BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY
THE GIFT OF PEACE—Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.—John 14:27.

PRAYER
"Peace, perfect peace, by thronging duties pressed;
To the will of God be done, and His will be done."
A STATUE OF GENERAL LEE
Here is no marble effigy of Death—
But here is Life abundant, still—
The General, as though with quiet breath,
Regathering in rest new strength to keep
Whatever valiant fight dawn may bring.
Who looks upon this dreaming face might say:
"Here dies a knight in armor slumbering."
No coat of mail more glorious than his gray
Worn uniform and this rough blanket spread;
A strong Crusader, sword beneath his hand,
Sleeping upon the earth a soldier's bed.
Guardian still of his beloved Land!

Here is no Death, for heaven's stage to keep,
But sculptured immortality of sleep.

Fort Benning, Ga., January 19, 1928.
Ry Agony, Kendrick Gray

Dorothy Dix warns young men not to propose by letter. That advice applies to young women too this year.

When times are hard people read newspaper advertisements more carefully than ever. They know how best to save money.

The best way for office holders to avoid criticism is for them to be above criticism.—Times-Union.

Time was when the fool was given the "horse laugh" but Congress remains in session much longer, we will be giving them the "house laugh."

Representative Green made everybody in the house smile the other day when he said that Florida is as "dry as the Sahara." Speaking from the point of prohibition, the great Sahara is not so dry in some places, so Representative Green may have been right after all.

Captain Campbell's speed car, while "tiddling" at about a hundred and seventy miles an hour at Daytona Beach the other day hit a little bump in the sand and as said by observers to have jumped over a hundred feet. No damage was done but we suggest that the Englishman call his car the "Grasshopper."

A passenger airplane was tested in Miami the other day with passengers instead of sandbags. One parrot was killed while eight men miraculously escaped death. Accidents can be almost entirely prevented where proper care is exercised. And there's nothing which will retard aviation so much as a few serious accidents with passengers.

Eddie Foy, seventy-one year old actor, who died in harness at Kansas City the other day, was the same Eddie Foy who was here when a Chicago theatre burned in 1903. While the flames shot around him, Foy remained on the stage and urged the people in the audience not to get excited. Even so, hundreds were killed.

The Gambling Parson

Believing that the best way to defeat certain candidates for office is to ignore them, we cannot, nevertheless, refrain from calling attention to the inconsistencies in the platform of Sidney J. Catts depending upon the locality in which he happens to be. Mr. Catts is smarter than Paul Beaconsfield; he knows he can't be elected on a straight out-and-out horse racing plank. So when he is in West Florida he is against racing and when he is on the lower East Coast, he is for racing.

The Miami Post reports on the DeFuniak Springs minister in the following manner:

The DeFuniak County Catts for Governor club gave a dinner at the Ponce de Leon hotel and the former governor was chief guest, and, of course, principal speaker. What ex-Governor Catts said is interesting largely because it was unexpected, emanating from the source it did. He expressed himself as unequivocally in favor of local option, saying: "I believe that every county should have the privilege of forming its own legislation, governing amusements for the tourists."

"If this language left any doubt as to the ex-governor's attitude toward the right of a community to say whether it would or would not have racing what he said further on dissipated this doubt. He referred to himself as a farmer on who cultivates 2,400 acres of land, and offered no apology for breeding racing stock—horses. Some of these horses, raised by him and others raised by his neighbor, a Christian gentleman, brought as much as a thousand dollars each in Louisiana. The implication was that they appeared later on the New Orleans track.

"They didn't turn us out of our church for that," asserted the ex-governor.

Amplifying his remarks, he said he favored a 5 per cent tax on all sporting events for which an admission fee was charged, this tax to be converted into the school fund. Clearly the candidate, who is a minister of the gospel, doesn't regard such money as "tainted."

Can it be that what we have been reading in various state papers to the effect that this year's race for the governorship is between this and that of the candidates is all a mistake? Is it possible, after all, that the contest is between Sidney J. Catts and Paul M. Beaconsfield and the issue, when gotten down to, is not the governorship but which of them can buy the vote of the race track betting advocates?

Mr. Beaconsfield announced himself as a candidate for governor upon a pari-mutuel platform—simply that and nothing more, so far as race track betting is concerned. If what the Miami Post says about him is true it looks that the perennial candidate from DeFuniak Springs has gone him one better—that Sidney J. doesn't care how they go about their race track betting so long as they vote for him and pay a 5 per cent tax, to be converted into the school fund. "May Heaven help our schools and our school children if the foundations of the former are laid upon money derived from race track gambling."

The Price Of Vanity

The futility of being vain, is illustrated by the misfortune which befell a Chicago stenographer when she attempted to have her legs straightened by a "plastic" surgeon. She had heard of Dr. Henry Junius Schireson. She had read of how he had straightened the nose of Fanny Brice, of how he had removed fat from "Peachie" Brown's legs, making them slender and beautiful, of how he had "lifted" Lady Diana Manners' face.

The stenographer had a scar on her left shoulder which annoyed her. Dr. Schireson told her that for eight hundred dollars he not only would remove the scar but would straighten her legs, slightly bowed. She was elated. Perhaps those crooked legs had something to do with her being thirty and yet unmarried. As to who actually did the work, there is much controversy, and that is, for our purposes, beside the point. What happened was this:

"The flesh of the leg was bared to the bone, an electric saw was used to cut wedges from the main leg bone, or tibia, and then the wound was sewed up. The limb was then placed in a cast and then left to straighten itself out as the wedges closed together. When the patient left the operating table her condition was good."

Unfortunately, for some reason or other, things did not go well from that point on. Gangrene developed, and the patient grew sick. She became very weak and it was finally necessary for other surgeons to amputate her legs above the knee in order to save her life. Now she is sorry she did not leave her legs as they were. She believes that bowed legs are better than none at all.

But the Chicago stenographer is not so different from the average human being. "Vanity, vanity, all is vanity." In the wilds of Africa, Zulu negroes cut holes in their noses up which they insert rings to make themselves beautiful. Paris girls "zip" their legs, pulling the hair out by the roots, in order to go stockless more effectively. And some men tattoo their bodies with grotesque figures and gaudy colors, satisfying their own vanity.

OUR TEN GREATEST MEN

SARASOTA TIMES

John Haynes Holmes, pastor of the New York's famous Community Church, undertook the other night to draw up a list of ten greatest Americans.

The surest way to start an argument is to make a list of "the ten greatest," whether it be a list of men, books, plays or races. Mr. Holmes, limiting himself to men who were both after the adoption of the Constitution in 1789, and refusing to consider any who are now living, selected the following names:

Abraham Lincoln, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry David Thoreau, William Lloyd Garrison, Theodore Parker, Robert E. Lee, Walt Whitman, Mark Twain, Charles W. Eliot and Eugene V. Debs.

His list is worth studying, even though all of us probably would like to amend it here and there. The variety of activities represented on it is rather surprising. There are two philosophers, one president, one soldier, one poet, one satirist, one theologian, one educator, two well, perhaps we can lump Debs and Garrison together as "two agitators."

On what basis did you suppose his list was selected? What qualities, if any, did these ten men have in common? To begin with, each of them lacked the great American instinct of conformity. Not one of them ever had succeeded in doing anything great, or in any way that might make him famous. They were all failures.

Undoubtedly you could amend this list. A great many names are left off that could be put in with perfect justice; Roosevelt and Bryan will have many supporters, and so will Daniel Webster and Jefferson Davis, John Hay and Woodrow Wilson. America has had many great men.—Sarasota Times.

A certain young married woman was halted by a traffic officer for crossing a through street without stopping. "I am so sorry I didn't see the sign and I certainly owe you an apology. Would you please forgive me this time?" she said pleadingly. The officer did, and who wouldn't under the circumstances?

West Point Army Officers Appear In Picture At Milane

William Boyd's initial star feature, "Dress Parade," a Pathé-Demille special, which was made at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, under the direction of Donald Crisp, was filmed with the enthusiastic support of the entire official staff at West Point.

On one occasion, when Donald Crisp, the director, sent to a nearby town for a number of extras, who play minor parts in the film, the officers and their wives came to Mr. Crisp's rescue with hearty assurance of support.

Mr. Crisp required some thirty men and women as the background for a few closeups at dress parade. He called one of his assistants and a bus was sent to a nearby town to secure the required number of extras. When the extras arrived on location, they did not meet with Crisp's approval. An officer came to his rescue and in five minutes a dozen or more officers, Colonels, Majors, Captain and Lieutenants, got into their civilian clothes and with the aid of their wives, the trick was done.

During the filming of the dress parade sequences, the acting commandant at West Point and his staff filled the review stand.

Bessie Love plays the leading feminine role opposite William Boyd in "Dress Parade," which will be shown at the Milane Theatre today. Other members of the cast include: Hugh Allan, Louise Naulteau, Clarence Geldert and Maurice Ryan.

W. C. T. U. HAS MEETING
The Women's Christian Temperance Union held its regular meeting Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Otto Schmelz on the West Side, with a very good attendance of members. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Fred Mitchell, the meeting was presided over by Mrs. Cooper. After the business session a program was rendered which was greatly enjoyed. This being the birth month of Frances T. Willard, the scripture lesson was composed of her favorite verses. Several readings and quotations were given from "The Girlhood of Frances F. Willard" read by Mrs. Robert G. Davey. A social half hour was enjoyed during which time sandwiches and coffee were served by the hostesses. Mrs. Schmelz, Mrs. Spaulding and Mrs. Clarke.

Mrs. William Leffler Is Hostess At Bridge

One of the loveliest social affairs of the week was that of Thursday afternoon when Mrs. William Leffler entertained at the second of a series of bridge parties at her home on Magnolia Avenue.

George Washington's birthday and other details. The rooms of the lovely home were abloom with quantities of exquisite deep red snap dragons, baby breath and red sweet peas. These lovely blossoms were arranged in baskets and bowls.

When the card tables had been cleared the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Margaret Thompson, Miss C. Emma Guthrie, Mrs. W. E. Bayne and Mrs. Braxton L. Perkin, served continental food, salad, seltzers, cheese balls, hot bread, coffee, strawberry pie, and angel food cake.

Red, orange and blue, the national colors, were effectively carried out in every detail. Friday afternoon when Mrs. M. Mironak entertained the members of the Edgewater Bridge club most delightfully at her home on Laurel Avenue. Tables in the forms of shields and done with lachets and cherries were used in keeping score for the exceptionally interesting games of bridge. After the usual number of rounds had been played, the prize for top score, a framed picture was won by Mrs. George McElroy.

On the tables were unique nut cups in the form of Martha Washington which held a dried nut, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Clifford Walker and Mrs. Beecher, served red apple salad, cheese sandwiches, George Washington Pie and ginger ale.

MRS. WITMER ENTERTAINS
Mrs. George S. Witmer was hostess Wednesday afternoon when she entertained the members of the Edgewater Bridge club at her home in Loch Arbor. Sweet peas and ferns were lavishly used in decorating the room where the card tables had been arranged for play. When all the boards had been played, scores were added and it was found that highest scores were made by Mrs. J. Thigpen and Mrs. William Moore Scott. Refreshments of dainty sandwiches and tea were served by the hostess late in the afternoon. Enjoying the games of duplicate were Mrs. Robert J. Duffly Sr., Mrs. G. Irving Loucks, Mrs. Roy Symes and guest Mrs. Miltner of Mich. Mrs. T. L. Dumas, Mrs. William Moore Scott, Mrs. W. Theodore Langley and Mrs. W. J. Thigpen.

SANS SOUCI CLUB
On Thursday afternoon the members of the Sans Souci Bridge club were most delightfully entertained as the guests of Mrs. James L. Wells at her home on Oak Avenue. Myriads of red pearls, bowls of red sweet peas and ferns adorned the table where the games of progressive bridge were kept on tables in the forms of Valentines. At the conclusion of the games, the hostess served moulded tuna fish salad, potato chips, seltzers, heart shaped cakes and coffee. The bridge players were Mrs. Clyde Hyrd, Mrs. Raymond G. Fox, Miss Kitty Dulace, Mrs. Edna McCall, Mrs. Alfred W. Hyrd Jr., Mrs. Edmund Meisch, Mrs. John W. Sneed, Mrs. J. D. Woodruff, Mrs. C. M. Boyd, Mrs. C. E. Meyers, Mrs. James L. Pittman, Mrs. Charles Powell Jr., and Mrs. Rutherford Douglas.

The many friends of Mrs. J. E. Terwilliger will regret to learn that she is quite ill at her home on Oak Avenue. Mrs. T. M. Curran and Mrs. George Lee of Towanda, Pa., are the guests of Mrs. Frank J. Gonzalez at her home on Palmetto Avenue. PALMETTO-2 modern residences being constructed on West Bay Street.

FASHION HINTS

PARIS, Feb. 18.—(INS)—The evening wrap must be just as handsome as the gowns these days when very few women check their outer wraps. In Paris, where one can never be certain of the weather, there is real method in their madness. Then too, evening ensembles call for a wrap matching the frock and even completing it in charming fashion.

Velvet seems to be the favorite material for the evening cloak at the present moment, although lame and other broaded silks are still much used. Velvet is also used for lining even when the outside is of the same material. Paul Poirot makes his evening wraps almost Oriental in their splendor. One comes from light red at the neck through various tones of gray and black at the hem, and is elaborately embroidered in different colors with here and there bits of mother-of-pearl and tiny and long silk tassels hanging from white ostrich hair sparkling clusters of rhinestones and lined with soft, cadet-blue velvet.

Still another is of crimson lined with silver lame. It is cut with a well-fitted back and long pointed, angel sleeves, shirred along the inside and lined with lace. A jade-green velvet has loops of crystal beads hanging from the back of the sleeves, lined with black velvet and has a black fur collar. Bechoff is making an original circular cape for evening wear in black velvet with fine vertical tuckings, extending from the waist down to the hem.

With the flapper out of date, the immature girl is no longer the glass of fashion which billowings should follow. The woman of the new epoch is dignified, and "raees," as the French call good breeding, the product of a sheltered environment and her clothes show it.

and well below the waistline when they end in a V-shape with gold sequins. The collar and cuffs are of the back of the neck. The long-lined line will be the for the summer of 1928. The smart woman of today will have poise and elegance with beautiful long lines which downward in a tuffe, straight movement, like those of a penguin, no longer. The new figure is something more than the scholastic of fatlike lines. Summer frocks now tend to be of the feminine beauty. There is a feeling of the body in them, a feeling registered in every place and of the dress materials. But this does not mean that the lines of the body must be followed slavishly. A real artist interprets the lines of nature, rather than copies them. The woman of the coming season is the symbol of the new epoch. CATHOLICS HOLD SACRED RITE FOR DIOCESE BISHOP

Beautiful And Solemn Ceremony Is Performed Before Congregation Which Taxes Cathedral To Its Capacity

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 18.—One of the most beautiful, solemn, interesting and sacred ceremonies in the Roman Catholic religion was performed here today before a congregation that taxed the capacity of St. John's cathedral, when Msgr. T. C. O'Reilly was consecrated as Bishop of the diocese of Scranton, Pa.

Many prominent Catholic dignitaries attended the consecration and the importance and responsibility of this high Catholic church position was indicated when Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia, assisted by Archbishop M. J. Curley of Baltimore and Bishop Joseph Schrembs of this diocese raised Msgr. O'Reilly to the episcopal rank a position which is the last stepping stone to become a Prince of the Church—a cardinal. Dressed in their colorful robes of offices the officiating clergy held the thousands in the cathedral spellbound with the impressiveness of the ceremony, with its symbolic and beautiful ritual.

Papal Announcement
The ceremony opened with the reading of the papal announcement that Msgr. O'Reilly was eligible to the episcopacy and was followed by the bishop-elect solemnly making his oath of obedience to the pope in spiritual matters.
Then, in this lengthy, age-old and sacred ceremony, Cardinal Dougherty, chief consecrator and the candidate to the bishopric said mass simultaneously, which was symbolic of their united faith. However, mass was interrupted while the presiding prelate instructed the bishop-to-be in his new duties.

Following mass the principal and most important part of the ceremony was performed with the conferring of the episcopal power upon Msgr. O'Reilly the first pastor of Cleveland to be raised to this high position.

This began with the consecration and his two assistants performing the ceremony of "the imposition of the hands" set forth in the Acts of the Apostles, which states that St. Peter and St. Paul and other apostles raised several of their worthy followers to the authority of bishop by placing their hands on the heads of the candidates.

Cardinal Officials
Intoning in Latin "Receive the Holy Ghost," Cardinal Dougherty together with Archbishop Curley and Bishop Schrembs touched the head of the bishop-designate with their hands, and Msgr. O'Reilly was anointed with oil. "As Moses anointed Aaron the high priest,"
All the marks of the dignity of the high office of bishop, the ring, the pastoral staff, the mitre and gloves were blessed.

The ceremony over, the new bishop, escorted by his consecrators walked through the aisles of the cathedral blessing the immense congregation while the "Te Deum" was sung.
The newly ordained Bishop of the Scranton, Pa. diocese will leave for his new duties the early part of March.

Ex-Slave Singer To Give Concert Here

Raleigh Abouz Scott, a former Tennessee slave, who claims to be the last of the ex-slave jubilee singers of the South, will appear at Trinity Methodist Church, Sanford Avenue and Seventh Street, on Monday and Tuesday nights at 7:45 o'clock, according to an announcement today.
Scott, who is completing his fifty-fourth year, is making his farewell tour, will sing old plantation songs, tell humorous southern stories and give renditions of his own composition.
A special section of the church will be reserved for the white people who are cordially invited to hear the wandering singer.

MENU for the FAMILY

PARIS, Feb. 17. (INS)—"Romanian K" is a popular meat dish in France.
Mixed pork and veal are mixed together with a few bread crumbs and the mixture is then seasoned slender for one hour. Serve with eggs.
Form portions of the mixture into shapes as for Hamburg steaks. Fry in hot fat and then serve with fried onions, tomato sauce and garnished tufts of fresh tarragon.
For a change, try "Eggs and Onions." Boil four eggs hard and cut into quarters like orange.
Dice them in star-shape in a baking dish which may be presented at the table and decorated with very fine slices of new carrot. Pour over a thick white sauce mixed with a pure of onions. Spread over the top two spoonful of thick cream and brown in the oven for a moment.

BRITISH-NORWAY RIVAL CLAIMS TO TINY ISLANDS

FUSS CAUSED BY DEVELOPING AMUSING DIFFERENCE BETWEEN TWO COUNTRIES

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Out of rival claims to two small islands in the South Atlantic Ocean, 1750 miles from the southernmost point of South Africa, is developing a difference between Great Britain and Norway which is being watched with amused interest by the rest of Europe.
Not only is the sovereignty of the islands in doubt, but the situation is complicated by the fact that one may be non-existent, miners for twenty centuries past having been sharply divided regarding its position.

Bouvet and Thompson, the islands in dispute, are allegedly situated on the fifty-fourth parallel of south latitude, and the controversy has been brought about by the British Government officially leasing them to a Norwegian Company for exploitation and as a whaling station.
This was up the Norwegian Government, which promptly informed the British that Bouvet is Norwegian, the Norwegian flag having been hoisted there on December 1 last by Norwegian explorers, and that it was unaware of the existence of Thompson Island.

Norway Wakes Up
Making investigation, the British Government soon discovered that Bouvet and Thompson were two islands, British charts show there are three islands there; Norwegian sailors declare there is only one, Thompson apparently being Bouvet out of position; old maps show four islands; while such an authority as the famous English explorer Captain Cook declared centuries ago that there were none.
As far as is known, a certain French officer returned from the South Seas in 1739 and stated that he had discovered land surrounded by water somewhere in the neighborhood of 45 South by 50 East. He decided this was not the mainland of Australia, which he was seeking, and so decided to call it Bouvet Island, after him.
Subsequently Captain Cook searched the locality but failed to find the island, and reached the conclusion that Bouvet had only been an iceberg.
On Old Charts
It was not until 1808 that the island again came into prominence, when Capt. Lindsay of the whaler "Swain" discovered an island which he named Lindsay Island in these waters, and it was entered on the charts accordingly. In 1825 Captain Scoresby located two islands, one he called Liverpool, and the other Thompson.
After that the islands were forgotten for nearly sixty years, but all attention was rekindled a British possession.
The British Government is taking the attitude that it granted the islands in good faith to the Norwegian firm, but admits that the existence of Thompson may be "doubtful." And yet the Rasmussen Company of Oslo has agreed to pay royalties on salmon collected there and on oil from whales fished from its waters.

London Cathedral Undergoes Repairs To Insure Safety
By International News Service
LONDON, Jan. 26. (S. P. A.)—Cathedral, threatened several months ago by ravages of time, is now out of danger.
The work of repairing was started immediately after the war, and it is stated that the cathedral was a "dangerous structure," and so efficiently and rapidly has it been carried out that much more has been accomplished than had been hoped for.
There remains however, a good deal more to be done. The most important part of the work of restoration was the strengthening of the crypt. This is now finished. The pillar once thought to be solid stone, were found to be mere shells, and these crumbled. They have now been filled with concrete. The bases of the pillars, which were embedded in the floor of the crypt, have been strengthened with steel rods and cement.

BEAR RESIDES IN JAIL
MILAN, Tenn., Feb. 18.—(INS)—The big black bear which was presented to the Milan zoo by the city of Denver, Col., has arrived here but on account of her new home not yet completed she has been residing in a cell in the city jail.
Recently two negroes were arrested and placed in a cell adjoining "Miss Denver" and the two negroes took turns watching the door which separated their apartments.
Meanwhile, preparations are being made to transfer "Miss Denver" to her new home.

Screen Vampires Of Today Are Smaller And Slimmer, Survey Of Experts Reveals

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(INS)—Screen vamps of today are smaller and slimmer than they used to be.

Anthropologists on the subject cite the fact that Clara Bow, the girl who is supposed to have "it," is five feet two inches in height, and that Madge Bellamy is only five feet one inch tall. Olive Borden is five feet four.
Years ago the public taste was different. Theda Bara, the original vamp, was five feet nine inches tall when she drew herself up to full height and told "the fool there was" a thing or two. Kitty Gordon was a tall girl, too.
Of course, the stately type of movie vamp hasn't entirely disappeared. Nia Kabi has returned to the screen burning up more men with a glowing glance. Carmel Myers attains a fair height, too.
But by way of contrast there's the newer Louise Brooks, whose five feet one inch of coquetry causes many a masculine observer to breathe hard. Greta Garbo is of medium height, Sally Phipps registers at five feet two and Vilma Banky is limited in size but seems to be unlimited in romantic possibilities.
Girls who do not play vamp parts but who are tremendous hits include the slim and bewitching Miriam Davies and the cute and tiny Mary Pickford.
Close motion picture observers say that the average height of the she-sheiks on the screen today is five feet three and the average weight is 120 pounds. The day of the Amazon type has disappeared. They don't "register" any more.
And, incidentally, brunettes still greatly predominate as of yore among the vamps but red heads are crowing for room.

Oakland Company Will Build 25,000 Cars During The Month Of February

PONTIAC, Mich., Feb. 18.—The Oakland Motor Car Company will build 25,000 Oakland and Pontiac cars during the month of February. A new high record.
This announcement coming from W. R. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales, steps up the previously announced record of 22,000 cars made during January by nearly 3,000 cars and will be an advance of more than 5,000 cars over the January record of 19,771 cars.
"The building of 25,000 cars this month, a record for Oakland-Pontiac production, will be made possible by the opening of the third Pontiac assembly line," Mr. Tracy stated.
"When we announced 22,000 as our production schedule for February, this figure was not based on possible sales but on actual orders. So when the orders continued to pour in, it became evident early this week that the additional demand could be met only by increasing our production to 25,000."
"I may say," Mr. Tracy continued, "that this schedule increase is made possible by the ability of our production department to expand its facilities, principally through hastening completion of the third Pontiac assembly line, now under construction. This line, which will afford an increase of 20 per cent over our present Pontiac production capacity, will be ready for operation by the middle of February."
"There are 23 working days in February with a total of 207 working hours—a 12,120 working minutes. In order to manufacture 25,000 Oakland and Pontiac Sixes during this month, it will be necessary to produce one car every 28 seconds for the Oakland Motor Car Co. plant."

Italian Prince May Wed Marie-Jose Of Belgium In Spring

BRUSSELS, Feb. 18.—(INS)—The ghost of Napoleon I will undoubtedly return to place his seal upon the union of the royal Prince of Italy with the young Princess Marie-Jose of Belgium, if the much-talked-of marriage is consummated next spring.

Princess Clementine, daughter of old King Leopold II, is the aunt of the present King Albert and grand-aunt of his daughter, Princess Marie. She is the widow of Prince Victor, Napoleon, son of Prince Jerome Bonaparte and Princess Clothilde, sister of King Humbert of Italy. Thus, she is also the grand-aunt of the Prince of Italy.
The Prince belongs to the house of Savoie, son of Princess Helene of Montenegro. His grandmother was a Princess of Savoie and his great-grandmother, the wife of Victor Emmanuel I, a Princess of Austria.

The Queen of the Belgians, mother of Marie-Jose, is a Bavarian Duchess of the branch which never occupied the throne. Her grandmother was a Hohenzollern, also of a branch which never reigned. Her great-grandmother was Princess Louise d'Orleans, daughter of King Louis Philippe of France.

Jernigan Wins Honor In Sales Competition

C. S. Jernigan, manager of the Sanford branch of the National Biscuit Company, today received word from the national headquarters of the company that he has been awarded sixth prize in a district contest based on improvement in operating costs and management of agencies.
Jernigan was one of the most important factors in the award that was given Mr. Jernigan, who competed with thirteen other sales agents representing the southeastern area. The results were tabulated in the N. W. York office, which notified the local man of his success.

LAKE CITY. Gain of $32,500 over 1926 total for building permit is expected during 1927.

Catering To Metropolitan Appetite

A BIG New York City hotel which caters to an average of 25,000 appetites a month from all parts of the world, finds that pleasing the popular palate isn't in the nature of a soft job. Women, especially, according to the chief steward, are inclined to want what they want when they want it.
"For example," says the chief steward, "the food with foreign names mean one thing to one person and an entirely different thing to another. Suppose one of our prominent guests sees a broiled fowl on the menu. He might be referring to the national headquarters of the company that he has been awarded sixth prize in a district contest based on improvement in operating costs and management of agencies."

Divorces Decrease In Paris As Courts Have Nothing To Do

PARIS, Feb. 18.—(INS)—Divorce was granted only on the day of the week and the Paris courts are beginning to do nothing for the first time since 1926. The number of divorces granted in 1927 was 14,384. The proportion which was 70 per cent in 1926, has decreased to 50 per cent in 1927.
A number of reasons are given for this downward tendency among them the high cost of law suits. Divorce in France, today costs anything from $100 to $600, without counting the added expense of alimony afterward. Many unhappy couples prefer to make the best of matters rather than meet this expense.
Others prefer to put up with a bad patch rather than disclose certain family secrets to the public.
For a number of years the number of divorces has been decreasing.
