NEW STEEL DRAW BRIDGE OVER UPPER ST. JOHNS RIVER IS OPENED TO THE PUBLIC

HAS BEEN ACCEPTED BY THE SEMINOLE COUNTY
COMMISSIONERS

OUR OWN COUNTY

Built This New Steel Drawbridge and Made it a Free Bridge to the Public

One of the greatest works of the county of Seminole is the new steel drawbridge with crescent approach that now spans the upper St. Johns river at the former Osteen ferry and on the road from Sanford to New Smyrna. For many years this crossing was a ferry boat crossing that even in its best period was dangerous and especially in latter days when automobiles took the place of the slower teams.

It was a mooted question for many years as to whether Volusia county would join Seminole county in a free drawbridge. Seminole county commissioners many years ago wanted Volusia commissioners to help construct the steel drawbridge at Harden's ferry over what is now called the Monroe bridge. This was also a ferry and the traffic was getting so heavy that when a corporation was formed in Volusia county to build a steel drawbridge and the Volusia commissioners would not join in a plan for a county bridge the Seminole county commissioners acceded to the clamor for a bridge and allowed a ten year franchise for this toll bridge at Harden's ferry and it has been in operation for about seven years making rich returns for its owners but bringing out many criticisms from the travelling public for having been made a toll bridge and exacting a heavy toll at that.

When it came time to discuss the question of a bridge at Osteen ferry the Seminole county commissioners stood pat for a free drawbridge and after gaining the consent of Volusia county for this bridge the county of Seminole bonded for sufficient money to construct the bridge and the contract was let to the Austin Bridge Company, of Atlanta and the work was started several months ago and pushed to completion. The bridge was thrown open to the public about two weeks ago and while the approaches are not finished as yet the cars and teams can easily make the grade to the bridge and this county is receiving the congratulations and thanks of the travelers on both sides of the river for their efforts to give the public a good bridge and one that is free.

The new bridge is 340 feet long and 18 feet wide constructed of steel and is said to be one of the best in the state. It has two 60 foot openings for the passage of boats and is also built high enough to allow the smaller launches to go under the bridge without opening the draws and impede traffic on the bridge. The trestle approaches to the bridge are crescent and the roadway to the bridge will soon be hard surfaced, making them easy of approach to the bridge and perfectly safe in all kinds of weather. The flooring of the bridge built of heavy timbers is coated with asphalt and slag making good surfacing for cars and also protecting the flooring from the wear and tear of travel and from the weather.

The bridge cost $18,000 when completed and the fact that it is of steel and is up to date in every particular and is free to the public is a matter of congratulation to the county commissioners of Seminole and also to Volusia since that county has consented to pay their half some time in the future.

This new bridge will divert much of the east coast traffic via Osteen and New Smyrna and Coronado Beach will get double the amount of summer and winter tourists. The bridge is also a great convenience to the people of the Osteen section who have always traded in Sanford and the bridge brings Osteen about half an hour closer to this city and opens up a fine country for development.

John Vaughn for many years the ferry tender has been given the place of bridge tender and is living at the house near the bridge to take care

Spanish War Veterans Grateful to Merchants for Liberal Advertising

The Spanish war vets want to thank the Sanford folks who helped out on the program, making our encampment an assured success. We take this means to ask you to put up what decorations you have during the three days of the encampment. We expect to decorate First street and will have a decorator here for that purpose. Anyone who desires his services, please phone the Herald office by Monday, his price will be reasonable. The matter of decorating is of course entirely optional with the business men, the camp through membership assessments, and more especially the hearty co-operation of everyone in the making of our program, is amply able to take care of everything. And we feel that any further solicitation of our folks would be an imposition.

You are cordially invited to attend our opening exercises at the court-house on May 7, at 9:30 a. m.

DOYLE WILL IGNORE CHALLENGE TO TEST SPIRIT PHOTOGRAPHS

NEW YORK, April 19.—Sir Conan Doyle will ignore the challenge of Stephen Horgan, old time New York photographer, to name a ghost picture subject that he could not produce in a purely mundane way, Lady Doyle declared today.

In the absence of her husband, who had gone to Pittsburgh for a lecture, Lady Doyle made the following comment on the challenge voiced by Mr. Horgan at the International Photographic Arts and Crafts Exposition now being held here:

"I am sure my husband will pay no attention to his challenge, or to the challenge of any other publicity seekers, who claim to be able to duplicate the work of spirit photographers. Nobody denied that they can put things on photographic plates by trick photography. But they cannot meet the tests to which the spirit pictures Sir Arthur is showing were subject."

Although action was a civil suit Attorney General Seymour announced the government was also considering criminal proceedings under the Sherman law and pursuing investigation along that line.

Coco charging nearly a score of Moorhouse citizens with various offenses as a result of masked band activities in the parish last summer.

EQUALLY BEFORE THE LAW—INDEED?

There is much of boasted "equality before the law," assertion that "the law is no respecter of persons," that all stand on an equality before the bar of justice. In theory this is true; there is equality in the law, but not always in its administration. This it is, this making of some persons, suspected or accused of crime, of violation of the law, superior to other persons similarly accused is notorious and goes to prove that while before the law all are equals they are not so in the regard of at least some of the law's administrators, which is altogether wrong, must be curbed if it is not to become general practice that some law violators, those who have wealth or influence, or both, are shielded and protected, are shown favors, as it not the case with the "poor devil" who has neither money, nor friends nor influence.

Here, indeed, is inequality before the law. So flagrant, so glaring are certain instances of this inequality as to encourage that growing disrespect for all law, which, if it becomes general, leads to anarchy, to destruction of the safeguards, the fairness and the impartiality which reasonably it is assumed the law gives to all alike, rich and poor, high and low.

A notable instance of inequality before the law has been given world-wide publicity during the past week or two. A young woman was found dead, in New York, presumably murdered. Of course, the authorities immediately became interested, ascertained the names of the young woman's companions—and the district attorney's office promptly gave the names to the press and the public, with one exception, that of a man of considerable prominence, whose identity the assistant district attorney, in charge of the case, refused to reveal, and his only reason was that to do so would distress his family.

The man in question, apparently, had not given that a moment's consideration, when he assumed the relations now alleged to have been maintained and that culminated in the young woman's death, with which, however, there is no allegation that he had anything to do. Others of the young woman's acquaintances were named without the least hesitancy. Then, through newspaper sources of information, the name of the shielded man became known and the district attorney admitted the correctness of the identification with the case.

The instance just cited, of inequality before the law, is not the only one. There are numerous others, only less glaring, wherein special consideration, is given and special privileges are accorded those who have a "pull" of some sort or another. They are to be found near and far.

Inequality in the administration of the law is neither fair nor what is contemplated by the law in its administration. If the law is impartial, as it is proclaimed to be, then inequality differing treatment in its administration, must cease ere it leads to contempt for all law and its enforcement. —Times-Union.

Linens in the brightest of colors are going to be worn extensively next season. At the winter resorts they are adding much to the color scheme of the landscape even now. To the left is a model in chow color linen. The skirt is tucked and the waist is so satisfied with its smart lines that it rejects any other trimming than an adjustable collar of very fine lace. Medium size requires 4 yards 36-inch material. The model is acceptable for silk or wool crepe.

Blue, tomato, apricot or orchid linen could be employed to develop the second dress, which is trimmed with hand embroidery. The deep collar and turn-back cuffs have the edges blanket-stitched and there are large patch pockets designed for service as well as ornamentation. The vest may be of self or contrasting material. Medium size requires 3 1/2 yards of 36-inch linen.

BRITISH WILL QUAFF CHEAPER BEER DUE TO REDUCTION IN TAXES

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, April 17.—The prospect of a reduction of a penny in their favorite beverage, gave beer drinkers something to think about today. All the publicans and saloon keepers said if the expected announcement of the reduction in the beer tax was forthcoming in the budget being considered in the house they would start selling tomorrow at a reduction of a penny a pint. The newspapers were virtually agreed that the income and beer tax reductions would be made but on other points were of different opinion.

DO YOU WONDER? Asks This Lady, "That I'm a Believer in Cardui?"—Had Been So Weak She Had to Go to Bed.

Oswatimole, Kans.—Mrs. E. E. Keast, formerly of Illinois, residing here, says: "We moved to this state eleven years ago, and I had good health for a long while; and then some year or so ago I had a bad sick spell. . . .

"I got so weak I couldn't go. I couldn't stand on my feet at all. I had to go to bed. I suffered a great deal. I was so nervous I felt I couldn't live. I tried medicines, and everything; had the best of attention, yet I wasn't able to get up. I lay for three months, not able to do anything.

"My husband is a bill poster and has circulars distributed. One day there came to be a Ladies Birthday Almanac among his circulars. I read it, and told some of the family to get me a bottle of Cardui. . . .

"I quit all other medicines and took it (Cardui) faithfully, and two weeks from the time I began to take Cardui I was out of bed—better than for months.

"I kept it up and continued to improve until I was a well woman.

"Do you wonder that I am a believer in Cardui? I certainly am. And I am sure there is no better tonic made for women than Cardui." NC-151
