

Clement Is Named State Attorney For 6th Circuit

TALLAHASSEE, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Archie Clement of Tarpon Springs, a rough-and-tumble debater in seven sessions of the Florida Legislature before he was defeated by a Republican two weeks ago, will be the new state attorney for the Sixth Judicial Circuit.

Governor Warren yesterday appointed Clement, who led the fight for the Administration program in the 1949 legislature, to serve out Chester B. McMullen's term as state attorney.

McMullen resigned yesterday to take the seat to which he was elected as First District representative in Congress.

Clement will serve until January, 1951. He must stand for election to a full term in 1952 if he wants to keep the state attorney's post. The Sixth Circuit is composed of Pinellas and Pasco counties.

Clement is a 38-year-old native of Tennessee who has practiced law in Tarpon Springs for 25 years. He has been city attorney there for 16 years, and he has represented Pinellas county in the state House of Representatives since 1937. He was one of the leading parliamentarians in the House, and was chairman of the Rules Committee last session.

He was defeated for reelection by B. E. Shaffer of Clearwater in the surprising Republican victory which turned nearly all Democrats out of office in Pinellas county on Nov. 7.

Flood

ALBANY, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Riverside Casino and dining room.

Air, trapped under the lavish carpets, gave a half-eat, floating feeling. Without warning, the air would burst a hole through the carpet, sending a small geyser to the surface of the four-foot deep water.

Slot machines and gambling tables, already the focal points of a chattering crowd gave out a gay feeling in the inky darkness.

Armed pit bosses, with their pistols rolled up, stood guard over the machines and heavy table stakes hurriedly left behind when the river roared in.

The Ma pes Hotel was isolated first reports said, water was surging through the lobby. A six-foot wall of sandbags held however and only a small amount of water broke through. Employees rolled up the expensive carpets.

But sandbags at the rear of the building gave way and the basement was filled within 20 seconds.

Some 3,400 boxes of shoes and tons of other merchandise stored in the basement by fashionable ground-floor shops floated to the ceiling.

"We can't calculate the loss," said owner Charles Mapes. "We're just lucky to be out of there alive. We had to swim for it when the logs gave way."

Casino and night club owners and employees were stranded in the Mapes.

The unwilling guests were fed from an emergency kitchen and several places to sleep. The 300-room, 12-story hotel was filled. As the muddy waters rolled down streets adjacent to the river, lights shined out one after another in other business establishments and more than 300 private homes.

The city was split in two parts for hours. Hundreds of workers on the north side through work at midnight or in the early morning hours, were unable to go to homes on the south side because of water-covered bridges.

The city's log gambling club on Virginia Street is more than two blocks from the river and was not harmed.

One man died of a heart attack while trying to save department store stock.

Several persons were dramatically rescued.

A man who jumped into the river early in the night in an apparent suicide attempt, turned up alive several hundred yards downstream. Police said it was miraculous he survived.

A man leaving the YMCA on First Street was swept away but was rescued a block downstream by garage employees who lowered ropes from the second story.

At least two new car dealers, with 1951 models, saw several feet of water tear through their showrooms. They got some cars out in time to avoid heavy damage.

Although outscored 178-177 by its 1949 opponents, North Carolina won seven of ten games now played in the Cotton Bowl.

For each of his front guerrillas troops ran into light enemy machine gun fire on the western front Tuesday. The U. S. First Cavalry patrols six miles away found no Red north of Yongpion. The South Korean First Corps advanced as much as two miles without opposition on the cavalry's right flank.

The day's greatest and most successful feat was the conquest of Hyesanjin by the Seventh Division's 17th Regimental Combat Team. Officers said a military government would arrive in a few days and install a free election.

Major General David Barr, commander of the Seventh Division, expressed thanks "we got here with a minimum cost in lives and equipment."

The infantrymen arrived in clear weather, and the comparatively warm temperature of 20 above. They had made a heroic march through 6,900-foot mountains across the by engineering feat "which would have done credit to Pau Bunyan."

A 10th Corp spokesman said the 13th Engineer Combat Battalion and the 18th Engineer Combat Team, which waded across streams the Reds thought were impassable, built 14 bridges, and bulldozed airstrips from earth from top so hard the planes would slip off only an inch or two of soil at a time.

Eleven tanks and rolling anti-aircraft batteries were in the column that covered the final two miles. It rolled into the town at 9:45 A.M.

Col. Herbert B. Powell, commanding the 17th, said Red Manchuria was within easy artillery range, but his guns would not fire unless they were "unless they fire at us first."

The weary infantrymen, veterans of an outfit which fought at Attu in the Aleutians during the second World War, reached the border just 22 days after they made an unopposed amphibious landing in Korea. The border was the end of a 100-mile march over treacherous mountain roads and across a 6,000-foot mountain range and in temperatures that sometimes dropped below zero.

gained China and to report back to the 1949 assembly. He said the matter was urgent but that he realized a thorough, systematic study is called for.

U. S. delegate John Foster Dulles said the United States generally supported the idea of an inquiry into Taang's charges. He added these suggestions: that the proposed commission be composed of impartial individuals rather than government representatives and that it be authorized to go only where it is wanted. In other words, it could go to Communist China only if the Peiping regime wanted it.

Dulles expressed the belief China was ready for the second phase of Prime Minister Stalin's program for Asia. Those two phases, he said, are first to whip up a Nationalist spirit to get the people to rebel against their rulers and then to amalgamate them with the Soviet Union.

It was being suggested to aggression "choked by frost," Dulles said, "then exposure is a good preventative. We believe that all friends of China, whether they recognize the national government or the people's government, should be glad to get the facts."

"The events of the past 12 months substantiate my government's charges against the Soviet Union," Dulles said. "They reveal the true origin and character of the Peiping puppet regime. Recent events show that the Soviet Union is helping to it that its puppet, in Peiping, are completely subservient to its directives, that the Soviet Union is taking away vast areas and acquiring special privileges all over China, and that the Peiping regime is used as a tool to achieve Soviet imperialist objectives in other parts of Asia."

Taang charged that the North Korean attack on South Korea and the Chinese Communist invasion of Tibet were part of the same problem. He proposed that the Assembly consider the Tibetan question along with his own charges of Soviet aggression against China.

"Tibet is a land of considerable strategic importance," he said. "It is made a base for the imperialistic schemes of world Communism. In Tibet as in other parts of China, a foreign conquest has been staged in the disguise of revolution or liberation. This is the true meaning of the Communist invasion of Tibet."

Speaking of the Korean war, he said: "The aggression in Korea is, therefore, the direct result of Soviet aggression in China during

Whitehair Named As ESA Counsel

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The appointment of Francis P. Whitehair of Portland, Ore., as general counsel of the Economic Stabilization Agency was announced today.

Whitehair will take over the office soon, succeeding H. Graham Morrison, assistant U. S. attorney general, who has been acting counsel.

The Economic Stabilization Agency was set up to control the economy in the present emergency, with wage-price controls if necessary.

Whitehair was admitted to the Florida bar at the age of 20 and has practiced in Florida since 1921. He served in both World Wars. He was a candidate for Governor in 1939 but was defeated by Spessard Holland in a close contest.

He was born in Chapman, Kans., but his family took him at an early age to Winter Haven, Fla., where his father was publisher of the Winter Haven Daily Chief.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE
 God sometimes seems to be so little indifferent to his people without God's offering his people would long since have perished from the earth and their names forgotten. I will lift the horns of Israel among all the nations, like a horn in a bundle of reeds. (Amos 2:1-9)

The grand dragon of the South Carolina Ku Klux Klan calls James F. Byrnes, former senator, Supreme Court Justice, Secretary of State, and recently elected governor of the state, a liar. Which just goes to show to what lengths the KKK in its misguided fury will go.

It comes near being a catastrophe when seven houses in one comparatively small community go up in smoke, and the fact that they were small houses of relatively low value makes it none the less easy upon the occupants who are burned out. Sheriff Merlo points out that the seven families involved lost everything they had including their clothes, had to replace them out money, hard to do without on a cold day. Those who want to do a truly Christian act of kindness and are in a position to donate warm clothing are asked to notify the Sheriff's office.

We hope everyone had time to read the article from the Kwanin magazine in Monday's Herald on school teachers and their little problems, especially parents. It is well to teach your children that they have "rights" and that their rights should not be infringed upon, but it is equally important to show them that for every "right" there is an equivalent responsibility, and that a person's responsibilities are just as important as his rights. Every person enjoys the right to drive his car across every intersection, but he has a responsibility to obey the traffic signals. When he doesn't do that, he loses his rights.

When a turkey shoot is not a turkey shoot, or is it legal to test your skill with a shotgun against another? The Attorney General says a turkey shoot is a lottery, therefore against the law. But Circuit Court Judge Walker of Leon county says it is no such thing, that it is simply a question of a steady nerve and a good eye, and who's got the best. And there it stands except that the Attorney General says he won't contest the ruling. All of which recalls the Postmaster General's ruling last year that a fishing contest was a lottery and therefore against the law, necessitating an act of Congress before sportsmen could legally see who could excel in fishing. Such silly interpretations of existing statutes should convince the public how far bureaucracy gone mad can go in making life miserable for the public.

According to Raymond Moley, the original brain trustster in the Roosevelt inner circle, taps were sounded over the Brannan Farm Plan in the recent election. The farmers evidently do not want the government to guarantee them a profit on their year's operations, but it would have been interesting to see how long it would take after the farmers were guaranteed such a profit, before little businessmen would have been the victims of similar largesse from the government. After all, if the government can guarantee an inveterate gambler like the farmer a profit, why not the little businessman? And who deserves it more? Then we would not have to worry about how many pages we print, how many reporters we hire, or how many papers we give away. And the government could raise our taxes, and thus we would pay for our profits out of our own pocket and it wouldn't cost anybody anything, and everybody would be happy. At least that's the way it looks to me.

Resistance For Peace

"There is little hope of a nation dedicated to peace resisting the brutal effort of men trained to war." These words are from the cable of Tsepo Shangkbu, finance minister of Tibet, to the United Nations asking for intervention in the Chinese Communist invasion of Tibet. The appeal was probably in vain, since Tibet is not generally recognized as a sovereign nation. The argument that it is not such, but a province of China, is one of the rare points on which the Chinese Communists and the Chinese Nationalists are in complete agreement.

The Tibetan statement sounds like a refrain of hopelessness for peaceful nations. The results of any serious attack against Tibet are likely to prove its truth in regard to that nation. Tibet is known as a mysterious forbidden land, where strangers may rarely enter. Yet the nation has little armed force, and few prepared defenses. It has relied on the natural protection of its high, difficult mountain passes and severe climate, and on its own peaceful ways. These are enough to control casual travelers, but not to turn back an invading army.

The fate which befalls Tibet might be the lot of any other nation which placed too much reliance in its own peaceful intent. Natural barriers, whether of mountains or of water, are not in themselves effective against modern machines of war; they become formidable only when strongly and skillfully defended. The nation which wants both peace and liberty must guard itself as if for war. We hope that it may not always be so. But that is the condition which prevails today.

Ye Goode Old Days

Here's evidence that the good old days in some respects weren't so good after all. Forty years ago the loss of life through scalds or burns was seven times as high as it is today. Even as recently as the period of 1936 to 1940 the average death rate was double last year's.

This is based on the experience among the industrial policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and the improvement, according to the company's safety experts, is due largely to the modernization of the American home with its improved heating, cooking, and lighting facilities.

"The trend reflects in some measure the effect of consistent and widespread education for safety, and the marked advances which medical science has made in the treatment of severe burns," declared Dr. Donald B. Armstrong, second vice-president in charge of the Metropolitan's health and welfare activities. "But most important has been the passing of the old fashioned coal or wood stove, the kerosene lamp, and other hazards of past years."

Even now burns and scalds claim about 4,600 lives yearly in the United States, and many additional thousands suffer serious and disfiguring injuries which do not prove fatal, the company reports.

Analysis of claim records shows that among adults, burns from stoves and grates, the explosion of flammable liquids, and careless smoking are the most frequent cause of the fatalities. For very young children scalds from hot liquids and steam are the most prevalent causes, and among somewhat older youngsters, burns from stoves and grates, the explosion of flammable liquids, and playing with matches exact the highest toll.

Marriage Still First

A changed mode of life for women is one of the commonly cited characteristics of "this modern age." Women hold all manner of jobs, from the factory bench to the top executive offices; women vote and take active part in politics; women live their own independent lives. Has all this altered woman's traditional desire for marriage and a family as her foremost aim?

That aim has not changed, if a survey made at Vassar College is indicative of the general situation. Ninety-five per cent of the women enrolled there said they hoped to marry and have children before reaching the witching age of thirty, at which a woman's chances for marriage are presumed to turn downward. Many have career in mind, to be sure, and a third said they would like to go back to work after the children are grown. But the family is the first desire.

24 Feared

A resort owner said he saw a burning fuelline in the flame far above timberline on the precipitous east face of the mountain. When the fire subsided, he could see nothing resembling a campfire.

The missing plane was bound from Chico, Calif., to Billings, Mont., owned by the New Tribes Mission, a religious organization, it was on the first leg of a flight to South America.

Passengers included two young mothers with their children, widowed in the crash of another mission-owned plane in Venezuela last June which killed 15. Also aboard was Dr. Paul W. Fleming of Chico, mission director.

The new, twin-engine DC-3 last reported by radio over Fish Falls, Idaho, at 3:46 P.M. M.S.T. That was 50 miles west of here. The plane was due at Billings at 4:30 P.M.

It was about that time that reports of this picture came from the area south of Yellowstone. A pilot heard a plane overhead. It was flying west, just opposite the direction from the California plane should have been headed. There was speculation it was lost and hunting landmarks.

Half an hour later, acting Teton Park Superintendent Paul A. Lodge said a fire was reported about 1,000 feet from the top of Mount Moran.

"There were no mountain climber out," Lodge said. "We assumed it could be nothing but a campfire. A little while later the fire was reported as having been headed. There was speculation it was lost and hunting landmarks."

20 Are Missing In Head-On Collision Of Canadian Trains

EDMONTON, Alta., Nov. 22—(AP)—Sixteen soldiers and four trainmen were dead or missing today as the result of a head-on collision high in the Rockies. The wreck was blamed on omission of three words from a train order. The train carrying Canadian troops to Fort Lewis, Wash., to retrain, collided with a sub-zero weather with an east-bound passenger train west of the Cache River, 312 miles west of Edmonton. The troop train was supposed to wait at Cache River for the other train. The order it received lacked the words "Cache River" and the trainmen had the impression that they were at another siding, an official of the Canadian national railway said.

Army officials said 10 babies were taken from the wreckage of three coaches. Two died en route to a hospital, while four others are missing with the four crew members. Fifty-three soldiers and five trainmen were injured.

The four officers and crew members were bound for Fort Lewis, Wash., where 10,000 Canadian soldiers will be trained to fight with United Nations forces in Korea.

The troop train, running eight hours behind schedule, and a transcontinental limited collided on a steep curve on the main line of the Canadian National Railway. They were near a siding at Cache River, British Columbia, where they were scheduled to pass.

The crash occurred in a lonely, snow-covered stretch of country five miles west of Jasper, Alta.

Both trains were traveling at reduced speed, but there was a half-foot of snow on the ground and the temperature was near zero.

As the 17-car troop train and the limited collided, cars from both trains spilled off the tracks, ripping up the right of way and tearing down communications lines.

A cloud of steam from the broken heating line on the troop train poured through the cars, scalding those trapped in the wreckage.

Two dining cars on the troop train were quickly converted into makeshift hospitals. Dr. P. S. Kimmert of Yonon, Alta., who had been riding on the passenger train, took charge. His wife assisted him as nurse.

An emergency call to the Jason-divisional point brought an auxiliary wrecking crew and medical aid to the scene. It reached there three hours after the wreck. Later it began moving the injured back to Edmonton.

Fifteen soldiers were left behind in a cave, and six were taken to care for Army stores on the troop train. The others who escaped injury will go to Wainwright Military Camp, 125 miles southeast of here.

16 miles southwest of Hyesanjin. General MacArthur's war summary in Tokyo reported.

"United Nations forces continue to advance generally along the entire Korean battle front yesterday (Tuesday)."

Here's the way the front looks from East to West:

East Coast—eight inch guns of the U. S. Cruiser St. Paul paved the way for the Republic of Korea (ROK) Capital Division pushing "a retreating disorganized enemy" toward Nalsia.

South Koreans were eight miles south of Chongju, port city 55 miles from the Soviet border where the Reds apparently were preparing to make a stand. B-29s bombed Chongju after Marine armor ran into heavy anti-aircraft fire there.

Manchurian border—The Seventh Division's 17th Regimental Combat Team dug in around Hyesanjin. It reported no sign of enemy activity on either side of the 160 yard wide Yala River which divides Korea from Red China's Manchuria.

Other Seventh Division elements 15 miles to the south, struggled with faulty maps and had road in an effort to find and wipe out two Communist battalions. The Red were in Samsu, 10 miles southeast of Hyesanjin.

(The road that maps said went to Samsu ended abruptly seven miles up in the mountains from Kyuhang. The Americans tried another. This was blocked by a burning bridge and a landslide.

"We will keep pushing until we have the area cleaned out," a headquarters spokesman said.

states of all land, sea and air forces in simultaneous stages until forces are one-third or one-half of their present size.

4. Outlaw of war propaganda. The resolution defined aggression thus:

1. An aggressor is a state which first uses armed force, under any pretext, against another state.

2. Though a political, economic or strategic consideration, no pretext based on the internal situation of a state can justify armed invasion.

Legal experts of the congress asserted this definition would make it extremely difficult to justify U. N. armed intervention in Korea.

The resolution also demanded:

1. Immediate withdrawal of foreign armies from Korea, a "peaceful settlement" between North and South Korea with the participation of the Korean people.

2. An end to American "inter-vention" in Europe, termed a "potential menace to peace" and to the "bloody military action in Vietnam."

3. "Total demilitarization" of Japan and Germany, conclusion of a peace treaty with Japan and withdrawal of all occupation troops from both countries, Western "re-arrangement of Germany and ending demilitarization of Japan" were condemned.

Acheson

hearing by the United Nations on Communist China's charges of American "aggression" in Formosa. Some western officials hoped the delegation will talk about Communist aims in North Korea and a possible withdrawal policy.

Acheson also told lawmakers that John Foster Dulles, the State Department's expert on preparations for a Japanese peace treaty is expected to have further talks on treaty plans with other Pacific Nations during the current United Nations session. He said that Dulles has now consulted with representatives of all 13 nations which are members of the Far Eastern commission and of some other nations.

In a long discussion of the American policy of recognizing foreign governments, Acheson said the United States position is that the veto does not apply to the admission of representatives of Communist China to the United Nations. The issue in this case does not involve the admission of a new member. Ten or 15 applicants for membership in the U. N. are being held up currently by the veto.

Secretary of State Acheson also said he expects to consult with Republican leaders of Congress, including Senator Taft of Ohio, on foreign policy. He said he had done so in the past and would continue this course.

He told a news conference at the same time that some extraordinary interpretations had been placed on his speech Friday night awaiting a Taft proposal to re-examine basic U. S. foreign policy toward Europe. He said that some critics had read into his opposition on his part to any congressional inquiry and he declared that was not true.

Acheson was told that his Friday speech, attacking "re-examination" had been widely interpreted as a blast at Senator Taft, whom Acheson had not named in the talk.

Asked whether this was correct, Acheson said he would leave that up to the reporters to figure out but complained that his remarks were much more widely interpreted than they were widely read.

He invited reporters to read the text of what he said, observed they probably would not do it and read to them a paragraph asserting that "we all belong to that same 'scab' status system" congressional hearings on the policies and programs of the administrative government agencies.

After he had refused himself to name Taft as his target, Acheson was asked whether he had any plans for meeting with Republican leaders at the end of this week. He said yes, these are made.

He cited a system of subcommittee of the House and Senate foreign affairs committees worked out at the last session of Congress and said consultations would be started with those as soon as

In addition, Acheson continued, he himself had meetings with the leaders of both houses and both parties last session. He was then asked whether he intended to continue such meetings in the coming session—when Republicans will have a more powerful position in the new congress and said yes, he does so intend.

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 22—(AP)—Nationalist China's plan for a United Nations commission to investigate her charges of Russian aggression, received slim support today in the General Assembly's political committee. It seemed doomed.

France and Austria joined Britain and the Soviet bloc in opposing the Nationalist resolution. The opposite position has been taken by the United States.

Syria proposed submitting the China question to the Little Assembly with instructions to report back to the 1951 General Assembly.

Lodge made plans to push out across the lake at daybreak in a boat. In his group was an experienced mountain climbing team of four rangers headed by W. Vandewater. Lodge was to set up base on Moran Bay. The team was to start the long climb up the mountain. Lodge estimated it would take six to eight hours—if they encountered no slides in the four feet of fresh snow.

Meanwhile, a Civil Air Patrol plane from nearby Jackson was to circle the area. A CAP rescue unit headed by Maj. Arthur McCain was to move to the scene with snowmobiles.

The air rescue service at Cord Air Base, Tacoma, W. dispatched a plane carrying parachute rescue team and a pilot-trained land rescue unit. Other groups were standing by at Lowry Air Base, Denver, and Hamilton Field, Calif.

The Lamplighter

Spainza says somewhere that "All good things are as difficult as they are rare." This is applicable not only to philosophies, but also to the project of the Seminole County Choral Society: Handel's Messiah. What an exciting piece of music! The time, the strenuous vocal demands are extremely difficult and require time and talent in great amounts.

Castal observation would indicate there is enough musical talent in Sanford to perform a work of this prodigious nature. However, it is necessary that the people participating in a choir be of the right sort. The effort will be unrewarding to the least if a rehearsal is missed not only are the absentees cheating themselves but the people who are present and the town as a whole; for when the time of the great event arrives, they will be unprepared and feel like a victim who has left his violin at home.

Out of such stuff as this night may be made! The importance of being present and possessing that quality of loyalty and pride cannot be over-emphasized. We want to enhance the cultural life of Sanford. The Seminole County Choral Society is trying to do this and it can, provided the members stand behind it rather than being lethargic and apathetic. A combination that has ruined many ambitious projects of the greatest potentialities.

A Re-Business for Many
Anyone who has a proclivity for humor will welcome the recently published, "Chips Off the Old Benchley," a collection of the best wit and satire of Robert Benchley available in the Sanford Public Library.

Many have probably thought of Robert Benchley as an obscure actor who was once in Hollywood. If this is the case, the real Benchley, who writes quite serious and at the art of humor not in motion pictures, but through the medium of writing, has been missed. His stories are not all hilarious, though some might be considered to be rather quite serious and it is through the vehicle of humor that Benchley assails some of his pet peeves.

After reading "Chips Off the Old Benchley," the real man will be remembered. "Chips Off the Old Benchley" is the only one. Robert Benchley hated small and pretentious people and in his writings this is apparent. One of the most memorable sketches is the one in which the water-on-table is defended; here the object of his sharp wit is the man who loves to make a waiter feel like a blithering idiot and a member of the fourth estate.

Benchley, some may recall, the fellow who wrote a check at 3:00 A. M. in a Broadway night spot with the notation on the back "Dean Hank, having wonderful times with you here." Such was the irrepressible foolishness of Robert Benchley, "Chips Off the Old Benchley" would make an excellent Christmas gift.

Mrs. and Mrs. William Bernard Spillers of Jacksonville Beach are celebrating the anniversary of their daughter, Lillian Frances, to Philip Charles Spillers, Jr. of the city. The anniversary will be celebrated on Jan. 18, at 8:00 P. M. at the First Baptist Church in Jacksonville Beach.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 22 (AP)—Red Skelton, one of the few top comedians not yet in television, will take the leap next October. Until lately, Red has been pre-vented from entering the new medium because of his movie contract. But his new deal gives him freedom to chart his own TV future.

"When I saw him on the set of 'Lucky Mr. Deeds,' he was being very nice with plans to come to Hollywood in June of next month," he said. "We'll have our own theater and a revolutionary method which I can't talk about yet."

Skelton is an inveterate TV watcher who has home screen constantly. He had some interesting comments to make on the role of the actor in television.

"The trouble with most of them is that they are using technique borrowed from vaudeville and the movies."

"The important thing to remember is that you are playing in the living room, not in the studio in defiance of anyone else."

Skelton is another actor who is being recruited by television. Edgar Hoover made a similar statement this week.

"I might do a sounder on the time shows a week," Skelton said. "But night-time radio will be a thing of the past. No program would be able to attract the 100,000 that my radio show has."

The comic foresees a revolution in the entertainment industry. The movie workers don't have to work, he said, but radio will be a show-off for a whole day. Time television will present a picture where "any woman can watch it because of their being paid for it."

"The movie industry workers have telephones, automatic signs, dry and wash basins, and all kind of conveniences. Pretty soon they'll be able to push a button and have their whole house vacuumed and dusted."

"I predict the next generation will produce a race of people broad boned and big fingered from watching television and pushing buttons."

Red, one of the most faithful players of benefit, predicts that even that field will be changed.

"I played a benefit the other night at a theater that was half filled," he said. "I think in the future we will get benefits on television and the public can stand in donations."

As for his own TV show, he emphasized that it will not be a "vaudeville show." It will have a

Naturalist Notes

The Seminole Audubon Society held its second membership meeting at the Garden Center in Sanford last Monday evening with Mrs. Virginia M. Mumford, president, R. E. Mumford, F. K. Taylor and R. E. Taylor, vice, presiding. The meeting was an interesting talk on water and birds of Florida, illustrated by colored slides. This was followed by a short question and answer period. In response to one question, Mr. Mumford threw pictures of the Whip-poorwill and the "Chuck-will-widow" and the night hawk, soon after the meeting and answer period. In response to the different questions, Mr. Mumford pointed out the shooting of song birds by small birds was discussed. This is a naturalist note as Mr. Mumford pointed out, unless the teacher and his audience can have the cooperation of parents, it is almost impossible to control.

Mr. Stog, chairman of Weeds and Meas, suggested a few ways to raise funds. One suggestion was that each member make one dollar and put it in a box to be used for the next meeting.

After the meeting adjourned a social hour was enjoyed. The ladies members served refreshments, and everyone reported a good time and an interesting evening. There were 27 persons present.

Celeryfeds Favored To Win First Game Of Year Against Leesburg

The Annual Homecoming football game for Seminole High School will get underway tonight at 8:00 P. M. when the Seminole High School Celery Fedz go against the Leesburg Yellow Jackets at the local high school field.

Both eleven have been winless this season and should offer plenty of excitement as they clash in their final scheduled game this year. The Fedz have dropped eight straight games this season while the Yellow Jackets have been winless in their last 17 starts.

A large crowd of alumni and fans are expected to be on hand for the contest which promises to be one of the most colorful homecomings ever seen at Seminole High School. Other than the cool weather expected for tonight, everything else should be plenty hot as the two teams battle it out.

Half-time entertainment has been planned that will add much to the excitement. Intricate and unusual maneuvers by the Seminole High band will highlight the half-time and promise to be very colorful.

The Fedz will hold a slight advantage over the Yellow Jackets although both teams will field squads of about the same size. Seminole High should have about 20 men on hand while the visitors will have 21. The Fedz' starting eleven should outweigh the Leesburg eleven by a slight margin.

The local's backfield will be intact with the exception of Frankie Stenstrom, who sustained an ankle injury early in the season. He has returned to the squad twice but was unable to stay because of the ankle. The Fed hopes of victory will rely on Ed Gordon, fullback, and Clarence Clouse, halfback. Both men have turned in impressive jobs in the backfield, both on offense and defense.

The Yellow Jackets are somewhat of a mystery, other than that they have lost their last 17 starts. Any thing can and probably will happen in this all important tilt.

The probable starting lineups are as follows:

Sanford		Leesburg
Name	Pos.	Name	Pos.
Denis Bass	Left End	Piercy	End
David Hester	Left Tackle	Van Derbeek	Left Tackle
Terry Corbell	Center	Shuffner	Center

Hunting Season To Open Tomorrow A.M.

TALLAHASSEE, Nov. 22—(AP)—Ideal hunting weather—cold and clear—is predicted for the opening of Florida's 1950-51 general season at sunrise tomorrow.

The weatherman said there will be freezing weather in the northern part of the state and frost as far south as the Everglades.

Officials of the State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission also came through with a prediction—more game, except squirrels, than at anytime in the past several years.

Thursday is the opening day for deer, turkey, squirrel and quail. Duck and geese cannot be legally killed until Monday noon, and the dove season does not open until Dec. 17.

After the first four days hunting will not be permitted on Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays except in the third district, extending from Jefferson county west.

Daily bag limits are one deer, 12 gray squirrels, two turkeys, 10 quail, 10 doves, four ducks and two Canadian and three blue geese.

Fred Saigh still is going through his list of candidates for the St. Louis job vacated by Eddie Dyer. An original field of 18 is being narrowed day by day.

Marion, often mentioned by Saigh as a potential managerial timber, is believed to have the inside track. A personable athlete with natural leadership qualities, Marty is definitely bound for a career as a manager. Whether it will be with the Cardinals in 1951, is up to Saigh.

Dixie Walker, a success at Atlanta after a fine big league playing career, is also under consideration. So is a darkhorse, as yet unnamed who is outside the Cardinal organization.

Bowl Picture Clears As Leading Candidates Play Final Contests

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—Six bowl games were set today, but the big attractions—Rose, Sugar, Cotton and Orange—must wait until the football sun sets Saturday before anything can be decided.

Only in the Cotton Bowl, where Texas is an assured participant, has any team been definitely chosen. And there's confusion even in Dallas.

Yesterday, for instance, officials of the classic said several teams are under consideration—but no formal invitation had been issued. What prompted the statement was that earlier in Chicago the Big Ten conference had refused to give Michigan State permission to play in the Cotton Bowl.

As of now, it looks like Oklahoma or Tennessee—depending on Saturday's games—will play Texas. Oklahoma meets Nebraska, Tennessee faces Kentucky.

Rose at Pasadena—Illinois vs. California. Sugar at New Orleans—Kentucky or Tennessee vs. Oklahoma or SMU.

Cotton at Dallas—Texas vs. Oklahoma or Tennessee. Orange at Miami—Miami vs. Kentucky, Tennessee, Clemson or Wyanoming.

Gator at Jacksonville—several of the above teams are in the running. West Texas State and the University of Cincinnati accepted.

Shotton Favored To Get Top Major League Pilot's Job

By JACK HAND NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—Fapping Bert Shotton, Bill Meyer and Marty Marion, stand by for a phone call. You look like the best bet for the three open big league managing jobs.

This is an exciting time for the group available after talking to a couple of men who should know. Shotton seems to be in the strongest position of the three. It is expected his appointment as Brooklyn boss will be announced as soon as the football teams vacate a sports page headline.

When Branch Rickey sold out his Dodger stock, it was taken for granted Shotton, a Rickey man, would not be back. Now it seems that was wrong.

Unless there is a storm of protest from the Dodger customers, Windy old Bert probably will be back for another term.

Chuck Dressen, a Brooklyn coach under Leo Durocher, is a Dodger possibility. It is reported he has strong support from one of the new Dodger vice presidents. In California, Dressen insists he knows only what he reads in the papers.

Peo Wee Reese, the popular Dodger shortstop, probably is the manager of the future. Reluctance to combine playing full time and managing, plus a loyalty to Shotton is likely to delay Peo Wee's debut until 1952 or later.

In Pittsburgh, Rickey still is mulling up his mind about Billy Meyer. The talented skipper from Knoxville still has another year to go on his contract. After a conference with Rickey, Billy went home knowing little more than when he arrived.

Finalists at Pittsburgh say Meyer has a 60-40 chance of returning. Lou Boudreau, deposed

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—Talk about over-emphasizing football, how about this? . . . Colorado College, which won the Rocky Mountain Conference title this season, already is worrying about a surplus of good hockey players . . . and other great skaters, have listened to the 28 first-class prospects turned out for practice while only 10 can be dressed for any game . . . Some of the eleven lettermen may be cut from the squad . . . Colorado Springs also is coming up as a rival to Hershey, Pa., as a home for retired cross-checkers.

Along with eight of the Canadian alumni are established in business there and will form the nucleus of a team that will oppose the C. C. variety in an "old timers" game.

Coach Cheddy Thompson and full-timer K. G. Freyberg also will try to hold those varsity tigers.

What, no services? The New Oklahoma U. press Cleveland manager, has the best chance of the others.

Fred Saigh still is going through his list of candidates for the St. Louis job vacated by Eddie Dyer. An original field of 18 is being narrowed day by day.

Marion, often mentioned by Saigh as a potential managerial timber, is believed to have the inside track. A personable athlete with natural leadership qualities, Marty is definitely bound for a career as a manager. Whether it will be with the Cardinals in 1951, is up to Saigh.

Dixie Walker, a success at Atlanta after a fine big league playing career, is also under consideration. So is a darkhorse, as yet unnamed who is outside the Cardinal organization.

Peace Is Hinted As Chinese Release 27 American Prisoners

Chinese Reds Retreat As Buffer Zone On Manchurian Border Area Is Suggested

TOKYO, Nov. 23—(AP)—Peace rumors appeared suddenly today amid a Thanksgiving Day quiet on the Korean battlefronts.

Talk of a negotiated settlement was touched off by:

1. Chinese Communists suddenly released 27 wounded American prisoners. The freed men brought this message—"The Chinese do not want to fight the Americans."

2. United Nations military authorities clamped a "top secret" lid on details of the release.

3. Chinese Reds, with an estimated 100,000 men in northwest Korea, continued to withdraw without a fight.

4. U. N. troops did not move up to take over abandoned Red fortifications.

"There is a reason" why U. N. troops have not advanced, spokesman at General MacArthur's headquarters said. He would not say what that reason was.

Col. M. P. Echols, headquarters information officer, denied reports that any peace negotiations were in progress "at this level."

In Washington, U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson told his Wednesday news conference that creation of a demilitarized buffer zone between North Korea and Red China's Manchuria has been

But he said no agreement has been reached. He added that discussions were with friendly foreign governments.

Immediately after the unexpected release of the 27 prisoners, a trustworthy source in Tokyo denied that any peace negotiations were going on anywhere. Later, Echols amended that to deny negotiations at "this level."

Speculation arose that the peace question might be taken up at talks by a Chinese Communist delegation enroute to the U. N.

Col. Echols also denied reports that efforts were being made to work out a mass surrender of Chinese forces. He said sudden appearance of the 27 in late October prolonged the war.

Nevertheless the Chinese were withdrawing everywhere. Chinese Nationalists in Taipei said the Chinese Reds had been ordered to fall back because of heavy casualties, intensive bombings and superior U. N. fighting power.

Actually, there was no more expansion of the withdrawal than the unprecedented release of the 27 prisoners.

The American POWs were driven in trucks 60 miles southward from a prison camp at Pyongyang and were ordered to march. They were hidden by night to avoid U. N. war planes, and were released about a mile in front of the U. S. First Cavalry division lines.

They are being treated as captives. (Continued on Page Four)

New Cold Wave Hits Northwestern Areas

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—(AP)—The second cold wave of the week was whittling out across the Midwest today.

Blowing northerly winds had brought snow flurries into the northern plains states in advance of zero or near zero temperatures expected tonight. Temperatures were below zero in parts of Montana, the Dakotas and Minnesota. Havre and Cutbank, Mont. had a frigid 20 below.

The cold wave was expected to spread as far south as northern Texas and over the upper Mississippi valley today.

The New England states had fair but continued rather cold weather today, all that remained of the storm which moved eastward out of the Midwest earlier this week. The southeastern states also reported temperatures somewhat below normal but described only as chilly.

Elsewhere temperatures generally were moderate.

Reds Are Accused Of Meddling With Austrian Police

Allies Demand That Russians Live Up To 4-Power Treaty

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—The United States, Britain and France protested again today against alleged Soviet interference with the Austrian government's control over its own police in the Russian zone.

The new protest charged that the Russians have prevented Austrian authorities from maintaining law and order and demanded that Moscow order its representatives in Vienna "to conform strictly" to four-power agreements which would prevent such interference.

The American note, relayed by the State Department here simultaneously with French and British announcements almost, implied there is a danger of breakdown in four-power operations in Austria. It urged the Russians to take action to avoid "a serious deterioration of functioning of the quadripartite machinery in Austria."

An earlier protest, made on Nov. 17, charged that the Russians were holding under the direction of the San Francisco Ministerial Association at the First Presbyterian Church. The Christian Science Church also held a service.

Conventions in Sanford were quiet this morning in contrast to the crowds that thronged the business section yesterday when groceries and meat markets were jammed with shoppers. With the exception of several drug stores and the restaurants, all places of business were closed. At the Court House only the Sheriff's office was open.

A special menu was being prepared for the 17 prisoners of whom three are white, at the City Jail. The dinner included ham, sweet potatoes and other vegetables.

Evening parking houses were taxed to capacity for the past few days to supply the holiday trade with oranges and grapefruit, said Manager Sandy Anderson of the Sanford State Farmers Market.

With the exception of pumpkins, however, vegetable sales have been very light due to the sharp drop caused by the Oct. 18 hurricane, he declared. The shortage included green and pole beans, cabbage, eggplant, squash and tender crops. A load of 530 bushels of eggplant arrived from Charleston, S. C. and was quickly sold to buyers from Orlando, Eustis and other sections.

In spite of temperatures down to 37 degrees yesterday morning for 30 minutes on the west side, no damage was reported to romaine beans or lettuce.

Tropical Wildcat Is Loaned Sanford Zoo

An ocelot, a tropical American wild cat, was loaned to the Zoo today by Fred Donaldson, a carnival showman, and will be kept there for the winter season. It was put in the cage next to the jaguar.

Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson, who are wintering in Orlando, brought along one of their star performers, a pet python of beautiful markings and about 12 feet long. The snake had the back seat of their sedan all to itself, and seemed to enjoy having its head stroked by Mr. Donaldson. It also raised itself and peered curiously out the window of the car at the bears in the nearby cage.

UNHEALTHY SLAVES

LONDON, Nov. 23—(AP)—British doctors, who had threatened to pull out of the national health program unless they got higher fees, have agreed to postpone their withdrawal at least until June.

Some 20,000 doctors, seeking fee boosts averaging 20 per cent to meet higher living costs, had planned to hand in provincial resignations this month. They agreed to hold off when Health Minister Aneurin Bevan explained that inquiries into doctors' earnings and expenses were taking longer than expected.

Three months' notice of withdrawal must be given.

IT HAPPENS every hunting season, so it must've happened in 1621, says artist Vic Douahue, Dunsmuir, N. J.

Americans All Over World Will Give Thanks For Blessings Today

The turkey took his annual curtain call today in spite of war, taxes and death.

Throughout this land and around the world, even in cold, battle-torn Korea, Americans prepared to offer thanks for the good things they have—before grabbing off another slice of the white meat.

President Truman asked his countrymen to pray for peace wherever they are, in church or at home or in the "busy ebb of life, every day, everywhere."

Many of them, had crowded last night onto trains, buses and planes to get back to their own hearths for the prayers and the feasting. And many more today jammed the highways heading to football fields and golf courses.

The weatherman studied his charts and said it would be chilly, a lot of places and generally fair. A cold wave was moving in on the mountain and plains states. Another still lingered along the Atlantic seaboard.

Cold or not, American tables were sure to be loaded with the good things of the soil, canned jams and crisp, white celery and plump olives and chilled apple.

"They are larger, more sinister and harder to get now than ever before," he declared last night.

Kefauver promised a speedy investigation of the Mountain City case.

Seminole High Students Spur Team To Victory With Pre-Game Parade

Seminole High School students, full of enthusiasm for the Celeryed gliders in spite of repeated losses, bolstered their own and the players morale yesterday afternoon prior to the victory over Leesburg with a long and colorful parade downtown, climaxed by a band concert and pep rally at First Street and Magnolia Avenue.

The students and their faculty advisers showed much ingenuity in their floats and decorations, and the vehicles stretched from Sanford to Oak Avenue where a left turn was made and back, via Second Street to Sanford Avenue. Some of the floats honked their horns today way a second time west on First Street.

The streets were jammed with shoppers who had come to town to stock up for Thanksgiving and who lined the streets to cheer the students on the occasion of their homecoming celebration.

Decorations and tableaux on each float were based on popular songs. The Student Council float led the parade with the lettered theme, "Hail, Hail, the Gangs All Here," and was followed by the High School Band, and the Pep Club.

Three Little Words" was the song theme of the Senior Class and the Juniors sang, "Take Me Out To The Ball Game." The sophomores had a big replica of a bee to illustrate their "Beehive of the Bumble Bee" theme, and the freshmen, a victory in mind chanted, "Let's Do It Again."

78 Persons Killed And Hundreds Injured As L.I. Trains Collide

They Were Waiting Supper For Him In Garden City—When Phone Rang

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—The telephone rang in a small suburban home in Garden City. A 17-year-old boy picked up the receiver.

"Oh," he said, not wanting to believe. Then, slowly, "Father always took the 6:09."

The telephone rang again at Floral Park. A father answered, "Oh, will you wait. Are you sure he is really dead?"

"Oh God . . . Why, that's our last boy . . . The other was in a 6:15."

The telephone rang again—a shrill, impatient death knell, making the rounds of the pretty commuter communities that dot Long Island.

A woman answered at East Rockaway. She screamed.

All night long the telephone rang ringing in scores of homes, and will not celebrate Thanksgiving today.

The calls brought the tragic news of a major disaster on the Long Island railroad—the worst train wreck in the history of New York State—and one of the worst in the history of the nation.

A warm and happy crowd has pushed and jostled its way through the loading gates at Manhattan's Pennsylvania station only a few minutes before. The Thanksgiving, and the big city's commuters were hurrying home to wives and families.

About 1,200 of them boarded No. 780 of the bankrupt Long Island Railroad. It was the 6:09, bound for pleasant Hempstead Island. Another thousand crowded onto No. 174. It was the 6:15, headed down the same track for Babylon through Rockville Centre.

It read dark early, and a cold, chill moon, almost full, gleamed on the track ahead. Inside the cars, hot and stuffy, the extra crowds stood in the aisles, swaying as the 12 o'clock train plunged.

The surviving motorman, William Murphy, 41, said he slowed his train for a signal and the brakes locked for some unexplained reason. The train ground to a stop.

The second train, only minutes behind on the main line, crashed into the standing one. It hurtled through the rear car of the first train like a piece of steel through a tube.

Acting major Joseph Sharkey, surveying the scene, said, "It's tragic we find out how things happen in this particular line. It's a shame."

However, after questioning Murphy, District Attorney Charles P. Sullivan said, "There will be no arrest until negligence is shown."

Sharkey said he is raising today an order restricting the speed of Long Island trains within the city limits to 25 miles per hour.

He estimated the second train in the crash was going 10 to 30 miles an hour.

Sullivan said Murphy told him the brakes were working normally when the first train pulled out of Pennsylvania Station at 6:05 P. M. (EST) bound for Hempstead.

The second train, headed by motorman Benjamin J. Bokony, 55, who died in the crash, left at 6:13 P. M.—four minutes later—on its way to Babylon.

"The crash occurred at 6:22 P. M. More than 2,100 rush-hour passengers were on board."

New Gun Can Knock Out Any Enemy Tank

ABERDEEN, PROVING GROUND, Md., Nov. 23—(AP)—The Army has developed a new weapon capable of knocking out any known foreign tank.

It is a 105 millimeter recoilless rifle, which is fired from a jeep. It has a terrific wallow.

Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, who made a day-long tour of this Army testing ground here yesterday disclosed existence of the weapon.

Pace announced: "I have witnessed a firing demonstration of a new recoilless rifle mounted on a jeep. This new weapon will, when in full production, along with the 3.5 baroque, provide the front-line combat soldier with the ability to knock out the most potent enemy tank known today."

The new recoilless rifle is an easy-to-handle, comparatively light weapon operated by two men.
