"North Star" does not object to his trainer, Theo. Schroeder, noted subjugator, sitting on his back and posing for the photographer, especially when he is also included in the print. "North Star" is one of the group of polar bears with John Robinson's Circus, specially imported for the 1925 tour, which comes to Sanford on Friday, Oct. 23.

Theo. Schroeder selected these bears when they were but six months of age and has worked them constantly for nearly six years. They are said to be the finest and largest performing group in the world and as a thrilling climax, Schroeder enters into a hand-to-hand combat with four of these beasts, whose combined weight is nearly a ton. Nothing has ever before been presented in a steel arena to equal Schroeder's fight with his charges.

"If there be Heaven Let it be here." In India inscribed in Arabic these words appear upon the tomb of Shah Jehan. Shah Jehan ruled mightily in the sixteenth century. His was not only Law but Affluence. He and his predecessors SAW OPPORTUNITY and took an empire when it was most ripe for conquest. Measured in size our modern invasions seem puny by comparison; measured in wealth the ratio is reversed. Persian hordes took lands by bow and battle-axe. Times change, and the methods we employ for the acquisition of property would seem to them incomprehensible. Through the press news is disseminated and dollars do the rest. How much simpler the procedure! There is another empire, and here in Florida. Like all empires it has taken time to find—and yet once found! Thirty-five miles from Orlando and practically untouched! They have swept down the coasts and back again and left the high land dry. Already attention is more and more directed to Lake County and the Hills. Buy now before it comes in one giant rush.

THE SHELL

And then I pressed the shell Close to my ear And listened well. And straightway like a bell Came low and clear The slow, sad murmur of the distant seas, Whipped by an icy breeze Upon a shore Wind-swept and desolate It was a sunless strand that never bore The footprint of a man, Nor felt the weight Since time began Of any human quality or stir Save what the dreary winds and waves incur. And in the hush of waters was the sound Of pebbles rolling round, For e'er rolling with a hollow sound, And bubbling sea-weeds as the waters go Swish to and fro Their long, cold tentacles of slimy grey. There was no day, Nor ever came a night Setting the stars afloat To wonder at the moon; Was twilight only. And then I loosed my ear—O, it was sweet To hear a cart go jolting down the street. —James Stephens.

Should The Women Belong?

In an editorial, well sprinkled with interrogation points, and written in the most approved forceful and masculinely aggressive style, appearing in the current issue of the Pictorial Review, a feminist rises to inquire.

She would like to know, among other things, "Why do all of us, men and women alike, go on perpetuating the sex line? . . . Why do women's clubs pay out thousands of dollars to men organizers to show them what to do? What could be more foolish than this? . . . Why should there be women's Chambers of Commerce? Why should not all Chambers of Commerce accept membership of business women? . . . Nothing ever happens at a Kiwanis Club meeting, does it, that would shock the wives and sweet-hearts of their members? The chief diversion at luncheons consists in eating and singing rather foolish songs. Haven't we got a Governorine reigning over the cowboys and cowgirls along the Texas border? Haven't we got Mayoresses and Senatorettes and 'Honorable Ladies' from a number of places?"

All of which is a blanket indictment and typically representative of the feministic creed. But notwithstanding such broadsides of propaganda, there is an element of human nature to be considered. While the idea of women indulging in a concerted movement toward a more constructive plane is only natural in the face of modern thought expansion, the danger of extremity through zestful enthusiasm is apparent at once in such platitudes as these.

One is restrained by lack of space from picking up the gauntlet on all of the charges thus flung in the face of selfishly gregarious mankind. But one should say a word regarding the admission of the so called gentler sex to membership in civic welfare luncheon clubs.

These organizations embody a double purpose, for, in addition to providing a basis for co-operative civic development to work in the community, they are a welcome break in an existence otherwise regulated and bound by conventions.

For one brief hour at noon, the business man may gather with his kind, hail him as a friend and consort with him, utterly free from stiff, ethical formality. No man entirely outgrows his youth, and he thus may revel for a moment in unexpressed boyhood.

Imagine then the presence of woman in such a gathering. The songs, hitherto carefree and light hearted become riotous and "foolish" in fact, and there is a hasty movement to don again the mantle of dignity and circumspection which culture prescribes in the proximity of woman. Gone at once is the atmosphere of congenial joviality as man again ascends to the pedestal which he has occupied since immemorial.

One can only commend the awakening of women's interest in subjects beyond the horizon of domesticity, and their efforts to share in the advancement of civilization. There is much welfare work that can be better handled by women than by men. Let the feminine influence be applied then to uses for which it is adapted, and not directed at any activities which might be interpreted as intrusion.

Certain laws of humanity are inescapable, as the Pictorial Review writer inadvertently admits when she says, "We always have preferred babies to bayonets, and still do."

Reducing Pistol Toting

In taking cognizance of the ever increasing number of crimes, the country as a whole, it seems, is awakening to the dangers made possible by the activities of the gunman, robber, bootlegger and other professional crooks. The problem of combatting crime has brought out several possible remedies, among them being a proposed federal curb on the pistol traffic.

Under the provisions of the proposed legislation the sale of all firearms would be greatly restricted. Whether the federal ban would work efficiently or be as easily evaded as several state laws, is highly problematical. President Coolidge has expressed it that a national measure would keep weapons out of the hands of law-abiding citizens, while criminals would still procure them easily.

In the opinion of the New York Herald Tribune, the Federal law would work no better than the Sullivan measure of the empire state, which instead of checking crime has rather "encouraged banditry." Though the New York statute has been defended as sound in principle, the Herald-Tribune says, "its failure is plausibly attributed to the fact that pistols can be bought in states other than New York, or ordered by mail with the utmost facility."

Advocates of the Federal regulation are certain that a national pistol law is the only remedy for the discouragement of crime. Yet, as the New York paper points out, "it may be another case of sound in principle, another law of depriving honest citizens of the means of self defense certainly, and hold-up men of deadly instruments—perhaps."

We doubt very seriously the wisdom of the anti-pistol law. Crime has become a profession, highly organized and working upon an efficient basis. An attempt to deprive the thug of his tools will force him to smuggle guns, thus adding another law breaking opportunity.

Perhaps, as the Herald-Tribune says, "the attempt to deprive the gunman of his weapons may be successful if to carry them greatly increases his hazard." In England the penalty for felons caught carrying dangerous weapons is extreme while only a short time ago a Massachusetts court sentenced a hold-up man to life imprisonment. Measures of this kind would give the criminal something to worry about and the traffic in firearms would diminish a great deal if a life sentence faced every man caught carrying a dangerous weapon.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

There is a certain young actor in New York, a player of romantic swashbuckler parts, who when he is sober, as generally he is, is one of the gentlest and most companionable of men. But when he indulges in strong water, as at rare intervals he does indulge, his nature changes. He becomes dogmatic, disputatious and occasionally quarrelsome. Such times he delights to corner some inoffensive acquaintance and pin him down to a definite position on this subject or that and then debate the point in the negative for hours on end. He goes about seeking his prey in any quarter and, having caught a victim, shows no mercy. One night, being in one of these alcoholically promoted moods of his, he trapped a friend against the dining room door of a certain theatrical club. The latter wished not to argue with any one on any topic whatsoever. Above all things he desired to escape into the open. But the actor would not have it so. "You go round saying you know so much about this, don't you? That's kind of fellow you are, ain't you?"

As Brisbane Sees It

Wall Street Boils Again. Happy Insiders. WHAT Third Term? 5,000 Useful Rats.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1925)

ANOTHER "FRENZIED DAY" in Wall Street. The ticker was fifteen minutes behind all day, which means that it couldn't print sales as fast as they occurred. Somebody bought and sold 198,700 shares of United States Steel, 168,700 shares of General Motors.

MOTOR AND other stocks are all right, if you know what you are buying, what VALUES are behind your purchase. Heaven help the man that buys the wrong stuff, the wrong motor stocks especially.

The first touch of hard times will freeze up the sale of all but a few automobiles, as the first frost freezes the little, shallow pond.

If you are a gambler, LOOK OUT. In Wall Street many are called and few are chosen. The few know what they are doing, the many don't.

FOR THOSE who have the right things and that control from the inside these days of prosperity and frenzied buying are wonderfully happy days.

Consider Standard Oil, for instance. A little while ago our savage, relentless Government determined—please don't laugh—to kill all the big octopuses, chopped Standard Oil up into many little pieces. One little piece, "Socony," which is short for Standard Oil Company of New York, is now capitalized at $235,000,000, and the cheerful proposal yesterday was to raise that to $375,000,000.

Those that own the $235,000,000 would get instead stock certificates worth $375,000,000, and there is no income tax on that—the court has so decided.

IT IS different with the small doctor, getting out of bed at 2 o'clock in the morning, to see a croupy child, worrying himself to death, cry. If he manages to make $5,000 extra by shortening his life, there is income tax ON THAT. And he isn't allowed to deduct anything for "depletion" either.

THE PROFOUND Cyrus H. K. Curtis papers say Republican troubles in Indiana may "blast the Coolidge third term." Where does Mr. Curtis get the Coolidge third term?

Mr. Coolidge has been elected President ONCE. The chances are 50 to 1 that he will be elected a second time. When re-elected in 1928, that will give him his SECOND term, no third term about it.

WHAT HAPPENS in Indiana won't interfere in the least with the Coolidge second term in 1928. At times you stand, with the Democrats barely strong enough to cut each other's throats, you might take Indiana or any other State away from Coolidge and he wouldn't miss it.

IN THE chemical laboratory of Columbia University 5,000 rats under what has happened. They are fed strange things, that the learned Dr. Sherman, professor of food chemistry, may learn what foods prolong human life. The sad part is that after the rats have tried all kinds of food, and indigestion, they must die.

OUR HUMBLE brothers with nervous noses and long tails are a nuisance and a menace, spread diseases, destroy property. But they are not entirely useless. In the Rockefeller Institute able scientists concentrating on war against disease destroy many white mice and rats in that great war.

White rats and mice are valuable animals in the study of cancer. Even the kind-hearted vivisectionist will admit that it would be worth while for ten million rats to die of cancer, if their deaths could save from cancer an equal number of women.

VASSILI WADONSKY trained his horse Transvaal most carefully to win the Cesarewitch Stakes in England. The horse failed. Wadonsky hanged himself to end his troubles.

An inventor, relying on his brain and on luck, will try and fight again never losing courage. See the life of Pallasay. When a gambler fails he kills himself on the racetrack or at Monte Carlo. Real mental work is its own reward, whether in failure or success. Gambling, a vice, has no compensation.

SEVEN GREAT nations in Europe have agreed not to attack each other. That's better than trying to drag the United States into a League of Nations, with the idea of calling on us for troops in case Europeans decide to fight, and for money to help pay their bills. We have forty-eight nations over here that agree not to murder each other and we are getting along nicely. If Europe will imitate us, everything will be pleasant.

IN FRENCH Morocco, poor Abdel-Krim is hiding from the French fliers that bomb villages and the Rif refugees everywhere. The French troops are entering Winter quarters for the rainy season. French airmen fly at their leisure and pursue the Rifis. War has changed. Let's hope that this country will never discover that to its sorrow.

THOSE MOST concerned with the programme of economy in this richest nation in the world will note that for every dollar spent by the Chemical Department of the Army, the farmers of this country will save ten thousand dollars or more.

POT LIKKER ASHEVILLE CITIZEN

When we note that ignorant people often attain places of prominence we are sometimes affected by the depressing thought the education is over-rated and merely supplies a certain superficial polish which quickly rubs off. It does not seem to get rubbed in, after a manner of speaking.

An instance will illustrate this mental perturbation. It relates to Judge E. H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation, and hardly less to Dr. Royal S. Copeland whose vocation is that of medical adviser-in-print of Citizen readers and whose avocation is being United States Senator.

This Judge Gary illustrates our point. Supposed to be a well-educated and informed man he is on the contrary a profoundly ignorant one—in some respects, we hasten to add, lest he libel-us. He may know much about the steel business and quite a bit of finance and something of baseball, but in certain essentials he dwells in the benighted depths of unqualified ignorance.

Dr. Copeland quotes Judge Gary in today's health article and between the two they make out some good, sensible reading. The Judge has been telling the Doctor-Senator about his "health cure," and what experience taught him to eat and not eat. The Doctor approves and particularly the statement of the Judge that "It is a crime against childhood to throw away the water in which vegetables and meat are cooked."

Sensible, say we. This water contains minerals needed by the human system; it carries the vitamins boiled out of the vegetables; in it is the iodine they manage to collect from the meagre supply of this mountain country left after rains have carried the bulk to the lowlands. Throwing away this water is akin to casting out the soup and gnawing on the soup bone.

But here both judge and doctor show their superficial education—their lack of knowledge of essential nomenclature. They call the water in which greens have been boiled "juice!" Juice, forsooth and other words! Is it that they are so ignorant or so presumptuous of their little learning that they seek to improve on the absolutely perfect, time-honored designation of "pot likker?"

Pot likker is the dietetic foundation of this great country—we have ample authority for this claim—we can prove it by every farmer in North Carolina. It fought the Revolutionary War, it nurtured Thomas Jefferson, John C. Calhoun, Zeb Vance, Andrew Jackson, and quite like George Washington, and assuredly Abraham Lincoln. It was the staff of life on which the South relied in the devastating days after the Civil War. All the people then "eat" it—we use the term of the judge and the doctor. "Juice" is a vile substitute name for beneficent likker. Why, it is as hilarious as the slanderous story that a Secretary of the Navy looked down into the hold of a warship and asked if it was called the "basement" or the "cellar," which Mr. Daniels didn't.

THE SENATORSHIP IN INDIANA ST. LOUIS STAR

Ambition to hold office is so intense in Indiana that friends of possible appointees to the United States Senate did not wait for the funeral of Senator Ralston, who died only last Wednesday, to start discussion of his successor. Senator Ralston was a Democrat, while Gov. Jackson is Republican. It seems that the Republican majority in the Senate will be increased two through the temporary appointment—one in the reduced Democratic vote, and one in the additional Republican.

On the surface, there are fifty-five Republicans and forty Democrats in the Senate. To a casual observer that would be a sufficient margin of control, but it is not overlooked by the administration in Washington, which will have so many appointments to be confirmed and measures to be passed, that the list of Republicans includes several who have fought the administration more than they have supported it. Included in the list of Republicans are Senators Hiram Johnson, Borah, Brookhart, Couzens, Norris and La Follette, with two or three others. If these Senators act with the Democrats on any question, as many of them did in refusing to confirm Charles B. Warren as Attorney General, they will cause great worry to the administration.

Under such conditions, former Senator Albert J. Beveridge and Everett Sanders, Secretary to the President, are proposed for the temporary appointment. Senator Beveridge has been too much inclined toward independence to receive support from the Republican leaders in Washington, which should give Mr. Sanders, who has served several terms in Congress, the inside track. There is one consideration, however, resting in Senator Watson, whose election comes up next year. If former Senator Beveridge is taken care of it would remove him as a probable candidate against the senior Senator in 1926.

That was strongly hoped for by the latter, but the injection of the President's secretary into the fight would minimize Senator Watson's troubles. It looks as though year, Indiana will be the center of a bitter fight irrespective of the temporary appointee.

LOCARNO LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL

The failures of the Allied conferences at Cannes, at Genoa, at The Hague have borne fruit at Locarno. Conflicting aims, distrust and suspicion, which wrecked the former efforts to stabilize Europe, have given place at last to mutual concessions and a spirit of good will. The negotiations now nearing completion in the little Swiss town, therefore, mark a decided turning point not only in European affairs, but world affairs; and the promise of peace and security is due to the new viewpoint from which the problems are now regarded.

Locarno is the logical sequence of the gathering in London when the Dawes plan was put into effect. Herriot had taken the place of Poincare; Ramsay MacDonald had succeeded Lord Curzon. The old order had passed, and with it the policy of oppressing the former enemy nation and exploiting its resources. In spite of the change of heart, however, Germany was told to sign on the dotted line. It was planned to express itself, but the plan for its economic salvation and the payment of its war debts had been cut and dried.

The conference at Locarno was a long step forward. For the first time Germany was invited to the council table to discuss the issues that have troubled Europe. For the first time since the Armistice the German nation appeared as the equal of its neighbors. For the first time its problems were given sympathetic hearing. The success of the conference depended upon a departure from the traditional attitude of France, and Britain, astute diplomat that he is, saw that only in concessions and conciliation could his nation be freed from the incubus of the German men-

Powell and James Garris Zeigler, which was celebrated last evening at the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church, the Rev. J. L. Oates, D. D., officiating.

The young couple are motoring to Florida for a trip of two weeks, after which they will live in Sanford, Fla., where the bridegroom is connected with the Sanford Drug Company.

The worn-out feeling is gone and I am thankful for restored vitality, so necessary to a business man." Thousands in every state have testified that instead of being pale, weak and tired the Golden Medical Discovery gave them renewed vim, vigor and vitality. Try it! All druggists.

Why have BOILS?

Boils and pure, rich, red blood never go together. They simply won't mix, any more than oil and water. Healthy blood dries these pests right up! That's the reason S. S. S. drives agonizing boils completely out of the system. There's not a chance for a boil, or any other breaking out on the skin, when pure blood, full of red cells is rushing through your system.

And that's what S. S. S. does. Builds up the red blood. Puts red blood-cells by the millions back in the system. S. S. S. makes the blood so strong in healthy, red blood-cells that painful, torturous boils—disfiguring pimples, blackheads and blotches—itching, burning eczema and rashes and other embarrassing skin eruptions simply get out.

It's a fact. S. S. S. has been doing this very thing for 100 years. You can get S. S. S. from any druggist. So, why have boils? Get the larger bottle. It's more economical.

MEXICO LEARNS MANY HABITS OF YANKEE INVADER

Reported 100 Per Cent Americanized in Matters Concerning Chewing Gum, Soda, Baseball, Movie, And Jits

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 20.—(P)—Mexico is about 100 per cent Americanized in matters concerning chewing gum, movies, jits, baseball, rlang, toothpaste, ice-cream soda, waffles and five-cent literature.

In each of these enumerations the United States product found on every Main Street also flourishes in pristine vigor throughout the Mexican capital.

America's most ubiquitous brand of automobile honks for custom through every street. Gum chewing has become a habit. The only difference between the Mexican and the home variety is that the wrappers are printed in Spanish.

A Mexican with restaurant experience in the States started a modest waffle and hot-cake shop here and put up a sign "American quick lunch." Lunch in Mexico is anything but snappy. Business establishments close a minimum of two hours for the noon meal.

The "quick lunch" idea went over big and now there are dozens of such places here. The name, however, continues to be a misnomer. It is quite possible to spend two hours over waffles.

Soda fountains are frequent and the output would do credit to any place north of the Rio Grande. The dentifrices popular in the United States loom large upon the shelves and in the display windows. The same applies to scores of widely used American products and articles.

Some of the popular-priced and widely-circulated American periodicals, especially weeklies, are on sale here the same day as in the States, and have a large following.

As for the movies—if American studios ceased production every cinema theatre in Mexico City would have to close. Some local and a few European films appear, but they are rarities.

Baseball is popular and is increasing. The Mexican small boy knows Babe Ruth dope perfectly, and will predict with confidence the Big League results. There are some good Mexican teams and they draw well.

Paris Lightweight To Stay In France After Failing to Stop Rival

PARIS, Oct. 20.—(P)—Lucien Vinez, European lightweight champion, will remain in Europe another year because he failed to dispose of Piet Van Vliet of Holland, by a knockout inside of ten rounds.

Vinez won the decision after 15 rounds and saved his title, but he lost an attractive American tour.

An elaborate American itinerary had been prepared by a Cleveland sportsman, provided Vinez won in 10 rounds. The man made the effort but threw science and experience to the winds. The wily Dutchman aware of Vinez' intention merely kept away from harm, kept poking his left hand into the champion's face and weathered the 15 rounds.

WOODBRIDGE AT MEET

ORLANDO, Fla., Oct. 20.—(P)—King Woodbridge, president of the Advertising Clubs of the World, will be one of the leaders of the advertising profession who will attend the first annual convention of the Fourth District Advertising Clubs which will be held in this city April 12 through 14 of 1926.

Pacific Crews Get Sick Treatment By Radio From Shore

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 20.—(P)—The chart for radio-treated patients in the receiving hospital here is mostly blank. The physician who reaches ships with all crews in all parts of the Pacific frequently does not know whether he or Davy Jones won.

Ships that do not carry doctors are making increased use of the radio when sickness visits their cabins. San Pedro picks up these calls for medical assistance and relays them to the hospital here. A physician digests the symptoms and prescribes a remedy. In a few minutes the answer to the distressed query is flashed back to the ship. If the case is serious, a continuous flow of messages between the hospital and vessel is maintained. But in the majority of cases, the results are never known.

Treatment can be given by the local hospital to positions as distant as Singapore.

Efforts are being made to have all ship lines operating tankers and freighters adopt a standard medicine chest. By this means the police physicians at the hospital will know what medicinal supplies are available for their prescription.

Shattered Hopes Of Colony Lying Under Ruins Of Old Town

LAPORTE, Pa., Oct. 20.—(P)—Buried beneath the ruins of a group of buildings near here lies the shattered hopes of a little colony of men and women who, a half century ago, founded Celestia, a town laid out and made ready for the second coming of Christ.

Celestia's memory is preserved only by a yellowing deed filed in the archives of the county courthouse. It was named for the Celestial City. Streets were marked out and an artificial lake was dug. At the height of its prosperity a newspaper, "The Day Star of Zion" was published with fair regularity.

Most of the settlers came originally from Connecticut. In order, so far as possible, to keep out worldly affairs, they petitioned the state legislature to be set aside from Pennsylvania, declaring that they did not wish to be associated with events of the mortal world. Their petition was not granted.

The last of the original settlers held at death the faith of the founders. The land, of about four square miles, was sold for taxes and the property left to ruin.

State Has Many Ways To Administer New Fish and Game Laws

TALLAHASSEE, Oct. 20.—(P)—Florida has 137 different ways in which to administer her game and fish law, J. B. Royall, state game commissioner, declared. This is due, he said, to a proviso in the general law passed by the 1925 session of the legislature, which states that nothing in the act shall be deemed to alter, repeal or modify any local or special laws.

The proviso, Mr. Royall pointed out, left in effect the 137 local laws found on the statute books of the state, and each of these, he added, serves in the territory in which it is effective as an amendment to the general law. This has caused great confusion among the public, he said, making enforcement difficult.

Panama City—$10,000,000 construction program planned for St. Andrews Bay district, for coming year.

HOSPITAL COST IS OUTLINED AT U. S. CONVENTION

President of American Association Tells Hospital Men at Meeting That Institutions Are Costing Billion

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 20.—(P)—The hospitals of the nation and Canada are costing over a billion a year, Dr. E. S. Gilmore, of Chicago, president of the American Hospital Association, said today, in opening the annual convention to be held here for the next four days.

The great work, he added, must go on.

Within the last generation the average length of life, had been increased 21 years and "it is safe to predict that in the next 20 years 21 more years will be added to the average."

"It will be disgraceful, if not criminal, for anyone to die under 75 years of age, in the next generation," was his message. This average was due largely to the increased activities of hospitals throughout the country.

A brief history of the organization and many of the plans and hopes of the organization were presented by Dr. Gilmore, who emphasized "the great work being undertaken by the association."

Over a million dollars a day was being spent on the construction of new hospitals alone—twenty million persons were served annually while the hospitals reach sixty million in all branches of life—more young ladies were in training in the hospitals than were enrolled in "all our universities and colleges."

These were accomplishments named.

Foreign countries were also waking up to the needs of hospitals as shown by the hospital systems being inaugurated in Germany, New Zealand and the inquiries received from South American countries as to the details of the management, furthered the work.

CHICAGO MAN COMING

ORLANDO, Oct. 20.—(P)—Homer Buckley, of Chicago, and president of the Ad Club of that city, will be one of the leading advertising men who will attend the first annual convention of the Florida Advertising Clubs of the World in this city during April 12 to 14, 1926.

School Board Builds Houses For Teachers

GROVELAND, Fla., Oct. 20.—(P)—The housing situation for teachers has been met in this city by the erection of a $10,000 teaching house which has just been completed. The house is a modern throughout and was furnished at a cost of $3,000. The total of $13,000 was met by a special tax levied on the school district. The lot is a part of the original school property. Accommodations in the teaching house are provided teachers at a low monthly rate.

CLEAN TEETH

HON. ED. WALTHAM, co. Seminale Hudson-Essex Co., Sanford, Fla.

Dear Ed: No one can overestimate the value of having teeth clean or the agony of having them cleaned.

It has been said that this is a superficial age, but modern dentistry certainly goes to the root of things.

In the old days when you went to the dentist to have your teeth cleaned, he would take a little whirling brush and a soft rubber on the end of his confluence and get your front teeth looking nice and shiny, and let it go at that.

But things are different now, as they say in Russia.

When you go to the dentist's office to have the mud scraped off your molars, you are greeted by a dainty little lady in a white costume. She sits you in the chair and you begin to imagine what a fine time you are going to have—until she begins her work.

She takes some cruel instruments and runs them up your gums and cleans the cob webs off the back of your eyeballs.

Then she takes some other little instruments, just as cruel, and runs them down the gums of your lower jaw and cleans out your toe nails.

And there you sit, ashamed to groan, for she smiles so sweetly as she scrapes some rust off the lower end of your lung.

It's a great experience, having your teeth cleaned by the model dental hygienist. When she gets through with you your teeth are clean, and I don't mean maybe. And then the dentist sends along his bill and you are still cleaner.

The question is whether it hurts more when your teeth hurt and when you keep them from hurting. But enough of agony! Let's turn to delight and think for a moment of the joy that owning an Essex brings.

Yours, BILL

Indians Employed As Machinery Fails In Wild Rice Fields

CASS LAKE, Minn., Oct. 20.—(P)—Machinery, ally of the pale face, has failed in its effort to collect rice in the innumerable lakes of Minnesota and the Indians have been temporarily successful in defending their traditional monopoly of the wild rice harvest.

E. J. Scott, acting superintendent of the Consolidated Chippewa Agency here, said this was due to the impracticability of modern rice harvesting machinery rather than to the counter efforts of the red man.

The Indians were greatly alarmed at the appearance of rice harvesting machines. They not only threatened to remove an indispensable means of making a livelihood but literally destroyed the precious fields. The heavy loads necessary to carry the binder-like contraptions ripped the tender stalks from the shallow water, spoiling virtually all rice that the reaper missed.

Now the tribesmen and their families in birch-bark canoes and awkward, but light flat-bottom boats, are proceedings as in the days of old.

The United States now produces about 95 per cent of the dyes used in this country.
