PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICANS ARE SPLIT

CHANCES SEEN TO FAVOR SAME OLD DISCORD

Chicago, June 13.—The Republicans Saturday nominated Justice Hughes and Chas. W. Fairbanks, and at almost the same time Roosevelt was nominated by the Progressives, and later in the day John M. Parker of Louisiana, was named to that a report will be made public as soon as possible thereafter.

The Republicans required a ballot, the third of the convention, while the Progressive nomination was made by acclamation. Both conventions adjourned this afternoon.

Roosevelt sent a message to the Progressive convention declining the nomination conditionally, and it was accepted at Roosevelt's wishes. This provisional declination is believed to leave the door open for the eventual withdrawal of the third ticket, in the event Hughes' position on what the Progressives believe to be the vital issue of the campaign, meets their approval. To this extent the leaders of both parties believe that efforts of harmony may yet be realized.

Roosevelt's message to the Progressive convention is in part: "I accept at this time and I hope with the attitude of the Republican candidate toward issues of the day, therefore if you do not immediately decline my nomination, that you do so."

I suggest that you do not place in the hands of the National Committee of the Republicans, Hughes' statement, and that you do not believe that it is necessary to do so.

If they can act according to my refusal as desired, I will then confer with the party and from Hawaii was referred to the general committee. The Progressives decided to accept this and adjourned.

Reporters were present at the meeting, and it was agreed that Hughes would be on the third ballot when the convention opened, found this morning that the "favorite son" combination had been broken and the delegates dropped rapidly to Hughes.

On the second ballot, Hughes received 194 votes and many members wanted to nominate him, but it was ruled that if the state be polled

When Hughes was nominated no one could say as to whether he had accepted, but his acceptance came shortly after the announcement that he would accept and had received from the Supreme Court

Primary Dissatisfaction

The primary this week, the first important election under the new and complicated primary and corrupt practices acts has caused general dissatisfaction throughout the state. Men were elected by plural votes, and the nucleus of the organization of the Democratic party is that the majority shall rule. Men who led in first choice votes were nominated and were defeated by others by second choice votes. Of course, the theory is that they now all vote for themselves first and agree on one of their number as the next best man, the latter is the man of the five and their choice, but that is theory and not Democracy.

The grouping of candidates in places where two or more are to be chosen is not favored by many. That section of the law requires a man to run against one particular candidate and subject himself to the political and natural combination that should be made against him.

The Angle matter of expense account has displeased the state. The tickets of several counties were printed three times, first with Angie's name, then without his name and finally with his name again. Two counties never placed his name on the ticket, it is said. The Attorney General advised the Secretary of State, upon request, from that office for an opinion legal, that Angie's name could not go on the ticket, but the Secretary of State himself, returning to the city, disregarded the opinion of the Attorney General and ordered Mr. Angle back on the ticket.

The next legislature will be laying for the primary and corrupt practices acts. They have not made good. Tallahassee Democrat.

S. O. S. to Explain

Washington, June 13.—Officials of the Standard Oil Companies of New Jersey, New York and Ohio and other large oil producers will undertake to explain the rise in the price of gasoline at a hearing tomorrow which will conclude the Federal Trade Commission's investigation into the increase. The hearing will last two days. Commissioner Harris who will preside, has announced that a report will be made public as soon as possible thereafter.

While the hearing is to be independent of any action proposed by the Attorney-General, the evidence thus far adduced by the commission will be placed before the department of justice.

Don't keep us in suspense any longer. Is it Catts or Knott?

A lot of people are still wasting time talking politics. Forget it.

Let Roosevelt and Hughes split em up. Gives us a better chance.

Flag Day tomorrow and every patriotic citizen should sing Old Glory to the breeze.

Willis Powell, late of the Clearwater Sun is now automobile northward where he will spend the summer. Willis sold out his plant and now has nothing on his mind but his hair.

Some of the beautiful clear water lakes near Sanford would make ideal summer homes for the people of this city. Other cities are adopting this method of keeping the money at home and Sanford could profit by it.

No man has done more for the cause of temperance in Florida than F. M. Hudson, and yet on the eve of the election the Anti-Saloon League issued a circular advising concentration on another candidate. That's gratitude? Lakeland Telegram.

When you hear a politician get up and talk about "dirty" newspapers, you must remember that nine times out of ten his idea of a "dirty" newspaper is one that dares to bear its share of the glad tidings of his political victory or has the temerity to intimate that some one else is as despicable a traitor to a given position as the last pony express because it is cleaner. It is a shame that a person of the press, in the first instance, can often endanger his cause whatever he has accomplished to newspaper offices. Lakeland Telegram.

THE SAME PRINCIPLES

While a candidate for Representative the editor of The Herald had a few ideas of his own and expressed them publicly. He lost, of course, just as any man will lose who dares to face up to a political machine. But when such a man loses, he loses honor, he loses friends, and that is what we mean when we say the people will eventually win the battle although he may never win an office to which he aspires. This is our first and last little fly into politics. We can do more effective work on the side lines than in the thick of the fight. Friends of our good friends should, once, support this man, and then, in the future, he will be a good friend. He will continue to be a good friend instead of a good enemy. Crown him with laurels, the country will thank all the good friends who stood for us so loyally in the face of difficulties such as never surrounded a candidate for this high office before. We have four principles intact and know our friends much better than we ever knew them before. On the other hand we should have no enemies for they also had the chance of their life time to get even and the accounts should be settled. We were the first to congratulate the successful candidate in the race and he will receive the same loyal support from the Herald in his efforts at law making that the editor would if elected. Mr. Woodruff is a Sanford man who was born and raised here and has large interests here and can be depended upon to look after local bills and also those of his state.

The election is over and the country is safe.

SENATOR TRAMMELL

Every return speaks the same story—the nomination of Park Trammell as United States senator from Florida.

The average man must stand amazed at the wonderful record of this young man, for he is yet young as men go and the flush of youth still mantles his cheeks and shines in the unclouded auburn of his hair.

Step by step, and each one a big step, he has mounted high by the cast of chance or the fortune of wealth, but on the approving suffrage of his people from the legislature to the senate.

In this race for the United States senate, when our Fortunatus of politics essayed to emerge from the state into the national arena, there were many who doubted and disbelieved. But we see in the unmistakable evidence of the tally-sheets, recorded in thousands of precincts, the same voice of confidence in him, the same resolution to advance him further. Lawyer Trammell, Editor Trammell, Representative Trammell, Senator Trammell, Attorney General Trammell, Governor Trammell and now Senator Trammell in procession of preferment which is vouchsafed to but few mortal men and which would make of its recipient the devoted and prayerful servant of his people unto the limit of his years and the uttermost of his talents.

Park Trammell will sit in the senate of the United States in the seat vacated by a man of unusual mental capacity and as team mate of the ablest of Floridians he will attract much attention from public, press and colleagues, and barring cruel references to dead and gone but remembered orators will command attention with his first utterance in that momentous forum. The Old Heads will get together and whisper that this youth has come among them suddenly and they will enquire as to his entitlements and they will be told by Mack Cathcart or other authority from Florida that he has never lost an election or lost an upward step and they will naturally conclude that there must be something to him beside a pulchritudinous presence. Realizing this opportunity and with nothing higher to which he can aspire, we may expect some sort of service from him and we may hope that he may prove as good a senator as he is a vote getter and that Florida may be blessed by his further promotion in its service and that he may, at least, not detract from the eminent dignity and standing which Florida now enjoys under that laudable administration of its senior senator, Tampa Tribune.

THE TORRENS SYSTEM
Under that head the Saturday Evening Post gives the following concerning explanation of the merits of the Torrens system:

The man who buys a farm or a town lot receives a more or less voluminous andapiro document called an abstract of title. This document is a mere collection of facts concerning the ownership of the property, and it is not always known whether or not the abstract shows a perfect title. He can, however, get a copy of the abstract from the agent of a title insurance company. The attorney must be reinstated. In exceptional cases there may even be flaws in the title that the abstract does not show. In my case the attorney's opinion of the title insurance company's guarantee costs considerably.

Mr. John G. Torrens, of New York, says that the abstract is a mere certificate of the貫nized state and expressed in a certificate so simple that anybody can understand it.

To describe the system briefly, it is a plan to record the documents in the office of the recorder of deeds, so that the title to the property is registered in the state and expressed in a certificate so simple that anybody can understand it.

There is no going back of the certificate. No re-examination of records is necessary. True, claimants to the title whom the records did not show may turn up, for example, a woman who claims to have been widow of the grantor, persons who claim to have been heirs, and so on. These claims may be valid at law. To provide against them an insurance fund is created. Experience in this country shows that one tenth of one per cent of the value of property transferred is ample for this fund, that is, when land worth ten thousand dollars is transferred under the Torrens System, it contributes ten dollars to the insurance fund.

Claimants such as those referred to above cannot disturb the certificate holder's title to the land. They cannot even cast a cloud upon it. If their claims are valid they are compensated out of the insurance fund. There is no going back of the certificate.

FLAG DAY
Tomorrow, June 14, is Flag Day, and the prospects are that it will be observed with more enthusiasm and with more elaborate ceremonies than in any previous year. There are so many reasons for patriotic demonstration in this country, and so many reasons why loyalty to Old Glory should be strengthened, that every organization and every individual, having a desire to help in making "Americanism" more real, will see in "Flag Day" an opportunity for arousing greater love for this country.

Mrs. E. P. Strong arrived from Topeka, Kansas, Friday afternoon and left on the midnight train for Brooksville with the Misses Margaret and Isabel and Paul Strong. She was the guest of Mrs. S. O. Shimholser during her brief stay.

Mrs. Thomas Cook and little son of Orlando have been spending a week at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. C. DeCoursey.

President Wilson's proclamation of the day conveys the sentiment of the occasion in this wise:

My Fellow Countrymen: Many circumstances have recently inspired to turn our thoughts to a critical examination of the condition of our national life, and of the influence which have seemed to threaten to divide us in interest and sympathy of forces within and forces without, that seemed likely to draw us away from the happy traditions of united purpose and action, of which we have been so proud.

It has, therefore, seemed to be fitting that I should call your attention to the approach of the anniversary of the day upon which the flag of the United States was adopted by congress as the emblem of the Union, and to suggest to you that it can this year and in the years to come be given special significance on a day of renewal and reminder, a day upon which we should direct our minds with a special desire of renewal to thought of the ideals and principles of which we have sought to make our great Government the embodiment.

I therefore suggest and request that, throughout the nation, and if possible in every community, the Fourteenth day of June be observed as Flag Day with special patriotic exercises, at which means shall be taken to give significant expression to our thoughtful love of America, our comprehension of the great mission of liberty and justice to which we have devoted ourselves as a people, our pride in the history, and our enthusiasm for the political program of the nation, our determination to make it greater and purer with each generation, and our resolution to demonstrate to all the world, its vital union in sentiment and purpose, accepting only those as true compatriots who do as we do the compilation of their supreme allegiance.

Let us, on that day, rededicate ourselves to the cause of the "one and inseparable" from which every thought that is not worthy of our fathers' first vows of independent hearts and right shall be excommunicated and to which we shall stand with united hearts for an America which shall not corrupt or be corrupted away from its ideals, too far divided against itself, a nation singularly distinguished among the nations of mankind for its clear and decided conception alike of its status and its privilege, its mission and its responsibility.

Church Social
Miss Virginia Smith, class of the Presbyterians Sunday school, will be honored in the evening of the Fourth of July at the annual meeting of the Hotel Clergy next Saturday afternoon. Ice cream and cake will be served at a nominal sum and the proceeds will go to the new auditorium of the Presbyterian church. Everybody is invited to come out and enjoy the afternoon. At the Hotel Clergy, near Sanford.

EASY WITH GOOD TEACHER

Girl Proved How Perfectly Simple It Was to Learn to Run an Automobile.

"I've just been dying to meet you!" The girl in the new auto hailed her passing companion.

"Come, dear," she said, "Jump right in and I'll show you how to run it, then when yours comes you'll know."

The other girl jumped in, delighted.

"I'm so nervous and excited!" she exclaimed. "Who taught you?"

"Charlie Smith. Really, it's dreadfully easy. Don't be worried. Sit right in there and grasp the steering wheel firmly. Now! Are you ready?"

"Yes—but will it jump?"

"Certainly not. Remember that I am here by your side. First you turn on your power. Yes, that little button. See that knob?"

"Well, just joggle it. Now put one foot right there on that pedal."

"Oh! Just like playing a piano."

"And the other foot press down—there don't be afraid. It won't go off."

"Oh! It's beginning to go!"

"Silly! That's only the thing—magig! Now grasp the wheel firmly and press down on the pedal. No—that's the wrong one. Dear me! Is it the right one or left? You know, I can tell when I'm sitting there."

"Will it do anything if—"

"Nonsense! Now dear, don't get excited. You've got to throw out all the cylinders first. This knob does that. What is it called? Let me think. President Wilson—waw—Oh yes! It's in neutral. Charlie says nothing can happen when it is in neutral. Now, are you ready?"

(Faintly) "I think I am."

"Press down with your left foot. If that isn't right we'll try the other. Now! I'll push neutral out. Don't move your foot."

"Must I hold on?"

"Yes, yes! Now easy—wait a minute. Don't move. Dear me! There's something I know I've forgotten. Charlie wrote it out on a card." (Companion hanging on to wheel for dear life, with her foot jamming down the clutch) "Oh, yes! Here it is. To please the brake. Ah! Now, dear, I'll push in on this. Ready?" (Companion suddenly removes foot, and car jumps forward like a catapult for an instant, and then half stops and jerks along.)

"What have I done?"

"Nothing, dear. Don't be alarmed. But it's going! (Wildly.) What shall I do?"

"Let's see. Oh, dear!" (Suddenly moves up.)

"Quick! I'm going the wrong way!"

(The teacher, pale with fright, man agos to turn on the switch. Car stops with its nose in a fence.)

"Of course, at first—"

"I know I'll never learn!"

"Nonsense! My dear, it's nothing. Charlie Smith taught me in only one lesson." —Life.

British Income Tax.

Seventy-four years ago an act of parliament was passed which is still very vigorous and "doing its bit" in the war, the London Chronicle states.

It was the famous income tax act of 1812, brought in by Peel to make up the loss of revenue caused by his reform of the tariff, and most of its provisions have been reimposed each year ever since.

It was intended to be only a temporary measure, but both Peel and Lord Russell renewed it, and Gladstone passed a continuing act in 1853, which extended the income tax to Ireland, it having applied previously to Great Britain only.

Our income tax is, however, older than Peel, for it was first imposed in 1799 to raise funds for the carrying on of the war with France, and continued year by year until 1816, the year after Waterloo.

For the next quarter of a century (happy days!) there was no income tax, but since 1842 its yield has steadily grown, and it now forms a permanent part of the fiscal system. In 1799 at £2,000,000; in 1914 at £84, it produced £69,500,000. The highest rate between 1843 and 1914 was 3d, in 1902 (for the Boer war); the lowest rate, 2d, was reached in 1874.

Community Forum.

Discussing the advantages of the community forum as the embodiment of fundamental ideals of American government, Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, says:

"No government will ever be safer or wiser than the popular sentiment of the masses of the people. The one guarantee that this sentiment will not be wrong is the systematic provision of the means of organized public discussion. Democracy is the educational form of government. Other forms of control may be more efficient, but government through public discussion means more in the advancement of the race."

Real Optimist.

The rich French "amateur de science" who has offered a prize of $20,000 to be given to the astronomer who first communicates with a star or planet other than Mars, will hardly live to see the prize awarded, although he thinks that communication with Mars will be established before many years. Apparently he is one of those who believe that nothing is impossible.

Something in That.
Teacher—What is the hottest zone?
Johnny—The war zone.

PALMERO IS QUITE ACCURATE

Cuban Twirler Never Forgets What to Do With Ball When He Gets It —Resembles Wiltse.

Emilio Palmero, the Cuban twirler of the Giants, whose splendid hurling against the Phillies in the first game of the recent series, may win him a place on the regular pitching staff of the club reminds one for all the world of George Wiltse in the field. He is accuracy itself in handling the ball, and he never forgets what to do with the leather when he gets it. A hoot to him must be perfectly placed to advance a runner.

Number of Continents.

Some of the older atlases and geographies count North and South America as two continents. Most of the modern ones give them as one continent. Australasia is generally given as the fifth continent, to indicate the more advanced.

We Believe the Maxwell is Greatest Motor Car Value on the Market

BUT our opinion would not be of any particular importance to you if it did not coincide with the facts. We only want you to look the market over carefully. Then we absolutely know that you will agree with us.

In the first place there is the remarkable Maxwell engine. No four cylinder motor of its size has more "pep" or go to it regardless of the price of the car it drives. It will climb hills on high gear in a manner that will astonish you. It is quiet and works day in and day out with a sound, business-like hum that is good to hear.

Any engineer will compliment the design of the chassis. And those who are not engineers cannot fail to note its simplicity and staunch construction. As for what it is made of, we can truthfully say that better material cannot be bought.

The operation of the car is simplicity itself—the brakes are powerful—the springs are long and flexible—the axles are strong and the steering apparatus, like the rest of the chassis, is built to stand the most severe service the car may ever have to face, wherever or however it is used.

Then if you consider looks important, and most people do, you will not find a more attractive car than the Maxwell at anywhere near the price.

And it comes to you fully equipped with all the attachments you will ever want or need; electric starter and lights, demountable rims, one man top, self-ventilating, rain-vision windshield, etc. All for $655 (five passenger touring car) or $635 (two passenger roadster).

We know you can't beat it.

Touring Car $655
Roadster $635
