Mize: Disclosure Unconstitutional?

By BOB LLOYD City Editor

Sanford City Atty. Vernon Mize today told city commissioners he believes one portion of the state's new financial disclosure law may be unconstitutional.

Mize said the title of the law has a clause requiring public officers and candidates disclose the finances of themselves, their spouse and minor children. But the body of the law makes no reference to income or assets of spouse or minor children.

"In view of this, I am of the opinion that income of spouse and minor children and assets will not have to be disclosed," Mize said in a letter to city commissioners.

"This, as well as some other points, might be the proper subject of an Attorney General's opinion or a test case in court," he continued.

At least one city commissioner, Gordon Meyer, has expressed displeasure in the apparent requirement that he would have to reveal his wife's finances.

"I could be wrong," Mize said in an interview today, "but I question if one person can be forced to divulge the assets of another who is an entirely separate legal entity."

Mize speculated that in the rush to pass the compromise bill at the end of the recent legislative session reference to disclosure of finances of spouses and minor children may have been omitted from the body of the law.

The purpose of the title of a bill, according to Mize, is to alert readers as to what's contained in the bill.

Mize told commissioners they may not be able to comply with the new law, effective July 1, since there is some doubt an ethics commission appointed by the Governor will be able to draft the forms and have them available in two weeks.

Gov. Reubin Askew today appointed former Gov. Leroy Collins and four other people to the ethics commission that will draft the disclosure forms.

Askew's action completed the nine-member panel, which begins its work when the new law comes into effect July 1.

In addition to Collins, Askew appointed Harris Drew of Tallahassee, a retired Florida Supreme Court justice; attorney George Allen of Fort Lauderdale; the Rev. James L. Pleitez of Pensacola; and Charlotte Hubbard of Dunedin.

Appointed earlier to the panel were John Rawls of Tallahassee, a student at Florida State University law school; Mrs. John R. Harrison of Lakeland, a member of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women; former Rep. Talbot "Sandy" D'Almeida of Miami and John Grant, a Tampa attorney.

acquaint themselves with provisions of the act.

In his letter to commissioners, Mize said the City Commission may need to take a close look at city boards to determine which are in the category of advisory boards.

The disclosure law applies to all elected public officers, members of boards, commissions, authorities, special taxing districts, however selected, but excludes advisory board members.

Specifically required to disclose by percentages of gross income anything except dividends, interest, disability compensation, etc., amounting to 10 per cent more are city managers, city attorneys, appointed heads of city planning and zoning boards, members of planning and

In future years disclosures must be filed with the Secretary of State on Clerk of Circuit Court by May 15.

Mize said he is confident questions will arise as to what constitutes a preferential rate of interest. The law states: "Each public officer shall disclose any debt on which a preferential rate of interest substantially below the then customary and usual under the circumstances rate is charged, and each and every debt which in sum equals more than his net worth."

In lieu of disclosure an officer may file a current certified financial statement together with a copy of his latest income tax return.

Port Authority Seeking Less County Tax Funds

The Seminole County Port Authority (SCOPA) is requesting $65,515 less in county tax funds for its operation in the fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

SCOPA Administrator Jim Ryan said today the lower tax request, coupled with increased property valuations in the county, will mean at least a 22 per cent decrease in the tax millage requested for SCOPA operation of the port-industrial complex on the St. Johns River near J.A.

For the current fiscal year SCOPA received 25 mills ($158,472) in tax funds. The budget request approved properly valuation figure hasn't been received from the tax assessor for the coming year. Also yet to be computed is the exact amount SCOPA will have to pay for collection of the tax money.

The proposed SCOPA budget shows a $32,112 decrease from the current year. This year the budget is $319,064 and the new budget calls for $287,952.

The major cut is the deletion of capital outlay funds. In the current year SCOPA budgeted $80,000 for relocation of a downtown Sanford lakefront petroleum tank farms to the port. Ryan said next year there are no capital outlay projects planned.

Port operating revenues are projected to jump to $132,628 in 1974 compared to $98,092 for the current year. SCOPA will again receive $60,000 in state racing funds.

Salary increases of 15 per cent are proposed "to partially recover inflation losses" suffered by employees last year, Ryan said, but no provision has been made for expected inflation in the coming years.

The 15 per cent increase would boost Ryan's salary from $17,800 to $20,479. Also included in the budget again this year is the new position of administrative assistant at $13,000 a year. County commissioners cut the position out of the current budget.

Monday night by SCOPA board members for submission to the county commission asks for $17,800 to $20,479 for the upcoming fiscal year. Ryan said the figure may vary by "a said the figure of thousand dollars" since the official county

For the record, political newcomer Tom Binford, candidate for Seminole County Commission has released his 1973 tax return.

"I first started examining his return, I felt a twinge of embarrassment... feeling that I was prying where I had no right to do so.

However, after consulting the contents of same, I am satisfied that this same practice with any and all political candidates will remove whatever prior doubts I might have had about them. That is not to say I was suspicious of Binford.

As Binford stated in his release, "The voters are through with private interest groups and candidates that hide their sources of income. If an individual feels the new financial disclosure bill is an invasion of privacy, that person has no business being a publically elected official."

Longwood — Three city councilmen have begun anew the process to fire Mayor Eugene Jacques as the city administrator and to strip him of administrative powers.

Jacques, under an ordinance adopted 16 months ago, was given authority to run the city government with no expiration date was produced.

Mrs. Lermann, Schreiner and the late E. E. Williamson in July 8 public hearing.

City Atty. Joe Davis indicated, however, the council may have to go to court to force Jacques to either sign or veto the ordinance since the city charter gives no deadline for mayoral action.

The council by a simple majority can override a veto.

Councilman B. H. Ferrell and B. L. Lermann resisted the move. Ferrell first insisted that the pay ordinance expires Sept. 30, but backed down when the ordinance with no expiration date was produced.

13 Named In Counterfeiting Ring

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Two of 13 persons including a former bank vice president indicted in an alleged counterfeit ring were to surrender to authorities today.

Eleven others indicted by a federal grand jury in what authorities said was a crackdown on a ring that allegedly counterfeited securities and U.S. currency already were in custody on other charges or were arrested Monday, an FBI spokesman said.

The 13, named in the three sealed indictments returned last week and opened Monday, were indicted after a joint investigation by the FBI and the Secret Service, officials said.

The FBI spokesman said the counterfeited securities were

School Negotiations Cease

By MARK WEINZ Herald Staff Writer

There will be no more negotiations among teachers and the Seminole County School Board until Jan. 1, Jerry Lee Hart, the board's negotiator, said today.

Hart added negotiating guidelines passed by the state legislature will, upon becoming effective, render useless all local negotiating rules.

The negotiator, retained for $10,000, recommended the board amend his contract so he will be paid on a per diem basis. He said there would be less new work that the Florida State Legislature has drafted guidelines that prevent negotiations until Jan. 1. Hart said the county would save money with the per diem arrangement.

The board and Seminole Education Association had been unable to come to terms under a policy submitted by Hart.

Explaining that the new state law regarding negotiations does not give legal protection to a board that "attempts to enter into a gentleman's agreement with a teacher organization," Hart said the opportunity to bargain collectively has passed.

In his first press conference since the strategy negotiation process began with his hiring, Hart said to bargain now would be incongruous with the new law, but there is a remote possibility that negotiations could now occur if the state legislature named a "watchdog" committee on or near July 1. Only then could the board negotiate in time to make necessary provisions in the budget that must be finished in August.

Another prerequisite would be certified as the negotiating unit for teachers.

"I am sure the board will follow the recommendation of Dr. Hart at the next board meeting," Board Chairman David Sims said.

Sims added that the topic of what percentage of the $10,000 Hart has already earned and what the new pay scale will be will also be considered at the next board meeting.

"This board is running a multi-million dollar operation and is concerned with wise spending. That is why it is spending the money to bring in talent to prevent encroachment of that money into a very illogical means. It is a wise expenditure," Hart said.

Sims concurred, saying negotiations are a tricky business and Hart had the experience to prevent unanticipated and unforeseen consequences.

A lone SEA member at the meeting challenged Hart to a debate before the press.

Hart said that was not covered by the law and there was no need for such action.

"You (SEA) had your grandstand performances. You had your say. Are you now saying it is one-sided if I have mine?" Hart countered.

In response to a question Hart said, "I have not answered the charges of the SEA prior to now because they (the charges) are, in a word, garbage."

The SEA has claimed that Hart's policy on collective bargaining was tossed out by group, representing more than 1,140 of Seminole's 1,400 plus teachers, also charged that the board was using "stall-tactics" to preclude negotiations until next year.

"When I entered the picture at St. Lucie the board was already under the jurisdiction of the court and that is why the court ruled not to accept my policy," Hart said, implying that the policy would have been fine had there not been a standing court order.

The SEA, which is bargaining over salaries and fringe benefits, also wanted a stronger voice in running the system. SEA spokesman drafted a list of 29 topics it wanted to negotiate. Included in the list were political activity, class sizes, work conditions, teacher evaluations, grievance procedure and association and teacher rights.

The SEA has used political ploys to distort the issues, he charged. "They (SEA) never explained the guidelines submitted in Seminole and in St. Lucie counties were, in fact, accepted by Nassau County."

The SEA has claimed that Hart's policy on collective bargaining was tossed out by

Private Schools Lose Public Facilities Hold

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Supreme Court ruling that segregated private schools no longer can be given exclusive use of public recreation facilities apparently will have little impact in the South, where many whites fled to the suburbs years ago to avoid integration.

Most education officials polled after the ruling said such schools have their own facilities and that public ones are not needed. And some such schools, formed originally as tools of segregation, have now relaxed their policies and claim any child is welcome.

Die-hard segregationists said they didn't need public facilities for their schools and wouldn't use them if they did.

The Supreme Court upheld on Monday a district court ruling banning segregated schools in Montgomery, Ala., from using city football stadiums, baseball diamonds or basketball courts for official games.

But the high court failed to rule on whether the segregated academies could use other public facilities such as zoos, museums and parks and sent that matter back for the district court to decide.

George W. Shannon, editor of the segregationist magazine, "The Citizen," in Jackson, Miss., said the Citizens Council academies have been denied exclusive use of public facilities but that its pupils do make trips to public parks and zoos.

"They can go to parks or the Jackson zoo if they want to," Shannon said. "A representative of the (Ku Klux) Klan or the NAACP can go there."

Private school leaders in Montgomery where the case began in 1958 said the high court's decision now has little meaning because they no longer need to use the public facilities.

In Georgia, all three major private school organizations now claim to have racially open policies and therefore said they cannot be considered "white flight" academies as defined by the court.

January ordered Davis to prepare the repealing ordinance, but Williamson's illness prevented their adoption.

Jacques filed suit against the council to stop the action, but later withdrew the lawsuit.

Scott, elected last Tuesday on an anti-Jacques platform, has said he would push to fire Jacques and rescind his pay ordinance.

"I've made no secret of it," Scott said.

Jacques last week, predicting council would take the action, said he was considering moving out of town. When Scott responded that Jacques would forfeit his office if he moved, Jacques said he meant that he would sell his Langdale home and buy another where sewer service is available.

plugged as collateral at seven banks in Jacksonville, two in Tallahassee and one bank each in Orlando, Fort Lauderdale and Miami.

He said the ring based most of the loans on phony Trans World Airlines stock.

Named in the indictments were Louis Arthur Best Jr., a former Jacksonville bank vice president; Dot G. Burke, 44, and her son Julian Burke, 20, both co-owners of a Jacksonville art store; Neal Gene Cury, 43; James Patterson Hill Jr., 48, sales manager of a Jacksonville printing firm; Herman Miller, 49, William P. Pearch, 32, owner of a Jacksonville printing company, and Joseph

67 Teachers Regain Jobs; 34 Still Wait On Funding

Teaching jobs have been found for 67 of 104 Seminole County teachers who had been told they wouldn't be back in the Fall, according to school Supt. W.P. "Bud" Loyer.

Loyer said some hope exists of finding jobs for 17 of the remaining 34 teachers through a federal compensation program which is expected to be expanded, but no promises have been made.

The original teaching staff cutbacks stemmed from tight state requirements in its Full Time Equivalency (FTE) program, which allocates more money to vocational schools than to middle and intermediate schools, he said.

No relief with purely local money can be expected, Loyer added, because the Legislature cut back local school board operating taxes from 10 to eight mills.

Watergate

On June 17, 1974, Bernard L. Barker, James M. McCord, Frank A. Sturgis, Eugenio R. Martinez and Virgilio R. Gonzalez were arrested at the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee and charged with burglary. They had eavesdropping equipment in their possession.

And the drama continues to unfold.

What has happened to the men of Watergate?

Impeachment Panel Enters Final Week Of Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee has entered the final week of examining evidence in its impeachment inquiry, still undecided about what comes next.

Questions concerning calling of witnesses, President Nixon's defense argument and public release of a being put off until the evidence is all in.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. D-N.J., hopes that will have been gathered by Thursday and Friday and is planning to devote the following week to the unresolved questions.

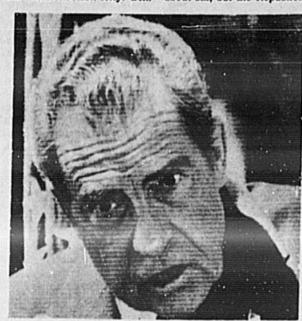

The committee returns to the Watergate cover-up when it resumes its closed session today, concentrating on the establishment of the special Watergate prosecutor's office.

The committee is pursuing its inquiry in chronological order and the firing of special prosecutor Archibald Cox last Oct. 20 will about wind up the Watergate phase.

All that will be left then is an examination of Nixon's income tax payments for 1969-72, with the emphasis on his deduction of $76,000 for papers given to the United States, and a study of the secret bombing of Cambodia in 1969-70.

Meanwhile, former presidential lawyer Herbert W. Kalmbach was sentenced Monday to six to 18 months in prison and fined $10,000 for violating election laws. Kalmbach had pleaded guilty to two charges—bartering an ambassadorship for a 10-month campaign contribution and a technical campaign violation.

And, Gen. William B. Saxbe said in a public television interview that Nixon acted want a formal paring down so they will know what witnesses might be needed.

There were indications Monday the committee staff had questioned a potential major witness, Charles W. Colson, but no one would confirm it. Rodino said an interview with the former White House aide had been scheduled for last week, but would not say whether it took place.

McCall's magazine, in its July issue, quotes Colson friend C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo as saying: "I told him that he would be personally better off if he were out...."

The Washington Post reported today that the committee staff on Monday interviewed former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst to determine Industrial revenue bonding has been introduced as a means of attracting light industry to Seminole County. According to Freeman, this type of bonding is catching on well throughout the state and in Jacksonville more than 25 industrial revenue bond issues have been passed.

Nations Try Setting Law For Using Oceans

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Delegates from most of the world's nations were pouring into Caracas today, hoping to lay the groundwork for a global treaty regulating use of the oceans.

More than 3,000 official representatives and 2,000 special observers were expected by Thursday, when the 10-week United Nations Law of the Sea Conference opens.

The massive agenda includes territorial limits, exploitation of undersea mineral deposits and pollution of the seas and oceans. Even the most optimistic delegates resist U.N. officials do not expect a treaty to come out of the meeting; another conference is almost certain in 1975 in Vienna.

This meeting is expected to pit the United States, Soviet Union and other major maritime powers against the non-maritime and Third World nations including China seeking a measure of control over international shipping passing through straits along their shores, particularly military vessels, territorial protected fishing limits and other matters.

Voting procedures must be decided first. The big powers fear decision by simple majority would enable the Third World to thwart their plans for use of the seas. The United States wants decisions by a two-thirds majority.

Both superpowers are concerned about the future of the world's straits and demand that those narrow sea lanes remain open to international shipping as they have for thousands of years.

China is expected to oppose that because the Russian merchant ships and navy must pass through certain straits to reach open seas.

A confrontation between the United States and South American nations is likely over the limit on territorial waters to protect coastal fishing grounds. West Coast tuna fishermen oppose the 200-mile limit. South American nations want, and the U.S. government has said it would agree to a 12-mile limit to replace the old 3-mile limit.

Saxbe Hits 'Gate Talk' By Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe says President Nixon was wrong to tell aides about secret grand jury proceedings on Watergate.

Saxbe on Monday defended Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen's actions in discussing with Nixon the grand jury investigation into the Watergate break-in.

Saxbe said he believes Petersen would not have discussed the case with Nixon if he had known "that it was thereafter immediately discussed with numerous people and leaked all over."

The attorney general was interviewed by columnist George Will for a program produced by the National Public Affairs Center for Television.

Will asked him: "Who was doing something wrong?"

Saxbe answered: "Well, the President in discussing this grand jury material with Mr. Haldeman and Mr. Ehrlichman, or whoever came in the office."

Former top Nixon aide H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman now are under indictment in the Watergate cover-up.

Petersen headed the original Watergate investigation before a special prosecutor was appointed.

The transcripts of White House conversations released by the White House show Petersen frequently went to the President's office to discuss the investigation. The transcripts also show that Nixon passed this information to Haldeman and Ehrlichman.

"After the discussions (with Petersen), there were further discussions within that room on matters that Mr. Petersen had brought in about what was happening before the grand jury. And this was wrong," Saxbe said.

Saxbe defended Petersen's relaying of grand jury information to Nixon, saying, "Petersen's only boss at that time was the President of the United States and he had to look somewhere." Richard G. Kleindienst, who was the attorney general, had taken himself out of the case.

Saxbe also contradicted presidential speechwriter Patrick Buchanan, who last week said the composition of the Watergate grand jury is unfair to Nixon.

Buchanan accused the grand jury of bias and pointed out that most of the jurors are black and Democrats.

Instant Veep

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — "I happen to be the nation's first instant vice president," said Gerald R. Ford in telling the Grocery Manufacturers of America on Monday of an affinity for the makers of instant coffee, instant tea and instant oatmeal.

"Only hope that I prove to be as pure, as digestible and as appealing to consumers who did not have a chance to shop around for other brands of vice president when I was put on the market," he added.

Oil Exporters Freeze Prices

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — The world's major oil exporting nations have agreed on a 2 per cent increase in royalty rates that should have a minimal effect on consumers.

The increase announced Monday by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries after a three-day meeting in the Ecuadorian capital is about 11 cents a barrel or a quarter of a cent a gallon.

With the royalty increase, the 18-nation meeting agreed to continue for another three months their freeze on posted prices put into effect last January.

Saudi Arabia, the biggest exporter, had proposed lowering prices while the other 12 OPEC members advocated some form of increase, either in the posted price or in taxes, to keep pace with inflation.

Saudi Arabia dissociated itself from the royalty increase, officially to await the outcome of its negotiations to take over more stock in the Arabian American Oil Co.

Shettima Ali Mungono, Nigeria's commissioner of mines and energy, said the other countries voted for the nominal increase partly as a warning sign OPEC would take tougher action unless the industrialized nations bring their galloping inflation under control.

That inflation stems in part from the quadrupling of oil prices by OPEC last year. But prices have been frozen since the first of the year and will now remain so through Sept. 30.

Royalty rates among OPEC members now vary between 12½ and 16 per cent. The conference statement said the increase was decided on as a first step toward uniformity.

In countries where the royalty rate already is 16 per cent, such as Venezuela, the government will raise taxes to get an equivalent amount, the statement said.

Arabian light crude, a commonly used oil benchmark, has a posted price of $11.65 a barrel and a royalty rate of 12½ per cent. The posted price is an artificial price on which the oil-exporting countries calculate their tax take. The 2 per cent increase would raise royalties by 23 cents to $1.69. But because the royalties and 10-cent-a-barrel production costs are subtracted from the posted price before calculating the taxes, the net increase works out to only 10 to 11 cents.

The total government take on taxes and royalties has been $7

Nuclear Reservations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger apparently has no reservations about the new U.S. agreement to help Egypt build nuclear power plants. Asked at a news conference whether he would have recommended such to Egypt, Schlesinger said, "I think that I would have pointed out the advantages or the disadvantages of such a course of action." Some Pentagon officials agreed with a reporter's impression that the defense secretary probably leans more against the idea than toward it.

Atomic Power Spreading

NEW YORK (AP) — Since the first time, before dawn in the desert near Alamogordo, N.M., on July 16, 1945, man has triggered perhaps 800 nuclear explosions.

And, in that time, the peaceful application of nuclear energy has led to 46 licensed nuclear power plants in the United States, providing 6.3 per cent of the total U.S. capacity, and a good deal of controversy on safety and environmental effects.

The Atomic Industrial Forum, an industry organization, says there are hopes for some 220 power plants in this country by 1984. Abroad, some 30 countries are committed to nuclear power, with plans for another 300 power plants, it said.

In the 29 years since the first man-made nuclear explosion in history, five nations have joined the "nuclear club"—having exploded a nuclear bomb: The Soviet Union, the United Kingdom, France, the People's Republic of China and now India.

The most recent nuclear test explosions, by China and France on Monday, were part of a recent rash of news about nuclear power. President Nixon announced on his tour of the Middle East that the United States will help both Egypt and Israel develop nuclear power for peaceful purposes.

A Letter from Lori

SENATOR LORI WILSON THE FLORIDA SENATE

You have been a great help to me with your ideas during these past months of the session on Tallahassee. Your response to "keeping in touch" was overwhelming and we were able to pass many new laws which you said were important to you.

Among the major ones which I successfully sponsored for you were:

- * Tax Relief - including millage rollback, doubling of homestead exemption for elderly, blind and disabled and reduction of the intangible tax.
- * Local Government Reform - including a ban on double taxation for services; a ban against spiders with annihilation and a ban against increased density.
- * Consumer Relief - including providing for a public lawyer to represent you against rate increases by the Utilities and the popular ban on pay toilets in public places.
- * Honesty in Government - Provided the key rate in committee and on the Senate on financial disclosure and ethics for public officials.

It was a very productive year for me as your independent Senator. Being free of party politics gave me the unique opportunity to work directly with you on issues that concern all the people. There is still work to be done. We are now in the district and will be meeting with many of you throughout the State. I would like to see you and your family and thank you for your help and encouragement. Please clip the top of this letter with our address and phone number so that if we can ever be of help, you will know where to write or call.

Independently yours,
Lori

THINGS YOU ALWAYS WANTED TO ASK ABOUT
HYPNOSIS
BUT DIDN'T KNOW WHO TO ASK

QUESTION — Can Hypnosis help to get rid of "hang-ups" or bad habits?
ANSWER — Definitely YES! Hypnosis is not something that is done "to you" or "for you" — it is something you are taught. Through Hypnosis you are taught to unlock "hidden power" of your subconscious mind — to re-program your subconscious mind just as you would re-program a computer. In a hypnosis program, your subconscious mind will accept, literally, whatever you feed it, providing it is acceptable to you. Once the subconscious mind accepts and relates your suggestion, it then works through the automatic nervous system to bring about the mental, physical, emotional, or behavioral changes you desire.

Editorial Yankee Trader Fleeced By Reds

Despite the apparent economic and political advantages to the United States in the Export-Import Bank's agreement to loan the Soviet Union $180 million, the terms suggest that once again the country with a reputation as the shrewd Yankee trader has been bested in the bargaining.

Instead of wheat at a bargain price, the deal time is for on-structure of fertilizer plants and a 1,200-mile pipeline in the Soviet Union. To help the Russians pay for the estimated $400 million in equipment and supplies for the projects, private U.S. banks will match the Ex-Im Bank's $180 million loan and the Soviet Union will make a 10 per cent, or $40 million down payment. Repayment on the U.S. loan will begin in 1979 and continue 12 years.

A six per cent interest rate will be charged on the U.S. government's share, but the funds will be loaned at the prime rate, which is now more than 11 per cent.

There is no question that the deal, part of a $2 billion package of barter and loans to be arranged between the USSR and the United States, is highly favorable to the Soviet Union. The reasons are complex, but basically boil down to two.

The United States wants to continue expanding trade with Communist nations to improve our domestic economic picture. The staggering increase in the price we pay for petroleum from abroad will throw the U.S. balance of payments into the red if we do not export more. Our ability to overcome the problem by increasing sales to our traditional Western partners is limited. Hence we are seeking trade opportunities with Russia and Communist China that are not self-defeating.

Tilton H. Dobbin, assistant secretary of commerce for domestic and international business, has reported, for example, that U.S. trade with the two Communist giants produced a $1.9 billion surplus for the United States last year — just about even with the deficit.

The other reason that the United States is cultivating commerce with the Soviet Union is because we believe that it will be a wedge for improving relations with the Communist world.

Neither of these reasons can be criticized as generalities. If we can export strategic goods to nations that are committed to our destruction in order to create jobs and profits here, that is all to the good. The problem occurs in specifics — in defining "strategic" and in explaining why, if the deal is purely business, we should continue to give the Soviet Union the advantages of low interest, rates and soft credit that are not available to our own businessmen or to our allies.

Similarly, detente can hardly be a one-way street and to date the concessions that the Soviet Union has made can be put in a purely business perspective. ## American-Soviet Detente Still Alive And Kicking?

By LEON DENNEN
The Herald Staff

There is much to be said for the Nixon-Kissinger policy of detente. Especially in the nuclear age, as Winston Churchill once said, diplomatic "jaw-jaw" is always better than "war-war."

But what price detente? For close to six decades, the West has been puzzled about the true nature of Soviet foreign policy, more often than not because Moscow intentionally compounds the confusion. Has the Kremlin's policy changed? Is East-West reconciliation really looming on the horizon? How do the Soviet leaders see detente?

A clear answer to these questions was given by V.N. Lagodkin, a high-ranking Kremlin official, while his chief, Leonid Brezhnev, was selling detente in the United States last year.

To assuage the misgivings of Communist bureaucrats about detente, he reminded them of Karl Marx's statement that "in politics you may conclude alliances with the Devil if you are certain you can cheat the Devil."

It is in the role of a capitalist "Devil" that President Nixon will be given the red-carpet treatment in Moscow? Is it, in fact, in the role of "capitalist devils" eventually to be cheated that American bankers, industrialists and businessmen — ever eager for profits and lucrative trade — are now being lured to Russia?

American businessmen do not want to see their investment and "coproduction" opportunities in the Soviet Union, involving many billions of dollars, go default to West Germany, Japan and other competitors.

The siren call for detente is a staple in Russia's diplomatic bag of tricks. This writer has reported on nine detente conferences in the past two decades, including the Eisenhower-Khrushchev summit meeting in Paris four years later which ended in bitterness and acrimony.

The Soviet leaders, they credit, have never disguised their view of detente. They have made it repeatedly and abundantly clear that detente, as they see it, is a tactical, temporary expedient — a phase in the conflict they are waging against democratic society — to be transgressed or repudiated when it no longer serves their political, military and economic purposes.

The current spate of summit meetings and fancy dress conferences on arms limitations, European security and mutual balanced force reduction in Europe leaves the analyst of Soviet affairs with a sense of deja vu. So what else is new?

A review of Soviet foreign policy since Lenin seized power in 1917 shows that the "conference note" has been played in a variety of different chord combinations — from stonant anti-American revanchism or anti-Americanism to a harmonious pan-European peace and disarmament motif.

The Muse of Nuclear Testing has really been lording it over the other muses ever since it exploded its first nuclear device.

"Way to go there, India baby," he called out recently in a fit of exuberance. "Way to go after the big one. Way to show people who's man down there on Earth. That'll teach those palefaces."

"I think you have the wrong Indians there, Nuke," said the Muse of Disarmament. "And anyway, how can you be so happy about something like that?"

"What do you mean? That's another one of those giant leaps for mankind. Think of how many dams can be built using nuclear explosions. Think of how many hospitals can be carved into mountains. Think how nice it is to sit up here and watch those old explosions give the Earth a nice little jolt."

"Bang, bang, you're all dead," shouted the Muse of Limited War, who had sneaked up unnoticed. "What surgical precision. What restraint. What..."

"Oh, come on with the restraint bit, Lim," moaned Nuclear Testing. "Be realistic. You know how one thing leads to another."

"That's exactly the point," Disarmament interrupted. "And that's why I can't believe you let India make that first test. Why, the next thing you know India gets the bomb and Costa Rica and Iceland and Monaco and even Brooklyn."

"You forgot Timbuktu," Nuke said exuberantly. "And anyway, why shouldn't everyone have nuclear devices?"

Environment Loses Again

By STEPHEN FORD
The Herald Staff

Nearly 178 years ago, George Washington left office as the first President of the embryonic United States. If at that time the fledgling nation could have been personified, it might have been depicted as a pink-faced lad with the world at his feet.

When the nation's first chief executive stepped down from office, he did not spew promises of nirvana in the years ahead. Instead, Washington admonished the 13 disparate states to avoid enormous public debts, entanglement with foreign powers and a mammoth military, to remain essentially an agrarian country in order to feed its masses and preserve natural resources, to guard against an elite cadre of politicians centralizing and seizing power and allow to recall the big business.

It is ironic today to wryly think these ancient blueprints for the national future. Almost from the moment Washington turned over the presidency to his successor, John Adams, America began to follow an opposite course.

Disregard for Washington's warnings on the economy and the environment is particularly relevant today.

One has only to look at our capricious environmental protection laws. And conservationists, who a few years ago had such a good thing going, today are prime targets for brickbats of corporations, bureaucrats, Wall Street's "Monday morning quarterbacks" and even the fellow who packs their bags and leaves their investments, tools, and even their families behind. Some engineers even landed in Siberian concentration camps. Will history repeat itself in the 1970's?

After the Supreme Court threw the game open to all the local deacons, Phoenix police ran amok among the blue movie houses, "adult" bookstores, and cabarets. But the raids lasted about three weeks, and then a federal district court told them to lay off until the local courts could take a better look.

The state Supreme Court did ultimately outlaw nude dancing in establishments which serve liquor, but allowed as how it is established elsewhere. No legitimate libraries or run-of-the-mill movie theaters were bothered. No school teachers were hassled, nor First Amendment rights suspended. Now the adult theaters and bookstores are back to a relatively untroubled existence.

Arizona has enough old-timers and fundamentalist religions to marshal an occasional casualness campaign—but not enough to sustain a strong one.

Devil itself is perhaps the least upright of anyplace in Arizona.

What's OBSCENE ? AMERICAN MORALITY TODAY

By JEFF SMITH
The Herald Staff

WASHINGTON — At least five separate federal investigations have been conducted into President Nixon's personal finances. Yet no government agent has been checking by check, deposit-by-deposit examination of the President's personal bank accounts.

Not even the House impeachment investigators, who are supposed to be doing a detailed study of the President's financial dealings, have requested access to the bank records.

Congressional sleuths and Internal Revenue agents have conducted exhaustive investigations of his financial transactions, including his acquisition of the San Clemente and Skyway estates.

But apparently, the government gumshoes still hold the President too much in awe to subject him to the same kind of intensive scrutiny that other citizens have endured.

KREMLIN OBSTRUCTION: Secret intelligence reports indicate that the Kremlin was mightily upset over Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's success in negotiating a Syrian-Israeli truce.

Contrary to press accounts, the intelligence reports declare that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was dispatched to Damascus not to aid in the negotiations but to obstruct them.

This coincides with a hardening of the Kremlin's attitude toward the United States, which has expressed their displeasure privately over the failure of Congress to ratify trade concessions. They have dropped dark remarks about the President's failure to make good his promises.

Perhaps the Soviets are merely bolstering their bargaining position on the eve of the Moscow summit meeting. But it is beginning to look as if the President will have to make substantial concessions to bring home an agreement, which he desperately needs to restore public confidence in his leadership.

BRASS RING: The front pages have been exploding with headlines about the villains in the drama of government. But there have been heroes, too, whose names have attracted less attention. Today we award the brass ring, good for a free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, to three of those heroes.

STANLEY SPORKIN stood tall among those caught in the spotlight of the Roberto Vesco case. For a $200,000 cash contribution delivered in a black attache case, Vesco tried to stop the Securities and Exchange Commission from investigating his financial empire.

Two former cabinet officers, Attorney General John Mitchell and Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans, were acquitted of bribery. But testimony was clear that they tried to help Vesco. The more political pressure that was brought on Sporkin, however, the harder he pressed the case against Vesco. Sporkin is known around the SEC as a man who hates corruption, who can't be pressured, who puts the public interest ahead of all else.

RICHARD SPRAGUE, an assistant district attorney in Philadelphia, wouldn't rest after the brutal murder of mine workers' champion Joseph Yablonski, his wife and daughter, until the man who ordered it was convicted. In time, the dogged Sprague nailed former mine workers' boss Tony Boyle for masterminding the murder.

Last January, a new city attorney was appointed. It was known long before that William Sprague had sealed his drug. There are too many drug problems and real estate developer schemes, too many "victim" crimes in this city near the Mexican border, to spend $100,000 and 75 per cent of the city attorney's time on the public school.

The new city attorney, James Webb, came to the job free from a round-the-world backpacking tour. He rolls his own cigarettes, has his shaggy hair cut with scissors, and personally doesn't mind pornography at all.

Jim Webb is more like Tucson than his predecessor. Webb is also more like Arizona than his predecessors — less here the distinction is less clear. Tucson is different than Phoenix or the rest of the state. Tucson has become a city where McGovern Democrats could hide out after November, 1972, where they have established a machine capable of winning elections. Contemporary community standards — on obscenity, on politics, on culture and ethics — is surprisingly liberal in a generally conservative Arizona.

But then Arizona is less repressively conservative in fact than in its nationwide image.

After the Supreme Court threw the game open to all the local deacons, Phoenix police ran amok among the blue movie houses, "adult" bookstores, and cabarets. But the raids lasted about three weeks, and then a federal district court told them to lay off until the local courts could take a better look.

Penney Recalls Bikes
JCPenney has reported a potential safety problem involving the front fork of approximately 110,000 bicycles manufactured in Austria by Juniorwerke Ing Franz Weiss.

Manager C.E. Elsea of the Penney store at Sanford Plaza said the problem may be present on 10-speed, five-speed, and three-speed men's and women's JCPenney bicycles which were sold through stores and catalogs starting in late 1972.

Elsea pointed out that the problem involves only bicycles with a "made in Austria" decal affixed to the post which supports the seat. Bicycles with chrome-plated forks do not present any problem, he said.

Elsea has urged customers who determine that they have bicycles with the potential fork problem to stop riding them immediately. Customers should return the bicycles for free fork replacement either to the nearest Penney store selling bicycles or to the in-store catalog sales center from which the individual bicycle was purchased. Catalog customers who purchased by mail should contact the Customer Service Section at the nearest Penney Catalog Distribution Center in either Atlanta, Ga., or Milwaukee, Wis.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida officials have asked the U.S. Coast Guard for samples of chemical wastes the Du Pont Chemical Co. wants to dump in the Gulf of Mexico 23 miles south of Pensacola.

Dick Shelton, state Pollution Control board spokesman, said the agency requested that the samples be taken from barges docked at Westwego, La., on the Mississippi river.

The samples will be studied by Pollution Control Department scientists to determine if the wastes are toxic to marine life, Shelton said.

Florida officials said Monday that a federal court hearing would be held Thursday on a suit to permanently stop Du Pont from dumping the chemical wastes, produced at a plant near Charleston, W.Va., in the Gulf.

Terry Cole, Pollution Control Department chief, said the hearing would be held by U.S. District Judge David L. Middlebrooks, who last week ordered a 10-day delay in the dumping.

Florida officials, including Gov. Reubin Askew and Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin, want the dumping delayed until data is available about its effect on aquatic life and Florida's coastal waters.

Alabama Atty. Gen. Bill Bayl said he would also be at the hearing to argue against said the dumping. He had said earlier that the wastes are not so dangerous.

Alabama Atty. Gen. Bill Bayl said he would also be at the hearing to argue against said the dumping. He had said earlier that the wastes are not so dangerous.

Dickinson Ouster Sought

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Former State Sen. Gerald Lewis of Miami today announced his candidacy for comptroller, declaring that incumbent Fred O. Dickinson should be ousted because he is "under a cloud of suspicion."

"I'm running in the hope of injecting some new blood in the office and creating an aura of trust in the office," said Lewis, 40.

He said that Dickinson, who is being investigated by a federal grand jury, holds absolute discretion in issuing state bank charters in secrecy, without a public accounting for his actions.

Former City Attorney Herbert Williams was vilified by his Irish Mayor Lewis C. Murphy as a boob and a squanderer of public funds ($100,000 in 18 months) on a suit to permanently stop Du Pont from dumping the chemical wastes, produced at a plant near Charleston, W.Va., in the Gulf.

Terry Cole, Pollution Control Department chief, said the hearing would be held by U.S. District Judge David L. Middlebrooks, who last week ordered a 10-day delay in the dumping.

Florida officials, including Gov. Reubin Askew and Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin, want the dumping delayed until data is available about its effect on aquatic life and Florida's coastal waters.

Alabama Atty. Gen. Bill Bayl said he would also be at the hearing to argue against said the dumping. He had said earlier that the wastes are not so dangerous.

O'Malley Probe Resumes

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A Leon County Grand Jury today resumed its inquiry into the financial affairs of Du Pont Chemical Co. by testimony from members of the Florida Petroleum Marketers Association.

Special Prosecutor T. Edward Austin has issued subpoenas for eight persons, seven of them identified as members of the association, to appear today and Wednesday before the panel.

The new 18-member panel is also expected to hear from Walter Roberts, foreman of the old grand jury that was probing O'Malley's finances.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Reubin Askew should reveal to Floridians the value of all free hotel rooms and other gratuities he has accepted since becoming governor, says I. G. Tom Adams.

Adams, in a campaign press release Monday against his democratic gubernatorial nomination rival, told Askew to "practice what you preach."

Last week Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin issued an opinion asking Askew should report the free hotel rooms that the governor has accepted since taking office early in 1971. Shevin said free lodgings were covered by the law requiring reporting of gifts worth more than $25 — a law Askew helped write as a state senator.

SEYMOUR GLANZER probably more than any single individual deserves credit for breaking the Watergate case. Those familiar with the work of the original Watergate prosecutors agree that Glanzer usually asked the sharpest questions.

The veteran trial lawyer John Wilson, in reviewing for the President the case against his clients H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, feared Glanzer the most. Wilson called him "a freighting prosecutor."

Yet surprisingly, Glanzer was also the loudest in upholding the rights of the accused. Associates say he agonizes over the frailties in the judicial system and always puts justice ahead of convictions.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: We reported on March 7 that all but four of the 23 Watergate grand jurors wanted "to hold President Nixon accountable" for the Watergate cover-up. This secret, 19-to-0 vote, with the four absent, made headlines last week. Clinton Harris, a racing boat driver who named his boat the Miss U.S. Watergate, recently tested it on the murky waters of the Potomac. While he was streaking across the surface, the bottom suddenly, unaccountably fell out from underneath him. The boat went to the bottom. A recent public opinion poll, asking voters whom they selected in the 1972 presidential election, showed that California and Indiana. In the actual election, of course, he lost both states by wide margins.

Phone Rebate Plan

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The state Public Service Commission will hold hearings on a proposal by Commissioner Paul Hawkins to require telephone companies that provide poor service to refund a portion of their bills to customers getting that service.

Mrs. Hawkins asked the PSC's staff Monday to include the refund plan in hearings set for this summer on proposed telephone company rules and procedures.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Youth Services Director Joe Rowan says Florida has joined a nationwide program to let runaway kids where they can get help.

Rowan said Monday that the proposal to declare the area in Lake and Polk counties an area of critical state concern, Robert Rhodes, land planning bureau chief, said.

Also slated for Cabinet action was Gov. Reubin Askew's appointment of environmental aide Jay Landers to replace resigning Joel Kuperberg as director of the trustees of the Internal Improvement Trust Fund.

Insurance Commissioner Tom O'Malley threatened to delay action on the appointment, which must be confirmed by three cabinet members, for two weeks.

O'Malley has charged that Askew was politically motivated in naming Landers to the post.

Landers met with O'Malley Monday, but he said the meeting was inconclusive.

"He asked me for a resume and I sent it over to him," Landers said. "He didn't indicate what he was going to do."

Benefits Raised For Injured Workers

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A bill raising benefits for injured workers by $18 a week and creating a formula to provide automatic future increases has been signed into law by Gov. Reubin Askew.

The governor signed a number of major bills in his Capitol office Monday as sponsors of the legislation watched.

In addition to the workmen's compensation bill, Askew signed a measure increasing the pay workers who lose their jobs from a maximum of $64 to $74 a week. Five Public Service Commission and energy bills and five local government bills.

The workmen's compensation law raises maximum weekly benefits for injured workers from $80 to $98.

"In the last three years we have now increased maximum weekly benefits from a woefully low $56 to $98," Askew said.

"Very importantly, we have finally established a formula method of computing those benefits to insure that they keep pace with inflation," he added.

"It is this provision which will be of lasting significance," Askew said creation of a public counsel in the PSC "will give the consumers a powerful voice and advocate in rate hearings and can only add public confidence to our institutions."

A sponsor of the counsel bill, Sen. George Firestone, D-

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — "We're hopeful we can make a selection as soon as possible so the office of public counsel can get up to perform their responsibility."

Firestone attended the bill-signing ceremony.

Askew said the power grid bill "provides expanded jurisdiction for the Public Service Commission so that it can assure the operation and continued development of a reliable electrical system for the entire state, especially in emergency situations."

Other energy bills signed into law by Askew would allow the Fuel Allocation Office to require reports from oil companies, require the Board of Regents to plan a solar energy center and continue a conservation policy requiring 25 per cent less energy use in state buildings.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Sen. Edward J. Gurney paid tribute to his 1973 edition of the Florida Times-Union newspaper said he discovered last January that an installment payment he received for the sale of land did not appear on his 1972 return.

The Florida Times-Union reported in its edition of March 27, 1974, that the $2,056 oversight was discovered, the Jacksonville newspaper said, when an auditor for the paper spent 12 days examining Gurney's finances.

The probe by representatives of the newspaper was conducted at Gurney's invitation after fundraising in his name came under attack.

The additional payment was indicated on a copy of Gurney's 1973 federal income tax form, dated March 27, 1974, which was forwarded last week to The Times-Union by the senator's staff.

The newspaper gave the following details of the land transaction:

Gurney sold the land adjacent to his Winter Park home in 1969. He paid taxes on installment payments for the land in 1969 and 1970, according to his returns for those years.

In December 1971, the purchaser returned one-third of the land as a final installment payment. That portion of the land was sold by Gurney in 1972 for $15,441, the amount overlooked on the return.

The $15,441 was listed on the return as a capital gain, which carries a maximum levy of 25 per cent on the portion recorded as a capital gain.

An agent for the Internal Revenue Service in Washington, which prepared the 1971 to 1972 returns with the assistance of Gurney's personal secretary, accepted blame for the 1972 oversight, the newspaper said.

State Seeks Samples Of Chemical Waste

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida officials have asked the U.S. Coast Guard for samples of chemical wastes the Du Pont Chemical Co. wants to dump in the Gulf of Mexico 23 miles south of Pensacola.

Dick Shelton, state Pollution Control board spokesman, said the agency requested that the samples be taken from barges docked at Westwego, La., on the Mississippi river.

The samples will be studied by Pollution Control Department scientists to determine if the wastes are toxic to marine life, Shelton said.

Florida officials said Monday that a federal court hearing would be held Thursday on a suit to permanently stop Du Pont from dumping the chemical wastes, produced at a plant near Charleston, W.Va., in the Gulf.

Terry Cole, Pollution Control Department chief, said the hearing would be held by U.S. District Judge David L. Middlebrooks, who last week ordered a 10-day delay in the dumping.

For an elderly relative trying to live in your home, they tend to withdraw from active participation in even the conversation of the younger generation.

And their falling eyesight, plus lack of interest in current sports and orchestras, may also lead to their "involvement."

Dr. Arlie Hochschild (U. of California sociologist) studied the Senior Citizens in a San Francisco housing project. She found that their feelings of isolation and loneliness tended to disappear when living with others of their own vintage.

For when surrounded by one age of approximately their own age and with the same type of memories of previous events, they stimulate each other.

This reciprocity of psychological stimulation among the aged is the very same thing mentioned above regarding our 3-year-old grandsons.

Besides, they feel less dependent on their families when they are rubbing elbows daily with a dozen of their peers.

But keep their vision, hearing and teeth in good condition so their final years will be vintage, and healthier, regardless of where they reside.

Aaron Uses Perry Scalps Sox For 12th Win For Privacy

NEW YORK (AP) — If you want to chat with Hank Aaron and the home-run king's phone doesn't answer, ask the operator to connect you with "A. Dieffelberger."

The unflappable Cleveland pitcher has given the fans 12 good reasons this year—12 straight victories.

"The pressure keeps getting greater because they expect you to win," Perry said after living up to expectations Monday night with a triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

League games, the Baltimore Orioles blanked the Minnesota Twins 1-0, the Detroit Tigers trounced the Texas Rangers 6-4; the New York Yankees turned back the California Angels 5-1 and the Oakland A's beat the Boston Red Sox 2-1.

Yanks 5, Angels 1 Lou Piniella crashed a two-run homer in the seventh inning and Fred Stanley led a two-run single in the eighth, leading New York over California.

It was the 11th loss in 14 games for the struggling Angels. The Yankees have seven wins.

Longwood Squelches Plan For City Sewer System

LONGWOOD—City councilmen have killed the proposed $1 million city sewer system, voting 3-2 to refuse an $80,000 grant offer for construction of a three-mile long interceptor line to Altamonte Springs.

City voters a week ago voted by more than 2-1 against the proposal that would have hooked Longwood to Altamonte Springs sewer treatment.

The problem with Land Avenue flooding into homes everytime a flash rain strikes the city is finally to be corrected.

Reds Smother Expos 12-3

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Cincinnati Reds 12, San Diego Expos 3. The Reds, who biggest deficit this year has been nine runs, trounced the Montreal Expos 12-3 Monday night.

On June 17, 1974, the Dodgers had their lead trimmed to six games for the first time in almost a month.

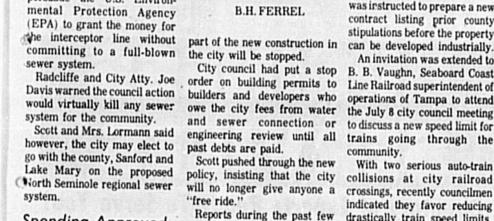

Elsewhere, the Philadelphia Phillies shaded the Houston Astros 7-5, the San Francisco Giants blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0, the Atlanta Braves whipped the New York Mets 8-1 and the San Diego Padres edged the Chicago Cubs 7-5 in 11 innings.

Anderson, predicting a tight race, said, "I would like to see three-four games by All-Star time. They play them four the first week of July and we have to win three to get that close."

Phillies 7, Astros 5 Pinch hitter Tony Taylor slammed his first home run of the season, a tie-breaking two-run shot with two out in the eighth inning off Claude Osteen after a single by Bob Boone.

Dan Driessen and Tony Perez drove in three runs each and the Reds used a 16-hit attack and a

The Little Guy Proving He's PGA Contender

Even so, 1970 was a vintage year for him, for in October he and his wife, Cecilia, welcomed their first child, Aaron.

What the sports writers who discounted Allen as a 1974 tour contender failed to see was the performance of this diminutive man last year when he won the Florida Citrus Open.

After 36 holes he was 13-under-par at 131, 18-under at 134 and 19-under at 135. He won the tournament by a margin of 12 strokes over the runner-up, Jerry Miller.

His 72-hole score was the lowest of the tour and put him eight strokes ahead of the field — another record. Moreover, it was one of the greatest low-scoring sprees in tour history.

Even after that, Allen still was telling newsmen and friends he wasn't in a class with the Millers and Nicklaus. From now on he'll have a few targets for that.

Miller, a member of the Brigham Young University golf team when Allen was playing there, never subscribed to the idea that Allen couldn't make it.

Women Vie For Top $

HOUSTON (AP) — Women athletes one-upped the men Monday with the announcement of a women's super prize competition that will hand out more prize money than any other prize money.

The competition will feature total prize money of $150,000, the event's directors announced.

It is patterned after a similar event held last year in Florida which offered $138,000 to competitors.

The winner in the championships, to be staged at the Astro-dome, will pocket $50,000. Soccer star Kyle Rote Jr. won this year's men's event and took home $30,000.

In the Astro-dome last year, Billie Jean King won $100,000 by beating tennis hustler Bobby Riggs in a nationally televised match.

Unlike the men's Superstars, which stretches over a month, the women's event will be held in one weekend, probably that of Dec. 21.

County Mum On Purchasing Private Utility

By CHRIS NELSON
Herald Staff Writer

Faced by what it claims are $1.6 million in minimum costs to upgrade sewage and water systems for its 3,000 customers, Seminole County Utilities has virtually thrown in the financial sponge only to see Seminole County commissioners pointedly omit offering to buy the company.

The commission recently began its planned take over of hard-pressed, privately-owned utilities, condemning Consumer Utilities when it appeared the City of Casselberry was preparing to do so.

However the board limited itself to listening to Southern Gulf bookkeepers Tuesday night, then blasting the company for years of delay in making capital improvements. Company spokesmen said privately that offers to sell to the county, and to such cities as Sanford and Longwood, have been met with stony silence, forcing the state-wide utility to absorb massive losses from the Seminole operation.

Asked to come up with a progress report on an improvement program they said began last Fall, Southern Gulf representatives instead produced figures showing that rate increases to a combined $50 to $60 monthly sewer and water bill would be necessary to fund the program.

Sanford attorney Roger Berry, himself a Southern Gulf customer, said that without an emergency rate increase his client could not even afford a $7,500 study to see what really needed to be done.

"Unbelievable," responded Commission Vice Chairman Dick Williams when informed the program—hanging under an $80,000 fine imposed by the commission—is still not completed.

While county utilities chief Bob Parmelee said Southern Gulf's temporary improvements were better than nothing, he conceded "useful long term results are possible."

Commissioner Sid Vihlen Jr., responding to a company claim it needed time to prepare an adequate response to the board's demands, told Berry "all we're doing is the same dog and pony show once or twice a year...it's bordering on insanity."

Vihlen, who opposed the board's decision to call another public hearing July 30 for the utility, said the "same excuses" have been given by Southern Gulf since he came on the board four years ago.

County utility attorney Robert Morris warned Southern Gulf it is not exempt from the 1969 standards of water quality, even though the system is made up of many older systems purchased by the utility.

The company bookkeeper promised Morris he could produce details "within a week" on precisely what rate increases would be necessary to upgrade the system.

In his presentation, the bookkeeper said records in the Miami office show that the Seminole County division, with nine water and two sewage plants, lost $111,670 in 1973.

Noting the company has not had a rate increase since 1967, the bookkeeper said operating expenses have gone up 146 per cent since then, while revenues had increased just 42 per cent.

Similar claims of poverty and difficulties in meeting water quality standards were offered earlier in the evening by First Florida Utilities, also facing possible de-certification.

As with Southern Gulf, First Florida, with several hundred residential customers in the west county near Apopka, produces only 26 per cent of the water pressure required for fire hydrants near a school it services.

Claims by First Florida executive Howard Irish that water pressure failures were due to excessive lawn watering by customers were met with jeers by the audience.

"In my years on the board I've never heard so little said over so long a period of time," fumed Chairman John Kimbrough. "If it seems like we're getting irritated it's only because we are."

Jury Renews Building Probe

The Seminole County Grand Jury is scheduled to resume its probe of the building industry Thursday morning after a layoff of several months while State Atty. Abbott Herring's investigators concentrated on alleged abuses in Altamonte Springs and the south county.

Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman Floyd, listed as state witness number one at 9 a.m. Thursday, told city council this week he and many other officials—past and present—will be called.

Chief Investigator Jack Fulewider has spent months combing records in Altamonte City Hall, and taking depositions by former city officials, many of whom charge ex-mayor Lawrence Swofford with ordering them to ignore city, county, and state building codes.

Swofford has denied the charges.

Last Fall, the grand jury centered its examination on the county building department.

Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman Floyd, listed as state witness number one at 9 a.m. Thursday, told city council this week he and many other officials—past and present—will be called.

Chief Investigator Jack Fulewider has spent months combing records in Altamonte City Hall, and taking depositions by former city officials, many of whom charge ex-mayor Lawrence Swofford with ordering them to ignore city, county, and state building codes.

of conflict of interest stuck, and commissioners enlarged the electrical board in an attempt to remove the contractors' dominance.

The commission also passed a strict electrical code, and began the battle over use of aluminum wire in homes, which it recently outlawed.

In the wake of the aluminum wire controversy electrical board chairman Buddy Eidel and colleague Ronald Brown resigned, citing personal and business reasons.

This week, in a preview of portions of the testimony expected before the new grand jury, county commissioners aired complaints against the county pool builder's board, and indicated plans to replace all county boards with less biased individuals in underway.

Sources in the building department have told the Herald a plan is being considered to oust the present industry-dominated boards which regulate all aspects of the building trades and replace them with a single, overall appeals board responsible to the public and the commission.

Tuesday evening, the commission held a public hearing into complaints against the pool board and "Pools by Max Inc." of Altamonte Springs.

However, Commissioner Greg Drummond promised, the board will order County Atty. Greg Drummond to study all building department ordinances with an eye to amending them in favor of consumers.

According to testimony presented in an informal, "fact gathering" hearing by pool owner Anthony Gagliano, Altamonte Springs, "Pools by Max" built a pool which violated the county ordinance in at least 10 respects—including failing to request or receive a variance after the pool was finished, he said.

The pool was built two feet too close to the property boundary, violating the setback requirements, and prompting Max to ask Gagliano to apply for a variance after the pool was finished, he said.

Further, the pool was six inches deeper than contracted for at the shallow end, thus endangering his children, while the steps varied in height from 12 to 17 inches, causing people to fall into water nearly as deep, Gagliano charged.

The electrical service box was constructed—and still sits—over his neighbors' property, he said.

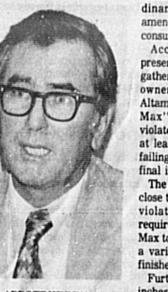

Other violations of the law, including building the pool within 10 feet of overhead power lines, have been corrected, Gagliano conceded.

However, he said, when he protested the construction problems to the pool board its members unanimously ruled that the pool was within "acceptable limits" and did not violate either the law or Gagliano's contract.

Drummond directed the building department and the county attorney to research the legal possibility of refusing to issue any permits to Pools by Max until Gagliano's pool is brought up to standards, and the original seven defendants in the July 17, Watergate breakin.

NORMAN FLOYD

ABBOTT HERRING

The commission was stymied in its desire to formally hear the charges because the ordinance—as written—does not give the public the right to appeal to the commission against decisions by the pool board.

Nixon May Have Known Earlier About Cover-Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some members of the House Judiciary Committee say a taped presidential conversation heard by the committee indicates President Nixon may have been aware of the Watergate cover-up at least four days earlier than he has admitted. But other committee members disagreed.

A tape heard by the committee Tuesday indicated to some committee members that Nixon knew of the cover-up at least as early as March 17, 1973.

It is not the four days that is significant in their view. They said the apparent discrepancy may raise doubts about Nixon's Watergate explanations. He repeatedly has given March 21 as the date he first learned of efforts centered in the White House to contain the spreading scandal.

The committee heard an excerpt from a June 4, 1973, tape made while Nixon was listening to a number of tapes and commenting about them to aides Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Ronald L. Ziegler.

Members said Nixon's comments about a March 17 conversation he had with his former counsel, John W. Dean III, indicated he and Dean discussed the Watergate cover-up then. Members could not hear the tapes Nixon was listening to.

Stung by criticism of a new leak of a confidential committee memorandum, members were reluctant to discuss what they heard.

But May 21, in a press briefing, Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., had said the June 4 tape showed the March 17 meeting with Dean included "a discussion of the Watergate matter and the possible involvement of White House personnel and others."

"I'll stick by that statement," Rodino said Tuesday; other members said after hearing the tape they agreed with it.

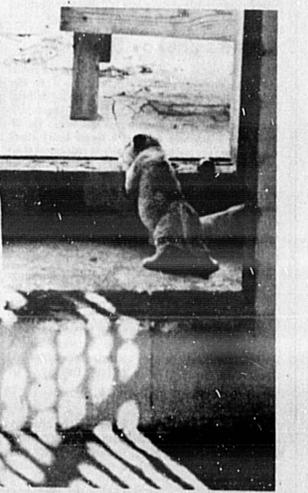

Asked whether he now had doubts that Nixon first learned of the cover-up March 21, Rep. Edward Mezninsky, D-Iowa, said, "Yes."

Some members, however, were not so certain. Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., said "It's not open and shut." And Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., said that although Nixon got "an inkling" of the cover-up March 17, it was clear he did not get the full story until March 21.

The March 17 tape is one of 42 the committee subpoenaed April 19, but for which it got a White House—filed transcript instead. The transcript contains no reference to a discussion of Watergate.

Meanwhile, former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst told the Senate Judiciary Committee that he stayed deliberately aloof from the original Watergate investigation. He said Justice Department aides assured him there was not enough evidence until April 1973 to go beyond the original seven defendants in the July 17, Watergate breakin.

FIRST PEEK AT THE OUTSIDE WORLD

It's a big old world out there, reflects a six-day-old lion cub from the entrance to its den in the Sanford Zoo. Born Thursday to the zoo's new lioness, Daisy, the three cubs are reportedly exceptionally lively. Their tender age and should be pruned by a number of visitors within another hour.

Bottom Continues Falling Out Of Housing Industry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government statistics show that the housing industry's deepest decline apparently has not struck bottom.

For prospective buyers entering the busiest home-shopping season, statistics released Tuesday by the Commerce Department mean continued rising prices and fewer new houses to choose from.

For the nation's economy, it means the industry that the administration once expected to lead the way to a rally instead will be a drag on productivity and employment.

The figures showed construction starts on new housing units in May were 38 per cent below a year earlier. Building permits issued were 41 per cent below a year ago.

Commerce said housing starts, after adjustment for seasonal variations, fell in May to an annual rate of 1,450,000 units, a drop of more than 1 million since construction peaked at 2,509,000 units in September 1972. The worst previous drop since the government began keeping records was in 1966, when housing starts dipped by 850,000 units before bouncing back.

Building permit issuances for construction meanwhile dwindled to 1,655,000 units, a seven-year low.

Housing Secretary James T. Lynn called the figures disappointing, but said House consideration due Thursday for a housing and urban development bill offers some hope. Another version—which the administration dislikes—already has passed the Senate.

AROUND THE CLOCK

By John A. Spolski

In yesterday's column I thought it was a calamity when I heard of this friend of ours who learned this month's electric bill had risen to $150. Imagine my surprise when last night while talking with still another from the "bright-lights-brigade" I was told her bill was $178!

"Why that's almost as much as I'm paying for the mortgage," says she.

And all I can mutter to myself is the descriptive phrase used by radio newscaster-reporter Paul Harvey: "Ain't no sense in worrying cause nuttin' gonna turn out right anyhow!"

Thought you'd like to know... the City of Longwood is being billed by Florida Hospital North for the hospital care of the suspect the police shot after a $50 robbery a few weeks ago.

The bill as of a week ago was $200 and is expected to be more than $3,000 before the man is released from the hospital. The city has no insurance to cover this.

Also, the man's hospital room must be guarded around the clock and the city is providing one-half of the officers needed for the guard-duty.

Zayre's Center Expands

A multi-million dollar expansion project now under construction at the Zayre Plaza, corner of U.S. 17-92 and Airport Boulevard in Sanford, is scheduled to open on Jan. 1 next year.

According to Robert Poetz, Kinco director of leasing, the new center will house a 12,000 square foot Walgreen's drug store and a 26,880 square foot Pantry Pride food store. There will also be 18,400 square feet of smaller specialty stores for local lease.

The shopping center is being developed by Kinco Development Corp. of New York City, Kinco is the 10th largest shopping center development firm in the country, with 26 centers already completed in Florida.

Construction crews began land clearing operations this week and construction is starting on the west side of the plaza extending from Zayre's to Airport Boulevard.

Food Stamps Extended One Year

The loss of food stamp benefits after June 30, which threatened to bring hardship to about 600 Seminole County residents, has been delayed by the House of Representatives which has approved extending until July 1, 1975, stamps for persons covered by the new Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program.

The bill, passed Tuesday by a voice vote and sent to the Senate, continued a temporary federal measure due to expire at the end of this month.

It included an amendment to close a loophole affecting SSI recipients in New York, California, Massachusetts, Wisconsin and Nevada.

The loss of food stamps would have affected about 80,000 persons in Florida, including almost 350 families in Seminole County.

Lawrence M. Dougher, director of family services for Seminole County, said last week the loss of food stamps would not have proved a hardship in every case, but would hit hard at those persons who relied on the stamps to stretch their food dollars.
