Seeds for the future

SANFORD — The city of Sanford Scenic Improvement Board will be planting wildflower seeds in the right-of-way around the bridge on U.S. Highway 17-92, on Lake Monroe, adjacent to the old Police Benevolent Association building, on Wednesday, Jan. 18, at 9 a.m.

The project, which is promoted and sponsored by the Florida Department of Transportation, will be the first of three areas in which the board plans to do the planting. The two other areas, 27th Street and Hwy. 17-92 and Lake Mary Boulevard and Hwy. 17-92, will have wildflowers planted in the medians after road improvement projects are completed. The wildflowers are perennials, emerging each year from seed.

Donate unwanted cars

CASSELBERRY — Bruce Pronovost, new Casseberry mayor, has announced a partnership between the city and the National Kidney Foundation's "Kidney Car Campaign."

Casseberry will be the first Florida municipality to link a city abandon vehicle program with the foundation's program.

Under the terms of the program, Casseberry residents may donate their unwanted cars, trucks or motorcycles to the National Kidney Foundation. Proceeds of the sale of the vehicles will go to help kidney research and patient services for more than 10,000 kidney dialysis and transplant patients in Florida. Donated cars will be removed by the foundation, free of charge, and owners can claim a charitable deduction for the fair market value on their income taxes. The program offers residents a great way to start out the new year by cleaning out their yards and doing a good deed.

For more information, contact Jimette Cook, city of Casseberry, 263-3922.

Main Street vision

2-day meeting sets pace for revitalization

SANFORD — "In many ways, this is day one of a new Sanford Main Street," consultant Neil Fritz told the group gathered at the Sanford Civic Center Saturday morning to review the vision, mission statement and goals set by the Main Street board of directors Friday.

The group also helped with setting the objectives, activities and tasks to be implemented this year and in the coming years.

There are seven prescribed steps to be followed to attain success in implementing Main Street program, Fritz reminded the group. The first activity that was required of the board, after Sanford was designated as a Main Street community, was to complete a market analysis.

"This is the first time I've had the opportunity to walk into a community and say, business inventory, done, market analysis, done," Fritz

Hobo's dinner or religious offering?

An unusual display under a tree near Sanford City Hall is believed to be an offering to the Santaria saint Chongo, seeking a favor. Angelo Ortiz, a worker at Botanica Alafi in south Orlando, said an offering of water and food under an oak or palm tree represents a food gift to the saint in return for a favor, such as a new job. A nearby coconut shell is used to hear whether Chongo is pleased. Santaria is a Cuban-based religion which blends the beliefs of Roman Catholics and African spiritualism. Such displays have never been reported, said Sanford police Cmdr. Dennis Whitlire.

New commission chairman outlines goals for county

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — County Commission Chairman Randy Morris is hitting the ground running in 1995.

Last week, Morris outlined his goals for the new year. A partial list includes:

●A meeting later this month with Sanford commissioners about several issues including the possible merger of the Seminole County Port Authority and the Sanford Airport Authority;

●A meeting with Winter Springs commissioners to discuss the widening of Tuslawilla Road and other issues;

●Two meetings in February to discuss the operations — and possible transfer to private enterprise — of the county dump and Central Transfer Station;

●A commission goal-setting meeting next month for commissioners to outline their goals for the year;

●A reorganization of the county's 40 or more committees and boards. And that's just through February. "These are things that need to get done," said Morris. "I think it can be a very progressive, fun time in government."

-Randy Morris

Morris said he doesn't take responsibility for many of the projects, although he is moving them forward. Several were brought to him by other commissioners, such as the port merger idea brought to him by Commissioner Daryl McLain.

The idea had been mentioned in past years and was worth a revisit, said McLain. The merger would stand to

Oviedo hearings: Land issues

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

OVIDEO — Public hearings on land issues including two rezonings, small scale amendment to the comprehensive plan and waiving a section of the land development code will be conducted Tuesday night by the Oviedo City Council.

Councilmen will also introduce on first reading an ordinance amending the police officer's retirement fund to comply with federal laws and regulations including provisions of the Americans with Disabilities Act, City Manager Gene Williford said. A public hearing on the ordinance will be conducted at the Feb. 8 commission meeting.

The Council will also consider a user agreement with the Florida Department of Law Enforcement concerning criminal history data. Williford said the new agreement amends the current one to take into account the release of information about juveniles charged with crimes.

Under the juvenile justice reforms which have taken effect, the names and photographs of some juveniles may be released regardless of their age. Teens and youngsters charged with felonies or who are repeat offenders may be identified to the public. Previously, unless a youth was charged as an adult, their names were not released.

In other business, the Council will notify Seminole County the city does not plan to participate in the travel time and delay study. Under the interlocal agreement between cities and county government, governmental units have the option of not participating, Williford said.

Since the city does not use travel time and delay traffic data, officials are opting out of the study, saving the city between $2,000 to $3,000, the city manager explained.

Students can handle tougher math

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's high school juniors handled tougher math questions on a state competency test with no problem but did not perform as well on the exam's communications section.

The state made the High School Competency Test more difficult last fall by including ninth- and 10th-grade math skills and 10th-grade reading material. Nearly 98,300 juniors took the test in October.

Students must pass the exam to get a diploma. Seventy-eight percent of the students passed the math portion, and 89 percent passed the communications portion.

By design, those passing rates are the same as the prior test. Although Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet approved making the test harder, they decided to set the passing score at whatever level was required to achieve the same results the first year. On the math portion, the passing score fell at 71 percent. Even though the questions were harder, that was the same passing score for the math test a year earlier.

But the passing score for communications was dropped dramatically to get the same results, indicating students didn't cope as well with the harder test.

To give 80 percent of the students passing grades, the state lowered the passing score from 83 percent to 74 percent of the questions.

Had the old standard been used, only 78 percent of the students would have passed the communications section.

Newly elected Education Commissioner Frank Brogan, who will make passing score recommendations to the governor and Cabinet this summer, said he isn't willing to lower standards.

"I don't believe the intention is to make the test more challenging and then lower the expectation for passing," he said. "You've just created a wash."

Judge dismisses case against Vogel

ORLANDO — A federal judge Friday threw out a $6.5 million civil suit against Sheriff Bob Vogel by minority motorists who claimed a drug squad illegally seized large amounts of cash from them.

U.S. District Judge Anne C. Conway ruled after five days of testimony that the plaintiffs had failed to show they were specifically targeted by the Volusia County unit operating on Interstate 95.

Selena Washington, a black resident of Charleston, S.C., and Jorge Nater of Vega Baja, Puerto Rico, claimed discrimination and violation of their constitutional rights on search and seizure and equal protection under law.

Their attorneys argued that the Selective Enforcement Team targeted blacks and Hispanics driving along the interstate in the Central Florida coastal county.

They said an analysis of 1,140 traffic stops showed that 68.6 percent were of black drivers. Former team members testified they used a race-based profile.

The judge said the plaintiffs failed to convince her they were stopped and searched simply because they are black and Hispanic.

Deputies seized $19,000 in cash from Ms. Washington and $67,000 from Nater, alleging that the money could have been obtained illegally. But no drugs or other contraband were found in their cars and neither was charged with a crime.

Ms. Washington and Nater brought the case after they had agreed to legal settlements with the sheriff's office and had most of their cash returned to them.

Rare panther in most populous county?

ST. PETERSBURG — A Florida panther may be wandering around the state's most densely populated county.

Residents in semi-rural sections of northeast Pinellas have reported seeing a large, tawny cat with a long tail moving ghostlike through their property.

Only bobcats have been caught so far. Bobcats seldom exceed about 30 pounds, while a male panther can weigh 150 pounds.

Bobcats are common throughout Florida. Panthers are among the rarest animals in North America.

Last month, clear tracks of what seemed to be a panther-sized cat were found in Brooker Creek Preserve by biologist Craig Hugel, who manages the 8,000-acre wilderness at the Pinellas, Hillsborough and Pasco borders.

"Whether it was made by a panther or somebody's escaped pet or something else I'm not sure," Hugel said. "If those tracks were made by a panther, it would be wonderful for Pinellas and Brooker Creek. It would be absolutely stunning."

The only known breeding population — about 50 panthers — is found in the remotest swamps and forests of the Everglades. To get to Pinellas, the big cat would have to maneuver around Tampa Bay.

A single panther requires hundreds of miles of undeveloped territory in which to hunt, breed and sleep.

Panthers roamed Pinellas earlier in the century. Pinellas, with about 3,000 people living on each square mile, is probably the least likely place in the state for a panther to show up in 1988.

Grant backs special program

Idyllwilde teacher brings many cultures to classroom

By WENDY BOGGS
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Diane Cuosso gets excited talking about the possibilities the grant money she has received from the Foundation for Seminole County Public Schools.

Cuosso, the art teacher at Idyllwilde Elementary School in Sanford, was recently awarded $283 for her proposal, "All About M.E. (Multicultural Education)."

She believes that students benefit greatly from learning about other cultures.

"They learn about other countries and other cultures and they learn about themselves."

she said.

And, Cuosso added, the students are very excited about the learning experience.

She plans to use the grant money to purchase supplies for a 10-week program that explores the traditions, dress, food and art of a myriad of nationalities.

In most cases, the youngsters will use books and photographs as their main source of information.

However, in a few instances, the finest consultants will be brought in to advise the classes on the ways of different peoples. Those consultants are the students themselves.

"We've got kids from Israel, from India, from Puerto Rico, from British Columbia, from the Philippines and other places," she said. "They are proud of their heritage and they are very willing to share their knowledge."

She got the idea of using the students who have first-hand knowledge of a culture after one Israeli student announced, "I know more about Israel than anyone else in the school."

"And you know," Cuosso said, "I said, 'you're right' and I've also talked to some of the students in the ESOL (English for Speakers of Other Languages) classes and we have all kinds of resources."

The two-and-a-half month program will culminate in a festival in early April.

There will be colorful costumes, singing, dancing, art and food.

"Usually, the parents make the food of their native lands or the place where their ancestors come from," she said. "Of course we have some parents bring in apple pie and hot dogs and other real American things."

Last year Cuosso taught a similar program and more than 400 students, parents and other family members took part in the festivities. And there were more than 135 students performing at the festival.

"This is a very popular event with the kids," she said.

More 'bread' to aid teachers, students

By WENDY BOGGS
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Education is the bread of life. Or is it that bread is the life of education?

The latter may be the key to the former in Seminole County.

The Foundation for Seminole County Public Schools and Flowers Baking Company of Bradenton, Inc. have joined forces to help improve the quality of education in local schools.

A new program, called "Whitebread for Education," is designed to assist public schools in Seminole County and six other school districts across the state.

For every loaf of the company's Whitebread bread that is sold in Seminole County between now and Feb. 16, the Flowers company will donate five cents to the educational foundation. They will do the same in the other counties.

Company officials estimate that "thousands of Central Florida students and hundreds of teachers will benefit from this fund-raising promotion."

In addition, the county with the highest percent increase in Whitebread sales during the six-week long promotion will earn an additional $1,000 from the Flowers company.

"We are excited that the bakers of the Whitebread bread are helping us to raise funds to support our innovative and effective school enhancement program," said Dede Schaffner, executive director of the Foundation. "These programs include grant programs for teachers to learn new approaches in education, special programs to enhance classroom learning and student recognition programs to encourage excellence in learning. We need all our residents to show they support our schools and our children when they are at the supermarket."

A Mashed a Loaf to Enrich Our Schools

John Coate, president of Flowers, said his company has always been a big supporter of education.

"We feel that by helping to promote the finest education possible for our young people, we are saying 'thanks' to all our customers," he said. "With 'Whitebread for Education' we want to give something back to our community that will have a lasting impact. Supporting students and education is an excellent way for us to do so."

The way we were circa 1930

By GLENN E. STEVENSON
Herald Correspondent

The following events happened in Sanford in about 1930.

The Thirty-Three Club

My mother belonged to a ladies' organization called the Thirty-Three Club and there are several accounts of their parties in her scrapbook. At each one they played bridge, so I assume it was a bridge club. What significance thirty-three was, I don't know. Perhaps there were 33 members, but I only count a total of 21 different people at their functions. Usually only about eight were at each party.

There was always a prize for high bridge score and occasionally one for low score. Some of the prizes won for high score were a vanity set, a boudoir pillow, a pineapple linen luncheon set, silver salt shakers, an embroidered scarf.

Evidently their parties were held at various times of the day as refreshments were served either at the tea hour, supper hour or late in the evening. At the home of Mrs. Walter Routh, a sweet course and coffee were served on plates adorned with miniature Irish pipes. A salad and sweet course was served at the home of Mrs. J.M. Stinecoper while Mrs. E.J. Routh's guests were served a salad course with a carnation on each plate.

The ladies went all out in their decorations. Mrs. Walter Routh used novelty green dolls and green baskets filled with candy on the tables. Tallies and score pads bore hand-painted designs of old-fashioned girls. At Mrs. J.E. Baker's, the rooms were decorated with wild flowers in shades of lavender and gold; the tallies carried out the same color scheme. Mrs. E.J. Routh used an Easter theme in her decorations.

Members of the Thirty-Three Club included the Mesdames Walter Routh, W.A. Varn, E.J. Routh, J.M. Stinecoper, Victor Green, W.E. Baker, Harry Kent, G.H. Brown, T.C. Pitchford, J.F. Cooner, R.W. Lawton, Quentin Brown, Thomas Butler, W.M. McKinnon, T. Wainright, M.B. Smith, George McHenry, James Huff, Also the Misses Edna and Laura Chittenden. Miss Chloe Routh was listed as a guest.

It was announced that the Orlando chapter of DeMolay would be guests of the Seminole chapter at the Masonic Temple on Park Avenue. Two degrees would be conferred on approximately 12 candidates. Those from Sanford who were to receive their final degree were Gene Turner, Nathaniel Farnsworth, Mike Wilson, Luther David, and Jack Stemper.

Chamber of Commerce membership
In a March 12, 1930 memo, Martin Stinecoper was informed by Chase and Company that they were taking out a Sanford Chamber of Commerce membership of $12 in his name.

An O.S.S. Chapter meeting
At a regular meeting of the Seminole Chapter Number Two Order of the Eastern Star, representatives from several neighboring towns were guests. Mrs. Sybil Routh presided over the meeting and later the Star point officers and the marshal entertained with a Maypole drill during which they presented baskets to the guests.

Following this, a program was presented. Jack Duran performed a vocal solo accompanied by Miss Dyson while Neil Stewart entertained with a solo dance entitled "Jack and Jill." A dance was also performed by Dorothy Stewart who was accompanied by Mrs. E.F. Lane. Constance Melah and George Anderson sang "Hello Baby" and Martin Stinecoper sang a baritone solo. Mrs. E.F. Lane was accompanist for the latter two performances.

During the refreshment time, Miss Eloise Winn entertained with readings. Approximately 125 people were in attendance.

Spelling contest
Richard Deas, an eighth grade student at Sanford Junior High School, was winner of the district spelling contest held in DeLand Feb. 19, 1930. He defeated candidates representing schools in Ocala, Orange, Volusia, Lake and Seminole counties.

Mrs. J.M. Stinecoper accompanied Richard to Gainesville for the state contest which was held on March 8. He placed eighth in the state contest which was sponsored by the Extension Division of the University of Florida. Charles Butler from Sanford also made the trip with them to enter the state history contest, but there is no mention as to how he fared.

Top cops

Sanford Fraternal Order of Police recently honored some of their own Sanford officers. City commissioner Kerry Lyons top left, presents a plaque to senior Ofc. Mike Ansel, nominated for Officer of the Year. Ansel started the K-9 officer program, using his own dog, Shogun. He also helped start the vice unit at the Sanford Police Department. He is the first Officer of the year for the FOP. Bottom: Officer of the Quarter Randy Smith is congratulated by Lyons. Smith is a crime scene technician. In other business, FOP auxiliary members sponsored two deserving families over the holidays, providing Christmas gifts and meals for working families who because of hardship, would not have been able to celebrate the season.

Beyond the problem

If you are a woman who has been battered and abused in Seminole County, you should know that there soon will be refuge away from the pain and with people who can help.

Safehouse of Seminole County, slated to open in late March, has been a labor of love for many volunteers and victims' advocates, who all deserve much praise. Until now, the county has not had a safe harbor for abused spouses.

Among those deserving kudos are Sanford Police Chief Ralph Russell and Seminole County Sheriff Don Estlinger. Officers who work for them routinely answer domestic violence calls in the city and county, write them up, and may arrest the abusive spouse to diffuse the situation.

But Estlinger and Russell didn't end it there. Both men, representing the two law enforcement agencies, recently made donations from those agencies' trust funds to Safehouse: the sheriff's department $15,000 and the chief's department $3,000.

Seeing beyond the parameters of their jobs, Estlinger and Russell recognized one solution to a growing problem, and pitched in to help make life a little more comfortable for the bruised and battered victims their officers deal with every day.

LETTER

Time for answers

A driver in Slovakia said to me, in broken English, "Under communism no work hard, get paid. Under capitalism, work hard, don't get paid much." This is the problem facing Slovakia since its split from the former Czechoslovakian Republic on Jan. 1, 1993. They are trying to reform an antiquated economic system and move from a communist rule to a democracy.

I had the privilege of leading the U.S. delegation whose job was to brief the 150 newly elected members of their parliament. Slovaks have a multi-party system with seven parties. The major party has 81 votes with 3 other parties in the high teens. The legislators themselves work under great handicaps. They neither have an office nor staff. There are approximately 10 to 15 members on each major committee. Each committee has one professional staff person and one secretary. The parliament has 5 people on their library staff, 5 people on their computer staff and 5 people on their legislative staff. Despite these handicaps these parliamentarians are truly interested in understanding how our system works and what they can learn from it. We spent approximately 4 days, 12 hours a day in various seminars and meetings. It was amazing to me to find that they were taking notes and asking questions, even during the last hour of the last day.

There are obviously differences between their multi-party parliamentary system and our two-party Congress. The most fundamental difference is the role of the parliamentarian. They view themselves as a member of their particular party with no flexibility once their party has taken a position. They find it hard to believe that a member of the United States Congress could vote against his or her party or president. The immediate problem is that the former premier, Vladimir Meciar, is attempting to form a coalition government. He is allegedly a reformed communist but is looked on by many within and without the country as someone who has not reformed very much. Privatization is going at a snail's pace with approximately 15 percent of basic industry privatized. The wages are low although the costs of living are also low. A three-room apartment outside the capital city of Bratislava costs about $50. It is hard to spend more than $5 U.S. dollars for a meal in a restaurant. An average worker probably makes somewhere around $1,500 U.S. per year. A lawyer 5 years out was making between $4,500 and $5,000 U.S.

The problems faced by Slovakia are the same for many of the former iron curtain countries. Some like Czechoslovakia and Hungary are in better economic shape. However, the danger lies in what the driver said. If the free enterprise system does not work, it is easy for the people who have been ruled by one group or another for centuries to fall back into an authoritarian government. It is in the United States' interest to not let that happen. U.S. know-how, investment and trade is the long term answer. Unfortunately, I am not sure we have time for long-term answers.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Letters to the editor are welcome. All letters must be signed, include the address of the writer and a daytime telephone number. Letters should be on a single subject and be as brief as possible. The letters are subject to editing.

Focus: 'Contract with America'

When the 104th Congress convened this month the spotlight focused on the "Republican Contract with America." The new House Speaker, Newt Gingrich, has made it the centerpiece of the Republican national legislative thrust. However, polls conducted after the Republican victory revealed that a significant number of Americans knew nothing about "the Contract."

It is estimated that 38.7 percent of Americans of voting age voted in the last general election. It was the largest mid-term voter turnout since 1982. The voters returned all Republican incumbents to office that included governors, senators and House members. The entire senatorial freshman class is Republican. This is the first time this has happened since 1913. There are 30 Republican governors, 53 Republican senators and a majority of House members are Republican. Hence Republicans plan to work diligently on their "contract."

The 10 bills that are to be voted on during this session are: (1) Balanced Budget Amendment and Line Item Veto; (2) Stop Violent Criminals; (3) Welfare Reform; (4) Protect Our Kids; (5) Tax Cuts for Families; (6) Strong National Defense; (7) Raise Citizens' Earning Limits; (8) Roll Back Government Regulations; (9) Common Sense Legal Reform; (10) Congressional Term Limits.

More specifically the Balanced Budget Amendment and Line Item Veto would require a constitutional amendment. Projections are that the federal budget would be balanced by 2002 or seven years after enactment. The president would also be given authority to veto individual line items. During the 1994 congressional session the House and Senate had been short of the two-thirds required to adopt a resolution. The 1994 Crime Bill (PL-103-322) would be changed by the House Judiciary Committee to include adding new mandatory minimum sentences facilitating the imposition of the death penalty and transferring money from crime prevention to prison construction.

SEMINOLE OPINION

Welfare. The Personal Responsibility Act: Discourages illegitimacy and teen pregnancy by denying welfare to minor mothers and denying increased aid to families of Dependent Children, assistance for additional children. Decrease spending for welfare programs and enact a two years and you're out provision with work requirements???

Children. Institute a nationwide tracking system to locate parents not fulfilling their child support payments. Establish school voucher programs. Strengthen child pornography laws. Provide tax credits for persons caring for elderly relatives.

Middle Class Tax Cut. Five hundred dollars per child tax credit to families earning up to $200,000 annually. Tax credit for married couples paying higher taxes than unmarried people living together. Changing their taxing of Individual Retirement Accounts.

National Security. Limit the United Nation's ability to command U.S. troops and clearly separate defense, domestic and international spending.

Senior Citizens. Repeal the requirement that seniors who earn more than $34,000-$44,000 pay tax on 85 percent of their Social Security benefits. Allow seniors to earn up to $30,000 without SSI being decreased. IRAs used to purchase long term care are not to be taxed.

The last three bills (1) Capital Gains would reduce by 50 percent the tax on profits from the sale of assets; (2) Legal Reforms - losers in lawsuits would pay lawyers for both sides and juries would be limited in the awards they can impose in product liability and medical malpractice suits; (3) Congressional Term Limits - House members would be limited to three or six terms (12 years) and Senators to 12 years.

The proposals briefly outlined are sweeping and there are many areas addressed that are of concern to citizens irrespective of party affiliation. Therefore, let us hope that the legislators will pray for divine guidance as they make these dynamic decisions. May the legislation that evolves reflect a way for our country to grow more positively and not further diminish the quality of life for the most vulnerable members of this society.

Wind of change around capitol

There's a chill wind a blowin' these days. It's the wind of change and uncertainty, and it's a commin' from somewhere around our nation's capitol. Yup, like the proverbial sword of Damocles, a new order has descended upon the Palace de Congress; the hulls of which shall reverberate with the hohnailed boots of those who would make kings ... or maybe not.

Unless you folks have been hiding in a barrel of late, or in the event that I'm being even more obscure than usual, the landing upon Washington's shores to which I refer is of course the new pecking order within our nation's legislature. I.e., the Republicans have landed, and the Congressional purse strings are now firmly within their hands. Woe be to all who view social service as a higher and more important calling than balanced budgets and trade restrictions.

Now me, I consider myself a Republican, of sorts. Everyone knows it's the Democrats who spend all the money after all ... cause the wars too, by the way. Yup, my father was a Republican, my grandfather was a Republican and my great grandfather was a greenbacker, but then that's another story. In any event, the Republicans are now the majorities in both the House and the Senate, and things are about to change, big time. That at least is the presumption of all my Democratic friends who are seriously at this moment contemplating moving onto a more enlightened and probably less conservative venue, such as Bosnia. The thing is, that I do not honestly believe anything more lofty than the changing of room name plates is really going to be accomplished once all the hoopla of this so-called momentous political shifting of winds has settled down.

Heresy you say? Scurrilous lies you shout? Yea verily, I respond. As I see it, the political realities of the '90s while including a broad spectrum of viewpoints ranging from the ultra conservative right to the totally non-interfering anarchistic space time continuum of the left, does not save in name only, include anything remotely resembling the formal demarcations of the "Republican and Democratic" parties of the earlier part of the century. Sure, you may refer to yourself as a Democrat as I do myself as a Republican, but do either of our viewpoints bear very much in common with those tenants traditionally reserved to subscribers of either of those two august parties? Democrats were for labor, free will and social welfare; Republicans for unregulated business, Horatio Alger-type self determination, and non-interference (isolationists). Such were the traditions our parents voted. However, if one looks at the largest block of sav, anti-abortion voters, they're from the traditional Bible-belted and democratic sections of our country. School prayer is now the rallying cry of Newt Gingrich. Republican presidents led two out of three of the last major "police" actions, and it's the Democratic governors pushing the hardest these days for capital punishment. The world of traditional politics has altered my children, and it is now the conservatives of both parties vying for power against their more liberal foes. And in truth, that doesn't even take into consideration that gay in Texas named after the French water bottling conglomerate, and the backlash type voters which his popularity sometimes represents.

No, being a party member just doesn't seem to carry the weight, or the threat that it once did, and such is the simple truth of where we are today. I don't feel the least bit of kinship to Mr. Gingrich and his new cronies up there on the Hill, and for that matter, even rejoiced a bit when Mr. Bush lost his bid for the gubernatorial residence in Tallahassee. I try to assess the good and bad points inherent within most political valley balls, and then endeavor to form my position based upon the resultant separation of the factual wheat from the political chaff. And, of course, I'm always proven right after the inevitable dust settles.

In any event, my friends, whether you are currently quaking in your boots at the prospects of what those dreaded Republicans are about to bring about from their newly won congressional mount, or conversely, if you still haven't stopped dancing the Seminole victory stomp, my advice is for you all to chill out. As I mentioned last week in my predictions for 1995, the political realities are ever thus: no matter what grand and glorious ideas the Republican majority may now concoct, it still has to get past the Democratic White House. And that's a feat which even the former Democratically-controlled Congress could not do with any regularity. Think about it.

ELLEN GOODMAN

Which is it? War or calm?

BOSTON - In Norfolk, Va., outside the jail where John C. Salvi 3rd was being held for the murder of two women, a pro-Salvi rally was going on. There was applause for the fatal assault on the Brookline, Mass., clinics where abortions are performed. There was talk of "justifiable homicide" and talk of "war."

The Rev. Donald Spitz of Pro-Life Virginia bellowed into a megaphone aimed at the prisoner's cell: "John Salvi, we care about you. We love you. We support you." He called the murders "a righteous deed."

Further north, here in Boston, near the makeshift shrine outside the Planned Parenthood clinic where the devastated fiancé of 25-year-old Shannon Lowney came to place his flowers, a different message came from an anti-abortion leader.

Cardinal Bernard Law called for a moratorium on clinic protests. "It's my judgment that it would be good to refrain from such manifestations at this time. We need to restore a sense of calm."

Which will it be then? War or calm? What is the next step for the movement opposed to legal abortion?

We've now seen the fourth and the fifth murders in a series of assaults on doctors, escorts, and now clinic workers. This is a safety crisis for those who care about protecting a woman's right to abortion. But it's a moral crisis for the movement that has called itself pro-life, a movement that has inherited the wind of its own escalating rhetoric.

One day after Shannon Lowney and Lee Ann Nichols were murdered at work, the New Year's message on the National Pro-Life Newslite spoke of abortion clinics as death camps and doctors as contract killers. On that same day a sobered Phillip Lawler, spokesman for Operation Rescue here, described himself as "stumped and frightened" at the violence.

It's true that the anti-abortion movement didn't pull the trigger. The suspect, called "John-boy" by his family, appears to have been a desperate, angry son who fought bitterly with his parents on Christmas. But the would-be hairdresser with the pro-life bumper stickers, with the photographs of fetuses, with experience as a clinic protector, seems to have skidded down a road paved with the language and logic of 'pro-life philosophers.'

So the movement to prohibit abortions comes to a crossroad of its own. It won't do to simply disavow the murderers in their midst as aberrations. It won't do for Cardinal Law to merely call a temporary halt to the protests. (When, sir, should they start up again? Three weeks? three months?)

It's time for those who regard themselves as responsible opponents of abortion to permanently cut the ties that make them allies of extremists. It's time to turn their energy and resources to fighting against their own violent cohorts. And it's time for them to draw an explicit line between persuasion and terrorism, between protest and assault.

The test for the movement that calls itself pro-life will be whether its leaders have the conviction and courage to excise the fringe and oppose the militants as what they are: outlaws.

So the movement to prohibit abortions comes to a crossroad of its own.

said of the work that the board has accomplished thus far. "Visioning could not begin until the market analysis is done."

Steps two, three and four were accomplished Friday when the board of directors, various advisory boards, committee representatives, local and civic leaders met with Fritz, of T. Neil Fritz, Nancy Brown, of Nancy L. Brown & Associates and Eleanor Matthews, of Marketek, Inc.

Saturday's group was given an overview of Friday's results which included a restatement of the vision for downtown Sanford, the mission of the program and the goals, which include design, economic restructuring, promotion and organization.

In explaining the market analysis, Fritz said that the board found that the targeted downtown trade area for Sanford would include a population of 203,759 people by 1999. This figure is up from the present 178,339 and includes Lake Mary and Heathrow in the socio-economic analysis. The median age group is 34 years old, compared to 36 statewide and the median income is $32,815, compared to $27,483.

The market analysis also identified the four "clusters" that make up downtown Sanford, those being core retail, Magnolia Square, government and office and downtown gateway. Helen Stairs added at this point that the city's planning and zoning board is being cooperative and "sensitive" to the gateways of Sanford.

Some of the critical issues identified on Friday were dealing with business owner apathy and lack of interest, creating a clean safe and friendly image, dealing with design in order to incorporate cultural heritage, property maintenance, parking and opening up the lakefront.

Another area of concern was that of organization. Fritz said that there was a general feeling, from the community, that the Main Street program was too slow in getting organized and now was duplicating the efforts of other already active groups. Fritz said the role of Main Street was to find a "fit" to find a way to involve all of the groups who are working toward a common goal. Fritz said that he would like to see a "jury of the community" involved in the Main Street program, including the Chamber of Commerce, the Historic Trust the city, and other organizations.

Internally, Sanford Main Street would need to reach a point that is basic to the program all over the state and nationwide, that being that it is a "self-help, volunteer-oriented, community effort for downtown revitalization."

Participants in Saturday's workshop were given an outline to format objectives to attain the goal set Friday, and activities necessary to realize the objectives. These functions, along with assigning the tasks that are the final details of the plan, are the last steps in getting the Main Street program underway.

Sanford Main Street is in year two of a three year program. Sanford is one of 33 communities in Florida, and 900 nationwide, involved in downtown revitalization.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Clinton administration hedges bets

WASHINGTON — The Clinton administration is beginning to hedge its bets, looking beyond Boris Yeltsin just in case the Russian president falls victim to the turmoil over the war in Chechnya.

Secretary of State Warren Christopher sounded the measured approach in discussing the "unhappy story" of Yeltsin's fierce suppression of the rebellion in the Russian republic in an Associated Press interview Friday.

He stressed the two main U.S. goals were to promote democracy and a market economy in Russia and said the administration had to be "clear-eyed" in fostering reforms.

Yeltsin's drive against the Chechens is exacting a price in resources and political support, Christopher said. "The cost of this endeavor is going to be huge."

Governors wrestle for control

WASHINGTON — As Congress begins its push toward a radical change in how the country cares for the poor, lawmakers and governors are wrestling for control of billions of dollars in spending and hundreds of social programs.

At a hearing Friday of the House Ways and Means subcommittee on human resources, Michigan's Republican governor asked for maximum flexibility and few strings. But Delaware's Democratic governor urged caution on proposals to give the states almost complete responsibility for welfare.

Michigan's Gov. John Engler, under questioning by a Democratic lawmaker, acknowledged that he wants the federal government — which provides much of the money to finance anti-poverty programs — to just "butt out."

"Micromanagement, whether liberal or conservative, is still micromanagement," Engler said.

Chorus of disbelievers

MINNEAPOLIS — The government's accusation that Malcolm X's daughter conspired to kill Louis Farrakhan is based on the word of a "violent racist" and "set-up artist" with his own criminal troubles, former associates say.

Farrakhan's Nation of Islam joined the chorus of disbelievers Friday after it was revealed that the person Qubilah Shabazz allegedly hired as a hit man is a government informant with a shady past.

"He is a set-up artist who goes from group to group setting people up," said Steve Dannel, a former member of Jewish Defense League who attended United Nations International School with the accused and the accuser.

A nine-count indictment Thursday accuses Ms. Shabazz of plotting the murder of Farrakhan, her father's one-time rival.

New ground in smoking wars

WASHINGTON — A scientist surprised to spot mysterious glowing rods in the lungs of smokers concluded they are tiny fibers from cigarette filters that may be slowly seeping cancer agents into healthy cells.

The study, published in the Journal of Cancer Research, doesn't prove a link between the fibers and lung cancer. But some specialists called the finding significant, and it promises to open new ground in the smoking wars.

"His data was pretty convincing that indeed the filters are going into the lung and residing there," said Dr. Bruce Johnson, head of lung biology for the government's National Cancer Institute.

"The data to me do not show he found a filter fiber," argued Christopher Coggins, a toxicologist for cigarette manufacturer R.J. Reynolds. Such fibers are so large that they'd be caught in the lungs' twisting airways and coughed up, he said.

Ford recalls Windstar vans

DETROIT — Ford Motor Co. is recalling the first 153,476 Windstar minivans it built to correct possible electrical defects that could cause fires.

The recall includes 1995 models built between Jan. 31 and Sept. 19 last year, company spokeswoman Linda Lee said Friday.

The recall involves two separate problems:
 • All of the vehicles might have an electrical power distribution box under the hood with a loose connection that could result in excessive heat and ignite wire insulation and other nearby parts.

• About 72,100 of the vans also might have an instrument panel wire harness that could be pinched, causing a short circuit that could start an electrical fire.

Ford said it had 10 reports of fires related to the power distribution box problem and three reports of fires related to the wire harness defect, with no injuries in either case.

No charges against Kevorkian

LELAND, Mich. — Dr. Jack Kevorkian will not be charged with helping two elderly people commit suicide in 1993 because prosecutors don't have enough evidence.

"Attempting to reinterview witnesses nearly two years following the alleged crime has proven to be difficult and futile," Prosecutor Tom Aylsworth said in a statement released Friday. "Based upon the evidence we have now, there is a reasonable likelihood of acquittal."

Aylsworth also said the families of the two people who died made "strong" requests that he not press charges.

Kevorkian was present as Stanley Ball, 82, and Mary Blernat, 73, inhaled carbon monoxide on Feb. 4, 1993 at Ball's home. Ball had pancreatic cancer and Blernat had breast and chest cancer.

Aylsworth first considered prosecuting Kevorkian in December after the Michigan Supreme Court ruled it constitutional to charge someone with assisted suicide under common law.

WORLD BRIEFS

Heavy artillery fire

GROZNY, Russia — Heavy artillery and rocket fire battered the devastated capital of Chechnya again Saturday. Russian troops predicted the city would fall within days, but rebel fighters refused to surrender key positions.

Chechen President Dzhokhar Dudayev appeared on television Friday night with an urgent appeal for more infantry to "clear out the city" of Russian troops, a rebel officer said.

The officer, who did not give his name, was leading a group of about 25 rebel fighters toward central Grozny, but only five or six had guns.

"Freedom or death," said one young fighter.

Pope celebrates outdoor Mass

MANILA, Philippines — Pope John Paul II celebrated an outdoor Mass before an adoring 1 million Filipinos Saturday and later broadcast a message to the people of China.

Limping, the 74-year-old pontiff had to be assisted up the stairs of an altar at the Philippine International Convention Center alongside Manila Bay. But his voice was strong as he thanked Filipinos for their enormous outpouring of affection.

Today's schedule was the busiest yet for the pope on his five-day visit to the Philippines, which began Thursday.

Kickoff: 'Week of the Working Parent'

By VIKKI BOGGERMAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Most families are headed by one or more parents who work outside the home.

"Working parents are the backbone of the business community," said Elisa Pringle of Community Coordinated Child Care (4C) in Seminole County. "We want to raise awareness of that."

On Tuesday, 4C will kick off the county's celebration of the "Week of the Working Parent" with a breakfast at the First United Methodist Preschool in Sanford.

Pringle said the event is the way in which 4C can applaud families for all their hard work and heighten corporate and public awareness to the needs and challenges of working parents.

"It also spotlights quality child care as family support," Colleen Gallagher, director of family resources for 4C, "and a vital key to a healthy workforce and economy."

Child care facilities are at the center of the workforce, Gallagher said.

This Week of the Working

Family is the sixth annual event.

The event is being sponsored by Work/Family Directions, KPMG-Peat Marwick, AT&T, The Center for Women's Medicine at Florida Hospital and Barnett Bank.

Andrea Coudriet, an anchorperson on WESH-Channel 2, is this year's honorary chairperson.

Morris

benefit Sanford's airport through county finances and staff resources, McLain said.

Morris said a review of the county's solid waste handling is due. The focus of the discussions with staff and solid waste professionals will be on current operations and whether there are grounds for improvements through "privatization," turning them over to private companies to run.

"We want to see if it would cost us more to privatize the operations or leave it as is," said Morris. "There are some situations where privatization has saved 30 percent from the cost of collections. That would be great. But we don't want the cost to double, like it has in some places."

Commissioners have set aside $25,000 for a cost study, but Morris said expenditure may not be needed. "We may get enough information from these meetings to decide whether to move ahead," he said.

Morris also wants to conduct several meetings among commissioners and senior county staff to set goals and improve communications.

"These are not team-building efforts, but if they're successful, it should lead to that," he said.

One such meeting would allow commissioners to discuss their goals for things they want, and don't want, to see this year. Another would allow commissioners to meet with senior county departmental officials to discuss what problems or innovations they may have.

"That sort of thing was very, very, very successful in Lake Mary," said Morris, that city's former mayor.

Another effort OK'd by commissioners would allow Morris to work with County Manager Ron Rabun to discuss bringing entrepreneurial concepts to government.

"There are many aspects of entrepreneurial philosophy that can work in government," said Morris. "For example, government faces competition with itself, other governments and sometime, private industry."

Morris said his brother, Michael Morris, has offered his volunteered services for the project. Morris said his brother is one of the leading academic entrepreneurial experts in the country and has offered to meet with county staff without charge or expense to the county.

In other efforts, Morris wants to review the 40-odd county committees. Tuesday, commissioners abolished the 30-year-old Utility Steering Committee because it was no longer needed to map the county's future water and sewer plans. Morris said no one really knows how many committees, boards and subcommittees the county has.

Rabun has been asked to compile a list for commissioners' review in two weeks.

"They require a tremendous amount of staff time," said Morris. "Some of them have overlapping responsibilities and can probably be consolidated. Others may not be needed at all."

Morris has also called for a meeting with members of the Planning and Zoning Commission to discuss a recent P&Z proposal to take more responsibility in land change approvals and other issues. Morris said one issue may be the merging of the county's staff Development Review Committee with the P&Z Commission.

And what are his plans for March?

"I don't know, let's get through this month and next," said Morris, running out to a meeting.

New unit forming for Sons of Confederate Veterans

By BOB POWERS
Herald Staff Writer

GENEVA — Efforts are now underway to establish a Seminole County branch of Sons of Confederate Veterans (SCV). Plans call for a new unit to be headquartered in Geneva.

A. Robert Kuykendall Jr. is commander of the Florida Division, headquartered in Edgewater. "We presently have about 30 units throughout the state of Florida," he said, "but our goal is to get a separate unit established in most of the counties."

The nearest local units at the present time are in Orlando, Ocoee and Daytona Beach. Another new unit is presently being formed in Tavares, to serve Lake County.

Members do not have to be directly related to men who fought in the Civil War, although they were the start of the organization originally known as the United Confederate Veterans.

The organization also accepts associate memberships, to persons who are unable to secure a required ancestor.

Nationwide, there are camps in 51 states, as well as Europe and South America, with over 25,000 members.

The SCV was formed in 1888 in Richmond, Va., and serves as a historical, patriotic and non-political organization dedicated to insuring that a true history of the 1861-1865 time period is preserved.

Among some of the activities in which the local units of SCV have been involved are several parades and fund raising activities. "We have also been handling the marking of confederate gravesites at various cemeteries including those in Seminole County," Kuykendall commented. "Within the very near future, we will be working on additional cemeteries including the one in Osteen."

In order to form a separate SCV organization in Seminole County, Kuykendall said there must be a minimum of seven members. James P. Rupe III, who is a member of the Orlando unit but resides in Geneva, is helping in getting this local group established.

Kuykendall said the dues for memberships include $30 for national memberships, plus $5 for state memberships, and camp memberships which are generally around $10. The national membership includes a full-year subscription to the organization's magazine publication.

"What it amounts to," he said, "is a cost of approximately $35 to $40 for a full year, and almost everyone involved says it's more than worth the cost."

Memberships are open to men who have reached the age of 18.

"Nationally," he added, "we still have between 800 and 400 sons of men who actually served in the Civil War, so we continue to have many direct ties with the original organization."

For information on helping set up the Seminole County branch of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, phone Kuykendall in Edgewater, at 1-800-473-5728 or James Rupe in Geneva (407) 349-8188.

Parents

Prior to the official kickoff, 4C also encouraged working parents and their children to participate in the Martin Luther King Day parade in downtown Orlando this past Saturday in a show of solidarity.

The kick-off breakfast will be attended by working parents, children and a number of local elected officials.

On Wednesday, there will be a community-wide celebration at Orlando's Church Street Market from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The top child care facilities in Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties will be honored with certificates and Gold Seals of Excellence at this event.

"I think this is the most exciting thing for our child care providers," said Pringle. "Very few get the certificate and even fewer get the Gold Seal."

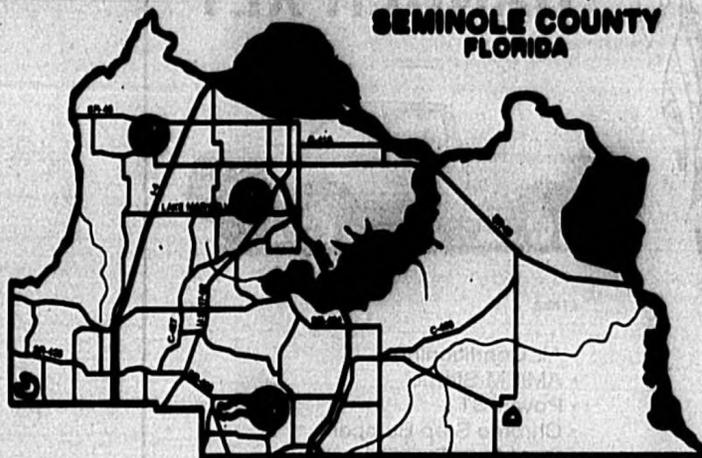

In addition to lauding those facilities that offer excellence in child care, 4C tries to give special recognition to those companies that work well with working parents.

Play of Merthie, Roberts and Traina saves AFIII

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Seminole athletics, were the comeback king.

The come-from-behind victory is becoming commonplace for Seminole High School basketball teams.

For the third time in two night's a Seminole team has had to post a big fourth quarter to pull off a victory and twice the victims have been the Lyman Greyhounds.

After a good start, the Seminole boys' team found itself down as many as nine points for most of the second and third quarters and trailed by eight points, 45-37, entering the final period.

But behind the play of senior guards Brad Traina and Eric Roberts Arrow Force III was able to win its third game in as many nights, 61-55, over Lyman in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium Friday night.

"I thought Brad and Eric played a perfect second half," said Seminole head coach Bob Traina. "They were looking for each other and shared the ball very well."

Seminole led 13-9 after one period, but behind the play of senior forward Dewayne Bell, the Greyhounds took a 27-21 lead into the locker-room at intermission. Bell had 12 points, six rebounds, one steal and two assists during the first 16 minutes.

But in the fourth stanza, the Arrow Force III defense took over, led by Traina and Roberts. Seminole forced 12 turnovers in the final quarter, with Traina and Roberts coming up with three steals each.

Arrow Force III finally tied the game at 49-49 with 5:14 remaining on a three-pointer by Roberts. The Greyhounds reassumed the lead, but Seminole again tied the score at 55-55 on a remarkable play by Traina.

After a layup by Nate Hall made the score 55-55 Lyman, Traina made a steal in the corner and flipped the ball back to Reggie Holloway as he was falling out of bounds. Holloway then threw the ball back to Traina, who threw in a "three" to tie the game at 55-55 with 1:04 remaining.

Roberts then stole the ball at midcourt and fed Henry Gipson for the go-ahead layup. Marlon Dixon hit a pair of free throws to even the game at 55-55. But Jeff Merthie, who came off the bench to score five points, made three of four free throws in the final 38 seconds to seal the win.

The preliminary games also went to Seminole, with the freshmen winning their first game of the season, 61-57, behind 17 points from Dave Wagner and 12 from Eric Smith. The junior varsity also won a good game, 63-53.

Seminole (13-6, 4-0 in the conference) was led by Roberts with 18 points, Hall with 14 points and seven rebounds and Traina with 12 points. Arrow Force III will host Cypress Creek in a Class 5A-District 4 game next Thursday.

Doing the damage for Lyman (7-9, 2-3 SAC) were Bell (17 points) and Dixon (14). The Greyhounds were to have played Edgewater on Saturday and then be off until hosting Lake Howell next Friday.

Rams' balance to much for 'Hawks

By TONY BOONSHAW
Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY — In a clash between two young boys' basketball teams struggling to define an identity, Lake Mary's balance was too much for the visiting Lake Howell Silver Hawks, the Rams pulling away to an 84-63 win Friday night.

Lake Howell won the junior varsity game, 46-45, while the freshman game went to Lake Mary, 51-37.

Five different players scored in double figures for the Lake Mary varsity to offset Xan Manning's 24-point effort for Lake Howell.

Jason Junker scored 11 (including 5-for-8 from the free throw line) of his team-leading 19 points for the Rams in the fourth quarter, keying a 27-13 finish for Lake Mary. As a team, Lake Mary made 13 of 15 free throws in the fourth quarter.

"We've been getting to the fourth quarter in pretty good shape, then our inexperience will surface and we'd let games get away," said Lake Mary coach Willie Richardson. "But in our win over Lake Brantley on Wednesday, we made 10 of 14 free throws in the fourth quarter, so maybe we've turned the corner."

"We're a very young team. Chip (Richardson, the coach's son and starting point guard) is our only player with substantial varsity game experience. Our inexperience keeps popping up, but that's to be expected. I wish I could find the right switches to pull to get them jacked up and ready to play. Then our inexperience wouldn't be so much of a factor."

After each team converted their respective free throws, Lake Mary closed out the game with a 18-9 rush. When Manning fouled out with 1:34 to play, Lake Howell coach Steve Kohn emptied his bench.

"We have spurts where we do nothing," said Kohn. "It happens to us game after game. We play hard, but it's tough to results with no real leadership to pull it all together."

"Lake Mary shot the ball real well and we turned the ball over too often. Lake Mary's a very skilled team."

With Manning and Paul Rovinsky leading the attack, the Silver Hawks stayed with the Rams most of the way. With 3:43 remaining in the OVIDEO — There are two distinct benchmarks that mark the evolution of an athletic team: the first time they execute well and beat a supposedly superior opponent and the first time they execute poorly but still have enough to beat an inferior opponent.

OVIDEO — After a disappointing tie Wednesday night against the Lyman Greyhounds, the Oviedo High School boys' soccer team was looking for a win to pick up some momentum for the tail end of the season.

They got what they were looking for Friday night, putting together a 4-1 hammering of the Lake Brantley Patriots in a Seminole Athletic Conference and 6A-District 4 match at John Courier Field Friday night.

"We'll take this win," Oviedo coach Joe Avallone said. "The guys played really well tonight. I told them before the game that if we won I'd give them Monday off from practice, so they're going to be happy with the results."

In the first half, the Lions controlled play with flawless ease. By controlling the pace of the game, Oviedo kept the Patriots on the heels of their cleats with a strong passing attack.

Oviedo capitalized on its ball control, and a yellow card against Lake Brantley goalie Mayy Hawkins, late in the first half when Travis Weeks took Scott Thelen's indirect kick and drilled a shot past backup Patriot keeper Phillip Kopman, who replaced Hawkins for one play after the yellow card.

The Patriots equalized with their only goal of the night, Phillip Ciancuilli nailing a penalty kick (called for a hand-ball violation) past a diving Darren Ockwig with 7:27 left in the first half.

Oviedo regained the lead just before halftime, David Schlatter nodding home a pass from Mike Zigler with 40 left in the half.

"I think the guys really stepped up and played to their potential tonight," Avallone said. "They played with intensity and they really acted like gentlemen out there against a good team."

The second half looked much like a pingpong match with neither team able to put many touches on the ball in the face of the strong defense played by both sides that limited the teams to only five shots on goal apiece.

The Lions added to their lead in the second half with a pair of open-field unassisted goals from Weeks and Thelen with 30:36 and 2:05 left in the game, respectively.

Oviedo outshot Lake Brantley 18-15 while the Patriots had a 5-4 advantage in corner kicks.

No letdown at Bowl America

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — No holiday hangovers here. The first week of the new year found the bowlers still rolling a hot ball at Bowl America-Sanford.

The One on One League on January 6th saw Don Caniglia average 235 for a four game series, giving him a 900, which was just better than the 894 posted by Tom Dale.

In the regular three-game series leagues, Curtis Sinnott and Pat Johnson came in with the highest series of the week, and both were rolled in the same league. Sinnott came through with a 906, while Johnson had a 885 in the Friday Nite Mixed League on January 6th. The next highest series was a 890 rolled by Lin McKeen in the Metal Essence City League on January 4th.

The highest individual game came down to a battle between Caniglia and Steve Enders, with Enders just coming out on top with a 308 in the McGuire's Canvas League on January 5th. Caniglia's best game during his 900 series was a 288.

Among the women Linda Lewis had by far the best series, just missing the magic 600 mark with a 598 in the Hi Nooners League on December 28. Jean Poretti had the next best series with a 580 in the same league.

Lewis destroyed the competition for highest individual game as her 336 in the Hi Nooners League on December 28th was 23 pins higher than the 213 posted by Poretti in the same league.

A star is also arising in the youth leagues as Eric Smith is posting scores that would be competitive among the men's league. Smith rolled a 543 in the Teen Pro Bowlers League and a 533 in the A & S Youth League, both being done on January 7th. Smith also had a high game of 314.

Wrestling

Oceola was an experience that fell into the latter category. "We wrestled terrible," Oviedo coach Rick Tribit said flatly after his team's 47-31 victory over Oceola. "When I've had teams wrestle like this in the past, I've sent the parents home, put the team through a two-hour practice right after the match, then drove the kids home myself."

"In its own way, the fact that we wrestled poorly and still won is a sign of progress. All in all, the guys are doing pretty well. I can't be too displeased. The kids are working hard, so I can't really fault them. But we were flat, emotionally."

Rescuing the Lions from their collective doldrums was 160-pounder Brian Watts. When he took the mat, Oviedo trailed 25-23 on the scoreboard but had a 12-6 points advantage coming from forfeits in the final three weight classes. When Watts won his match with a pin, the Lions an insurmountable lead in points. Shawn Craig followed that with a second-period pin at 171 pounds for Oviedo.

"Brian won the match for us," said Tribit. "That's his first actual win as a varsity wrestler where he didn't get a win by forfeit. He wrestled a great match and clinched the win for us."

Mike Schwartz (150 pounds) and Jeremy Reinhard (140) also won by pin for the Lions while Mike Giunimo (188) scored a technical fall. Schwartz set what Tribit believes may be a school record by pinning his opponent in just 10 seconds.

Now 7-5 in dual meets, Oviedo (which was scheduled to wrestle Lake Howell Saturday morning) will compete in the Tournament of Champions next weekend at Lake Mary High School. The Lions will resume their dual meet season on Wednesday, Jan. 25, at Boone.

GREYHOUNDS MUZZLED
ORLANDO — The home-standing Edgewater Eagles made short work of the Lyman Greyhounds Friday night, collecting six pins (four in the first period) on the way to a 52-23 dual meet victory.

After the Eagles opened the meet with three straight wins, Pete Whittington broke the string for Lyman by scoring a 16-4 major decision over Bo Buttons at 135 pounds. Other Greyhounds winning their matches were James Ginn (145 pounds) over Edgewater (17), Andy Hebert (188) and Alex Hannah (Heavyweight). Guerra and Hanna each won by pin while Hebert scored a major decision.

Lyman is scheduled to wrestle again next Tuesday, Jan. 17, at home against the University Cougars.

OVIEDO & OCEOLA

third quarter, the score was tied at 46-46. Leading 49-46 with 3:07 left, the Rams opened up some room by closing out the period with an 8-3 run.

"From quarter to quarter, we never know what we're going to get," said Richardson. "Right now, we're pointing toward the district tournament. I just hope we've turned the corner."

Besides Junker, also scoring in double figures for the Rams were Wesley Jackson (17), Jarrod Rouse (13), Matt Townsley (12), and Shawn Newberry (10). Rovinsky had 13 points for Lake Howell, all in the first half.

Lake Mary, now 9-8 overall and 2-3 in the Seminole Athletic Conference, plays again next Friday, Jan. 20, at Oviedo. Lake Howell (6-13, 0-4 SAC) hosts Lyman next Friday night.

According to Daniel A. Wallace, president of the GulfAtlantic Division of LTIC, the company's 11-month dollar volume is 5.4 percent better than the comparable period of 1986 when the company went on to register a record $235.1 million in total volume.

State of the art info center under construction for north Seminole

By MARK SHADER
Herald Staff Writer

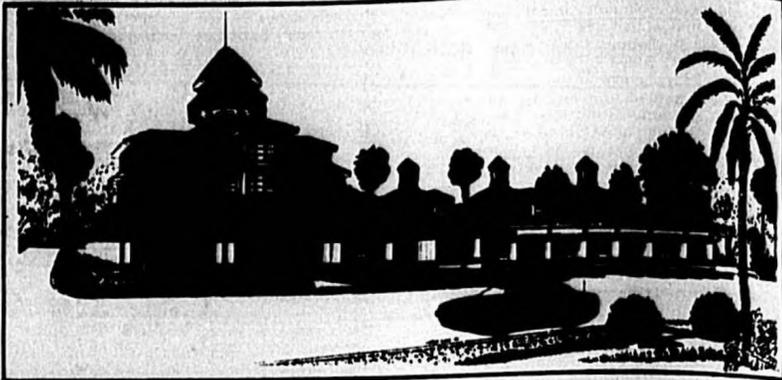

HEATHROW - It's already under construction, Stirling International Realty Inc., has started building a state-of-the-art new $1.2 million real estate showcase center, at the northwest corner of Interstate-4 and Lake Mary Boulevard.

Grand opening is scheduled in May of this year.

The project was announced by Roger Soderstrom, founder of the center, and former president of Heathrow Land and Development Corp., the company that developed Heathrow.

Soderstrom said the 8,900 square foot sales and preview center will also serve as Stirling's corporate office headquarters, and will include a high-tech information plaza housing the entire north Orlando region.

Soderstrom commented, "Interest in the Heathrow/Lake Mary area is at an all-time high and growing every day. With the largest mall in Florida under construction (Seminole Towne Center), the relocation of Cincinnati Bell and other companies in the area, the Beltway construction and the abundance of fully approved undeveloped land here, we feel this will be one of the strongest growth markets in Florida over the next five to ten years."

Founded in 1989, Stirling International Realty posted $28 million in residential sales last year, and expects to top $50 million in 1988, with an additional $25 million in commercial sales.

Soderstrom said, "Most of Stirling's activities are in the I-4 corridor, within just 10 minutes of our showcase center on Lake Mary Boulevard."

He continued, "We fully intend to dominate the Seminole-north Orlando market within two years. Our goal is to provide buyers and sellers with the most professional and sophisticated services possible."

The showcase center will provide home buyers and sellers, renters, new businesses and visitors with an instant overview of the entire market area.

Soderstrom said, "They will see firsthand a variety of homes for sale, community lifestyles, rental properties, available office and commercial space, and sites for new developments. The showcase center will be open seven days a week to the public."

He concluded, "We want to create an environment where realtors, builders, developers, corporate executives and community leaders can come for information and assistance."

Nicholas Krutsky with Arthur the Aardvark.

Arthur comes to town; Boy Scouts conduct regatta

Excitement filled the air at Little Wing Books, Saturday, Jan. 7, as the children waited for a visit from a true celebrity. Arthur the Aardvark didn't disappoint his fans. He came, he posed for pictures and he signed autographs. Arthur handed out pages from his book for children to color. Arthur also showed children his new CD-ROM "Arthur's Teacher Trouble." Children can play the book on the computer.

Friday, in a special appearance, Arthur visited the Media Center at Lake Mary Elementary. There, he handed out invitations to his two-day appearance at Little Wing Books. Little Wing Books is a business partner of the school's.

Arthur the Aardvark is the creation of children's author Marc Brown. He is one of the most popular children's authors for the elementary school set.

In other news at Little Wing Books, the Creations School of Art is now holding classes there. School director Celeste Pipitone will be offering children's classes three days a week. She will be offering adult classes one day a week. Beginning drawing is offered Mondays and Wednesdays. Intermediate Drawing on See Lake Mary, Page 8C

There's no business like... Sanford son shines in national TV debut

In her polished English, with a charming Cuban accent, Dr. Maria Perez referred to her handsome, starry-eyed youngster as "Little Lou-E" to distinguish him from his famous father, Dr. Luis Perez.

But that was a long time ago. And have you seen the "Little Lou-E" lately? For openers, he's the talented Sanford actor and dancer who made his national television debut Jan. 4 on The Cosby Mysteries.

During a conversation this week with Luis, now 35, at his home in Yonkers, N.Y., the rising star sounded relaxed and on top of the world after appearing on television with the famous Bill Cosby. How exciting! "Sometimes it's exciting and again, it's frustrating," he laughed.

But to his Sanford fans, Luis Jr. is the greatest. Patrons of the dance arts will remember the cute kid all dressed up in top hat and tails when he was in a recital and performed a spirited tap dance number and belted out to the adoring audience. "I'm a ding-dong daddy from Dumas, you ought to see me strut my stuff."

And did he ever strut his stuff! Luis was unusually popular among his dance friends at School of Dance Arts where he got his start under Miriam Doktor and Valerie Weld. Valerie said that when Luis rehearsed a solo, the girls lined up to get a glimpse of the talented hooper and giggle at his flirtatious antics. His one on one rapport with the audience was fascinating, she said. "Once his ability kicked in, there was no limit as to what he could do," she added.

It didn't take Luis long to realize his unbridled passion for dancing. How he loved center stage! After his graduation from Bishop Moore High School in Orlando, in 1977, Luis headed for New York where he poured his soul into dancing and eventually performed as a principal with the Joffrey Ballet. His credits are extensive including his performance as a slavemaster in the original company of "The Phantom of the Opera" and touring nationally as Bernardo with "West Side Story." Valerie Weld pleasantly recalls when she, Miriam, Jackie Caolo, and a group of dancers visited New York about three years ago. Charming Luis, the dance captain in "Jerome Kerns Broadway," entertained the entourage who were carried away with the Sanford entertainer. "It was wonderful" she said.

So, after seven years on and off Broadway, Luis ventured into the acting field where he has made a name for himself in acting and management. Today, he is assistant stage manager of the Tony Award-winning Broadway show, "Passion." This musical is scheduled to be re-produced for PBS television in the near future.

Luis said this week he accepted a guest spot on the daytime soap, "One Life to Live" in which he will appear several times. We will keep you posted. In the meantime, he is still getting offers.

In the Cosby show last week, Luis was sporting a goatee which nearly covered his handsome face. But fans would have known him anywhere. Luis revealed that knee surgery a year ago has curtailed his dancing. But that tango on the TV Cosby show last week - WOW! This graceful performance rivaled that of Luis' mother and father when they waited onto crowded dance floors years ago at such events as Sanford's annual glittering gala, the "Champagne Ball." The handsome, talented couple, Maria and Luis, always stole the show with their dazzling dance displays.

Maria said she liked the Cosby show, although she would have loved to see more of her son's dancing. Valerie said she is happy Luis is on his way in acting. "He can't be in the chorus line forever," she added.

Outside of his dotting mother, Luis has a lot of special fans in his cheering section including his lovely wife, Tina Paul, award-winning associate director of the Caldwell Theatre in Boca Raton. Then, there are Luis III, his 10-year-old son, and son Gabriel, 2. Not to be overlooked are his brother, Tico, an Orlando attorney and his family.

Luis agrees there's no business like show business. "I can't complain," he said. "The bottom line is there are good times...bad times. It's fun...but can be frustrating."

The successful dancer and actor is extremely happy with his lot in life and, frankly, he wouldn't have it any other way.

Amaranth honors June

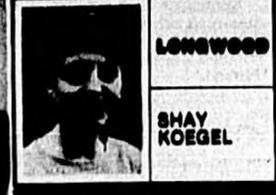

The Grand Court Order of the Amaranth of Florida honored June McFadden, Grand Conductress of Sanford, and Sylvia Saunders, Grand Associate Conductress, at a banquet on Jan. 7 at the Marriott Hotel in Orlando. In attendance were 188 members and dignitaries from Florida and other states. The two women were lauded for their fund-raising efforts for the National Diabetes Foundation, the Order's main charity. June's leadership this year was cited as a great help in promoting the charity.

The banquet room was beautifully decorated in butterflies, angels and rainbows. June's and Sylvia's themes. Following a chicken and roast beef dinner, Rob Labby, magician, See Dietrich, Page 8C

Grace Kenyon, a cartographic researcher, shows stained glass lamp, birds and apples.

Hobby: Stained glass Artist: It's a real thrill to do this

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Even though Grace Kenyon has been an at AAA (triple A) in Heathrow as a cartographic researcher for three years, she still finds the time for a creative outlet. Kenyon also reserves some spare hours for service with the Jaycees.

Stained glass has occupied five years of her free time. "I've always been fascinated with stained glass," she said. "I used to think only a genius like Michaelangelo could do this kind of work. You just have to learn to do it like anything else. Any artistic talent is helpful, but not necessary."

Kenyon said that she signed up for courses with two different instructors when she was beginning to learn the trade in Rhode Island. She felt that the two would bring varying backgrounds and styles that would enhance her knowledge of the art.

The first of her creations was an oval window hanging of an iris with a small bud nestled beneath the larger flower. "I designed it myself," she said. She also worked with a small four-inch hanging of little birds. Since then she has done mirrors, several different types of lamps, such as round and trapezoid-shaped.

Her latest endeavor was as a participant in the AAA craft show last year. The event takes place annually. "I made several pieces," she said. "I made some little birds, apples and stained glass for windows. The apples went over real big. Many people got them to give to teachers."

Kenyon's work ranges in size from her four-inch bird and flower window hangings to her 18-inch in diameter lamps and two-foot by 18-inch mirrors. One of her favorites was named as a lamp covering three feet accented with hummingbirds and morning glories.

As for future projects, Kenyon said she hopes to concentrate on producing more lamps and mirrors, and especially work on a window with daffodils.

She reviewed the process of her work with the Tiffany method of stained glass. "First, you need to get the knack of cutting the glass," she said. "You can buy a glass cutter at a hardware store for a couple of bucks."

Kenyon's initial find of glass came from a window pane that was broken and laying in pieces in a backyard.

She further elaborated about the process. "If you don't have your own pattern then go to a craft store and get one you like. For beginners, pick an easy pattern. Once you get the pattern then transfer it to the glass. I buy glass already colored and cut the glass with the glass cutter according to a pattern I designed. You then graze the glass which is filing the edges then you wrap it with copper foil tape. The tape is a little bit wider than the width of the edge of the glass so you wrap it around the edges. You then break the tape, then solder it. That allows the lead to bond with the copper. You put all the pieces together and scrub with a flux. That also gets rid of your marker lines. You then polish with glass polish that is made especially for stained glass.

Since there are different types of glass, Kenyon shared that red is the most expensive since it is made with gold in it. Water glass has a light color and tends to be one of the cheapest. Some glass is harder to cut than others.

She summed up her thoughts by saying, "It's a real thrill to do this. It makes you feel wonderful to know you've made these things. This was something I could do and be proud of."

Say YES to group visiting children

The Young Energetic Senior (YES) group of the First United Methodist Church visited the Elks-sponsored Crippled Children's Hospital Tuesday. Umatilla bearing all sorts of gift for the precious children.

This group takes a monthly tour and this month it was to visit the hospital where a church member, Little Kyrall McFadden, has been a patient since her birth due to a brittle bone disease.

Ann said the children, most in casts and wheelchairs, were having a good time in the surroundings playing Nintendo and other games.

The group did lunch in the hospital cafeteria and following lunch, they toured the facility. "We had a very, very nice tour guide and the lunch was fantastic," Ann said, adding that the group was so impressed with the tour they will be returning in the near future.

"Anyone who wants something to do on Saturday or Sunday should visit the hospital," Ann said.

which he modified.

With that 1980 Arrow, he won the TRW 990 Bonus Award in 1988 and 1989; there are probably only 24 people in the world who can lay claim to that fame. In 1989 and 1990, Hazelrigg was a quarter-finalist in the Gator Nationals; in 1991, he was a semi-finalist in the Gator Nationals.

In 1988, he was the finalist in the AC Deleo Southern held in Atlanta and the U.S. nationals in Indianapolis. Born and raised in Decatur, Ill., he was about a three-hour ride from Indianapolis so racing was part of the life of the city in which he grew up.

Last year, John's wife, Denise Groh, brought a new race car, another 1980 Arrow. John is building this car from the inside out to be a "specifically dedicated Super Gas precision piece, a Killer Car." The chassis and suspension were installed by "Takashi Race Craft, Inc." where John found not only first class, quality work, but also a sponsor for Groh's race car.

When completed, the car will weigh 2,100 pounds, "loaded, wet and ready to race," which includes all fluids necessary, gas, water, and oil etc. ... and the driver's weight with helmet and uniform. The entire car is equipped for complete dismantling in 45 minutes. The engine is installed with 10 bolts; the delay box throttle stop control is a computer that is affixed with two bolts and two pins for easy removal, as is each feature of the car that is being built for "absolute precision with no margin for error."

The "Super Gas" category of racing that Hazelrigg is dedicated to winning is a Heads-Up Pro Tree race; there is no handclap between drivers in a one-on-one situation, with eight elimination rounds over a four-day period in the nationals. Of course, there are several qualifiers prior to the national and the international competitions.

In a mental walk through a "Super Gas" competition, Hazelrigg speaks intellectually, as an engineer, a chemist and a physicist, of the absolute precision involved in the staging procedure of the competition. The cars "come up" and perform "burn-outs," which heat the tires to a hot and sticky stage where consistency is of the utmost importance.

The cars then roll forward, then continue to the "bump-in" mode, where the trans break is set and the throttle is to the floor and 7,200 rpms is the goal prior to yellow light which is the same as a "go." At the signal, the front tires of the car are usually two feet off the ground for the first 60 feet which is traveled in 1.3 seconds at an approximate speed of 50 mph.

The goal of the "Super Gas" is to travel one fourth of a mile, or 1,320 feet in 9.000 seconds. The car and driver closest to that time is the winner and competes at the next advancing level. The weather is a constant factor in determining speed and therefore the capability of winning.

Hazelrigg talks about the air to fuel ratio and the increase in the humidity and its effect due to the decrease in the oxygen for every cubic foot of air. It is a science and Groh's contribution is "data acquisition and recording."

There are at least 55 pieces of information to record at each and every race; add that type of data to the previous data collected and comparisons that are calculated for future comparisons, and you have a full time position.

Denise Groh, wife of John Hazelrigg, is the owner of this killer car and contributes to the team with her knowledge of data and data entries, "a huge undertaking," according to Hazelrigg. Groh is also a RN,BSN,CETN, a wound care specialist and a home health care nurse. John Hazelrigg is the owner and proprietor of the A+Best Appliance Sales and Service of Longwood, located at 114 Baywood Ave. off State Route 427, phone 324-3288, also a sponsor of the new 1980 Arrow.

Understanding thyroid disorders

Sometimes you can take them with a grain of salt

By CHARLES WOOD
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — According to Dr. Charles W. Hardwick, a family physician in Sanford, the thyroid gland is located in the front of the neck above the base. Normal amounts of "thyroxin," the hormone secreted by the thyroid, are necessary for the proper functioning of almost all bodily activities. When this hormone is deficient in infancy, growth and mental development are impaired and "cretinism" results.

Defining hypothyroidism:
In adulthood, a deficiency of thyroxin hormone is caused primarily by a lack of sufficient iodine in the diet. In hypothyroidism, the disorder resulting from such a deficiency, the metabolic rate is slower than normal, the patient has no energy, his complexion is dull, his skin is thick and he has an intolerance to cold weather. Underactive glands are twice as prevalent as overactive ones. Also, five to eight percent of women develop hypothyroidism soon after giving birth. While this pregnancy-related condition is usually temporary, some new mothers may need to take thyroid hormone indefinitely.

Treatment consists of increasing the amount of iodine in the diet. If it is deficient, or giving thyroid hormone medication. Normal metabolic functioning usually follows.

especially if treatment is begun soon after the symptoms appear.

Defining hyperthyroidism:

An excess amount of thyroid hormone secretion is called hyperthyroidism, and may relate to emotional stress. It causes physical fatigue but mental alertness, a staring quality in the eyes, tremor in the hands, weight loss with increased appetite, rapid pulse, sweating and intolerance of hot weather, irritability, muscle weakness, softening of the nails, hair loss and, for women, shorter menstrual periods with lighter flow.

Other thyroid disorders:

Enlargement of part or all of the thyroid gland occurs fairly often. It may be a simple enlargement of the gland itself due to lack of iodine, as in a goiter, or it may be caused by a tumor or a non-specific inflammation. Goiter is often treated with thyroxin, but is usually prevented altogether by the regular use of iodized table salt and cooking salt. Treatment of other problems varies, but surgery is usually recommended for a tumor, especially if the surrounding organs are being obstructed.

Inexpensive blood tests can diagnose thyroid disorders. The most sensitive test measures thyroid-stimulating hormone (TSH), secreted by the pituitary gland. When the thyroid is underactive, TSH levels will be high; low TSH levels signal an overactive thyroid.

"Unfortunately, many doctors will ignore this extremely sensitive test and measure only thyroid-hormone levels," said Dr. Lawrence Wood, a thyroid specialist at Massachusetts General Hospital. "The levels measured could be in the normal range but still might not be right for you. A proper thyroid test measures both TSH and principal thyroid hormones, thyroxine."

Unless you have a thyroid nodule—a distinct lump on an otherwise normal gland—further testing may not be necessary. Although thyroid cancer is rare, about 8,000 cases a year in the United States, a nodule might be cancerous, and for this reason a scan, sonogram or biopsy is appropriate. A history of radiation exposure, especially to the head or neck, is a primary risk factor for thyroid cancer.

Exercise concepts differ by generations

From Staff and Wire reports

WASHINGTON — An appreciation of the health value of exercise may be a mark of maturity.

Baby boomers have a greater tendency than younger people to think of the health benefits of working out, said Geoffrey Meredith, president of Lifestyle Matrix Marketing, a demographics firm in Lafayette, Calif.

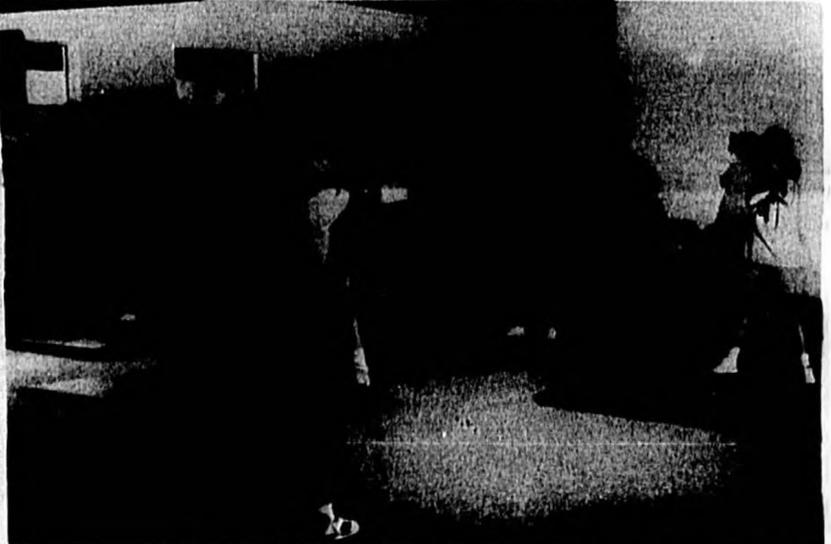

Meredith's company seeks marketing trends in shared generational values, and boomers' attempts to hold onto their youth is a case in point. It came out in 18 focus group interview sessions in four major markets. A typical focus group has about nine participants.

Focus group interviews try to capture attitudes, not measure how many people perform any activities, so "numbers have to be taken with a grain of salt," Meredith said. But some attitudes were common in all the groups, he said.

Baby boomers generally see exercise as a way to stay vigorous, Meredith said. But some feel the need more strongly than others, based on whether they are approaching 40 or moving past it, he said.

Studies show that even a half hour or so of moderate exercise done on most days can help ward off early death. Exercisers have a reduced risk of conditions ranging from heart disease to obesity.

When the first wave of boomers approached 40, in the for their health, he said. "It's not they look good with their shirts off," he said.

Although Meredith looked at people's motivations, other researchers looked at what people say they actually do.

The percentages of Xers, younger boomers and older boomers who exercise vigorously are about the same, said Thomas L. Dybdahl, research director for Prevention magazine, which publishes the annual Prevention Index of America's health activities.

Forty-five percent of 18- to 29-year-olds and of 30- to 39-year-olds say they work out three or more days a week for at least 20 minutes at a level hard enough to make them breathe heavily and make their heart and pulse rates race, Dybdahl said. Forty-two percent of 40- to 49-year-olds also exercise this hard, but the 3-point difference is too narrow to be meaningful, he said. The 1993 data have a margin of error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

About 30 percent of "generation X" is into sports, including snowboarding and skateboarding, but for fun, Meredith said. And about 15 percent of this group, whose oldest members reached 28 in 1994, work out regularly for the sake of their looks, not the long-term benefits

Special to the Herald

I've been in the fitness industry for long enough to say I've seen and heard it all. After 20 years, I've heard some of the most creative excuses for not exercising. Since, for many, New Year's Resolutions have already fallen by the wayside, I have decided to give you the top 10 excuses, that I have heard, for not exercising, with my responses:

- I don't have time. All you need is 30 minutes.
- I always injure myself. Not if you are trained correctly.
- I'm intimidated to go to a gym. Find one you're comfortable with.
- I want to lose weight first and then exercise. It's easier to do together.
- I don't like to sweat. Think of it as having fat through sweat.
- I don't want to look like a musclehead. You'll look better.
- Exercise makes you eat more. Good-more of the right kinds of foods.

• I used to look like you, but I gave it up. Look like me again.

• I'd have to buy a new wardrobe. Styles change.

• I'd rather party than be boring. You still can-in the gym.

Now that I've given you the top 10 excuses, you and I both know it's a matter of attitude. Let your attitude in 1995 be a positive one and not the run-of-the-mill excuses.

LAKE MARY — On Jan. 2, my family and I decided to take a little jaunt down to Miami to see the CarQuest Bowl.

Along with this trip came the obligatory excursion through Palm Beach County.

Unbeknownst to me, five convicted murderers were busy tunneling their way out of the Glades Correctional Institution, just a short distance from the Florida Turnpike, which I happened to be traveling down.

I didn't know this at the time, so just went merrily along my way.

The next day, I was watching one of those informative morning shows, complete with the standard chirpy anchors and dopey weatherman, and right between the latest O.J. news and the up-to-the-minute update on the most recent Burt and Lori (or was it Woody and Mia) fiasco came the report of these escaped killers.

The news guy, who happened to be the only serious person on the show, reported this story with all the urgency of a closet cleanings.

There was no on-the-scene reporter, no file footage. Nothing.

The anchor just switched back to Charlie and Joan or Katie and Brant or whoever it was.

Call me crazy, but I had a little problem with this.

It didn't make a whole lot of sense that this show, and all the others like it had team coverage of the O.J. Simpson hearings (hearings, mind you, not the actual trial), yet completely ignored the fact that five violent and most probable psychotic killers were running loose in our backyard.

The local news wasn't much better. They did offer a little coverage, but they didn't really begin covering the story until the capture of the first escapee.

I wonder if it ever occurred to them that in the days following the escape, these guys just might head up to Orlando.

Thank goodness for the Miami Police Department, which apparently hadn't taken such an apathetic attitude toward this escape, having accounted for all but one of the escapees.

The same cannot be said for many of the news outfits around the area and around the country, who virtually ignored this story.

The blame is mainly on television news, because most of the newspapers around the state had fairly good coverage on this debacle.

The news directors at those guilty TV stations should be ashamed of themselves. For the first time in a while, a story came along that was of actual concern to actual people, and they hardly noticed it, going right ahead with the tabloid-quality trash which has dominated the headlines lately.

Maybe if all those former child stars who were arrested for taking drugs and knocking off convenience stores were to have escaped from jail, there would have been a two-hour prime time special on the manhunt, and newsmagazine shows would scrap their line-up and broadcast live from the Beverly Hills Minimum Security Prison and Country Club.

It's too bad they couldn't do it for the Glades escapees.

I guess they didn't have star power.

SHS: the week in review

By LINDSEY HEDGES

SANFORD — Hello. And welcome to the wonderful world of Seminole High School.

This week has been one of excitement and anxiety.

All week, students faced dreaded nine-weeks' exams.

Those who are not exempt from the semester exams spent the latter part of the week, reviewing for next weeks' tests.

On a joyous note, next Monday and Friday the school campuses will be empty due to the Martin Luther King holiday and a staff development day.

This week, the school's drama department is holding auditions for "Our Town." See Mrs. Eppe for more information.

The Dazzlers, Seminole High's award-winning dance team, is recovering from a rigorous performance given for Coca Cola executives at Disney-MGM Studios. Wal-Mart and Kmart executives were also present.

Verna Jackson is now taking applications for the Miss SHS contest.

Applicants must be a junior or senior female with a club sponsorship. If you meet those criteria, see Mrs. Jackson for more details.

That about wraps it up on this end.

Good luck on your semester exams.

Lindsay Hedges is a sophomore at Seminole High School where she is enrolled in the Academy of Health Careers.

POP CULTURE™ by Steve McGarry

The first motorcycle gang movie was 1954's "The Wild One."

Based on a true story, it started Marion Brando and Lee Marvin leading a swarm of leather-clad biker hoodlums striking fear and loathing in the citizens of a small town.

The movie was deemed so dangerously subversive that it was actually banned in Britain until 1968.

Marion Brando has been nominated for an Academy Award eight times, winning twice — name the movies.

Answers: "A Streetcar Named Desire" "Viva Zapata!" "Julius Caesar" "On the Waterfront" (Winner) "Sayonara" "The Godfather" (Winner) "Lost Tanga in Paris" "A Dry White Season"

Students all over Seminole County are doing well in their academic and extra-curricular endeavors.

They are achieving high honors at school and in the community and should be recognized for their efforts.

We'd like to give each of them a chance to show off their accolades here and give each of them a much-deserved pat on the back.

Good work, kids!

OVIEDO — For fifteen years Delora Campbell, health teacher at Tuskawilla Middle School, has organized and presented a Health Fair for her students.

On Jan. 6, all the students in the sixth grade exploratory class were invited to the multi-purpose room in groups of 150 for the presentations and demonstrations made by guests from many aspects of careers in professional health care.

Originally, Campbell planned the Health Fair for her students, however, realizing the value of the presenters' information and demonstrations, her principals have, over the years, encouraged the continuation of the health fairs to the extent that this year, over 600 students attentively listened to the remarks and observed demonstrations by the following presenters:

Lisa Maile of Professional Image and Modeling; Laura Colter OTR/L and Corinne D'Aprile, OTR/L, occupational therapist; Randy Gitteas, specialist in dental health; Fire Station #23, with a demonstration of safety; Debbi Tuccel, Cathleen Marrow and Valada Flewellyn, who spoke on AIDS awareness; Patti Fritch who spoke on peer pressure reversal; Claroy Campbell, a registered pharmacist, who spoke on drug abuse; and Tony Durham, who spoke on chewing, dipping and smoking.

Substitute guest speakers included Johnetta Batts, a registered pharmacist; Dr. Kelvin Gipson, podiatric medicine and surgery; Prof. Robby Paul of Florida A&M University; and Dr. Fred Paul, podiatric medicine and surgery.

Barbara Kirby, newly-assigned principal at Tuskawilla Middle School, was also impressed with the Health Fair.

"I support the concept of good health, food and physical exercise," Kirby said. "Mrs. Campbell has invited a cross-section of presenters in various health-related careers, and the children get a chance to question the presenters one-on-one. Consequently, many of their questions and concerns are addressed."

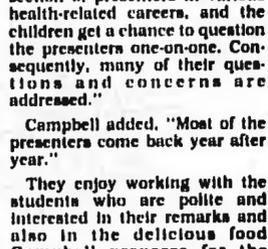

Campbell added, "Most of the presenters come back year after year."

They enjoy working with the students who are polite and interested in their remarks and also in the delicious food Campbell prepares for the brunch and lunch during the event.

In acknowledging the contributions of the other exploratory teachers, Joni Nave, Ray Wilcoxson, Julie Mund, John Sauls, Edward Moore and Larry Harrington, Campbell said, "This was one of the best Health Education Days the school has had. Your hard work in preparing and setting up will be visible, admired and appreciated by everyone."

There are those who prefer cats to dogs, those who prefer dogs to cats and those who like (or dislike) both. However, few are as funny about it as August Strindberg, the Swedish dramatist, who said, "I loathe people who keep dogs. They are cowards who haven't got the guts to bite people themselves."

Bridge is a dogfight for every trick. Look upon defeat in a contract as a catastrophe. Against today's four-heart contract, West leads the spade king and switches accurately to a trump. How do you continue?

That trump switch is annoying because the defenders are threatening to take three spades and one heart. With, say, a spade continuation, you could have ruffed a spade in the dummy.

One thought is to take your VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) Today you're likely to feel gregarious and you may want to socialize with friends. However, steer clear of a pal with whom you've recently had problems.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Carefully assess situations today. If you're careless, you might become involved in an endeavor with odds that favor the opposition.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Joint ventures may have promise today, but you and your associates must make an effort to understand each other in order to be successful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Circumstances might be unusually difficult today. However, if you use your smarts, it might turn out better than you supposed.

two top trumps and start on the diamonds. If the defender with the last trump has at least three diamonds, you can discard a spade loser and get home.

However, there is a much safer play available. Just duck the second trick. Let the opponents have their trump winner while there is still a trump in the dummy to keep spades under control.

If you didn't spot that play, your partner would catapult you to the doghouse. And he might start doggedly cataloging your errors. Also, without fear of catcalls from my readers, I can dogmatically state that this duck is the cat's whiskers, doggone it!
