

Heavy Attack Unleashed By U.S. On North Vietnam

By GEORGE ESPIER Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP)—The United States unleashed today the heaviest air attack on North Vietnam since the bombing halt in 1968, trying to cut off the base of the growing North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam.

U.S. sources estimated 400 planes had attacked targets in North Vietnam, half from 7th Fleet carriers and half from the South Vietnamese and Thailand. The sources said the attacks were ordered by President Nixon.

Targets were anti-aircraft batteries and radar stations, surface-to-air missiles, long-range artillery that has been firing across the demilitarized zone, and storage areas. The North Vietnamese radio said 10 U.S. jets were shot down over North Vietnam during the day.

Highway 13 between Loc Ninh and An Loc, the provincial capital of Binh Long Province 15 miles to the south, was reported unsafe.

THREE INJURIES resulted from a morning mishap on SR 46 near Geneva, when a rental car driven by Helen Scislowski, 40, of North Merrick, N.Y., went out of control and overturned three times causing multiple injuries to Mrs. Scislowski and two children, passengers in the auto. The trio was removed to Jess Parish Hospital at Titusville for treatment of a broken arm and cuts and bruises sustained by the driver and lacerations and contusions suffered by the children, names unavailable. Robert Levering, Florida Highway Patrol trooper worked the mishap and made no charges.

'Put Up Or Shut Up'

By DONNA ESTES

CASSELBERRY - Decision on whether the City of Casselberry will remain a member of the CALNO Council of Local Governments and approve funding for the organization on the basis of $250 membership fee plus 25 cents per capita will be considered by the City Council at a work session Monday night.

Formal action will be forthcoming the following week. Council Chairman Edith Duerr told fellow members of the organization last night.

"Put up or shut up" was the message given to Dr. Duerr by the three mayor representatives of the other cities of CALNO.

"We want to see if we are going to have a three-member or four-member CALNO Council," Longwood Mayor Kenneth Brown, Council chairman, told the Casselberry Council chairman, who acted as her city's representative in place of Mayor Curtis How.

The dispute between Casselberry and the other three cities continued practically as soon as the gavel was raised to open the meeting. Chairman Brown's first question, "The first order of business" was to find out who Casselberry was going to do.

Dr. Duerr insisted the by-laws of the group had to be amended to provide that membership would consist of the cities of Seminole and Seminole County, when the county could be a valuable member. She said current bylaws would permit membership by any other city.

Senate Would Up Income Of Elderly

FARMER ANGER over criticism of rising meat prices brought a demand from Tony Dechant, president of the National Farmers Union, for a government investigation into chain store food profits.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee has taken a major step in its drive to provide an adequate income for the nation's elderly.

The committee voted 11 to 0 Wednesday to liberalize payments to aged, blind and disabled welfare recipients, the so-called "adult categories."

The provision would bring an estimated four million welfare recipients, two-thirds of them elderly, above the poverty level established by the government.

It also would mean substantially higher income for another 2.4 million welfare recipients who would remain below the poverty level.

In addition, the committee's proposal would more than double the number of welfare recipients in the adult categories, from 3.2 million to 7.4 million.

The committee would raise the federal costs of the adult welfare program to $5.7 billion, compared with $2.3 billion at present.

The House has approved an increase to $4.1 billion. Both the Senate and House versions would establish a uniform national level of payments, with the costs paid entirely by the federal government.

Under current law, the costs are shared by the federal government and the states with varying widely between states.

The average cash payments to aged welfare recipients is $76.39 per month, ranging from $49 in South Carolina to $168 in New Hampshire.

The committee's proposal would guarantee each recipient $130 per month. In addition, each recipient would be allowed up to $50 per month in Social Security benefits and $50 per month in earned income without losing any welfare benefits.

Fifty per cent of any earnings above $50 would be subtracted from the welfare payment, but officials say few aged welfare recipients have any earnings.

Rep. Bob Wilson has said the memo published by columnist Jack Anderson in the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. controversy was written by lobbyist Dita Board under pressure from an ITT executive who wanted to get her in trouble, the Baltimore Sun said today.

Mrs. Board has denied under oath that she wrote the Anderson-published memo, which linked an ITT contribution to the Republican National Convention with a settlement in an antitrust case that ITT had pending with the Justice Department.

The Sun said that in an interview March 3 Wilson attributed the memo to Anderson's 300-word article in the Baltimore Sun.

Annex 'Soreheads' Hit By Swofford

By DONNA ESTES

Altamonte Springs-Mayor Lawrence Swofford rose to the defense of the City of Longwood, branding persons who opposed recent annexation by that city as "soreheads."

The mayor's remarks were made following a statement by Councilman T.A. Radloff that adjacent property owners scheduled today into whether Kleindienst acted improperly in the ITT case while he was deputy attorney general.

The Baltimore Sun said Wilson claimed that William R. Merriam, Mrs. Board's boss in the ITT office, instructed her to write a memo linking the antitrust settlement with an ITT pledge to underwrite $400,000 of San Diego's city bond to get the Republican convention.

Vihlen 'Clears' Agenda

County Road Sup't J. C. Lavender requested and received permission from the County Commission to scrap all education related maintenance as soon as possible.

In other reports, Lavender told the board that Richard Patton, who resides on Sunland Drive, had requested signs be put up near his home to protect his retarded child. Apparently the child, who is about four years old, darts out into the street on a bike without observing safety rules. His father is afraid for the child and felt that signs would help to prevent an accident.

The board, on a motion by Commissioner Ed Yarbrough, authorized to hire a supervisor at a salary of $41 per month for the road department.

Commissioner Sidney Vihlen made an effort to end the controversy regarding an alleged injury to a woman who was standing in her yard when a mover belonging to the County went by, throwing a piece of tile and striking the woman's arm.

This matter has been before the commission several weeks and the question of payment of $10 bill for medical treatment for the injury has been brought up for discussion several times.

Vihlen asked if the board had any objections to his paying the bill from his own pocket simply to get it off the agenda. There were no objections.

Garbage, Trash Pick-up Studied By Longwood

By DONNA ESTES

LONGWOOD—Formal consideration for granting a one-year franchise for garbage and trash service in the city is scheduled for the April 13 meeting of the City Council, the board decided at a work shop session.

Less than a dozen citizens turned out to state opposition to franchising. One of the number, Percy White, said he was representing some 200-plus residents who prefer to retain private enterprise rather than a franchise for the service.

Mayor Kenneth Brown advised the city may collect trash, itself, as a service to the citizens within one year. To questions from Brown posed to City Supt. Ralph Fisher, negative replies were given to the possibility of whether a truck he plans to purchase in the new fiscal year could be used for trash collection.

Fisher said instead that he is hopeful a packer can be bought, instead, in addition to the planned pick-up truck purchase. Councilman Dick Crenshaw, who had suggested the work shop on the issue, said franchising appeared the best method of providing trash pickup in the community.

Under Crenshaw's plan, the franchised garbage company would pick up trash once weekly for all residents—those paying for garbage service and those not—free of charge and would dispose of the burnable trash at the city dump. Representatives of three garbage companies were present. All had submitted "proposals" to franchise the city business. The proposals were returned unopened to the companies.

The owner of one company, smarting from newspaper reports challenging his statements that his recent hike in fees was attributable to increase in county landfill fees, said he is willing to open his books to County Commission Chairman Greg Drummond for perusal if Drummond will do the same.

On another matter, Council member will do the same, that it will approve a conditional use on the McClaren professional building on SR 434 to permit operation of a print shop. Public hearing on the variance was scheduled for April 20.

questioned procedures of annexation whereby the city can annex lands in the county without giving adjacent county residents a public hearing.

He suggested all future annexations be referred to the zoning board before action is taken by the Council.

City Attorney S. Joseph Davis Jr. said the Council can set up any procedure it wishes as long as it does not conflict with the city charter. He pointed out as well, however, that under an alternative annexation procedure adopted during this past session by the Florida Legislature, 30 days following county areas should be notified before annexations are accomplished.

Radloff said the city's advisory zoning board has referred to the recent law suit filed against the City of Longwood challenging an annexation, Swofford said he does not intend to waste time with this type individual. He said Altamonte does not and has not planned to hurt people.

Of a request for annexation currently under review by the zoning board, Swofford said, "Just like Longwood, the city did not reveal location of the property in question. I object to anyone except the people in the city telling me how to serve," the mayor continued.

No action was taken on Radloff's recommendation. Under provisions of the city charter, Altamonte considers annexation by property owners petitioning for it. Petitions are then certified by the county tax assessor as to ownership before action by Council.

PUD Zoning Approved By No. Orlando

By DONNA ESTES

NORTH ORLANDO—Despite statements from Village Attorney Thomas Freeman that the city stands in danger of becoming a zoning classification municipality, City Council approved, without opposition from either the board or the citizens, another planned unit development.

Crosked Creek, to be built on 190 acres south of the trailer park on SR 434, between Moss Road and Hays Road and north of Bahama Road, was given the PUD zoning following public hearing.

King Helle, planner for the development, said 54 acres of the tract will be built in patio homes around the perimeter of the development while 20 other sections of 36 and 28 acres will be used for multi-family housing. Planned are 430 patio homes and 1,044 apartments for a total of 1,480 units.

In addition a club house will occupy another three to four acres, Helle said, while 65.8 acres will be used for open spaces. Overall density of the tract will be less than eight units per acre, the planner said.

Freeman stated his fear that further designation of PUD zoning may cause the city's master plan to fall in the event it were taken to court. Helle disagreed, insisting the 60 to 70 per cent PUD zoning of the village is good and "More cities should be so fortunate to have so much PUD." He added that development should be built out in five years.

Only change insisted upon by the Council to the plan as submitted was that Hays Road borders the development must be paved by the developers.

In other business, Council in annual reports heard from Councilman Herbert Fox that balance in the general fund as of March 31 totaled $3,334,711, in the road and bridge fund $1,365,333 and cost of the recent elections was $173,240.

Councilman Troy Piland reported work on the northwest half field is complete and both backstops are up at the southeast field which will be completed in a few days.

In police report from Councilman Charles Rowell, he recommended appointment of Mrs. Betty Rupp and Mrs. Wayne Shell as special police officers to insure proper conduct at the school bus stops and the naming of Jeffrey Danjos as part-time patrolman as compensation of $1 annually. Both recommendations were approved unanimously.

Rowell reported that four members of the police department, William Morris, Danjos, Fred Roedel and Eronice Quackenbush graduated last week from special classes at Seminole Junior College and are now fully qualified.

Wisconsin Primary Results Muddle

Results of the Wisconsin presidential preference primary are just one more witness to the fallibility of this means of selecting nominees by the party faithful.

The emergence of Senator George McGovern as the current front-runner for the Democratic prize illustrates this conclusion.

For here was a candidate whose popular appeal had been at a very low ebb as his anti-war stand was whittled away as Nixon's Vietnamization troop withdrawal scheme flourished.

But the current strong North Vietnamese offensive, throwing into battle for the first time Hanoi's prime divisions, made the McGovern call for a dated end of the United States participation very lively and appealing.

This is not to minimize what the well-planned drive of the South Dakota Democrat accomplished. But it is to point out that in this primary at this time such a win as his 30 per cent of the vote is not what it might well have been without the heating up of the war issue.

The Huber is the surprising arrival of Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace in the runner-up spot with 22 per cent of the voters choosing him. The school-bus issue on which he rolled along to the overwhelming victory he enjoyed in our state's primary was not an issue of any moment in Wisconsin.

But Wisconsin does allow cross-over voting. Democrats can vote for Republicans and vice versa. The stand-off attitude of the "Re-election of the President" workers was noticeable.

Thus when a 40 to 50 percent cross-over by GOPers to the Democratic side and the total which Wallace achieved are considered as a single political factor, it could be that many Wisconsin Republicans went for Wallace as a means to further discomfort the Democrats and support the one presidential hopeful they thought would not be difficult to defeat in November.

Breathing down Wallace's back, however, was that ever-embellished and ever-hopeful Senator Huber. H. Humphrey of neighboring Minnesota with a 21 percent vote.

The long-range plans of this former Vice-President and '68 presidential nominee appear not to have been affected. It is in the execution of this design that the campaign experience, the ability of this politician to drive home his '72 stand on current issues that the Humphrey hopes must rest.

For Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine, his 10 per cent total is more than unacceptable. It is almost disastrous to the future of this former front-runner. Which is, in itself, a factor which brands such primaries as fallible to the point of being dangerous when such good men and honest politicians as Senator Muskie can be so damaged.

Now, however, there are more primaries and those in which Messrs. McGovern, Humphrey, Muskie and Wallace will be top competitors with the shadow of New Hampshire.

Yearning For "Big Top" Not Enough

By KAY BARTLETT AP Newsletters Writer NEW YORK (AP) — So you want to run away and join the circus. And you're thinking of starting at the top.

Here's how. —Don't show circus owner Irving Field every trick you ever learned. Stick to the three or four best ones, perhaps starting off with the time you graduated.

—If you're going to one of the circus schools, let him know about the act you hope to perfect by the time you graduate. He might take an option now.

—Tell him you're not interested in that old center ring concept. Be enthusiastic about three rings. Say you understand that the best act sometimes plays Ring 1 or Ring 3.

—A high wire act or lions or tigers. Let it run. Otherwise, keep it under five minutes.

—Ask for a lot of money if you think he likes you. —"Anyone I've ever seriously wanted, I got," said Feld. He's the owner of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, the biggest in the world.

He once seriously wanted Gunther Gebel-Williams. It took a $2 million deal to break up the circus Williams and get his star and his tigers.

Feld, his 25-year-old son, Kenneth, and an agent in Europe look at every act that is hired.

He sees 50 European circuses every year, visits eight or nine circus schools and watches his own production maybe 100 times.

Never gets tired of clowns and trapezing, sawdust and horses, etc., he says. —"You can be away for a week and then see new things happening when you watch the performance again," says Feld, a short man of 53 with thick glasses. In defending the three-ring concept, he says he's perhaps the only person who can be sitting in front of Ring 1 and missing the act in the others. Feld hires 20 per cent of his new talent straight from the big circus schools of Europe, the rest from existing acts. The recruitment really isn't difficult. —"It's like in old vanderbilt. Once you played the Palace you were pretty well set. Now you are in if you've played Ringling Brothers," says Feld.

Feld has been instrumental in cutting down the average age, from 46 when he started hiring in 1969 to 20 now. "When I came here half the clowns were over 70," he says.

Feld, whose lifelong ambition was to own the circus, has learned a few things too, since his first pitch as a snake-oil salesman at age 13.

From what has been written above, it is clear that the big job will come to these small and medium firms which employ 77 per cent of all nonagricultural employees.

Already reported are an increasing number of bankruptcies, heavy production cutbacks and the firing of increasing numbers of employees. The prospect is that the situation will get worse in the months ahead.

Japan's real economic growth rate, which averaged 12.7 per cent a year from 1966 through 1969, slowed to 9.7 per cent in 1970 and probably to less than 4 per cent in 1971.

The cost problems have been magnified by the rapid growth of real wages in Japan. The increase was 8.7 per cent in 1970 and 8.4 per cent in 1971. This is considerably greater than the rise in productivity.

The Japanese government has voted a major series of public works programs to spur the lagging economy. But the direct benefits may go to a narrow range of industries—those in civil engineering and construction.

Now it should be understood that what's being talked about is relative. Japanese exports to the United States probably increased by 15 per cent or thereabouts in 1971. But 1971, which started out as a magnificent year for Japanese exports, was more than half over on Aug. 15. And by that date, commitments had been made for months in advance. So the problem is actually the outlook for 1972.

In this, likely the large Japanese producers may not be hurt too much. In fact, preliminary reports indicate that a number of these larger firms are going to do considerably better in 1972 than in 1971. They can cut costs, step up their promotion and cut back on unprofitable lines. But it appears that the small and medium-sized producers will be further caught this year by rising labor costs and heavily increased competition in the American and other overseas markets.

Now is the time of year when all good school administrators and school board members make plans for spending their local share of America's annual outlay for education—which at present stands at $70 billion is the nation's largest single expenditure, next to defense.

This spring, for the first time, they will have a centrally located national educational "supermarket" where they can sample the latest advances in teaching equipment and materials, a recently opened Educational Facilities Center in Chicago.

The need for such a center to bridge the gap between the educational "hardware" business and the education profession has long been recognized by key educators. Among those instrumental in developing the Educational Center concept were Wilbur Cohen, former secretary of Health, Education and Welfare; the late Dr. James E. Allen, commissioner of the U.S. Office of Education; and George D. Fisher, past president of the National Education Association and now EFC chairman.

The EFC is a perpetual exposition where new products are demonstrated in actual learning environments by Chicago-area students, who attend half-day sessions in field-type classrooms in the center. In other words, the educators learn by watching the students doing. Chicago is famed for its gigantic Merchandise Mart. Now it's got one for education.

This spring, for the first time, they will have a centrally located national educational "supermarket" where they can sample the latest advances in teaching equipment and materials, a recently opened Educational Facilities Center in Chicago.

The need for such a center to bridge the gap between the educational "hardware" business and the education profession has long been recognized by key educators. Among those instrumental in developing the Educational Center concept were Wilbur Cohen, former secretary of Health, Education and Welfare; the late Dr. James E. Allen, commissioner of the U.S. Office of Education; and George D. Fisher, past president of the National Education Association and now EFC chairman.

Devalued Dollar Hits Japan Hard

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A most distressing letter has arrived from friends in Japan.

It explains why President Nixon's devaluation of the dollar and increased restrictions on imports have been a continuing shock to Japan.

And it suggests that the United States and Japan had better, and quickly, set up some mechanism for close and regular consultation and cooperation to protect our close mutual economic, political and national security interests. For, in the way the world has developed since World War II, our two countries are heavily dependent on each other.

The problem is that President Nixon's new economic measures came just as the Japanese economy was showing signs of recovery from the recession which began in late 1970.

As a result of the Nixon action at this critical juncture, my sources estimate it will be difficult for Japan to avoid a depression lasting for a considerable time. Recovery will require a major reorganization of Japanese industry.

For while one repeatedly reads of Japan's industrial giants, most business in Japan is small and medium scale. That's not unusual, of course.

But what is important is that these smaller industries are highly dependent on foreign trade. As wages and other raw material costs increased over the past few years, the firms stepped up production, exports, they did not improve productivity; they merely increased output. This led to a manpower squeeze, to inflation and a recession.

As in the case of these small and medium-sized companies hoped that by a massive export drive they could drag themselves back up.

Then came the Nixon new economic plan. From what has been written above, it is clear that the big job will come to these small and medium firms which employ 77 per cent of all nonagricultural employees.

Already reported are an increasing number of bankruptcies, heavy production cutbacks and the firing of increasing numbers of employees. The prospect is that the situation will get worse in the months ahead.

Japan's real economic growth rate, which averaged 12.7 per cent a year from 1966 through 1969, slowed to 9.7 per cent in 1970 and probably to less than 4 per cent in 1971.

The cost problems have been magnified by the rapid growth of real wages in Japan. The increase was 8.7 per cent in 1970 and 8.4 per cent in 1971. This is considerably greater than the rise in productivity.

The Japanese government has voted a major series of public works programs to spur the lagging economy. But the direct benefits may go to a narrow range of industries—those in civil engineering and construction.

Now it should be understood that what's being talked about is relative. Japanese exports to the United States probably increased by 15 per cent or thereabouts in 1971. But 1971, which started out as a magnificent year for Japanese exports, was more than half over on Aug. 15. And by that date, commitments had been made for months in advance. So the problem is actually the outlook for 1972.

In this, likely the large Japanese producers may not be hurt too much. In fact, preliminary reports indicate that a number of these larger firms are going to do considerably better in 1972 than in 1971. They can cut costs, step up their promotion and cut back on unprofitable lines. But it appears that the small and medium-sized producers will be further caught this year by rising labor costs and heavily increased competition in the American and other overseas markets.

Pine Crest Inn To Be Rebuilt

By ANN SIECZKOWSKI

Broken glass and other debris still is scattered around Pine Crest Inn, which was destroyed by fire several weeks ago.

Mrs. Maxine Hancock, owner of the property, said she would like to tear down the building and rebuild but is being held up by the state fire marshal.

County Commission Chairman Greg Drummond said the place should be boarded up and the glass and debris should be cleared away before someone is hurt on the site.

A resolution from the Commission was suggested to the state fire agency requesting that the area be sealed off. Drummond announced there will be a meeting with the officials of Altamonte Springs and Al Davis, of the State Department of Transportation at DeLand, and the county regarding the closure of I-4. The talks will be concentrated on resurfacing space around the cloverleaf for road improvements.

The board denied a request by Dean Oakley to rezone from A-1 agriculture to R-3 multiple family at the northwest corner of Lake Howell and Howell Branch Road. He was told that he might apply again in six months.

Also denied was a request by Robert Greene for rezoning from R-1A residential to R-3A multiple family located on Lorraine Drive, approximately one-half mile north of Semoran Boulevard and west of Douglas Road.

Walter Haller, of the Snow Hill community in Geneva, came before the board at public hearing to request rezoning his property from CN restricted commercial to C-2 general commercial. The property is located on SR 13 facing Snow Hill Road. Haller said he wants to put in a convenience store and a laundromat. Citizens of the area object, saying they moved to Snow Hill to get away from commercial districts and they wish the area to remain a quiet family area where they can bring up their children. The request was denied because, under C-2 general commercial zoning, the property owner or someone to whom he might sell the property later, could put in a number of different types of commercial enterprises, including a "joke-joint." This was felt not to be in the best interests of the area residents.

Haller told the board he plans to install a disposal plant which would be designed by an engineer. He said he had been told that water coming out of the plant would be pure and would not harm the area water system.

Mandatory Sewer Hookup Section 612(b) does appear to be mandatory in its language requiring the abandonment of septic tanks whenever a sanitary sewer is constructed within 100 feet of an owner's property.

Marsee reported on the question of mandatory sewer hookup pursuant to rules and regulations of the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

The question of whether this mandate could be legally enforced by the county with a minimum of difficulty was posed. According to Marsee, it probably could be enforced but with a great deal of difficulty.

The primary problem arises in relation to police power. If an existing septic tank meets the requirements of the Department of Health, "and these requirements are numerous, and if it poses no threat to the health, safety and welfare of the community, Marsee was of the opinion it may be difficult to find a basis for the enforcement of the abandonment of the septic tank and hookup to a nearby sewer.

Water Service Approved Mullet Lake Water Association, Inc. Represented by attorney Ned Julian Jr., appeared at public hearing before the County Commission to request a certificate of public convenience and necessity for water service in Seminole County.

Julian told the board the utility would be limited to no more than 120 customers. He said the association is basically a group of Geneva residents "and you know that Geneva is notorious for poor water" who got together to put down one water system to serve many families, rather than have 96 individual wells. "This is a community project wherein 96 people are willing to invest to initially finance the project, which will be limited to 120 connections because the system will handle no more than that."

The area is broad but connections are limited. They have made plans to install fire plugs in main areas of density which meets approval of the volunteer fire department chief.

LAB SESSION — Six FTU students, plus a recent graduate, comprise the steering committee for a student-originated study of the university's data processing system. The study is being conducted by the National Science Foundation. The steering committee will screen applications from students at FTU and elsewhere to start the 15-member group which will be involved in the study. The study starts June 19. On Data Processing County Is At Odds

The question of whether the county will go into data processing was brought before the County Commission by Administrative Assistant Rodney Layner.

Layner is of the opinion that time is running out and that a decision must be made soon. Mrs. Eloise Pfeiff, secretary to Circuit Clerk Arthur Beckwith, said she has seen all the programs on the NCR 400 are less than two years old. "I disagree that there is a need for computers if this is the basis for requesting. The process is too expensive and there are other county needs which are greater," she said.

Beckwith concurred, saying that it would be far less expensive to acquire another 400 machine. It was his opinion also that "as for data processing, there are many projects more urgent."

In response to Commissioner Al Davis' query as to relationship between population and work load, Beckwith said Orange County had a population of 23,000 and Hillsborough County, 43,000 before going into data processing.

"We should be unequivocally sure that we are willing to spend the money required to go into data processing," Beckwith remarked. "It is not true that as the population goes, so goes the work load. It goes geometrically rather than arithmetically."

Layner explained that his list was not to be regarded as a priority list, that priorities for the computer unit would not be assigned until Phase 3 of the operation.

In an exchange which became rather strident, Layner said that for some weeks now, the County Commission has been discussing the question of gasoline allowance for home extension agent, Louis Gill.

There seems to be some misunderstanding as to the need for her trips around the county and out of the county to pick up supplies or to seek the best prices on items needed in the different programs she conducts for the home extension clubs and the 4-H clubs throughout the county.

Some of the programs include sewing classes, from beginners through dress-making and commercial sewing; interior decorating workshops; cooking schools; gardening projects; leadership training. These programs and others provide hobbies and worthwhile pastimes for women and children throughout the county.

An old timer recalls when the whistles-necked before the Commission and said the facts and circumstances are not evident by simply reviewing a voucher and submitted bills.

Commissioner Sidney Vihlen said he welcomed the sale but felt that it should come under county utility department requirements.

Chairman Greg Drummond said he wanted the sale but felt that it should come under county utility department requirements.

Maitland Requests Utilities Purchase

By ANN SIECZKOWSKI

David Johnston, Maitland city manager, appeared before the County Commission to discuss the purchase of Indian Hills Utilities by the City of Maitland.

He said the City of Maitland located a water treatment plant in 1969 and agreed the plant would treat a triangular area. Two private firms presently serve the area. He stated further that 40 per cent of the sewage coming to the Maitland plant comes from South Seminole. Maitland has sold revenue bonds in the amount of $700,000 to improve and expand the plant which operates over capacity now. The completion date is scheduled for June 1, with operation to begin Aug. 1.

He stated the Maitland City Council has authorized the purchase of Indian Hills Company which is interested in selling. Proposed capacity for the unit is 2,500 connections.

Johnston said he came before the Commission for two basic reasons — to keep the Commission informed and there is a legal requirement which states the city has authority to acquire Indian Hills Company but must have County Commission approval as the governing body. "Our purpose is to protect our service. We can provide better study and transition. No one has analyzed how much work to be done in how much time. And a systems analyst would need to be hired to determine programs and needs before a purchase is ever made."

Commissioner Sidney Vihlen said he welcomed the sale but felt that it should come under county utility department requirements.

Cash-For Cans

The cash-for-cans mobile unit will continue its regular stops here during April on a revised schedule of every other Wednesday beginning April 12.

The Reynolds unit will be stationed in the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce parking lot on Wednesdays, April 12 and 26, from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Traveling more than 4,000 miles a month, the unit driver is paying 10 cents a pound for more than 700,000 cans a month gathered by ecology minded individuals and groups.

In less than nine months more than 10 million all-aluminum cans have been collected by the three mobile units, according to Paul S. Hayden, regional recycling manager for Reynolds.

The Northeast Florida unit delivers the waste aluminum to a Reynolds recycling center in Jacksonville where it is shredded and shipped in bulk to Reynolds smelters. It is then cast in ingots ready for reuse. Additional recycling centers are located in Miami and Tampa.

Defendants Plead, Charges Dropped 19-Case Trial Docket Cleared

By MARION BETHEA
A 19-case trial docket was cleared in one day last week, either by the state dropping charges or by pleas by the defendants.

Among the defendants in this action were seven of the suspects in a large scale county burglary ring which was broken in January by sheriff's deputies.

"The bust" was the culmination of several months of investigation by Detectives George Abby and William Hogan. The ring had been in operation for three years and specialized in the burglary of homes, vehicles and business establishments. Most of the stolen property was sold.

In one case, set for trial this week, John Beaulieu, Peter Beaulieu and Donald Goodall were charged on seven counts of breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony and grand larceny. Two other defendants in the burglary ring, Kenneth Foster and Aubrey Taylor, plead guilty to a lesser offense, petty larceny, and the state dropped charges of breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony.

The court withheld adjudication of guilt and ordered a PSI. The defendant was allowed to remain on bond.

And finally, another case, continued from last week, against John Beaulieu and Bruce Hubbard, which they were charged with breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony and grand larceny, was dropped by the state.

Deputies Probing Rape

Hogan said the woman could remember but not details of the house where she was taken except "it had a ragged couch."

Hogan said the woman had gone to a nightclub alone and was approached by a man, unknown to her, who offered her a ride but instead drove her to a house close to SR 30 where she was assaulted.

She stated the man left her alone in a wooded area with instructions on how she could find her way back to a main highway, where help was summoned.

In another report, two of four men wanted for the theft of a car from a Winter Park auto dealer were captured after a chase that ended when the suspect abandoned the car. Orlando Debra, Sanford, and four other men were arrested on foot with combined sheriff's and police searches in pursuit.

Arrested by Sanford police and charged with grand theft auto, attempted breaking and entering and eluding police, Otis Terry Williams, 22, Orlando. Later sheriff's officers arrested Joseph A. Debra, 23, of Fort Davis, Ala., near Elder Springs.

Sgt. Edward Fagan, sheriff's deputy, said the recovered car was taken from Curbee's Cars of Winter Park. The suspects will be released to officers from that city.

Water Level A Problem Lake Kathryn Solution Sought

A large group of Lake Kathryn area residents attended the Tuesday work session of the County Commission to discuss the problem of water level control in the lake.

The problem is complicated because part of the lake area is within the municipal bounds of the City of Casselberry.

The City of Casselberry felt that it had the authority to control the water level in the lake. However, its attorney advised that, in fact, it does not have that authority.

Commissioners are prohibited from establishing an ordinance which would require the City of Casselberry to control the water level in the lake.

One of the problems is that the people in the unincorporated areas do not want to pay the cost of the improvement, nor do they want to be included in the area.

Drummond suggested to the residents that they make an attempt to meet with the developer whom they claim has caused all the problems they now face with the water level in Lake Kathryn. Drummond said that it might be better if the developer and the complainants meet first without any governmental representation. If the matter cannot be settled amicably, then the second meeting could include commissioners and attorneys, who would be expected to notify the developer of any failures to comply so that the county could proceed with actions to correct the water level.

Clinton Westbrook, county civil defense director, said he felt the ordinance was a good one and one designed to save lives.

It was the considered judgment of the commissioners that the trailer park operators should require the owners of the trailers to provide and apply the required tie-downs and anchoring. Also the park owners would be expected to notify the authorities of any failures to comply so that the county could proceed with actions to correct the water level.

Anchored Trailers Studied By County

By ANN SIECKOWSKI
A marathon, mini-bending work session for the County Commission began at 10 p.m. Tuesday with the consideration of the trailer tie-down ordinance.

Some weeks ago, following the tornado which struck in Geneva, County Attorney Thom Drummond presented to the board of commissioners designed to avoid a recurrence of the disaster.

Drummond remarked at the time that if the trailers affected had been properly anchored and tied down, the damage probably would have been considerably less.

During the period which Seminole zone 297 1/2 acres of apartments, Orange County zoned only 550 acres.

"We are zoning at a far faster pace for several reasons," Drummond said, "one being that people are encouraged to Seminole for greater profit values. The other reason is that the county is being counted for by the lower acquisition costs. We are being 'had,' gentlemen."

In other business Drummond authorized to attend a four-day conference in Washington D.C. on the April 9-12. This is the annual convention of the Water Resources Commission. Drummond was one of the official delegates from Florida appointed by Gov. Reubin Askew.

The board recommended that Drummond request a place on the Water Resources Commission to represent Seminole County.

County zoning director Robert Brown opined that the 60-day requirement could cause undue hardship on some because of the time of the hearing could be in the summer and it might be difficult to comply before the 60 days upon return to the area.

Brown said further that there were many existing trailers present in the same locations for from 10 to 15 years, which had survived with present safety features through hurricanes Donna in 1960 and Fura in 1964. He felt that in these instances of already

Altamonte Readies Utilities Purchase

By DONNA ESTES
Valley utilities company from Wick Knox has been ordered by the City Council. At the same time, Adele Sullaway, a resident of Spring Valley, present at the meeting, made it clear most vocal reaction among the plush development's residents is in opposition to annexation by the city.

All of the residents want to be certain the way of life they have chosen will continue with horses and stable areas remaining as they are. Mayor Lawrence Swafford assured that the city has no interest in taking over the horses and stables.

Swafford said his understanding is that Knox has offered the Spring Valley Civic Association first option to purchase the utility and Altamonte the second choice. The mayor added that he has been told the civic association is not interested in purchasing the utility. Knox would like the city to take over the company by April 25 or May 25, Swafford said.

Councilman T. A. Radloff said the purchase of the utility is a good financial undertaking even if annexation is not included. In other business, Council approved tentative site plan for the 8.13 acre planned development of Boulder Eugene Cooper on the lingering grove property on Palm Springs Drive. Cooper said the development will have four courtyards each with entrance to the east of Orange Street.

Surrounding each courtyard will be three groups of four patios homes each with total of four courtyards. Garden patios will be located in the front and rear of each home and the development will have a wall on Grove, Clurus and Palm Springs Drive to completely screen the homes from the street. Price of the homes will be in the $25,000 price range, he said.

Vegetable Report

Shipping point information for Florida vegetables for the week ending April 5, 1972, is as follows:

CELERY - Demand fair, market steady. Domestic Round type, medium-large, 1 1/2 bushel crates & 50 lb. cartons $1.50, occasional higher, 50 lbs. mesh sacks $1.25. 1 1/2 bushel crates, medium-large; Red type $2.50-3.00, mostly $3.00; Savoy type, $3.00.

CABBAGE - Demand fair, market slightly weaker. Domestic Round type, medium-large, 1 1/2 bushel crates & 50 lb. cartons $1.50, occasional higher, 50 lbs. mesh sacks $1.25, mostly $1.00-1.25.

CHINESE CABBAGE - Demand fair, market steady. Wirebound crates, wrapped, 24 count $2.50.

CRUCIFERAS - Demand slow, market dull, 1-1/4 bushel crates $1.25.

PARSLEY - Demand good, market steady. Wirebound crates, bunched 5 dozen, Curly & Plain $2.50.

RADISHES - Demand fairly good, market steady.

Altamonte Pushing Sewer Connections

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Strict enforcement of city and state law requiring connection to the municipality's sewer system has been ordered by the City Council.

Mayor Lawrence Swafford reported owners of some 117 homes in the city which can be hooked up to the sewer system have not done so. Of this number 61 have paid fees, but not connected and 28 are taking neither city water nor sewer service.

Councilman Dan Dorfman insisted that while the city is not "trying to beat any one over the head," the Council cannot knowingly circumvent the law and does not have the prerogative of withholding enforcement.

The councilman added that in truly special cases, special arrangements can be made for payment. City Attorney S. Joseph Davis Jr. said the city's sewer ordinance requires connection to the system within 90 days of official notification.

The ordinance, the attorney said, provides penalty of $300 fine and/or 30 days in jail with each day considered a separate offense.

Meanwhile, the Council decided to forego action, for the time being, on adding a 25 per cent surcharge in water and sewer rates to areas outside the city.

Swafford said other considerations including the fact the city is seeking $1.7 million in federal money for its sewer system expansion outweigh the possible $7,000 more in annual revenue the city would receive from the surcharge.

Davis pointed out the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development desires the cities to furnish water service outside municipal limits. A premium of about 12 per cent is already being charged to out-of-city users.

For 'Dependent Rehabilitation' New Narcotic Program Urged

By JANE CASSELLBERRY

TITUSVILLE — Brevard County Solicitor Jerry Gross told The Herald today he is proposing to the State Legislature a narcotics dependent rehabilitation program he hopes to have become law.

A member of the Brevard County delegation, Jane Robinson, has indicated interest in the new proposed, he added. Gross said, "Narcotic addicts are a clear and present danger to the society and themselves because they are rendered incompetent on both mental and physical levels by the addiction. They disseminate their 'disease' to other people and commit major crimes to support their habit."

Under the proposal, an addict presenting immediate danger to self or society could be brought before the court for a hearing on an affidavit or sworn testimony and hospitalized for diagnosis. If the court sees fit he could be institutionalized for up to five years as out-patient or in-patient. An indictment would be entitled to free counsel.

If an addict is not an immediate danger to self or society, upon affidavit of a police officer or testimony of next of kin or three citizens, he will receive notice of hearing at which testimony would be taken. If the court finds probable cause he is a narcotic dependent, he will be ordered to submit to testing for that purpose and could be subject to the same institutionalization, the proposal continues.

Gross pointed out the advantage of this program is that it could remove addicts from the street without having to turn them over to criminal court for rehabilitation and without giving them a felony record. It would be treating addiction as a "disease," as alcoholism is now recognized.

If a person is convicted in court of an indirect drug related crime, such as robbery, this rehabilitation also could apply in addition or instead of criminal penalty. The bill also would provide for funding, Gross stated. This is not a completely new idea as California has used a similar program for several years, he said.

The cost of additional rehabilitation facilities that might be needed would not equal the cost of addiction that involves loss to society of a potentially productive individual, destruction of others, and arrest, conviction and imprisonment, Gross insisted. Asked about the government's new expanded Methadone treatment program for heroin addicts, Gross said, "They are giving them only a 'hair of the dog that bit them' when they should be going after the dog."

Medical Examiner Needed As Seminole Associate

County Assistant Attorney Howard Marsee told County Commissioners that according to the state medical examiner act, the Orange County examiner could use an associate in Seminole County. The Commission recommended Dr. G. V. Garay, pathologist at Seminole Memorial Hospital. Chairman Greg Drummond remarked he thought "we were trying to break away from Orange County." He asked if there should not be one medical examiner in each legislative district.

According to Rodney Layer, county administrator, at one time Seminole was in the 18th medical examiner district with Brevard but now the district is the renamed 4th medical examiner district and includes Orange, Ocala, Seminole and Brevard Counties.

The Brevard County Commission sent in a recommendation to the state for a medical examiner to work in association with Seminole County. The other pathologists in Brevard objected to the recommendation by the Commissioners and "more or less went on strike as far as that medical responsibility was concerned."

Layer said that because of all the controversy in Brevard, he had written to the Governor and asked that Seminole's recommendation be held in abeyance.

Drummond said it appears that "we will be a satellite of Orange County in their greater catchment area." We'd prefer obtaining our own man under separate negotiations."

The matter is still under study and a further report will be made later.

Another work session on the special purpose lighting district will be held on April 11. At the Tuesday session, it was determined that the actions taken in the matter of a lighting district at English Estates was apparently invalid.

According to Marsee, it will be necessary to acquire a petition signed by the residents in that district requesting a referendum to establish a special lighting district. Administrative Assistant Rodney Layer was instructed to notify the residents of this procedural necessity.

Solons, Hoping To Adjourn, Push For Redistricting

By JOHN VAN GIESSEN

Associated Press Writer
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Hopes to adjourn the extended 1972 legislative session on time focused today on the gritty issue of congressional redistricting.

The House refused Wednesday to adopt the Senate plan for creating 15 congressional districts, passing its own plan in a 14-32 vote.

Senate President Jerry Thomas, D-Jupiter, said the House version of congressional redistricting would be sent to the State House of Representatives.

State House of Representatives Wednesday approved a redistricting plan which would divide Seminole County, placing the western half in the Fifth Congressional District and the eastern half in the Ninth Congressional District, as follows:

— Fifth, all of Citrus, Hernando, Pasco and Sumter, and north Pinellas, south Levy, north Orange and most of Seminole. No incumbent. Far removed from the Senate 5th, which is Orange, south Lake, west Seminole and Ocala.

— Ninth, most of Orange and Brevard. The incumbent is Rep. Lou Frey, Orlando Republican. In the same area as the Senate 6th District, which includes Volusia, Brevard, Indian River and part of Seminole.

In other action, the House returned an abortion bill to its calendar after a long delay designed to provide time to work out a compromise on when a woman could get an abortion. Meanwhile, two environmental issues remained in the Senate including a water management bill.

The congressional redistricting battle, a proxy war for 12 incumbent congressmen fought on a central Florida battleground, was being conducted without concern for legislative reapportionment.

The Legislature approved Wednesday a bill authorizing a 120-member House, one more seat, and a 40-member Senate, down eight seats. The bill was sent to the Florida Supreme Court which will check the reapportionment plans for their constitutionality.

"We now commend it to the courts," said House Legislative Reapportionment Chairman

S. Roberts Chairs SA Committee

Shella Roberts was elected chairman of the Seminole County Salvation Army advisory board. Mrs. Roberts has been an active member.

In accepting the chairmanship, Mrs. Roberts said: "I am greatly honored to be elected to this position of responsibility. I will dedicate myself to the task that lies before us as members of the board of our local Salvation Army. I know of no organization that has done more for Seminole County than the Army."

"Through the building fund drive in which we are now engaged, the old building will be replaced with a new community service center that will render great services to all of Seminole County. Our Salvation Army has a great and wonderful future before it and we will all benefit as it renders greater services to an ever increasing number of Seminole County people."

Capt. Billy Lyons, commanding officer of the Salvation Army of Seminole County, stated that few women have ever served as chairman of a Salvation Army advisory board. He said, "Never before in the history of the Salvation Army in Seminole County has a woman headed the advisory board. To the best of my knowledge no more than two or three women have ever served as board chairmen in the entire State of Florida. This is a rare occasion and we are honored to have such a dynamic person as Mrs. Roberts serving as our advisory board chairman during the most important period in the history of our Salvation Army in Seminole County."

Captain Lyons said, "For 43 years we have operated under handicaps. We have never been able to offer the people of Seminole County an adequate Salvation Army program because we have had nothing to work with. Now we know that our building fund will be successful. The people of Seminole County want this drive to succeed and they are going to see that it succeeds. This will mean that in a short time we will have a community service center with which to serve the community. We will reach many more good than we have ever been able to do before. Seminole County will be proud of its Salvation Army."

Mrs. Roberts indicated she would be appointing various committees to begin planning toward a greatly expanded service program for the center.

She said, "We must begin to develop our plans now so that when the new facilities have been completed we will be able to move forward."

The House plan is similar to the Senate plan in major metropolitan and rural north Florida areas, but differs widely in central Florida.

The Senate created a new district in Volusia and Brevard counties, but the House put Frey in Rep. Lou Frey's Orange County area and Volusia in Rep. William Chappell's multi-county district around Ocala.

The House also would put the Pasco-Sumter-Hernando area in a new district with Polk, while the Senate links Polk and Manatee in a new district and puts the Pasco-Sumter-Hernando area in Chappell's corner.

House Republicans threw up every obstacle they could to stop the House plan, but the Democrats rolled over their opposition with little trouble. Republican Rep. Lewis Eakin of Orlando said the plan was "a piece of garbage." Rep. Eugene Tabbs of Merritt Island called it an "LSD plan," and Rep. Granville Crabtree of Sarasota said it was a "Walker-minder."

The land management bill, which has now passed both houses, was amended by the House to give the Legislature a say in rules that must be prepared before July 1, 1973. The Senate was expected to concur.

Putting the state in control of development on lands it wants to save and giving it a veto over development with a regional impact, the bill has been hailed as the major environmental bill of the 1972 session.

Food Fair Sets Record

For the fifth consecutive year, Food Fair Properties, Inc. reported record net income in 1971 of $1.5 million, or 17 cents a share, up 16 per cent from $1.3 million, or 14 cents a share, the year before.

Cash flow, total income and rental income were also at record highs, Norman M. Krausler, president of the real estate and shopping center development company, said.

Cash flow was up 4 per cent to $6.2 million, or 73 cents a share, compared with $5.9 million, or 70 cents a share, the year before. Cash flow is the combined total of net income, depreciation and deferred taxes on income.

Total income increased 29 per cent to $23.7 million from $18.3 million. Total income figures include profit on the sale of real estate and securities for both years, as well as revenues for 1971 from the motor inn and office building operation of the Gateway urban renewal project in Newark, N. J.

Florida Gas Sets Record

Winter Park — Florida Gas Company had its most successful year in 1971. Stockholders were told in the company's annual report.

Pipeline and distribution revenues reached record highs in 1971. Operating revenues of Florida Gas and its subsidiaries, some of which were subject to refund, were $10.5 million, an increase of 14 per cent over the 1970 level, W. J. Bowen, president, reported.

Consolidated net income rose 27 per cent to $13.2 million, before giving effect to a non-recurring special charge of $700,000. This charge reflects the write-off of certain assets relating to the modular home subsidiary, whose manufacturing operations were discontinued in 1971.

The income increase resulted in earnings of $2.02 per common share, before giving effect to the special charge, compared with earnings of $1.76 per share in 1970.

Delta Buys 14 727s

ATLANTA — Delta Air Lines announced it has signed a purchase agreement to buy 14 B-727-200 aircraft with wide-bodied interior configuration from The Boeing Company at a cost of approximately $100 million. Deliveries of the aircraft will commence in February 1973. The agreement provides that the purchase of the aircraft is contingent upon the merger of Northeast Airlines into Delta, with Delta being allowed to terminate the agreement no later than July 15, 1973, subject to certain penalties, in the event the merger has not taken place.

New Orlando Bank Open

First Florida Bancorporation, the Tampa-based registered bank holding company, announced that the newest member bank, the Orlando National Bank, has opened its doors. Coincidentally, the new bank became the 24th member of the holding company.

The officers of the new bank are: J. C. Barfield, president; Mike B. Griffin, assistant vice president and cashier; and Jerry Hutchins, assistant vice president. The directors are C. Howard McNulty, chairman of the board; T. E. Tucker, Robert G. Neel, W. M. Sanderlin, John L. Russell and J. G. Barfield.

The bank opened its temporary quarters adjacent to the construction site for its permanent home. Capitalized at $800,000, the Orlando National Bank-West will serve the market areas of Pine Hills and Parkwood Plaza.

Ancient Catalogue Sought

Montgomery Ward is looking for a lost catalogue and offering $1,000 in rewards to the finders, according to an announcement today by Sully W. Fleming, manager of the company's store in Casselberry.

The nation's pioneer catalogue merchandising firm is hunting for its 1883-84 Fall-Winter general catalogue. The individual submitting the book judged by Ward's to be in the best condition will be awarded $500. The remaining $500 will be divided equally among all others who submit copies of the 96-year old catalogue. If only one catalogue is received by Ward, the entrant will get the full $1,000.

Fleming said entries should be sent directly to this address: 1882 Catalogue, P.O. Box 8339, Chicago, Ill. 60680. The contest ends April 1.

Publix Freezes Prices

Motivated by a deep concern for the consumer and the inflationary trend of the cost of living, Publix Super Markets, Inc., a 172-store Florida chain, announced its own self-imposed freeze on all price increases for the entire month of April.

Charles H. Jenkins, vice president and general manager, indicated that Publix Markets throughout Florida would have a self-imposed price freeze on all food items during the month of April. This self-imposed price freeze will follow the government's Phase I guidelines existing from August to November of last year.

Jenkins indicated that the food industry has been deeply concerned about the spiral of inflation, and that it was time for management to step in and take a firm stand against price increases, no matter what the source or reason.

Publix has taken its stand.

North Orlando Building Due

IRVINGTON, N.J. — Willner Industries achieved record sales and earnings for the year ended Dec. 25, 1971, William C. Willner, president, announced.

Net income for the year climbed 40 per cent to $97,397, or 20 cents per share from $69,350 or 15 cents for the prior year. Net sales rose 23 per cent to $7,321,822 from $6,116,371 for the comparable 1970 period.

"Our Wilco Construction Company subsidiary is about to begin construction on a 40-acre site which is part of a 2,250-acre tract in the village of North Orlando being developed by Florida Land Company, wholly owned subsidiary of Florida Gas Company," Willner continued.

Jobs, Prices Problems Unlikely To Go Away

Pocketbook Issues To Hang On

NEW YORK (AP) — The pocketbook issues of jobs and prices are unlikely to go away before the election or after it or even perhaps in this decade, and wise economists know it.

Acting upon this knowledge is another thing. A political candidate cannot acknowledge that the problems are without prospects for immediate solution, not at least until after November. But like the economists, they know.

The issues that keep unemployment and inflation at a 4 per cent to 6 per cent rate are deeply rooted in our spending habits, our demands for finer goods, our aspirations, our population mix, our work ethic.

The pressures on the job market and on prices have built for many years and they cannot be relieved instantly. There is, for example, an imbalance of jobs versus applications whose roots go back 30 years.

At that time a lot of little Americans were brought into the economy, and now they are looking for jobs. And so, while the number of jobs grows, the number of job seekers grows faster.

There is the matter of proper training. How does the nation anticipate future jobs with any degree of efficiency? Twenty years ago we had the answer: train them as engineers and teachers. Now they are jobless.

The fact is that there are jobs unfilled for weeks because, added to the selectivity of employers who are trying to keep costs down is the absence of individuals properly qualified for the jobs.

Spending habits, both public and private, are an explosive ingredient in inflation. And behind those spending patterns are ever-rising aspirations, both public and personal.

While the federal government attempts to put the lid on prices, it is, ironically, pumping more yeast into the recipe through deficit spending, necessitated by desires for better education, health, environment, security.

Consider the demands for pollution control. So far this new ingredient hasn't shown up in lower corporate profits, but quite likely it has shown up in higher prices. The costs are spread through society. All society pays.

While consumers complain about high prices, they demand more convenience foods. They add to the price of processing and packaging. Not only do they eat more red meat than ever, but they demand higher quality cuts.

But the good life to which all Americans aspire is symbolized by more than food. Undeniably, a bigger house, better car, expensive vacation and a variety of services keep the pressure on both wages and prices.

Are Americans willing to work hard for this good life? Of course. Are they willing to work as hard as they once did? Are the offspring of immigrants willing to work as their fathers did?

Such questions pertain to whites as well as blue-collar workers, to executives as well as clerks.

There still are other pressures that must be considered in trying to understand why immediate measures are slow to produce results in bringing wages and prices into a more stable relationship.

The international situation, for example, intrudes into every industrial economy on earth. Countries that import and export are under constant influence of the economies with which they deal.

These and other factors now roll the waters and give every one in the economy a jostling ride.

The Pay Board and the Price Commission and the Cost of Living Council try to seed the hurricane into submission but they haven't figured how to prevent the hurricane from forming.

FLORIDA FOODS JAMBOREE is being observed during April. In this month virtually all Florida food chains are participating with special displays and sales for Florida-grown foods and foods processed in Florida.

The Florida Department of Agriculture and consumer services division of marketing is coordinating this activity.

State Foods Are Featured

'Florida Food Jamboree' On

Florida Springtime is bursting out all over and the Florida food industry is doing its part. The entire month of April will be "Florida Foods Jamboree." Look for the signs and lots of good Florida foods in your grocery store. Radio and TV tapes will inform and educate the consumer about the various products and how to use them.

The Division of Marketing, Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, is coordinating the activities of the Jamboree for the industry. John Stiles, division director, said, "The Jamboree will emphasize abundance and quality of foods grown fresh or processed in the Sunshine State." Florida foods can be fresher by miles and also

Meat Stretching Dishes Nutritious, Tasty

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

The high cost of meat is forcing homemakers into using a much higher percentage of "meat stretchers," dishes which make a small amount of meat go a long way.

Many of these meat-stretching dishes offer good nutrition, as well as flavor. And they also can lend interesting variety to daily menus.

The recipes which follow will assist in stretching the meat dollar.

vinegar, sugar, bouillon cube, seasonings and reserved kraut liquid. Simmer, stirring, until sugar and bouillon cube dissolve. Bring to boil; stir in cornstarch blended in remaining 1/4 cup water. Boil 1/2 minute, stirring. Add kraut and stir in franks, celery and onion. Heat to serving temperature. Serve garnished with pimiento. Makes four to six servings.

Plan a week schedule that leaves you plenty of time to enjoy the potluck and still prepare a delicious buffet. The cake and sesame cucumbers can easily be fixed the day before you plan to serve the buffet. The main course, all-Florida beef salad, can be prepared hours before the appointed time. The salad really needs this chance to marinate and be at its best. Just before serving time fix the corned corn and celery, and serve it hot. Why not turn the lime trappe over to a male member of your house, because they usually are well adapted at making exotic drinks. These drinks are frosty, refreshing and easy because everything is quickly mixed in a blender.

Now with your patio buffet laid completely set, sit back relax and enjoy spring in Florida.

SWEET AND SOUR — Sweet blends with sour in this kraut and frankfurter combination flavored with bouillon and studded with pimiento. Serve with buttery mashed potatoes.

Colors for older home told

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. We are moving into an older home that needs a lot of work. We are having trouble deciding what colors to paint the walls and woodwork in our living room and bedroom. In the living room we have deamed off old wallpaper and paint on the walls and have discovered a rough, sandy plaster on the walls. The woodwork in the living room is the natural dark wood. We are going toward Mediterranean styling in our furniture. The couch and a chair are a divanized brown as is our shag rug. Our end tables and cocktail table are a dark finish. In our bedroom, which is also Mediterranean, we are getting a gold rug down and painting walls gold but I'm not sure what color gold to use. — G. T. A.

A. I think the light color choice in the living room is white for the walls, leaving the rough, sandy plaster as it is if that is possible and retaining the dark natural woodwork. It sounds like the perfect setting. In the bedroom, I am not thrilled with the idea of gold walls and carpeting if you have the red and black curtains. It would seem to me that white walls would be much more attractive. If your home is older, Q. I have a small creamer or pitcher that holds about 14 ounces. It is shaped to look like an orange with orange blossoms and upturned leaves forming the spout. Colors are orange and shades of green with snow-white and cream. Consequently, the fewer in miles fresh produce or processed food has to be transported the less the cost. And, of course, the fresh produce often has the fresh aroma of the field.

During April plan something special at your home with Florida foods. A springtime patio buffet might be just the thing to get everyone in the mood for outdoor living. The home economists with the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services have selected the following menu for just such an occasion. The recipes have been kitchen-tested in Tallahassee and feature "Goodness you can taste" from Florida.

All-Florida Beef Salad
Corned Corn & Celery
Sesame Cucumbers
Sunshine Chiffon Cake
Lime Fruit Frappe

New Highways Threaten Historical Sites

By THOMAS A. REEDY
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The march of time — progress and all that — is stirring up a large segment of Britain's population who worry about yesterday rather than tomorrow.

Giant motorways are under construction. They infringe on plots the Angles and Saxons peopled. They threaten the sectors the Romans built.

The historic site or archeological "dig" is coming into its own and Britain's Department of the Environment has been learning how involved this can get.

To stop a new highway or an airport or just a simple bulldozing job is expensive. To stop the people, many of them hand-aided in "preservation" societies, is not as simple as it may seem in this history-ridden land.

Arguments cropping up involve such disparate characters as Hadrian and St. Patrick.

That is about as far apart as anyone can get. Liverpool University has a team of young archeologists working actively to step in before the bulldozers do. They have had some success, and have saved some known historical sites but are worried about those they miss for lack of advance information.

A bulldozer uncovered some Roman pots and coins. The experts said it was one of several they are destroyed.

Some figures cited by the archeologists.

A survey for a 75-mile stretch of new motorway revealed 124 unknown remnants of the past, although only two archeology sites had been thought to be involved: of 100 Roman settlements in Wiltshire, not more than 10 survive.

The kind of things the historians worry about often conflict with 20th century demands.

For instance, landowner David Steele bought up some land near Daventry in the middle of England and brought in bulldozers to create a hotel and sports center.

The prime need, the university says, is to "at least record and investigate sites before

they are destroyed."

The kind of things the historians worry about often conflict with 20th century demands.

For instance, landowner David Steele bought up some land near Daventry in the middle of England and brought in bulldozers to create a hotel and sports center.

The prime need, the university says, is to "at least record and investigate sites before

they are destroyed."

Some figures cited by the archeologists.

A survey for a 75-mile stretch of new motorway revealed 124 unknown remnants of the past, although only two archeology sites had been thought to be involved: of 100 Roman settlements in Wiltshire, not more than 10 survive.

'Leave the Traveling to Us'

By THOMAS A. REEDY
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The march of time — progress and all that — is stirring up a large segment of Britain's population who worry about yesterday rather than tomorrow.

Giant motorways are under construction. They infringe on plots the Angles and Saxons peopled. They threaten the sectors the Romans built.

The historic site or archeological "dig" is coming into its own and Britain's Department of the Environment has been learning how involved this can get.

To stop a new highway or an airport or just a simple bulldozing job is expensive. To stop the people, many of them hand-aided in "preservation" societies, is not as simple as it may seem in

From Brownies To Seniors

Nance Russell Is A Born Leader

By MARILYN GORDON

When people in the south end of the county think Girl Scout, they just naturally think of Nance Russell of Fern Park.

She has decorated 19 years of her life to girls and girl scouting and is the only woman in the county to lead a troop from Brownies to Seniors.

Yet Nance never had a daughter in the troop. She just heard about the need and responded with her many talents and her greatly capacity for love.

It was 1952 when Mrs. Billie Moon, then neighborhood chairman, called Nance and offered her the position of leader. Nance readily accepted and thus began her many years of devoted service.

In addition to her leadership of two troops simultaneously, she served as neighborhood chairman for three terms, troop consultant, neighborhood cookie chairman and many spot jobs.

She opened her home and her heart to the girls. Many times neighbors saw tents pitched on Nance's lawn or heard the pleasant noises that come with pajama parties.

"I always have time for girls," Nance related, "I have never been one to lecture for even to talk a lot. I am a good listener. I try to get the girls to talk about themselves."

"Every so often I get a letter in the mail or a phone call from one of my girls just to say 'Thanks, Mrs. Russell.' That is what it is all about, you know."

"Our troop traveled all over. We went to Savannah, Naples, Tallahassee, and many many other places."

As though that was not enough activity, Nance wrote a Girl Scout news column for a local paper. She knew everything going on throughout the entire county and her column, never missed a thing.

She even served as day camp director for several years. Today, although she has five grandchildren, she still maintains an active interest in girls and scouting. She is co-leader of a Cadette troop in the Eastbrook area and serves Citrus Council as an advisor.

Hats Headline Classic Look

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Jack McConnell was discussing hats as a natural topic for a millinery designer. And a far happier subject now than it has been for many a year. For hats are back as a big fashion item now that the costume look is out and classic clothes in.

"Business is good now," McConnell said. "I did a 20 per cent increase this season over last. And a great many young people are wearing hats—some who had never worn one before."

Jack travels across the country making personal appearances in the stores where his hats are sold and he believes hats are a personal thing with women. Sometimes, he says, a salesgirl will say accusingly, "You didn't bring a hat for Mrs. So-and-So."

He says men like women to look dressy and that even when a man kids about a hat, he likes it. Men are prima donnas, too, he maintains and when a husband complains about his wife's hat, it's only because he's afraid she'll steal the show.

"Everything happened to our industry," he said. "First it was the changing mode of war II, then the bouffant hairdo, then wigs and then kids and their mothers both in hippy clothes."

"But we did harm to ourselves, too," he went on. "We stopped doing couture hats and only made juniors. Hats should be more than just a block shape with a trim stick on."

Today McConnell feels there is even a place for new people in the hat business and that there is nothing like competition to bring out the best in everyone.

He was in the Navy when he made his first hat. My girl friend worked in a New York store in the hat department. I asked her to make a hat for my mother and she wouldn't. So I went down to the millinery district where I knew she bought stuff. Still in my uniform, I got the material and made the hat myself.

"I put it on the bed at my friend's house and a friend of hers came in and bought it for $3.50. She still buys my hats but not at that price." On a recent visit to San Antonio, he sold 86 hats at $79 each. He has a couture line, a boutique line and a less expensive line. All have a different look. He's also in the men's shirt business.

Jack has been known for making flamboyant hats but he does understated designs as well. "But I find the woman who wears the overrated hat is really fun," admitted. "She has the guts to have a presence."

McConnell says he also includes what the buyers call "the nervous hat" in his line. "It has a feather or trim that moves. And it's the surest sale on the floor."

Fashion Tips

Spring Simplicity

Simplicity for spring is a sophisticated, rather than innocent, look. Movie-star toppers wrapped around the waist, pleated, flowing pants, backless dresses and cashmere sweaters will be part of the basics.

Men in White

White linen jackets, a perennial favorite, are back again for men. Besides the linen, there's a new trend in menswear for suits. Traditional lines are matched with non-traditional fabrics. The casual suit will be made of corduroy, denim and knit fabrics.

ANIMAL PINS A minimal pins that were so popular in plastic are now finely sculptured in vermeil, a gold wash on silver for a less costume look.

MISS LINDA LOUISE JOHNSON

Linda Johnson, Samuel Newkirk To Marry

Mrs. Ada Johnson of Sanford, announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Linda Louise, to Samuel L. Newkirk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Newkirk Sr. of Thomasville, Ga.

Born in Sanford, the bride-elect is a 1967 graduate of Cross High School. She attended Seminole County Business School for Secretarial Training and is presently employed by SCAI as Head Start secretary.

The bridegroom-to-be received his education at Magnolia High School, Thomasville. He is an Army veteran presently employed by Deep South Products, Inc.

The wedding will be an event of June 24, at St. John Missionary Baptist Church.

When was the last time you thought about the most important person in the world: you?

You. A person. Someone's child, no matter your age. A parent, perhaps. Probably a loved one. You—the most important person in the world. But sometimes you don't act like it. Such as when you're driving. If you thought about you, you'd take better care of yourself. You'd drive as if your life depended on it. And you'd take better care of your car. You'd check your tires regularly. Your brakes wouldn't reach down to the floor boards. The windshield wipers would wipe instead of smear. Your lights would point the way. And you'd turn them on not only between sunset and sunrise, but when it rained. Or when it was foggy. If you thought more about you, you wouldn't drive with people who obviously don't think much about themselves and certainly not about you. Nor would you even consider getting behind the wheel after you've had a drink too many. It's as simple as having everyone—especially you—say, 'I am the most important person in the world.' When you do, when you think of you, you'll Norman and Catherine Jones had a beautiful Easter weekend, with all four of their children and families being together for the first time in five years.

The family includes Areographers Mate, John Wayne Jones from the Mediterranean; Staff Sgt. Lawrence L. who is with Marine Air Wing, and his wife Paty and two children, Carl and Bruce Jones, from Beaufort, South Carolina; the Jones' daughter and family, Vernon and Charlotte Blackstone and children, Rodney, Mark, Timmie and Julie from Orlando; another daughter, Jim and Sue McEarchen and children, Danny, Kelly, Don and Mike of Chulota; and a friend of the family, Airman 3rd class Ralph Fuller from Jacksonville.

During the weekend the family went boating, enjoying every fun-packed minute, and on Sunday morning the family attended church services at the Chulota Community Church.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Johnson and the Johnsons son in law, Wayne Minshew, met Oliver and Roselyn Jones of Chulota in Orlando for dinner. Mrs. Johnson is a sister of Mrs. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Weisman of Daytona Beach, celebrated Mr. Weisman's 72nd birthday at the home of their daughter and son in law, Oliver and Roselyn Jones. The most precious gift for Mr. Weisman was a fishing trip, when he caught his first fresh water bass in all his 73 years.

Michele and Tommy Cox celebrated their birthdays with a double birthday party on March 25 at their home on Sixth Street.

Two games of drop the clothes pins and musical chairs were played, with Phillip Black walking off with both prizes. After opening their gifts, refreshments of cake, ice cream and cold drinks were served to Phillip and Gerra Black, Julie Eickler, Cheryl Breen, Melynda Pent, Debbie and Cindy Bryant, Lee Fox and Michael Boyle.

Michele and Tommy are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Cox.

Buck and Ginny Chadwick spent the Easter weekend in Miami with their son and daughter in law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Chadwick and their three children, John, Tina and Bert.

Grandpa and Grandma gave the children Easter ceramics that they made with a lot of love and tender touch.

Double Ring Nuptials Unite Kathryn Barker, Mr. Stover

Miss Kathryn Mae Barker and Marion Rogers Stover Jr. were united in Holy Matrimony March 18, 1972 at 2 p. m. in the Hollings Hills, Moravian Church, Longwood.

Rev. David R. Burkette was officiating clergyman at the candlelight, double ring ceremony. Mrs. Darwin (Jeanne) Shivers, organist, presented appropriate musical selections and accompanied soloist, Mrs. L.L. (Bonnie) Werley, who sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lyle E. Barker and the late Lt. Col. Lyle E. Barker, 433 Lake Drive, Casselberry and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Rogers Stover Sr., 106 Wood Lake Drive, Maitland.

The entrance to the Church was flanked by topiary trees decorated with white doves and a white wrought iron arch with floral arrangements on each side. A prelude kneeling bench, Family pews were marked with white satin ribbon, carnations and purple violets.

The bride, given in marriage by Charles P. Patterson, a close friend of the family, wore a formal length gown of antique white bridal satin, with high neckline, A-line skirt and long full Bishop sleeves. Crystals and sequins covered the lace bodice and Alencon lace border around the skirt. A wateau satin and lace train cascaded from the shoulder length, four tiered veil of French illusion attached to a Camelot cap of satin and Alencon lace with pearl beading.

She carried an Edwardian bouquet of white miniature orchids, stephanotis, miniature trailing ivy and had her great-grandmother's wedding band tied to one of the ivory satin streamers.

The bride's twin sister, Miss Karen Barker, was maid of honor. She wore a formal length gown of ivory and lilac chiffon over satin, with a wedding ring neckline and long sheer Bishop sleeves. The bodice featured self-ruching down the front with tiny chiffon covered buttons and lilac and ivory embroidery at the waist. She wore an Anne Boleyn headpiece of lilac and ivory orange blossoms and carried an Edwardian bouquet of deep red violets and stephanotis with purple velvet streamers and miniature trailing ivy.

Mrs. Craig Orsano was bridesmaid and junior bridesmaid was Miss Shannon Cutler, niece of the bridegroom. Their gowns and flowers were identical to those of the honor attendant.

Best man was Airman Darrell Reese Griffin (USAF) and serving as ushers were Chuck Grise and Joe Paulk of Chulota.

The bride's mother wore a two-tone pink polyester knit dress and coat ensemble, white accessories and a pink orchid corsage. The groom's mother wore a blue and white knit dress, matching coat, white accessories and a lightly tinted blue orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Orlando Naval Training Center.

MRS. MARION ROGERS STOVER JR.

Officer's Club. All white cloths and silver appointments were used on the serving tables. The cake table held the all white four-tiered wedding cake separated by Grecian columns and decorated with white sweetpeas.

The traditional bride and groom topped cake was served along with champagne and fruit punch from two silver punch bowls. The buffet table was centered with an arrangement of white snapdragons and purple asters, flanked by ivory silver three branched candelabra.

Greeting the guests and presiding at the bride's book table was Miss Valorie Wynore. The table was adorned with a tall white memory candle. Serving the cake and pouring were Mrs. Jack (Margie) Cutler, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Cheryl Clark. Rice bags of lavender tulle and ribbon were distributed by Jack Cutler Jr., nephew of the groom.

For traveling Mrs. Stover chose a multicolor print jersey dress with black accessories and the white orchid corsage from her wedding bouquet. The couple left for a wedding trip at the Polynesian Hotel, Walt Disney World.

Their new residence will be St. John's Village Apartments 240 Oxford Rd., Fern Park. Both will resume their studies at Florida Technological University where the bride is a junior majoring in elementary education and the groom is a senior majoring in business management.

Out-of-town guests came from Titusville, Port Meyers, New Port Richey, Tampa and Youngstown, Ohio.

Requests for women's news and photo coverage (parties, clubs, etc.) should be made at least a week in advance.

DO-IT-YOURSELF

Clogged Drain? Here's a Fix

Drain problems are among the more common and annoying hang-ups occurring around the house. Water going down the drain slows to a trickle. An abundance of water becomes more than the drain can handle and starts to back up. Folks begin to panic.

A balky drain is bothersome and can be messy but it is one of the easier home repair problems for you to solve. The trouble is most likely to be in either of two places—the drain opening in the sink or the trap right below the sink.

Check the drain opening in the sink first. Look at the stopper or strainer. Clean out the material that has gathered in and around it.

Metal stoppers that are in place permanently tend to gather slime. This in turn causes other material to cling and stop the drain.

Kitchen sink strainers lift out for easy cleaning. Lavatory sink stoppers are usually held in place with either a nut above or a coupling below. The coupling will be just above the trap. You will have to examine your setup carefully and loosen or remove these fittings to free the stopper.

Cleaning a way material that gathers around stoppers will prevent problems at this point.

The trap is the next place to check. The trap is the U-shaped pipe below the sink. Purpose of the trap is to hold water, which prevents sewer gas from backing up the pipe and escaping into the house.

Since this is the place where water stands still there is a chance for other things to gather there.

If the trap is equipped with a cleanout plug at the bend, clearing it is easy. Remove the plug with a wrench, first placing a pail under the trap to catch the water that drains out. A thin drain auger or a wire will do the job.

If there is no plug, remove the entire section of pipe. It is threaded at each end and can be removed.

On Art Museums

MUSEUMS IN CRISIS. Edited by Brian O'Doherty. Braziller, $6.95.

Most of this book is a series of essays on the financial, administrative and other problems of art museums that are caught in a squeeze over such questions as what should be their aims and how they should go about achieving them.

Unfortunately the first two items will put off the reader so much that he may never reach the real meat of the book. One is a study, as heavily footnoted as a doctoral thesis, of the history of the Louvre. The second is a plodding record, consisting mostly of obscure names and dates, of how the Communists in Russia established the principle of "socialist realism."

There are pieces about directors, curators, trustees, the universities and the advance guard museums, most of them pretty sober and upright.

There are recurring themes in which some critics and artists charge that traditional museums are but museums preserving relics of the past, in which questions are raised whether museums should tend toward art history or the education of the increasing swarms of visitors.

The book depicts the museum director as the man in the middle. In one corner are the trustees, usually inter-connected members of the Establishment, who expect him to be an administrator. In another are the staff members who expect him to be an art specialist, and in another are some minority artists who agitate for exhibitions that will show their own aberrations.

BOOK REVIEWS

The best piece in the collection, partly because it shows a sense of humor, is by Thomas W. Leavitt, who suggests that "the beleaguered director" try to steer a course in which the museum does not try to be all things to all people.

Unbelievable Capers BANK SHOT. By Donald E. Westlake. Simon and Schuster, $5.95.

Troubles? The world too much with you? Skip the martinis tonight. Dip into this wonderfully funny little book instead and escape for a few hours.

Crime buffis probably won't like this novel. It doesn't follow the purist line. Forget them. Go along on one of the widest bank robbery capers of this still new year: John Dortmunder.

And what a bank job it is. This group doesn't just walk into a bank with guns drawn and rob it. Much too normal. Instead they pick a bank housed in a mobile home, swipe a truck, hook it onto the bank and roar off with the entire bank.

To tell more would be to reveal too much of the plot, but it's a beauty. And the ending is unbelievable.

Godfather Revisited

THE GODFATHER PAPERS and Other Confessions. By Mario Puzo. G. P. Putnam's Sons, $6.95.

Mario Puzo was broke. After 30 years of writing, he had two novels published and critically acclaimed for the most part—but not much profit. He owed money. So he wrote "The Godfather."

There's more to the "confessions" than "The Godfather." As kind of an autobiographical anthology, the book contains some short stories and book reviews by Puzo previously published—or unpublished—and his views on gambling, Italians and women's lib.

LBJ Hospitalized With Chest Pains

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson was admitted to the University of Virginia Hospital's cardiac unit early today suffering from chest pains.

Dr. Richard S. Crampton, associate professor of internal medicine at the hospital here and Johnson's physician, said the former president is comfortable, his condition stable, and he is undergoing tests.

Dr. Crampton declined to say specifically that the ex-president had suffered a heart attack. Johnson had been visiting his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robb, in this university city and apparently began suffering chest pains shortly before 4 a.m.

A rescue squad was summoned and, about 4 a.m., a mobile coronary care unit from the University of Virginia Hospital was sent to the Robb home in the fashionable Farmington section outside Charlottesville.

Johnson was brought to the hospital about 5:30 a.m., members of the family said.

Johnson had planned to go from here to Washington Saturday to attend a wedding. He had arrived at the Robb home Thursday.

Robb, married to the former Lynda Bird Johnson, is a student at the University of Virginia School of Law.

Total Employment Is Up

Food Prices Hike .1%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The total number of Americans with jobs posted the largest gain in March in nearly five years and the rise in wholesale prices showed sharply, the government reported today.

Wholesale prices are generally indicators of later developments in retail consumer costs. The report that total employment rose 620,000 to 81.2 million and that wholesale prices of food and industrial raw materials increased a modest one-tenth of one per cent indicated more favorable developments for President Nixon to defend his economic policies.

The reports by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics also said that the nation's unemployment rate edged up from 5.7 to 5.9 per cent last month, but this was due to seasonal factors and the actual number of jobs edged down some 200,000 to 8.3 million. The report on wholesale prices included the news that farm products and processed foods declined four-tenths of one per cent in March after several months of sharp increases.

The over-all one-tenth of one per cent increase in the wholesale price index was the smallest in five months and followed three consecutive sharp increases of eight-tenths each in December and January and nine-tenths in February.

The report on jobs said half the employment gain was among men and was their largest monthly gain in more than five years. Another one-third of the gain in jobs went to teenagers and the rest to women.

The report also said average hourly earnings of some 45 million rank-and-file workers, more than half the nation's total work force, rose two cents in March to $3.57. This was 21 cents or 6.3 per cent above a year earlier.

The rise in hourly earnings plus a small increase in the length of the average work week boosted average rank-and-file pay by $1.09 per week to $131.73, the report said.

Increases in employment, earnings and hours of work are generally viewed as signs of economic growth.

Downtown Meeting Attracts 7 Interest Lags In 'Face Lifting'

By BILL SCOTT A handful of Sanford downtown merchants and property owners turned out for Thursday night's meeting with city zoning and planning officials to discuss proposals to renovate the city's downtown business establishments and street arrangements.

John Morris, city commissioner and a member of the Downtown Business Association (DBA), said he had 37 confirmations out of 64 possible participants. However, only four merchants and three property owners attended the meeting, held at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

"With only a handful of merchants out to worry about the future of downtown Sanford, it becomes pretty discouraging," said the comment from Arthur Harris, chairman of the city zoning and planning board.

Don Knight, DBA president, stated the ideas proposed by Gerald Duke to have the merchants and property owners participate in a plan to uplift the downtown area had appealed to him.

He said the improvements could not come easily and stressed the need for a prepared plan to avoid conflict.

"I think you should hire a $20,000 merchant's association representative to contact all property owners and merchants to get this thing going," Duke said.
