Organizations which have asked to be heard include the Federated Council of Churches, the Non-Partisan League of Nations Association and the Association of University Women. Opportunity also will be given to opponents of the world court idea to present their views.

Nearly 175 automobilists reached the west side of the bridge from Knob at 7 o'clock Friday night. The motorists have declared to Yuma authorities that they are "standing on government property" while they are on the bridge and are reported to have declined to return to California soil.

The total number of cars in the motorcade was estimated at less than 200 carrying approximately 700 persons.

The travelers were led through the federal quarantine district reservation to the bridge by authorities of Imperial county, according to local officials.

Churches Observe Good Friday With Fitting Services

(Continued from page 1.) file churches, on the other hand, it seems to be well established that originally no yearly cycle of festivals was known at all.

"From its earliest observance, the day was marked by a specially rigorous fast, and also, on the whole, by a tendency to greater simplicity in the services of the church. In Spain it became customary to close the churches altogether as a sign of mourning but this practice was condemned by the council of Toledo in 693.

"In the Roman Catholic Church the Good Friday ritual at present observed is marked by many special features, most of which can be traced close to a date at least prior to the close of the eighth century. The altar and officiating clergy are draped in black, this being the only day on which that color is permitted.

"The Greek Church also the Good Friday fast is excessively strict; as in the Roman Church, the Passion history is read and the cross adored, towards evening a dramatic representation of the entombment takes place, amid open demonstrations of contempt for Judas and the Jews.

"In the Lutheran churches the organ is silent on this day, and the altar, font and pulpit are draped in black, as indeed throughout the Holy Week.

Books of Several County Officials In Good Condition

According to a report just submitted to Ernest Amos, state comptroller, by LeRoy Campbell, state auditor, who has been engaged in auditing the books of the several county clerks, these books have been found to be in excellent shape and deserving of special credit.

Mr. Campbell's letter to Comptroller Amos regarding his work here, lists the condition of each set of books as follows:

"I have just concluded an examination and check of the accounts, records and reports of the officials of Seminole County and respectfully submit my report herewith. Clerk of Court.

E. A. Douglas, Clerk of Court, has accounted for all Tax Certificates charged to him and has been prompt in making reports and returns, his accounts of county funds and accounts against the Tax Collector and Sheriff are accurately and neatly kept.

E. F. Householder, County Judge has accounted for and promptly deposited to the General School Fund all collections from Hunting and Trapping Licenses, his records, reports and accounts are well kept, he is prompt in making all reports required by law.

Jno. D. Jinkins, Tax Collector, has accounted for and remitted all collections on 1923 roll up to April 1st, and has balance in Tax Collector's account to cover collections to date, his accounts are probably better kept than those of most collectors, he closes his accounts according to law and is among the first to make final settlement with State and County, his percentage of collections will compare very favorably with any county in the State.

Superintendent of Schools T. W. Lawton, Superintendent of Schools, makes his reports promptly and accurately, his books are well kept and posted up to date.

County Commissioners have regularly recorded minutes of meetings and a concise statement of the business transacted by them.

The Sheriff, C. M. Hand, has accounted for and promptly deposited all collections to the Fine and Forfeiture Fund and holds the following: Robert Hinson, due April, 1924, $110.35.

FIVE FIREMEN ARE KILLED AS FACTORY BURNS

Battalion Chief Kerwin, in charge of the firemen in the building when it collapsed, said the cause of the fire was an unknown cause, and that his men were on the third floor working to confine the flames to the floor above them.

He saw the roof start to buckle and ordered all men out of the building. Some of them stepped to an adjoining building but several elected to go down the fire escape. The battalion chief said he believed a gas pocket had formed, as the wall was pushed out when the roof collapsed.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

On Getting Good Investment Advice.

"It seems to me that your mother is making a grave mistake in giving $3,000 to set young Lang up in business," remarked Aunt Emmy, when Helen finished telling her of the wonderful plan Clarence Lang had for starting in business himself. "He is a likeable chap," Aunt Emmy continued, "and very pleasant at parties and such, but if he really were a good business man he wouldn't need his relatives or friends to set him up in business."

"Why not, Aunt Emmy?" queried Helen. "It doesn't take so much money, really, and he can get ahead so much faster. What's the use of being just a clerk if he has real ability?"

"That he has so much ability remains to be demonstrated," said Aunt Emmy. "If he were as competent as he has led you people to believe he is he would have no trouble getting himself financed by men who know the business he desires to venture into. There are many numbers of men who are willing to back ability and who will stand behind a man's achievements, financially, and take their share of the profit for doing it. Before your mother goes ahead she should consult her bank about making such a move."

"I don't see why, Aunt. The money is here."

"Yes, but she did not earn it. She inherited it, and I doubt if she has any real sense of its value. Her banks know her financial situation and they can advise her."

"Well, I'll tell mother, but I don't think she will like it," said Helen. "The next day Helen's mother came to see Aunt Emmy."

"I took your advice, Emmy," she said, "and called on Mr. Allen at the bank and told him about what I wanted to do for Clarence. Mr. Allen made a lot of things clear to me. First of all he showed me that I am not rich enough to take unnecessary chances. He said practically what you told Helen—that an able man can get business backing in a strictly business way and he pointed out that my first duty was to my own home, and that I must consider those girls of mine before anyone else. Of course, that Clarence might not succeed never entered my head. But Mr. Allen pointed out that possibility. There are so many angles to a new business that I really didn't know about. Mr. Allen was so nice about it. He asked me to come in again whenever I was puzzled about money affairs."

"Well, don't forget that next time you want to use any of your capital. If more people would go to their banks for advice there would be far less money troubles in the world," advised Aunt Emmy.—ANNE B. AYMES.

FITTING BANKERS FOR THEIR WORK

Financial conditions are rapidly increasing the demand for skilled men and women. The demand is met by the American Institute of Banking, the educational section of the American Bankers Association, organized in 1900. It was originally an association of clerks, but since 1903 its membership has included bank directors, officers and clerks. From a few hundred the institute's membership has grown steadily to a figure in excess of fifty-two thousand. It is not conducted for profit. It has chapters in more than one hundred and fifty of the country's largest cities. Its class enrollment of nearly thirty thousand is greater than the combined registration of Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, the University of Chicago and the naval and military academies at Annapolis and West Point. It offers instruction in banking practice, economics, commercial law, negotiable instruments, credits, accounting, bonds and investments, public speaking, and kindred subjects designed to fit the banker for his work and enable him to fill well his place in his community.—Clarence R. Chaney, President American Institute of Banking.

BAY STATE GIVES NO OPPOSITION TO CALVIN COOLIDGE

Will Have Little Or No Opposition In Coming Republican Primaries In That State.

BOSTON, Apr. 19.—The only straight contest between President Coolidge and Senator Johnson in the presidential primaries in Massachusetts on April 23 will be in the first congressional district. Dwight E. McCormack of Westfield, pledged to Johnson, is a candidate for district delegate in opposition to John H. Waterhouse and William F. Whitting, pledged to Coolidge.

McCormack is a second year student at the Harvard Law School and was graduated in 1922 from Amherst College, President Coolidge's alma mater. The first district is in the western part of the state and includes a part of Hampshire county, the President's home county, although Northampton, his home city, and Amherst are in the second district. In the first district are the cities of Holyoke, North Adams, Pittsfield and Westfield.

There will be no contest for the seven delegates at large to the Republican national convention. All will go pledged to Coolidge, the list including Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Speaker Frederick H. Gillett, Governor Channing H. Cox and William A. Butler, national committeeman and manager of the Coolidge campaign.

There will be no contest for the eight places as delegate at large to the Democratic national convention, each with half a vote. The organization slate is headed by Senator David I. Walsh and is unopposed. The only opposition candidate is Brigadier General Charles H. Cole, who filed papers as a protest against the omission of the name of a world war veteran from the slate. General Cole has announced that if elected he will support Governor Smith of New York for the presidential nomination. Joseph C. Pelletier, former district attorney of Suffolk county, and removed from that position by the supreme court, filed as a candidate, but died March 25.

For the 64 places as Democratic district delegate, each with half a vote, there are 133 candidates, with contests in all but three of the 16 districts. Their presidential preferences are unannounced except in two instances, George F. Monahan in the 10th district being pledged to Governor Smith of New York, and Edward J. Sennot in the eighth district expressing a preference for William A. Gaston of Boston, Democratic nominee for United States senator against Senator Lodge in 1922.

Hunt's Washington Letter

BY HARRY B. HUNT, NEA Service Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The super-heated atmosphere that enveloped Washington during the fires of senatorial investigations began to rage early in January following the letters of President Coolidge and Secretary Wilson virtually demanding that further inquiries cease.

The eruptions that came to public notice in public statements and speeches on the Senate floor, gave little idea of the seething fury that was raging under the surface on both sides.

The situation has passed the stage of a "tempest in a teapot." It has passed the stage even of a tempest over "The Teapot." A condition is being developed that may bring a blowup beside which the Fall-Daugherty, Doherty-Slack eruption will be a tame and drab affair.

POLITICALLY, the affray to date has been a bout with padded gloves compared to the battle that is to come.

How much longer the amenities of a fight under recognized rules will be continued is a question. Probably not long.

Both sides are already charging "outrages" and at any minute now all rules are likely to go to the winds.

National Music Week.

Music has charms to soothe a savage breast, To soften rocks, or bend a knotted oak. I've read that things inanimate have moved, And as with living souls, have been informed. By magic numbers and persuasive sound.

The power of music is great. It is the music of the hand-organ man that makes the monkey dance. The soft notes of a baby grand or a sweet, singing voice has often sufficed to turn the mind of the most unresponsive man to thoughts of love.

Now imagine if you can a world devoid of music. There could be no operas, no musical comedies, no dancing, no poetry, for poetry is but wordy music. Then there could be no Shakespearean plays. And among the smaller things of life, no whistling for the plowman as he tramps along the furrow on a summer's day.

Such could never be the case, but the music that is, could be improved and a better understanding of the higher elements of musical appreciation could be disseminated among our people.

Not that we would counsel an utter disregard of one for the other. Every score has some quality and every melody some worthy feature. But the tendency of Americans as they dash madly through their usually thoughtless existence, is to neglect everything which cannot be grasped in a moment's time.

For this purpose, this purpose of thinking, when music is heard, has been set aside the week of May 4 to 10. It has been officially designated as National Music Week and will be observed throughout the United States.

The Hatters Are Right.

The newspapers are having a lot of fun with that ingenious suggestion of a national association of straw-hat manufacturers that preachers urge the wearing of proper head-gear as a means to grace.

Impertinent newspaper paragraphers pretend to think that the straw-hat makers are out for business with this show of interest in the welfare of human souls.

The "Easter Bonnet" has been a long-time stand-by of the comic-supplement makers. The jokes about the Easter bonnet placed end to end would reach seventeen million, nine hundred and eighty-seven miles.

And any one with a grain of sense knows that a new straw hat and a new suit of clothes, a fresh hair cut and a shoe shine, can convert the worst young sinner on the block into a model young gentleman ready to go to church and be saved.

The Hatters have really offered some good sermon material. Sunday clothes are a big aid to Salvation.

Sanford's Forum

Editor The Herald: You say this in an editorial squib: "What we can't understand is why Altamonte Springs should bring their local politics to Sanford to be tried."

Will you kindly permit space for reply as it is a matter of local politics, but one in which the people of Sanford and Seminole County is intensely interested.

As a member of the Florida legislature Mr. Forrest Lakes had passed a law to establish the municipality of Altamonte Springs, and section 11 of that act gave the town council the power to provide the qualifications of its voters.

The town council passed an ordinance "that persons of lawful age owning property, residing in the corporate limits for four months out of the year may register as a voter, and any person so registering shall be entitled to vote and participate in any election held in said municipality to the same extent as if said person was otherwise qualified as a voter under the general election laws of the state."

Under this law and ordinance a resident of New Jersey was elected mayor, residents of Canada registered and voted, residents and voters in other states came under this ruling and through this vote legal residents were in a manner franchised. The mayor of Altamonte at the meeting in Sanford, April 14, publicly proclaimed that "we control the negro vote."

Petitions were sent to Mr. Lake at Tallahassee urging the revocation of the charter. A petition followed signed by the women of Altamonte, but Mr. Lake refused to give us the relief asked. Mr. Lake is again a candidate for the legislature. I made personal appeal and fully explained the condition existing in Altamonte Springs. We did not want a local government in which aliens, non-residents and a controlled negro vote could dominate our little burg.

Mr. Lake refused our appeal. Where Sanford and Seminole County becomes interested is the fact that under such charter and conditions the proposed home and school will be in another section of the state, and millions of dollars will be expended upon this project. It would have meant the growth and development of Sanford beyond any other possible effort and means. It would have advanced the value of every foot of land within the borders of the county, and made the county known throughout the country. It would have added thousands to our population and I firmly believe would have been the means of bringing about the deepening of Lake St. John's for large vessels.

For in this project is brought to the newspaper fraternity of the entire country.

In Cocoa, at the Florida State Press Association, April 18, Mr. and Mrs. Haines as a nucleus, gave the press for the purpose of $50,000 for large vessels, $10,000 cash for preliminary expenses, and $150,000 first class guaranteed securities, and all this immediately, and a further donation later of the entire lake estate at Altamonte Springs but it was given with the sole provision that the home and school should not be located here, and for the reason stated above.

Very truly yours, CHARLES D. HAINES

Japan Agitated, She'll Calm Down, And We'll Be Friends, Some Politicians. Copyright, 1924

THERE IS excitement in Japan and foolish talk because this country emphatically affirms its determination to keep out Asiatic immigration.

The Japanese newspaper, Asahi, warns the United States that the entire Japanese nation stands back of Japan's protest.

Yorodzu bluntly suggests that Japan ought to fight the United States at once: "A clash between races sooner or later is inevitable. America apparently wants it now and all races opposed to the whites should rise up."

Japan ought to be satisfied with one earthquake at a time, but to say that to the Japanese might sound flippant, considering their recent misfortune.

THERE WON'T be any war between the United States and Japan just now, but it may come later, and this country should have that in mind and supply the necessary flying machines and submarines.

VERY ENLIGHTENING is the statement of Yorodzu that Japan would be willing now to fight the United States over the immigration issue.

If the Japanese are willing to fight to force Asiatic immigration upon the United States, that fact is important.

IN PARIS, the Japanese ambassador calls upon Prime Minister Poincare, to request Poincare to furnish a convenient excuse for repudiation of their debts to the United States. We should be grateful that we are out of that mess.

WE SHOULD maintain a sympathetic attitude toward Japan, not paying too much attention to the jingo newspapers. We do not intend to have Asiatic colonization on our part of this continent, and we think we are able to enforce our intention.

But we can at least sympathize with Japan's disappointment. You observe that the Japanese prime minister speaks of the Pacific as the "ocean," meaning the Pacific Ocean.

Americans have a feeling that is in our ocean. But we know how tempting our side of that ocean is to Asiatics. They see themselves barred from the continent of Australia. Millions of Australians tell them to keep out and MEAN it. California tempts them.

WHILE JAPAN in good faith is telling us how cruel it is to exclude her from the United States, you read without surprise that Japan is barring all Chinese laborers from Japan's soil. Chinese cooks, once allowed to enter, are now shut out of Japan because they came in apparently to cook, but really to remain in as coolies. The police of Tokio are rounding up all Chinese coolies to be deported.

That may diminish China's inclination to accept the Japanese suggestion that "all yellow races rise up against the whites."

The safety of Europe, and England is found in her control of India, lies in the fact that different kinds of Asiatics hate EACH OTHER worse than they hate any kind of white people.

A MAJORITY of Democrats in office, you don't hear from the others—believe Mr. Ralston of Indiana, will be the Democratic presidential candidate. Some supposed to be wise say the real plan of Al Smith boomers is to nominate Ralston for first place and get the vice presidential nomination for Al Smith. That of itself would be quite an honor. Mr. Ralston is not young, unfortunately, and vice presidents occasionally become presidents—Roosevelt and Coolidge, for instance.

THE AL SMITH boom is stronger than ever, at least in Wall Street betting. The odds against his election which were twenty to one, have now dropped to seven to one. That's a chance for W. J. Bryan to make ten dollars by betting seventy Mr. Bryan is dead sure and certain that Al Smith couldn't be nominated or elected.

Al Smith's friends will remember with comfort that Mr. Bryan has been mistaken a couple of times.

IT SEEMS that Mr. Vandenberg, once president of the National City Bank, and Mr. Coughlin, lawyer from California, to help the senate investigating committee. Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, suggested the idea; Mr. Vandenberg carried it out.

MR. VANDERLIP is the man who suggests that there is something queer—to put it mildly—in President Harding's sale of his little Ohio newspaper. Many friends of the dead President took offense at that and Mr. Vandenberg was requested to resign from various corporations and boards of directors. Now he is fighting for it. It might be a good thing if more men with big pocketbooks decided to get on the outside and get the inside.

He Can't Be Presented Until He's Presentable

THE MAN WHO WORKS "Labor Omnia Vincit" MIAMI BEACH TRIBUNE

A French collaborator in speaking of the American calls him "a man of surprise." The French critic states that the American is neither solely Anglo-Saxon nor solely Latin, but one thing is apparent to all, the American loves to work.

This active characteristic of the American has made him distinctive among nationalities. The American is the personification of the life dynamic activity is the basic law of his being. He is the lover of huge and hard tasks, for these furnish resistance to his energetic will. Obstacles to him, are just things to be overcome.

The American is seldom calm, but he is invariably energetic. The man who loves to work is the man who is energetic. He is the man who is energetic. He is the man who is energetic.

We are told when we came to Miami that it would be difficult to work down here, that the climate was too warm, that people were accustomed to live the life here that is more or less germane to the tropics.

We have found the truth to be quite the opposite. We defy anyone to find a more active, moving, life-filled city than Miami and there are few winter resorts that give the impression of greater activity than Miami Beach. North-ers who come down here in large numbers bring with them the working spirit of the north and plunge into their varied activities with the same spirit of energy and industry. Our community is filled with workers and for this reason we believe in its present and its future.

Nothing really great ever happens without work. No one is truly happy who does not have his mind and his hands filled with activity. "Genius," said ex-President Timothy Dwight, of Yale, "is the power of making efforts."

Work always wins in the end over mere genius, or mere talk; it wins over intellect, beauty, nature, over fine theories, political or religious or social, yes, even over inert goodness. The powers of Providence seem to join with the worker wherever he lives and wherever he works, providing he toils sincerely at a genuine and worthy task.

You can never overcome a real worker; he is solidly and confidently founded upon what he has done and is doing; he is a man who has built upon a rock rather than upon shifting sand. The future as well as the present belongs to the worker. "One day it shall delight you also to remember labor done," says Boswell of Johnson.

"Work in every hour," says Emerson, "paid or unpaid; see only that you work, and then can't not escape the reward."

The worker knows that he can give his cause, to use Gladstone's phrase, to be certain "arbitration of time," and he is serene. It is the idle, hesitant, wavering an whose soul is filled with naams and fear.

Two college friends of mine trusted me greatly since their graduation. One was a brilliant winner, the other a dull loser. Seven years after graduation we found the prize winner in the far west in a small office of a second rate barber. The man who stood almost in the center of the room, who had his eyes fixed on the floor

 Souls Sunday School Teachers.

EASTER EGG HUNT
 Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Stanley entertained the beginners department of the Baptist Church at an Easter hunt at their home on the lake at the end of Mellenville Avenue, Saturday afternoon.
 Twenty-five children entered and hunted for eggs in the grass everywhere on those spacious grounds around the home. Several teachers and a number of parents were present to help and enjoy the refreshments, which consisted of ice cream and hot crackers. The children say they had all they could eat and were anxious for another Easter hunt.

LIBRARY STORY HOUR
 Mrs. Thomas Owen will have charge of the Story Hour next Saturday, and will include "The Blue Bird" in the stories.
 This is an exceptionally beautiful fairy tale and is an adaptation from the play of that name.
 Mrs. Mable Keppeler told an interesting story and several extracts from the "Minnerva" stories last week which are always great favorites with the children. Her drawings are very clever and many are much enjoyed and they regret that this will be the last story hour.

MUSICAL PARAGRAPHS
 BY F. S. M.
 Our first officially appointed "National Music Week" begins the first Sunday in May, the fourth. The object of music week is to help to create a musical atmosphere among the people and encourage the love of music and its unlimited unfolding.
 Because America lags behind other nations musically we greatly need the inspiration of a music week.
 And because we love America we know a "Musical America" would be a greater America, a nobler America, a truer America.
 Senator Fletcher of Florida is the author of a recent senate bill for the establishment of a National Conservatory of Music and Art. The effort to promote and encourage the love of music and its unlimited unfolding.
 A Highlander in a hospital ward feeling his last moment near asked to hear his favorite instrument the bagpipe, so a pipe was sent for, he played, the Highlander recovered, but the story goes the other patients died.
 Cutsomer: What time is that girl playing in the back of the store?
 Salesman: That isn't any time it is one of the clerks dusting off a piano.—A. M. M. (Musical America).
 Through what varied stages piano technique has passed since many years ago I first touched the tinny keyboard of a "old square." We then "struck-out" our tones from high raised fingers, that fell on the ball and not the tip. Coppers sometimes held on the back of the hand at practice time insured no arm motion. Chords and octaves were pounded in from the wrist. A modified form of this wrist touch originated at Stuttgart Conservatory and came to be known as the conservatory "flip-top."
 How many times at lessons did I hear that vociferous exclamation "Stop the arm motion." Of course there were two piano pedals soft and loud, the latter (now called damper) was put down on the first beat of the measure and let up "just anywhere."
 Beethoven, however, before this time taught extreme care in use of pedals. And so the real pianist then as now study pedal effects. With the vogue of upright pianos along the more rare grand Dr. William Mason published his four splendid books on "Touch Technique with the explanation of arm muscle and use in "up" and "down" and playing. Relaxation was the slogan. Everyone now had learned the syncopated pedaling used by artists.
 At the same time across the water Leschitzky was teaching strange things, such as prepared tones, arm weight and finger tips "dropped" and no longer "struck" the keys. There were all sorts of tricks and pedaling devices from the syncopated to catching overtones.
 And now we are introduced to a very later "today" technique that is truly startling. Henry Carvel, American modernist composer and pianist shows us. Mr. Carvel is quite the rage abroad as well as at home. His is called the "flat technique" for to obtain desired results he hammers with his fists, plays cords with his elbow, and sometimes jumping from his piano stool while performing to play on the strings with his fingers.
 But that's nothing once when Mozart was playing in an organ contest and all the playing apparatus of his two hands and two feet were most energetically employed he just bobbed down his head and pushed in the stop with his nose.
 Have you not learned how Henry Carvel uses the pedal that "Soud of the piano," but some things have no soul, so it may be he does not need the pedal. At any rate he could not during such acrobatic performances use the damper as one futurist described. "He put his pedal down at the beginning and so far as I know has not released it yet." Well. What next in piano technique?

Poultry Farms--LONGWOOD--Orange Groves

LONGWOOD IS POULTRY CENTER OF FLORIDA WHERE THE FINEST CHICKENS OF STATE ARE RAISED

Longwood Raised Birds Receive Highest Awards in State Fairs And All Over Country—Is Main Industry of Thriving Little Seminole County Town.

Few people in this state know and it is a safe prediction that there are those in Seminole county who are not familiar with the fact that Longwood, that thriving little town south of the county seat, is known as the poultry center of Florida. And yet it enjoys precisely that reputation and Longwood-raised fowls are known throughout the entire state as being the best stock that is to be found anywhere.

In a lengthy article appearing in the magazine, "Poultry in Florida," of the issue of September, 1923, the industry at this town is depicted in a perceptive study of the situation by Harriet McWorkman. Says the writer: Longwood immediately impressed me as an ideal location for the poultry business. It is situated on the main line of the Atlantic Coast line railway, about half-way between Sanford and Orlando, and the Dixie Highway runs through the town. Thus it has the advantage of being near an excellent market, with excellent shipping facilities. The soil and drainage are very good in this section and the fine old oaks and other trees give an abundance of shade.

Another reason for the outstanding success of the poultrymen in this section is the feeling of good will and friendliness which exists among them.

Each one is developing his own chosen breed and putting in his best efforts to keep it high grade, but they are all pulling together for Longwood poultry. By clubbing together they are able to get their feed at jobbers' prices, which means quite a saving to the individual buyers. Incidentally, they buy only the best feeds obtainable. They also take special pride in keeping their places attractive, as well as clean and sanitary, and Longwood is very fortunate to have them in her community.

The poultrymen of Longwood sent a whole carload of exhibition birds to the Tampa fair last winter, and they attracted a great deal of attention, too. There was a large number of prize winners among them. In fact, there were very few that did not receive some kind of an honor.

Keystone Poultry Yards. The first raisers of poultry that the writer visited were Mr. and Mrs. Neimeyer, owners of the Keystone Poultry Yards. Here she was taken through the entire farm and explained just how the fowls were raised, etc. She was told that it was in 1917 when this firm first placed a bird on exhibition. Since that time it has placed thousands of them and has received in return such recognition. Regarding what she found at this farm the writer goes on to say: The farm is well equipped with comfortable, sanitary houses, and spacious yards which give the chickens plenty of good range. Mr. Neimeyer has a workshop where he builds much of his own equipment, such as mash hoppers, etc. He enjoys doing this, just as he does his other tasks. In fact, it would be difficult to find two people more happy and contented in their work than Mr. and Mrs. Neimeyer.

The Keystone Poultry Yard is prepared to supply day old chicks, hatching eggs and stock. They were, you might say, forced into the baby chick business by their customers and friends, who did not want to hatch eggs. They supply only chicks hatched from their own eggs and cannot therefore hatch large quantities. Although last year was their first year in the baby chick business, they were always sold from one to two months ahead. This branch of their business is assured of success, for they are putting their usual forethought and determination into it. They will begin hatching early in September and will have a hatch coming off every five days thereafter.

During the past six years the Keystone birds have won for Mr. and Mrs. Neimeyer diploma, medals, silver cups, cash, specials and about five hundred ribbons. They have been exhibited and won highest honors at the following shows: Tennessee State Fair; Roanoke, Va.; Bristol, Va.; Richmond, Va.; Georgia State Fair; Florida State Fair; South Florida Fair; Tampa, and Sub-Tropical Fair, Orlando.

The Neimeyers also have a few fine Partridge Cochins Bantams and some Toulouse geese. Longwood Squab Farm I had an unusually interesting visit at the Longwood Squab Farm, owned by Mr. J. A. Bistline. This business was started in a small way about twelve years ago and has grown steadily until Longwood squabs are being served to nearly all of the high-class hotels in this and other states. The quality of these squabs is so excellent that the New York commission has been paying Mr. Bistline the highest price for the last six

Mr. Bistline makes two regular shipments to New York each week throughout the summer. The squabs are dressed one day, put in ice that night and the next morning they are packed in refrigerated boxes (which are returnable). In the ten years that he has been shipping, he has never had a shipment arrive in bad condition if it was delivered by the express company in a reasonable time. The lowest average price for squabs is $5.00 per dozen in the summer, and this goes up as high as $12.00 per dozen in the winter time.

Mr. Bistline has a large number of birds, but he made the statement that it really takes very little time to care for them. Their houses are equipped with self-feeders, which gives them access to plenty of clean food at all times. Here are also automatic drinking fountains, where clean, fresh water is always at hand, and the pigeons will work diligently hatching and feeding their squabs for the market.

Mr. Bistline is also interested in fine chickens, and his Silver Wyandottes are known by poultry fanciers all over the country. They have won in nearly all of the quality shows of America, such as Washington, Hagerstown, Md., New York State Fair, Hanover, Pa., Roanoke, Va., Nashville Tenn., and Chicago Coliseum. In fact, they have never been defeated wherever they have been shown. They have won the grand and best display, all varieties competing, at the South Florida Fair, every time they have been shown. At the last show, they won nearly twice as many points as the nearest competitor.

Sunnyside Hatchery. Following the road directly west from the station, at the second turn, the Sunnyside Hatchery comes into view. The cozy white house, situated on the edge of a young orange grove, immediately gives one the feeling of hospitality and cheerfulness. Mr. Geo. Stuart, the owner, selected a very appropriate name for the hatchery in which the incubators are placed and where all the baby chicks are hatched, are located where they get the full benefit of the sunshine. In these hot days it is hard to appreciate any of the benefits of the sunshine, when our main concern is to keep out of it, but in the days when the baby chicks are hatching, sunshine is a large asset.

Mr. Stuart has made a complete study of the hatching of baby chicks and has built up an enviable reputation for quality and service. The demands for the Sunnyside baby chicks have been so heavy that he has been compelled to increase his hatching capacity threefold. He is now installing another Zuckey Mammoth incubator, of the very latest design and will have this ready for use in a short time. Chicks hatched in the Sunnyside Hatchery are unusually strong and vigorous. This may be due to the fact that Mr. Stuart takes a personal interest in every tray that comes off, and handles them with the utmost care. It is a very unusual thing for a crippled chick to be hatched in the center of the Short's Muscovy Duck Farm. A short distance south of Longwood on the Dixie Highway, one is greeted by the sign, "Welcome to Short's Muscovy Duck Farm." The attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. Short stands in the middle of their farm, which appears to be one of the most ideal locations in Florida for the raising of Muscovy ducks. They must have studied the habits of the particular breed they are raising, and then selected a site and designed a plant that would exactly meet these requirements.

Mr. and Mrs. Short were certainly fortunate in being able to combine the utility features with a very picturesque location. Green lawns slope from the highway to a shallow lake which covers about two acres. A brook of clear, fresh water winds across the back of the farm. In the center of it is a small island which is covered with a dense undergrowth, and is the home of hundreds of birds in a nesting season. I asked if the ducks built their nests on the island and was surprised to learn that they do not.

All breeding stock on the Short farm is hatched in nature's prescribed way—under the duck that laid the eggs. When ready for incubation, the mother duck proceeds to pull the fine down from her body and feather her nest. This down is placed in large quantities under the eggs and around the sides of the nest, making it possible for an average thirty eggs, and bring off a 98 per cent hatch. It takes five weeks for the eggs to hatch, and this patient mother never leaves her nest for food or water without first covering her eggs with down. The ducklings mature rapidly and are usually healthy. At six to ten weeks old they will weigh two to

BIG DEVELOPMENT BEING RUSHED BY LAKE JESSUP CO.

Recently Formed Organization is Carrying On Development Project That Means Much To Community.

The Lake Jessup Land Company is just making its bow to Longwood and Seminole county, and promises to be one of the county's largest development firms. Having just been incorporated, one would naturally assume that there would be little evidence of activity visible, but it is not true in this particular instance. Work was begun last October on the same plans that will be followed out by the present new corporation.

The company's treasurer and manager, W. S. Entzinger, who first saw the possibilities of Longwood and who saw the urgent need for such a development company, is one of the leading factors in the activities of the organization. Associated with him are some close friends and business associates.

The corporation will take up the development as begun by Mr. Entzinger and continue it through its entire tract of nearly 100,000 acres of choice citrus, vegetable and residential holdings. Roads are being built and buildings are now in the process of construction.

The main entrance to this wonderful homeowner's paradise has already been marked by a large arch just south of Longwood within the corporate limits and bearing the inscription of "Wildmere On The Lakes," the suburb beautiful and without a doubt Wildmere is truly a suburb beautiful. Although the work of road building and clearing has progressed less than a mile at this time, one only needs to give it the "once over" to see the future possibilities of this beautiful, high rolling lake section of Seminole county. A portion of the banks of Lake Wildmere, for a distance of nearly a mile and also of two other lakes, has been cleared of palings and is now ready for planting.

The survey and stakes establishing property and street lines are now completed on the Wildmere additions numbers one, two, three, four and five, and South Wildmere and plats of the above are nearly complete. Soon these will be ready for recording. This subdivision will include the land and lakes extending east from the Dixie Highway, which is the west boundary line of number one to the grant line on the east, Fairy Lake on the south and Evergreen Lake on the north. There will be lakehouses drives on Fairy and Wildmere lakes and others as the development progresses.

Nature has been more than liberal in doing its part to make this section of gorgeous setting and has left it with every natural advantage for the hand of man to beautify and it is anticipated by its developers that when the company with Mr. Entzinger as its chief supervisor, puts the finishing touches on this already beautiful section that the word Paradise will be an appropriate name for the place.

The land includes thousands of acres of the state's most fertile lands upon which anything can be grown. Here may be grown different citrus crops besides vegetables, truck and other agricultural crops. The tremendous tracts of timber land are now being cut and the trees cut up into lumber for construction work by the company. This timber is being cut in Longwood at a sawmill and remilling plant. It will be available at reasonable prices for those who buy land and wish to erect dwellings thereon. No high prices will prevail.

Altogether the work of this company may be said to be one of the biggest development plans ever attempted in this part of the state.

Longwood

A central location, on the Dixie Highway, in Seminole County, Florida. It has unsurpassed citrus soil, with plenty of lakes for protection. Good grove sites can still be obtained at reasonable prices.

It will pay you to make a special effort to look over this section promptly.

Longwood lies between two of the best county seats in Florida—Sanford and Orlando—about ten miles from the center of each. The corporate limits of these cities are rapidly approaching Longwood. Just think what that means to values in Longwood!

Far-sighted investors will not overlook this opportunity.

The Secretary, Cal. Thomas, Chamber of Commerce, Longwood, will gladly give you any information you require.

RED SEAL LYE

Keep Sinks, Drains and Pipes Clean

TRAPS and drain-pipes will clog. Ordinary soap is practically useless to clean them. The best way is to sift a little Red Seal Lye into the sink. Its powerful cleansing qualities quickly loosen the grease and dirt and the rinse water washes away the sediment, leaving the drain-pipe clean and sanitary. A can of Red Seal Lye saves many plumbing bills.

Be Sure and Buy only the genuine Red Seal Lye. Write for FREE booklet, "Home Helps". P. C. TOMSON & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Our Readers Want to Know

Red Seal Lye cleans sinks, toilets, pots and pans with less time and trouble than any other cleanser.

Red Seal Lye is a big help in washing clothes. By softening the water the dirt is loosened without any rubbing being necessary.

Offices and corners where roaches and vermin abound should be sprayed with a solution of Red Seal Lye.
