County By Margin Of Almost 1 Thousand

The county canvassing
tabulation of Seminoles' vote in Tuesday's primary election has been completed and the results presented some interesting facts. In the rest of the state, the county voted overwhelmingly for anti-Smith delegates to the national Democratic convention.

The list includes W. F. Allen, O. Harrison, Bryan Mack and George Waybright and Mrs. Lena Lee, Alvin Craig, Mrs. Ned Nooney and Mrs. Dwight Martin. From the state at large and Christ Stockton and Homer E. Martin from the fourth congressional district. All of these have accepted as strictly opposed the nomination of Smith, but Robert Renick, Seminole campaign manager in Marion, has descended and Waybright as "satisfactory."

The county vote for the 10 delegates is as follows: Allen, 66; Harrison, 1,200; Mack, 1,200; Waybright, 1,150; Hurd, 30; Craig, 1,084; Nooney, 21; Reno, 1,000; Stockton, 33 and Saito, 1,000.

Seminole County gave Governor John W. Martin a majority over Park Trammell in the race for United States senator, but Senator Trammell won over the county by a handsome margin. The county vote was as follows: Martin, 1,620; Trammell, 1,601 and the total in this race was Martin, 15,772; Trammell, 14,430.

Ruth Bryan Owen carried the county by more than 1,100 votes. Congressman W. J. Sears, Owen received 2,045 votes as compared to her opponents 996. Her totals in the district were: 32,224; Sears, 39,111.

George W. McRory, Sanford, was victorious over S. W. Moore for presidential elector in group number five while Ammon McClellan triumphed over Robert Parker in group number two.

Doyle Carlton swept the county more than two to one over Hathaway, his nearest opponent. His total was 1,610; Hathaway, 660; Catts, 428; Taylor, 47 and Carlson, 36. The Tampa man's total here will be materially increased on second choice votes. If Catts remains in second position, the ballot boxes will open and a recount made.

There was much speculation on the streets today as to what the recount would reveal. Friends of Sheriff Hand expressed the belief that he would be able to pick up enough second choice votes in the several missing precincts to win out, but Mr. McClellan and his supporters were confident that the recount would only serve to increase his lead. There was a general helter skelter on the streets that Mr. McClellan would be returned the winner.

Camproller Ernest Amos lost Seminole County despite the fact that he swept the state by a two to one vote over the combined total of his two opponents, Emory Martin and J. B. Stewart. The first choice vote in this county is follows: Amos, 980; Martin, 33 and Stewart, 1,060. Although a second choice vote is not to tabulated because of Amos' majority over the field, it is interesting to note that he received only 49 second choices against Stewart.

Failure of the camproller to carry this county is attributed to the failure of the Seminole County Bank and the criticism that was directed at him for permitting the bank to operate while he was said to be in an unsound condition.

Carlton Is Pleased Over Seminole Vote

"Doyle E. Carlton, Democratic nominee for governor of Florida, wishes to thank the people of Seminole County for the wonderful support given him in the recent primary election, and to say that he will endeavor to merit this confidence in the administration of the affairs of the high office for which he has been nominated," Fred R. Wilson, chairman of the Seminole County Carlton Club declared today.

Mr. Wilson also stated that Mr. Carlton wished to thank all of his friends who assisted in the campaign in this county, and to say that he hoped they would never have cause to regret that they cast their lot with him.

George McRory, one of the Carlton leaders in Seminole County, declared that Doyle Carlton was elated over the wonderful majority of first choice votes given him by the voters of Seminole county in the state, except the two 1,610 out of 2,045 cast for this office, a larger majority than any county in the state, except the two which now represent the one in which they were flying.

Head Of Business Dies In Car Wreck

PALATKA, Fla., June 9.—(INS)—E. L. Whitworth, 65, president of the Whitworth Electric Company of Palatka and St. Augustine, was instantly killed today when the car in which he was riding crashed into a parked truck on highway 4, nine miles from St. Augustine. J. Roberton, manager of the Hastings branch of the Whitworth Company, was driving the car. He suffered a broken jaw, and his wife sustained broken nose and other injuries. Whitworth is survived by his widow, two daughters at West Palm Beach, where he formerly was in business and a son in Wichita, Kan. The remains will be forwarded to Camilla, Ga., his former home, for interment.

RECOUNT OF ALL PRECINCTS TO BE SOUGHT BY HAND

Formal Petition To Be Presented To Circuit Judge To Open Bullet Boxes Irregularities Basis For Action

A RECOUNT of the votes for sheriff in all precincts will be sought by Sheriff C. M. Hand, it was learned today after a number of friends had urged the official to follow this procedure because of alleged irregularities in several of the precincts.

On the face of an official tabulation made yesterday by the county canvassing board, Sheriff Hand was defeated by J. F. McClellan by a margin of 10 votes. The tabulation does not include second choice votes in five precincts, members of the canvassing board declaring that errors in the method of counting had made it impossible to check the results accurately.

It was also stated that errors are believed to have been made in tabulation in other precincts. In view of the closeness of the candidates and the alleged irregularities, the sheriff said he had decided to ask for a recount all over the county.

The officer said he thought the action was necessary to "clear an otherwise complicated situation."

The Herald was unable to get in touch this afternoon with Mr. McClellan, but friends expressed the belief that he would welcome a recount and that he would offer no formal objection to the hand tabulation.

The sheriff is expected to file petitions with Judge W. W. Wright on Monday, setting forth a reason for asking a recount if the petition is granted, the court will instruct the inspectors of the several precincts to appear before it on a certain date when the ballot boxes will be opened and a recount made.

There was much speculation on the streets today as to what the recount would reveal. Friends of Sheriff Hand expressed the belief that he would be able to pick up enough second choice votes in the several missing precincts to win out, but Mr. McClellan and his supporters were confident that the recount would only serve to increase his lead. There was a general helter skelter on the streets that Mr. McClellan would be returned the winner.

DRY QUESTION APPEARS LOST AS G. O. P. ISSUE

Staunch Prohibition Backers Who Hoped To Incorporate Plank Endorsing Volstead Act Look Doomed To Defeat

BORAH IS PACIFIED
ON SORE QUESTION

Action Of Idaho Senator In Dropping His Drive To Have Drink Issue First Amazes

KANSAS CITY, June 9.—(INS)—The prohibition issue, which came roaring into the presidential campaign last Spring like a March lion, appeared today to be passing out of the Republican picture like the proverbial lamb.

The ardent "dry," who planned a fight to incorporate in the Republican platform a plank endorsing the Volstead Act, pledged endorsement of the Eighteenth Amendment and extolling prohibition, appeared doomed to defeat without even a good run for their money. The prospects all pointed to adoption of a "generality" plank, based upon suggestions proffered by Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, which merely called for obedience to the Constitution, without specifically mentioning prohibition.

The amazing development in the prohibition situation was the apparent abandonment by Borah of his much heralded drive to force the Republican Party into an outspoken and specific declaration in favor of the prohibition law. It was Borah who harassed all the Republican presidential candidates a few months ago by writing them "dry" questionnaires, asking the high office seekers not only how they stood on the prohibition issue, but how they felt about enforcing it and whether they favored its repeal.

Party leaders expected Borah, in view of his questionnaires, to lead a real battle for a "bone-dry" plank in the Republican platform. They actually feared he might be able to stampede the convention into adopting such a plank.

But the Borah suggestion, as forwarded to Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, prospective chairman of the resolutions committee, contained no specific reference to prohibition. The party leaders couldn't believe their eyes. There was the single word "nullification" in the Borah plank, which by the widest stretch of the imagination, could be taken to directly refer to prohibition. Otherwise, his plank cited the views once expressed by George Washington, regarding the sanctity of the Constitution. The reference to "nullification" in the Borah plank so "weak" that an amendment was added to it. The amendment was said to have referred to the Republican Party's traditional stand for law enforcement.

The mildness of Borah's recommendations was believed effectively to have eliminated a prohibition fight on the floor of the convention. The handful of militant "dry" undoubtedly will make a fight before the resolutions committee for their "bone-dry" plank, but with Borah, their leader, satisfied, their cause seemed hopeless.

JACKSONVILLE MINISTER IS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER BEFORE JOINT CHURCH DINNER HERE

With about 100 representatives of six Sanford churches present, the joint meeting last night at the Holy Cross parish house was declared one of the most enjoyable affairs of its kind ever staged in Sanford. Following the serving of dinner, Dr. R. H. McCaslin, pastor of the Riverside Presbyterian Church, gave an address that brought tremendous applause from his hearers.

Speaking on the subject of "Service in the Church," Dr. McCaslin stressed the need for men of strong character to direct world affairs. He related the story of Borah at the bridge and pointed to the courage and unselfish service of the Romanos.

Men of deeds and action, more of strength and courage, he declared, are what the world needs most today.

The speaker paid tribute to the American spirit, which led the Yankee general in France to tell his fellow French officers that his men didn't know how to retreat, honor citizenship and Hitler ideals of public service were other needs which the speaker emphasized.

Dr. McCaslin was introduced by E. D. Browne. The toastmaster for the occasion was T. L. Dumas, who introduced several ministers and presidents of the several representative clubs. Toasts were made by the Rev. Horace Glover, Dr. W. P. Hetherman, Rev. J. Bernard Root, Dr. Bruce, Dr. F. D. King, Rev. E. M. Marler, E. L. Markell, Volo E. Williams, Kent Rosaler, Walter Haynes, Ray Fox and E. B. Rau.

Musical features were furnished by two quartets, one composed of B. C. Moore, S. J. Nixon, E. Gatchell and F. S. Lanson and the other composed of Mrs. A. M. Phillips, Mrs. W. S. Lusk, Mrs. R. L. Glenn and Mrs. B. L. Moore. Miss Margaret Davis was the accompanist. Group singing was led by Douglas Hanney.

Adherents of Cabinet Candidate And His Enemies Begin To Indulge In Personalities As Row Grows In Bitterness

KANSAS CITY, June 9.—(INS)—Secretary Of Treasury Holds Key To Situation Which Is Causing Doubt To Managers

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 9.—(INS)—The fight between adherents of Herbert Hoover and the hard-pressed anti-Hoover allies for control of the Republican National Convention is growing in bitterness and intensity.

It is reaching the stage of personalities—always sure sign of desperation—in both sides. Hard feelings that may blossom in November are being engendered. Harsh words seldom heard at G. O. P. gatherings are being bandied about the hotel lobbies and in the camps of the various candidates.

"Hoover can't win," proclaim the allies. "Al Smith will lick him down." "That is hitting below the belt," retort the Hoover managers. "That is defeatist talk that borders on party disloyalty." Between these two opposite lines, the verbal battle continued today on all fronts with tempers ruffled and the usual caustic invective.

It is into such a situation that Andrew W. Mellon will step on Monday. Whether he will proceed to the convention or not is still awaiting confirmation.

Cassells Is In Form To Defeat Hustlers In First Of Series

Sanford Star Yields Only Six Hits While His Mates Are Making Thirteen Safeties

Hewell Is Hitting Star Of Contest

Rightfielder Has Perfect Day With Bat, Getting Three Hit

Sanford won the first game of the series with Miami yesterday afternoon by a score of 8 to 0. Cassells pitching excellent ball while the Feds were obtaining 13 safeties off two of the visiting moundsmen. The local hurler yielded only six hits. Fergus on Crowe did the pitching for the Fed's hustlers.

The visitors did not threaten once during the game, which we watched by a half-filled grandstand crowd. The Feds began the scoring in the first frame, paring three tullies.

Frisbie fanned, but Hewell went to second and Wade was safe at first on Hinkle's error. Barnes singled past short and the bases were loaded. A wild throw on Godlie's ground sent Wade across the plate, leaving the sack still filled. Wade salled on Jackson's long fly. Barnes advancing to third on the throw in, Crowe mishandled Wallace's bouncer and Barnes crossed the platter.

Sanford added another in the fourth and one more in the sixth. In the seventh they went on an other hitting spree. McConnel was safe on first by an error. Jackson popped up and McConnel stole second a minute afterwards. He scored on Wallace's single. Wallace was chased between first and second but was safe at the keystone position from where he scored on Park's single. Cassells got a hit and Parks move to second. Hewell got his third hit to bring in Parks.

SATURDAY, JUNE 9.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

A GREAT TREASURE—Better is little with the fear of the Lord, than great treasure and trouble therewith.—Prov. 15:10.

PLAYELL—May every home be filled in peace and purity, love and loyalty.

It might be a bit trite to remark that Harry was thawed out of England.

Six Killed As Big Train Hits Auto—headline. Same old story; the train always wins.

The village Smithy—that is, the village Al Smithy—may stand in Houston, but not in Florida.

It seems that Dr. Hathaway was so busy looking after the rear end of his Ford, he didn't notice Carlton sitting up front on the radiator.

It is no credit to the newspapers of Florida that with seventy-five percent of them supporting one candidate, he should lose by over ten thousand votes.

A good thing to remember, And a better thing to do, Work with the construction gang Not with the wrecking crew. —Chipley Banner.

Judging from the vote in Dade county where Carlton got 8,000 votes, Hathaway 5,883 and Catts 4,617, the people of that section do not feel the need of local option or horse race gambling.

On the night before election an exchange published a glaring stammer, "It's Hathaway All The Way". Some people wouldn't take the outcome so hard if they hadn't been so confident of victory.

The Detroit News was held up the other day by a bold bad man and the pay roll stolen. And instead of groaning over the lost money, will bet the boys got an extra out on it.

If Senator Trammell said here Monday night, it requires many years to build up influence in the Senate, we shall expect great things from him from now on, with some twelve years already to his credit and another six to go.

Wednesday morning we received a telephone message from Ruth Bryan Owen in which that lady crowded over us a right smart. All right, Miss Puth; you are our man now.—Palm Beach Independent. That makes it unanimous.

The St. Petersburg Times brings out the fact that Senator Taylor carried the "home" county by a larger percentage than any other candidate. It still, however, remains a fact that it takes something more than the home county to elect a man governor.

Dr. Hathaway said he would spend a little vacation, resting up after the election, in the county that gave him the biggest vote. He will probably come here. In fact, if he hadn't been for St. Johns County and a few others, he would have to leave the state.—American Record: Oh, not that bad, Colonel; you take this election too hard.

A good loser itself, the Jacksonville Journal quotes for the benefit of defeated candidates: If you can make one heap of all your winnings And risk it on one game of pitch and toss, And lose, and start again at the beginnings And never breathe a word about your loss. . . .

The election in Florida's anti-Smith delegation is no more than might have been expected by those who know their crackers. They may like their mint juleps, their champagne water, and their corn flakes, but they vote dry. And even that had not been an issue of this campaign, we doubt if they could have felt inclined to swallow Tammany hook, bait, and sink-

The Hathaway Papers Succumb

When Napoleon, once ruler of all Europe but at the time king, only by consent of his banishers, of the small Mediterranean island of Elba, arrived at Cannes on his way back to Paris and Waterloo, the Parisian newspapers of the day, only little more than a hundred years ago, adopted a very vacillating attitude toward him. Their vigorous opposition quickly melted to wholehearted support as the soldiers flocked to his banner and he approached nearer to Paris.

This fighting son of Corsica had been having a gay time in Europe knocking the crowns from one royal head after another, and establishing new dynasties in their places. He had led his troops from Egypt to Moscow, had fought a hundred battles and killed hundreds of thousands of men. His personal courage was as great as any Spartan's, his ambition as limitless as the universe, his military genius comparable only to Alexander's and Caesar's. He was indeed the bad man of Europe.

His opponents shook in their boots at his approach but in England safely behind the channel and the British fleet, cartoonists pictured him as the hydra-headed monster, as an octopus whose tentacles reached out and sucked the life blood from all that came within his grasp. He was hated and feared as no other man before or since. He was loved only by his troops.

In Cannes with scarcely a thousand soldiers about him, Parisian newspapers screamed, "The monster has escaped from his place of exile."—"The Corsican werewolf has landed at Cannes." But as he reached Grenoble and his strength was increased by another thousand, his rank in the animal kingdom rose. "The tiger appears at Gap."—"The fiend is actually thanks to treachery, been able to get as far as Grenoble", cry the headlines.

And then, "To reach Lyons, who...?"—analysed all attempts at resistance—"The usurper has dared to advance within a hundred and fifty miles of the capital", "Bonaparte moves northward with rapid strides, but he will never reach Paris"—"Tomorrow Napoleon will be at our gates."—"His majesty is at Fontainebleau." The newspapers had succumbed.

But the press of today is not so different from that of this earlier period. Of course, in our form of government we do not have a Napoleon to fear or an Emperor to fall before. But we do have favors, gratuities, prestige and little what-nots here and there which make it, if one is looking for something, more or less advantageous to stand in with the powers that be. For this reason perhaps, we do not often find in the newspapers much that is critical of our governmental officers.

For example, we might take this last gubernatorial campaign, and the election on June 5th of the gentleman from Tampa. For days, even weeks, before the people showed their preference at the polls, seventy-five percent of the newspapers of Florida had been referring to him as "that slattern", "villifier", "scandalmonger", "character-wrecker" "mud-slinger", "trying to ride into the governor's mansion over the broken hearts of women and children."

But morning editions on Wednesday when Carlton was, in the early count, leading by only a few thousand votes, had already begun to refer to him by such dignifying terms as the "Tampan," and some even went as far as to call him by his name, "Doyle Carlton." As the count went on and he increased his lead, even the pro-Hathaway papers began to admit that Carlton was ahead, but that of course, "it would be necessary to count the second choice votes before the winner could be determined."

Even as late as Friday, with only a few thousand votes yet to be counted, the intimitable Times-Union blared forth "Carlton Plurality Practically Stationary in Late Returns." But the more broadminded Jacksonville Journal in a later edition the same day conceded that "Carlton Is Named For Governor."

And today we find this, by one of the most brilliant of the pro-Hathaway writers:

"If, as now seems probable, Doyle Carlton of Tampa is to be the Democratic nominee for the governorship of Florida, we salute him. As the choice of the party in which we believe, he will have this newspaper's cordial support in the November elections. As governor of the state to which we are bound in all loyalty and love, he will have our sympathetic attention. As recipient of a mandate from a people to whose majority voice we yield, he will have all our first presumptions in his favor."

Why He Went Crazy

It was not the first time we had heard or read the story when the other day, we picked up an exchange and read one as old as good wine, but it reminded us of our childhood, and in the hope that it may similarly affect others who are, perhaps, in danger of growing old, we reproduce it here.

It concerns an inmate of a lunatic asylum, who on being asked by a visitor how he got that way, replied:

"It all started when I married a widow with a grown-up daughter. Then my father, being a widower, married the daughter. That made my step-daughter my step-mother, and my father became my step-son; my wife also becoming the mother-in-law of her father-in-law.

"Then my step-mother had a son, who was my brother, being my father's son; but as the boy was the grandson of my wife, he was also my grandson.

"Then my wife and I had a son. My father's wife is my son's half-sister, and also his grandmother. Now it is easy to see that my father became my step-son by marrying my step-daughter. Therefore, being my father's father, I am my own grandfather!"

The visitor stopped the lunatic at this point, thoroughly satisfied as to why he went crazy.

TUESDAY, WE VOTED, we hope, the Bryan law ballot for the last time. Personally, we have never had any trouble in voting that ballot and we don't believe we would have any trouble in counting it. But to the ordinary, everyday citizen, who thinks about the thing only once in two years, it is a nightmare, and we doubt that anything more than an approximate result has ever been attained in counting the votes. Any member of the legislature who refuses to do his duty in regard to this execrable way of voting should be tarred and feathered and ridden on a rail when he returns home; and if the law is not changed by the next legislature Florida Democrats will be justified in bolting and in voting for Independents, Republicans, Bolsheviks, horse thieves or anybody else who has a modicum of common sense.—Palm Beach Independent.

THE INVISIBLE DEATH-RAY HORROR
ST. PETERSBURG INDEPENDENT

Closely following the news of discovery that Germany had such a calamity caused by escaping gas in its possession in violation of the treaty of Versailles, comes a tank where it was stored near Hamburg, Germany, and the scientist has developed an invisible death-ray that can be energized to such appalling power that it will destroy every vestige of life, infinite and inanimate, within its range. Its inventor, Erich Gralchen, claims for it the "instant destruction of any living thing it touches."

Such a ray has been anticipated for years by those of super-imaginations. The novelist Wells and a number of other writers conceived it and graphically pictured its devastating powers. Yet their imaginations fall short of the bawling possibilities of this invention. Now that the death-ray seems to be an actuality, the imagination is all but staggered by contemplation of its significance and what awful havoc could be wrought with it if it should be used in war. The inventor is quoted as saying that "the ray as a weapon of war is not my purpose, but I shudder to think of what would happen if it were used against people."

He claims that his sole object in developing the ray, which can be released from tubes of the desired size, is to split atoms so that new and greater sources of energy can be utilized—in other words, to turn it into an instrument of industrial power and economy. But three nations are said to be bidding for it now—his own and Mexico and Chile—and it would require a considerable amount of imagination to be able to conceive of any one of the three wanting it as a peace acquisition.

Nations of the world desiring peace should regard this invention as an ominous sign and redouble their efforts to outlaw war. That seems to be the only hope of civilization.

INVENTOR MAKES SUCCESSFUL HOP IN QUEER PLANE

Captain George White Feels Elated Over His Attempts To Get Wing-Flapping Contrivance To Soar Into Air

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., June 9.—Completion of a successful flight in his wing-flapping ornithopter has stimulated the enthusiasm with which Captain George R. White, of Stony Brook, Long Island, is delving into research work in an attempt to perfect a machine which can mechanically simulate a bird's flight.

Captain White, a former army aviator, has been engaged in his present work for some years, building his present ship at his home in Long Island and then shipping it here for trial.

He has previously succeeded in getting a wing flapping ornithopter off the ground, but believes that his present ship gives promise of being the nearest perfect he has yet built.

The ornithopter is propelled by the feet and Captain White believes he has discovered secret of bird flight which will enable the plane to fly on its own power after he has completed observations in tow-hops which he is now experimenting with.

The ornithopter is hitched to an automobile and pulled along the beach at a slow pace. On one of these flights, the ship was towed 300 feet, although White left the wings horizontal and did not attempt to work them. After the elevation lever was pointed to the take off position the plane slowly climbed up and then settled back to the earth gracefully. These trials have proved to White that the ship is buoyant and responsive.

As soon as the inventor has made enough runs to become thoroughly familiar with the sensitivity of the ornithopter, he and his friend, Hamilton Wright, Jr., of New York, who is aiding him with his experiments, plan to take the ship down on the beach and as soon as a good head-on wind is encountered either up or down the beach begin making tow hops.

Should these be successful, the Captain White will undoubtedly try his first hop through the air with the ship flying under his own power. An automobile will probably be used to get it into the air, as previous attempts, but the tow rope will be dropped as soon as the ship has attained altitude sufficient for it to begin operating under its own power.

The ornithopter is a skeleton like structure covered over with a transparent covering of great resisting power.

FOR SUMMER EVENINGS

The evening coat above is a loose wrap-around model that will not crush the dainty frock worn beneath it. Either a collar or a flat square one of self-fabric forms an attractive and inexpensive substitute for the Metal cloth, velvet, or a heavy crepe de Chine are appropriate fabrics. In justice it may be used for street wear.

The bouffant gown is an ideal choice for a dance frock, or as the costume for an attendant at a summer wedding. The cape collar, effectively trimmed with a beaded design in contrasting colors, may be omitted by those who prefer the unadorned neckline. A soft taffeta is the most suitable fabric, but for exclusively summer evenings a light muslin or a thin silk will do. The pattern is printed on page 14.

Yankee Pluck Gets Praise From Flyer On Pacific Flight

BRIAN, Australia, June 9.—(INS)—"Yankee pluck" was praised by Capt. Kingsford-Smith forth its part in the successful trans-Pacific flight of the Southern Cross from Oakland, California to Brisbane.

Speaking at a civic welcome after the Southern Cross landed at 10:10 A. M. Saturday, Capt. Kingsford-Smith said: "I desire to pay tribute to the skill, cooperation and pluck of my Yankee comrades."

There were two Australians and two Americans on board the plane, Capt. Kingsford-Smith and Captain Charles Ulm are the Australians. The Americans are navigator Harry W. Lyon and radio operator James Warner.

There has been a continuous ovation for the aerial quartette ever since they landed. They have been made national heroes regardless of nationality. The streets are flagged and the airmen are surrounded with cheering crowds of enthusiasts whenever they appear in public.

Parliament sent a $25,000 check in recognition of the flight. A letter accompanying the check said the aviator "had accomplished the seemingly impossible." The plane is expected to hop off for Sydney within 24 hours. It will leave Sydney for Melbourne on Wednesday. The plane was overhauled and found to be none the worse for the violent storm it passed through enroute to this city from the Fiji Islands.

The Southern Cross left Oakland, Calif. on May 31 making stops at Honolulu and Suva, Fiji Islands. The 2,100 miles jump from Oakland to Honolulu was made in 27 hours and 28 minutes. The 3,138 miles from Suva Island, Hawaii, to Suva, Fiji Islands, was made in 34 hours and 33 minutes. The final leg from Naselai Beach, Fiji Islands to Brisbane—1,762 miles—was accomplished in 24 hours and 18 minutes.

The flyers, aboard their sturdy tri-motored craft, bridged the Pacific from Oakland, Calif., to Brisbane, Australia, a distance of 7,200 miles—in eight days. The feat was accomplished in the first three hops of their scheduled 78,000-mile flight from Oakland to Sydney.

It was significant that two Australians and two Americans should be part of the historic embrace of the two countries on opposite sides of the vast Pacific. The third over-water hazard of the long flight was made with the same high courage and grim determination that spelled success on the two previous hops. The risks had to fight storms for most of the way.

For two hours Friday night the Southern Cross was gripped by the wildest storm that had encountered on the entire trip. Flying blind through a deluge of rain, the plane struck air pockets that caused it to drop suddenly 300 to 400 feet. Through it all, however, the motor roared "sweetly," and though the plane slipped and dived and careened wildly, it held fast to its course.

The fliers agreed that the hop from Fiji to Brisbane contained "more thrills" than either the 3,100-mile jump from Hawaii to Fiji, or the 2,400-mile hop from California to Honolulu. Confidence in their ship to weather the storm was never lacking, they said.

FRANCE BLAMES AMERICA FOR ITS CRISIS IN WINES

Declares Loss Of Its Biggest Customers Has Caused Surplus Which Threatens To Injure Quality Of Product

PARIS.—June 5, France may quit drinking wine! And America may be indirectly responsible for it! How come? A little matter of supply and demand and the local lodging crisis.

America has plenty of collars, but supposedly, no wine. France has plenty or wine but no collars.

America is blamed partly for the cellar crisis. Prohibition cut off one of France's best customers while French vinegrowers, having regained their pre-war stride, produced more than could be consumed at home and abroad.

Consequently, the surplus filled French cellars to the bursting point, a fact which may have caused American tourists to remark, "Give me a room in the cellar."

The argument sounds like silly propaganda from the vinegrowers association which has never ceased to tempt the American.

The United States went dry but Noel Peters, boulevard restaurant, has just had to action 40,000 bottles of "rare vintages" to clear a passage in its cellar. A few years hence the wine would have brought more than twice the amount yielded on the block.

When restaurants begin to hold bargain sales in wine posterity will suffer, according to the connoisseurs. Wine is admitted to be at its best between the ages of five to 10 years. Liquors continue to improve for a century.

The connoisseurs foresee that lack of cellar space will force restaurants to keep their stock moving rapidly. In other words, selling wine before it has properly matured. Then, only comparatively raw wine available the discerning Frenchman who takes the generosity of his liquids as a family matter will cease to drink.

Asserting that more "good cellars" have departed than remain, Thophile Renaudie, of the "Petit Bleu" says: "It is indeed sadening to write of our celebrated vintage after having been forced to ask for the 'sommelier' for a bottle of Vichy and a glass of milk."

Lovers in Paris have no cause to worry this spring. In spite of vigorous orders for a thorough cleaning up of the city Monsieur Chappie, Prefect of Police, has not yet put his foot down in public kissing and several gendarmes who recently "ran in" some charming couples who were affected by the bright sun, singing birds, etc., have learned to their dismay that Paris still condones outward signs of affection.

"There would be another Revolution in France" says one of the handsome gendarmes on duty in one of the popular parks, "if the authorities followed the example of America and began to forbid kissing in the streets."

A short time ago, certain French newspapers took up the matter, but only in a light spirit. They know that fond affections will be displayed in the parks and streets as long as there is a Frenchman in them.

Almost any street, large or small that leads to the working center can be called a little "lovers lane" early in the morning. Arm in arm, hand in hand, couples stroll along, cooing like turtle-doves and perfectly obvious to all passers-by. One wonders how they all happen to be going in the same direction and if they are all co-workers. Not all of them, perhaps. Here is one couple whom must part at the subway station.

"A midi, mon cher, I'll meet you here at lunch-time," says the girl, holding out her hand.

But the young man does not content himself with that. There is a long, long kiss—and they part for three hours.

Nearly all of the "cops" say they would close their eyes or else cough hard so the delinquents would know they were there and then run if new orders came suppressing the present pleasant condition of things.

"Que veulez-vous," they say, "we have all done the same thing—more or less!"

In 10 years time motorists will be unable to get out of the city gates on a fine Sunday morning, according to people with a liking for figures and a little observation. When the day dawns bright and sunny, every owner of a car in the city prepares to take a turn. With the growing increase of automobile-owners and the continued narrow thoroughfares, the situation is becoming critical. From the Arc de Triomphe to the Porte Maillot there is always a solid procession of cars which can only proceed at a crawl. Outside the gate, things are not much better and one must drive many a weary kilometer before the line can proceed at any speed.

Olympic Competitors To Be Restrained From Lures Of European Temptations

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 2—(INS)—

Mr. Lawson Robertson, head keeper of the trained biceps and other animal acts that will go for a European showing this summer, wishes to announce today that the joy ride will not be a regularly scheduled event this year on the Olympic program at Amsterdam.

At least, said he, there will be no American participation in the contest and I know the assertion will come as a blow to our hope of gaining recognition at an interesting and highly specialized form of competition.

A few of the lads in Paris in 1924, as a matter of fact, gave indications that they would be ripe for the international championship, with a little practice. So they practiced assiduously.

It seems, however, that Mr. Robertson, in checking over his tally sheet, noted that the International Olympic Committee

wanted exactly no points to the winners in this event. So, much as he regrets the circumstances from the standpoint of ethical development, he has decided to withdraw, forthwith, without affecting our success, except maybe for the sake of economy.

For one thing, the ringmaster

will be all uplift this time and every biped will be required to give an account of its innocent wanderings in a strange land. For another, the change of venue, it seems, will just about achieve Mr. Robertson's purpose automatically. The shift in locale from Paris to Amsterdam intimates, will be like walking out on Galli Cuculi to hear a troupeone recital in the Bronx.

"Amsterdam is a very conservative city," said he, without visible relish. "It is only in the last two years that they have permitted dancing in public and there is

COUNTY'S VOTE SHOWS SMITH IS UNPOPULAR

For commissioner of agriculture this county gave Nathan Mayo, the incumbent, a tremendous lead over his opponent, Will S. Sparkman. Mr. Mayo's majority here was in proportion to his margin of victory elsewhere in the state. The county vote was as follows:

Douglas, 1,403; Deas, 1,144.

The final count in the race for county Judge gave J. G. Sharon 1,092 and Wilkinson 1,036. The total for county superintendent of Public Instruction was: Lawton 2,271 and Maxwell 923.

Hymel Yields Only Six Scattered Hits And Feds Win, 3-1

Sanford Star Hurler Has Edge On Cusack In Second Of Series With Miami Team

Barnes, Frisbie Hit Two-Baggers

Three Double Plays Are Contributed By Fast Fielding Feds

Hymel was in excellent form yesterday afternoon and the Cemetery Feds took another game from Lee Crowe's Miami Hustlers by the tune of 3 to 1. The Sanford star allowed six hits and these were well distributed. His mates gathered 10 safeties off old man George Cusack, the grand old veteran of the Florida State League.

The visitor tallied their lone run in the third inning while the Feds scored once each in the fourth, fifth and seventh. The first tally resulted from Wade's hit, theft of second and Barnes long double. In the fifth Wallace walked, went to second on a sacrifice and scored on hits by Hymel and Frisbie. In the seventh Hewell dashed out a hit, stole second and went to third on a fielder's choice. He scored on Barnes' one timer.
