Sanford Will Miss Uncle Tom

Going Home From 'Home' By Kathy Tyrity Herald Staff Writer

Ninety-year-old "Uncle Tom" Vernon has to say goodbye today to the once-tiny town of Sanford that he has watched grow and change for 67 years. He's going "home" to Georgia to stay with his sister, since he can't manage for himself anymore.

But after 67 years, the question is: Where is home, really?

Up above a department store in downtown Sanford on East First Street, Uncle Tom has lived for many, many years. He recalls with sharp acuity and fond words the old medicine shows and carnivals that used to be staged across the street from Manuel Jacobson's Dept. Store (where he has his apartment). But the thing he will miss most about Sanford is "just sittin' outside on the

Many of those friends who see him day day out on that bench know him as "Uncle Tom," such as his good companion and neighbor Tom Russ, who brought the story to the Evening Herald.

"It's just sad to see my old friend go," said Russ, "because I know he loved the town, and he'll never see it again."

And Uncle Tom doesn't really want to go.

"This is my home." he says with blue eyes still alert and shining. "It was a good place to live. And it was a good place to work - I won't forget none of you. But I'll go back." his soft voice trails off... "Please remember me."

Because he fell Sunday night and couldn't get up all night, his sister Mrs. Vicky Donnelly came to take him back home with her - to Hartwell. Georgia. It's his hometown, but he says it's not his home. The lifelong bachelor doesn't have much to call his own, but he can certainly call a lifetime of memories all his own. And he can call Sanford his own hometown.

Testimony from tenants and private comments the chairman of Sanford's code enforcement board had with counsel before casting a tie breaking vote marked the board's latest deliberation of city code violations charged against the owner of Sanford's Florida Hotel.

The board on Tuesday gave Peggy Nestor until Oct. 15 to correct two city code violations cited against the 500 Oak Ave. hotel or she will be fined $250 a day for every day the compliance deadline is exceeded.

The board also found Mrs. Nestor had corrected two other violations that had been cited against her.

Sunshine Law Violations Probed In Yankee Lake Purchase

Grand Jury To Investigate County

and Karen Talley

A Seminole-Brevard circuit judge has agreed to provide special counsel for a grand jury investigation of Seminole County's purchase of the 2.900 acre Yankee Lake parcel.

The grand jury will investigate whether the county, which bought the site for a regional sewer plant, violated any of the state's Government in the Sunshine laws during its purchase and the negotiations that led up to it.

County Commissioner Barbara Christensen. who voted against the measure, said she had not heard of the grand jury activity and was #### surprised.

She said she voted against the purchase because it wasn't handled as other purchases.

"I think it was a rush purchase. I don't know why we jumped into it that fast. It wasn't typical of purchases of the county.

"I didn't think it was a good idea and do that to Sanford. I thought if we were going to purchase, we should have worked together." she said.

The city of Sanford sought Yankee Lake for its wastewater disposal program, and the county's purchase on Nov. 6 resulted in a suit between the two governments. Sanford filed for condemnation in an effort to acquire the land two days after the county agreed to purchase it from Jeno Paulucci. whose Heathrow development would benefit from the county's regional plant.

The city lost its condemnation suit on a technicality in April.

NATION IN BRIEF Daniloff Feels 'Vindicated'; Zakharov Homeward Bound

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Almost two days after being released from detention in Moscow as an accused spy, American journalist Nicholas Daniloff stood before a crush of television cameras as a free and grateful U.S. citizen.

"I feel terrific. I feel I have been vindicated," Daniloff said Tuesday upon returning to his own country from the monthlong ordeal that he and the Reagan administration said involved trumped-up espionage charges.

At an airport news conference, the fit-looking reporter thanked President Reagan for finding a diplomatic solution to his plight and declared, "What a wonderful nation it is that will go all out for a single individual."

Tuesday, however, members of two families hostages. held in Lebanon expressed bitterness that the administration was not putting the same effort into securing the release of the mideast captives as it did for Daniloff.

Daniloff, 51, a correspondent for U.S. News & World Report magazine, planned to meet with Reagan at the White House today.

Meanwhile, accused Soviet spy Gennadi Zakharov, saying he loves America and "would like to come back again." headed home as part of the deal cut to bring Daniloff back to the United States.

Zakharov pleaded no contest to esplonage charges in federal court in New York Tuesday and was given a five-year suspended sentence on condition he leave the country in 24 hours. The Soviet U.N. employee, 39, could have faced life in prison if he was convicted of the charges.

Senate: Reagan Can't Save Veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan is hoping new diplomacy both in Pretoria and on Capitol Hill can avert a major foreign policy loss, but Senate leaders say their determination to express "moral leadership" will overturn his veto of new economic sanctions against South Africa.

With his bid to kill the sanctions bill crushed in the House, Reagan named a new black ambassador to South Africa Tuesday and sent Secretary of State George Shultz to Capitol Hill in order to get key senators to support him. Sen. Richard Lugar. R-Ind., the Foreign Relations Committee chairman who usually backs Reagan, has led the pro-sanctions effort in the GOP-led Senate and predicted defeat for the veto with debate scheduled to begin by Thursday.

Shuttle Crew Joked About Cold Before Launch

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The shuttle Challenger crew joked about the second-cold launch-day temperature with one saying. "Gunga Din doesn't know how to operate in cold weather," in taped conversations from the cockpit.

The cold weather that later would be blamed for playing a role in the rocket booster failure that led to Challenger's explosion, the worst space disaster in history, was a frequent topic in pre-launch conversations, according to a transcript released by NASA Tuesday.

Seated on the upper flight deck of the split-level crew cabin were commander Francis "Dick" Scobee, co-pilot Michael Smith, Judith Resnik and Ellison Onizuka. Below on the middeck were Ronald McNair, satellite engineer Gregory Jarvis and New Hampshire high school teacher Christa McAuliffe.

Poignantly, the transcript released Tuesday ended at T-minus two minutes, with Scobee telling his expectant crew, "Welcome to space, guys."

Transcripts of intercom recordings made from two minutes before launch until the shuttle's destruction were released earlier.

McAuliffe, the first ordinary citizen to win a flight on a shuttle, had little to say during her brief time aboard Challenger. Other than responding to early communications checks with launch engineers, she was silent except for one brief comment about the cold.

At one point. Scobee joked about ice skating on the shuttle's mobile launch stand.

Later, after a delay in the countdown was announced to give ice on the pad time to melt. Onizuka sparked laughter when he said: "Gunga Din doesn't know how to operate in cold weather."

Earlier, Onizuka had said, "Kind of cool this morning." and later, "My nose is freezing." The astronauts had minor problems at points when their heimet face plates fogged over.

Resting on their backs. the astronauts loked about being uncomfortable, especially in the area of their buttocks and lower back. prompting a series of ribald jokes.

Challenger was destroyed just 73 seconds after blastoff when a rupture in its right-side solid-fuel rocket booster triggered the explosion of the shuttle's external fuel tank.

It was a record 36 degrees when Challenger took off at 11:38 a.m., and experts believe the cold weather played a role in the failure of rubber O-ring scals in a joint between two fuel segments in the booster that ruptured.

NASA carlier released intercom recordings from the cockpit that started two minutes before blastoff and continued to 73 seconds into the flight when the vehicle started breaking up.

According to those transcripts, the last words from the crew came from Smith, who said "Uh oh."

United Press International Floodwaters swamped the Midwest today, forcing more than 2,300 people out of their homes, pushing a dam near the breaking point in Wisconsin and sending the Mississippi so high that river traffic will be halted during harvest season.

Fri.

Illinois was among the worst hit states with four deaths and $30 million in damage blamed on the floods. Three counties were declared disaster areas.

"This could be the worst flood disaster in the history of Illinois, as far as damages go." said Greg Durham, assistant to the director of Illinois Emergency Services and Disaster Agency.

Flooding also was reported in Montana, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

One death was reported in Montana flooding, described as the worst in more than 30 vears.

Storms in the nation's midsection, which have soaked areas of Michigan and Missouri with record September rain. poured more than 10 inches on Oklahoma Tuesday, according to the National Weather Service.

In south-central Wisconsin today, the 20-foot dam on Lawrence Lake eroded for a second day after officials gave the order Tuesday for up to 300 residents of Westfield - about 2 1/3 miles downstream - to leave the area.

Officials from the Department of Natural Resources informed local enforcement authorities the dam would collapse. Officials earlier had opened flood gates, allowing the lake to go down an inch an hour in an attempt to prevent the dam from bursting and releasing a 10-foot wall of water.

"Emergency crews are at the scene, monitoring the dam very closely," a sheriff's dispatcher in Marquette County said carly today. "We are told the thing will fail. We just don't know when."

Flood waters pouring into the Mississippi were expected to swell the river to the highest autumn levels in 115 years along a stretch that forms the border between Iowa and Illinois, prompting a two-week interruption of barge and other river traffic beginning Thursday, officials said.

The Army Corps of Engineers said it would close five locks because the river could rise 4 feet above flood stage. threatening electrical equipment at Dubuque, Bellevue and Muscatine, Iowa, and Fulton and New Boston, Ill. The suspension of traffic will come during a grain harvest and shipping season.

Rain was forecast today in the Plains and the Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

In Illinois, rain cased Tuesday, but floodwaters moved south into Chicago's northwest suburbs as a record flood crest rolled down the rain-swollen Des Plaines River in Lake County.

At least 2,150 families have fled the floods in Lake. McHenry and Cook countles, where disaster areas have been declared, officials said. Residents in Kane County also were put on alert as the water level on the Fox River continued to rise.

"We expect more evacuations. This is growing exponentially." said Durham.

"It's slowly spreading." added Police Commander David Nicholson of suburban Mount Prospect in northern Cook County. "It hasn't gotten any deeper. The area affected just increases as it spreads.'

'Safety Net' To Catch Pupils Before They Give Up

By Kathy Tyrity Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County educators are unfurling a safety net designed to save youngsters strugging with elementary school work from becoming drop-outs in a few years.

The net, an all-new curriculum, will minimize frustration and lead students on a successful, happy path to graduation, educators say.

The curriculum is easier than standard educational fare in that it allows students to make use of meet the CALA criteria will be skills they have, rather than educated in the CALA 1 prorequiring pencil-and-paper rigors. The curriculum is called pupils in mind.

"CALA 1" and "CALA 2." And it's not a state or federal plan adapted for Seminole County use. It was developed right here

"This is a step to provide the assistance these children need. We can't guarantee that it's a panacea, but we have at least done something, and I think it will work," said Myrna Walters. one of the program originators and a coordinator/consultant of join. elementary reading and language arts.

"CALA" stands for Curriculum Adjusted for Lower Achievers. Those students who have been retained one year and gram, and those who have been held back twice will go in CALA 2. (A pupil cannot be held back school.)

The CALA curriculum will offer more "hands-on" activities

plans, and more oral, rather than written, communication. It will also offer a number of memorable experiences for the child, such as field trips to job sites where he may one day want to work or to vocational study classes he may one day

Teachers of the CALA students will often being reading aloud as the students follow along.

"If they had to read the material alone, there's no way they will ever make progress," a young age. Mrs. Walters said. "But this way they can do it."

And the students will be "acting out" stories they read in students a forum for communication and development of

'We want these children to have some success. We want the school year to be something besides total frustration for these students. To make a happier child, who feels valued and important."

In math and other subjects. manipulative ability is considered a necessary skill. The CALA. students will use more than twice in grade class. This is one of the key calculators, rulers, overhead elements in that it allows the projectors, timers, coin counters and clocks. Anything that gives these children "hands-on" use helps with understanding.

Some of the places they will visit: the Farmer's Market, a newspaper, a dairy farm, industries, the zoo, a supermarket. a hospital, Sea World, Altamonte Mall, a store franchise, a bakery. a library and a government center.

"The objective of these field trips is to observe the utilization of basic skills in real world situations, particularly as these apply to the world of work," Mrs. Walters said. "At the intermediate level, field trips to the Adult Education/Vocational Division of local instutions, i.e., Seminole Community College and Mid-Florida Tech, will be useful in achieving this objective."

Another aspect of the importance of the field trips and other "hands on" activities is that CALA people feel lowachieving students need to "see and feel" class topics in order to learn about them. "They have to see it before they can talk about it," Mrs. Walters said.

Elementary school teachers are taking in-service training on how to implement the new curriculums. Seminole County's Director of Elementary Education. Ken Bovio. said complete implementation of the CALA programs will take "one to three years." So this year, compara- a happier child, who feels valued tively few students are being and important. Of course, our selected for CALA.

As in any new classroom program, it is the teacher who is going to make it work or not work.

CALA teachers are expected to motivate students and have good expectations of kids," Mrs. Walters said.

"This teacher should make kids want to learn."

The idea is to create new learning avenues for the student who has trouble with the "drill" method, she said.

"We want these children to have some success," she said. "We want the school year to be something besides total frustration for these students. To make goal is to catch these children carly so that they might stay in school and graduate."

Many times, new curriculum programs come from the state level or other districts. But CALA is definitely breaking new ground. And it's all because educators within the system got together (less than a year ago) and decided something had to be done to help the students who were "falling through the cracks."

Soviet Defectors Revel In New-Found Freedom

NEW YORK (UPI) - Forty blocks from the Soviet U.N. mission where the United States and Soviet Union negotiated the release of American reporter Nicholas Daniloff, two Soviet circus actors quietly are reveling in their freedom from Russia.

Yuri Krasnov and Lubov Pisarenkova were on tour with a musical troupe in the Seychelles, an island nation in the Indian Ocean, when they rose before dawn a week ago and went to the U.S. Embassy to seek political asylum.

The couple was dressed in beachwear - they left all their belongings in the hotel.

On Monday, in the spartan Park Avenue South offices of the International Rescue Committee that has taken them in, the married couple spoke of New York.

"I was surprised by the multi-ethnicity of New York, by the freedom on the street - the lack of restraint - and by the variety in New Yorkers' faces," said Krasnov, 26, a tall, lean dark-haired acrobat.

Pisarenkova, 20 years her husband's senior. is small and exuberant and known throughout the Soviet Union for her artistic acrobatics on large and New York's Big Apple Circus, and the two defectors hope to find work soon. "Our bodies are our acts," Pisarenkova said.

"We hope we can do something good for the American public, to show how beautiful the human body can be, how beautiful a man and a woman can be together."

"I thought it would be smaller, more severe, more of an official city," she said of New York.

The couple said they decided to defect because of frustration that "hard work and talent are not the most important things in the Soviet Union."

"After I prepared a whole performance on the creation of the world - Adam and Eve - the bureaucrats came from Moscow and wanted to know where the Marxism was," Pisarenkova said.

On Aug. 4, another husband and wife team of Soviet acrobats fled to the U.S. Embassy in Argentina. They signed on with Circus USA, based in Miami.

Uneasy Rests The Judicial Mantle

William Rehnquist, the man the Senate confirmed as this nation's 16th chief justice of the United States, likely will lead the Supreme Court into the 21st Century.

Whether he will lead wisely and well is, with all due respect, an open question. During confirmation hearings, the Senate raised legitimate doubts about his candor, his record on civil rights and individual liberty and, in the words of Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., his ability to serve as "a symbol of justice for all our people." The 65-to-33 vote, the largest number of negative votes ever cast against the confirmation of a chief justice, indicates that not all those doubts were assuaged.

Obviously, Rehnquist's detractors were motivated to a degree by political and ideological considerations, but that explanation does not wholly account for the concerns about his fitness to serve as chief justice. After all, Antonin Scalia, arguably as conservative as Rehnquist, sailed through the Senate by a vote of 98 to 0.

At issue for Rehnquist were questions of character, though the most basic question had to do with his view of the Constitution. It focused, implicitly, on his notion of those outer boundaries of the constitutional spectrum beyond which a justice cannot go without offending constitutional values.

While those boundaries will always look a bit different, depending on one's point of view, there is a broad range of values on which we all can agree. Whether Rehnquist, the most conservative member of the Supreme Court in his 15 years as associate justice, has exceeded those boundaries is the basic question.

The memo that he wrote as a law clerk to Justice Robert Jackson in 1953 arguing that racial segregation in public schools did not offend the Constitution went beyond acceptable boundaries. At his confirmation hearing in 1971 and again this time, Rehnquist explained to senators that he had written the memo as an analytical exercise, and that it did not represent his views either then or now. As associate justice, however, he has consistently voted against constitutional and statutory protections against discrimination. There's still reason to wonder what he really believes about equal justice under law.

CHUCK STONE Repugnance Of Single-Issue Fanaticism

If the recent "Doonesbury" version of a Rev. Pat Robertson press conference conformed at all to reality, I'd be delighted by the TV evangelist's provisional declaration for president.

As the comic strip revealed, a Robertson command to "heal" immediately cured a reporter's hiccups. Another skeptical journalist was converted into an instant born-again believer and meekly inquired, "Sir, do you do hemorrhoida?"

We laugh. But Robertson suffers from celestial megalomania. He actually believes that his prayers - not yours or mine, but only his - can work the Lord's "mysterious ways, his wonders to perform."

And only Christians will benefit. All others non-Christians, Jews, Muslims, agnostics and atheists - will be consigned to some kind of back-of-the-bus humanity.

Robertson represents single-issue fanaticism at its worst.

Single-issue fanatics don't care what happens to the country or to any other issue as long as their issue prevails.

ROBERT WALTERS Farm Belt Politics Heated

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (NEA) -When Republican Sen. James Abdnor offered his views on how South Dakota's farmers could compete in global markets, Democratic Rep. Thomas Daschle promptly publicized Abdnor's advice.

That appears quite unorthodox. Not only are Abdnor and Daschle members of different political parties who have little in common, but Daschle is seeking to unseat Abdnor in this year's elections.

Daschle's action was carefully calculated to embarrase Abdnor after the senator was asked earlier this year how the state's farmers could recapture lost export markets.

"Maybe we do have to sell below cost for a while, but I think until we regain that market that's the way we're going to have to go," Abdnor replied.

Deschie quickly fashioned a tele-vision commercial that featured his opponent telling farmers to sell their crops at a loss. Abdnor hastily responded with a television ad that accused his opponent of distortion.

wrote - in the person of his Mr. Dooley character - that a fanatic "is a man that does what he think th' Lord wud do if he knew th' facts uv the case.'

Among the more dangerous of these divisive groups who balkanize the electorate are the National Rifle Association and the right-to-lifers. One issue governs their lives. One issue decides their electoral morality.

No matter how productively an elected official represents his or her constituency or how lovingly an elected official serves America, that official is held hostage when he or she collides with the arrogance stemming from the singleissue fanatic's agenda.

In Pennsylvania, single-issue fanaticism has surfaced on both sides of the Senate race.

The Democratic challenger, Rep. Bob Edgar (like Robertson, a minister), has been targeted for defeat by the NRA because he supports gun controls.

Republican incumbent Sen. Arlen Specter has been earmarked for defeat by Democratic Rep. Bill Gray (also a minister) because of one procedural vote on South African sanctions.

Gray, who is chairman of the powerful House Budget Committee, is one of the House's most liberal members and wants to be America's first black vice president.

Gray authored a pamphlet that implied Specter had pro-apartheid sympathies because of Specter's one cloture vote in a sanctions debate. Gray also persuaded the Black Clergy of Philadelphia to oppose Specter on the basis of that one vote.

Never mind that Specter has had a long and distinguished career as an advocate of civil rights. Or that he co-sponsored a South African sanctions bill tougher than Gray's House bill. Or that his vote against promoting anti-civil rights Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds so angered Ronald Reagan that the president tried to induce Gov. Dick Thornburgh to run against Specter in the Republican primary.

Even that record doesn't exempt Specter from potential defeat. He is one of nine vulnerable Republicans whose defeat could overturn the current 53-47 Republican-Democrat lineup in favor of the Democrats.

SCIENCE WORLD Study Disputes Image By Rob Stein

UPI Science Writer BOSTON (UPI) - How many premedical students does it take to screw in a light bulb?

Two.

One to screw it in, the second to stab him in the back.

That's the kind of joke that epitomizes the cutthroat image of the premedical student as someone who is highly competitive and obsessed with grades.

But the image is largely untrue, according to a Brandeis University sociologist who conducted a study on the issue.

"The existence of cutthroats is really a myth," said Peter Conrad, an associate professor of sociology who headed a research team that interviewed 30 Brandels premed students about the image.

"There were very few reported firsthand experiences with cutthroat behavior - one or two cases of missing library materials. Very few actually experienced many actions they or we might call cutthroat," said Conrad. Premedical students actually often cooperate, he said. "We found a lot of cooperation among premedical students, which you wouldn't expect in a 'cutthroat environment," said Conrad. The myth, however, is widely accepted and perpetuated by premedical students themselves, he said. "It is believed that cutthroats steal needed books from the library. sabotage laboratory experiments and take lab reports from mailboxes," said Conrad. "Since they are so grade-hungry. it is assumed they will cheat if neccessary. As one student said, 'These are people who don't cooper-ate. They're really intensely competitive and want everything for themselves," he said. "The cultural reality of cutthroats is deeply embedded in the premedical subculture and probably in the larger student population." he said.

(The areas included such moral issues as birth control and homosexuality.) These moves have been countered, in the Times and other liberal watering holes, with the contention that polls of American Catholics indicate that a large majority of them are closer to the views of Archbishop Hunthausen and Rev. Curran than to those of John Paul and his Vatican advisers. At first glance, it is a beguiling argument. Democracy is a highly popular concept in our society, and the news that a majority favors or opposes some particular policy carries considerable weight. On the other hand, the Times would surely be among the first to agree that majorities ought not to prevail in all cases. What if (as is quite possible) a majority of Arkansas voters would like to see creationism taught in the state's public schools as an alternative to the theory of evolution? Would the Times tamely acquiesce?

During his bruising confirmation hearing Rehnquist insisted on whether he has "fairly construed the Constitution." That's how we intend to evaluate his tenure as chief justice.

We hope he leads wisely and fairly. There is no question that he is intellectually able, but we also hope he leads with a mind that is open - In the words of Justice Brandels -"to the lessons of experience and the force of better reasoning, recognizing that the process of trial and error, so fruitful in the physical sciences, is appropriate also in the judicial function."

"We're in a hurry. Where are the best leaves around here?"

That episode illustrates the importance of agricultural induce in Midwest politics al farmers face the most severe financial crisis in a half-century and both parties vie for control of the Senate.

Farm issues could play a pivotal role in contests for Senate seats in North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Missouri and elsewhere.

Reagan's personal popularity remains very high throughout the Midwest, but widespread hostility toward his agricultural policy has led some Republicans to fear they will be defeated by farmers accking political scapegoats.

"The heart and soul of South Dakota is agriculture, small farmers are dying - and Abdnor says the best he can do is support the Reagan farm policy," says Daschle's campaign manager, seeking to capitalize upon that uncasiness.

Abdnor's campaign manager insists that agriculture is not an important issue in the campaign and boasts that a recent poll commissioned by the senator showed that the president's overall support level in the state stood at 68 percent.

But when asked what the poll revealed about support for Reagan's agricultural policies, he flashes a grim smile and replies tersely: "considerably less."

JACK ANDERSON

American Roman Catholic hierar-chy. On the other hand, the Roman Catholic Church is too important an institution in this world to be diaregarded altogether by people who happen not to be members of it. Besides, the current controversy illuminates certain corners of political and religious philosophy not exclusively relevant to Roman Catholicism.

It seems quite clear that Pope John Paul II and his Vatican advisers have decided to rein in some of the American bishops and Catholic theologians who have been taking positions on moral questions at variance with the current teachings of the church. Since the proscribed positions are broadly of the "liberal" sort (tending to favor the ordination of women, contraception, a greater degree of sexual permissiveness, etc.), this has brought Rome into collision with major engines of liberal opi-nion in the United States, such as The New York Times.

Although the Vatican's notification to the Rev. Charles Curran in mid-August, that it considered him neither "suitable nor eligible" to continue teaching theology at Catholic University in Washington, D.C., has attracted perhaps the most attention, it is by no means Rome's only move in the direction of curbing dissent, nor even the most striking.

As the late Bishop Fulton Sheen once put it, "right is right when nobody is right, and wrong is wrong when everybody is wrong."

The belief that cutthroats exist stems partly from the competition premedicalstudents face.

"Nationally, there are roughly twice as many students who want to become doctors as there are medical school spaces," said Conrad. "Stu-dents know that if they do not earn good grades, especially in their science courses, they will have very little chance of gaining admission to medical school."

Mexican Leader Kidnaps Relatives

By Jack Anderson And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON - One of the worrisome things about the Mexican regime is the arrogance and contempt for the law shown by too many top officials, the natural result of more than half a century of one-party domination. Elections are stolen, the treasury is looted and Mexicans who are courageous enough to expose the rampant corruption do so at the risk of harassment, financial ruin or worse. Now there is convincing evidence that the Mexican minister of the Interior, Manuel Bartlett Dias, who could become president in two years, used the power of his high office to arrange the illegal kidnapping of his niece and nephew from a religious commune in Venezuela three years ago. He then bullied the weekly news magazine Proceso into killing the children's story by sending police to threaten the editors.

The magazine's publisher, Julio Scherer Garcia, has finally revealed the long-suppressed story in a recently published book. It includes the full text of the original story by news editor Enrique Maza; we have verified the account from affidavits and government sources in Mexico City. Here is how the man who would be Mexico's next president abused his power, first to oblige his in-laws and then to cover up his own misdeeds:

In San Diego de los Altos. Venezuela, a religious community was organized about a decade ago that attracted "pilgrims" from throughout Latin America, including a Mexican couple named Carter and their five children. The wife is the sister of Interior Minister Bartlett.

The Carter family settled in the Venezuelan community in November 1962, but in the summer of 1963 the parents returned to Mexico for a visit and had a change of heart. The father flew back to Venezuela to collect his belongings and the three youngest Carter children. Maria Teresa, 19; Juan, 17, and Jose Antonio, 15. The two older children, Santiago and German, were both married and legally could make their own decisions. So could Maria Teresa, the 19-year-old, under Mexican law.

Maria Teresa and Juan begged to be allowed to stay in the commune. and Carter agreed to let them, with their adult brother Santiago keeping an eye on them. Jose Antonio, the 15-year-old, returned to Mexico with his father.

But the parents soon decided they wanted the two other teenage children with them as well. They enlisted the help of the powerful Bartlett.

On the night of Nov. 1, 1983. Venezuelan federal and local police officers scaled the wall of the religious community and broke into the home where the two Carter children were staying. They took them away at gunpoint, confiscating their passports.

Within a week, the teenagers were flown home in a state-owned Aeromexico jet that had been diapatched to Caracas expressly to fetch them. They were the only passengers: a Mexican embassy official assisted in their deportation. In Mexico City, their parents - and Bartlett - were waiting on the tarmac and whisked then home. where two dozen armed guards were posted.

But on Nov. 21, Maria Teresa escaped and took her story to Proceso. In a sworn statement, she denounced her uncle's "abuse of power." On Nov. 23, Juan also escaped, and signed a similar affidavit. Their two older brothers. Santiago and German, denounced the abduction in a Venezuelan пежерарег.

But not a word of the story appeared in Mexico, Bartlett learned from his sister that Proceso was about to print the embarrassing story. He sent high-ranking police officials to the magazine's office to ask that the story be withheld as a favor to Bartlett. When that didn't work, Bartlett's minions threatened the editors with all the power of the police.

Aware that others who exposed official wrongdoing have been jailed or even murdered, Proceso's publisher decided the story wasn't worth the risk. So it was spiked until now.

Teleconference Message: Get Students On 'Tech-Track'

By Kathy Tyrity Herald Staff Writer

Two-year associate degrees will be the thing of the future and high schools need to get students on the "tech-track" for careers of the 1990s.

That was the message of a nationally-televised teleconference participated in by more than 250 community colleges. including Seminole Community College. Seventy-five local educators watched the expert panelists on TV monitors and then got a chance to call in "live" with questions and comments.

It, was an eye-opening talk about the reality of the future work-world. The focus seemed to be on the ideas of Dale Parnell, author of "The Neglected Majority"; and the man voted the leading American educator. Dr. Ernest Boyer, president of the Carnegic Foundation.

What Parnell was talking about in his book was the vast majority of high school students who will not be going on to universities but who need training for jobs. He said high schools must work closely with community colleges in the future to develop joint programs to guide these "average" students.

"The greatest barrier to the economic health of this country will be the unskilled worker." said Parnell. "We need to prevent this human waste. And we need to tell students in high school what they will need to succeed."

He mentioned many two-year-degree jobs that 1990s graduates will be going into: geriatric social work; police of-ficer; laser technician, field service engineer, microwave technician and others.

So important was the community-college concept that President Reagan opened the teleconference with a message, saying, "One-half of all under-enrolled in some 1,300 commu- about technical careers, innity colleges. And technology is increasing the need for this role."

Indeed, technology will increase the need for associatedegreed workers. But the question is: Will there be enough skilled workers to take those jobs? Secretary of Labor William Brock said perhaps not.

"Society is at risk unless we change very dramatically. We have the fastest changing economy in the history of the world," Brock said. There is a risk, but it is an opportunity and a challenge as well. "The next 7 - 9 years holds a window of opportunity that is just spectacular," Brock continued. 'Yes. The jobs will be there. But will we have qualified workers?"

He said the types of jobs available will change altogether. and there will be precious little for the unskilled laborer. "Unless our students get the right training for these technical jobs, we are in danger of creating another class-society: the unemployable class."

To point out how many students fall into "the great majority" (that is the category most wanted for community college) it was noted that more than 80 percent of high school graduates will never graduate from a four-year college. "General education" students, who are prepared neither for work nor college, comprise half the high school population. And perhaps most notably, two out of three of all high school drop-outs come from this "general education" group.

Fortunately for the vast majority, most jobs of the 1990s won't require a baccalaureate. But they will require post-highschool training such as community or technical college. In fact, Boyer said 70 percent of the high school graduates will need some further training.

All this means to local educagraduates in this country are tors that they need to learn more Washington, D.C.

tensify guidance efforts, link up with the community college and expand such programs as the "Dual Enrollment Program." In this program, some 300 Seminole County students take community college courses along with their high school studies.

One of the suggestions given by the TV panelists was a "Tech Prep Associate Degree Program." This would coordinate curriculum in what they are calling "grades" 11, 12, 13 and 14.

Another suggestion was that students consider "service-related" areas of endeavor. because the majority of jobs will be in that field. Brock predicted 1990s workers will be "trained and retrained" and change jobs five or six times

The problem of how to employ tomorrow's workers is complicated by the fact that so many students never get to the point of choosing post-graduate training. Teachers and principals are trying to cope with the fact that 27 percent - 11 million - of the high school graduates drop out. Labor Secretary Brock said that 20 percent of the high school graduates entering the armed services can't read at a ninthgrade level. And there are 23 million functional illiterates in the United States.

So, it's a massive undertaking to meet the academic challenges of the 1990s. But, evidenced by the many dedicated educators who took a hard look at the problem yesterday, it's a challenge that won't go unmet. Local educators sat in a special study group afterward to see how Seminole County can take steps to help its children.

It was the first of a series of national broadcasts to be cohosted by community colleges, and it was aired on a national business network out of

Near Fire Sparks Warning On Wiring Systems

A near fire at a Sanford home last week has city officials reissuing a warning to homeowners: have your home's wiring system checked if the structure was built during the late sixtles and prior to 1975.

The wiring in these homes may be aluminum, which can spark fires behind walls when connected to incompatible outlets - those made for copper wire only.

The bus came to a halt with the back end and right side tilted into the creek. Water began pouring into the back and the children, ranging from kindergarten to junior high school age, started screaming and head-ing to the front of the bus, Reuther said.

The back emergency door was blocked by trees and the front door was stuck, holding back about four-foot-deep waters, he said.

Herald Sports Writer Tuesday night's first Seminole Athletic Conference match was a good example of how Seminole High is tectering on the thresh-old of volleyball success while Oviedo High is continuing to build a powerhouse.

In game one, Seminole played good defense, set up well and converted on a number of offensive opportunities. In game two, though, the wheels came off the Lady Tribe's defense and that destroyed any chances of a comeback.

Oviedo's Lady Lions displayed the teamwork that could put them in the driver's seat in the SAC as they made few mistakes in a 15-10, 15-2 victory at a sweltering Seminole High gymnasium.

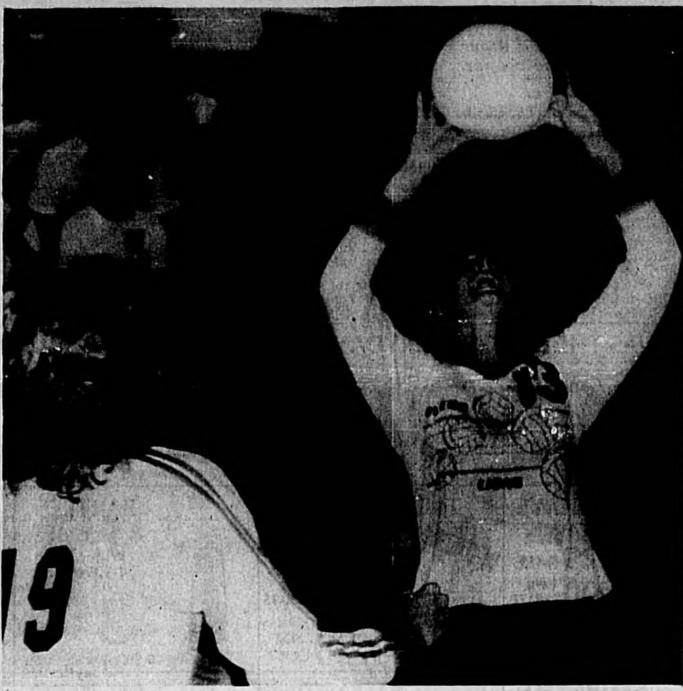

Oviedo, 1-0 in the SAC, ran its record to 8-1 overall with its seventh consecutive victory. The Lady Lions return to SAC play Thursday against Lake Howell at Lyman High. Seminole, which fell to 0-5 overall and 0-1 in the SAC, looks for its first win Thursday night at .Lake Brantley.

"I couldn't have asked for much more from the girls in the first game." Seminole coach Beth Corso said. "We looked like the two best teams in the conference in that first game."

Oviedo jumped out to a 5-1 lead in the first game with Kelly Davidson serving two points and Barbara Malone three. Seminole's point came on a service ace by Cindy Benge.

Seminole got within 5-3 until a spike by Jill Knutson returned the serve to Ovledo. The Lady Lions ran their lead to 11-3 as Trudy Ferguson served six straight points. Suzanne Hughes' spike and the outstanding back row play of Jodie Switzer highlighted the rally. Seminole got the serve back on

Seminole-Lake Mary IV: Expect Another Classic

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

Seminole and Lake Mary will meet for the fourth time on a football field Friday night at Seminole High School. As far as rivalries go, the Seminoles and Rams are in the infantile stage. No one would dare mention them in the same breath as Notre Dame-USC. Michigan-Ohio State and Florida-Georgia.

Forget the short history, though, each contest has been a classic.

The first battle in 1983 was an offensive slugfest which Lake Mary dominated in the second half for a 34-19 win. The second game in '84 was a defensive gem which Lake Mary won, 7-0, with a 96-yard scoring march after holding the Tribe at the fouryard line with a bold goal-line stand. In '85, it came down to the final seconds when a Seminole field-goal attempt from 39 yards sailed wide and the Rams survived, 13-12.

All three games drew between 4,000 and 8,000 fans. If past performance is any indication of excitement, Friday's Seminole Athletic Conference clash before another expected overflow crowd should be a dandy.

Here's a look into the past:

•Game 1 was played Friday. Nov. 11. 1983 at Lake Mary. Jerry Posey coached the 'Noles and Harry Nelson was in his first year as Rams' mentor. Lake Mary came into the game with a 4.4 record while the Seminoles were 3-5. Seminole was weakened two weeks earlier when leading rusher Tim Lawrence and defensive standout Bryan DeBose were dismissed for breaking training rules. Nelson's team featured the birth of the "Bison Backfield." Juniors Charlie Lucarelli, Scott

Underwood and Bill Caughell along with senior Neal Wellon formed a blockbuster package of cutability (Lucarelli) speed (Wellon), balance (Underwood) and power (Caughell).

Football

With Lawrence gone Seminole turned to hard. running Dexter Jones and breakaway threat Deron Thompson. They responded immediately. Jones ran 47 yards for a TD and Thompson sped 33 yards for another for a quick 12-0 first-quarter lead.

Sanford's Wellon brought the Rams back with 51- and 4-yard scoring runs. Tim Curtin hit the first extra point to give Lake Mary a 13-12 lead. Thompson. though, wasn't finished. He took the kickoff on his 15 and blazed 85 yards for a touchdown and a 19-13 lead.

The Rams came right back as sophomore QB Ray Hartsfield found junior tight end Donald Grayson for a big gainer. Grayson made a spectacular catch in a crowd at the Seminole 7. Seminole's Brian Brooks. though, cut short the rally by intercepting a pass in the end zone with less than 10 seconds remaining.

Whatever offensive magic Seminole had in the first half. though, Lake Mary took It away in the final 24 minutes with strong defensive performances from Caughell, Jeff Hopkins and Darrin Washington.

The Rams shut out the 'Noles; while Lucarelli, Underwood and Caughell all ran for touchdowns after sustained drives to turn a six-point deficit into a 34-19 victory.

"They went 91 yards," Posey said about one time-consuming Rams' drive. "That put us in a desperate situation."

Lake Mary rolled up an amazing 360 yards on the ground. Lucarelli accounted for 150 while Wellon, playing like a man possessed, added 105. Underwood, showing exquisite balance, finished with 77. Jones

Deeds Do Talking For Daniels, Luce

Tribe Defender, Lyman Cornerback Take Leads In Sacks, Interceptions

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor Ardine Daniels and Johnny Luce?

They don't strike fear into the hearts of offensive coordinators. They don't break teammates in half with vicious practice hits. They don't have flashy nicknames nor do they parade around after a great play. They're kind of undercover heroes. Both juniors quietly go about their jobs until their performance is too notsy to overlook. That's what happened last Friday.

Daniels, a defensive end for Seminole, and Luce. a defensive back for Lyman, performed too well to go unnoticed.

The 6-0, 180-pound Daniels collected six tackles and four assists. He forced two fumbles and came up with a pair of sacks in Seminole's 7.3 setback to Lake Howell. The sacks gave him three for the year to lead the county.

•The 5-9, 165-pound Luce intercepted a pass against Lake Brantley and returned it 65 yards for a touchdown to ensure a 14-6 victory. The theft - his third of the year - also gave him the lead in the county. He had two when the 'Hounds picked off five against Orlando Boone.

Making Daniels' and Luce's accomplishments that much more impressive is that they play along side two young men who are the defending champions in those categories. Seminole's Earnie "Sackman" Lewis led the county with 10 sacks last fall. Lyman's Scott Radcliff was tied for first with four interceptions last year.

Both expect to give their more well-known teammates a run for their money the next eight weeks. And, after Friday's performances, both coaches said they expect more of the same.

"Nobody ever weighed his heart, and that's what makes Ardine a good player," Seminole coach Dave Mosure said. "It was questionable at best whether he would play, yet he was in there 80 percent of the time."

Daniels, who suffered a shoulder injury two weeks ago against Titusville, used a variation of the "Swim" technique to deposit Howell quarterback Mark Wainwright on his backside twice. His two caused fumbles were direct hits.

"Ardine is one of players this year that you have certain expectations for," Mosure continued. "He has exceeded those week in and week out."

Daniels started seven games last year as a sophomore. It was then that Mosure spotted the quickness and desire that fit the mold of a Seminole defensive end. "His quickness is excellent. He plays like he's 6-3, 220." Mosure said. "He'll exceed his God-given talents on desire alone.

"But he's quiet. He talks through his deeds."

No one talked louder through a deed Friday night than Luce.

An interception return for a touchdown is always a dramatic play. It was devastating to Lake Brantley as it allowed Lyman to up its lead to 14-0 and with just a little over a quarter remaining. "Johnny was covering his

Raines' RBI Drives Sebra To First Shutout

United Press International Montreal pitcher Bob Sebra is fighting for more meal money and airplane rides, instead of settling for long bus trips.

Sebra, 5-5 in his rookie season, pitched a two-hitter Tuesday night for his first shutout in the majors, leading the Expos over the New York Mets 1-0. The Expos took a 1-0 lead off loser Ron Darling. 14-6. in the first inning.

With one out, Mitch Webster tripled down the right-field line and scored on Tim Raines' groundout.

Despite the RBI, Raines was 0 for 3 and fell to .335 in the N.L. batting title race. LA's Steve Sax was 3 fo 5 and Improved to .331. Tony Gwynn was 1 for 4 and dropped to .328. Gary Carter's second-inning double and Len Dykstra's sixth-inning single were the only hits Sebra allowed.

The Rangers are stockpiling young pitchers like a Texas rancher does cattle.

Texas, which contended in the American League West all season with three rookie starters, unveiled its latest find Tuesday night when Kevin Brown made his major-league debut.

Brown, 21, the fourth pick overall in the June draft, pitched five innings and became only the second major leaguer since 1973 to win in his debut.

"It was quite an experience," Brown said after he defeated the Oakland A's 9-5 and became the fifth Texas pitcher to make his major-league debut this season. "Anytime you can pitch five innings in a major-league debut and give up only two runs. it's encouraging."

The right-hander, who had last pitched Aug. 30 in Tulsa of the Double-A Texas League, gave up six hits, struck out four and walked none.

"It was nice to have the opportunity to pitch since I hadn't thrown in a while,' Brown said. "I really didn't think I had that great stuff tonight. But I was around the plate and was able to get people out."

Mike Loynd, a 22-year-old rookic who also debuted this season for Texas, pitched the final four innings, giving up two hits and striking out seven for his first major-league save."

"It's always good to look to the future and Brown and Loynd figure to be a big part of that future," Texas Manager Bobby Valentine said.

While the Rangers' pitchers have prospered, their inexperi-

Don't Wear Lace Panties With Little Ruffles

Every year about this time I get a lot of new students coming into my Tennis I class at Seminole Community College. Most of the students are getting involved in tennis for the first time.

Of course we cover the basics; like learning how to hit a forehand and backhand groundstroke; how to serve and how to score; but we also try to learn some of the "unwritten rules" of the game.

Things they will need to know if they stay in the game and get to the point where they start playing some fun matches or even local or club tournaments. Actually, as I observe beginning tennis players (and even some more advanced players), I see many unusual things going on in their games.

Greyhounds, Lady Patriots Win F-S Meet By Mark Blythe

Herald Sports Writer The Lyman Greyhounds boys team and the Lake Brantley girls team showed that there are two possible ways to win the annual Lyman Freshman-Sophomore Meet Tuesday at Lyman High School.

The Lake Brantley girls took the common approach to cross country by packing its team together. In this meet the top four runners are scored by place and the lowest total wins. The Lady Patriots came out on top of county rival Lake Howell, 19-23. Lyman was next with 56. Seminole and Oviedo turned in no team scores.

The Lady Silver Hawks seemed to have things going their way as sophomore twins Jenny and Tammy Bolt went 1.2, leaving the rest of the field by over 20 seconds. Jenny won with a time of 13:08.0 with Tammy a step behind at 13:08.4.

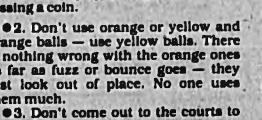

Brantley, though, came through in the middle of the race, placing the next three finishers. Leading the way for the Lady Pats was Kristin Longmire with a third place finish in 13:32.5. Next was Kristle Avery at 13:38.2 with Heather Camino finished fifth

Some are merely amusing but some are downright violations of the rules. The following list is for anyone playing tennis but is mainly directed at those new to the game.

It's a list of "don'ts" for new tennis players:

●1. Don't decide who is going to_ serve first by hitting the ball back and forth (rallying) until "ping" is spelled. It's called "pinning" for serve and its grossly improper. You decide who serves, etc., by spinning your racket or tossing a coin.

•2. Don't use orange or yellow and orange balls - use yellow balls. There is nothing wrong with the orange ones as far as fuzz or bounce goes - they just look out of place. No one uses them much.

play in black- or blue-soled jogging shoes. They can do damage to hard courts and leave unsightly marks on the courts. Wear regulation tennis shoes.

 (Women) Don't wear lace tennis panties with the little ruffles - they went out with the T-200s.

•5. Don't have two different kinds of tennis rackets — find a model you like and get two exactly alike. It can really throw your game off to switch rackets during a match and is a dead giveaway that you are a beginner.

•6. Don't announce to all that you have been watching Celebrity Tennia on TV and "lan't that O.J. Simpson a super player?"

•7. Don't take sandwiches and milk on the court to have a picnic between games.

•8. Don't get mad if you are playing mixed doubles and the man on the other team hits your wife in the nose with a ball. It's all part of the game. Don't spend the rest of the day trying to hit his wife.

•9. Don't chatter after every point and please don't talk during a point (this happens a lot more than you might think).

10. Don't play "First Serve In" on points. Over and over again I have to remind my students that it's two serves only on each point and there is no such procedure in tennis or playing "First Serve In."

•11. Don't jump the net after the match. This is another tennis relic that went out many years ago. Besides, the last person I saw do this broke his right arm.

• 12. Don't come off the court loudly proclaiming for all to hear, "I beat him 6-0, 6-0." If you played well, fine. If you won, fine. But don't make your opponent feel any worse by announcing it.

• 13. Don't ask the pro at the club to play you a match. The pro is not there to play anyone and everyone who comes along. If you want to play the pro ask for a playing lesson.

Hayden's 5 Kills Embalm Lyman

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer Susan Hayden found out Tuesday night that she doesn't have to wait until the spring to be a good hitter. Hayden, a Lake Howell High junior, will be one of the team's top returning players when the softball season rolls around. While Hayden swings a good bat in softball, she came up with some big hits for the Lady Hawk volleyball team Tuesday in a three-game victory over Lyman's Lady Greyhounds. Hayden had five kills, including three of the last four points. in the deciding game as Lake Howell opened play in the Seminole Athletic Conference with a 15-10, 12-15, 15-6 victory at Lyman High. Lake Howell, 4-4 overall, returns to SAC action Thursday night against Oviedo. The match will be played at Lyman High since the Oviedo gym is not ready to be played in while Lake Howell is still waiting for its equipment. Lyman, 0-2 overall, is at Lake Mary Thursday.

Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano. wo also coaches the softball team, is another one who's happy Hayden isn't waiting until the spring to start hitting.

The Lyman rally ended on a well-timed dump by Lewis and Schneider then served the last three points of the game.

Lake Howell had a 12-7 lead in game two when Lyman made another comeback. This time, however, the Lady Greyhounds' rally did not fall short as they recied off eight straight points to win the game, 15-12. Lyman and Lake Howell battled to a 5-5 tie in the early going of game three before a Hayden hit broke the tie and gave the Lady Hawks a lead they would never relinquish.

After Hayden's hit made it 6-5, Lewis served four points for a 10-5 lead. Lyman regained the serve and pulled within 10-6 when Luciano said her defense thought the ball was going out but it landed a foot in bounds. "That point could have changed the momentum." Luciano said. "But we got a quick side out and Monica (Schneider) served the Seminole could not score on its Continued from SA last service and Davidson then served the final point for the a spike by Sheri Peterson and the senior standout then went on Lady Lions.

> "In the second game, they (Oviedo) were serving to our left back and we i crouble turning serve," Corso said. "I subbed in five people in that position and we still couldn't solve the problem and that frustrated the whole team."

Lake Mary seized control and never lost it in game two as it scored the first 11 points, six on Val Smith's serve and four on Sharon Bonaventure's. Lake Brantley could score only two points before Lake Mary closed out the match.

Lyman's Lori Jones was sixth in 13:49.9. Mindy Olinger of Lake Brantley seventh and completing the Lady Pats scor-ing in 13:53.2. Seminole's Nadrianne McGill finished eighth in 14:03.9, Michelle Lee of Lake Howell ninth at 14:12.0 and Jenny McMaster of Brantley 10th at 14:16.1.

"We competed as a team today." Lake Brantley coach Mary Littlebrant said. "I really think we'll be a late-peaking team. I'm happy with the win and looking forward to the rest of the season."

In the boys race, Lyman and Seminole went at it with the 'Hounds nipping the Seminoles, 21-26, Lyman was led by sophomore sensation Nick Radkewich. Radkewich'is just coming from a triathlon held this past Saturday, making his performance even more spectacular.

Radkewich, also a fine swimmer, won the race with a time of 16:36.5, just under a minute faster than teammate Teddy Mitchell who placed second at 17:32.4. Lyman needed help after that as Seminole placed the next three runners across the line.

"We had two people out with injuries that could have run in the top five today" Lyman coach Fred Finke said."I knew Seminole could threaten us and they did but our guys just came through."

Radkewich, though pleased with the win, wasn't all that happy with his overall performance. "I went out hard today, just to see what it was like," he said. "I've had a problem of getting too far behind early and I wanted to see if I could hold pace. I could of pushed myself a little harder over the last two miles."

Lyman used the performances of Charlie Schmalmaack and Bobby Murray to overcome Seminole who needed just another strong runner to be competitive.

"You're only as good as your fourth or fifth runner." Seminole coach Sid Blackwell said."We've been coming along with what we have and are looking toward the future."

Completing the scoring for the boys was third place Oviedo with 51, as Lake Brantley and Lake Mary had no team scores.

After Radkewich and Mitchell came Seminole's Joe Peeples at 18:08.9, Seminole's Jason Kaiser at 18:09.1, and another Seminole David Johnson in 18:12.3. Oviedo's Brad Bolton was next at 18:26.0.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Johnson: No. 1 Is Not Good Enough For Improving 'Canes

MIAMI (UPI) - The Miami Hurricanes have achieved their pre-season goal of becoming the top-rated team in the country.

Now they are setting their sights on getting better.

"We can always get better." Hurricane Coach Jimmy Johnson said Tuesday. "I don't think there are any phases of the game we can't improve in. That's our goal. What we strive for is to get better every week. The one concern that I tell our team is that you don't ever stay the same. You either improve or you backslide and go downhill.

"We can't ever take the stance that we're going to be at the same level. If you start having success and patting yourself on the back and telling yourself how good you are, you drop right back down."

Coming off Saturday's 28-16 win over Oklahoma, the Hurricanes, 4-0, have several starters banged up. Defensive back Donnie Ellis (ankle) will miss this week's home match with Northern Illinois, while fellow defensive backs Bubba McDowell (bruised quad) and Selwyn Brown (ankle, knee) are questionable.

Defensive tackle Jerome Brown (turf toe) probably will not play Saturday, and fullback Alonzo Highsmith is doubtful with an ankle sprain.

Johnson said he was not resting stars such as Jerome Brown and Highsmith against Northern Illinois, 0.5 Oddsmakers in Las Vegas have refused to issue a line on the game.

Judge: Snipes Can Make It

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) - A judge who sentenced former college football star and 1985 NFL draft pick Roosevelt Snipes to prison for violating probation on a drug charge told the athlete he could still "make it."

"You're still a young man. You could make it." Palm Beach County Circuit Judge Marvin Mounts told Snipes. 24. Snipes also faces robbery and grand theft charges in Sarasota.

Mounts sentenced the former Florida State University running back, who was drafted by the San Francisco 49ers last year but was released a few months ago, to a year and a day in prison Monday after Snipes pleaded guilty to violating his probation.

Eight months ago, Mounts placed Snipes on five years' probation when the athlete pleaded guilty to selling cocaine rock to an undercover police officer.

'Then, it was off to the races." A 65-yard race Luce, who played junior varsity football last year, won to the end zone.

"He's not a speedburner." Scott said about the younger brother of Lyman offensive guard Bobby Luce. "And he plays a lot better in ball games than in practice. But Johnny's a competitor. He's a tough kid in the secondary who likes contact but still plays his man well."

Although the leader for Interceptions and sacks changed. Seminole's Lewis maintained his edge over Lyman's Benny Glenn for total tackles. Lewis picked up seven solos and eight assists while Glenn collected eight of each Friday. Lewis leads Glenn, 49-47. Seminole's Steve Warren is next with 38. Seminole's Ron Blake, Lyman's Scott King and Lake Howell's Jeff Harris all have 37. Brantley's Jeff Stanphill (35) and Chris Mull (34) are next.

•Game 3 was played Friday, Oct. 4 at Lake Mary. Nelson faced first-year coach Dave Mosure for the first time. The game was moved up to the fourth week of the season due to redistricting by the Florida High School Activities Association.

Seminole had already lost to Titusville Astronaut, Titusville

"It was a street fight from beginning to end," Nelson said. "If I would have died tonight I would have gone straight to hell."

Lake Mary opened the scoring when Letterio hit Hartsfield with a two-yard scoring toss. Renaud kicked the PAT for a 7-0 halftime lead. Reverting to '84 style, the drive took 20 plays and 10 minutes to go 74 yards.

Sophomore quarterback Jeff Blake pulled Sanford back quickly in the third quarter when he found Dave Rape with a 62-yard scoring bomb. The PAT kick failed, though, as the Rams held a one-point edge.

Defensive back Dexter Franklin crased that deficit in a hurry later in the quarter as he picked off a Letterio aerial and dashed 91 yards down the sideline for a 12.7 lead. Blake's pass for two was dropped by Dwayn Willis in the end zone.

Lake Mary, though, marched back into the lead later in the third period when John Curry, who accumulated 144 yards. scored from eight yards out. A pass for two failed and Lake Mary clung to a 13-12 edge. The final 4:48 left both teams

If Mrs. Nestor fails to maintain her efforts the cited deficiencies will be turned over to the code board for consideration of actions regarding compliance deadlines and fines to help expedite whatever work it deems necessary to bring the building up to the city's safety standards.

Throughout the coming months, "There will be biweekly inspections to determine whether or not Mrs. Nestor is progressing satisfactorily and if not, I will recommend code enforcement board action." After Tuesday's grand jury session, two Seminole County businessmen. Grant McEwan, of Casselberry and Art Davis, of Sanford, were told they would be notified when the grand jury will schedule their next hearing.

Davis told reporters he has been trying unsuccessfully to get the county to approve proposed commercial developments near Yankee Lake. McEwan has publically complained about the purchase of Yankee Lake saying it violated state law.

Martinez, who resigned as mayor to launch his first bid for statewide office, won 254,183 votes. Frey, a lawyer who made a fortune as part owner of several television stations since leaving Congress in the late 1970s, collected 126.511 votes, or 33 percent. Martinez gained national prominence when President Reagan tapped him for a key speech at the GOP national convention in 1984. Ironically, Martinez was a Democrat himself until 1983 and supported Jimmy Carter in 1980.

Frey, 52, is a former GOP prodigy from Winter Park who now has lost three bids for statewide office. He barely survived the Sept. 2 primary and carried but a handful of countles in his central Florida base.

Frey has promised to support Martinez in the Nov. 4 general election.

A crowd of about 500 Martinez supporters crowded a ballroom in Tampa's posh Harbour Island hotel to cheer the Republican victor. Martinez said he would seck three debates with the Democratic nominee in the three weeks immediately preceding the general election.

By state law, almost all activity of a grand jury is secret.

The county purchased the land for $7.5 million after a 2 a.m. vote Nov. 6. The issue was not on the meeting's regular agenda, but was reportedly an add-on item that had been discussed by the commission on the afternoon of Nov. 5 during a work shop session. After agreeing to buy the land, the county got two appraisals of $8.7 million and $10 million.

Sanford filed its condemnation sult on Nov. 8. then later came in with additional pleadings charging the county with having violated the State Government in the Sunshine laws. The charges focused the laws' prohibiting elected representatives from discussing official business in private and staff from clandestinely acting as advisory committees to these representatives. according to comments Sanford counsel Thomas Julin made at the time.

By Paul C. Schaefer Herald Staff Writer

State Representative Bobby Brantley of Longwood said Tuesday night he is excited about the possibility of becoming "the first Republican Lieutenant Governor in the history of Florida."

The office of Lieutenant governor was established by the state's new constitution enacted in 1970.

The Republican and Democratic gubernatorial finalists have "clear philosophical differences," Brantley said.

Crowds at Los Angeles's Greek Theatre last month were delighted when Michael Nesmith jumped onstage during the final two numbers of the Monkees reunion concert. This was the first time the foursome had sung together in 17 years. Nesmith had declined to join the nostalgia tour because of his thriving career as a video and film producer - and possibly because he's already a multimillionaire. (He inherited $25 million from his mother, the inventor of Liquid Paper.)

Meanwhile, the other Monkees are on their way to similar wealth, as their popularity today is exceeding that of the band's heyday. Currently, no less than four albums by the made-for-TV group are on the charts, and the 20-year-old shows are airing nationwide.

Insiders say the original Monkees' new lease on life may be short-lived, however. Davy Jones, Peter Tork and Micky Dolenz do not own the Monkees name or material, and plans are already in the works to develop a. "New Monkees" project featuring performers a generation younger.

Nesmith, of course, has few worries either way.

Already boasting the cult movie hit "Repo Man," his production company is currently finishing Rob Lowe's next movie, "Square Dance," and has a slew of other feature projects to come. One of them, "Tapcheads," sounds dear to Nesmith's heart. The project, costing an estimated $3 million to $4 million, concerns high school buddles who become involved in producing rock videos.

County, Pa., in a big, two-story house that I loved," says Pauline Wilkins of Sanford. "There were five of us - three girls and two boys - and there was never a dull moment. We were busy. We were all over those hills like mountain goats." Our Cook of the Week is a farm raised-lady who remembers walking two miles to a little one-room school house every day. "Morning and night we walked the two miles," says Mrs. Wilkins. "It was from the first to the eighth grade which I think is a better system than we have today, because you knew your lessons and everybody else's lessons, too."

As the oldest of the five children, Mrs. Wilkins was always around the kitchen watching her mother cook. "She didn't have to teach me anything." she exclaims, "I was right there every time she cooked anything. Oh, she was a good cook. We had a basement under the house and one whole wall was lined with canned vegetables, fruits, jellies and everything."

When she married Ralph Wilkins, there wasn't anything she couldn't cook - except biscuits. "We never had biscuits at home," she says. "Once in a great while we had biscuits or corn bread. Ralph was from Cullman, Alabama, and he liked all that. Of course, I used my mother's corn bread recipe which had sugar and flour in it and he informed me that if he wanted cake, he'd ask for cake," laughs Mrs. Wilkins. "But he learned to like it, because that's the kind I cooked.'

Good Friends Back Together

By Mark Schwed UPITV Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) - Elizabeth Taylor and Robert Wagner have said their lifetime friendship has helped them through triumph and tragedy. Too bad it couldn't save their first movie together.

"There Must Be A Pony' (airing Sun, Oct. 5, 9 p.m. EDT) is a dog, even with a lovely and slim Liz in the lead role.

Taylor plays Marguerite Sidney, a pretty girl from a small Ohio town who made 81 movies and became one of Hollywood's most celebrated actresses until she flipped out and had to spend some time in the wacko ward.

Now comes the comeback. With the help of her obnoxious ("Chow baby") agent, she lands the lead role in the pilot for a new television soap opera, and with the help of a horse racing track, she finds romance that Wagner and Taylor, who have been pals for four decades, get their first TV movie together and their first onscreen kiss. Wagner's R.J. Productions even co-produced the $3.2 million work. But the movie is tired and slow, and even their kiss seems awkward.

Taylor does give the movie an air of dignity - it is her juiclest

Finding The Cause Of Memory Loss Critical

last?

DEAR DR. GOTT - My husband has had two episodes of short-term memory loss in the last four months. His blood tests were all normal. He's 65 and appears to be in good health. What could be causing this?

DEAR READER - Transient short-term memory lose might be difficult to diagnose in a healthy 65-year-old man. It can be caused by many problems. including nerve diseases, small blood clots, arterial spasm, heartbeat abnormalities and brain disorders, such as Alzheimer's disease. Your husband needs a meticulous neurological examination, which may include a CT scan and other tests, to determine why he has had difficulty. In many cases, once the cause is identified, treatment can prevent long-term memory loss and other consequences of brain dysfunction.

DEAR DR. GOTT - What are the best exercises to keep bone loss (osteoporosis) to a minimum?

DEAR READER - Almost any type of exercise will help slow down the process of bone loss. For those patients who are unable to participate in active organized sports, swimming and walking are quite satisfactory.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I had coametic surgery on my eyes eight months ago and have had really bad daily headaches ever since. My doctor says the surgery has nothing to do with it, but his nurse said he could have touched my sinuses, causing them to swell up. What do you think?

DEAR READER — I agree with your doctor that uncomplicated cosmetic eye surgery is unlikely to cause headache. Because headache is a symptom of so many ailments, I suggest that you ask your family. doctor to perform a medical evaluation. You also might ask the surgeon who operated on your eyes if there was some unexpected complication that could explain why you have headaches after an apparently routine operation. DEAR DR. GOTT - The right side of my face is numb, and drawn, and I have to tape the

Fabulous Fast Food Tasty, Hot Sandwiches Break Burger Routine

Sanford, FI.-1C

Fast food doesn't always mean the kind of food you get in a bag or in a plastic tray in a restaurant with neon signs. Fast food can just as easily be a food you cook quickly in your own kitchen. Not only does the latter version of fast food allow you to eat without getting in your car and without waiting in line, it allows for lots of variety as well.

The secrets to good fast food at home are a wellstocked refrigerator/freezer and a microwave oven. A little imagination and planning on the part of the cook helps, too.

Keep your freezer stocked with precooked items similar to those you find at fast food restaurants. Frozen prepared chicken patties are a good example.

Keep a variety of other ingredients on hand as well - cheeses, fresh vegetables, maybe some sour cream, salad dressings and a variety of breads so that your fast food never settles into the I-guess-I'll-have-a-burger routine.

Look for simple, goodtasting, quick recipes in magazines and newspapers. Clip the recipes and keep them where you can find them in a hurry. Make sure you have the ingredients for one or two of the recipes on hand at all times.

The following sandwich recipes are great examples of fabulous fast food at home. They're all designed for the microwave and limited preparation time.

Give them a try and before long you'll be breaking the 'burger routine.'
