In order to get the event underway, a traditional black tie "Holiday Ball" and "Gift Drive" will be held this year on Saturday, Dec. 5, at the Orlando North Hilton and Towers in Altamonte Springs. The Ball's sponsors and their guests will bring gifts to the representatives from the agencies for distribution.

The agencies on this year's list are Better Living for Seniors, Chapter I Migrant Program, Good Samaritan Home, Habitat for Humanity, Hospice of the Comforter, HRS Foster Care, Seminole Children's Village, the Seminole County School Board's Social Workers and the UCF McKnight Center for Excellence.

The entertainment for the evening will be provided by the Bob Cross Orchestra and the Doo-Wop Delites.

Anyone interested in granting a holiday wish for an area child or senior citizen, should call the SOS Santa Headquarters at 280-8381.

Teacher: Year in jail

Parents angry over sentence in sex case

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The anger and tension were palpable Monday in the courtroom where former Lakeview Middle School band instructor Stephen A. Paterson was sentenced to a year in jail for molesting four male students.

Two of the victims were present in the courtroom as their former teacher was sentenced to spend one year in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility, then two years on community control (house arrest) followed by 10 years probation. The former teacher is to have no contact with children under the age of 16, during his probation. Paterson pleaded no contest to four counts of performing a lewd and lascivious act in the presence of a child.

Sgt. Sammy Gibson of the Seminole County sheriff's office gets the last laugh as he thanks Inv. Willie Harden of the Sanford Police Department for paying off on a friendly bet. Because Harden's Florida Gators lost the big game on Saturday, he agreed to stand at the corner of First and Park in Sanford wearing FSU Seminole shorts and a hat and to carry a sign proclaiming the Noles superiority. Harden refused, however, to show his face while making such statements.

Officials: Paint spill no threat

LAKE MONROE — A response team from Sanford and Seminole County removed 10 latex paint canisters from a ditch which flows through the Central Florida Zoological Park and into Lake Monroe Monday afternoon.

Ken Roberts, county emergency management coordinator, said though a small amount of paint appeared to have leaked into the water, it posed no threat. Bill Barnard, county natural resources officer, said environmental damage was unlikely.

"We were lucky, this time," said Roberts. The cans were dragged from the water and left along the bank by Sanford firefighters. Roberts said they would be taken to the county dump this morning. Barnard said the spilled material would be left in the ditch.

The five-gallon paint cans, along with two large paint-spattered plastic tarpaulins and two paint roller trays, were dumped into a ditch at the corner of North White Cedar Road and Church Street. Nearby, a couch and a chest of drawers lay partially submerged in the stagnant water.

The rotting carcass of some undiscernible animal and two bags of decaying garbage lay in another portion of the ditch leading to the zoo.

Each can bore a label declaring breathing the fumes, noticeable at the ditch, could cause lung cancer and kidney damage. The label further stated the paint may contain ethylene glycol and has been shown to cause birth defects in laboratory animals.

Fred Antonio, zoo animal curator, responded to the scene along with Andrea Farmer, zoo spokesman. Antonio said the spillage appeared to pose no threat to the zoo's 25-year-old Nile hippopotamus, which spends much of its day in a canal fed by the ditches.

Longwood trims cars taken home

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — The city commissioners trimmed the number of city vehicles driven home nightly by employees from 21 to 10 Monday night at a special meeting where cutting expenses and belt-tightening were the major topic.

Faced with the loss of from $80,000 to $100,000 in franchise fees paid to the city by commercial solid waste disposal companies, the commissioners are looking for ways to trim costs. The loss of the fees will come as more refuse is recycled under a new state law. To encourage recycling, the law states, governmental units cannot charge recyclers franchise fees.

N. Korea returns remains of 33 killed in combat

By Associated Press

PANMUNJOM, Korea — North Korea today returned what it said were the remains of 33 American soldiers killed in the Korean War but the gesture of peace was not matched by words.

In an apparent response to last week's meeting between President Clinton and South Korea's president, North Korea denounced the United States and threatened to withdraw from a nuclear controls treaty.

Tuesday's transfer would be the largest since the North began returning remains in 1990, apparently seeking to end its diplomatic isolation.

The transfer took place during a 30-minute ceremony at this village straddling the border. North Korean soldiers brought the remains to the border in 33 coffins they handed over to U.N. honor guards, who draped each with the blue United Nations banner as a U.S. chaplain said a prayer.

In addition to bones, the coffins contained a bag of personal belongings such as buttons, dog tags, spoons and gloves. Communist officials said the remains were unearthed in several different locations.

The repatriation took place as tension mounted on the divided Korean peninsula over suspicion the North may be developing nuclear weapons. Pyongyang insists its nuclear program is for peaceful purposes only.

Clinton concluded talks with South Korean President Kim Young-sam in Washington last week by threatening to press for U.N. sanctions unless North Korea allows nuclear inspections.

On Monday, North Korea said the United States was trying to stifle its Communist leadership and declared it would not bow to outside pressure.

"If the United States thinks pressure can work on the DPRK (North Korea), it is a miscalculation," a spokesman of North Korea's Foreign Ministry said in a statement carried by the Korean Central News Agency, monitored in Tokyo.

The KCNA quoted the spokesman as saying that the Pyongyang government would withdraw from the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty unless the United States gives up what it called an "unreasonable" anti-North Korea policy.

After a series of talks with the United States in May and June, North Korea suspended its earlier decision to pull out of the NPT, a 1968 accord aimed at checking the spread of nuclear weapons technology.

The remains transferred Tuesday brought to 96 the number returned since 1990. The North repatriated five in 1990, 11 in 1991, 30 in 1992 and 17 this July.

North Korea, in announcing the latest repatriation, said additional remains would be returned in December.

U.S. military officials said the remains will be sent to a laboratory in Hawaii for evaluation and possible identification.

None of the remains returned by North Korea so far has been positively identified. Some bones returned were not from humans, they said.

The United States has no ties with the North 40 years after the 1950-53 war that cost the lives of 23,300 Americans and millions of Koreans.

A U.S.-dominated U.N. coalition came to the aid of South Korea in responding to an invasion by the North, which was allied with the Soviet Union and China. The war ended in a military stalemate.

To victim's dismay, Supreme Court lets mugger remain a millionaire

By MIKE MOKRZYCKI
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — The mugging victim never got a penny for his broken glasses, his torn jacket, his trauma from nearly being choked to death.

The mugger was awarded $2 million, and on Monday, the U.S. Supreme Court said he could keep it, if he ever gets it.

The money came at a steep cost, though. As he ran from the subway station where he helped mug Jerome Sandusky in 1984, Bernard McCummings was paralyzed from the chest down when a policeman shot him in the back. A jury and appeals court found that the officer used excessive force.

Asked Monday if he has any sympathy for McCummings' physical plight, Sandusky laughed.

"Ordinarily I would be sorry for anyone that was made a cripple. But he was made a cripple because of his own action," the 80-year-old man said.

Sandusky wasn't laughing about the decision, issued without comment, to uphold the damage award to McCummings.

"I'm infuriated," Sandusky, a retired textile executive, said in a telephone interview from his home in Newark, N.J. "It's justice turned upside down ... and it sends a terrible message to other guys that crime does pay."

McCummings' lawyer, David Breitbart, contended that New York City Transit Authority officials tried to defend an improper shooting by one of their officers, falsely testifying that McCummings was shot in the chest.

"The message," Breitbart said, "is that you can't do whatever you want. You have to be held accountable for your actions."

Lawrence Heisler, a lawyer for the Transit Authority, said he was disappointed the Supreme Court didn't use the case to rule that police may shoot unarmed, fleeing suspects who have committed a violent crime.

"The message is, it's probably wiser for a police officer to do nothing, in terms of civil liability," Heisler said.

McCummings was 23 and fresh out of jail for a previous robbery when he attacked Sandusky with an accomplice in a Manhattan subway station the night of June 28, 1984. A third young man stood lookout.

Sandusky was struck and pinned to the ground while his pockets were rifled. He screamed for help. "The guy who was choking me kept saying, 'If you don't shut up I'm going to choke you to death.' And he almost did," Sandusky said.

Two plainclothes transit police officers ran up. As McCummings fled, Officer Manuel Rodriguez shot him twice.

Sandusky was left with a bloody nose and a desire to move out of New York City.

McCummings pleaded guilty to attempted robbery and served more than two years in jail. Then he sued the Transit Authority.

After a series of appeals, the Transit Authority paid about $3.1 million this year. Breitbart got about a third, and the agency is withholding the rest because of a paternity lawsuit against McCummings and a fraud claim the authority has filed against his previous lawyer.

Sandusky said he was never reimbursed for his jacket or his glasses — "not to mention my state of mind." He said lawyers have told him it's too late for him to sue McCummings.

Breitbart said McCummings, ill and unavailable for comment, was sorry he mugged Sandusky but had no thought of sharing his wealth with his victim.

"Was Mr. Sandusky hurt?" Breitbart said. "He didn't have any injury. ... Bernard's going to be crippled for the rest of his life."

Homeless woman dies nearly at HUD doorstep

By JONATHAN MOORE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Little was known about the homeless woman or how she died, but it happened practically on the doorstep of the nation's top housing agency as officials inside discussed getting more money for homeless programs.

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Henry Cisneros said he hoped the woman's death Monday would help motivate policy-makers and ordinary Americans into doing more to solve the homeless problem.

"No one chooses to die on a bus bench, no one chooses that as the end of their life," Cisneros said Monday. "I hope this encourages people to understand, to be more supporting."

District of Columbia police said Yetta Adams, 43, appeared to have died of natural causes, but an autopsy is to be performed in an effort to determine the exact cause of death.

She was slumped on a bench, partially sitting, leaning over onto a Plexiglas wall at a bus shelter. Her body was discovered about 10 a.m., but it was unclear how long she had been there. The overnight low temperature had been 34.

As police arrived and the coroner was being called, Cisneros was meeting with top policy aides to underscore that homelessness is a top priority of the agency and to work on ways to pry up more money for homeless programs.

"Our first response must be to the people who are completely unsheltered," Cisneros said in an interview.

"A society this wealthy, we just shouldn't have to accept people dying on our city streets and sidewalks," said Cisneros, who left the meeting with HUD aides after being told a homeless person had just died.

Cisneros wants to double the agency's annual budget on homeless programs to $1.5 billion from the current $823 million a year.

Cisneros said the homeless woman frequented the southwest Washington neighborhood where HUD's offices are located, and some employees gave her money.

Other homeless people knelt in prayer around her body after they found out she was dead, said Sharon Maeda, a spokeswoman for the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"I could see her body from my office window on the 10th floor," said Maeda. "She looked like she was asleep, propped up against the shelter."

A frustrated Cisneros said that the American public has become increasingly callous toward the homeless but that he hoped people would become more understanding.

"A tragedy like this in the shadow of a government building were homeless programs are run particularly calls us to action," he said.

Homeless people on the street said they knew the woman as Brenda and said that she had spent many nights sharing a heat grate a few blocks away.

"I know Brenda about three years," said Johnny Gross, 33, who recalled that he had shared a heat grate with her on a number of nights. "All I know is she was a good lady and she didn't bother nobody. She helped other homeless people out."

Her death occurred just months after Cisneros unveiled a $20 million pilot program make the nation's capital a national model on homelessness.

Cisneros complained that the city government had not moved quickly enough on the project.

Park service taking computer images of famous monuments

By RITA BEAMISH
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The National Park Service is spending $577,000 to create computerized images of every nook and cranny of three of the nation's most famous landmarks for future repairs and restoration.

The Park Service was celebrating today the conclusion of a two-year project during which hundreds of painstakingly created photographs and measurements were turned into computerized architectural drawings of the 71-year-old Lincoln Memorial.

A similar project is under way at the 108-year-old Washington Monument and 80-year-old Jefferson Memorial. The computer-aided drawings will become part of a permanent Library of Congress collection that already includes documentation of more than 16,000 historic structures.

The Park Service says such high-tech drawings are needed not only as historical records but as blueprints for structural repairs and restoration.

The National Taxpayers Union, a citizens lobbying group, scoffs at such rationale for spending tax money. In addition to the $577,000 earmarked for the three monuments, the park service spent $400,000 upgrading computers for this and similar projects in the future.

"With limited budgets and a quarter-trillion dollar budget deficit ... perhaps we should be worried more about whether our government will be history or not," said Pete Sepp, the group's spokesman. "It is programs like these that need to be curtailed if the buildings are to stand at all."

The National Trust for Historic Preservation, however, strongly supports the effort.

"It's money well spent," said Richard Moe, trust president. "This type of work is absolutely essential particularly for significant structures like the Lincoln Memorial. ... In the context of the federal budget, it's infinitesimal for something as important to us as the Lincoln Memorial."

Without such drawings, repairs and restoration would be impossible, according to Park Service spokesman Duncan Morrow.

"Like a lot of other things the government does, it's a question of whether you think this is an important thing for the government to do," Morrow said. "We obviously think it is."

For example, he said, many recorded buildings

A Bad Day Fishin' Is Better Than A Good Day At Work!

The sign reads "Gone Fishin'". After all these years you think I'd know better. It was a gorgeous day, business was slow, and just last week he told me about how he'd discovered the Osteen Bridge Fish Camp. He said it had been there for 25 years and on a whim he decided to stop in and see what it had to offer an old fishing buff. Sure, he was expecting the usual stuff, but he was also in for a few surprises.

He went to the fish camp located under the Osteen Bridge and found some of what he'd imagined. There were wild shiners, live bait, a full line of fishing tackle, and professional fishing help. He also noticed the usual food, beer, cold drinks, and ice that most of these places stock. Of course, they also had boat rentals.

From the start, he noticed that this place was somehow unique and just a little different from all the others. For instance, the professional fishing help you're offered by Eddie Bussard and Dell Abernethy, who have 13 years experience each on the St. Johns River. The Sanford native of 31 years was a professional fisherman for 10 years, fishing bassmasters tour trail for 4 years, and a fishing guide on the St. Johns river for 13 years.

Eddie Bussard, new manager, provides services as your bass guide or for information as to where the fish are biting.

At first glance, my friend thought that the food items were the same as all the other places. When he looked a little closer, he noticed that the Osteen Bridge Fish Camp has a really good lunch menu that includes hot and cold sandwiches, as well as snacks. There's no shortage of beverages as they offer coffee, cold beer, wine, and soft drinks. As for the boat rentals, I'd have to say that he was impressed to see 15 foot Johnson boats with 9.9 Mariner motors. Rent one of the boats and you'll notice that the fish camp is located away from the main traffic on the St. Johns River. Bring the family out for a day of fun and see Florida as it used to be, complete with gators, blue herons, and bald eagles.

My fishing buddy was happy to find out that the Osteen Bridge Fish Camp has a bass fishing tournament the first Sunday of the month. They even have a riverfront trailer for rent by the day or week just in case you feel like getting away from it all for a while.

If you're looking for something fun to do, then go to the Osteen Bridge Fish Camp at 4255 Peninsula Pt. (Celery Ave. and SR 415) where you can fish or just enjoy yourself while you learn the history of the St. Johns River. If you can't find something, don't be shy. Just ask them and they'll get it for you in they can. If you have any questions just call 322-3825. You're probably asking yourself why I'm telling you this story rather than being out there fishing. Well, you see I left my keys in my buddy's office and the next thing I know he's gone fishin'. So now my keys are locked in there and I'm stuck out here and he's probably having the time of his life. I guess I'll just have to wait here until he comes back. I sure hope he doesn't rent that trailer and stay forever. No sense in you worrying about me. You go and have a great time and if you see a guy with brown hair in his middle 30's wearing an old fishing hat tell him I need to get my keys out of his office. Thank!

were damaged by Hurricane Hugo when it struck Charleston, S.C. Because of the official drawings, the homes in the city's historic district could be restored.

Even with a maintenance backlog of $4 billion in the national parks, the recording project is needed because the drawings will help determine future maintenance needs, Morrow said.

Restoration work has already begun at the Lincoln Memorial, the steel-supported marble structure anchoring the west end of the Mall. Experts are analyzing the memorial for pollution damage and corrosion and water damage from the vast amounts of water used to keep it clean over the years.

Park Service officials say the government is saving money by using computers and a special camera to make architectural drawings. The computers are used along with the traditional method that requires workers on scaffolding to measure every angle of every cornice, frieze, ornamentation or column.

Without computers, the labor-intensive work would have cost $2 million, instead of $200,000, for the Lincoln Memorial alone, according to Keith Newlin, project coordinator on the Lincoln and Jefferson memorials.

At the Washington Monument, a Park Service helicopter spiraled slowly around the needle-shaped tower to allow photographing of every stone by a computer-compatible camera.

Using a grid system of reference points in the camera, a computer scans the photographic images and translates them into computer line drawings.

Clinton forms task force to find AIDS-fighting drugs

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Clinton administration is recruiting top AIDS experts from government, industry and academia for a new effort to speed the discovery of drugs to stop the epidemic that is killing 92 Americans daily.

"It is time to refocus and re-energize our best minds for a concerted attack on this killer," Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Shalala said today in announcing a National Task Force on AIDS Drug Development.

The health secretary unveiled the initiative at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., on the eve of World AIDS Day.

Joining her were Kristine M. Gebbie, the national AIDS policy coordinator, along with top federal health officials and AIDS scientists.

Dr. Phillip R. Lee, assistant secretary for health and head of the Public Health Service, was named to chair the 15-member panel, which will include members from AIDS-affected communities as well as researchers. Shalala will select the 14 others later.

Gebbie, who oversees the federal efforts on AIDS research, care and prevention, worked with HHS officials on plans for the task force, but it will report to Shalala.

"This represents unprecedented high-level collaboration among leaders in the field," Shalala said in prepared remarks.

The task force will have "a clear and critical mission: to identify and remove any barriers or obstacles to developing effective treatment," said the health secretary.

The announcement drew praise from advocates for AIDS patients.

"It's really significant," said Derek Hodel, treatment issues director for the AIDS Action Council. "It represents a level of commitment that we haven't seen yet from the federal government."

"It's absolutely a step in the right direction," said Marj Plumb, health policy director for the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force. But she expressed some concern the Clinton administration may be taking a piecemeal approach to the AIDS crisis.

AIDS is the No. 1 killer of American men aged 25 to 44 and the eighth-biggest killer overall.

The federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates 1 million to 1.5 million Americans have been infected by the virus that causes AIDS. Some 339,250 Americans have gotten full-blown AIDS and 60 percent — 204,390 — had died as of Sept. 30.

Only three antiviral drugs have been approved for patients with the human immunodeficiency virus: AZT, DDI and ddC. None can stop the disease from following its fatal course. Other compounds, including d4T and CD4, are undergoing clinical trials.

The Clinton administration and Congress this year boosted the AIDS research budget at NIH by 21 percent to $1.3 billion.

"But the sad fact remains that not a single new drug application for an antiretroviral drug is currently before the Food and Drug Administration," Shalala said.

Some other drugs are prescribed to fight the opportunistic infections that commonly strike AIDS patients, including ganciclovir and foscarnet to prevent blindness, and aerosol pentamidine to prevent pneumocystis carinii pneumonia, the most common fatal AIDS infection.

The virus is usually spread through contact with blood or with semen from infected people. Most victims have been homosexuals or intravenous drug abusers, but heterosexuals can also be infected. Pregnant women have passed the virus to their offspring.

Lee is a former professor at the University of California, San Francisco. He also was president of San Francisco's health commission and chair of the policy committee at the American Foundation for AIDS Research.

"Despite the advances that have been made, it is a fact that no cure has been found and the treatments available are limited in their effect," Lee said in a statement. "We can and must do better."

Shalala is seeking nominations from the public for 30 days on who should serve on the task force.

Lee pledged that it will hold its first meeting "this winter or at the latest in early spring."

Brady Bill completes 7-year journey to president's desk

By CAROLYN SKORNECK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — After almost seven years of legislative battle, the Brady handgun control bill needs only President Clinton's signature to become law.

The bill will require a five-day waiting period and background check on handgun buyers and will take effect 90 days after it is signed by Clinton today.

Its arrival at the White House came only after extended Senate negotiations. The day before Thanksgiving, Republicans dropped a blockade in exchange for a vote next year on some modifications.

Clinton began urging Congress to pass the bill before he took office and hailed its passage as "a wonderful Thanksgiving present for the American people."

The bill, named for former White House Press Secretary James Brady, who was severely wounded in the 1981 assassination attempt on President Reagan, was first introduced into Congress on Feb. 4, 1987. Brady and his wife, Sarah, have campaigned for gun control since the mid-1980s.

The National Rifle Association spearheaded the opposition, but every major law enforcement organization endorsed the bill.

Even the bill's supporters say it is only one step in fighting crime, while opponents say it will impede only law-abiding citizens. The criminals, they say, will buy their weapons in illicit markets.

But apparently similar state laws are having some impact, according to a random survey by The Washington Post. The newspaper reported today that since 1989, computerized background checks or waiting periods like those in the Brady bill have blocked more than 47,000 attempted handgun purchases. At least 25 states have Brady-like restrictions on handgun sales.

Brady opponents won a significant change in the legislation before it was passed: a five-year expiration for the waiting period provision, whether or not a computerized national instant background check system is up and running.

The bill authorizes spending $200 million a year to computerize criminal background information to create that instant-check system during those five years. When the computer system is operational, backgrounds of both handgun and long-gun buyers will be checked.

To get Brady passed in Congress, Republicans were promised votes next year on alterations that include ending the waiting period after four years unless the attorney general adds a fifth, and making it possible for an instant-check system to replace the waiting period after only two years. Democrats did not promise to support the GOP amendments, but Republican leader Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas said Clinton agreed to sign them if they pass.

Report: Friars sexually abused boys at seminary

By JEFF WILSON
Associated Press Writer

GOLETA, Calif. — For more than two decades, Roman Catholic priests sexually abused boys aged 7 to 16 at a boarding school in a Santa Barbara seminary, a panel organized by a Franciscan order concluded.

A board of inquiry for the St. Barbara Province of the Franciscan Order said Monday that 12 priests engaged in nude games, fondling and other sex acts with students at St. Anthony's Seminary from 1984 to 1987, when it closed because of financial problems.

So far, 34 boys, mostly teenagers, have been identified as victims.

"The abuse perpetrated by our own brothers on the victims and their families is truly horrific," said the Rev. Joseph P. Chinnici, minister of the Oakland-based Province of St. Barbara and leader of Franciscans in seven Western states.

"We totally abhor what has occurred," Chinnici said.

At a news conference Monday night, the panel's chairman said the investigators were stunned by what they learned.

"We found that in the years in question, a serious problem of sexual abuse of minors by friars existed at the seminary," said Geoffrey Stearns.

He said the investigation would continue and that the panel expects other alleged victims to come forward.

A message left after business hours Monday at District Attorney Thomas Sneddon's office was not immediately returned. Lt. John Thayer, a police spokesman, said prosecution of the priests was unlikely because of the statute of limitations, which is six years on child molestation cases in California.

Of the 12 priests, whose names weren't disclosed in the 72-page report, eight were undergoing treatment by therapists. One left the order, one died and another priest's case was still being investigated by the panel.

The other priest served six months in jail after pleading no contest in 1989 to oral copulation with a minor at the seminary.

After that case, the order sent out letters to former students asking if they had been abused. When some came forward the order decided to investigate.

Lyman's Kate Brown (white uniform) explodes over a Eustis defender for a layup on her way to a 10-point evening in the Greyhounds' 62-28 thumping of the Panthers Monday night at Lyman High School.

Impressive Orangewood, Lyman girls maul Lake foes

From Staff Reports

LONGWOOD — It was not a good night for Lake County high school girls' basketball teams to be challenging Seminole County quintet's as Lyman and Orangewood Christian made short work of their opponents.

The Greyhounds and Rams both tallied 62 points, while Eustis and Mt. Dora Bible could combine for only 47, Lyman winning 62-28 over Eustis and Orangewood cruising to a 62-19 crushing at Mt. Dora.

Trio paces Greyhounds

Carolyn Crager poured in 14 points, Carrie Scranton added 10 points and ripped down 12 rebounds and Kate Brown scored 10 points, grabbed nine rebounds and dished out seven assists and Lyman raced to a 30-8 halftime lead in improving to 2-3. The loss was the first for Eustis after two wins.

"It was just a good team win," said Lyman head coach Steve Carmichael. "Everyone got to play. It's good to get back to our winning ways. We lost a one-pointer to Oviedo and a tight game to Boone, so it's good to get a win and hopefully we can continue to win."

The Hounds have road games coming up at Deltona on Wednesday and Seminole on Thursday.

Rams butt Bible

MT. DORA — Orangewood held Mt. Dora Bible to less than 10 points in each quarter in the impressive road win. The Rams led 15-6 after one period and 34-10 at halftime.

Jessica Maffet led the way for the winners with 21 points and 10 rebounds, while Amy Vandrestreek added 18 points, Allison Morshey 11 points and eight steals and Germaine 10 steals and five assists.

Orangewood is now 2-0 and will be part of a boy's-girl's tripleheader at Trinity Christian today.

Kicker keeps Pats in state title hunt

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald Sports Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — One area that tends to be overlooked when a football team is having a great year is the kicking game.

But any coach will tell you that no team can win, let alone be great, without a strong kicker.

Such is the case at Lake Brantley, where if you were to ask the fans about the standouts on the team they would probably mention either the impressive "no name" defense or the offensive duo of Jeff Shaw and Jeff Butler.

But last Friday night, senior kicker Tim LeCroix got to show that he is worth his toe in gold as he scored six points on a 35-yard field and three extra points, one of which was the game-winner in overtime.

and executed a perfect onside kick to open the second half.

For his efforts, LeCroix is the Sanford Herald Player of the Week.

The game was just a showcase of LeCroix's talents, who has been outstanding all season, whether it is doing place-kicking chores or being called on to either run the ball or get off quick-kicks on fourth down and short yardage situations.

Earning honorable mention was Seminole High School sophomore defensive end Ron Moore, who had a big night despite the Tribe being eliminated from the playoffs, 23-7, by St. Petersburg-Dixie Hollins.

Moore was consistently in the Rebels backfield and for the most part disrupted anything the visitors wanted to do. The big end also showed his athletic ability and speed by running down opposing runners on several sweep attempts.

Roinco storms to top in recreation volleyball

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Don't look now, Roinco is coming.

Roinco, formerly known as Christo's, went 7-0 in match play again this week to increase its winning streak to 13 straight games over the past two weeks to move back to the top of the standings after nine weeks of play in the Sanford Recreation Volleyball League at the Sanford Middle School Gymnasium with an overall record of 55-8.

Roinco's streak overshadowed the continued steady play of Westview Baptist Church team No. 1, which posted its third consecutive 6-1 week, but dropped out of the league-lead for the first time in several weeks after falling to 54-9 overall.

Fitness Pit remains in third place after another strong 5-2 week, but it will need a lot of help to gain the championship, as the Pit is now four games out of first place with an overall mark of 51-12.

Sanford First Baptist Church (32-31) has a strange hold on fourth place and Palmetto Avenue Baptist Church team No. II (22-41) has a tight grip on fifth place.

Eating correctly can prevent kidney stones

DEAR DR. GOTT: Following sound-wave treatment for kidney stones, I passed three small remnants of a kidney stone that my urologist identified as calcium oxalate. My doctor has given me a short list of foods to avoid. Thus, what are good substitutes for spinach and beans? Are all nuts bad, including peanuts? If all berries are bad, must I give up jams and jellies? Can I substitute carob for chocolate?

DEAR READER: Vegetables high in oxalate, such as the ones you mention, may induce the formation of oxalate kidney stones. I suggest that you simply skip the spinach and beans, substituting peas and green beans, for example. Most nuts should also be avoided.

I am not aware of the prohibition against berries and other fruit; it seems to me that they would be OK. Jams and jellies included. Carob may be substituted for chocolate, in moderation.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from dermatitis on my legs from my knees to my ankles. My doctor has given me Eucerin cream and Lasix. Neither has helped. My feet swell, there is itching and peeling of the skin. What do you advise?

DEAR READER: Dermatitis (inflammation of the skin) has many causes, ranging from simple eczema to drug reactions or serious disorders, such as strep infection. Sometimes, patients with congestive heart failure (the accumulation of excess fluid in the tissues from weak heart contractions) can develop dermatitis of the legs, if the extra fluid (edema) causes the skin to stretch, crack and break down.

Lasix is a diuretic that rids the body of edema. Perhaps your physician thinks that you have a heart problem. If he is correct, the Lasix should relieve your symptoms. If your heart is not to blame, however, you should be examined by a dermatologist, who can identify the cause of your dermatitis. Talk to your doctor about this. Maybe he will welcome a second opinion from a specialist.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Eczema and Psoriasis."

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Gollancz has republished another of Hugh Kelsey's early books. Kelsey, who lives in Edinburgh, is one of the world's best bridge writers and analysts. "How to Improve Your Bridge" ($15, 800-274-2221) is aimed at players who want to move into the expert category. Kelsey highlights the commonest bidding and card-play mistakes, and then gives advice for their avoidance.

Today's deal is of a type that would be misplayed by many. However, at the table the cards would forgive the faux pas most of the time. But in a book you always go down when you make an error.

North's bid of three spades shows some values. With trump support but no side-suit ace or king, responder raises straight to four spades. South bid what he hoped he could make. After winning trick one with the club ace, declarer played a spade to dummy's queen and led the heart jack: king, ace, two. (Kelsey doesn't mention that leading the heart jack only works against someone who hates to cover an honor with an honor. If East has the singleton king, leading the jack could be expensive.) South cashed the heart queen and ruffed the heart three with dummy's spade four. But East overruffed and flashed back his last trump. Declarer had an unavoidable heart loser left: one down.

Declarer was playing for an overtrick. But when one is in a small slam, ensuring 12 tricks is recommended. South should have ruffed the heart three with dummy's spade king. Declarer ruffs a diamond to his ace and ruffs the heart eight with the spade four: slam made.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Dec. 1, 1993

A number of important changes could be in the offing for you in the year ahead. The ones which will be truly significant will be engineered by you and not by outside influences.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your chart indicates that you might profit in some manner today through a source or person that is not one of your usual conduits for gain. Sagittarius, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An old loyal friend might once again prove what a valuable ally he/she is. This pal has a way of generating developments from which both can benefit.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Go after what you want where your work or career is concerned. Your possibilities for fulfilling ambitions and achieving objectives is several notches above usual today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Keep an open mind today, because you might get involved with two individuals in unrelated circumstances who could each teach you a trick or two.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your most successful involvements today are likely to be with persons with whom you share strong emotional ties. Each is in tune with the other's needs and wants.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Someone with whom you're associated has been trying to tell you about something opportune in which you could participate. Up until now you've never fully understood him/her, but you may today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your financial picture is a bit better at this time than even you may realize. If you look hard enough, ways can be found to increase your earnings or holdings.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

You might receive a big boost from Lady Luck today in a matter which is of personal significance to you. It may require a little risk taking on your behalf.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Things might not start out to your liking today, but end results won't be representative of beginnings. You pick up momentum as you go.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be afraid to think in expansive terms today, especially if you're involved in something new that is promising and hopeful. The bigger the better.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your material prospects look very encouraging at this time. You're involved in a trend that might produce something lavishly beneficial.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try to weave your future intentions and aspirations into plans you're formulating at the present. They can comfortably compliment one another.
