BRIEFS

Woman identified

A photo Sunday in the Herald's Page 1 News Digest pictured emergency medical technicians with the Sanford Fire Department and personnel with Atlantic Ambulance working to save the life of a woman who had collapsed riding her bicycle along Lake Monroe.

Sanford resident Richard Ryther identified the woman as his wife of 24 years, Kazuyo, who had just turned 68. Ryther said Kazuyo was fond of fishing along the lakefront, and it was from there that she was riding her bike home.

Kazuyo died enroute to HCA Central Florida Hospital. Services are scheduled Thursday at the First Presbyterian Church, Sanford.

Guerrillas want ransom

SANFORD — The New Tribes Mission Crisis Committee in Panama reports hearing from guerrillas who reportedly took two more missionaries Sunday. The two were taken from a mission station near Villavieja, Meta, in Columbia, South America. Three other New Tribes missionaries were kidnapped in Panama a year ago. All five are believed to be alive.

The Crisis Committee said the guerrillas contacted them by radio on Monday, after a one-month silence. "There was nothing new in their statements," the committee said, "but they repeated their demands for a ransom payment in the millions of dollars."

The committee's report continued, "We explained that this is just not possible, and inquired if there is some alternative plan available to bring about the release of our missionaries. They insist, however, that they are only interested in the money."

The communication from the Crisis Committee was received yesterday by the Sanford headquarters of New Tribes Mission, at 1000 E. First Street.

Universal closes 'Quake' ride

UNIVERSAL CITY, Calif. — The earthquake ride at Universal Studios Hollywood is closed. The real thing sort of took the fun out of it.

"We're bypassing 'earthquake' out of respect to our community," spokeswoman Joan Bullard said. "There's nothing wrong with it. In fact, it's the place to be in an earthquake."

The ride — which is closed until Saturday — simulates an earthquake measuring 8.3 on the Richter scale. Bullard said it is designed to withstand a real quake of the same magnitude.

The park was closed Monday because the real quake knocked out its power, but damage was minor and the tourist attraction reopened Tuesday. Damage inspections continued on the King Kong ride, the park's only other major attraction to be closed today.

Cops piecing together clues in Lake Mary shooting death

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Sheriff's deputies today are still searching for a motive in the murder Tuesday night of a Lake Mary man gunned down while riding his bicycle.

Samuel Huffstutler, 19, 166 Wilbur Avenue, was shot in the chest after three men approached him on Lake Mary Boulevard near Bay Head Racket Club.

"There wasn't any indication that this was a robbery," sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough said. "Huffstutler's wallet was still in his possession, and there was no immediate indication that anything else was missing. At this point, we don't know the reason."

Deputies believe Huffstutler was unemployed, but worked as a landscaper about a year ago.

The shooting occurred about 7:10 p.m. "Huffstutler was riding his bike west on Lake Mary Boulevard near the Bay Head Racket Club," McDonough said, "when a car, also heading west, pulled up and one to three men got out and approached him."

McDonough said there were apparently no actual eye witnesses to the shooting. "Some people said they heard anywhere from one to three shots," he said, "so as of this morning, we have very conflicting statements."

"After Huffstutler was shot, the men got back into their car and drove off in a westerly direction," McDonough continued. "We don't have a description of the car, but some people said it was a dark color, perhaps green, and they believe it may have a Missouri license tag."

Here we are just 18 days into 1994, and Seminole County has already had its first murder case. It just goes to show you how low society is getting.

The tag was not clearly identified as being from Missouri, but was described as being burgundy and white, which is that state's tag color. "It could have been a plate from some other state," McDonough commented.

After Huffstutler was shot, he reportedly managed to crawl across the boulevard to the racket club and call for help. A 9-1-1 call was made, and he was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital, where McDonough reported he passed away at approximately 10 p.m.

"We had difficulty in finding his mother," McDonough commented. "His address on his

Giving kids early start at education

SANFORD — The Title I program is alive and well in Seminole County.

Yesterday, at the start of Title I Week across the state, teachers and assistants in the program were feted at a breakfast at Lake Orienta Elementary School in Altamonte Springs.

The Title I program helps provide early educational services to four-year-olds who are not yet old enough for kindergarten but who would benefit from beginning the educational process a bit ahead of time.

Students must live in the attendance zone of a school which is designated as a Title I school.

In Seminole County, four of the six designated schools are in Sanford, Midway, Goldsboro, Hamilton and Pine Crest elementary schools have Title I programs. All Souls Catholic School also has a Title I program.

"We are trying to reach the economically disadvantaged students as early as possible to give them an edge in the classroom," Pamela Hawkins of the district Title I office said.

The program serves hundreds of students who might fall behind once they got into school if they did not get the assistance early on, Hawkins said.

"This is the best thing for them," she said "When the youngsters get to kindergarten they are more ready for the educational challenges."

At yesterday's breakfast, state Department of Education officials Marjorie Murray and Jim Rainey

County commissioners seek easier plan for budget adoption

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners called for more spending updates from County Manager Ron Rabun Tuesday, but stopped short of usurping his charter-mandated financial responsibilities.

Commissioners agreed monthly or quarterly spending updates would help them be better prepared for the sometimes grueling July budget review sessions. They also agreed they should revamp their Community Service Block Grant program to focus on specific goals rather than dole out money to any agency with the best pitch. Commissioners also agreed to immediately begin the search for land near the County Services for future office space. County Manager Ron Rabun said he will prepare recommendations for commissioners based on their suggestions.

Tuesday's worksession was called by chairman Dick Van Der Weide in response to growing grumbling about the county budget adoption

LAKE MARY — Police investigators are seeking information about the theft of an office safe taken from radio station WJHM/102 JAMZ in the early morning hours Tuesday. Lake Mary Police Sgt. Dave Gildford said sometime between 2 a.m. and 5 a.m., two or more suspects entered the business office at 37 Skyline Drive and hauled off the 300 to 400 pound safe while a disc jockey was on the air. Due to the weight of the safe, Gildford said more than one person was involved.

7 Sanford-area buildings tagged public nuisances

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners last week declared seven Sanford-area buildings public nuisances and condemned a fire-damaged Chuluota structure.

If the owners of the seven structures fail to correct building violations by March 8, commissioners will meet again to decide whether to condemn them. If they do, the owners will have 30 days to appeal the decision or remove the structures. If they do not, the county will raze the buildings and attach a lien on the property to eventually recover the demolition expenses.

The actions are taken as part of the county community development goal to improve neighborhoods by removing eyesores. County inspections found trash and debris inside and out at all of the buildings. Several were potential "crack" houses. Inspections found.

Amtrak narrowly avoids second disaster

NEW ORLEANS — A potential repeat of the Amtrak disaster that killed 47 people was narrowly averted when authorities were notified that a loose barge had hit a bridge.

The Miami-to-Los Angeles Sunset Limited, with 162 people aboard, was stopped about 10 minutes away from the damaged bridge near Amelia. Amtrak spokesman Howard Robertson said.

The barge had knocked the bridge about 6 inches out of alignment, the Coast Guard said.

Robertson said a bridge tender immediately informed the Coast Guard.

"Depending on the speed of the train, that could have caused a disaster," he said Tuesday.

In Amtrak's deadliest disaster, the Sunset Limited plunged off a bridge into a bayou near Mobile, Ala., on Sept. 22. The National Transportation Safety Board said a barge struck the bridge shortly before the wreck.

"Maybe the Mobile accident alerted people," Robertson said. "They informed us in plenty of time."

Residents object to incinerator

BARTOW — Hundreds of Polk County residents say they do not want to share their community with the state's first large-scale hazardous waste incinerator.

About 300 people turned out Tuesday to voice objections to Department of Environmental Protection officials studying whether Florida needs an incinerator for the state's hazardous waste.

"The people of Polk County don't want this thing," Jim Moore said. "Does that count for anything?"

Florida First Processing/Westinghouse, which wants to build a plant near Mulberry, has the only pending request in the state. The department must present its findings to Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Legislature by November.

Man grew marijuana to help pain

INVERNESS — A man who admitted he grew marijuana and smoked the plant to ease the pain of prostate cancer has been sentenced to two years probation.

Thomas Oliver Mulcahy, 54, admitted he grew 22 plants in his backyard shed. But prosecutors said even for medicinal purposes, it is not legal to grow marijuana.

Mulcahy pleaded no contest to charges of marijuana cultivation and possession of marijuana with intent to sell on Tuesday. Circuit Judge John Thurman withheld adjudication of guilt.

Prosecutors doubt Mulcahy's claims the pot was only for his personal use, but agreed to a mild sentence because he had no prior record.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Reapportionment lawsuit

Lawsuit challenges district lines as unconstitutional

By Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE — A lawsuit challenging Florida's 1992 reapportionment could force the state to redraw its congressional boundaries before this year's elections.

The lawsuit singles out the wishbone-shaped 3rd District, calling it unconstitutional because it is racially based and "results in a political unit incapable of meaningful representation."

Dist. 3 takes in several Seminole County minority neighborhoods, including the predominantly-black neighborhoods of Midway, Goldsboro, Bookertown and Winwood. It also takes in the predominantly-white affluent neighborhoods west of Markham Woods Road.

"It's OK to create a minority-access district if the area is small and compact, but it's not OK to create a district that's odd and long and spread out," said Jacksonville attorney Rod Sullivan, who filed the lawsuit Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Tallahassee on behalf of 28 plaintiffs.

Sullivan, a Republican who ran unsuccessfully in the old 3rd District, had previously filed an unsuccessful suit challenging the new district lines.

This case resembles a series of lawsuits popping up across the country against what has become known as "racial gerrymandering." A case in North Carolina reached the U.S. Supreme Court last year.

If this suit is successful, hundreds of thousands of Florida voters could find themselves represented by a new member of Congress. And incumbents could find themselves running in new, unfamiliar territory.

U.S. Rep Corrine Brown, the black Jacksonville Democrat who represents the 3rd District, is confident it will remain as it is, in part because judges, not the Legislature, created it.

"The courts followed the letter of the law," Brown said Tuesday, "and I expect them fully to be held up."

Legislatures across the country drew reapportionment plans in 1992 believing the Voting Rights Act obligated them to create as many minority-access seats as possible.

And the U.S. Justice Department urged states to do so.

But since then, the courts have been less strict in their interpretation of the act leaning toward more compact, traditional districts.

"It looks like the courts are kind of going back," Kim Brace of Election Data Services, a Washington-based political consulting firm specializing in reapportionment issues, told The Orlando Sentinel. "What you see now is the court saying that we went too far."

In the challenge to North Carolina's reapportionment plan, a 5-4 majority of the high court ruled that sprawling, race-based districts linking otherwise unrelated voters may violate the Constitution's equal-protection clause.

The court ordered the case, previously dismissed in federal district court, to be reconsidered.

A federal court in Louisiana has gone a step further, ordering that state to redraw its seven districts, two of which were originally drawn to consolidate black voters.

Winners one and all

Young orators from the district's six high schools competed for scholarships during the Martin Luther King festival which concluded on Monday. They gathered on Monday for the awards ceremony. Sylvester Wynn, a member of the MLK education committee, congratulated first place winner Shaquante Wiggins of Seminole High; third place winner Glennys Ortega of Lake Mary High; and participant Michael Vassay of Oviedo High. Mayor Bettye Smith and Gail J. Choice of the MLK committee were also on hand to congratulate the students. Wiggins was awarded the Martin Luther King Jr. Scholarship.

driver's license indicated he lived in Lake Mary, but there was also evidence he had some connection with Geneva. We didn't find anyone home when deputies checked his Lake Mary address.

"His mother finally contacted us after she saw the story of the shooting on the 11 o'clock news," he continued. "But all we did at that point is to inform her of what happened." McDonough said deputies will be looking further into the case today to find out where Huffnuttler was riding to on his bike at that particular time.

Regarding the shooting, McDonough commented, "It doesn't take long any more. Here we are just 18 days into 1994, and Seminole County has already had its first murder case. It just goes to show you how low society is getting."

spoke to the teachers and their assistants about the program and its future.

According to Murray, the Regional program administrator for Title I, the program will continue to thrive in Seminole County, though some changes will take place within the next year that may affect the funding process.

Because Seminole is considered one of the wealthiest counties in the state, she told the teachers, the Title I program will be have to be re-assessed with the funding formula. She did admit, local officials said, that there are "pockets" of needy areas in Seminole County and that the local program would probably continue on as it has been even after the re-assessment.

"I think this program does so much for the children who need it," Hawkins said. "The teachers and their assistants are invaluable to us."

The Title I program was formerly called Chapter I, but state officials are reviving the name, which was used many years ago.

Yesterday's breakfast was organized by the district Title I staff and prepared by the cafeteria staff at Lake Orienta.

Each teacher and assistant was given a calculator in appreciation for their work.

Dade adopts teen curfew to combat crime

By Associated Press

MIAMI — Dade County's new curfew bans most teenagers from the streets late at night in an effort to curb crime and hold parents accountable for their children. But some say it's the punishment before the crime.

"This is a short-term way of trying to gain control of our streets and get the families involved," said Metro-Dade Commissioner James Burke, who sponsored the curfew ordinance.

The American Civil Liberties Union will challenge the Dade law passed Tuesday, said the organization's state executive director Robyn Blumner.

"This is the imposition of martial law on a targeted population... without any accusation of wrongdoing," she said.

There is no question the law will be used largely against black youths, said Blumner. Burke, who is black, acknowledged inner-city youths are the likely targets.

"We are not going to talk around the subject," Burke said at an earlier hearing. "The people who are dying are young black men. The people getting into trouble are young black men."

County commissioners adopted the curfew Tuesday on a 10-3 vote after hours of debate and over the objections of some teenagers.

"This curfew will punish the innocent kids," said Zarifa M. Brown, 17. "The children who will violate the curfew are the same children who don't go to school, the ones who commit the crimes."

A statewide curfew also is under consideration. Florida Attorney General Bob Butterworth is expected to take up the issue with the Legislature next spring.

State consumer confidence survey hits four-year high

By Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — Florida consumers are expressing confidence the recession is really over.

The monthly consumer confidence survey released Tuesday by the University of Florida hit the highest level in four years.

The figure for January hit 93, up from 90 in December and tying the level set in November 1989, economist David Denslow of the university's Bureau of Economic and Business Research said Tuesday.

"I didn't really expect it to keep going up," Denslow said. "It seems to be unperturbed. I suspect that it's just the continuing good news that's coming out about the economy, plus fewer people are fearful about losing their jobs."

Personal expectations fed the January increase, coupled with faith in the national recovery, said Denslow. National expectations were high in December.

"Floridians finally believe that the recession is over. They've declared it history," he said. "They feel the light at the end of the tunnel is here."

Only 10 percent of those surveyed felt they would be worse off economically in a year, a dramatically low level. More than half say their personal finances will improve. The rest anticipate no change.

Couple arrested

A Lake Mary couple were arrested Monday morning by Lake Mary police following a dispute in their 279 S. Third St. home. Nancy Orteig, 32, reported she and her son were on a couch in the living room when her live-in boyfriend, Richard Andrew Sapp, 24, jumped on the furniture and punched her in the face with his fist. During the struggle, Orteig said she bit Sapp's arm in self-defense. When she tried to call for help, Orteig said Sapp slammed the telephone receiver on her hand, injuring her finger.

Sapp told police he was in his bed when Orteig jumped on the bed and bit him. A policeman reported while visiting the couple's bedroom, he saw a pipe and a plastic box containing marijuana seeds and stems. Sapp was arrested on charges of domestic violence battery, possession of drugs and possession of drug paraphernalia. Orteig was arrested on a paraphernalia possession charge.

Drug charge

A 19-year-old Midway man was arrested Monday night on a drug-related charge. A Seminole County deputy reported seeing what he believed was a wanted man standing on the corner of Greenway and Midway Avenue at about 10 p.m. The deputy approached, but reported the man fled before capturing him about two blocks away near Broadway and King Avenue. Although the deputy learned he had incorrectly identified the man, he arrested Tyrone Maurice Davis, 2201 Dollarway, on a charge of fleeing. The deputy reported a search revealed $325 in one pocket and six packets containing cocaine rocks in another pocket.

Marijuana possession charge

Ernest Sonny Schuler, 35, Sanford address unknown, was arrested on a marijuana possession charge Monday afternoon. A Sanford policeman reported arresting Schuler on a warrant charge of failure to pay a fine for an open container conviction. Upon searching him, the deputy reported Schuler had two small packets of marijuana in his pockets.

Domestic violence alleged Johnny Mark Nichols, 34, 272 Hansom Parkway, Longwood, was arrested on an aggravated battery domestic violence charge after a woman reported he fought with her.

Armed robbery may get man life

By SANDRA ELLIOTT

SANFORD — A Sanford man could face life in prison after pleading no contest Tuesday to his part in the May armed robbery of a local supermarket. James Williams, 20, who faced a number of charges in connection with the armed robbery of the Winn-Dixie at U.S. Highway 17-92 and Lake Mary Boulevard, will be sentenced March 24 by Circuit Court Judge Alan A. Dickey. Williams was scheduled to stand trial on the charges against him Tuesday.

Assistant state attorney Charley Tabscott could not be reached for comment this morning but a spokeswoman in the state attorney's office said no plea agreement was reached in the case in exchange for the plea.

The maximum penalty for conviction of armed burglary and armed robbery under the old sentencing guidelines was life in prison, generally counted as 25 years. There is a 3-year minimum mandatory sentence for use of a firearm during the commission of a felony. The probable sentencing guideline is 17-22 years in prison.

Williams and his cousin, Johnny Lee Knight, 20, were both charged with the late night holdup of the store including kidnapping seven employees and locking them in a freezer. The pair fled the scene in a store employee's car pursued by a Sanford policeman on patrol. Knight was driving the get-away car while Williams shot at pursuing patrolman John Evans. During the pursuit, the window of Evans' patrol car was shot out.

After crashing the car, Knight, who was wounded, was captured by police. Williams was arrested a few hours later. Knight cooperated with police during the investigation.

In September, Knight was sentenced to 15 years in prison after pleading guilty to armed burglary, armed robbery, shooting a deadly missile, kidnapping and throwing himself on the mercy of the court. The attempted murder charge was dropped against Knight. Knight said he had not agreed to testify against his cousin as a condition of his sentence.

When he sentenced Knight, Judge Dickey said the evidence in the case indicated Knight was a "follower" in the robbery but that he was a willing participant. Williams pleaded no contest to the same charges as Knight with the additional charge of attempted first degree murder of a law enforcement officer.

Recalled stamp not available in county

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Philatelists who've heard the big news that the U.S. Post Office has recalled a commemorative stamp for the first time in its history shouldn't rush to the local post office to try and make their fortune.

There aren't any of the soon-to-be extinct stamps available in Seminole County.

"They never made it to the local level," Sanford postmaster Patrick Brennan said.

In a million-dollar case of mistaken identity apparently unprecedented in U.S. history, the Postal Service is pulling back and destroying 104 million commemorative stamps of Old West notables.

The move, announced late Tuesday, followed complaints by family members and Western history buffs that the stamp portrait of early black rodeo star Bill Pickett was based erroneously on a photograph of a brother and fellow cowboy, Ben Pickett.

"Subjects selected for American stamps represent America's culture and heritage. To release a stamp that was less than our best would be a disservice," Postmaster General Marvin Runyon said.

According to Brennan, the stamp would probably be worth quite a bit of money in a few years because of the recall, but no one at the local level will even see one here.

"I think they are recalling them before they ever got to a post office anywhere," he said. "I don't think any have been sold anywhere."

Beyond the demands that the error be corrected, officials said the move was prompted by concerns that the episode challenged the integrity of the Postal Service's procedures to insure accuracy.

"Unfortunately in this case, we found that the design, research and validation process was not followed thoroughly," Runyon said in a statement. "We are now in the process of historically validating each of the subjects in the Legends (of the West) series to ensure accuracy."

The commemorative set of 29-cent stamps, sold in sheet form, honors Pickett and 15 other famous personalities of the Old West — William "Buffalo Bill" Cody, Annie Oakley and Wyatt Earp among them.

The Postal Service had spent about $1 million printing 250 million of a planned 400 million stamps in the series and about 104 million had been distributed to post offices nationwide for sale beginning in late March, spokesman Ali Jaffer said.

Linn's Stamp News reported that 10 sheets — each bearing one Pickett stamp along with others in the series — already have been sold in Bend, Ore. Jaffer said that was unconfirmed.

Stamps with errors are avidly sought by collectors and dealers.

The case of mistaken identity was the first in the 147 years of stamp production in the United States. The Washington Post reported. Jaffer also said he knew of no precedent.

No date has been set for release of the revised series.

REAPing the benefits of an education

Students who have run afoul of school district rules and are expelled will be given a final chance to get an education thanks to the Seminole County school district's new REAP program.

REAP (Realizing Educational and Attitudinal Potential) is a last-ditch effort to get students who may have fallen into the wrong crowd back on the right path.

If people believe, as the school system has said they do, that every student has the potential to learn, then certainly the students must be given every opportunity to do so.

Students who are expelled, except for the most violent offenses, are eligible to participate in the REAP program.

For them, the traditional classroom has been ineffective. Alternative schooling has apparently failed.

Before giving up completely and leaving the students without at least a high school diploma, we agree that they should have one more chance.

We applaud the school district and the Private Industry Council for working together to develop this program.

It will cost the district about $250,000 annually to offer 45 to 60 students the courses they will need to earn a state diploma or a GED equivalency certificate. We believe it is money well spent.

Eighty percent of the youngsters enrolled in the program must turn themselves around. Students will be expected to behave and they will be expected to maintain a C average in the classes.

Students must realize they are being given this one last chance. It will give them an opportunity to be able to succeed — even though they have had previous problems.

On gun control

Sarah Brady and her leftist cohorts in the press and electronic media have cooked up a cockeyed poll. This poll has now been used to coerce your senators and congressmen into voting for the (in Sarah's own words) useless Brady Bill. She stated at the Senate hearings that 92 percent of Americans were in favor of her bill? She also said America is ready to give up the second amendment? And lastly she told the senators that 83 percent of NRA members agree with her. As a member of the NRA I can say without reservation, Sarah Brady is a liar.

It might interest the reader to know of some other phony polls. Last spring the media said 92 percent of Americans blame only David Koresh for the deaths of 80+ persons at the Branch Davidian compound in Waco, Texas. When Clinton wanted more tax money this summer, the media told the country 83 percent of Americans want to pay more taxes. Do any of you want to pay more taxes? This type of misinformation is used by the media all the time.

Luntz Weber Research Inc. (this is the pollster Ross Perot uses) did an honest poll about gun control. Some of the results are as follows: 70 percent of those polled want mandatory prison terms for violent criminals; 25 percent say more gun laws will reduce crime; 92 percent want instant background checks for handgun purchases; 7 percent do not; 68 percent would stop plea bargains to reduce violent crimes, and 25 percent said gun control will be our salvation from the criminal misuse of firearms.

Now, does anyone believe that Congress or Sarah Brady are really concerned about crime? If any of these people were serious about crime, they would not keep releasing the same violent thugs, time after time, to commit the same crimes. Would they! Over 80 percent of the violence is committed by just 20 percent of the career criminals in our country.

The media puts the NRA on trial every day, gun owners are crucified in print and on the TV. The NRA is composed of responsible gun owners and conservationists while the federal government seems to have all the murderous gun nuts and fire bugs.

Sen. Moynihan's hostage crisis

There are times when the right man is in the right job, and America wins.

Consider Daniel Patrick Moynihan, scholar, raconteur, polymath, policy wonk, ambassador, eccentric in the finest sense, senator from New York, Congress' leading authority on welfare — and, ah yes, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Interesting place, the Senate Finance Committee. Because it handles Social Security it ends up, in tangled fashion, with jurisdiction over a large part of two great issues: health and welfare. And, as with many Senate committees, the chairman exercises vast power. A chairman, for example, can usually see to it that legislation he doesn't like languishes in darkness for a very long time.

Now, as it happens, there is turmoil within the White House, concerning those issues of health and welfare. President and Mrs. Clinton have determined that "health care" is a "crisis."

They believe that a comprehensive remedy for such a crisis must be legislated during this session of Congress. The president campaigned on health care reform, albeit mostly unspecified. And he has given birth to a massive proposal, albeit one opposed by many in Congress.

But the president also campaigned on welfare reform. He said that he would "end welfare as we know it." Almost a year has gone by and although the president has appointed a task force, there is no official proposal yet.

Some vibrations from the White House indicate that there is a plan afoot to do little on welfare reform for this session. It is said that the Congress can't deal with both health care and welfare at the same time. Further, many congressional liberals do not like the idea of tough welfare reform, and it is said that liberals would hold support for health care legislation "hostage" unless welfare reform is delayed.

Enter Moynihan. He says, "There is no health care crisis in America; there is a welfare crisis in America." And further, he says, that while Clinton himself is sincere about ending welfare as we know it, many members of his task force "have no intention of doing it."

Moynihan also understands the hostage game: "I might just hold health care hostage to welfare reform" he says, wearing his chairman's helmet.

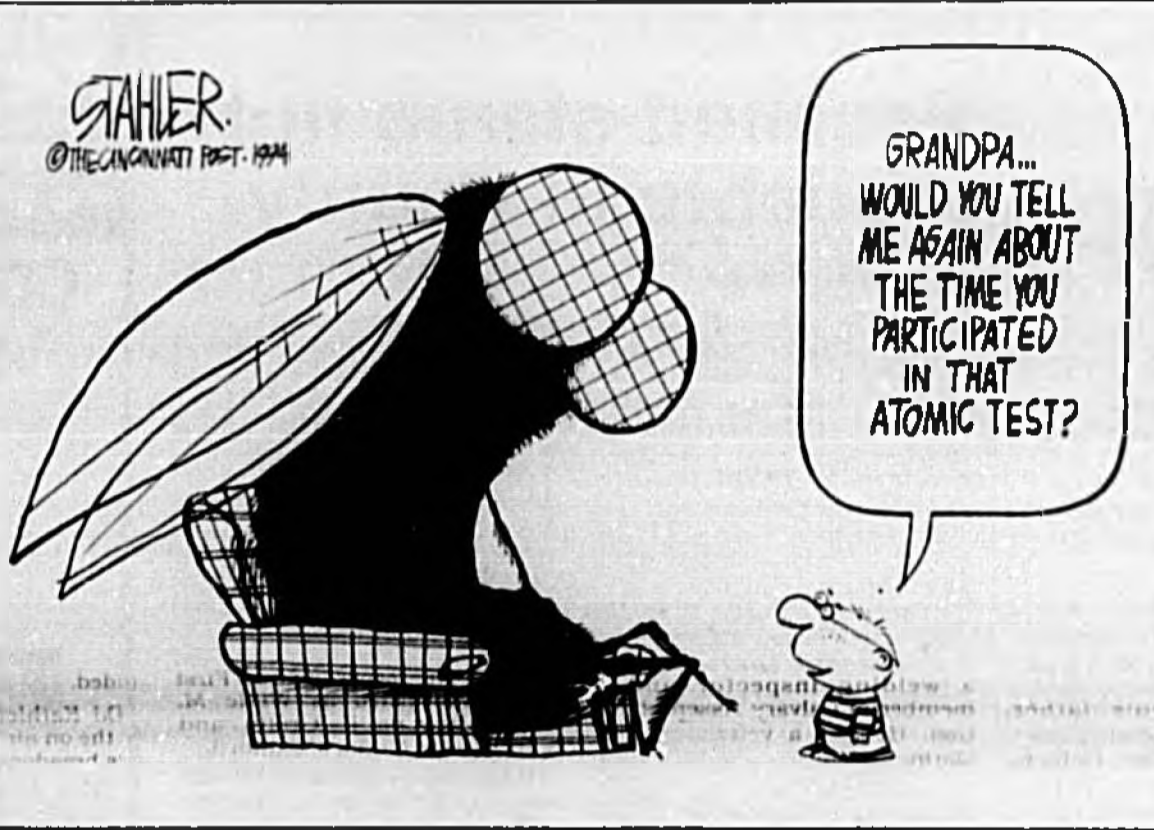

Moynihan is right on both substance and tactics.

You don't hear people saying, "We have the best welfare system in the world, but let's fix what's wrong with it." Yet that is what is said about health care. Regarding welfare, we may have the worst system anywhere. Through a perverse system of incentives we are, literally, buying illegitimate babies. And as Moynihan points out, "that is a terrible thing to do to a child."

He is also right about the Clinton task force. They are mostly old-guard welfare experts in massive federal agencies who are prepared to tinker — typically via job training and public service jobs — with a wholly failed system. They seem to miss what the voters heard in the call to end welfare as we know it. Strangely, voters believed that "ending" meant ending. It is an issue, like crime, ready to erupt.

There are times when the right man is in the right job, and America wins.

ELLEN GOODMAN

If violence ever makes sense

BOSTON — Figure skating isn't supposed to be a contact sport. It's a hybrid of athletics and show biz, grit and glitter, gymnastics and ballet. The stars are required to perform double axels with a smile, and the mystique shimmers like a sheet of ice.

Fans of skating don't watch with the hi-five exhilaration of a basketball crowd or the combativeness of teeming football stands. We watch anxiously, quietly, like a parent at a child's piano recital worrying that she'll hit the wrong note.

In this icy arena, where one slip makes all the difference, the toughest competition has always been between a skater and herself. It's been between the need to stay on the cutting edge and the need to retain a center of composure.

But violence hit this world of ice, sequins and elegance with the shocking impact of a metal bar against Nancy Kerrigan's leg.

When she was hit, it was as if someone had taken deliberate aim at the eye of an artist, or the hand of a violinist. When she fell to the ground crying, "Why me? Why, why, why?" the question echoed across the country. "I can't understand," she said, "I don't know if anybody can understand."

In some gruesome way, the first image of a hit-and-run assault by a stranger fit the scenario of violence that has become our most recurring nightmare.

Monica Seles, the tennis player who was stabbed last summer, talked about the assault as another reason to "focus society...on something we can all do to stop senseless violence against innocent victims." And Frank Carroll, a skating coach who may have seen the attacker, labeled him as "some crazed maniac."

It seemed part of a world in which fame has become one person's goal and another person's target. A world of drive-by shootings, commuter train massacres, and kidnappers who take girls from their bedrooms at night. A world in which the words "random," "senseless" and "violence" have become one inseparable phrase.

So when the first arrests were made in this case, what I heard was a peculiar sigh of relief. The focus shifted from the image of a stranger to that of a hired hit man. The charge is that Kerrigan was not the target of some random hater but of a rival ice queen's court.

The "crazed maniac" is said to be a man paid to knock off or at least knock out the competition for the gold medal. This is what passes for understandable? For sensible violence?

Kerrigan and Tonya Harding are a study in telegraphic contrasts on and off the ice. The made-for-television producers in hot pursuit of this tale already know that.

Nancy is the taller, dark-haired, graceful daughter of a Massachusetts welder and mother who is legally blind. Her blue-collar family remorgaged their house to pay for her lessons. Now, with the made-for-endorsements image of a young Katharine Hepburn, she's signed on to sell watches, soup and sneakers.

Tonya is the short, blond, and powerful survivor of an Oregon family that put the "dys" before "functional." This athlete picked up returnable bottles on the highway to help pay for lessons. She was also abused by her husband whom she divorced but then moved back in with.

If these young women are both competitive and driven, it's with different styles. Nancy is dignified and a touch shy. Tonya is tough, in-your-face, with a love of drag-racing. Nancy is the classic image of the figure skater. Tonya, as Sports Illustrated put it, is "Not Your Average Ice Queen."

If these two ever still end up skating for the United States at the Olympics, they'll be going for the gold of the human interest events — sports, soap operas and Oprah rolled into one.

But whatever happens, rivalry doesn't answer the question that follows any act of violence: "Why? why? why?" Rivalry doesn't explain this any more fully than it explains the murderous mobs at soccer matches, the behavior of the Steffi Graf fan who attacked Monica Seles, or even the Texas mother who plotted to kill the mother of her daughter's competitor for cheerleader.

All it does answer is "Why me?" or rather, why Kerrigan and not me. The plot thickens, but more importantly, the scenery changes. The crime seems more distant from us. We feel safer.

Nancy Kerrigan isn't just anyone — isn't just any of us — on a commuter train or a city street. So the public mood shifts from fear to fascination.

If the police are right, this attack wasn't random. It was as focused as a metal bar on a skater's leg. But what an odd and anxious state we are in if this kind of violence ever starts to make sense.

But violence hit this world of ice, sequins and elegance with the shocking impact of a metal bar against Nancy Kerrigan's leg.

WASHINGTON — Long obituaries poured out last week for the last surviving man from the famous photo of U.S. soldiers raising the flag over Iwo Jima in World War II. These accounts told only part of the story. Other evidence, some of it still classified more than 50 years later, tells the rest.

The story behind the Iwo Jima photo, which later inspired a bronze monument at Arlington National Cemetery, is one example of the kind of detailed information that might dribble out from the declassification drive now underway at the Pentagon and other intelligence agencies.

President Clinton has committed his administration to opening up many of the still-classified documents from World War II and the Cold War era. Our sources say that Clinton's words were more than rhetoric, and that government officials are indeed stepping up the normally torpid pace of declassification.

The full story of the Iwo Jima photo has not been totally declassified yet, according to sources familiar with the documents. These sources, and some historical works that use already-declassified documents, tell a quite different tale than the one the Marines and the original Secretary of the Navy tried to pull off so long ago.

As it turns out, none of the actual men who raised the flag on Iwo Jima's Mount Suribachi on Feb. 23, 1945, were in the Pulitzer Prize-winning photo by Associated Press photographer Joe Rosenthal. Even the flag itself was a larger substitute for the original one that flew when it was planted under fire.

None of the facts that have emerged in recent years about the staged flag-raising should diminish the record of the six men in the photo. The five Marines and the Navy corpsman (John Bradley, who died last week at 70) asked to re-enact the event were all veterans who fought on Iwo Jima and other battles. In fact, three of the Marines later died in battle.

Because they weren't in the famous photo, none of the original men who courageously charged up the hill and raised the original flag ever received the public adulation they were due. There is still one survivor from the actual flag-raising.

The first flag-raising occurred four days after the Marines landed on Iwo Jima. It was a terrible and costly battle. More than 21,000 Japanese and 6,821 Americans died — one-third of all the Marines who perished in the war.

Aside from the terrible losses, Iwo Jima also is historically important because it marked the first time an American flag flew over Japanese territory in World War II.

Back in Washington, then-Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal and other officials were ecstatic. They felt that immortalizing the incident was crucial to the Marine Corps' future. Forrestal reportedly said, "The raising of that flag on Suribachi means a Marine Corps for the next 500 years." The only damper on the situation was that the defense officials didn't think the combat photos of the actual event were stirring enough.

So, in the interest of Marine public relations, the AP photographer accompanied a hand-picked group of men for a staged flag-raising hours after the original event. The second group held the flag in place, and Rosenthal snapped 18 shots of the dramatized event. The flag itself was not the original 64 by 28 banner, but a larger 96 by 56-inch version brought in specially for the occasion.

Other evidence, some of it still classified more than 50 years later, tells the rest.

County

process. Under the county charter, the county manager is charged with the responsibility of preparing a budget proposal and commissioners must adopt a budget, either the manager's or their own amended plan.

For the past several years, the county manager and his staff spend much of the year preparing their spending needs and wants for the following year and justifying those expenses to Rabun.

In early July, Rabun presents his proposed budget to commissioners in a two- or three-inch document weighing several pounds. This year's budget weighed more than four pounds. About two weeks later, commissioners begin an intensive four- to five-day review of the plan before going to two public adoption hearings in September.

Six months after the budget is adopted, they adjust the budget plan to compensate for changes in revenues.

Commissioners complained there was too much for them to absorb in too little time and said they wanted more lead time.

Commissioner Daryl McLain suggested the budget review period be spread out during a two-week period to allow staff time to respond to commissioner questions. Commissioner Carlton Henley suggested they be provided with monthly or quarterly spending updates tracking revenues and expenses of departments and major projects.

"We should monitor each department to see if they're going over budget so we can respond," said Henley.

Van Der Weide agreed with Henley and said one of the most frequent complaints he hears about county government is lack of timely response to shifting economic conditions.

"People feel local governments do not respond quickly enough to economic downturns," said Van Der Weide. "It seems businesses are laying people off and local government keeps on growing. We need some kind of formula, an emergency budget procedure to respond."

Rabun reminded commissioners he cut spending 5 percent and stopped hiring in early 1992 when revenues dropped below expectations. The measure was in response to a $1.1 million drop in revenues in the $283 million budget, a three-tenths of a percent shortfall.

"Management monitors each department monthly," said Rabun. "There's an early warning system in place."

Commissioner Larry Furlong suggested Rabun prepare a base-revenue spending plan along with his recommended plan to show how services would be affected with no tax increases. Rabun said he could include the supplement with his annual budget proposal.

On another suggestion from Furlong, commissioners agreed their CSA program needs an overhaul. Each year, a dozen or more agencies plead for money during the last day of the budget review process and commissioners dole out grants ranging from $200,000 for the Orlando Science Center to $4,000 for the Human Services Council.

"We need to get away from the 'Queen for a Day' approach," said Furlong.

Furlong suggested forming a citizen's and professional group similar to their Community Development Block Grant process. Two committees, a citizens group and a technical review committee, review neighborhood improvement proposals and recommend projects for commissioners each year.

Furlong said a similar process could define specific goals for the CSA grants and narrow the list of proposals for commissioner's review.

Most commissioners agreed the process should be revamped. Commissioner Pat Warren said she didn't want any changes to delegate her grant-giving authority. Changing Warren votes last year nearly reduced a $10,000 grant for the Sanford Main Street project to $5,000 until Furlong changed his recommendation to restore the full amount.

In other proposals, Van Der Weide recommended beginning the search for future county office expansion land immediately. Last year, a joint county-school initiative to build a joint lakefront administrative center failed. In part, because commissioners were unwilling to shift spending priorities to accommodate the proposal.

Van Der Weide said the county should begin the search as soon as possible while lakefront and other land is available.

Furlong recommended using city's water and sewer surcharges as a bargaining chip with cities. Cities may charge up to 25 percent more for their unincorporated customers than their city customers without justification. They can charge up to 50 percent with justification.

Casselberry-area residents, including Furlong, grumble about the surcharge, which he says adds up in $200 yearly to the average water bill. Commissioners agreed to seek a reduction in the fees in future negotiations with cities.

But a suggestion by Furlong to have a commissioner join in Rabun's preparation process was not embraced by other commissioners. Furlong said an observing commissioner would help speed their education, but McLain said such participation might step over their charter-defined limits.

Nuisance

The properties declared public nuisances are:

● 775 and 785 Monroe Road, at the southeast corner of School Street, in Lake Monroe. A Sept. 24 inspection by clearance inspector Oroma Nwanodi found the abandoned structures deteriorated beyond cost-effective repair and potential fire hazards. The owner was listed as Kenneth L. Barker of Orlando in Nwanodi's report.

● 2703 Hiawatha Ave. in the Dreamworld subdivision near Pinecrest Elementary. In a Sept. 21 inspection, Nwanodi reported finding the abandoned house a potential "crack" house and fire hazard. The owner was listed as Bob M. Ball Sr. of Sanford.

● 1103 and 1109 First Drive south of Celery Avenue east of Sanford. Nwanodi reported the abandoned structures were fire hazards and potential "crack" houses. The owner of 1103 First Drive was listed as Willie M. Griffin, Martha L. Griffin and Willie Erskin Griffin of Sanford.

● 2590 Crawford Drive in Midway. In October, Nwanodi found the unoccupied structure was severely damaged through neglect and presented a potential fire hazard. Nwanodi wrote the structure could serve as a crack house. The listed owner was Ruth Williams of Sanford.

● 2301 Briason Ave. in Midway. Nwanodi wrote in September the abandoned structure was a potential fire hazard and crack house. The listed owners are Whitley Davis Sr., life estate; Turner Davis and W. Davis Jr. of Ft. Pierce, Fla.

In other action last week, commissioners condemned a Chuluota building at 661 County Road 410. Nwanodi reported the building was damaged by fire 18 months ago and since then, no repairs were made. As a result, the structure has deteriorated to being a further fire hazard.

The commission gave owners Robert S. Monroe Sr. and Joyce S. Monroe of Orlando until Feb. 28 to raze the structure and clear the lot or the county would do so.

Clinton ends first year much as he began it

By TOM RAUM
An AP News Analysis

WASHINGTON — At first glance, President Clinton is ending his first year in office much as he began it, engaged in a frustrating search to fill a Cabinet post. It's one more indication of the roller coaster he's been riding.

Between the early, stumbling efforts to find an attorney general and Tuesday's unexpected withdrawal of a secretary of defense nominee lies an astounding number of ups and downs, of successes — and fiascos.

At times, it's been an awkward educational experience, both for the new president and for the nation.

But in the process, Clinton learned a few things about how to make things work. And how not to. And he completes his first year as president having won the respect of even some of his harshest critics.

In large part, the setbacks loom large chiefly because Clinton set so many goals. He passes the one-year mark on Thursday.

If he didn't get health-care reform in his first year or deliver on certain other campaign promises, it was because he was busy doing so much else.

This included congressional approval of the largest-ever deficit-reduction package, passage of a contentious trade pact with Canada and Mexico, the Brady handgun control law, family leave legislation and an act to let college students repay loans through "national service."

"The results are beginning to speak for themselves," said Bruce Buchanan, a political scientist at the University of Texas. But, he cautioned: "The pace is fast and the opportunity to screw up is great because he's got so much."

And Clinton, who never professed expertise or even keen interest in foreign policy, wound up chalking up some real foreign policy achievements. He got Ukraine's president to agree to give up his nation's nuclear weapons and prodded the Palestine Liberation Organization's Yasser Arafat and Syria's Hafez Assad to talk of peace with Israel.

He also led the West in extending staunch support to Russian President Boris Yeltsin and outshined other world leaders at international gatherings in Tokyo, Seattle and Brussels.

And he exercised leadership in nailing down, in the closing days of 1993, a new set of liberalized trading rules under the auspices of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

But Clinton's successes — the White House loves to list them — often have been diminished by setbacks and embarrassing moments.

It's almost as if he were jinxed — that something always comes up to keep him from resting on his laurels after a victory.

And so it was again on Tuesday, when retired Adm. Bobby Inman, whom Clinton had picked to succeed Les Aspin as defense secretary, unexpectedly withdrew from consideration. Inman blamed what he called attacks by the news media and Republicans on his character and record.

That forced the president to once again look for a defense secretary nominee and took the luster off his just-completed eight-day trip to Europe.

Death toll still rising, temperatures plummet

By MICHAEL WARREN
Associated Press Writer

It was so cold they stopped making beer in Milwaukee. People in Atlanta were asked not to bathe. And a family in New Hampshire opened their refrigerator to chill their food.

Across most of the eastern United States, record low temperatures have closed schools, businesses, roads and airports. Thousands of people have been without electricity or drinking water.

At least 57 deaths have been blamed on the cold snap that began Sunday. Most of the victims were killed on icy roads or had heart attacks shoveling snow. Some froze to death, including a baby born Monday in an unheated house in Dayton, Ohio, where it was a record 25 below zero Tuesday.

"It's the wind. It bites right through your face," Jerry Fitzpatrick, a repairman entering Wisconsin's state Capitol.

Letter carriers just bundled up and suffered.

"It's colder than a boss' heart," said Ron Macke, who delivered mail in snowy, 8-below St. Louis County on Tuesday. "I wore everything I owned, and it was still cold."

Schools and universities canceled classes today in much of the Midwest after deadly wind chills and temperatures well below zero were forecast for this morning.

"We usually try to hold out, but the chill factor here is minus 50 degrees," said Marilyn Risteich, a high school principal in Bedford, Mich. "It's a little too chancy."

Minnesota Gov. Arne Carlson closed schools on Tuesday rather than let children wait for buses in 40-below temperatures. But he relented today after parents complained. It was supposed to be no colder than minus 14 this morning.

In Kentucky, ice-covered interstates and parkways remained off limits to all but vehicles carrying essential food, fuel and medical supplies.

"We're not patrolling," said Lee Haynes, a police officer in Edgewood, Ky. "We can't get help to you. You're going to freeze to death. You don't understand it's a winter war and wouldn't take long."

The Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island were also closed today. The docks in Manhattan were too icy for tourists to board the ferries.

In Milwaukee this morning, Miller Brewing Co. canceled its evening and morning work shifts because of the weather for the first time in at least 10 years, rather than make employees come to work in the cold. It was 17 below.

"They usually like to make beer, so it takes a lot to shut them down," said Miller spokesman Mike Brophy. "It's nasty out there."

From Kentucky to Maine, thousands of customers had no electricity because of downed power lines and record demand for heat. The cold also froze pipes and cracked water mains.

Study: Prenatal care may not be racially equal

By LAURAN NEERGAARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Doctors may be less likely to tell black women to quit smoking and drinking during pregnancy than they are to tell white women, according to some of the first research into just what constitutes prenatal care.

Black babies are twice as likely as whites to die before their first birthday, usually because of low birth weight. Doctors have pointed to prenatal care as a solution, saying the nation needs to get black women into their offices earlier and more often.

But do all expectant mothers get the same message during those prenatal examinations? Apparently not, concluded a study published in Tuesday's American Journal of Public Health.

"These are basic things that everybody should get," said Dr. Milton Kotelchuck of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. "It's a very disturbing finding, to imply that all prenatal care isn't equal."

Kotelchuck and Dr. Michael Kogan of the National Center for Health Statistics analyzed a 1989 government survey of 8,310 new mothers, all of whom received some prenatal care. The survey, taken every eight years, is considered the nation's most comprehensive. Thirty percent of the women had babies who weighed too little at birth. Half the women were black.

The black women were 20 percent more likely than whites to report never being told to quit smoking, although the majority of both groups had heard the message. Thirty-six percent of the black mothers said they weren't told to quit smoking, compared with 29 percent of the whites.

The black women were 30 percent more likely to say they weren't told to quit drinking, the study found. Forty percent of the black women said they weren't told, as did 30 percent of the whites.

There was no racial difference in advice on breast feeding or drug use.

The data comes just months after a large study found black mothers were twice as likely as other women of all races to drink, smoke and use drugs during pregnancy. In that study, University of California researchers measured the presence of alcohol and drugs in the urine of 29,000 women when they gave birth, and questioned them about their smoking habits.

Scientists said Tuesday's study was one of the first to examine the content of prenatal care, instead of just the quantity. But they couldn't say why a racial discrepancy would exist. Data on smoking, drinking and taking drugs during pregnancy is clear: They're all potentially harmful.

"Is it because of implicit racism? That's probably too strong," Kotelchuck said. "But it is possible that people treat their clients differently on the basis of their social class."

Clippers outlast Heat

MIAMI — Mark Aguirre led a record assault by making six of seven 3-point shots, and Ron Harper made four free throws in the final minute as the L.A. Clippers beat Miami 126-124.

The two teams combined for 23 3-pointers in the game, breaking the NBA record of 21 by Milwaukee and Portland Dec. 30, 1990.

Two free throws by Grant Long gave Miami, which led 98-79 late in the third quarter, a 123-122 edge with a minute left.

Harper, who scored 23 points, changed the lead for the sixth time in the final two minutes with two free throws with 49 seconds left.

After Glen Rice, who had 32 points, missed for Miami, Harper hit two more free throws for a 126-123 advantage with 20 seconds to go. Long's free throw seven seconds later completed the scoring.

Mark Jackson scored 24 points for Los Angeles, while Aguirre had 23. Rony Seikaly scored 28 for Miami, which lost its fifth straight.

Marlins' Rodriguez wants raise

MIAMI — Florida Marlins left-hander Rich Rodriguez submitted an arbitration request of $985,000 Tuesday for the 1994 season.

The Marlins offered $625,000.

Last year Rodriguez made $265,000 and had a 2-4 record with three saves and a 3.79 ERA with the Marlins and San Diego Padres.

GAINESVILLE — Craig Brown made two free throws with 7.6 seconds remaining to lead Florida past No. 7 Kentucky 59-57 Tuesday night before a record crowd of 12,221.

Kentucky's Travis Ford was fouled seconds later. He made the first free throw and intentionally missed the second. Walter McCarty of the Wildcats grabbed the loose ball and had a chance to send the game into overtime, but missed a 10-foot jumper as time expired.

Kentucky (13-3, 3-2 Southeastern Conference) led by 47-40 with under six minutes left, before Florida (14-2, 4-0) went on a 15-4 run to take a 55-51 lead with less than a minute remaining.

A 3-pointer by Ford with 9.3 seconds left cut Florida's lead to 57-56, setting up Brown's two free throws, his only foul shots of the game.

Florida, off to its best start since 1941, was led by Dan Cross with 20 points, while center Andrew DeClercq scored just nine points, but grabbed a career-high 20 rebounds as Florida outrebounded Kentucky 51-39.

Rodrick Rhodes led the Wildcats with 12 points and 10 rebounds.

Lake Mary clinches boys' soccer crown

Lake Mary's Jason Tisdell (No. 6, right) scored the game's only goal Tuesday, converting on a pass from Jodi de Bruin 10 minutes into the second half to give the Rams a 1-0 win over Oviedo and the SAC title.

LAKE MARY — It wasn't a performance worthy of a champion, but it was good enough to clinch the Seminole Athletic Conference championship for the Lake Mary High School boys' soccer team.

With Jason Tisdell providing the offense and goalie Greg Velho posting his school-record 15th shutout of the season, the Lake Mary Rams wrapped up the SAC crown with a 1-0 victory over the Oviedo Lions.

Afterwards, both coaches were impressed by the effort turned in by the Lions.

"I keep telling our guys over and over that because of who we are and where we are in our season, teams are going to come in here fired up and ready to play," said Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle, shaking his head in frustration. "Maybe they'll listen to me now."

"Oviedo played very well tonight. They did everything they had to do to win this game. And they could have."

The Rams finally broke through, Tisdell scoring on an assist from Jodi de Bruin with 30:47 remaining in the match.

But with Oviedo 'keeper Joe Schuyler turning in an inspired performance, the Lions didn't yield anything more on defense. And while they didn't manage many quality chances against Velho, the nearly perfect defensive showing kept the Lions within just one play of tying the game.

"They (Lake Mary) played well," said Oviedo coach Joe Avallone. "They're a well-coached team. The fact that we were able to come in here and play them almost head to head is another stride forward for Oviedo High School soccer."

Avallone lauded the play of Schuyler, defender Sam Sweeney, sweeper Chris Ruebusch, and midfielder Jeff Attia.

Now 19-2-3 overall and 7-0-1 in the SAC, Lake Mary will travel to Lyman on Thursday while Oviedo (10-6-2 overall and 4-4 in the conference) will host Seminole.

'HOUNDS BLANK HAWKS

WINTER PARK — Jason Kendall scored both goals and 'keeper Chris Lewis recorded his 11th shutout of the season Tuesday night to lead Lyman to a 2-0 win over Lake Howell in Seminole Athletic Conference boys' soccer action.

"We were without three starters, so we needed an effort like Kendall and Lewis gave tonight," said Lyman coach Ray Sandidge. "They both played a great match."

One mistake costly for Tribe girls

LEESBURG — In a closely-contested game, one mistake can mean the difference between winning and losing.

Unfortunately for the Seminole High School girls' soccer team, it made the one mistake and it cost the Fighting Seminoles in a 1-0 loss to the Leesburg Yellowjackets Tuesday night.

"The girls played just great," said Seminole coach Suzy Reno. "Both teams worked very hard. You could see from the start that both teams wanted to win this game."

Leesburg outshot Seminole 16-7 and had a 2-0 advantage in corner kicks, but Tribe goalie Laura Williams kept the Yellowjackets at bay, collecting 14 saves.

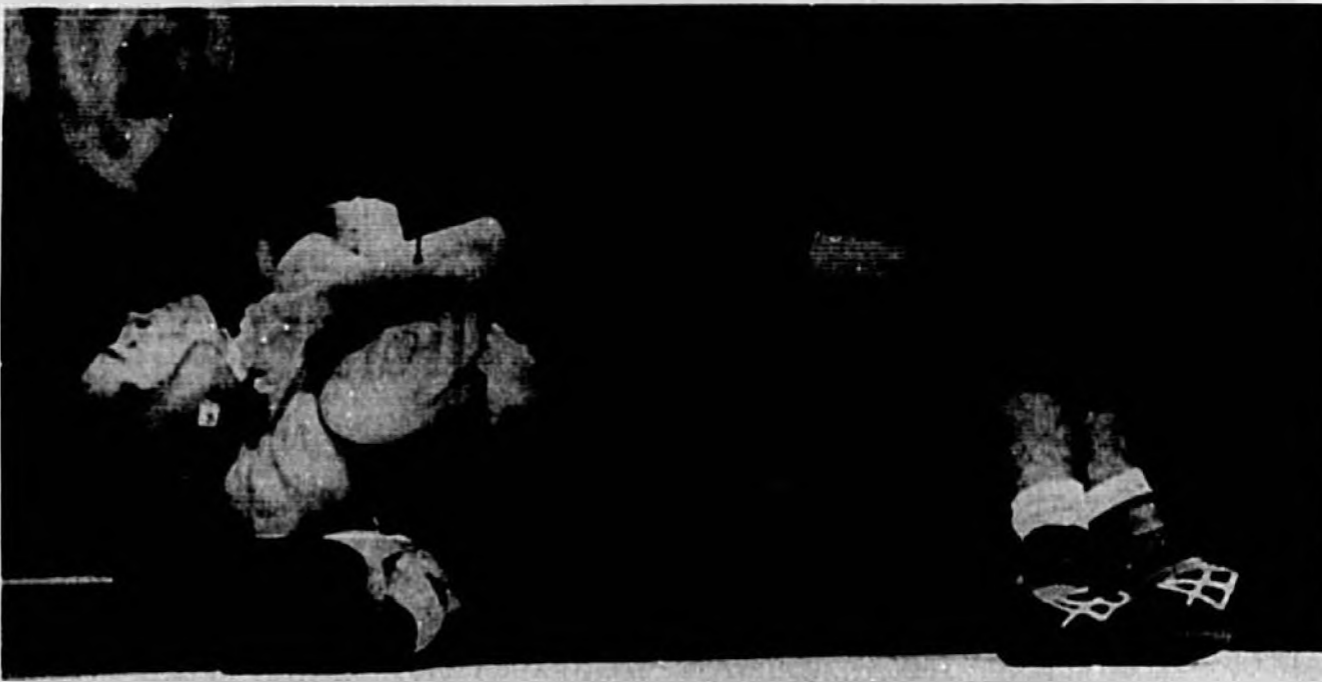

Finally, with 4:55 left in the game, Leesburg took advantage of a momentary lapse by the Seminole defense and struck for the game's only goal.

"Our defense was superb," said Reno. "That's what was so heart-breaking. They played a great game except for one play and that was the difference."

"Laura played a great game. She kept us in the game."

Seminole earned a split on the evening as the Tribe junior varsity registered a 4-2 victory over the Yellowjackets. Jamee Nichols netted a hat trick for the Tribe. Kathy Lopez also scored a goal.

Now 4-15, Seminole will host Lake Brantley in a Seminole Athletic Conference match this evening.

Jamie Orras (top), wrestling at 135 pounds for Lake Mary, won by injury default Tuesday when Oviedo's Jeremy Reinhard was hurt during their match and couldn't continue. Soon after this photo was taken, Orras spun Reinhard to the mat. In the process, Reinhard's head and shoulder snapped against the mat.

LAKE MARY — In the cruel way that things have of working themselves out in athletics, the Oviedo High School wrestling team paid for the transgressions of the Lake Mary Rams Tuesday night.

Having suffered through a rare (for Lake Mary) three-match losing streak where they didn't wrestle particularly well and with nothing but huge matches facing them the rest of the season, the Rams needed to do something to get themselves back in the groove.

The young Lions just happen to be handy.

OVIEDO — Even a slow start could not phase the resurgent Lake Mary High School girls' basketball team Tuesday night.

Trailing 15-7 after one quarter and 25-22 at halftime, the Rams outscored the Oviedo Lions 29-16 in the second half to post a 51-41 win in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest.

"We started slow," said Lake Mary head coach Anna Vanlandingham. "I think it was because of the nine-weeks tests last week and then having the last two days off from school. But we got a wake up call in the second half and played real good ball the rest of the way."

The win was Lake Mary's seven in its last nine starts.

Laura Ragucci led the Rams offense with 18 points. Diane Duber added 13 points and 11 rebounds. Also having good games for the winners were Dawna Ferguson (eight points, nine rebounds) and Jennifer Greising (six points, eight shooting performance by visiting Seminole to post a 66-40 victory in Seminole Athletic Conference girls' basketball play Tuesday night.

The difference was the shooting from the floor, where Lake Brantley hit 54 percent (27 of 50), while Seminole converted on just 13 of 62 attempts (21 percent).

The Tribe was a frigid 1-31 from the floor in the middle two periods (1-for-14 in the second and 0-for-17 in the third) as the Patriots went from a 14-13 deficit to a 45-24 lead.

Doing the damage for Lake Brantley (15-7, 7-1 SAC) were Lysa Moorefield with 24 points and 12 rebounds, Leighann Penney added 10 points.

Pacing Seminole (9-11, 1-6 SAC) was Tenneshia Eason (23 points, five rebounds, three steals, three assists).

chances. They played well. That's the most work Chris has had to do in one game all year."

Steve Robinson and Brian Diebler assisted on Kendall's goals, one coming with 7:39 left in the first half and the other with 1:36 left in the game.

Lake Howell outshot Lyman by a 15-8 margin, forcing Lewis to make 10 saves. Lyman had a 6-4 advantage in corner kicks. Lake Howell goalie Eddie Zosky had five saves.

"We did play well, which is nice," said Lake Howell coach Anatole Popovitch. "It's a shame it didn't show on the scoreboard. (Chris) Lewis played very well. He really kept them in the game. If it weren't for Lewis, we may have won the game."

Lyman (18-5-1 overall, 5-3 in the SAC) will host conference champion Lake Mary on Thursday while Lake Howell (9-8-1, 3-5 in the SAC) travels to Lake Brantley.

PAT'S TOP TRIBE
ALTA MONTE SPRINGS - Jimmy Meletlidis scored three goals and assisted on a fourth Tuesday night as the Lake Brantley Patriots held off a determined Seminole Fighting Seminole squad 5-3 in a Seminole Athletic Conference boys soccer match.

Seminole took a 1-0 lead on Patrick Shannon's goal with just 3:30 gone in the match. Later, after Meletlidis had struck the Patriots to a 4-1 lead, Jimmy Johnson converted a penalty kick and Nicky Sill netted a direct kick for Seminole to cut the lead to 4-3.

"At times, we played fairly well," said Lake Brantley coach Jim Brody. "We missed some chances in first half. We could have scored as many as four more goals."

"It would have been nice to have them because Seminole doesn't quit. They kept fighting us. They scored early and then came back to make things interesting."

Lake Brantley tied the score at 1-1 as Philippe Ciancuill scored on an assist by Meletlidis at 5:30 of the first half. Meletlidis then added unassisted goals at 11:20 and 28:34 to give the Patriots a 3-1 halftime lead.

Meletlidis completed the hat trick with a goal three minutes into the second half.

Wrestling

Champions this weekend and dual meet with Lyman for the Seminole Athletic Conference championship next week. We needed to get our act together in a hurry.

"Tonight, we wrestled a team that's young but very well-coached. We couldn't afford another slip up tonight. I haven't been too happy with the guys the last couple of weeks and they know it. Tonight, they did what they had to do."

Lake Mary's Kevin Dunn (119 pounds), Mike Laurent (130), and Ronel Jumpp (Heavyweight) won their matches with first-period pins. Nate Mitchell (125) and Pat Paroline (171) pinned their opponents in the second period.

Posting the only wins for Oviedo were Sean Wilson (145), David Zickafoose (189), and Brian Black (220). Zickafoose registered a first-period pin while Black's pin came in the second period.

While Oviedo coach Rick Tribbi expected Lake Mary to be in a sharply competitive frame of mind, he was disappointed that his squad wasn't ready to meet the challenge.

"They were all flat," said Tribbi. "They just sat there the whole night, waiting to see what Lake Mary was going to do. We had no intensity at all."

"We're so young that we don't match up with them at all at most weight classes. But when they're not mentally prepared to wrestle, that's a problem."

Lake Mary won the junior varsity match, 51-15.

Chapman edges Norton for Sportsman win

By PAUL MARSEGLIA
Special to the Herald

NEW SMYRNA BEACH - Daytona Beach's Art Chapman beat Bubba Norton by less than a car length to win the Sportsman feature event last Saturday, Jan. 15, at New Smyrna Speedway.

Chapman, driving the Action Performance Monte Carlo, jumped to the earl lead, only to lose it to Norton on lap five. Six laps later, Chapman regained his advantage.

After several laps of wheel-to-wheel racing, Chapman edged Norton by half a car length at the checkers.

"The car was a little loose tonight," said Chapman, who has been racing oval tracks for three years. "I really had to hang on to the car and try to hold my position because Bubba (Norton) was really driving me a hard race."

Norton, who drives the O'Neil Roofing/Danny's Transmission Camaro, has been racing for less than two years.

"Our car really ran good tonight, considering that this is a new track for us," said Norton, 24, who lives in Lake City. "It was a good race and a real close race. Art gave me a lot of racing room. We both raced each other hard and clean."

Trailing Norton to the stripe were David Gould, Bill Loomis, and Tony Newsom.

Michael Williams dominated racing action as he led every circuit to win his second Limited Late Model feature event of the season. Rounding out the top five were, in order of finish, Timmy Todd, Jeff Kolp, Terry Russell, and Chris Smith.

Three-time Florida Association of Stock Car Automobile Racing (FASCAR) champion Bobby Sears picked up his fourth Mini-Stock main event win of the season. In tow were Robbie Yokam, Conrad Grenier, Bob Dixie, and Keith French.

Titusville's Glen Castro went green flag to checkers to notch his third Bomber victory of the 1994 season. Bobby Stevens was second over Chuck Vola, Doug Gould, and Ron Sandusky.

Former Late Model driver Tank Tucker survived several caution periods to win his first ever Modified feature. Wayne Parker took second with Joe Middleton, two laps down, finishing third.

Tuffy Hester, fresh off a second-place finish Friday night at Orlando Speedway, charged to victory for his first New Smyrna Speedway Late Model victory.

Early race leader Greg Froemming was knocked out of competition when a lapped car forced him into the front straightaway wall.

Wood adds to lead with 2nd win of season

By PAUL MARSEGLIA
Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - Current Florida Association of Stock Car Automobile Racing (FASCAR) Late Model point leader Ricky Wood dominated the action in the 25-lap headliner last Friday, Jan. 14, at Orlando Speedway.

Wood jumped into a quick early lead which he held until lap 10, when Wayne Akers Jr. spun into a huge water puddle, coating the turn four area.

Following the red flag stoppage for the clean-up, the race became the Ricky and Ricky show as second-place running Ricky Marshall outgunned Ricky Wood on the restart to take the lead.

Wood retook Marshall two laps later to regain the top spot as Marshall faded and eventually dropped out.

Second-running Gayle Haines spun late in the race and lost a lap in the process while last week's winner, Tuffy Hester, moved up and held second all the way to the checkers.

Driving the Advanced Hermetics/Boyd Engine Camaro, Wood took his second win of season while Hester now has a victory and four second-place finishes to his credit.

Rookie Scott Laughlin took third over Bruce Everett and Lynn DiCandia.

A humble Howard Osteen admitted in victory lane that he had the second-fastest Modified in the field that night. But when his top competitor, Raymond Lovelady, broke an axle in the heat race, Osteen's was the car to beat.

Osteen took advantage of the situation and raced to his first victory of the season.

Wally Patterson had his best showing of the new season, coming home second over recent Southard Racing School graduate Tedd Dixon. Ray Smith took fourth with Shain Held rounding out the top five.

The ultra-competitive Mini-Stock feature went to Kelly Jarrett, who notched his third win of the season. Completing the top five were, in order of finish, Keith French, David Lecklitter, Dink Sullivan, and R.J. Arnone.

For the third time this season, Limited Late Model honors went to Michael Williams in a race that was red-flagged for a grinding front stretch crash that saw Gary Schlechter T-boned by Scott Kirkpatrick. Fortunately, neither driver was hurt.

Current points leader Timmy Todd crossed the line in second ahead of Andy Safiotti, Jeff Kolp, and George Murphy.

Paul Colgan made quick work of the Sportsman field to post his third win of the year. Trailing him across the finish line were Rick Johns, Barbara Pierce, David Gould, and Scott Woods.

Other feature event winners were John Smith (Bombers), Fred Peters (Run-Abouts), and Fred Erb (Mini-Bombers).

Cook of the Week

She shares her 'Taste of Sanford' specialty

SANFORD — Cook of the Week Polly Pezold stays very busy and dedicated when it comes to her long-standing involvement with the Sanford Woman's Club.

And she gets a tremendous amount of pleasure when she can spend time enjoying two of her favorite hobbies, reading and sewing. However, if one wants to see her "little old light shine," just ask Pezold about her grandchildren. This is definitely one lady whom "grandmotherhood" fits like a glove.

Pezold and her husband, Ralph, have two children. Their older child, John, vice president of Ace Hardware in Sanford, and his wife, Tracy, have blessed the Pezolds with two grandchildren: Michael, 2, and Brittney, 9 months.

Their daughter, Kathy, a teacher in Deltona, and her husband, Frank Roche, have three children: Jennifer, 11; Patrick, 8; and Jeffery, 16 months. All five grandchildren are the apple of their grandparents' eyes.

Since Jennifer and her mother have dance classes on Monday and Tuesday, these two nights are dinner nights at the Pezolds. As well, Pezold also gets to spend time with Patrick and Jeffery until class is over. "If you were to ask Jennifer, she'd tell you that her grandma is the best cook in town," says Pezold. "In fact, the minute she walks in the door, she's asking what's for supper."

Sewing has become a long-established hobby with Pezold. She has belonged to the same sewing circle for 35 years. "It's still the same bunch of girls," said Pezold. Early on with her sewing, she would sew most of her own clothes and some for others. Today, she delights in sewing things for her grandchildren. "My sewing room right now is just piled up with things to do," Pezold said. But there is little doubt that it will stay that way for very long.

Pezold and her husband are both retired banking officials. Ralph enjoys spending some of his leisure time golfing or fishing. Earlier on into their retirement, the Pezolds traveled across the entire continental United States in their motorhome. There are many memories fondly recalled by Pezold. The autumn color changes or even the white blanket of snow that is lost with time in one's mind when you live in a state that is "snowless." All in all, "we really like Alaska the best. It was so beautiful," she said. □ See Cook, Page 5B

Make your own convenience foods

Many families rely more and more on packages and already-prepared foods because of the fast pace of today's lifestyles. In the process, they often overlook how easy many of these products are to prepare with just a few common ingredients.

Mixes and partially-prepared foods usually are a little quicker and easier to prepare, but require similar cooking time. The partially prepared foods are more expensive since you are paying for the convenience as well as special packaging. Also, one has no control over the added preservatives or other ingredients included.

Try and compare some of these easy, from-scratch recipes for some common convenience foods. I think you'll be pleased with the results.

MICROWAVE MACARONI AND CHEESE

- 1 cup uncooked elbow macaroni
- 1 cup hot water
- ½ cup milk
- 2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
- 1 cup cubed process cheese spread or American cheese
- Combine macaroni, water, milk and butter in 1-quart casserole. Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered, 7-8 minutes or until macaroni is tender, stirring once or twice. Stir in cheese.
- Microwave (100 percent), uncovered, 1-1½ minutes or until cheese starts to melt. Stir and let stand a few minutes before serving.

About 2 servings, 470 calories each. Cost, approximately $1. *For 4 servings, use double the ingredients amount and a 2-quart casserole. Increase timer to 9-10 minutes and 1½-2 minutes.

There are a great many microwave potato dishes on the market but making your own takes only a few minutes more. This basic recipe has several variations included in the micro-hint.*

MICROWAVE POTATOES

- 2 cups thinly-sliced potatoes (2-3 medium)
- 1 green onion, sliced
- 2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
- ¼ tsp. salt
- ½ cup milk
- Combine potatoes, onion, butter, salt and ¼ cup milk in 1-quart casserole. Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered, 10-12 minutes or until potatoes are tender, stirring once or twice. Stir in remaining ¼ cup milk. Let stand a few minutes before serving.

About 4 servings, 120 calories each. Approximately $1.00. *Micro-hint: ¼ cup sour cream can be added with milk after cooking for Sour Cream Potatoes. ¼ cup shredded Cheddar Cheese added with milk after cooking for Au Gratin Potatoes.

blended. Spoon into 7-inch square plastic pan; spread evenly.

Microwave, uncovered, 4-4½ minutes or until no longer doughy, do not overcook. Cool. Cut into squares. About 16 servings, 135 calories each, $1.20.

*If you use an 8-inch square glass baking dish, place dish on overturned saucer in oven. Increase time 5-5½ minutes.

Since many of you heat water and milk in the microwave oven, I've included this bulk recipe for hot cocoa mix. This scratch mix costs about 12¢ a cup. Compare it with what you pay for individual packets or even a bulk can. This mix contains no fat!

HOT COCOA MIX

- 6 cups non-fat dry milk powder
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup unsweetened cocoa
- ¼ tsp. salt
- 1 vanilla bean
- Combine all ingredients in 2-quart jar or container. Cover tightly and shake until evenly mixed. Store tightly covered until needed.

To prepare cocoa, fill a microwave-safe mug or cup about ¾ cup full with water or milk. Microwave (100 percent), uncovered, 1½-2 minutes or until steaming hot. Stir water to release air bubbles. Stir in 3-4 rounded tablespoons of mix.

*Mix is best if made at least 24 hours ahead so vanilla flavor can penetrate other ingredients (One bean can be used several times in cocoa mix.)

*For sugar-free mix, substitute 4 tablespoons sugar substitute for sugar. Use 2-3 tablespoons mix for each serving. About 8 cups milk — 105 calories/3 tablespoon serving.

Looking for a way to say "I love you" this Valentine's Day? Nothing says "Be Mine!" more than a heavenly-rich chocolate cake or velvety-smooth chocolate pie presented with tender loving care.

Your Valentine "chocoholic" will go wild for the triple dose of chocolate found in this decadent, three-step Cupid's Arrow Chocolate Mousse Torte. You'll love it too, for its ease and short preparation time. Slim widow's diet 'secret' is just simply moderation

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, an item appeared in your column about an elderly lady who lost weight on a diet she composed. She lost weight on it and went, I think, from a size 14 to a size 6. I forgot what eating pattern she followed.

Could you let me have a copy of that program? Thank you!

HELEN MASON, COSTA MESA, CALIF.

DEAR HELEN: The letter was written by an 85-year-old widow, who was enjoying a new lease on life. Here it is...

DEAR ABBY: This is in reply to "Enjoying Life in Florida," who felt comfortable about her body even though she was heavy. I could have written that letter. When I was a bride, I was 5 feet tall and weighed 105 pounds. After 32 years of marriage, I was widowed, and within a year, my weight had doubled.

Now here is where we part company. I would like to tell "Enjoying Life" how I took off weight. On my 80th birthday, I was a basket case. Arthritis was racking my knees and other joints, and I ached all over. In addition, I had high blood pressure, indigestion, and all of the other problems that go with to healthy foods such as fruits, vegetables, cereals, lean meat and nonfat milk. Drink at least 10 glasses of liquids a day (most of it should be water). When you cut out the fats and sweets you will be surprised at how good the other foods taste. Even a baked potato can be a treat.

Start exercising. Begin slowly, then gradually increase the time, but do it so regularly that it becomes a habit.

Moderation is the key to success. Substitute common sense for bad habits. Life for me didn't begin at 40. It began at 80.

HAPPY AT LAST IN OKLAHOMA

DEAR HAPPY: What an inspirational letter! Too bad we'll never know how many men and women over 50 followed your lead. Thanks for the wake-up call.

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been diagnosed with myelodysplastic syndrome and was told it would eventually turn into acute leukemia. I've been receiving platelets every other day as well as whole blood once weekly. Is there any treatment that could make more platelets and build up my bone marrow? I also have a tendency to bleed, so I have to be careful.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Madame Defarge had a strange hobby: knitting. True, that doesn't sound strange. But when you remember that she used to knit while watching people being guillotined during the French Revolution, it does take on a macabre air.

West continued with the heart queen, but South was soon claiming 10 tricks: one spade, two hearts, three diamonds and four clubs. West should have sent his club queen to the guillotine at trick two. The sacrifice of one monarch would have caused the total collapse of the declarer's republic.

In bridge, though, there are deals in which kings or queens must be sacrificed for the common good of the partnership. The key play in today's deal has been highlighted many times in the literature, but it is still rarely made by a player below the expert level.

If South plays low from the dummy, West leads another heart. And when East wins a trick with his club king, the defenders cash three heart tricks.

Against three no-trump, West led his fourth-highest heart. South captured East's jack with his king and played a club to dummy's 10. East defended well by ducking his king, but declarer returned to hand with a diamond to his king and led another club. When West put in the queen, declarer played low from the dummy.

If South wins West's club queen with dummy's ace and continues with the club jack, East ducks. The club suit is dead and South cannot win more than eight tricks. When declarer is trying to establish a long suit in an otherwise entryless dummy, it is usually right to play second hand high.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Jan. 20, 1994

Key friends will be involved in activities in which you'll participate in the year ahead. It looks like you might be part of three different groups for three different purposes.

domestic disagreements today between you and your mate. The contribution they'll be able to make may not be helpful to anyone.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't make the mistake today of trying to shore up an important relationship with material things. Bonds can be strengthened, however, through gestures and deeds that are sincere and loving.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In a competitive development today, don't be overly assertive where you have to depend upon back-up. The ranks behind your banner might collapse under fire.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Malingers might be looking to palm off their duties and responsibilities on you today if they think they can get away with it. There is a chance they may be able to.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your judgment might not be up to par today and this may also be true of someone with whom you have a partnership arrangement. It could be a case of the blind leading the blind.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be doubly attentive today if someone is providing you with critical information. In fact, it might be wise to make notes instead of committing it to your memory.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is one of those unusual days where every time you take a position it might be in opposition to the popular view. There's a lesson that can be learned from this.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) True humility is a virtue, but humbling yourself in an unbecoming manner is not. Instead of flying false colors, you'll be more respected letting your ego emerge.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Friends who have complicated their affairs might look to you today to help them sort things out. Regrettably their problems may pertain to things with which you're unfamiliar.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's best not to boast about your achievements today, because this might tempt someone who dislikes you to take measures to unwind what you have wound up.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be careful what you say today to a friend who is presently attracted to an individual you dislike. If your remarks are uncomplimentary, your pal may not want to talk to you for awhile.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't bring outsiders into VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If an associate says something about you today you feel is unwarranted, it may be smart to let it go unchallenged rather than making it an issue.
