no-longer-fought down to the final hour of yesterday's election for what could only be a tie-break control of the House and Senate.

Republicans had a slight edge in the struggle to organize the two houses and to control their committees. But there was nothing of certainty in the outcome despite the general's nearly six million popular vote advantage over Stevenson.

The fight was so close that the Senate might wind up Republican and the House Democratic or vice versa, or both houses could go to the Republicans or to the Democrats. Absentee ballots, or an independent vote, might settle the issue in either house.

Chiang Kai-Shek Bids For Aid Of Foreign Chinese

Powerful And Influential Segment Is Veering To General

HONG KONG (AP) — Chiang Kai-shek has made a strong bid for the organized economic and moral support of 12 1/2 million Chinese living in foreign lands.

Until last month it was felt that this powerful segment of expatriates, influential beyond their numbers in the Philippines, Indonesia, Malaya, Burma, Thailand and elsewhere had merely turned their backs on communism.

Now it looks as though they might be veering Chiang's way. During most of October some 257 delegates representing Chinese around the globe met in Taipei, Formosa, for what was called the Chinese Overseas Affairs Conference.

Chiang called for economic blockade of the Reds and a sweeping boycott of Chinese who deal with them. Although the delegates endorsed resolutions to this effect by acclamation, observers here doubt if Chiang will be able to muster full support.

The overseas Chinese is a hard-headed businessman who meets payrolls and sells merchandise. He taps rubber and runs shipping lines and keeps banks functioning.

A London report said Russia got 184,833 tons of rubber during the first six months of this year from countries in the Western camp. A lot of it was tapped and shipped by overseas Chinese — some of whom may have been delegates at the Formosa meeting.

In this sense, the overseas Chinese is not an all-out antagonist of communism or a pro-Chiang fighter. But if the bulk of the Chinese living abroad are permanently won

HOLLYWOOD By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — So you think this election was a rug-cut one? You should have been around in 1828.

The contest between Adlai Stevenson and Dwight Eisenhower was mild compared to other presidential races in the past," remarked Irving Stone, noted author and expert on presidential history.

"Of course, there was a lot of name-calling this year, particularly in the last two weeks. That happens in every election. By that time the campaigners are like automobiles hurtling through space; they say things out of anger and fatigue that they really don't mean."

"But at least we have reached the point where wives are no longer brought into the arena for slaughter. The most shocking example of this was in the 1828 election between Andrew Jackson and John Quincy Adams."

Stone wrote a biography of Mrs. Jackson, called "The President's Lady." It has just been filmed with Susan Hayward and Charlton Heston as the Jacksons. The story tells how the 1828 campaign killed the President's wife. "Henry Clay, who was running the Adams campaign, realized Jackson had tremendous popularity," said Stone. "Clay decided the only way to beat Jackson was through his wife."

Rachel Jackson had previously been married to a cruel landowner from whom she fled. She heard later that he had divorced her, and so she married Jackson. But the divorce was found to be incomplete, and her former husband then divorced her on grounds of adultery.

"Clay dug up the trial and publicized it throughout the country in newspapers and pamphlets," Stone recounted. "She was called 'adulteress' and worse. Copies of obscene songs about her were distributed on street corners. Jackson was called 'wife-stealer' by his opponents."

"Despite these efforts, Jackson won by an electoral vote of 176 to 83. But he lost his wife. As she was preparing to leave for the inauguration, she overheard two women calling her vile names. Already humiliated by Nashville society and weakened by the attacks, she fell in a coma and died two days

Tense Moment Described As Ike Accepts Verdict

General Tells Throng Of Backers He Is Proud And Humble

By REILMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower stood there, solemn and unsmiling, holding a piece of paper in his right hand early today.

He looked a little tired. The deep crease that came across his nose, between the eyes, is an un-falling mark of deep feeling. He stared into the hot, blue-white light pouring down on him and gestured—a small, almost useless gesture—toward the crowd in front of him. It was a long moment before he could speak.

The people in the Hotel Commodore's ballroom were frantic with delight and excitement. Some were standing on chairs. Some were throwing confetti, made from torn tally sheets, into the air. Others were embracing each other. The hoarse cries and the shrieking and screaming swelled into a frenzy.

Eisenhower tried again. Then, through the din, he began to speak. "I am indeed so humbled as I am proud," he said.

He looked straight out across the great throng. In this moment of supreme victory, there was little expression on his face. The famous flashbulb smile and the animation were gone. He frowned again.

With his first words, the deafening roar subsided, and then calmed entirely. What he had to say was quickly and soberly said.

First, he read a telegram of congratulations from Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson. Then he read his reply: "I thank you for your courteous and generous message. Recognizing the intensity of the difficulties that lie ahead, it is clearly necessary that men and women of good will of both parties forget the political strife of the past and devote themselves to a sincere course of a better future. This I believe they will do."

The storm of applause and excitement burst again. Eisenhower quickly stilled it.

He said, "It is true to say that this is a day of dedication rather than triumph. . . . I recognize clearly the weight of the responsibilities that you have placed on me, and I assure you that I shall never in my service in Washington give short weight to those responsibilities."

His voice was grave. He was speaking slowly. He expressed the hope of unity in the nation now, "for the better future of America, for our children and for our grandchildren."

For the second time in the evening, he thanked the people who worked for him. Then he said good night and left the room. This was the final moment in the long struggle for the presidency.

Afterward, his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, announced that the president-elect, with his family and a few close friends, would leave this afternoon for a 10-day rest at Augusta, Ga.

Whether Eisenhower will begin his new task with a trip to Korea before the inauguration in January—is still not known. In the closing days of the campaign, he pledged himself to go to the scene of the Korean War for a personal inspection. He placed the achievement of peace as the first and greatest objective of his work, and he said he felt he could best make the start by visiting the battlefields and studying the Korean problem on the ground.

Hagerty said "there has never been a schedule so far as I know" made for the Korean trip.

When Eisenhower left the ballroom, the celebration broke out with even greater fury. He hurried to a suite in the hotel where scores of his friends and political associates waited to greet him.

A large cake, brought in anticipation of the moment, was waiting to be cut.

With a small smile, Eisenhower said, "I have never cut a presidential cake before."

Veck, Saigh Agree Upon Distribution Of Video Receipts

By JOE REICHER

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Fred Saigh and Bill Veck, rival owners of the St. Louis Cardinals and Browns, respectively, haven't seen eye to eye on many things during the past season. Both, however, are in perfect accord on one point. They believe their teams should share in the television receipts from games on the road.

"My Browns provide half the cost in a ball game that is televised in any American League city they visit," Veck contends. "Therefore, the St. Louis club should receive its share of the fee that is paid the home club for the 'show'."

Saigh already has announced he will not allow his Cardinals to be televised in New York and Brooklyn next year unless his club shares in the television fees received by the Giants and Dodgers.

A total of 25 major league players are due to leave military service in time to join their respective clubs for the 1953 season. The Boston Braves will have a new battery in pitcher Johnny Antonelli and catcher Del Crandall. Other prominent returnees include pitchers Ed Ford, Yankees; Bill MacDonald, Pirates; Dick Weik, Indians; Ray Herbert, Tigers; infielders Danny O'Connell, Pirates; Preston Ward, Cubs; Owen Friend, Browns; and outfielder Dick Kos, Browns.

Is Tommy Byrne, recently acquired by the Chicago White Sox in a trade with the Browns, en route to Washington? Senator manager Bucky Harris, who tutored Byrne in New York as a rookie, is anxious to land the vet-

Did You Know-That Department
On June 27, 1912, five straight Boston batters reached base against Brooklyn on four hits and a walk. In the ninth inning, but the Braves failed to score. Brooklyn won, 9-8. Here is how it happened: McDonald, first up, went out. Campbell singled and was caught off first. Rucker to Dauter, Sweeney and Kirke singled. Tins walked. Houser was credited with a single when his boulder hit Tim on the batters' box. No runs, four hits, one walk, three left.

Ordering Egg Dish In Spain Presents Problem For Boyle

By IAN DOYLE

ROME (U.P.)—If you think there has been any real progress in world-wide understanding, try ordering scrambled eggs in a foreign country sometime.

This is one problem the Marshall Plan has failed to solve waddy. The first morning of a vacation visit to Italy, Frances said, "Let's give ourselves a real treat and have breakfast here. I'd like to have something light—some orange juice and toast and tea and oh, yes—some ham and a couple of scrambled eggs."

"I thought you said something light. How about a small water-melon and a couple of toast beef sandwiches, too? You may want a snack to take you over until lunch."

"Don't be so smart, so early in the day," said Frances. "I bet you don't even know how to call the waiter."

She was wrong there. I already had seen a small boy with frizzled hair on the bedside stand. By the buttons were the figures of a waiter, a chambermaid and a hotel porter. Most fortunately, I pushed the water button and sure enough, in he came—so quickly, I wondered if he had been shot in by a cat-pull.

A little unmoved by this sudden service, I mumbled "orange" and "juice, tea, toast" and the waiter smiled and nodded.

"Scrambled eggs?" I finished. A look of polite mystery came over the waiter's face.

"Doesn't it understand you, Boyer?" said Frances helpfully.

"I'll try him in French," I said. "All waiters speak French and if I remember my French, French the word for egg is 'oeuf'."

I held up four fingers and said, "Oeuf, oeuf, oeuf, oeuf." The waiter looked even more puzzled.

"What grade did you get in French?" asked Frances. "Are you sure you are pronouncing it right?"

"Wuff! Wuff! Wuff! Wuff!"

The waiter backed away in alarm.

"Now you've frightened him," said Frances. "He thinks you're barking at him. Hower. Would it be any easier for you if I took those roast beef sandwiches?"

"No. He might never come back if I start mooing at him."

I got out a piece of paper and drew a picture of a hen and held it out to the waiter. He approached warily, looked at the picture, smiled and then clapped his hands.

"Now he thinks you want him to applaud your drawing," said Frances. "I don't think it looks like a hen. It looks more like a rooster."

I took the picture back and carefully drew four eggs under the hen, then madly began painting from the eggs to myself, to Frances and then to the waiter. A light dawned in his eyes at last.

"It's got it," said Frances. I leaned back limply.

A few minutes later the waiter returned with a tray. He looked on proudly as Frances uncovered her dish and wailed:

"They're sunny side up. They look like two big flaring red eyes staring up at me. I simply can't eat it. Honey, could you...?"

"I'll try," I said weakly. I pointed at the eggs, then stood on my head and flailed my hands wildly. The waiter grinned, picked up the tray and left.

When he returned a second time, Frances picked the lid off the dish. Silence.

"Now what?"

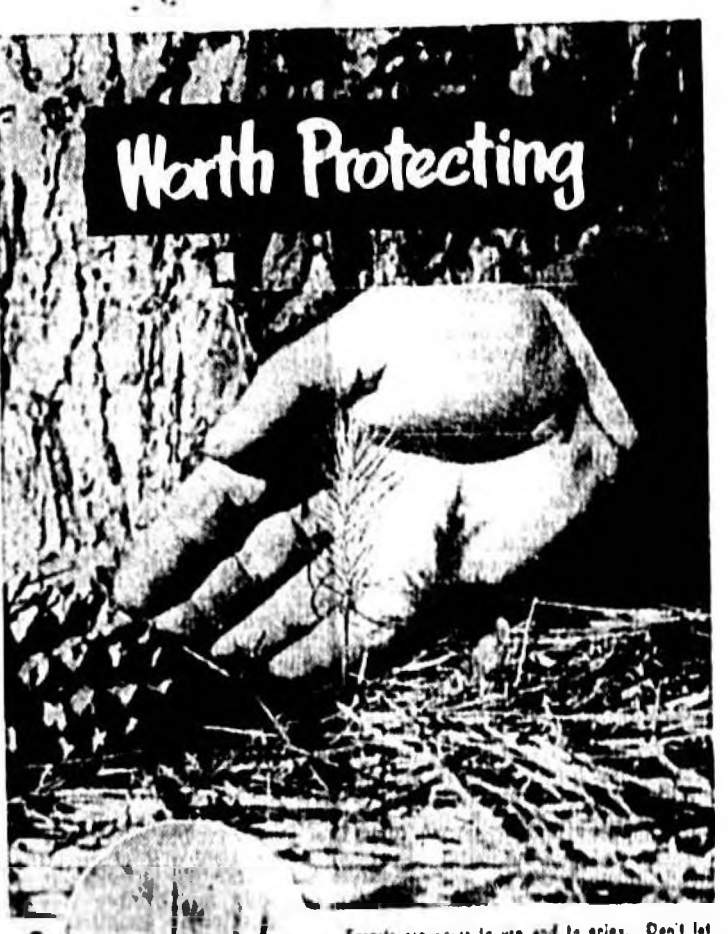

"He just turned the eggs over," I said. "I took four pieces of paper and drew an egg on each. Then I tore the sheets of paper up and scrambled them all over in a ball and held them out hopefully."

Success! The waiter's face fairly shone. Back he soon came with the eggs properly scrambled. Ah, ah, ah! We shook hands all around. Frances was so happy she was willing to overlook the fact there was no ham with them, and I said that was fine because I hadn't the strength left to imitate a squealing pig.

A few minutes later Frances started chuckling.

"What's so funny?"

"Well," she said, "tomorrow I am going to order poached eggs. And I was just thinking of the expression on that waiter's face when you started trying to act like a poached egg for him. It may even bring back vaudeville."

KEEP FLORIDA GREEN

Leaflets like this have been distributed throughout the state to enlist public interest in forest fire prevention. Printed especially for local use, these leaflets are some of the many forest protection tools available through the newly organized Florida Forest Industries committee with headquarters in Tallahassee.

Florida's Forest Industries Campaign Against Woods Fires

Florida's newly organized Forest Industries Committee today endorsed an intensive educational campaign designed to help reduce the state's costly forest fire losses which in 1951 were the highest in the Nation.

More than 90,000 pieces of literature, including fire prevention posters, cartoon booklets and mailing pieces have been distributed by the forest industries in Florida this year.

"We hope this campaign will remind every man, woman and child of the importance of protecting our forest resources from fire," said Owens McDonnell, of Tallahassee, chairman of the committee representing all segments of the state's wood-dependent industries. "The cooperation of every citizen is required to stop our unnecessary and wasteful fire damage."

Forest Industries, the Florida Forest Service and the Florida Forestry Association, sponsors of the Keep Green movement in the state, are jointly circulating the materials. They are being made available by American Forest Products Industries, Inc., public service organization which coordinates the Keep Green fire prevention movement nationally.

The Florida materials carry the slogan, "Keep Florida Green." Featured in the colorful literature is an eye-catching photograph of a small pine with the words, "Worth Protecting." This emphasizes that woods fires kill seedling trees that should be protected to provide future timber needs.

In 1951 forest fires burned 3,561,368 acres of woodland. This loss, caused by 28,392 fires, was the highest reported by any state. The fact that one-third of the Nation's fire losses occurred in Florida points up the need for the grass roots forest protection educational campaign.

When he returned a second time, Frances picked the lid off the dish. Silence.

"Now what?"

"He just turned the eggs over," I said. "I took four pieces of paper and drew an egg on each. Then I tore the sheets of paper up and scrambled them all over in a ball and held them out hopefully."

Adlai Receives Election Result Minus Animosity

Stevenson Is Calm As He Concedes Defeat By Ike Eisenhower

By DON WHITEHEAD
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — This was the hour and the moment after for the legions who followed Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson — and lost. The defeated Democratic presidential candidate himself, admitted he felt as Abraham Lincoln once did after a losing election: "Like a little boy who had stubbed his toe in the dark — but who was too old to cry, and 'it hurt too much to laugh.'"

Landslide

(Continued From Page One) ... He won or was leading in only nine Southern states with a meager 89 electoral votes. Eisenhower had clinched or was leading in 39 states, with 462 votes — 12 more than the 200 needed for election. News of Eisenhower's victory was hailed in the free world's capitals as indicating a continuation of American policy of resisting went up. Democrats started hunting for jobs. And President Truman, speeding back to Washington from Missouri, offered the President-elect his private plane if Eisenhower wanted it to make his proposed flight to Korea. Eisenhower, tired and happy after a strenuous 50,000-mile campaign, planned a 10-day vacation in Augusta, Ga., his first with the Secret Service dogging his heels. For Ike, the avalanche of votes which put him in line as the 33rd man to become president was more of a personal than a party triumph. Even if his party couldn't keep pace with him in the far corners of the land, the 62-year-old warrior statesman had a personal mandate from the voters, matching in volume that given Herbert Hoover, his last Republican predecessor in 1928, and rivaling some of those of Franklin D. Roosevelt. The informal Republican-South Democratic coalition which has dictated congressional action on legislation was strengthened by the Eisenhower victory and the general could expect from it support for the program he laid out in his campaign "crusade with the tie."

Eisenhower's Message

NEW YORK (AP) — Following is the text of Gen. Eisenhower's early morning talk to the crowd assembled in the ballroom at his hotel headquarters. "I am not certain, my friends, whether or not you have read or heard the telegram that Mr. Stevenson just sent to me. It reads: 'The people have made their choice and I congratulate you. That you may be the servant and not the organizer of the people with the breaking vote of Vice President Barkley.'"

GOP Scores Wins In Governor Races To Almost Set Record

By CHARLES F. BARRETT
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans today swept toward power in state capitals since 1929, winning or leading in 21 of 30 governor races. The GOP triumph in yesterday's elections — if present trends continue — would capture six governor's seats now held by Democrats. Fifteen Democratic governorships were at stake. Democrats would drop back from a lead in all the 16 contested states where Republicans already control the statehouse. But several of the races were still very close. The upshot could be to increase the number of Republican governors from the present 25, to 31; Democrats would drop back from control of 23 Statehouses, to 17. A 31 to 17 count for Republicans would match the GOP margin in 1929. Governorships usually carry enormous powers over patronage and political organizations at the local level — powers that can affect national races. Democrats found success only in Ohio, where Gov. Frank J. Lausche rolled to an unprecedented fourth term over Republican Charles L. Taft, younger brother of Sen. Robert A. Taft. Both Lausche and Taft are regarded politically as lone wolves, sometimes moving independently of party organizations. Nationally-known Democrats were being washed under by the Republican tide in returns from these states: Illinois — Lt. Gov. Sherwood P. Dixon, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson's choice to succeed him in the Springfield executive mansion, lost to Republican William G. Stratton after leading through the night. Massachusetts — Partly Gov. A. Dever, keynoter at the Democratic national convention, fell in a battle which also had a margin for hours. The leader was Republican Rep. Charles A. Hester. Michigan — Gov. G. Mennen Williams, remembered by many voters throughout the nation for his prominent role in the Democratic Convention, trailed steadily in a battle with Republican Fred A. Auer Jr. In Montana, Republican J. Hugo Aronson pulled into a hairline lead over Democratic Gov. John W. Bonner. Two more Democratic upsets were definite and final in Indiana, Republican George N. Craig, former national commander of the American Legion, beat Democrat John A. Watkins; in Delaware, Republican Rep. J. Caleb Boggs ousted Democratic incumbent Gov. Elbert N. Carvel. Aside from the Solid South, Democrats were elected only in Ohio, Missouri, and Rhode Island, and were leading in West Virginia.

School Amendment

Creating 30th Senatorial District for Monroe County — for 70,470, against 157,223. 7. Consolidating Monroe County and city tax assessment — for 90,726, against 129,529. 8. Consolidating all Dade County prosecution under state attorney — for 110,169, against 129,720. 9. Consolidating Lee County and city tax assessment and collection — for 91,171, against 123,708. 10. Abolishing special Escambia County Court of Record and replacing it with special circuit court judge — for 91,509, against 127,091. 11. Abolishing fee system for dispensing Escambia County officers — for 101,634, against 120,209. Seminole County led the way for the rest of Florida in voting for the school amendment and against all the rest of them. The vote in that county for the school amendment was almost two to one, or somewhat better than in the rest of the state. In the three Sanford precincts the vote for the school amendment was 1810 to 1097 against, while the rural precincts voted 1417 for the amendment to 748 against. The combined vote was 3227 for the amendment and 1845 against it. The grand total of city and rural precincts on the other amendments was as follows: No. 2 (Supreme Court) 642 to 2090. No. 3 (county charter) 1295 to 2322. No. 4 (Leon county) 766 to 2437. No. 5 (Bay county) 737 to 2375. No. 6 (Monroe) 758 to 2323. No. 7 (Monroe) 747 to 2237. No. 8 (Dade county) 742 to 2308. No. 9 (Lee county) 713 to 3201. No. 10 (Escambia county) 701 to 2196. No. 11 (Escambia county) 710 to 2129. Florida For Ike

(Continued From Page One) and 51 in Polk and Hillsborough. Stevenson's percentages were 88 in Gulf, 84 in Glades, 80 in Washington — but they are small counties and couldn't compete with the vote-heavy areas of East and Central Florida. Republicans called the Eisenhower victory "the real beginning of the two-party system in the South," "freedom of the South from economic bondage, and a sign that the people of Florida place country above party." Kirk Landon, Miami, who was one of the first Floridians to start plugging for Eisenhower said: "This is not a Republican victory. It is not a Democratic denial. He called it recognition of a 'great man who will function not only as a great President but as a recognized world leader.' Atty.-Gen. Richard Ervin, first prominent Democratic leader to concede Stevenson's defeat, said of Eisenhower: "The people wanted him. It's a great victory for the Republicans in the state." Approximately one-eighth of the freight revenues of the American railroad is derived from discharging and loading.

WARREN COMMENTS

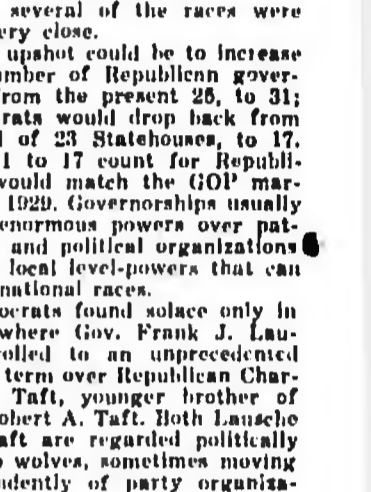

WALLAHASSEE (AP) — Gov. Fuller Warren, who supported Adlai Stevenson for the presidency, had one thing to say about Eisenhower carrying Florida: "I've had no opportunity as yet to seriously analyze the figure of 51 to 47 in the state. At this time I can only say, to paraphrase the scripture, the people speak and the people speak true." Released by the Associated Press.

Severe Quake Is Recorded In Varied Areas

Seismographs Place Tremor In Category Of One Of Really Great Earthquakes

NEW YORK (AP)—A "very severe earthquake" was recorded shortly before 1 p. m. today on Columbia University's seismograph at Palisades, N. Y.

A spokesman said the quake was so strong that one of the recording instruments was broken. He said it was one of the most severe tremors of the year and estimated its distance at 5,200 miles in an uncertain direction, but possibly near Kamchatka, northeast Siberian peninsula.

The Coast and Geologic Survey in Washington said the sensitive indicators on its seismograph were jarred so severely it was impossible to determine the distance of the quake.

A spokesman said the tremor indicated a "very, very strong quake."

The Spring Hill, Ala., College seismograph registered a very strongly seismic activity that began at 12:00 p. m. EST. The Rev. Louis J. Elsie, the college seismologist, said that, according to a preliminary report he traced, the quake originated in the southern part of the Alaskan peninsula, near the Aleutians, or off the coast of Argentina.

The quake was registered also on the seismograph of the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena. Dr. Charles Richter said it showed a magnitude of 8, which would place it in the category of the "really great earthquakes."

Officials at the Dominion Observatory at Ottawa, Canada, said the seismograph there contained a register which registered 25 minutes after the first shock.
