Midway church burglarized

MIDWAY — A suspect in the burglary of a Midway church was arrested this morning by Seminole County deputy sheriffs.

Booker Barner, 32, 2191 Crawford Drive, Midway, was taken into custody shortly after 5 a.m. He was arrested for one count of burglary and one count of criminal mischief of the Redditt Memorial Church, 3155 King Road.

Assistant pastor Thomas Williams saw a broken window at the church and someone inside early this morning and called the Sheriff's office. Deputies and a K-9 found Barner inside the church.

The church has been broken into four times since July 4, said sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough.

"The most recent burglary was this past Monday," McDonough said, "when someone broke in and stole food, disposable diapers and hair products from the storage room. Barner is a suspect in all of the burglaries but has not yet been charged."

Barner will make his initial court appearance today. He is being held at the John E. Polk Correction Facility under $1,000 bond.

Expressway authority to meet

The public is invited to a workshop detailing the proposed GreeneWay "missing link" between U.S. Hwy 17-92 and Interstate 4 on Wednesday, July 24.

The meeting will be conducted in the Commission Chambers, room 1028 of the County Services Building, 1101 E. First Street, Sanford beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Number crunchin' humor

LONGWOOD — Budget time is usually filled with pleas from department heads for equipment or personnel vital for getting the job done. Monday night, Parks and Recreation director Sandi Lomax noted her department is in dire need of a small utility tractor and wagon for work on the ballfields.

"I'd settle for two used mules and a wagon," she quipped after some bantering with the city commissioners.

Asked whether the equipment used for the work had any service life left at all, city administrator W. Shelton Smith added, "the mule is dead and his little legs are stickin' up straight up in the air."

The commission left $12,000 for the "mule" expressing the hope a used vehicle could be purchased to fill the bill.

Mall gala promises varied entertainment

By NICK PFERPAUF

SANFORD — The grand opening of the Seminole Towne Center Mall on Sept. 21, is promised to be a big-scale event. Special decorations, entertainment, food, and guests will be the focal point of the evening.

During this morning's press conference, it was announced that one of the featured acts for the event will be country star Collin Ray, who has recently released an album, "Extremes." He will be appearing with his band in center stages.

The entire mall will be decorated to represent the cities of New York, London, Paris, and Los Angeles. To represent London, entertainment will be provided by "1964" The Tribute, billed as the number one Beatles show in the world.

Strolling violinists, outside cafes and models of French landmarks will adorn the Parisian area.

For the New York City display, near the Sears and Burdines stores, the decor will be in keeping with Broadway theater, featuring musicals such as Tommy, Grease and Phantom of the Opera. New York type entertainment is to be supplied by Jacqueline Jones and her band from Lake Mary.

The event, being called "Destination Seminole" was announced by Sarah Goodrich, mall manager. She said tickets for the grand opening gala will be $35 per person, and available starting today, from TicketMaster locations. A percentage of the ticket sales will be donated to United Cerebral Palsy of Central Florida, a non-profit organization that provides a comprehensive program of diagnostic, educational and therapeutic services for children who are experiencing a range of special challenges.

Parents can hop on bus to open house

By VICKI DeBONNIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Parents of Pine Crest Elementary School students can't use a lack of transportation as an excuse for not getting to the open house before the start of school next week.

A pair of school buses will shuttle parents back and forth between four centralized sites for the Thursday, July 20 event.

Classes at Pine Crest and at Midway elementary begin on July 24, a week later than other district elementary schools.

The buses will pick parents up at the Carriage Cove recreation facility, at the Sanford Garden Club, at Pecan and 7th Street and at Olive and 12th Street. They will drop them off at the same locations.

Principal Dr. Rita Ramsey wants to leave no excuses for parents to not attend the meeting. For those who don't have transportation of their own or who aren't able to arrange transportation with others, the buses will be helpful, Ramsey said.

The open house is designed to introduce the parents to the school, acquaint them with their youngsters' teachers and to tell the parents about the Break the Mold plans for the upcoming year.

Pine Crest and Midway elementary schools are enacting Break the Mold programs in order to enhance the education of their students. With an extra 15 days of classes and additional classroom work, students

Tracy Howell of Gator Jungle was the designated candler Tuesday for alligator eggs gathered from nests along the shores of Lake Monroe and Lake Harney. After the day-long harvest, each egg was checked. Alligator farmers pay the state $5 for each egg. This was a banner year for harvest.

Gathering of gator eggs

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Row upon row of oblong eggs lay side by side on beds of damp grass and twigs in plastic storage boxes, a green marker stripe across the top of each orb. A man with an electric light stick about as long as a hand, quickly views each egg, dispatching infertile ones into a cardboard box to his left, and ones with embryos not likely to develop to his right.

The number of viable eggs from each clutch is noted in red on notebook paper after the candling, 37, 39, 39, 16, 49, and 42. This is a good year for alligators on Lake Monroe and Lake Harney.

Arnold Brunell, biologist for the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, said the day-long egg collection Tuesday resulted in a harvest of 48 nests. This year's quota was 51 nests. A survey identifies nesting sites which are harvested by alligator farmers and game officials. "False nests are counted in the quota," Brunell said, "because there is no way for us to tell whether the eggs are viable."

About half way through the candling process Tuesday, only one false nest had been identified.

"This is a good year," said Tracy Howell, of Plant City's Gator Jungle, who candled the eggs. "There are more viable eggs for this area than ever before."

2 U.S. pilots under probe

MIAMI — The Federal Aviation Administration has launched an investigation of two U.S. pilots who flew over Havana during a protest about the sinking of a Cuban tugboat. "We assume all responsibility for our actions," pilot Jose Basulto, who flew one of the planes, said Tuesday. "We went there for the purpose of civil-disobedience protest, and we understand that we may have incurred a violation." Basulto founded Brothers to the Rescue, which flies the Florida Straits in search of Cuban boat people, and is a leader in Miami's exile community. The pilots kept an eye on a confrontation outside the island's territorial waters last Thursday as Cuban gunboats intercepted a flotilla of 13 boats organized by exiles on the one-year anniversary of the sinking of a fleeing Cuban tugboat. Forty Cubans died in the tugboat sinking. Before flying home to Miami, the Ceasna Skymasters piloted by Basulto and Bill Schuss ventured over Havana, and footage from the flights was broadcast by Miami television stations. Basulto noted he outlined flight plans to take the planes over Cuban territory in advance for the U.S. State Department, Cuban Interests Section and the FAA.

Over 300 fruit fly traps set

TALLAHASSEE — More than 300 fruit fly traps have been set in and around the Pinellas County town of Belleair, where a male Oriental fruit fly was found last week, the state said Tuesday. The fly, discovered Friday, was the second found in the past two months in the area; the first was found June 27 in Allendale, a St. Petersburg neighborhood. Small, quarter-size bait stations with a pesticide lethal to male flies have been placed on host trees and telephone poles in a 64-square-mile area around where the flies were discovered. "Oriental fruit flies are second only to the Mediterranean fruit flies in their potential for damage to more than 230 different fruits and vegetables," Agriculture Commissioner Bob Crawford said. "Eliminating all reproductive males will also eliminate any possible infestation." Oranges, grapefruit, lemons, tomatoes, peppers and other Florida crops can become hosts to the fly, agriculture officials said. Females lay eggs inside fruits or vegetables, which are destroyed when the larva hatch and tunnel through the pulp. Experts have laid 800 fruit-fly traps in Pinellas County since the first fly's discovery.

Southern Bell to reduce rates

MIAMI — Southern Bell customers in southeast Florida will likely see smaller telephone bills beginning Sept. 9. The Florida Public Service Commission on Tuesday approved cut-rate long-distance charges proposed by the telephone company, which is trying to retain its customers. Among the savings customers can expect: — Automatic 20 percent discounts to residential customers who make more than $5 worth of short-haul, long-distance calls a month. Short-haul calls are toll calls made within Dade, Broward, Monroe and Palm Beach counties. — A more generous definition of off-peak hours. — Cheaper overall rates for short-haul calls. Southern Bell's new deal is expected to be announced over the next few weeks. The company says it will decide whether to take advantage of the deregulation of local and regional phone service markets that takes effect Jan. 1.

Snake handler has additional surgery

ORLANDO — A snake handler bitten by a king cobra is recovering from additional surgery while another man bitten by a rare Australian Collett's black snake went home after only two days in the hospital. George VanHorn, bitten June 21 by a cobra he was trying to milk for venom, went through 12 more hours of surgery Monday. Doctors at Orlando Regional Medical Center transplanted muscle from his back, and skin from his thigh onto his left arm, which became infected after the snake bite. VanHorn could lose the ability to straighten his wrist or move his thumb, said surgeon George Pope. VanHorn may be released from the hospital at the end of the week, more than a month after being bitten at Reptile World Serpentarium in St. Cloud. Meanwhile, Fire Chief Dennis Sargent of Winter Park was released from Florida Hospital after being bitten by the Australian snake over the weekend. Sargent said the injury to a finger was relatively minor, but doctors kept him for two days for observation because his was the only bite on record from the rare, aggressive snake. Sargent keeps snakes at his home, but has already found a buyer for his three Australian Collett's black snakes.

Sex discrimination Women file lawsuit against Publix

By PAT LEIGNER Associated Press Writer

TAMPA — Publix Super Markets Inc., Florida's largest private employer, denied 45,000 female employees pay, job, promotion and management opportunities equal to men, a class action lawsuit charges. The suit was expected to be filed today in U.S. District Court in Tampa against the Lakeland-based Fortune 500 company which has more than 470 grocery stores in Florida, Georgia and South Carolina.

In the suit, eight women, current or former employees, say Publix hires women in lower paying dead-end cashier and clerk positions or for the deli or bakery and seldom taps them for a move up to management. Men, on the other hand, are given higher paying positions and put on a career track, they say.

A Publix spokeswoman said the charges are "out of touch with reality." "Women and minorities make up more than 30 percent of management," spokeswoman Jennifer Bush said in a prepared statement. "The number of women in management continues to grow." Publix employment practices in Florida stores have been under investigation for gender bias by the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission since 1992. The complaints are similar to allegations being investigated by the EEOC, attorneys for the plaintiffs in the latest action said.

In a visual survey of 402 stores three years ago, the Florida Consumer Federation found that 99 percent of Publix's store managers and meat managers were men, as well as 82 percent of the bakery managers. Yet women accounted for more than 45 percent of the applicant pool.

"When I asked for a promotion into management, my manager told me I should stay home and take care of my kids instead," said Carmen Pena of St. Johns County, a plaintiff in the federal suit. She worked at a St. Augustine Publix bakery for four years.

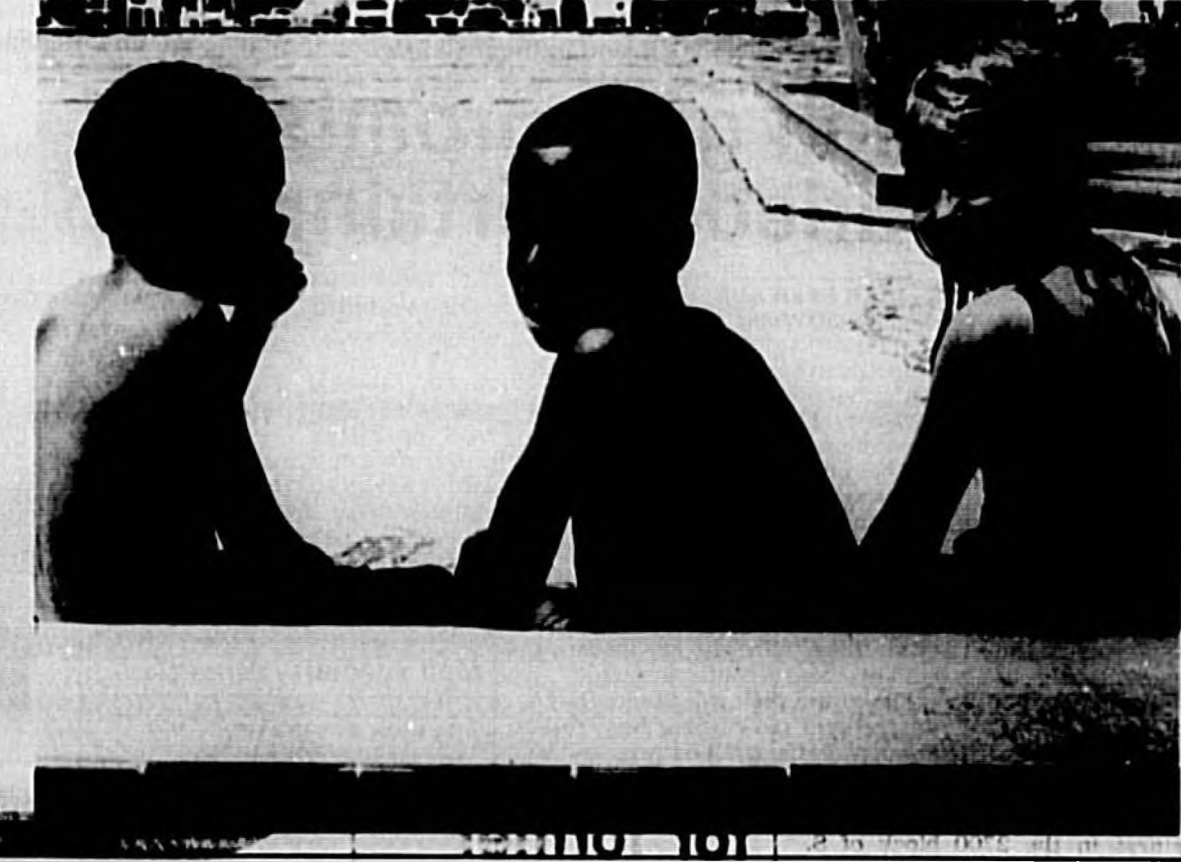

The plaintiffs charge that Publix has no system for announcing job opportunities, thus precluding women from applying for openings. Some also reported being subjected to sexual harassment.

"Publix's discriminatory policies have limited the employment opportunities of potentially tens of thousands of women in Florida, Georgia and South Carolina," said Thomas A. Warren of Tallahassee, attorney for the plaintiffs.

The complaints of the women "are classic gender stereotyping which results in women being denied equal employment opportunities because of their sex," said Barry Goldstein of Saperstein, Goldstein, Demchak & Baller, attorneys for the plaintiffs.

The Oakland, Calif. law firm successfully has handled a number of discrimination cases against large employers, including a landmark $132.5 million race case against Shoney's Inc.; a $200 million sex discrimination case against State Farm Insurance Co. on behalf of women in California.

Publix has 93,000 employees and is Florida's largest private employer.

Jacksonville man freed from Iraqi prison

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON — An American engineer says he has no idea why Iraqi President Saddam Hussein finally released him and a fellow captive for "humanitarian reasons" after four months of imprisonment. "I'm standing here in Washington, D.C., right now. That's all that counts," David Daliberti told reporters after an Oval Office chat with President Clinton on Tuesday. "I don't even want to think about Saddam Hussein."

Daliberti, 42, of Jacksonville, Fla., was escorted to the White House by Rep. Bill Richardson, D-N.M., who interceded with the Iraqi leader to win the freedom of Daliberti and a colleague, William Barloon. The United States made no concessions to Iraq to bring about the releases, Richardson said. So what does the Iraqi president get out of his gesture?

"I think he gets an improved public relations situation," Richardson said. "I think he gets better atmospheric in September when the United Nations considers (relaxing) sanctions" against Iraq.

Daliberti spoke while standing on the White House driveway next to his wife, Kathy, who held one of his hands with both of hers. "I haven't even had time to give him a kiss yet, a real one," she said.

Barloon was heading to Kuwait for a reunion with his family. The White House meeting was a low-key affair, mostly emphasizing the success of Richardson's personal diplomacy. Spokesman Mike McCurry said earlier that Clinton was particularly interested in talking with the congressman about his contact with Saddam. "He's got some impressions that the president wants to hear personally," McCurry said. Richardson suggested that Clinton greet Daliberti, and the president agreed.

"Daliberti's had a very tough experience," McCurry said. "He's an innocent American who was detained unnecessarily by a regime with which we have substantial odds."

Working for U.S. defense contractors in Kuwait, Barloon and Daliberti were arrested in southern Iraq on March 13 after they wandered across the border from the emirate. They said it was an innocent mistake; Iraq accused them of being U.S. agents and sentenced them to eight years in prison.

Arriving at Washington Dulles International Airport from Amman, Jordan, and London earlier Tuesday, Daliberti clutched a gag-gift compass and said, "It's good to be home. Sorry we were such a pain." Daliberti, looking weary and wearing jeans, and his wife, who wore a shirt emblazoned with his picture, hugged the officials who worked for his release and their country for standing behind them. Daliberti said he and Barloon were treated fairly by the Iraqis and fed relatively well and had access to medical care when they had problems. He said Barloon suffered what "we in America would call a heart attack (and) they called chest pains." Daliberti said he was unsure of his plans, but he was certain of one thing: "I'm not going near the Iraq border ever again."

Encouraging retirement saving

By JOHN D. McGLAW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Clinton administration launched a retirement education campaign today, fearful that many Americans may not have sufficient savings to maintain their standard of living after leaving work.

The Labor Department noted a survey showing that 80 percent of Americans believe their standard of living will remain the same or even improve during retirement.

However, studies show that most workers will need a three-pronged stool — Social Security, pensions and savings — to maintain their living standards after retirement. And many are missing one or more legs.

"We know that people are living longer when they retire ... and the cost of living is steadily rising," said Labor Secretary Robert Reich. "All these factors, taken together, will have a major impact on the way people live in retirement."

"Sixty years ago, workers who retired at age 65 usually lived less than five more years, while people who retire today are expected to live into their 80s," Assistant Labor Secretary Olena Berg noted in a recent speech.

This fact, combined with two other trends — the increase in the number of pension plans which require employees to make decisions about their retirement planning and the decrease in the national savings rate — makes a clear case that people need more education about their future financial security, she added.

As a result, the administration unveiled its campaign, "Save! Your Retirement Clock is Ticking," designed to make Americans aware of what is needed to adequately prepare for retirement through a variety of public education activities.

The campaign includes educational materials and release of new data and studies on retirement savings and two brochures, "Top 10 Ways to Beat the Clock and Prepare for Retirement" and "What You Should Know About Your Pension Rights."

"The good news here is that for most people, it's not too late," Reich said. "Through this campaign, we can show them the facts. People know they need to put away more for their retirement — but they may need help understanding what is often a very complex subject. And this effort will be aimed at giving them that information."

Treasury Secretary Rubin noted that the U.S. savings rate "is entirely too low."

"Japanese households save at three times the rate we do, and German households save at twice the rate," he said. "This disparity disadvantages the United States when it comes to enabling the private sector to have access to a sufficient capital to invest, grow and remain competitive."

Convict won't return to Deltona

By The Associated Press

MONTPELIER, Vt. — A convicted killer who wanted to serve his probation in Deltona, Fla. was denied permission Tuesday and will remain in Vermont when he is released, officials said.

The Corrections Department will help Wayne "Sonny" DeLisle find a place to live in Vermont when he is released from the prison in South Burlington on Wednesday, said Richard Turner, an administrator with the department.

DeLisle wanted to live with his mother in Deltona, Fla., when he was released, but residents of Volusia County were adamantly opposed, officials there said.

DeLisle "is a dangerous person. He has no right to come back to Volusia County," said Sheriff Bob Vogel, echoing the sentiments of many Deltona residents.

DeLisle, 53, served five years in Vermont on a plea agreement in the 1976 murder of his mistress. He will serve 42 1/2 years of probation.

An interstate agreement requires that before a convict can be released on probation to another state, he must find a place to live and a job, Turner said.

"The state of Florida has investigated it and they responded back to us today and told us they did not accept supervision in the case based on the fact that (DeLisle) does not have an adequate job," Turner said.

That means the Vermont Corrections Department will retain supervision of DeLisle and he will have to obtain his probation officer's permission before venturing outside the state.

Turner said DeLisle could apply in the future to have his probation case transferred to Florida if he obtained a job there. "If he wishes to reside in another state, he can make the application," he said.

Most convicts are required to find their own place to live, but that may not be expected of DeLisle, considering the circumstances, Turner said. "We may help him out in the living situation because this is a surprise to him," Turner said.

Residents of Volusia County, the sheriff and State Attorney Steve Alexander say DeLisle would pose a danger because he is a suspect in unsolved murders and sexual assault cases in the area.

Those crimes occurred during the 13 years DeLisle lived in Volusia County before his arrest in 1990 in the 1976 murder in Vermont. DeLisle was convicted of second-degree murder in 1990, but the conviction was overturned and he entered into the plea agreement.

"It's unfortunate he's been able to beat the system and get out when he should have been in for life," Vogel told a news conference Monday. "What we're saying to Vermont authorities is to keep him in Vermont."

Welcome, newcomers

The influx has begun. Store managers for many of the over 100 new businesses at the Seminole Towne Center Mall have started to arrive in our area.

For many major corporations, managerial personnel are being transferred to Sanford for logical business reasons. They are familiar with their particular store operations, and have experience necessary to make the business prosper.

For others, it's a relocation from another shop, some right in our own area which are being moved to the mall location.

Sanford has always been known as a friendly city. Lake Mary, to the immediate south of the mall site is also prominent for being a comfortable community.

No doubt, with this influx of new people, home sales will be increasing in the area. With new people comes expenditures needed for every-day life. Groceries will be purchased, household furnishings will be needed, and fuel will be purchased for vehicles. Most of these purchases will be made in and around our cities and northern Seminole County. The mall does not plan for grocery stores or gas stations.

These people will be bringing, therefore, an improved economy, and their residences will eventually be added to the tax rolls which will be of benefit to everyone.

Add to that the fact that most of the stores conducting hiring drives for employees are specifically seeking "local people." This again will add to the economy of our area and increase the average household incomes in many cases.

We believe these new people and new employees deserve to be accepted into our communities. Friendliness is often expressed by a casual "hello" or other form of greeting. We do it to each other, (a great deal more than in larger cities), so we should do the same for these people who are now joining life in Central Florida.

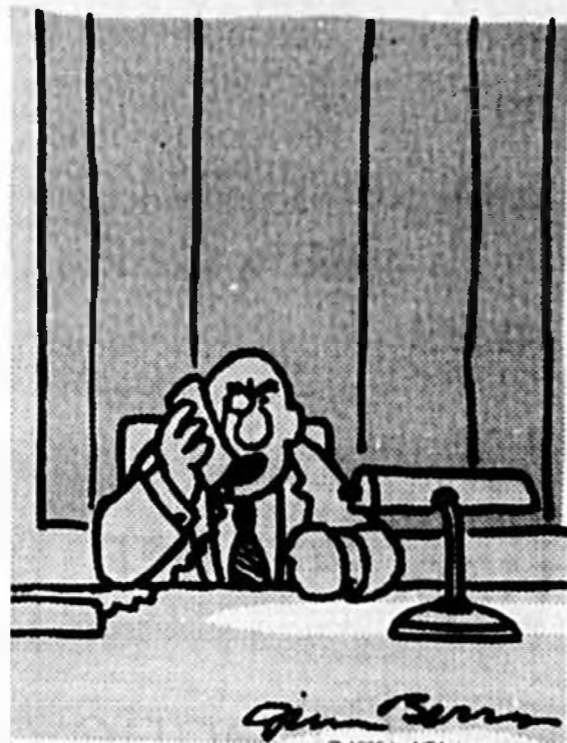

During the past year or more, some people predicted doom and gloom for downtown Sanford, on the theory that the mall may wipe out downtown shopping. We don't believe that will happen, as long as everyone, merchants, business leaders, officials, and mall leaders, work together.

This is a great community if we make it so, and we believe this is an excellent way to start.

With glory comes responsibility

Marshall McLuhan once said that people don't read the morning newspaper, they slip into it like a warm bath. If that's so, then reading the daily sports pages is like slipping into a cesspool.

Hardly a week passes, it seems, without some reminder of the lowly depths to which professional sports have sunk. And while many distinguished sports fans continue to idolize pro athletes, viewing them as a race of demigods, all too often the "pros" behave like the unholy offspring of the fallen angel Lucifer.

Consider the recent case of Brian Blades, the pro football player who says he "accidentally" blew away his cousin Charlie last week with a .38 caliber handgun.

"I know Charles' death was an accident," said Blades, at a tearful press conference. "The police know Charles' death was an accident. And, most important, God knows Charles' death was an accident."

But that's not quite the way authorities see it in Plantation, Fla., where the murder, er, accident occurred. "It's nearly impossible in an accident situation for a gun to go off twice," said Sgt. Michael Price. They'd like to discuss this with Blades, but the Seattle Seahawk says he's just too broken up over Chuck's death right now to talk to the cops.

Meanwhile, in the once-genteel sport of professional tennis, Jeff Turango announced this week that he withdrew from the Swiss Open for fear of a confrontation with fellow tennis pro Marc Rosset, whom Turango has slanderously accused of benefiting from umpire favoritism.

Just a fortnight ago, at the Wimbledon championship in England, Turango delivered the best imitation of the "ugly American" that has been witnessed in some time.

He stormed off the grass courts in the middle of a match, protesting a line call by umpire Bruno Rebeuh that didn't go his way. And as if the behavior of the Yankee tennis pro were not boorish enough, his equally hot tempered wife walked on the court and slapped Rebeuh's face.

Hardly a week passes, it seems, without some reminder of the lowly depths to which professional sports have sunk.

It was only a couple of years ago, it may be remembered, that former top-ranked women's player Monica Seles was stabbed at a tennis match in Germany. At the rate things are going in professional tennis, it won't be long before players and umpires start sulking up in body armor.

Of course, no professional sport has declined as much as baseball, which used to be considered the "national pastime." A good example of why so many fans have fallen out of love with the game Abner Doubleday invented may be found in the transactions column of this week's sports page.

It reports that the New York Yankees have promoted Darryl Strawberry to their Triple-A affiliate in Columbus, Ohio. The Bronx Bombers are expected to bring the serial drug offender up to the big club in time for the pennant race.

There's nothing wrong with giving a guy a second chance if he truly has changed his ways. But after three strikes (or more in the case of Strawberry), a substance abusing ballplayer should be thrown out of the game for good.

Whether they like it or not, whether they asked for it or not, pro athletes are public citizens.

Fast-food approach to birthing

BOSTON — The phrase is just a little too cute. "Drive-thru deliveries?" Not even the most parsimonious health insurer has actually told a mother to keep her car running outside the delivery room for a postpartum getaway.

But you get the idea. Suddenly, we are confronted with a fast-food approach to birthing. Mothers don't dally at the hospital anymore. They don't even have time to digest. They're supposed to get what they came for — a baby — and get out.

Remember all those years when women tried to get the medical establishment to stop treating childbirth like an illness? Remember the pressure to make delivery less institutional and more homey? Well, be careful what you wish for.

In the 1990s, the postpartum world isn't just like home, it is home. Mothers and babies are routinely discharged in a day. Sometimes they're ejected 12 or even six hours after delivery.

This is not because the insurers took a women's health movement seminar. It's because of financial pressures. The new managers of care may not yet have limited the number of contractions on your health plan, but they've determined how many hospital hours you're permitted.

The managed care of mothers is not all that different from the managed care of any other patients. In the new world of cost-cutting medicine, any treatment short of a triple-bypass is a candidate for an outpatient procedure. People are being discharged with — I use the term deliberately — abandon.

But with four million deliveries a year, birth is the most common reason for hospitalization and the most widely shared experience. With the growing testimony about dramatic and sometimes dangerous results of early discharge, this is the procedure that's finally run the national alarm bell.

There is alarm about the small but serious number of problems in newborns discharged too early. Problems of jaundice, dehydration, even death. There's alarm as well about the mothers dismissed before they felt physically or emotionally ready to deal with their children at home. There's the loudest alarm at the sense that neither patients nor doctors — but rather HMOs and insurers — are making medical decisions.

For every story about a newborn who developed severe problems, for every mother without enough time to heal or learn how to breastfeed, there's a tale of a doctor under pressure to cut costs or be "de-selected" from some insurer's list of providers. One threatened obstetrician in New Jersey even called herself "an indentured servant."

For these reasons, "drive-thru" patients and stressed-out doctors have jointly turned to the legislature for help. Maryland and New Jersey have now both passed bills that require insurers to pay for a hospital stay of at least 48 hours after a routine delivery. Similar bills have been introduced in California and Massachusetts.

On June 27, a bill was also introduced in the U.S. Senate that would make 48 hours the standard for a routine delivery and 96 hours for a Caesarean. Shorter stays would be permitted as long as the doctor and mother agreed and home health care was provided.

Generally, it's a bad idea to legislate medical treatment. We don't want politicians deciding that everyone's entitled to an X-ray or to a certain medication for a disease. Medicine changes too fast. Health problems are too diverse for mass prescription.

Even in childbirth, there are a lot of women who regard the hospital as an healthy and want to get out as quickly as possible. There are some who prefer to give birth at home.

At $1,000 or so a day, the hospital's a pretty expensive place to use for recuperating or for learning how to bathe a newborn. The option of a home health visit is a good one if it exists and works properly.

But it's clear that we need some legislation to keep medical decisions in the hands of patients and doctors. That's not just true in the managed maternity ward but in the whole new health care world. Robert Blendon of Harvard's School of Public Health says that we are witnessing the emergence of new medical consumer protection laws. There's an alliance between the consumer — the patient — and the physician. Both want medicine to be practiced according to the highest professional standards, not according to the industry's bottom line.

In the end we don't just want to protect the number of hospital hours. We want to make sure that the quality and quantity of treatment is determined by medical judgment.

What better place to begin than at birth? On the highway to drive-thru deliveries, we're finally laying down some speed bumps.

The phrase is just a little too cute.

Send in the Kooky Committee

After months of investigation, I have concluded that Congress is botching the pernicious plot problem.

No surprise there. We all know Congress bungles everything. But this one is a humdinger. The nation is going through a conspiracy crisis in which thousands of our citizens are convinced that everything bad that happens — from high interest rates to killer bees to overflowing toilets — is the work of hidden hands, usually the government's hidden hands, and the U.S. Congress is attacking the dilemma ad hoc. They wait for something to happen, then they react — if they react at all.

U.S. law enforcement agents dress in black and don helmets with dark visors and surround a religious cult in Waco, Texas, and the next thing you know there is a conflagration that kills 80 people and only now, 27 months after the fact, does Congress get around to convening a joint committee to get to the bottom of it. Who ordered the raid and why? Was the president involved?

Vincent Foster turns up dead, an alleged suicide, and we're STILL waiting for the coneheads of Capitol Hill to convene a special committee to look into this.

A federal building is blown up in Oklahoma and 168 people are killed and patriots dressed in camouflage uniforms and other dedicated citizens and conspiracy theorists offer numerous credible ideas about who did it — the Japanese, the British, government-controlled "zombies," a "Committee of 10," the Anti-Defamation League, President Clinton in cooperation with the United Nations — and all they get is jeers and sneers from the media and one stinking hearing before a Senate subcommittee.

This is a shocking state of affairs, I think. What we need is a joint Congressional committee that exists for the sole purpose of probing the nefarious machinations of diabolical schemers, a panel of politicians who can hire staffers who specialize in connivance and can convene on a moment's notice.

I even have a name for this new body. We can call it the Committee on Oddball Conspiracies, Chicanery and Intrigue. That's COCCI, for short, pronounced "Kooky."

Here are a few things the Kooky Committee could look into: — The assassinations of John F. Kennedy, Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr. Yes, these events have been explored a zillion times already, but National Rifle Association executive and gun columnist Neal Knox has a new theory — that the assassinations may have been staged to create public support for gun control laws and "disarming the people of the free world."

— The alleged rendezvous between the space shuttle Atlantis and the Soviet space station Mir. Twenty million Americans believe this space stuff is staged in a movie studio, and this one was no different. Do I have to remind you the Atlantis' commander was named Hoot Gibson, the same as the cowboy actor? I mean, come on, how much evidence do you need?

— Exhumations. They dug up former president Zachary Taylor and now they want to disinter John Wilkes Booth, Pocahontas, Jesse James and Richard Nixon's little dog Checkers. I think it's a conspiracy among morticians who worry about having enough work. They want to plant everybody twice.

— International bankers and Freemasons. Parson Pat Robertson says they are constantly manipulating the economy. America needs the Kooky Committee.

After months of investigation, I have concluded that Congress is botching the pernicious plot problem.

Howell recalled the first year the harvest took place in the same area, only 20 nests were harvested.

"I think we only got about 60 eggs," he added. "We didn't come back for the next two years."

This year, biologists estimated between 1,600 and 1,800 eggs were gathered.

Alligator farmers pay the state $5 for each alligator egg then raise the reptiles for meat and hides.

Although gators are pretty tough characters when grown, they are fragile developing in the egg. The eggs must be kept in the same position they were found in the nest or the embryos will die, so the top of the eggs are marked with a green stripe to ensure the correct positioning during the move.

A band is visible in the middle of a fertile egg and gets larger as the embryo grows. When the egg is about ready to hatch, the shell is opaque.

During candling, if the egg lights up like a light bulb with no band visible, the embryo did not develop. Small bands indicate some development occurred but the egg is not viable, Burnell explained.

Biologists examine a number of discarded eggs after the count to determine the stage of development and why an embryo did not continue to develop.

Astronauts get camera aligned

Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Shuttle Discovery's crew finally got a high-tech video camera aligned today after several days of trouble with the experimental device.

Astronauts have struggled since last weekend to orient the camera properly by aligning it with guide stars.

Shuttle pilot Kevin Kregel reported progress early today after receiving updated instructions from Mission Control, but later said he was having trouble again. He and commander Terence "Tom" Henricks finally were able to align the device, and they beamed down images press as well as local dignitaries and store officials, was held at the food court area. Featured were members of the new management team. General Manager Sarah Goodrich, Director of Marketing Martha Mannarino, and Operations Director Brian Robison. Officials from Simon Property Group, developers of the mall, were also on hand, as was Donna Holdnak, store manager for the new Parisian store. Parisian is one of the five major tenants, in addition to Hurdlines, J.C. Penney, Sears and Dillard's.

"Seminole Towne Center will bring excitement and an array of shopping to Seminole County," said Simon Senior Vice President Tom Schneider. "This is the first enclosed mall that Simon Property Group has developed in Central Florida and we're looking forward to presenting Sanford and Seminole County with a truly exceptional shopping and entertainment experience. We have a strong management team and are excited to open our first super-regional mall in Seminole County."

Manager Sarah Goodrich told the Sanford Herald that she was very pleased with the new mall. "I'm excited to see this getting ready to open," she said, "and I believe we have a great tenant mix which I'm certain will please Central Florida shoppers."

Seminole Towne Center is to contain an unparalleled collection of department stores, over 100 special retail stores, and an innovative array of dining options, Goodrich said.

It is expected to create over 2,000 permanent jobs, and will generate sales in excess of $250 million during the first year of operation.

Among categories of stores listed during this morning's meeting were men's and women's apparel, accessories, jewelry, shoes, food, restaurants, children's apparel, health, beauty and optical, home furnishings, cards, books, music, electronics, photography, sporting goods, toys and hobbies, and services. (See the latest list of specific stores in today's Sanford Herald.)

Simon Property Group, Inc., is the sole general partner, and 60.5 percent owner of Simon Property Group L.P., which owns, develops, manages, leases, expands and acquires regional malls, community shopping centers, and specialty and mixed-use properties throughout the nation.

Plans were also revealed this morning for the grand opening festivities which will begin on September 21st with a large gala celebration.

With over 100 stores already named this morning, additional shops and store listings are expected to be announced during the next several weeks.

The Seminole Towne Center Mall, located in west Sanford, southeast of the SR-16 and Interstate-4 interchange, contains 1,845,000 square feet of space and is considered one of the largest regional-type malls in the area.

AROUND THE STATE

Blades charged in shooting

PLANTATION — Seattle Seahawks receiver Brian Blades was charged with manslaughter Tuesday in the shooting death of his cousin. Blades, 29, was in Seattle in preparation for training camp but made arrangements to return when his attorney was notified of the arrest warrant, said agent Drew Rosenhaus. Charles Blades, 34, was fatally shot in the chin with Brian Blades' .38-caliber semiautomatic handgun at the player's home July 5 after returning from Independence Day celebrations. Brian Blades refused to submit to police questioning but held a news conference to say the shooting was accidental.

Dolphins' Green injured

DAVIE — Tight end Eric Green injured his left shoulder trying to catch a pass during afternoon practice at Miami Dolphins training camp. Green, a 6-5, 280-pound Pro Bowl player, signed with the Dolphins in the offseason as a free agent from the Pittsburgh Steelers and had been expected to be the starter spot this season. The injury occurred just after a 25-minute rain delay when he hit the ground attempting to catch a Dan Marino pass. The results from X-rays and an MRI exam were not expected until sometime Wednesday.

Dawson in Melbourne

MIAMI — Florida Marlins outfielder Andre Dawson begins his rehabilitation program Wednesday by playing the first of four games for the Brevard County Manatees. Dawson, a former All-Star player who was signed by the Marlins as a free agent in April, was placed on the disabled list July 3 with a strained left hip flexor muscle. He sustained the injury on July 1 after colliding at home plate with Montreal Expos catcher Darin Fletcher.

Colbrunn leads Marlins

SAN FRANCISCO — Greg Colbrunn hit a grand slam in the 14th inning, giving him a club-record seven RBIs, as the Florida Marlins survived a two-homer game by Barry Bonds and beat the San Francisco Giants 12-10 Tuesday. Colbrunn, who also hit a three-run homer in the fourth, lined his grand slam into the left-field seats as the Marlins scored five runs in the 14th. Quijivo Veras doubled to start the 14th and scored on an error by Mark Carreon. Jeff Conine and Terry Pendleton walked before Colbrunn hit his 11th homer of the year. Rob Murphy (1-2), the sixth of seven Florida pitchers, went 1-2-3 innings for the win. Glenallen Hill hit a three-run homer with two outs in the bottom of the 14th for San Francisco. Tommy Gregg had an RBI single and Charles Johnson had a two-run single as the Marlins added three in the eighth.

Magic will not return

LOS ANGELES — Magic Johnson will not return to the NBA, preferring instead to concentrate on business. "I was really leaning toward coming back and playing," Johnson said today in a news release from his marketing company. "As my business interests continue to increase, I've found that I cannot give 100 percent to basketball and if I can't give it my all, it's best I don't return."

Barons edge Suns

HOOVER, Ala. — Jeff Abbott went 2-for-4 and drove in two runs to help Birmingham beat Jacksonville 3-2 in Southern League action. The game was scoreless until the top of the fifth inning when the Suns' Frank Catalanotto, who had tripled to right, scored on an error by Birmingham shortstop Craig Wilson. Birmingham (18-9) tied the game 1-1 in the bottom of the sixth when Essex Burton scored on a ground out. In the bottom of the eighth, Burton led off with a single, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Abbott's infield single. Julio Vinas then doubled to score Abbott to give the Barons a 3-1 lead over Jacksonville (14-14).

Huff, Seminole win Pony 14 state opener

From Staff Reports

BRANDON — Michael Huff helped the Seminole PONY Baseball All-Stars get off on the right foot in the Florida Pony 14 State Tournament Tuesday night, then he took a seat. Boosted by Huff's three innings of no-hit pitching, Seminole cruised to a 12-2 win over Lake Lytal in a game stopped after 4 1/2 innings by the 10-run mercy rule. Tonight at 6 p.m., Seminole will play tournament host Brandon. In the 8 p.m. nightcap, Forest Hills (Tampa) — a 10-0 winner over Pensacola — will play the survivor of Tuesday night's elimination game between Pensacola and Lake Lytal. Because he only pitched three innings, Huff is eligible to come back and start tonight if manager Tucker Carr so chooses. By the time Huff left, Seminole had built a 7-0 lead. Lake Lytal (twice and scored once). Blanton blasted a solo home run in the second inning. Chris Haasis had a double and a run. Ricky Rodriguez contributed a single and two runs scored. Chris Richardson also hit a single. Huff struck out four and walked two in his three innings of work. Blanton gave up two runs on four hits while striking out three and walking one. Other members of the Seminole Pony 14 All-Stars are Ryan Abejfon, Brian Petrakis, Christian Pultz, Jordan Rodriguez, Joe Vieira, and Ryan Wert. Assisting Carr as coaches are Gerard Richardson and Jay Wert.

Dan Dougherty (running, left) had a double, two singles, three runs, and three RBI as Suzanne's Oyster Reef-Lake Mary Pub routed the Devils, 21-1, in the semifinals of the Sanford Tuesday Softball League Tournament.

Vince Howard (right) singled twice and scored three runs for Whelchel & Howard in their 20-8 rout of MJS Concrete.

Suzanne's sweeps Tuesday tourney

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Generally, there's at least one upset in a tournament. But such was not the case at Chase Park Tuesday night. Suzanne's Oyster Reef & Pub/Lake Mary Pub, the regular season champion, cruised to pair of victories to claim the trophy for winning the Sanford Recreation Tuesday Men's Spring Slowpitch Softball Tournament. Suzanne's, which lost its opening game of the season, ran off a string of 10 straight victories to finish the season with the best record in Sanford for the spring season among all teams. On Tuesday night, Suzanne's started off on fire, sending 19 batters to the plate in the top of the first inning (the first eight reached base before an out was recorded) and scored 15 runs on 12 hits. The Devils got a run back in the bottom of the first, but Suzanne's came right back with six runs to end the game by the 20-run mercy rule, 21-1. The second game of the evening looked like a possible upset as MJS Concrete, which lost three regular season games to Whelchel & Howard, scored six runs in the top of the first inning. But Whelchel & Howard answered with seven runs in the bottom of the first inning, the big blow being a grand slam over the center field fence by James Thompson. MJS tied the game in the top of the second before Whelchel & Howard scored three runs in the bottom of the frame to take the lead for good and won going away, 20-8 in five innings. Suzanne's scored single runs in the first three innings and Whelchel & Howard plated a run in the bottom of the second to make the score 3-1 in the championship game. The score stayed that way until the bottom of the sixth inning when, with two out and two runners on, Suzanne's Jeremy Chunnat gunned down a Whelchel & Howard runner at the plate to end the threat. Suzanne's then put the game away with three runs in the top of the seventh inning, claiming the title with a 6-1 win. Powering Suzanne's in the opening game were David French (triple, double, single, three runs, two RBI), Dan Dougherty (double, two singles, three runs, three RBI), Manny Silvia (two singles, two runs, two RBI), Larry Chunnat (two singles, run, three RBI), winning pitcher Tim Sundvall (two singles, run, two RBI) and Jeremy Chunnat (two singles, three runs). Also hitting were Kevin Julian (triple, two runs, five RBI), Jay Johnson (single, three runs, RBI) and Chris Janlik (two runs). Jason Music was the winning pitcher. Jerry Oakley tripled and scored the Devils only run on a single by Nathan Fakess. Whelchel & Howard was led in game 2 by Eric Johnson (triple, two singles, run, four RBI), Freddy Moreno (double, two singles, three runs, two RBI), Thompson (grand slam, single, two runs, six RBI), Bob Towns (two singles, three runs, RBI), Craig Tossi (two singles, two runs, RBI), winning pitcher Tim Sundvall (two singles, run, two RBI) and Vince Howard (two

Erb comes out on top in School Bus Figure 8 run

By PAUL MARSEGLIA Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — Jim Erb emerged as the winner in the second-annual School Bus Figure 8 race that highlighted action last Friday night, July 14, at Orlando Speedworld. A field of 19 buses charged through the 3/8-mile course, which turned out to be the busiest intersection in Orlando, for bragging rights and a top prize of $750. After 22 minutes of paint swapping, rear-ending, bone-jarring action, Erb took first place in front of Bruce Law, Scott Black, Sunshine Speedway promoter Frank Hill, and Mark Britton. With a bump-and-run move on race leader Mike Todd, Rusty Ebersole took the point in the Limited Late Model feature, then held off all challengers to win his fourth feature of the season. Rounding out the top five were, in order of finish, Bob Newton, Bobby Sears, Jeff Moyer, and Todd

In Mini-Stock action, Jared Allison raced out of turn four on the last lap to catch race leader Ronnie Watson. Allison and Watson raced side-by-side to the flag stand with Allison taking the win by several inches. Chasing the lead duo across the finish line were Richard Newton, Ted Vulpius, and Terry Bryant. Apopka-based Late Model pilot Jerry Gilliard had his work cut out for him on the way to his fourth in his last six starts. Gilliard, who smacked the wall during hot laps, worked frantically with his crew to get the car race ready for the Late Model headliner. Then, early in the feature, Gilliard was running in second when he and front-running Ricky Wood both spun. For the restart, Gilliard and Wood were put at the tail end of the lead pack. After several more cautions, Gilliard lined up alongside race leader Rick Elwood for another new green flag. Elwood and Gilliard raced wheel-to-wheel for several laps before Gilliard gained the advantage with five laps to go. Gilliard pulled to a commanding lead and took the checkers five car lengths in front of Elwood. Wood was third, finishing ahead of Kevin Lawrence and Bruce Everett. Barbara Pierce led every circuit to take the win in the Sportsman feature. Dale Clouser was second followed by Harvey Pope, Tim Aultman, and Hank Sanders. Michael Williams, driving a new car right out of the box, dominated racing action in winning the Modified main event. Williams, a former FASCAR Limited Late Model champion, led Bruce Thompson, Dave Dunkin, Ross Eldridge, and Eddie Hartin to victory lane. Dave Waddell sidestepped a three-car pileup with two laps to the checkers to notch the victory in the Bomber main event. In tow behind Waddell were Bill Gibbons, Doug Gould, Fred Peters, and Glenn Castro. Other feature event winners were Paul Hindman (Mini-Bombers) and Ron Adams (Run-Abouts).

Pasta dishes perfect for summer

Pasta dishes lend themselves to summertime meals. Most are light and easily digested and quick to prepare. The actual cooking time for pasta is the same for microwave and conventional methods. It is usually more practical to cook the pasta by the conventional method and prepare the sauce, or other ingredients in the microwave.

For a quick, tasty dinner, try this Italian pasta dish. Serve with a green salad and crusty bread. Fresh fruit or a refreshing sherbet make a satisfying summer meal.

ROMAN FETTUCINE

8 oz. fettuccine, cooked according to package directions
1/2 stick (1/4 cup) unsalted butter
3 cloves garlic, minced
1/4 cup minced prosciutto
1/4 cup green peas
1/4 cup heavy cream
1 large egg, beaten
1/2 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
Freshly ground pepper

MICROWAVE MAGIC

MIDGE MYCOFF

While pasta cooks, place butter, garlic, prosciutto and green peas in 2-quart casserole. Cover and cook on 100 percent 3-4 minutes, or until mixture is boiling. Add cream, egg, and cheese and toss to combine. Microwave on 70 percent power 1-2 minutes, or until cheese is melted. Drain pasta, add to sauce, and toss lightly to coat noodles. Add pepper to taste and serve at once.

Make this for two meals. Have one casserole, freeze the other for a "no time to cook" night.

MANICOTTI

16 oz. manicotti, cooked according to package directions
Meat Sauce:
1 1/2 lbs. lean ground beef
1 lb. sweet or hot Italian sausage, removed from casings
2 medium onions, finely chopped
4-5 cloves garlic, minced
1 (32 oz.) jar chunky-style spaghetti sauce
1 (15 oz.) can tomato sauce

2 tsp. dried basil
2 tsp. dried oregano
1 tsp. dried marjoram
1 tsp. dried thyme
2 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. ground black pepper
Filling:
1 1/2 lbs. Ricotta or cottage cheese
1 lb. Mozzarella cheese, shredded
1/2 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
2 large eggs
1 (10 oz.) package frozen chopped frozen spinach, defrosted and well drained
Drain cooked manicotti; place in a bowl of cold water and set aside.
Place ground beef, sausage, onions and garlic in 2-quart casserole. Cover and cook on 100 percent power 5 minutes. Stir, cover, and cook on 100 percent power 5-7 minutes, or until meat is almost cooked. Stir and drain all fat.
Add spaghetti sauce, tomato sauce, basil, oregano, marjoram, thyme, sugar, salt and pepper. Microwave on 100 percent power 10-15 minutes or until boiling.
Combine Ricotta, Mozzarella, Parmesan, eggs and spinach in a bowl and mix well. Stuff manicotti shells with cheese filling. Put 1 cup meat sauce in each 13 x 9-inch casserole. Arrange manicotti in single layer over sauce and cover with remaining sauce. Cover and microwave each casserole separately on 70 percent power 15-20 minutes or until hot in center.

Serve these noodles with any beef, pork or poultry entree.

NOODLES SUPREME

2-3 cloves garlic, minced
1 medium onion, chopped
1/4 stick (1/4 cup) butter
1 cup sour cream
1 cup cottage cheese
1/2 tsp. hot pepper sauce
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. freshly ground pepper
1/2 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
5 oz. thin egg noodles, cooked
Combine garlic, onion and butter in 1 1/2 quart casserole. Cover and microwave on 100 percent power, 3-4 minutes, or until onions are translucent. Add sour cream, cottage cheese, hot pepper sauce, salt, pepper, and cheese. Stir in noodles, cover and cook on 70 percent power 5-6 minutes or until hot, stirring once.

Serves 6-8.

Widower reluctant to air sex status

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 70-year-old widower, retired, financially secure and generally in good health. Most of my friends are women, but I also have male friends.

I go out with half a dozen women ranging in age from 40 to 70. Some I've known for a long time. All of these relationships are platonic (that is, nonsexual). Naturally, most women wonder why I've never "made a pass" at them. (One complained that "our relationship was 'going nowhere.'")

The answer: I am sexually impotent; hence I avoid giving the impression that I have any romantic interest in them.

I assume that in most cases, part of the attraction between men and women is the possibility that a sexual union might take place. While I have not polled any members of the female sex, I am under the impression that sexual urges in women do not vanish at age 60, 65 or even 75.

At times, I feel that I should inform my female friends that I am impotent, so they should not expect sex. But such information is very personal and somewhat embarrassing. I suspect that some of my women friends would be relieved to know that I am impotent, and there is nothing wrong with them. Any thoughts on this.

DEAR GENTLEMAN: I have good news for you. Many women in your age group (and some younger) would consider your nonsexual status a decided plus. The holding, kissing, caressing and doing "everything but" can be sufficiently satisfying to some women.

ADVICE

After a few dates — when you are comfortable with the lady — let her know that you enjoy being affectionate, but you are impotent. You need not be embarrassed; chances are, she will relax, enjoy your company even more.

DEAR ABBY: I have read your column for years and have learned a lot from it, but I learned something recently that really shocked me, and I hope you put it in your column to warn other teen-agers.

I had a baby the week I turned 15. I was on birth control pills, but nobody ever told me that the effect of the birth control pills would be canceled out if I took antibiotics at the same time. This is a fact, Abby.

Please warn your readers about this. The doctor who prescribed antibiotics for my strep throat never asked me if I was on birth control, and I didn't think it was necessary to tell him.

I love my baby, and although the baby's father hasn't married me yet, I know he will. He's only 16, but he is staying in school. I had to quit, but someday, when our son is a little older, I hope to go back to school and at least graduate from high school. Sign me...

A MOM AT 15
DEAR MOM: Thanks for writing. I am sure there are women of all ages who are not aware that antibiotics may dilute the effect of birth control pills. It would be wise for women to use an additional method of birth control when they take antibiotics.

Many women and men, too, will appreciate this information.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in response to the letter from "No Name or Town," the 27-year-old unmarried woman who was attracted to the guy behind the counter in the video store. I could be this guy! I am also 27 years old, single, and work part time in a video store.

There is a woman that I see from time to time in the store whom I find attractive. She could be her. I couldn't be him.

The advice you gave was very good. Talk to me, show me you are interested, and I will respond if I am interested, too. I am old-fashioned and somewhat shy when it comes to meeting women. I hope my customer will speak up. Then we can finally meet.

THE VIDEO GUY

DEAR VIDEO GUY: What are you waiting for? Introduce yourself to the lady you find attractive. You've nothing to lose and everything to gain. Good luck.

Reading assistance
The North Florida Chapter of the Telephone Pioneers of America recently presented more than 600 books to the Seminole County public schools. The pioneers support school reading programs in a number of ways, including the purchase of the books. Among those on hand for the presentation were Nancy McNamara, at far right, who is director of elementary schools in Seminole County; Jackie Matthews, to her left, who is the program specialist for Orange County public schools and Terri Stratton, president of the North Florida chapter of the Telephone Pioneers.

Study: Marijuana addictive; prenatal exposure risky

By JENNIFER DIXON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Smoking marijuana can be addictive, and women who use it during pregnancy put their children's intellectual development at risk, said a government research report released today.

More than 5 million Americans smoke marijuana at least once a week and the drug's popularity is growing among teen-agers, according to federal surveys.

Marijuana use among eighth graders has doubled in the past three years, and fewer students consider the drug hazardous to their health now than in years past.

Today's report, however, underscored the risks of smoking marijuana. According to the Department of Health and Human Services, the findings are the first to show definitively that marijuana can produce dependence and have lasting effects on children who are exposed prenatally.

HHS Secretary Donna Shalala said long-term studies of children now 9 to 12 years old suggest that their mothers' use of marijuana while pregnant is associated with what is known as impaired executive function — the intellectual ability that involves making decisions and future planning.

The research findings also show a link between prenatal exposure to marijuana and impaired cognition — verbal reasoning and memory — among children 3 to 4 years old, and problems with paying attention among children at ages 5, 8 and 7.

Marijuana is the most frequently used illegal drug in the country, and Shalala said she is deeply troubled by what some young people think and say about it.

"At the core of our agenda must be a clear and consistent message — marijuana is illegal, dangerous, unhealthy and wrong. We must all drive home that message, and to do it, we must sweep aside some of the powerful myths about marijuana," Shalala said in remarks prepared for a conference on the drug.

According to a recent government survey, nearly 70 million Americans over the age of 12 have tried marijuana at least once, and 9 million had used it in the previous month.

By the 10th grade, nearly 18 percent of students were found to be current users, and by the 12th grade, nearly one-fifth were current users in 1994, HHS said.

Many parents of this generation of teen-agers experimented with marijuana while in college, officials said, and often find it difficult to discuss marijuana use with their children.

But marijuana use now starts earlier — the average age of first use is now 13½ — and more potent forms of the drug are available, HHS said. Most marijuana users smoke the drug, but some mix it into food or use it to brew a tea.

A new method involves slicing open cigars and replacing the tobacco with marijuana, making what is called a blunt. When the blunt is smoked with a 40-ounce bottle of malt liquor, it's called a "B-40," HHS said.

The department said it called the two-day conference in response to surveys showing an increase in marijuana use among younger Americans.

Do asthma drugs cause headaches?

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 33-year-old asthmatic, treated with Proventil and Theo-Dur. In the past 18 months, I've developed headaches and neck pain. Since X-rays and a CT scan were negative, my doctor put me on a muscle relaxant, but the aches and pains continue. What is your opinion of this dilemma?

DEAR READER: Many authorities discourage the use of theophylline (Theo-Dur and other brands) to treat asthma because there are more effective therapies that are safer. Theophylline (in liquid or pill form) can cause many symptoms, including headaches and muscle pain, and can easily reach toxic levels that produce vomiting, convulsions and low blood pressure, among others. Therefore, patients who are prescribed theophylline must undergo periodic blood tests to measure the level of the drug in the body.

Although your symptoms may be caused by unrelated factors such as migraine, I'm suspicious that the Theo-Dur may be the culprit. In my view, your doctor should stop it and substitute another drug, such as an inhaled steroid, which do not possess the serious side effects of cortisone pills.

Ask your doctor to examine other options.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been diagnosed with primary biliary cirrhosis. What can you tell me about it?

DEAR READER: Primary biliary cirrhosis, a non-alcohol-related liver disease of unknown cause, most often affects women between 35 and 60. Marked by inflammation and scarring, it may be related to autoimmune diseases (such as rheumatoid arthritis and scleroderma). PBC begins slowly and insidiously, frequently with mild itching and fatigue as the only symptoms. Eventually, jaundice and liver failure appear.

The diagnosis is made by blood tests, special X-ray studies and biopsy. The disease progresses at an unpredictable rate. Many patients may remain relatively normal for decades; others seem to follow a rapidly downhill course. There is no specific therapy for PBC. Patients eventually die of cirrhosis, despite the use of medications, such as corticisone. The one bit of good news in this scenario is that patients with PBC are excellent candidates for liver transplants.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
 Charles, Count Talleyrand, the French statesman, described Madame de Staël (who was arguably the greatest ever French female writer) as "Such a good friend that she will throw all her acquaintances into the water for the pleasure of fishing them out again."
 Even if you don't look on your opponents at the bridge table as your friends, it is still enjoyable to throw them in. You lose one -- usually unavoidable -- trick at that point, but fish out at least one -- otherwise unattainable -- trick in return.
 Four no-trump was Roman Key Card Blackwood, so five spades showed the heart queen and either two aces or one ace and the heart king.
 West led a trump. The declarer, Marius Briclu from Rumania, for some reason decided that West held the diamond king. Briclu won trick one in the dummy, unblocked the spade ace and drew two more rounds of trumps ending in hand. Then South cashed his three spade winners, discarding dummy's three clubs. Now came the diamond ace and diamond jack. West defended well by ducking his king. But Briclu overtook with dummy's queen and, when that won, led a low diamond, discarding a club from his hand.

 West was endplayed. If he returned a diamond, South would ruff and the dummy would win the last two tricks with a trump and the 13th diamond. However, when West switched to a low club, South had no option but to run it to his king.
 Note finally that if West leads the club ace at trick one, the slam must fall.
