

FORD PLANTS RE-OPEN TOMORROW

THE BONUS BILL FAILED TO BE ENACTED—SENATE SUSTAINS HARDING'S VETO

PREVIOUSLY THE HOUSE HAD OVER-RIDDEN THE PRESIDENT'S VETO

NEW BILL MENTION

Is Made That Might Meet With Favor From President and Senate

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—For the third time the soldiers' bonus legislation failed of enactment. The senate yesterday sustained the president's veto of the Fordney-McCumber bill, by a vote of 44 to 28, falling four short of the two-thirds majority. The house previously overrode the veto. Action of the senate makes it impossible for the veteran's compensation at least until the next session of congress, which begins in December. Its purpose of some of the proponents to continue the fight and the bonus may become issue with some of the congressional and senatorial campaigns this fall.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The bonus bill failed of enactment late yesterday, the senate sustaining President Harding's veto. Previously the house had over-ridden the veto by a large margin.

The senate roll call showed 44 yeas and 28 nays, or four less than the two-thirds majority necessary to override the veto. The vote in the house was 288 to 54, or fifty more than the required number.

Although it was reported that a new bill might be introduced today, it was certain that the bonus fight would not be renewed, at least until the next session of congress, which will begin December 4. The senate roll call follows:

To override the veto—Republicans: Brandegee, Bursam, Capper, Colt, Cummins, Curtis, Gooding, Hale, Harold, Jones of Washington, Kellogg, LaFollette, Lenroot, Lodge, McCormick, McCumber, McLean, McNary, Nicholson, Norbeck, Oddie, Rawson, Shortridge, Stanfield, Sutherland, Townsend and Watson, of Indiana—27. Democrats: Ashurst, Broussard, Culberson, Fletcher, Gerry, Harrison, Heflin, Hitchcock, McKellar, Randall, Rivers of Missouri, Robinson, Shepard, Simmons, Smith, Trammell and Walsh of Massachusetts—17. Total, 44.

To sustain the veto—Republicans: Bell, Borah, Caldon, Cameron, Dillingham, Dupont, Edge, Ernest, Fernald, France, Keicks, Moses, Nelson, New, Newberry, Pepper, Phipps, Reed of Pennsylvania, Smoot, Sterling and Wadsworth—21. Democrats: Dial, Glass, Myers, Owen, Shields, Underwood and Williams—7. Total, 28.

Pairs: Caraway and Jones, New Mexico, for; McKinley against; Harris and Walsh of Montana for; Frelinghuysen against. Pittman and Pomeroy, for; Swanson (present) against. Overman and Norris, for; Warren (present) against. Ladd and Kendrick for; King, against. Poin-dexter and Willis, for; Waller against. Johnson and Spencer, for; Page against. Total, 21.

Absent and not paired: Elkins, Stanley and Watson (Georgia)—3. Grand total, 96.

The house vote on the first passage of the bonus last March 23, was 330 to 70, or 4.75 to 1, as compared with 4.77 to 1 yesterday. The senate vote yesterday compared with 47 to 22, by which the measure was first passed August 21.

Most of the house votes to sustain the president were cast by members from eastern and southern states with western delegations voting almost solidly for the bill.

There were two changes in the senate, Senator Cameron, Republican, Arizona, who voted for the bonus originally, voting to sustain the veto, while Senator McKinley, Republican, Illinois, who, it was announced, was

EXPLOSIVES BEING USED IN R. R. YARDS

BUNK HOUSE IN BOX CAR WAS BLOWN UP IN THE YARDS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 21.—Outbreaks of violence in Birmingham railroad districts caused renewed energy on the part of the city, and county authorities in an effort to put down the use of high explosives. A rigid inquiry is being made in connection with the blowing up last night of a box car used as a bunkhouse for workers in the yards of the Louisville & Nashville railroad at Boyles. Charge of high explosives smashed the car to bits. One man was severely injured.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 21.—Striking Southern Railway shopmen and officials that road reached an agreement last night, whereby the men are to return to work in groups starting at 3 P. M. today.

BRITISH WILL INTERFERE IN LIQUOR TRIAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Unless the defendants take an appeal from the decision of the federal court in Boston yesterday, an appeal to a higher tribunal to pass on the claim of the American prohibition navy to jurisdiction over the case beyond the three mile limit, the British government is expected here to take up the subject diplomatically with the state department.

Up to the present, the British embassy has confined itself to requests for information as to facts connected with several seizures and searches of vessels under the British flag by prohibition agents, and has made no appearance in the legal proceedings. Now that the cases have begun to emerge from the court dockets, throwing the weight of judicial decisions behind the claim of extended high seas for jurisdiction, it is understood that there is to be a change in the course of the London government.

The British contend that the issues raised by the court decision in Boston yesterday in the case of the British schooner Grace and Ruby, which was held for rum-selling beyond the three mile limit, are far more grave and important than any mere question of the punishment of a few smugglers, or the enforcement of domestic custom laws.

In the British view, there is involved the greater question of freedom of the high seas. If it is possible for any nation to extend its jurisdiction beyond the old recognized limits at its own pleasure, it is regarded by the British as important that some understanding should be reached as to the extent of the powers claimed.

Secretary of State Hughes initiated negotiations to this end, but so far the British government has not replied to his invitation to seek a reciprocal understanding authorizing the search of vessels of either country within certain zones.

favorable to the bill on the first vote, was paired against it.

There was only brief consideration of the measure in the house. In calling up the bill, Mr. Mondell said it had been considered for a long time and further debate was not likely to change a single vote and was unnecessary. Mr. Garrett, the minority leader, asked that there be an hour's discussion, but after cries of "vote, vote" from the Republican side, the majority leader moved the previous question and the roll call was ordered.

Announcements the result of the voting was received in silence. The same was true in the senate.

HOUSE WANTS TO QUIT BY NEXT FRIDAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—A resolution calling for sine die adjournment at 2 p. m. Friday, was adopted by the house today by an overwhelming vote and the measure was sent to the senate which is expected to adopt it, if it is evident it can complete its business by that time. Otherwise, the senate will amend the resolution to provide for a later adjournment.

The house practically disposed of its pressing business with its action on the soldiers' bonus but members were urged by Representative Mondell of Wyoming, the republican leader, to remain on the job for possible action on a request from the president for a special appropriation for relief of American refugees in the Near East. The senate, however, has before it disposition of the Librarian loan, a deficiency appropriation bill and other matters which or may not be given final consideration.

Meanwhile the question of calling congress in special session about November 15 to take up administration ship subsidy bill, amendments to the transportation act and certain appropriation bills was considered at a conference today between President Harding and Speaker Gillett, of the house; Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the republican senate leader, and Representative Mondell. The congressional leaders were said to favor such a step and President Harding has indicated that it was under consideration.

In the closing moments of the house session today, Mr. Mondell sought unanimous consent for two minutes in which to tell of the achievements of this congress and Representative Garrett, Tennessee, the democratic leader, asked if the story could not be told in one minute.

"This congress has transacted more important business during the present session than was ever transacted by any congress in American history," said Mr. Mondell, after which he asked the privilege of extending his remarks.

"I suggest that the gentleman from Wyoming be given an hour in which to tell what congress has failed to do," said Representative London, socialist, New York.

Mr. Garrett obtained permission to extend his remarks on "the non-work of congress," announcing that he might include some observations on the subject by the secretary of war and others.

BETWEEN TURKEY AND GREECE AND STOP THE FIGHTING IN THE NEAR EAST

Meanwhile British Bull Dogs and Turks Get Ready for Bloody Fray at the Dardanelles

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, Sept. 21.—While the Allied powers are endeavoring to arrange peace conference to clean the slate between Turkey, and Greece and to prevent more fighting in the Near East, rumbles of hostilities continue. Relatively small British forces are holding Chanak, the key position of the Southern shore straits, while the Turkish Nationalists are concentrated outside the neutral zone at Ismid and Chanak, impatiently awaiting word to advance. Associated Press dispatch quotes Hamid Bey to the effect that the Kemal army will certainly declare war on the British if they attempt to interfere with the movement across the straits. Much hope is based on the result of a conference in Smyrna between Mustafa Kemal Pasha, and General Pelle of the French high commission.

ATHENS, Sept. 21.—With thousands of refugees, and refugees arriving daily from Asia-Minor and insufficient wheat supply at home, Greece is confronted with a food problem so grave that international help given quickly may alone save thousands from starvation. (By The Associated Press) MIAMI, Sept. 20.—Bert and Harold Krueger, arrived safely last night at Stuart in their hydroplane Bluebird in which they started South September 1 from Barnegat Bay.

Engine troubles forced them to land in a number of places. Finally engine stalled on North Florida coast and plane landed in ocean off Cumberland Island. When plane hit the water the aircraft was hopelessly wrecked, but the boys were near enough to swim ashore. They then walked some distance, reached a railroad, where they boarded a train for home at Stuart, Fla.

POST CARD DAY

Sanford is making big preparations for Post Card Day and the Chamber of Commerce is fathering the movement aided and abetted by the Kiwanis Club, the Rotary Club, The Woman's Club, the Elks Club, and the policeman's club and all the other clubs. Sanford intends to send out more postcards this year than have ever been sent out of this city upon any occasion. It is something that should receive the support of every live wire citizen of the county and is the greatest stunt for advertising the city that was ever devised. Post Card Day is the 30th of September but you can send the cards for one week before or one week afterward if you wish, only the Chamber of Commerce wants to check up on the various associations and business houses to see who sends out the most cards. The St. Augustine Record has the following about the event:

As the first of September nor'easter brings a breath of fall weather, and a hint of cooler temperature to come people in many sections of the North are already drawing on their scanty stocks of coal for fires that are needed for warmth and comfort during the first chilly days of mid-September. From now on the minds of thousands will be turning longingly toward the Sunny South, and messages from Florida, telling them of the charms and comforts which await them here, are sure to have their effect. With this idea in mind, Post Card Day, which was so successful last year, is again announced by the Florida Development Board, and the date set is September 30th.

Under the caption "Load the Mail Bags," the Jacksonville Journal recently carried a timely editorial, which brings out some vital points. One especially good one is the advice to "cut out the alligator and snake stuff" and in this undoubtedly the people of the state generally will concur. There are too many beautiful and worthwhile things in Florida to be emphasized for any of us to waste time drawing attention to saurians and reptiles. Every bit of ammunition ought to count, and cards, folders, and letters which indicate the beauties of the State of Florida and some of the State's improvements should be mailed exclusively.

With regard to the Post Card Day of last year, and the day scheduled for 1922, the Journal says:

"Last year at the suggestion of J. L. Wallace, secretary of the Jacksonville Realtors Association, local civic organizations were recruited into the mailing campaigns. Prizes were offered and a contest developed. Over 1,100,000 cards were mailed out from this city alone. We are satisfied that the scheme produced the most satisfactory results of any advertising campaign into which we have ever entered," declared Mr. Wallace. Double that number this year, Jacksonville.

"Charles T. Paxton, president of the association, estimates the cash value of the advertising at over $100,000.

"From distant Shanghai, China, where a card was sent, shipping now enters Jacksonville's port. And inquiries are still coming in to the ready board from cards mailed a year ago.

"Hit 'em again this year in the same spot. Bombard your friends with the best ammunition at hand. If he's interested in growing things, send him true pictures and facts about our fruits and vegetables, and our shipping facilities. Maybe he's interested in lumber, or pitch or our prolific fishing industry. These are only a few of the opportunities just waiting to be snatched.

"Here's a chance for every Florida-boasting individual, association or club to make it their business to see that cards and then more cards are sent out from all over Florida to all over the world on September 30. Don't pity the poor postmaster. Load the mail bags."

St. Augustine should be ready to do its share toward making Post Card

Day a success throughout the State, and local dealers might as well prepare for a run on postcards, if people of the Ancient City take up the idea with the enthusiasm being shown in other sections of Florida.

UNION LABOR FAVORS LAW ENFORCEMENT

The Times has always believed that the disorders and violence which are such frequent and distressing features of nearly every strike, were in the main to be credited to the foreign element which has crept into the ranks of labor, and in some cases forms a majority in the unions. It is so in Herrin, where the brutality and savagery of the outbreak shocked civilization. We saw recently an analysis of the nativity of the employees of one of the big packing houses of Chicago. Of 6,000 employees, only about 1,300 were native born Americans, about the same number were foreigners, mostly from southern Europe, Italians, Greeks, Asiatics and others, while about 1,200 were negroes. Of course the great majority were densely ignorant, many of them neither speaking nor understanding the English language. They were excitable people easily moved to violence, by the specious talk of demagogues. Many of them had never been naturalized and were not American citizens.

It is so to a greater or lesser degree in the steel works and the coal mines, and in all vocations where great numbers of men are employed, and where brawn and muscle are more essential than brain power. Americans naturally gravitate to employments of a higher grade, where there is more chance for intelligence and initiative, and more opportunity for advancement. The ignorant and penniless foreigner drops into the first job that offers, or seeks it with others of his kind who have preceded him. When trouble comes, through the machinations of blatherskites and demagogues, who find workable material in these foreign masses they seek redress of fancied wrongs in the only way known to them, that is, in violence and destructiveness. They burn bridges and buildings, tear up tracks and wreck trains, and terrorize individuals who are willing to work for wages which they reject. It is for the control of such reckless and lawless elements that injunctions and armed guards are necessary. They would never be resorted to, if strikes were always conducted in a peaceful and orderly manner, and without violence to those who do not agree with the strikers. Better still would it be if the strike, as a means of settlement of disputes between capital and labor, could be abolished altogether, and the difference adjusted around the council table, without the destruction and disorder and loss to both sides that always accompanies a general strike.

Eventually, the adjustment must be made in that way, why not without the hatred and rancor and violence that too often comes with the strike. When we become more civilized we will find the better way and adopt it. In the meantime it is gratifying to know that there is an element in union labor which condemns the resort to violence and brutality, and favors the supremacy of lawful and orderly methods. The Federation of Shop Crafts, of Jacksonville, took prompt action following the arrest of striking employees of the Seaboard Air Line for the attempt to dynamite the Six Mile creek trestle of the Atlantic Coast line, near Jacksonville. In an open meeting the federation passed the following resolution:

"We, the Federated Shop Crafts of Jacksonville and vicinity in open mass meeting assembled, do hereby publicly announce that we, as striking shopmen, unanimously record ourselves as denouncing the persons guilty of destruction or attempted destruction of property or any other illegal or unlawful act, and will assist the officers of the law in preserving in this community the enforcement of all laws, and."

"Any member of our organization found guilty of unlawful acts will be tried and dealt with according to the laws of the organization of which he is a member."

"Passed in open mass meeting in Jacksonville at the Labor Temple, September 18, 1922.

(Signed) "W. H. BROUGH, Chairman.
"E. M. BREESE, Secretary."

That is the kind of talk that is good to hear. It will do more to secure the sympathy of the people with union labor than a thousand unpunished massacres like that at Herrin. Such affairs only alienate and antagonize the people of America. We are essentially a law-abiding people, believing that the law is made for the protection of all the people, rich and poor alike, and that law breakers must be detected and punished, no matter what their position in life may be. No individual or corporation is too high, nor is any workman too low to claim the protection of the law, and all must obey it, or take the penalty for disobedience. All honor to the federated shopmen of Jacksonville for defining their position in favor of law enforcement in such clear and unmistakable terms.—Tampa Times.

J. CLEVELAND JACOBS

A gloom was cast over our community, as well as the entire county, last Thursday, when the news reached us that Cleveland Jacobs was shot. Merry-hearted, sunny-natured Cleveland, who was always cheerful, even though a task before him was not always pleasant. We could scarcely believe it. Cleveland was one of Seminole county's capable deputy sheriffs, and was shot by a negro culprit who was resisting arrest. He died within a few minutes from the wound, in fact before he could be carried to the hospital.

His relatives and friends here, at Chuluota, were telephoned. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Jacobs, and a number of friends were soon at Sanford, but his spirit had taken its flight before they reached his side.

Cleveland Jacobs was born March 13, 1892, reared at Chuluota, having lived here all his life with the exception of a few months at intervals until he was called upon by Sheriff C. M. Hand to fill one of the places of public guardianship, a position he faithfully filled until his death.

He became converted and united with the Chuluota Baptist church in his early youth, to which he lived a consistent member.

On June 10, 1915, he was united in marriage to Miss Iola Blackburn of Ralmoth, Kentucky.

The funeral and interment took place at the Chuluota cemetery Friday at 4:30 P. M. The funeral services were conducted by the Order of Odd Fellows and Order of Elks, of which organizations he was a member. The ceremony was beautiful and touching. The secret orders were assisted by Dr. Walker of the Methodist church and Dr. King of the Baptist church of Sanford. The body was tenderly consigned to mother earth by loving hands, and the mound was completely covered with many and beautiful flowers brought as a token of love and respect by those who contributed them. During the funeral service there fell on the large assembled crowd quite a shower of rain that made us think that even Mother Nature wept at the demise of such a fine young life.

We point the grief-stricken wife and parents to the passage from the Great Book which says: "All things work together for the good of those who love the Lord." And while in their bereavement it is so hard to understand God's ways, yet to the words of the song we commend them:

AMERICAN LEGION NEWS
CAMPBELL-LOSSING POST

The American Legion of Sanford is getting up a contract to raise funds for the building of a club house on the lot that the city gave them. The lot is located on the Bulkhead near the A. C. L. tracks and it is a very desirable spot for the Club House. Each member of the Legion that can afford to put money into this home is doing so. It is such a small amount that each man can easily afford to sign up on the contract. The form of the contract is to pay one dollar a week for two years, which will make $104.00, the total amount that each man will have in the Club House. We have around 127 paid up members at the present time and there are quite a few more coming in; we want every man who has an Honorable Discharge from the Army, Navy and the Marines who lives within the Sanford Legion district to be sure and join the Legion now. We are making a drive to get the men into the Legion that do not belong. We have some very fine things that we are going to put on in Sanford this winter and we want every man to boost the Legion towards having the best post in the state. Last Thursday night we had a very good meeting, but not near enough members were there. All men are urgently requested to turn out at the next meeting for we have some very important matters that will be brought up at this meeting, one of them being for the Armistice Day Celebration, so be sure and be there. "Buddy", a hearty welcome awaits you, also any man who does not belong come to the meeting and sign up with the American Legion.

Let's Boost Our Town!

SAYS THE STATE MARKETING BUREAU

The total movement of Florida crops by the carload from Sept. 15, 1921, to July 1, 1922, was 70,816, as compared with 59,816 for the same period of 1920-21, or a gain of over 11,000 cars. The totals as given in the final tabulation for the season, ending July 1st, were as follows: Oranges, 18,094 cars; grapefruit, 14,929 cars; tomatoes, 9,595 cars; watermelons, 8,116 cars; potatoes, 4,447 cars; celery, 4,293 cars; cabbage, 2,868 cars; vegetables, 2,489 cars; lettuce, 2,285 cars; cucumbers, 2,022 cars; peppers, 998 cars; strawberries, 291 cars; beans, 224 cars; cantaloupes, 129 cars; pineapples, 95 cars; pears, 2 cars.

hen and compare it with the dry matter of the egg she lays in a year there will be 5 1/2 times as much dry matter in the eggs as in her whole body. The weight of the dry matter in a cow's body will be to the weight of the dry matter as 1 to 2.9. In other words, based upon the dry matter, the hen is the most efficient transformer of raw material into the finished product that there is on the farm. Her physiological activity is something remarkable, so in that particular the hen stands in a class by herself.

In speaking of time-saving and labor-saving inventions a writer says: "The human mind is feeling its way to the ultimate period when three or four hours' work a day will suffice. That time will never come because fortunately our wants increase as they are supplied. If it should come however, our civilization would crumble for the simple reason that idleness breeds decay. Some folks think they want a shorter day. That isn't what they want at all. What we all want is a larger return for the hours put in. And we need the full day's work to properly enjoy its fruits when it ends."

"Laws Relating to Fur Animals," "Laws Relating to 1922" is the title of Farmers Bulletin No. 1239, just issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Laws to protect fur-bearing animals are designed to keep a steady flow of skins and pelts coming to market. It is said that killing fur animals, when their pelts are not prime, causes enormous losses every year. An educational campaign is in progress to prevent this waste, and perpetuate our fur-producing resources.

A SMALL CROWD BUT ENTHUSIASTIC AT THE GUN CLUB

So Many Were Out of Town That the Shoot Was Not Largely Attended

On account of a great many of the regulars being out of town the crowd of shooters at the Sanford Rod & Gun club yesterday was small but nevertheless interest in this great sport in Sanford is keeping up and those who are out are just as enthusiastic as though there were three times the number.

The boys, shot in the face of a high wind, yesterday and considering this great handicap the scores were very good as a rule. It is impossible to shoot against a high wind with the same accuracy that can be expected on a calm day.

Beginning next month most of the boys will be back in town and it is expected that the attendance will be better.

WEATHER AND CROP CONDITIONS IN FLORIDA FOR THE WEEK ENDING SEPT. 19, 1922

Temperature—Temperature changes were mostly unimportant during the week. The weather was warmer than the seasonal, however, during mid-week over much of the peninsula, many extremes exceeding 90 degrees. Sunshine—The week was one of much cloudiness, frequent showers, and occasional heavy rains, the last named condition taking place in several divisions, although rain was less general on the immediate east coast from about Titusville south. The percentage of sunshine was high in the extreme south, and exceptionally low in the extreme west, and the north-eastern portion of the section. Rainfall—The week's total rainfall over the several divisions exceeded 2 and 4 inches in north-central counties; 1 to 3 inches over the extreme north with varying but diminishing amounts in the coast counties of the Atlantic. West of the Suwannee River the amounts ranged from 1 1/2 more than 4 inches. Crops—The showery, cloudy conditions were generally unfavorable for the harvesting of cotton, work having been suspended for several days. In some instances lint cotton was washed from the bolls. As the crop has been practically harvested, however, the loss from that source was confined to small areas over widely separated localities. The harvesting of corn, peanuts, and hay was delayed much of the week, and there was loss of hay in some instances. The wet weather did not affect cane and sweet potatoes unfavorably to any great extent, except on some low lands where the soil is soggy, and entirely too wet even for strawberries, truck and seed beds. Trucking is generally backward, although beans, squash, turnip and mustard greens are becoming more plentiful, and planting truck was continued whenever possible; some celery was set out and small quantities of fall Irish potatoes are in market. Citrus fruits are generally in good condition, except some complaint of "splitting," owing to wet weather.

OPERATION SAVES HIS RADIO SET
CINCINNATI, Sept. 21.—Rather than allow a bit of shrapnel embedded in his neck—a souvenir de la guerre—interfere with the use of his radio phone, Judge Robert S. Marx, former commander of the disabled American veterans of the world war, underwent an operation here today for the removal of the jagged piece of metal.

The magnet in the head piece of the radio set had caused sufficient magnetism of the jagged piece of metal.

Judge Marx, who served in the artillery, was severely wounded the day before the armistice was signed by the explosion of an enemy shell.

Letters Of A Florida Citrus Grower To His Nephew

VI.

From Jonas Arland at Hammock Groves, Florida, to Samuel Newcomer, Bentonville, Mich.

Dear Sam:

Don't let anybody tell you that you don't want to pool your fruit. On that subject Dr. J. H. Ross says:

"Pooling as practiced in the most successful associations of the Florida Citrus Exchange is in reality a most practicable form of business insurance. In marketing any perishable commodity it is inevitable that mishaps shall befall occasional cars. Pooling so distributes any bad effects from unfortunate cars that the divided loss is almost negligible, and, further, by distributing exceptionally high returns upon exceptionally fortunate cars the result is to stabilize citrus growing and put it upon a sound business basis. Yet each grower participates in the distribution of returns for fruit of the same quality as he shipped. Pooling is the Golden Rule applied to business. It is 'good business,' plus."

As I see it, a fellow pools his fruit, whether he goes into a pool or not. If he plays a lone hand, he has got to pool with himself. That means fat years and lean years; and the lean years can be depended upon to come at the wrong time. A man doesn't pool good fruit and get returns proportioned to those of another who ships poor fruit. What he does get is his share of the returns on fruit of precisely the same grade and size. Wherever pooling is practiced the growers are happy and are contented with their returns. Generally speaking, the longer the term of the pool operated, the happier the growers are. I, for one, would not consider having my fruit sold by any organization not in a position to give me the advantage of pooling. Anyone who refuses to enter into a pool is not properly informed on the subject, else is like some of those individualists who refuse to divide responsibility with their fellows by carrying insurance on their homes. Yet when one of that sort gets burned out without insurance he generally makes such a wailing and gnashing of teeth it is hard to hear the clink of the silver falling into the hat that well-meaning neighbors are passing about to buy a new outfit of clothes for his family. The arguments that some put up against pooling somehow sound to me like plea of the fellow who was being tried for the murder of his father and mother, and asked the mercy of the court on the ground that he was an orphan.

I shipped two cars of watermelons last spring on my own hook. One of them got caught in a washout on a railroad near Macon. That being what the railroads call an "Act of Providence," I had no chance to pass the buck. The other one arrived in Philadelphia at a time when every cuss in Florida who had watermelons thought best to ship them into Philadelphia. There were so many on the sidings it gave the dealers colic just to look them over. Mine brought thirty-nine dollars and eighteen cents less than freight and icing. I have made money on watermelons before, and I will make it again, but it is darned unhandy to slip up and get a little less than nothing out of these. How much better it would have been if all of us here had handled our melons together. In that case it might just have been that my two cars would have hit the high spots, but I wouldn't have begrudged some of those who were out of luck getting part of my money in that case. For you can't beat the law of average, and no really thinking man tries to. There must always be some who figure they will have no hard luck; and they, of course, will try to beat the game. For that matter, however, there are folks who figure they know enough to run the earth, though they're hardly able to put a tire on a fliover. These angles of marketing your citrus deserve looking into pretty thoroughly. There is many a stream which will make a horse swim to cross it that only takes ducks up to their middle.

I will mail this as I go through town. Bill Heard, another seventy-year youngster, has just showed up with information that the perch are biting hard down in the big lake; and I reckon we'll have to go down there and try to accommodate them. Love to Etta and the kids and yourself, from Your Uncle, Jonas.

VII.

From Jonas Arland at Hammock Groves, Florida, to Samuel Newcomer, Bentonville, Mich.

Dear Sam:

Somewhere in the Good Book it says, "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth."

From which I gather that whatever of this world's goods I accumulate will be by my own efforts, as my chances of inheritance are small. Goodness knows, I have borne this Biblical injunction in mind, but ever now and then something knocks it plumb out of my head. Have just come back from town, after staging an exhibition, and remorse has me hard and fast, even if I did have considerable provocation.

I stopped in to buy a week's rations, and ran into a fruit buyer and a bunch of my neighbors. Couldn't help hearing the conversations; and I will say this fellow had a pretty poisonous line of talk. He was willing to admit his concern was the one straight and honest benefactor of the growers. All the others were either crooked or under the management of congenial idiots. When he turned his flow of talk on the Florida Citrus Exchange, I got into the game just to avoid being gassed as a non-combatant.

The things he said didn't amount to much. In fact, they would have been laughable if my sense of humor had been working; but it had quit on me. One thing that helped make me mad was that in the crowd were three members of our association who were taking it all in, and who either didn't have enough information or enough backbone to stand up for their own organization.

After he had set out his claims as to the impossibility of a bunch of farmers managing their own affairs, and had begun to pay his compliments more definitely, I forgot all about my chances for inheriting anything, and ripped into him.

Told him first that I didn't have to beg his pardon for butting in, for when he was talking about the Florida Citrus Exchange he was talking about me; that I wasn't an officer; but I was one of the owners, and I resented his effort to backbite and belittle it. I bullied the bunch into going over to the packing house and established by actual figures that over a term of years I had averaged far more for my fruit through the Florida Citrus Exchange than any of the crowd had who had sold to speculators. In fact, when I began to tear into this fellow it didn't take me long to have him in a corner admitting that largely his talk had been pure bluff, and he didn't have the facts to back it up. Then I certainly did lay him open.

However, when one of my neighbors mentioned that his own average through the Florida Citrus Exchange had beat mine a little, he began to get the benefits. Why, he had stood still with not a word to say, not only letting everybody in hearing believe this fellow, but indicating that he believed this talk himself. I told my friend that if he didn't think enough of the Florida Citrus Exchange to protect its good name on such occasions, he wasn't deserving the benefits that came to him through it. Believe on the spur of the moment I mentioned "yellow legs," and said a good deal that I will have to eat in order to re-establish friendly relations. However, it does make me tired when I find some persons willing to let this propaganda go by when they have it in their power to scotch it offhand. It makes me sore all through when I hear some of our own growers, who are helping to direct the affairs of the organization, run down by such loose talk, when I know their services are given at a sacrifice to themselves in most instances; and I know they are being thus abused simply because their work helps make the organization effective and thus earns the enmity of some of these speculators.

I believe that whoever stands by you is worth standing by in turn; and as long as I profit through my part ownership in the Florida Citrus Exchange, guess I will be willing to accept my part of the responsibility in protecting it, meekness to the contrary notwithstanding.

And if I run true to form now and then, forgetting all about being meek, I am fairly consistent at that. And wasn't it Bill Nye who said, "Consistency, thou art a mule?"

With best love to Etta, the youngsters and yourself, from Your Cashtankerous, Uncle Jonas.

These letters constitute the fourth installment of a series. Others will be published in an early issue.

EVELYN BIGGERS IN ROLE OF LIFE SAVER AT PALM SPRINGS

Palm Springs—where God has been very lavish with his beauties—the palm trees meet in a canopy overhead—where ferns and all kinds of foliage and trees in riotous luxuriance produces the feeling that you are in some enchanted spot—perhaps where the red men roamed or camped—all is so tropical and grand. The spring, which is cemented all around, is about 60 feet wide, 100 feet long, the water icy cold and flows out in an immense volume, 10,000 gallons to the minute, it is claimed. Mr. Lester Beeman owns this magnificent property, and is so generous as to invite the "whole world" as his guests, to come and enjoy a swim at any time. No wire fence or locks, all free. The spring is usually full of swimmers and many claim much benefit by the water, which rejuvenates and invigorates, in fact you feel "done over" and say good bye to worry.

By a very strange coincidence, on last Monday afternoon, Sept. 11, about 8 o'clock, there was not a man in the water or in sight, when a little boy was pushed by his companion and toppled over in the spring, where it was eight or nine feet deep. Miss Evelyn Biggers was swimming about forty feet from where he went under. She at once went to him and rescued him after he had gone down twice, just as he was going down for the third time. The little boy clung so tenaciously to her neck that she had to keep her wits about her to keep from being pulled under. William Steadman, the young son of the care taker, was on the hill about 300 yards distant when he heard the commotion of the on-lookers and the cries of "save my child" by his mother, he ran and sprang into the water and assisted Miss Biggers.

The boy, "G. C." Fogel and his mother live at Oak Hill, Fla. They were occupying one of the cottages on the grounds for a week. Miss Biggers was the only one in the water, and it was due to her presence of mind and the fact that she is a good swimmer that the boy was not drowned. Miss Evelyn is just 16 years old and the eldest daughter of Mr. Edgar Biggers. She is a charming young girl and should be commended for her bravery.

EIGHT MORE BODIES BROUGHT FROM MINE

Last of Forty-Seven to Be Recovered Today—Funerals, Friday

JACKSON, Calif., Sept. 21.—The last of the bodies of the 47 miners who met death in the Argonaut gold mine by fire and poisonous gas are expected to be brought to the surface by tonight.

Eight additional bodies were today brought from the Argonaut level, in which the miners had erected bulkheads to retard the movement of the gas. Seven were identified and 17 others have been placed in caskets.

Funeral for all of the victims will be held Friday and the Jackson band will lead the funeral processions to the Roman Catholic, Protestant and Greek Catholic cemeteries. The caskets, covered with American flags, will be placed beside the graves before the processions arrive at the cemeteries. The coroner's jury viewed two bodies today and adjourned until after the funerals.

CLAIMS GLIDER TO CLIMB 20,000 FEET

(By The Associated Press) CLEVELAND, Sep. 20.—A motorless airplane, capable of climbing to an altitude of 20,000 feet, is forecast by Dr. George H. Madelung, designer of the successful Hanover glider, which in a recent glider competition in the Rhone valley, broke all records by staying in the air for more than three hours.

Dr. Madelung is now a member of the designing staff of a local airplane company. Describing the phenomenal development of the machine, in Germany, he explained its operation.

The machine has a gliding angle of sixteen to one, that is, in still air it glides sixteen feet to every foot it descends. It has a still air speed of twenty miles an hour. If the wind is twenty miles an hour, the glider remains stationary, and if more than that, it goes backwards, but if the air current is upward, the glider ascends. It is upon upward currents of air that the glider places main dependence for keeping aloft for more than brief periods.

In sailing for a considerable distance the glider pilot must know approximately where he will encounter upward currents. Plowed fields and other open spaces where the heat of the sun creates a considerable up current are favorable places. It is for this reason that the charting of the air currents has become necessary for the commercial development of the glider.

He pointed to the hawk and other soaring birds as an illustration. The hawk will sail down to a field, whence it will cycle in ascent, forced upward by the rising air caused by the reflected heat of the field. When it has reached a sufficient altitude it soars away, to repeat the process miles away.

In this connection, Dr. Madelung commented, that the hawks and other soaring birds do not fly at night, stating that the reason is because all air currents are downward at night. Night flying is impossible with gliders for the same reason, Dr. Madelung said.

With the application of the principles discovered in gliding a new type of airplane, far more efficient and safe than the present types, will result, Dr. Madelung believes. Dr. Madelung's designs are being used extensively in the construction here of a new type of seaplane. It will have a wing design similar to that of the Hanover glider to be used by the United States Navy.

Dr. Madelung was assistant engineer before the war, in the German Institute of Aeronautical Research at Aldershoff. He was called to the front as a pilot but was later recalled to Aldershoff.

SOME BUSY STUDENT, FOUR HOURS SLEEP, BALANCE IN WORK

AKRON, O., Sept. 19.—Arnold Bennett once wrote a book on "How to Live on Twenty-four Hours a Day."

He would find an apt pupil in Jacob V. Naugle, student at the University of Akron who has been getting along on about four or five hours of sleep a night and spending the other hours in a unique dual existence.

Arising at 7 or 8 o'clock in the morning, Naugle is a college student till 3 in the afternoon. He is a rubber worker from then till midnight. Hurrying out to the Goodyear factory he gets into his overalls in time to join the second shift and build tires in the eight hour shift from 3:30 till 11:30.

Then home—but not to bed. Between 12 and 3 he prepares his lessons for the next day. After that he's got nothing to do but set his alarm clock and turn in for his well earned rest.

Naugle has completed his first three years of college under this schedule and enters his senior year this fall. The hard work and long hours have not seemed to hurt him. He has made a good record in the class room and is regarded as an excellent workman in the shop. He is in first class physical condition.

"The Naugle schedule provides room for everything but recreation. He has no time for dances or class parties. "Time for that in summer time or after I graduate," says Naugle.

We Provide The Packing House

Chase & Co. operate 25 packing houses in Florida, which have been built and equipped by Chase & Co.

This means that Chase & Co. acts as Marketing Agent and provides packing facilities at its own expense and not at the expense of the grower.

If your money, Mr. Grower, is tied up in a packing house, you must add to your cost of packing a fair rate of interest on your money, depreciation and insurance, plus a fair percentage for hazard of freeze or other crop disaster which might make the packing house useless. Have you been doing this?

When operating packing houses belonging to individual growers or associations, Chase & Co. will rebate from its regular packing charges a fair percentage of such charges to cover above items.
