AMONG THE THEATRES

Chit-Chat of the Play Houses in Sanford

Battle Cry of Peace
Showing vividly the defenceless condition of this country of ours, that wonderful Vitagraph picture, "The Battle Cry of Peace," aroused the varied emotions of those citizens who witnessed each performance yesterday at the Republic Theatre.

Starting at the initial performance at 11 o'clock in the morning, large crowds awaited in front of the theatre for seats and at each following show the house was filled to overflowing. The great picture will be shown today, tomorrow and Thursday.

"The Battle Cry of Peace" is based on Hudson Maxim's book, "Defenceless America," and was produced by the Vitagraph Company under the direction of Commodore J. Stuart Blackton. The great picture appeals to the men and women of the nation and calls their attention to the necessity of being prepared for all emergencies. Man from the remotest ages has been a prey to the stronger and the survival of the fittest is clearly shown.

The picture teaches America to prepare to fight for her existence if she must remain a sovereign state. There is no love story attached to the story, but plain, bare facts that touch the hearts of those who love their country, their women and their flag.

When the nameless enemy invades the United States plenty of action is embodied in the picture, which causes the audience to grip their seats in agony, while cities after cities are destroyed, and the feeble force of this great republic vainly endeavors to check their invasion.

Every phase of this country's weakness is shown and should be faced by every man in the republic. It pleads for a better defence, without going to extremes, and shows conditions as they exist today and will exist tomorrow, and above all, the absurd fallacy of the pacifist.

The man who sees "The Battle Cry of Peace" and does not uphold its teachings is sorely lacking in patriotism or is incapable of practical thinking.

Moral persuasion is one thing the picture teaches that is not to be used among nations of today and shows that there is no moral persuasion that will drive an enemy from our shores. Jacksonville Metropolis.

Dustin Farnum in "The Call of the Cumberland" at Star Tonight

The story is a noble, grand, and stirring tale of the struggle of the rugged, brave frontiersmen with the Hottentot Indians in the Cumberland mountains, displays talent as an artist. During the period of a truce between the factions, he is discovered by an artist, who is in the mountains painting the scene before him. Held in the grip of indignation, he leaves the mountain home and the love of his youth is waiting for him in New York City.

There he meets the beautiful and talented sister of the artist, her father and his success is pouring its wealth at his feet, he answers the call of the Cumberlands and returns to lead his faction in a spectacular battle with the Hollmans who have violated the truce.

And then Samson answers the call of his heart.

Dustin Farnum

Star of a score of photoplays that hold rank as among the very finest production of the cinematographic art, Dustin Farnum has been accorded by popular acclaim a position in the van of American screen artists. In his role of the virile American, he appeals as no other actor can to the senses of justice and fair play through his eminently skillful interpretations.

Pathe News will be shown in addition to the above.
Admission 5 and 15c.

Arnold Daly Sheldon Lewis and Loise Rutter in "The Menace of the Mute" at the Star Saturday, Feb. 5

Ashton Kirk, Investigator Mr. Arnold Daly

Ashton Kirk is a young man of high social position and great wealth, he is a deep student and learned in the lore of ancient tablets and for gotten books. His keen mind delights in those mysteries which have proven too shadowy for the police. He finds a joy in the hunt, there is a thrill in matching his intelligence against the craft of the criminal.

"The Menace of the Mute" deals with the murder of one David Hume, a mysterious individual, who has stolen the plans of a new submarine belonging to the late inventor of Allen Morris. Edith Vale, sweetheart of Morris notes that her fiance is the victim of some obsession and through Pendleton, his close friend, enlists the aid of the great detective, Ashton Kirk takes up the case with a vim, matching his wits against the craft and cunning of the criminal being his hob.

Through a simple little piece of paper made by a conductor's punch the conductor is able to get on the proper secret. This enables him to find his man, who proves to be a mute, and through a note dropped by the latter he learns the perpetrator of the crime. Then back in the home of Hume, he is secreted when the mute and Sagon, the friend enter to recover the plans which Hume had in his possession and for which the murder was committed.

In addition to the above Charlie Chaplin will be shown in a rip roaring comedy in two acts entitled "A Night in a Show"

The admission to this special program will be 5 and 15c. The performance begins on this night at 6:45.

Pauline Frederick as "The Spider" at the Star Monday, Feb. 7th

Cast of Characters
Valerie St. Cyr, Joan Marché, Pauline Frederick, Juliet St. Saenr, Thomas Holding, Count D. Poissy, Frank Losee.

Review:
The Spider, an extraordinary Paramount Picture produced by the Famous Players Film Co., gives Pauline Frederick an unusually opportunity for the display of her amazing talents, as the subject presents her in two diversely opposite roles, Valerie St. Cyr, a notorious Parisian beauty, and her deserted daughter, Joan. In the impersonation of these dual but distinct characters, the superb emotional artist performs miracles of character interpretation and of dramatic portrayal. The tremendous power of Miss Frederick's art and the wide range of her screen capabilities were never so forcibly illustrated as in her compelling delineation of this unique emotional drama. Admission 5 and 15c.

Sanford needs a big cold storage and meat packing plant.

Sanford is ideally located for an industry of this kind and should have it.

Let them about Tampa today. Mr. Whittier had start the ball rolling for this great industry in Florida.

We hate to mention it again, Mr. Grower but really you must pack the proper kind of celery if you expect to maintain good prices.

Sanford should have a Commercial Club with at least a membership of two hundred and now is the time to get busy and corral that many business men for new members.

No, Pauline, the partial eclipse of the sun Saturday had to bearings on politics in Seminole county. The election will occur in June on schedule time and nothing will interfere with it.

The Kissimmee Gazette runs at the masthead the slogan, "Bulkhead the Bayfront" and the Gazette will eventually weasel out of that line. It takes people a long time to make up their minds on something that they really need.

Growers of Sanford stuff should see that every pack is true to the marks and no Sanford celery or other vegetables leave the field short. The pack is the principal asset of the grower and is what will eventually bring the highest market prices. Every package should have the careful supervision of the field man in charge and be just what the mark and brand implies.

Willis Powell is ahead again after settling down in Clearwater about as long as he could stand the pressure. He has sold the Clearwater Sun to D. O. Batchelor of Goshen, Indiana and who formerly was editor of the Durham, N. C. Sun. Willis will stay on the job until June when he expects to pile the family into a buzz wagon and take in the country. In the winter he will live in Clearwater if some other section of the country does not fascinate him meantime. We hate to lose Willis and hope he will settle quickly. We also give the hand to his successor, Editor Batchelor of whom we have heard some mighty fine reports at various parts of the country.

Mitros who have been in the big game county for at Orlando are requested to leave word at The Herald office or at the office of Chase & Co., or send word. The committee is busy looking after the exhibits and would like to know how many people in the county have not yet been visited by Mr. Berry or Mr. French or some member of the local committee. Everyone in the county who has an exhibit of any kind should arrange to have it at Orlando as the fair will undoubtedly be one of the best and largest in the history of the organization. Our county should be in the front ranks as usual and in order to be in the front ranks and carry off the grand prize all of the people should assist.

The celery and lettuce growers of Sanford have such fine crops this year, the demand is so good, that all of them have placed orders for the standard 1916 cars, and 25 cents for gasoline cuts no figure with them in preparing for the good time coming, the pleasures awaiting them. Both Holly of The Herald, while not a grower has joined the bunch and he and Mrs. Holly will tour the north the coming summer in a new Packard. DeLand Record.

If it were not for the fact that we love Uncle Ben. Pray for so much we would order him shot at sunrise. This is twice that is the estimate we had a car and here with our mouth watering for one he continues to dangle the possibilities of pleasure before us. Stop it. Ben stop it.

Hon. E. P. Thugard announces in this issue for the office of Comptroller and we would like to see him elected. He has been State Bank Examiner for four years and is eminently qualified in every way to serve the people of Florida as Comptroller, being thoroughly familiar with the duties of the office. Mr. Thugard is a courteous, gentlemanly thoroughgoing citizen and has demonstrated his fitness for public office in many ways. At his old home in Marion county he held the position of Tax Assessor for many years and gave eminent satisfaction. He will make an excellent Comptroller and we take pleasure in commending him to the people of Seminole.

THOSE SWEET POTATOES.

"W. J. Hill is not supposed to know anything about sweet potatoes, but in tilling some of his ground yesterday he dug up two potatoes that combined in the enormous weight of 38 pounds. These are some sweet potatoes, and Mr. Hill brought them to The Herald office, where they are on exhibition for the delectation of strangers who have heard that you can't raise anything in Florida." Sanford Herald. Now let us hear from W. A. Russell of the Palatka News, about that 500-pound sweet potato raised at Crescent City.—Tallahassee Record.

It wasn't a sweet potato it was a South American Yam, raised by the late Judge L. Burton of Crescent City the seed of which he personally brought from Cuba. This yam was dug out of the ground in H. Judge Burton's yard and was weighed in the presence of Hon. James R. Howe, member of congress from New York, and the editor of the Palatka News. This yam weighed 138 pounds and it didn't seem to be a very good year for yams, either.—Palatka News.

FEDERAL NEWSPAPER LAW

Most readers of newspapers and many publishers are not familiar with the laws governing subscriptions. Here are the decisions of the United States court on the subject. They are interesting and we are glad to print them for the benefit of our subscribers.

"Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew their subscriptions.

"If subscribers order a discontinuance of their publication, the publisher may continue to send them until all dues are paid.

"If the subscriber refuses to take periodicals from the postoffice to which they are directed, he is responsible until he has settled his bill and ordered his paper discontinued.

"If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher and the papers are sent to a former address, the subscriber is held responsible.

"The courts have held that refusing to take periodicals from the post office or removing and leaving them uncollected is prima facie evidence of a refusal to be defrauded.

"If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the subscriber is responsible until express notice with payment of all arrearages is sent to the publisher."

THE EPLI ASSESSMENT

The new tax assessment law again ordered the tax assessors of the state to assess on a hundred per cent basis. The Tampa Times in an editorial calls on the governor to sustain the tax commission and indirectly intimates that the governor will not do it. We do not know what Governor Trammell will do in this matter but we do know that he will use his judgment in the matter and as usual will look to the needs of the taxpayers first and the demagogues last. The Times has fought Governor Trammell on every measure that has come before the people for the past two years and it is not surprising that it should jump on him behindhand on the tax assessment and ask him to knock the chip off their shoulder. The hundred per cent assessment has much to commend it in the eyes of some people. All of us would like to see a full assessment on the property in Florida but under present conditions it is impossible and the Times knows it or should know it. Until the state legislature frames a new law or amends the present law the hundred per cent assessment will work an untold hardship on the taxpayers of Florida and they will not stand for it. There are several items in state taxes that cannot be reduced under the present laws governing same and the hundred per cent assessment would raise these taxes out of all proportion to the present needs of the state. In other words the state will benefit by the raise and the counties will not. The counties that are paying the greater proportion of the burden today will pay more under this assessment and the taxpayers of those counties will not get the benefits. The editor of The Herald does not see wherein the assessor of Seminole county or our neighboring counties can comply with the demand of the tax commission and unless we are badly mistaken they will not do so. As far as Governor Trammell is concerned we can safely predict that will do what is right, just as he has always done and we are willing to abide by his decision. He will use no snap judgment in this matter but after mature deliberation will give the people the benefit of any doubt that may exist.

Baby Week Campaign

Arrangements are being made by the Welfare Department, Woman's Club, to join the Baby Week Campaign movement that will be observed all over the United States, March 7 to 11 inclusive. The movement is endorsed by the Woman's Clubs everywhere, the state Federations fostering the effort with enthusiasm. In Sanford the week will be fittingly observed. In connection with the Baby Week Campaign will be held the Better Baby Contest. This will be the third annual contest held in Sanford, under the auspices of the Woman's Club. Mrs. R. A. Terheun is chairman of the Better Baby Contest and campaign committee. The number of entries this year will be limited to forty babies, between the ages of six months and three years. These will be divided into three classes and the winning baby in each class will receive the Woman's Home Companion medal. Certificates will also be awarded. Applications must be made to Mrs. Terheun, who will give the order for examination and score card to be presented the examining physicians. Physicians already signifying their willingness to make the primary examinations are Dr. Neal, Dr. Robson, Dr. Denton and Dr. Miller. Mothers who desire to enter their babies in the contest are requested to make their applications early. The examinations will close March 31st. For further information apply to Mrs. R. A. Terheun, Phone 2043.

Duroc Jersey Finding Favor in the South

Duroc Jersey are rapidly finding favor in the south. They meet the conditions of Florida well. They are early maturing and capable of making cheap gains. They are good grazers and do not blister in the hot sun as some of the white skinned pigs do. Compared with the other hard bodys they are prolific.

The sows make affectionate mothers and are easily handled. According to C. J. McQuarrie, state agent for the University of Florida Extension Division, the sows are considered the heaviest milkers of any breed. While the size of the litters at birth may not be so very large as some of the other breeds, the Duroc Jersey mother will raise as many pigs as any. This is because of her gentle temperament and motherly qualities.

The quality of Duroc meat is perhaps the best of the large breeds when fed under favorable conditions. The hams are especially good. The Duroc meets the demand of packing houses very satisfactorily and it is an easy fattener for the farmer.

Sheep an Weather Prophets

Shepherds say that the wool of the sheep furnishes an excellent indication of weather changes. When it is crisp there will be no rain when it is limp and feels very soft to the touch a storm is imminent.

Other Folk's Children. Nature takes care that the maternal instinct shall remain tremendously strong in every class. Even in childless individuals there is seldom a real decay of it. For proof of this statement note that in every civilized community the persons who love best and work most for other folk's children are mature single women.

DEATH OF MRS. M. E. HOLLY

Mother of the Editor of The Herald Passes Away at Age of Eighty

While not entirely unexpected the news of the death of Mrs. M. E. Holly came as a shock on Sunday morning. Mrs. Holly, who had reached the advanced age of eighty years had been in poor health for the past eight weeks and the family had received no encouragement from the physicians that she could survive. Having been a sincere Christian since early childhood Mrs. Holly had no fear of death and as the church bells on Sabbath morning were calling the faithful to service her soul was called to the great church on high where the Celestial Choir were waiting and she left those on earth with the sweet smile of absolute faith and trust that only the devout Christian can experience.

Mrs. Minerva Clough Holly was born in Goshen, Ohio March 27th, 1826 and at an early age moved with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Clough to Oxford, Ohio, where the Miami University was building and the first inhabitants were living in tents. Her father erected a large furniture factory there and Mrs. Holly grew to young womanhood surrounded by the culture of that period. She graduated from Oxford College in 1851 being a school mate and warm friend of Carrie Scott afterward the wife of President Benjamin Harrison. After her marriage to William Holly, a prominent merchant of Hamilton, Ohio, she resided there for many years going back to Oxford at the death of Mr. Holly.

Mrs. Holly had been a sufferer from neuralgia for many years and about twenty years ago decided to seek a warmer climate coming down to Florida. During her stay in Florida and afterwards during her life in Florida at the time. At the time of her death she was 80 years of age. Her death was the result of pneumonia. Besides Mr. Holly, who resides here she leaves another son and three daughters, all of whom care with her when she died.

The funeral services occurred yesterday afternoon at two thirty from the Presbyterian church, Dr. Brown, the pastor, being assisted by Rev. J. E. McKinnon, pastor of the Presbyterian church of the city.

The floral offerings were beautiful and many attesting to the esteem in which Mrs. Holly was held in the community and at the same time the flowers were banded around the grave as a fitting tribute to her memory.

Forty guests or more enjoyed the happy occasion. The house was lovely with palms, ferns and potted plants of every variety, interspersed with cut flowers and vases.

Upon the arrival of guests she drew her place by card. The company was divided into groups and then "progressed." Beginning in the sun porch, there were the groups in the dining room, library, living room, music room and mother's room, this latter room was one of the cosiest and here the groups were delightfully entertained by Mrs. Curtis. RAVINE OF DEATH

Where Fearful Battles Were Fought on Gallipoli.

More French Blood Was Spilled in Valley of Kereves-Dere Than at Any Other Spot in the Dardanelles.

Berne, Switzerland.—A French correspondent in the Revue Militaire Suisse describes the fearful battles which were fought in the early days of October on the peninsula of Gallipoli between the allied troops and the Turks. One of the chapters of the gruesome report is devoted to the Valley of Kereves-Dere, the "Ravine of Death," where more French blood has been spilled than on any other spot at the Dardanelles.

"We passed a dreary, dull day and sat in our holes, watching the Turkish trenches," the correspondent writes. "At last the evening came and darkness followed quickly. Then the moon rose and cast her alluring light over the landscape. This light was so bright and clear that we could distinguish the color of objects at some distance.

The Turks kept very quiet and the night promised to be even more dull than the day had been. Towards midnight an officer invited me to accompany him on a little scouting expedition. Cautiously we crept through some miserable shrubbery. Everywhere we saw dead bodies, singly and in heaps. At last we reached the crest of the height and we were within gunshot distance from the Turkish position on the opposite hills.

"Between the two heights there was a large black hole, Kereves-Dere, the "Ravine of Death" I looked down into the valley and shuddered. There, in the bluish light of the moon, I saw the bodies of thousands of French soldiers lying on the gray sand, men of the Foreign Legion, colonials and zouaves.

"They were all heroes, the officer, my guide, said as he pointed down into the ravine. From this spot they went into the gorge under a fearful artillery and machine gun fire. Dozens, hundreds of them fell, but like demons they began to storm the positions of the Turks. Bleeding, wild-eyed and roaring with rage they climbed upward until the fire of twenty machine guns greeted them and mowed them down.

"In ten minutes more than one half of the heroes were dead or wounded. When the survivors fell back into the ravine the Turks counter-attacked and on the sand on the bottom of the gorge the most awful battle of the war was fought.

"The Turks attacked with knives and our heroes even used their teeth on the enemy. Neither side gave quarters. It was a combat to the death and the slaughter kept up until night came and the darkness made it impossible to distinguish friend from foe.

"Under a heavy shell fire we finally managed to withdraw the remnants of our troops from the ravine and the Turks returned to their trenches in the heights. The next morning we tried to save our wounded, but most of them had to be left to their fate, as the Turks would not consent to an armistice and shelled our ambulance corps.

"Let us salute the dead heroes down there. They were our bravest men and have sacrificed themselves to save the rest of our army from annihilation. Their heroism will forever live in the memory of the grateful French nation and future generations will mention them in the same breath with the famous Chasseur d'Afrique of Bodan."

Use for Onions.

Onions are good for cleaning steel articles that have rusted. Rub the rust spots with a piece of onion and leave for 24 hours. Wash and polish with bathbrick dust, moistened with turpentine. Wash again in suds and scald with clear water. Knives that have rust spots of long standing should be plunged into an onion and allowed to stand for some time. Finish the cleaning process as above.

Uncle Eben.

"A man dat never forgets his dignity," said Uncle Eben. "Is like a man dat has to take awful good care of his money cause he jes' naturally ain' got much."

Rev. Alfred Ericson expects to preach at Etel next Sabbath, so school will be again at 2:30, but the following Sunday he will preach for us again at 3 o'clock.

There are a number more children for the school bus as a Mr. Bird has moved his family of little ones to a house near the cemetery.

Mr. Joe Ne-Roa has his house for rent again.

Mr. J. A. Thompson and family took supper Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vaughn.

Mr. and Mrs. Ballinger were called Sunday evening at Mr. Tom Taylor's.

Mrs. Borrel visited at Mr. Magnusson's Sunday and Mr. H. G. Lundquist and family were callers there.

The hunters had good success last week, rounding up five deer. They say anyway we can couch for a fine thank of one.

Mr. Tom Thompson and Mrs. Ballinger were much enjoyed a day spent with the former's sister, Mrs. D. Hart of East Sanford and their family, Miss Laura Parker. The latter has been having trouble again with her side.

Ben Moore and Miss Mary of Lake Mary are spending the day Thursday with us again, visiting at Mr. Vihlen's, Mrs. Thompson's, Mr. Magnusson, Mrs. Edwin Lundquist and Mrs. Stedt. They were entertained for dinner at Mr. Ballinger's and for supper at Mrs. Swanson's and Walfrid Pierson. Mas offered to carry them home.

Rev. Mery will preach on a text that cost over a hundred dollars next Sunday night.

Mr. Emil Magnusson expects to go to his work again Saturday.

Common Sense To the Editor Seminole county has voted many thousands of dollars for the purpose of catching good roads and of the money to encourage tourists and others. Now would it be showing common sense to protect the fish in the big lakes for which Seminole is noted and which could be made a big asset for the county?

These lakes are being worked night and day, Sundays included, by gangs of fishermen trying to clean them out with their mesh seines.

Dozens of men come from all parts of the United States, trying the fishing in these big lakes, especially Jessup, and they go away disgusted. A few weeks ago a splendid yacht nearly 100 feet long was cruising around this lake. A short time ago, three men from Ohio would have invested $30,000 in building a new home on this lake but the eternal racket all night long of the motor boats used in seining, prevented them from sleeping, and it was impossible to catch fish enough by line for their breakfast, the result being that they went to some place where they could sleep quietly and catch a fish.

Lettuce Drop Fungus Attacks Peas and Beans The University of Florida Experiment Station has received specimens of beans and peas recently which were attacked by a white mold. This is the same fungus which causes stem rot of cucumbers, watermelons, white foot rot of celery and lettuce drop. It rots all parts of the peas and beans above ground. Indications are that the disease is beginning to work also in lettuce fields.

After a short period of development the fungus produces blackish irregular bodies, which under favorable conditions produce small mushrooms. These give rise to millions of minute spores which are dreadfully spread to neighboring fields by the slightest breeze. The only known method of controlling the disease is to watch the crop carefully and destroy any affected plants to prevent fruiting bodies.

RAT WORST OF FOES

French Soldier Tells of Fighting the Rodents.

Made Desperate by Hunger They Fear Nothing—Woe to Soldier Who Falls Asleep With Chocolate in His Pocket.

Paris—A young Parisian fighting as a private in the trenches has sent home a letter which might have had as its title "Rats" He says:

"Lord Kitchener once said, speaking of the South African war. We had two dreadful enemies to fight—the flux and the society ladies." In the same way our soldiers will say "some day speaking of the present war We had two foes to fight—the Germans and the rats."

"During the last two weeks the Germans have apparently been decreasing in numbers, but the rats are certainly increasing. It is a horrible invasion, far worse than the other. All our trenches, communication trenches, fields, woods, houses, dug-outs and shelters are full of them. Some of them hold meetings and conferences on the roads during the night, others give concerts in every house in the most populous villages and towns. You literally have to walk on them. They attack our helmets like the Germans attacked on the Yser. In solid masses. On the whole front there are only two places where they do not come—the hills of Flanders and Tabora.

They have been made desperate by hunger and now they are afraid of nothing. The other morning I saw a dispatch rider whose motorcycle tires had been eaten by the rats, and many of us have found that during the night they have eaten our most precious things which we keep in our inside pockets. Woe to the soldier who falls asleep with a piece of chocolate in his trousers' pocket. He is sure to wake up without his chocolate and almost without his trousers.

Unlike the Germans the rats are able to invent all kinds of devilish ruses. The German soldier is a well trained and well-kept piece of machinery which always runs in exactly the same groove. He makes war to-day exactly as he did sixteen months ago. He is a stupid brute who has only two kinds of multi-talents. The methods of the rats are infinite in their variety and they adapt them selves to all circumstances of the fighting. I shall give you one example.

"Long ago it was found necessary to discontinue issuing sugar, coffee, salt and spices direct to the soldiers individually because the rats looked upon these articles as most excellent nutrients. Then these articles of food were put up in small boxes one for each company and we invented all kinds of devices to keep them safe, preferably suspending them from a wire at least a yard above the floor. Nevertheless the rats very soon found a way to get at the sugar. They simply gnawed a hole in the ceiling, let themselves slide down with the wire to the box and had it emptied in no time.

"We shall get the Germans some day, for against them we have Father Joffre, but there is absolutely nothing to show that we shall ever get the best of the rats, against which we have nothing but pamphlets. They have sent us barrels and poisons of many different kinds to exterminate the rats, but these means are about as efficient as are the rules of international law adopted at The Hague. They may work all right against rats in time of peace, but they are also entirely no good against war rats, which are as big as rabbits and which look upon scientific prescriptions as mere scraps of paper.

"As a matter of fact we have invented better methods of fighting them ourselves, but so far they are still on the whole having it their own way.

"It is really necessary to have two kinds of rifles—one to shoot Germans and another to kill rats, and the latter has by far the worst job.

"We only hope that some day we shall find that all our rats have run over to the Germans. It would be a most satisfactory arrangement for them both, for the Germans who are hungry could then eat rats and the rats that are born hungry could eat Germans."

PLUCKS DIVORCE FROM ASHES Suspicious Wife Rescues Incriminating Post Card From the Stove.

Sacramento, Cal.—Because her husband received a postal card, signed "Lulu," seeking to make a luncheon engagement with him, and because he told his wife he no longer cared for her, Mrs. Millie Dunlap was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from L. E. Dunlap, a Southern Pacific engineer, by Superior Judge Hudick.

The wife testified she noticed her husband throwing the postal card in the stove. She dug it out of the ashes and read it and offered it as evidence.

"Lulu" suggested if Dunlap "cared for another lunch" that he make "the same old signal."

In addition, Mrs. Dunlap testified, a postal card was received at her home addressed to her husband in a woman's handwriting. When she demanded to know the name of the woman her husband refused to tell her.

Actor Fights for "Damaged Goods"
"Damaged Goods," the remarkable drama which has now been put into motion pictures only saw the light of day after a desperate fight for its production.

Richard Bennett, the actor who started in and put on the stage production and who now appears in the motion pictures played a role of heroism in behalf of humanity when he set out to get the play produced. If he had not won the pictures could not be seen today.

Mr. Bennett chanced to overhear a conversation in a Broadway cafe one day three years ago. Two diners were discussing a strange play by Eugene Brieux, a French dramatist of note. What Bennett heard led him to get and read the book. He became inspired with the moral mission and the power of the story. He determined to put it on the stage.

It was a long heart-breaking fight that followed. He met all kinds of obstacles. Two theatres were pointed to him, then refused when the nature of the story was explained. He was told that the play was too long, too serious, too dark, and that it would not pay. He was told to get a theatre.

The world knows what happened. The country was swept with a sensation. Men and women fought to get into the playhouses to see this stirring production of the stage.

The word on streets about the great dramatic courage of the man who was going to put the truth before the public eye, for the first time.

Bennett not only won his fight for the worthy picture, but he won a big material success as well. At last reports Mr. Bennett had derived no-less than $400,000 in profits from his production and he is still collecting royalties.

"Damaged Goods" in a seven reel Mutual special feature photoplay featuring Mr. Bennett and his original Broadway cast of the speaking stage production will be shown here at the Star Theatre, Wednesday, Feb. 9th.

Accident Adds Touch of Realism in "Turn of the Road"

A peculiar accident occurred in the filming of one of the scenes of the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Features, "The Turn of the Road," that while adding a touch of realism to the picture was fortunately free from any fatality, except in the shaking of the players concerned in its enactment. In the big scene where Joseph Kilgour as John King, and Virginia Pearson as Marcia Wilbur, are clouing in King's machine, a large passenger train came in on the main line, and the road car was derailed. It was so close to the camera that they were forced over an embankment. The scene was so realistic that the camera men were afraid to get a closer shot.

The machine, however, was not so soft to sustain its weight, it started to slide, half way down the declivity, the automobile truck a stump and turning a complete somersault landed at the bottom in an upright position. Neither the players nor the auto received any scratch, but both Miss Pearson and Mr. Kilgour had the signs of their lives. The camera men had the camera ready to work and caught the machine in its wild slide. The most of the accident is shown in the completed picture, the climax where the clouers are being rescued from beneath the overturned machine, being staged later. "The Turn of the Road," is one of the Vitagraph's most ambitious dramatic offerings and is being released as a quality picture in five parts. It is replete with all features necessary to an interest holding story, not the least of these features being an all star cast, including Miss Pearson and Mr. Kilgour, Naomi Childers, Bobby Connelly, Robert Gaillard and Edwin Robbins and was pronounced under the direction of Telf Johnson.

Paul Gilmore and Marguerite Snow

Marguerite Snow, the vivacious and talented actress will be seen here at the Star Theatre on Tuesday, Feb. 8th, in "Rosemary," a big five part feature picture produced by the Quality Pictures Corporation for release on the Metro Program. This brilliant star will be supported by a superb cast headed by Paul Gilmore, the distinguished romantic stage star. Frank Bacon, America's foremost character actor, William Clifford, Virginia Pratt, Maurice Catron, George F. Hernandez and other notable talents.

"Rosemary" is a dramatization of the famous stage play by the same name in which John Drew starred on Broadway.

In addition to the above a one reel educational subject will be shown entitled "Climbing Mt. Blanc."

Impressive Scenes in "The Turn of the Road"

In "The Turn of the Road," at the Star Theatre, Thursday, Feb. 10 produced by the Vitagraph Company under the direction of Telf Johnson from an original manuscript by Isabel M. Johnston, considerable of the interest centers in Jack, the four year son of John and Helen King. To heighten the realism and add the softening touch characteristic of childhood to the story, a curious scene was built that is a masterpiece of detail is worthy of more than passing mention. The wagonette is made up of a series of pictures representing scenes and characters popular with children. Al-ways there is a second series of pictures which the alphabet is prominent while intertwined in and among the letters are more of the scenes that appeal to the childish mind. Scattered about the room are picture books, toy trains, fire engines, blocks that tell of the adventures of "Little Red Riding Hood," "Mother Goose," etc.

All this, and more, is seen in the moving scenes with the little fellow looking his mother for the beautiful temptress that called his wife friend. The strong dramatic situations that lead up to the two great power struggles of the story, the first between the mother and the father, and the second between the mother and the child, are shown in a series of pictures that are as dramatic as any ever seen on the screen.

Their lives are so rapidly taken by the hand of fate, and the child is left to his own devices. The author's plan, worked out here, is so that one series of scenes would heighten the effect of the other and Director Johnson succeeded in registering on the screen, just that deft hand that caught the spirit of the author's conception. Admission 5 and 15c.

"Damaged Goods" Tells of Youths' "Sin Secrets"

The plot of "Damaged Goods," the remarkable film play just released for showing here carries a story that unhappily is repeated in the secret history of many a young man of the day.

Despite its dark passages it is clearly portrayed on the screen and interest is maintained evenly through the seven reels.

The picture is to be seen here at the Star theatre on Wednesday, Feb. 9th.

It is a mutual special feature made by the American Film Company.

The story of the play centers about the role of George Dupont, which is taken by Richard Bennett, the famous actor who produced the play on the speaking stage with such sensational success.

George Dupont, a man of excellent home training and of honest ambitions has a jolly evening with the boys. He is engaged to be married and this is a final fling and a farewell to the days of bachelorhood. He drinks too much and with a boon companion he visits two women of the kind whom G. B. Shaw called "clappers" on the stage. "Mrs. Warren's Profession." It is not long before he discovers that the "profession" has brought a horrible punishment upon him. Driven to despair by the thought that his very flesh is corrupted and his very blood is tainted he seeks a cure. His situation is rendered all the more pitiable by the fact that he is engaged to be married to a decent young woman.

A long delay in the wedding is found to set tongues wagging, and like the rest of us the poor fellow is a mortal dread of what "people" will say about him. He buries his secret from all, but he cannot hide it from himself. He is on the point of going away with himself when he is rescued by the girl who had contaminated him. The girl tells of her own salvation from mental and bodily ruin through the ministrations of a capable, skilled and cordial general physician. She urges her victim to consult this same doctor.

The doctor examines the young man and tells him that it will take at least two years to regain his health. He adds the significant warning: "If you marry before that time you will be a criminal." In the meantime his mother, his bride and all his relatives and friends ply him with entreaties as to the delay of the marriage. He evades as well as he can and follows the advice of his doctor. He goes to the doctor's office and is told that he must stay in bed for a long time. He visits the quack who snave manner assures him, and despite his better knowledge and the prophecies of his conscience he marries. The rest can indeed be told much better in pictures than in words.
