Director of recovery team lists 114 action items for new board

SANFORD — Officials from the Department of Housing and Urban Development met Friday to lay the groundwork to remove the "troubled agency" label from the Sanford Housing Authority.

The director of HUD's Troubled Agency Recovery Center, Catherine Lamberg, and a team of TARC specialists outlined a draft Memorandum of Agreement, a required contract between HUD and troubled housing authorities. The draft agreement lists 62 performance targets and 114 action items. The performance targets focus primarily on policies and procedures, including developing bylaws for the Sanford Housing Authority board, creating maintenance plans and establishing a centralized filing system for financial records.

Katherine Edgar, a project manager with TARC, said the targets not only help local agencies re-establish credibility with HUD, they provided Housing Authority boards with guidelines for how an agency is supposed to run.

"Usually we find systemic problems starting at the top," Edgar said. "Often times in these situations we find the board is not sure what their responsibilities are and what type of oversight they must have. They're just not sure what they're supposed to do."

Lamberg said in addition to the performance targets, board members would initially receive 24 to 36 hours of training and would receive ongoing training.

"It's not our intent to put the board out there and let them stumble," Lamberg said.

In addition to the training, Lamberg said it was critical for a permanent director to be on the job by July 1. With a new board not set to meet until May 17, Sanford Mayor Brady Lessard raised concerns about how board members could be expected to be properly trained, while at the same time conducting a search for a new director.

"How etched in stone is that date? How flexible is that date?" Lessard asked.

"I'm not sure it's flexible at all," Lamberg answered, adding that HUD specialists would be available for consultation.

Seniors make reading fun

Students at Idyllwilde Elementary practice their reading skills with the help of mentors

By Michelle Jeria
Managing Editor

SANFORD — Jane Finnell took a monkey to school on Tuesday.

It wasn't for Show And Tell or a class assignment. Instead, it was Finnell's way of saying "thank you" to the first-graders at Idyllwilde Elementary School.

Finnell is one of more than 20 residents from Longwood's Chambrel at Island Lake who spend about an hour each month listening to Idyllwilde students read their favorite books. The program began more than a year ago to encourage interaction between young students and older residents in Seminole County.

"Last year, we invited the Chambrel residents to come and read for Dr. Seuss Day," said Nancee Lowery, an Idyllwilde lab facilitator. "Everyone had a really good time, and (Idyllwilde Principal) David Scott said we should have them visit the school every month."

So, an invitation was extended to the Chambrel residents to visit the school on the second Tuesday of each month. In a role reversal, the students now read to the residents.

"It's important children read every chance they get," Lowery said. "In our busy lives, parents don't always have time to read to their children every night. This program gives the children one more opportunity to read and to learn."

And, it gives the Chambrel residents an opportunity to become mentors to students. Although the students do most of the reading during a 15-minute period, occasionally their reading partners help them sound out difficult words or understand new phrases.

"And, they just don't read," Lowery said. "They talk and share ideas. It's a win-win situation for both groups."

At the end of the 15-minute reading segment, students often don't want to stop reading. But, with only 20 Chambrel residents participating in the program, the short reading segments allow each first-grader to sit down one-on-one with an adult.

Seminole County students score high on FCAT

By Nick Pfeiffaut
Staff Writer

Seminole County students held their own or increased group composite scores from the Spring of 2000 to Spring, 2001 in the FCAT scores. FCAT, the Florida

Comprehensive Achievement Test for reading, writing and math involved 1.4 million students in the state.

Education Commissioner Charlie Crist commented, "Our students have demonstrated that accountability works. Students, parents and teachers are continuing to make a difference in our schools. Our 10th graders rose to the occasion and showed the highest score increases of 12 points for mathematics and six points for reading."

FCAT has been given in grades 4, 5, 8 and 10 since 1998.

Richard Wells, director of Community Involvement Public Information for Seminole County public schools analyzed the results of FCAT.

Among the six Central Florida Districts, Seminole remained number one or two in every category. Statewide, the county system dropped slightly but usually remained in the state's Top 10.

The elementary grade 4 FCAT mean writing scores increased from 3.2 to 3.4 from the previous year, while grade 8 and 10

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Make Sunday special for all mothers

Back in 1907, in Philadelphia, Penn., Anna Jarvis went to her church's pastor and asked if he would focus his upcoming Sunday sermon on saluting motherhood. That Sunday would have been the anniversary of Anna's mother's death. We are unable to find the name of the pastor, or the church with which he was affiliated, but the message was so well received, it was carried on through the years, reportedly on the second Sunday in May. Eventually, other churches observed the honoring of mothers, and it mushroomed throughout the nation until May 8, 1914 when, by Presidential Proclamation, the second Sunday in May was officially declared Mother's Day.

Nick Pfeifauf

The honors to be bestowed extend beyond those who physically gave birth, to foster mothers, those who raised offspring or others through the kindness of their hearts, and many other types of motherhood.

What is the greatest gift anyone could give? It's not a new car upon high school graduation, a monetary gift, or being named a beneficiary in someone's will. While there would be nothing wrong with these, the biggest gift is life. Without it, there would be nothing else.

Churches and other places of worship will be honoring motherhood this weekend. There will also be other events scheduled at which youngsters (and even older folks) are urged to take their mothers to show them a good time.

Then, there are some mothers you simply can't take out — those in a nursing home, for example. Don't let them sit there alone. Most of them probably are still sharp enough to fully realize Sunday is Mother's Day, and I imagine most of them will ponder the fact and, if they remain alone, will get the feeling of being forgotten. Of course, some might not have children, but certainly, there are those who should take the time to be with them for awhile.

Mother's are not selected by their offspring. They could come in all sizes, shapes, colors, and national origins. Yet they all share the same thing — they produced a life (or more), and hopefully helped mold that life into someone good.

Yes, there are some mothers who, for one reason or another, may be in jail or prison this weekend. But regardless of why they may be incarcerated, they, as has been said, gave someone life. They must not be forgotten.

Hopefully, most people have obtained a gift for their mom. For others, far off, a phone call will definitely be appreciated. Attending an event together will be nice, and paying that visit to those who cannot get around well can be second-to-none in good deeds.

For those attending church, say a prayer for your mother, whether or not she is still with us. After all, you owe everything to her.

For those who don't attend church, give mom some thought and attention.

There are also one type mother we haven't mentioned here — the single mother. Mother's Day comes but once a year — but our mothers are with us every day. One way or another, pay her some tribute. Whatever you do, make it HER day.

End of the year picnic

Hamilton Elementary School fifth-graders listen to Flight Officer James Burkshire discuss what it's like to be a crew member of the Alert Helicopters for the Seminole County Sheriff's Office. Burkshire, along with many other law enforcement personnel, took the time Thursday to speak about their jobs during Hamilton's DARE graduation and picnic at Fort Mellon Park. Burkshire is a police officer with the Longwood Police Department.

Just in time for Mother's Day — 2001 outstanding moms announced

The nomination of the National Outstanding Mothers, not even a generation old yet, has already become a national institution and an influence for good on a generation of people both young and old.

Initiated in 1979, the Outstanding Mother Award, at 22 years old has been conferred on the famous and near famous alike and has been coveted by some of the nation's leading advocates.

Women selected to carry forward their leadership roles in society are contemporary thinkers and doers, whose actions influence the direction of the way the population works and lives day in and day out.

This year's nominees, all Mothers of Achievement, were honored at a luncheon sponsored by Levi Strauss in the Sheraton New York Hotel. The event was presided by Jane Hanson who acted as the Mistress of Ceremony.

Receiving the honor among about 400 guests and friends were: Kathy Ireland, model and actress; Nancy Kerrigan, world class figure skater; Karen Murray, president of Claiborne brands; and Jane Seymour, author and award-winning actress.

In addition to supporting a mother's role as homemaker, the Mother's Day Committee seeks to interpret the needs and interests of today's mothers and address their concerns for their futures and their family's needs and hopes for tomorrow. The Committee takes an active position in raising funds for breast cancer research and in fund-raising activities that could bring the twin goals of awareness and eradication to everyone.

The role of mother has evolved since the first Mother's Day was observed in 1907. Back then, mom's place was in the home, cooking, baking, sewing and cleaning. Today, 48 percent of the work force is female and 75 percent of today's mothers work outside of the home.

But with progress, new obstacles may arise. Mothers may recognize these problems but it takes mom and dad working in concert to reach satisfactory solutions. One important way out is education that enables many mothers to join the work force, another is equal pay for equal work. These issues are definitely in the spotlight at the Outstanding Mother Award ceremonies.

Homicide

William H. Howard, 59, of West 13th Street, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police Wednesday. According to the police report, officers were called to the scene of a fight in the 1700 block of 13th Street and found a man, identified as Warren Carter 48, of 1904 W. 13th Street, on the ground. Witnesses told officers a large black male wearing sunglasses and a blue headdress had approached Carter and beaten him with a metal pole, knocking him to the ground, then continuing to beat him.

Howard was seen nearby and pointed out by several witnesses to the attack. Officers were able to take Howard into custody without incident. Carter was taken to 13th Street and French Avenue by Sanford Rescue, from where he was airlifted to Orlando Regional Medical Center. Howard was taken to the Sanford police station for questioning. The arrest report said Howard had indicated he beat Carter as the result of an argument over how Howard had treated his landlord.

Initially, Howard was charged with aggravated battery by a person using a deadly weapon. At ORMC however, Carter did not survive an operation, and was pronounced dead later in the day.

Howard has now been given an additional charge of 2nd Degree Homicide.

Drug Deals

Seminole County Sheriff's deputies arranged a drug transaction Thursday, on Mosswood Circle in Winter Springs. As a result of undercover work and vehicle and residence searches, three persons were arrested. They were identified as Lopez Mauricio, 19 and Jonathan Frick, 21, both of Winter Springs, and Juan David Gaviria, 26, of Orlando. Each was charged with trafficking in over 28 grams of heroin, possession with intent to sell, and conspiring in heroin trafficking with another person.

Drug Arrests

A husband and wife team were arrested by Sheriff's deputies Thursday at their residence in Springwood Court, Longwood. Officers served a search warrant and reported finding 228 grams of cannabis, 54 1/2 ounces of cocaine, $6,050 in currency and assorted drug paraphernalia.

Arrested were David W. Harrington, 47, and his wife, Ricki Lynn Harrington, 47. Each was charged with trafficking in over 28 grams of cocaine, possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Double Arrest

Carlos Rosario, 41, of Collins Drive, Sanford, was stopped by Sanford police Thursday in the 3800 block of Orlando Drive. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, and reckless driving.

While one officer was charging Rosario, another checked Rosario's vehicle and found what he described as a nervous man in the back seat. A check revealed the man in possession of green leafy substance. As a result, Jimmy Douglas Berry II, 32, also of Collins Drive, was arrested on a charge of possession of under 20 grams of marijuana.

New Study

Dr. Spitzer determines gays can go straight

Dr. Robert L. Spitzer is a professor of psychiatry at Columbia University. In 1973, he persuaded the American Psychiatric Association to remove homosexuality from its official diagnostic manual of mental disorders. At the time, Dr. Spitzer was hailed by many as a scientific Moses, leading homosexuals out of their closeted captivity.

Last Wednesday, Dr. Spitzer spoke again to the APA at its meeting in New Orleans. This time he had a different message: "Contrary to conventional wisdom, some highly motivated individuals, using a variety of change efforts, can make substantial change in multiple indicators of sexual orientation." In other words, according to Dr. Spitzer, once homosexual does not necessarily mean always homosexual.

Dr. Spitzer interviewed 200 men and women who said they had experienced a significant transition from homosexual to heterosexual attraction, and had sustained this shift for five years. "Like most psychiatrists," Spitzer says, "I thought homosexual behavior could only be resisted, and that no one could really change their sexual orientation. I now believe that to be false. Some people can and do change."

When Dr. Spitzer offered his views to the APA 28 years ago, he was presented as an unassailable expert. Now, after studying the matter further, he says his views have changed. Is he still an expert? Of course not, because he now confronts the only force greater than science, theology or public opinion: political correctness.

Dr. Spitzer must now be silenced or discredited by those for whom "gay rights" is a holy grail. Other "experts" who toe the party line are being produced to undermine his conclusions. Because many of those studied testify to a religious and/or "reparative therapy" model leading them to a different orientation and behavior pattern than before, their conclusions are immediately rejected because they supposedly lack scientific credibility.

Never mind that various scientists, some homosexuals themselves, have been trying to force the "gay gene" theory on us with flawed models and a good deal of political, not scientific propaganda behind their conclusions. They remain credible in some minds because of their objective, which is total acceptance of homosexual practice as normal, even good.

The essence of real science is the ability to alter conclusions when new facts are observed. But political correctness is about holding a view in spite of the facts. Political correctness demands that new "facts" be created in order to serve the ideological and social ends of certain groups. That's why in science, religion and politics, new models have replaced old models because the old ones lead to conclusions and destinations to which the PC crowd does not wish to return.

Many homosexuals with whom I have spoken are not aware of the availability of nonjudgmental counseling to help them escape the "gay life." Many feel trapped in their "orientation," not because of dwindling cultural disapproval but because of pressure to conform to gay society. They are told that a desire to change indicates they hate themselves and that it is impossible for them to reject their "true identity."

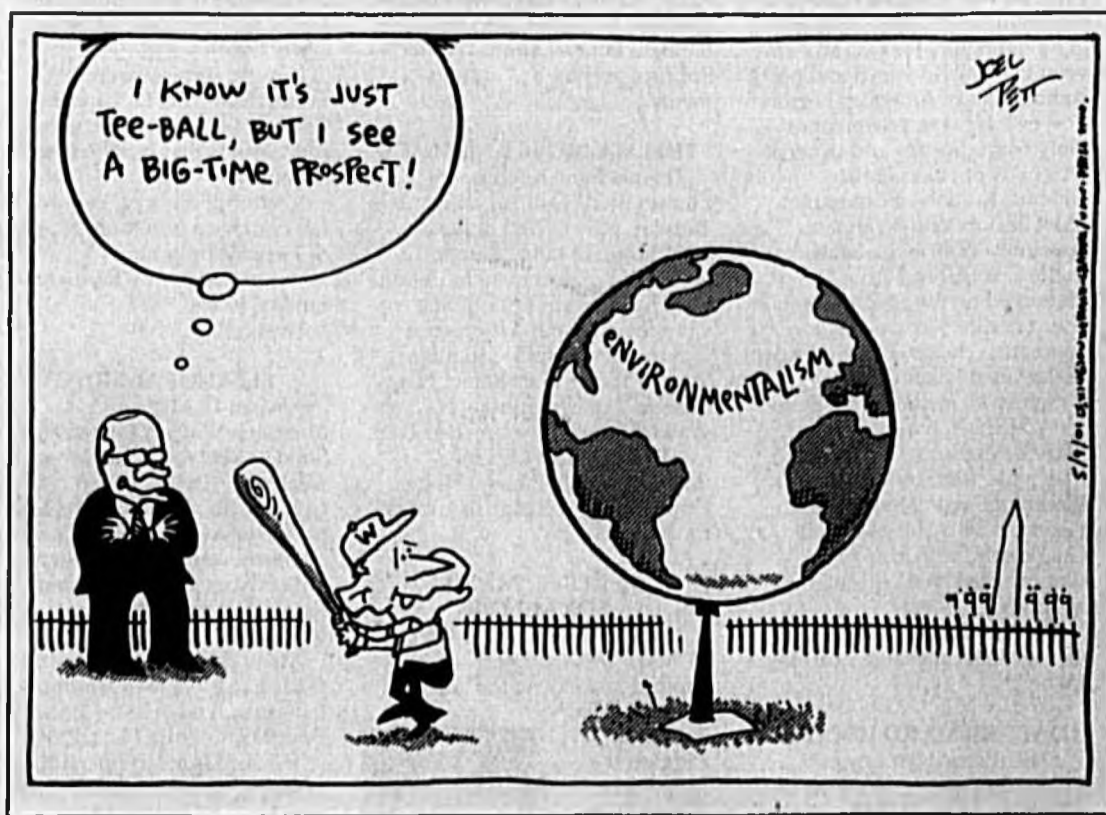

Dr. Spitzer says that many of those he studied were motivated to change because of disillusionment with a promiscuous lifestyle and unstable, stormy relationships. Others reported a conflict with their religious values, or a desire to be, or to stay, married to a member of the opposite sex. One finding that surprised Dr. Spitzer was that 67 percent of the men who had rarely or never experienced any opposite sex attraction before the change effort, now report significant heterosexual attraction. Even those whose orientation did not change, but who gave up homosexual practice, testified to a significant improvement in their emotional health.

When Dr. Bernard Nathanson ran the nation's largest abortion clinic in New York, he was frequently cited as an authority on abortion rights and regularly interviewed. But when he converted to the pro-life side, he was denounced by his former colleagues and now is rarely sought out by the media. I suspect Dr. Spitzer will share the same fate.

For those homosexuals who are not into the politics of gay rights and who desire help, Dr. Spitzer's findings offer hope. And hope is one of the greatest gifts a psychiatrist can give a patient.

Vermont woman appreciates help from area family

To the Editor:
I want the people of Sanford to know there is an angel in their midst. On Wednesday, April 18, I left West Palm Beach to catch the Autotrain out of Sanford. Due to poor planning and some other misadventures on the way, I arrived in Sanford with little time to spare. Then I couldn't find the train station. I tried flagging down a car to ask for help. After about eight or 10 cars passed me by, a young woman and her daughter stopped to offer help. She insisted on leading me to the station. Upon arrival we found the train was already on the cross road and no traffic could cross to the station. When the train passed, I went into the station, distraught and in tears. The Amtrak attendants tried to calm me down and assured me I could leave tomorrow. Then I felt a hand on my shoulder and there were my guardian angels, the woman and her daughter. She was on her way home when she told her daughter that she had to make sure I was all right. I threw my arms around her, crying, and begged her to take me home with her. This kind and caring woman took me home for the night. Her daughter gave up her bedroom to me for the night. I attended the Bible study class at their church with them that evening. They took me into their hearts and their family and I will always be "Gramma Esther" to them.

What is the lesson to be learned from all this? We are all human beings with common bonds no matter our background or culture, no matter which God we worship, no matter the color of our skin. I am 82 years old, Jewish and white. Eloise Dilligard, her daughter Jasmine, her son Jeremy and husband Larry are black and members of the Calvary Temple of Praise, a Pentecostal Church. Angels come in many guises and when we least expect them:

Sincerely,
Esther Handelsman

Parsell gives apology for recent comment

To the editor:
I want to publicly apologize to Mayor Brady Lessard and his family for the comment which was published in your newspaper last weekend. Although the statement was made in jest, it did not appear that way.

The newspaper neglected to mention that I also said the Orlando Sentinel was not being fair to the Mayor on the Sanford Housing Authority issue. I believe his actions are in the best interests of the Authority and the residents. The Mayor did not create this problem, but if allowed, I believe he will solve it.

Mayor Lessard is not a "slum lord" and I should not have referred to him as such. I hope he and his family will accept my apology for this thoughtless comment.

Sincerely,
Bob Parsell

Skat challenges officials to do capacity analysis

To the editor:
The recent defeat of Gov. Jeb Bush's plan to include adequate school capacity in the requirements for residential development may be the final nail in the coffin for Florida's public schools. Until we recognize, as Gov. Bush did, that our growth is far outstripping the capacity of existing and proposed public schools, the children of Sanford and surrounding areas are destined to become a case study in the decline of public education.

This is not an attack on the Public Schools of Seminole County nor its employees or administrators. Rather this is a challenge. I challenge our City Commissioners, our City Manager, our City Staff, the members of the Planning and Zoning Commission and the residents of Sanford to take a proactive step and require school capacity analysis as part of concurrency on any new residential development.

I and other members of the Planning and Zoning Commission have raised this issue before with regards to new Apartment and Multi-Family development. I say, let us not act on further residential development until, at a minimum, the bodies making the decisions know the facts about the adequacy of public schooling.

If the City of Sanford will take the lead on this issue, it is my hope that the surrounding communities will do likewise. Please see that your local elected and appointed officials know your feelings on this issue.

Armed Forces Week recognizes spirit of U.S. military

General George S. Patton once said, "...the highest obligation and privilege of citizenship is that of bearing arms for one's country".

Military service is the highest form of citizenship. Today's men and women serving in our nation's armed forces are living proof of that.

Our government recognizes their outstanding service by setting aside a week each year in May for Americans to honor the efforts of America's uniformed troops. This year's Armed Forces Week observance starts Saturday, May 12 and concludes Sunday, May 20.

Though our country has not been involved in any protracted military actions since the Vietnam War, our troops haven't exactly been at peace. There was Grenada, Panama, Desert Shield, Desert Storm, Somalia, Bosnia, Kosovo, and many other engagements or incidents that placed our troops in harm's way.

If you've scanned the national news headlines lately, you are no doubt familiar with some of the recent tragedies involving America's military. Every day, they are engaged in a dangerous occupation that all too many Americans take for granted. As we sleep, they are on patrol in the skies over Iraq, the seas across the globe and the streets of Kosovo. They remain vigilant in our defense.

Through it all, our troops uphold the highest traditions of military service.

In the American Legion, we are proud of our uniformed men and women serving around the world. They are among the best and brightest America has to offer.

And we're equally proud that our organization, the world's largest of its kind, continues to attract these uniformed veterans to fill our ranks, just as generations before them have joined.

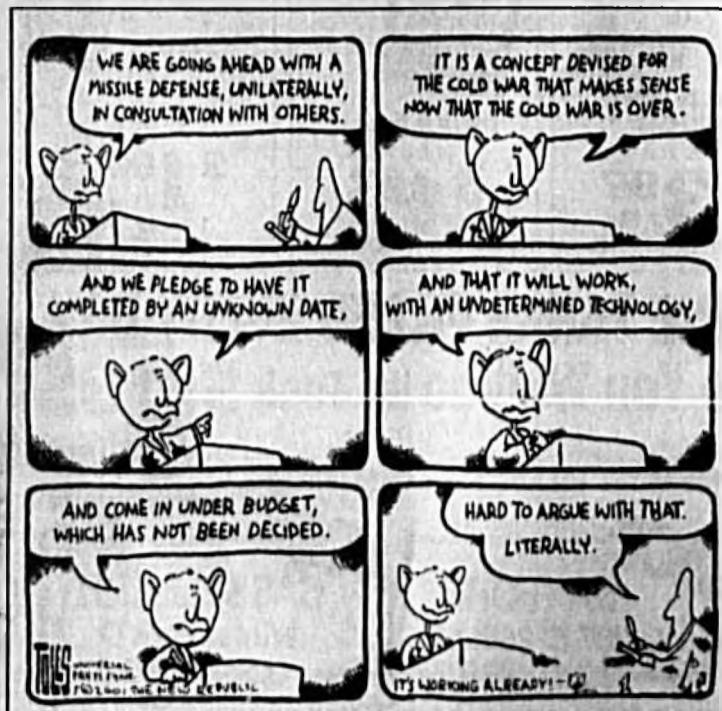

Thousands of today's active duty and reserve Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen, Marines and Coast Guardsmen continue to serve their country and community in their off-duty time, by donning a Legion cap and volunteering at their local posts.

It is true that today's armed forces are different than that of decades past, but our service members' spirit of service remains alive and well.

To each and every member of America's Armed Forces — active duty, Reservists and National Guard — your fellow Americans say, "Thank You."

Ray G. Smith is national commander of the 2.8 million-member American Legion, the nation's largest veterans organization.

Art Zielski asks people what they think ...

Just in case you forgot, Mother's Day is this Sunday, May 13. It will be a busy day for restaurants, flower shops and candy stores. Many of us will be planning something special for our mothers and grandmothers or taking our wives or "significant others" out for a romantic dinner. So our question today is, "What do you plan to do for Mother's Day?"

We plan to celebrate Mother's Day on Saturday with a barbecue for the entire family. Mother and her fiancé are going on a motorcycle ride on Sunday.
Robert Beall,
Sanford

I plan to cook breakfast for my girlfriend and serve it to her in bed. She's the mother of two children. It's a family tradition that on Mother's Day the women don't do anything all day long.
Lee Hood,
Sanford

I don't have any plans, but I hope my husband has. I would like to go to dinner and a movie. Last year he waited too long to tell me and I got mad. This year I hope he lets me know a lot sooner.
Deborah Jones,

The entire family will be going to a surprise birthday party. We also will have lunch with all the children and grandchildren for all the mothers.
Barbara Love,
Sanford

I wanted something different to do, so I plan to take my mother to dinner and a play in Titusville.

Lessard also inquired about what additional oversight the city would have with the Housing Authority.

"We feel somewhat handicapped because we don't have the oversight like we do over other city agencies, for example our airport," Lessard said.

Juan Patterson, a HUD consultant, said additional statutory oversight could only be gained through new legislation in Tallahassee. However, Patterson pointed out the SHA board could create its own procedure to report to city officials.

"There's nothing to prevent the Housing Authority from entering into a contract to consult with the city," Patterson said.

Lessard, and City Manager Tony VanDerworp provided Lamberg with a list of activities Acting Director Richard Moore had accomplished in the four weeks since he was hired. The list includes more than 500 completed work orders, as well as a comprehensive rodent and insect extermination program. While the HUD officials generally commented positively on Moore's performance, they criticized him for not following HUD procedures for procurement of supplies and the hiring of maintenance workers.

"This is exactly the issue that raises red flags," Lamberg said.

Moore said he had documentation for the supplies and workers. He said he also followed HUD procedures for performing work in an emergency situation.

"These were life/safety issues," Moore said. "We had maintenance that had to be done immediately and we did it."

Moore also noted he is operating at a disadvantage because all agency records were seized in a federal raid in April during former director Timothy Hudson's tenure.

"We have no hard copies of anything. The FBI has it all," Moore said.

Moore expressed concern that HUD might not approve funding for the additional temporary maintenance workers.

"It's still not clear to me that the employees brought on would be HUD's responsibility to compensate," Edgar said.

"I find this unbelievable,"

Moore responded. "You don't want to pay these people who fixed these problems? It was the right thing to do."

"It's not a matter of right or wrong. It's a matter of legality," Edgar answered.

Lessard said the city's primary focus has been to make immediate progress in the living conditions at the Housing Authority, and that those improvements continue.

"You've got to understand, we were being bombarded daily with pictures of rats in those apartments," Lessard said. "In the short term, those improvements had to be made."

Lamberg agreed but added, "It's equally important you follow correct procedure. We just need the justification for those expenditures."

Moore said the proper justification is available and he would provide that to HUD.

"In the meantime," Lessard said. "I don't want to shelve any of the physical improvements that are being made."

"There will be no halting of physical improvements," Lamberg promised.

lic parking. The site currently provides 289 spaces.

Yosefian proposes the city demolish the old Florida Power & Light building and create an additional 104 parking spaces on that site.

Yosefian is also asking the city to provide the land for the condo project for free, claiming an "equal public benefit" transfer by providing residential and commercial development in Sanford's downtown infill area.

Commissioners will discuss the project during a 3:30 p.m. work session.

The Commission will also consider qualifications from firms interested in building a hotel/conference center.

The city received proposals from six firms: Benchmark Hospitality; Stormont Hospitality Group; Miserow-Stein Real Estate Inc.; the Sullivan Group; Garfield Corporation; and the Conroy Development Company.

Hunter Interests Inc., a consulting firm hired by the city, ranked the qualification packages submitted, with Benchmark Hospitality, Stormont Hospitality Group, and Miserow-Stein Real Estate Inc. receiving the top grades.

According to a letter submitted by consultant Don Hunter, Benchmark has the most experience in managing conference centers in resort and non-resort communities. Among Benchmark's projects are:

- AT&T Learning Center in Basking Ridge, N.J.; 171 rooms, two restaurants, 31,265 square feet of meeting space and an 85-seat amphitheater.

- Resort at Squaw Creek in Olympic Valley, Calif.; 405 rooms, 33,000 square feet of meeting space and five restaurants.

- Centennial Resort in Raleigh, N.C.; 250 rooms, 29,500 square feet of meeting space and three restaurants.

Miserow-Stein's projects include:

- $675 million expansion of McCormick Place convention center in Chicago.

- Hyatt Regency at McCormick Place in Chicago; 800 rooms, 600-space parking garage.

- Cupples Station Historic District in St. Louis; mixed use urban redevelopment with a 224-room hotel, 445,000 square feet of office space and an 800-vehicle parking garage.

- The Rose Garden Arena, home of the NBA Portland Trailblazers.

Stormont's projects include:

- Emory Conference Center; 198 rooms and 20,600 square feet of meeting space.

- Norfolk Waterside Marriott in Norfolk, Va.

- Hyatt Regency Wichita in Wichita, Kan.; 303 rooms and 22,446 square feet of meeting space.

Commissioner will discuss the firms qualification during the work session and during the 7 p.m. regular meeting.

Centers are safe havens for children to read, to study, and to have a productive learning experience.

The Harbor Project is staffed by Administrator/Community Educator, Elizabeth Graham-Glover, who oversees The Harbors' daily activities. The Harbors are also staffed with family outreach workers and other part-time assistants in technology, library, enrichment, and Goals 2000 tutors. Glover said the success of "The Harbor Project" is primarily due to businesses, community organizations, and Dividend Volunteers who dedicate hundreds of hours to the Harbor throughout the year.

The Way We Were: Radio's glory days

Among Miss Ollie Reese Whittle's clippings are two Orlando radio program schedules for 1951. Those of us of a certain age will recall these glory days of radio with much nostalgia. We still remember many of the programs we listened to as a child or young adult. Today, we'll go back to the days of yesteryear and stir up some memories.

The afternoon shows on CBS were the ones I remember; these were the soap operas, and most were sponsored by various soaps and detergents. "Rinso White, Rinso Bright", "Duz Does Everything" and the like. The shows were only 15 minutes long each, so they moved even slower than those on TV today, but there were lots more of them.

Grace Marie Stinecpher

There were four radio stations in Orlando, WHOO (ABC, 990 AM), WDBO (CBS, 580 AM), WLOF (Mutual 950 AM) and WORZ (NBC 740 AM). WHOO and WDBO still exist today but their programming is quite different.

The Friday, March 30, 1951, schedule gives us the typical days' programming. Each station signed on at 5 a.m. and had mostly local fare until 9 a.m. These programs included WHOO Wakes Up, Farm Report, Sunrise Jamboree, 740 Club, Yawn Patrol and Classifieds.

The 9 a.m. hour brought us the Breakfast Club on ABC followed by My True Story, Betty Crocker and Modern Romance. The Whoot Owls (local musical group) entertained us at 12:30 p.m.

CBS gave us UP (United Press), and AP (Associated Press) news at 9 a.m. followed by Yours Sincerely and Arthur Godfrey. The Arthur Godfrey Show was one hour long and featured talk, interviews and vocal music from regular and guest performers. The only regular singer I can remember is Julius LaRosa, but I'm sure you remember others.

Mutual had Queen for a Day at 11:30 a.m. I believe this was the show that had about three sob stories from deserving women, and one would be chosen Queen for the Day and receive prizes.

On NBC you could listen to Break the Bank at 11 a.m. followed by the Dave Garraway Show.

"The Lives of Helen Trent" came on at 12:30 p.m. with words such as, "Can a woman over 35 find true love..." "Our Gal Sunday" was next - "Can a girl from a little mining town in the west find happiness as the wife of a wealthy and titled Englishman?"

These were followed by "Big Sister", "Ma Perkins", "Young Doctor Malone", "Guiding Light", "This is Nora Drake" and "Brighter Day." Later in the afternoon, CBS had "Adventures with Perry Mason" and "House Party," hosted by Art Linkletter which included his famous interviews with small children.

NBC had "Double or Nothing", "Studio Party", "Just Plain Bill (Barber of Hartford)", and "Front Page Farrell".

Most of the stations had news programs beginning at 6 p.m. Lowell Thomas was on CBS. The Lone Ranger came on at 7:30 p.m. on NBC. "Let's go back to the days of yesteryear..." We were told of "his faithful Indian companion, Tonto."

This was followed by "Richard Diamond", "This is your FBI", and "Ozzie and Harriet." Boxing bouts were at 10 p.m. Cards vs. Tigers were broadcast that particular afternoon.

CBS presented "Beulah", "Edward R. Murrow", "Guy Lombardo", and "Hear it Now". NBC had "One Man's Family", "Boston Blackie", "Sam Spade", "Duffy's Tavern", "Life of Riley" and then Senator Holland. Senator Spessard

Holland was one of our U.S. senators so I assume he was giving us a report. Programming Sunday, April 1, 1951, began with various news and music programs followed by several Christian programs including United Lutheran, Bible Healing, First Methodist, First Presbyterian, First Church of God, Alliance Church, Catholic Hour, Baptist hour, Radio Bible Class and Voice of Prophecy.

Sunday afternoon had New York Philharmonic, Sammy Kaye, Billy Graham, Bob Consadine and the Desi Arnez Show. At 4 p.m. on CBS there was "Dollar a Minute" followed by Frank Sinatra, Eric Sevareid News, Our Miss Brooks, Jack Benny, Amos and Andy, Charlie McCarthy/Edgar Bergen, Red Skelton, Corliss Archer, and Horace Heidt.

NBC had The Falcon, The Saint, Big Show, Hedda Hopper, Theater Guild and $64 Question. On Mutual there was Martin Kane, the Shadow (The Shadow Knows), True Detective, Roy Rogers, and Nick Carter.

One show missing that I thought came on Sunday night was Inner Sanctum. Remember the creaking door that opened each show? Scary!

Early Memories of Television Television, of course, changed radio forever, but it didn't really arrive in Central Florida until about 1954 when TV stations opened in Orlando. I believe WDBO (CBS) was first. Before that, Jacksonville had the nearest station and reception was poor.

Several people here did have sets though, even if we didn't. I remember going one night with my parents to the Dr. Wade Garner's new home on the lakefront for an evening get-together, watching some championship fight. I don't recall who the contenders were, but I do know that Rosemary Garner and I were in the kitchen while the others saw one of them being knocked out in the first round.

I was off to Maryville College in 1954 where the only TV set in the dorm was in the parlor. I don't even remember watching TV there. I do recall a group of us listening to the Academy Awards on radio.

While I was at Stetson (1956-58), there was still only one TV set in our dorm, down in the rec room. There was a snack bar there, so a group of us would eat a sandwich there for lunch and watch some soap opera that was holding an exciting trial. It went on for weeks. Another TV memory during those years occurred when practically the entire dorm was down there watching Elvis Presley on the Ed Sullivan Show.

My first TV was a Hotpoint portable that my parents gave me when I moved into an apartment in Winter Park in 1958. It was big and bulky and had rabbit ears. Those were the days of Wagon Train and Gunsmoke! My parents finally got a TV in the fall of 1954, a Dumont. By 1964 it needed replacing, so they bought a color set. Not too many programs were in color then, so we were one of the first to have a color set. Friends would make excuses to come by so they could watch a program in color. I recall having several people over to watch the New Year's Parade in color.

A few of you may recall a memorable color TV event, probably in the fall of 1964. I had moved back home and was teaching at SHS and was also a youth leader at First Baptist Church. We would have fellowships after Sunday night church, quite often in someone's home, so I invited the group to our home one Sunday night to watch Bonanza in color. Our usual crowd was about 15 young people, but that night our home was packed. There must have been 60 people there, all crowded in the living room with their eyes glued to the TV. Several of them I had never seen before, but they were all there to see the novelty of color television.

Four compete for 2001 title

Buds of Evergreen Cotillion's fifth annual affair will be held 5 p.m. Sunday, May 20, in the Sanford Civic Center. The daughters of Evergreen Temple No. 321 of the Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks started this project five years ago. They have taken an active role in assisting in the development of the area's high school girls. This year's participants have attended various workshops and activities that were structured to assist in their development. They were taught how to goals, etiquette, social graces, money management, dressing for the occasion, dating, safety and job interviewing skills. Contestants wrote a 500-word essay to become a Bud of Evergreen. The community is thanked for their support of this effort through local businesses. Those giving thanks include Daughter Ruler Joyce Byrd, Daughter Gail Ford, and members of Evergreen Temple No. 321. Contestants vying for the 2001 title are buds Dominique Bryant, Dara Guess, Raquel Kennedy and Rachel Williams.

Getting the most out of family giving

By Deborah Taylor
Special to the Herald

Passing a closely held business between generations can be a smooth transition, as long as someone competent is available to take over management. Passing the business with minimum tax impact is another matter. Careful planning is essential to preserve your assets.

Lifetime gifts to other family members are a proven way to pass business assets and save estate taxes as well. With proper structuring of the gifts, total gift and estate taxes can be minimized or even eliminated in some cases. A lifetime gift works well because it removes from the giver's estate (and estate tax liability) any appreciation in the gift assets that occurs after the gift is made. A sizable annual exclusion from both gift and estate taxes (up to $10,000 per recipient — $20,000, if both spouses give) simplifies transferring assets over a multi-year period. A larger one-time gift can be made by using the applicable exclusion amount, which is currently $675,000 (increasing to $1,000,000 by 2006).

Here's an example of how gifting can work. You are the sole owner of City-wide Widgets, which today is worth $900,000. You are looking toward becoming less active in the business and want to start transferring ownership. Joined by your spouse, you give your two sons and daughter $20,000 worth of stock each annually without any gift tax liability. After just six years, your tax-free transfers will total $360,000. You'll reduce your estate by the entire $360,000 because both the $360,000 value and any subsequent appreciation in stock value are excludable from the estate. If you are in today's top estate tax bracket, your potential tax savings will be $198,000!

Save More With A Minority Discount

Are those $20,000 gifts in the example really worth the entire $20,000? Not when you consider that yours is a closely held corporation, and no minority shareholder can influence management or liquidate the company. So, in general, minority shares in closely held companies are valued at a discount from their proportional share of the company's full value. That can let you give away more shares each year within the gift tax annual exclusion limit.

For years, a minority interest discount was a problem with the IRS if the gift was to a person within a family that owns all, or the majority, of the corporation's stock. The IRS formerly ruled that no minority discount would apply because the family unit continues to control the corporation.

Now the IRS position has changed. As long as a corporation has a single class of stock, other family owned shares no longer have to be lumped with the transferred shares in determining eligibility for a minority discount.

Continuing the above example, the value of the stock you give your sons and daughter would be discounted because it represents minority interests in your company. So you would be able to give each child more shares each year without exceeding your gift tax annual exclusion limit.

The possibility of capital gains taxes can't be ignored in considering a gift strategy. What if children sell the stock they receive as gifts? The giver's tax basis carries over to the children. With the same tax basis as the original owner, the children may be liable for a substantial capital gains tax.

It takes a very careful analysis of your particular situation to find the asset transfer approach that will be best. Frequently, that approach is to make lifetime gifts. Call your Financial Advisor today to obtain more information about transferring assets.

Raiders softball finish third at state

By Dean Smith

KISSIMMEE — The Seminole Community College softball team proved that a record-setting regular season was no fluke, finishing third in the Atlantic District of the FCCAA State Tournament at the Osceola Softball Complex in Kissimmee last weekend.

The Raiders got off to a tremendous start on Thursday, winning a double-header over Florida Community College at Jacksonville, 9-2, and Indian River

Seminole Community College goes 2-2 as record-setting season ends

Community College, 5-2, to earn a spot in the Winner's Bracket final.

But SCC fell behind No. 1 nationally-ranked Lake City Community College early and never recovered in dropping a 7-0 decision to the Timberwolves on Friday.

The loss seemed to take all of the steam out of the Raiders as Indian River came back to eliminate the locals, 9-1.

"Thursday's games were great," said SCC head coach Courtney Miller. "Our intensity was high and the kids were so focused on winning those games."

"But on Friday our defense didn't hold up. We came out flat against Lake City and made five errors and then had no momentum heading into the Indian River game and committed another five errors.

"Overall it was a great year and I'm so proud of this team for reaching the state's. It is not easy to do that in our conference. They worked hard all year to reach that goal of making the state tournament."

Oviedo's Sarah Reeber got the Raiders off to a good start, allowing just three hits and two runs in the fourth inning as SCC dumped the Mid-Florida Conference rival Stars (42-17) in the first

Lake Mary romps in 6A-1 final

By Dean Smith

LYNN HAVEN — Doing everything it needed to do, the Lake Mary baseball team wrapped up its fourth tournament title of the season with a surprising 9-0 victory over homestanding Mosley High School at Harry A. Frank Field Tuesday night.

That the Rams were victorious in the Class 6A-Region 1 finale was not a surprise, but the ease with which they won over a quality program like Mosley, on the road, was An enthusiastic Mosley crowd was ready to hoop it up, including many who brought home-made noise makers. But they never got to use them as Lake Mary took the home fans right out of the game by putting four runs on the board in the top of the first inning and the Dolphins only threatened once against the offerings of Adam Sanabria.

The Rams' ace lefthander used his crackling fastball with timely change ups to strike out nine and allow just four hits in improving to 11-2 on the season.

"We knew we had to get out early," said Lake Mary head coach Allen Tuttle. "We knew if we could get ahead of them we had a good shot of winning."

The Rams are now 27-6 on the season and will take on Wellington in the FHSAA Class 6A State Semifinals on Friday (May 18) at 10 a.m. at Legends Field in Tampa. It will be Lake Mary's first trip to the Final 4 since 1985.

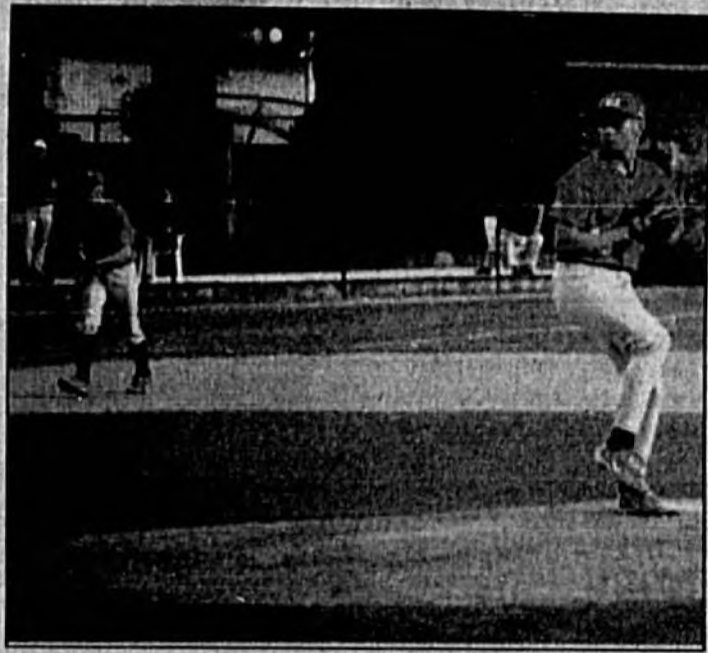

Wellington (25-9), near West Palm Beach, advanced with a 4-2 victory over Cooper City.

Second baseman Josh Gray (above against DeLand earlier this year) had a single and made the defensive play of the game by making a diving stop and throwing a runner out from his knee's to preserve the shutout and senior lefthander Adam Sanabria (right) said thank you by hurling a four-hitter and striking out nine to raise his record to 11-2 on the season as Lake Mary won its fourth tournament title of the year, romping past Lynn Haven-Mosley 9-0 Tuesday night to win the Class 6A-Region 1 Baseball Championship and earn a spot in this Friday's FHSAA State Championship Series Semifinals against Wellington at 10 a.m. at Legends Field in Tampa.

Seminole rally falls short

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

LAKELAND

That's baseball. That simplistic answer was about all that could be said of Seminole's 2-1 loss to Lakeland in the Class 5A-Region 2 Baseball Championship Game at Henley Field Tuesday night.

The Fighting Seminole's (25-9) made the only mistake in the game and it proved to be the difference as the Dreadnaughts (30-2) earned a spot in the State Tournament as the Polk County school looks for its first title since 1951.

"Our team has a lot of guts," said Seminole head coach Mike Powers. "They never gave up. This year has been a wonderful experience for our kids."

Seminole, which won 23 of its last 26 games, had runners on base in every inning, but Lakeland ace lefthander Tommy Baumgardner (10-0) was able to pitch out of every potential jam for the first six innings.

After the Tribe left runners on the corners in the first inning, both reaching via walks, the No. 3 ranked home squad finally broke the ice in the third inning.

J.D. Clavitt led off with a seeling-eye single up the middle that just eluded Seminole pitch Angelo Petracca and bounced over the glove of shortstop Jason Louwama just as he tried to make the play behind second base.

Then came what turned out to be the play of the game.

Jaremy Isaac pushed a bunt back toward the mound and Petracca appeared to have a play at second as Alex Bianchi, running for Clavitt, did not get a good jump off of first. But Petracca bobbled the ball and everyone was safe.

Jared Williams then laid down another bunt and first baseman Uriah Kimmig appeared to dig the ball out of the dirt in time on a tough play by Dominic Petracca.

But Williams was ruled safe and given a single as the umpire ruled that Kimmig did not control the ball before the runner touched the bag, leaving the bases loaded with no one out.

Chris Strickland then lined a single to center to score Bianchi. Marc Maynor followed with a bouncer to second that Anthony DiFonzo grabbed just as Strickland got to him. He tagged the runner for the out, but was grabbed by the same runner and his ensuing throw was wild.

But Strickland was called for interference, creating a double play, and only one run was allowed to score. Angelo Petracca then got out of the jam

Optimist Jr. Golf winners named

By Rob Robertson
Special to the Herald

SANFORD — The Central Optimist International Florida Junior Golf Tournament was held this past Sunday and seven area linksters have earned the right to advance to next month's state tournament.

The event is part of a prestigious international junior golf tournament that has produced such former winners as Tiger Woods, Michelle McCann and Davis Love III.

The Sanford Optimist Club, along with local business and individual supporters, hosted the tournament for top boy and girl golfers between the ages of 14 and 18 at the beautifully reconditioned Mayfair Country Club, a municipal course that has hosted PGA Tour events over the years.

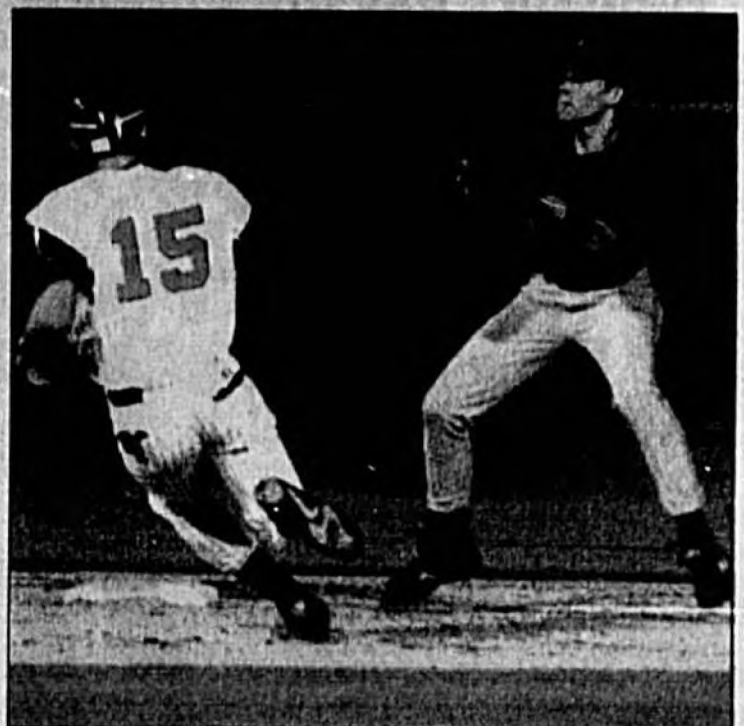

The Donald Ross designed course, under General Manager Rich Cleary, with its small elevated greens, proved to be a challenge for both the boys and girls as they battled to advance to the state tournament in Ocala.

The winners were:

14-15 Girls — 1. Winter Springs High School's Ashleigh Anderson, sponsored by Abyss Creations, 46-48 — 94.

14-15 Boys — 1. Winter Springs High School's Joong Jo, sponsored by Conklin, Porter & Holmes Engineers, 41-36 — 77; 2. Edgewater High School's Baker Hightower, sponsored by McKee Construction, 39-41 — 80.

16-18 Girls — 1. Lake Highland Preparatory School's Charlotte Campbell, sponsored by Therm-O-Tane Gas, 40-38 — See Golf, Page 2B

Seminole's Keith Parrett (No. 15, shown earlier this season against Spruce Creek) came off the bench to get a pinch-hit single and later scored the Tribe's only run as a seventh inning rally fell short in a 2-1 loss to Lakeland.

Graham survives carnage at New Smyrna Speedway

By Hank Sanders Special to the Herald

SAMSULA — Sammy Graham in the #1 Whited and Fuller Monte Carlo avoided the carnage to take the feature win in the Super Late Models at New Smyrna Speedway last Saturday night.

Tonight (Saturday, May 12), the fast 1/2-mile will host the Super Stock "50" with features in Late Model, Mini-Stock, Modified & Strictly Stock...no Super Late Models or Sportsman this week.

Graham drove a smart race and missed the massive crashes that decimated the 11 car SLM field. Jason Boyd debuted the #15 Race Car College Chevy, and drew the pole spot, but it was not a lucky draw. The first attempt at a start was called back as Boyd failed to fire at the line.

When racing resumed, Boyd was done, and the battle was on.

Graham got the lead and never looked back. Schofield got in another tussle with McLeod, and his car got shortened up by about 4 feet. Finally, David Froehlich was on hand and drove to second over a damaged McLeod, fourth went to Jacob Warren, and Ron Dicandio in the #20 was paid for fifth.

Late Model Frew 11 cars to do battle, but it was Chad Allman driving the #67 Gator Golf Chevy who claimed the win. The best fight was for second as Timmy Todd managed to hold off Chad Pierce in the American Auto #57.

The #55 Mini Stock of Rick Tumej was unbeatable as he charged to the point and drove to the checkers. Past Champ Conrad Grenier came home second, the Ford F-150 of Charlie Staats ran third. The #64 Mustang of Mark Rigby managed to hold off the challenge of Ron Dubeau for fourth.

Jan Huffman looked real strong in the #3 Gator Golf Monte Carlo Sportsman as he blasted to the front to get two feature wins for Gator Golf for the night. Dale Clouser put the #30 in second, third went to Doug Samton, followed by David Gibbs and Ron Lufcy.

Chris Peludat captured second, third went to Joe Evans, with Mike Soukup and Ted Helms rounding out the top 5.

Rams

Friday's other semifinal will have Venice (25-10), a 7-1 victor over Plant City-Durant, taking on Hialeah (25-8), which ousted Miami Beach 3-0, at 5 p.m.

The winner's will meet for the State Championship at 7 p.m. on Saturday.

The Rams also improved to 15-2 in tournament play this season and now have the Regional Championship trophy to go along with trophies from the Big Blue Bonanza, Raminole, and Colonial Classic. The only tourney Lake Mary has not won was the District tournament in which it finished second.

Lake Mary, which had been ranked as high as No. 6 nationally by Baseball America and was at one time in three national polls before dropping three games in seven days near the end of the regular season, has pulled it back together for the playoffs.

Mosley ace Justin Gillman lasted just two-thirds of an inning, getting tagged for the loss in his final appearance as a Dolphin.

Gillman (8-3) walked Tucker Pearce and Matt Horwath to open the game and, after an out, Ryan Bono singled to right as the Rams took an immediate 1-0 lead.

Gillman looked like he might get out of the inning without further damage as he got a strike out and got Trevor Berryhill to hit what should have been an inning-ending grounder. But the ball was booted and Horwath came around to score the inning's second run.

Matt Mergo then walked to load the bases and Josh Gray reached on another error, scoring two more runs, and Lake Mary led 4-0, ending the evening for Gillman.

The Rams would go on to added five more runs against a pair of Dolphins relievers, including a two-run home run by Horwath, as they turned the game into a rout.

The contest was still somewhat in doubt, however, until Lake Mary's Josh Gray made the defensive play of the game.

Trailing 6-0, Mosley put together its only real scoring chance of the game in the fourth inning, putting runners on second and third with two out. But Gray, the Rams second baseman, ranged to his left and made a diving, backhand stop of a grounder headed up the middle and threw to first from his knees to retire the side.

If that ball had gotten through, the Dolphins would have had two runs and momentum that would have gotten the large crowd back into the game.

Sanabria was on top of his game all night, not allowing a fly ball until a short pop to Matt Mergo in left in the seventh inning. All of the other outs came on grounders and strike outs.

"He's a gutsy kid," Tuttle said. "I was going to pull him in the seventh, but he told me no. He said, 'This is my game, coach, let me finish it.'"

And finish it he did. Aided by four double plays the senior retired the last 11 batters he faced.

"We all knew our goal before we came out on the field," Sanabria said, "and we came out and we did it."

"I got ahead early tonight. I didn't want to fall behind to anybody but when I did I knew I had the defense behind me to make the plays for me. They play 150 percent behind me every game and that's the reason we won so many games this year, because of our defense."

Horwath led the Rams offensively, going two-for-four with a home run and two RBI. Kyle Bono went two-for-three with two RBI, and twin brother Ryan Bono added a single and two RBI. Senior Tim Brown came off the bench to go two-for-two and score a run, while Mergo added a double and Gray a single for Lake Mary.

First-team All-State shortstop Yolanda "Yo" Johnson got the game started right for the Raiders, hitting a lead-off home run to center field.

The Lake Mary duo of Lauren Cooper and Lindsey Manz kept the inning going as Cooper bunted for a single and Manz walked before Cooper scored one out later on a single by Rachelle Schmidt.

SCC added a run to the lead in the second inning, but it took a six-run sixth to put the game out of reach.

Contributing to an 11-hit attack were Kim Stork (2-for-2, home run, two runs, RBI), Cooper (2-for-3, run), Johnson (1-for-2, home run, two runs, two RBI), Beckl Rodak (1-for-1, double, run, two RBI), Blake Hoorlebeke and Kristen Hughes (one single, one run and one RBI each), Schmidt (single, RBI), Manz and Digna Abello (one single each) and Kathy Noble (run).

Jodi Wood started the second game but Reeber was forced to come in the first inning after she gave up a walk, a wild pitch, and hit a batter.

The sophomore leftfielder again only allowed three hits as she pitched up her second win of the day.

"Sarah did a great job," said Miller. "She only allowed three hits in each game and our defense came up with some big plays behind her." The Raiders took control of the game immediately, scoring four runs in the top of the first inning and never looking back.

Schmidt had a monster game at the plate, going 2-for-3 with a pair of home runs, scoring twice and driving in all five runs.

Johnson finished 2-for-4 and scored a run, while Hoorlebeke had a hit and scored a run, Megan O'Donnell had a single and Manz scored a run.

SCC got eight hits against Lake City (8-6), but could not get a clutch hit to drive in a run.

Wood (21-8) suffered the loss despite allowing only three earned runs over five innings and Hoorlebeke came on to give up one run in two innings of relief.

Another ex-Ram, Lauren Bradley was 2-for-2, while Cooper was 2-for-4 and Johnson, Schmidt, Stork and O'Donnell added one single each.

In the final game, Indian River (49-13) only led 1-0 before taking control with a four-run fifth inning. Reeber (25-6) only gave up two earned runs but still suffered the loss.

The Raiders (48-14) only got six hits with Johnson getting the RBI and Noble scoring the run. Also getting one hit were Bradley, Cooper, Stork and Rodak.

Following the tournament, which was won by Lake City over Gulf Coast Community College, the Gulf District Champions, Schmidt was selected to the All-Tournament First Team, with Johnson making the Second Team and Manz and Reeber being picked for Honorable Mention.

Senior Angelo Petracca allowed no earned runs on seven hits, while striking out four and walking none, but it still added up to a defeat as Lakeland held off Seminole, 2-1, at Henley Field in the 5A-Region 2 finals on Tuesday.

Tribe

The howling 30-mile per hour-plus wind blowing straight in from left seemed to bother both teams, especially Seminole, and it very nearly cost the visitors another run in the fourth inning.

With two out and no one on, Aaron Cone ripped a liner to left that hooked behind the Tribe leftfielder for a double. Ciyatt then singled to left, but Cone could not score on the hard hit and Angelo Petracca again pitched out of the jam by getting a grounder to short.

That single would provide the last base runner for the Dreadnaughts as Petracca (8-2) would settle down to retire the final seven batters he faced, the final two by strike out.

The Seminole batters, meanwhile, just could not get anything going against Baumgardner as they only had one hit, on a roller up the middle by DiFonzo in the third, through five innings.

The Tribe was patient, however, getting six walks and came close to breaking through as three fly balls went to the warning track in right and a potential double off the bat of Kimnitig was snaggged by a diving Strickland.

Baumgardner appeared to be finding his stride as he got a pair of grounders to short to open the sixth inning, but Jake Davis ripped a liner into the right-centerfield gap for a double and Baumgardner was lifted in favor of Mike Monroe.

Monroe struck out the first two batters he faced and looked to be headed for a save. But with one out in the top of the seventh inning, pinch-hitter Keith Parrett hit a slow roller just out of Monroe's reach and was safe with an infield hit.

Willie Bennett then drew his second straight walk and DiFonzo followed with a sharp single to right to load the bases.

Chris Krall then ripped a liner up the middle to score Parrett, but Bennett was forced to freeze in fear the ball might be caught by the Lakeland shortstop, leaving the bases loaded.

The Dreadnaughts then brought in their top righthander, side-arm flame-thrower Ryan Cahalan.

Angelo Petracca drilled the first pitch he saw toward left field, but Cone smothered the screamer and was able to just throw out Bennett at the plate, just missing the speedy outfielder's head.

Seminole's final hope ended three pitches later on foul pop to first and the tremendous season came to a sudden and unexpected early end.

Ciyatt was 2-for-2 to lead Lakeland, while DiFonzo was 2-for-3 with a walk and a stolen base for the Tribe.

Other contributors for Seminole were Davis (double), Parrett (1-for-1, run), and Krall (1-for-3, RBI).

Angelo Petracca suffered the loss despite allowing no earned runs on seven hits, striking out four and walking none.

Practically every type of water, from retention ponds, lakes, rivers, even wells, in Central Florida are under the jurisdiction of the St. Johns River Water Management District. Herald photos by Tommy Vincent

Most of Florida's drinking water comes from aquifers. Aquifers are layers of rocks or layers of sand and gravel within the earth's crust which store and move water. Void spaces in the rocks, sand or gravel are filled with water. The Floridan aquifer system is replenished in a natural process called "recharge" by rainfall in areas where the soil is suited for allowing the water to seep into the ground.

St. Johns River Water Management District

Managing Central Florida's Waterways

By Nick Platouf
Staff Writer

When people hear about the St. Johns River Water Management District (SJRWMD), they generally believe it deals with the St. Johns River. After all, the river extends 310 miles from a drainage basin west of Vero Beach, where it exits into the Atlantic Ocean.

Locally, the SJRWMD district, located at 618 East South Street in Orlando, serves Lake, Orange, Polk, Seminole and Volusia Counties. There are hundreds of bodies of water involved. Practically every type of water, from retention ponds, lakes, rivers, even wells, are under the jurisdiction of SJRWMD. The St. Johns River is naturally the key focal point, because practically everything connected with water has a direct connection, aquifer, runoff, drainage, fresh water flow, tributaries. You name it and they control it.

And for practically every water-related project you might become involved with, you will probably need SJRWMD approval. Why, you may ask, do we need another organization from which to obtain permits? Don't we have to go through cities, counties, the state and other organizations for permits? Why this one?

The answer is simple. The SJRWMD was formed in late 1994, and operates on Environmental Resource Permit (ERP) rules developed in 1995 to protect wetlands and surface water bodies, and to control flooding. According to a Water Supply Assessment completed in 1994 and revised in 1998, water needs are projected to increase from 1,370 to 1,704 million gallons per day (mgd) between 1995 and 2020. Most of the increase is for public supply which alone is expected to increase from 455 to 719 mgd, a 58 percent increase. Someone has to control our present water resources to provide for the future.

And of course, the ERP rules that are used, are constantly being improved to handle changes projected for the future. "Our goal is to continue to protect the environment while streamlining the regulatory process," said David Dewey, director of the District's Orlando Service Center. "We're trying to make ourselves more efficient."

One of the prime concerns of the Orlando District is the Little Wekiva River. It receives drainage from an urbanized 42 square mile area west and north of downtown Orlando. It flows northward from Lake Lawne, just north of SR-50 in Orange County, through Altamonte Springs in Seminole County. The 15-mile long Little Wekiva River flows into one of the southern arms of the Wekiva Swamp and on into the Wekiva River.

With each heavy rain, stormwater rushes through ditches and canals and into the Little Wekiva, depositing sediments and pollutants on its way. The stormwater erodes the river's side banks and channel bottom and contributes to frequent flooding in the surrounding residential areas, as well as deteriorating water quality in the Little Wekiva and Wekiva Rivers.

The SJRWMD is working on the problem as it is with many other problems in our five county area.

Then there's the problem with Lake Jesup. It has been degraded by years of stormwater and agricultural runoff and wastewater discharges. Nutrients in the lake have come from effluent dumped for more than 30 years and from stormwater discharges into the lake's tributaries. Much has been done to improve the situation, but much more is needed.

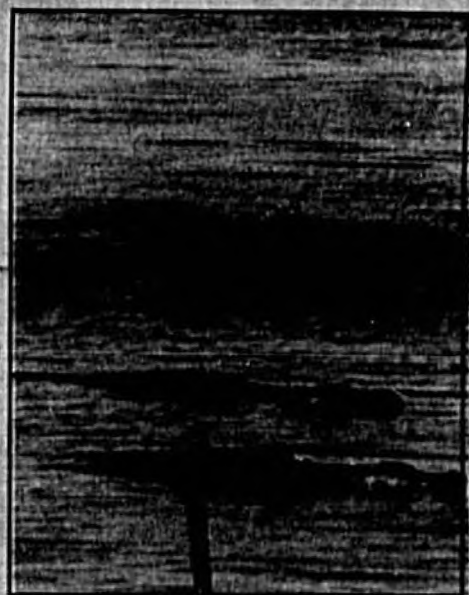

Other areas of concern for the SJRWMD include the Econlockhatchee River (known often as the Eon River), Deep Creek, and Lake Monroe.

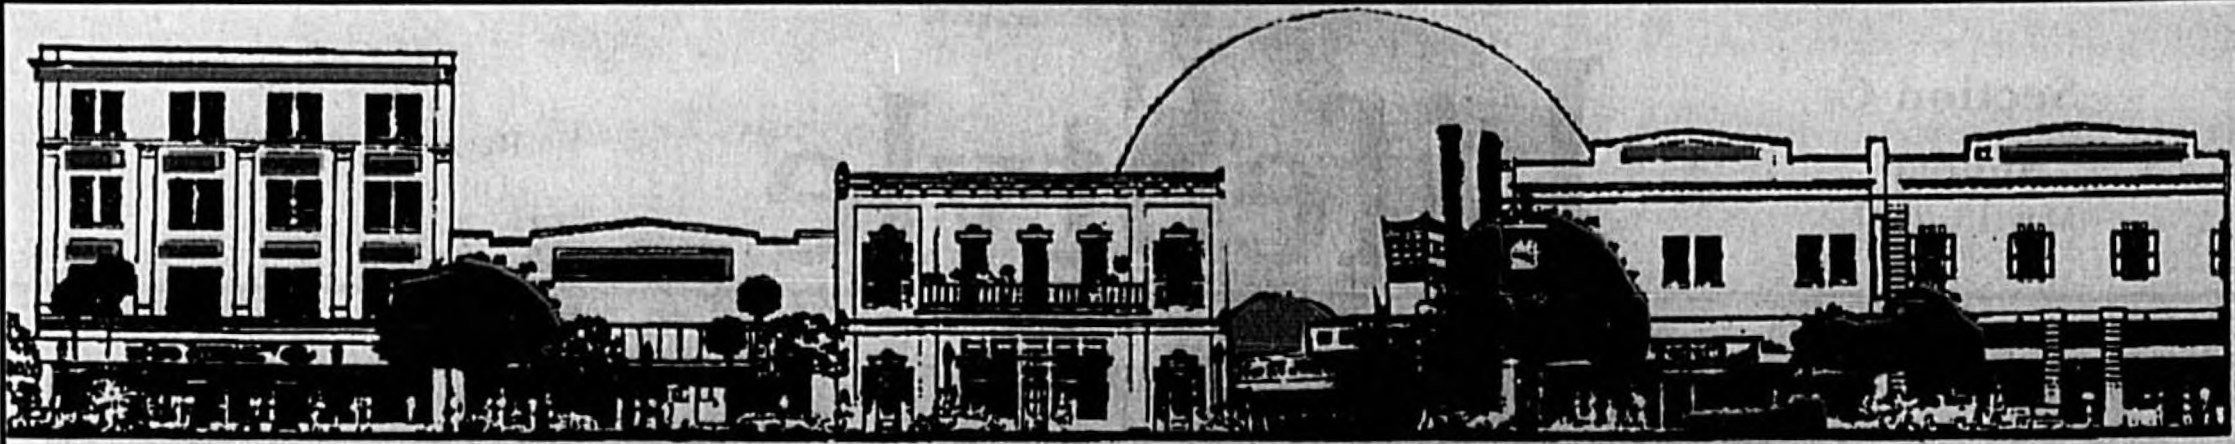

But even privately owned land falls into the SJRWMD. Case in point: a man owns five acres of land, out in the boonocks, miles from any residential area. It's on a dirt road and there are several inland lakes within a half mile. Part of the five acres is very low, and fills with water whenever it rains. The owner wants to dig up the low area, making it even lower, hoping to have a small pond on his property, and putting the earth over the higher part of the land, which will make the entire property more valuable. Can he do it? Not without approval from SJRWMD, even though it is not a direct tributary of the St. Johns River or any of its many lakes.

"Anything you do even on your own property, to change the water resources, needs our approval," explained Jeff Cole with the Orlando District.

The same holds true on making changes to a well system and other water-related matters. In addition to being a governing organization, SJRWMD is also involved in education, offering training and instruction to school children and others. They establish watering restrictions, warn of sink hole danger, and in essence, help protect every citizen and visitor in Florida.

Yes, it's another permit you'll need, more paperwork, but the SJRWMD is in existence to help everyone.

Honoring mothers everywhere

Sunday is Mother's Day, and families around the country will be honoring their mothers, mothers-in-law and grandmothers. Eighty-seven years ago, the first Mother's Day was celebrated in a remote church that was to become a national shrine dedicated to international motherhood. In 1913, the U.S. Congress, by a joint resolution, made Mother's Day a national holiday. In 1914, President Woodrow Wilson issued the country's first Mother's Day Proclamation. It was an emotional moment for Jacobs who choked back tears when she replied, "Thank you for the opportunity. It is truly an honor."

The meeting opened with the Color Guard of the Sanford Police Department impressively presenting the colors followed by members singing "God Bless America" and repeating the "Pledge of Allegiance," led by Tina Joseph. Chaplain Mindy Tooley read two prayers, one to a firefighter and the other to a police officer.

President Jack heard routine reports and announced that the

Give kids freedom one step at a time

QUESTION: My sister's daughter went off to college at 18 and immediately went a little crazy. She had always been a good kid, but when she was on her own, she drank like a lush, was sexually promiscuous and flunked three of her classes.

My daughter is only 12, but I don't want her to make the same mistakes when she is beyond our grasp. How can I get her ready to handle freedom and independence?

DR. DOBSON: Well, you may already be 12 years late in beginning to prepare your daughter for that moment of release. The key is to transfer freedom and responsibility to her little by little from early childhood, so she won't need your supervision when she is beyond it. To move suddenly from tight control to utter liberty is an invitation to disaster.

I learned this principle from my own mother, who made a calculated effort to teach me independence and responsibility. After laying a foundation during the younger years, she gave me a "final examination" when I was 17 years old. Mom and Dad went on a two-week trip and left me at home with the family car and permission to have my buddies stay at the house. Wow! Fourteen slumber parties in a row! I couldn't believe it. We could have torn the place apart — but we didn't. We behaved rather responsibly.

I suggest that you let your daughter test the waters of freedom occasionally as she's growing up, rather than tossing her into the big wide ocean all at once. It takes wisdom and tact to pull that off, but it can be done. If you do the job properly, the time of release in six or seven years will be a gentle transition rather than a cataclysmic event.

QUESTION: If you had to choose between a very authoritarian style of parenting vs. one that is permissive and lax, which would you prefer? Which is healthier for kids?

DR. DOBSON: Both extremes leave their characteristic scars on children, and I would be hard-pressed to say which is more damaging. At the oppressive end of the continuum, a child suffers the humiliation of total domination. The atmosphere is icy and rigid, and the child lives in constant fear. Lasting characteristics of dependency, deep, abiding anger and serious adolescent rebellion often result from this domination.

But the opposite extreme is also damaging to kids. In the absence of adult leadership, the child is her own master from her earliest babyhood. She thinks the world revolves around her heady empire and often has utter contempt and disrespect for those closest to her. Anarchy and chaos reign in her home.

The healthiest approach to child-rearing is found in the safety of the middle ground between disciplinary extremes.

Children tend to thrive best in an environment where these two ingredients, love and control, are present in balanced proportions. When the scale tips in either direction, problems usually begin to develop at home.

Unfortunately, parenting styles in a culture tend to sweep back and forth like a pendulum from one extreme to the other.

time to pray

The 50th National Day of Prayer was recently observed in the Central Florida area, including Sanford and Lake Mary. During the day, representatives of the liturgical, evangelical and charismatic communities of faith united publicly with those of diverse national, cultural, political and business persuasions to pray for their elected leaders. As one "Church of Central Florida" they recommitted each city to God.

A salute to mothers everywhere

DEAR ABBY: Although you don't know it, you were very much involved in making my Mother's Day special last

Dear Abby

..... year. My son's wife, Maureen, saw a letter in your column that inspired her to write one to me. Maureen and my son Tom met in high school and have been happily married for 33 years. Never in all that time have Maureen and I had a disagreement or argument of any kind. I've enclosed the letter she sent to me. It brought tears to my eyes.

"DEAR KATE: When I saw Dear Abby's column on Mother's Day, I thought of you. I want you to know how blessed I feel to have you for a mother-in-law. In fact, I rarely use that term because of its negative connotations. I usually refer to you as 'my husband's mother.'"

"You have always shown me kindness and understanding, especially during some difficult times. You have never criticized me, even when we disagreed. And I surely appreciate the love you have shown me. I have always felt being a part of the Olsen family — as one of you, rather than an in-law.

"Even if I hadn't known you as well as I do, I would deduce you were wonderful you are just through the dear, witty, generous son you raised.

"Thank you for every weed you've pulled, for every shirt you've ironed, every thoughtful note you've written, every kind word you spoke when my parents died, every hug you've given me, every day of baby-sitting Kristin and Tim, and for all you've done for me.

"The Kate, and I'm sending my thanks! Maureen"

KATE OLSEN, INDIAN HEAD PARK, ILL.

DEAR KATE: You have a right to be proud. That letter illustrates the ideal loving relationship that can be shared by DILs and MILs. I hope it inspires others to emulate you. Read on:

DEAR READERS: I would like to share with you a tribute to a mother that I printed in 1992. I'm sure many of you can identify with it. While some of the details may differ, the following letter describes the many sacrifices and acts of love on the part of mothers everywhere:

"Dear Mother: As I grew up ...

"... You fostered my independence. You allowed me to decide what to wear, what friends to choose, what boys to date, what foods to eat — and how much. You trusted my judgment, even when it differed from yours. Although our views differ on women's issues, fashion, etc., you displayed confidence in my decisions.

"... You never shamed me for being a bed wetter until I was 6 — and for that, I'll always be grateful.

"... You worked backbreaking jobs to give my brother and me music lessons, concerts, plays and educational trips.

"... You taught me about reproduction and birth control. I'm very proud of you for that. My girlfriends cannot say that about their mothers.

"... You admitted that you were not perfect, enabling me to safely question your beliefs, opinions and actions — and draw my own conclusions.

"And now that I'm an adult, I want to thank you for always being there for me. You are a wonderful role model, and I am lucky to have you for my mother. I love you very much! — NORMA"

Poem tells of love for adopted child

Thank you for writing to us. What would we do without our knowledgeable readers? Here's some feedback.

ADOPTED CHILD POEM: Doris Neary of Ocala, Fla., wanted the words to a poem about adopted children, and she turned to you for the answer. We received a huge response and many lovely letters, not only from adoptive parents, but adopted children as well. The poem, by Fleur Conkling Heylinger, first appeared in the Saturday Evening Post and has since been reprinted frequently in collections and anthologies.

"The Answer: To An Adopted Child"
 Not flesh of my flesh
 Nor bone of my bone
 But still, miraculously
 My own.
 Never forget
 For a single minute:
 You didn't grow under my heart,
 But in it.

FRIED ICE CREAM: We were astounded when we received a recipe request for fried ice cream. How could such a thing be? As a long shot, we put it in "Stumped," not believing we would ever hear from anyone. Well, we were wrong! Not only is there such a thing as fried ice cream, but there are all kinds of variations. Here's one — and for Mexican fried ice cream, use crushed tortilla chips instead of corn flakes.

Fried Ice Cream
 1 pint good-quality French vanilla ice cream
 1/2 cup crushed corn flakes
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 2 tablespoons sugar
 1 large egg
 Honey and whipped cream

Scoop out balls of ice cream, measuring about 1-1/2 inches in diameter each. Freeze until firm. In a medium bowl, combine corn flakes, cinnamon and sugar. Roll ice cream balls in corn-flake mixture and freeze again. Beat egg. Dip coated ice cream balls into egg, roll in crumbs and freeze again. When ready to serve, heat vegetable oil in a deep fryer to 350 F. Place one or two balls on a slotted spoon and lower into hot oil. Cook one minute and remove immediately. Drizzle with honey and top with whipped cream. Serves four.

SOY-INK ALLERGY: In January, Betty Stark wrote to ask if we knew of a way to keep newspaper ink from rubbing off onto her fingers. She noted that she is allergic to the soy-based ink that newspapers use. We suggested she wear gloves while reading the newspaper, but, even as we wrote it, we realized it wasn't a particularly good solution, so we asked whether our readers could help. The reply: Iron the newspaper before reading it. The heat will set the ink and keep it from coming off onto your hands.

Write to "Ask Anne & Nan" at P.O. Box 240, Hartland, VT 05048. Our new book, "Clean It, Fix It, Find It," is ready. The price is $14.95 plus $4 shipping and handling. Add $1 shipping and handling for each additional book ordered. Mail your order to Enfield Distribution, P.O. Box 699, Enfield, NH 03748. Or call toll-free (888) 216-7611.

Happy Mother's Day to all mothers.

Special meal for everyone's special mom

The warm assurance of a mother's love and the gentle memory of comforting arms stay with us all our days. It is the most essential element to our foundation and a mold in which character, personality, self-esteem, draws in and from. Mothers remain, for as long as they live, nurturing to their children — like the dark, rich soil for the plants.

We, children don't celebrate our mothers enough. Our busy lifestyle, deadlines, heavy traffic and long distances make the thought of taking Mom out or spending time with her impossible to realize. So, we go about our daily routine and do nothing. Or, we just call and say, "Happy Mother's Day!" or simply send a card already written by Helen Rice, or some other good child, and just sign it: "love, so and so."

Whenever this had happened, mothers did not notice, as we are still children. Mothers don't keep count of all our imperfections. They accept us for who we are and what we are.

My mother treasured spring the most — a season always spent together. Even in later years, when I was at college, I would return home for spring break. We prepared the soil for new herbs, vegetables, and flowers. Apricot, peach and apple trees were already in blossom. Butterflies would joyfully dance in the crisp transparent sunlight of cool May days.

Back home in Romania, the climate does not favor citrus trees, and lemon was a very expensive, hard to obtain delicacy, so mother and I discovered the taste of lemon grass.

Lemon herbs bestow countless culinary gifts on those who cultivate them. We used to delicately scent sugar bowls with a few leaves of lemon geranium, an herb that along with lemon verbena, adds a subtle grace to jellies and jams. Then there were the lemon marigolds, a glowing decorating garnish for fruits, vegetables, chicken and tartlets.

Lemon basil is perhaps one of the most versatile of all herbs, and it can be added to salad dressings, steeped with mint in iced teas or even used in omelets.

Please allow me, in memory of my mother, to offer you a few of her favorite recipes as a gift to share. I hope you and your families will enjoy them.
