Top News In Brief

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins declared today that more funds must be made available at the county level to supplement state appropriations for "more adequate" pay for teachers.

Collins also came out strongly for "incentive raises" for teachers who perform outstanding service. But he said nothing will be achieved by "abuse or threats," apparently referring to recent threats by teachers to walk off their jobs if they are not given the $1,100 annual increase proposed by the Florida Education Assn.

Repeating his opposition to this flat increase supported entirely by state funds, Collins said he would meet with FEA officials "in the next few days" to discuss the situation. He said he expects the Legislature which convenes here next Tuesday to "provide the greatest advances in public education since the adoption of the minimum foundation program in 1947."

"The solution of the problem must be through joint county and state efforts. . . . The state must supply all it reasonably can and we must make most certain the ability of our county school boards to obtain more funds at the local level to supplement the assistance provided by the state and to establish a more adequate salary level," he said.

Collins said he knows many counties now are levying the maximum permitted millage for schools "but I question that a full local effort is being made."

7-Year-Old Boy Hit By Car; Dies From Injuries

A seven-year-old Negro boy died early Saturday morning from injuries received when he was hit by an automobile on State Road 426 a quarter of a mile east of Oviedo.

Luther James Knight, son of Lula Mae Knight of Oviedo was playing along the road with his brother John 10 and a sister. They were running along the side of the road in an apparent race to a grove on the south of the road.

The boy suddenly darted out across the road in front of an oncoming car driven by George W. Hammette, salesman for the Mineral Chemical Corp. of Mulberry.

The car left skid marks 54 feet before it stopped and hit the child who was thrown 33 feet.

Dr. Edward W. Stoner, of Oviedo was called to the scene to supervise the loading of the child in an ambulance.

The child was taken to an Orlando hospital where he died at 1 a. m. Saturday morning.

The hood ornament did the damage when it hit the seven-year-old boy, said Trooper T. Mark Mack of the Florida Highway Patrol who investigated the accident.

"It was an unavoidable accident," Trooper Mack said, "when Hammette had no chance to avoid hitting the small child as he darted across the road in front of the driver."

Damage to the car was estimated at $25.

County Road Program Outlined For Dial

Jessup Causeway Proposed

Seminole County's road program for the fiscal year beginning July 1 was outlined before William H. Dial, Fifth District Road Board member, in DeLand this morning at 9:30.

County Attorney Mack N. Cleveland Jr., presented the Seminole County resolution for Primary Roads and outlined the Board of Seminole County Commissioners' Secondary Road program for the coming year.

Those attending the budget hearing, held at the Road Department's DeLand office, in addition to County Attorney Cleveland were Senator Douglas Stenstrom, County Commission Chairman Fred Dyson, Commissioners Homer Little and Lawrence Swofford, and Bralley Odham, chairman of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Long Range Highway Planning Committee.

Assisting Dial at the budget hearing were Fifth District Engineer Richie Green and Ross Stanton, Resident Attorney for the State Road Board in Tallahassee.

The Seminole County Board of Commissioners' request and resolution asked that the following Primary roads be constructed: Reallocate State Road 415 from St. Johns River southwest to State Road 46, and also construct a new bridge across the St. Johns River on State Road 415; Construct and relocate State Road 46 from Mellonville Ave. west to the Wekiva River; Bridge or Lake County boundary line; construct and widen State Road 426 from Goldenrod to Oviedo; Construct and widen State Road 15,600 north from French Ave. in Sanford to the St. Johns. Committees Completing Plans For Navy Appreciation Day

A meeting of all committees working on the Navy Appreciation Day plans will be held tomorrow night at 7 o'clock in the City Hall Auditorium, according to the co-chairmen Harry Cannel and Garfield Willetts.

Plans are fast coming to their final stages, Cannel said yesterday, and it looks as if "this will be the biggest celebration Sanford has ever had."

Fireworks for the huge aerial display have already arrived, Bob Crumley, chairman of the entertainment committee revealed today.

Also, said Crumley, plans for the street dance have been completed with the exception of the area to be roped off on First St. The Rayborn Brothers band, known as the Crazy Mountain Boys will play for the dance which will feature primarily round dancing. However, a caller will be furnished by the band and some square dancing will be included in the program.

The Rayborn Brothers Band has been playing regularly every Saturday night over Radio Station WTRR and are seen on Channel 2.

Crumley said that other entertainment for the Navy Appreciation Day Celebration will include a baseball game and a band concert by the Seminole High School band.

The food has been ordered, publicly Chairman Ambrose Oliff said this morning. This includes more than two tons of fish, and fully a ton of other ingredients to be used in stew and salads.

Harold Kastner, chairman of the committee furnishing corn for "corn on the cob" will procure at least 5,000 ears of corn for the big feed.

Gus Schmah is in charge of trying the fish, according to Jaycees committeemen in charge of the event. Other members of the committee preparing the food for serving include Cotton Brown, M. (Continued On Page Ten)

Local Red Cross Reaches Height Of Fund Campaign

American Red Cross Personnel Director J. Donald Doyle told a progress meeting of the local Red Cross Chapter Friday that "contributors should see all of the people."

"Fine interest and response on the part of the businessmen," was reported by Floyd Palmer.

Unable to attend Friday's meeting, Mrs. Philip Marx sent a report "expect to have most of the 14 residential districts covered in a few days."

Because of the sudden death of Prof. J. N. Crooms, Principal Roy A. Allen, of Crooms Academy, will be responsible for the canvass of the colored community, it was announced at the progress meeting.

Two anonymous contributions of $10 each were brought to the chapter offices, it was announced, one because "I have not been contacted" and the other because "I believe in the Red Cross."

Salvation Army To Hold Letter Appeal Campaign

The Salvation Army is conducting a letter appeal campaign this year, according to Lt. Marcella Reynolds of the local Salvation Army.

Ralph Austin Smith has been named campaign chairman for the appeal. A goal of $3,000 has been set for this year's fund campaign. However, no house-to-house appeal will be made.

The letter, signed by Ralph A. Smith, who is also chairman of the local Advisory Board, is being mailed to 3,000 citizens of this community.

First of the letters were mailed this morning, explained Lt. Reynolds.

"Attached to this letter you will find a copy of the service report of the local Salvation Army Post for your perusal," Smith said in his letter of appeal. "You will be surprised, as are many others, at the many services rendered by this organization," he said.

Lt. Reynolds explained that it was the hope of the local group that those receiving the letter would contribute at least $1. "If we receive 3,000 responses with at least $1, we will have made our goal," she said.

Also emphasized in the letter, many of which were mailed today, was "We are thoroughly convinced that the $3,000 quota is the very least we ought to secure for the carrying on of this social welfare and religious program in Seminole County."

Advice To The Lovelorn

Dear Miss Cry-shoulder:
I have been going with a girl for about two months and a couple of weeks ago I was seriously thinking of breaking up; but, I didn't for some unexplainable reason. About a week ago, I started seeing another girl fairly often who knows my girl fairly well and if I broke up with my steady girl it would put the other girl in a depressing situation. There is a big chance that I would be stuck without any girl at all if I were to start dating the new girl because she doesn't want to date just one boy. However, I do enjoy being with her and I am wondering if it would be wise to take such a chance. What advice do you have, Miss Cry-shoulder?
The Moonlight Gambler
Dear Moonlight Gambler—
If you were truly thinking of breaking up with your steady before you met this new girl surely your steady suspected something, unless you put on a good front. If I were you, I would date whom I pleased for awhile unless you're really not on this new girl. Why jump from one comfortable situation to another? It would look a lot better on everyone's part if you waited a little while before you make any decisions. Thank you for writing me and Good Luck!
Miss Cry-shoulder

Dear Miss Cry-shoulder,
I have always been ugly and all my friends are very pretty so, therefore, I'm very self-conscious and cannot get a boyfriend. Will you please tell me what to do, Self-Conscious
Dear Self-Conscious—
"Looks" mean a lot (it seems) this day and time; but, I still say they aren't everything. Just because you aren't the most gorgeous thing that ever walked on two feet is no reason to become self-conscious. With a little ambition and will-power, you can become Miss Glamour Gal. Fix yourself up (not conceit) and get over this self-conscious business.
Miss Cry-shoulder

Dear Miss Cry-shoulder,
I want to use this opportunity to make a public announcement to all underclassmen. When Philip gives the word for Seniors to be dismissed from Chapel, that does not mean underclassmen should sneak out also! We have waited a long time for the respect and few (!) privileges reserved for Seniors. How can we keep underclassmen from encroaching on our rights? Please advise!
"Slighted Senior"
Dear Slighted Senior—
I can't see where the underclassmen are committing such a crime; however, I do see where they are in the wrong. When Philip announces "Seniors dismissed," ask him to make it firm and clear. If it means so much to you Seniors, maybe you can have it as a seventh period offense. When its time for lunch, the underclassmen get just as hungry as anyone else and I say first come—first served.
Miss Cry-shoulder

(Note from the Editor)
As editor I know who Miss Cry-shoulder is, and I would like to meet her.
As an underclassman, you don't understand how we feel. Just wait till you are a senior. I bet you'll be hollering louder than we are.

Students Take Senior Exams

On Wednesday and Thursday of last week the seniors went toward the last step before their graduation. Senior exams test you on things you know and should know.
Some of the comments that were heard around the school were:
"Why didn't I study like my teachers told me instead of thinking I could breeze through."
"The exams were easy if you knew the things that you were being examined on."
"I like them so much that I am going to take them again!"
So you juniors, sophomores and freshmen that will be seniors next year or in a few years, take this advice. Study hard, don't think you can breeze through school. You might find out later that you should have been studying instead of horsing around. When you apply for a job, an employer wants

Michigan School Students Given Tough Auto Course

DETROIT — Michigan teenagers who want to drive are put through a tough course in proper motoring.
Michigan is the first and only state in the nation where young people under 18 are required to take a driver's training course before they may obtain a driver's license.
The state's schools have set out to teach 10,000 students what it means to be an adult behind the wheel.
Those who learned to drive on back country roads after 10 minutes of instruction from an impatient parent may wonder what driving teachers find to occupy 42 hours of class time.
Only 12 hours are spent actually behind the wheel. But after a suitable time of verbal dissection of the auto in class and hours spent studying charts and graphs, a student finds himself at the wheel. At some schools he does his driving on a range on the school grounds.
All Phases
Where most schools have rolling lawns and carefully trimmed hedges, at least six schools in the Detroit area have curving roadways—complete with stop light, stop signs, yellow lines for parallel parking practice and a concrete square representing a garage.
The indoor activity embraces the history, physiology, psychology, anatomy, economics and sociology of man and the automobile.
Driving instructor David Russell, 34-year-old former history teacher, listed auto maintenance, insurance expense and liability problems, traffic regulation, courtesy, vision and depth perception, money-saving hints and map reading as just a few of the topics discussed in his classes.
One Mumford High School driving instructor makes a point of warning his students about the Mann Act and of the dangers involved in picking up girls.
Must Behave
A bright-colored, profusely illustrated text, "Man and the Motor Car," supplements the course.
When youngsters get out of hand, one instructor assigns them to write 500 words about windshield wipers. The second misdeed may mean writing a 1,000-word essay about automobile cigarette lighters.
Russell took six-week course at the University of Michigan when he decided to switch from history to driver training. His one regret is that he occasionally finds his history slipping away from him. "Just the other day I had a tough time trying to recall who Robespierre was," he said.
"But I've learned to be patient with such students as the co-ed who complained she'd put the key in the ignition, released the hand brake, put the shift in neutral but still couldn't get the car started."
"Some she didn't have the key in the ignition, after all. She had it in the glove compartment last."

It'll Happen Everytime

By WANDA GILBERT
Scene: Beginning of baseball game
Time: Two minutes before game
Characters: A boy and a girl
Girl: "Which is our goal?"
Boy: "This is baseball!"
Girl: "What's the difference?"
Boy: "Don't you know?"
Girl: "No!"
Boy: "Well, you just watch and I'll explain things as they happen."
See those men in black suits? They are umpires. In case of a dispute, they make the decisions. Here comes our team. There are nine players on one team and nine on the other. The pitcher is pitching the ball. The ump calls it a strike.
Girl: "You mean they are going to pitch?"
Boy: "No! Here's the next pitch. It's a ball."
Girl: "I know it's a ball."
Boy: "Oh! Excuse me—Look! He's running to first he got a hit!"
Girl: "I was watching and the ball didn't hit him once. How can you say that??"
Boy: "Shut up, he's stealing second."
Girl: "Well tell him to put it back!"
Boy: "Oh, he's out."
Girl: "Well certainly. You can't tell me he's inside."
Boy: "Now they are coming up fast. Another strike."
Girl: "What did you say?" He didn't swing at it—he just stood there.
Boy: "I don't care. You just don't understand. If the ball comes within a certain region it's a strike anyway whether he swings at it or not."
Girl: "Oh!"
Boy: "He's out. That makes the count two and one."
Girl: "Then the count's three?"
Boy: "No!"
Girl: "Well, two and one used to be three."
Boy: "Just be quiet please. That makes our third out."
Girl: "What does that mean. Can we go home now?"
Boy: "No. That is just one inning. Now, see our players are taking the field."

Question Of Week

By DALE LEWIS
Last Monday night while watching "December Bride" on TV I got the inspiration for these questions. They were hunting for someone to sell kisses in a booth at a bazaar—which leads me to ask—"Would you sell kisses in a kissing booth at a bazaar?" Please give reasons to support your answer!
Trassy Young— No, cause believe it or not, I can't kiss just anybody! (Since when?)
Pat Harrington— That would be a hard question to answer—it might become a habit!
Kaye Jenkins— "Shoot yeah"—I think it would be great fun!
Carol Nutt— Heck no! Bobby gets mad enough at me, as it is!
Mary Grace Hobby— Could I choose who buys them?
Peggy Jane Lundquist— No I save my kisses for Billy!
Penny Marian— It's hard to say because of Richard—if he says I can, okay! If not, no deal!
Lee Jackson— Yes, if I could Girl: "Where?"
Boy: "Don't you know anything at all about baseball?"
Girl: "No."
Boy: "Then, just be quiet, please."
Girl: "Yes, sir."
Boy: "Now you made me miss that play. See what you did."
Girl: "I'm sorry."
Boy: "O. K. That umpire is all wet. Kill the umpire!"
Girl: "Excuse me please."
Boy: "Gladly."
Not long after the girl leaves he sees her talking to the umpire. All of a sudden the umpire rolls on the ground laughing.
Boy: (after girl returns) "What did you say to him?"
Girl: "I just told him he better watch out because every one wants to kill him. Why did he laugh like that?"
Boy: "I wouldn't know. I haven't the faintest idea. I think we'd better go."
Girl: "Why? You said the game wasn't over?"
Boy: "Come on."
Girl: (under her breath) "I wonder why he doesn't want to stay. I'm enjoying myself!"

My Bible

BY KATHRYN LOUISE DOWDY
I love my Bible very, very much. It helps me to go about life the right way. It has some lovely verses in it, especially in Psalms, like Psalm 1. The first verse is very nice. "Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful." The Bible has other verses in it that are also very nice. Like Genesis, 1st chapter. It has a delightful story of how the world began.
The Bible has chapters of when Jesus was first born, the miracle he created and how he healed the sick.
If you don't have a Bible, please get one and read it, at least a chapter a day (or night). You will find that the Bible is very nice.

Society Clicks

By KATHY CARLOS
I'll come right to the point, no beating around the bush. I think society clicks, especially in school, are strictly for the birds. What good do they accomplish? None that I can see. In fact, I've seen them do a lot of harm. Bessie admitted a group of girls at her school because they always had plenty of boys swarming around, pretty clothes, and always going to some elegant place. To Bessie, like many other girls, this looked great. "Wouldn't it be just dreamy to be accepted into their crowd," Bessie thought.
In their own charming little way, they gave Bessie the cold shoulder and impressed on her that she wasn't quite good enough. Bessie finally saw the light and realized their crowd wasn't quite so great after all. The farther away we stray from society clicks at S. H. S. the better off we will all be.

Gossip Clouds

Well, the scoop of the week—someone has finally landed Virgil Gracey—Libby Browning could that be you? ? ?
Surprise of the week—Johnny W. asking Ann V. to go steady—but it seems she is still "true blue" to Fred B.
Well, we almost had a mishap last week. Penny M. and Richard P. broke up, but it seems that everything is just fine again—(thank heavens).
How about some of you Jr. and Sr. boys getting on the stick and asking some of the Jr. and Sr. girls to go to the "Jr. Sr. Prom. I hear they have some mighty pretty dresses.
One of the cutest couples in the halls today—is Bobby L. and Carol N. Everyone's glad to see them together. Here's hoping it lasts!
Iris and Jef seem to be very happy—could it be because Joe and Robert are home?

Glee Club Gives Concert Monday In Assembly

Instead of the regularly scheduled assembly day, the Glee Club gave a concert Monday for the students of S.H.S.
They did this because some of the members of the Glee Club are going to Pinercrest Tuesday to take scholarship tests.
The group said the numbers that they sang at the district contest Friday at Daytona Beach, unknown before the Glee Club, Miss Whitte gave them a song to sing read. They did not want to consider that they hadn't seen the number before.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

CHAPTER 23
WHY ARE you so worried about that recording?" I asked Jack Walton.
 "You do have it?"
 "Yes," I said. "All you did was ask Anita to do your dancing partner in a night club act. Was there something else between you two? Why did she turn off the recorder when she did?"
 "I don't know."
 "Did she expect you to make a pass at her?"
 "Probably. Anita expected every man to make a pass."
 "She wasn't disappointed very often. But you didn't make a pass, so she couldn't blackmail you by threatening to queer you with Dottie. What was on that tape that she could use for blackmail?"
 "Why do you want to know?"
 "You said you were going to stop caring about that."
 "Yeah," he said. "He blew a long, tired sigh into his cupped hand, then rubbed it all over his crew cut. 'All I want is that tape.'"
 "Tell me about it and I... maybe I'll give it to you."
 He said slowly, "Are you thinking I might have killed Anita because she was blackmailing me?"
 I shrugged. It wasn't a very good shrug, but then they don't make shrugs like they used to. "I'm thinking but thoughts about you," I said. "Prove to me I'm wrong. Go ahead!"
 He took another one of those breaths; this was a boy who liked his air. Then he exploded in a rush of words.
 "I love Dottie. I'm going to marry her. I want to make some money for the two of us, and not by being a damn dancing teacher."
 "You want to run a roadhouse?"
 "Yeah, that's for me. A combination of being in show business and living in the country. But it takes money to go into any business, a couple of months ago I finally got a chance at that money. Dottie's sister talked her husband into loaning it to me. It was a struggle, Phil... that's her husband's name... he hated the idea, he still hates it. He's amicable. To him show business, night clubs, road houses... no. But a butcher or a baker or run a little store like him. He thinks I'm a dope."
 "And," I said, "you think he's a dope. It's there on the tape."
 "That's it. Can you imagine how little old Phil would feel about loaning me five thousand dollars if he heard that tape? Why, if Dottie's sister heard it, she would return here to protect the baby."
 "First Model
 The following year Miryam made her first model of an inter-communications set for the home. A device that carries sounds from one room to another.
 That same model still appears in the catalog of Miryam Simpson's products.
 Miryam Simpson now is president and general sales manager of Masco, a Long Island firm that makes 307 different electronic communications items.
 Her plant grosses about $2,000,000 a year.
 During the last war Miryam Simpson was a dollar-a-year-woman in Washington, and she still is the only woman member of the exclusive Gaslight Club of top executives in the electronics field.
 She readily admits it's hard for a woman to crack this field which still is almost exclusively a man's world. But she credits some of her own success in it to the fact that she is a woman; particularly the pioneering she has done in the home inter-communications field.
 An Accident
 Some of her customers use the small intercom to talk to their dogs in the back yard, protect their poultry against thieves—or to listen to what the neighbors are saying on the front porch. But Miryam Simpson believes her invention is a "wife-saver," something that could save the housewife many steps; and an "electronic nurse," making it possible for a mother to keep in touch with her child through walls.
 Miryam Simpson is a hearty woman. But five years ago she was in an accident that nearly took her life. It incapacitated her for a year, and left her with metal pins and plates in her body. She says the experience taught her a lot.
 "I was rocky until then," she said. "Then I learned that we human beings, no matter who we are, are inconsequential in the large scheme of things. We can be wiped out in a second."
 "Thank you very much."
 I traced Bob Spencer to the men's locker room and prepared to ambush him outside its entrance. I stepped into the covering of a phone booth and was reminded at once of something I'd wanted to do for hours.
 The phone in one apartment was answered immediately. Steve and I checked on each other's health, then got down to business. He reported first.
 He had not been able to locate Harriet Kroll or Mrs. Zeigler in any of the bars around 842 West Twenty-ninth Street. He had finally given up and gone back to wait outside the rooming house. About an hour ago the two ladies had come staggering home. He had been able to make them admit they were the ladies he wanted to see. That was all. They had both been too lashed up to be any more coherent than I had. There was nothing to do but give them the night to sleep it off. We would call on them in the morning.
 I reviewed the chronological order of my report. I told him first about Ute, Junior, who was none other than my friend, Bob Spencer. Then I told him about Jack Walton, his hopes and troubles. Then I got to my date with Weneel Kipp.
 "He isn't married, Steve? His wife is just a protective character he dreamed up?" Steve didn't react. "Don't you understand?"
 "What?"
 "Well, Anita wasn't blackmailing him. How could she?"
 "Yeah, I see. So Kipp's not a suspect anymore. There wouldn't have been any reason for him to murder her."
 "That's right," I said. "Steve, I have to hang up. O. H. Junior, he none as soon as I can. Wait for me."
 I stepped out of the phone booth practically into Bob Spencer's arms. He was startled, then his face broke into a patronizing smile. The pale eyes behind the rimless glasses blinked recognition. He all but patted me on the arm. He said, "Well, Heater?"
 "Yeah, Bob, could I speak to you?" I was being confidential, personal and very urgent. "Could I speak to you alone some place?"
 "Why, of course, glad to oblige. If the conference room is empty..." He chuckled. "What better place to have a conference?"
 Tomorrow: Detective Lieut. Bulling comes back—in a mood for hospitality. "I'm going to wrap up this case now," he says.

Traveler Gripes About High Cost Of Tipping Here

NEW YORK — A gentleman lately came home to America after 12 years in the Orient checks in today with a considerable gripe about the high cost of tipping in this country, a living hazard he had largely forgotten.

"I guess you'd call it righteous indignation on my part," he said. "But it was the first thing that struck me."

"You just try traveling around the United States for a couple of months with three kids and a wife and you'll see what I mean. The thought even occurred to me, while coming across the country by train, that it would be a heck of a good thing for a presidential candidate to have an abolishment plank in his platform—all though I suppose it would lose him a lot of votes from the group that have developed the pattern that they've got to be tipped."

Service With Frown
 "The first tip-off on tipping came on the ship over. You find that some of the people who are not worth a damn until the day you land. Then they're all smiles and unctuous bows."

"When you look at the custom from a national angle it actually seems kind of funny."

"Funny" how's that?"
 "The humorous angle to me," he said, "is the picture of these middle-class Americans being so proud enough to refuse, on either side, I don't want to sound pompous, but the whole institution of tipping seems to me to be incongruous to the American ideal."

"Tipping would be much more logical in the Orient because there in many places you do have a menial working class that could expect to be tipped by the class that has money."

Better In Orient
 How does it work in the Orient?"
 "Well, in Japan at least, they add a surcharge to the bill in a restaurant. It's practically always 10 per cent. You do tip a bellhop for carrying your bags if you're traveling.

"As for barbers, when they hand you your change they give you the correct amount, without a lot of spare change thrown in as an indication that they expect a tip.
 The man has been, traveling, visiting relatives, through the Middle West, Far West, South, and East, and his impression is that tipping has reached a constant menace level for travelers in all sections, including the rather rural ones.
 He advances the theory that tipping soon may go on a vertical lark, working its way into the palms of elevator operators. If the amount were based on the altitude reached, visiting places like the Empire State Building could be a pretty steep business.

Aircraft Co. Helps Guide Teen-Agers

DALLAS — Those who think today's teen-agers have their heads filled only with thoughts of hot-rods, dates, ice-cream sodas and rock-roll records need to look more closely at the inner youth.
 Anyway, that's the conclusion reached by some aircraft engineers who are offering to help teen-agers along the road to becoming technicians and scientists.
 Cognizant of the nationwide shortage of top-flight engineers, Temco Aircraft Corp. officials wondered if they could do anything about it, even in a small way.
 They found that many high schools, offered no course in physics in this nuclear age. Others, due either to a teacher shortage or apparent lack of interest by students, offered no science training.
 Temco officials decided to help steer at least a few students into courses that would help them become tomorrow's "men of science" by offering trophies to the best mathematics and physics students in each of the Dallas schools.
 Then they invited interested high school students to visit the plant at night. Temco, one of the nation's largest aircraft subcontractors, offered a look at the T-1, the company's new primary jet-trainer for the Navy, plus career talks with leading engineers.
 Pertinent Questions
 Some officials, frankly expected only a few "read book-worms" to accept the offer. For many teen-agers, it would mean coming up a date, perhaps missing a basketball game or dance.
 The doubtful ones were wrong. The first night, 15 students attended. Then things began to snowball as word reached other students that engineers were trying sincerely to answer their questions. The final three nights attracted groups of up to 150.

Questions by teen-agers ranged from inquisitive minds. They included such queries as:
 "What is a servo-mechanism?"
 "After you get to be a working engineer, how do you get into design engineering—does it take any different type of training?"
 "How do you get into the atomic power field?"
 "Changes will probably be slow," Breimer said. "Numbers were reduced because of drought in the West. Until this distress is relieved slaughter rates will not go down much nor prices go up much, either in the dry area or elsewhere.

WHITE SPRINGS—Nearing completion at the Stephen Foster Memorial on the Suwannee River here is the 300 foot Foster Carillon Tower above, scheduled for opening to the public in early Summer. Dedication will come later with installation of the world's largest set of tubular bells, to be heard in daily concerts of Foster melodies. Addition of the Carillon Tower to the Foster Museum and other facilities in the state park will enhance the position of the Stephen Foster Memorial as the most-visited non-commercial attraction in the Southeast.

 Kansas had the sharpest decrease, with 13 per cent fewer cattle this year than in 1956. Among other drought states, Texas had a nine per cent cut; New Mexico, seven per cent; Oklahoma, six per cent; South Dakota, five per cent; Nebraska, four per cent; and Colorado, one per cent. These states, plus Montana and North Dakota, accounted for most of the national decline.
 Regions outside the Great Plains increased cattle numbers about one per cent.

Gain In Southeast
 In the Southeast, where production has increased the fastest since 1949, numbers have not yet turned down. The Southeast showed a small gain as of Jan. 1. The corn belt, except for the dry western fringe, also maintained its numbers.
 Reductions appeared in both milk and beef cattle and in both young and old stock. Milk cow numbers were off one per cent, beef cows two per cent. The total cow herd now is more than 1 million head below its high of 1955. Breimer said this gives promise of a reduced beef output and steeper prices in years ahead.

Call and steer inventories—which affect this year's slaughter rate—are down about 500,000 head, or two per cent, but still large. More cattle and calves—four per cent more—are on feed.
 Consequently, Breimer argues, the longer-range promise of improved prices will not be fulfilled immediately. Prices of beef cattle have been a bit higher than last

Woman Pioneer In Electronics Started As 'Ham'

NEW YORK — A kidnapping—that shocked the world helped play a large part in the remarkable career of Miryam Simpson, a pioneer in the world of electronics.
 It happened on March 1, 1932. Miryam was 19 years old, a radio "ham" and a dreamer. Radio was in its infancy, and Miryam, even though she was a girl, was learning all she could about it. She built her first crystal set at the age of six, and from that time on her career was cut out for her.
 The girl had an idol in those days, a man who believed in an "other kind of dream, and made it come true; Charles Lindbergh.
 That first day of March in 1932, Miryam never left her self-made Lindbergh baby kidnapping filled the air. In the months that followed she couldn't get out of her mind the idea that there should have been some way to protect

Supermarket Idea Is Tried By Army

FORT HOOD, Tex. — The Army has turned to the supermarket principals for more efficiency in supplying troops.
 Fort Hood's new Self Service Supply Center aims to do away with the tedious requisition method by which units obtain field and office supplies.
 The center contains some 355,000 worth of merchandise on eight miles of steel shelves covering 25,000 square feet of floor space in an old mess hall. Each Fort Hood troop unit is given an account at the store and a catalog of the items available. All purchases are charged against these accounts.
 The unit quartermaster can walk through the lanes of shelving and pick out what he needs, putting it in a cart provided by the center. The items are checked out at a counter.
 "I was rocky until then," she said. "Then I learned that we human beings, no matter who we are, are inconsequential in the large scheme of things. We can be wiped out in a second."

Funny Bunny Cake

A cake without frosting is like peaches without cream. Your children have probably told you so dozens of times. On the other hand, even your simplest cake will become a great treat when it's frosted prettily and tastily. The bunny cake shown here is an example. Any day special Easter it is a chocolate cake or any other favorite. But add a special French icing made with pure vegetable shortening, flavored with orange juice, tinted pale yellow with vegetable coloring. Dot it with green nuts of tinted coconut filled with Easter eggs and a marshmallow bunny, and your favorite cake takes on new flavor, is a new delight. Here is the recipe for this extra special icing, a new development of Crisco Kitchens, and directions for making the bunny.
Creamy French Icing
 2 tablespoons water
 4-1/2 tablespoons granulated sugar
 1/2 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
 1 egg
 1/2 cup Crisco
 1 teaspoon orange rind
 1 tablespoon orange juice
 To Make Bunnies—Clip two slices in the top of a marshmallow and stand them up to look like ears. Gently pull the marshmallow to elongate it for the body, and make a twist at one end for a tail and at the other for the nose. Use red vegetable coloring diluted with water for the nose and eyes.

A Party Idea To Yodel About

If you lived in Switzerland and were planning a party, chances are you'd have a fish fry. So why the Swiss do it. Travelers who have been entertained in Swiss homes return here to try it themselves. Because a Swiss fish fry is like an inside barbecue. You cook your own food whenever you want it. The table is set with everything you need; buttery shrimp, scallops, oysters, or small finger sticks of fish fillet, batter to dunk the fish in before they are fried, a deep fryer half full of Crisco heated to 365°F., individual skewers to hold the fish as you fry it, a big bowl of green salad, chunks of garlic or rye bread or coffee or other beverages.
 Frozen as well as fresh fish can be used so these parties can be enjoyed all across the country. And for people who don't like fish, a meat dish of canned corn beef balls with a stuffed olive in the center will get a big play. Dipped in batter and deep fried, they're an unusual delicacy that will bring many requests for the recipe.

FISH FRY
 Mix all ingredients together. Increase recipe to suit your crowd. Place in bowl on serving table. Dip fish into batter and fry at once in Crisco heated to 365°F. for 3 to 5 minutes or until crispy brown on the outside. When cool enough to eat you'll find that properly prepared and fried fish this way foods are tender and sweet inside, crispy outside and free of grease.

Annexation Answer To Community Expansion For City Of Sanford

A stagnant attitude is unhealthy. And when Sanford becomes stagnant, ceases to expand as its population increases, then the entire economy becomes sluggish because of the lack of space in which to place those homes, businesses, industries, and commercial establishments who would like to take advantage of city conveniences.

The prediction has been made that Sanford's population would be upward of 50,000 by 1965—that is, within the corporate limits of the community.

And if various projects become a reality—the prediction will be exceeded by many thousand.

The only way Sanford can expand as a community is by annexation—and such a plan has been approved, forcefully, by those within the city limits of Sanford as well as by a majority of the people who live outside of the city limits and within the fringe areas of the city.

It has been announced that the Legislature delegation, in the coming session of the State Legislature, will introduce a proposed bill allowing the City of Sanford to annex certain areas of the city either by petition or by referendum.

A petition of a majority of the people in any one given area would, with the approval of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners, bring the area into the city limits.

Thus would those homeowners be given the advantages of many city services they are not now receiving—city water, sewage disposal plant (when it is approved for construction), lights, police and fire protection, zoning, street maintenance, garbage and rubbish collections, street cleaning, lower insurance rates, and many other intangible values which are not immediately seen on the surface.

Available home sites within the city limits of the City of Sanford are fast disappearing—there must be some way to grow—by annexation of areas which surround the fringe of the city from one side to the other.

There are those who would like to continue to enjoy the benefits of municipal services to some degree and continue to live outside of the corporate limits. There are those who would like to continue to gain a greater part of livelihood from inside the City of Sanford and continue to live in the rural areas.

It is admitted that there are some economic advantages.

Ford Reveals New Auto, Edsel

A UNITED PRESS EXTRA BY ROBERT J. STERLING, United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richard S. Krafe is a man beating the drums for a product so secret only 500 people know what it will look like.

The product is the new Edsel automobile. Ford's forthcoming challenge in the medium-priced automotive field. Krafe, general manager and vice president of the Edsel Division, is busy lining up the 1,200 dealers who will originally distribute the new car.

"We've received more than 2,800 applications for dealerships," Krafe told the United Press in an interview. "But we're not waiting for people to come to us—we're asking banks and business leaders to recommend prospective dealers, too."

Dusting Powders Used For Medicinal Purposes

By HERMAN M. HUNDEISEN, M.D.

DUSTING POWDERS have a definite use in the field of medicine. Most of you, I dare say, have used such a powder from time to time. Maybe it was to prevent the spread of athlete's foot or some other skin disease, or to halt obnoxious odors.

Whatever the reason, the powders probably performed the job well. Let's see why.

Protective Action

The dusting powders your doctor recommends are fine, grit-free preparations. All have a common therapeutic value—protective action.

These powders lessen itching and burning sensations by clinging to the skin and forming a covering which helps protect the surface from contact with air and from the friction caused by clothing.

A waterproof powder may be useful when the skin is not excoriated or stripped from the wound.

Cling To Skin

Such powders have a physical affinity to fat and naturally cling to the surface of the skin. Because of this, they generally provide excellent protection against irritating watery discharges.

For an open wound, a water-absorbent dusting powder usually is better than a waterproof powder.

Bacteria and fungi need moisture to multiply.

Absorbent Fluids

Water-absorbent powders help dry the wound by absorbing fluids from the surface of the skin. Through such action, some powders do a great deal to hamper the growth of fungi or bacteria.

It actually causes some condensation of the tissue, acting somewhat like an astringent.

One particular powder, which has a maize core, will absorb moisture up to nearly five times its weight.

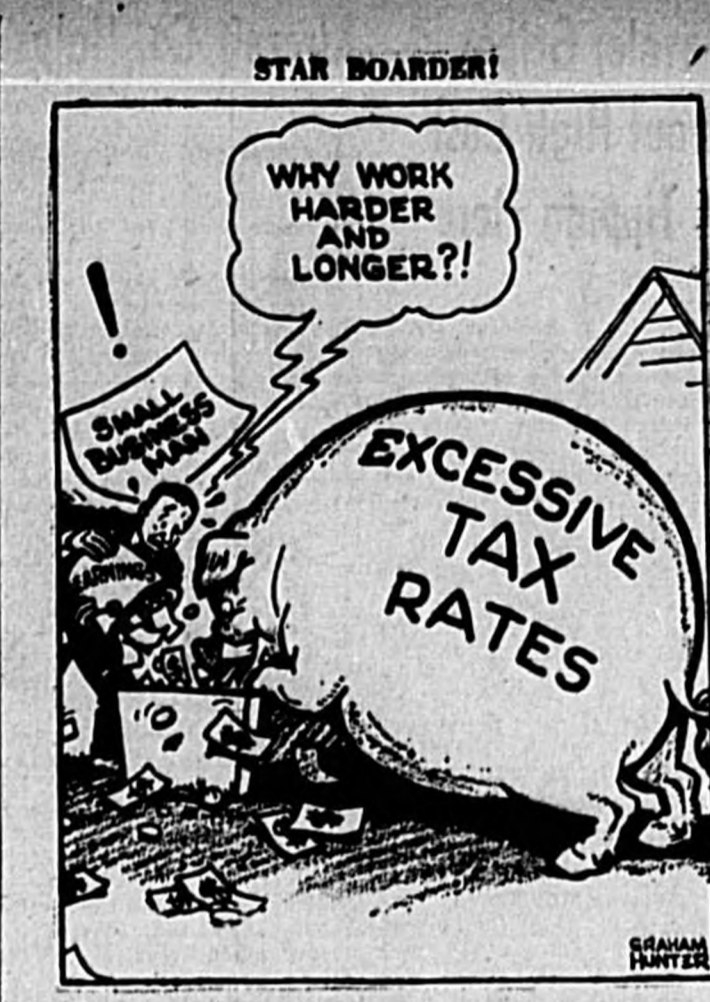

It's important that these powders don't cake about the wound. If they do, they lose much of their drying powers.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Q. O.: What might be the cause of a severe burning sensation in the throat? I neither smoke nor drink.

A.: The burning sensation in your throat may be due to inflammation resulting from infection in the throat itself or to a chronic sinus infection.

An examination by your doctor or by a throat specialist might determine the exact cause of the difficulty so that proper treatment could be prescribed.

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL RAY

I remember a long time ago Peter O. Knight, then president of the Tampa Electric Company, made the remark that if the Legislature met every ten years, instead of every two the state would be a lot better off.

I didn't agree with him and I don't now. Considering the fast place we are moving today I feel that we would be better off if sessions were held oftener for a lot can happen in two years and sometimes immediate action would help alleviate a serious situation.

Government today is big business, the biggest business there is. If our large industrial organizations were to hold directors' meetings only once every two years they would be in an awful mess.

There is plenty of room for improvement in our governmental system. Granting that it is the best our political minds have been able to devise, it is my opinion that a closer check is needed and instead of trying to operate on a "horse and buggy" basis we should streamline the job and operate on the jet age basis.

We need knowledge, experience and ability in our legislators. Men and women charged with the tremendous responsibilities that attend government today should be especially trained for the job. Unfortunately, few are, and it is amazing that we have done as much and made such progress under the present system.

It speaks well for the inherent honesty, integrity and sincerity of those we have chosen to represent us. At best, the task of serving as a Senator or Representative, despite the honor and distinction, is trying and difficult. More often than not the sincere effort of a legislator to serve his state and his constituents is misunderstood and unappreciated. It is truly a thankless job, and many a man has, shortened his life and sacrificed his health and personal interests with no reward other than his personal knowledge of a job well done as a true and faithful servant.

The average legislator can look for little help from those he really serves. Unfortunately, the average citizen is so engrossed in his own affairs, so concerned with his own selfish interests, that he pays little heed to what those he elects to offer may do unless, of course, they should happen to tread on his toes, in some manner, then he yells to high heaven. They do not realize the pressure a legislator is under throughout a legislative session. They do not have to personally contend with the powerful lobbies that constantly harass and stalk the lawmaker. They do not appreciate the courage and ability it takes to consider every question on its merits, keeping ever in mind the best interests of the state as a whole and of the people who make up its citizenry.

Next month senators and representatives, composing the Legislature, chosen by the people, will assemble in Tallahassee to consider the problems that confront us and seek their best answer.

They are ordinary men and women, no different from you and me. They have the same family problems, the same business problems, the same everyday headaches, only theirs is the added burden of taking on years as well and trying to do something constructive about it.

Remember your legislator really wants to defend you and protect you. He wants to help his state and his nation. Give him your trust and support. Don't burden him with purely selfish appetites. Back him up, fight with him and, above all, let him know you trust him as a neighbor and friend who can call on you if need be.

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES R. McCANN

Soviet Russia appears to be making a determined attempt to strengthen the regime of Communist Premier János Kádár of Hungary.

At the same time, it is making Kádár more and more of a puppet who is completely under Russian domination.

Kádár, who betrayed the government of Imre Nagy during the Hungarian revolt, arrived in Moscow Wednesday on a "state" visit which is expected to last 10 days or more.

His hosts really rolled out the red carpet for him.

They know, as Kádár did, that he left behind him a sulen, bitter people who accept him only because a Russian army of occupation is ready to turn its tanks and artillery against them at the first sign of a new revolt.

Russian Unity Campaign

It is no doubt true that Kádár's visit, like that of other leaders of the Soviet satellite countries in recent weeks, is part of a Russian campaign to strengthen the "unity" of the satellites.

The strengthening is being effected by stamping out, as far as possible, every vestige of liberalized government in the countries of Communist Eastern Europe—except Poland, which made its revolt stick by not carrying it too far.

Most of the present leaders in the satellites are pretty firmly in control of their countries. All of them, again with the exception of Poland, are tough "Stalinists," who opposed the trend toward liberalization that resulted from Khrushchev's denunciation of Josef Stalin.

Kádár Regime Jitters

But Kádár and those associated with him in the Hungarian government, are jittery. They were openly alarmed last Friday, the anniversary of the 1948 revolution against Hapsburg rule, at the possibility of a new revolt by workers. They seem to be afraid that despite the ruthless repression to which they have restarted, the workers and students may break late revolt again at any time.

Kádár's position personally is so weak that he has had some difficulty in finding suitable men to share the responsibilities of government with him.

Aware of the situation, the Russians are preparing for a long-term occupation of Hungary. Families are reported to be arriving by trainloads in token that the occupation is to last for the foreseeable future.

Try and Stop Me

A CHERISHED LEGEND on the Paramount lot concerns the day when W. C. Fields, tired of having Baby LeRoy steal some after scene rights from under his nose, spiked the mopey actor's orange juice with a nip of gin.

When Baby LeRoy fell sound asleep, Fields roared, "The kid's no trouper! Send him home!"

Well, Baby LeRoy, now grown to manhood, says it ain't true! Interviewed by Don Freeman in San Diego, LeRoy insisted, "I've seen lots of photographs of Fields and me when I was a baby, and the expression on Bill's face radiates genuine love!"

Bingo! Another illusion shattered!

In Miami, Roy Jackson demanded that new thoroughfares be named for famous personalities like Julian Street, Allyn Khan, Rosemary Lane and the Band of Avenue. "What fun," he reflects, "it would be to live off Betty Grable or drive out and cry on the shoulder of Marilyn Monroe!"

THE PRIVILEGE TO VOTE, OR NOT THE PRIVILEGE TO VOTE, THAT IS THE QUESTION?

A casual inspection will show that many homes have been constructed and now occupied in a Development just South of the present City limits, and from Sanford Avenue West; but largely in a narrow strip or finger, and now extends South of Onora Road, in almost equal density to be.

WHERE should the City limits stop and WHY just there? There must be two interested groups: the City of Sanford and the "Area under development". It should not be a unilateral proposition, but agreement between interested parties, with the view for the greatest good to the largest number of individuals, after explaining the advantages and disadvantages.

Each group should have their day in Court to give their views and contentions, and each agree that a majority should prevail. That is the democratic manner and method for such proposed changes; and the logical manner and method to determine the wish or wishes of the interested parties is by ballot, and that a secret ballot.

This was well said by Mayor Gatchel, as quoted in the Sanford Herald, Tuesday, February 13th, 1957 regarding the election of a Mayor for the City of Sanford when he said "Through an ordinance we take the personalities out of the election of the Mayor by establishing a secret ballot." We quote that as being the feelings and desires of the citizens affected in this area.

Many citizens criticize rulings of our Supreme Court saying that the sections of the country most affected had no opportunity to express their view by a ballot.

Now, when the homes in this development were ready for sale—information gathered and believed—all preparations had been made for utilities in the homes, and we believe that the changes or expansion for this had been paid for by the developer, and most probably added to the sale price; yet the purchasers before they could buy one of these homes, which was largely financed by the Government ultimately, were requested, if not REQUIRED, to sign a statement as follows:

"For and in consideration of the furnishing by the City of Sanford of water and/or sewer service to the property owned by the undersigned outside the present limits of the City limits, described as follows: _____, and of the additional benefits to accrue to the undersigned, we hereby agree to annexation and incorporation of the premises _____ at any future time upon such conditions as the City Commission of said City shall determine, without protest or hindrance on our part. We further agree that should any protest be made against such annexation by us or our successors in title, the same shall constitute grounds for immediate discontinuance by the City of the furnishing of water and/or sewer service herein above provided, but such action shall not stop or hinder the City in any annexation proposed affecting the above premises."

CITIZENS, think this over, read it again and read it carefully, get the full meaning, attitude and import expressed therein, discuss it with your neighbors or friends. Do you now feel that your predecessor in title has been wrongfully required or requested, to bind you, or stop your vote to determine your best interest in such cases.

Do you feel that each property owner should have the right to express their wishes by a secret ballot concerning their property, just as you have in the election of your public officials.

You may be among those living between the present City limits and this Development. Do you then feel that your property rights would be affected without your having an opportunity to express your wishes.

We are here neither advocating "pro" or "con" for you. We do believe it will be of much advantage to our Representatives in our Legislature to learn your thoughts, and we plead with you to express them.

More comments about the O. result in Civilian Appreciation W. C. fashion show—all the guests looked as lovely as the models in their spring finery. Yellow seems to be the most popular color this year, and sheath dresses with slim cuts, a most successful style. The Board did an excellent job on the entire production, and the talents they displayed were most impressive. Among the civilian guests were glimpsed Mary Peterson, Jane Phillips, Ruth Jean Robson, Mrs. W. E. Gray, Mary Higgins, and many, many others.

Wives of VAH-7 and VAH-9 are having a VERY quiet time these days with all their husbands on the carrier. If anyone can call taking care of children being quiet—it certainly isn't restful, and since this is Sunday afternoon, I have reached the end of my rope, but will try to carry on in the lighter vein.

Bonnie Grandy is home for a few days from the hospital. Bob's brother, sister-in-law, and niece are visiting, and having a happy family reunion.

Marge and Bill Hill gave a dinner and poker party in honor of Marge's cousin, Bert Simms of Washington, D. C. Attending were Don and Polly Brubaker, John and Spook Hook, Doris Francisco, and Mr. Schumacher, Doris's father.

VAH-11 switched the tables on HATU, and gave them a square dance Friday night. Harry Grifone was decked out in their dancing togs, and by this time are experts in the finer aspects of the square dance. Especially Bob Stone. All this took place at the Shrine Hall, and was much fun, with an excellent attendance. Seen among the crowd were Rosemary and Cliff Duncan, Ruth and Forrest Norvell, Don and Polly Brubaker, Vi and Charlie Mildahn, Mike and Bob Stone, Camille and Bob Metzger, Pat Hansen, Betty and Verne Mountcastle, and Gretchen Hall. Polly and Don Brubaker asked the VAH-11 dancers for dinner before the dance.

A ONE DAY'S CATCH at Walker Cay, Bahama Islands brought in by H. Paul Moler, president of the Wilson Hiner Furniture Co. and A. L. Wilson, secretary-treasurer and general manager. Moler and Wilson spent four days at Walker Cay, returning to Sanford late Saturday. The second day's catch, said Wilson, who is also a member of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners, consisted of 12 red snappers, two groupers, and a king mackerel.

Seminole Smother All-Vet Leesburg Team 12-4 Friday

The Sanford Seminoles, shuffled their starting lineup and cracked the ice in the win column Friday afternoon as every member of the Seminoles team cracked for a hit, proving that their could out weight experience, as the smothered an all-veteran Leesburg club 12-4.

Ken McMurray, as well as the entire team, made a stern showing that he could shake off the first game jitters in the first game. McMurray stayed on the mound for the entire game, allowing only four hits and giving up only two walks for the outing.

But while McMurray was finding his mark on the edges of the plate, the other pitcher, Eddie Barbour, was double duty on third base and proved to be the man with the heavy bat during the game as he rapped three hits, one of them a triple, in five trips at the plate.

The whole game was a tribute to team unity as the Seminoles took the courage to bounce back very much into the Orange Belt Conference baseball picture.

The outfield was outstanding in unity effort. David Bramlett, Brantley Schirard and Johnny Yeakle accounted for 10 put-outs in the game and all three went errorless for the outing. Bramlett made four put-outs, as did Schirard and Yeakle made two.

Only once did the Seminoles falter in their display of steady improvement. In the last of the second and during the third inning the infield fell apart momentarily, and it was there six of the total of eight errors were made.

But the tension eased and the team came around to stem the tide. Then they went to their turn at bat with renewed vigor and blasted in five runs. Confidence rode with them the rest of the way, and in the sixth they blasted for another five runs.

In hitting, Barbour paved the way with 3 for 3, a triple and two singles; David Bramlett had 1 for 4, two runs batted in, one of which was a walk with the bases loaded; Schirard had 1 for 3 and sent two men across the plate; Cecil Dandridge had 1 for 4, and drove in one run; Yeakle had 1 for 5, driving in two; McMurray had 1 for 4; Ronnie Russel had 2 for 4; Doyle Corley had 1 for 4; and Bill Tyre had 0 for 1, but drew four walks, boosted two men across the plate.

Minneapolis Loses Two Out Of Three Over Weekend

The Minneapolis Millers continued the apologetic effort to reshuffle their starting lineup over the weekend and lost two out of three games for their efforts.

The Millers are the late arrivals for spring training and are from two to three weeks behind their competitors as a result. Combined with a situation of looking for new stock with added strength, the Millers faced a hard record of prospective losing games for at least two or three more days before their smooth machinery gets into full power.

In an interview yesterday afternoon Rosie Ryan, Minneapolis manager, said he was still amazed at the way the New York Giant Farm System was welcomed back to Sanford.

"You know," he said, "it's wonderful to be in such a city as this and see the wonderful attitude the people display. We have a wonderful following of people in the stands for the games in your beautiful stadium already, and our games are still rough because we're not in shape."

When told that people were grateful for the Spring Exhibition games in Memorial Stadium being opened to them free of charge, Ryan said, "It was wonderful to be accepted back so graciously. The 30 exhibition games in Memorial Stadium that we have given free admission to is just a small way to repay the fine treatment the people have accorded us."

Saturday—Minneapolis 4, Omaha 1
Slew Miller and Al Corwin pitched marvelous ball while Lee Tate and Orlando Cepeda furnished the battery power as the Minneapolis Millers moved to a 4-1 victory over Omaha Saturday in Daytona.

Miller pitched the first five innings for the Millers and fanned eight of the Omaha batters. In the five innings Omaha was able to get hits off Miller three times, and were able to convert only one of them into a run. Miller gave up only three walks.

But when Corwin took over for the last four innings, things got even hotter for the Omaha club. Only five men reached first base in the last four innings—all of them by walks. Omaha failed to get a hit or a run off the fast baller.

Orlando Cepeda made the initial scoring possibility in the fifth inning by driving in a run on a triple in the fifth. Lee Tate put the polished finish on the game in the eighth when he blasted for a homer over the left field fence.

Bowling Alley Opened At NAS

Captain Robert W. Jackson, Commanding Officer of the Sanford Naval Air Station has announced the opening of the new Bowling Alley located in the old exercise room.

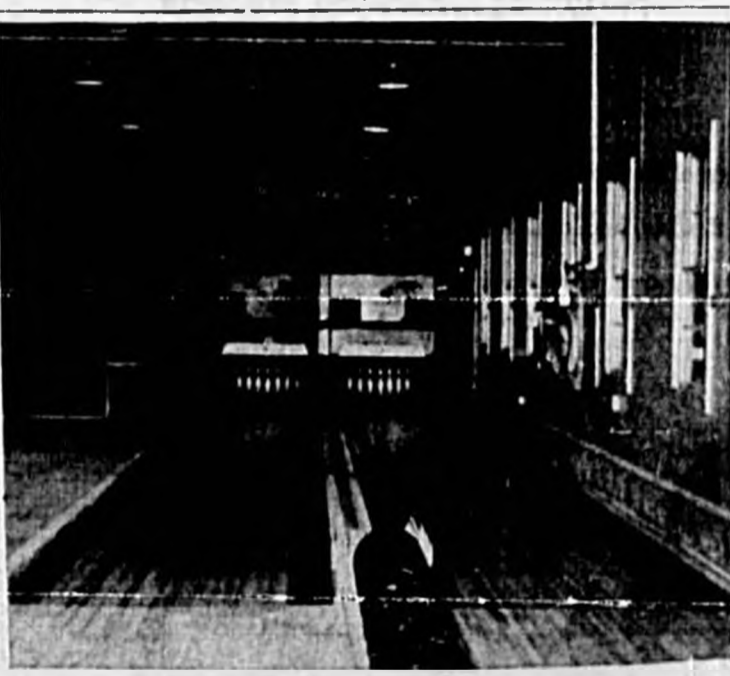

The bowling alley which has two lanes is the first facility to be completed of a planned recreation hall. To be added in the near future will be three pool tables and a ping pong table.

Work was started on the bowling alley in late November 1956 and completed on March 18, 1957. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company of Atlanta, Ga. were the contractors.

In keeping with plans to provide additional athletic facilities for the officers and men of the fleet and station, work on six courts each for basketball, volleyball and tennis will be completed this summer.

I will not be responsible for any debts incurred by any one other than myself after March 1st, 1957.

Over 300 Gather At Stelson To See Tennis Exhibition

Demonstrating the form that enabled her to win the Women's Amateur Singles Championship four times the Wimbledon Singles Championship three times and the World's Professional Women's Singles championship three times, Pauline Betts took part in an exhibition of tennis on the courts of Stetson University last Friday afternoon and thrilled a gallery of over three hundred.

In a one set exhibition, she defeated Vincent Antonetti of Puerto Rico, number two man of Rollins College Tennis Team with a score of 6-1. Then teaming with Vincent, she defeated Ben Soberal, number one man of the Rollins team and partner David Hueston by a score of 6-3 and finally found herself on the short end of the next two sets by scores of 7-5 and 6-3.

Soberal, formerly stationed at the Naval Air Station here, was the All-Navy Men's Singles Champion in 1955 and last year won the Florida State Open Championship. In the opinion of Charlie Morrison, who umpired the exhibition, his retrieving of practically impossible "gets" brought back memories of Betsy Grant, considered to be the greatest "go getter and returner" for his size in all tennis history.

Ben is known as the "Mighty Mite", small in stature but a tremendous competitor.

Pauline Betts, now married to Bob Adde, sports writer on a Washington, D. C. paper, is the mother of four children, three girls and a boy. Replying to Morrison's query as to how she preferred her introduction, she said, "Pauline Betts, it makes me feel younger".

She is now on the advisory staff of Corland Tennis Co. and is training to defend her championship title in Cleveland next month.

Eagles Win Out Over 2 Triple-A Ball Clubs

The Dallas Eagles, double-A member of the New York Giants Fabulous Farm System now housed in the new Dormitories on Mellonville Ave., slammed 10 home runs in three games over the weekend against three triple-A ball clubs that was good for two victories for the high stepping Texans.

On Friday the Eagles topped Minneapolis, big brother in the New York Giant Farm Organization, 20-13 in a wide open, high scoring fray that drew a tremendous crowd with loud applause in Memorial Stadium.

On Saturday the Eagles made another home appearance and edged by Rochester 4-3 the fastest game played so far this year.

But yesterday the Eagles met their downfall in Daytona when their starting pitcher, Tommy Bowers, blew in the third inning against Omaha and were finally nosed out after a gallant ninth inning stand by a score of 6-3.

The Eagles took advantage of a strong wind blowing toward the right field fence and slapped seven home runs across the alley to top the Minneapolis Millers in a wide open 20-13 game.

Young Willie McCovey, the Dallas first baseman with "Great" stamped all over him, led the way in the home run department. He slugged two across the fence. Up through Sunday afternoon's game, McCovey had hit eight home runs in 10 games.

Bobby Prescott moved his heavy bat into action and rapped two homers in the game to match McCovey's efforts, and Antonio Taylor also found the way over the fence for two round trips around the diamond. Ramon Conde tallied the other homer.

In the meantime, the Millers were also making efforts in the home run department as Orlando Cepeda cracked over two while Art Dunham and Amal Patano each made rounds trips.

Charles Fowler, Sherman Jones and Charles Davis pitched for the victors while Dick Sovde, Bobby Bowland and Don Heiman were the hurlers for losing Minneapolis.

Saturday—Dallas 4, Rochester 3
Behind the fine pitching of Murray Wall and Hiel Patrick, the Eagles rested on the insurance of Mickle Sullivan, the All-American college baseball player from Baylor Univ., in the second inning when he blasted a home run over the left field fence with one on base, the Eagles moved to an impressive 4-3 victory over Rochester in Memorial Stadium.

The quickest game played so far in the spring exhibition season was marked by good pitching on both sides. The game was over in one hour and 56 minutes.

Murray Wall and Hiel Patrick pitched from the mound for the Dallas win while Ed Donaldy and Duke Martell made the bid for Rochester. Martell came out with an almost lilly-white record for his four innings as he allowed only one hit and one run.

Sunday—Dallas 3, Omaha 6
Dallas Eagle starting pitcher Tommy Bowers pitched himself into trouble in the third inning when he was tabbed for two doubles and fell apart when his outfield support errored on him to cost the Eagles their third victory in a row against Triple-A competition yesterday afternoon in Daytona as they fell 6-3 prey to Omaha.

After the outfield error Bowers, who was scheduled to pitch five innings, allowed two more singles and a total of five runs before he was pulled and replaced by Johnny Wall.

The Eagles homered for two of their three runs and young Willie tapped a double against the center field wall for the other. Antonio Taylor homered in the fifth and Don Tausig homered in the ninth, but a gallant battery attempt in the ninth that produced only two runs couldn't stem the tide for the losing Eagles.

Wall, who relieved Bowers, allowed only one run in four innings and was relieved by Gil Bassitt, who went scoreless for his single inning of pitching.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

MONDAY

Plain, ordinary "common sense" (which my husband says I lack completely) tells me that SOMEONE must have done SOMETHING over this past week-end, but you couldn't prove it by me! I have a few items to report, but I'm afraid this will be another short one!

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Almond, of Sanford Ave., celebrated young Gary's fourth birthday by having a few of his little friends in for ice cream, cupcakes, and punch. That was last Thursday, March 21, and those attending were Kathy Warren, with her mother, Mrs. Barbara Warren, Mrs. Irene Dulek, with her two children, Gerry and Debby, and little Eddie Payne, a neighbor.

Was talking with Mrs. Robert Hoppe, of Rosalia Dr., and she tells me her mother, Mrs. Raymond Glynn, left last week for her home in Buffalo, New York. But Pat will have her hands full, as little Barbara Hoppe is due to enter Seminola Memorial Hospital tomorrow for a tonsillectomy. Barbara is only three and a half, so this will be quite an event in her young life!

Last Wednesday, March 20, the Medical Dept. at the Naval Air Station held their "outing" at the Lake Golden Recreation area, aboard the station. Was told that outside of those who were on duty, everyone turned out for this, and, naturally, had a wonderful time! The food, which is usually the center of attraction at any party, certainly was at this one! Bar-b-que chicken and steaks, potato salad, baked beans, soft drinks, and other beverages, were served and everyone became uncomfortably "stuffed."

Captain Jackson couldn't stay, but he did stop by; however, the station's executive officer, Cdr. Lewis Tammy, with Mrs. Tammy, did stay, and enjoyed the party. The "joke box" was played for dancing, and I understand the "hit" of the day was the impromptu "Elvis Presley" number staged by the six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Mack. Not to be outdone, little five year old Sharon Green joined right in the "spirit" of the fun, and accompanied him!

Want to extend a nautical "well done" to the members of Holy Cross Episcopal Church for going "over the top" during the Church Development Fund Drive. We have a lot of Navy people here, so this item is not out of place in the "Navy" column (put this in to stop the phone calls I'd undoubtedly get asking why).

Well, you can't say I didn't warn you that this would be a short one today, but I can't write about what haven't heard, and if you think this is another plea for news, you're so right!! How about it? The number is STILL FA 3-2371.

On The BOOKSHELF

By Sarah King

The new children's books are beginning to fill up the shelves in the back room. We're getting ready for the Reading Club this summer. The rules will be a little bit different than last year, so watch the column if you and your children are interested.

For you who like books of description and travel, do read Ben Burman's "It's A Big Country" (Literary guide for April) Here have first in the guide book. Off the highways, in the out of the way places, Ben Burman takes you to the Cumberland where sheriffs arrest murderers by simply sending out a penny post card. This fascinating book is profusely illustrated with drawings and photographs.

Did you read Margaret Lee Runbeck's "Our Miss Boo" well Miss Boo has become a very engaging teen-ager. In her new book Miss Boo is sixteen, Miss Runbeck takes her real-life heroine from schoolgirl crush to the terrors of a first prom from the poised sophistication of 16 to the almost shattering despair of a 17-year-old's first love. Episodes at camp and in the warm and wonderful Runbeck household, and all the problems and laments in a fresh and charming narrative that will be warmly welcomed by those who remember Miss Boo's earlier adventures.

"Knock and Wait Awhile," by William Weeks is a dramatic novel of undercover warfare in Europe. U. S. agent Packard Gray is sent to Frankfurt to head off an American newspaperwoman, Sarah Borsen, who is on her way to Russia to write Communist propaganda. Sarah's falling in love with Gray accomplished his primary mission but a series of blunders lead them into cloak-and-dagger violence.

The week long Convention begins today with the program being centered around the centennial celebration of the Association.

French Have Fine TV Picture But Lack Programming

PARIS (AP)—"We may have the finest television picture in the world, but it's not very far from being the worst," a Frenchman said the other day with a shrug of indifference.

He was sitting in a sidewalk cafe sipping his aperitif, totally indifferent to what was on the TV set in the back room. He was not the only one in this frame of mind. To many a Frenchman, TV is a new-fangled nuisance threatening to interfere with his well-organized way of life, especially his enthusiasm for conversation.

The Frenchman's remark about the "finest" and "worst" may sound like double talk, but it is easy to explain.

Six years ago French television adopted a very fine screen image, made up of 819 lines as compared to 405 lines in Great Britain, 625 in most of North and South America, and 625 lines on most of the European continent including Russia.

This fine line makes the picture look much sharper since it preserves more details. It also permits an eventual increase in the size of TV screens far beyond the limits to which the coarsest lineage will be able to go. There are practically no flaws in the French image, hence, "finest."

And "worst" for program content. Of course, not all Frenchmen will agree on this point, but to the non-partisan visitor the programs lack imagination and vigor.

Bread, Potatoes Are Called Useful In Reducing Plan

By GAIL GREENE

United Press Staff Correspondent ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Fat folks ought to stop covering at the sight of bread and potatoes.

That's the contention of Adella M. Beeuwkes, associate professor of public health nutrition at the University of Michigan.

Miss Beeuwkes would like to restore those two "bugaboos" to reducing diets.

She admitted her bread-potato theory may sound like heresy to the calorie-counter who has been scorned both for years.

But she believes "too many sugar-loaded foods are being gobbled up behind the excuse, 'Well, I never eat bread or potatoes.'"

"Better to Jerg" that extra slab of cherry pie or the soft drink you can't get through the day without," she advised.

Many Food Values

"Sugar contains lone-wolf calories," Miss Beeuwkes explained. "They just sit there and do nothing but add pounds."

Potatoes, on the other hand, have a great many food values and "aren't" especially fattening when eaten plain," she added.

Miss Beeuwkes, a trim blonde, said she eats potatoes and bread every day but tries not to think of each meal in terms of vitamins.

A homemaker shouldn't serve food as if it came straight off the pharmacy shelf," she said. "Don't say, 'Now darling, eat this, it contains oodles of riboflavin,' or pass me a heaping plate of thimble."

The university nutritionist believes it isn't enough to teach a child to use a fork and spoon. Somewhere in his education, a child should learn what to eat. "I advise nutritionists to go easy on the hot dog, however," she added.

Let Your Doctor Decide What Medicines You Need

By HERMAN M. BUDOWISEN, M.D.

DOCTORS aren't always right, serious infection, it won't do any good. I'll admit that. But their batting average is extremely good. That's why I'd like to caution you about arguing with your physician about what kind of medicine is best for you.

Some persons—maybe you are one of them—insist that a doctor give them some specific drug, even if he doesn't recommend it. For example, they will insist that their physician give them an injection of penicillin every time they get a cold. Penicillin is a pretty potent antibiotic but, like anything else, you can develop sort of a tolerance for it.

Not For Virus

Ordinarily, doctors prescribe this drug to prevent or treat secondary infections, not for the cold virus itself.

When you insist on getting this antibiotic each time you develop a cold, it simply amounts to a needless injection and a needless expense.

Serious Infection

Moreover, the more penicillin you get, the more your body becomes accustomed to its reaction. Indiscriminate use of the drug eventually may make you immune to its benefits. Then when you really need it to check some Penicillin can and does save lives. Some day it may save yours. So keep it on your side. Don't insist that it be used so often that you develop a resistance to it. When your doctor advises it, however, it's another matter. As I said, his batting average is pretty high. He knows when you need an antibiotic or any other specific type of drug. And he won't advise it unless he is confident it will do you some good.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

R. W.: What is the cause of bad breath and what treatment can be used?

Answer: Bad odor of the breath may come from several things: infected teeth, tonsils or adenoids, or infection of the nose or nasal sinuses.

The most frequent cause is found in the teeth, where there may be caries or lack of cleanliness due to insufficient proper care of the mouth and teeth and not eating bulky foods.

If thorough brushing of the teeth does not help, then an examination should be made by your physician to determine the cause so that proper treatment may be prescribed.

Children Love Circus Set-Up!

Maybe they aren't meant to be, but a birthday party for youngsters sometimes seems like a circus set-up. So—why not start with that idea, and plan a circus theme for your very next young-fry occasion? For this a "drum" filled with crunchy flaked coconut confetti is an attractive and simple-to-make centerpiece. Simply paste bands of colored paper or ribbons around a tin box. Add clown figures, gay glasses, pretty napkins, and the table is ready. Have plenty of ice cream, a pitcher of ice cold milk (flavored if desired), extra cookies to refill the drum and the party's on! Couldn't be simpler or more effective.

Party Cakes

1 1/2 cups tender-thin flaked coconut
1/2 cup finely cut dates
1/2 cup finely cut walnuts
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 cup sweetened condensed milk

Combine ingredients in order given and mix thoroughly. Pack in greased 10x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 25 minutes. When cold, cut in 1-inch squares. Wrap in waxed paper, if desired. Makes 32 squares.

FINGER BOWLS ARE BACK

A lobster-in-the-shell dinner calls for lots of hot water on your range—and a little finger-bowl of hot water for each diner. To really cleanse buttery fingers and remove the fishy odor, add a little soap suds to each bowl. At family meals it is proper to provide paper napkins for wiping, but the guests should have linen napkins at formal dinners.

Enthusiasts Seek To Supply Organ For Blind Musician

Sanford organ music enthusiasts and interested persons feel that the music of Orhan Osburn deserves further recognition and should be made available to a greater number of music lovers. Orhan Osburn was born 36 years ago in Dade City, and was blinded in infancy. Despite this handicap, his interest in music—and particularly in piano and organ—was evident at an early age. His first attempts were on an old reed organ of pump style. When six years old he was entered as the youngest student in the music department at the Florida School for the Blind at St. Augustine and remained there as a student for 13 years. At 23 he received an AB Degree from Stetson University where he majored in music and piano. Since graduating he has completed all but a few hours toward a Master's Degree at Florida State University. Traffic Violators To Be On Lookout For New Cruisers

Sanford traffic ordinance violators will have to be "on their toes" to escape the watchful eye of the police officers using two brand new cruisers recently put into service. The black and white Ford police automobiles can pass as "just another car" as they ply back and forth along Sanford's streets and boulevards looking for those who are prone to take advantage of opportunities to violate traffic regulations. The cruisers are solid black with the exception of side doors which are white and on which the Sanford City Emblem is embossed. The new black and white cars replace two of the canary yellow police cars which have been taken out of service. Both of the new cars are being used for traffic control.

Teachers Asked For Understanding Of School Needs

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's 30,000 teachers were asked today for "friendly understanding" of the state's over-all school needs while Polk County educators launched a new drive for a big across-the-board pay raise. Gov. LeRoy Collins and State School Superintendent Thomas D. Bailey both hit hard at strike threats by teachers and Collins asked for joint state and county efforts to raise their pay. But the governor also restated his opposition to the proposed $1,000 raise per teacher which would provide a starting salary of $4,300. Bailey, however, again endorsed the proposal as "necessary if we are to secure the qualified teachers parents desire and our children deserve." But he said he feared "that extreme and thoughtless action may make more difficult the efforts of our state officials and our Legislature in their efforts to provide for teacher needs." Bailey called on the state teachers for a friendly understanding of the needs in education, including the need for new school construction and facilities as well as pay raises. Mrs. Bill Tait of Tallahassee, incoming president of the Classroom Teachers Assn., said she was strongly opposed to the suggestion that Florida teachers "strike" for higher salaries. In Gaines City, meanwhile, some 125 teachers attended a meeting of the Polk County classroom teachers legislative committee and voted unanimously to urge a recall of the Florida Education Assn. and the Classroom Teachers Assn. delegate assemblies in Tallahassee during the Legislature.

Sewage Plant Will Cost $323,000

The same firm of engineers which prepared plans and proposals for a sewage treatment plant for Sanford in 1946 appeared before the Board of Sanford City Commissioners last night to report on its newer findings for the construction of the proposed new facility. B. F. Borden, representing the firm of Smith and Gillespie of Jacksonville, told the Board of Commissioners that construction cost is $117 per foot higher today than they were in 1946 as he announced that costs for the sewage treatment plant would come to $323,000. "The plant now proposed is half again as large," said Borden as he made his report to the five-man board. An outfall line, now being used to carry sewage into the St. Johns River, constructed at a cost of $25,000 cannot be used because it is too small, Borden told Com-

City Springing Up In County; 10,000 Population Expected

What was once the social gathering place for Central Florida will soon be a center of activity as another city begins to spring up in the southeast section of Seminole County. Bounded on the east and west by two huge lakes, Lake Catherine, Lake Emerald, and a small unnamed lake, the new city which the developers say will grow into a thriving community of 10,000 population, includes four beautiful lakes of smaller dimension, Spring Lake, Lake Catherine, Lake Emerald, and a small unnamed lake. Laddomil W. Morski, president of the Polonia Land Co. and Thomas W. Tuck, secretary-treasurer have visions of one of Florida's modern developments as four subdivisions, each with the type home to take care of every wish of those who are planning to settle in Florida. "We're not clearing land—we're building homes," said Morski as he pointed to new streets, newly dredged lakes, the recreation building, and the lush trees and luxuriant Florida shrub throughout the area of North Chuluota. "The one thing we're very proud of is our excellent water," said Morski. He explained that "We have our own water system with five miles of three and four inch water mains and at the present time we're planning a garbage disposal plant." North Chuluota, which contains the nearly 2,000 lots, has been the dream of a new city by Morski for five years. Ten years ago, he explained, I became fascinated with the area as I saw it for the first time. "It was the end of our rainbow," he said, as we came into the area. Mrs. Morski and I, to see it, and I remarked "Here's a town that's probably asleep and needs to be awakened." "This will be the center of the east portion of Seminole County," he said, "and already we are making rapid progress." Morski, talking to a Sanford (Continued on Page 8)

Many Events Planned

High Navy officials from the Navy Department in Washington, D. C. will be in Sanford Saturday for the Seminole County Navy Appreciation Day, Mayor David Gatchel said today. Mayor Gatchel, chairman of the invitations committee for the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the gigantic event, said also that Senator Spessard Holland and Congressman A. S. "Syd" Herlong Jr. will be here to participate in the biggest one-day celebration ever held here. He also said that Captain Harry F. Carlson, a former Sanford man, now of Pensacola, will be in Sanford for the full day's celebration in honor of the men of the Navy. Carlson, now retired, was formerly commanding officer at the Pensacola Naval Air Station. Other high Navy officials who will be on hand for the Seminole County Navy Appreciation Day will come from the Naval Air Station, Jacksonville. In the meantime, a final meeting to complete plans for the Saturday celebration will be held tonight in the auditorium of the City Hall. Co-chairmen Harry Canel and Garfield Willetts said yesterday that they expect all committee members and representatives of the various civic organizations who are to help in serving and other duties to attend the meeting so that the entire day's events can be coordinated. "This is going to be the biggest day ever in Sanford," said G. Andrew Speer, president of the local Jaycee organization. Jaycees look on the tremendous task of staging the Seminole County Navy Appreciation Day several weeks ago. Plans for the day include a Jaycees Navy Appreciation Day baseball game at the Sanford Memorial Baseball Stadium. Two of the New York Giants top Farm System baseball teams will be seen in action. The Fish Fry will be served (Continued on Page 8)

4 New Rotarians Tell Of Vocations At Monday's Meet

Wally Phillips of Phillips Colonial Cleaners, scheduled to be on the Rotary Club's Vocational Service program yesterday afternoon, was really not as disappointed as he appeared to be at being kept off the program due to the fact that the other four new Rotarians took up too much time (in Wally's opinion) in their talks on their respective vocations. In the opinion of Club President Dr. Charles L. Parsons and program chairman Gordon Bradley, who introduced the speakers, the talks were "among the best" ever offered on similar occasions, particularly "Kim" Kimbrell, Rita Theatre manager, who, in addition to making a "fine" presentation on the ramifications of the theatre business, delighted his hearers with a story about a cross-eyed rooster. Ambrose Oliff, Title and Abstract company president; John Burton IV, local architect and Bud Talley, local manager of the Gregory Lumber company were the others who gave local Rotarians and their guests an insight into the operation of their businesses. Ben Wiggin, chairman of the club's baseball program, gave a report on the plans for the Rotary League scheduled for its start next month, in which boys in the 12 to 15 age group will participate. Uniforms and equipment have already arrived and daily practices are being held prior to the formation of the league.
