SPANISH KING HEADED DRIVE UPON REVOLT

Tried To Lead Troops In Person Into Battle Being Held Back With Big Difficulty

MADRID, Dec. 17—(AP)—King Alfonso, Spain's 44-year-old monarch himself directed operations which resulted in a crushing defeat of the revolutionary movement of the past week. It was reported today on good authority that the Spanish ruler has been king since the day of his birth insisted on personally leading the government troops into action against the insurgent Major Ramon Franco and his companion at Cuatro Vientos air-drome and was restrained with difficulty by his advisers.

Premier General Berenguer worn out with days and nights of watchfulness in which moments of laxity might have cost Alfonso his crown, has collapsed with a severe case of tonsillitis and is very ill but his condition is not thought to be serious. A general strike exists in some cities of Spain but the government contends there has been no serious consequences.

All along the Franco-Spanish border yesterday spread reports that Northern Spain is in a state of insurrection with the drive of revolt smouldering and ready to break out at any moment.

Strict censorship imposed by the Spanish government has caused information to go through round-about channels and thus the accuracy of some of it is open to doubt. But enough has come in from all points to indicate Spain at a critical point despite optimistic assurances from the Madrid government.

The town of Logrono is said to be in the hands of rebels who have proclaimed a republic. Highways from San Sebastian to France were congested yesterday by private cars and taxicabs bearing rich Spanish refugees to the safety of France. The resort cities of the north, where the Spanish army is expected to meet the rebels, are reported to be in a state of alarm.

The entire season's output of the plant has already been contracted for, it was stated. Approximately half the output will be exported to Great Britain, and the remainder sold in this country.

JUDGES ORDER DISREGARD OF CLARK RULING

Opinion That Prohibition Is Invalid Will Not Be Followed By U.S. Commissioners

NEWARK, Dec. 17—(AP)—United States commissioners in New Jersey were instructed today by two federal judges to continue hearings of violations of the Prohibition Amendment regarding the procedure the decision of Federal Judge William Clark holding that the amendment was invalid. The judges, Guy Fike and William Runyon, decided not to concur or dissent on Clark's opinion until the case is brought there for an opinion.

The adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment was invalid, Federal Judge William Clark held yesterday.

He ruled that only by constitutional conventions and not by state legislatures can such amendments, which transfer to the United States power heretofore reserved to the states, be ratified. The only immediate effect of his decision, Judge Clark explained, would be in New Jersey and any arrests for the retail sale of intoxicants in that state would have to be made under the state prohibition enforcement act pending appeal of the ruling. Appeal would stay the effect of the decision until it could be ruled on by a higher court.

Preparations Being Made To Hold Dog Races At Longwood

The quarter-million dollar dog racing plant of the Longwood Kennel Club located a short distance from Sanford just off the Orlando highway is expected to open shortly after the first of the year, if plans which are now being made are successfully completed.

Under the management of a group of eastern promoters, the inaugural race of the winter season is scheduled for Saturday night, Jan. 3, and will continue for an indefinite period. It is said.

At the present time workmen are making a few minor repairs, preparing the track, repainting parts of the grandstand, and in general making ready for the early arrival of the officials. Already several dogs are at the track, and it is expected that when the season opens, more than 100 dogs will be established there. Practically all of the dogs are said to be newcomers to the Longwood track. Missouri Boud, a favorite of Sanford trainers, will be one of the few locally known dogs here this year.

YULETIDE AIR REFLECTED IN LOCAL STORES

Gay, Attractive Window Displays Greet Shoppers Bent Upon Christmas Buying

Lagging behind for the past few years, the spirit of yuletide, sunny skies for most of the month of summer than of the coming winter months, was reflected in the window displays of the city today as a large number of busy bustling shoppers moved from store to store, in spite of the cold, frosty rain which foretells an early cold wave.

Glittering window displays in every store on First Street, and a large number of small shops in the downtown areas, added to the picture of holiday cheer and optimism which is reflected in the report of many merchants that sales are picking up, and that a week of good business is expected.

With Christmas Eve only seven days away, many of the merchants are remaining open during the early evening hours, thus enabling the out-of-town residents and the busy wage-earners locally to do their shopping early. Beginning Monday night every store in the city will remain open until midnight on Christmas Eve.

While all the window displays are attractive and gay during the daylight hours, a visit downtown tonight will reveal a most pleasing picture of brilliance and prosperity. Shoppers will plainly see that every store owner has provided an ample stock of goods for the convenience of patrons, and not a single window need go unlit this year.

A brief excursion along First Street reveals window after window filled with new, brightly colored, and up-to-the-minute gifts. Starting in the Arcade Building on the corner of Sanford Avenue and First Street we find the windows of Haggart's Soda Fountain brightly decorated with festal tones of red and green paper and an assortment of gifts for all tastes. Christmas gifts are prominently displayed, and a similar assortment of gifts is seen in the windows of the side streets. (Continued on Page Four)

REDUCTION IN RELIEF BILL IS VOTED TODAY

House Committee Demands 30 Million Dollar Cut Off Of Original Estimates

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—The House agriculture committee today voted to reduce from $25,000,000 to $10,000,000 the House drought relief loan bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—Christmas recess plans were laid aside at the Capitol yesterday by leaders of both parties as the emergency relief measures flourished in dispute.

Republicans of the House Agriculture Committee again voted down the $60,000,000 proposed by the Senate for drought relief to meet upon the $30,000,000 measure favored by the administration.

However, the committee decided to call Secretary Hyde to ascertain his views. He had advised $25,000,000 but Chairman McNary of the Senate Agriculture Committee told the Senate yesterday that the Department of Agriculture originally recommended $60,000,000.

The $10,000,000 emergency construction appropriations was reported back to the Senate from the conference committee without amendment on the Senate's amendments taking away the power of the President to use the funds as he saw fit and requiring that local labor be employed.

Murphy and three other persons on a charge of sentencing the straggler Rose Murphy, committed suicide yesterday afternoon at Nashville, Fla., where he was arrested for federal jurisdiction.

Wagoner was master of the Rose Murphy at the time she sank about three years ago off the Florida coast. He had been at sea since the indictment, but when he came home a Florida post on the smack took him, he was taken into custody.

Do Your Bit

We were reading recently in an exchange an editorial which clearly set forth how important a part in the life of a child the story of Christmas and Santa Claus has come to be. From the age of two until almost in the teens, every youngster has indelibly impressed upon his mind images of the jolly rotund Santa Claus, all clad in red with snowy white whiskers, and the Christmas tree, aglow with its brilliantly sparkling decorations, and the stockings hung by the fire-side, and toys and trinkets and gifts of all kinds. The coming of Christmas is as important an event in human life before the age of twelve, as presidential elections, constitutional amendments, or supreme court decisions are in after years.

There are millions of children in these United States. We don't know just how many millions but perhaps thirty or forty. Everyone of these children are looking for a visit from Santa Claus. Many of them, strange as that may seem to us, will be disappointed. Every year there are hundreds of thousands of youngsters who hopefully hang their stockings by the fireside in the evening only to find them still empty in the morning. Childish disappointment! Heart-sore! Disillusionment! Hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions like that, you say. Well, too many for you to do anything about it.

But if you knew of one single case, a neighbor's child for instance, who was eagerly anticipating the visit of old Saint Nick, who believed in the unfeeling and impartial generosity of the old gentleman, but who lived in some little place hidden from view, and was missed in the busy excitement of Christmas, you could probably do something about it. This year cases such as this are likely to be more numerous than ever. That is, they are likely to be unless more people than ever get the right Christmas spirit, and make it a point to see that at least one little poor boy is made happy.

Plant City Progress

Plant City must be one of the bright spots on the economic map of the world. The strawberry crop is being harvested and the prices are good. Furthermore something resembling a building boom is in progress there, according to the Plant City Courier, which sounds an optimistic note in the following editorial which discusses a number of recent developments indicating a healthy degree of prosperity:

"It hasn't been so slow in the building line around this winter strawberry capital of late. And now another building will take its place, an important place, in the life of this progressive community. Mr. L. M. Allen has started work on the construction of a Strawberry Festival building. That is not only good news, but important news. It reflects the progressive spirit of those who guided the destinies of the first annual Strawberry Festival so successfully last season. It reflects the commendable civic spirit of Mr. Allen in taking over a project which will mean much to the future of this city.

Without permanent quarters the Strawberry Festival would each year be faced with the necessity of providing quarters for this annual exposition. With a good permanent building which Mr. Allen declares may be used for civic affairs throughout the year, the Festival will not only gain a real home but Plant City will also come into possession of a structure which will double as a value for use in conjunction with other enterprises which may be projected during the year.

"Building has not lagged of late. First to come in recent days was that splendid packing house constructed by G. A. Carey. Then came the packing house for the E. W. Wiggins company and Robinson-Bros. Now comes the Strawberry Festival building. And these three major projects have been augmented by numerous and diverse other projects of smaller caliber. Plant City continues to build, to grow, to expand. Plant City need have no fear of the future, need look forward with no misgivings. Progress is not only in the air but is an actuality. Plant City is daily becoming more cooperative minded. Civic organizations are joining hands in worthwhile endeavors, the city government is holding a steady hand, meeting problems intelligently and well. Progress is the law of life and life in Plant City reflects progress."

Be It Ever Thus?

Karl Lehmann, Orlando's head optimist, is editor of the Southern Secretary, a breezy little newspaper which circulates among chamber of commerce secretaries throughout the state. Mr. Lehmann has undoubtedly heard someone, whether in Orlando, or while on a visit to Sanford, express himself to the effect that his home town was going to the bows. In spite of the fact that most Florida cities are today much better off than most places on earth, some people still seem to have little hope for the future of this state. So Mr. Lehmann digs up an anecdote of Benjamin Franklin, written perhaps 160 years ago, just to show that even then, when things were just starting in this country, there were folks who predicted the end had come. Here's what Ben said:

"There are croakers in every city, always boding its ruin. Such a one then lived in Philadelphia. This gentleman stopped me at my door and asked me if I was the young man who had lately opened a new printing house. Being answered in the affirmative, he said he was sorry for me because it was an expensive undertaking, and the expense would be lost; for Philadelphia was a sinking place, the people already half-bankrupt, and he gave me such a detail of misfortunes now existing, or that were soon to exist, that he left me half-melancholy. This man continued to live in this decaying place, and to declaim in the same strain, refusing for many years to buy a house there, because all was going to destruction; and at last I had the pleasure of seeing him give five times as much for one as he might have bought it for when he first began his croaking."

TELLING THE WORLD

By NEAL O'HARA

NEXT WEEK'S PROGRAM Soviet Russia has just finished the best treason trial since Benedict Arnold made page 8 in the school kiddie's history. European opinion is that the Soviet broadcast the trial as an alibi for why the five-year plan has failed. At first five traitors, who did a splendid job of confessing, were sentenced to death. This was then commuted to ten years in jail. The boys will probably wind up by getting six inches of a silk whip across the palm of the hand. It is quite a problem for the Soviet executive committee to show the people why their non-stoppable five-year plan is being wrecked before the second installment.

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

For a couple of days toward the close of November Europe suddenly caught its breath as a series of sensational reports on the situation in Russia started to circulate. One day Stalin was reported held a prisoner in the Kremlin by a detachment of the Red Army; the next he had already been assassinated. Then a list of members of a new revolutionary directory was published. In the end it turned out that there was nothing in these reports, or at least that the mystery did not assume the aspect of a fall of the regime, as had so glibly been announced. Still there can be no doubt that men and groups of men who emerged from the revolution are waging a war so pitiless upon one another that the terrible years of the French Revolution are called to mind. Then it was Girondists, Dantonists, Hebertistes and Robespieristes who stepped from supreme power onto the guillotine and the guillotine it was. Right and Center which assume the character of the sects bent upon ousting and destroying one another. The men in power employ a severity that doesn't shrink from any obstacle. And their adversaries no less. We know, of course, that nothing is achieved without fighting for it, without suffering and without tears. But so much has already flowed in Russia and in such staggering proportions that one wonders if the end is not in sight yet. Romania had said once, speaking of the Russian revolutionaries: "If only they are victorious they will remain of the revolution but the horrors. But if they are victorious history will remember only by whatever good and good they have contributed." Ten years have passed since these words were spoken. Is victory in sight? Or is peace near, at least?

West Mimow squawks because one of the traitors didn't cross his confession. He wants to trade in his turnip farm for a vacuum cleaner on the five-year plan, and no money, down. There's a lot of other disgust in the portents, too.

CHAIRMAN—Gentlemen of the executive committee, I think it plain we will have to cook up another excuse why the five-year plan is bogging down. Get your beans to work and kick in with suggestions.

MEMBER—Why not just come out with a sporting statement that the Rocke system was too good for us this fall, but WAIT TILL NEXT YEAR! We can explain that Carideo, Brill and Schwartz won't be playing then and it'll give our crops a better chance.

CHAIRMAN—It might help, at that. What else can we do?

MEMBER—We can say America ain't giving the Soviet republic proper support. Lookit! what those Yankees are doing to our red flag.

CHAIRMAN—What are they doing? I ain't read the foreign papers lately.

MEMBER—They're using the red flag to wave in front of steam rollers and to warn off people when they're dynamiting tree stumps. That ain't the proper respect.

CHAIRMAN—You said it, lumpy. No wonder the five-year plan ain't working.

MEMBER—Not only that, but they float our red flag in front of closing out jewelry auction sales. It gives the Soviet a bad name.

CHAIRMAN—You're darn tootin' it does, comrade.

MEMBER—I got another good alibi we can toss to the people. A lot of big business houses in America are using the fifteen-month calendar. It's just a scheme to make our five-year plan take longer. Insidious is what it calls it.

CHAIRMAN—Comrades, these are swell alibis. No wonder our factories are passing dividends and the crops are on the free. All we got to do is explain how the Rocke system was too good for us this year, the red flag ain't getting the proper support and the thirteen-month year is shorting us and we can stall off the yawling consuls for a couple more months.

MEMBER—But how are we gonna get these facts over to the people?

CHAIRMAN—I'm still in favor of national radio broadcasts. Let's put on another Soviet Republic hour. Fender Challa is quite a radio card. We can slip him for a couple of sales, put on a Russian ballet and then slip 'em the old sales talk why the five-year plan is a little delayed.

MEMBER—Comrade, that'll give 'em a breathing spell till the next flop. I leave you adjourn.

Fleet Of Boats Take Part In The Filming Of Picture At Milane

A fleet of nine large vessels, equipped with powerful generators, sound-recording unit, a carpentry shop, a set building department, a paint shop, a property department, a film developing laboratory, and a camera repair shop, as well as all the other many and varied work units required for a motion picture production, put to sea for a cruise of many days.
"Derelict" is the first sea spectacle that Paramount has made since "Old Ironsides," and it was the first time in the history of the studio that modern sound equipment has been available for such a production.
The fleet of vessels consisted of three oil-burning freighters of about 4,000 tons each, a three-masted schooner drafted from the South Sea Island trade, and five smaller craft of one and two masted configurations. In addition there were a number of tugs, tenders and barges to transfer equipment between ship and shore, certain sequences being filmed on an island off the coast of southern California.
The largest part of the picture was made aboard the fleet of vessels as it cruised in open water off the coast of lower California and in the vicinity of San Pedro harbor.

H. Smith in charge of the program and Mrs. Warren Patrick and Mrs. A. M. Phillips as hostesses. Poinsettias and pine trees were arranged about the club rooms while adding to the attractiveness of the stage was a miniature lighted and decorated Christmas tree.

By way of opening the afternoon's entertainment, Mrs. Smith read a paper on the development of modern music through the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries in Germany, telling of the great masters of that country whose marvelous work has left its immortal mark on every field of music endeavor of every country. As the program progressed Mrs. Smith gave a few remarks on the lives of the composers whose contributions made up the program.

At the conclusion she called the attention of the audience to the Christmas season and to the contributions of the old masters to the Christmas music. She then asked the entire audience to join in the singing of "Silent Night" the concluding number.

STANES UP TEAM ON EVE WESTERN TRIP

Conference Of Some Of Stars In Reason For Coach's Action

TUCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Indifferent performance by several veterans caused Coach Wallace Wade to juggle his varsity lineup Tuesday almost on the eve of Alabama's departure for the Pacific coast and the New Year's Rose bowl football game with Washington State. Wade was displeased with the sluggishness shown both on offense and defense by five of the stars of his first team and replaced them in the varsity lineup with players from the "back troops."

Howard and Miller, guards, and Egan, center, in the line and Oatis, the emotional sophomore fullback, and McWright, halfback, were relegated to the reserves, while Sanford and Godfrey moved up to first string guard berths, a with center. Boykin took McWright's post, while Tachon took Cain's place.

The demotion to the second string served to urge the stars to more spirited playing and Wade's workout found them driving at top speed again.

While Tusher ran the varsity in Cain's place, the sophomore sophomore continued his passing practice and found time for some practice.

Announcement was made Tuesday that the Crimson Tide special will carry 88 persons in the official party as it heads westward Friday.

Wade will carry 35 players, he said, and eight coaches, with his wife, nine members of the Southern sports writers and university officials will make up the party.

Governor Bibb Graves, Dr. George Deane, president of the university, Judge Henry Bacon, Foster, president of the board of trustees; Dr. J. J. Doster and family; Shuler Hulse, university treasurer; and Coaches Wade, Gray, Newby, Prepat, Hewitt, Hayswood, Thomas and Dan McQuinn of Vanderbilt, will accompany the leader.

The sport writer invited are: Ed Dornforth, the Atlanta Constitution; Morgan Bate, Atlanta Georgian; Grady Parnell, Alabama Journal; Montgomery Stuart; Stephenson, Montgomery Advertiser; Elliker Hare, Nashville Tennessean; E. J. Newman, Birmingham News; Bob Phillips, Birmingham Age-Herald; and John Paterson, Birmingham Post.

The players to make the trip are: E. Moore, Dethrow, Smith, Debb, Taylor and Hood, and Stringer, Clements, Godfrey, Jackson, Sims and Barker, tackle; Miller, Howard, Sanford, Whitworth, Lullie and Pre, guards; Ezerdi, Sharpe and Houston, centers; Campbell, Helley, Tusher and Causey, quarterbacks; Butler, McWright, Long, H. B. Miller, Brown and Bellum, halfbacks; Cain, Boykin and Hansen, fullbacks.

At Deane's party, held only long enough to see that Walker talked to Tusher flaut for treatment. When their second car became overheated near Christian, Ala., and the robbers commandeered a truck, the posse was close behind at Scotland, Ill., the bandits took possession of a faster car, but took time to carry their machine guns from the truck.

When that machine became disabled, the posse overtook them. The bandit was wounded by the posse whose car they were trying to steal. Two others fled to a field where one killed him. The other was slain and the others were found later hidden in farm buildings.

The possibility that one of the bandits might have been Fred Barker, notorious robber and killer, was given some of those who saw the man. Said he looked like the picture of the notorious suspected robber in the St. Valentine day massacre in Chicago.

Which is undoubtedly true, however, explained that the dead man was...

Church Meeting Tuesday Marked By Enthusiasm

...in church, and urged that each member in the city begin at once on a personal campaign of simplifying true Christian standards in every activity.

Mr. Deane's talk was as follows: "Prefacing my remarks, I want to thank you for the privilege of meeting with you tonight—for the discussion of a subject fraught with so much interest to every man and woman of Sanford regardless of their business or social standing, regardless of their religious preferences or creeds. I am not so egotistical as to think for a moment that I will be able to suggest any concrete plan for a solution of the great problem, but hope and believe that I will derive great benefit from listening in upon the views of a body of men who are so deeply interested in our people and most anxious to further their most worthy objects.

The subject assigned the speakers—how we can improve the moral atmosphere of the citizens of Sanford is almost without limit in its scope and possibilities. Certainly the speakers invited here tonight can only hope to touch upon a few points, if they confine themselves to the five minutes allotted them.

"If the subject assigned is considered a query, there is but one answer, that answer is not applicable to Sanford alone, but to every city, every town and hamlet, yes, it is applicable to every individual. That answer is, follow the teachings of the only perfect man.

"Assuming that the conclusion reached is indisputably correct, we may say that our goal is set. What can we do toward ever approaching the goal?

"There may be many views and many points of attack, suffice for each of us to know that we are only responsible for the talents with which we have been endowed. It is my thought that we can at least approach our goal by taking stock of Sanford, taking stock of ourselves, and immediately embark upon the great task of building character.

"The foundation of character is in the plastic youth. Our boys and girls of today will be the men and women of tomorrow to whom we must look to carry on. The moral atmosphere of the citizens of Sanford will begin to show an immediate improvement in proportion to the interest and enthusiasm shown in educating our boys and girls in giving them the advantages of Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Boy Scout and Camp Fire Girls organizations. These organizations are the real foundation of our business and social world.

When our boys and girls have enjoyed the advantages and uplifting influence of these organizations, it is only a step to our church schools from which they emerge ready to take part in the church services of the church of their choice. After they have passed these successive stages they can invariably be trusted to make the citizens so much desired, the citizens we must have if our religious and social structures are to stand.

"Boys and girls with such training are absolutely necessary to maintain the ideals of our national government, they will stamp out anarchy, bolshevism, red communism and all insidious propaganda calculated to undermine a government set up 'By the people for the people.'

"If we, as representatives of the various denominations gathered here tonight, are to call under the banner of good moral citizenship, we must look to our laurals. We are unquestionably 'Our Brother's Keeper', that responsibility was definitely placed centuries ago and cannot now be changed.

"If we are to improve the moral atmosphere it must be improved by building character. The building of any city, railroads, hard surfaced highways and many similar undertakings are most commendable, but it is far more necessary to build character to operate the sky scrapers, to operate the transportation lines and enjoy the highways. We must concentrate our efforts and conserve our energies for the building of character. Character is the foundation of the moral citizenship desired to carry on, after the present generation, has passed over to the great beyond. A citizenship so morally pure, that it will invade not only Sanford, but our state and our nation being made better by reason of their lives and influence. If and when such hopes are realized then and not until then will the task which we are approaching tonight be completed.

"If we are to have better law observance, better citizens will lead the way. If we are to have cleaner politics—better citizens will elect the office holders, and condemn corrupt practices.

"When this meeting was called, few of us realized the grave responsibilities resting upon each of us.

Herald Receives Many Messages For Santa Claus

...to Class. Please bring me a scout knife and a football, flashlight, a baseball bat, and glove and log cabin sticks. Don't forget Theron. He wants a tricycle, and bring little sister something. We will be home early. Much Love, Harold Maddam."

"Dear Santa Claus, you good old fellow. Will you please bring me a wagon, and a dump truck and a train and some nuts and fruit and candy. But Dear Santa, if you will be kind enough to take the dump truck and train and some of the orphans children at Lake Mary, I'll be pleased with just a wagon. But, don't forget me, old boy," writes Tolar Rabun, West First Street. Just past the Lake Monroe corner.

Irene Rabus, living at the same place says: "Dear Santa Claus: I am 8 years old and I want you to bring me a big doll and huggy, and a stove, and tea set, and lots of goodie-goodies. I live at the same house with my brother and I want to be a girl. I've been a good little girl. Will you please bring my sister Leora some good books to read. As ever, Irene Rabus."

Two letters came in from Cameron Avenue this morning, both of them from members of the Cameron family. Lillian Belle Cameron writes: "Dear Santa, please bring me a bicycle and a doll with a green dress and beads, and some doll dresses and don't forget Peggy, our little Persian kitten, and please fill my stocking with candy. Your little friend, Lillian Belle Cameron." Edward Cameron writes: "Dear Santa, please bring me a saddle and bridle, a flash light and a 8 1/2 size cowboy hat and cowboy suit and lots of nuts and candy."

Rosa Lee Cowan, living at Cameron City says, "Please bring me a doll, a sewing set, pair of socks and also a dress and some candy and some nuts. I have been a good little girl since last Christmas."

Mildred Cowan, also of Cameron City says, "I have been a good little girl since last Christmas. Please bring me a doll, two pair of beads, and a pair of socks, and a dress and some candy, nuts, apples and tangerines."

The Wells family, 303 Holly Avenue, includes little Mary Frances Wells and Valaris Y. Wells. Mary Frances asks, "Please send me a pair of skates and a doll with curls and a set of dishes and a blackboard. A little doll dress and some nuts and candy and the little Wells girl writes: "Please don't forget me Xmas as I am a little girl five years old. I am in kindergarten and study hard. Now I will tell you what I want you to bring me I want a doll with curls, and that can sit up and cry, and a baby carriage to take it riding in. A few games, some candy and nuts, and picture book. This is all for this year. Thank you a lot. Your little friend."

Little Albert Connelly writes: "Dear Santa Claus: I have been a very good little boy, and I wish you would bring me a little motor, and a pop-gun, and a brand new pocket flask, and a copy of March's 'Theosophy,' and a box of toy cigars. (So I can look like Frankie Woodruff). P. R. Could you also, please bring my little friend Bob Dedson, a wagon as he has not got one, and he wants one very badly."

"Dear Santa Claus," writes Braxton L. Perkins Jr., Magnolia Avenue. "I am a little boy, and I live on Magnolia Avenue, and I have been good all the year, and I want you to bring me a big red apple, a fire engine, and a dolly with real hair. Don't forget to bring my little sister a doll bed so I can let my doll sleep in it. Listen Santa! Look in my stocking and you will find a big piece of my mother's fruit cake, but don't tell anyone where you got it. Lots of love."

shoulders. Let us resolve to do our share by sweeping around our own doorstep, working in our own city with our own people. If and when this individual responsibility is entirely discharged, and not until then, will we enjoy the satisfaction that money cannot buy—the satisfaction that we have performed our duty to Sanford, our home, to her citizens whom we love, the satisfaction that we have had some little share in solving the problem of "How we can improve the moral atmosphere of the citizens of Sanford." Last but not least, the satisfaction of being in a measure deserving of the words "Well done, good and faithful servant."

...ing that he would consider no Christmas recess until the drought relief bill was enacted said:

"There is every evidence that the Republican leadership in the House is attempting to filibuster any action on drought relief and it looks as if they have the support of the administration."

After a conference with Representative Tilton of Connecticut, the House Republican leader, Senator Watson of Indiana, the majority leader in the Senate, said: "We cannot and will not agree to the Christmas recess until this relief legislation is enacted."

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, joined Representative Garner in opposition to any recess until these measures are at the White House. Senator Shipstead of Minnesota criticized as inadequate the administration's relief program and argued that "President Hoover was filibustering against the increased drought appropriations. He said Mr. Hoover's accusation that sponsors of added relief measures were 'playing politics at the expense of human misery' had provoked debate and that a week had been required for the Senate to deny the President's accusations."

There was no indication last night of the Senate line on the emergency $116,000,000 appropriation. The conference report also struck out the amendments of Senators George of Georgia, and Black of Alabama, Democrats, making available the unexpended funds for road construction in their states without necessity for them to match the appropriations.

...window is filled with toys and trinkets which would gladden the heart of any youngster.

Smith Brothers' Furniture Store windows are perhaps the most gaily decorated in Sanford. The latest patterns in congealose rugs are in display in the first window. In the next, a huge figure of Santa Claus calls attention to the new model Victor radio which are handled by the firm. Then the largest collection of velocipedes, doll carriages ever seen in Sanford may be found in another window. A beautifully appointed living room scene greets the passer-by who glances into the corner window.

In the Welch Building, Coely's Dress Shoppe is conducting a special sale, with many bargains in dresses attractively displayed in neatly decorated windows. Laney's Drug Store windows are filled with a wide variety of gifts for both men and women, while inside the store, Christmas decorations of tinsel, holly, miniature trees, and red and white wreaths and figures make the interior glow with warmth.

As is customary in all Piggy-Wiggly stores, a wide variety of fresh vegetables and fruits is on display in the windows, with special prices calling to the thrifty housekeeper. The meat department is already swamped with orders for dressed turkeys and chickens, and a special display of fancy cuts and a wide variety of cheeses and other delicacies is in evidence.

The only lighted Christmas tree in the downtown section is on display in the lobby of the Florida Power and Light Co. office, and, with both the windows attractively decorated with tinsel, wreaths and imitation snow, a most interesting and pleasing appearance is presented. Electrical appliances of every description fill one window, while two new model electric refrigerators occupy the other window.

Another money-saving sale is in progress at the Modern Shoe Store, and both the windows are crowded with the latest in low-priced shoes of quality. The interior of the store is decorated from floor to ceiling with bells, wreaths, tinsel, and bits of greenery.

Fenny's Department Store windows are stocked with articles of particular value as Christmas gifts. On the right, a window is devoted entirely to men's wear of every description, suitable for wear from morning to night. Blankets, comforts and bed linens are attractively displayed in the middle window, while feminine comforts and frills, including lingerie, hose, dressing gowns, toilet articles, and slippers are seen in the window on the left. A complete collection of toys, featuring gaily dressed dolls of every description, fills a greater portion of the middle counters inside the store, while special values for both men and women's wearing apparel appear on the side counters.

A tiny decorated Christmas tree surrounded by a number of sample telegrams of greetings for both Christmas and New Year, is the central figure of the Postal Telegraph display.

Next door, Woodruff and Watson's windows feature men's wear in the latest mode, and women's shoes and hose. A number of model men's suits are seen just inside the entrance, while the interior itself is trimmed in red and green foliage and flowers.

Upon entering the Sanford Drug store, one is confronted with one of the largest collections of gifts and greeting cards ever seen in a local drug store. The interior is beautifully decorated and huge tinsel letters bearing the words "Merry Christmas" are cheerily featured.

Yowell's windows are unusually attractive for the occasion. Men's wear is featured in the display and a special display of dresses which are on sale at reduced prices fill the other window. Inside, a new system of lighting recently installed, brings out the beauty and worth of the well-stocked store.

Parson's department store windows are a riot of red and green, and contain bargains for the most critical shopper. Inside, ropes of red and green paper, Christmas balls, and tinsel complete a picture of real holiday spirit.

The Toys Shop, comparatively a newcomer in Sanford, has one yet stressed its window display other than by stocking both the window with the newest models in ladies' ready-to-wear dresses. But, inside the store, the already well-appointed counters, tables, and clothing racks, are dressed in a most pleasing and harmonious manner. Beautiful and stylish models in both hats and dresses greet the eye on all sides.

Gangsters Begin To Feel Activities Of Federal Officers

CHICAGO, Dec. 17—(AP)—Three erstwhile powerful gang syndicates felt the lashes of the state and federal governments yesterday. From the north, south and west sides gangsters were hauled into court—and the clan Capone was hauled out.

Selection of a jury was begun in municipal court for the vagrancy trial of Jack Guzik, reputed business agent and loop beer collector for the Capone gang, who was recently convicted by the federal government of income tax evasion.

Tony "Mep" Volpe, bodyguard of "Scarface Al" was in jail awaiting the government's next step toward deportation. Volpe was arrested on a warrant issued by Secretary of Labor Dugg, alleged Volpe was an alien.

Danny Stanton, one of Al's chief gunners, fought extradition to Wisconsin where he is indicted for the murder of Jack Zuta, and "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, Capone gambling overseer, was up on a vagrancy charge.

Seven Melrose Park bookmakers, reputedly in the Capone alignment, were arrested in a raid. Bernard O'Donnell, one of the notorious West Side triumvirate of brothers—the other two being Miles and Klondike—was also arrested for a vagrancy hearing. He was nabbed by detectives who met him at the door of another courtroom—just after he'd succeeded in having a bond forfeiture in a perjury case set aside.

Anthony "Red" Klazane and John Barry, once mighty members of George "Bugs" Moran's old mob were arrested in a north side safe on suspicion of carrying weapons. None was found, but the ply was held anyway.

Benjamin's Department Store windows are crowded with hundreds of articles of usefulness, many of which are on sale for the next few days.

The Bonolite Creamery windows are appropriately decorated with small trees, bells, tinsel and wreaths, while inside, a spotless counter contains a number of special suggestions for Christmas gifts.

Smith and Jordan's Furniture Store is this year featuring a special sale on furniture and household necessities in that line, and its windows are elaborately decorated in holiday colors.

On Magnolia Avenue, the window and interior of Myrtle's Doughnut Shoppe, decorated in a most pleasing and attractive manner, tempt the hungry shopper to enter, and sample the always well-prepared foods which are on sale.

The windows of Munk's pool room and recreation center are neatly decorated with ropes of red and green paper, and Christmas balls and the billiard enthusiast is greeted indoors by a busy scene of activity.

Waters' Kandy Kitchen is well-stocked this year with candies, cigars, and soft drinks, and is a bright spot during the evening hours.

A complete assortment of foods which are especially needed during the Christmas season fill the windows of the A. and P. store west door to the Milano Theater, and the meat department also offers a wide and tempting variety of foods and delicacies.

The brilliantly lighted and prettily decorated window of Body's Shoppe, remains a number of suggestions which will please the feminine heart, while indoors, the most outstanding display is composed of late models in coats and dresses.

Bank Robbers Held For Action Of Jury

Walter Morris, arrested with the other three, was released after the hearing yesterday.

The National Shoe Store is attractively displaying in a Christmas setting, newest models in shoes and hose, while a number of dresses at special Christmas prices are seen on the inside.

Coleman's Book Store windows are crowded with an unusually large assortment of new gifts. Every shopper should be able to find a gift for some member of the family at that store, for in addition to a large stock of new books and greeting cards, fountain pens, toys, novelty articles, and many other things are on display.

The Randall Electric Co., has on display in one of its windows a new model General Electric radio, while electrical devices of many sorts can be seen through the windows on the inside of the store. New sheet music, phonograph records, and phonographs fill the other window.

Greeting cards, pictures, handkerchiefs, hats, beads, playing cards, and novelties, are to be seen in the windows of M. Lady's Shoppe, while indoors tables and counters are filled with a most amazing number of articles which would make handy gifts.

On Park Avenue, Bryan's Sporting Goods Store is featuring a special display of fishing tackle of all descriptions. Toys, bicycles, camping supplies, sporting goods of all kinds, and aboriginal and shells are on display on all sides in the interior of the well-decorated store.

Terrific Explosion Shatters Prow Of French Prison Boat

LA ROCHELLE, France, Dec. 17.—(AP)—A blinding explosion shattered the prow of the floating penitentiary, La Mastino, yesterday, killing four engineers, severely wounding a fireman and giving 500 convicted criminals a respite of convalescence. They depart for Devil's Island.

The sinister black and yellow craft, built of iron and steel, was being overhauled in preparation for sailing Feb. 1 for the island when Ferdinand Cuisard, the fourth engineer, entered a forward cage bearing a lighted lamp.

There was a terrific explosion of gas which had accumulated in the hermetically sealed cage for weeks. Cuisard's body was blown to pieces.

The fireman, Alphonse Lemichior, was flung overhead into La Rochelle Bay. He may recover. The entire forward deck area of the boat, 100 feet square, was wrecked and bolts in her steel hull were loosened, causing leaks.

The steel bars, an inch thick on one of the cages reserved for especially bad prisoners, were twisted.

The ship stood in La Pallice Harbor—an American base during the World War—by the explosion was plainly heard by convicts quartered in the penitentiary on the Isle of Re five miles away. Through underground channels the convicts knew within an hour what had happened and that their trip to Devil's Island would be postponed.

No tears were shed by the hardboiled prospective passengers. A company of Senegalese soldiers mounted guard around the pile last night as a precaution against a possible outbreak.
