Japanese Soldiers Drive On Woosung By Land And Water

JAPS UNEASY AT SOVIET ACTIVITY IN VLADIVOSTOK

Chinese Exhibit Greater Fighting Spirit Than Before And Repulse Jap Attacks

(By The Associated Press)

While armed Japanese forces drove on Woosung from land and river diverting the attack from Chapel, the government at Tokyo proposed today that the nine-power treaty be revised to eliminate Manchuria from its provisions. Meantime the United States announced it looks upon any proposal by Japan to demilitarize Chinese ports as respecting the question of a partition of China and will oppose such a move.

Fighting with a spirit they have not hitherto exhibited the Chinese repulsed the Japanese attack on the Woosung forts made through the cold and snow and renewed a bombardment of enemy bluejackets holding Hong-kew.

Japanese destroyers then opened heavy fire on Woosung. Chapel was quiet and the Chinese began shelling Hongkew with trench mortars. The Japanese replied with artillery fire and sent a detachment of bluejackets into action.

Some shells fell inside the international settlement. British volunteers blocked a Japanese flank attack putting them in the delicate position of facing the Japanese in one direction and the Chinese in another. Two American destroyers were ordered from Shanghai to augment the forces at Nanking and Chungking.

The Chinese were making feverish preparations to meet the encircling tactics of the enemy both at Liuhou and in the Woosung area. Liuhou, some 25 miles up the Yangtze from Woosung, which itself is 16 miles northwest of Shanghai proper, was a veritable confusion of trenches and sand bag walls. Chinese reports said the Japanese had landed troops at Liuhou, resulting in an outbreak of hostilities in that vicinity.

FLORIDA FORESTRY SUPPLEMENT

FEBRUARY 6, 1932

Urge School Children to Plant George Washington Memorial Trees

SMALL forest trees will be distributed free by the Florida Forest Service upon request in order that each school child in Florida can have the opportunity during the next few weeks to take part in the nationwide movement to honor George Washington by planting memorial trees. You can assist the school children in your community to have a school demonstration forest of their own by helping them to secure the use of a tract of idle forest land on the outskirts of your town. As soon as this is done the Florida Forest Service at Tallahassee will ship young trees for planting the school forest and will lend a trained forester, equipped with planting tools, to help the children plant the trees, thus enabling each child to plant his memorial tree to mark the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. These forests will then be marked so that they can serve as permanent memorials to the Father of Our Country; upon registration with the American Tree Association each tree planted in the demonstration forest will swell Florida's total number of memorial tree-plantings. By actively sharing in the establishment of the forest, children are given a personal interest in forestry work.

FLORIDA JOINS NATION IN HONORING GEORGE WASHINGTON

THOUSANDS of Americans are heeding the call of the American Tree Association to plant ten million trees as living memorials to George Washington. In so doing they are sharing in the most gigantic nationwide birthday party ever given to honor a fellow-citizen. To maintain its position as one of the leaders in this campaign, Florida will have to make a final spurt of tree-planting effort in the short planting season which still remains. Not for a hundred years will such an opportunity for combined patriotic and civic service come again. The response thus far accorded the Florida Forest Service in its leadership of the tree-planting campaign in this state demonstrates that Florida citizens will not only seize this opportunity to do honor to a great man but will in so doing enhance the state's native charm and safeguard a natural resource essential to their industrial prosperity.

Today's Sturdy Saplings Are Tomorrow's Tall Timber

OUR children and the trees they plant this year will grow to manhood and maturity together, the well-being of each largely dependent upon the other. As the children of today plant, protect and intelligently care for their trees, these same children, as citizens of tomorrow, will reap the benefits of this action.

In addition to the many schools that are planting demonstration forests, some are using young pines to improve their school grounds and are dedicating these as living memorials to George Washington. These may be obtained free of charge from the Florida Forest Service at Tallahassee in quantities of fifty or more.

If the available space on your school grounds will not permit the planting of fifty or more seedlings, plant a few ornamental trees, registering and marking these as Washington memorials. This will enable the school as a whole to perform a specific act to commemorate the two-hundredth anniversary of George Washington's birth.

If the principal and teachers of your school have not already organized a memorial tree-planting campaign, urge them to immediate action before the tree-planting season ends. Write to the Florida Forest Service at Tallahassee for detailed suggestions for the conduct of your campaign.

made by a group representing a majority of growers and shippers in the county. It was the unanimous decision of the entire meeting that the elimination of small sizes had been beneficial. Three weeks ago it was found that the shipping of these sizes was wholly unprofitable to the growers, since many of them were not selling for enough money to pay freight and packing charges. These small sizes were also having a depressing effect upon the sale of the large sizes, four and sixes.

During the past two weeks, however, it was reported at the during the coming week. Present at the meeting were: Fred Zerrner, Rex Packard, Charles Lee, Charles Dunn, Ralph Chapman, Henry Schumacher, Jr., L. A. Brunley, R. H. Deas, M. S. Wiggins, W. A. Laffler, L. F. Buttolph, W. M. Scott, P. N. Wallace, Lee A. Ramshot, J. C. Hutchison, Howell Fish, Sam Fletcher, A. H. Jones, and B. F. Wheeler.

This group will meet at the Sanford-Orlando Truck Growers office next Saturday night, to discuss the effect of another week of eliminating tops from the markets of the North and East.

STANDARDS OF MARINE CORPS ON HIGH PLANE

High Mental And Physical Conditions Are Prime Requirement

JACKSONVILLE, Feb. 6.—Today, more than ever before, the standards of the United States Marine Corps are a mark of distinction for the man who wears it. Enlistment requirements of Uncle Sam's most famous fighting outfit are higher than at any other time in its history with as much emphasis on education and mental as on physical fitness, according to Sergeant William T. Faulk, in charge of the U. S. Marine Corps Recruiting Station, Jacksonville, Florida.

Sergeant Faulk stated, "Men who have not graduated from a high school or an institution of equivalent educational standing will not be accepted for enlistment in the Marine Corps." A diploma, a statement from the head of the high school that the applicant for enlistment has graduated, will have to be secured prior to his acceptance. The work performed by Marines of the present generation is of such a nature that men with less than a high school education will not prove satisfactory. In former days our work was of a relatively simple nature and the demands on the enlisted Marine were not too great to be performed by a man with a grade school education. At present, however, with duties ranging from the supervision of a presidential election in Nicaragua to the firing of an anti-aircraft gun on board a battle-ship, a Marine must be a man with sufficient mental training to enable him to learn many of the things that he must know from books, and the uneducated man will not be able to do so.

The physical requirements remain as in the past, which means that only men in excellent physical condition, and of good character, will be considered. The Marine Corps is offering something worth while to the young man desiring to enlist, but it is essential that such a young man be both mentally and physically fit.

Sergeant Faulk added that he would be glad to furnish information to any young men who are really interested in the Marine Corps, and advises them to get in touch with him by either writing or calling at his office, Room 211, Post-Office Building, Jacksonville, Florida.

Martial Law Is Declared By Jap Force In Harbin

ment of Kirin Province and other troops pursued the defeated Chinese northward. Ting Chow was among the Chinese leaders fleeing to the north after the crushing defeat of the defenders of Harbin.

The first of General Hasebe's troops entered Harbin at 8 A. M. and the occupation was completed at 1:40 P. M., when General Tamen's forces—which led the Japanese in two major battles against Chinese at Taitihar and Chingchow—marched to the center of the city amid the cheers of Japanese residents.

The Japanese troops, clad in furs to protect themselves against bitter cold and snow, were gaunt and tired. Many of them had been frost-bitten as they moved northward from Changchun, hurling back Chinese resistance and struggling to overcome obstacles such as destruction of bridges.

They were forced to battle the Chinese on the outskirts of Harbin and again as they entered the city they had to fight their way through the streets, using armored automobiles and tanks. A second Japanese column which had advanced from Taitihar failed to reach the scene of action and probably will return to its base at once.

After taking complete control in the old and new cities of Harbin and sending troops to pursue the fleeing Chinese, the Japanese commanders extended their control around the city to assure full protection of the 7000 Japanese residents whose request for protection was the cause of the march on Harbin.

General Tamen assured the population that law and order would be maintained. The white Russians (foes of the Soviets) sent a delegation to the Japanese commander thanking them for occupying the city and promising cooperation. Many thousands of white or czarist Russians have been in Manchuria since the Bolshevik revolution.

craft or by artillery at more than 15 kilometers from the front line in land warfare, and the prohibition of the use of aircraft or artillery of projectiles containing poison gases, bacteria or materials which are specifically incendiary.

Explaining his motives for introducing the French proposal when he did, Tardieu told correspondents: "We are a people of good faith and wished to prove it today by an act. We refuse to be deterred by those who counseled that it was not wise to go too quickly. The aim of what we have done today is to facilitate the work of the disarmament conference and we sincerely hope our efforts will be crowned with success."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(A.P.)—The proposals of France yesterday at the Geneva arms conference for an international police force was denounced last night by Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee as an attempt to fasten the "straight jacket" upon Europe.

Borah, who speaks with the voice of authority on international affairs, added that "no such proposition will be entertained by any considerable number of governments."

Borah's strong assertion was accepted in Washington as the deathknell in this country at least, to the French proposition.

Atlantic Waters Holding Fate Of 28 Missing Men

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(A.P.)—The cold waters along the Atlantic seaboard today held 28 missing men, supposedly thrown to watery graves by a ship collision and a terrific gale that caused a tug to founder and sink.

Twenty-one of the missing were members of the crew of the schooner Eleanor Nickerson, which sank after colliding with the steamer Jean Jactot 250 miles east of Halifax. The other seven were aboard the tug Lonnie B. Shaw when it was seen to sink at the entrance to the Delaware breakwater as high seas swamped her Thursday night.

Three Coast Guard destroyers were reported at Boston to have left for the scene of the schooner tragedy, while from Cape Cod, N. J., the Coast Guard dispatched a cutter to search for possible survivors of the tug.

The schooner, which was carrying a cargo of lumber, was last seen on Thursday night.

REACTIONS VARY ON BRITISH TURN TO TRADE TARIFF

G.O.P.'s See No Retaliation In Dropping Free Trade Policy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(A.P.)—Great Britain's abandonment of her traditional free trade policy brought varying reactions here yesterday and meanwhile Congress received its seventh major tariff recommendation of the present session.

Regular Republicans on the Senate Finance Committee saw no retaliation in the British announcement of a general 10 per cent import levy, while the Democrats regarded it as nothing else.

"England recognizes the principle of the tariff," said Senator Smoot (R Utah), chairman of the committee. "This is in no way a retaliation against the United States."

The Democratic view, as given by Senator Harrison of Mississippi, ranking minority member of the committee, was this:

"It is just another evidence of tariff reprisals and foreign retaliations against the narrow and unwise tariff policy of the United States."

Britain's action may be the subject of extended debate when the Senate takes up its first tariff bill of the session in a few weeks.

An old-fashioned free-for-all is in sight in view of the varying proposals pending, with the Democratic and Republican Independents striving, as they did in 1930, for a decrease in the industrial duty walls, and the regular Republicans holding out for some temporary increases.

Two new proposals offered yesterday brought the total in both houses to seven. One by Senator Norris, Independent Republican of Nebraska, calls for suspension of duties on all commodities which, after court hearing, are found to be controlled by American producers through price fixing or production-limitation agreements.

Norris was unsuccessful in an effort to incorporate a similar provision in the Hawley-Smoot bill.

'Gator Football Player Is Killed In Auto Accident

GAINESVILLE, Feb. 6.—Clyde McClelland, 19, died here at the university infirmary yesterday afternoon as result of an automobile accident that occurred four miles south of Starke at 9:30 o'clock Thursday night.

Death was caused by a broken back and a severed spinal cord. McClelland was conscious until approximately noon yesterday when paralysis set in and he sank into a coma from which he never recovered.

McClelland and P. D. Goodyear, both of Lakeland, and John W. McKethan and John Dawson, both of Brooksville, were driving toward Jacksonville in a Ford coupe when a truck forced them off the road, it is said, and the car turned over. McKethan received a painful knee injury while Goodyear and Dawson were slightly bruised and cut.

Goodyear was driving the car which was owned by McKethan. An ambulance from Gainesville responded to a call and brought the injured men to this city. McClelland and Goodyear were sophomores and McKethan was a freshman at the University of Florida. Dawson enrolled in school Thursday for the first time.

McClelland was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McClelland of Lakeland. His mother reached his bedside shortly before death came.

McClelland starred in football at Lakeland High School and later at the Georgia Military College before entering the university.

McClelland's funeral will be held in Lakeland Sunday afternoon. Representatives of the Sigma Nu fraternity, of which he was a member, will be present for the final rites in Lakeland.

Smith Prepares Brief Statement As To Intentions

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(A.P.)—One of the shortest political statements he has ever written has been prepared by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith to stem the flood of inquiries as to whether he will be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

It is less than 250 words long in its present form.

The 1928 standard-bearer does not plan to amplify it in any way. The statement is not to be made public until Monday morning.

What stand Smith will take is a matter of great speculation in political circles today.

One of his friends said the former governor had not intended giving indications of his political plans until just before the Democratic national convention in June, but that the desire of his backers in New Hampshire and Massachusetts to elect convention delegates pledged to him had forced Smith to change that plan.

In New Hampshire, where this state primary is held early in March, and in Massachusetts following the 10th and of Governor Roosevelt, an avowed candidate, seek places on the state delegation.

New York newspapers were unanimous today in predicting Smith, in the statement, would give his friends in such states permission to enter his name as a candidate in direct opposition to Roosevelt, but would not bind himself to let his name go before the convention.

"Such a stand," the Post said, "would not definitely involve him as a candidate for the nomination and would leave his position unimpaired at the convention, should a movement in his behalf be abortive."

The Herald-Tribune said such a course "would not involve him as an avowed candidate nor would it detract from his power in the convention, if eventually it should turn out that he is not nominated."

The Times said it would put Smith in the position "of letting his friends work openly and actively in his behalf without his being bound to let his name go before the convention unless there was some prospect of success."

The World-Telegram said a Smith boom would be launched after a conference of Smith adherents, following the return next Tuesday of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee from Florida.

Plans Under Way To Finance Rollins Athletic Fields

WINTER PARK, Fla., Feb. 6.—With the announcement today by Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins College, that the Boston Braves will meet the Philadelphia Athletics in a special exhibition game at Tinker Field in Orlando Florida, on Mar. 29, plans are under way to finance construction of an athletic field at Rollins College. Through arrangements with Judge Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Braves, and Connie Mack, Athletics manager, the two major league teams will play this contest at no expense to the college and present the total gate receipts to the initial fund for Rollins' new athletic field on the campus lakeshore. Cincinnati officials will donate the field for the game.

Boston, playing its most colorful team since 1911, will meet the full strength of the Athletics, American League Champions and contenders in the last World Series, according to Judge Fuchs. Both teams will be ready to break camp for the trip northward to open the 1932 season on Apr. 12th.
