Fiesty Victim Praised As Robber's Appeal Denied

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

"The day after the robbery I realized he cocked a gun and threatened to blow my brains out. 'My God! I thought, 'I could have been dead in the morgue,'" said feisty Mintz R. Entzminger, 52, recalling the day she foiled an attempted robbery at a grocery store.

This week appellate judges praised Mrs. Entzminger for her resistance to an attempted armed robbery and aggravated battery in Sanford while they upheld two 30-year sentences of the man who pistol whipped her when she wouldn't cooperate.

The justices of the 5th District Court of Appeal in Daytona Beach refused the appeal of Arthur Barnhill Jr., 32, Winter Park, of his conviction in the case.

"I would say Barnhill got what he deserved," Mrs. Entzminger said today. She said she was pleased the appellate court's decision.

Mrs. Entzminger was one of two cashiers in the store Barnhill tried to rob Oct. 26, 1982, according to court records.

Barnhill was found guilty by jury in 1983 and sentenced by Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler. Barnhill appealed his sentences claiming they violated the constitutional prohibition against double jeopardy. He said he was tried and sentenced for two crimes, armed robbery and aggravated battery, when actually one crime occurred.

Mrs. Entzminger was unsympathetic to Barnhill's contention and remembered the attempted robbery and beating clearly.

She said it was the second time she was held up and she decided it was time to resist.

"I was tired of going out and having to work for a living and having people take it away from me. I think examples should be made sometimes," she said.

"Barnhill had a lucrative line of work," she said, meaning he traveled up and down the east coast states robbing stores.

According to court records, Barnhill approached Mrs. Entzminger around 5 p.m. in the Park and Shop store, 4th St. and Sanford Ave., and passed her a "hold up" note. His accomplice meanwhile trained a gun on another cashier, Georgia Redd, 71, also of Sanford. When Mrs. Entzminger, who was holding $60 in her hand, didn't surrender the cash nor the money from

2 Men Die In Fiery Car Crash

Two men burned to death early today and another was critically injured in a fiery one-car crash just south of the Lake Monroe bridge between Sanford and DeBary.

Trapped in the wreckage and burned to death was Douglas Pratt, 27, of W. State Road 46, Sanford. A second man who also burned to death in the 1974 two-door Chevy remains unidentified today, according to the Florida Highway Patrol.

In critical condition today at the Orlando Regional Medical Center is Ruben M. Lopez, 35, of Central Drive. Following the 1:05 a.m. accident, he was flown to the hospital by helicopter, according to FHP reports. After 5 hours of emergency room treatment he was moved to an intensive care unit where he is suffering from multiple trauma and fractures, according to Joe Brown, a hospital spokesman.

According to an FHP report, the Chevy was traveling in excess of 80 mph when it failed to negotiate a long curve at the end of the bridge on U.S. Highway 17-92 and instead traveled in a straight line striking a wooden power pole about 150 feet from bridge end. After striking the pole the vehicle continued straight for about 200 feet, plunging into woods where it burned. Lopez was thrown from the vehicle when it struck the pole, according to the FHP report.

A bridge tender working the midnight to 8 a.m. shift told a Department of Transportation worker he heard a whoosh, some rattling noises and then as he looked out a window saw the car fireball. He said he grabbed a fire extinguisher and ran to the woods where the car came to rest but it was completely aflame.

He said he saw one man on the road and one in the car and did not learn until later that two men were in the wreckage.

It is not known at this time who was driving the vehicle. Charges are pending an investigation.

The deaths bring Seminole County's 1985 traffic death toll to 20.

Public Hearings Set

County Budget Inflates 4.5%

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

After hearing pleas from department heads for various projects for more than 30 hours this week, county commissioners tentatively approved a $101.3 million budget for fiscal 1985-86, up 4.5 percent from last year's $96.9 million. New money budgeted totals $4.4 million.

The county commissioners at a meeting July 9 are to officially vote on the tentative countywide $4.18 per $1,000 property tax rate for certification to the county property appraiser as required by state law. It is the same rate as last year.

Public hearings on the budget are scheduled for Sept. 3 and Sept. 17.

New money in the budget comes not only from growth in the value of taxable property in the county (up 11.6 percent) but also from $2.8 million in federal revenue sharing funds and $1.3 million in sales tax returns from the state which was funneled into the budget.

Among the major projects to be done with much of the new money are additional road construction costing $700,000, planning and studies required by state law for a new comprehensive land use plan at $500,000, a major beefing up of the county department of public works, and a subsidy of $500,000 for the fire department over and above what it receives in property taxes from the unincorporated area.

The commissioners agreed to maintain the countywide tax rate at $4.18 per $1,000 assessed valuation, but to increase the $2.31 tax rate in the unincorporated areas for transportation and fire protection to $2.50, a 19 cents per $1,000 increase. All of the increased taxes are to go to the county fire department.

The tax rate could have dropped 18 cents per $1,000 and still brought in the same amount of revenue as last year. According to property appraiser Bill Suber the county's tax base grew by $495 million, $355 million due to new construction and $140 million in higher appraisals. He said the county has a taxable property value of $4.8 billion up from last year's $4.3 billion.

Thursday Public Works Director Larry Sellers, as instructed by the county commissioners earlier, presented recommendations for road projects using the $700,000.

Those include:

- Widening, resurfacing and drainage improvements on Markham Woods Road from state Road 434 to Markham Road, $565,000. Some $50,000 had earlier been approved for the project.

- Widening, resurfacing and drainage improvements for Dodd Road from Howell Branch to Red Bug Lake Road, $400,000 for right of way acquisition and construction. Some $134,000 had already been allocated for this project in the 1984-85 fiscal year and a large portion is allocated in the regular 1985-86 road program. Both projects are to be put to bid by private contractors.

In case the estimates for either of the first two priorities are less than expected, Sellers recommended an allocation of $50,000 to modify the culvert on Mikler Road at Bear Gully Circle and piping of a ditch near the Orange County line at Tanglewood at an estimated cost of $65,000. In the regular road program budget is $15,000 for preliminary engineering and design for this project.

Sellers, at Commissioner Bill Kirchoff's urging, said his department will also build a sidewalk on 25th Street from U.S. Highway 17-92 to Geneva Gardens. And Commissioner Sandra Glenn asked Sellers to look into the costs of building a sidewalk on Airport Boulevard from U.S. Highway 17-92 to the retirement home.

County Administrator Ken Hooper said he and Sellers will be bringing back to the commission in the next few weeks road projects to be accomplished with the $2.8 million expected from the county's 4 cents-per-gallon gas tax and the $1.2 million from the additional 2

Happy Hatter

Aundrea Nathan, 10, models her elaborate straw hat which won first place in the "fanciest hat" category during Sanford Recreation Department's Hat Day today. Aundrea's hat is decorated with kittens, spiders, alligators, flowers, rabbits and frogs. Hat Day, held at the Sanford Civic Center, is part of the city's "Summer Fling at the Youth Wing" a recreation program for youngsters continuing weekdays 8 a.m.—noon through July 26.

Lake Mary's Traffic Concerns Stall 7-Eleven Plans

By Richard Truett
Herald Staff Writer

The Southland Corp. failed for the third time to win approval for a 7-Eleven store on the corner of Lake Mary Boulevard and Rinehart Road. Lake Mary city commissioners said traffic safety would be jeopardized by building the store.

Commissioners voted 4-0 Thursday to table the request. Commissioner Colin Keogh was absent. The issue is scheduled to be heard again July 18.

"We are doing the best we can with the existing conditions," Rich Hall, construction coordinator for Southland Corp. told commissioners. Privately, he said the firm will do whatever it takes to get the store built.

Commissioner Paul Tremel said he would not vote for the approval of the store's preliminary site plan because he "will not expose the citizens of Lake Mary to a bad traffic situation."

Lake Mary Boulevard, which handles about 18,000 a day, is expected to be widened to four lanes in 1989. Traffic is expected to increase to 25,000 to 40,000 between now and 1989.

"I have difficulty dealing with that parcel of land whether it is for 7-Eleven or anybody," Tremel said.

"The land should not be developed until the road is widened," Tremel said.

The safety problem stems from the fact that cars would only be able to enter the convenience store safely if they were traveling west on Rinehart when the store would be on their right. Commissioners fear that cars in the lane heading east toward Sanford would stop to make left turns into the store, blocking traffic behind them near an intersection. The left turn would be illegal.

Southland Corp. agreed to put up signs and traffic lights and construct a median but commissioners still feel there would be a problem. Even Hall admits signs, lights and a median would not completely solve the problem.

"Yes, people would make turns that are illegal," Hall admitted, but he added, "We have done the best we can with existing resources."

On May 2 and in a work session May 16 the commission discussed the construction of the store. Commissioner Russ Megonegal said he was not satisfied with the drainage situation on the site. About the only item Southland has been successful in winning agreement on from commissioners is the amount and location of trees on the property.

Sanford P&Z Approves Jail Expansion Plans

Sanford's Planning and Zoning Commission Thursday unanimously approved plans for a $12 million addition to the Seminole County jail, clearing the way for construction to begin the middle of July.

The board had to rule on the plans because the facility is within the city limits.

The plans call for an additional 121,000 square feet of floor space at the 62,000-square foot jail at Five Points, tripling the facility's size. The addition will house 480 more inmates, as well as a new kitchen and laundry room.

The addition will be a modular structure featuring five hexagonal "pods" that will house 96 inmates each, according to Dale Nederhoff, architect for Watson and Co. which is designing the project. Corrections officers will be stationed in the middle of each pod so they can observe the inmates at all times.

The additional beds are designed to bring relief to inmates and corrections officers who are living and working in crowded conditions. The jail's present population is about 260, which is about 30 too many, according to Seminole County Sheriff John Polk. He said the jail's legal capacity is 236. But Nederhoff told the commission the capacity was 212.

According to Nederhoff's figures, the jail will be able to house 692 inmates with the additional space. But according to Polk's, the total will be 716.

Nederhoff said the addition will be built in such a way that the kitchen and laundry rooms can be converted to jail cells that could handle 1,000 more inmates in years to come.

Hostages Talk To Press

Anti-U.S. Protestors Storm Beirut Airport

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Thousands of people chanting anti-American slogans stormed Beirut airport today, swarming on to the tarmac in a show of support for Moslem gunmen holding 40 American hijack hostages.

The demonstration came just hours after two jet fighters — believed to be Israeli warplanes — streaked over the airport, apparently on a reconnaissance mission.

As the demonstrators marched through the main gate on the west side of the airport, the commandeered TWA jetliner that has been parked there since Sunday was hurriedly moved to the eastern side of the complex.

Witnesses said guards fired shots in the air to keep demonstrators away from the plane during the hour-long protest.

"They're chanting anti-American and anti-Israeli slogans," said a tower controller.

"It's a peaceful demonstration."

The crowd — estimated at 2,000 to 10,000 — stood about 700 yards from the jet, chanting slogans demanding that Israel release Lebanese Shiite Moslem prisoners in exchange for the Americans, who were in their eighth day of captivity.

It was not clear if the American captain, John Testrake, was at the controls when the plane moved away from the demonstrators but an airport source said "all the foreigners have been taken off the plane."

Police Have Patience, Too

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (UPI) — Police said a suspect in a convenience store robbery hid coolly in a nearby house for five hours. He should have made it six.

After the police helicopter, patrol cars and police dogs left Wednesday, officers said Lester Mozon, 23, of Oakland, calmly strolled out of the house — and into the arms of plainclothes officers.

"He came walking out with the gun and the money ... just as natural as can be," said Police Sgt. Bob De Maria.

Mozon was being held on $15,000 bail on suspicion of two robberies.

Economy A Mystery; Pasta Costlier

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Investors on Wall Street and foreign exchange markets, waiting for days for some clear sign of where the economy is headed, found little enlightenment in the government's "flash" estimate of economic growth.

The projection of second quarter economic progress from government economists Thursday at first glance seemed to be an optimistic sign, calling for 3.1 percent expansion of the gross national product, 10 times the 0.3 percent wiggle in the first quarter.

But when assumptions of greater business spending, leveling trade losses and lower inventory accumulation were analyzed, many economists turned skeptical. Instead, many think business will spend less, trade losses will grow and inventory accumulation will continue.

Recalling the first quarter, when the "flash" projection was 2.1 percent, only to be marked down finally to 0.3 percent, many analysts thought the latest 3.1 percent projection to be too optimistic.

While those hoping to spot some new fundamental strength in the economy were disappointed, so were those hoping for some new weakness that would drive interest rates down farther.

Wall Street ended the day mixed, with the Dow Jones industrial average up 2.35 to 1,299.73, a remarkably subdued reaction to an economic report that in the past has proven to be a powerful stimulant or depressant on Wall Street.

Foreign exchange markets proved to be more volatile, with the dollar strengthening on the hint the economy could rebounding.

The 0.2 percent increase in May consumer prices, to a modest 3.9 percent annual rate for the first five months of the year, seemed to confirm the opinion that inflation is weakening.

Elsewhere in Washington there were significant trade maneuvers, with the administration sending every member of Congress a letter signed by a number of Cabinet-level officials opposing legislation gathering speed that would limit textile imports.

The administration estimates the legislation, with the backing of more than half of Congress, would raise the price of importing clothing by 10 percent and perhaps trigger European retaliation against American corn, wheat, aircraft and cigarettes.

But President Reagan did strike back at what he called foreign unfair trade practices Thursday, punishing the European Common Market with new duties to be applied to its egg noodles, spaghetti and other pasta products.

Grand Jury Takes Up Case Of The Contaminated Cheese

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — County supervisors are asking for a grand jury investigation into an epidemic of tainted Mexican-style cheese as the death toll climbs to at least 38.

Another fatality was reported in Southern California Thursday, and authorities moved to fix the blame for the outbreak that has claimed more than three dozen lives.

"Who is responsible for these deaths?" Supervisor Kenneth Hahn complained as the board officially asked the county Grand Jury to investigate the outbreak and determine "where the system broke down."

Hahn said he thinks the probe will show "the state abandoned its responsibility," suggesting the Jalisco plant in suburban Artesia had not been thoroughly inspected.

The Assembly Agriculture Committee also announced plans for a separate probe into the cause of the contamination.

Brown Outruns Rape Charges

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Prosecutors, in a dramatic courtroom about-face, announced they no longer believed in their own case and asked that rape charges against football Hall of Famer-turned-actor Jim Brown be dropped.

Spectators attending the three-day preliminary hearing, expecting to hear Fulgoni argue that Brown should stand trial in Superior Court, sat in stunned silence as the judge — calling the prosecutor's request "well-founded" — agreed to drop the charges of rape, sexual battery and assault.

A somber-looking Brown stood up and hugged his attorney.

Brown, 49, had maintained his innocence throughout the case.

Prosecutor Dino Fulgoni Fulgoni said prosecutors believed at the beginning of the case that there was enough evidence to support the charges that Brown beat and raped a 33-year-old substitute school teacher and professed lesbian at his Hollywood Hills home Feb. 19.

But because of the alleged victim's inconsistent statements and an "excellent" defense effort, "that corroborating evidence has proved to be meaningless," Fulgoni said.

'Star Wars' Test Threatened

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The shuttle Discovery cruised to a second encounter with a laser beam today in a repeat of a bungled "Star Wars" experiment, but high winds at the laser base threatened the second attempt.

With Discovery soaring over Maui, Hawaii, on its 64th orbit, Air Force ground crews planned to fire a harmless, 4-watt argon laser at an 8-inch-wide mirror mounted in a side hatch window of the shuttle.

By analyzing the reflected beam of intense blue light, scientists hope to learn more about how to counteract atmospheric distortion for proposed "Star Wars" weapons that would use orbiting mirrors to reflect laser blasts from the ground at enemy missiles in flight.

But a NASA spokesman said 50-knot winds at the laser base atop Mt. Haleakala on Maui threatened to disrupt the experiment. A third opportunity was available Saturday.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Agca Wanted Help From U.S. And American Citizenship

ROME (UPI) — The Turkish terrorist who shot Pope John Paul II says he hoped for support from the Reagan administration and U.S. citizenship after he linked Bulgaria to the plot against the pontiff.

Mehmet Ali Agca, a right-wing extremist on trial with four other Turks and three Bulgarians for complicity in the May 13, 1981, attack, also hinted Thursday that he had been in contact with "someone from the White House."

Agca, already serving a life sentence for shooting the pope, is the key prosecution witness and has accused the Soviet Union — working through Bulgaria — of masterminding the plot. He is being tried again on a charge of smuggling the gun he used to wound the pope in the hand and abdomen.

Agca Thursday spoke in reply to questions from an Italian judge about why he wrote a letter to an unidentified U.S. military attaché.

Agca denied he was trying to involve the U.S. Embassy in the plot. "The embassy has nothing to do with this. I know nobody at the embassy."

But he said he "wanted to have support from America, from the Reagan administration."

"I wrote the letter also to ask for an American citizenship," Agca said.

Explosions Darken Capital

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — The Chilean capital of Santiago and its central region remained in darkness early today following explosions at electrical towers Thursday night in the first outbreak of political violence since a state of siege was lifted Monday.

Santiago went black shortly after 9 p.m. as hundreds of left-wing youths were dispersing from a "hunger march," the first demonstration against the military government since the seven-month state of siege ended.

The government information office said the grid system for central Chile was knocked out by bomb attacks on three towers outside Santiago, a city of 4 million people. The blasts also cut power to the major coastal cities of Valparaiso and Vina del Mar.

Partial blackouts were reported throughout a 800-mile stretch of central Chile, from the towns of Temuco, south of Santiago, to La Serena and Coquimbo, north of the capital.

Police said there was no immediate word on who set the explosions, and no group had claimed responsibility for the blackout.

Is Cancer Treatment Really Getting Better?

BOSTON (UPI) — Although many cancer treatments seem to have improved in recent years, much of the advance may be simply a statistical illusion caused by improvements in diagnosis.

A study of lung cancer victims treated at three Yale University-affiliated hospitals between 1953 and 1977 found no statistically significant improvement in survival, although it appeared at first that a clear improvement had taken place.

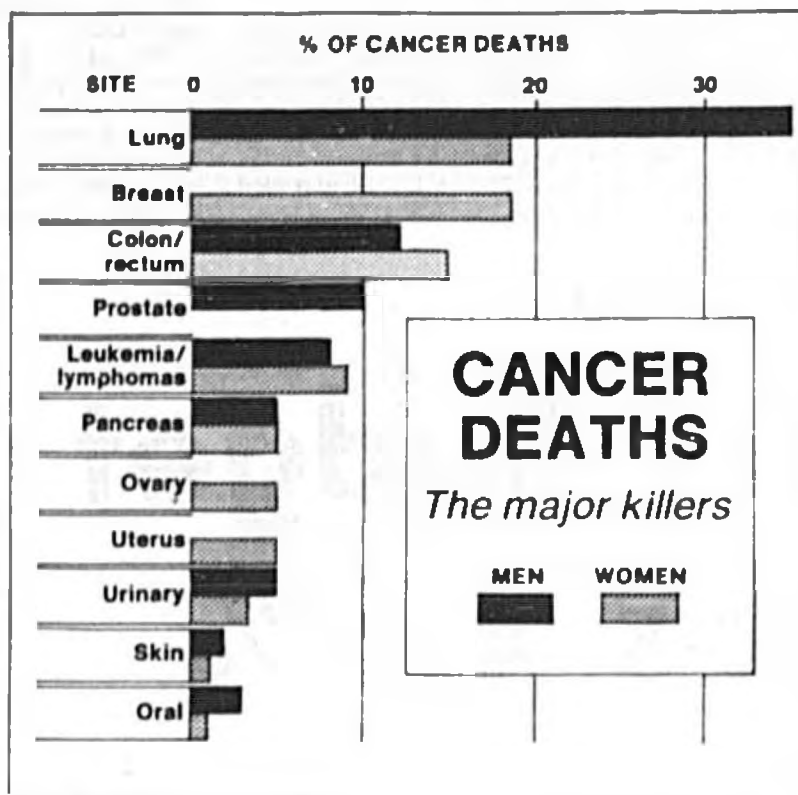

"These results are distressing because they suggest that the contemporary improvement of survival rates, at least among patients with lung cancer, is a statistical artifact," said the report, published Thursday in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The team dubbed the statistical illusion the "Will Rogers Phenomenon" after a quote attributed to the late actor-humorist.

Commenting on the migration of poor Oklahoma farmers to California during the Great Depression, Rogers is alleged to have said, "When the Okies left Oklahoma and moved to California, they raised the average intelligence level in both states."

What Rogers meant in jest was that the Oklahoma immigrants were brighter than California residents, so when they moved they raised California's average intelligence. At the same time, the Oklahoma immigrants were less intelligent than the average Oklahoma resident so the average Oklahoma intelligence level rose as well.

Dr. Alvan R. Feinstein, a Yale epidemiologist and the report's primary author, said cancer pa-

(Source: American Cancer Society)

Lung cancer is tops in cancer deaths among men, with 35 percent of the total. Among women, lung cancer and breast cancer are No. 1, with each causing 18 percent of those cancer deaths.

Patients are often put into three categories — those with tumors, those with nodes and those with metastases. Each step is more advanced than the last.

As diagnostic equipment has improved, patients first classified in a less serious category are now being put into more severe categories.

Therefore, the survival rates for the lower categories improves because the sicker people are taken out, as does the survival rates in the higher categories, because less sick people are put in. However, the overall survival rate does not change.

"The benefit (of cancer therapy) is exaggerated to some degree," said Dr. Daniel M.

Sosin, one of the report's authors. "But exactly how much is unknown."

The Yale study looked at the records of 100 patients. It found that for the least sick category the six-month survival rate improved from 75 percent to 92 percent between 1953 and 1977. For the most sick category the survival rate appeared to have improved from 30 percent to 42 percent.

However, the re-analysis using different statistical methods found no significant difference between those who developed the disease between 1953 to 1964 and those who developed it in 1977.

Leftists Blamed For Marines' Murders

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — The U.S. Embassy says the "thugs with rifles" who carried out an attack on a row of crowded outdoor cafes that killed 13 people were leftist guerrillas who fired first at the four U.S. Marines who were slain.

Two American civilians also were among those killed in Wednesday night's attack carried out by gunmen dressed as regular army soldiers. Twelve people were wounded.

"A Datsun pickup truck with anywhere from six to 10 men in camouflage uniforms pulled up beside a cafe in one of San Salvador's nightclub districts, and these terrorists opened fire with automatic weapons across what amounted to nearly a block of wall-to-wall cafes," Chief U.S. Embassy spokesman Donald Hamilton said.

Bodies of the dead and wounded lying in pools of their own blood were strewn across the floors of the restaurants, while the shocked survivors stood over them awaiting the arrival of medical aid.

In Washington, Assistant Secretary of State Elliot Abrams told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday that it appeared the gunmen fired first at the Marines, but it was not clear if they were the specific targets.

"The car the terrorists drove stopped right in front of the table where the Marines were sitting and they opened up on them," another Embassy spokesman told United Press International by telephone. "We don't know if that was on purpose or not."

"No organization has claimed responsibility at this time," the spokesman said, "but we assume that the perpetrators were either members or associates of the FMLN," the initials of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, which groups five rebel armies.

A state of emergency was immediately declared, a government spokesman said, and air force helicopters flew over the area. Hundreds of soldiers were dispatched throughout the city to search for the gunmen but no arrests were made.

The leftist guerrillas have not issued any statements claiming they undertook the attack.

AREA DEATHS

Retired Rear Admiral Dead At 59

PENSACOLA (UPI) — Retired Rear Admiral Kenneth Shugart died Wednesday after a lengthy illness. He was 59.

Shugart, a native of Cheyenne, Wyo., retired Feb. 1, 1983 after 38 years in the Navy. He had two combat tours as a naval aviator.

His last assignment, assumed in May 1980, was chief of the Naval Education and Training Command at the Naval Air Station in Pensacola, where he received his flight training in 1949.

Shugart was shot down during the Vietnam war while attacking the Bin Sahn radar site in North Vietnam. He was recovered in the Gulf of Tonkin.

Funeral services were held today with burial at Barrancas National Cemetery.

How Else Is A Burglary Suspect To Get To 'Work'?

A man identified as an auto burglary suspect has also been accused of stealing the car in which he reportedly drove to the scene of the crime.

Tim McMahon, of 824 Catalina Drive, Sanford, reported to sheriff's deputies that he saw two suspects burglarizing his car while the vehicle was parked on Vihlen Road, Sanford, about 5:30 a.m. on June 12. The pair carried a stereo, an equalizer, a tool belt and tapes from McMahon's car.

He pursued the pair as they fled in a 1978 Dodge and noted the license number. The following day McMahon reportedly identified a suspect in a Seminole County sheriff's photo lineup, but the second suspect wasn't identified, a sheriff's report said.

In tracing the tag number deputies found the car belongs to Joanne Smith of 1503 Terrace Drive, Sanford. When questioned by investigators, Ms. Smith reportedly told deputies the suspect identified in the lineup lives at her home and on June 12 had taken her car without permission. She reportedly told deputies she didn't realize the car had been stolen until she was asked about the burglary.

Stephen Howard Kendall, 19, of 1503 Terrace Drive, Sanford, has been charged with burglary and theft in addition to auto theft. He was arrested at 6 a.m. Thursday on Ridge Road near state Road 45, Geneva, and was being held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

STOPPED FOR A SNACK
When John McFayden, of 1015 Holly Ave., Sanford, returned home Tuesday he found his house ransacked. Clothes and other household goods were strewn throughout three bedrooms, according to a police report. One of the doors, along with the doorframe, was torn off the wall. The thief entered the house by tearing off the doorknob, the report said.

McFayden had not determined exactly what had been stolen. But all the ransacking and door crashing apparently caused the thief to work up an appetite. Police reported the thief "stopped to make a jelly sandwich" before he left.

FIRE CALLS

The Sanford Fire Department responded to the following calls.

Tuesday

—4:02 p.m., 25th Street and Princeton Avenue, rescue. Two 16-year-old girls were injured in an auto accident. Kendall Kecla, of 1010 Wolf Trail, Casselberry, received cuts on her arms and legs and may have received some internal injuries, a rescue report said. Nancy Shepard, of 2426 Yale Ave., Sanford, received cuts and scrapes on her face, legs and arms. Both were taken to the hospital.

Wednesday

—7:30 a.m., 2466 Sanford Ave., rescue. A 54-year-old man who had a seizure was taken to the hospital.
—11:23 a.m., 1603 Southwest Road, false alarm.

WARRANT CHARGES

armed robbery on a Michigan warrant, but no charges have been filed against either man in connection with the alleged gun-related threats.

Assistant Casselberry Police Chief Wen Gates said his officers were more concerned about getting a .22-caliber, sawed-off rifle away from the men than throwing anyone in jail. Gates said officers at the scene decided not to press charges against the duo because they felt a conviction would be unlikely.

The pair was confronted by police at Casselberry Square, state Road 436, on Tuesday. Officers had been summoned because both Ricky Morehouse and his stepfather had told police that Morehouse's brother, Patrick, 19, and the man arrested were enroute to Ricky Morehouse's job site, Ben Franklin store, a Casselberry police report said.

The pair was reportedly armed with the rifle, knives and nun chakus and were allegedly threatening to kill Morehouse because of an earlier dispute when Patrick had been told to leave the family home, the report said.

Ricky Morehouse's boss had locked him in a back room of the store because he feared for his safety and police reported locating the suspects in a vehicle nearby.

When asked about the rifle the man arrested reportedly took it from a hiding place beneath a bedroll in the back seat of his car. Police confiscated the gun and the pair were allowed to leave.

However, a subsequent police computer check showed that the man who handed over the gun was wanted on three Michigan warrants and the rifle had been stolen in that state, the report said.

Police reported arresting the man, listed as a transient, at his workplace, Mother's Restaurant, Seminole Plaza, state Road 436, Casselberry, at 8:26 a.m. Wednesday. Lawrence Darwin Webb, 24, was being held without bond for Michigan authorities.

NO SHOW CRUELTY

A Sanford man arrested on April 2 on three counts related to mistreatment and the ultimate death of a Doberman pinscher, was rearrested Tuesday for failure to appear for a May 14 trial on those charges, according to the prosecutor assigned to the case.

Stacy Britton of the Seminole State Attorney's Office said Ronald Lee Scott, 28, of 1420 Sandpiper Lane, faces charges of cruelty, unlawful confinement and abandonment of the middle-aged dog which was put to death by county officials after Longwood police found the animal abandoned, tied to a tree, at Scott's former Longwood home in November 1984.

The Seminole County Humane Society ordered Scott's arrest after responding to complaints by Scott's former neighbors, Ms.

Britton said. A report, she said, called the male dog extremely emaciated. It had been left without food and water.

Scott has been released on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court June 26.

INTERFERING WOMAN

A 41-year-old Sanford woman has been charged with interfering with a police officer after allegedly shoving a Seminole County sheriff's deputy.

The woman reportedly entered the Islander Bar, U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford, and began cursing. She allegedly shoved one of two sheriff's deputies who were on the scene and was arrested.

Jutta Bridgett Stoetzer, of 207 Palm Place, was arrested at 6:15 p.m. Wednesday. She was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

Kathy Grod, 33, of 100 Arden St., Longwood, gave sheriff's deputies the name of a suspect who may have stolen $260 from a closet in her home on Tuesday.

About $5,600 worth of jewelry including rings, necklaces, and a diamond watch were stolen from the home of Wilson White Holz, 66, of 258 W. Sabal Palm Place, Longwood, on Wednesday, deputies reported.

A newspaper rack worth $350 and belonging to Chris H. Couch, 27, of 500 Orange Blvd., Sanford, was stolen from the Auto Train station, 800 Persimmon Ave., Sanford, on Tuesday or Wednesday, according to a sheriff's report.

An antique, brass porch light worth $175 was stolen from the porch of William J. Wassault, 33, of 9517 Shortleaf Road, Apopka, on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Michael E. Pinter, 40, of 1350 North St., Altamonte Springs, reported to sheriff's deputies that $2,000 worth of jewelry was stolen from his home on Tuesday.

A .357-magnum handgun was stolen from the car of Jimmie L. Johnson, 49, of 11 Plumosa Ave., Casselberry, while the vehicle was parked at 3217 Holiday Ave., Apopka, on Wednesday, a sheriff's report said.

A $200 trailer hitch was stolen Monday from a truck parked at Florida Gas Transmission Training Center, 2747 Carrier Ave., Sanford, police reported. The truck and hitch belong to Alan Martin, 56, of Starke.

A lawn edger worth $140 was stolen from Walter Gaines' home, 1002 Scott Ave., Sanford, between Friday and Tuesday, police reported.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Donald James Stone, 35, of 2025 Nottingdale Lane, Maitland, was arrested at 11:58 p.m. Wednesday on Westdale Road, Casselberry, after his car was seen speeding.

—Robin Renee Hinrichson, 20, of Sigourney, Iowa, at 3:35 a.m. Thursday on state Road 436, Casselberry, after she was seen driving west in the eastbound lane.

Indians To Story Time At Libraries

Seminole County's Public Library Summer Reading Program for June includes the following:

- At the Casselberry Branch Library:
Monday, June 24 — Betty Mae Jumper, Seminole Indian, Editor-in-chief of Seminole Tribune, will speak about the Seminoles and present some Seminole crafts, 2 p.m.
Tues., June 25 — Pacesetter Cloggers using their famous 'feets' will perform at 2 p.m.
Wednesday, June 26 — Preschool storytime at 10 a.m.

Thursday, June 27 — Preschool films, "Leo on Vacation" and "Little Dog" at 10 a.m. Craft-Sandpainting (bring white glue and scissors) at 2 p.m.

At the Sanford Branch Library:
Tuesday, June 25 — Preschool drop-in storytime at the library, 9:30 a.m.

Wednesday, June 26 — K-3rd grade drop-in storytime, 9:30 a.m.
Thursday, June 27 — Storytime at the Civic Center, 10 a.m.

New Coke By Another Name Is Moral Collapse

MIAMI (UPI) — New Coke, the first change in the secret recipe of Coca-Cola in 99 years, is another sign of the moral collapse of U.S. life, according to a broadcast by Cuba's Radio Rebelde.

In a lengthy editorial on the government-controlled radio Wednesday, a commentator noted there had been protests in several U.S. cities against the taste change in the popular soft drink.

"The controversy has transcended the limits of the palate and converted itself into a sentimental battle for those who each day find fewer agreeable things to list in the United States," said the broadcast monitored in Miami.

The broadcast said new Coke is being heralded throughout the United States in an intense ad campaign linking it to historic and patriotic moments in U.S. history.

"Many North Americans view Coca-Cola as something inherent in the national grandeur and only comparable to the symbolic Statue of Liberty or the skyscrapers of New York."

"Many Marine infantrymen went to make war on other continents, carrying a soft drink in their packs — but not even Coca-Cola will be capable of rescuing national values that simply no longer exist," it said.

For Whom The Historic Liberty Bell Ages

By Tom Tiede
PHILADELPHIA (NEA) — Andrew McKay heard the bad news at a barber shop during the winter. The fellow in the next chair was getting a permanent and an aloe facial, but he seemed to know what he was talking about just the same: he said the famed crack in the nation's Liberty Bell was getting larger.

The fellow wasn't specific, he said he'd read about it somewhere; but McKay was moved to action. Recently he arranged his vacation early, put some things in a rental car, and drove from his home in Atlanta to the historic center of Philadelphia where he went directly to the Liberty Bell Pavilion.

"I wanted to see it," he says, "before it split in two."

And he's not the only one. It seems. The National Park Service reports that scores of people visiting the bell this spring say that they've heard it was breaking apart. The rumor is going around that the bell has started to corrode, or turn brittle with age, and it's on the verge of ruin.

Naturally, the rumor is concerned mostly with the crack. The talk is the cleavage has opened an inch or more. The fellow in the Atlanta barber chair said the rupture had already crept through the crown of the bell, and, worse, it was developing tributaries that could cut the device into pieces.

Pieces indeed. The federal officials who look after the Revolutionary relic say the stories of its deterioration are grossly exaggerated. They say the crack in the 8-foot bell has been more or less stable since its origination, and there is no indication that it is growing at all.

The authorities admit there may be another problem, however. The bell has shown signs of metal oxidation. Park Service curators explain that a powdered substance was found on one side of the bell last year, and they have been conducting appropriate tests to determine what if anything is the matter.

Robert Giannini is one of the curators. He says the powdered substance has been identified as copper ammonium hydrate sulfate. He says it's a crystallization, i.e., an erosion of the metal, and he thinks it may form when the bell goes through alternating periods of daytime warmth and evening chill.

Giannini says the oxidation has been arrested with a heavy application of wax. He doesn't know if further steps will have to be taken. He does say the bell has weathered far worse dilemmas than this, though; it has in fact been subject to all sorts of threats to its well-being and existence.

The bell was historic while active. But it was to become a national icon in retirement. The 2,080-pound device is inscribed with a phrase from Leviticus: "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof," and it is presently on display in its own pavilion across from Independence Hall.

Actually, the pavilion is more like a small kiosk. And it has its critics in the Park Service. Officials point out that the pavilion is made largely of glass, the sun can thus heat the Liberty Bell to more than 100 degrees, and the temperature fluctuations may have caused the oxidation of last year.

Congressmen Say More Could Be Done

Civilian Agencies Applaud Military's Help In War On Drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two key congressmen say they still believe the military could do more in the war on drugs despite comments by officials of civilian enforcement agencies who claim they are pleased with the military's efforts.

Representatives of the civilian agencies and the Pentagon met behind closed doors with members of the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control for more than two hours earlier this week — a meeting one source termed a "lovefest."

Congressional members have been investigating ways to involve the military more in drug interdiction and Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., chairman of the committee, admitted surprise at how satisfied the civilian agencies are.

"We are pleased to find out that there is a lot more cooperation ... than we had suspected. There seems to be a new spirit of cooperation they say exists," said Rangel, whose panel met with military officials in mid-May.

The military currently has limited authority to cooperate with civilian drug enforcement agencies as long as readiness is not compromised and the civilian law enforcement bodies reimburse the government for support services.

There has been a mood on Capitol Hill to increase the military's involvement because of the national security implications of drug trafficking. One bill, introduced by Rep. Charles Bennett, D-Fla., would allow for military to be involved in arrests, searches and seizures on the high seas.

Rangel said officials at the meeting indicated they believe the Bennett bill is unnecessary.

One of the officials at the meeting — Frank Monastero, chief of operations at the Drug Enforcement Administration — said he believes cooperation between the civilian agencies is about at its zenith.

"There is a point at which (increased military involvement) becomes inefficient and perhaps we ought to focus in other areas," he said. One of those areas, he added, is in the countries that are the source of narcotics.

Despite the high degree of satisfaction by the civilian agencies, Rangel and Rep. Benjamin Gilman, R-N.Y., the panel's ranking minority member, said they remained convinced that more could be done by the military.

"Does this mean more cannot be done? Of course not," said Rangel, adding he would look for "gaps" in the cooperation.

"We're looking at it with a critical eye and hoping what they are saying is so," added Gilman, who said the military could do more in intelligence gathering and support services. "We're going to keep a very close watch over all this."

Tradition Bans School Prayer

Strong and sturdy support for the traditional American doctrine of separation of church and state was given by the recent majority decision of the U.S. Supreme Court in an Alabama school prayer case.

Lately the high court has occasionally wavered in this area of constitutional law, so it was encouraging to see a 6-3 vote reaffirming the principle considered so important by the founding fathers that they made the First Amendment of the Bill of Rights read:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof..."

Since early in this century, the court has held that, under the 14th Amendment, the same prohibition on government support of religion that applies to Congress also applies to state governments.

The Alabama Legislature passed two laws on school prayer. The first permitted teachers in the public schools to lead students in reciting a prayer to God as "the Creator and Supreme Judge of the World." That law was struck down by the high court a year ago without dissent. The second Alabama law permitted a daily one-minute period of silence in public school classrooms for "meditation or voluntary prayer." This law was struck down in the June 4 decision, with three justices dissenting.

The controversy has not ended. It will continue as long as there are religious believers seeking government support for their beliefs and capable of exerting political pressure on the government.

There is a tendency, as we know from the history of the pilgrims who landed at Plymouth Rock in 1620, for religious believers to demand freedom of religion for themselves when they do not control the government and to deny it to others when they themselves have gained governmental power. So dissenters fled a country in which the Church of England was the established religion and promptly established their own church as the only permissible vehicle of religious worship in Massachusetts.

But the Massachusetts Bay Colony was only one of the 13 colonies that became the United States of America. The colonies had different religious traditions. The Quakers were dominant in Pennsylvania, the Anglicans in Virginia, the Puritans in New England. It was necessary to forbid the establishment of any religion by the federal government or religious strife would have torn the union apart.

Because the same or an even greater potential for strife exists in America today and will exist for years to come, there will be a continuous need to defend the cause of religious freedom.

Chief Justice Warren Burger, in his dissent, compared apples and oranges when he said school prayer would be similar to prayers offered by chaplains to open congressional sessions. He noted the high court itself opens each session with an invocation to God. But these ceremonial formalities presided over by professional politicians and jurists bear no resemblance to a classroom situation in which a teacher could use the awesome authority of the government to lead impressionable children in prayer.

The cause of true religion is not well served by any compulsory process. Faith can never be enforced — only the outward semblance and forms of belief. In America, the teaching and encouragement of religious values belongs in the home, in the church and in church schools, not in the public schools.

Tax Dollars For More Anti-Smoking Research

WASHINGTON — This year, the National Institutes of Health will begin a five-year, $100 million drive to study how to get people to stop smoking, an effort that some Senate investigators think is a waste of money.

Critics ask: How much more must the government spend to re-study how to effectively combat smoking, since many effective techniques are already known and used in the private sector? Moreover, couldn't much of this money be more effectively spent in other areas of needed biomedical research?

With the help of my associate, Tracy Fletcher, I've discovered that at least three separate institutes within NIH plan to spend tens of millions of dollars on additional smoking-behavior studies, surveys and reports. Much of the research will further test existing anti-smoking strategies already known to help people who want to stop.

The National Cancer Institute alone is planning to spend $64 million over the next five years on what officials say is the largest and most expensive smoking-cessation research program ever undertaken. Under it, NCI will award dozens of grants to test how different methods work when applied to large numbers of people.

The National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute is also beginning two projects: a $30 million study to get patients with decreased lung capacity to stop smoking, and a $5 million, three-year project aimed at getting high-risk patients to stop. Other agencies have their own anti-smoking programs.

One NIH research award will upgrade a 1981 self-help manual put out by the American Lung Association and test it on 2,000 smokers.

When asked why limited research dollars are being spent to retest materials such as the Lung Association's handbook — but only on a relatively larger scale — officials insist that larger group surveys are needed.

In a two-phase program, NIH is shelling out $36 million over five years on 24 grants to examine ways to get smokers to quit on their own. Phase two will spend more than $28 million to study how to get blacks, women and Hispanics to stop smoking.

Typical of some of the grants that have been awarded, and their first-year costs, are:

— A study of anti-smoking media campaigns in southern Texas and northern Mexico to see how such campaigns work on both sides of the border. Cost: $500,000.

— Two studies to get nurses to stop smoking. Cost: $633,000.

— A study to see if a smoker's telephone "hot line" works to help people resist the urge to light up. Cost: $200,000.

'Free' Market At Work

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "I've been rich and I've been poor — and, believe me, rich is better," comedian Joe E. Lewis observed many years ago.

But Houston business executive Frank A. Lorenzo has a better idea — he has figured out how to reap the benefits of being rich and poor at the same time.

Lorenzo's Continental Airlines is a supplicant in federal bankruptcy proceedings, seeking judicial protection from its creditors because it claims it doesn't have enough money to pay its outstanding bills.

But Continental's parent company, Texas Air Corp., says it is prepared to spend $793.5 million (almost three-fourths of which would be borrowed) to buy another airline.

That situation presumably was not envisioned by Congress when it decided in the late 1970s to deregulate the nation's airlines, thus freeing them from controls long imposed by various government agencies.

Tight federal control of the industry protected established airlines because potential new competitors found it difficult, if not impossible, to surmount an intimidating panoply of regulatory obstacles.

With the advent of deregulation, however, entrepreneurs formed dozens of new airlines, most of which relied upon low costs that could be passed along to passengers in the form of cheap fares.

To compete with the new cut-rate airlines, the older carriers have been forced to drastically cut costs — and that has led to company demands for wage, work rule and productivity concessions from employees throughout the industry.

Filing for bankruptcy in 1983 allowed Continental to unilaterally abrogate all of its union contracts. Three days later, however, it selectively rehired — at drastically lower wages — 4,200 of the 12,000 workers it had fired.

The bankruptcy filing inspired a wave of criticism from legal experts who charged he had abused a federal bankruptcy law never intended to sanction the termination of employee contracts.

Texas Air was able to make its audacious move because it has never been technically involved in Continental's bankruptcy filing.

Notwithstanding that legal distinction, Texas Air is a holding company with only two airline subsidiaries — Continental and New York Air — and the former is more than 10 times as large as the latter.

Thus, Continental is able to postpone payment to many creditors and insist upon depressed salaries for employees while simultaneously buying TWA for almost $800 million. That's the "free market" at work.

Time To Cut Top-Secret Clearances

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon has announced in the wake of the Walker family spy case that it will try to reduce by 10 percent the 4.3 million security clearances now held by employees of the military-industrial complex. Better late than never.

A good place to start would be the million-plus people who are employed by defense contractors and have been granted access to classified documents — particularly the 115,000 civilians who have been given "top secret" security clearances.

A Dec. 10, 1984, internal report by the special Pentagon Industrial Security Review Commission, obtained by our associate Tony Capaccio, suggests that a significant

SCIENCE WORLD

Ailment Reflects Mood

By Elizabeth Pennell
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — It might be said that the bowels never lie, at least not to people who have learned to listen to them.

Stress that the mind can cope with can cause pain, constipation or diarrhea. The wrong foods can also irritate sensitive innards.

But of the 20 million Americans who see a doctor for these problems, millions more do not.

What we call irritated bowel syndrome is only the tip of the iceberg," said Dr. Hooshang Meshkinpour, associate professor of medicine at the University of California, Irvine. "There is a large portion of the population who have these symptoms, but do not come to the doctor."

"It's a highly controversial illness," said Dr. Sidney Cohen, chief of the gastrointestinal section at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. Some researchers assert that stress alters gut function, while others suggest that stress can only cause problems if the intestinal abnormalities exist already.

Causes for this condition seem to run the entire spectrum, according to Dr. Geoffrey Goldsmith, University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston. Stress, foods, fatigue or a combination of these factors may precipitate bowel irritation.

When bowels are irritated, the contractions in the intestine that move and compact digested material until it leaves the body speed up, but for no identifiable anatomic and metabolic reason that researchers have been able to verify. Cramps, increased flatulence, and a bloated or full feeling or nausea can result.

In part due to this altered gut motility, the condition of stools change. Sometimes they are hard pellets; other times they are wet, watery.

Researchers think nerves stimulating the gut muscles or muscle spasms may be at fault, said Cohen. A local nervous system, influenced by the central nervous system regulates intestinal movements.

Substances that stimulate these nerves may play a role in this syndrome. For example, some research indicates that endorphins, the body's natural opiates and pain-relieving chemicals, may speed up the bowels, causing problems.

When psychological factors seem to bring on the condition, therapy should try to reduce patients' anxiety, make them more tolerant of the pain, and teach them new coping behaviors, said Goldsmith.

Essential to treating the condition is first to rule out allergies to certain foods. About 30 percent of the patients have trouble digesting the sugars in milk. This lactose intolerance may be at the root of bowel irritation.

Some foods relieve symptoms. High-protein, low fat diets can reduce contractions in the colon. Diets rich in fibers can help those patients with chronic constipation.

At a recent conference, Meshkinpour reported that an ingredient in non-prescription cough syrups may help relieve pain in some patients. Often doctors prescribe a combination of drugs, trying out different ones until they find a therapy that works.

But most important to treating these bowels, say the experts, is reassuring the patient that the disorder is not life-threatening and that something can be done to help.

The Kinks In Reagan Tax Plan

By Ira R. Allen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan has taken a politically popular and probably meritorious campaign for tax simplification and turned it into a crusade against "socialism" and in favor of the traditional American family where the wife stays home.

In campaigning so vigorously across the country and in White House appearances, the president almost sounds as if he doth protest too much. As he himself says, simplifying the tax system and reducing the brackets from 14 to three won almost universal support — in principle.

But he has been most vocal in defending the only two really controversial items that affect the average taxpayer — his proposal to repeal deductibility of state and local taxes and elimination of the "marriage penalty" relief.

Reagan claims that only one-third of taxpayers, even in the most affected state of New York, itemize their deductions and get benefits from writing off state and local taxes. He also claims that by raising the personal exemption to $2,000 and allowing non-working wives to make a full $2,000 tax-free contribution to Individual Retirement Accounts, the plan will help the American family.

On both issues, he has been on both sides.

In 1983, he opposed repealing the deductibility of state and local taxes, calling it "a tax on a tax," exactly what opponents of his 1985 policy, notably Gov. Mario Cuomo of New York, are claiming.

Two years ago, Reagan opposed the measure because it was one of several ideas from "liberal Democrats in the House" for raising revenues about $35 billion.

Now, however, Reagan favors repealing the deduction because low-tax states are subsidizing high-tax states like New York "for their lack of resolve."

What's the difference in two years?

A White House aide says raising $35 billion to $40 billion now by ending the deduction is acceptable because some way is needed to offset the drastically lower tax rates for most people. In that way, the plan remains "revenue-neutral."

What has happened, simply, is that Reagan has had to balance his goal of a revenue-neutral tax reduction with tax increases for some of the same people he tried to help two years ago. Meanwhile, working women are somewhat penalized and old-fashioned women are somewhat helped.

Now it's all right to impose a "tax on a tax" because in 1983 it was a "liberal" scheme to raise revenues, and in 1985 it's a conservative idea to keep taxes lower for traditional two-parent families with one wage-earner.

In a way, a marriage penalty of convenience.

As a "microcosm" of the existing situation, the Pentagon report cites a major California contractor where all but 705 of 35,557 employees have some degree of security clearance, and adds, "Of these 705, it would not be unreasonable to assume that perhaps 400 to 500 of them are in the process for security clearances."

The report makes clear that the contractors won't reduce the number of security clearances on their own.

The review panel also questioned whether the growth of business firms given security clearance "is fully justified." It noted that possibly 1,000 or 2,000 of the 13,000 businesses now holding security clearances "perform toilet cleaning, painting and similar maintenance."

Norway To Build $35 Million Pavilion At Disney's Epcot

LAKE BUENA VISTA (UPI) — Norway will construct a pavilion at Walt Disney World's Epcot Center where visitors will ride a Viking ship through legendary Norway and get off at a cobblestone square depicting modern Oslo.

Disney officials report they signed a contract in Oslo, Norway, Thursday for a $35 million Scandinavian pavilion at Epcot, to be located between the Mexico and China pavilions.

Disney said it will take nearly two years to build the showcase. When it is completed in 1987, Norway will be the 11th country with a pavilion on the shores of the World Showcase Lagoon at Epcot Center, Walt Disney's nearly 3-year-old adult-targeted theme park near the Magic Kingdom.

The government of Norway is contributing $10 million to the project. Eight Norwegian businesses in shipping, banking, engineering and other concerns are putting in $20 million. Disney, which does not disclose its contributions, is reportedly putting in $5 million.

Cheese Victim Recovering

NAPLES (UPI) — A 5-year-old Haitian girl who became critically ill after eating Mexican-style cheese blamed for 42 deaths in California, Texas and Arizona is improving but still is in danger.

Robert Callahan, Collier County health director, said the unidentified girl's temperature is down to 101 or 102 degrees and she had managed to eat a little Thursday.

Callahan said there is no way to be absolutely sure the cheese the girl's family said she ate while visiting her uncle in Miami is the cause of the disease. She became ill with 104-degree fever vomiting, diarrhea and stiff neck. Tests show the symptoms were caused by Listeria monocytogenes bacteria.

That is the same bacteria found in Jalisco brand cheeses produced in Artesia, Calif., believed to have caused the 42 deaths and 94 other illnesses, Callahan said.

Nudity Crackdown Nets Tourist

TITUSVILLE (UPI) — Sheriff Jake Miller's "Operation Coverup" is underway at Playalinda Beach, the popular nudist sunbathing spot, and a Michigan tourist became the first catch.

Michael Noats, 38, pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and Judge John Antoon assessed him $50 in court costs, but withheld adjudication of guilt, meaning he won't have a criminal record.

Miller pledged to eliminate nudity on Playalinda Beach after hundreds of nude bathers appeared there last month.

Lottery Supporters Launch Petition Drive

TALLAHASSEE — Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington and one of Florida's teachers' unions have begun collecting petition signatures in support of a constitutional amendment to create a state lottery.

Turlington and Pat Tornillo, president of the Florida Education Association-United, said that thus far they have collected just a handful of the 343,000 signatures they will need to place the lottery amendment before the voters — not to mention the extra 150,000 or so they hope to collect as a safety margin.

But Tornillo said his union members will begin the petition drive in earnest after a state conference next month.

Meanwhile, the pair conceded they can offer no guarantee the money the lottery would raise would be earmarked for education improvements.

But Turlington, who has grounded his support for a lottery on the need to improve Florida's public schools, colleges and universities, said the Legislature is currently predisposed to increase education funding and would use lottery profits to that end as a way to avoid increased taxes.

That's not a guarantee, Turlington said. "Nothing's guaranteed. But you must go on the basis of what you believe and hope the Legislature will carry out what we have as our fundamental intent."

Section "c" of the draft language of the amendment Turlington and Tornillo released Thursday calls for the creation of the "Florida Education Lotteries" and consigns the money to the "The State Education Lotteries Trust Fund."

But the section leaves to the Legislature full responsibility for spending the money — for education or for any other purpose.

The amendment also includes a section that would automatically jettison section "c" should the courts rule its inclusion would violate a constitutional requirement that all citizens initiatives pertain to one subject only. Should that happen, the amendment would simply remove the constitution's current prohibition of lotteries.

Moslem militiamen ringed the aircraft as a gunman still on board shouted to tower control over the cockpit radio: "Where are they now? Try and keep them away."

The march on the airport followed a mass rally called earlier by members of the fundamentalist Hezbollah Moslem group at a mosque near the airport complex.

The demonstration came a day after militiamen of the Shiite movement called Amal — Arabic for hope — allowed the world a brief glimpse of five of the 40 hostages from a hijacked TWA jet during a chaotic news conference at Beirut airport.

The TWA hostages, unshaven but wearing clean clothes, seemed calm Thursday as they reassured their families they were well.

They pleaded with President Reagan and Israel to end the crisis by freeing some 760 Lebanese Shittes imprisoned without charges in Israel, the key demand of two Shiite gunmen who seized the airliner with 153 people aboard over the Mediterranean last Friday.

Amal gunmen, one shaking a pistol in the air, angrily took the captives out of the room when a wild shouting match broke out among the estimated 150 journalists on hand. The Americans were brought back 15 minutes later and began speaking after a correspondent apologized for the melee.

"I want all of the countries involved here to hear our plea," said Allyn B. Conwell, 39, of Houston, explaining the hostages had named him a spokesman. "I want them to hear our prayers. Let's get out of here."

"We as a group do most importantly want to beseech President Reagan and our fellow Americans to refrain from any form of military or violent means as an attempt, no matter how noble or heroic, to secure our freedom," Conwell said.

"That would only cause, in our estimation, additional unneeded and unwarranted deaths among innocent people."

He urged Israel to release the Shittes, rounded up during Israel's occupation of southern Lebanon and held at the Attit prison near the port of Haifa.

"We understand that Israel is holding as hostage a number of Lebanese people who undoubtedly have as equal a right and as strong a desire to go home as we do," Conwell said.

A broadcast by Lebanon's private Voice of the Nation radio said another hostage might be released today, but Amal denied the report.

At Beirut airport, hijackers aboard the commandeered TWA jet opened fire at the terminal building, scattering a group of correspondents and cameramen who were trying to move closer to the plane.

"All right, we've had enough of those reporters who are trying to make scoops at our expense," one hijacker yelled through the cockpit radio. "I want all these tens of cameras directed at me to be removed. I want all the reporters there to get down as well."

Conwell said he had seen 37 hostages — including six with "Jewish-sounding names" who some reports said were held separately by an extremist Shiite faction — but had not been allowed to visit three crewmembers of Trans World Airlines Flight 847.

"We're all under a tremendous amount of strain and tension and concern," he said, calling the hostages "pawns in this tense game of nerves."

Israel has told the United States it would not consider freeing the prisoners its forces transferred from Lebanon to Israel April 2 unless Washington makes a formal request. The United States has refused, and State Department spokesman Bernard Kalb said Thursday that position had not changed.

Officials in Jerusalem said Thursday Israel may release some of its prisoners before the American captives were freed.

Amal leader Nabih Berri, Lebanon's justice minister, accepted a Swiss offer to mediate an exchange of the Americans in Beirut for the Shittes held by Israel. Other European governments also were reported ready to help.

Little progress was reported Thursday in mediation efforts headed in Beirut by Algerian Ambassador Abdel Karim Gharib.

"What is needed from America is to be less stubborn than Israel and make the minimal possible effort," said Berri, who announced Monday that the remaining passengers had been removed from the plane and placed in Amal's custody.

Berri warned earlier in the week that if there is no quick resolution to the hijacking and hostage-taking, he might hand the hostages back to the hijackers, believed to be members of the pro-Iranian Hezbollah faction.

"Based on experience, that is something I would find most unappealing," Conwell said at the airport news conference.

With Amal gunmen trying to keep order — some of them fighting for elbow room with photographers — journalists shouted questions at the Americans — Conwell, Thomas V.S. Cullins, 42, of Burlington, Vt., Peter W. Hill, 57, Hoffman of Estates, Ill.; Arthur Toga, 33, of St. Louis; and Vincente Garza Jr., 53, of Laredo, Texas.

"I don't know how long I'm going to be here," Toga said bleakly. "I feel very helpless because the wheels that are turning behind my back to facilitate our release are totally beyond my means."

Back in the United States, fear and tension turned to elation and hope Thursday for some of the families of the hostages.

Conwell's mother, Lola, was elated to see her son on television.

"He's very calm and cool and collected and as we can see from these pictures — under pressure he maintains it," she told CBS news. "So I'm proud of him."

Among those speaking at the news conference was Arthur Toga, a research assistant professor in St. Louis.

"I miss my wife very much," he said, on the verge of tears. "I want to go home. I'm healthy. I'm being taken care of."

Dr. William Landau, director of the neurology department at Washington University School of Medicine, where Toga works, said: "We're pleased that he is alive and well."

Richard Ellerbrake, president of Deaconess Hospital where Toga's wife, Debra, works, said: "I think it's super. It seems like a good sign. That he was seen just seems like a positive sign."

Jorge Garza, 52, of Laredo, Texas, said the family was thrilled to hear his brother, Vincente Garza, 53, address the news conference.

Vincente Garza, also of Laredo, said he was well, as was his son-in-law, Robert Trautman Jr., 37, and asked his family to pray for him.

"It was tremendous to see Vicente and to hear his voice," Jorge Garza said. "It gave the family a lot of hope."

OSLO, Norway (UPI) — A Norwegian gunman hijacked a Norwegian domestic flight with 119 passengers aboard today, police said.

The man pointed a gun at a flight attendant and demanded to speak to Minister of Justice Mona Rokke.

The Braathe Safe flight was enroute from Trondheim to Oslo when it was commandeered. It continued to Fornebu airport outside the Norwegian capital after being hijacked.

Police anti-terrorist forces were dispatched to the airport.

He said a study by Watson and the Seminole County Commission showed that the jail could house about 1,100 inmates by the year 2,000.

Bids for construction of the project have already been received by the Seminole County Commission, which is expected to select a contractor July 9. Nederhoff said before the meeting that the cost of the project would be between $10.8 million and $12 million, which is about 10 percent less than expected. Based on those figures, the jail will cost about $10,698 per bed, he said.

"It will be very cost effective for the community," he said.

The jail will be paid for with revenues from a one cent increase in the sales tax Seminole County voters approved in November.

Once the contractor is selected, construction is expected to begin within 10 days, Nederhoff said. The project will take two years to complete.

Among the projects the commission discussed for that $4 million in revenues are:

- Widening of Sanford Avenue from Cardinal Industries north to Airport Boulevard and the construction of a sidewalk on the same stretch.

- Planning, right-of-way acquisition and construction of the Lake Mary Boulevard Extension from U.S. Highway 17-92 to Sanford Avenue.

- Planning, right-of-way acquisition and design for four-laning Lake Mary Boulevard from Rinehart Road to Country Club Road.

Mrs. Glenn asked Sellers also to look at cost estimates for improving county Road 427 from Charlotte Street to state Road 434 in Longwood.

Hooper said he will also bring back to the commission alternatives for using the gas tax receipts, ranging from saving the money to do sections of roadway at a time or floating a bond issue.

the register. Barnhill snatched a pistol from a paper bag he was carrying and said, "Don't force me to hurt you," according to court records. He then threatened to blow her brains out, she said.

When she still didn't hand over the cash as ordered, Barnhill leaned across the counter reaching towards the open cash drawer. Mrs. Entzminger slammed the drawer shut. Barnhill then rushed behind the counter and commanded her to lie on the floor. When she refused, he clouted her over the head twice with a pistol and fled from the store with the accomplice.

As he ran away, Mrs. Entzminger still clutched the $60 in her hand.

Mrs. Entzminger said she had a premonition that the store would be robbed but she felt it would occur during the time of day the cash registers are emptied, not 5 p.m. in the afternoon.

She has since changed jobs and is now a secretary.

"They say a third time is a charm," she said, thinking of having been robbed twice, "and I didn't want to be a charm."

The accomplice, who Mrs. Entzminger said may have given authorities information about Barnhill, was not prosecuted.

Preps Initiate Florida-Georgia Clash Saturday

ORLANDO (UPI) — One day after the Renegades conclude their inaugural USFL season, a couple of talented high school football teams take over Orlando Stadium Saturday night for an all-star game that may attract 15,000 fans.

The top 35 senior high school football players from Florida and Georgia, as determined by the Athletic Coaches Association of each state, clash for the first time at 8 p.m. EDT. The game is sponsored by the Florida Citrus Sports Association, Inc., a non-profit organization that will contribute game proceeds to the Florida EIK's Harry Anna Crippled Children's Hospital in Umatilla.

"This game is good for high school football," says Wink Burnette, executive director of the Florida Athletic Coaches Association. "We've taken a big step with this. It's a way to highlight our athletes, who are among the best in the country."

A significant amount of tickets ($10 reserved or $7 general admission) are expected to be sold on the day of the game and almost 15,000 tickets have already been bought by fans anxious for a preview at tomorrow's college football stars. Some of the best freshman talent in the Southeastern Conference will be on display in the NCAA-sanctioned interstate game.

Gene Cox of Tallahassee's Leon High School will coach the Florida squad and his quarterback, Moses Collins, won't have much trouble learning the Cox offensive scheme. Collins, who is headed for Tennessee, was Cox's quarterback at Leon H.S. and he completed 81-of-158 passes as a senior for 1,408 yards and 20 touchdowns.

Another two talented performers on the Florida attack are running back Eric Sorey and wide receiver Michael Timpson. Sorey, who has chosen Southern Mississippi after a brilliant career at Graceville H.S., ran for 1,290 yards and 16 TDs last year despite missing 2 1/2 games due to injuries. Timpson starred in football at Hialeah's Miami Lakes High, also setting state track records in the 120- and 330-yard hurdles, the 220 and the long jump. The 5-11, 175-pound greyhound will play at Penn State this fall.

Football

"Our passing game has progressed very well since we arrived here June 13," says Cox. "These players are finally getting their legs back under them and our linemen have been picking up the protection real well."

Don't feel sorry for Valdosta

High's Nick Hyder, the coach of the Georgia team. Hyder also has his own quarterback, Berke Holtzclaw, who is headed for Eastern Carolina.

"Florida's size and speed are my greatest concerns," says Hyder, noting Florida's huge offensive linemen. "I'm very proud of the attitude and cooperation of the players and coaches in adapting my game plan. We have our hands full, but I think we'll play a game we'll all be proud to see."

One of those gigantic linemen is Altamonte Springs Lake Brantley's Curt Mull, a 6-6, 295-pound center who will play for the Georgia Bulldogs this fall. Mull was one of the most-recruited seniors in the South and is expected to open the holes for Apopka's talented running back Sammie Smith. Smith, along with teammate tackle Anthony Williams, are headed for Florida State.

Ball Motor Line catcher Kevin Nalhan throws out a runner at third as Leonard Richardson ducks out of the way. Ball topped Kiwanis to win the City Series.

Ball Motor Line Breezes To Title

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

The two teams suited up, went through pre game warmups and played seven innings of baseball Thursday night at Chase Park. But, for all intents and purposes, the Sanford Junior League City Series was already over.

Ball Motor Line and 4-foot-5 inch second baseman B.J. Osborne had seen to that Wednesday night. Osborne's single in the bottom of the sixth inning broke a 6-6 tie and ignited Ball Motor Line to a 9-6 win over Kiwanis in the opening game.

As it turned out, Osborne's hit was the single most important one of the series. For Thursday night's second game, Ball Motor Line had ace pitcher Ronald Cox while Kiwanis was weak in the pitching department after using Sammy Edwards on Wednesday and with Bernard Mitchell unable to throw because of bone chips in his right elbow.

So, Kiwanis, the defending champions, had to go with Oscar Edwards who had pitched just one time previously. Ball Motor Line erupted for seven runs in the second inning and never looked back en route to a 17-4 victory and the Junior League championship at Chase Park.

"I knew we had them (Kiwanis) down tonight," Ball Motor Line manager Jim Lucas said. "Last night was the backbreaker for them. I figured with Ronald (Cox) going, we could get to them early tonight."

It was the first championship for Ball Motor Line which has been in the league for three years and struggled the first two. Kiwanis won the title in 1982, then against last year before finishing second this season.

"Ball Motor Line was definitely the better team," Kiwanis coach Jesse Bell said. "They made less mistakes, hit the ball better and played more aggressively. But, even though we only had nine players, I was glad we could come back to defend our title."

While Cox was blowing Kiwanis away with his fastball and dipping curveball in the early innings, Ball Motor Line jumped out to a big lead early with seven runs in the second inning and four more in third.

The second-inning rally was spearheaded by Jimbo Lucas' two-run single. It started when Burnett Washington led off with a walk, stole second, took third on when Edwards balked and scored on Jay Adecock's sacrifice fly to center. Leonard Williams and Troy Rollins both followed with walks but Williams was thrown out trying to steal third for the second out.

Kiwanis was within one out of getting out of the inning with only one run scored. But a pair of passed balls enabled Rollins to scout home and Osborne waited out a walk. Leadoff hitter Kevin Nathan then stepped up and slapped a triple to drive in Osborne for a 3-0 lead.

John Hendricks followed with a walk and Lucas, who drove in five runs in the game, then drilled a single to center to chase home Nathan and Hendricks for a 5-0 cushion. Lucas went to second on a wild pitch and scored when Cox reached on a two-base error. Cox stole third and Washington then walked for the second time in the inning. Cox scored when Washington stole second to make it 7-0.

Cox, a strong righthander, had a no-hitter going through three innings as he struck out six of the 11 batters he faced.

Ball Motor Line upped its lead to 11-0 with four runs in the third on just one hit. Williams walked to leadoff the inning, stole second and went to third on an errant pickoff attempt. Rollins and Osborne drew consecutive walks to load the bases and Nathan followed with a two-run single to left center. Osborne then stole third and scored when Lucas hit into a force play.

Ball Motor padded its cushion with three more runs in the top of the fourth. Osborne drove in the first run when he hit into a force play. Lucas drove in a run on a bases loaded walk and Cox

Merthie Hits 24 Points But Locals Lose, 91-90

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

ORLANDO — Willie Richardson was upset that his team blew a 19-point lead. Joe Piggotte Jr. was disappointed in the officiating. But neither coach could find anything wrong with Darryl Merthie.

Merthie, a four-year starter at Lake Mary High School who is headed for Daytona Beach Community College, poured in 24 points and turned in a fine floor game but it wasn't enough as the Seminole-Volusia-Lake All-Stars lost a 91-90 overtime decision to Orange in a Florida Athletic Coaches Association District 7 County All-Star game Thursday night at Valencia Community College before a large throng of 1,500.

"We had a big lead and then they threw that trap at us and we couldn't handle it," said Richardson, whose team lead, 42-33, at halftime. "We should have won the thing in regulation."

Piggotte agreed. "Yeah, we gave that one away," he said. "But it was an All-Star game. We were playing all our guys equal time."

Piggotte said his team ran into some All-Star game officiating, too. "A couple of times the officials just changed the whole flow of the game with their calls," Piggotte said. "When I asked one guy about it, he said, 'It's an All-Star game, we got to keep it close.'"

Baseball

It was close all right. Edgewater guard Eugene Farley laid in a missed shot with 18 seconds to play to put the Orange up, 91-90. The Seminole-Volusia-Lake group had a chance to win it with two seconds left but Seminole's Kenny Gordon missed a jumper from the wing. There was no time for a followup.

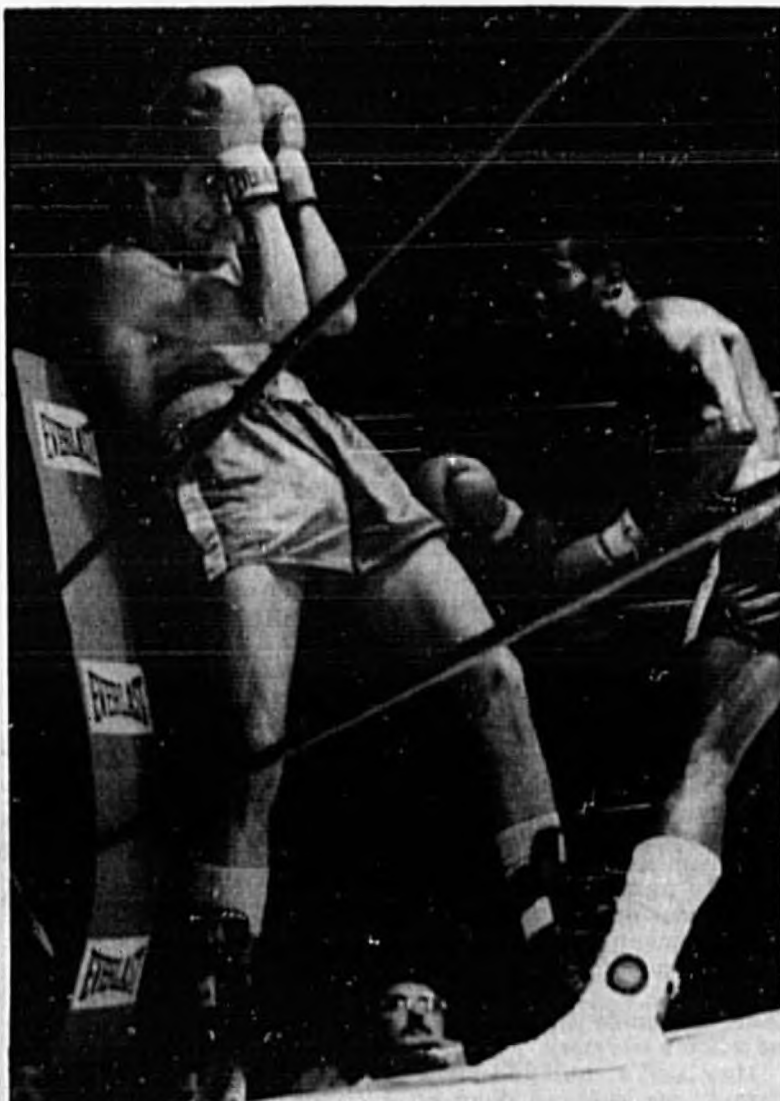

Richardson and Piggotte cited Merthie, Edgewater's Darius Gallagher and Jones' James Morris for outstanding efforts. Gallagher and Morris will play for Bill Payne at Seminole Community College this winter.

Merthie's 24 points topped all scorers while Morris was next with 23. Gallagher chipped in 12 while Farley had 14. Oak Ridge's Everette Calloway totaled 18 points. Gordon finished with 15 points. DeLand's Randy Anderson added 12 while teammate Marques Johnson had 11. Lake Howell's Efram Brooks finished with 10 and Seminole's James Rouse had a bucket.

"Darryl showed them he could play," said Richardson. "I think he's just one year away from playing with the big boys. He can do a lot of things."

Merthie, too, was satisfied with his game. "That's one of the best

21 Walks Trip Expos In 10-9 Loss To Eustis

ROLLING HILLS — When Altamonte Expos' pitchers got the ball over the plate Thursday, they were almost unhittable. When is the key word in this case.

Four Altamonte pitchers combined for a one-hitter, but walked a total of 21 Thursday night and it was too much for the Expos to overcome as they dropped a 10-9 decision to Rolling Hills in District 14 Junior Top Team Tournament action.

The Expos go up against Rolling Hills again tonight at 7:30 at Rolling Hills for the division title. Altamonte manager Kelly Wainscott said pitching shouldn't be a problem tonight as he has his top two hurlers, Curt Prom and Kent Brubaker, available.

Because both Brubaker and Prom pitched Monday night, neither could throw Thursday night. So Wainscott had to go with Ricky Sheiman who he said has been sick all week.

Sheiman blanked Rolling Hills for three innings but ran into control problems in the fourth as Rolling Hills picked up two runs to take a 2-1 lead.

Altamonte came back with five runs in the top of the fifth for a 6-2 lead with Alex Sisser's bases-load triple leading the way.

Sheiman couldn't get his control back in the bottom of the frame and Pat Battle came on in relief. Battle, too, couldn't locate the strike zone and he was removed in the same inning. Danny Hendricks then came on to pitch and got out of the inning but not before Rolling Hills had scored six times for a 6-6 lead.

The Expos, who had eight hits in the game, responded with three runs in the top of the sixth for a 9-6 lead but Hendricks gave up one run in the bottom of the inning to tie it at 9-9. Rolling Hills got out of the top of the seventh with the score still tied. After Hendricks walked the first two hitters of the bottom of the seventh, Kevin Wainscott, who hadn't pitched all season, went on in relief. After a fielder's choice loaded the bases Rolling Hills broke the tie on a bases-load walk.

"We didn't have any pitchers who could handle it," Wainscott said. "Most of it was on walks and they had a couple good squeeze plays. They (Rolling Hills) only hit one ball out of the infield that was their only hit."

"The pitchers just couldn't get the ball over the plate."

For Altamonte, Wainscott rapped a double and single and scored twice, Hendricks was 2 for 5 and Prom slugged a two-run triple.

Hoyt Survives Giants For 7th Straight

United Press International
Given a fresh outlook with a new team in a new league, LaMarr Hoyt is pitching like the Cy Young Award winner of old.
At least he's getting the victories. Hoyt won his seventh straight Thursday as the San Diego Padres defeated the San Francisco Giants 6-5 at Jack Murphy Stadium.
Hoyt, 9-4, won the Cy Young award in 1983 as a member of the Chicago White Sox. He was 24-10 that year, but in 1984 the 6-foot-2, 244-pounder dropped to 13-18.
In the off-season the White Sox traded Hoyt to the Padres along with two minor league players for pitchers Tim Lollar and Bill Long and infielders Luis Salazar and Ozzie Guillen.
The 30-year-old right-hander Thursday allowed nine hits against the Giants, two of them homers to Jeff Leonard, but struck out six and walked only one.
"He threw maybe about six hangers with his breaking ball," said San Diego manager Dick Williams, "but he kept it all but two of them in the park. If you can win those kind of games, you're doing good."
Rich Gossage pitched the ninth to pick up his 15th save.
Terry Kennedy, who had homered earlier in the game off Mike Krukow, belted a two-run double off losing pitcher Mark Davis that capped a three-run, eighth inning to give Hoyt the victory.
Kennedy was 0-6 for 1985 against Davis, 3-4, before his game-winning double.

N.L. Baseball

Williams said benching Kennedy in a clutch situation, even against Davis, was unthinkable.
"Terry hadn't had a hit off Davis in 16 at-bats, but he's my hitter and he's my leading RBI man," Williams said. "I'm not going to pinch hit for him. There's no way I'll do that."
"If I ever take Kennedy, (Steve) Garvey or (Tony) Gwynn out for a pinch-hitter, you better have me psychoanalyzed."
Mets 5, Cubs 3
At New York, George Foster hit his 12th career grand slam and Sid Fernandez, 2-4, struck out a personal-best 10 to lead New York to a four-game sweep of the Cubs. The loss was Chicago's ninth straight. Roger McDowell earned his fourth save. Chicago starter Ray Fontenot, 1-3, lasted four innings.
Astros 2, Braves 0
At Atlanta, Phil Garner blasted a two-run homer in the eighth inning and Bob Knepper hurled a six-inning over 8-2-3 innings to lead the Astros. Knepper improved to 7-3. Dave Smith got the last out for his 12th save. Rick Mahler slipped to 10-6.
Pirates 2, Expos 1
At Montreal, Rick Rhoden helped his own cause by banging out two hits and driving home the winning

Sills Posts 9 Birdies, Holds 1-Stroke Edge

ATLANTA (UPI) — Tony Sills is happy that he's playing pro golf at all, so you can imagine how he feels about leading a $500,000 tournament.
Sills underwent five colon operations between 1974 and 1983 — that and failing six times to qualify for his Tour card raised serious doubts about the 29-year-old Californian's future as a golfer.
But Sills, who finally got his card two and a half years ago, says he's "in good health now." He certainly indicated so Thursday when he posted nine birdies en route to a 7-under-par 65 and a one-stroke lead over Fuzzy Zoeller in the opening round of the Atlanta Classic.
Sills, who wound up fourth after being tied for the lead going into the third and final round of this year's rain-shortened New Orleans tournament, doesn't want to get too excited about his position.
"The first round is too early in the tournament to think about winning," he said. "But, believe me, I want to win. That you can count on. I've won on the mini-tour and smaller tournaments — but never on the Tour."
Sills won 31 amateur titles as a teenager and was preparing to turn pro when he first ran into his medical problems. His weight dropped to 100 pounds and his doctors were afraid surgery might be fatal.
But even with his ailment and the many futile attempts to qualify, Sills said he never lost hope.
"All through those years, I was living on a dream," he said. "Playing on Tour was something I was going to do. Now I know dreams do come true."
Sills started Thursday with three straight birdies and took the lead from earlier-finishing Zoeller by placing his approach shot on the final hole less than two feet from the cup.
Par took a beating Thursday over the 7,000-yard Atlanta Country Club course with 32 rounds in the 60s. Sixty-six of the 156 golfers broke par — quite a contrast to last week's U.S. Open where only winner

Golf

Andy North, who isn't playing here, was under par for 72 holes.
"Tim Simpson, Mac O'Grady, Larry Rinker, Steve Pate, David Lundstrom and Bill Bergin — a local golfer who closed with an eagle — were all at 5-under 67. And eight at 68 included U.S. Open runnerup Tze-Chung Chen of Taiwan, the Classic's defending champion Tom Kite and Ray Floyd.
"You'd better believe there's a difference between this course and the one we played on for the Open," said Zoeller, who had six birdies and no bogeys for his 66. "Last week, you could hit 10-12 good iron shots into the green but only have two legitimate putts for birdies. Here, you're rewarded for good shots."
PALMER LEADS SENIORS
CLEVELAND (UPI) — Aside from his legendary golfing exploits, Arnold Palmer is a familiar face on television from those commercials he does for a tractor manufacturer.
Until recently, he felt like he had been run over by the product he endorses.
"I had all these aches and pains all over," he said. "So, I took two weeks off in May — didn't play any golf — and had a complete physical.
"My doctor told me I was fine. It was just stress. I'm mentally tired, but there's nothing physically wrong with me."
Indeed, Defending champion Palmer, overcoming erratic putting, shot a 5-under-par 67 for a one-shot lead over Don January after Thursday's first round of the $250,000 Senior Tournament Players Championship.
Palmer, 55, had a 33-34 on the 6,615-yard Canterbury Golf Club course as he carded six birdies and one bogey.
"It was a good round," he said. "It could've been a great round, but I'll settle for a 67."
In the second round (today), scores may be better because the fairways are drying out. Look for January and some others to take advantage of better conditions.

IN BRIEF

Badger, Altiero Drive In 6 Runs As Kherdan Romps, 11-2

Daryl Badger and Jeff Altiero drove in three runs each as DeLand's Kherdan Stallions ripped the Florida Baseball School, 11-2, Thursday night in Buddy Lake League baseball at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

In the second game, DeLand's Boulevard Tire hammered New Smyrna Beach's Tri-City Merchants, 17-6. Boulevard is unbeaten in eight games.

In second-place Kherdan's win, Kevin Waslewski tossed a three-hitter and struck out seven. Badger, who played at SCC, ripped a pair of doubles. Altiero had two doubles and a single.

Mark Humain had two hits for FSS. Kirk Leff was the losing pitcher.

In the Boulevard win, former DeLand High ace Kevin Rood struck out nine and allowed just five hits. Jeff Adkins was the loser.

Al Johnson homered and doubled to drive in three runs for the winners. Jeff Spina had three singles and drove in a run. Jeff Kraft drilled a pair of doubles and accounted for two RBI.

In Saturday's games: Orlando plays FBS at 12:30 p.m.; Boulevard takes on FBS at 3 p.m.; and Kherdan meets Orlando at 5:30 p.m.

Bandits Get Paychecks Late

TAMPA (UPI) — Tampa Bay Bandits players were scheduled to receive their pay checks today — three days behind schedule. The Tampa Tribune reported in today's editions.

The Tribune said about 90 percent of the players are supposed to be paid every Tuesday, but were told by Coach Steve Spurrier that day they would not be paid on time.

"They were good and very gracious about it," said Abelardo Sierra, assistant director of business operations for the USFL club. "We have always been up-front with our players."

Sierra told The Tribune the delay occurred because it "took longer than normal" to collect funds owed the organization.

He said the money to pay the players was deposited in a bank Thursday but the players had dispersed after practice and would be paid today.

'Canes Magno Returns To Miami

MIAMI (UPI) — It was quite a shock when University of Miami catcher Chris Magno found out that instead of calling pitches in the final game of the College World Series, he would be in a hospital bed with a blood clot in his right arm.

Magno had noticed that his right arm was swelling and that it affected his throwing, but thought nothing was seriously wrong and went to the hospital June 11 to appease his mother.

"I went to the doctor really to get an OK to play," he said Thursday. "When I found out I couldn't play, I got all choked up. I knew I wasn't going to play in the championship game."

Winter Haven Sweeps Osceola

The Winter Haven Red Sox turned the tables on the Osceola Astros by sweeping a double-header (6-3, 6-2) from their hosts Thursday night at Osceola County Stadium. The Astros had swept the Red Sox Wednesday at Winter Haven.

The double loss dropped the Osceola lead to five games in the Florida State League's Central Division. Osceola travels to Lakeland tonight.

Bob Parker had a single in six at-bats for the twinbill. In Southern League baseball Thursday, the Orlando Twins the Jacksonville Suns were rained out. The teams will play a single game tonight at 7:30 at Tinker Field in Orlando.

Sanford Softballers Go To State

The Sanford Junior and Lassaie League softball all-star teams will compete in the Florida Recreation Softball Association State Tournament this weekend in Davenport, near Haines City.

Both teams will start the double-elimination tournament at the same time, Saturday morning at 9:30. On field two, the Lassaie League stars (12 and under) go up against Leesburg with the winner advancing to a 12:30 p.m. game against Northwest Volusia.

At the same time, one field three, the Junior all-stars (13-15) take on host Haines City. The winner of that game plays Leesburg at 11 a.m.

USFL's Suit Moved To Tampa

TAMPA (UPI) — The United States Football League's dispute with ABC Sports about television revenue has been moved to a Florida court.

The USFL dropped its federal court suit against ABC Sports in New York Thursday and refiled it in Hillsborough County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed by a law firm that includes Steve Arky, a general partner with John Bassett in the ownership of the Tampa Bay Bandits. It claims ABC has renege on its contract and had damaged the USFL and its members by its attitude and actions.

Express Limpers Into Orlando

ORLANDO (UPI) — The Los Angeles Express will limp into Orlando with only 36 players, the worst record in the USFL and seven straight losses for Friday night's contest with the Renegades.

Sounds like a team ripe for a thrashing, right? "No," says Renegades head coach Lee Corso.

With multimillion-dollar quarterback Steve Young again calling the signals, Corso says the Renegades defense, which has allowed 474 points, most in the league, will have its hands full during the contest between the USFL's two worst teams.

"Now, for the first time all year, Young is well and the entire team is basically healthy," Corso said Wednesday. "And when they're like that, they're one of the best teams in the league by far," he said.

"I'm worried about their speed," Corso said. "With his (Young's) scrambling ability and the receivers' speed, that has really got us worried."

Allen's Double Nips Altamonte Jinx For Angels

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

OVIDEO — The Oviedo Angels may feel they are being ganged up on by Altamonte Springs. Monday night, the Angels dropped a one-run ballgame to the Altamonte American Tigers in eight innings. Thursday night, Oviedo went up against the Altamonte National Astros and it took nine innings to decide the outcome.

After the Astros scored twice in the top of the ninth, it appeared the Angels would go down in defeat to another Altamonte team. But Dana Allen cracked a two-run double and scored the winning run on a passed ball as Oviedo came away with a 6-5 victory in District 14 Top Team Tournament action at the Oviedo Little League complex.

The Angels now get another crack at the Altamonte Tigers for the division title tonight at 7:30 on Altamonte's home turf, Eastmonte Field. A second game, if necessary, will be played Saturday night at Altamonte. David Blanton will be on the mound for Oviedo while the Tigers will go with Chris Jackson or Kevin Morro.

Thursday night's game was a pitching duel between Altamonte's Andy Spolski and Oviedo's Marvin "Bubba" Fore most of the way. But, both teams managed to string together their few hits at the most opportune times.

After two scoreless innings, Altamonte erupted for three runs on three hits in the top of the third. With one out, Rich Schou singled and Mark Pleicones followed with a walk. Chris Pleicones then hit into a force play with Schou out at third.

That brought up Spolski, in two times at bat Wednesday night. Spolski slugged a pair of homers and drove in five runs as the Astros upended Eustis, 6-5. Spolski continued to swing the hot bat for the Astros Thursday as he ripped Fore for a double that brought in the Pleicones brothers for a 2-0 lead. Dave Robison followed with a single to drive in Spolski to make it 3-0. Robison, who took second on the throw home, was cut down trying to steal third for the third out.

Altamonte's only other threat in the first seven innings came in the top of the fifth when Spolski doubled but he was thrown out trying to stretch it into a triple.

NCAA Plans Drug Tests By '86

NEW ORLEANS, La. (UPI) — Vowing "we're for real and we mean business," the chairman of a special NCAA committee says a widespread drug-testing plan for intercollegiate athletics will likely be implemented by August 1986.

John Toner, head of the Special NCAA Committee for National Drug Testing Policy, held a news conference Thursday during the NCAA's special convention addressing the integrity problems of intercollegiate sports to reveal the results of a study into drug abuse and collegiate sports.

"I've been around long enough to never count on approval, but I think we'll come up with an acceptable plan for the NCAA," Toner said.

"It's inevitable intercollegiate sports will have drug-testing at some point. If we do our job well, the plan will be in effect by the 1986-87 season. We're sending out a message to the student-athlete that we're for real and we mean business."

At the 1985 NCAA national convention in Nashville, Tenn., a resolution to ban the use of certain drugs and plans for a corresponding drug-testing procedure was removed from the floor and referred back to the NCAA Council.

Unlike that proposal — which did not include street drugs on its list of banned chemicals — Toner's committee is recommending a complex, costly plan for drug testing in all championship competition on the Division I level, with Divisions II and III being tested in only two or three championship events.

"We feel drug-testing should include not

Football

It's true that the Express, 3-14, made the playoffs last year and have been decimated by injuries this season. But Express coach John Hadl says the Renegades, 4-13, have little to fear from his team.

"We lost all our speed people" to injuries, he said. "We're not going to outrun people, that's for sure."

Hadl said the Express is most concerned about containing Orlando quarterback Reggie Collier.

"Hopefully, he's going to have a bad night," Hadl said. "The guy is a great player and a great athlete and he truly can make things happen to win ball games."

Corso said he has been stressing fundamentals in practice this week.

"I know that sounds crazy, but after 20 weeks we're concentrating on the basic fundamentals because that's where you win," he said.

Typical of late-season matchups of non-playoff teams, both coaches said their squads were playing for "pride."

"We're fighting to not be in the cellar by ourselves," Hadl said. "After last year, we had big plans for this year, but everything's sort of gone down the drain. We're playing for pride."

"The players are ready to go," Corso said. "They're all juiced up."

This could be the last contest for the financially ailing Express. Some rumors have the Express being disbanded July 1. The Renegades, meanwhile, are looking forward to next season, Corso said.

"We're kind of disappointed we didn't have a better season, but it hasn't totally been without some great moments," Corso said. "We know exactly what we have to do next year to improve our team."

Spolski had the Angels mystified through four innings but the Angels solved the Altamonte ace for three runs in the bottom of the fifth.

With one out Jody Spencer walked and Chet Tulp followed with a single. An error on he play moved the runners up and Brian Hart then singled in Spencer and Tulp to pull Oviedo within 3-2. David Blanton followed with a single and, with two outs, Allen singled in Hart to tie it at 3-3.

Neither team scored in the sixth or seventh innings and the game went into extra frames. Both pitchers sailed through the eighth inning and it remained tied at 3-3.

In the top of the ninth, with one out, Schou singled, Mark Pleicones reached on an E-6 and, with two outs, Spolski walked to load the bases. Schou then scored on a wild pitch for a 4-3 Altamonte lead and Pleicones made it 5-3 when he scored on a passed ball.

Oviedo wasn't content with giving the game away and came back strong in the bottom of the ninth. Spolski showed signs of wear in the ninth as he walked Tulp, Hart and Blanton to load the bases with no outs. Jacobs then hit one back to the mound and Spolski forced Tulp at home for the first out. Allen then stepped up and smacked a double that scored Hart and Blanton to tie the score at 5-5. Jacobs, who took third on the throw home, scored on passed ball to end the game.

Both Altamonte and Oviedo had five hits in the game and both pitchers went the distance. The walks and strikeouts numbers were also the same as Fore and Spolski each fanned 14 and walked six.

only performance-enhancing chemicals, but street drugs as well to ensure a clean and fair competitive championship," Toner said.

"We want to prevent non-users from feeling forced to use drugs just to remain competitive. I think it's safe to say that of the list of banned drugs, some are in use in every athletic program."

The committee is recommending on-site testing at the start of a championship competition or at the championship's conclusion; the depth of testing varies with the sport.

"In the sport of football, we feel it's possible to test all the teams involved prior to the championships (bowl games)," Toner said. "In men's and women's basketball, with 64 teams in Division I tournaments, we consider testing there an impossibility because of the time factor — you just couldn't get it done."

"We would then test following one of the early rounds to guarantee a clean final championship. As far as expense is concerned, to cover all the overrides it would cost about $200 per test."

Toner estimated a cost of $500,000-600,000 to implement the plan the first year. The target date is Aug. 1, 1986.

"We feel the use of an enhanced performance drug is an unfair advantage and there should be a sanction of ineligibility involved," Toner said.

Oviedo's Fake Squeeze Puts Clamp On Win

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

The suicide squeeze is one of the most exciting productions in baseball. It includes all the essentials — a speeding runner from third, the surprise of the batter squaring up and the mystery of where the pitcher will throw the ball.

Eustis, Oviedo's opponent in Thursday night's District 14 Top Team Tournament, had witnessed manager David Austin's Orioles pull off the difficult maneuver three times in early tournament games. That way Austin looked at it, Eustis was ripe for a different kind of squeeze.

The squeeze which isn't a squeeze.

With the bases loaded and the Orioles trailing by a 4-3 count, R.D. Pellarin squared up to face the pitcher and slide his hand down the bat. At the last moment, however, he jumped back into his stance and swung away.

The result: A base hit up the middle which chased home two runs to lift Oviedo to a 5-4 victory and force a winner-take-all game tonight at 7:30 against Eustis at the Oviedo Little League complex.

"You're either hero or goat when you try something like that," said Austin about his element of surprise. "We figured if we could get their fielders moving around, we'd be able to score two runs on the the play instead of one."

"Luckily for us we were heroes and not goats tonight."

Lucky, too, the Orioles had gritty right-hander Richard Cobb on the mound. Cobb, who relies on a submarine-type delivery, checks Eustis on seven hits, struck out 10 and didn't walk a man.

"Richard really wanted it," said Austin. "He pitched a tremendous game. He had trouble in the fourth when they got three runs because he hung three straight curveballs. After he got his pitches down, he was in control."

Oviedo, which will send hard-throwing right-hander Alan Greene tonight, pushed across three runs in the second inning. Gary Gotwalt and Pellarin opened the frame with walks and Ron Fahy moved them up with a sacrifice bunt. Bobby Wyatt followed with a smash to left for a double to chase home both runners.

Wyatt was caught trying to advance on Cedric Watson's groundball for the second out but Watson set up the third run when he stole second and moved to third on a wild pitch. Micah Kinnaird followed with a clutch rap to left for a 3-0 lead.

Eustis pounced on Cobb for three runs in the fourth and when it scored one more in the sixth, the Orioles were running out of chances with just two innings to go.

Then came the sixth and the squeeze which wasn't a squeeze. Greene slugged a triple to right center to start the inning. Poochie King reached on an infield hit but Greene had to hold. Gotwalt then was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Pellarin was next and after the fake he rifled a double just to the left of the second base bag. The center fielder was playing toward right center which allowed Pellarin to take an extra base and the Orioles to pull out the thrilling 5-4 victory.

Greene and the sure-handed Pellarin took the starch out of any Eustis comeback thoughts in the seventh. The leadoff hitter drilled a shot off Fahy's glove at third base. The ball bounded toward Greene at shortstop, who gloved it and rifled a throw to Pellarin, who dug it out of the dirt for the first out.

Cobb nailed it down by taking care of the final two batters via strikeouts.

"It was an incredible game," gushed Austin who said the crowd of over 400 fans aided his team. "There were a lot of emotional highs and lows. We're just happy to be playing again tonight."

One probably can't say the same for Eustis.

knocked home a run on a sacrifice fly.

Kiwantis got on the scoreboard and broke up the no-hitter in the bottom of the fourth. Leonard Richardson got aboard on a two-base error and scored on Mitchell's single up the middle. Mitchell had two of Kiwantis' six hits in the game and drove in two runs.

"I think it could have been a closer game if Bernard (Mitchell) was able to pitch," Bell said. "But last night's (Wednesday) game was the most important. That's the one we needed to pull out."

For the game, Cox allowed six hits, struck out 12 and walked four. Ball Motor Line had just five hits in the game but took advantage of seven Kiwantis errors and 16 walks. Lucas' five RBIs led the way while Nathan drove in three runs and Osborne drove in two. Osborne, who also stole three bases and scored three times, was the choice in the press box for the mythical Most Valuable Player award.

Ball Motor Line finished with the best overall record in the league at 14-4 but a late first-half slump kept it from sweeping the league title without a playoff.

"We had some head problems earlier in the season," Lucas said. "There was no doubt we had the most outstanding team. We played very basic baseball. We did nothing fancy. And, the way we were scoring runs the second half, it would have taken 10 runs or better to beat us."

"Like coach says, we had some little head problems the first half," Ball shortstop Hendricks said. "But we got it straightened out the second half and proved we were the best team."

points. Capers had several nice rejections.

Early in the fourth period, Hammonds and Ribault's Keith Showers thrilled the crowd with two devastating slams. The South, though, chipped away in the final two minutes and finally tied the score at 79-79 on a pair of buckets by Anthony Butler of Tampa Robinson.

Hammonds, though, drew a foul in the last eight seconds and when he converted both tosses, the North had a hard-fought two-point victory.

Along With Summer Comes A Common Nuisance—Bugs

Yes, summer is here! And, along with the humidity and high temperatures, suddenly we notice all kinds of "bugs." Perhaps, we should more properly refer to them as "insects." Whichever you prefer, they're still a nuisance!

Sowbugs and pillbugs are two that we will see more of this time of the year. They are a very common crustacea found in our area. They are about one-half-inch in length, slate gray, with body segments appearing as armored plates. Kind of a very miniature armadillo.

Both feed primarily on decaying organic material although they will on occasion damage the roots of green plants. Usually they are the out-doors-type of creature, but they will wander indoors where they do no damage.

How do you tell the difference between them? The sowbugs have two tail-like appendages and are incapable of rolling into a tight ball. Pillbugs or "rolly-pollies," lack the tails and can roll into a tight ball. Other than being a common nuisance, they really cause no damage. Control is simple — a broom and dustpan or a flyswatter. Large populations outdoors can be controlled with a number of different pesticides sprayed around foundations and crawl spaces.

Centipedes and millipedes are of other commonly seen creatures in yards and will occasionally enter homes. Neither damage furnishings, homes or food. Their only claim to fame is their ability to annoy or frighten you.

Normally, like the sowbugs and pillbugs, they feed on decaying vegetative material. They can climb foundation walls and enter your home through any small opening. Rather than picking them up, use the broom and dustpan control method. Outdoors control is the same as far as sowbugs and pillbugs.

Another creature you may run across is the earwig. They are beetle-like, fast moving, about one-half to one-inch in length, dark brown, and have a pincher-like appendage at the tip of the abdomen. They are active at night, but you may see them during the day when working around the garden. Earwigs are a beneficial insect in that they are harmless to man, but do feed on armyworms, aphids, mites, and scale insects.

The name earwig is derived from an old superstition that these insects enter peoples' ears. This idea is totally unfounded. But, it does make a good story. The most effective control for the errant earwig or two in the home is a flyswatter.

This is the time of year when you suddenly notice tiny beetles "bugging" you around the house, particularly in the kitchen area. There are many species of stored food pests found at various times in the pantry. Most are introduced into the kitchen in infested food, either loose or packaged. There is hardly a food item in the kitchen which can escape being infested by some pest if it remains unused and exposed in some dark corner or drawer long enough.

All items are susceptible, including spices, hot peppers, ice cream cones, and even so-called sealed containers, such as cereals, grits, and cake mixes. Dried flower arrangements and stuffed furniture and toys, though not foods, often harbor infestations.

Most of the stored food pests under Florida conditions can reproduce quickly and have several to many generations in a year. Some of the common pantry pests are flour beetles, saw-toothed grain beetles, cigarette beetles, drugstore beetles, larder beetles, granary weevils, rice weevils, spider beetles, grain moths, flour moths and grain mites. As you can see, there are many different kinds of insects that attack stored food. The damage they cause and the control methods are similar for all.

Large populations of these food pests may develop in unused or undisturbed food which are infested when purchased. Leaving a food package open and not tightly sealed after using can also lead to infestation. You'll know when you have a problem when you encounter flying or crawling adults coming from your cupboards. Moths and beetles are often attracted to light or windows, giving you an indication of an infestation. The presence of these pests is not an indication of uncleanliness since infestation may be brought home in package from the supermarket.

The first step in controlling these pests is to locate the source of infestation. Check your herbs and spices. Infested supplies should be discarded. Shelves and cabinets should be thoroughly vacuumed to pick up loose material, then washed with warm, soapy water. Aerosol sprays are helpful in controlling infestations and will offer effective residual control. Be careful when using sprays not to contaminate any food stuffs. Allow the spray to dry before restocking the shelves.

Get in the habit of saving those small, screw-top jars for storing your herbs and spices. Flour, cereals, and other grain foods can be stored in large gallon-size, screw-top sealable jars.

Happy gardening!

Campaign Coffers Filled By Oldster's Misguided Giving

DEAR ABBY: My sister is 91 years old and no longer sufficiently mentally competent to handle her financial affairs. She had some money in her checking and savings account, but during the last presidential campaign she wrote checks for close to $4,000 for various candidates. She received glowing letters thanking her for her last contribution and asking for more money. Abby, she thought these candidates were writing personal letters to her, so she sent them whatever they asked for. She was handing out checks left and right. Last January she became very ill, both mentally and physically. She had to give up her apartment and come and live with me and my husband. We are elderly ourselves and not in very good health. (We were recently appointed her legal guardians, but she has very little money left to "guard.")

I have all her canceled checks and the names and addresses of all candidates she gave money to. I wrote them, explaining the situation and demanding that they return her money. Not one of them has returned a dime!

Not only that, but she is being solicited by other politicians. I have written to them and asked them to take her off their lists, but they haven't. Instead the list is growing!

Do you have any suggestions on how we can get some of that money back?

FRUSTRATED IN PALM SPRINGS

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Your letters are probably being fed into a computer and answered by a processing machine. Save your postage. You stand about as much chance for a refund as a snowball in Palm Springs. Sorry.

DEAR ABBY: A while back you wrote that "bedroom eyes are in the eye of the beholder." I'm afraid that's not true.

Scientific American magazine even had a cover article in the early '70s documenting research that people with larger pupils are more "alluring." After all, only certain women (or men) are constantly told they have "bedroom eyes," while the rest of us can go a lifetime without ever hearing that comment.

As close as I can figure it, bedroom eyes have droopy lids, large pupils, bright whites, are generally blue and accompanied by darkness under the eyes.

EYE ADMIRER

DEAR EYE ADMIRER: Sorry, I don't buy the "scientific" research you cite. Most people see what they want to see and interpret it in their own way.

Actually, it's the expression in the eye — real or imagined — that makes for "bedroom eyes."

Summation: Nobody ever made a pass at a statue.

DEAR ABBY: Many years ago, my one and only love decided he should not marry me, so he told my father, "Your daughter is too good for me!"

Ever since then I have wondered if this was a cop-out, or if some men really feel they aren't good enough for the women they love.

I'd like your opinion.

STILL WONDERING

DEAR STILL: If a man tells a girl's father he isn't good enough for his daughter, all concerned should believe him. He knows himself better than anybody. And if it's a cop-out, that's further proof that he's neither good enough — nor brave enough.

Thyroid Scan Shouldn't Be Conducted On Kids

DEAR DR. GOTT — Because of an enlarged thyroid gland a radioactive iodine test was given to my 11-year-old daughter. I thought that this test should never be given to children. Can you tell me more about it?

DEAR READER — The radioactive iodine scan provides a picture that enables doctors to assess the uniformity and configuration of the thyroid gland. Depending on the administered dose, doctors can also determine if the thyroid is working properly.

Normally functioning thyroid tissue has an affinity for iodine. When radioactive iodine (isotope) is given in a drink, it is concentrated in this tissue. A few hours later, a technician can scan the neck with a radioactivity counter, and the trapped iodine "reflects" the state of the thyroid. Although the amount of radioactive energy (liberated into the gland itself) is significantly large, the wavelength is short and the isotope is excreted in a few days. The test is relatively free of hazard.

Even so, I would hesitate to use an isotope scan on a child. There would have to be compelling reasons — like the possibility of cancer — to justify using this test on any youngster.

I am very concerned about the misuse and overuse of radiation in children. X-ray examinations are too frequent. In exceptional cases, I suppose, thyroid scans are necessary but if I were you, I would grill the doctors — really give them the third degree — about why your daughter was given the test. I would also ask you to consider the reasons why you let them do it, when you understood it was potentially dangerous.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 30. Two years ago, my ovaries and uterus were removed. Since then I have been taking Provera and Premarin. The articles I have read say that these drugs reduce my chances of getting cervical cancer. Do they increase the risk of vaginal cancer?

DEAR READER — I have researched the medical literature extending back for the past five years and can find no study that addresses the relation of vaginal cancer to Provera-Premarin therapy. Although there may in fact be no risk, I suggest you question your gynecologist about the possibility. Yours is a good question for which I have no definitive answer.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My oldest son has a definite foot odor and we are now using PhisoHex scrub. How often each day should the scrub be done?

DEAR READER — PhisoHex is

not completely safe to use. The hexachlorophene can enter the body and cause illness. I suggest any other nonprescription bactericidal cleanser. Deodorant soaps may be surprisingly effective.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio 44101.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
After you have struggled with bridge for a while, you come to understand that there are a few "no-nos" out there to avoid. For example, you soon learn that you should not give a declarer a sluff and a ruff, since that enables him to get rid of one loser easily. But there are times when the alternative is worse.

East won the opening lead with the ace of spades and returned the 10, hoping that partner could ruff. Declarer won, drew three rounds of trumps and cashed a third spade.

Then he played to dummy's ace of diamonds and led a small diamond. East won the queen as South contributed the jack. Now what?

Because East was afraid to give declarer a sluff and a ruff by playing a diamond, he tried the king of clubs. He might as well have given declarer the key to the city. Dummy's ace took the club king and another club played back toward the South hand limited the defenders to one club trick. Four hearts making four was the unfortunate result.

Defender East can afford to give up a trick via a sluff and a ruff. What he cannot afford is to sacrifice the two sure tricks he has coming in the club suit.

It is right for him to play either a spade or the queen of diamonds, but on this deal he should never lead any card from his club holding.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JUNE 22, 1985

In the coming year your popularity will ascend and you will have greater influence over your peer group. Where you lead, they will follow.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In financial matters, let your conservative and prudent instincts prevail today. In fact, try not to spend any money unless it's essential. Trying to patch up a romance? LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Normally you treat your guests graciously, but today you might not be your usual cordial self and those you entertain may feel ill at ease.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's not in your nature to be stingy, yet today when socializing you may knowingly try to palm off your share of the tab on your pals.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your ambitions will be easily aroused today, but you may waste your efforts pursuing the wrong goals. Predetermine your objectives so you don't spin your wheels.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Suffering in silence won't help matters today. If others do things that disturb you, bring them out into the open so they can be resolved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It may prove unwise today to immerse yourself too deeply in the problems of a close friend. Instead of being able to help, you

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't worry about things today that may never happen. Instead, maintain a positive, hopeful attitude and direct your own destiny.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Collective guilt could spoil your day if you fail to take care of duties or responsibilities that you know need your attention.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extra cautious in your commercial dealings today. You might do business with an individual who may withhold vital facts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Strive to be cooperative today with people who cooperate with you. However, don't embarrass yourself by trying to patronize those who aren't.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be sure to show proper gratitude today to people who go out of their way to be helpful. If you don't say thanks, they won't be there when you need them again.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In important matters today, be prepared to fend for yourself. People usually at your beck and call may not be available.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extra cautious in your commercial dealings today. You might do business with an individual who may withhold vital facts.

Shiite Prisoners May Be Freed Before Americans

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Officials in Jerusalem say Israel may release some of its Lebanese Shiite Moslem prisoners before the TWA hijackers free their American hostages.

Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir vowed Thursday Israel will not react "to pressure from hijackers."

"We will continue to release Shiite detainees when the situation in southern Lebanon permits without any connection to the TWA hijacking," he said.

A source in Jerusalem said a lengthy hostage crisis would not delay Israeli plans for a staged release of some of the more than 700 Shiite detainees transferred from Lebanon to Israel in April.

Israel radio, quoting officials in Jerusalem, said Israel might free some of the Shites before the hijackers of TWA Flight 847 free their hostages.

Earlier Thursday, Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin urged the United States to "make up its mind" about asking Israel to free Shiite Moslem prisoners as demanded by the gunmen who hijacked the TWA jet.

The plane was seized last Friday by hijackers who demanded the release of the Shites being held in Israel. After shuttling between Algiers and Beirut, the plane finally landed Sunday in the Lebanese capital, where Shiite Moslem Amal militia leader Nabih Berri took responsibility for the 40 remaining hostages and defended the hijackers' demand that the prisoners be released.

The Shites were detained in southern Lebanon during Israel's three-year occupation of the region and were sent to Israel in April. The United States, United Nations and International Committee of the Red Cross protested the move, saying the Geneva Conventions prohibit such transfers.

Israel has said repeatedly it plans to release the Shites when security in southern Lebanon permits but has not said when that might be.

Israeli officials said this week if the Reagan administration or the Red Cross requested release of the Shites in exchange for the American hostages, Israel would consider the request.

Secretary of State George Shultz said Wednesday he would not pressure Israel. In Geneva, however, the Red Cross confirmed the United States had asked it to approach Israel about the Shiite prisoners.

"The United States government has to make up its mind what they want to do. It's first and foremost their decision," said Rabin.

The 'Great Satan'

Iran Blames U.S. For All That's Wrong In The World

By James M. Dorsey

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — The United States is still perceived as "The Great Satan" in Iran more than four years after 52 U.S. captives left Tehran in the last major hostage crisis involving Americans.

That crisis ended on the day Ronald Reagan was sworn in as the 40th president of the United States on Jan. 20, 1981, when the Americans held 444 days by militants who stormed the U.S. Embassy in Iran on Nov. 4, 1979 were released.

Reagan is now faced with a similar delicate situation as 40 Americans are held hostage by Shiite militants in Beirut.

Little is left in Tehran as a reminder of that crisis.

The former embassy on Taleghani Avenue is now an Islamic revolutionary publishing house. On the streets surrounding the compound, traffic flows where once crowds numbering hundreds of thousands massed to denounce America — "The Great Satan" — and chant

Iraq's Saddam Hussein ... seen as a puppet of the U.S. "Death to the U.S.A."

The United States is still perceived as "The Great Satan" in Iran, although that distant enemy is overshadowed by the closer one of Iraq, the other player in the 57-month-old Persian Gulf war.

Iranian officials see the hand of the United States behind most disasters and setbacks experienced by the Islamic Republic of Iran.

They view Iraqi President Saddam Hussein as a puppet of the United States and encouraged by Washington to attack Iran.

U.S. support for Israel, which controls Jerusalem, the third holiest city in Islam, is interpreted by Iran as further evidence of U.S. intentions to stem the tide of a Moslem revival.

Demonstrators marching last week in "Jerusalem Day" celebrations in support of Iran's war against Iraq carried effigies of Reagan with a huge Star of David on his chest alongside effigies of Hussein hanging from a gallows.

"Jerusalem Day" is celebrated annually in Iran as a reminder of the Islamic struggle to "liberate" Palestine.

Iranian officials take U.S. threats to retaliate against Iran for Moslem attacks on American institutions and individuals in the Middle East seriously, but say they still are determined to further the "Islamic Revolution."

Planes landing at Tehran's Mehrabad International Airport past an Iran Air hanger emblazoned in red paint with the slogan "Down with the U.S.A."

Tiles on various floors of the Ministry of Islamic Guidance are painted in the form of the U.S. Soviet and Israeli flags, so visitors can symbolically step on them.

But the layout of the tiles make the Soviet flag the one most trampled on, as visitors almost have to go out of their way to step on either the U.S. or Israeli flags.

Hijack Victim Buried With Military Honors

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI) — With full military honors befitting a man President Reagan called "a young American hero," the body of Robert Dean Stethem, murdered in the hijacking of TWA Flight 847, was lowered into hallowed ground at Arlington National Cemetery.

Bright sunshine broke through cloudy skies Thursday when taps sounded and seven Navy riflemen fired three volleys to honor Stethem, 23, a Navy diver who was pistol-whipped and shot to death in cold blood last Saturday aboard the hijacked Boeing 727 on an airport runway in war-torn Beirut, Lebanon.

The American flag that covered the steel gray casket was folded by Stethem's fellow sailors and presented to his father, Richard Stethem, a retired Navy chief, and his mother, Patricia, both of whom hold Navy administrative jobs. The Navy family also accepted a Purple Heart awarded to the only person known to have been killed in the hijacking crisis, now in its eighth day.

Stethem's parents sat with their other three children, including Kenneth, 24, a second class petty officer in the Navy, and Patrick, 19, who starts Navy recruit training in November.

In a brief statement following the solemn ceremony, the father said, "Robert's spirit and love for life will live with us forever."

On behalf of the family, he "expressed our gratitude to all who have been praying with us" and asked for continued prayers for the hostages "and for their safe return home."

The victim's body was lowered into a grave adjacent to those of U.S. Marines killed in the Oct. 23, 1983, terrorist attack in Beirut.

March Of Dimes Telethon

The March of Dimes will air its national telethon next weekend, June 29 and 30, to raise money for the prevention of birth defects. America's number one child health problem. The 21-hour telethon will originate live from Los Angeles with Hal Linden, right, as host. Gary Collins, left,

Mary Ann Mobley and Sarah Purcell, holding March of Dimes Children's Ambassador Tracy Taylor, will co host. Locally, the telethon will air on WOFL-TV 35 beginning at 11 p.m. June 29 and ending at 6 p.m. the following day. The Central Florida goal is $100,000.

Smithsonian Joins Protest Against Apartheid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Smithsonian Institution, yielding to critics of South Africa's apartheid policy, has sold off its holdings in companies that fail to observe non-discriminatory racial policies in their operations in South Africa.

The action was revealed Thursday by Rep. Norm Mineta, D-Calif., member of the board of regents of the Smithsonian. He said the divestiture included assets totaling approximately $9 million.

The decision reflects the increased efforts, particularly in Congress, to bring economic pressure on the white minority government of South Africa to change its apartheid policy of racial separation.

"Apartheid is an anathema to the very ideals of free inquiry, wisdom and enlightened thought that the Smithsonian stands for," Mineta told a House Administration Committee task force.

Mineta had recommended the Smithsonian divest itself of any investments in firms doing business in South Africa, but the board decided "as a first step" to review holdings in those companies that have not signed the Sullivan principles, which calls for the businesses to be run without racial discrimination.

The Smithsonian Institution is a federally chartered non-profit corporation charged with operating several national museums in Washington, D.C., and carrying out various scientific and cultural activities.

Legislation has been introduced to compel the Smithsonian to divest itself of all its holdings in South Africa, but that bill was opposed by a Smithsonian official.

"Legislation singling out the Smithsonian Institution may be neither appropriate nor effective in dealing with an international problem of such magnitude," said Smithsonian Under Secretary Dean Anderson.

Rep. Cardiss Collins, D-Ill., said the Smithsonian is a government trust that in 1984 received 83 percent of its funding from the government. She said that owning $40 million in stock in companies that do business in South Africa constitutes "collaboration" with the white government.

'Carrot-And-Stick' Approach

Airport Security Bill Designed To Reduce Threat Of Hijacking

WASHINGTON (UPI)

— Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole has asked Congress to approve a "carrot-and-stick" approach to airport security overseas that she says will reduce the threat of international sky piracy.

Under the proposed "Anti-hijacking Act of 1985" that Dole sent to Congress Thursday.

—The State and Transportation departments will consider expanding the force of U.S. air marshals on international flights.

—Air marshals will be authorized to carry weapons and make arrests. Currently, they are given such authority only if they are deputized as U.S. marshals.

—The transportation secretary, through an amendment of the Federal Aviation Act, could act immediately to suspend all air service between the United States and an "inadequately secured" foreign airport.

In his nationally broadcast news conference Tuesday, President Reagan outlined several precautions in the wake of the hijacking a week ago of TWA Flight 847 to enhance security at international airports.

Dole's bill formally presented the president's proposals to Congress.

The bill came a day after Congress reacted on its own to the TWA hijacking, passing legislation that includes similar elements.

Wednesday, the House passed a bill requiring Dole to assess security at foreign airports served by U.S. airlines. If deficiencies are found and improvements not made in 120 days, airlines would be required to notify travelers planning trips to the faulted airport.

The bill also would allow the transportation secretary, with the approval of the secretary of state, to suspend U.S. flights to the airport involved.

The Senate Wednesday added $2 million to a supplemental money bill to put U.S. sky marshals on international flights. Dole's bill, however, requires a study of whether the marshals are needed.

As the TWA hostage crisis entered its eighth day in Beirut, Lebanon, Dole said the bill is aimed at providing "a carrot-and-stick approach to improve airport security in foreign countries."

"This amendment would send a clear signal to countries that have inadequate security procedures in their airports that the United States is prepared to act quickly and decisively when inadequacies are found," Dole said.

The administration's proposal for expanding the force of air marshals on international flights drew some criticism from the International Air Transport Association in Montreal, an industry organization of the world's airlines with 137 members.

Association spokesman Thomas Pyle said, "We're not happy about anybody having guns up in the air. There's a distinct danger to passengers and a bigger danger of damage to the aircraft."

Pyle did acknowledge that marshals might have some value in deterring hijackers.

House Conferees To Senate: Nice Try But No Cigar

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House negotiators, who called a Senate stab at a new budget a "nice try" but rejected it for scrapping raises for most Social Security recipients, are working on a plan nearly certain to grant the hikes.

William Gray, D-Pa., chairman of the House Budget Committee, indicated Thursday the new budget draft — being put together by House Republicans and Democrats — would preserve scheduled raises for all Social Security recipients, just as the original House budget did.

The conference committee is trying to resolve differences in the House- and Senate-passed budgets, both of which would have cut $56 billion from the more than $220 billion deficit expected in fiscal 1986.

The Senate's original budget would deny next year's cost-of-living raise to Social Security recipients, saving $22 billion over three years, while the House-passed pending plan granted the raises.

As part of a compromise budget offered Wednesday, the Senate made a bid to provide $2 billion to fund raises for low-income Social Security recipients to prevent them from falling below the poverty line. But Gray said that proposal was inadequate because it could not be put into effect in time to help them next year.

"I asked (Health and Human Services Secretary) Margaret Heckler that question and her response was that we don't have the database and the identification mechanism in place (to isolate poor recipients)," Gray said.

But Pete Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, maintained there were ways to compensate poor Social Security recipients to prevent them from falling below the poverty line because of the elimination of their cost-of-living raise.

Horsin' Around In Central Florida

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Think of sleek thoroughbred horses and the mind immediately conjures up visions of long runs of white fences and rolling Kentucky hills. But Central Florida horse farms are giving the bluegrass state a run for its money.

Most Florida bred thoroughbreds are at home on Ocala ranges, but a Casselberry entrepreneur has brought this racy business a little closer to home on a major scale.

Ron Worswick, who grew up in a Boston Depression era ghetto where he was introduced to the glamour and excitement of racing life by his father on Saturday outings to the track, has fulfilled what his father didn't even dare dream — he's the owner of 40 thoroughbreds on a 125-acre farm near Mount Dora.

Worswick's Florida Training Center is not exclusive. Worswick and his crew will also train your prize racer to perhaps make a run for the roses.

'I've never been in anything that provided me with as much joy, as much satisfaction, as much frustration as my horses. It will just blow your mind.'

—breeder Ron Worswick

Worswick, 55, who called his father a "good picker" in selecting racers on which to place his $2 bet, told his son, "You could never afford it," when as a youngster Worswick said, "Wouldn't it be neat if you could own one of those?"

His dad turned out to be wrong, but Worswick now knows what he meant.

Worswick says he has a $2 million investment in horse flesh and another $2 million in his farm, a farm that was "beaten up and old with a broken down race track and a lot of orange trees" when he bought it.

"It's too damn expensive, the upkeep and care", Worswick said.

When he bought his first two thoroughbreds 15 years ago the average auction price of one of these beautiful equines was about $15,000, he said.

"If the top two brought $100,000 that was fantastic. Today, at the last auction there was one horse that sold for $10.1 million."

Obviously, with prices so high few individuals can afford a race horse. So, groups of investors buy shares in these animals, a venture which may never pay off.

One of the biggest payoffs is the Kentucky Derby but Worswick has never gone to the race, the 111-year-old premier event in the sport of kings. "If I don't have a horse in I don't go and I've never been to the Kentucky Derby."

"The Derby is your hope," he said. "I guess that's why everyone's in this business. You hope one day you'll come up with the one that's going to make it."

It's all a gamble, and everyone involved in the business — owners, breeders, trainers — have to have the guts of a back alley card shark. Although a horse can earn money in lesser races and as breeding stock the chances against even getting a chance at a run for the big payday are slim.

You have to start with good horse flesh. And Worswick said that in itself is a gamble, because even if a foal's parents are winners that doesn't mean it will necessarily carry on the family tradition.

But Worswick gives them every opportunity to do so. His trainers take the would-be champions out to be exercised every day and even before they pass their first birthday they're ready for a steady pace of on-track training and workouts which include regular swims in the training center's lake.

To date, Worswick's greatest success has been with stallion Tanthem which during a four-year racing career earned $350,000 and brought $1 million at sale, he said.

"He provided us with a fantastic time at the race-track," Worswick said. "I've never been in anything that provided me with as much joy, as much satisfaction, as much frustration as my horses."

"It will just blow your mind."

Worswick, the owner of Certified Slings, said he has "been in business deals that have earned millions of dollars and I'm happy when we're successful, but that doesn't compare with raising a foal, training him and having him come out to be the best."

Once Worswick's horses are ready to race he usually ships them to his son's Kentucky farm. From there they will race on northeastern tracks in New York, New Jersey and Kentucky; hopefully in the Derby.

Only 3-year-olds can strut their stuff in horse racing's most prestigious event. Out of 50,000 potential racers born in 1982 only 13 started in this year's race. And the Tampa owner of Derby winner Spend A Buck admitted he hadn't paid his dues, having brought home a win with a horse he had picked up as a $12,000 bargain only 18 months before the May race.

Spend A Buck's value soared to about $15 million after his win, Worswick said. "It's hard to say he's worth it, but I've been in the business long enough to say, yeah, he's worth it."

Spend A Buck's Tampa roots should give other Florida breeders hope, according to Dr. Ed Ott, professor of animal nutrition at the University of Florida's horse research center.

Ott said Florida's climate and its remaining wide open spaces, although shrinking, make it an ideal breeding and training ground for thoroughbreds.

"Ocala has the same rolling hills and limestone-based soil as the area around Lexington, Kentucky," he said.

A lot of people have apparently taken heart in that knowledge. The number of Florida thoroughbred farms has grown from three in 1957 to 550 today, ranking the state third, after Kentucky and California, in horse country.

Thoroughbreds are a breed of horse developed about 150 years ago in Britain with a mix of British and Arabian stock.

"Thoroughbreds," Ott said, "make up only about 10 percent of all the horses in the world, but they account for about 80 percent of all the economic value horses have."

With Florida's citrus industry being plagued by the effects of canker and freeze, the thoroughbred business may have moved up to become the second largest industry in the state, following tourism, according to Charles Frenz of the Florida Thoroughbred Breeders Association.

"There's no place better in the world to raise horses," Frenz said. "If you just think, foals born early this year (in Kentucky) were still stuck in the stalls with their mares, while here, the day after they're born, they can get out in the field and run. It's just a better environment for them to become athletes. After all, that's what they're born to be."

Donna Reed Fails To Shut Down 'Dallas'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Donna Reed has failed in her bid to force the producers of television's "Dallas" to use her in the prime time soap opera instead of another actress playing Miss Ellie, matriarch of the Ewing clan.

Superior Court Judge John Cole Tuesday denied Reed's request for a preliminary injunction, ruling that her contract allowed CBS and Lorimar to replace her with Barbara Bel Geddes, who originated the role of Miss Ellie.

Such an injunction could have shut down production on scenes involving the character.

Reed's attorney, Michael Donaldson, argued that the actress' contract allows producers to suspend her and substitute another actress only if she is ill or defaults on her obligations.

But Cole sided with Lorimar attorney Robert Dudnik who argued that the "pay or play" provision in the contract allows producers to terminate Reed as long as she is compensated for the episodes called for in the contract.

Donaldson said Reed will take the case to trial.

Donaldson said Reed, who won an Oscar in 1953 for best supporting actress in "From Here to Eternity," is currently receiving a $17,250 weekly salary as called for in her contract.

He said she will be paid that sum for two more seasons because the studio agreed when it replaced Reed to pay her what she would have received for appearing in the show over the course of the contract.

Dudnik said portions of six episodes of the nighttime soap opera have been filmed since Bel Geddes returned to the role.

'Divorce Court' Is Back And Juicier Than 'Dallas'

By David Handler

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I guess it had to happen. What with "The People's Court" blossoming into such a big, campy hit on the syndicated circuit, it was only a matter of time before "Divorce Court," that infamous TV courtroom of a generation ago, staged a comeback. It also airs in syndication.

Like "The People's Court," "Divorce Court" is presided over by a genteel judge, William Keene, a retired Los Angeles Superior Court jurist. The lawyers are real lawyers here. Somebody wins. Somebody loses.

But there's a big difference. "Divorce Court" doesn't make our judicial process into a game show. It makes it into a soap opera. It's juicier than "Dallas." There's a script and actors, of a sort.

This is theater. And what theater it is. Here is sin, intrigue, name-calling, fibbing, sobbing, shouting, screaming and a heavy dose of depravity. Throw in plenty of clumsy actors in the various roles of glowering, shifty-eyed husband, snuffling, overwrought wife and cheap slutty best friend and you've got yourself the juiciest, most bizarre half-hour on television.

You never know quite what you'll get. All you can know for sure is it'll be dirty. And nasty. There are no amicable partings here.

Take Suzanne and Philip Banks. He wants a divorce because he says she's formed an abnormal attachment to their dog, Meyer. He says she ran off with the dog so she could sleep in the same bed with it and feed itillet mignon and caviar.

She says she ran off with Meyer because Philip tried to poison it when she refused to invest her money in a porn magazine he wants to start. "It's erotic art," insists Philip.

The best friend who testifies on behalf of one party may be having an affair with the other. That poor, pitiful wife may be an evil harlot. That glowering hubby may be a straight guy getting a raw deal.

"And in very good taste."

Or how about the Pecks, Jackie and Tony. She's suing him for divorce, states her lawyer, because "he has set out on a mission to drive his wife crazy through sick and tortuous so-called practical jokes." He has also had affairs with other women and bragged about it.

He counters that she has imagined the whole thing. She has, after all, been institutionalized before.

Is she crazy? Maybe. But it also turns out Tony is having an affair with her best friend and hiding a half-million-dollar nest egg so he can run off with his secretary. "Your devious nest egg came up scrambled," concludes an outraged Judge Keene.

"Divorce Court" could just as easily be called "Who Do You Trust?" My advice is to trust no one. The best friend who testifies on behalf of one party may be having an affair with the other. That poor, pitiful wife may be an evil harlot. That glowering hubby may be a straight guy getting a raw deal.

Don't be so sure you're on to who the guilty party is. "Divorce Court" specializes in surprise witnesses, shocking revelations, twists, turns and more turns. It's up to Judge Keene to make sense out of it. We're just along for the ride. And what a wild one it is.

Page Concert To Benefit Duke Ellington Music School

Nathan Page, world-renowned jazz guitarist and Altamonte Springs resident, will debut his new album at a special benefit concert at Valentyne's restaurant, downtown Orlando, on June 29.

The album is entitled "A Page Of Ellington" and features the music of one of America's greatest composers, the late Duke Ellington.

Featured on the album are Nathan Page on guitar with accompanying vocals provided by Washington, D.C., songstress Ronnie Wells. The songs performed include many of the Duke's best-loved works, including "Take The A-Train."

"Satin Doll," "Sophisticated Lady," "In A Sentimental Mood," "Come Sunday," "I Got It Bad (And That Ain't Good)," and "Mood Indigo."

The unusual format of solo guitar and vocalist presents these classic compositions in a unique style never before recorded.

The album also features specially designed artwork from Orlando artist Ken Fowler.

Admission for the 9 p.m. concert will be free, and $4 from the sale of each album during the evening will be donated to The Duke Ellington School of Music in Washington, D.C.

Dear Advisers: Let Up, Already!

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The American public is in danger of being advised to death by an army of advisers who are setting us straight on sex, marriage, divorce, parenting (their word) and health — in about that order.

The media is awash with such authorities: Dear Abby in print, Ruth Westheimer on TV, Toni Grant on radio and Joyce Brothers. In print and radio, to name a few. In addition, almost every large American city has its local TV personality with a lamp, illuminating the dark recesses of the libido.

All of them are called therapists. Many are psychologists. Most of them are women. Their work is often justified as a sort of public service catchall. Many bear the title of doctor, but few are MDs.

Sex is generally the most discussed subject, which in part accounts for the fact that most of the dispensers of wisdom are female. A male addressing similar intimate matters would immediately be branded a dirty old man.

But women seem to get away with language and subject matters that make some men uncomfortable. Indeed, David Letterman, red-faced and panicked, fled from Westheimer briefly when she was a guest on his show.

In fairness, the great majority of the women are non-partisan in the battle of the sexes. They are as likely to blame a wife's frigidity as a husband's insensitivity in marital sexual discord.

Among the growing number of the tribe is Dr. (PhD, psychology, Wayne State University) Sonya Friedman who hosts USA Cable Network's "Telling Secrets with Sonya Friedman."

Like Brothers, Friedman is a media triple-threat. In addition to her Detroit-based TV and radio shows, she is a magazine columnist and the author of "Men Are Just Desserts" and a new book, "Smart Cookies Don't Crumble."

The later book is subtitled "A Modern Woman's Guide To Living and Loving Her Own Life."

Friedman, in Hollywood recently hoping to move her base of operations from Motown to Tinseltown, says she is helping people all over the country. She admits, however, most of the people are women because they comprise the bulk of her adherents.

"Women are more into personal TV discussions because they are not afraid to ask for help," she said. "Men are supposed to know all the answers. It's considered a

Hungry Reader Asks: Who's Married To Whom?

Dear Dick — I have a couple of questions. There are a couple of dinners riding on your answers. Are Alex Karras and Susan Clark (of "Webster") man and wife? And are Pat Sajak and Vanna White (of "Wheel of Fortune") man and wife? — Mrs. S.C., East Detroit, Mich.

Yes and no. Alex and Susan are married. Pat and Vanna are not.

Dear Dick — I would like to know if Clint Eastwood is actually his real name. I say it is not his real name. My 13-year-old son and my 15-year-old grandson say it is his real name. — E.L.Y., Houston, Texas.

Dear Dick — A problem that's been bothering me and my family is this. Is Adrian Zmed his real name? Good luck on getting this information for me. — B.S., Houston, Texas.

Dear Dick — I notice your trivia never seems to deal with country music, the best folk in America! What was Tammy Wynette's real name? I read in a trivia book that it was Wynette Pugh. I saw on Charlie Chase's trivia TV that it was Virginia Pugh. Which is correct? — A.I.B., Seneca, Pa.

Some nerve, calling my column "trivia." I deal only in "biggie." Anyhow, Clint Eastwood was born Clinton Eastwood, Jr., and Adrian Zmed was born Adrian Zmed, although his father went through a period of feeling his family would be better off with an Anglicized name, so through high school he was Adrian Smith. My country/western authority says that Tammy Wynette was born with the name Tammy Pugh. Trivia, indeed!

Dear Dick — I'm trying to find out all I can about a movie I saw 12 to 15 years ago. A young couple. The guy worked around a dock and was killed. He made it to heaven where he cleaned glass stars. He got a pass to go back to earth to see his little girl. He gave her one of the glass stars. I've thought the name of the movie could have been "Catch a Falling Star." I would like my children to see this movie, which inspired me when I was a child. — Mrs. C.G., Fort Mill, S.C.

You have basically described the plot of Ferenc Molnar's play, "Lilom," which was filmed under that title way back in 1930 with Charles Farrell and Rose Hobart. That play was the basis of the Rogers and Hammerstein musical, "Carousel," which was filmed in 1956 with Gordon MacRae and Shirley Jones. Maybe that's the one you saw. If so, it does air on TV from time to time.

Dear Dick — My wife graduated from high school in San Francisco the year after Barbara Eden. We were wondering what age Barbara is admitting to these days. — O.C.L., Muskegon, Mich.

Miss Eden says (and the World Almanac concurs) that she will be 51 in August. What age does your wife admit to these days?

Dear Dick — I really like Lara Jill Miller's hair. (She is Samantha on "Gimme a Break.") What kind of cut does she have? Was she ever on TV or in films before "Gimme a Break"? — W.T., Houston, Texas.

They tell me the hair style Lara is wearing is known in the haircut trade as a "blunt cut." She's only 18, and the only experience she has had before this, outside of hometown things, was in a touring company of "The Music Man."

Dear Dick — About four years ago, I saw an old movie starring Lucille Ball. It was about a military academy, and she came to entertain. At the end, she sang and marched with the graduating cadets and the song had the name of the academy in it. The problem is the words to that song. I remember it started out with "Buckle Down." — L.N., Scottsbluff, Neb.

That was the memorable movie, "Best Foot Forward," which dates from 1943 and was famous for being the film that brought June Allyson to Hollywood. The song was the now-standard "Buckle Down, Winsome!" and you can find it in any music store.

Charles Durning Is A Non-Shooting Star

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — You might not think an actor of Charles Durning's stature would worry about finding work, but he does.

He is one of a handful of character actors who is constantly in demand. Yet he admits to being afraid that each part may be the last one he can find.

Which is why, after doing the movies "Stick," "Big Trouble," "Stand Alone" and "The Man with One Red Shoe" in the last year, he finally succumbed to persuasion and agreed to do a TV series.

Called "Eye to Eye," it ran for a while on ABC this spring, with Durning and Stephanie Faracy as an unlikely pair of private eyes. But it didn't work. The pilot was good but somehow failed to sustain.

"I did it for the money," says Durning. "Anybody who tells you they do a series for any reason other than money is lying."

"And then I was afraid. I did a picture — 'Mass Appeal' — that failed. That made me afraid — maybe my kind of character acting might be going out. So I figured I'd better find something else to do."

So he said OK, he'd do "Eye to Eye."

But he first made one change in the show's concept.

No shooting.

"I dislike guns," Durning says. "I didn't always dislike guns. In fact, when I was younger I did a lot of hunting. But World War II changed that for me."

Charles Durning, who hardly looks like the hero type, was actually a much-decorated infantryman in World War II.

He comes from a military background on both sides of his family tree. His father lost a leg in World War I. His mother's father and grandfather were both soldiers. He grew up just outside of West Point, where his father chose to live after WWI.

That may have been one reason why "Eye to Eye" didn't work. It would have limited the writers severely, not to be able to write in a few shoot-'em-up scenes when their imaginations flagged.

Durning is naturally disappointed that the series didn't go. It would have eased his mind. For a while, he had been optimistic, when everybody around the set told him it was going to be a hit.

"But," he says, "I realized that those were people who were being paid to make me feel good, so they were probably lying all along."

So now he's back where he started. A little afraid of where his next job is coming from.

weakness for men to ask for psychological help.

"For the same reason, men in a studio audience are not as outspoken as women. They don't want to argue or be scrutinized."

One might infer that women welcome arguments and scrutiny.

"It's different on radio call-in shows," Friedman said. "About 40 percent of the callers are male. They can be more open in those circumstances because they are anonymous."

Arguments have been made that TV and radio shrinks have done more harm than good so far as the mental and emotional health of listeners and viewers are concerned. Friedman thinks otherwise.

"A study done on media psychologists found that they do help callers and people in the audience who don't call. I've been doing radio for seven years and TV for five. People know and trust me. I don't tell callers what to do. I give them options and let them make up their minds."

"Of course you can get to know someone's problem in five minutes. The most productive time for a psychologist is the final five minutes of the patient's appointment. When they know their time is almost up, they really speak their minds."

"That's the way it is with callers on a show. They know their time is limited so they get right to the point. I won't limit the length of the calls. I don't let people go on and on either, but I allot them enough time to express themselves."

"As for the battle of the sexes, I think they ought to sleep with their enemies."

Friedman is a graduate of Brooklyn College who works in a Detroit clinic, limiting her practice to 10 hours a week.

Like most media shrinks, Friedman's advice is directed principally to women, as are her books. She is, after all, more familiar with that sex.

Her best advice: "A lot of women blame men for stopping their careers or preventing them from attaining goals they set out to reach in life. It's the easiest excuse. If women see marriage as a part of their lives and not their whole lives, they would be far better off."
