Requested Bus Service To Zoo Unlikely

By Micheal Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Bus service should not be extended to the Central Florida Zoo, according to a recommendation from the staff of the Orange-Seminole-Osceola Transportation Authority.

The request for service came from Zoo Executive Director Al Rozon through Seminole County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff, a member of the OSOTA board, according to Michael Harbour, assistant general manager of the transportation authority.

But Harbour recommended against the bus service extension of service to the zoo because it would have an adverse effect on service to other bus riders.

He said the board would have to extend service from the last current stop on the line — the Central Florida Regional Hospital — which is about five additional miles to the zoo. That would make it virtually impossible to maintain the hourly schedule that buses currently follow on the route, he said.

"The best we could do would be about every hour and 15 minutes," he said. "That would upset transfer connections and hurt ridership."

Harbour said today that the extension would serve only the zoo "and would attract few other riders."

"It is anticipated that few zoo workers or patrons would use the service," he said. "At the present time, most zoo employees have other forms of transportation. This transit service route cannot depend only on occasional zoo visitors from Sanford."

He said there were no factors in the authority's review of the request which suggested that the zoo route would have much ridership.

"The deviation would inconvenience present riders on Route 50," Harbour said. "Ridership is good and has shown steady increase. We discourage any action that could negatively affect this route."

Harbour said what the authority examines in reviewing routes is "what affect it will have on present riders."

He said unless circumstances change, the authority's recommendation would be against extending service to the zoo.

Miss Sanford

Muffett Baker Crowned '83 Pageant Winner

By Doris Dietrich

Muffett Baker seemed to drift "Up, Up and Away," — the theme of the second annual Miss Sanford Scholarship Pageant, to a shocked state of euphoria when she was crowned Miss Sanford 1983 Saturday night at Lake Mary High School.

"I'm speechless," the blonde beauty queen said. She added that she has been in several pageants, but this is her first as the grand winner.

Miss Florida Pageant In Orlando In June Is Next For Muffett

The 21-year-old high-stepping dancer wowed the judges — and the audience — with a lilting country-western ballet. Shades of the Old West were reflected as the coy ballerina wearing a lavender and white gingham checked can-can-style costume swirled and twirled across the stage, hoedown fashion.

Suspense stilled the auditorium while master of ceremonies Mark Hess ad libbed and 11 pretty contestants lined the stage awaiting the judges' decision. He announced Dara Elizabeth Wells, 17, of Sanford as the first runner-up and Mary Beth Freeman, 20, Sanford, as second runner-up.

Miss Wells played the piano and sang "Maybe This Time" while Miss Freeman's talent was tap dancing. Each received a scholarship and other prizes.

Helaina Ruth Howard, 19, of Alasomonte Springs was the non-finalist talent winner who performed a spirited jazz-acrobatic dance.

Dr. C.R. "Chip" Edwards was stepping nearly as high as the new Miss Sanford. For the second year the contestants he sponsored have worn the Miss Sanford crown. "I'm really thrilled," the Sanford dentist said.

Miss Baker was crowned by Catherine Jean Stewart, Miss Sanford 1982, first runner-up in last year's pageant. Miss Stewart was advanced to Miss Sanford when Miss Sanford Deanna Pittman went on to capture the Miss Florida title.

On her own cloud in summarizing her memories of Miss Sanford, Miss Stewart ended her commentary with, "Sanford truly lives up to its motto as the friendly city."

The glittering crown was the frosting on the cake for Miss Baker's competition gown — a navy background lavishly embellished with beads and iridescents. She wore a purple swimsuit in the swimsuit competition.

Miss Sanford 1983 will receive a $300 cash scholarship, a $595 Image Development scholarship, a $500 gold chain and engraved medallion, a $255 career and self-development scholarship, dinner certificates and trophy. She will reign over events in Sanford to promote the city and will compete in the Miss Florida Scholarship Pageant in June in Orlando.

According to Carole Pegram, co-chairman with Meg Newman of the pageant sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford, Inc., Miss Sanford is available for public appearances by contacting a woman's club member.

Miss Baker, a senior at Rollins College where she is majoring in theatre arts and communications, is a 1979 graduate of Lake Howell High School. She has worked her way through school as a singer and dancer at Walt Disney World.

The green-eyed, 5'3" beauty queen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baker of Seminole County. She appeared in the movie "Jaws 3-D" and hopes to pursue a career in musical theatre and dance. She has two brothers, one younger and one older.

Mrs. Pegram said, "We had fantastic contestants and we are looking forward to working with Muffett."

The other Miss Sanford contestants include: Marsha Sawczuk, 18, Sanford; Renee Karen Klincko, 24, Goldenrod; Carol Anne Tardif, 17, Sanford; Tammy Jean Bohannon, 17, Sanford; Laura Anderson, 17, Sorrento; Barbara Anne Childers, 17, Geneva; and Clynell Denise Fort, 19, Sanford.

Elementary Students May Receive Fingerprinting Safeguard Service

By Victor Assersohn
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County's 30,000 elementary school students could be fingerprinted as a safeguard against kidnapping under a plan being worked out by the Sheriff's Department and school officials.

Fingerprinting of the children would be strictly on a voluntary basis and the fingerprints would be kept by the parents, school officials and the Sheriff's Department officials stressed.

The idea of launching a fingerprinting campaign — a similar program already exists in Brevard and Orange counties — came after about 40 parents called the Sheriff's Department and asked if their children could be fingerprinted. The requests were made after a recent movie dealing with the abduction of children.

Fingerprinting of the youngsters would be done by volunteers of the local chapter of the National Council of Jewish Women, who would have to be trained by fingerprint experts. It is acknowledged by law enforcement officers that taking the fingerprints of Seminole County School Board's director of elementary education, Marion Giannini, said the idea is in the early stages of planning and no decision has been made.

Once details have been worked out and sent to Robert Hughes, Seminole County superintendent of schools, the proposal will have to be approved by the school board.

"We are in the very early stages and the Sheriff's Department has agreed to do the fingerprinting training. It would be a strictly voluntary thing and up to the parents. If we do it we would like to fingerprint all the students in Seminole County, from kindergarten to elementary and middle school," said Miss Giannini. She estimated that there are about 40,000 students who would be eligible to have their prints taken.

If the program goes ahead, it is expected to start in September.

"The police won't have the prints. They will be done at school and they will be taken home and they will be the only copy," she said.

Giannini will hold meetings with the Sheriff's Department to work out details of the program. She said she could report a recommendation to Hughes in the next two weeks.

"The purposes of the program is for identification purposes if the child was abducted. Basically it is for identification purposes and hopefully will be a lifesaver," she said.

Lt. Beau Taylor of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department said the department had received about 40 calls from persons interested in the fingerprinting program. As a result of that, the department contacted the School Board to see if its officials were interested in the program.

"All the calls we have gotten are at the elementary level," Taylor said. "We are only doing this for the people who want it. The only persons who will have the prints are the parents."

Harriet Calmanson, vice president of community service of the local chapter of the National Council of Jewish Women, said the local chapter would raise funds to pay for the equipment needed for the program, and members were interested to receive training so that they could carry out the program.

City OK Expected

Marina Work Loan OK'd; State To Act

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Monroe Harbour Marina owner-operator Charles Volk has completed arrangements to finance maintenance dredging in the harbor and to extend the eastern bulkhead about 300 feet north. But the work can't begin until approval is received from two state agencies.

Holding up the improvements, estimated to cost $100,000, is permit approval by the state Department of Environmental Regulation and the state Department of Natural Resources.

Volk said today that he hopes those approvals will be received this month. Applications were filed seeking the permits more than three months ago.

Included in the planned improvements at the marina are the construction of 80 new slips, to expand from 120 to 200 the slips available at the harbor and to extend the dock. Volk is to handle financing for this part of the improvement on his own.

The Sanford City Commission, which leases the property to Volk under a long term arrangement, is expected to formally endorse Volk's $100,000 approved loan from Sanford Atlantic Banks for the dredging and bulkhead improvement project at its 7 p.m. meeting today at city hall, 300 N. Park Ave.

Volk arranged the loan to run for 15 years at an annual interest rate of 14 percent. Volk said the city will endorse the $100,000 loan to be used for the dredging of 14,000 square feet of silt and dirt from the harbor and for extending the bulkhead about 300 feet north.

Volk has estimated the construction of the 80 new slips at $275,000 and he will finance this improvement without help from the city.

The City Commission previously agreed to waive collection of the marine lease fee of up to $10,000 a year for the length of the loan period. If the money is used to repay the loan.

The original lease on the marina is for a 55-year period with an option to renew for another 45-year period. About 15 1/2 years of the original lease has expired.

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles recommended that the city become co-signer on the loan for the maintenance dredging and the bulkhead extension. He said, however, that his recommendation was not magnanimous. He reminded at the time that the marina is city-owned property and the permanent improvements increase the value of the property.

Volk said earlier that the 14,000 square feet of dirt dredged from the harbor will be used to improve the island.

The commission tonight is expected to adopt a resolution guaranteeing repayment of the loan and to sign the bank documents.

The city has also requested the Seminole Legislative delegation to submit legislation during the April session of the Florida Legislature correcting the legal description of the property. The city acquired the property some years ago from the state through a special legislative act.

Vogt said today the special legislation is not holding up the state permits.

Transfers

Commission Expected To OK Feather Project, Sanford Library Deals

The Sanford City Commission at a 7 p.m. meeting at city hall today is expected to approve final documents to complete the transfer of its previously-owned 8.8 acre tract behind the Evening Herald Building and fronting on U.S. Highway 17-92 to County Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather.

Also to be completed is the transfer of the city's 1917 vintage former post office building on First Street (now the Sanford branch library) to the Seminole County Commission.

Documents in both cases include contingencies which could bring the properties back to the city if conditions aren't met.

The agreement with Feather calls for him to pay the city within 90 days from March 1 the sum of $54,500 after which the city will release reverter clauses on the property. The agreement also requires Feather to pay the city $10,000 annually in addition to property taxes for the tract beginning March 1, 1994, and continuing annually until the city issues a certificate of occupancy signifying that the $18 million life-care center he plans to build is finished. In addition, a restriction will be placed in the deed to the property noting that the property and its improvements will remain on the tax rolls.

In the library matter, the agreement is to include a deed restriction requiring that the property will revert to the city unless a library is housed there until April 17, 2003.

The county has the alternative of paying the city $138,250 if it decides to discontinue the library before that time. Another clause in the deed would permit the city and county through mutual agreement "for the public good" to waive the option value and set any other value.

The development of the formerly city-owned property has been considered for various types of development over the past 10 years. The city has been trying to encourage its development to get the tract on the tax rolls.

The city acquired the former post office building from the federal government for use as a city library. When the county went into the library business in the 1970s, the city library operation was taken over by the county. — Donna Estes

Road Becomes New Dumping Ground

Bedford Road off County Road 427 near Sanford has become an unofficial dumping ground. According to one resident of the area, the dumping has been going on for several years despite the efforts of residents and county law enforcement officials to catch those tossing out their unwanted items. Reportedly, people park their cars or pickup trucks alongside the road and unload trash as if the roadside constituted a public landfill dump. Area residents hope stepped up efforts to catch the violators will succeed.

Indians Love 'Gandhi'

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — From seasoned war veterans to school children, Indians are thronging in record numbers to the motion picture "Gandhi," encouraged by low ticket prices and eager for the history lesson.

Normally rowdy, audiences are rapt and attentive as they view English director Sir Richard Attenborough's film version of the life of Mohandas K. Gandhi, and the events leading up to Indian independence from Britain.

"We've been having three shows daily with capacity crowds, plus one in the morning for school children, since it opened Jan. 28," said Rattan Sethi, manager of the Chanakya Theater.

"The way it's been going, the movie should play another eight weeks or so, a very long run for us."

Sethi said the film, which has a slew of Hollywood Oscar nominations including one for British actor Ben Kingsley as Gandhi, already has broken a decade-old attendance record.

The Indian government removed the usual 60 percent tax on tickets for "Gandhi," cutting the price of admission to 40 cents from 65 cents — expensive in a country where the average worker's daily wage is less than $1.

"Gandhi is known as the father of our nation," said R.K. Anand of the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting. "We would like our youngsters to get to know him — and many of the older generation have almost forgotten him."

"In Indian theaters we are fond of music and fights during movies. But during this film you could have heard a pin drop. The same was the case when Gandhi used to address the masses — he had the power to hypnotize."

The ministry set up a booth in the theater lobby to sell literature ranging from comic books on Gandhi's life to 86 volumes of his collected works. Sales are good, said salesman V.S. Rowat, indicating the words of "Gandhiji," as he is affectionately called, are relevant today.

"Gandhi understood the people of India," Rowat said, "and they understood him."

India today is a different country than the one Gandhi knew.

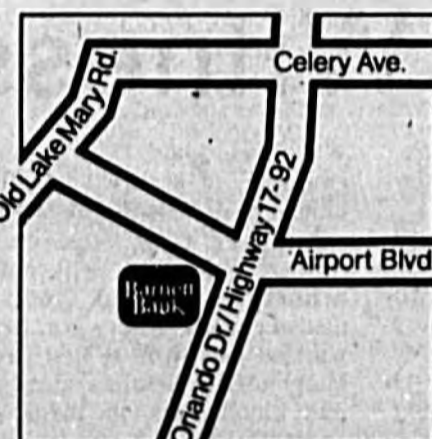

Advertisements for Western jeans and acrylic fabrics accompany showings of this film, which advocates wearing Indian homespun or "khadi" cloth and native dress.

It's Time To Decontrol Gas

Congress has given a cold-shoulder so far to President Reagan's plan for decontrolling the price of natural gas. This season of high gas bills for heating homes is the wrong time to take steps that would let the price of natural gas go even higher. Or so goes the word from Capitol Hill.

To the contrary, this is an ideal time to take up the decontrol of gas prices. Congress will suffer considerable embarrassment if it doesn't.

Americans writing big checks to their local gas companies have a right to some explanations. If the control system now in place is worth defending, why have natural gas prices paid by consumers been rising at a rate of 20 to 25 percent a year?

Why is it that in some parts of the country natural gas produced domestically now costs more than the equivalent in imported oil, which until recently had its price kept artificially high by the OPEC cartel?

Why are pipeline companies paying premium prices for gas from newly-drilled wells while cheaper gas from older wells is being kept in the ground?

Oil prices were decontrolled in 1981 and the motorist today is paying sharply lower prices for gasoline. Why wouldn't decontrol of natural gas prices have the same effect?

Such questions cannot be answered without conceding that the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978, which put the present price control system into effect, is not doing what it was supposed to do. It provided for a partial phasing out of controls by 1985 and was supposed to shield the consumer from sudden price increases as the gas price approached the equivalent price of oil.

Inasmuch as gas in some categories already is priced higher than oil, it is questionable whether the accelerated decontrol proposed by Mr. Reagan would cause any further increase in prices. If it did, the price most certainly would settle down eventually at a point roughly equal to the price of oil. That is the benefit of a competitive energy market — a benefit now being lost.

The administration's plan would phase out controls altogether by 1986, and provide for the renegotiation of "take or pay" contracts requiring pipelines to buy gas at a price fixed under the assumption that both oil and gas would be scarce in the mid-1980s. Those supply projections have turned out to be dramatically in error.

An accelerated decontrol policy will further stimulate exploration and production of natural gas and increase its availability as an alternative to imported oil. The more we can hold down demand for oil as the economy recovers, the less likely that OPEC will again find itself in a position to dictate unwarranted increases in the price of oil.

Gasoline was selling for about $1.20 a gallon when President Reagan lifted the last controls on domestic oil prices in January of 1981. Today, gasoline can be bought for less than $1 a gallon. Next time we hear members of Congress say that decontrol of natural gas prices would be a bad break for consumers, let's remind them of that.

Casualties Of War

The Commission on Wartime Relocation and Internment of Civilians has returned a powerful indictment against the America of 1942.

The commission concludes that "race prejudice, war hysteria, and a failure of political leadership" prompted the relocation of 120,000 Japanese-Americans from the West Coast to inland internment camps after the attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

The commission, created by Congress in 1980 and appointed by former President Carter, will decide later whether to recommend a payment of "reparations" to those whose lives were disrupted or to their survivors. We see no reason for the government to offer such payments. Those who lost property in the relocation should be compensated, of course, but it would be demeaning to the Japanese-American population to assume that a monetary value could be placed on their experience.

Innocents Slaughter Part Two

In a recent column, I reported on the effects of the anti-nuclear hysteria on early-grade school children.

Tots in the Boston area are being led by the anti-nuclear hype to believe that, for example, the "button" is everywhere, and that anyone can push it and destroy the world.

Unfortunately this sort of psychological rape is not confined to the Boston public school system.

There crosses my desk a report about similar activities at St. Patrick's Catholic parochial school in Roxbury, Mass.

In the Boston Globe of January 30, the seventh-grade class of teacher Elaine Killea pre-empted most of the "fun" pages of the newspaper. This is usually the comics sections of the paper, but the children took it over to let President Reagan in on their thoughts about the impending nuclear holocaust.

It doesn't take a fertile imagination to decide just where those thoughts came from.

The seventh grade of Elaine Killea is strongly against nuclear war. The students feel that President Reagan doesn't mind being vaporized by a nuclear bomb because, after all, he's "seventy something." Elaine Killea, evidently, is not rigorous on such facts as the president's age, much less on his well-documented attitudes as regards nuclear war.

The 13-year-old Terrance and Tella and Deacia and Wanda, unlike the aged president, want to live full lives, which they doubt will be possible because of Reagan's policies, whatever they are.

The kids at St. Patrick's School have come up with some highly original thoughts, doubtless cogitated without teacher's supervision during breaks in the schoolyard.

Thus, instead of stupidly spending billions on his plans to nuke the world, the president ought to be spending the dough on educating poor kids, that sort of thing.

A small minority of the letters printed from Elaine Killea's seventh grade showed any awareness that there exists something called the Soviet Union, a fact which one would imagine ought to figure prominently in any class devoted to current world history. As a matter of fact, since St. Patrick's is a Catholic school, at least sort of, one would have expected a passing mention of the presumption that said Soviet Union tried to assassinate the pope. But all we hear from this seventh grade is that the United States already has too many atomic weapons.

In one of the memorable expressions of our time, seventh-grader Kimberley Robinson asks President Reagan to "stop this bombness now."

Kimberley spoke much more wisely than either she or her teacher ventriloquists knew.

This exploitation of immature children by the anti-nuclear people is dishonorable and cruel and really has to stop.

Thurmond Bribe Witness Identified

WASHINGTON — The man who told a federal grand jury he saw Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., take at least $20,000 in bribes can now be named. He is William W. Pearce.

I had been asked to keep his name out of my previous reports, but my sources believe his identity has now leaked back to the senator. Pearce swore to a Washington, D.C., grand jury on Feb. 10 that he had witnessed the bribery. Thurmond denied the allegation.

Five days later — under suspicious circumstances — a federal grand jury in Norfolk, Va., indicted Pearce on six counts of fraud.

As the Senate Judiciary chairman, Thurmond has considerable clout with the Justice Department. My sources thought it was a strange coincidence that Pearce should suddenly be indicted after testifying against the powerful Thurmond.

The indictment followed a long and bitter legal dispute between Pearce and his former employer, Honeywell, Inc. — a dispute that Pearce thought had been settled months ago.

For years Pearce was a private detective in Washington; his exploits

Security was tight for President Reagan's appearance at the National Association of Evangelicals at the Sheraton Twin Towers in Orlando Tuesday. Some 1,500 eager convention goers were tightly crammed into a hallway and exhibit area for more than 1½ hours as corridors and rooms where the President was going to be were cleared.

This was more close communion than the evangelicals had bargained for. The air was hot and stifling and one woman said she felt like she was going to faint, but not wanting to miss anything asked her friend to make sure she was carried along by the crowd to the ballroom as there was no room to fall down.

In this atmosphere, which might have caused ordinary folks to become a might testy, this group displayed considerable Christian forbearance. But finally they broke into song having found the perfect hymn to express everybody's feelings. The corridors echoed with the words from "Amazing Grace" — "When we've been there 10,000 years (or maybe it just seemed like that long) bright shining as the sun, we've no less days to sing God's praise than when we first begun." And sing praises they did, but when they got to "Onward, Christian Soldiers" someone finally got the message and the line began to move.

The line was then narrowed and everyone was run through a check for any hidden weapons and a thorough search was made of handbags, cameras and other carry-ins.

Once inside the ballroom there was more waiting. The orchestra and concert band from First Baptist Church of Orlando entertained the gathering as excitement and anticipation built, but they had just about exhausted their repertoire when the moment finally came to strike up the strains of "Hail to the Chief."

In spite of any inconvenience they might have had, the welcome given the President by the enthusiastic crowd could not have been warmer.

"The other day in the East Room of the White House at a meeting there," said Reagan, "someone asked me whether I was aware of all the people out there who were praying for the President and I had to say, 'Yes, I am. I've felt it. I believe in intercessory prayer.' But I couldn't help but say to that questioner after he'd asked the question that if sometimes when he was praying he got a busy signal it was just me in there ahead of him."

It's not every day that the President of the United States drops in for a visit and it was a big deal for central Florida, the NAEP, Epcot, and the GOP.

'Reagan Sent Them Here As Advisors'

ROBERT WAGMAN

Tip Stalls Fight, For Now

WASHINGTON (NEA) — House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill's announcement that he will run for re-election in 1984 — and that he expects to remain speaker — has ended the infighting over who would succeed him.

O'Neill felt compelled to make such an announcement two years before the election in order to keep the Democratic House leadership from splintering over the issue of who would succeed O'Neill as speaker.

After the Republican victory in 1980, O'Neill became much less enthused about his job, which fueled erroneous speculation that he would not run in 1982. After he won in November, rumor had it that this was Tip's "last hurrah" — although he clearly was relishing the Democrats' more powerful position in this Congress.

Sides already were forming around potential candidates for the speakership. Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas was regarded as the clear favorite and had a large following. However, Whip Tom Foley was seen as a major potential candidate, and others — including Morris Udall, Budget Chairman Jim Jones and Ways and Means Chairman Dan Rostenkowski — were also gathering support.

O'Neill's announcement ends an impending battle, which could have been extraordinarily divisive for the Democratic Party as it entered a national election campaign.

Actually, it's more correct to say that the battle has been postponed, not quashed: Right after O'Neill announced that he would run in 1984, the speculation began as to whether that would be his final race. If so, the speakership battle will begin again in 1985 with the same general cast of characters, since all hope to be re-elected in 1984.

Democrats on the Hill, flushed with their success in November, are beginning to avenge themselves on those who spurned the party during the election.

One target is the Independent oil producers. Almost all of the oil producers supported Republicans last November — even against Democrats who had spotless voting records in support of oil interests. As a result, oil-state Democrats are saying that this Congress should take another look at special tax breaks for independent producers.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce has also been targeted by the Democrats. Last year, it announced that it would be bipartisan in its endorsement of candidates, with decisions to be based on how well each candidate — whether incumbent or challenger — supported business interests.

But the final endorsement list included 91 Republicans and not one Democrat — and the chamber was more than a little uncomfortable when the Democrats won their November victory.

Now the chamber has announced that it has "radically revised" its criteria for endorsing candidates, and it's likely that it will endorse quite a few Democrats two years hence.

However, the Democratic leaders say they aren't ready to bury the hatchet. Rep. Tony Coelho, D-Calif., chairman of the House Democratic Campaign Committee, has sent a letter to all Democratic House members saying, in effect, that they should shun the chamber, not cooperate with any of its programs and make it clear that chamber lobbyists aren't welcome in their offices.

The Chamber of Commerce says it wants peace, but the Democrats say they've heard those words before — and actions will speak louder.

Reagan Asserts Feelings

By Helen Thomas
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan takes most things in his stride. But he cannot stand it when he is accused of lacking compassion for the poor. And he doesn't like it one bit when he is viewed as anti-environmentalist.

As a Californian, that is hard for Reagan to swallow.

In terms of his attitude toward the less fortunate, Reagan made it clear that those charges rub him the wrong way. In a recent speech he ticked off the projected budget outlays for food stamps and other social programs, and quipped "hard-hearted me."

He also feels he has been unfairly tagged as one who does not believe in conservation and preserving the nation's natural resources. A recent poll did not give him high marks as a leader against the nation's polluters, either.

Nor has the controversy engulfing the Environmental Protection Agency and the investigations into the handling of the $1.6 billion "superfund" for toxic waste disposal helped the White House image as protectors of the public health.

In remarks at Klamath Falls, Ore., where he toured a lumber mill and talked with industry representatives, Reagan said that in 1966, when he was running for governor of California, he addressed a forestry products group in San Francisco "and my opponent went out and said that I had said that if you've seen one tree, you've seen them all."

"I never said any such thing," Reagan said indignantly, having never been able to shake the effects of that quote.

The subject came up when the industry representatives asked him if he would consider vetoing new wilderness legislation "which would take millions of acres from our timber base."

Reagan said in the '60s the "big wave" from the conservationists was for setting aside outdoor recreational land. "They were even foreclosing on some mining claims and they were buying up land and using eminent domain to do it," he said, "claiming that it was needed for the future so there would be outdoor recreational space."

"Well, finally when they had exhausted about all they could do with that, then came the environmental surge."

Reagan said the nation now has 80 million acres of wilderness land off limits for private development. "This is land that you cannot have a road in or anything of the kind," he said. "It's there because out of 250 million Americans in this country, we realize that at least 240 million of them are backpackers who want to hike into that wilderness area."

Reagan's joking remark about the astronomical number of backpackers drew a laugh from the lumbermen.

The president said he realized that some areas "still should be protected, that are so unique ... I mean in addition to the 80 million ... but let's be reasonable and sensible about that."

Wilson were odd. He was instructed, for example, to secure specially prepared chickens for Wilson's Moslem clients.

Another time, Pearce arranged through Wilson to deliver 400 combat helmets to the Red Cross for use in disaster work. Afterward, he received a worried call from a Red Cross official. Many of the helmets were dented and had bloodstains on them, the official complained.

And once, Pearce was assigned to raid my office files. But upon reflection, Wilson dropped the idea.

At the same time that Pearce was accepting assignments from Wilson, he was working full time as branch manager of Honeywell's protective services division in Norfolk. Though the Wilson contact helped him win customers for Honeywell, company officials did not know their Norfolk manager was moonlighting for the ex-CIA agent.

When President Carter named Adm. Stansfield Turner as CIA director, Wilson called Pearce and suggested he arrange a security system for Turner's home in McLean, Va. Honeywell got the contract, which convinced Pearce that Wilson was still secretly working for the CIA. Actually, Turner had no idea Wilson was behind the contract; he said he picked Honeywell because an old friend was a company executive.

The relationship between Wilson and Pearce soured in late 1979. Wilson's activities came under federal scrutiny, and he was indicted on charges of smuggling arms to Libya.

When a Wilson associate was arrested in the shooting of a Libyan dissident in Colorado, an apparent "hit list" containing Pearce's name was found on the suspect. This was reported in the newspapers.

Honeywell officials, apparently embarrassed at this public link between their branch manager and Wilson, fired Pearce in April 1982. He sued; they countersued.

The dispute was later settled — or so Pearce thought. But then, last December, Pearce told federal officials that on two separate occasions he had seen a middleman deliver $10,000 cash bribes from Wilson to Thurmond.

I first reported Pearce's accusations — and Thurmond's denial — on Feb. 2. On Feb. 15, Pearce was indicted on charges related to his dispute with Honeywell.

Soviet Oil Clout Rises As OPEC Loses Punch

MOSCOW (UPI) — OPEC's disarray over production and pricing is a mixed blessing for the Soviet Union, the world's largest oil-producing country.

Faced with a staggering reduction in its biggest source of vital hard currency earnings, Moscow's aggressive marketplace reaction indicates it may no longer be content to follow the lead of the 13-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

At today's precipitously falling prices, the Soviet treasury will earn about $850 million less than last year by selling the same amount of oil, 55 million metric tons.

The Soviet Union's hard currency needs have not diminished in the wake of a fourth consecutive poor grain harvest.

The Kremlin also cannot shed overnight the two main restraints that squeeze exports to a trickle of overall production. Eastern Europe is still dependent on Soviet energy and the U.S.S.R.'s own conservation program never got past the slogan and poster stage.

The Soviets must divert more oil for export to the West without further depressing prices and thus increasing the need for even more sales abroad.

Western diplomats who study the Soviet economy say Moscow has never had the influence on world markets that it now possesses. It is a role the U.S.S.R. fell into rather than carved for itself.

When the Soviets were exporting 1 million barrels of oil a day, as they were as recently as 1981, they were barely in the big leagues. Saudi Arabia was the pacesetter with exports eight times greater.

When world demand slackened and prices began to slide that year, the Saudis cut back production accordingly. They have continued to cut back until they are producing only 3.6 million barrels daily.

The Soviet reaction to slackening demand and falling prices was to increase exports to the West to as high as 1.5 million barrels a day in 1982, although production was relatively constant.

"The Soviets are like the head of a big family with a lot of mouths to feed," one analyst said.

At 1 million barrels a day, Moscow was exporting 8 percent of its daily output. At 1.5 million, the figure jumps to 12.5 percent.

"That 1.5 million is quite important because it is causing a rapid downward effect on price," said an analyst with the London firm of Grieveason, Grant and Co. stockbrokers.

In the process, experts estimate that the Soviet Union jumped from eighth to fourth in the rankings of world exporters.

Access to indisputable figures on the Soviet trade and thus Moscow's relationship to other producers "is a problem that we all have," said a Western diplomat. He conceded that everyone is left with "their own best guess" as to exactly what the Soviets are doing at any given time.

Increases in production have been coupled with reductions in prices to customers in Western Europe, where almost all of the hard currency for the Kremlin is earned.

Finland, which takes 70 percent of its oil from the Soviet Union at prices it does not disclose, obtained a new contract price of no more than $28 a barrel in early March, a Finnish oil source said.

It is that sort of discounting that has dealt misery to the when done from within and all the more so when it occurs outside the oil cartel's reach.

"OPEC has lost its monopoly mainly because the reduction in demand, which is the main reason for the glut," said a European diplomat.

"Before, Soviet oil followed OPEC in price essentially, but was seen as an alternative. Now enough oil is being sold outside OPEC so that OPEC is becoming a price follower.

"The Soviet Union is more a price setter than it used to be. The market is freer."

The diplomat predicted the price of oil may fall as low as $20 per barrel before it is balanced with world demand.

Seminole Jail Chaplain's Group Is Organized

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Dr. Freddie Smith, pastor of Central Baptist Church of Sanford, has been named to head up the newly formed President's Council organized to assist Seminole Jail Chaplain Charles "Chuck" B. Pitroff assigned here by the Good News Mission.

Good News Mission is the largest supplier of jail and prison chaplains in the United States and possibly in the world.

Prior to coming to work in Seminole County, Pitroff served as a volunteer in the jail ministry in Orange County for 10 years. He formerly pastored Christian Missionary Alliance Churches in Pennsylvania.

The luncheon meeting to organize the council was held recently at the Sizzlin Steak Restaurant. On hand to help it get started were Dr.

William L. Simmer, Good News Mission president and founder from the International headquarters in Arlington, Va.; Doug Hoey, director of chaplains; and Orange County Jail Chaplain Bill Austin.

In addition to Smith, other officers chosen by the council were Seminole Community College President Dr. Earle Weldon, vice chairman; Jenny Long, secretary; and the Rev. Thomas Shelton of Rolling Hills Moravian Church, Longwood, program chairman. Mrs. Long, a member of First Baptist Church of Oviedo, is involved as a volunteer in the jail ministry in helping the chaplain set up a follow-up program for prisoners after they are released.

Other members of the council attending the meeting were Circuit Court Judge S. Joseph Davis, Chief Deputy Duane Harrell of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, County Jail Administrator Jim Shoultz, Dr. Jim Edgemon, the Rev. Amos Jones, executive director of Seminole Community Action and pastor of St. Paul Missionary Baptist Church, Sanford, and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Casselberry of the Mission Commission of the Community United Methodist Church of Casselberry.

Pitroff was assigned to the Seminole County jail on Nov. 1, 1982, and has been ministering to the prisoners and their families since. Through Feb. 26 he had conducted a total of 46 services with an average attendance of 16 and 19 Bible classes with an average attendance of 18. In addition, he has distributed an average of 84 Bible correspondence courses each week and awarded six Bibles to inmates completing the course.

He reported to the council that he has averaged 100 one-on-one counseling sessions each week and was involved in counseling in crisis situations 45 times with an average of four a week. He has registered a total of 104 professions of faith and rededications or an average of eight a week. He has passed out approximately 500 Christmas cards and several birthday cards. He has arranged for after care help for at least three former inmates and has helped in setting up an Alcoholics Anonymous program in the facility.

Pitroff said he has had six speaking engagements and one film showing to inform the public of his jail ministry. Churches or organizations interested in having such a program can contact him at his office at 323-2550, he said.

Prior to his coming the work was carried on for some time in the jail by volunteers.

"Eight men gave their hearts to the Lord in a two-day period at the jail," said Pitroff, "but I am not interested in just 'jail house religion' but in changed lives after they get out."

Chaplain Pitroff said he has received "tremendous support" from the institutional staff at the jail including the former administrator, Steve Saunders, and the new administrator, Shoultz. Recently instituted at the jail has been service for female inmates. Services and Bible study are now held three times a week, Pitroff said, and there are usually eight or nine in attendance.

A fellowship covered dish luncheon for friends of the jail ministry and those interested in learning more about it will be held April 14 at noon at Central Baptist Church, 1311 Oak Ave., Sanford. The next meeting of the President's Council is scheduled for noon on April 4 at Sizzlin Steak.

The Good News Mission is a ministry to prisoners, ex-offenders, and their families. It has 72 chaplains serving in federal, state, county, and city prisons and jails plus juvenile detention centers. The ministry extends from the tip of Long Island to Hawaii and from the Canadian border to Florida, plus foreign countries as far away as India. It serves more than 120 institutions on a regular basis plus many others intermittently.

Good News Mission ministers to a daily average of 33,592 persons and an annual average of 523,810 men, women and children. The chaplains are augmented by a staff of 5,000 volunteers. In addition to those behind bars, an active ministry to their families on the outside is maintained. There is also a division of opportunity houses, which serve as discipleship centers for persons recently released.

Socialists Take Firm Control Now In Spain

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — After 100 days of rule by Socialist Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez, the threat of a coup from rightist Army officers seems to be of little concern to most Spaniards.

A newly released poll shows 58.5 percent of the nation's 37 million people feel that the new government so far has "worked efficiently." Three out of four Spaniards see "a better future."

The poll, conducted by a liberal publishing house, said 86.4 percent of the respondents no longer saw the armed forces as a threat to their young democracy.

Gonzalez, 41, pledged to lead "a government that will govern" when he was sworn in by King Juan Carlos after his election Oct. 28.

Diplomats agree that the Socialist cabinet, its average age only 42, has moved with confidence despite its lack of experience in affairs of state.

The Socialist party was not legalized until five years ago when Spain began moving toward democracy following the death of right wing dictator Francisco Franco.

Gonzalez, trying to modernize the country, began by ordering its pampered civil servants to shape up — get to work by 8 a.m. sharp and no more afternoon siestas.

The government quickly devalued the wobbly peseta by 8 percent and, in its boldest move to date, nationalized a giant holding company called Rumasa that business experts and state officials said was threatened with collapse.

The move was designed to salvage 60,000 jobs at the group's 18 banks and more than 200 companies and the savings of 100,000 smalltime investors.

Gonzalez, whose campaign on a promise to create 800,000 new jobs during his four-year term, is wrestling with Europe's highest unemployment rate, 16.85 percent of the work force. The number of jobless Spaniards has risen to 2,207,866, nearly 400,000 more than one year ago.

The Socialists promised a referendum on Spain's membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, but later decided to conduct "an information campaign" before scheduling a vote.

Gonzalez told U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz, who came last December as the first foreign official to hold talks with the new prime minister, that Spain will remain in NATO until the vote is held.

The 100-day opinion poll, published Friday by the Diario 16 newspaper, provided a possible explanation.

Sixty-one percent of those polled said they want the government to take Spain out of the defense alliance and cancel a treaty that gives the U.S. Air Force and Navy the right to four bases in Spain.

A move to streamline the armed forces and reduce their political clout was expected to meet tough opposition from rightist officers, but has thus far met little resistance. The army is losing a quarter of its officers and a third of its men in the first shakeup since Franco's death in 1975.

Rightist officers have tried three times since 1975 to restore Franco-style rule. One coup plot was uncovered and squashed only weeks before the election.

The new government has been harshly criticized by conservatives and the Roman Catholic Church for a proposal to legalize abortion in restricted cases and by regional leaders for failing to engineer a truce with separatists in the violence-torn northern Basque country.

The first real test of the government's popularity will come in municipal elections May 8.

Sources close to King Juan Carlos say the popular monarch, who helped thwart a coup attempt two years ago, has doubts about Spain's image abroad because "the government doesn't make clear enough that Spain is a Western country."

Observers said Gonzalez won no friends in Western capitals by sending officials to the nonaligned summit in New Delhi, India, last week.

"We have to decide whether we want to be a Third World country or not," a Spanish newspaper editor said.

given $13,000 in cash to the food bank, donating at Thanksgiving, Christmas, Valentine's Day and St. Patrick's Day. The last contribution, $2,000, was accompanied by a note reading, "Happy St. Patrick's Day."

"Naturally, we're pretty elated. I'm sure everybody appreciates the fact she's been so good to us," said food bank official Jack Conway, who described the woman as "fairly attractive, in her mid-60s."

"She just hands someone the envelope (with money in it)," said Conway, who needs $12,000 a year to run the bank. "Several people in here have seen her."

The generosity has not been restricted to the Presentation Food Bank. In late February, another woman using the name Mrs. Calabash gave $3,000 to the United Way Food Bank in Beaver County.

'Mrs. Calabash' Feeds The Poor

By Robert Doherty
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Mrs. Calabash — wherever, whoever you are — is the jobless of some of Pittsburgh area's hardest-pressed mill towns thank you.

Two unknown women, working separately, have taken the moniker of Jimmy Durante's "Mrs. Calabash" and have kept two food banks stocked with cash in nearby Beaver County, where the unemployment rate is 25 percent.

The food banks, set up mainly to help laid-off steelworkers make ends meet, have been swamped as a result of the steel industry's worst slump in 50 years.

The anonymous largess began last August when a woman donated $2,000 to the Presentation Food Bank in Midland, Pa., run by the Presentation Church and United Steelworkers Local 1212.

Since then, she has food bank that serves about 4,000 people a month and runs on about $3,000 a week, said. "We just can't get over how generous she's been."

T.R. Graham, executive director of the United Way of Beaver County, said he has never seen "Mrs. Calabash" and refuses to say whether he knows her name.

"I'm personally convinced she is a genuine person here in Beaver County," Graham said. "We've had two contacts with her. One by telephone ... the other when she made the payment."

Graham said he has no desire to reveal the woman's identity. "We respect her apparent desire to remain anonymous," he said.

It appears the United Way's "Mrs. Calabash" took the name given the Presentation's supporter.

Graham said that's how the woman first identified herself to the United Way.

But Conway said his group named their friend after Durante's well-known sign-off, "Good night, Mrs. Calabash, wherever you are."

"We tagged that name on her (after her donation in August)," Conway said. "The first time she came in we asked her if she wanted a receipt. She said she didn't want anybody to know who she was."

"I asked her if she was the one who had donated to the United Way. She said, 'No, maybe I should have,'" said Anna Marie Tomlinson, a secretary who took the gift.

"She told me she's not the same person who contacted the (Presentation) Food Bank."

New Store To Open In Sanford

The 33rd Family Dollar store in Florida will open in Sanford on Thursday.

The new store, located at 413 E. 1st St., will open at 10 a.m.

Local officials and Family Dollar executives will take part in a brief ribbon cutting ceremony at the main entrance to the store immediately before the opening.

Jim Seagraves, vice president of store operations, said, "Family Dollar looks forward to locating in Sanford and being part of a fine business market." Greg Monk, the firm's district manager for the area, said, "Family Dollar offers excellent employment opportunities in this area and throughout the 13 states in which our stores are located. As many local people as possible will be employed at the new store." Monk added that Family Dollar is a rapidly expanding company.

The store will carry a complete line of merchandise for the family and home, including clothing and shoes, health and beauty aids, housewares, school supplies, candy, toys, paint and auto supplies.

Family Dollar was founded in 1959 with a single store in Charlotte, N.C. and today has more than 4,067,992 square feet of total sales space in the chain's 600 stores.

The company operates in the two Carolinas, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, Arkansas, Maryland, Arkansas, Louisiana and Kentucky. The General Offices and Distribution Center are located in Charlotte, N.C.

Viridon Runs Raines, Expos Ragged In Preparation For Pennant Heat

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — Tim Raines didn't have any breakfast and that was a mistake. It would've been a bigger one if he had. He was so bushed, so completely whipped, he nearly passed out.

Jim Wohlford was in worse shape. "Honest, he looked as if he was gonna die," laughs Billy DeMars, who's got a little sadist in him. "We were gonna give him the last rites."

DeMars, one of Montreal's coaches, was talking about the same thing everybody else who has seen the Expos this spring is talking about. Their new work ethic. Specifically, he was referring to a recent workout conducted by Bill Viridon, the Expos' new manager.

Someone has neglected to tell Viridon that the next Olympics are ticketed for Los Angeles. He thinks they're coming back to Montreal. That's how it looks from the way he's running the Expos every day. They're already in better shape than any other club in Florida. You should see Ray Burris. He's lost over 30 pounds and makes the late Raines Ghandi look as if he was carrying around too much weight.

"I've been to 11 spring training camps and that was the hardest I've ever ran," says Wohlford about that same session DeMars mentioned. "After we had done our regular work for two or three hours, he (Viridon) had us run the bases. We had to go from first to third, from home to second and from home to third twice. Then we had to go all around the bases three times. By the time we were through, I couldn't move. I saw stars and they weren't the kind that you see at night. It was a good workout, though."

Wohlford came to the Expos from the Giants last month. Very likely he'll be used in the outfield and as a pinch hitter. He has played for a half-dozen different managers in his career but never for any manager who worked his players harder in spring training than Viridon does.

"Nobody was even close," says the 32-year-old veteran.

Milton Richman UPI Sports Editor

Viridon has been an exceptionally hard worker from the first time he put on a professional baseball shirt with Independence, Mo., of the old K-O-M League in 1950. He was still working hard trying to win the regular center field job with the Yankees when he came up with them a few years later but he ran into a guy by the name of Mickey Mantle.

The Expos' new manager was strictly a no-nonsense guy when he played the outfield for the Cardinals and Pirates still later and he managed the same way with the Pirates, Yankees and Astros before Johnny McHale, the president of the Expos, finally got him to manage them last October.

If he had his way, McHale would have wanted Viridon as Montreal's manager last year so that Jim Fanning, who handled the club last season, could've gone back into the front office sooner. McHale asked Houston's Al Rosen if he could speak to Viridon about managing the Expos at the end of 1981 when Viridon was still handling Houston, but Rosen said no. The Astros wanted him to stay with them.

"You gotta have a strong man if you're gonna win," says McHale. "Bill Viridon is that kind of man. There are a lot of reasons we got him and among those reasons is how he stood up to some of those guys in Pittsburgh and Houston."

McHale doesn't name names. He doesn't have to. When Viridon was managing the Pirates, Richie Hebner challenged his authority. Viridon challenged him right back and Hebner backed down. There was a similar episode at Houston with Cesar Cedeno. Viridon, who is a gentleman along with everything else, never talks about the episodes. He isn't one of those muscle-flexers.

But at 51, he's in such fine physical shape, some people who don't otherwise know sometimes mistake him for one of his players.

Viridon doesn't think he's being too tough on the Expos.

"Nobody's kicked," he says. "We worked longer when I was with the Yankees. We had two workouts a day. And sometimes they would go more than a total of four hours. I never liked that but that was the way it was and there wasn't anything you could do about it. The reason I'm running our players the way I am is because I just think you've got to be better than the other clubs in August and September. If you're in good condition, I don't say you're necessarily going to win, but it's the only way I know to get the maximum out of your players' ability."

The Atlanta Braves do their training only a hundred yards or so from the Expos. You can see the Braves through the branches of the trees separating both fields and in the last two weeks, their manager, Joe Torre, generally had them finishing at least an hour earlier.

"That doesn't mean they won't win," Viridon points out. Fanning, who brought the Expos home in front during the second half of a strike-divided, two-part season in 1981, is back in his old job as vice president in charge of player development and scouting for Montreal. He sees Viridon doing the job he did last year and has this to say about him:

"I'm happy Bill Viridon is the manager. If I had to pick Jim Fanning or Bill Viridon to manage the club, I'd pick Bill Viridon. I say that from the heart." That's typical of Jim Fanning. He is a gentleman, too. Maybe more than he should be sometimes. Unfortunately, a few of the Expos took advantage of that. They're a lot less likely to with Bill Viridon.

Boone Beats Odds, Jacksonville; Kowboys Complete 'Dream Ride'

Boys Basketball Tournament Saturday's results 1A — Malone 62, Hastings 59 2A — Pahokee 71, Monticello Jefferson County 70, 3 overtimes 3A — Osceola Kissimmee 47, Crestview 44 4A — Orlando Boone 51, Jacksonville Jackson 47

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

LAKE LAND — When Orlando Boone coach Wayne Rickman looked onto the floor Saturday night and saw 6-2 Andy Hungerford and a band of cripples all less than 6 feet tall, a betting man wouldn't have given much for the Braves championship chances.

That didn't disturb Rickman, however. Las Vegas, and the state of Florida, had been counting for his Braves to cash in their chips a long time ago. But Rickman continued to roll the dice and Saturday night one of the state's savviest coaches — with the state's biggest-hearted team — came away with the jackpot — a 51-47 victory over previously unbeaten Jacksonville Jackson for the 4A State Boys Basketball championship.

"No one expected us to go as far as we did," said Rickman whose team was a third-place finisher in the tough Metro Conference. "We overcame a lot of adversity. We knew we had to do certain things to win and we did those things."

Adversity was a mild term for the injuries which befell the Braves. In Thursday's dramatic 57-51 victory over Fort Lauderdale Dillard, Lennie Grace, Boone's high-leaping forward, broke a bone in his hand. Bulky forward Pat Lewis took a knock to the leg and couldn't walk Friday. Guard Anthony Shorter caught an elbow in the chops, "and went down like he wasn't going to get up," said Rickman.

"There was no way those kids could play on Friday," said Rickman. "We were fortunate we had a day's rest to get ready." Grace spent Friday night in the hospital after having two screws placed in his hand to set the bone. Saturday, Rickman was hesitant to call on the courageous senior, but when he beckoned, Grace was up to the task. Grace jumped into the fray with the Braves down, 8-2. Three soft jumpers and one rebound later, Boone was on top, 9-8.

During his tour of duty, however, Grace had his hand bumped twice which prompted Rickman to pull his leaper. "Lennie wanted to play a lot more (in the second half) but the pain was just too much," said Rickman. "The guys on our bench (Ted Smith and Chris Griskiewicz) did the job."

Hungerford, a skillful gunner with good range who led all scorers with 25 points, carried the Braves offensively in the second half while the Boone half-court trap gave Jacksonville Jackson trouble getting into its offense. Hungerford, who hit 17 straight free throws in the tournament, converted all nine Saturday to hand Jackson its first loss after 25 consecutive wins. Two free tosses with 12 seconds to play secured the victory for Boone.

"One we got behind, we panicked," said a discouraged Jacksonville coach James Humphrey. "We didn't handle the press well. We took low-percentage shots and we didn't play defense. We did things we normally don't do."

Welcome to the club. "We beat a lot of very good teams on our way here," said Rickman. "The kids thought Dillard may have been the best team in the tournament. Their inside players positioned themselves better than anyone we've faced."

Prep Basketball

'We're 37-0, we put on a show and now it's time to go.' — Jimmy McCrimon.

The championship was the second for Rickman. His 1977 team won it all and his 1978 squad, which returned four starters, lost in the semi-finals after star guard Jimmie Ferrell was injured and couldn't play. "Neither championship was expected," said Rickman. "In 1977, we finished tied for second in the Metro and this year we finished third. I think it was just a matter of intensity. We had a little more desire and togetherness."

"We won a lot of those games (on the way to state) by 15 or 20 points and winning takes care of itself. We didn't have to look back. We just had to worry about the next game." The Braves won their final 10 games to finish with a 24-8 record. They were one of four Metro schools to win 20 games, a fact that Rickman said helped prepare Boone for the tough tournament trail.

"We're just proud to represent our conference and Central Florida," concluded Rickman. "We feel that's important. There were probably two or three teams which could have done just as well."

In the 3A, coach Ed Kershner's Osceola Kissimmee Kowboys completed a dream season by knocking off patient Crestview, 47-44. The victory gave the Kowboys a perfect 37-0 season and made them the first team since the 1975 Lake Weir squad to complete an unbeaten championship season. Osceola received national acclaim in December when it won the prestigious Las Vegas Nike Classic.

Kershner felt the Las Vegas experience paid off for his Kowboys because when the pressure came, they didn't crack. All-America guard Jimmy McCrimon and teammate Eddie Hayes converted several clutch free throws down the stretch to ensure the victory. Hayes two tosses with 1:47 to go clinched the victory.

"We went 37-0, we put on a show and now it's time to go," said McCrimon after the game. The remark was in reference to Osceola's trio of McCrimon, fellow All-America Frank Ford and Kershner who have planned the state championship since three years ago when Kershner took over the program.

Ford, a 6-4 power forward who will attend Auburn next year, did his part with 13 points and 15 rebounds. Ford got several clutch boards in the final quarter as Crestview, 31-4, stormed back behind the fine play of Florida-bound Joe Lawrence and Kenny Siler.

We opened up man-to-man, then went 3-2 (zone), 2-3, half-court trap and triangle and two. We used everything we had worked on all year (the slow-down game), but haven't shown because we were saving it."

Siler finished with 16 white Lawrence was held to 12. Both average 17 points per game. McCrimon totaled 12 in the slow-down affair. "We showed we could play any way we needed to. We played with poise, intensity and defense," Kershner added.

In Saturday's two other championship games, 1A Malone, despite losing standout Bruce "Action" Jackson for half the game with foul trouble, held off Hastings, 62-59.

Three free throws by Woodrow Rogers and Holt Floyd in the final 24 seconds secured Malone's sixth state championship in as many tries. The Tigers also won in 1952, '53, '54, '77 and '78.

In the tournament's most hotly-contested game, Pahokee took a second straight title with a hard-stopping 71-70 triple-overtime win over Monticello Jefferson County in the state tournament's longest game since West Palm Beach Twin Lakes needed seven overtimes to subdue Winter Haven in 1971.

Walter Johnson, who missed a dunk in regulation which could have won the game, dropped in a lay up with one second to play. Demetrius Brown saved Pahokee with an 19-footer on the baseline at the end of the second overtime.

Pahokee, 24-4, became the first 2A school to ever win back-to-back championships.

Lyman's Gene Allen strains to throw the discus 158 feet during the Lyman Invitational Friday. Allen barely stretched on this throw, but came back with a heave of 149-11 to help the Greyhounds to their first championship in the annual event. Allen finished third.

Nicolette Blows Lead But Regroups For $63,000 Bay Hill Championship

ORLANDO (UPI) — A couple of days ago, Mike Nicolette didn't even have enough money to get married.

Now, though not exactly a millionaire, he is $63,000 richer. Nicolette, who has struggled on the professional golf tour for more than four years, gained his first PGA victory Sunday in the $350,000 Bay Hill Classic.

Nicolette nearly added another week to his non-winning skid, blowing a five-stroke lead on the final five holes Sunday. But he sank a three-foot par putt on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff with Australian Greg Norman and came away with the first-prize purse.

"I couldn't afford a wedding," said Nicolette, who earned barely over $62,000 during his first four years on the tour. "Now, I can afford a marriage and some rent, too."

Nicolette, 26, who led the

Wolfpack Denies Sampson ACC Crown

United Press International

North Carolina State coach Jim Valvano knew his team was guaranteed a spot in the NCAA Tournament if it won the Atlantic Coast Conference tourney Sunday. But nobody ever promised the Wolfpack an easy draw.

N.C. State, which nipped No. 2 Virginia 81-78 in the ACC title game, will play Pepperdine Friday in the West Regional first round at Corvallis, Ore.

If the Wolfpack, 20-10, win that game, they will face 11th-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas.

"We're just happy to be in the tournament," Valvano said. "It's difficult going across country, but we're looking forward to playing. I don't know much about Pepperdine. Hopefully, we can get some film on them and be ready to play on Friday."

Meanwhile, Virginia, 27-4, was seeded No. 1 in the West Regional and will play the winner of Weber State-Washington State at Boise, Idaho Saturday.

In other league tournament title games Sunday, No. 3 Louisville trimmed Tulane, 66-51, in the Metro Conference; Oklahoma State defeated No. 9 Missouri 93-92 in double overtime to win the Big Eight and Georgia downed Alabama 86-71 to win the Southeast Conference.

At Atlanta, North Carolina State guard Dereck Whittenburg hit two free throws with six seconds left to clinch the upset over Virginia, N.C. State, which knocked off sixth-ranked North Carolina 91-84 in overtime in the semifinals Saturday, trailed by as much as 8 points in the second half before launching the winning rally.

College Basketball

At Cincinnati, Charles Jones led three Louisville players scoring in double figures and the Cardinals held off pesky Tulane to win their fourth Metro title in the league's 8-year history. The win also ran Louisville's winning streak to 13 games and the Cardinals are 15-0 lifetime against Tulane. Elgin Webster led the Green Wave, 19-11, with 21 points.

At Kansas City, Mo., reserves David Taylor and Rick Anderson each sank a free throw in the final 33 seconds to deliver Oklahoma State its first NCAA berth since the Henry Iba days. Leroy Combs added a season-high 34 points, Lorenza Andrews 24 and Raymond Crenshaw 14 as Oklahoma State improved its record to 24-6 — the most victories by the Cowboys since the 24 they won in 1953-54 — in advancing to the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 1965.

Steve Stipanovich scored 22 points, Jon Sundvold 18 and Greg Cavener 17 for Missouri, which fell to 26-7 and had a six-game winning streak snapped.

At Birmingham, Ala., Vern Fleming scored points and backcourt mate Gerald Crosby added 21 to lead Georgia to its first SEC tournament championship. The Bulldogs, who had never won any sort of conference title in basketball, pulled away after the game was tied 43-43 with 15:29 remaining.

The victory sends Georgia, 21-9, into the NCAA playoffs for the first time. The Bulldogs played in the NIT the past two years. Alabama, 20-11, also received an NCAA bid.

Those seedings included No. 1s to top-ranked Houston, holder of the nation's longest winning streak at 22 games, in the Midwest; No. 3 Louisville, which at 29 has more victories than any other team in the tournament, in the Midwest; and No. 8 St. John's, the survivor of the rugged Big East tournament, in the East.

St. John's will have a lot of conference company in the tournament. Gavitt, the Commissioner of the Big East, also announced at-large berths for No. 12 Villanova, No. 13 Boston College, No. 14 Georgetown and unranked Syracuse. Syracuse joins St. John's in the East Regional, while Boston College is the fourth seed in the West and Villanova and Georgetown the third and fifth seeds, respectively, in the Midwest.

The Big Ten didn't have any top seeds, but the conference could place four teams in the Final Four as five conference members will play in the tournament. Big Ten champion Indiana is seeded second in the Midwest and Ohio State third in the East. Other Big Ten teams are Iowa, seeded seventh in the Midwest; Purdue, seeded fifth in the Midwest; and Illinois, seeded seventh in the West.

The ACC and the Southeastern Conference proved, at least to the selection committee, that they, too, belong among the nation's top leagues as each had four teams tabbed for the tournament.

ACC members joining Virginia in post-season play include defending champion North Carolina and North Carolina State — the team that beat both the Cavaliers and the Tar Heels to gain the ACC's automatic berth — and Maryland.

RALPH SAMPSON

...Denied title

The SEC had a surprise post-season tournament winner in Georgia, but Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama will all follow the Bulldogs into the national tournament.

The Midwest appears to be the strongest region with four Top 10 teams seeded. Behind Louisville are No. 2 seed Indiana, No. 3 Kentucky and fourth-seeded Arkansas. Oklahoma, ranked 19th, and 20th-ranked Illinois State are also in that regional.

The 21-day tournament opens Tuesday with a pair of qualifying double-headers. Georgia Southern, making its initial appearance in the tournament, faces Robert Morris and Xavier (Ohio) meets Alcorn State at Dayton, Ohio, with the winners getting the No. 12 seeds in the Midwest and Midwest, respectively.

Boone Runs For Record, Bandits Bounce Panthers

TAMPA (UPI) — Rookie running back Greg Boone was used primarily as a blocking back at Duke University when Steve Spurrier was offensive coordinator, but Saturday night Spurrier turned him loose with the football for the Tampa Bay Bandits.

Boone was slow starting, with just 31 yards on five carries in the first half against the Michigan Panthers. But he turned it on in the second half and finished the night with 157 yards on 31 carries and one touchdown from seven yards out. The Bandits only had two other yards rushing.

Stars 25, Generals 0

At Philadelphia, rookie Kelvin Bryant rushed for 114 yards and one touchdown and the Stars' defense forced seven turnovers on the Generals' first eight possessions. The Stars, 2-0, converted a fumble and two interceptions into their first 15 points of the game — an 8-yard touchdown pass from Chuck Fusina to Scott Fitzkee and a 2-yard scoring run by Bryant in the second quarter and a 26-yard field goal by David Trout in the third quarter.

Bryant, out of North Carolina, carried 24 times in outgaining 1982 Helmsman Trophy winner and Generals rookie Herschel Walker. Walker gained 60 yards in 13 carries and fumbled twice. New Jersey, 0-2, had four passes intercepted and fumbled the ball away three times.

Stallions 20, Invaders 14

At Oakland, quarterback Bob Lane, filling in for the injured Reggie Collier, scored on a 1-yard plunge to lead the Stallions to victory in the USFL's first overtime game.

Wranglers 30, Blitz 29

At Tempe, Ariz., Jim Asmus kicked a 33-yard field goal with one second left, helping the Wranglers post the USFL's first major upset. Asmus, a rookie from the University of Hawaii, capped a comeback that saw Arizona outscore Chicago 18-6 in the fourth quarter.

Livernois Leads Longwood Win; Winter Springs Tops Forest City

Jeff Livernois slammed a homer and a double and collected four RBI to lead Longwood I to a 9-2 rout of Winter Springs I in Major League Mustang Division baseball action at the Seminole Pony Baseball Complex. Livernois also scored two runs to back the pitching of Chuck Lamb.

In softball action at the complex, Winter Springs I scored three runs in the top of the eighth inning en route to an 11-8 extra-inning victory over Forest City II in Eagle League play of the Seminole Softball Club. With the victory, Winter Springs has already equaled last year's win total, when it was 1-23.

Jessica Bradley ripped a pair of singles and a pair of doubles to lead Winter Springs while teammate Terri Bledsoe added two doubles and Lomicla Whitaker added a triple. Christy Tibbits picked up the pitching victory. Deana Jefferson led Forest City with two doubles.

In other Eagle League play, Karen DeShetler showed why she one of Lake Mary High's most valuable players as she went 3 for 3 at the plate with two doubles and a triple and scored five runs to lead H.D. Realty to a 20-3 trouncing of Casselberry Rotary Club.

H.D. Realty had a total of 17 hits for the night including three by Lori Helms and Marcia Dalziel and two by Riane Richardson and Kristie Kaiser. Tamara Smith had a solo homer for Casselberry who managed only four hits against H.D. Realty's pitcher Dalziel.

The three-hit pitching of Cara Derrington paved the way for Casselberry I Salvaggio's Girls to upend Forest City III Altamonte Billiards, 11-1. Derrington went the distance on the mound, walked only two and made five putouts. Casselberry I also took advantage of seven Forest City errors.

Semorlan Commercial Roof Decks roped 14 hits en route to a 15-4 thumping of Winter Springs II Trivision's Chevron. Mindy Manual led Semorlan with three hits and two RBI and also picked up the pitching victory while Wendy Ward added a two-run single and Carla Crowley scored three runs and knocked in another. Buffy Osborne had two hits and two RBI for Winter Springs II.

In Hawks League action, Forest City II Freeway Oil Co. erupted for 20 runs on 19 hits and Kristen Bates pitched a no-hitter as Freeway Oil hammered Winter Springs Salvaggio's Photo Arts, 20-1.

Kimberly Steinke, Stacy Brandenburg, Tracy Brandenburg, Tonia Colvin and Shannon Kennedy had three hits apiece for Forest City II.

If you'll have your windows covered with solar film, we'll help cover the cost.

Our Watt-Wise™ incentive will pay up to $150 to help qualifying customers gain the benefits of heat-reducing film. This film helps you use less electricity for air conditioning your house, so you save on a long-term basis.

If an FPL Home Energy Audit indicates that adding solar-reflective film is beneficial, you'll receive a Watt-Saver™ certificate. The certificate is redeemable with any participating solar film contractor. FPL will verify that the installation meets our specifications.

Will everyone benefit from Watt-Wise incentives? Yes.

These incentives are less costly than the oil necessary to generate the electricity wasted by inefficient homes. Every 600 kilowatt-hours of electricity not used is a barrel of oil no one has to pay for. This also helps us postpone the building of expensive power plants. The less oil we use, and the less new building we have to do, the more we can help hold the line on everyone's electric bill.

For more information, or to arrange for a Home Energy Audit, send us the coupon or call the Watt-Wise Line at 1-800-432-6563.

The Watt-Wise Products Program. Another way we're working hard at being the kind of power company you want.

I'd like more information on the following Watt-Wise incentives:

- Solar-Reflective Film.
- Water Heating.
- Cooling & Heating.
- Ceiling Insulation.
- I would like to have an FPL Home Energy Audit.

Reagan May Settle For Less In Arms Talks

'Zero Option' Not Etched In Granite

WORLD IN BRIEF

Israel Not Ready To Pull Its Troops Out Of Lebanon

JERUSALEM(UPI) — Israel is not prepared to withdraw all of its troops from Lebanon in the near future, despite U.S. impatience with the slow-moving process.

After more than four hours of talks with Secretary of State George Shultz Sunday, Israeli foreign minister Yitzhak Shamir said there was agreement on the basic idea of the removal of Israel's troops from Lebanon.

But he said, "It is clear to us that in the coming months ... (the) Lebanese government will not be able to control the security of its territory by its own forces."

Schultz said there was no U.S.-Israeli disagreement on the need to control the security on Israel's northern border, or on re-establishing Lebanese sovereignty and independence.

Israel has suggested several possibilities, including joint Israeli-Lebanese patrols, or a phased Israeli withdrawal. The pullout of Syrian and Palestinian forces are conditional on an agreement by Israel to withdraw all forces, and Shamir indicated that is not ready to do this soon, or as he described it "the near future."

OPEC Near Oil Accord

LONDON (UPI) — The 13 OPEC ministers needed only a nod from the Venezuelan capital today to conclude a precedent-setting agreement to cut prices for the first time in the oil cartel's 22-year history and avoid an all-out rate war.

After 11 marathon days of informal talks, the ministers expected today to close an accord on a pricing and production package that included a 15 percent rate cut from the present crude benchmark of $34 a barrel.

To top up the new price of $29 per barrel, the 13 nations will impose an overall production ceiling of 17.5 million barrels a day almost halving the peak production in 1979 of 31 million barrels per day.

The final sticking point Sunday was the oil production level to be allocated to Venezuela, limited to 1.5 million barrels a day under the original OPEC proposal.

Venezuela sorely wanted to pump another 300,000 to replenish coffers that are in debt by $30 billion. Venezuelan Oil Minister Humberto Calderon Bertel said his government probably would approve a compromise pumping level today.

For Americans, the $5-a-barrel cut should mean a price cut of 12.5 cents at the gas pump, but oil analysts say refiners and producers probably will try to restore flagging profits and consumers will see only about a 5-cent reduction.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The pressure is mounting on President Reagan to settle for something less than his "zero option" in negotiating an agreement with the Soviet Union to reduce the number of medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe.

While administration officials have portrayed Reagan as unwavering in his belief that the zero option is "the high moral ground," they have hinted at flexibility to assuage those who insist he is not interested in arms control.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said Sunday Reagan might accept an interim agreement at the Intermediate Nuclear Forces talks in Geneva if convinced it will lead to his goal of eliminating all missiles from Europe.

"I suppose there might be some (interim agreement) if the first paragraph was that immediately following the signing of this Interim agreement we would reconvene to negotiate a final stage, which is zero," Weinberger said.

"We've emphasized all along that we would look seriously at any Soviet proposal that takes us a step toward the ultimate goal of the zero option," said White House spokesman Lyndon Allyn.

The Geneva talks will be on the agenda Tuesday when Reagan meets with Dutch Prime Minister Rudolphus Lubbers, whose country has agreed to accept some of the 572 missiles the United States will begin deploying in December if an agreement is not reached.

The administration hopes Lubbers will reaffirm Western Europe's support for Reagan's arms policies.

However, the meeting will follow calls by two allied leaders — Italian Foreign Minister Emilio Colombo and West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl — and Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Charles Percy, R-Ill., for changes in Reagan's position.

Colombo, during a meeting with Reagan, and Percy, in a speech Saturday, said Reagan could revitalize the talks by submitting a new proposal. Kohl told the Washington Post that Reagan should accept an interim arms agreement.

However, the administration's position is that the burden is on the Soviets.

Weinberger, interviewed Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation," said the Soviets "have not yet made any serious proposal in response to ours."

"It is time for them to do so," he insisted.

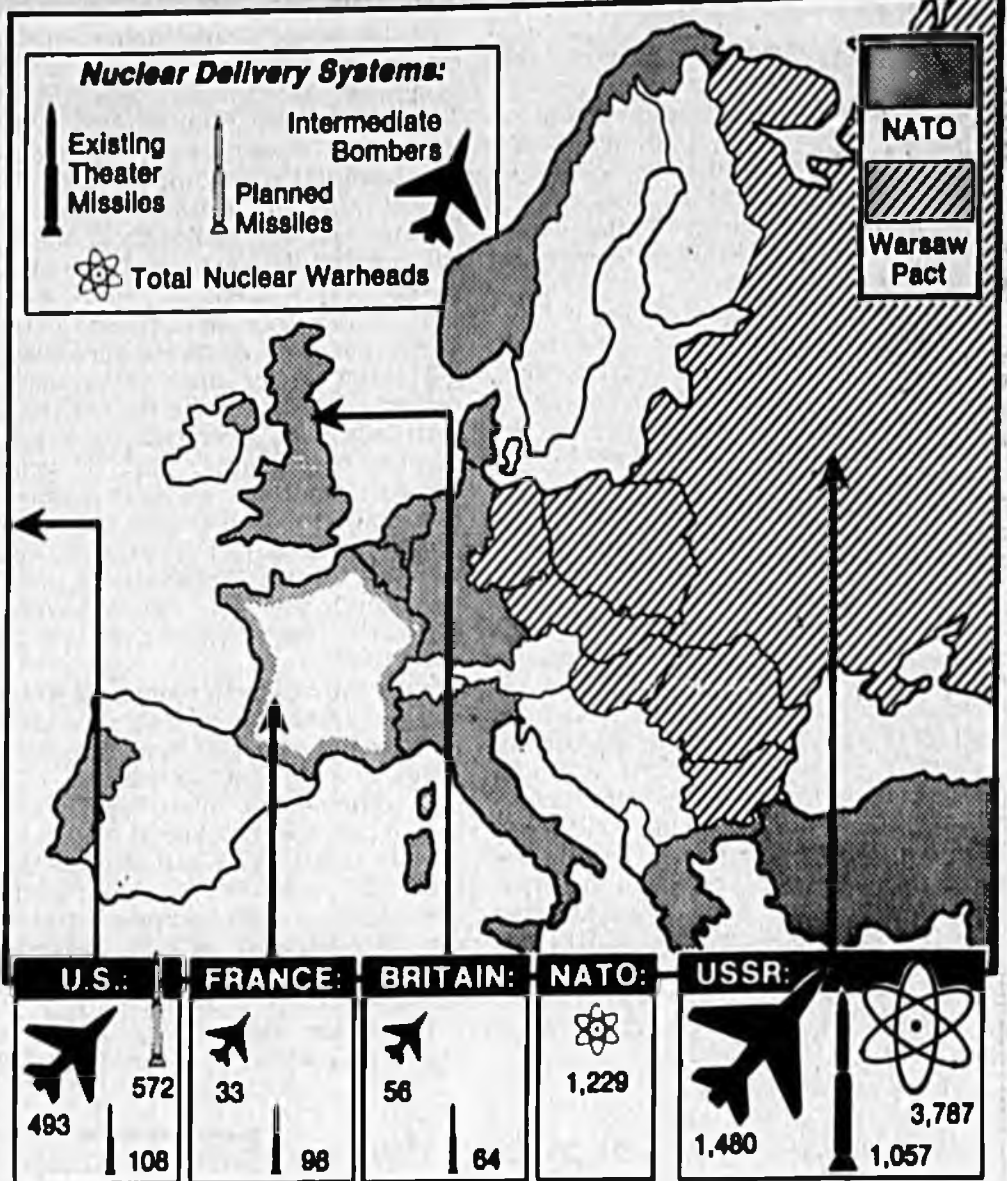

In response to suggestions that Reagan accept an interim agreement, Weinberger said, "Our worry is: What is the inducement to the Soviets to come back to the table if they get an interim agreement that satisfies all of their needs and none of ours?"

Administration sources disclosed Sunday that the United States has asked the Soviet Union to open a new set of arms talks to renegotiate verification procedures contained in an unratified treaty limiting nuclear weapons tests to 150 kilotons or less.

Reagan, concerned that current technological means cannot detect all violations, wants on-site verification built into the pact, which was signed in 1974 and has been a focus of political feuding within the administration and between Reagan and Congress.

Administration sources said the request for formal negotiations was delivered to a Soviet diplomat in Washington last month by two American officials. Despite a second inquiry by the State Department, the Soviets have not replied.

The lack of a response has raised concerns among some U.S. officials, who believe the eventual reaction from Moscow may provide insight into Soviet leader Yuri Andropov's position on the broad issue of arms control.

President Reagan's "zero option" proposal to cancel U.S. plans to introduce new nuclear missiles into Europe in exchange for Soviet dismantling of existing medium-range missiles has proven to be a stumbling block in the Geneva arms talks. A major Soviet objection is that it offers to leave out British and French delivery systems. Figures are from U.S. sources. Similar Soviet data shows the two sides close to parity.

IN BRIEF

Liberty City Rocked By Racial Violence

MIAMI (UPI) — Police restored calm today to the Liberty City ghetto where black youths hurled rocks and bottles and stoned officers who tried to break up an outdoor dance party.

About 500 blacks poured into the streets after police broke up a gathering at a park late Sunday night. Riot-equipped police squads were withdrawn from the area about 2 a.m. today, authorities said.

Police dismantled a blockade around a 40-block area and were patrolling one main street in the area. When the disturbance began, police in riot gear immediately cordoned off a 40-block area and urged motorists to stay out of Liberty City, a predominantly black community where 18 people died in race riots nearly three years ago.

Miami police spokesman Juan Santos said the violence started when music from large speakers at a late-night dance in African Square Park prompted calls from neighbors. Police went to the scene three or four times and instructed the crowd to turn the music down.

After the last warning, the youths began tossing rocks and bottles at police.

French Government Warned

PARIS (UPI) — The Socialist-led government of President Francois Mitterrand received a clear "warning" from the electorate despite retaining control of most of France's major town councils in local elections.

After suffering sweeping setbacks in the first round of voting, the left minimized its losses in the runoff Sunday. With most results in, leftist councils won in 117 of France's 220 cities with more than 30,000 inhabitants.

The left lost control of only half the 61 town councils it won in the previous local elections six years ago. Nine out of 10 government ministers wore their elections.

All the left's defeats Sunday were in communist local councils — 16 in all, the same number the Socialists lost in the first round.

Daddy Dearest?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bing Crosby, the crooner who charmed millions with his silky voice and family image, was an abusive father who beat his sons to such an extent one of them dreamed of murdering him, published reports say.

In his memoirs, "Going My Own Way," Gary Crosby, 49, the eldest of Crosby's sons by first wife Dixie Lee, said his father beat him almost daily. "I'd get bent over and my pants taken down and beat till I bled," he said. He said he endured the pain by dreaming up ways to kill his father.

In People magazine interviews, published Sunday, Gary's three brothers had varying comments on life inside the Crosby family.

Phillip Crosby, 48, called Gary a "whining, bitching crybaby," and said, "We never got an extra whack or a cuff we didn't deserve."

Gary dismissed Phillip's comments and said, "He isn't worth the powder to blow him to hell." Phillip's twin, Dennis, said Gary's revelations were "Gary's business," but said his older brother was the most severely treated of the four sons of Bing boys. "He got the first licking, and we got the second."

Lindsay Crosby, 45, the youngest of Bing's sons by his first wife, told People he supports his brother's memoirs. "I hope it clears up a lot of the old lies," he said.

In the book, Gary said he had a weight problem and recalled his father weighed him once a week. If he had gained weight he was ordered into his father's office for a whipping.

"I had a big, broad ass on me as a kid that used to annoy the hell out of my father," Gary said, recalling his father's favorite nickname for him was "Bucket Butt."

He said said the boys were required to eat everything on their plates and once, after the family moved into their 20-room Hollywood mansion, Phillip hid bacon and eggs under a rug. When the food was discovered, Phillip was required to eat it, "dirt, hairs and all," Gary said.

When he was told his father had died, Gary was playing tennis in Los Angeles. He said he paused only a moment and continued his game, thinking, "Am I supposed to act like I loved him all my life?"

It makes a difference

It helps if a family going through a time of loss can have a source to turn to for information, advice, and help. We try to be that source in a sincerely concerned way.

Astros Batter Valenzuela

United Press International
VERO BEACH — Fernando Valenzuela, the Los Angeles Dodgers' million-dollar baby, wasn't worth a dime Sunday.

The 22-year-old Valenzuela, who won a $1 million 1983 contract after an arbitration hearing last month, made his spring training exhibition debut and was crushed for six runs and five hits in two innings as the Houston Astros pummeled the Dodgers, 15-3.

In the first inning, Phil Garner had a bases-loaded single for two runs before Valenzuela walked Wes Clements and Alan Knieley to force in the third run. A single and a walk set things up in the second inning for Jose Cruz, who drilled a three-run homer off Valenzuela.

Cruz also singled and doubled and scored three times. Garner, Bill Doran and Terry Puhl each had two RBIs.

Astros' left-hander Bob Knepper held the Dodgers to one hit over five innings. Los Angeles finally scored in the eighth against Frank DiPino on a run-scoring grounder by Pedro Guerrero and a two-run single by Mike Marshall.

Elsewhere, Philadelphia downed the Chicago White Sox 7-5, Texas defeated Kansas City 7-1, Boston beat Detroit 8-5, Montreal topped the New York Yankees 5-4 in 10 innings, Baltimore edged Atlanta 3-2, St. Louis nipped the New York Mets 3-1, Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati 3-2 in 11 innings, Cleveland out-slugged San Francisco 13-9, Seattle whipped San Diego 8-1 and Oakland trimmed California 4-3.

At Sarasota, Tony Perez drove in four runs to lead the Phillies to victory. Perez, a 40-year-old first baseman who signed with the Phillies as a free agent, hit a solo homer in the second inning, singled in another run in the third then doubled home two more runs in the fifth.

At Pompano Beach, Jon Matlack, Rick Honeycutt and Tom Hanke combined on a seven-hitter to lead the Rangers to victory. The Royals only run came in the first inning off Matlack on consecutive two-out singles by Leon Roberts, Amos Otis and Bombo Rivera. Matlack retired the next seven hitters.

At Winter Haven, Ed Jurak's RBI single with the bases loaded snapped a 3-3 tie and triggered a five-run, eighth inning rally that lifted the Red Sox to victory. Jurak, trying to win one of two utility infield jobs, slapped a one-out drive to left field off loser Larry Pashnick to drive in Chico Walker with the go-ahead run. Chet Lemon homered for Detroit.

At Fort Lauderdale, a pair of New York errors in the 10th inning handed the Expos their victory. The winning Expo rally was started when first baseman John Mayberry allowed a grounder by Mike Gates to go through his legs for a two-base error. Gates moved to third on a sacrifice bunt and came home when Bryan Little's liner went right through second baseman Ed Rodriguez' glove for another error. Andre Dawson hit a two-run homer for the Expos.

At West Palm Beach, Leo Hernandez hit a home run and Al Bumbry had four hits and knocked in a run as the Orioles defeated the Braves 3-2. The Orioles never trailed after Hernandez' homer led off the second inning against reliever Rick Mahler. Bob Horner homered for Atlanta.

Basefoot Tames Brantley; SCC Blows Lead, Falls, 6-5

Jeff Basefoot scattered seven hits for his second straight pitching victory Saturday as Lyman's Greyhounds upended Lake Brantley's Patriots, 9-5, in Five Star Conference baseball action at Lake Brantley.

Lyman took a 4-0 lead after two innings and held off a late Lake Brantley rally for the win. Steven Lorenz was 2 for 3 with four RBIs as Lyman improved to 6-4 overall and 4-1 in the conference. Mark Coffey and Bill Neville had two hits apiece for Lake Brantley who fell to 7-3 overall and 2-3 in the conference.

Lake Brantley remains at home to host conference foe Seminole today at 3:30 p.m. while Lyman stays on the road and will head for Spruce Creek for a 4 p.m. matchup with the Hawks.

In junior college action, Santa Fe scored two runs in the bottom of the ninth to edge Seminole Community College's Raiders, 6-5.

SCC had built a 5-3 lead after four innings and held it until the seventh inning when Santa Fe scored once to cut it to 5-4 and then scored twice in the ninth to squeeze out the win. Tom Barker clubbed a home run for the Raiders who fell to 10-12 overall and 3-1 in the Mid-Florida Conference. Santa Fe raised its record to 12-4 overall and 4-1 in the conference.

Bladder Surgery? Get 2nd Opinion

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently I had some test in a hospital and learned that I have gallstones. Before I went into the hospital I had nausea, some pain in the area of the gallbladder and a lot of gas. The doctor told me that I would have to have my gallbladder removed, even if the stones were dissolved, because the gallbladder is diseased.

My question is this, how can you tell that a gallbladder is diseased from an X-ray? Why can some people have the stones removed or dissolved and keep their gallbladder? If I feel better on a fat-free diet, do I really need the surgery? I have had major surgery before and am not very thrilled about going through it again.

DEAR READER — Some doctors believe that the very presence of stones in the gallbladder means you have gallbladder disease. The stones are formed because of an abnormal reaction to cholesterol or bile pigments. You can have two types of stones, pigmented stones or cholesterol stones. The latter may be dissolved in some cases. This procedure is still under study to determine when it is useful and when it is better to operate.

Also, the gallbladder should be seen in X-rays when it fills with bile containing a dye used for the test. If the X-ray shows that the gallbladder has not filled, one possible cause is from scarring and fibrosis from previous inflammations of the gallbladder.

There are differences of opinions on whether gallbladder surgery is necessary in patients who do not have significant symptoms. This is discussed more fully in the Health Letter number 4-9, Gallstones and Gallbladder Disease, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

One of the important considerations is the general health of the patient. An older person with other medical problems who is not having any symptoms from a gallstone may do well to avoid surgery. A younger person might avoid future problems by having it. You could ask for a consultation with another doctor before agreeing to surgery.

DEAR DR. LAMB — How can grandparents endure a lively beautiful granddaughter who is hyperactive? She was very small when she was born and required special treatment. Her mother did drink and smoke during the pregnancy as she didn't realize that this could have any effect on the pregnancy. It breaks my heart to hear her threaten to punish the little girl when I know my granddaughter needs help to enable her to be more responsible.

DEAR READER — First, let me agree that cigarettes and alcohol, and perhaps caffeine in coffee, are harmful to pregnancies. That is especially true if they are used in large quantities.

But babies born to mothers who have been very careful can still become hyperactive. Why don't you forget about the alcohol and cigarettes and just talk to your daughter along the lines of the value of having a check-up to see if the little girl is all right now. In view of her small size when she was born. As a grandparent you do have some responsibilities and some rights. Perhaps if your daughter sees this column she may realize that her child has a problem.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Oswald: "North and South were using 15-17 point no-trumps and two-way Stayman in responding. Hence North's two-diamond response forced to game and suggested there might well be a slam."

Jim: "South's three-diamond call showed a good no-trump with a five-card diamond suit. This didn't fit North's hand, so North signed off at three no-trump."

Oswald: "South stretched when he bid four no-trump to suggest a possible no-trump slam. North stretched even further when he bid the slam, but this time everything came out for the best."

Jim: "That is from declarer's viewpoint. The defenders were most unhappy with the result."

Oswald: "South read the opening lead as top of two, middle of three or just something really irregular. He won with dummy's queen, led a diamond, finessed his jack and continued with the king. West discarded a club and South looked for tricks in other suits. He needed them."

Jim: "They were there. The diamond finesse had given him three tricks. There were always three heart tricks. The club finesse worked and finally South guessed to drop the spade jack to score a rather lucky slam." (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)
