By EDITH LUNDQUIST
The mother is our best friend, our ever ready to lend a helping hand and utter a word of sympathy or praise. Every day we see her, with kindly deeds, she leads a normal, happy life. It is not proper then that we should at least on day each year give tribute to her so dear?

Bill Protects Tax Fund From Sharpshooters

House Okeys Measure To Prohibit Mandamus Suits For Kar-Marked Revenues

$10,000 Is Voted For State Marts

Bill Passed Requiring Candidates To List Their Party

TALLAHASSEE, May 13.—(AP)—The House in its first Saturday session this year passed today the "separate budget" taxation bill which Rep. Gray of Martin said would protect tax funds from "sharpshooting bondholders."

The measure allows taxing units to set up separate levies and budgets for bond purposes, including earmarking of levies for bond refunding operations. It provides that money thus earmarked cannot be reached by mandamus suits for other purposes.

By a vote of 10 to 3, the House passed an appropriation of $10,000 for building new agricultural markets throughout the State.

Several such markets are now operated by the State Marketing Board. Rep. Egan of Oklawaha said the appropriation plus funds obtained from federal agencies would provide "a new twist" to the market.

A bill requiring candidates for office to list their party affiliation on their campaign cards, advertising on other literature was adopted without a dissenting vote.

The Senate's Welfare Investigating committee yesterday filed a report on the welfare of the State's poor.

The report was called a "dramatic whitewash" by Senator Mappes, Chairman, who said he would file a minority report Monday.

Concerning the report were the other members, Chairman Mappes and Messrs. Ward and Parker.

The committee was appointed early in the session to look into the activities of the State Welfare Board, Mappes and Mappes heard witnesses at Ocala and the entire committee later conducted a public hearing here.

If the board continues the present eligibility provisions, said the committee, about 200 persons would receive benefits.

Gambling Would Be Legalized If New Bill Passes

TALLAHASSEE, May 13.—(AP)—Wide open legalized gambling in Florida—free policy to punch boards—was proposed yesterday in the House by Representative Douglas, Putnam.

The new proposal would establish a state amusement revenue commission of five members, appointed by the governor, to supervise legalized gambling. The commission would set a $2,400 a year. The bill is similar to one proposed and defeated in 1937.

Gambling casinos would be required to pay a $5,000 license, and a tax of $1 per $100 of revenue would be levied on punch boards. A license of $5 a day would be charged bookmakers for the receipt of money.

Proceeds from legalized gambling would be divided as follows: one-fourth equally among the 37 counties and the remainder to the old age pension fund. The amendment covers only those counties which are now without a license.

It is my belief, he said, "that no project has ever come before Congress more thoroughly considered, by expert and logical reviewing authority, more logically justified, or more replete with the benefit to the American people."

He expressed belief, however, his bill would not permit following Roosevelt's suggestion that the construction period be spread out 10 to 15 years in order to provide the maximum amount of unemployment relief.

He said the construction plans of the engineer corps, which the bill would endorse, called for finishing the canal in six years with skilled labor and high efficiency machinery. Engineers have testified use of relief labor would increase the cost about 25 percent.

Sheppard, chairman of the military affairs committee, upheld the project as a necessary of national defense, declaring that "on this ground alone the wisdom of its prompt completion is indicated."

He agreed with a recent report that the canal would be completed by 1942.

Hagan Favors Detour Bridge Across Wekiva

Former Commissioner Lays Shorter Route Should Be Provided For Traffic

Pointing out that a temporary bridge could be constructed across the Wekiva River at a small cost, former County Commissioner L. Hagan, in a letter to The Sanford Herald today said a bridge built close to the water would be the cheapest means for detouring traffic on State Road No. 44 during the construction of the new $35,000 viaduct.

"It seems unreasonable to close this road and some way should be found to provide for traffic during the construction of the proposed new bridge," Mr. Hagan said, adding that "200 yards south of the bridge is the sand road approach to the old ferry still in good condition and that a temporary bridge could be constructed across the river at this point at a small cost."

This, he added, would eliminate a detour of about 30 miles via Altamonte Springs or 40 miles via Crown Bluff and DeLand.

From authoritative sources, however, it was learned that a temporary bridge as suggested would cost at least $10,000 if second-hand timber could be utilized.

This expense must be borne by the present counties, since the State Road Department does not have funds to expend in excess of the $25,000 for the construction of a new bridge which is being built as a federal loan to (Continued on Page Two)

British Royalty Fogbound 2nd Day On American Trip

King And Queen To Shorten Stay In Ottawa By One Day

OTTAWA, Canada, May 13.—(AP)—Prime Minister George Mackenzie King announced today that the visit of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth to Ottawa would be shortened from four to three days because of the delay in arriving in Canada.

The liner Empress of Australia, bringing the royal couple to America, was fog-bound again today in the iceberg area off Newfoundland and was not expected to reach Quebec before Tuesday.

The arrival originally was scheduled for Monday. Fogbound in the Atlantic 350 miles east of Cape Race, King George and Queen Elizabeth enjoyed watching movies while the Empress of Australia drifted idly.

The halt in their voyage to Canada and the United States came early Thursday when the big white liner became enveloped in a thick fog and her engines were shut down after four and a half days of steady progress.

The moan of the ship's whistle warned ships of her presence throughout the day. Out in the fog were heard the sirens of the accompanying cruisers Glasgow and Southampton invisible from the deck of the liner.

The King and Queen failed to permit the mist to dampen their spirits, taking frequent walks on the promenade deck and smiling greetings at fellow passengers.

Miners Go To Work Monday As Operators Sign

Six Southern Groups Refuse Lewis' Union Shop Contract

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—Fifteen of 21 bituminous coal associations in the Appalachian joint conference today signed a union shop contract with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers of America (U. M. W.), making possible the return to work of 200,000 miners Monday.

Six southern groups of operators withdrew from the conference which covers an eight-state area, but several operators within the southern area went along with the operators who signed.

The dissenting groups, whose spokesman is L. C. Gunter, employ about 45,000 miners and produce about 45,000,000 tons of coal a year.

Gunter declined to say whether mines would try to open on a non-union basis.

The Appalachian conference is a six-year-old organization—made up of 150 representatives of union and 150 of management—voting under the unit rule, and the biggest such instrument for mass labor bargaining in the country. Specifically, it acts only for the eight-State Appalachian area, but that section (Continued on page Two)

Funds for the trip will be raised from a series of dances and bridge parties to be sponsored by the club in the next few weeks.

The first of the series will be given in the Armory Friday night, May 19 to which the public is invited.

Botanist Gives New Use For Old Celery

NORMAN, Okla., May 13.—(AP)—Don't throw celery away if it's tough and stringy.

The tough parts, says Prof. Glenn Couch, botanist at the University of Oklahoma, contains cells forming a continuous tube from roots up through stem and leaf.

"If a cook colors a glass of water with vegetable coloring, such as used in cake, and places the celery in this water the stalk will be stretched and soft in about an hour," he says. "Celery treated thus is attractive when cut into small pieces and used to carry out a color model."

Britain Seeks Stronger Ties With New Ally

Turkey May Get British Trade, Munitions Loans While France Seeks Pact

Poland Protests To Danzig Senate

Free City Flayed For Barring Memorial For Polish Hero

The British-French alliance sought closer ties with its new ally, Turkey, today as a Polish protest to the Danzig Senate sharpened the issue between Germany and Poland over the free city.

In London, following yesterday's announcement by Prime Minister Chamberlain that Turkey and Britain would aid each other in event of "aggression leading to war in the Mediterranean area," political commentators predicted Turkey would gain important British trade and munitions loans.

The French government approved the British-Turkish accord and French leaders hinted that France expected to reach a similar agreement soon.

Informed sources in Paris held the addition of Turkey to British-French lineup as a sign that Soviet Russia also intends to join, and as an attraction to Bulgaria and Yugoslavia.

The Danzig senate order forbidding a memorial service last night for a Polish hero, Marshal Pilsudski, on the grounds it might cause a disorder brought a Polish protest and a charge that the Danzig government could not "guarantee protection."

While, based on the agreement after more than a year's imprisonment by Nazi secret police in Vienna, Baron Louis Rothschild arrived in Paris, freed, a friend said, on the condition not to discuss his imprisonment under any circumstances.

The Polish government last night rejected Soviet Russia's proposal for a four-power pact of mutual assistance among Great Britain, France, and U. S. S. R. and Poland on the grounds that it might be interpreted as further encroachment of Germany.

"Poland is unwilling," a spokesman of the foreign office said, "to make any sort of a move which might be regarded as encroachment."

"Poland always desires to maintain good relations with her neighbors, that is to say, obviously, if the same desire exists among our neighbors."

The statement was interpreted by diplomats as indicating that Poland is reluctant to destroy any chances that may exist for an amicable settlement of Adolf Hitler's demands for restoration of Danzig to the Reich and a Nazi route across the Polish corridor to east Prussia.

The government denied that either Italy or Japan had offered to mediate between Germany and Poland.

Mr. Haynes was elected to the vacant chairmanship of the Chamber of Commerce building last night.

Mother's Day Pledge

Tomorrow is Mother's Day. This year a special significance attaches itself to this occasion

Each year for the past quarter of a century one day has been set aside as a time when men, women, and children honor and pay tribute to their mothers

This year more than 5,000,000 American mothers are being asked by the American Mothers' Declaration Committee

I, an American mother, will do my utmost to help my children understand, cherish and guard the five freedoms upon which this nation was founded

There is no doubt that most American mothers for generations have made it their business to inculcate in their children a proper appreciation for the freedom which we in America enjoy

It is certain that if American ideals are to be preserved no one can have greater influence in preserving them than the mothers who are in daily contact with the members of the coming generation

The Unemployment Problem

For nearly ten years now the foremost problem in America has been unemployment. There have, of course, been other problems, like agricultural surpluses, rising taxes, government deficits, declining business, astronomical bonded debts, and foreign trade, but at the root of all these other problems and the biggest of them all, has remained the unemployment problem.

Estimates of the number of unemployed have varied all the way from eight million to twelve million. At times during the past ten years it has probably been less than the former figure, and at times it may have been more than the latter but whatever the actual number of unemployed may have been, the failure of large numbers of our people to find work in private industry at reasonable wages has been largely responsible for our inability to dispose of celery at satisfactory prices, and for most of our other problems.

"Many people fail to recognize the essence of the problem," writes Willis Thornton of the Newspaper Enterprise Association. "The unemployed today represent almost exactly the increase in the working population since 1929. There are employed today in non-agricultural industries 83,000,000 workers. In 1929, at the very peak of prosperity, employment was only 85,300,000. In other words, a return to the 'prosperity' of 1929 would scarcely make a dent in today's unemployment."

"Employment today is 6,750,000 above the low of March, 1933, and even 360,000 above March, 1932. Increases like that only tend to get back to levels which must be exceeded if we are to have real prosperity. Nevertheless, they do show progress. Today there is work for almost 7,000,000 more than there was in 1933. But the working population has increased much faster. To have a 1929 level of prosperity, we would have to employ today not 85,300,000 workers as then, but perhaps 88,000,000."

"This problem is common to all the world. Pointing to Germany and Italy and saying 'No unemployment here' is no answer. Picture the result: if the United States suddenly clapped 2,000,000 men into the standing army, stepped up industry and agriculture to feed and equip these men, themselves suddenly withdrawn from production. Two million would be about in proportion to the 1,000,000 Germany has constantly under arms. Three out of four men thus enrolled would leave a vacant job behind, to be filled by others. All industry, all agriculture would feel the stimulus. Such a move might well solve unemployment for us, as for much of Europe."

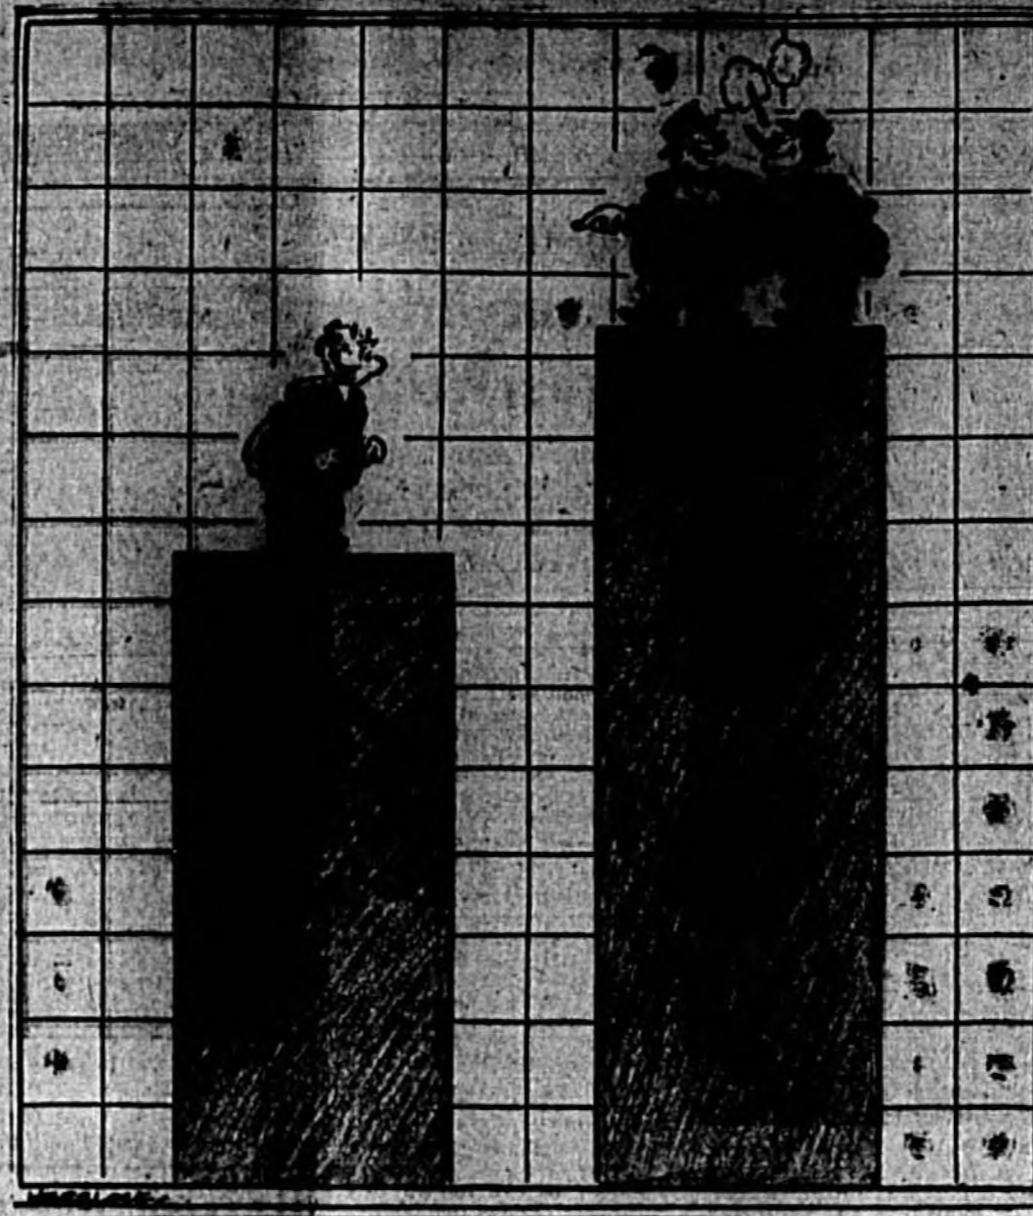

"But such a solution is no solution. We do not want it. Brains, research, imagination, daring, vision, the broadest kind of patriotism and devotion, good-will, determination, and faith that together we can work out our problem—these are the things necessary to the solution. These things America still has. Nothing much hamper will play for these qualities, in which alone lies our salvation."

It was true that the whole world was unified under the Roman Empire, but travel and means of communication were slow and difficult. There was everything to make one learn in a particular community, have his interests and his vision limited by that community.

The honoree wore a blue or gandy gown with a bolero. Her mother, Mrs. Parsons, wore a blue flowered crepe outfit, and Mrs. Parlin was gowned in ecru lace. The hostesses wore taffeta dresses, Miss Harper's being of blue and Miss Goss's of ecru. Each wore a corsage of sweetheart roses.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Charles Niblack, presiding at the tea table were Mrs. George Morgan and Mrs. Orvon Burnett, assisted by Misses Alda LeVigne, of Leesville, Katherine Lawton, and Mrs. Wesley Fly of Gainesville. Miss Iris Parsons, sister of the honoree, kept the bride's book.

The announcement was made in the form of cakes bearing the initials of the engaged couple. Miss Parsons's gift from the hostesses was crystal in her chosen pattern. Plans for the wedding were furnished by Miss Charlene Brice of St. Petersburg.

The hall was decorated with calla lilies, shasta daisies, and gladioli. The tea table was covered with an arrangement of Spring flowers balanced by yellow tapers in crystal candelabra. The green and white color motif was further carried out in the refreshments.

About one hundred guests called during the afternoon.
