PALATKA BUSINESS MEN HAVE OWN BOAT LINE PALATKA-JACKSONVILLE

Is Plan That Has Been Considered In Sanford

ASK FOR CHARTER

ST. JOHNS RIVER GREAT NATURAL WATERWAY FOR INTERIOR SOUTH FLORIDA.

The following from the Palatka News will be interesting to Sanford business men some of whom have been seriously considering a boat line from Sanford to Jacksonville for some time and who have made plans to investigate such a proposition. The St. Johns river is the most valuable asset that Sanford has and should be taken advantage of by business interests of Sanford. Read the following from the Palatka News: "Application for a charter for the Palatka and Jacksonville Steamship Co. will be filed with the Governor this week and the new company, composed of local business men, will begin operating a boat line between here and Jacksonville this month, pending the granting of the charter.

Plans which have been on foot for some time were completed in Savannah yesterday when the steamer Pilot Boy, which formerly plied between Savannah and Beaufort, S. C. was purchased. The deal was made by H. M. de Montmollin and Walter Tilgham, representing local stockholders in the company, and Captain Thomas Martin, formerly of Savannah, who will now make his home in Palatka and have charge of the new boat line.

The new company is composed entirely of Palatka business men, not a dollar's worth of stock being sold outside the city. It is principally taken by the wholesale dealers who have been seeking relief from freight conditions at Jacksonville. Captain Martin, who is chief stockholder, will be president of the company and general manager; H. O. Hamm, of the W. A. Merryday Co., vice-president and H. M. de Montmollin, secretary and treasurer."

ADMIRAL SIMS WAS AT FAULT

AND NOT ADMIRAL FLETCHER IN THE BREST AFFAIR.

Washington, April 6.—Vice-Admiral Sims' employment of American destroyer forces in European waters during the first year of this country's participation in the war was severely criticized today by Admiral Henry B. Wilson, commander of the Atlantic fleet, in testimony before the naval board investigating Rear-Admiral William B. Fletcher's removal from the Brest command by Admiral Sims.

Basing of all destroyers used in conveying American troops and supply transports into French ports on Queenstown instead of Brest, up to spring of 1918, Admiral Wilson declared, meant that the destroyers "worked only one way," and "wasted mileage" in the long trip back to Queenstown for refueling. If originally based on Brest, he declared, these destroyers could have worked "both ways" conveying transports out of as well as into French ports, and thus made to render their maximum service as was demonstrated some eight months later, he added, when this plan was permitted.

Disagreeing with the testimony of Capt. Byron C. Long, Sims' aide for operations at London, who said Admiral Fletcher's request that destroyers be based on Brest was denied because of lack of oiling facilities there, Admiral Wilson declared that as the time he succeeded Fletcher, facilities at Brest were adequate for "quite a large force."

Admiral Wilson declared the five converted yachts, which it was testified had been the only force available for outward convoy of transports during Admiral Fletcher's command at Brest, were "worthless" for that service.

Capt. N. C. Twining, counsel for Admiral Sims, questioned the witness competency to pass judgement upon the adequacy of Admiral Fletcher's force when you were not acquainted in detail with what he had to do with it.

"I need no details," replied Admiral Wilson. "I know that he had to escort troop ships to sea and that he had only a worthless force to do it with. There is no question under heaven about his forces having been inadequate because I had to suffer under the same thing for months."

Testifying that he took three staff officers and a considerable office force with him to Brest, Admiral Wilson declared that he "found practically nothing to work with" in the Brest organization when he got there.

Manatee Vegetables

The prospects for a spring vegetable crop were never brighter on the north side of the river the farms and truck gardens are one mass of beauty. The tomato crop will be one of the largest ever harvested and cucumber and other crops will be bumper.

The farmers around Palmetto and Ellentown have a most beautiful stand of tomatoes for this time of year and every one is working his farm to get the best crop that he has ever had. The evidence of the cold weather of three weeks ago is all gone, though one can see the difference between the tomatoes which were covered and those which were not. One farmer on the north side of the river has a most beautiful stand of tomatoes and says that he believes that the covering he put over the plants during the cold nights soon after they were planted will bring him in many hundred of dollars. —Bradentown Journal.

OPPOSITION STRONGER IN IRELAND

FEELING WAS NEVER SO POSTIVE AMONG MANY OF THE PEOPLE.

Dublin, April 7.—Opposition to the government never has been so positive throughout Ireland as it is today. Critics protest against the severity of the military regime but their attacks are met by demands from others, who assert that steps taken have not been sufficiently drastic and that measures intended to be coercive have failed of their object.

Inability to discover leaders in disorders and failure to gain information as to plans for raids in future has led to sharp criticism. Government agents apparently are often victims of misinformation and some military raids seem to have been based on data given by persons who are desirous of embarrassing the administration.

From time to time, raids result in the capture of arms and ammunition but very often the soldiers take only quantities of seditious literature. So much is printed adverse to the government that many homes quite innocent of connection with the rebellion contain pamphlets that might easily be classified as seditious and the possession of such literature is also classified as a criminal offense.

Two magistrates in County Wexford have ruled that the movement is "an attempt to overthrow the king's government." An influential farmer who bought "republican bonds" for $95 was brought into their court. As he refused to give bond for good behavior, he was sent to jail for three months. Some Catholic bishops have subscribed for these bonds but they have done so by sending their money to America.

Body of Detroit Girl Found Tied to Piling of Dock at Daytona.

Daytona, April 5.—A fisherman today discovered the body of Miss Miram Jones, twenty-five, of Detroit lashed to the piling under a dock here. The police after an investigation came to the conclusion that the young woman, who had been an inmate of a sanitarium here while being treated for melancholia had crept under the dock at low tide and fastened herself to the piling. At high tide the water submerged her and caused death. Her garters had been used to tie her neck to the post. At the sanitarium it was said Miss Jones had disappeared last night.

Says Palmer's Sugar Price-Fixing Cost The People $900,000,000

Washington April 6. Hearings in connection with the action of Attorney-General Fisher in fixing a seventeen-cent price for Louisiana sugar was begun today by the house judiciary committee. Representative Tinkham, Republican Massachusetts, author of resolutions proposing an inquiry, was made chairman of the committee. He would prove he said, before concluding his presentation that Mr. Palmer's action cost the people of the country $900,000,000 in sugar prices. Representative Tinkham contended that the attorney general was without authority under the Lever act or any statute to fix the price of sugar.

Protest On-H. C. L.

Tampa, Florida, April 6.—More than 500 Tampanians, some wearing everalls or calico and some old clothes, at a mass meeting here today signed a petition requesting steps towards the appointment of commissioners to limit the profit not only of retailers but of manufacturers, whom it charged with profiteering. The petition, which also pledges the signers to buy nothing but denims, calicoes and ginghams, will be presented to Senators Fletcher and Trammell and Governor Catts. The city firemen appeared today in overalls.

Woman Patron Whips Teacher

St. Petersburg, Fla. April 6.—A warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Speese a winter visitor from Philadelphia, was issued today, by Magistrate A. K. Cook, on complaint of Miss Ethel Bachman, a teacher in the Glen oak school, who charges that she was assaulted by Mrs. Speese on Central avenue yesterday afternoon. The case will be tried Monday afternoon. A son of Mrs. Speese attends the Glen oak school and was whipped by Miss Bachman. The mother resented this and claimed that the child was beaten. Mrs. Speese attacked Miss Bachman yesterday afternoon at Fifth street and Central avenue, pulled down her hair, tore off her waist and struck her on the head and face. She also abused the school teacher, while belaboring her, it is charged. The excited woman was pulled off Miss Bachman and the latter given attention and taken to her home. The school authorities are taking a hand in the case and will prosecute vigorously.

The building will be erected on the large lot adjoining the San Juan Hotel on the north and fronting on Orange Avenue and Washington Street. Plans have been perfected and work will soon be commenced on the construction. When completed it will have a seating capacity of one thousand. Neither pains nor expense will be spared in architecture and equipment and the theatre will be finished in time for the theatrical season.

Plans are also being prepared for buildings of the most modern kind to be erected on this spacious lot, by Mr. B. Beacham, Sr., and Mr. B. Beacham Jr., which will be converted into stores, show rooms, and offices.—Reporter Star.

FINE APOPKA GROVE BRINGS $150,000

Beacham Realty Company Sell Their Former Grove To A. S. Drawdy, Well Known Stockman.

This week has seen the sale of one of the best orange groves in this State. The Beacham Realty Company have sold what was once their former grove on Lake Apopka, to Mr. A. S. Drawdy, a well-known stockman in the Kissimmee section, for a consideration of approximately $150,000.

This grove, which consists of 155 acres, was owned by Mr. Charles K. Smith of Worcester, Mass., and is one of the most valuable groves in this section of the country. The purchaser is a Floridian and has resided in Orlando, consequently one of the best things to be said in connection with the transaction was that the purchaser knew exactly what he was buying.—Reporter Star.

The people of Florida especially those who value their votes, have learned a lot in the past few years, among other things that politicians who promise everything and everybody before election rarely do anything for anybody, except themselves after election. This is something to bear in mind this year.—Times-Union.

Ad To the Seriousness of the Strike Situation

RAILROADS TIED UP

NINETEEN TRUNK LINES AND FIVE BELT LINES ARE PARALYZED.

Chicago April 7 (By Associated Press) Joining the unauthorized switchmen's strike by eighty five hundred engineers and firemen in defiance of the union leaders added to the seriousness of the strike situation here today. The freight movement is restricted. The leaders of the strikers and the railroads say that if the new men argument the strikers it would vitally bring freight to a standstill. Treasurer Bond of the Switchmen claims that nineteen trunk and five belt lines are paralyzed as the result of the strike. Officials say that 18 roads are effected to some extent.

Bad Milk In Tampa

Milk conditions in Tampa were branded as "filthy" at a meeting of the Hillsborough Medical Society last night in the state board of health building, as shown in the report of a committee appointed a week ago to make an inspection of dairies. The report was supplemented with a series of photographs snapped on the tour of inspection and after hearing the report and seeing the photographs practically every member of the society present declared they would stop using milk from local dairies until conditions are remedied.

The report showed that out of eleven dairies inspected on the tour last week, not one is complying with the city's rules and regulations governing milk conditions. Many small dairies operated by Latins in the West Tampa and East Tampa districts were included in the report as well as some of the larger dairies operated by Americans.—Tampa Tribune.

SAVE MONEY ON MEATS CAMPAIGN

USING CHEAPER CUTS WILL NOT RAISE PRICE ON THIS KIND OF MEAT.

Washington, April 6.—In response to inquiries as to whether the campaign to "Save Money on Meat" by utilization of the less costly cuts, especially those from the fore-quarter will have a tendency to raise prices of of such cuts, the Department of Justice today issued the following statement:

"The effect on retail prices to the consumers of the campaign to 'Save Money on Meat' by utilization of the less costly cuts is indicated clearly in a conclusion reached by Bureau of Markets, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture with its unequalled knowledge of marketing problems, that is people would use more of the less costly portions their doing so would reduce prices of living and 'prices of meat as a whole would be greatly reduced and would be more stable.'

"The facts, with reference to the effect of the campaign on prices are as follows:

"At the present time, neglect of the less costly cuts of meat, especially those from the fore-quarter, has retarded the sale and distribution of these cuts; has thus caused proportionately greater shrinkage and diminished volume; has caused some meat literally to be wasted; has caused numerous retailers to chop and sell to hotels and others, meat cuts which could be used by the consumer to better advantage in its unchopped form, and has increased the retailer's overhead.

"Every particle of less, shrinkage and wastage has been borne by the consumer in the price of all the meat which he does buy."

TAXES IN COUNTY ARE BEING PAID

MORE TAXES PAID IN MARCH OF THIS YEAR THAN EVER BEFORE IN HISTORY.

A visit to the Tax Collector's office shows Collector Jenkins and his assistant Sanford Doudney busy as bees getting the taxes in that are due and that had to be paid by the first of April in order that they shall not be delinquent.

Mr. Jenkins gave us the pleasing information that never before in the history of Seminole County have the people paid their taxes so promptly as this year and during the month of March over $93,000 was paid into the coffers of the Tax Collector.

This shows that the county is prosperous to a remarkable degree and people are paying their taxes more promptly as the result. It also shows that much property is changing hands in Sanford and in the county of Seminole and when property is moving swiftly people always pay taxes more promptly as a clear title can only be given after the taxes on the property is cleared up.

Cheer up. A smile is no more expensive than a frown.

Yes, this is a good town. But do you ever tell others so?

This year every citizen should vote—vote fight—but not often.

To escape from the piker class, votes should advance in price also.

When you get hold of a good thing William, hang onto both ends. The middle sometimes gives way.

Some people, we suspect, are keen on discovering the faults of others in order to cover up their own.

And still, we are firmly convinced that the dawn of universal peace is still in the realm of the dawns.

Prohibition, we are assured, is creating a void in the jails of the country—ditto—the stomachs of its citizens.

We're just pining to scratch off an editorial or the low cost of something. But we can't find the something.

Some good men and true become so thoroughly wrapped up in the work of selecting good men for public office that they even forget to vote.

Food is going up. Clothing is going up, smokes are going up, everything is away up, and if something don't come down soon we'll all blow up.

WE NEVER CAN TELL

These days the country is indulging in the pleasing pastime of turning out another list of public officials, from president down to the most humble of them all.

Today we see great virtues in this man, and that one and the other, and we expect great things from them.

But we never can tell.

Sometimes they measure up to expectations, and then again they do not measure at all. But making them is great sport, even though at times they bite the hand that made them.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Who is the shrewdest and most successful business man in this town?

Who is the most benevolent natured man in town?

Who is the "white" man in town?

Who is the most aggressive man in town?

What man does the most for the expansion and the upbuilding of the town?

Who is the most popular man in town?

What man in this town (ministers excepted) comes the nearest to following the teachings of the Golden Rule?

Without reflection upon or prejudice to others, suppose you name the man in each class whom you think is most clearly entitled to the honor?

It would make interesting reading in the columns of the paper.

GET IT STRAIGHT

Through an unintentional error in newspaper publicity, which was more or less general over the United States, the public has been given the impression that incomes from stocks are not subject to the income tax.

This, it appears, is an error.

If you own a certain amount of stock in a corporation and you receive an annual income of 8 or 10 per cent, or any other amount, from that stock, the income is subject to taxation provided it is paid to you in currency or by check.

But if that dividend is paid to you in the form of additional stock in the corporation, then such income in the form of additional stock is not subject to income taxation.

The public will feel a relief in knowing that the holders of great wealth in the form of stocks are not to escape their just proportion of taxation.

This paper is glad to aid in making correction of an error into which millions of people appear to have innocently fallen.

"PUBLIC OPINION BE DAMNED"

You, reader, have probably heard some fellow blow up and exclaim "Public opinion be damned—I don't care a rap for it."

But he does—we all do.

It is human nature for us to want our neighbors to think well of us. Even if it is not especially so as a matter of personal pride, it is so as one of good judgement and sound business policy.

The man who is well thought of has many friends, and these friends are a valuable asset to him in business—they bring him trade and increase his financial revenues.

There are many things a man may do that would lower him in the estimation of the public, yet would not bring him into conflict with the law. And have you noticed that men invariably conceal these little acts as much as possible? And why? Because they do not wish to incur the displeasure of their fellow men—and women.

Were it not for the moral effect of public opinion this world would soon become a maelstrom of iniquity and debauchery. It would be impossible as a place of residence for respectable men and women and to bring children into existence under such conditions would be a crime against humanity.

Public opinion makes or unmakes us, as we court its verdict.

We value it, and we cherish its good reports. For when all other courts fail, public opinion becomes the court of last resort.

FLORIDA AGAIN EXEMPT

With blizzards, storms, torrential rainfalls, and strikes of labor making the rest of the country unpleasant, dangerous to live in, and difficult to make a living in, it becomes a pleasure once more to refer to our own state of Florida, which is exempt from all these and is overflowing with all that goes to make for pleasantness and prosperity.

In Kansas railroads and highways are blocked by deep snow drifts and livestock is suffering in a blizzard which has five states in its merciless grasp. Northern Illinois, with parts of Indiana and Michigan, are in the grip of a blizzard accompanied by heavy gales and blinding snow storms.

In Nebraska the snow drifts are six feet high, and train service is demoralized.

The Associated Press tells us that Toledo is like a deserted village with its streets and the surrounding country swept by "blinding snow and storms raging all day."

Parkersburg, W. Va. and Marietta O., are swept by gales which unroofed houses, blew down telegraph telephone, light and trolley poles.

Georgia is deluged by a rainstorm the heaviest in years, bringing great agricultural damage to farmers.

The Tennessee river has passed the 43.5-foot stage and is causing dwellers in its lowlands to flee to the hills.

The Mississippi river along its lower course is rapidly approaching the danger, having passed the forty-five-foot mark, and with water enough above to bring it to the fifty-one-foot mark. Levee guards and workmen are at work.

In Florida all is well. The farmers are at work preparing for the early spring harvest of crops, the business men get their freight unhindered by snow or strike, the city folk go about their business with comfort and ease. Spring in Florida is unaccompanied with storm and disaster, for Florida is the home of Spring, its birthplace, as it were.—Tampa Tribune.

HISTORY OF THE SANFORD SECT'N

The Sanford Farmers Exchange has for its president L. A. Brumley, one of the most progressive farmers of this section; C. Boyce Bell its vice-president; Ben Fish is secretary and John T. Wade manager.

I had the pleasure of spending a delightful afternoon on the farm of Mr. Bell, and he is certainly a gentleman one would feel repaid for going a long way to meet. He looks like a poet or a philosopher, and no doubt has the qualifications of both. His home is easily situated in the center of his perfectly managed farm, and from his windows can be viewed celery in every stage of cultivation, from the plants newly set out to that approaching marketable stage. He is a native of North Carolina and still retains and operates his cotton plantation in that state, which he personally directs in the summer time until the cotton is laid by, when he returns to Florida where he is a big factor in not only the maturity of his own crop, but a determined officer in the army battling for a square deal for the grower in getting an adequate return for his produce in the scientific advancement of the business; in good roads movement and other interests that have a bearing on the public welfare. His home life is ideal, and he impresses one as a contented, resourceful gentleman, the acquaintanceship of whom is a thing to be most highly prized.

Ben Fish, on the other hand while a near neighbor and co-worker with Mr. Bell, both in the Farmers Exchange and in all the things that tend toward advancement differs to the extent that he is remarkable for his vibrant activity, and gets through a remarkable routine of effort, hitting her on high every step. He is cultivating forty acres of celery this season enough to keep two good men busy, and a more thoroughly cultivated piece of ground or finer looking crops it would be impossible to find. He is an enthusiast in choice breeds of chickens, Holstein cattle and all the essentials of rural life, and his successes and the joy he takes in it all is the proof one needs that no farmer on earth can compare with the Florida farmer in computing the answer to the old query, "How can I get the most out of life?"

John E. Wade, manager of the Sanford Farmers Exchange, tore himself away from the exciting and complicated business of getting hundreds of carloads of this valuable produce onto the market where the most people are hungry for it, which means the exercise of second sight, clairvoyance, telepathy and spiritualism, for all I know, as well as keen selling and business ability, and showed me the high lights, the low lights and the reflected lights of this domain I have been trying to describe. But first he fed me. After giving me a very keen scrutiny he concluded the best service he could do for the grower was to fill me up on the kind of eats a Floridian should have to be at his best. He has had a very busy man and has not had time to get married—yet so he took me to the home of his brother, Madison Wade, a few miles out on Madison avenue, who has not been so busy as John, and found time to pick out not only a charming and accomplished wife, but a woman who has solved all the mysteries of cooking, and believe me, I know what I am talking about. On the way out John, who does not seem to evince any romance in his business activities, told me this romantic story:

"I landed in Sanford from Tennessee, where I bumped the rocks of adversity so good and hard that about all I had left when I got here was a good robust whistle. I took a walk out this very Celery avenue to exercise my whistle which I used as a courage accelerator, and although many automobiles passed me they seemed to be entirely too preoccupied to pick up a strange man on hoof. A lady driving a horse was more thoughtful, however, and invited me to ride, and finding I had no destination in particular, invited me to come to her home and meet her husband, who was from Indiana, and lonesome for the society of his kind. Arriving there I found a magnificent home with every modern appointment, surrounded with great high cabbage palmetto trees, a grand display of flowers, and in the rear fine outbuildings. I thought I had never seen a more desirable place and it seemed to me the possession of such a home was all that mortal man should desire. The interior appointments were elegant, and her husband, I found a most companionable and charming gentleman. I was hungry and the invitation to dine was welcomed; when bedtime came they put me to repose on a bed elegant and downy as any one customarily associated with European nobility. Was ever a man hungry, broke and discouraged more fortunate, I thought and in my dreams I thought it was all mine, and in the morning awoke with the ambitions and feeling of a blooming highbrow millionaire. I am going to show you that home," he said, and stopped at the gate of the place, true to the picture. On the veranda before we entered, he finished quietly, "It is now mine, and my brother and his family are sharing it and the farm interests with me."

This transformation in his fortunes has taken place in the past three or four years, and is one of the best stories I have heard, illustrating the possibilities in Florida. Of course Mr. Wade brought with him exceptional business training and experience his Tennessee misfortunes being due to litigation entirely outside his business, which was most successful but it shows what determination and a proper incentive will accomplish in this state where opportunity beckons on all sides.

Seminole county is particularly fortunate in County Agent C. M. Berry, who somehow finds time to cultivate twenty acres of land, and spend a great part of his time looking after the farmers of the county, and observing the results they are attaining while dispensing invaluable advice and counsel. Agents of the government are conducting two hundred experiments on his farm at this time, and he is interested in every one of them. I was most fortunate in being able to divert him from his duty for longer than I dare admit and acquiring a fund on information invaluable to anyone interested in plant culture. He is a great advocate of cooperative marketing and purchase of supplies, and has been behind for years and great credit is due him for the loyalty he evinces and stimulates in this direction. His kindly sympathetic nature has won him a secure place in the affection of the people of this section and the state. But then, how could he be otherwise when you learn that his wife is the famed Mrs. Riley Fletcher Berry, whose literary career and affiliations are of national repute. She had the great good fortune of enjoying the friendship of that coterie of Indiana writers of whom General Lew Wallace and James Whitcomb Riley were the most conspicuous, and has a collection of letters from writers of fame, the world over of incalculable value, one from Queen Camen Sylvia among the number. Of late years she has devoted her versatile genius of studying the various household uses of the Florida fruits and vegetables, and the results of her experiments are of great value to the state, and are being distributed widely by the Florida Citrus Exchange to promote the consumption of Florida products. I shall always regard the hours spent in the Berry home among my most valued experiences.

No mention of Sanford would be complete without paying respects to Boosting Bob Holly, editor of the Sanford Herald, who is now publishing an eight-page daily evening edition and the Herald is a beehive of industry in all its departments, which is about the biggest boost one could give for the city, for when a city is loyal to a man like Bob Holly, who has given his best to the upbuilding of the community, and shows it by their patronage and support, they are the kind of folks who will attain results. Bob has a heart as big as all outdoors, and the columns of his paper reflect his sterling qualities. Walter Haynes is the bustling business manager of the Herald and he sheds trouble like a duck sheds water, and they are a great pair to draw to. Sanford has drawn a prize in them.

Sanford has more winter visitors than the present hotel accommodations will take care of, but a magnificent tourist hotel is just completed and open for business. It is named the Viceroy, and will fill a long felt want for Sanford, being the head of navigation of the St. Johns river with navigable water to the ocean, has the distinction of being the only great fresh water port of the interior of the state, and as such will undoubtedly develop into a favored place for yachtsmen who will desire to keep their boats away from the corroding insects that inhabit the salt water. Already one of the hopeful visions freely predicted is a boulevard around Lake Monroe, an exclusive club for tired millionaires, and while their yachts ride immune from contamination in the great fresh water basin of the lake and the owners with their ladies fair will have superb golf grounds and other accessories enjoyable in the winter, home folks find it all the year around.

Perhaps the reader may wonder how I did know the yachts are going to get from the river into the lake and out again. I hated to display my ignorance so I drove around and examined it from all available sides. I had the lake pointed out to me and saw the river from different angles, but couldn't get the connection, and finally gave up and exposed myself to ridicule by asking, "The answer is easy—when you know it."

The river runs through the lake. Can you beat it?

Silk for Consistent Hindus

Muga silk is a product of Assam. It comes from caterpillars which feed on the castor oil plant. It is of great value in India, because it is the only silk that can be spun from cocoons without killing the insects in the process, and it is therefore the only silk that can be worn by a strict Hindu.

wall vases, held a graceful arrangement of pink roses, ferns and orchids while the arches and balustrade were festooned and entwined with masses of asparagus fern-studded with lovely sprays of wisteria. The dainty tally cards were hand painted in rose and wisteria design and the colors were also seen in the refreshment courses. The choice of colors and novelty of flowers gave a piquant charm to a very attractive party.

There were ten able players enjoying the fascinating game of bridge and the prizes were won by Miss Jean Haskett to whom was presented a hanging basket jardiniere Mrs. W. E. Watson on low score, received a bridge marker in bronze, and Mrs. Bennett won the cutting prize and was given a linen case for forks.

The seven sentenced to twenty-five to forty years' imprisonment were: C. C. Bland, Bert Bland, John Lamb, Eugene Barnett, James McInerney, Ray Becker and Britt Smith.

The defense attorney took exception to the sentence and gave notice of appeal.

TO DESTROY COTTON CROP And Save Other Sections From Blight
Washington, April 6. The state of Texas now urged today at a meeting of officials from every cotton-raising state to take immediate steps to stamp out the pink boll worm which has reappeared in nine counties in the Galveston section. Only the most drastic quarantine accompanied by destruction of crops already planted, can prevent a rapid spread of the pest, experts of the agricultural departments said. The conference will not continue tomorrow, but the Federal horticultural board is understood to have practically served notice on the Texas authorities that unless action is taken by the state all of Texas will be placed under quarantine.

"THE STORE THAT IS DIFFERENT"

which will prevent the shipment of cotton and cut need into neighboring states.
Governor Hobby of Texas and several members of the congressional delegation of the state who were present, expressed their desire to cooperate with the Federal board but declared the state was not in position to carry out the drastic program outlined for them. A total expense to the state of some $1,750,000 would be needed for the destruction of this year's crop. Representatives of the state could. As an alternative they proposed the segregation of the infected areas by trucking around it a ten mile strip in which cotton-growing would be prohibited. Government experts did not believe this would serve the purpose, since the growing of cotton within the area would provide a breeding place for the boll worm from which it would find its way in increasing numbers into virgin territory. These sponsoring the promise suggested also that all seed derived from nine counties might be crashed inside the state and the tainted cotton might be shipped by seafarer to New England or foreign manufacturing cities where the insect would be harmless.
Objection to this suggestion was raised on the ground that with competition removed, prices for seed in Texas would be adversely affected.
Several of the cotton states have already moved to protect themselves from the invasion of the boll worm from Texas. Louisiana will order all cotton-growing in infected areas plowed under and will compensate the farmers. Mississippi officials of the state told the conference will prohibit infected seed from ever passing through the state and Georgia, North and South Carolina and Florida have taken precautionary measures along the same lines.

Lee-Lewis
A marriage of more than passing interest to Sanford people and Seminole county people was that of Miss Grace Lewis of Altamonte Springs and James H. Lee, Jr., of Oviedo that took place at the Baptist parsonage at Winter Park last Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.
Only immediate friends of the family were present and immediately after the ceremony the young couple took a trip to Jacksonville and other points and are now at home at the groom's home in Oviedo.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. J. M. Lewis and is known to a wide circle of friends in this and other parts of the state having spent her early girlhood days at the Lewis home in Altamonte.
The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lee of Oviedo and is also a Seminole county native and has a host of friends all over the state.
Their many friends extend congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Lee who will make this county their home.
