Columbus Day closings

SANFORD — Although Monday is Columbus Day, a federal holiday, most institutions will be in operation, with the exception of banks and the post office.
Seminole County schools will all be in operation as usual and garbage pick-ups will operate on their normal schedule in Seminole County.
All local governmental operations will be open as usual.

Golf course serves as runway

LINCOLN, R.I. — Members of the Kirkbrae Country Club ribbed student pilot Peter Gantzhorn for not yelling "fore" as he landed his disabled Cessna 150 on the third hole of the golf course.
"He flew over everyone's head," said Aline Richard, an employee at the pro shop of the Kirkbrae Country Club. "They were darn lucky."
Gantzhorn, of Plymouth, Mass., who turned 21 Friday, told police he was flying at an altitude of 2,500 feet at about 9 a.m. when the engine of the Cessna 150 began to sputter. He tried to gain altitude, but the engine died at about 2,700 feet.
"The engine quit on me," he said. "It started running rough then slowly. It didn't deliver the power it should have."
Gantzhorn told police he saw North Central State Airport, located on the Lincoln-Smithfield line, a few miles in the distance but knew he could not get there because of strong headwinds.

Fish makes Grandma a crook

INDIANAPOLIS — A 9 1/2-inch largemouth bass that was a few inches under the limit, has netted nothing but trouble for a great-grandmother angler.
Beatrice B. Thomas, 64, already has made two trips to court and now has a criminal record, a police mug shot and at least $130 to pay in fines and costs.
"I think it's absurd a person would have to go through all this for having an itty-bitty fish," Thomas said.
Thomas said she has fished for 20 years and it is her first brush with the law in her life.
"Even the judge appeared to be stunned by this," she said.
The trouble began June 23 when a conservation officer caught Thomas with the undersize fish at Eagle Creek Park.
At a hearing Oct. 17, Jacobs was advised her of her legal rights and advised to hire a lawyer.
After that hearing, Thomas was booked — photographed, fingerprinted, the works.
But Mick Jensen, supervisor of cases in Municipal Court for the prosecutor, said the law is the law.
"The legislature has decided its a misdemeanor," he said. "We treat all misdemeanors the same. I understand the practicalities of her situation. It's not our position to pick and choose what crimes to prosecute."

Sales tax hike referendum for jail not a cinch

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The "Copper Penny" one-year, one-cent local sales tax slated for the November ballot here, apparently faces an uphill battle for approval in light of recent voter rejections of school and road beautification taxes.
Seminole County Jail Administrator Duane

Rutledge, who hopes to see a 400-bed, dorm-style, minimum and moderate security expansion of the county jail paid for with about $5 million of the proposed tax, said Seminole County voters may feel overburdened by new county property taxes, along with state and proposed federal tax increases. However, he said, the Copper Penny, which the state projects would gross $24 million to pay for law enforcement capital outlay projects in the county and in each city here, is "for the protection and well-being of Seminole County residents. We need this extra jail space. If it's approved we can put the question (of jail expansion) behind us until about 1998," Rutledge said.

When Seminole County Sheriff John Polk proposed the tax to the county commission this

50,000 attend festival

Lake Mary-Heathrow event to end today

By LACY DOMEN

HEATHROW — An estimated 50,000 people truned out yesterday for the first day of the two-day annual Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts.

The brilliant Florida sun seemed to pale in comparison to the brilliant palette of colors used by 277 artists who displayed their wares at the fourth annual event. The show will continue through today at the L & L Acres Ranch across from the Heathrow community.

Festival Vice Chairman Larry Lucas strolled the grounds Saturday observing the efforts of over 300 volunteers, many of whom worked for a year to make the event a success.

SANFORD — The opening day of the Pioneer Days 'N Ways and Crafts Festival sponsored by the Seminole County Historical Society proved to be a huge success.

The pioneer festival continues through today with exhibits open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. The Seminole County Historical Society headquarters is located at 300 Bush Blvd., across from Flea World, on Highway 17-92.

Craftsmen and artisans from throughout Central Florida were on hand Saturday to demonstrate the methods used by their forefathers in such crafts as soap and quilt making, hand crafts and woodworking. Some crafts, not necessarily of the early years, were

State budget cuts now due

By MICHAEL MOLINE
United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez and the Cabinet will vote this week on $262 million in budget cuts needed to offset lagging tax collections.

That means funding for such programs as an acclaimed juvenile justice initiative and day care for poor children are on the state's financial chopping block.

The state's take from sales and corporate taxes are $544 million behind the projections upon which the $27 billion budget was based.

The impending cuts could have been much deeper, but on Friday, officials found $215 million in agency savings accounts and called in an $81 million loan to the Department of Transportation to help offset the losses.

The budget crunch will still mean more crowded classrooms in some counties and the elimination of some summer classes at state universities. The outlook also remains grim for 24 auditors targeted for layoffs at the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

WASHINGTON — The House voted Saturday to sustain President Bush's veto of a temporary seven-day spending bill, handing him a key political victory and ensuring that all but essential government services will remain shut down.

Also Saturday, House negotiators trying to craft a new budget plan to replace the bipartisan package defeated by the House on Friday reported making "good progress." They said it was possible they would have a new budget plan ready for congressional action on Sunday.

That new package was expected to have a significantly smaller Medicare cut, a different tax

Theory suggests encephalitis worsening

TAMPA — Florida's outbreak of St. Louis encephalitis could get worse if a new theory linking the mosquito-borne disease to certain weather patterns pans out.

State public health officials confirmed two new cases Friday in Palm Beach and Polk Counties. There were also two additional presumed cases, in Orange and St. Lucie counties.

Researchers at the University of Florida's medical entomology laboratory at Vero Beach say they have evidence that such outbreaks follow heavy rains that follow periods of drought in areas where the virus is active.

Rains that interrupted dry spells in the Tampa Bay area and south Florida last week could fit the pattern, said Jonathan Day, one of the UF researchers.

"The real critical period is going to be the middle of next week," Day told The Tampa Tribune for Saturday editions.

Encephalitis is an inflammation of the brain that can cause fever, sore throat, headache, confusion and muscle weaknesses. Severe cases can result in convulsions and death. There is no cure.

Undercover cops used blackface

NAPLES — A successful undercover drug operation has turned into a public relations disaster for white police officers who donned blackface to pose as crack dealers in this affluent retirement haven.

Officials of the mostly white police and sheriff's departments say they were only trying to meet the expectations of the mostly white buyers who cruised the predominantly black River Park neighborhood looking for crack cocaine.

But residents say the police crackdown, while well intended, perpetuated racial assumptions about drug dealers.

Community leader Fran Haugabrook said the officers' philosophy appeared to be, "This is what a drug pusher would look like. In other words, a drug dealer is black."

"It's a mockery, man," said James Whittaker, a 30-year-old airplane mechanic who described the night he spotted something strange about a man who appeared to be dealing drugs on the street.

Klaus downgraded to tropical storm

MIAMI — Strong winds from the southwest sapped Hurricane Klaus's strength and weakened it to a tropical storm Saturday, but the deadly system continued to drift with 70-mph winds toward the northwest.

Meanwhile, gritty Hurricane Josephine — the system that has survived in the Atlantic for more than two weeks — was downgraded to a tropical storm with 70-mph winds, having lost her organization while moving at speeds of 31 mph. Forecasters predicted the system would dissipate within 24 hours.

The strong southwesterly winds shearing off the top of Klaus' system also kept its heavy rains away from the Leeward Islands and the Lesser Antilles, which on Thursday had received as much as 10 inches of rain causing flooding that claimed six lives and left two people missing.

Arms broker sues weapons dealer

MIAMI — A south Florida arms broker who says he arranged deals between the Iraqi government and a Chilean weapons manufacturer in the 1980s has filed suit against the arms dealer for not paying him a commission.

Coral Springs resident Nasser Beydoun filed suit in Dade County against Chilean industrialist Carlos Cardoen, claiming Cardoen hasn't paid more than $30 million owed to Beydoun for engineering the sale of thousands of cluster bombs to Iraq.

25 artists win $15,000

HEATHROW — Judges for the Fourth Annual Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts awarded $15,000 in prize money yesterday to 25 artists.

Chairman of the Artist's Committee, Terrie Scharr, announced the winners.

Winner of the two-dimensional Best of Show was Carol Napoli for her mixed media painting. She was awarded $1,500.

Lisa Messersmith won $1,500 for her sculpture in the three-dimensional Best of Show category.

Winners in the $1,000 Partners in Scholarships awards are: Larry Cahall, Rollins College; Margaret Steward, Seminole Community College; Duncan McClellan, Seminole County School Board; J. Napoli, Stetson University and A. Mitchell Long, University of Central Florida.

Awards of Distinction, $500 each, went to: Peggy Banks-Otto, Gregory Jones, Sue Archer, Leon Theodore, Kathryn Wilson, Roddy Reed, Karin Zimmerman, Don Bagwell, Mark Melfert, and Chuck Huddleston.

Awards of Merit, $250 each, went to: Anita Wooten, Elinor Splitter, Susie Stovall, Bob and Ann Crystal, Rebecca Sexton Larson, Henry E. Poe, Margot Gray and Grant Ward.

Judges for the event were Nancy Dillen, Brevard Community College; John O'Connor, University of Florida and Dan Gunderson, Stetson University.

"The privilege to walk the show and look at everything up close. It's the finest festival I've ever seen," Lucas said.

Lucas estimated attendance, which is figured from parking receipts, at over 50,000 by mid-afternoon yesterday. Total two-day attendance had been projected to be over 70,000.

Festival-goers were treated to a varied display of fine, decorative and wearable art, ranging from Impressionistic oils and silver jewelry to rag rugs and polished wood urns.

Longwood artist Jennifer Bellinghaus said her pottery was selling well. She said she was impressed with the people running the show.

"They brought us coffee, donuts and bananas early this morning," she said. "Many festival organizers don't care about the artists, but they have been wonderful."

Lake Mary artists Donald and Bettye Reagan were pleased to have participated in the show. "The people running it have done a wonderful job," Bettye, a painter for 18 years, said.

Children clad in garbage-bag aprons painted murals in Crealdea School of Art's workshops. Chairman for the children's art activities, Renee Lewis, said the mural painting was a first for the festival.

"We've always had the workshops, but painting on site is new this year," Lewis said. Crealdea will display the works in its gallery. Lewis hopes to have the murals displayed on the walls of businesses and city hall in Lake Mary.

Kidzshoppe proprietors were volunteers Rep. Art and Phyllis Grindle. A steady stream of children filled the Kidzshoppe tent, where parents were not invited, to purchase examples of artists' work for $10 or less.

Grindle said he diplomatically tried to keep parents out of the tent so children could exercise their own judgment in making selections. He said no buying trends emerged.

"They were buying everything," he said.

Crowds at the festival were estimated to reach 100,000 this weekend.

Lewis said festival artists had donated between one and 75 pieces for the Kidzshoppe, with a portion of proceeds to benefit the scholarship program.

Twenty-six Seminole County schools exhibited about 800 pieces of student art, according to John Blair, student coordinator of Fine Arts for the school system.

Blair said many talented artists attend Seminole County schools.

"This lot wouldn't hold all the fine art that comes from these students," he said.

High school students' works were judged and awarded ribbons.

Lake Howell senior John Purdy was awarded first place; Lake Mary High School sophomore Melissa Metarko, second place; Lake Mary High School senior Shelley Charron, third place.

Honorable mentions were awarded to: Gary Borden, Oviedo High School; Daniel Ojeda, Lake Howell High School; and Jason Cline, Lake Mary High School.

Tommy Entenza, chairman of concessions, said the food available at the festival was more health conscious this year.

Promotional items chairman, Dennis Prebenda, said t-shirts, which feature the festival poster by artist Clay Stephens emblazoned on the front, were sold out in size extra-large by Saturday afternoon.

Artist Linda Bulmer, DeBary, holds one of the photographs she is selling at the festival for Jorm Mork, Sanford, to inspect.

LOTTERY

TALLAHASSEE — The winning numbers drawn Saturday night in the Pic 6 LOTTO jackpot were 4, 17, 19, 20, 24 and 44.

The daily number Saturday in the Florida Lottery CASH 3 game was 977.

The winning numbers Friday in the Florida Lottery Fantasy 5 game were 35, 9, 15, 24 and 33.

POLICE BRIEFS

Man accused in imprisonment

SANFORD — Sanford police charged Edmon Jones, 26, 1788 S. Bell St., Sanford, with false imprisonment and aggravated battery, after an 18-year-old woman accused him of imprisoning her at his house and beating her.

The woman told police Jones forced her to his house at 3:30 a.m. Thursday. There, she said, in a bedroom Jones beat her with a coathanger wrapped in a towel and punched her in the face.

Jones was arrested at home at 12:38 p.m. Thursday.

Arrest made in rock throwing

SANFORD — A man who allegedly threw a rock at the occupied car of Wendy Greco on 13th Street, Sanford, at about midnight Sept. 27, when warning Greco not to return to that area, has been arrested.

Sanford police at about midnight Thursday charged Oasie Lee Falson, 18, 99 Castle Brewer Court, Sanford, with throwing a deadly missile into an occupied vehicle. He was arrested on 13th Street.

Three accused in crack sale

SANFORD — Three men allegedly involved in a single $20 sale of crack cocaine to an undercover City County Investigative Bureau agent on Cypress Avenue at Sixth Street, Sanford, have been arrested.

Charged with sale and delivery of cocaine are LeRoy Hardy, 18, 4661 Gilbert St., Lake Monroe; Loren Baker, 35, 701 E. Eighth St., Sanford; and Robert Smith, 28, 26 Butler Boston Court, Oviedo. Agents allege one suspect took money from them, got cocaine from a second man and then handed over the agent's $20 bill to the third suspect. A stash of cocaine was also recovered from the ground near the suspects, the arrest reports said.

Police car keys stolen

SANFORD — A man, who reportedly offered to sell cocaine to an undercover Sanford policeman, is accused of stealing the policeman's car keys and trying to sell the back to him for $10.

The man didn't get away with the keys, and police drug agents grabbed and arrested him as he tried to leave the police car at about 9:30 p.m. Thursday on Seventh Street at Cypress Avenue.

Joseph Rutledge, 27, 39 Seminole Gardens, Sanford, was charged with robbery in the case.

Arrest made in forgery case

SANFORD — A man accused of stealing a check from the account of a woman June 6, with the check being forged and cashed at a Sanford bank by another man, has been arrested by Sanford police.

Thomas Brian Johnson, 29, 1228 Randolph St., Sanford, was charged with forgery, dealing in stolen property and theft at the police station at 9:40 a.m. Thursday.

Burglar caught running from school

SANFORD — Police here responded to a reported burglary in progress at Crooms School, 220 W. 13th Street, Sanford, and caught a man seen running from the area.

Footprints at the burglarized school reportedly matched those of the man and that led to a burglary charge for Daniel Bradshaw, 29, of 144 Academy Ave., Sanford. He was arrested at the school at about 3 a.m. Friday.

Three accused in station burglaries

SANFORD — Three men have been arrested here on burglary and theft charges in connection to burglaries to the offices of two Sanford gasoline stations Thursday.

The men were caught on Lake Mary Boulevard, Sanford, at about 3:15 p.m., following the burglaries to the Texaco on French Avenue and the Chevron Station on Orlando Drive, earlier in the day. Lottery tickets valued at $604 were stolen from the Texaco and $240 cash was stolen from the Chevron station, Sanford police report. Arrested were: Walter Lee Johnson, 45, of Auburndale; John McWright, 44, of Lakeland; and Anthony James, 39, of Orlando.

Cocaine hidden in mouth

SANFORD — A passenger in a car stopped by a City County Investigative Bureau agent, after the passenger threw a beer can from the car on Sipes Avenue, Sanford, was arrested, after the agent reportedly saw the man put a bag of cocaine into his mouth.

Anthony Gary Rowe, 19, of P.O. Box 265 South St., Sanford, was charged with possession of cocaine at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

Arrest made in cocaine sale

SANFORD — Jerome La Barron Moore, 22, 2561 Cuffer Drive, Midway, was charged with sale and delivery of cocaine after allegedly selling $20 worth of crack to a City County Investigative Bureau agent on Pine Street, Sanford, at 1:52 p.m. Thursday.

Lake Gem cleanup topic of city meeting

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Lake Gem, just off 24th Street in the Wynnwood Park area, may finally be cleared of the aquatic growth that has been the subject of residents' complaints for several months.

Several possibilities toward the clean-up will be discussed during the city commission work session prior to Monday's regular commission meeting.

The lake, according to city officials, is actually a land depression or an old sinkhole which collects surface runoff water and therefore has no method of recharging itself. The waters become stagnant without any flow.

One reason why the aquatic growth hasn't been cleaned out yet is that the city does not have the equipment needed. Basically a large dragline machine would have to be leased to remove thousands of yards of silt that has built up over the years.

Request for DUI probe dies

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — The city commission has refused to undertake a formal review of DUI charges against commissioner Hank Hardy. Hardy was arrested early last Wednesday morning in Altamonte Springs and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Hardy was visibly nervous as the question was brought up for discussion before an almost packed house at Longwood City Hall on Friday.

City Attorney Frank Kruppenbacher said he had been requested to discuss the matter. "We must remember," he said, "that Commissioner Hardy is still innocent until he pleads guilty or is judged to be guilty in court. I recommend the commission take no action at this time." He added, "Commissioner Hardy can sit on the commission and he can continue to vote."

At the beginning of commission discussion, Commissioner Rex Anderson read a prepared motion and asked for support. He said he had been deluged with calls regarding the matter of "racial remarks" reportedly made by Hardy to a black police officer at the time of his arrest. "I move," Anderson said, "to have the City Attorney look into the matter and report back to the Commission at our next meeting, October 15."

Deputy Mayor Jeff Morton suggested the commission "should wait until after Hardy's hearing, on Oct. 18."

The rest of the commissioners sat in silence, until finally Mayor Gene Farach declared the motion dead, due to a lack of a second.

Anderson replied that when he was elected, he promised to represent the people, and "I'm not going to sit here and keep my mouth shut on this issue."

Although several members of the audience attempted to be heard, Mayor Farach, reinforced by Attorney Kruppenbacher, informed the audience that the matter was not up for public hearing.

Commissioner Adrienne Perry said she felt uncomfortable with the situation. "I think we should have higher goals," she said, "and I will not allow Commissioner Hardy's bigoted remarks to cause problems in this city."

Amid audience applause for Commissioner Perry's remarks, Farach banged the gavel and declared the meeting adjourned.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the Longwood City Commission is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 15 beginning at 7 p.m.

Man charged with burglary of pharmacy

SANFORD — A Sanford man was arrested early Saturday morning when he was found inside of a closed, downtown pharmacy.

Sanford police responded to an alarm at Faust's Pharmacy, 407 E. First St., at 4:40 a.m., according to police reports.

When they arrived, police reported they found the glass front door of the store had been shattered with a brick.

Police reported finding a man moving around inside the pharmacy and placed him under arrest. He was identified as Danny Mathis, 19, 1602 W. 15th St., Sanford.

Mathis was charged with burglary and he was taken to the Seminole County jail where he was held on $1,000 bond.

You're Invited!

AND SUPER QUALITY

You are cordially invited to attend a Charity Ball aboard the "Grand Romance" Riverboat on Friday, October 26, with boarding at 7:00 p.m., until 11:00 p.m.

Retired Surgeon General C. Everett Koop has identified AIDS as history's greatest potential killer. He has said that the AIDS epidemic will not be contained until each of us is motivated to action by the death of a loved one. The Aids disease has taken a beloved member of our community, Thomas E. Whigham. Tom was a highly respected member of the Seminole County community, a Seminole High School football star, Student Body President, Optimist Club President, a partner in Seminole County's largest law firm, husband to Sally and father to Tom, Jr. and Bert. In 1983, he received nine units of blood due to ulcerative colitis. The blood Tom received was infected with the AIDS virus that led to his death on October 18, 1988, at the age of 35.

Tom's last wish was that something be done so that others would not suffer the same fate. Upon his death, Tom's friends and family joined together to form the Thomas E. Whigham AIDS SuperChallenge to fund an AIDS research Chair at the University of Miami.

We would like to invite you to the Second Annual Sanford Charity Ball which will benefit this effort. Join us on Friday, October 26, at 7:00 p.m. aboard the "Grand Romance" Riverboat. Heavy hors d'oeuvres and wine will be served. Entertainment will be provided by "Destiny" and on the boat by Kaylie Lytle, Mike Mendoza and the Shy Guys. For tickets, which are $100.00 per person, please call 321-8280 or 425-0118.

We hope to see you at this gala event!

Sincerely,
Thomas E. Whigham

Deposit salvation

The regulator most likely to reform America's banking system is L. William Seidman, the flinty chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. His brutal candor about the savings and loan fiasco earned him the respect of the financial world but prompted the White House to demand his departure before his term expires in October 1991.

Consequently, Seidman's objective is to move quickly to overhaul the banking system. He wants to avoid the government's mistake of procrastinating while the S&L crisis deepened. His sense of urgency is heightened by the Persian Gulf crisis and an economy that appears headed for recession.

For starters, Seidman wants to shore up deposit insurance by raising the premiums that commercial banks pay for the protection. This would help replenish the FDIC fund, which insures bank accounts up to $100,000, and would also ease the fears of anxious depositors. The current fund has only 70 cents with which to back every $100 of insured deposits; the comparable figure in 1981 was $1.34. If the already-streached fund loses another $2 billion this year, as Seidman predicts, its reserves will be at the lowest level since the FDIC was established during the Great Depression.

Seidman also would restructure the way commercial banks do business, in order to make them more competitive.

He says banks should offer both high-risk and low-risk investment opportunities to their customers. Those who avail themselves of safe ventures such as mortgage loans, government securities and highly rated corporate securities would have their investments put in higher-yield ventures but not have their deposits insured. At the same time, he would limit the total amount of deposits guaranteed against loss per individual; under the present rules, the government insures all accounts up to $100,000, with no limits on the number of insured accounts an individual may have.

These two reforms would have the salutary effects of reducing the federal government's exposure and injecting more market discipline into the banking system. Although taxpayers have an obligation to prevent the financial system from collapsing, they should not be expected to foot the bill for reckless investments.

Seidman also would remove restrictions that prevent some banks from operating branches or buying banks across state lines. This overdue reform would enable American banks to compete more effectively with foreign-owned banks. Such institutions control approximately 23 percent of the banking assets in the United States today, compared with only 15 percent nine years ago.

From a public policy standpoint, it is crucial that the federal government reform the banking system so that it can respond better to customer and market demands without jeopardizing financial safety or soundness. William Seidman has shown Congress the way to do precisely that.

Berry's World

"YOU'RE RIGHT! This is going to hurt you more than it will hurt me. I'm going to take you to court."

Democratic process can start early

Tuesday, Oct. 2 was the second primary election day in Seminole County. It was also presidential election day at Wilson Elementary School. Twenty-five candidates and an equivalent number of campaign managers worked diligently to persuade other fourth and fifth grade students to vote.

The theme for the campaign was "Voting: Our Privilege and Responsibility." On Monday, Oct. 1, each of the candidates gave their campaign speeches. They extolled the virtues of being Americans. They talked about what it means to live in a country where officials are elected, rather than living under a dictatorship. Each presented his/her rationale for the necessity of voting. They clearly detailed their responsibilities as citizens to vote. They cited historical facts relative to the difference one vote has made.

Listening to twenty-five fifth grade students discussing our great country and their campaign was refreshing. It rekindled a sense of patriotism. The fact that twenty-five presidential candidates were in the race reflected the interest and enthusiasm they shared for our political system.

The candidates had to qualify to run for the presidency just as Seminole County candidates had to qualify for their respective offices. Criteria for the students involved: maintaining a "B" average, having no discipline slips in the principal's office, securing permission from their parents, teachers and the principal.

SCHOOL BOARD CANDIDATE

Candidates in alphabetical order were: Tony Binge, Mary Lou Calabrese, Jason Carlin, Nikki Capra, Jason Collins, Renee Cooper, Meghan Dennis, Jennifer Hanson, Jason Hay, Scott Hillnaki, Dustin Hirsch, Alan Jamison, Bill Johnson, Carrie Kefalas, Sarah Kucera, Kelley Langton, Scott Leitner, Kristina Lundberg, Becky Mealer, Nayas Millan, Elizabeth Schaeffer, Jenny Shelley, Hemarie Vasquez, Ashley

Voitoline and Jane Warring. Computerized voting was programmed by Jan Buchanan, media specialist. She was assisted by Linda Blechhoff. Miriam Jamison assisted with the entire electoral process.

On Oct. 2, while only 16 percent of the 111,922 eligible voters in Seminole County voted, every student in fourth and fifth grades voted. Their only exceptions were absent students and those whose religious beliefs precluded their voting.

Terry Rabun, principal, announced the winner, Mary Lou Calabrese was elected president and Scott Hillnaki, vice president.

Tuesday afternoon, shortly before school closed, all presidential candidates, campaign managers and twenty-eight student council members were hosted to a post election party by the PTA. The members of the PTA in charge of these festivities were Linda Johnson and Diana Frayzier along with other PTA members.

All of the students assembled pledge to take their responsibility for voting seriously and to vote in regular elections when they become eighteen. America will be in good hands when these children come of age. Seminole County will no longer be drowning in the sea of voter apathy.

On a country not feeling so well

BOSTON — I have come back with no pill in my pocket. I have brought home no statistics in the carry-on bag that was wheeled through half a dozen airports this September, following an erratic course as far from New England as Nevada and Montana.

What I have collected in a score of conversations are not scientific samples of public opinion with margins of error. They are stories, impressions, echoes of anxieties. And yet, as I unpack these verbal souvenirs and look them over, they seem so representative of the country as the snow shakers, T-shirts and mugs sold in every airport shop.

How to describe middle-class America in the fall of 1990? If I were a doctor, I would call it the land of the worried well. I haven't been with many who believe the country is suffering from a terminal disease, from catastrophic illness. They know America is healthy compared to much of the world. But there is a bad case of the jitters going around.

The people I talked with, not a hypochondriac in the group, may feel okay, but they share a vague aura of dread. It's as if the whole country had gone in for a CAT scan and was waiting for the results to come back. We are not sanguine about the future.

Some of the symptoms are those of war jitters. A dinner companion in Delaware says, "We are not at war...YET." He sounds like a man waiting for the other combat boot to drop.

A fellow traveler in Salt Lake City shares the sentiment that I hear again and again, the fear that we will precipitate fighting, if our soldiers are there. I am told warily, they will be used. A woman in Cleveland, a grandmother and community volunteer, asks me earnestly: "Isn't there a general in the Pentagon in charge of getting us OUT of conflict?"

The jitters also come in a domestic strain, equally or perhaps more virulent. The middle class, even the worried well-off, are hunkering down. The Dow Jones, the price of oil, the Japanese, the banks, the deficit: These words are rattled off repeatedly like the ten early warning signs of cancer.

Out West, high-stakes enterprises seem to have less allure than job security. Nearer home, in a coffee shop, a teacher talks of colleagues who became real-estate agents. Once she envied their commissions; now they envy her paycheck.

The word of the Nineties is not "plastic" but "cash." Pay-as-you-go or don't go.

The list of symptoms would be far from critical without these other quiet nagging fears of the future that came to me repeatedly labeled like this: Environment. Children.

One day, in Montana, as I stand spattering every cliché about the beauty of the Big Sky country, I am told in no uncertain terms about pollution in the pristine landscape. Later, at dinner in Billings, the talk turns to family, to young children who don't get enough attention, older ones who can't get established.

"Don't you think it's harder for them than for us?" I am asked. And everywhere women in their thirties, forties, fifties are now as anxious about their aging parents as their growing children.

If the jitters in all their forms abound, few sufferers look to politics as a preventive. In most gatherings, I was the one who asked about elections. Rarely did anyone grant politicians the will or the power or the willpower to change the course of the future.

I did not find America to be an emergency room full of patients. I didn't come home weary of whiners who bore others with their aches and pains. But when you fill the national medical chart with myriad impressions, we seem as uneasy as a family in the waiting room.

This is what seems so different today. For the first time in my memory, people believe that many systems are breaking down at the same time. Schools and bridges, families and peace are mentioned in the same breath. Anxiety about the economy and the Earth are spoken of together.

Indeed on the last day of my travels, a systems analyst from the Midwest said, laughing, "It's like one of those messages on the computer screen: All systems going down."

I don't pretend to know whether there is something catastrophic coming on. But it is clear that the feel-good era is over. No one is whistling "Don't Worry, Be Happy" anymore. In America, even the well are worried.

It's as if the whole country had gone in for a CAT scan.

VINCENT CARROLL

Plastic talk is political lingo

Neil Bush, call a psychologist. Your problem has been identified. You've got an "ethical disability" that may require a few long sessions on the couch to clear up.

"Through an ethical disability, a lack of skill in seeing ethical issues, he (Bush) naively violated moral standards," intoned a professor of business at the recent federal hearing on Bush's role as director of Silverado Banking, Savings and Loan.

"Persons with this handicap are not well-equipped to be directors (of a savings and loan)," the University of Colorado scholar sagely testified — bristly adding, lest anyone misunderstand, that "the handicap does not absolve them of responsibility."

One day later, Bush himself took the stand, but the professor remained unimpressed.

"My opinion is that honesty is a central component of Mr. Bush's identity," the professor told a reporter. "But Mr. Bush is not skilled in spotting and analyzing conflicts of interest, and that's what has gotten him into deep trouble."

Leave it to someone from academia to inject the language of a therapist into a mundane (if celebrated) case of alleged conflict of interest. Why couldn't the professor simply have said the following: "Neil Bush seems to be an honest fellow, but he's either stupid or naive if he doesn't think his behavior as Silverado director involved conflict of interest?"

Such clear language is considered vulgar in this age of the expert opinion.

In adopting this style, of course, they often promote the debasing notion that everyone is a victim, that no one controls his own destiny. Although the professor may insist he meant otherwise — "the handicap does not absolve (Bush) of responsibility" — the fact is that most of us trust people with genuine disabilities with greater understanding and sympathy. If Bush has an "ethical disability," then whatever he did is not quite his fault.

I don't mean to hammer too hard on this example, except that it proves how sloppy language and contrived complexity corrupt fundamental meaning. As John Silber, the Democratic nominee for governor in Massachusetts, would say, the professor "talks plastic."

Silber, by the way, offers hope that some Americans have had enough of plastic talk. Not only does this former academic (a great irony, that) refuse to mince words, he is thriving politically as a result. He's called his state a "welfare magnet," described politicians as "brainless incompetents" and suggested to the elderly that "when you've had a long life, and you're dead, then it's time to go."

Most office-workers, public figures and professional experts would rather chew on soap than echo such clarity. It is simply not considered civilized in some quarters to state an observation in forthright, colorful language.

What do you suppose today's mush-mongers would have made of Al Capone? "Mr. Capone is confused about the ethical difference between defrauding a competitor fairly and exterminating him. A person with Mr. Capone's handicap is ill-equipped to remain on the right side of the law." Or, as Dion O'Brian said after a 1930s run-out: "I'm sorry it happened. It was just a piece of hot-headed foolishness."

Shuttle

and one minute after the ship's launch on the 36th shuttle mission.
"A good deploy, Houston. Ulysses is on its way," said shuttle skipper Richard "Dick" Richards as the probe gracefully floated away from Discovery.
With Discovery "parked" a safe distance away, the first stage of the probe's custom-built $87 million booster ignited at 2:53 p.m., pushing Ulysses toward distant Jupiter for a gravitational boost down, out of the plane of the solar system and back toward the south pole of the sun.
All three stages appeared to work properly, boosting Ulysses' velocity to a record 34,130 mph — fast enough to reach the moon in a mere seven hours.
"Discovery, (this is) Houston. For your information, the Guam ground station has picked up the Ulysses spacecraft just where they thought it ought to be," astronaut Kaythryn Thornton radioed from mission control in Houston.

"Fantastic!" replied astronaut Thomas Akers from Discovery.
"You guys did a good job," Thornton said.
Built by the European Space Agency, Ulysses is the centerpiece of an unprecedented project to study the polar regions of the sun, giving scientists their first three-dimensional look at Earth's life-giving star, its complex magnetic field and the tenuous "solar wind."
With Ulysses safely on its way, Richards, 44, Akers, 39, co-pilot Robert Cabana, 41, flight engineer William Shepherd, 41, and Bruce Melnick, 40, plan to spend the rest of their four-day mission conducting a series of on-board experiments before landing Wednesday morning at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.
The year's fourth shuttle mission began at 7:47 a.m. EDT

Saturday with the leak-free Discovery's picture-perfect lift off, 12 minutes late because of concern about distant rain and a last-minute technical glitch. It was NASA's first flight since April because of crippling hydrogen fuel leaks.
Given near-constant criticism over trouble with the Hubble Space Telescope and other problems, Discovery's successful launch gave NASA's sagging morale a major shot in the arm.
"We're obviously pleased," said launch director Robert Sieck. "The mood? I don't know whether you would say it is one of euphoria or relief. But it's certainly good to be back in the air again and on orbit. The team worked real hard for this. They earned it and they got their reward."
Discovery's takeoff also was a major milestone for the European Space Agency, which nursed the Ulysses project through a long string of delays.

Jail tax

year, Rutledge said Polk could have asked for a half-cent tax, which would have grossed the projected $10 million needed to build a new sheriff's administration building at the government complex at Five Points.
Rutledge said Polk, who is off duty suffering from a heart condition, "felt very strongly" that city police departments need assistance because of the burden placed on them by an ever increasing population. Rutledge said Polk knows also that if the jail isn't expanded, within two years Seminole County prisoners will be released from jail prematurely because of state restrictions on crowding, and projected population and crime rate increases.
Polk told the Seminole County Commission his operations have outgrown the dilapidated, 400,260 square-foot, former U.S. Navy barracks, which serves as his office at the Central Florida Regional Airport complex. The county leases that building from the Sanford Airport Authority for $80,520 per year, with annual increases over the next two years under the existing contract. Additional patrol sub-station space is leased at another location for $12,800 for this year, Under Sheriff Duane Harriett said.
Polk is proposing a $10 million administration building to be located on county-owned property, along with the jail expansion which would include 100 beds for work release prisoners, as proposed by a county criminal justice board. The dorm would also hold persons in drug rehabilitation programs, truant prisoners, county prisoners already sentenced with short terms to serve, and those arrested as drunk drivers, Rutledge said. The new administration building would have 100,000 square-feet of space in four stories.
When the county commission unanimously voted to put the tax up for a vote on the Nov. 8 general election ballot, Commissioner Pat Warren said voters must know that the sales tax will only pay for proposed facilities. She stressed that maintenance and operational costs will be on-going and will have to be paid for with general tax revenues over the years, and would bring an increase in property taxes.
Rutledge said the new dorm-jail will only require an operational staff of 10 people. The existing, maximum security jail has a staff of about 200, as required by the state.
In two years, even with the jail expansion, Rutledge said, the county jail will no longer have space to house federal prisoners, whose housing fees gross the county $1.5 million a year. There will be no room for any outside prisoners, even with the 400-bed dorm, Rutledge predicted. So the question of Seminole County, which also for a fee now houses about 25 Orange County prisoners, becoming more involved in the prison business is a moot point, Rutledge said.

Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriett said the tax would raise about $3 million for his department, with each city also receiving a percentage of the gross based on population figures. Those funds, he said can't be used to pay off existing debts, but must be used for new, capital outlay projects not covered in general budgets.
Harriett said Sanford's share would be used to expand the police station and to refurbish the existing building, which was occupied at capacity when first opened in 1974. Sanford police need to expand their workspace from 18,000 to about 28,000 square-feet to provide more efficient service, Harriett said.
"The city and the department have grown significantly. We have people working on top of people, and a parking problem," Harriett said. "We've got to come to grips with it eventually and the money is never there to do it."
The sheriff, Harriett said, is in a similar situation with workspace. "He's been operating out of a converted Navy barracks. You have to admire him for doing that as long as he has. But there comes a time for a change."
The tax, limited to one-cent per dollar for one year on purchases up to $5,000, is a fair way to come up with money to improve and maintain effective law enforcement and correction services countywide, Harriett said.
"It's a simple way for the county to raise needed funds quickly and fairly. There is no long-term debt to pay off. Everything is paid off up front and within one year," Harriett said. The financial burden, he said, also shifts from property owners to all who make purchases in the county, including jail inmates and tourists.
Rutledge said if the existing jail space of 812 maximum security beds isn't increased within the next 18 months to two years, the county will be forced by the state to release some prisoners, who shouldn't be freed.
An expansion of the existing jail, from 212 beds in 1981, and 384 beds in 1985, to the current count of 812 in 1988, was paid for by a similar tax collected here in 1985.
The current daily jail population is about 650, but Rutledge said the jail is already above capacity for some time.
"The jail is already above capacity for some time, but increases by an average of about 10 prisoners per month," Rutledge said. Of the current count about 40 are federal prisoners, and 30 are from Orange County. The rest are Seminole County offenders.

Ribbons

Darlington, South Carolina.
"It was a beautiful sight," she said, "and I thought, why couldn't Sanford do something like that to honor our men and women serving in the military forces over there?"

Myers has now enlisted the support of many civic and cultural organizations in the area, including the American Legion, VFW, Preceptor Delta Delta, Senior Citizens and Sanford Business and Waterfront Associations. Many private individuals have also volunteered their assistance, including three women who have sons serving in the Gulf: Ella Ashcraft, Louise Jones and Susie Killingsworth.
Plans call for a workshop meeting Monday, beginning at 10 a.m., at the American Legion, 2874 S. Sanford Ave. The all-day session is expected to produce 1,000 of the bright yellow ribbons, to be made out of plastic material similar to that used in trash bags.
On Oct. 10, beginning at 8 p.m., also at the American Legion, there will be another workshop for volunteers, high school organizations and other groups who may wish to assist the members of the American Legion in putting up the bows. George Mayberry will be in charge of that activity.
The hanging of the ribbons will begin Saturday, Oct. 13. Bows will be placed on palm trees along the lakefront from Central Florida Regional Hospital to the eastern end of Seminole Boulevard; and on light poles along French Avenue, from Orlando Drive to the lakefront, as well as through the middle of the city along First Street, from Persimmon Avenue to the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building at Sanford Avenue.
Local sorority organizations have volunteered to help maintain the ribbons once they are up, until such time as U.S. armed forces return from overseas.
There will be a ceremony dedicating the thousand yellow ribbons on Sunday, Oct. 14 at a time and location still to be announced.

Among the various displays were an estimated 30 members of the Central Florida Flywheel Club, who set up and demonstrated the use of old style flywheel engine equipment used to operate washing machines, pumps, and a variety of farm equipment.

Other displays included an Indian encampment, an old time medicine show and a demonstration of how cloth was dyed blue through the use of the indigo plant.
Saturday morning, during special ceremonies, the Lommerse family, operators of the Dutch Mill Nursery, 841 Upsala Road, were honored as Seminole County's Agricultural Family of the year. The Dutch Mill Nursery provides flowers for such operations as Disney World and Epcot.
In making the presentation, David Rowland, president of the Seminole County Farm Bureau described the family as being part of "the American ideal, not afraid of work, a family that works, plays and prays together."
John Lommerse, who has been operating the Dutch Mill nursery since 1937 accepted the award on behalf of members of his family.

 mix and other changes to help modify both parties who defeated elements of an earlier, defeated budget plan.

After the 300-138 House vote sustaining Bush's veto, it was unclear late Saturday how long non-essential government agencies and services would remain closed due to lack of legal spending authority.

But it was possible that when Congress met in a rare Sunday session it would consider stop-gap spending bill to provide funds and government borrowing authority through midnight Friday.

President Bush has said he would sign such a bill as long as it did not delay imposition of the automatic spending cuts required by the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law as a penalty for failure to cut the deficit by Oct. 1.

Congress passed Friday and Bush vetoed Saturday a temporary spending bill that did waive Gramm-Rudman cuts, setting up the showdown override vote.

At midnight Friday, an earlier temporary funding bill passed last Sunday and signed by Bush expired, leaving the government broke.

The House vote fell six short of the two-thirds vote needed to override a presidential veto. Had six votes switched from no to yes, the outcome would have been reversed.

Nine Democrats broke ranks and joined Republicans to sustain the veto. Had they not done so, the House would have voted to override the veto and sent the matter to the Senate.

Bush's veto of the temporary spending bill was his 18th since taking office and all 15 have been sustained by Congress.

The Democrat said the veto forced Congress to spend Saturday in a partisan dogfight instead of focusing its efforts, as Bush had asked, on crafting a replacement for the defeated $500 billion, five-year bipartisan budget plan.

That defeated plan contained what proved to be a politically unpalatable mix of $134 billion in new taxes on gasoline, alcohol, cigarettes and other items, a $60 billion cut in Medicare, including a doubling of the annual premium paid by seniors, and new tax breaks on small business investments.

Many lawmakers felt the package disproportionately and unfairly placed most of the burden of deficit reduction on lower and middle income taxpayers while the rich got off too easily.

House floor debates on the override during the rare Saturday session was emotional.

Congressmen rejected budget plan because it hurt their constituents

By BOB NEWMAN
 United Press International

WASHINGTON — The rejection by the House of a bipartisan budget plan that took four months to develop was less a debate for the politicians who created it than for the painful policies it contained.

As weary House Democrats and Republicans began the vote early Friday, a majority of members apparently decided there was too little in the $500 billion, five-year deficit reduction plan they could vote for and a whole lot they could easily vote against a month before November's elections.

The congressional leaders of both parties who spent weeks negotiating it won bipartisan applause when they spoke on the floor in support of the plan. Members knew that their leaders had worked hard and done the best they could, given the political obstacles and realities they faced.

But the applause quickly died when the House's electronic voting board lit up. The package was soundly beaten on a 304-179 vote, with a majority of both parties opposing it.

Assistant House Democratic leader William Gray of Pennsylvania said after the vote that his party could have produced a majority of Democrats in support of the plan had Republicans done so.

But no one will ever know since there were at least as many Democrats who defected to the package as Republicans, albeit for different reasons.

Despite days of arm-twisting, cajoling, pleading, horse-trading and even a national television pitch by President Bush aimed predominantly at his own party, Republicans never came around to embrace the plan.

That is at least a bit ironic since among the GOP opponents were dozens of conservatives who could not bring themselves to belly up to the bar of deficit reduction despite years of bellyaching about the need to cut the deficit and get government spending under control.

In large part, the deficit plan was defeated because President Bush and the five top congressional leaders who drafted it neglected a critical element that may have made the package more palatable.

They forgot to put a little sugar coating on the bitter pill they were asking members to swallow in the name of deficit reduction. The critical need for deficit reduction itself was not enough to carry the day given the odious elements of the package.

Martinez and the Cabinet take up the budget reduction package Tuesday.

Congress' refusal to go along with the federal deficit reduction plan and its proposed cuts in Medicare was good news for Florida, because the state won't have to pick up $11 million in Medicare premiums for poor families, said Martinez budget aide Paul Woodworth.

The Medicare cuts were cited as a major problem for members of Congress who voted against that plan.

Woodworth added that she opposed any shutdown of the federal government, about a budget compromise to be shelved. Federal spending funds to the state might be late, but they are certain to arrive eventually, she said.

"Sooner or later, the feds cough up the money," Woodworth said.

State officials were still bracing for painful cuts.

"The shortfall still represents a major challenge," said Commissioner of Education Betty Castor. Her Department of Education had faced $308 million in cuts, but now expects to lose only $155 million of its $7.2 billion budget.

That's $115.3 million from the public schools, $96.4 million from the state universities and $13.4 million from the community colleges.

At 100, Ike Eisenhower is still liked

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON — "The rap" on Dwight David Eisenhower, the nation's 34th president, is that he wasn't a particularly decisive president and that the nation, high on post-war prosperity, sneezed while the chief executive yawned.

The rap, says former Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., "just isn't true. He was a decisive president, beginning the moment he took power and promised to 'go to Korea' to end the armed conflict there through sending the troops into Little Rock to desegregate the nation's schools."

This week the nation will get a chance to re-think the Eisenhower years — indeed, the Eisenhower legacy — as a host of events around the country bring to a climax a year-long celebration of the centennial of Eisenhower's birth in Denison, Texas, on Oct. 14, 1890.

The celebration of Eisenhower's birthday — he grew up in Abilene, Kan. — has been going on for a year, with low key gatherings of scholars and others in the United States and in the Soviet Union, where Ike is also undergoing a positive re-evaluation.

It is a toss-up as to how the 34th president of the United States is best remembered today: as the general of the Allied troops who led the D-Day invasion of Normandy and the overthrow of Fascist Germany, or as the president who presided over a booming (some say snoozing) post-war prosperity and the Cold War, which pitted the two wartime allies — the Soviet Union and the United States — against one another at great economic costs to both nations.

Historians and other commentators have been divided on the Eisenhower legacy.

I.F. Stone, for example, called the Eisenhower era "the haunted '50s." But recent books have referred to the times as "The Proud Decades" or the "American High." John Patrick Diggins, in his book, "The Proud Decades," while critical of Eisenhower's Cold War legacy, notes Ike's "extraordinary popularity" remains "the envy of every politician then and now (and) cannot be dismissed lightly."

"It derived," Diggins argues, "from the sense of dignity and trust he brought to the White House and to his well-earned reputation as a military hero."

Still, Diggins writes, "He was a curious kind of hero, not an event-making leader but a respected leader who got things done."

And that, after all, is what Americans usually expects of their generals, if not their presidents.

The celebration of Eisenhower's centennial really got under way with a two-hour joint session of Congress in March presided over by Rep. Tom Foley, D-Wash.

Wife of last Vietnam-era POW dead of suicide

By KATE GALAM
United Press International

SAN DIEGO — The wife of the only American soldier still listed as a prisoner of war in Southeast Asia has committed suicide.

Dorothy Marian Shelton died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound at her San Diego home Thursday night, according to the San Diego County coroner's office.

The 57-year-old mother of five was a founder of the national movement to account for all servicemen officially listed as POWs or missing in action from the Vietnam era.

Police said she left a brief suicide note to her family and was apparently suffering from depression.

Her husband, Air Force Colonel Charles Shelton, was shot down while conducting a secret mission over northern Laos on April 23, 1965, his 33rd birthday. He was captured several days later.

While Pentagon officials have speculated that Shelton probably died in Laos in the mid-1960s, he is the last remaining name on the Southeast Asia POW list and his wife continued to receive his monthly active-duty paychecks.

But Mrs. Shelton was never appeared by official assurances that efforts were made in earnest to find her husband's whereabouts.

Longwood referendum may be deemed illegal

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — The city commission met Friday afternoon in a special called meeting to hear City Attorney Frank Kruppenbacher's opinion of an amendment to the city charter, that would, in effect, prohibit the city from spending money on any project that extends beyond one fiscal year.

The proposal as written says: "Unless authorized by the voters at a duly held referendum, the City Commission shall not spend or allow to be spent, any funds derived from any source for the purpose of construction of any capital improvement or lease or purchase of real property, the payment of which extends beyond the end of any fiscal year."

Kruppenbacher called it, "Poorly written, vague and ambiguous." He said, "The current city charter, (section 6.10 a) allows methods of financing through the issuance of bonds, for capital improvement."

He said the proposed item, labeled 6.10 (b) "would prohibit what you already have in 6.10 (a) but doesn't cancel it."

The attorney also addressed certain sections of the State Constitution and Florida statutes that allow the city to enter into agreements and financing that extend beyond one year.

As an example of the problems this could promote, he suggested a possible sinkhole or a road badly in need of repairs in a residential area where property owners might be assessed for repairs. This would, under the proposal, require homeowners to pay the entire bill immediately rather than be allowed to make payments over several year's time.

"To pass this amendment," he said, "is to strip the city, through you (the commission) of every way of financing capital improvements you might have. It's illegal, it conflicts with the State Constitution, and it's incomprehensible to see such a thing in the 1990's."

The citizens however, have mandated that the city present the question during a special referendum.

"If the amendment is defeated," said Kruppenbacher, "there's nothing to worry about. But if it passes, you'll have to tie it up in court and try to prove that it's not legal."

Commissioner Adrienne Perry summed the problem up: "What we have is really two questions," she said. "Whether the people favor redevelopment, and the method of financing." p

All ages enjoy festivities at Salvation Army

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — It was carnival time Saturday at the Salvation Army headquarters, 700 W. 24th Street. Several hundred people turned out for the event.

Although most of the games and items for sale were designed for the children, a number of parents and other adults also enjoyed taking part in the various events.

One event that drew considerable attention took place at noon, with a dunking booth set up just outside the doors of the facility. When the announcement was made indoors that Captain Gary K. Bergen, commanding officer of the Sanford Salvation Army was going to be in the booth, adults and children lined up to take a chance at dunking him.

The very first softball thrown produced immediate results, and Capt. Bergen received a rather wet infiltration into the dunking booth waters.

Games of skill and chance, including an old fashioned fish pond were set up inside. Food was also available.

Judging from the faces of the children, it was a fun day they will long remember.

Magic to sign autographs

ORLANDO — Orlando Magic personalities will greet fans and sign autographs at the team's second annual "Meet the Magic" party at Church Street Station on October 9, 1990. The Magic players, coaches, The Magic Girls, Stuff and Curly Neal will be on hand at the event, which is open to the general public from 6:30 p.m. until 8 p.m. A private party for magic season ticket holders will immediately precede the public session.

"This is the best opportunity that Magic fans have to meet their favorite player. Come on out to Church Street and expect to have a good time," said Magic President and General Manager Pat Williams.

The Magic celebrities will be located throughout the Church Street Station Complex at designated autograph signing stations. Maps will be provided to everyone in attendance as they enter the complex.

Florida stops Tigers

GAINESVILLE — Shane Matthews fired three touchdown passes for the third consecutive week and Florida's special teams continued to excel Saturday night in leading the unbeaten Gators to a 34-8 rout of Louisiana State.

The Gators, 5-0, improved to 3-0 in the Southeastern Conference but are ineligible for the SEC title or a bowl appearance due to NCAA sanctions. LSU, unable to cross the goal-line against the nation's No. 3 defense, fell to 3-2 overall and 1-2 in the conference.

Florida's first three TD drives covered a total of 40 yards. Dexter McNabb's 5-yard scoring run immediately followed a fumble recovery and Matthews' 10-yard TD pass to Kirk Kirkpatrick came after a blocked punt. A fumble by beleaguered punter Brian Griffith led to a 13-yard scoring pass to Ernie Mills and a 20-2 advantage.

Kirkpatrick's 42-yard catch highlighted Florida's first legitimate scoring drive, a 73-yard march capped by Mills' 7-yard reception at 3:38 of the final quarter. Erric Rhett, who rushed for 106 yards, burst 49 yards to set up Willie McClendon's 10-yard score with 4:45 remaining.

Despite outgaining the Gators 148-121, LSU traded 20-5 at the half due to three turnovers and poor special teams play.

Miami upsets -2 FSU

MIAMI — No. 8 Miami started running the ball against No. 2 Florida State in order to open up the passing game. The Hurricanes had so much fun doing it they decided not to stop.

Two Miami runners ran for more than 140 yards Saturday, leading the Hurricanes to a 31-22 victory over the Seminoles.

"Our coaches pounded in us all week we had to establish the running game to win," said Leonard Conley, who ran for 144 yards in 15 carries and two touchdowns. "We ran so well in the first half we just kept running and punched it down their throat."

Conley's numbers were a personal high, but Steve McGuire's was higher. The sophomore crashed up the middle for 176 yards in 31 attempts and one touchdown despite an attack of the cramps in the second quarter.

"The offensive line was knocking them off the ball and that made it easy for me," McGuire said.

Florida State fell behind 24-0 in the first half, but rallied within 24-16 with 11:50 left on Amp Lee's 2-yard run.

SOFTBALL

Umpires to offer tourney

SANFORD — The first annual Sanford Officials Service Fall Classic will be held October 26-28 and is open to all registered Men's "C" league teams.

The tournament will be an ASA double elimination affair and will be held at Chase and Pinchurst fields.

First place will receive a sponsor trophy and individual bat bags; second place will receive a sponsor trophy and individual trophies; third place will receive a sponsor trophy and the MVP award will be split evenly.

Registration is limited to the first 20 teams and all teams must have a roster from a city league. Cost to enter is $100 plus two (2) ASA restricted flight (red stitch) softballs.

Deadline for entries is October 25 with drawings for pairings at 5 p.m. on October 25.

For more information, contact Rocky Ellingsworth of the Sanford Recreation Department at (407) 330-5887.

Class 4A top 10 blowout

Seminole's Kerry Wiggins (No. 2) threw for three touchdowns and rushed for another Friday afternoon.

Seminoles dominate Astronaut

By TOM LANNAN

TITUSVILLE — Tim Hampton caught two of his three touchdown passes lying on his back in the end zone to lead Seminole County to an "it wasn't that close" 27-13 victory over Titusville Astronaut Friday afternoon at Draa Field.

The game matched the state's Class 4-A sixth-ranked Seminoles against the eighth-ranked Way Eagles in what promised to be one of the closest and most exciting games of the season. Well, it was exciting at least.

Hampton put Seminole on the board first with a conventional 10-yard catch and run early in the second quarter. The play capped a 13-play drive for the Seminoles.

With just two seconds left in the half, Hampton caught his second scoring pass, a 33-yard lob from quarterback Kerry Wiggins. The real story of the catch, though, was how, not how long. At least two players tipped the ball; half a dozen had a chance to catch it.

"I ran into the crowd and tipped the ball," explained Hampton. □ See Seminoles, Page 2B

Extra points crucial in Rams' win over Oviedo

LAKE MARY — As Doug Peters and his staff go about the business of rebuilding the Lake Mary High School football program, there's the necessary learning process Peters must go through to know what his players can, could and will do.

In the Rams' 22-19 win over the Oviedo Lions Friday night in a 5A-District 4 and Seminole Athletic Conference clash at Lake Mary's Don T. Reynolds Stadium, Peters learned a little more.

"This is the kind of game you want to build a program on," said Peters. "A lot of teams could have quit during this stretch (where the Rams played Lake Brantley, Apopka, Lake Howell and Oviedo). But they didn't quit. We kept telling them they're a good football team and they believed us."

On Friday night, Lake Mary (2-2 overall, 2-1 in the district and SAC) and Oviedo (2-3 overall, 1-3 in the district and 1-2 in the conference) squared off in a duel of running backs. Both the Rams, with Chris Haney rushing 32 times for 155 yards, and the Lions, led by Ervin Alexander's 40 yards on 15 carries, scored three touchdowns. □ See Lake Mary, Page 2B

The difference in the contest were extra points or, to be more precise, Oviedo's problems in converting them and Lake Mary's success. Oviedo failed on a pair of two-point tries before Erik Lombard kicked a one-pointer. For Lake Mary, Norman Henkle was good on two kicks while Joe Menclio completed a pass to Mike Werner for a two-point conversion.

Haney scored all three touchdowns for Lake Mary on runs of 1, 3 and 19 yards. Scoring for Oviedo were Alexander (1-yard run), Drew Jackson (6-yard run) and Dana Allen (5-yard run).

Going into the game, Peters hadn't planned on Haney carrying the ball that often (not to mention catching a pair of passes and punting twice). That's just the way that it worked out.

"When you have a guy like Haney get hot, you're going to go to him," said Peters. "That's one of the things I learned from (Harry) Nelson (the Lake Mary head coach before Peters). Haney's that kind of guy, anyway. He wants the ball."

"I'm still trying to figure out the character of this team. We think we can throw the ball, we have two pretty good running backs and we

Lake Mary kept calling Chris Haney's (No. 22) number on Friday and Haney responded, carrying the ball 32 times for 155 yards and three touchdowns. He also caught a pair of passes for 21 yards and punted twice.

Local runners do well at Oviedo and FSU meets

From staff reports

OVIDEDO — Placing four girls in the top 10, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks finished second at Oviedo Invitational cross country meet Saturday morning at Oviedo High School.

The Silver Hawks scored 43 points while team champion Deltona came in with 40.

Leading Lake Howell was Natalie Newberry, who came in third with a time of 13:08. Miki Palumbo was fifth at 13:20 followed by Jennie McHone (8th, 14:08) and Tori Dempsey (9th, 14:09). Charlotte Froehlich completed Lake Howell's team score by finishing 18th (14:41).

Also finishing for the Silver Hawks were Julie Logan (22nd, 15:13) and Lynn Hald (23rd, 15:13). "It wasn't what I would have liked to have seen," said Lake Howell Coach Tom Hammontre. "They made some mistakes during the race and they're aware of them. If you're going to make them, now's the time to make them."

Hammontre said that there was a combination of emotional factors that probably took their toll on the Silver Hawks.

"You have the factor of the team really doing well last week, really coming of age," explained Hammontre. "Now they now they can run and be competitive. Also, this weekend was our homecoming and that takes a lot out of you with all the different things going on."

"You take the good with the bad. There were some positives. Last week, Deltona beat us by 10 points and this week, they only beat us by three points. And we were without our No. 3 runner (Tina Reed, who is out sick)."

Lake Howell's girls also made a strong showing in the junior varsity race, taking the team title with a score of 29 points. Christine McEvoy was third with a time of 15:33 to lead the six Silver Hawks who finished in the top 10.

Next Saturday, Oct. 13, the Silver Hawks will run in the University of Florida Invitational.

FSU INVITATIONAL AT TALLAHASSEE

D.J. Lewis of Lake Mary led a strong contingent of Seminole County runners with a fourth place overall finish at the FSU Invitational Saturday morning.

Lewis finished second among Class 4A runners in the meet that featured over 50 boys teams and 350 runners. Also finishing in the top 20 boys runners from Seminole were Kevin Pagett from Lyman with an eighth and John Peola of Lake Brantley, 18th. □ See Running, Page 2B

"Then, I was knocked down. Just like Coach taught me, I kept my eyes on the ball and it came through everybody right to me as I was lying in the end zone. Just like in the NFL."

After Wiggins scored on a keeper midway through the third period to extend the Seminole lead to 20-0, the stage was set for another circus catch by Hampton.

On third and four from the Astronaut 27, Wiggins faded back to pass. A ferocious rush sent him scrambling backwards. Finally, with three defenders around his ankles, Wiggins lofted what might have been ruled an infield fly in baseball. Still, there was Hampton under the ball in the end zone, once again on his back to make the catch.

In the final minute and a half of the game, the hosts scored twice to make the final numbers respectable. The scores considerably raised the temperature on the Seminole sideline.

Coach Emory Blake, a demanding perfectionist, expressed his displeasure in no uncertain terms to his team following their late game defensive lapses.

"We're a better ballclub than we showed tonight," said Blake. "I accept the win, but next week's practices are going to be hell. Until we get to our potential, I won't be satisfied."

Despite the late game mistakes, the Seminoles were overwhelming on defense for most of the night. They permitted the War Eagles a meager six yards rushing on 20 carries. Tommy Hampton, Carlo White, Terrance Hillery and Quinn Byrd led a sacking frenzy of War Eagle quarterbacks totaling 24 yards in losses.

Most telling of all, Astronaut could run but 12 offensive plays from scrimmage in the first half.

Next up for Seminole, now 5-0, is a visit from 4A-District 7 opponent Edgewater at 7:30 p.m. next Friday night.

have a young offensive line. For a while there tonight, we were pulling things out of our pocket, trying to find anything that worked."

What worked was Haney running the ball. After he fumbled on Lake Mary's first play from scrimmage, Haney carried the ball on 11 of the Rams' next 14 plays.

Meanwhile, the Lions were sending Alexander at Lake Mary.

In the game's first 12 minutes, Alexander rushed 10 times for 12 yards and a touchdown. "Alexander is going to be a good running back," said Oviedo Coach Jack Blanton. "He's only a sophomore."

Oviedo turned a pair of Lake Mary mistakes into a pair of first half touchdowns while a big kickoff return led to the Lions' third score. Lake Mary would respond immediately, scoring on the next series after Oviedo's first and third touchdowns. The Rams would have been 3 for 3, but Menello was intercepted at the goal line by Kyle Larum as time expired in the first half.

Understandably, Peters and Blanton had different interpretations of how the outcome.

"We had 43 Chris Haney's out there tonight," said Peters. "That's the way I feel. Everybody came through. Our offensive line did the job and our defense rose to the occasion when they had to."

Blanton wasn't as pleased with the Lions' performance.

"They gave us the pass," said Blanton of Oviedo's run-dominated attack against Lake Mary. "We just couldn't cope with any. We didn't tackle well, either. We didn't do anything real well."

Both the Rams and Lions have stiff tests this week. Lake Mary traveling to Lake Weir while Oviedo will be at home against Lake Howell. The Lake Mary-Lake Weir game will kick off at 5 p.m. while Oviedo-Lake Howell contest will start at 7:30 p.m.

overall, 4-0 in 5A-District 4 and 3-0 in the Seminole Athletic Conference.

Lyman, which suffered its third straight loss, dropped to 2-3 overall, 1-2 in the district and 1-2 in the conference.

"You guys of the way all the kids played," said Lake Howell Coach Mike Blacaglia. "They got fired up. The defense did one heck of a job. Lyman averages over 300 yards offense per game."

Smith, last year's Sanford Herald Player of the Year, ran for touchdowns of 5, 30, and 50 yards. By half time, Smith had gained 191 yards on 17 carries. Highlighted by runs of 52, 24, and 50 yards, Smith gained 149 yards on six carries in the second half.

According to Smith, who increased his conference leading yardage to 1,206 on the season, the credit goes to the offensive line. "They did their average great blocking job," he said. "Key blocks from the tight end and quarterback held the defense and opened up the ground game."

Lyman stayed right with Lake Howell in the first half, trailing only 14-0 at halftime.

Pat Jorgensen, who rushed for 49 total yards, scored on a 3-yard run to cap Lake Howell's opening 76-yard drive.

Smith sparked the first drive of the second quarter with a 51 yard dash to Lyman's 15. Two plays later, Smith stuffed the ball in from the five. The second of Ted Lane's five extra points gave the Silver Hawks a 14-0 edge.

Lyman could have cut Lake Howell's lead to 14-7 in the third quarter.

Early in the second quarter David Jones blocked a Lake Brantley punt and Walter Diggs returned it 34 yards for a touchdown.

Mike Wright plunged across for the two-point conversion to increase the margin to 14-0.

"We started making those little mistakes again," said Lake

Brantley Coach Fred Almon.

"Penalties and mental errors. We turned the ball over three times in the first half. That's our own fault. You can't win football games doing that."

The Patriots continued to make mistakes on their own half, committed five turnovers and allowed three quarterback sacks on the evening.

IRS reveals free help lines

JACKSONVILLE — New telephone numbers for Internal Revenue Service's toll-free services went into effect October 1, 1980, according to James J. Ryan, director of the Jacksonville District of IRS. Local numbers for IRS offices in the Jacksonville District will not change. The change, which is the result of a new nationwide telecommunications system, will affect the toll-free prefix only which will change from 434 to 888, spelling out the word "TAX." The new Taxpayer Service toll-free assistance number is 1-800-TAX-1040; for ordering IRS publications and forms, the new number is 1-800-TAX-3876. The number for recorded tax messages and related information is 1-800-TAX-4477. An automated intercept will advise taxpayers who dial the previous numbers of the change. However, taxpayers who wish to receive information by calling 1-800-TAX-3088, Ryan said. The new number will appear on all future IRS correspondence and new publications and is listed in the latest telephone directories.

SEC files savings, loan complaint

FORT LAUDERDALE — The Securities and Exchange Commission has filed a complaint against three former executives of Commonwealth Savings and Loan Association, which was seized by federal regulators in July 1980. The complaint, filed last week in U.S. District Court, accuses Jason Chapnick and Kenneth Fletcher of engaging in a fraudulent scheme that led to undisclosed losses of at least $60 million at Commonwealth. The complaint also alleges that former Commonwealth Chairman Barry Chapnick, his brother Jason and Fletcher subsequently sold their Commonwealth stock in April 1980, before the losses were made public, in order to avoid losses. The SEC is seeking civil penalties against both Chapnick, and the disgorgement of profits on the sale of their stock. The SEC estimates that Barry Chapnick, Jason Chapnick and Fletcher avoided losses of $124,057, 679,267 and $1,265, respectively. The three failed after Jason Chapnick, the former treasurer, disclosed the losses from unauthorized securities trading.

Giant mall opens in Broward

SUNRISE — Sewgrass Mills, the giant mall under construction in west Broward County, opened to the public Thursday, with about 110 stores in operation. Between 20 and 40 more stores are expected to open by the time the second phase of the mall is ready Nov. 15. The center, billed as the largest shopping center in the Southeast, is located near the intersection of Interstate 95 and the Sewgrass Expressway. Developers expect the mall to attract 250,000 shoppers a week.

Business lines up in support of SCC

By WEND BUCHHEIM
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole Community College is just beginning a year-long celebration of a quarter century of service to the people of Seminole County. Five local chambers of commerce and SunBank have joined forces to salute the school on that occasion. "Seminole Community College has always had a very strong relationship with the business community of Seminole County," Dr. William H. Baker, the director of institutional advancement, said. "It is a mutually beneficial relationship."

The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, the Greater Oviedo Chamber of Commerce, the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce and the Longwood-Winter Springs Chamber of Commerce will host, with SunBank, a reception and dinner on Friday, Oct. 19 beginning at 6:30 p.m. The tickets for the event, which will be held at the Sanford campus of Seminole Community College, 100 Weldon Blvd., are $35 apiece. Corporate tables of 10 are available for $250.

"SCC will benefit from the money raised at this event," said Baker, who added that the exact plans for the money had not yet been finalized.

According to Baker, Seminole Community College has always enjoyed the support of the business, civic and industrial community.

"With various programs run in conjunction with the private industry council and with local businesses and industries, we have prepared our students for the needs of the Seminole County employment market," Baker said.

The chambers of commerce of the Seminole County communities will also honor Dr. Earl S. Weldon, president of SCC.

"Dr. Weldon has always been committed to seeing that the students from SCC are equipped to work in the county and that they have the skills that local businesses want and need," Baker said.

More than a quarter million students have graduated from Seminole Community College in the last 25 years.

Longwood firms recognized by chamber

By BOB FURFANG

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Two Longwood business establishments were among those singled out for honors by the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce during the sixth annual Small Business of the Year awards luncheon Friday.

Chied as standouts in the small business community were Pediatricians Care Unit, 357 Welvia Springs Road, in the one to five staff member category, and Go Direct, Inc., 1910 N. County Road 437 in the six to 15 employee category. Also honored in the 16 to 25 employee category was Florida Desk, Inc., with offices on West Broadway street, Oviedo.

Winners in each category were introduced by representatives from the same three categories selected last year, who commented on how they were able to use their awards in publicity and promotions to improve their small business operations even further.

The three businesses, their owners and managers were singled out as being "entrepreneurs who have worked long, hard hours to make their dream a reality."

A statement issued by the chamber said, "Most small business owners start their enterprise with big dreams and little cash.

Most small businesses also fall within the first year of operation. But some determined, dedicated, or just plain stubborn business owners hang in there against the odds and score big successes. Beyond that, these entrepreneurs find the time and resources to make an impact in their community through volunteer service."

The chamber's Small Business Roundtable committee considered over 30 locally owned businesses that have contributed to the community and displayed solid, consistent growth.

The awards luncheon was held at the Sheraton North in Maitland.

Lake Mary alters commercial zoning to help accommodate new business

By BOB FURFANG
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — City commissioners have created two new zoning districts and modified two existing commercial zoning categories specifically dealing with higher intensity commercial uses.

Although the changes, previously approved by the Planning and Zoning board were expected to be a major subject of discussion at last week's commission meeting, the item passed unanimously with little comment.

The changes will not bring about any drastic alterations in commercial zoning but are designed to more clearly establish areas compatible for the various types of industry and business moving into the rapidly growing city.

"This will make requests for conditional zoning easier for us," said Mayor Paul Tremel. "This is a clear-cut outline of what type of industry can go on specific land."

The two new zoning classifications are M-2A and C-2.

M-2A zoning will be for the development and maintenance of heavy commercial, industrial, manufacturing, warehousing and office environment of a more intense nature than the M-1A district has been.

Land zoned C-2 will be used for the development of higher intensity commercial uses such as large retail outlets as well as businesses that generate a large volume of traffic or operate at unusual hours.

"The changes made in the C-1 and M-1A zones, which were previously established, were made in order to separate the land use between them and the newly created zones.

With the exception of one piece of property adjacent to U.S. Highway 17-82 on the southeastern side of the city, the various parcels of land to be designated M-2A and C-2 lie west of Rinehart Road and Lake Emma Road.

Although the ordinance creating the two districts was open for a public hearing, no one in the audience had any objections.

Jobless rate hits 5.7%

UPI report

WASHINGTON — America's civilian unemployment rate jumped to 5.7 percent in September — the highest in more than two years — as factories laid off more workers, the Labor Department said Friday.

Construction employment fell for the fourth straight month and the picture in the services industry failed to improve. The number of new jobs created during the month also slowed for the third consecutive month.

"The employment situation deteriorated in September," said Janet Norwood, commissioner of the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Aeroflot explores buying jets from Eastern Airlines

United Press International

MIAMI — Some Eastern Airlines jets may be bound for Russia soon if a $900 million deal between the troubled airline and the Soviet Union's national carrier, Aeroflot, goes through, Eastern officials say.

Aeroflot's plans to expand its international service call for the possible purchase of 13 Lockheed L-1011 passenger jets from Eastern. It would be the first acquisition of Western aircraft by Aeroflot.

Aeroflot executives, including Alan Tishover, general director of the airline's Moscow division, were in Miami last week to look at the planes and talk with Eastern officials.

The two parties were brought together by Allen Blatner, president of Jetborne International of Miami, who estimated the sale could be worth up to $900 million.

The planes themselves were valued by Eastern at about $14 million. But should Eastern upgrade the planes or offer additional services, the value of the deal could rise to the hundreds of millions of dollars.

"They are looking for a product and we've got it. Hopefully, we can negotiate something."

Debt concerns majority of Americans

United Press International

ATLANTA — More than half of all Americans are concerned about the level of personal debt they currently owe, with 37 percent saying they're very concerned, according to a survey by a national credit reporting company.

Dr. Alan F. Westin, a professor of public law and government at Columbia University, said an analysis of the recent Louis Harris-conducted survey reveals that Americans between the ages of 18-24, people with the least formal education, and blacks were most likely to express concern.

Westin did the analysis for Equifax Inc., an Atlanta credit reporting company that requested the survey.

"Although 37 percent of the general public say they are very concerned, more than half of black Americans (58 percent) say they are very concerned about their current debts," Westin said. The survey shows 57 percent of the general public

Bank cards worry more than are generally concerned about their current debt. Additional findings include the following: — Of those concerned about their debts, 33 percent have been turned down for credit, compared to 18 percent of those unconcerned. — Eighteen percent of those concerned wish that a credit grantor had looked at their debts and turned down their application for further credit, compared to 4 percent of those unconcerned.

Americans concerned about their debt level are significantly more worried about threats to their privacy than those unconcerned, and they also believe more strongly that consumer privacy rights today are not adequately protected by law or organizational rules.

Westin called on the National Foundation for Consumer Credit to "add a strong statement of privacy principles and procedures to its already excellent Code of Ethics for Consumer Credit Counseling Services."

The NFCC serves as the umbrella group for 550 Consumer Credit Counseling Service offices. NFCC is a non-profit membership organization whose purpose is to educate, counsel, and promote the wise use of credit.

Equifax Inc. is the leading provider of information for consumer financial transactions.

DOCTORS' CORNER

THE FOOT

If you are like most people you only think about your feet when they hurt. In a lifetime your feet carry the average person approximately 70,000 miles and they absorb about one thousand tons of force a day. Much of this is on hard surfaces. With this type of stress and work done by a person's feet, it's amazing they don't hurt more often than they do. Often feet are neglected or overworked or cramped in shoes that look better than they fit and feel. Eventually they get it. The adults suffer from foot problems of one sort or another. In fact, foot complaints are an estimate of 50 percent of foot complaints or more. Frequently, if foot complaints are seen early in their course they can be successfully treated with simple methods. However, if they are not treated they can lead to serious complications that 80% of all foot problems occur in women. The foot is a very strong and complex structure consisting of 26 bones and 33 joints. Approximately 25 muscles control movement of the foot parts along with more than 100 ligaments. Because of this complexity it is no wonder that problems are so common. A number of common foot problems treated by orthopedists are: ingrown toenails, blisters, hammer toes, flat feet, bunions, and corns. However, many of the common foot complaints can be treated with simple methods. In fact, 80% of all foot complaints can be treated with simple methods. Women singers honored

At a recent meeting of the region, Sound of Sunshine Chorus received the annual Chapter Achievement Award. This prestigious honor is given to the chorus displaying the most notable growth in the past year. Criteria include number of new members, charitable contributions, financial support of the chorus director, public performances, number of registered quartets, educational opportunities including coaching sessions from outside sources and participation in regional events.

The Sound of Sunshine Chorus met and exceeded those standards with the recruitment of 20 new members; performances at Epcot, the Retired Air Force Sergeants Convention, Lake Sumter Community College, the Annual Show at Lake Brantley High School; and winning the Second Place medal at the Regional Competition in April. Of the quartets in the chapter, "Heat Wave," received the Fourth Place medal at the April competition.

Sound of Sunshine is a women's barbershop chorus, a chapter of Harmony International, Inc., which is an organization with over 30,000 members world-wide. The Central Florida group meets every Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. at the Northland Community Church on Dog Track Road. All ladies who enjoy singing are invited to visit and perhaps join. Phone 699-0177.

Is it love or addiction?

By JOAN KING
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — Bobbie Pariani of Sanford is a businesswoman, wife and mother who deals with the many facets of her life in an orderly and comfortable fashion. However, it wasn't always that way admitted Pariani.

"I had a real problem with relationships, especially with my husband and children. First I had to recognize the problem before I could do anything about it," she said.

Pariani's attitude toward relationships may sound familiar to many people who can't live with nor live without their spouses.

Pariani spoke of the way her relationships used to be and the changes she made for the better after she attended Valerie Harrison's class in Relationships: Addiction or Love. The class is a Leisure Program course for personal development and growth at Seminole Community College.

"I needed to take the relationship course at SCC because I didn't know how to deal with my husband's attitude," Pariani said. "My husband, Fred, is a retired 30-year Navy man who was very set in his ways. There was one way only, his way. We played games against each other, had power struggles and I was constantly on a guilt trip."

Pariani said the power plays were especially damaging to her relationship with Fred.

"If he angered me, I'd run up the charge cards with purchases," she said. "Fred is a late riser. I get up early and it was easy to be noisy in the morning thereby disturbing his sleep. Our relationship wasn't very pleasant as we worked against each other constantly," Pariani admitted.

Pariani remembered the bad times with a look of sadness that slowly turned into smiles as she related the discoveries that helped change her relationship with Fred into a happy, peaceful marriage.

"The course in relationships is the best one I've ever attended. I've taken several of Harrison's courses. Relationships is the first one people should take because we all deal with a different people. It teaches you to free your mind to make better decisions," Pariani said.

She said the first thing she learned was the difference between a healthy and addictive relationship.

"A relationship is a choice, you can live with it. It's not a must thing. Addiction is a must. I must have it or thinking that you can't live without the other person," she explained.

Pariani said she learned not to fear releasing an addiction.

"If you're unhappy in a relationship, you need to discover why. The learning process can bring people together or help them to realize that they need not stay in a bad relationship, but they owe it to themselves to find out that they can make choices," she said.

The Dama wallaby stops hopping to pose.

Let's all go to the hop!

SANFORD — The third annual Kangaroo Hop, an educational fund raising event to benefit the Central Florida Zoological Park, is under way in over one hundred Central Florida day care centers. Thousands of pre-school children are learning about the wonders of the animal kingdom while counting their hops for the Zoo.

As the Kangaroo Hop hops on, some of the Zoo's resident hoppers may be able to share some of the finer points of hopping with the children. Our hopping experts are the Dama wallabies.

Wallabies are members of the kangaroo family. Kangaroos are probably the best known of the Australian marsupials, or pouched mammals. Marsupials are most prevalent in South America and Australia. Only one marsupial lives in North America, the opossum.

Marsupials are considered a primitive group of mammals. We call them primitive because the young are not held within the mother very long before being born in a near embryonic state. Once born, the baby makes its way to the mother's pouch and attaches to a nipple to feed. A newborn wallaby is about the size of your finger tip. The baby wallaby, called a joey, remains in the pouch for the next eight to nine months. It is often difficult to determine if a mother is carrying a joey until it makes a bulge in her pouch.

Dama wallabies, also known as Tammars or Scrub wallabies, are much smaller than kangaroos. They are usually about 18 to 24 inches tall and weigh about 15 pounds. Wallabies have subtle color variations. Their fur is brownish-gray with a reddish color on the shoulders; there is a faint stripe down the back.

Customers have kept waitress on her toes for over 33 years

By JOAN KING
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — Norma Carter, a Sanford resident since 1957, is a very pleasant woman with beautiful, shining brown eyes that twinkle when she speaks of her family, her clientele and the people for whom she has worked as a waitress for 33 years.

She spent nine years working for Jim Spencer who owned a Sanford landmark seafood restaurant which closed in the 1970's. She has been at the Lake Monroe Inn since 1967.

Carter good-naturedly laughs when recalling a previous story in which her co-workers jokingly told this newspaper she had been with the inn since 1926.

She says, "It was fun and we had a good laugh. My customers and I had a good time with that one. We all thought I looked good for an 88-year-old waitress."

The truth is Carter will be 85 in December but she doesn't intend to retire.

"If you're happy, why not stay?" she asks.

Carter says that people ask her why she stays in one place so long.

"Well, I've always been happy here and Dale is such a good boss. He's a fine man. When he bought the inn five years ago he kept all the same help on." Dale Gustafson previously owned The Barn on French Avenue.

Carter says she also stays because of her customers.

"I have the best customers in the world. Some people have been regulars since I've been here," she says.

Carter was thoughtful when asked if people and the way they order had changed much

In 33 years.

"There are no changes. My customers are still the same wonderful people. The young ones are just as well as the older ones. People seek me out and sit at my station. It's just like having my own business. I build up my clientele and they come back for me to serve them. The other girls don't stay long enough to do that," she confides.

Carter says that she will stay and serve her customers as long as she is needed.

"I never watch the time. The kitchen is open as long as people are eating and I stay until the last diner leaves," she says.

Well, except on Friday and Saturday nights when she serves drinks in the big dining room beginning at 9 p.m.

"Those are band nights with live music," she explains.

Carter arrives for work at 2 p.m. for the inn's 4 p.m. opening.

"I prep the veggies for the salad bar, I work 5 days a week."

After 50 years together, they would do it all over again

Their 50-year marriage has been a blessing and a way of life for Lillie R. and Reginald E. Soderblom who were married in Sanford on Sept. 28, 1940. Would they do it all over again?

SANFORD
DORIS DIETRICH

"Absolutely," the vivacious Lillie said. "There's no doubt in my mind."
Following their marriage, the couple lived in Sanford until 1959 when his railroad job took them to Tampa where they remained until 1980. After Reginald's retirement from the Atlantic Coastline Railroad as a locomotive engineer in May of that year, the family moved back to Sanford where they have lived since.

The Soderbloms have two children. Their son, Donald Soderblom, makes his home in Winter Springs with his wife, Kathy; son, Donald Soderblom, Jr., a daughter, Amy Soderblom, and two stepdaughters, Jody and Janet Jensen. The couple's daughter Linda St. Clair and her husband, Ron, and daughter Laura, live in Tampa.

The golden wedding anniversary called for a gala celebration Sept. 29 at the Garden Club of Sanford Inc. when about 115 friends and relatives called during the appointed hours, 4 to 8 p.m.

Hosted by the couple's children, the party was "absolutely gorgeous," Lillie said. She added "We had an absolutely fantastic party."

Lillie received the guests wearing a lovely muted rose chiffon dress fashioned with long sleeves and a flowing, full skirt. A swirled design of pale pink sequins enhanced the right shoulder and left hip of the dress. She wore matching pink earrings and a wrist corsage.

Reginald wore a yellow rose-bud boutonniere and a suit.

The clubhouse was decorated with a myriad of potted plants. Individual tables were covered with teal-colored tablecloths and were centered with glittered champagne glasses filled with confetti. An arrangement of yellow roses centered the main table where the guests of honor were seated. A large anniversary sculpture graced the large serving table which featured an assortment of party foods in an attractive setting.

A separate table held the large white sheet cake, decorated in gold, which was designed in a sloping pattern and was decorated with a miniature couple in their senior years.

The couple's son, Donald, led the champagne toast to his parents and asked friends and relatives to comment on personal anecdotes they shared with the honored couple.

They could have danced all night. Entertainment was provided by Omni World Productions. Lillie and Reginald led the group in dancing and music included favorites from the 1940s on.

Friends and relatives included Reginald's former railroad crew members and relatives from Illinois and Florida.

Today, the Soderbloms stay active with family and friends. "We have a fantastic family and some lovely friends," Lillie said. She takes pride that she has spent her life being a homemaker and mother. "My husband's daddy was from Sweden and he believed the wife should stay home and take care of the children. We have had a good, full life together," she said.

Lillie has a few words of wisdom to pass along for making a marriage successful. She said when they were married in 1940, divorce was almost unheard of. "You made it work," she said. "You have got to work together, trust, forgive and love. Don't hold grudges. Sit down and talk. No marriage is a bed of roses."

After the big golden wedding anniversary celebration on Saturday, the next morning the family had breakfast together at a local restaurant to culminate a cherished milestone for the family.

Lions' dinner breaks record

According to several members of the Sanford Lions Club, the annual spaghetti dinner and bingo last Saturday night at the Sanford Civic Center was a smashing record-breaker.

Patrons began arriving shortly after 4 p.m. and the line never ended until closing time at 8 p.m. Around 6:30 p.m., the line was all the way around the sidewalk in front of the civic center and was at a standstill. The word was that the rush had caused a shortage of cooked spaghetti. But the cooks got on the ball and soon the line was under way again.

The food was delicious and the service was exceptional.

This event attracts a lot of the same patrons annually. Two couples who usually show up together are Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth (Annette) Wing and Lacie and Sully Fleming. This year was no different for the two couples who seemed to be enjoying bingo also.

And, oh, the friendly season was in full swing. Politicians were swarming all over the place and used the opportunity to do a little stumping as the Tuesday election approached.

The club president, Mayor Bettye Smith, seemed delighted at the largest turnout ever recorded. In the club, the mayor is a record herself. She goes down in history as the first woman member of the Sanford Lions Club and the Club's first woman president.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the Lions Sight Program. The results will be announced as soon as the tabulation is completed.

Emily Bill injured

Emily Bill, volunteer, civic leader and president of SISTER (Sanford's Interested Sarahs to Encourage Rejuvenation), is under the weather at Central Florida Regional Hospital where she is recuperating from injuries sustained in a fall while attending a political gathering.

Emily is hanging in there, but she has seen better days. For those who may want to send words of cheer, her room number is 243.

Sept. 25th, SCC

The county's chambers of commerce including Greater Sanford, Greater Oviedo, Greater Seminole County, Lake Mary, and Longwood-Winter Springs, together with SunBank, will join forces to honor Seminole Community College and its president, Dr. Earl S. Weldon, during the college's silver anniversary celebration.

A Business salute to SCC will be held on Friday, Oct. 10, on the SCC campus.

It doesn't seem like 25 years since Dr. Weldon took command of the fledgling junior college that keeps growing and growing. He and his wife, Geraldine, have not only been an asset to education in Seminole County, but they have also been active in other areas of the community.

Let's give them a big hand.

Due visits Ozarks

Lourine Messenger spent a month this summer visiting her family in Texas and other points.

Upon her return home, she and Kay Bartholomew took off to the Ozarks in Arkansas for an autumn sojourn. They stayed at Eurika Springs and enjoyed a leisurely way of life including attending several folk fairs.

Kay probably tucked an idea or two away to road test at the December St. Lucia Festival of which she is the founder.

Pleased with cruise

Speaking of Kay Bartholomew, she joined Phyllis Oas and Rita Schnyder, a newcomer to the community, in colorful Swedish costumes to welcome about 350 patrons attending a cocktail cruise on the St. Johns River last Sunday aboard the Grand Romance. The second annual event was sponsored by the St. Lucia Festival and the Sanford Historical Downtown Waterfront Association to raise funds for festival entertainment and lighting and holiday decorations for downtown Sanford.

"We were so pleased with the turnout," Kay said. "It was nice."

Pat Hitchmon directed and produced 16 beautifully costumed singers, dancers and musicians in excerpts from "Georgetown Jubilee," an original folk opera about Sanford.

Kay said it was a perfect day for a cruise and mentioned that the sunset was "gorgeous."

Music for dancing was provided by Nick Pfeiff and his "Starlighters." "They did such a good job and people danced up a storm," Kay said.

Juniorettes install

The Seminole County Juniorette Club, an affiliate of the Florida Federation of Women's Club and General Federation of Women's Clubs, recently held installation of officers.

Nancy Crawford, FFWC Director Junior Clubs, installed the following: Becky Crawford, president; Lealie Bowers, first vice president in charge of projects, programs and reporting; Christine Sieren, second vice president in charge of fund-raising; Dawn Trencher, third vice president in charge of membership; Stephanie Russell, treasurer; and Amanda Meador, secretary.

Reginald and Lillie Soderblom celebrate 50 years together.

The club is open to girls, ages 14-18. The membership is made up of girls from Sanford, Lake Mary, Longwood and Winter Springs. They meet the third Monday of each month. For information call the SCJC sponsor, Cindy McDonald Guiles, days, at 322-4064.

Cindy says that presently, the members are focusing on environmental issues such as recycling, selling shopping totes to discourage the use of plastic and paper shopping bags and the Wekiva River clean-up, among other projects.

Longwood Sertoma's 'Man of the Year' honored

Longwood Sertoma honored its "Man of the Year" recently during an elegant banquet at Townsend's Plantation Restaurant in Apopka.

Honored for his service to mankind was Sanford resident Harold Dekle, who was stricken with polio at 9-months of age.

Harold was nominated by Gene Prestera, who was impressed with Harold's perseverance in helping senior citizens in spite of his handicap.

Harold has turned his well-worn wooden crutches into another set of legs, using them to get around town for Meals on Wheels, the program for which he volunteers his time delivering meals to shut-ins in Seminole County.

Harold operates his car with hand controls while a partner actually carries the meals, but Harold said, he has on occasion had to pinch hit and deliver a meal or two to someone's door.

"I like to help anybody I can," Harold said after accepting the commemorative plaque.

Harold has been honored by J.C. Penney for his selflessness. He received a cash award which he donated to Better Living For Seniors, Inc., through which Meals on Wheels operates.

La Sertoma member Maureen Bravo summed up Harold's involvement with his surroundings.

"That's not handicapped, that's handicapable," she said.

In other Sertoma business, both the Longwood Club and the Greater Seminole La Sertoma installed officers for the coming year.

La Sertoma awarded $500 scholarships to two area students who have set patterns of service and leadership in the community.

Scholarships went to: Michelle Enfinger, a Lake Mary High School graduate who is attending the University of South Florida in Tampa, and Amanda

LAKE MARY LONGWOOD

Savage, an Oviedo High School graduate currently attending Seminole Community College.

La Sertoma also named member Shilli Hedger the Woman of the Year.

The banquet served as the charter function for Sertoma Autism Club. The club was formed to help families touched by autism, a condition in which a child is self-absorbed and must receive help to be able to function in society.

New officers for Longwood Sertoma are: President Gary Hoeng, Vice President of Sponsorship Chuck Fleicher, Vice President of Programs Rick Seither, Vice President of Membership Charlie Petno, Secretary Gene Prestera and Treasurer Janice Verplank.

La Sertoma Officers are: Chairman of the Board Joyce Cable, President Anne Petosa, First Vice President Shelli Hedger, Second Vice President Penny Stone, Secretary Alice Jarrell, Treasurer Melissa Georgiadis and Secretary-of-Arms Marilyn Armstrong.

Sertoma Autism officers are: President Ron Boyers, Vice President of Membership June Simmons, Vice President of Programs Sandi Basso Pardo, Vice President of Sponsorship Jeanie Hays, Secretary Marilyn Armstrong, Treasurer Sherry French and Sergeant-at-Arms Chris Simmons.

Workshop will be held tomorrow, October 8, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. at the American Legion Post 53, 2874 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford. The purpose of the get-together is to make yellow ribbon bows for American Armed Forces serving in the Gulf. Bring scissors, scotch tape and a towel. Goal is 1,000 bows. For details call Sara Myers at 322-6599 or Bill Austing at 322-1652.

Members of the Sertoma Autism Club gathered for dinner.

President Eida Nichols, Programs Chairman June Lormann and E. Bates Reed Jr.

Tourists add to economy
Longwood Civic League Woman's Club were treated to an overview on tourism in Central Florida from E. Bates Reed Jr. from the Orlando/Orange County Convention and Visitors Bureau, Inc. Reed said tourist money spent here is the equivalent of every person on earth spending $1 in our area. Visitors spent $5.5 million in Central Florida in 1989.

Miss Fashionetta heralds a 'Better You, Better Me'

"Tomorrow, A Better You, Better Me" was the theme for the Miss Fashionetta 1990, presented by AKA's, Seminole High School auditorium was the setting for the first Miss Fashionetta, sponsored by Kappa Sigma Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha, Inc.

Fashionetta 1990 afforded an opportunity for Alpha Kappa Alpha women to enhance the positive self esteem of four beautiful young ladies, three of whom participated in the workshops and in community service.

High-caliber secretary not for low-budget boss

DEAR ABBY: "Jo in Denver," the efficient, mature secretary who said the present-day office manager wants "a 19-year-old with good buns" missed the mark.

Besides ignoring the fact that many bosses these days are women, she also overlooked the fact that many companies these days are downsizing, streamlining, paying off leveraged debt. The sad truth is that many bosses would love to have a woman of her caliber, but they can't afford to pay her what she's worth, so they settle for an inexperienced 19-year-old. I know. My husband hired one. His secretary's name is "Arthur." He's Chinese and loves rock music. As far as I know, he doesn't have "great buns," but he doesn't cost $30,000 a year, either.

WITHHOLD MY NAME IN DALLAS

DEAR WITHHOLD: Here's a letter from an office manager who prefers an inexperienced 19-year-old for another reason:

DEAR ABBY: I'll take a young, inexperienced secretary any day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwab and Schlockenberg."

NO NAME, NO LOCATION, PLEASE

DEAR ABBY: I couldn't believe your saying that while good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

My qualifications were top, but I happen to be a large woman (5-10 and 188 pounds), and I'm not old — unless you call 43 "old."

First, I was interviewed by the office manager; then she said the boss "wanted to see me briefly." It was brief, all right! He came in, took one look at me, turned around and walked out. (Not even a "hello.") Would you believe the office manager returned and said, "He wanted a more petite person?"

As it turned out, my disappointment didn't last long. My next interview landed me in a position as secretary to a lawyer in one of the most prestigious law firms in Manhattan.

BIG BUT BANKABLE

DEAR ABBY: I would like to respond to Jo in Denver on Appalled in Chicago.

If you think 19-year-olds are only hired so the boss can get excited your (sic) wrong.

I am a very pretty 19-year-old secretary, but I am also very knowledgeable on secretarial (sic) duties, not only can I type, spell, add, make coffee, water plants, and run errands, I have a good attitude towards people that is how I qualified for my job.

KNOWLEDGEABLE IN PHOENIX

DEAR READERS: "Sic" is Latin for "thus" and amounts to "that is exactly the way the writer wrote it."

DEAR ABBY: I come from a large family, and we all live in the same town. Most of us are married with children, and we always get together to celebrate the holidays, birthdays and anniversaries.

It sounds wonderful, but it's anything but. The celebrations start out OK, but after everyone starts drinking, trouble starts out. My husband and I are not big drinkers, but the others are. I told my father we should limit the amount of drinking. His response: "It's none of my business how much they drink. They're all over 21, and if we try to put a lid on the drinking nobody will come."

Abby, these family celebrations are for the whole family — kids included — and I don't want my kids witnessing the shouting matches and drunken arguments. My mother says, "Children don't remember what happened." I say they do.

I would hate to stop going to these holiday get-togethers because the kids look forward to being with their cousins. Any suggestions?

Please don't mention the name of our town. It's small, and everyone will recognize us.

FED UP

DEAR FED UP: Now that you know what to expect, go to these family celebrations early — greet your relatives, deposit your gifts and leave early. How about having an annual "dry" party for the children's sake? That way, the cousins can get together in a quiet, non-combative atmosphere. Who knows, the grownups might learn something.

Shown celebrating her 88th birthday aboard the RiverShip Romance was the young looking Vivian Dyer. She enjoyed the cruise with her daughter and son-in-law Shirley and Norman Farr along with Dorothy Powell, a friend of the family. Mrs. Dyer is shown with her cake and Happy Birthday balloons. What can you do to help an alcoholic?

DEAR MARY: How do you know if someone is an alcoholic? Every night after work, and on the weekends, my dad drinks lots of beer. He says he needs it to relax after a hard day, but it seems like he changes after he's had a few beers. He gets grouchy and yells at me for no reason. He also acts rude to my mom and anybody else who comes to the house. No matter how hard Mom and I try to keep things cool around him, he still gets real mean.

SCARED

There are really two questions here: 1) What can you do to help your dad, and 2) what can you do to make life better for you. We'll talk about both.

Your dad's drinking is causing a problem for the people who love him, but there's really nothing you can do to make him recognize this and change. You didn't cause the problem, you can't control it, and you can't cure it; BUT — you and your mom do not have to let his drinking control your lives. There are groups for people in your situation where members share how they work out their problems and support each other. The toll-free number for Al-Anon is 1-800-356-9996. Ask your mom to call for more information. Also, many schools in Seminole County have support groups available for students. Ask your teacher and guidance counselor if you can join one.

DRUG COUNSELOR

It's not easy to love someone with a drinking problem, but once you recognize that his problem is his drinking, not you; you can make healthy choices for yourself, talk to someone you trust when you feel sad or scared, and then your dad's drinking won't be nearly so much of a problem for you.

Good luck, and let me know how you're doing; I care.

By Bernice Bode Cool YOUR BIRTHDAY Oct. 7, 1990

Knowledge you gain in the year ahead from personal experiences will prove to be of enormous value to you. They will be the factors that will tip the scales in favor of success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are definitely in the thoughts of a valued friend who presently resides at a considerable distance from you. There is a possibility this friend might call or write you today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's imperative that you keep to yourself that which is told to you in confidence today, especially if you have given your word that you won't breathe it to a soul.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your enthusiasm and optimism will have a contagious affect on friends today. This is very important, because you need the feedback as much as they need your input.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) One of the reasons you're apt to fare better than most today is because you'll be cognizant of significant details that others may overlook. It pays to be observant.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll be more comfortable today and have a more enjoyable time if you associate with people whose political and religious views are in tune with yours.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have a unique faculty today for being able to ferret out information others are reluctant to reveal. However, it's best to keep your curiosity within reasonable bounds.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Partnership situations are favored today and there is a possibility you may be involved in several such arrangements for different purposes. They all should work out well.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) "A penny saved is a penny earned" is sage advice for you to follow today. Cut corners wherever possible because small amounts could add up to a hefty total.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Little things take on special significance today and this is how you will be judged by your peers. Fortunately, you'll give an account of yourself that will enhance your image rather than detract from it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your intuition, as well as your logic, are both quite keen today. Each will be helpful in providing you with constructive insights for resolving critical issues to your satisfaction.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If there is someone you've been anxious to contact, but have been unable to do so in the past week, lines of communication could be opened today if you're prepared to make a concerted effort.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be discouraged today if your achievements don't measure up to your expectations. The important thing is that you are moving in the right direction, even if it's only a step at a time.

By Bernice Bode Cool YOUR BIRTHDAY Oct. 8, 1990

The year ahead should be a happy one for you socially owing to a rise in status and popularity. This will be due to not only what you are, but who you know.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you are forthright and frank in your dealings with others today, people with whom you'll be involved will emulate your behavior. Honesty breeds good will and success. Major changes are ahead for Libra in the coming year. Bend for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1.95 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your material aspects look very encouraging for you today and large gains are likely. In fact, you might even incur some residual benefits that'll pay off at a later date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Things you do on your own today may yield only sparse benefits, however, you could do extremely well in two unrelated partnership arrangements.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will be luckier today if you try to do or get for others what you want for yourself. Objectives are achieved by leaning on the arms of people you help.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't be afraid to request special favors from friends today if you know in your own mind you intend to reciprocate later. Your good intentions will be perceived.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You could be quite lucky today, but not necessarily in the ways you expect. Something about which you've been concerned may be resolved in a manner that might surprise you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a delightful touch today for turning all types of situations into fun, even work. Whatever you do should turn out well, but of equal importance, you'll enjoy it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Profitable developments are likely at this time in areas where you have previously sown seeds. It's possible you may reap a harvest from more than one field.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In matters that are of significance to you, don't delegate authority to others today unless you have no choice. You have the lucky touch, they might not.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Sources from which you expect the least could turn out to be the most bountiful for you today. Lady Luck might have several interesting surprises in her game plan.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Focus on endeavors today where you have high hopes and expectations, and relegate your more mundane affairs to the rear ranks. Don't be afraid to think big.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your possibilities for fulfilling your ambitious expectations are likely to be better today than they will be tomorrow. Don't put off until later what can be done now.

It is absolutely vital, when a partnership gets involved in lead-directing doubles and suit-preference signals, that the players be on the same wavelength. Today's slam disaster has several points of interest. When South bid four no-trump, West stuck in five hearts to crowd the opponents' communication. But North and South were playing DOP1 over Blackwood interference. In that method a double shows no ace, a pass shows one ace, etc. So South knew that North held one ace. Accordingly he bid six spades. When that got around to East, he doubled for a club lead, assuming from the bidding that North-South were also off an ace. In fact, South could now counter by bidding six no-trump, against which there is no defense, but he missed that opportunity. West now duly led the club deuce, his fourth-best. East ruffed. It is certainly true that the lead of the club deuce should proclaim that West holds the ace of diamonds. If he held the ace of hearts instead, he should have led the seven of clubs, his highest. But remember the opening statement about wavelength. East foolishly thought his partner might have been simply making a normal fourth-best lead in clubs, so he returned a heart and South scored up his slam. Is there an answer to this East-West tragedy? If West suspected that his partner might be so obtuse, he would have been wiser to first lead the ace of diamonds. Then a club at trick two would have certainly set the contract, although the two-trick set would have gone away.

Education

IN BRIEF

SCC grad tops Florida GED

SANFORD - Michael J. Walsh of Altamonte Springs was recently selected by the American Council on Education to receive the outstanding achievement award for the state of Florida.

Walsh, 19, graduated from the Seminole Community College GED program in January 1989 and scored an "almost perfect score" according to Carolyn Straw, Coordinator/Adult Basic Education project.

Walsh was presented with a plaque for having earned the highest score on the test last year.

In the five years that the award has been given, this is the second time it has been given to an SCC GED graduate. In 1987, John Price won the same award.

Schake Initiated into honor society

Trenton L. Schake, son of Arthur and Janet Schake of Sanford, was recently initiated as a member of the Liberty University (Virginia) chapter of the Alpha Lambda Delta honor society.

To be accepted into the society, students must maintain a grade point average of at least 3.5 on a four-point scale.

Seminole yearbook wins award

SANFORD - Seminole High School's yearbook, The Salmagundi, recently won an All-American rating from the National Scholastic Press Association for the 1990 edition of the book. This was the third consecutive year The Salmagundi was so honored.

An All-American is the highest rating the organization gives in the first round of judging. They were cited for their excellence in design, theme and photography.

The theme of the book was "We've Got a Hot New Attitude" which reflected the students' feelings about renovations at the school and the improved academic and extracurricular programs.

Shannon Latimer, who is Seminole High's student correspondent for the Sanford Herald, is the editor of The Salmagundi.

Nationwide, fewer than 150 yearbooks earn the All-American status.

Salmagundi staff members Sharon Jackson, Shannon Latimer, Michelle Plocher, Chanda Robinson, Michelle Bars, Terrell Tillman, Kit Hodgins, Casey Butler, Cindi Meriwether, Greg Royster, Dawn Harak, Troy Brewer, Steve Cann, David Hunt, Drew Horn, Bill Schanel, David Petronic, Chad Crawford, Bill Boyd and Alan Henderson are proud of their work and their award.

Vocational info for teen parents

SANFORD - On Friday, Oct. 12 at 9 a.m. any teenage single parent who has a high school diploma or a GED is invited to attend an information session about enrolling in vocational training programs at Seminole Community College.

The program will begin in the Administration building at SCC and continue in Room J-003.

The Teen Single Parent program and the Vocational departments of the Seminole County school district and the Private Industry Council of Seminole County, call Midge Mycoff at 323-1450, ext. 360 or Joan Johnson at 323-1252, ext. 365.

UCF to raise money for scholarships

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - On Sunday evening, Oct. 14 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Altamonte Mall in Altamonte Springs, there will be a gala fundraiser for the University of Central Florida's foundation for academic scholarships.

Proceeds from the evening, which will include UCF student musical talent and food prepared by local restaurants, will go to the Alumni Trust. They hope to raise as much as $60,000 for scholarships for high-performing students. If they raise that amount it will be matched with an equal amount from the State of Florida's Gift Matching Program.

There will be a fashion show as well as a silent auction and door prize drawings, including a 14-foot fishing boat.

Tickets for the evening are $35 in advance or $50 at the door.

Nursing assistant classes at SCC

SANFORD - Seminole Community College will be offering a 120-hour nursing assistant course beginning Oct. 22.

The course will run through Dec. 6. Class times are 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. The cost is $40.

For more information about the class, call the nursing department at 323-1450, ext. 330.

Family showcase at SCC

SANFORD - A family services agency showcase will be held on Friday, Oct. 12 at Seminole Community College.

Representatives from 25 Seminole County community social service agencies will be on hand to talk with guests about the services they can offer.

Information will be provided about training, counseling, medical and financial support to individuals, families and children.

The event is sponsored by the Child Abuse Prevention Task Force of Seminole County and the Seminole Community College adult education program.

The program, which is free, will last two hours, beginning at 9 a.m. It will be held in rooms 117 and 118 of the continuing education building (Building B) of the school's Sanford campus.

For more information, call 323-1450, ext. 644.

Lake Mary resident wins scholarship

LAURINBURG, N.C. - Susan Elaine Henry of Lake Mary is attending St. Andrew's Presbyterian College with the assistance of a creative arts scholarship.

The school offers only ten creative arts scholarships to students who demonstrate ability in the performing or the visual arts.

Students, faculty look forward to Smith era

By ALLISON SLATER
High school correspondent

LAKE MARY - Lake Mary High School has been experiencing many changes lately in the area of administration area. We've known for a long time that principal Don Reynolds would retire before the end of the year, but it wasn't until early September it was decided that assistant principal Don Smith would take over at the beginning of the second quarter. Now, anticipation rises as the students wait to see what the school will be like under a new principal.

Smith, who has been at Lake Mary since the school's inception, began his LMHS career in 1981 as a civics teacher and freshman basketball coach.

In 1982 Smith became dean of students and continued to coach basketball and the first varsity baseball team as well. He went on to be named assistant principal in charge of discipline, attendance and supervision of vocational education and social studies.

Because he will be taking over at the beginning of the second nine weeks, Smith says he sees no need to change anything this year when the students and faculty are already comfortable in their environment. Instead, he says his goal for this year is to become more familiar with the faculty and to establish a comfortable working relationship with them.

Smith says, "I have taught, I have been a dean and I have been an assistant principal, and this has allowed me to observe students and faculty in many capacities. I think my task will be to maintain the strong educational growth and motivation that has been accomplished and to provide the educational opportunities for young people that will help them reach their potentials."

Student Body President Katie Gilliam says, "I'm glad he was chosen because he's been here for a long time and he knows the traditions. He will definitely remain an asset to Lake Mary."

A fresh approach to ninth grade challenges

By SHANNON LATIMER
High school correspondent

SANFORD - Changing schools can be an experience that one never forgets. And the transition from middle school to high school is often a big change as well.

Freshmen like Daphne Brown held preconceived thoughts about what the change would be like.

"In high school I expected to be treated differently, but here (Seminole) I feel at home," said Daphne.

Being a freshman cheerleader has also allowed Daphne to lead her class in spirit.

Joining a club or another organization has helped many freshmen adjust to high school.

"By being on the dance team scary things were not so scary," said Elena Battista.

The transition to high school where they have become involved in many activities has given the class of 1994 the chance to meet a wide range of people.

"The social setting is great. There are so many people to meet. People of different ages and styles," said freshman cheerleader Sarah Letchworth.

Even though their transition has been made easier, either by friends, family or teachers, the freshman class has to face a challenge. Freshmen must stand up to the challenge of juggling fun with schoolwork.

"My teachers have helped me a lot," said Alonda Montgomery.

With leadership from class president Anthony Anderson, help from teachers, and support from other members of the faculty and encouragement from upperclassmen, freshmen have an atmosphere that allows them to succeed.

"Seminole has a good atmosphere, one of a kind," said Carrie Magura.

Techno-learning helps readers at Seminole

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Seminole High School, 2701 Ridgewood in Sanford, has jumped into the computer age with both feet and has raised the reading ability of many students all at the same time.

Since the introduction of the computer assisted learning program in January, the reading scores of students targeted by the program have gone up as much as five and a half grade levels in as little as six months.

According to Denise Gallego, the computer lab's director, the scores of 70 percent of the students went up five and a half grade levels from January through June. She said that 82 percent of her students increased their reading ability by four and a half grade levels during summer school.

The Private Industry Council of Seminole County was so impressed with the results at Seminole High School that they awarded 16 new computers to the school for use in the program.

Currently the school has 48 computers which were utilized by nearly 1,000 students during the first semester they were available.

The school hopes to get more terminals into their lab so that students can schedule time on an individual basis to work on their own.

School district money was not used to establish the computer lab. Rather, it was established with money given to the school in the form of a Private Industry Council grant.

It was designed to help exceptional education and other high risk students develop what the grant called "better employability skills."

The greatest gains in reading skills were made among the low-income, high risk students who have responded to little else in their educational training.

The computers do not belong to Seminole High School. They belong to the Private Industry Council.

Four ordinary teaching techniques are a combination of lecturing and reading textbooks and some people are just not built to learn that way.

-Denise Gallego,
computer lab coordinator

The students using the computers are required by the Private Industry Council to reach certain levels of achievement if the school is to be allowed to keep the machines.

The computers are used primarily by the students who need special assistance to raise their level of reading ability, but any student can use the computer at other times.

Gallego said that the computer offers immediate feedback to the students who might otherwise be distracted from their learning in a regular classroom setting.

She noted also that some students, many of whom are in the target group, do not learn well when they hear information, but they are able to assimilate the knowledge when they see the same information presented on the video screen.

"Our ordinary teaching techniques are a combination of lecturing and reading textbooks and some people are just not built to learn that way," Gallego said. "The computer addresses that built-in problem and then provides immediate rewards and reinforcements when the student understands and learns."

The software currently available in the computer lab at Seminole High School is made by West. It is capable of helping students at all ability levels prepare for math, science, foreign language and English testing as well as to prepare for the Scholastic Aptitude Test.
