Pan-American Clipper Inaugurates North Route From Miami To Ireland

MIAMI, May 20, (AP)—The Dixie Clipper, seen by hundreds of Minnians last February when the giant flying boat was forced to land at the International Pan American Airport at Dimer Key because of being conditioned in her regular home harbor, New York, this week inaugurated Pan American World Airways' northern route overnight flights to Foyens, Eire, for the fourth consecutive summer. Marking the first step in the long road back to pre-war commercial activities, publication of the Clipper's departure and arrival times, as well as considerable easing of restrictions regarding passenger priorities, came after four years of closed-guarded secrecy surrounding all operations of the giant Clippers, which have been solely employed on wartime missions. Now certain businessmen will be carried by Clippers to and from the continent on regularly scheduled flights. The Dixie Clipper is the first of the fleet to emerge from her drab chrysalis of camouflage into her original gleaming silver. The 74-passenger Clipper and her sister ships during the winter returned to the United States from Portugal every other week via the southern route from Natal and Belem, Brazil, then by way of Trinidad and Puerto Rico to Bermuda and finally New York.

Some information is now available concerning the stupendous war job done by PAA's transatlantic flying boats. 61,000 vital war passengers, 7,000,000 pounds of mail and 2,000,000 pounds of cargo were speeded to their destinations in Europe and Africa. Approximately 2,200,000 miles were flown on 99 "special missions" far from accustomed routes. The Dixie Clipper itself carried President Franklin D. Roosevelt to the historic Casablanca Conference in January, 1943.

A PAA Clipper contributed to General Montgomery's defeat of German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel by flying a rush shipment of ammunition and tank parts to the 8th Army at El Alamein. Immediately after Pearl Harbor PAA flew spare parts and a tractor over the Atlantic to the Chinese National Aviation Corp. for use by the American "Flying Tigers," enable 40 grounded P-40's to get into the air near Rangoon on Christmas Day and down 28 planes in a surprise attack.

Pan American offered its facilities and personnel for training 1,400 Navy flight mechanics in flying a twin-engine, four-engine and almost 5,000 aerial navigators for the Army, Navy and Royal Air Force at its Miami Navigation School. A special, still-secret, Reconnaiter School was also operated to train pilots of unarmed commercial ships to assist their fellow military pilots in detecting enemy planes and ships.

Clipper cargo flew vermin exterminators to General Stilwell for control of a threatened outbreak of plague in the Chinese theater. Another brought back the barrel and breach of a German Army 88-millimeter anti-tank cannon to the Army Proving Grounds at Aberdeen, Md. for study by American ordnance experts.

Pan American's great contributions to the United States and her Allies were made possible by the international airline's long experience and "know-how" gained through years of pioneering in transoceanic flying. After months of careful test flights, studies of weather and charting of hitherto uncharted portions of the globe, PAA inaugurated its first commercial transatlantic flight on May 30, 1939, on the twelfth anniversary of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's historic solo hop from the United States to Paris.

Since then the giant Clippers have been shuttling regularly between the hemispheres, Europe and Africa.

Pacific Division Clippers, of the same type as the Atlantic Clippers, inaugurated routes to the Orient, building their own landing bases at Guam, Wake and Midway—bases which were turned over immediately to the Navy when war was declared.

The Pacific division has been operating under contract to the Navy Air Transport Service, while Africa-Orient Division has been operating out of Miami under contract to the Army Transport Command. Oldest division in the System, the Latin American, has continued commercial operation over its 50,000 mile network of aerial trade routes throughout South and Central America and the Caribbean, carrying vital wartime cargo and high priority military and diplomatic passengers between the United States and the other republics and colonies of the western hemisphere.

Have You Heard The One About— the business man who is being sued? There aren't many public liability suits written up in our local papers. Most of them never get into court, but that doesn't mean property owners, merchants, farmers and others are not being sued. Any one who comes to your house, into your store, your farm, whether you want to see them or not, maybe a friend, a customer or just someone trying to sell you something you don't want, anything can happen and often does and someone gets hurt on your premises. The next thing you know you'll be getting an important looking paper saying "Greetings" and a request to appear in court to show cause why you shouldn't pay over $5,000 or more for allowing someone to get hurt on your premises.

If you haven't a public liability policy all that is necessary for you to do is to employ a lawyer, take the case to court and enjoy a good verbal "fight" and if you lose pay your lawyer, court costs and the judgment (seldom over $20,000) But if you have public liability insurance you can take a ringside seat and let your insurance company pay all costs of the lawsuit, witness, lawyers, bond, court costs, etc.; in addition pay the judgment against you up to the amount stated in your policy.

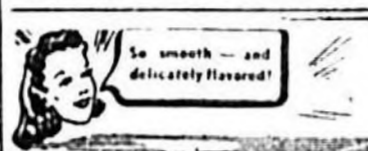

Warning: This liability insurance does not pay claims against you for injury to your employees. You may need workmen's compensation too. Drop in to see us and find out about our insurance and services. We can save you 20% on your P.L. and W.C. insurance. C.M. Boyd & Co.

Surgeon Calls Blood Donations Vital; Commends Medicis

LONDON, May 20, (AP)—Blood donations from the United States were one of the chief factors in saving the lives of 961 out of every 1,000 American soldiers and sailors wounded in battle in the European theater of operations, Maj. Gen. Paul H. Hawley, chief surgeon of the American forces throughout the European campaign, said recently. Hawley disclosed that whereas 97 per cent of all wounded men died in the World War, the figure was more than halved during the war just terminated. Of the 1,375,000 American soldiers and sailors hospitalized in this theater since the beginning of the war, fewer than 13,000 have died.

The ample supply of whole blood and blood plasma provided by people in the United States was a great contributing factor in the recovery of 96.1 per cent of the men, Hawley said.

(A dispatch from Paris said 195,000 pints of whole blood were flown from New York and that American abroad supplied another 140,000 pints. In addition, an estimated 1,000,000 pints of blood plasma were used.)

Other factors in the extremely low death rate, according to the chief surgeon, were the devotion of the medical officers and soldiers of whom more than 2,000 were killed and 10,000 wounded while serving with combat troops, and the excellent nursing care the casualties received.

Of the 100,000 Americans still in hospitals, a large percentage will be restored to duty or returned to the United States by the end of this year. Most of the medical personnel will be returned to the United States.

No less remarkable than the record on combat casualties is the fight against contagious diseases in the World War more than 23,000 soldiers died of disease. Fewer than 1,200 have died of disease in the European theater since the start of the war.

The Army's redeployment plan will apply to more than 254,000 members of the Medical Corps according to Hawley. Except for ten units, all the ninety-nine general hospitals and five convalescent centers in Britain will be closed by Aug. 8, ninety days after V-E day. Most of the medical personnel will be returned to the United States.

Industrial City Of Osaka Is Hit By Superforts

Churchill Calls For London Conference To Decide Syrian Independence Plea

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP)—President Truman declared today the U. S. Army in the Pacific ultimately will be twice its present size and "bigger than our Army" in Europe at its height. In a special message to Congress, reiterating American determination to fight the Japanese to "complete finish," the president called for workers in ship repair yards to meet the Japanese suicide attacks.

Great waves of Superfortresses today lighted fires in Osaka sending smoke 27,000 feet above Japan's most highly industrialized city amid an announcement that a similar raid burned out 6.9 square miles of Yokohama Tuesday as Allied ground forces drove Japanese troops back on virtually all fronts.

Guam reported "the principal portion of Yokohama virtually was destroyed" and returning airmen indicated they left Osaka in the same condition today. Tokyo broadcasts admitted flames were started throughout Osaka's manufacturing center and were only "gradually being brought under control" claiming the Japs destroyed 47 Superforts. The raid was made by 450 B-29 and 150 fighters.

Farm Labor Camp Will Remain Open Two More Weeks

The WEA Farm Labor Camp at Oklawaha, Fla., will remain open for the next two weeks in order to meet the needs of growers. It was announced today by County Agent C. Dawson.

At the present time there are 226 of British negro subjects from the Bahamas at the camp whose contracts expired Thursday. All but 105 of these will be shortly for northern labor camps on the eastern seaboard where they are vitally needed in agricultural areas.

Mr. Dawson said the labor program using imported Bahamians has been decidedly successful, was today indicated by Mr. Dawson, who added that the workers had come on time, had stayed as long as they were wanted, had proved efficient and had been a vital factor in Seminole County's successful crop season. This is the second year of the migratory labor program.

G. R. Barnes, camp labor supervisor, will leave soon for Virginia Beach, Md., camp manager, was transferred also where three weeks ago and his place for the duration of the season was taken by W. H. Kneass.

Mr. Barnes pointed out that the government's migratory labor program had proved of great value in filling the farm labor shortage of the country where men had left farms to enter the service or to work in factories.

At the present time, negro workers from Jamaica are being sent to the middle west and some to California to harvest crops, he declared.

Meanwhile, as County Agent Dawson put it, he is being deluged with requests from northern growers for skilled, negro farm workers. "They are willing, take telephone and telegraphing me for workers," he explained and added that he is now making out good allotments for hundreds of negro workers from the north.

Last year 1,500 workers left this camp for northern labor camps, he said.

Man Brought Back For Stealing Truck

Sheriff Charles Hand and Deputy Jack Hixson today returned to Fernandina in Nassau County, Wednesday and brought back Frank Hammond, charged with stealing on Friday, an International truck, the property of the Square Deal Fruit Company, from a grove in Palm. The truck was recovered.

27 Persons Hurt When Streamliner Jumps The Track

KISSIMEE, June 1. (AP)—Twenty-seven persons were injured, none seriously, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock when the streamliner Atlantic Coast Line Champion was derailed about a mile north of here on its way to Tampa.

The three-unit diesel engine left the tracks as did the baggage car and five steel passenger cars. The diesel engine turned over and caught fire.

The passenger cars and baggage car tore up about 100 yards of the single track so badly that railroad men on the spot said it would take at least two days to clear the wreck.

Several telephone poles were knocked down and telephone service in Kissimmee was cut temporarily.

Network Of Airports Planned

400,000 Civilian Air-Planes in Daily Use After The War

NEW YORK, June 1. (Special) — The United States will have 400,000 civilian airplanes in the sky soon after the war on 16 times the peacetime total, Robert H. Hinckley declared today. Mr. Hinckley, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Administration and now head of the Office of War Contract Settlement, added that about 90% of these planes will be private craft while the balance will be commercial air transports and cargo planes.

Part and parcel of this tremendous expansion is the one billion dollar airport program being sponsored by the Civil Aeronautics Administration and now under discussion in Congress. This program is the largest of its kind in history. Mr. Hinckley added that the program would "make it possible for anyone who files his own plane to land or take off within easy reach of home, work or vacation spot."

He also pointed out that the airport program would "make it possible for everyone in hundreds of cities and towns to have commercial air transportation service."

Writing in the magazine Service, a house publication of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, Mr. Hinckley stressed the fact that America had become an "aviation-minded nation as a result of the war."

Mr. Hinckley said the United States has an unprecedented backlog of aviation knowledge and experience in actual flying, manufacturing technique and operating methods. When the war ends this country will have 350,000 trained Army, Navy and Marine pilots plus 150,000 civilian and student pilots.

Besides this are some 2,000,000 persons who have been working in aircraft plants during the war plus another 2,500,000 who have become familiar with aviation through their experience in military regiments.

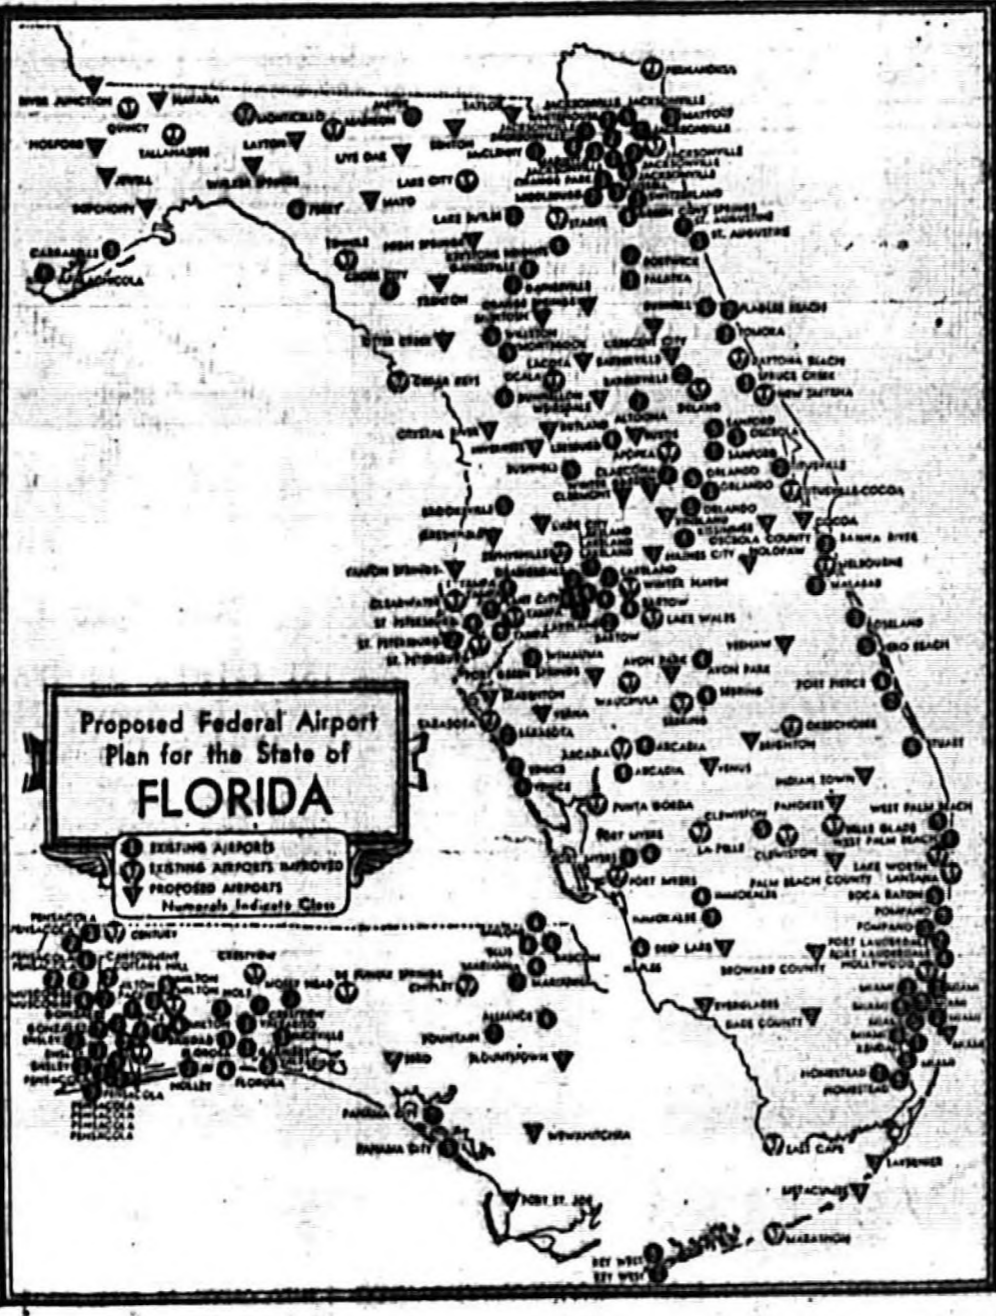

What this means to aviation was amply demonstrated recently when the CAA announced that it was granting civilian pilot certificates to military fliers at the rate of 2,000 a week and that in the past five years more than 25,000 military pilots have received private licenses.

In giving details of the airport expansion program, Mr. Hinckley said that one of the major objectives "was to crack the worst bottlenecks in today's airport system—poorly spaced fields." To do this the CAA program suggests 3,000 brand new airports and extensive improvements to 1,600 of the existing 3,000 airports.

Another major objective is a sufficient number of huge super-airports to assure proper facilities for aircraft flying on international routes. Mr. Hinckley said that New York's vast Idlewood Airport never under construction was a good example of the type of airfield which someday will be needed at all international air crossings.

Although the cost of the whole program is estimated at one billion dollars plus $250,000,000 for buildings and special facilities, Mr. Hinckley said this was a cheap price to pay to put America on wings. He recalled that it took 25 billion dollars to build America's road system.

Mr. Hinckley added that the program should be started as soon as possible after the war "so that America can maintain in peaceful commerce the air leadership we have established in combat."

This airport map of Florida shows how citizens of this state will participate in the nationwide airport program being sponsored by the Civil Aeronautics Administration and now under discussion in Congress. When completed there will be 249 airports in the state with many communities having such facilities for the first time. The whole program is designed to encourage private flying and the development of commercial air transportation.

Exclusive of buildings, hangars and special facilities such as restaurants and shops, the proposed state program will cost $23,735,000 of which the federal government would pay half and local agencies the balance. This map was prepared by Cities Service Company from official records of the CAA.

Navy Bans On Fishing Have Been Removed

MIAMI, June 1. (Special) — All military restrictions governing fishing in the Seventh naval district, with the exception of a number of previously designated restricted areas, have been lifted effective at once, Capt. Wm. Wilbur, acting Seventh naval district Coast Guard officer, announced today. The move was authorized by Vice-Admiral Walter S. Anderson, district commander.

For two-and-one-half years, war time necessity made it mandatory for strict limitations to be imposed on fishing operations. Today's action cancels most of these restrictions except in certain areas.

The restricted areas, which cover many square miles off both coasts and in the vicinity of Key West and Dry Tortugas, will remain in effect. In addition, numerous operational areas are also still in force. All have been in use for some time, and are familiar to boatmen operating in those sections. Use of these areas in intensified training at various naval and army air stations, the Fort Pierce Naval Amphibious training base, and other navy and army installations make them extremely dangerous for transient vessels.

All vessels are barred from restricted areas at all times. Operators are urged to check with their nearest military and naval command before entering operational areas, to make sure that they are not in use.

Great Britain and Russia, the two largest claimants of meat under Lend-Lease, received together one pound out of every ten produced in the United States last year.

There are 60,000,000 radio sets in use in the United States.

of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, June 31. The Golden Text is: "When the enemy shall come in like a flood, the Spirit of the Lord shall lift up a standard against him" (Isaiah 59:19).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Blessed are they that sow in tears, for they shall reap in joy. As they go, they shall sow, and they shall reap, and they shall increase their harvest" (Psalm 126:5-7).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "As named in Christian Science, eternal magnanimity or hypochondria is the specific term for error, or mortal mind. It is the false belief that mind is in matter, and is both evil and good; that evil is as real as good and more powerful. This belief has not one quality of Truth" (p. 104:11-22).

There is not a book on earth so favorable to all the kind and to all the sublime affections, or so unfriendly to hatred, persecution, jealousy, injustice, and every sort of iniquity as the gospel—Bible.

No comprehensive are the doctrines of the gospel, that they involve all moral truth known by man; so extensive are the precepts, that they require every virtue, and forbid every sin.—Warren.

Navy's Big Recreation Program Is Paying Off Now With High Dividends

By BONNIE WILEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
HONOLULU — The mightiest war-time recreation program in the history of the United States Navy is paying off in high dividends.

You can ask Comdr. Stockard Hickey, recreation and morale officer of the Pacific Fleet, or you can ask any one of the thousands of Navy beach bathers on Oahu Island; you'll get the same enthusiastic answer.

Men who are in Honolulu for a long stay or only a few hours find recreation spots built especially for them.

Handiest is the Richardson recreation center, which provides 15,000 sailors with the camp's $20,000 worth of athletic equipment, eating hamburgers, playing baseball, swimming, or just lying on the grass.

This center, named for Adm. J. O. Richardson, former Commander in Chief U. S. Fleet, is located on the east shore of Pearl Harbor, and is open from Richardson, recreation officer.

parties of the fleet can be back on their ships in less than 20 minutes in case of emergency.

Next in popularity is the Breakers, huge Navy-run night (and afternoon) beach club, at Waikiki. It handles 5,000 customers on Sundays, 2,000 on week days, and gives three night dances each week (complete with Waves and lady Marines).

"We can usually spot a 'happy ship' by the interest it takes in recreation," Comdr. Hickey said. "While it is far out at sea, its officers arrange liberty port parties for all men who want them and within a few minutes after the ship docks, the sailors are whisked off to one of the several camps or centers. Some officers even fly in ahead of time to line up recreation for their men."

Dividing popularity honors for the longer-trip spots are Camp Andrews and Nimitz beach, each drawing 2,000 men daily.

Camp Andrews, with neat little cabins for overnight guests, boasts one of the best beaches on Oahu. It's 23 miles from Pearl Harbor and is reached by a trolley cross-island train. The official camp uniform is swimming trunks.

"We've only got a couple of rules out here," Comdr. Hickey explained. "They're just: 'Don't kill yourself and don't burn the place down.'"

Far from the sound of Pearl Harbor's riveting hammers, too, is Nimitz beach, named after Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, Commander in Chief of the Pacific Fleet, which provides recreation for sailors in port for one day.

Nimitz beach has 30 outdoor charcoal grills on which Navy men broil steaks, juicy steaks (no red points necessary). The palm tree grove, where the barbecue pits are located, can accommodate 1,000 persons without crowding.

Officers get their recreation, too, at beautiful Camp Erdman, which also will accommodate 250 overnight and 300 daytime visitors.

Women officers are not overlooked in the Navy's recreation program. A lavish privately owned beach estate, Hale Luana (House of Happiness) has been made available for them. It will accommodate 50 overnight and 100 daytime guests.

No service to cram its recreation down its sailors' throats. Navy offers entertainment strictly on a let-them-eat-as-they-please basis.

Silver Clipper Is Bound For Brazil With Penicillin

MIAMI, June 1, (Special) — Carrying a cargo that means life and health for thousands of persons in Brazil, one of the big silver Clippers of Pan American World Airways took off from Miami last Saturday with the largest shipment of penicillin ever released for export from this country. The shipment of the wonder drug weighed 3,000 pounds and was valued at more than $40,000.

The shipment, consigned to the Brazilian branch of E. R. South and Sons in Sao Paulo, was made up of 20,000 vials, each containing 100,000 units of penicillin—a total of three billion units of the famed drug—enough to supply the needs of several thousand patients whose very life will often depend on injections of penicillin. The amount of this single shipment is actually more of the wonder drug than the entire monthly production of penicillin in the United States two years ago.

Up to May 15 of this year, the government maintained strict control over the production of penicillin—first seeing to it that our armed forces were supplied and only then releasing small quantities for civilian use. As a medical man throughout the world learned of the miraculous qualities of penicillin the demand for it grew and nearly two years ago PAA Clippers began flying small shipments to cities throughout Latin America but it has only been in the past few months that large shipments have been carried. Because penicillin requires special refrigeration and careful handling it is essentially a fast air freight commodity and Saturday's shipment highlights the vital role that PAA Clippers play in getting the precious drug to distant points in a matter of hours.

More Than 5,000 Freeze Plants To Be Constructed

CHICAGO, Ill., June 1, (Special)—More than 5,000 new frozen food locker plants will be constructed within five years in the U. S. by the National Frozen Food Locker Association, representing the industry which operates more than 2,000,000 individual storage units serving 25 per cent of American farm families, are based on anticipated improved and broadened postwar locker plant services.

From a modest 1,000 locker plants in 1939, the total has risen to more than 5,000. Association figures show that more than 80 per cent are located in rural areas, 75 per cent operating in towns with populations of 5,000 or less.

Farmers, faced with few marketing restrictions during the war, have discovered the flexibility of locker plant operation which include slaughtering, cooling, cutting, grinding, curing, smoking, lard rendering, packing, labeling, quick-freezing and storing of meats and blanching, packaging, quick-freezing and storing of fruits and vegetables.

In planning for increased postwar use of locker plant facilities in large cities, the association lists among advantages for urban lockers the opportunity for buy-back of surplus large quantities of surplus meats and other commodities that can be stored in lockers for use during the next season of the year.

Available also to busy metropolitan families will be the development of a new variety of sampling rooms for the taste delicate, such as soups, baked beans, spaghetti, and other prepared food items.

Tomorrow's urban locker plant may be a combination retail store, commercial frozen food distributor and processing plant. In addition, locker plant operators plan to distribute and widely accept of these units they believe will be models designed for storage only of food already prepared.

"RETONGA IS GRAND", SAYS ROBT. GREGORY

Noted Medicine Brought Prompt Relief After Distress From Acid Indigestion And Other Troubles Had Kept Him Feeling Miserably For About Three Years, He States... Discusses His Case.

Happy men and women from the Great Lakes to the Gulf are gratefully praising Retonga for the relief this noted herbo-stomachic and Vitamin B-1 medicine brought them, often after years of suffering. For instance, Mr. Robt. G. Gregory, well known church man and member of a widely known family states:

"I have truly suffered torture from indigestion and gas pains in my stomach, especially after meals. I felt like I was vomiting and some foods would cause a severe itching on my arms and body. I had to rely on laxatives, over-doses, stomachic, alternating and change from one to another to get results. Nothing I tried seemed to suit my case and I began to doubt whether

would ever find relief.

"But Retonga promptly relieved me. I now eat everything with a fine appetite and without discomfort. That itching has been entirely relieved, and the stomachic elimination has been relieved too. My sleep seems to give me renewed strength. It is a pleasure to tell others about such a splendid medicine as Retonga."

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to Vitamin B-1 deficiency, constipation, insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, and loss of appetite. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at Touchton's—Adv.

of the Big Five, is setting a poor example "in the peaceful

the "little forty-two."

The situation in Syria would not be quite so serious were it not that Britain and the United

French while Russia supports it.

ago, as have a number of other southern states, let it not be

The Florida legislature is just about to finish another legislative session having appropriated $2,000,000 for state departments and institutions alone, or over $6,000,000 more than current expenditures. The state government would seem to be follow-reckless expenditure. However, the State has no illusions about

It seems like a little thing,
this dispute between Marshal Tito and General Alexander over who is going to occupy Trieste, even as it was a little thing when Germany began arguing with Czechoslovakia over the Sudetenland. Trieste belongs to Italy, is peopled with Italians, but the country surrounding it is inhabited by Slavic farmers who Marshall Tito claims belong to Yugoslavia. But as we said, all this would not be so serious if it were for the fact that Tito has the backing of Russia.

An interesting phase of the Franco-Syrian dispute is that according to the charter of the world security organization now world which this organization, the new League of Nations, Britain, the United States, or anyone else can do in Syria to enforce peace.

any member of the Big Five—aggressive action by any of them cannot even be investigated—without its consent. One hardly supposes that France would consent to have the Syrian problem investigated.

nearly over, the country is again filled with the awful specter of unemployment. Chairman Knud people are already out of work with the figures expected to grow to at least 1,000,000 by September.

So politicians become worried over the situation and im-

bigger government expenditures are necessary. Meanwhile, the repairs on the Pacific coast.

It is estimated that as long as peo-

Too Much Government

Man, says the Scripture, is "fearfully and wonderfully made," but it seems as if government is still more so. The Byrd committee on congressional economy has uncovered in less than 1,141 bureaus in the executive branch alone. Then there are 13 principal agencies in the executive office of the President, 23 emergency war agencies with 499 component parts, and 26 independent agencies with 265 component parts. Naturally there is a vast amount of millin around among all these organizations, with confusion an wasted effort.

It is largely the same old Topsy story. Things may not have been planned that way, but have "just grown." With the ever increasing complexity of a great government and a great country in a great world war, the tendency is to keep right on growing until the bureaucrats overwhelm the national scene, and nobody can find anybody else without a professional guide and an extensive leave of absence from his regular business.

The Byrd committee, at any rate, has rendered a public service by revealing the nature and scope of the job that has to be done. The beginning of wisdom in this case may be to stop hiring and start firing. That is what a business institution would do. Governmental operations are never so simple, being bound up with red tape and precedent and vested interests. But a start must be made some time, or else the government will continue to expand until it absorbs everybody and everything.

Books Of The Conference

One fundamental fact about the San Francisco conference that seldom gets mentioned is the reference library on which many decision are based. The Library of Congress has brought together 3,000 books from various California libraries, notably the great collection on the first World War formed and maintained by former President Hoover and owned by Stanford University. The books include encyclopedias, atlases, histories of special countries and problems, anything in short which might answer such questions as "How did the League of Nations attempt to enforce collective security?"

The Paris Peace Conference of 1919 had such a library, based in part on the collections of the Army Intelligence Section of the American General Staff, and partly on books brought over by President Wilson and his experts.

This is a new development in peace-making. The Congress of Vienna, which put Europe together after Napoleon had taken it apart, is not known to have based its decisions on exact information impartially gathered. It used diplomats' memories and generals' arguments. The new way is sounder.

Blooper

The latest arrival in baseball is the blooper or balloon ball, answer to a pitcher's prayer and possible savior of aging hurlers. The blooper is the invention of Rip Sewell, the 36-year-old pitching star of the Pittsburgh Pirates. It has gained him 42 victories in two years, perhaps has kept him in the big leagues.

The blooper, as Sewell throws it, consists of an all-out arm movement, in which the ball slips off the extended fingers with an extreme back spin. From a height of 20 feet it drifts down at an angle over the plate, and no batter can get a really good cut at it. It is the most effective addition to a pitcher's repertoire since Carl Hubbell's screw ball.

Baseball, like war, is a constant see-saw between the offensive and the defensive. Ever since Babe Ruth the batters have had it all their own way, just when the spit ball, emery ball and other freak deliveries were banned. If other pitchers can copy the blooper, today's sluggers may see their averages shrink.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By RUSSELL KAY

I don't know how long it will be before they have the new hospital for the insane ready at Avon Park but they'd better make it soon and I want to make application now for a nice padded cell.

About two weeks ago C. G. Campbell, State Salvage Director, got me in a weak moment and talked me into accepting the post of salvage director for Hillsborough County.

He had a good line and assured me that about all I had to do was make a few radio talks and get a lot of publicity in the papers and the city, assisted by the Defense Council, would take care of all the details.

Well, my appointment was announced in the paper and since then I've been getting more telephone calls and love letters than a movie star. It seemed like everybody had a bundle of paper of a mess of tin cans to dispose of and they were taking pains to tell me about it.

What I didn't know at the time was that the "Merry-go-round" has broken down. The Army had been collecting the stuff but had discontinued the service when their equipment was moved out.

The city promised to do what it could but the Sanitary department didn't have enough trucks or men to take care of the regular garbage collection, let alone fool around with paper and tin cans.

In desperation I appealed to the local scrap paper dealer. He was up to his neck with no equipment and very little help and the deeper I went into the problem, the thicker it got.

The War Production Board kept screaming for more paper and more cans and sent me about a ton of printed matter designed to sell me on the need of greater effort. They also sent high powered expeditors around to prod me into action, but nobody seemed to be able to figure out a way to collect the stuff and get it to the mills.

I got a nice congratulatory letter from the Governor telling me how happy he was to confirm my appointment and asking me to take a oath to uphold and defend the constitution.

After sitting in the Mayor's lap and crying like a baby, I finally got him to agree to make a city wide collection of cans if I would get folks to put them in bags or boxes and set them out in front of the house on a certain day. Fine, I was really getting somewhere.

I went on the radio and pleaded with folks to gather all the cans they could, wash them, take the labels off, cut both ends and smash them flat, then put them out in front where we could get them.

I went to bed the night before the pick-up day, dreaming of mountains of nice, prepared tin cans. I was sure we'd get a couple of carloads. Well, the next morning I drove around town looking for cans. About every six blocks I'd find a box or bag of a dozen or so. Altogether we didn't get much more than a truck load and we'd covered the whole town.

Then I took some time off and interviewed a lot of folks to see if I could find out what the trouble was. The answers I got convinced me that the public is not sold on the proposition.

Ever since Pearl Harbor they have been asked to save scrap iron, aluminum, tin, tooth paste tubes, razors, bottles or what have you. Most folks took these appeals seriously in the beginning.

They did save the stuff and carried it to salvage depots only to see it lay around for months and finally be hauled to the city dump. Housewives saved cans and delivered them to their grocers and then they lay around around and rust. They collected all their waste paper, tied it in bundles and left it on the curb.

In some cases it lay there for a week, or blew over the streets.

In the meantime, over the radio and through the newspapers, the frantic appeals continued to be made. It got to be an old story. Just how we are going to overcome this anarchy I don't know. I can't say I blame folks much. Maybe before we wind things up in the Pacific, some of our bright Washington bureaucrats will figure out what

HOME ON THE RANGE

RURAL COMMON SENSE

By Spuds Johnson

EXTENDING ELECTRICITY IN RURAL AREAS CAN BE OF TREMENDOUS BENEFIT

One of the big construction jobs in the United States after the war will be the extension of electric service to farms and rural homes. The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that slightly less than 50 percent of the country's farms are now electrified and the 2,600,000 other rural dwellings are still without central station electric service.

REA-financed rural electric systems throughout the country have already been instructed to start work on delayed power line construction projects, since materials are again available.

Extending the service to most of the potential users not only would bring power for modern conveniences to rural homes but also would provide employment to a large number of people for at least five years. Engineers believe that the program would pay its own way.

Many rural young men and women now in the armed forces are in war factories are more likely to go back to the farm if there is an early prospect of getting electricity with its resulting modern conveniences. People now on farms will no longer be satisfied to go without electricity in the farm home.

The importance of electricity to efficient farming became so obvious early in the war that materials highly important to war needs have been released for the electrification of more farms during the war. If the farm-sized farm is to survive and to hold its own in competition with corporation farming and with post-war farming in other countries, say agricultural leaders and educators, it must be enabled to take full advantage of electricity in the production and preservation of crops and in livestock management. On farms there are many practical uses of electricity for saving time and labor for reducing operating costs and increasing farm income. Only a few need to be named. Electricity provides light and heat and power for many purposes, including refrigeration and the pumping of water. One kilowatt hour will pump 1,000 gallons of water from the average farm well. It will milk 30 cows, heat 5 gallons of water, grind 100 bushels of grain, run a tool grinder for four hours, shell 30 bushels of corn, cut 10 gallons of milk, or cut 1 ton of ensilage and elevate it into a 30-foot silo.

Running water in the house brings better sanitation and saves many steps. Refrigeration pre-

Have You Heard The One About
the business man who looked the other way? There aren't many public liability suits written up in our local papers. Most of them never get into court, but that doesn't mean property owners, merchants, farmers and others are not being sued. Any one who comes to your house, into your store, your factory, whether you want to see them or not, maybe a friend, a customer or just someone trying to see you something you don't want anything can happen and often does and someone gets hurt on your premises. The next time you know you'll be getting an important looking paper saying "Greetings" and a request to appear in court to show cause why you shouldn't pay over $5,000 or more for allowing someone to get hurt on your premises.
If you haven't a public liability policy all that is necessary for you to do is to employ a lawyer, take the case to court and enjoy a good verbal fight, and if you lose pay your lawyer, court costs and the judgment (seldom over $20,000) But if you have public liability insurance you can take a ringside seat and let your insurance company pay all costs of the lawsuit, witnesses, lawyers, bond, court costs, etc. In addition pay the judgment against you up to the amount stated in your policy.
Warning: this liability insurance does not pay claims against you for injury to your employees. You may need workmen's compensation. Don't be so sure and find out about our insurance and service. We can save you 20% on your P.L. and W.C. insurance. C.M. Boyd & Co.

57 Registrants Offer To Furnish Blood At Clinic

ever held in Central Florida. Of special interest was the report that 74 percent of the volunteers were women and that 15 additional persons volunteered the night before the clinic was held and five more came in during the day.

"Apparently they did not realize that the schedule was organized nearly two weeks ago," Mrs. Dinglefield said. "Because of the pressing business at hand, I could not extend the full courtesies to them and I wish to offer my profound apologies and appreciation to all those who wanted to volunteer. Those who are anxious to donate blood should register at once with the Red Cross so that a new filing system can be set up for the future."

"The full schedule was largely made possible through the efficiency of the technicians and our own County Nurse, Mrs. Frances McDougall," Mrs. Dinglefield said. "As one technician expressed it: I feel a moral obligation to the many fine-spirited citizens of Seminole County to waste not a single minute."

The Registrars and Donor Attendance Committee functioned with alertness and faithfulness, she said, while the loyalty and splendid cooperation of the donors was displayed by their conscientiousness with which they adhered to the prescribed diet and by their promptness in appearing throughout the day to keep the schedule running smoothly.

"I was touched by letters received from three servicemen who after their registration here were transferred to Miami, Norfolk Va. and San Diego, Calif., respectively," Mrs. Dinglefield added. "Each promised me that they will go to their nearest Blood Bank for donation as soon as they themselves become eligible for the Sanford Blood Bank show."

One seaman attached to the local Base on the last day for registration "pledged for the privilege of donating blood," to keep a pledge six buddies out on Guadalcanal had made to each other. Since two buddies were killed, each of the remaining four vowed to make blood do atony wherever possible, whenever possible, for the duration. His appointment at that late date was arranged by a local mother, whose son, too, is somewhere out in the Pacific. To further recognize the spirit of our citizens, three donors slightly over the age limit underwent the personal inconvenience of a physical examination and the expense for same in order to receive a medical release to make them eligible for donation.

"According to records of the Central Florida Blood Bank, Inc.," Mrs. Dinglefield said, "Sanford may justly be proud of its Garden Club for it is the first woman's organization in the entire Fifth Congressional District to stage a Blood Bank independent."

Those who volunteered to donate blood were Mrs. B. H. Squires, Mrs. Gordon M. Farn, Mrs. F. Cooper, Mrs. Charles Hays, Miss Corrie Baker, Mrs. E. G. Kiclaw, E. H. Carter, Mrs. R. L. Garrison, Mrs. W. D. Thornton, Mrs. A. E. Oliver, D. Freeman, Mrs. W. W. Tyler, Mrs. George Ewan, W. R. Vincent, Mrs. R. F. Moulde, Mrs. Nash B. Kennedy, Mrs. C. H. French Troops In Syria Won't Budge But Cease Firing

commander has been instructed to deal with the situation as he saw fit and in a "conciliatory spirit."

The British Foreign Office, announcing France had been invited to confer in London at an unspecified date, said the United States agreed to take part in the conference.

Demolished Syrian capital was unscathed under a pall of smoke billowing from the shattered center of the city. The dead were estimated at 400, the wounded 500.

The French council of ministers, meeting in Paris, is expected to set forth the official French position on Churchill's dramatic intervention.

LONDON, June 1. (AP)—British yesterday ordered her powerful Mid-Eastern army to halt the capture of Syria to cease firing and withdraw to their barracks "in order to avoid a collision between British and French forces."

He called upon the French leader "immediately" to order French troops in Syria to cease firing and withdraw to their barracks "in order to avoid a collision between British and French forces."

Once the firing has ceased and order has been restored, we shall be prepared to begin tripartite discussions here in London," Churchill said, leaving the obvious implication that British intervention would be extended beyond the shooting period.

A Paris dispatch said a hasty meeting called by Gen. Charles de Gaulle to consider Britain's announcement of her intervention in the Syrian dispute broke up tonight apparently without a decision on how France was to respond.

The Gaullist left the office for home at 9:30 P.M. and no statement by the Government was expected tonight, the dispatch said.

94 Students To Graduate From Seminole High

The processional will be "Pomp and Circumstance" by Edgar, and recessional, "Waltz March" after the play by the High School Orchestra. Marshalls will be Robert and Russell Hasty. Seniors will sing their class song. Much praise by both faculty and students has been given the Valedictory address delivered Thursday morning at Class Day exercises by Miss Edith Chestnut, honor student, who presented an address of farewell in a clear, unflattering manner.

"Probably no other class in the long history of Seminole High School has tried so hard to educate its faculty upon the valedictory they have made, and were it not for wartime shortages, we would confer on each of them a new degree, or else print them a new degree to college positions," she stated.

The devotional was led by Miss Ouida Davis, Betty Moore, in behalf of the class, thanked teachers and parents for guidance throughout the school year.

Mrs. Ruth Jackson, school musical director, was commended for her fine work by Principal Morla, who then introduced her husband, Capt. Tom Jackson, recently returned from overseas, who sang "Hymn Bread" and "The Irish Girl."

Presentation of athletic and other awards was made by Mrs. Anna Samuels, Coach C. F. Ketles and Alex. R. Johnson. The latter presented the Chapman with a $25 war bond given by the Nease Roadbook Foundation as first prize for a Future Farmer food for victory production project.

Half A Million Germans Fully Armed In Norway

OSLO, Norway, June 1.—A German army of nearly half a million men, still almost fully armed, is scattered over liberated Norway. Once this country's complete masters, these men, now subservient and cooperative with Allied and home resistance forces, although occasionally an arrogant officer struts as offensively as ever, seemingly unaware of defeat.

The situation is unique since the status of the Germans here is not that of war prisoners, but "disarmed Germans." But actually, few have been disarmed, and they are living well in their own accumulated rations. Disarmament is progressing in orderly fashion, but the Nazis' return to Germany awaits transports not yet available.

Meanwhile, since the Germans are not war prisoners, the occupation forces are under no obligation to feed or pay them, and they must subsist on their own resources. Even in Oslo, where every day now is like a Saturday afternoon in American country, one finds apartment houses still filled with German installations.

For example, last night I entered a big office building cellar which was still a center of German naval communications, with uninterfered with light coming from telephone switchboard connected with all naval installations in the country. Calls came frequently and during slack intervals the lights exchanged light messages with operators at Narvik, Bergen and other places. Three sailors were busy sending to other parts a teletype news summary, picked up from British stations.

The sailors and girls seemingly were well satisfied. The station is commanded by a young navy officer who was quite arrogant at first but later became subservient. The boasted German navy discipline is at a low ebb. A common sailor acting as interpreter talked to the officer as an equals, never said "sir."

Osaka, Japan, June 1.—The city of Osaka, Japan, was hit by a double typhoon Sunday, the keystone of the Japanese defense line. Aerial bombardment was reported in Osaka. Others were so hard pressed they couldn't establish a new defense system.

At Chungking, a Chinese spokesman announced a grand counter-offensive "earlier than originally planned" as the Japanese halted their extensive northward withdrawals on the continent.

South China columns expanded the breach in Japan's Indo-China corridor to 140 miles and set off a bitterly disputed battle. Small villages in Japanese counter-attacks were routed in the Philippines and on New Guinea.

Capt. Albert Nimitts announced he had been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for his heroic actions in the Philippines. He said that Americans did not want the British fleet to come into the Pacific because they were to carry on this war as a prize to carry on this war as a prize to carry on this war.

27 Persons Hurt When Steamline Jumps The Track

Johnson, along with J. P. Coyne of Tampa, engineer, and Virgil Smith, fireman, were shaken by the wreck but not injured.

"We were going at our usual speed of about 60 miles an hour," Coyne said. "The accident happened on a straight stretch of track. The rails seemed to spread apart under us."

Passengers, even those injured, said they felt a grind but no crash.

Twenty-seven persons were taken to Osceola hospital in Kissimmee for treatment. The other 15 injured, most of them suffering bruises, cuts and shaken nerves, were treated on the spot.

Those in the Kissimmee hospital were identified as follows:

- W. H. Brown, Lakeland; head of ship.
- W. H. Brown, Lakeland; head of ship.

Already pro-Yugoslav groups have been organized in both areas. Then there is that Carinthia and Venezia Giulia are Slovenia in population and should join Yugoslavia, Slovenia is part of Yugoslavia and Italy. Slovenia has been ruled into Carinthia and Venezia Giulia in past years. It is not an exaggeration to say that the Yugoslav army has been organized in both areas. Russia Would Allow No Discussion Of Any Question Involving Soviets

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—The State Department today was in a compulsory stalemate on the question of "because of our obligations under the World Security Organization," Acting Secretary Joseph Gurnea expressed the department's views before the House Post-war Military Committee. Gurnea, former ambassador to Japan, said "military preparedness counts in thinking of potential enemies."

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4. (AP)—The United States is seeking some way out of the United Nations conference stalemate on the veto voting issue but without the slightest yielding on its own insistence that there must be no veto on the right of discussion in the World Security Council. If American leadership fails to break this deadlock in which Russia is at odds with the U.S., Britain, China and France—the conference may produce a wide-open floor fight in the coming days.

Miss Leiferman is noted in Sanford for her humorous monologues, given before many civic clubs and organizations. Before entering the service, she was employed in Chicago as a technical secretary in a chemical analytical laboratory.

Plan To Fix Food Quotas Given Truman

New Secretary Of Agriculture Would Limit Supplies For Army, Lend-Lease

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Chairman Anderson (D-NM) of the House Food Committee, proposed today that government agencies—including the Army—be given fixed food quotas to prevent raids on civilian cupboards. He suggested to the President that food allotments for Army, overseas shipments and civilians be assigned for three-month periods and that no agency be permitted to go beyond its allotment. Anderson becomes Secretary of Agriculture next month.

Reflecting sharp reductions in this country and Canada, the world's hog population declined about 9 per cent during the past year to complicate the problem of stretching meat supplies over a war-weary world.

Reporting this, the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations said the reduction in war-battered continental Europe is much less than in this country.

Hog numbers dropped nearly 30 per cent in this country during 1944. This reduction reflects principally a short supply of feed during the first nine months of the year and a lowering of the government's price guarantee for hogs.

World hog numbers at the beginning of 1945 are estimated at 230,000,000 head compared with 250,000,000 at the beginning of 1944. The 1945 number represents a decline of 13 per cent from the record level of 1940 and 10 per cent from the average for the 1935-40 period.

Hog numbers in North America, mainly the United States, Canada and Mexico, totaled nearly 75,000,000 head at the beginning of this year compared with the record of 99,000,000 at the beginning of 1944.

"Unless the current downward trend in hog numbers in the United States and Canada is checked, the OFAR said, the total in these two countries by the end of this year is not likely to be far above that of the beginning of 1940 when it amounted to 66,000,000 head."

The War Food Administration has asked farmers to increase production nearly 10,000,000 head this year, but Government surveys indicate that production may fall 5,000,000 head short of the goal.

Ed Lane Reveals Bond Sales Lagging
