Return Of A Star

The news that Mary Pickford is to make a new movie stirs reminiscences of the days when the only sound heard! in a motion picture theater was the music of the piano or organ which feverishly followed the pace of the film. The coming of sound brought new players before the public eye, but Mary Pickford is not forgotten by the many fans who once called her "America's Sweetheart." She made her last picture eighteen years ago.

In some ways the stars of the silent screen had a tighter grip on the affections of movie-goers than today's stars. Theirs was an era when people were more readily astonished, and the mere idea of moving figures on a screen was fascinating. Movie stars led a glamorous existence, and such names as Rudolph Valentino, John Gilbert, Lillian Gish nomination. and John Barrymore were magic at the box office. Some of the stars of silent movies were able to make the transition when sound was developed. Others went back to the stage or drifted off into oblivion.

Gloria Swanson, who enjoyed a great following among silent film fans, returned to the screen last year in "Sunset Bonlevard," and her effort won mention for an Academy f-the-Year luncheon at Rollins Award, Mary Pickford's funs will be watching for her pic-sturday. With Christmas not even a month off, many sailors' ideas are turned to home and the holiday season there. Some men are dreaming of a white Christmas while others are thinking of the parties that will welcome the New Year, 1952, to the USA. NAAS, FASRon 821 and VF-32 have announced that Christmas leaves will be granted all hands desiring to append a few days with their families throughout America over the Hos throughout America of the Hos through Advances and Hos through America of the Hos t Mes throughout America over the Christmas season.

Before anyone scenres for Christmas, the Photo Lab is planning a steak fry at Chief Howard Haynes' home in Orange City.
Tentative plans for the party are being handled by Fred Petersen
