On to regionals for Seminole

Seminole High School track coaches Nate Perkins and Ken Brauman are heading into the 3A-Region II track meet at the University of Florida.

The Seminole boys blew away the District 6 field last week but Brauman knows they will be up against a much greater challenge. See Page 1B

Cardinals trample Orioles

SANFORD — In Sanford Recreation Department Junior Baseball League action last night, George Beasley tossed a five-hitter and his teammates backed him with a 15-hit attack as the Knights of Columbus Cardinals trampled the Kiwanis Club Orioles 20-7.

The Moose Club Pirates picked up a 7-0 forfeit win over the Rotary Club Royals. See Page 1B

Eckstein in rare form

SANFORD — Whitely Eckstein feels fine. And his humor appears to be in rare form.

Eckstein, recovering from a minor stroke that has temporarily paralyzed his right hand and the muscles in the right side of his face, said yesterday, "At least now I only talk out of one side of my mouth, unlike most politicians who talk out of both sides."

The city commissioner and teacher returned to his place on the Sanford commission about three days after his release from the hospital and to his Seminole High School classroom about three weeks ago.

"I still do exercises for my right hand. And if you talk to me for a long period of time, I start to slur my speech a little, but I'm really happy with the progress I've been making. I'm doing fine," he said.

He will probably be doing exercises for at least six more months, he said, but that hasn't dampened his spirits.

Autopsy reveals gunshot

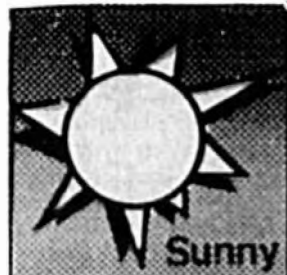

SANFORD — Joseph Thigpen, 39, 2001 Osceola Road, Geneva, who was found in a shallow grave at his house Sunday night, after being missing for more than a week, was killed by a gunshot.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies said that was the finding in an autopsy completed in Sanford Wednesday. Details of Thigpen's injury weren't released.

Fugitive arrested after threatening to blow up store

By SUSAN LODEN

SANFORD — A fugitive wanted by the FBI held Seminole County lawmen at bay for about three hours while allegedly threatening to blow up a convenience store east of Sanford before surrendering around midnight last night.

Rodney Edward Hudson, 27, of 1400 Swamp Lane, Geneva, was "doing well" in Central Florida Regional Hospital this morning, officials said. He reportedly swallowed over-the-counter medication before surrendering at the Handy Way on State Road 46 at State Road 415.

He is expected to be booked into the county jail today after he is released from the hospital.

Hudson surrendered to SWAT Lt. Marty LaBrusciano and negotiator-deputy Jan Kloth, along with a television news crew, deputies said.

Hudson, wanted by the FBI on North Carolina charges of rape and kidnapping, allegedly locked himself inside the store at about 9:30 p.m. Two clerks were on duty, and sheriff's deputies said one of those clerks, Jennifer Kemplin, of 615 W. State Road 46, Sanford, identified herself as Hudson's girlfriend.

Growth the main topic of report to businessmen

By NICK PFEIFAU

LAKE MARY — Seminole County Commissioner Bob Sturm presented a "State of the County" address to the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce, with much of his report centering on the need for improvements in how the county and various cities handle growth.

Sturm reported during his presentation on Wednesday that while Seminole County has an estimated population of 290,000, expectations are that it will reach 325,000 by the year 2000, and 445,000 by 2020.

He said Seminole is the 11th largest county in the state in population, yet it stands at 58th in taxation, and only 25 percent of the revenue comes from property taxes, with the rest coming from user fees, impact fees and special taxing.

Education report: Some good news, some bad news

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — While Florida lags behind the rest of the nation in the rate at which its students graduate from high school, Seminole County is ahead of the state average when it comes to keeping youngsters in school.

According to U.S. Department of Education statistics released Wednesday, only 58 percent of Floridians complete high school. However, the state DOE argues the figure is closer to 71 percent. State officials said Seminole County has a graduation rate of 79.67 percent.

Jim Dawson, Seminole County dropout prevention coordinator, said today that while Seminole County ranked well above the state and national averages, the district still needed some work to "keep these kids in school."

"Any dropouts are too many dropouts," he said.

In Washington, Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos said that for the fourth straight year U.S.

students have shown no overall improvement, but that changes in the classroom and at home can reverse the situation.

The assessment, based on the conclusions of the Education Department's seventh annual state-by-state education performance chart, comes several months after Cavazos and President Bush convened an education summit with state governors.

"The 1990 (chart) indicates that there has been no overall improvement in student achievement. See Education, Page 5A

HRS orders clean-up of 27-year-old mobile home park sewage leak

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The air over Windy Hill mobile home park south of here is a little sweeter following the treatment with chemicals of raw sewage that has flowed into a wooded area behind the park for perhaps 27 years.

Under orders from officials from Florida Health and Rehabilitative Services environmental health officials, sewage from about 39 mobile homes will be pumped into a tank truck that will haul it away. John Cochran, director of the environmental health division, said the owner has agreed to install septic tanks for the mobile homes within days.

Bill Darling, supervisor of the domestic waste enforcement section of the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation, said the site will be inspected next week. He said the dumping may be solely under health officials' jurisdiction.

When contacted by telephone Wednesday, Windy Hill manager Bill Wilson declined to comment on the developments.

Cochran said health officials first discovered the stream of untreated sewage late last week when See Clean-Up, Page 5A

Ruling due in bid to halt execution

MIAMI — A federal judge was expected to rule today in a bid to block the Friday execution of Jesse Tafero on grounds that death penalty laws have changed since his 1976 sentencing for the murder of two policemen.

Defense attorney Bruce Rogow argued in a hearing Wednesday that the law has changed dramatically and that a case pending before the U.S. Supreme Court could affect Tafero's case.

"It seems unfair to execute someone if the next week a ruling will come out that saves his life," Rogow said.

A state prosecutor argued that Tafero had raised the same issue unsuccessfully in earlier appeals. In 1988, Tafero's sentence was upheld by the same judge. U.S. District Judge Lenore Nesbitt.

"You don't get a second chance," Assistant Attorney General Carolyn Snurkowski said.

Tafero, 43, was convicted in the Feb. 20, 1976, shooting deaths of Florida Highway Patrol Trooper Phillip Black and Canadian Constable Donald Irwin, at an Interstate 95 rest stop.

Tafero is scheduled to die in the electric chair at the Florida State Prison in Starke Friday at 7:01 a.m. EDT. The execution had been scheduled for Wednesday but Nesbitt delayed it to consider Tafero's latest appeal.

Tammy Bakker to return to warehouse

ORLANDO — Tammy Faye Bakker won a zoning dispute that allows her ministry to return to an abandoned warehouse from which she has been banned for nearly two months, county officials said Wednesday.

However, Joanne McMurray, Orange County's assistant zoning director, said that the former PTL evangelist and her followers may use the building only if they stop being a church and reincorporate as a radio and television production company.

The building, which has a capacity of about 600 people, could be used for worship services, but only if they were part of television or radio productions, she said.

County Administrator Phil Brown said the church had indicated it intended to comply with the ordered changes.

Bakker and members of her New Covenant Church have not held a Sunday morning service since their first in the new building on March 11. Later in the week a neighbor in the warehouse district south of Orlando complained to county officials.

Fake birth control pills land man in jail

MIAMI — A federal judge has sentenced a man to 11 years in prison for bringing counterfeit birth control pills from Spain into the United States and distributing them under a reputable brand name.

The sentence by U.S. District Judge James Kehoe was passed Tuesday against Sheldon Harwin and is one of the stiffest ever handed down on a conviction under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, said Stuart M. Corson, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Justice Department's civil division in Washington.

"This sentence sends a clear message that violators of the nation's food and drug laws will pay dearly for their crimes," he said. "Those responsible for drug counterfeiting are seeking profits without regard to the public health or the damage caused to the reputations of the authentic manufacturer and the medical community."

Harwin was convicted last March after an eight-day jury trial before Kehoe of smuggling the pills in from Spain, repackaging them to make them appear as legitimate Ovulen-21 pills, made by G.D. Searle & Company, and distributing them to several wholesale pharmaceutical firms.

Corson said there was no indication that any counterfeit products labeled as Searle drugs remain on the market.

Shuttle flier's father says son appears OK

CAPE CANAVERAL — An unspecified "medical condition" threatening to bar a scientist from the shuttle Columbia's May 17 launch is a minor complaint that appears to be clearing up, the astronomer's father said Wednesday.

"We think it's going to be OK but we won't know for sure for a few more days," said Rodney Durrance, whose son, Samuel, is scheduled to blast off aboard Columbia. "We were concerned that Sam might not get a chance to fly. You bet we were. But that's all I can tell you."

Columbia and a seven-member crew are tentatively scheduled to take off at 12:45 a.m. May 17 to carry a suite of telescopes into orbit to study ultraviolet and X-ray radiation from deep space that is blocked by Earth's atmosphere.

At the controls will be commander Vance Brand, 59, and co-pilot Guy Gardner, 42. Their crewmates are John "Mike" Lounge, 43, Robert Parker, 53, Jeffrey Hoffman, 45, and civilian astronomer Ronald Parise, 38, and Samuel Durrance, 46.

Last week, shuttle program chief Robert Crippen announced that Durrance had developed an unspecified "medical condition" that could bar him from the mission.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Martinez vetoes gas tax increase

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez shrugged off an intense last-minute lobbying effort Wednesday and vetoed a $4.7-billion transportation bill that contained a 4-cent increase in the state gasoline tax.

"Many elements of this bill would enhance Florida's transportation program and would be acceptable. However, with the gas tax increase contained in this bill, the entire package is fatally flawed," Martinez wrote in his veto message.

The veto surprised no one, since Martinez has been adamant and unrelenting in his opposition to a statewide increase in the gasoline tax hike. He has insisted that any increase in the gas tax should be subject to approval within each of the state's seven transportation districts.

The bill would have raised the tax on gasoline by 4 cents a gallon, pledging the money to projects in the transportation districts in which they are raised.

Martinez also asserted that road projects funded in the legislation are not necessarily the ones given priority in local comprehensive growth management plans.

"I fear the framers of this legislation have lost sight of the Committee votes to boost beer tax

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — The Senate Committee on Health and Rehabilitative Services voted 8-to-3 Wednesday to boost the state tax on beer to raise money for drug and alcohol treatment programs.

The bill (SB 2386) by Sen. Larry Plummer, D-South Miami, would increase the excise tax on beer by 2 cents for each pint, and by 16 cents per gallon on bulk sales, to bring in $72 million annually.

Plummer said the increase would work out to about $6.24 cents per year for someone who quaffs the equivalent of one six-pack per week. The current excise tax on beer is 12 cents per pint, or about 36-cents per six-pack.

The bill would supplement the $114 million in state, federal and local funds spent on drug and alcohol counseling, education and rehabilitation, which meets an estimated one-third to one-half of the demand.

Critics complained the tax would unfairly target low-income consumers and beer distributors also protested the hike. But an amendment to scrap the tax failed on a tie vote, 5-to-5.

In other action in the Legislature Wednesday:

• The Senate HRS Committee approved unanimously a proposed amendment to the Florida Constitution (SJR 1320) granting children the right to basic health care, nourishment and "freedom from want."

• A bill eliminating the sales-tax exemption for health clubs to fund sex education finally made it out of the Senate HRS Committee, where it had languished for a week.

The committee voted to approve the bill (SB 1764) last week, but opponents moved to reconsider the vote. Under Senate rules, that motion lapsed automatically when opponents failed to call for a new vote before Wednesday's committee meeting ended.

• A House Finance and Tax subcommittee unanimously approved legislation (HB 657) to permit off-track betting on horse races, despite opposition from competing pari-mutuel interests.

Track owners complain they have lost millions of dollars in competition from the state lottery.

fact that there are limits to how deeply the people of Florida are willing to reach into their pockets to pay for questionable projects," Martinez said.

"My first priority is always the taxpayers of this state, and this legislation simply does not meet the high standards they deserve."

The veto followed an intense lobbying campaign on the bill's behalf. About 100 trucks and heavy equipment driven by road construction workers circled the Capitol Wednesday morning, bearing signs saying, "Please, governor, my job is in your hands," and "Driving today, walking with Lawton tomorrow."

The reference was to former

Sen. Lawton Chiles, the front-runner for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Inside the Capitol rotunda, House Speaker Tom Gustafson and Senate President Bob Crawford staged an unusual ceremony to fix their signatures to the bill and sent it to the governor's desk, urging Martinez not to veto the bill out of hand.

The Wekiva River has long been a treasure to central Florida environmentalists. The river winds through Lake, Seminole and Orange counties. The state guaranteed its preservation Wednesday by purchasing 6,100 acres of land in the river basin for $21.4 million.

State purchases more Wekiva property; land had been targeted for subdivision

United Press International

TAVARES — The state completed its purchase of 6,100 acres of Wekiva River basin property for $21.4 million from an Orlando developer and converted it into a state preserve.

The purchase — the second by the state in a month along the Wekiva River — covers 9.5 square miles of what developer Maury Carter had intended to convert into a subdivision of 6,000 homes.

The river basin, in Orange, Seminole and Lake counties, was targeted by the Legislature in 1988 for protection from developers. State officials and environmentalists hope the river basin will open a wilderness corridor north to the Ocala National Forest.

On March 29, the Conservation and Recreation Lands program, a state agency, made its first purchase to protect the river land, buying 3,400 acres in Lake County for $12.5 million.

The 6,100 acres was bought from Carter for $21.4 million on Tuesday.

Carter had acquired the land between 1981 and 1987 for about $10 million.

The river basin covers 120 square miles, including tributaries and wetlands.

North Carolina firemen join wildfire fight

United Press International

EVERGLADES NATIONAL — Red crews from North Carolina arrived in south Florida Wednesday to battle a 3-day-old blaze that has consumed more than 10,000 acres of federal parkland and neighboring state land.

The fire had consumed 6,000 acres of federal parkland and 3,948 acres of neighboring state land by 6 p.m., but in the next four hours it burned another 1,000 acres and officials were concerned about keeping it from crossing a canal they were using as a fire line.

"This is not a very large fire in comparison with last year. We had some fires last year that got to be 90,000 acres in size," said David Utley of the state forestry division. "But this has the potential to be a very large fire if we're not able to contain it within Conservation Area 3-B."

"If it gets over that fire line we have established, it will be in another 100,000 acres, with absolutely no boundaries whatsoever."

A 20-member Hotshot crew from Asheville, N.C., manned the firelines Wednesday night, giving park firefighters a break from the plus 90 degree temperatures and flames.

Everglades park spokesman Pat Tolle said an investigation into the cause of the fire is underway, but firefighters have determined that the blaze was the result of human activity — probably an all-terrain vehicle — but they had not determined whether it was an accident or arson.

Inmate Longwood man arrested

LONGWOOD — City police here report arresting a man who allegedly stood in the intersection of Milwee Street at State Road 434, Longwood. Police said when they arrived at about 12:50 a.m. today a crowd of about 10 people were gathered near the suspect.

Police said Craig A. Cathcart, 21, 198 W. Magnolia Ave., Longwood, would swing his arms at anyone who approached him. He was reportedly cursing and spinning in circles. A policeman grabbed him as he allegedly advanced toward another officer.

Cathcart was arrested for disorderly conduct and had a charge of battery on a policeman added after he allegedly kicked a policeman four times.

Deputies investigate rape in Geneva

GENEVA — A 15-year-old Orlando girl, who left home after an argument with her mother Wednesday afternoon, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies she was raped by a man who took her to his Geneva house to wait for her boyfriend to come pick her up.

After the attack, the girl told deputies the man took her back to an Oviedo house, and left. The rape was reported to deputies at about 10:30 p.m. Wednesday and is under investigation.

Police shoved at Pearlle Mae's

SANFORD — A man identified only as John Doe is charged with battery on a Sanford policeman, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest with violence. The arrest was made at Pearlle Mae's bar at 1007 W. 13th St., Sanford, after the man allegedly cursed the officer and shoved him in the chest.

Two found in car with cocaine

FERN PARK — Two men questioned by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy who thought they were using narcotics in a car outside the Hard Rock Station, 140 Fernwood Blvd., Fern Park, were charged with possession of cocaine there at about 1 a.m. today.

Several packages of cocaine were reportedly found in the car. Christopher Paul Zehnder, 26, 645 Jamestown Blvd., Apt. 1130, Altamonte Springs, and Timothy Glenn Hipps, 31, were arrested in the case.

City to vote on park site

By NICK PFENHAUF

LAKE MARY — The city's park system may officially grow by slightly more than 35 acres as the city commission votes on second reading of acquisition of the proposed active park site.

Timaeuan Golf and Country Club has agreed to sell the Country Club Road property for $700,000, less than half of the $1.5 million appraisal of the property.

The property is located just across Country Club Road from Grace United Methodist Church, and extends to the boundaries of Timaeuan.

The city planning staff has proposed purchasing the land in two phases. The first phase would include 21 acres of the site and would cost $475,000. The second phase would include the remaining 14 acres at a cost of $225,000.

The commission will meet tonight at 7 p.m. at 158 N. Country Club Road.

Mother, son report attempted murder

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

OVIDO — A 47-year-old Oviedo man is charged with attempted murder and armed burglary. He is accused of forcing entry into an Oviedo home and pointing a pistol at an 11-year-old boy.

The man allegedly pulled the gun's trigger twice, but the gun didn't fire.

Ernest Carter, 1136 Taylor St., allegedly then went to a locked bathroom door, where Evelyn Glenn, 50, of 1121 Taylor St., Oviedo, was hiding. Carter allegedly threatened to kill Carter, just as he allegedly threatened to kill 11-year-old Terrance Glenn, who is also a resident at Evelyn Glenn's house, where the crime occurred at about 8:30 p.m. Monday.

Oviedo police report Carter allegedly pulled the trigger of the gun three more times while outside the bathroom of the house. As he was leaving, by crawling out a front window of the house, police arrived. They confronted Carter, after he jumped into the bed of a parked pickup truck.

He reportedly said he might have overdosed on prescription medication. Carter was transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford, and from there on Tuesday an emergency room doctor had Carter admitted to the Sanford (mental health) Crisis Center for evaluation under the Baker Act, police reported.

He was released from there Tuesday and booked into the county jail by Oviedo police at about 12:30 p.m. Wednesday. Bond is $15,000.

A reason for the attacks was not reported. Police said they recovered the .38-caliber revolver believed to have been used in the crime. It was found on the floor of a bedroom in Glenn's house. Police said three spent cartridges were found in the gun's cylinder.

SANFORD — The Central Florida Zoological Park, Burger King, the Matland Art Center and Sincerely Yours, Mary will host Young Artists Day at the zoo Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

All registered participants will be admitted to the zoo free. Children interested in participating may register at the zoo's Small Group Shelter beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday.

For more information, call the zoo at 323-4450.

Housing authority negotiations due

SANFORD — Sanford Housing Authority employees will probably begin collective bargaining in June, said Elmer Savor, a representative for the International Union of Operating Engineers.

Collective bargaining comes after employees voted 15 to 2 to unionize in March. Following the unionization, Savor will negotiate a new contract on behalf of the employees.

Savor said the bargaining would begin in mid-June. He would not name specific changes the employees are seeking, but said it would be his job to attain the best possible salaries he could for the group.

Representing SHA, Attorney James Sweeting III said he did not know if there would be one goal or orientation in particular that Savor would focus on.

"They'll probably want to renegotiate the whole contract. I think that's the way it's done," Sweeting said.

Motorcyclist found dead along road

SANFORD — Kim Ray Strickland, 29, of DeBary, was found dead in bushes along U.S. Highway 17-92, on the Seminole County side of the county line just south of Volusia County, according to the Florida Highway Patrol.

FHP troopers believe Strickland was killed about 11 p.m. April 20, when he lost control of his southbound motorcycle. The bike rode onto the road's shoulder and hit a utility pole guide wire. The driver was ejected and hit a tree and landed in shrubs.

The bike continued southbound, hit some wooden stakes and also landed out of view in shrubs, the FHP reported. Strickland's mother who had been searching for him for days, was on the scene when he was found, authorities said.

Fletcher challenges McCollum

By J. MARK BARFIELD

ORLANDO — A local salesman was scheduled to announce his bid for the U.S. congressional seat held by Bill McCollum today.

Democrat Bob Fletcher, 47, has been a resident of Orlando since 1986. He previously owned a toy manufacturing business in Atlanta.

Fletcher said he is seeking the seat to expose and end government corruption and fraud.

"I'm running for office because this government needs more people who genuinely care about the way things are going on," Fletcher said. "The average fellow has no idea what's really going on."

Fletcher said McCollum is a party "yes man" and said the Winter Park congressman had the opportunity to address two major national problems before they grew to national embarrassments. Fletcher said McCollum was a member of two key congressional committees overseeing the savings and loan industry and Department of Housing and Urban Development before scandals in those areas became public.

Fletcher said he testified before the Iran-Contra committee, whose membership included McCollum.

McCollum is currently unopposed for Sept. 4 primary.

Don't be hasty

As the most influential member of Congress on national security issues, Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., is a voice the Pentagon must always reckon with. Consequently, Sen. Nunn's call for an $18 billion reduction in military spending next year has suddenly recast the developing debate over how to structure America's defenses in response to the diminished Soviet threat.

In a series of speeches on the Senate floor, the chairman of the Armed Services Committee has outlined a coherent long-term strategy that attempts to match resources with the projected threat. The risk is that, in reshaping the Defense Department budget at lower levels, Congress will rely prematurely on overly optimistic assumptions about the future course of change in the Soviet Union.

Most of Nunn's ideas make sense — provided CIA Director William Webster is correct in his view that the transformation of Soviet society has progressed too far to revert ever again to menacing totalitarianism. This is, however, a leap of trust that Defense Secretary Dick Cheney prudently refuses to make on the evidence to date.

Moscow's ominous military activities in Lithuania lend support to Cheney's side of the argument. So does the mounting concern in the Pentagon that Soviet generals are now dragging their heels on completing a treaty slashing Soviet and American conventional forces in Europe. The agreement was to have been ready in time for the June superpower summit in Washington. It now appears it will not be finished before fall at the earliest. At this delicate stage, the United States cannot dismiss the possibility that Soviet military power might reassert itself in Lithuania or elsewhere.

Secretary Cheney's proposed $307 billion budget for 1991 would amount to a 2.5 percent reduction in real terms below current spending. Sen. Nunn would chop this figure to $298 billion. The House Democratic leadership, as well as many Democratic senators, are pushing for an even steeper reduction, to $283 billion.

Such a precipitate one-year drop in defense outlays would require placing enormous faith in Mikhail Gorbachev's good intentions and his capacity to rein in the Soviet military establishment. It also would bank on the swift completion of the Conventional Forces in Europe accord. Nonetheless, the political reality on Capitol Hill is that the best the Bush administration can hope for now is a 1991 budget that is closer to Nunn's $298 billion than the House Democrats' $283 billion.

Nunn's proposals for the longer term, such as placing greater emphasis on reserve units and shifting more frontline responsibilities in Europe to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies, are sensible if the Soviet threat continues to wane. His suggestion that American forces in Western Europe be reduced ultimately to as few as 75,000, from the current level of 305,000, is a sound long-range objective. For the foreseeable future, though, a significant number of American troops must remain in Europe as an important stabilizing element in a period of convulsive change.

One Nunn suggestion lacking in strategic merit is his call to cut the Navy's aircraft carrier battle groups from the current 14 to as few as 10.

Priests take on Catholic church

WASHINGTON — Two former Roman Catholic priests are at sharp odds with the church on two controversial issues. Their stands may not exactly presage a second Reformation, but if the enthusiastic response to Eugene Kennedy and George Stallings is any indication, the American Catholic Church has a credibility problem on two issues: integrating the African-American experience into church litany, and the role of church doctrine on abortion.

Stallings' actions are less threatening to church authority than Kennedy's. A charismatic black priest whose sermons would turn on the "amen" corner in any ghetto sanctified church, Stallings has been excommunicated for challenging the Roman Catholic Church's doctrine on the mass, abortion and priestly celibacy. Stallings contends that his incorporation of the African-American experience into the mass is in keeping with the church's flexibility in responding to the unique gestalts of ethnic groups in Europe, Latin America and Africa.

And many of Stallings' followers contend his real problem is that he is so audacious about his heresy. (That brother does carry on when he preaches!) Allegations about a homosexual encounter with a teen-ager have done little to furbish Stallings' moral credibility, but the people still come.

Spirited turnouts for Stallings' African-American Catholic Congregation in Baltimore, New Orleans, Philadelphia and Washington, D.C., reflect a latent hungering among blacks for a doctrine with elements that are uniquely sensitive to their spiritual needs.

On another controversial front, Kennedy has sharply rebuked American Catholic bishops for hiring a public-relations firm to spread the Catholic Church's opposition to abortion. Kennedy, a professor of psychology at Loyola University, called the bishops' strategy "manipulative at best and numbingly amoral at worst." He was being academically polite. Hiring a public-relations firm borders on carnival huckstering.

What is even more astonishing is the bishops' implicit concession that they, as vicars of Christ, have lost the moral authority to persuade their parishioners to follow them. "Thus saith the lord" has been replaced with paying "ten thousand talents of silver to those that have charge of the business." However, it's not the bishops' hiring of the nationally respected public-relations firm Hill & Knowlton that is at issue, but the bishop's transfer of their responsibility for theological doctrine on abortion to a reliance on a public-relations firm's gimmickry.

Salesmanship is not the issue either. I've always contended that Jesus Christ was the world's first and most successful public-relations executive. But he was selling just two things — faith in God and a godly way of life. Surely nobody would contend that the bishops' action comports with the command to "do the will of my father which art in heaven" when Hill & Knowlton is suddenly baptized by a $3 million to $5 million contract. Nor can the bishops defend some of Hill & Knowlton's clients as pillars of Roman Catholic doctrine.

Bush changing Hussein's image

WASHINGTON — President Bush is trying hard to tone down the image of Iraq's tempestuous President Saddam Hussein. Publicly, Bush will not criticize Hussein, and even privately, the highly classified reports of the State Department and intelligence agencies are cutting Hussein some slack.

The latest secret cable traffic from the U.S. Embassy in Baghdad concedes that Hussein has been something of a thug in the past, but that he is well on the road to becoming a "kinder, gentler" thug today.

The rehabilitation of Hussein by the Bush administration is proceeding in spite of a congressional inclination to put sanctions on Iraq and in spite of the growing evidence, which we reported recently, that Hussein may have ordered that "accidental" attack on the USS Stark in 1987.

On the surface, Hussein is trying to look like a new man. He has been courting the United States for more than a year. April Glaspie, the U.S. ambassador to Iraq, has been surprised at the enthusiasm with which the reclusive Hussein has tried to cement relations with Washington. He shocked the U.S. Embassy staff by showing up at a reception for visiting American business people last year — an appearance that would have been beneath Hussein in the past. He used the reception to give an impassioned speech about the need for better U.S.-Iraqi relations.

Our sources say America has something Hussein needs — the technology to get the most out of Iraq's oil resources. The administration's secret reports estimate that Iraq will be signing more than $8 billion in reconstruction contracts from the eight-year war with Iran. Iraq is cash-poor now, but the United States estimates that Hussein is sitting on oil reserves of more than 150 billion barrels.

All of that looks good to the Bush administration. But Hussein isn't making it easy for Congress and the American public to look with favor on the Bush-Hussein courtship. Last December, Hussein announced that Iraq had a missile that could strike targets 1,240 miles away.

He is hard at work developing nuclear weapons — a project that was exposed by British customs officials who arrested several suspects on March 28 for trying to smuggle electronic devices used to trigger nuclear weapons into Iraq.

Hussein also ordered the execution by hanging of a journalist, Farzad Bazoft, who slipped into a military complex in Iraq while on assignment for The Observer of London. The Iraqis said Bazoft was a spy.

And then there is the messy matter of whether the attack on the Stark was really an accident as Hussein claims. So far, international reaction to Hussein's mistakes has been low-key. Like Bush, the British government wants to make friends with Hussein and maintain its favorable trade relationship with Iraq.

The United States has protested some of Hussein's antics, and expelled one Iraqi diplomat. But the overall approach of the administration is to keep a lid on any criticism of Hussein. U.S. diplomats in Baghdad are trying to accentuate the positive.

Administration sources tell us that Hussein is a factor to be reckoned with, and the United States can't afford to leave Iraq in a huff of righteous indignation. Bush needs to be able to talk to as many parties as he can in the Middle East, and that sometimes means overlooking major indiscretions.

On the surface, Hussein is trying to look like a new man.

DAVID S. BRODER

Americans won't shun traitors

WASHINGTON — Two of America's most prominent white-collar criminals, John Poindexter and Michael Milken, now await sentencing. The debate over the appropriate disposition of their cases reflects the confusion of a society that has lost its moral bearings.

Poindexter, who served as President Reagan's national security adviser at the time of the Iran-contra affair, has been convicted of five felony counts, including conspiracy and lying to Congress.

Milken, the junk-bond king of Drexel Burnham Lambert, has pleaded guilty to six counts of a 98-count indictment detailing some of his illegal manipulations of the financial markets.

By the judgment of a jury or by confession, it has been established that these two men, who achieved positions of great authority and influence, abused power, concealed their actions, and betrayed the public trust. Instinct says that crimes of such magnitude call out for severe punishment.

But there are many who argue they should not be punished any further than they have been already. Daniel Schorr, the distinguished commentator for National Public Radio and an astute observer of politics for four decades, wrote in the New York Times that President Bush should issue a blanket pardon to Poindexter, convicted former National Security Council aide Oliver North and any others involved in the Iran-contra affair, "out of concern for the country rather than the culprits."

In a roundup of reaction to the Milken case, the Wall Street Journal quoted a former client and business associate as saying, "He doesn't belong in prison. His energy should be used somewhere else." A mutual-fund manager, urging mercy, praised Milken as "a man who created a revolution that allowed small and medium-sized companies to finance their growth." The publisher of Black Enterprise magazine said, "Mike Milken and Drexel led the way in doing business with black America."

Even more incredibly, Charles H. Keating Jr., a central figure in the savings-and-loan fiasco and the ethics investigation of five U.S. senators, proposed that Milken be made chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and be entrusted with the bailout of the looted thrifts.

What we have here is evidence that at high levels of American society the justice system can be thrown into disarray, not just by shrewd lawyers, but by genuine ambiguity about appropriate remedies.

As part of his plea bargaining, Milken agreed to pay a $200 million fine to the government and to set aside another $400 million to satisfy expected financial claims from those he defrauded. That sounds like a stiff penalty. But as many have noted, it barely amounts to a year's pay in the artificial world in which Milken played.

Admiral Poindexter was dismissed from his White House post when the Iran-contra manipulations became public, and his promising Navy career has been ended. But if he receives the same sort of light sentence of community service that Oliver North got, he too will have the option of marketing himself to book publishers and lecture agents eager to peddle "inside stories" even (or especially) from tainted witnesses.

But sentencing is not the real issue. What is important is that those who break the code feel the condemnation of their society in ways that are indelible to them — and to others watching. And that is where contemporary America fails itself so miserably.

How can candidates for Congress employ Oliver North, who has been convicted of lying to Congress, as a fund-raiser for their campaigns, as several aspirants have done, without incurring the scorn of the constituents?

To bring it closer to home, how can the American Society of Newspaper Editors offer its platform and accord a standing ovation to Richard Nixon, the undicted co-conspirator in Watergate who ordered wiretapping of reporters? How can the television networks compete for the honor of interviewing a man who subjected his country to the needless torment of the Watergate cover-up, sowing seeds of distrust from which we still suffer?

Yet those things have happened. Sixteen years ago, when President Ford pardoned Nixon, I said what Dan Schorr now says of people like Poindexter and North: "We all know what they did to derail the process of government. Let's get on with the pressing national problems of today."

But we Americans have shown ourselves incapable of enforcing community sanctions against those who disgrace the country. We don't have the backbone or the moral courage to shun those who betray us.

And so we find ourselves calling on the courts to do our job for us — and then quibbling about whether they have done it well. The fault, dear Brutus, lies in ourselves.

Milken, the junk-bond king, has pleaded guilty to six counts of a 98-count indictment.

Train derails in Indiana, 31 injured

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind. — An Amtrak train struck a line of freight cars and derailed before its last scheduled stop, injuring 31 people in the second passenger train accident in nine days, authorities said Thursday.

At least 31 of the 34 people aboard the train were taken to Culver Union Hospital in Crawfordsvile to be treated for injuries following the derailment about 9 p.m. Wednesday, hospital and police officials said.

Jane Brown, a dispatcher for the Montgomery County Police Department, said most of the injuries included cuts and bruises, although one person suffered a dislocated shoulder and a few people had internal injuries.

Pat Kelly, an Amtrak spokeswoman in Washington, said three passenger cars jumped the tracks when the slow-moving train hit a line of 13 stationary Conrail freight cars. The derailed passenger cars remained upright and the locomotive did not leave the track, Kelly said.

Order restored on Indian land

ST. REGIS INDIAN RESERVATION, N.Y. — Heavily armed Canadian and New York police quieted warring factions of Mohawks one day after a simmering dispute over casino gambling escalated into a gun battle that killed two Indians.

The 28,000-acre reservation straddling the U.S.-Canadian border in upstate New York was sealed today, and some 500 state police troopers set up checkpoints and roadblocks to gain control of the territory the Mohawks call Akwesasne.

The militant Warrior Society, self-appointed protectors of Mohawk sovereignty who are financed largely by reservation casino owners, clashed with gambling opponents in a night-long gun battle that killed one fighter from each side early Tuesday. Both factions are armed with AK-47 assault rifles and automatic weapons and have used firebombs and grenades in their raids.

Truck driver smashes card-eating ATM

MINEOLA, N.Y. — A Long Island truck driver, infuriated because an automatic teller machine failed to return his bank card, used a tire iron to smash it into a mass of dented metal, Nassau County police said.

While raining blows on the machine at 3 a.m. Sunday, Anthony Ross, 25, apparently heard a whirring noise and became aware he was being recorded on a bank camera, detective Dennis Cooney said.

Cooney said Ross "turned toward the camera, gave it the middle finger, and then mooned it."

After giving the machine a few more belts, Ross walked out of a branch of the Fidelity Savings Bank in East Meadow with his bank card still in the machine.

Cooney said Ross "had been drinking and wanted to get $100 from the bank to continue his partying."

He said the damage to the machine was estimated at "in excess of $19,000."

The camera, along with the credit card still stuck in the machine, put the driver on a list. He was arrested Tuesday afternoon on charges of criminal mischief and was freed on $1,500 bail Wednesday, Cooney said.

Husband-and-wife team John Koehler and Gail Koehler of Lake Mary will be piloting one of the other planes with the hopes of winning the $3,000 first place purse.

Airplanes cannot be modified and engines must be no more powerful than 600 horsepower and there are no airplanes with jets or turbo-propellers allowed in this race.

The fact that the aircraft can differ in weight and speed will be compensated for by giving each one a handicap, and thus basing final judgements on the optimum time for each.

Donaldson piloted one of the aircraft last year, but said sitting in the navigator's seat is just as much fun as flying.

"It doesn't make any difference what you're doing as long as you're in there," he said.

The flight paths consist of two loops in a giant figure eight that totals more than 1,100 nautical miles. The race reaches as far north as Albany, Ga. and as far south as Key Marathon. Each loop is flown on a different day.

For the first loop, airplanes will leave Kissimmee Municipal flying south to Tampa Bay Executive Airport and from there to Homerville (Ga.) Municipal Airport.

From Homerville, the aircraft will proceed west to Daugherty County Airport, in Albany, Ga., and from there to Ocala Municipal Taylor Airport. The airplanes must return to Kissimmee from Ocala before sunset.

"There will be no night flying," said Vicki Sherman, one of the judges for the contest. "We have never had an accident — knock on wood — and we don't want to start."

The craft do not have to stop at each airport. Where and when they stop to refuel will be part of the strategic elements that separate the winners from the losers. The planes will be timed individually as they pass over the airports.

Take-offs for the southern loop of the figure eight will begin Friday, also from Kissimmee Municipal, this time proceeding southwest to Venice Municipal Airport and from there southeast to Key Marathon. From the key the pilots will turn north and head for Vero Beach, with the final leg of the two-day race being a return jaunt to Kissimmee.

With the handicaps figured for each airplane, the first place trophy really is anyone's, said Donaldson.

progress call, a sheriff's report said.

Deputy M.R. Nunes said he was met outside the store by Kemplin who said the man inside the store was her boyfriend. The suspect reportedly had ordered everyone out of the store and was armed with a couple of sticks of "dynamite."

Kemplin alleged Hudson had said he was going to blow up the store, not rob it.

Nunes secured the parking lot and the SWAT team was called. They surrounded the building, deputies said, and Kloth negotiated with Hudson. Deputies said he surrendered and made a tearful claim in front of television cameras, saying he is innocent of the North Carolina charges.

Deputies said that what Hudson had claimed was dynamite actually were road flares.

Nunes reported that Hudson is expected to face Seminole County charges of threatening to detonate a destructive device and false imprisonment.

FBI Special Agent Larry Curtin in Tampa today said two FBI agents were on the scene when Hudson was captured. The FBI since Jan. 11, has been hunting Hudson on a federal flight from prosecution warrant, Curtin said.

Hudson, Curtin said, was arrested Oct. 31, 1989 in Brunswick County, N.C., on charges of first degree rape with a weapon and kidnapping. He fled from prosecution and the FBI was asked by North Carolina officials to help find him.

"He made our job easier last night," Curtin said. Curtin said the FBI this year received information of Hudson being in several different parts of Florida. The FBI believes he has been in Seminole County since February.

Curtin said Hudson, after he is released from the hospital, will be scheduled to appear before a federal magistrate in Orlando.

Sturm said governments and citizens need to "work for the future," and not just concentrate on the needs of today. He said it's much easier to "pay one dollar today, than it will be to pay four dollars for the same needs tomorrow." As an example, he cited road problems saying, "If a road needs to be six lanes, why make it only four, and have to redo it in another few years?"

As another example, Sturm said before any new development can be undertaken all financing must first be arranged for roads, police and fire protection, sewers, and other needs. He said that could cause a 40- to 50-percent slowdown in development.

Regarding what was called the "forced resignation" of former County Manager Ken Hooper in October, Sturm said, "We are still paying the price for it in lost time and motion." He estimated the situation has cost the county at least $350,000.

On the restructured county sign ordinance, Sturm said he voted against it because he felt it was not restrictive enough. He called it "one of the strangest sign ordinances in the county."

At the January chamber meeting, Mayor Dick Fess spoke on the "State of the City." Fess is an announced candidate for Sturm's District 2 county commission seat.

Clean-Up

they responded to a complaint from a tenant that the sewage system wasn't working. Although a sewage "sump" pump had broken down last month, causing a similar problem, Cochrane said the pump was working fine.

HRS septic tank inspector Bart Harris began to look for the drain field of what was believed to be a central septic system, but instead discovered a concrete pipe. Cochrane said Harris traced the pipe to the nearby wetlands. Raw sewage was bubbling up from the ground just a few feet away from two trailers and flowing along a gully into the woods, county officials said.

Cochrane said Harris told him the stream of sewage appeared to have been "piped" into the woods. The mobile home park is about 2 1/2 miles old, Cochrane said.

"I've never heard of anything like that before," Cochrane said. "Certainly nothing that has occurred for this long."

County resource officer Tim Clabaugh and county environmental inspector Jim Carr visited the site Monday. Clabaugh said they found the site by following the stench. What they saw turned their stomachs.

"Jim said 'I think I see a little water running down through here now,'" Clabaugh said. "He got a little closer and said 'It's not water.'"

Clabaugh said he discovered a virtual living stream of maggots covering the gully into the woods.

Under orders from HRS, Windy Hill officials spread granulated pool chlorine over the gullies Wednesday, killing odors and maggots. No firm ground was detected Wednesday even though a stick was thrust several inches into the gully bed. When withdrawn, the stick was covered by a rich, black, scummy sludge.

Clabaugh said he notified DER officials to see if a violation of state pollution laws had occurred. Clabaugh said the wetlands feed Scotch Gin Creek, which flows into Six Mile Creek and eventually to Lake Jesup. As a result, the wetland area is under state jurisdiction.

Cochrane and Clabaugh said since the owner, a Colorado man, had responded quickly to correct the problem, the county or HRS would not seek fines.

Education

as measured by scores on college entrance tests, for a fourth straight year," Cavazos told reporters.

"These data, combined with the previous three years of little or no advancement, suggest that we have reached a plateau and that moving beyond this point will require more comprehensive and even radical changes in our school systems."

Florida Education Commissioner Betty Castor often has criticized the national method of calculating the graduation and dropout rates and has devised her own means of figuring the data.

Castor's method, she has said, helps eliminate such factors as youngsters who leave the state without withdrawing properly.

Seminole County's Dawson added that Castor's method has actually raised the dropout figures for the state because the numbers are more accurate than before.

"We went from 3.46 percent dropout rate in 1987-88 to 6.24 in 1988-89," he noted. "It'll probably go up next year again."

He noted that Florida's method of counting was more useful to those involved in dropout prevention because it provided the areas and reasons a youngster left school.

"It'll help us keep more of them in school," he said.

The study found, for example, the national high school graduate rate has dipped; college entrance scores have declined, and the percentage of public school students qualifying on advanced placement examinations has dropped.

Among the study's findings:

- The national high school graduation rate declined from 71.7 percent in 1987 to 71.1 percent in 1988. Minnesota had the nation's best graduation rate, 90.9 percent, while Florida had the worst rate, 58 percent.

- The average score in 1989 on the American College Testing Program Examination was 18.6, down from 1988's 18.8. The top ACT score is 36. The average score in Seminole County on the ACT in 1988-89 was 19.9.

- The average score in 1989 on the Scholastic Aptitude Test was 903, down from 904 in 1988. In 1988-89 Seminole County students scored an average of 920 on the SAT. The top SAT score is 1600.

- The percentage of public high school graduates who received a qualifying score on advanced placement tests was 8.6 percent in 1989, down from 8.8 percent in 1988.

- Average teacher salary improved slightly, with an estimated $29,567 in 1989, up from $28,008 in 1988. In Seminole County, the average teacher salary is $27,017 per year in 1989-90.

- In 1989, there were an average 17.4 pupils per teacher, compared with 17.6 in 1988. Teachers in Seminole County have an average of 25 students per class this year.

- Schools are spending more per student — $4,243 per pupil in 1988 vs. $3,977 in 1987.

- In 1988, 6.3 percent of schools' revenues came from the federal government, compared with 6.4 percent in 1987.

"We need to provide more rigor in America's classrooms, and we need to enhance the role of parents as decision-makers regarding what is best for their children's education," said Cavazos.

"Parents can press for a say in their children's schooling. Parents can set high goals. Parents can turn off the television sets. Parents can make sure that books and magazines are in the house or borrowed from a library," Cavazos said.

IN BRIEF

FOOTBALL

Rams acquire Long

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams Wednesday acquired quarterback Chuck Long from Detroit for an undisclosed draft choice.

Long played in only one game last year because of an elbow injury and the Lions' switch to a run-and-shoot offense. The four-year veteran has started 21 NFL games.

Long's best year came in the strike-shortened 1987 season when he threw for 2,598 yards and 11 touchdowns.

The Rams have two other quarterbacks — starter Jim Everett and Mark Herrmann.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Blyleven fourth in strikeouts

Bert Blyleven received plenty of support in gaining his first win of the season Wednesday, and not all of it came from his parents.

"We flew my mother and father in for the game. I tried wearing two athletic supporters," Blyleven said after pitching the California Angels to a 3-0 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles. "Both ideas worked, in that order."

Blyleven, 1-2, must be on to something. He scattered five hits over six innings and struck out eight to secure fourth place on the all-time career strike out list. At 3,578, Blyleven trails only Nolan Ryan (5,076), Steve Carlton (4,136) and Tom Seaver (3,646). Don Sutton had held the fourth spot with 3,574.

In other American League action, Oakland blanked New York 2-0, Seattle pummeled Boston 9-2, Cleveland stomped Toronto 3-0, Minnesota pounded Detroit 8-2, Texas defeated Chicago 6-3, and Milwaukee at Kansas City was postponed due to rain.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Braves win fourth straight

MONTREAL — Andres Thomas broke into the Atlanta Braves starting lineup when regular shortstop Jeff Blauser was injured, and has been hurting Blauser's chances of winning his job back ever since.

Thomas drove in five runs, four with his first career grand slam, helping the Atlanta Braves extend their winning streak to four games with an 8-1 rout of the Montreal Expos. The Braves' streak is their best since last May.

In other National League games it was: Chicago 9, San Francisco 6; San Diego 4, St. Louis 3; New York 5, Cincinnati 0; Philadelphia 14, Houston 4; Atlanta 8, Montreal 1; and Los Angeles 6, Pittsburgh 2.

GOLF

McGrath wins golf shootout

ORLANDO — Matt McGrath of Altamonte Springs captured the third annual Spring Pepsi $1 Million Hole-in-One Contest at MetroWest Country Club.

McGrath was the closest to the pin of the nine golfers who took shots at the million dollars. A hole-in-one would have resulted in $1 million dollars to the winner.

The 22-year old used a six iron on his third shot to get within 5-feet, 6-inches of the 172-yard par-three eighth hole. For his efforts McGrath won a Sea Ray inboard/outboard 160 Bow Rider from Parker Boats.

According to Steve McClain of the Florida Citrus Sports Association, sponsor of the contest, the winning shot was the second closest to the pin in the seven year history of the event. The FCSA also puts on the event in the fall.

SOFTBALL

Harcar claims second with win

SANFORD — Harcar Aluminum Products won the final spot in this weekend's Sanford Recreation Department Spring Champions Tournament with a 14-13 nine-inning triumph over the Sanford Police Benevolence Association at Ft. Mellon Park Wednesday.

Harcar joins the Tim Baldes Connection, the Killer Bees, Concrete Concepts, Creative Invasion and Tem-Dale Corporation in Saturday's tournament at Chase Park.

Harcar took the win when John Adams opened the ninth with a walk and scored on an Arnold triple. After intentional walks to Bill Roscoe and Mark Steffes loaded the bases, Terry Roscoe lifted a sacrifice fly to left to score Arnold with the game winner.

Regional meets tonight

Seminoles in Gainesville

By TONY DeBORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

Seminole High School track coaches Nate Perkins and Ken Brauman are heading into tonight's 3A-Region II track meet at the University of Florida in slightly different frames of mind.

Perkins, coach of the Seminole girls, feels that the regional championship is the Tribe's to lose.

"It's looking pretty good," said Perkins. "If everybody scores like they did in district, we'll be sitting pretty well. If the girls run to their potential, we'll be regional champs."

"This week, we just want to make sure no mistakes are made and get everyone in the state meet."

Perkins is taking 12 athletes to this evening's regional meet and is hoping that at least nine will qualify for next Friday's Class 3A state meet, where the Seminoles will try to win their sixth consecutive state championship.

Seminole is led by sprinter Yolanda Baker, who won the 100-meter and 220-yard dashes at the district meet last Thursday.

Other regional qualifiers for the Tribe are Sheri Reddicks (shot put), Renee Singleton (110 high hurdles, 330 low hurdles), Nadrian McGill (330 low hurdles), Rhonda Freeman (high jump), Keicia Lawrence (880-yard run), Mechelle Toombs

4A schools at Showalter

By TONY DeBORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

Given the amount of talent that will be present at tonight's 4A-Region III high school track meet at Winter Park's Showalter Field, the coaches of Seminole County's five Class 4A schools have taken a "wait and see" approach.

"You just don't know," said Lake Mary boys' coach Harry Nelson. "The other districts are loaded. We don't know how we match up with that other district."

According to Lake Mary girls' coach Mike Gibson, the Region III meet offers almost the same calibre of competition as next Saturday's Class 4A state meet.

"They call this the mini-state meet," said Gibson. "You'll see some people who finish fifth tonight and not qualify for the state meet who could be in top six at the state meet."

"All you can do is go out, do the best you can and hope it stands up."

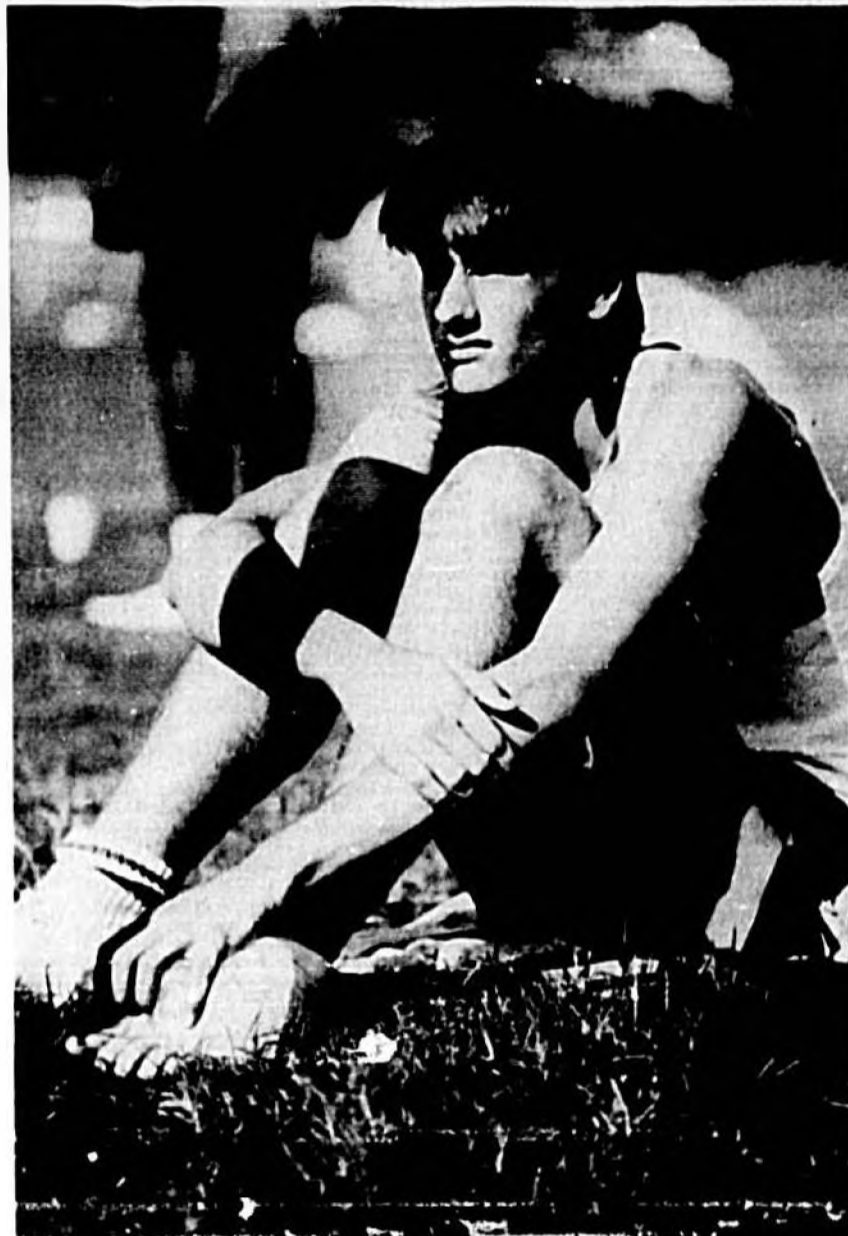

One of the reasons this meet is so difficult to handicap, according to Lyman coach Fred Finke, is that the difference between scoring in an event and not even qualifying for the finals can be very small.

"You have to be lucky," said Finke. "That's what it comes down to. When you get to this level, quality begins to surface."

Lake Brantley coach Charley Harris summed it up succinctly, saying, "We'll have to wait and see."

Both Lake Mary teams should be in the hunt for the regional championship, having won the 4A-District 9 championships last Friday. The

See Class 4A, Page 2B

Despite suffering an ankle injury during the 4A-District 9 meet last Friday, Lyman high jumper T.J. Jarosik still managed to finish second and qualify for tonight's regional meet. Next stop after this, the state meet.

Corey Anderson of the Kiwanis Club Orioles takes off on an attempted steal of third base, but it was not enough as the league leading Knights of Columbus Cardinals took the measure of the Orioles 20-7.

Beasley leads Cardinals rout of Orioles

From staff reports

SANFORD — George Beasley tossed a five-hitter and his teammates backed him with a 15-hit attack as the Knights of Columbus Cardinals trampled the Kiwanis Club Orioles 20-7 in Sanford Recreation Department Junior Baseball League action at Chase Park Wednesday night.

In the other scheduled game the Moose Club Pirates picked up a 7-0 forfeit win over the Rotary Club Royals.

The Cardinals take a full two-game lead with the victory and now have a 6-2 season mark. The Orioles and the Pirates are tied at 4-4 with the Royals standing at 2-6.

The games that were rained out on April 23 will be played this Friday. At 6 p.m. the Cardinals will again take on the Orioles and at 8 p.m. the Royals will challenge the Pirates. These games will mark the end of the first half of the season.

On Monday night the second half of the season will start with the Cardinals playing the Royals at 6 p.m. and the Orioles facing the Pirates at 8 p.m.

Seven of the Cardinals hits went for extra-bases as the team scored at least three runs in its four turns at bat.

The Cardinals scored five runs in the top of the first inning. Beasley and Charlie Farmer started the inning with walks before Eric Ingram laced a double to score Beasley and Farmer. Five more walks forced the other three runs across the plate with Cornelius Martin, Troy Brown and Anthony Morales getting the RBI.

The Cardinals scored six runs in each of the second and third innings and ended the game by the mercy rule with a three run fourth.

Ewing, Knicks avoid vacation with late victory over Celtics

By United Press International

The Boston Celtics wanted to send New York away, but the Knicks were not ready to leave.

"We have a lot of pride. We simply did not want to go on vacation yet," said Knicks center Patrick Ewing after scoring a career playoff-high 33 points Wednesday, giving New York a 102-99 victory over the Celtics, who lead 2-1 in their best-of-five first-round playoff series. "I believe we had a sustained effort from everyone tonight."

Game 4 will be Friday in Madison Square Garden, with Game 5, if necessary, Sunday in Boston.

Kenny Walker gave New York a 102-99 edge when he sank a 15-foot jumper with 7.6 seconds left. Boston's Larry Bird, who finished with 31 points, was left unguarded but missed a 3-point attempt as time expired.

"It was a wide open 3-point shot by the second best 3-point shooter in the league," Bird said. "I'm disappointed, and we gave away too many offensive rebounds and too many turnovers. Now we have to play Friday as a result."

Ewing also grabbed 19 rebounds. He sat out the final eight minutes of the third period due to foul trouble, but came on to score 12 points in the final period.

New York also received 12 points and 11 assists from Cheeks and 14 points and 13 rebounds from Okley.

Johnson added 18 points for Boston and Kevin McHale 17.

Suns 120, Jazz 105

At Phoenix, Kevin Johnson scored 14 points in the last eight minutes of the third quarter, helping Phoenix battle back from a nine-point deficit to go ahead by nine on its way to a 2-1 lead in the first round of the Western Conference playoffs. Utah suffered its 10th straight loss at Phoenix dating back to March 1986.

 (triple jump), Kevin Ward (long jump), Yolanda Williams (330 low hurdles), triple jump), Angia Brown (shot put) and Kay Kay Mullins (100-meter dash).
 Also, Seminole's 440 relay of Kim Brown, McGill, Baker and Toombs as well as the mile relay of Kim Brown, Ward, McGill and Toombs also qualified for the regional competition.
 But where Perkins is optimistic, Brauman is cautious. The Seminole boys blew away the District 7 field last week but Brauman knows they will be up against a much greater challenge tonight.
 "With Gainesville-Buchholz and Hernandez, it's going to be a real tough meet," said Brauman.
 "We've 17 qualified for the regional meet and probably 10 or 11 could make the state meet.

Class 4A

 Ram boys are sending 11 qualifiers in 15 of the 16 events while there are nine Lake Mary girls qualified in 15 positions over 13 events.
 "Tyron Gibson, Bob Robertson, Charles Elbery, Carlos Smith, Anush Collins and Alex Green have scored in most of the big meets we've been in," said Nelson. "We've run at Showalter two or three times this year. We ought to be competitive."
 The Rams are led by Gibson (who has qualified in the triple jump, long jump and 440-yard dash), Carlos Smith (discus, shot put), Robertson (mile and 880-yard runs), Collins (100-meter and 220-yard sprints), Elbery (880-yard run, high jump and pole vault), Ed Rusa (330 intermediate hurdles), D.J. Lewis (two-mile run), Alvin Craig (pole vault) and the mile relay.
 Representing Lake Mary in the girls' portion of the competition will be Shannon Cook (triple jump, long jump, discus, high jump), Vivian Jones (shot put, discus), Haydee Rohlehr (110 high hurdles, 880-yard run), Allison Snell (880-yard run) and Leah Bucco-White (100-meter and 220-yard dashes).
 Also competing for the Rams will be Karen Morris (shot put), Christina Olson (440-yard dash), Cheri Frauenhoffer (330 low hurdles), the 440-yard relay and the mile relay.
 "We're in every event but mile and two-mile," said Gibson. "Any time you win a district, those four districts explains are up for the regional title. A strong second place team could be in contention, too. It depends on how much quality you have left."

Juniors

 Beasley struck out nine Orioles batters as the Cardinals won their sixth straight game. He also helped his own cause at the plate with two singles and three runs scored.
 Other contributors were, Craig Merckson (home run, two doubles, four runs scored), Farmer (double, two singles, four runs scored), Martin (double, two singles, two runs scored), Johnny Dennis (double, single, three runs scored), Ingram (double, three runs scored) and Brown (single, run scored).
 Providing the offense for the Orioles were Rick Baden (double, single, run scored), Isal Barnes, Joe Tittle and Jamie King (one single and one run scored) and Bransen Simpson, Ray June and Tom West (one run scored each).

Seminole

 The season begins Saturday at the Sanford Memorial Stadium as Seminole takes on Wes Rinker's Florida Baseball Academy team, defending league champions.

the county's leading pole vaulter, would not be able to compete this week due to an injury suffered during a practice jump at the district meet last Friday at Lake Mary.
 Going into tonight's competition, Finke had worked out a range where his team probably will finish. "We should score between 23 and 30 points," he said. "We could be the runners-up or we could be seventh or eighth."
 Leading the Greyhounds is Teddy Mitchell, who will be attempting to take the next step to defend his state championships in the mile and two-mile runs.
 He will be joined by Howard Marshall (330 intermediate hurdles), Chris Cotton (triple and long jumps), T.J. Jarosik (high jump), Kennis Morse (330 intermediate hurdles), Todd Cleveland (triple jump), Octavious Holliday (880-yard run) and Kevin Padgett (two-mile run).
 The Cotton brothers Morse and Marshall qualified in the 440 relay, as did Lyman's mile relay.
 Lyman girls who qualified for regionals are: Melissa Lewis (triple jump), Katrina Stafford (triple jump), Allison Parnell (110 high hurdles), Janet Greenberg (880-yard run), Angeliqe Tossie (discus) and Annunarie Loffin (two-mile run). Vida Williams, Greenberg, Keesha Robinson and Melissa Lewis combined to qualify in the mile relay. Lyman's 440 relay also advanced.
 "It's going to be very close," said Finke. "It's going to be a nip-and-tuck situation going in as to who gets it (the regional championship)."

IN BRIEF

Scouting Expo set

Area Boy Scouts will host an expo on scouting from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., Saturday, May 5, in the vacant field across from Courtesy Pontiac, north of 434 on Highway 17-92. Everyone interested in scouting is invited to view 50 displays and booths set up by scouts. The District pinewood derby will be held during the day. Food and drinks will be available. No admission will be charged.

Seniors meet

American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) will meet at noon, May 10, at the Sanford Senior Center. Bring a covered dish. Bill Poe, from Seminole Work Opportunity Program (SWOP), is the guest speaker.

Rummage sale announced

Saturday, May 5, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., St. Peter's Episcopal Church Youth Groups will sponsor an old-fashioned rummage sale, at 700 Rinehart Rd., Lake Mary, next to the U.S. Post Office Sectional Center. All proceeds will be used to renovate the church facilities used by various civic and church groups. No clothing will be sold. Please bring donations to church during office hours. For more information, call 322-4777.

Wear your art

The Attire-ing Artist's Show will be held from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday, May 5, at Church Street Market, Orlando. The show is designed to highlight wearable art, such as jewelry, accessories and clothing. For more information call 872-3500.

Spring moon stroll set

Leu Botanical Gardens will hold a "Spring Moon Stroll" from 8-10:30 p.m., Saturday, May 12. Spend a moonlit evening in a candlelit garden filled with acoustical music, desserts and wines. Tickets are $10 per person, $18.50 per couple. Leu Gardens members will be charged $7.50. Tickets are available now at Leu Gardens and will not be sold at the gate. Ticket cutoff date is May 10. All proceeds benefit Leu Gardens. For more information call 849-2620.

The class, "Flowers For You," will give participants the opportunity to make a fresh flower corsage for Mother's Day. The program is open to youth 8-18 years of age. Cost is $2. Pre-registration is required. Call 323-2500, ext. 5560.

Quilt presented

Minds must meet for engagement to ring true

DEAR ABBY: Lately I have seen women wearing "engagement" rings for a year or two. I always thought that the ring was presented six months to a year before the wedding. What is the length of time for an engagement? Who should announce it? If the engagement is broken, should the ring be returned?

CALIFORNIA QUERY
DEAR QUERRY: An engagement — as I assess it — is simply a public announcement that two people plan to marry. An engagement ring is not essential to make it official, but it helps. A couple can be engaged anywhere from one day to "indefinitely."

It can be announced by the parents of the bride, either or both parties involved, the town gossip, or nobody.

If the engagement is broken, the woman should return the ring (unless, of course, she paid for it). And by the way, all that is required for a sincere engagement is a meeting of minds. One person asks the other, "Will you marry me?" If the answer is "yes" (assuming both parties are sober and in their right minds), they are as legally engaged as if he had given her the Hope diamond.

DEAR ABBY: I've fallen in love. I am adult and mature and have been living with this man for two years. "Joe" and I have talked about marriage, and I think he is going to ask me soon.

ADVICE

Here's the problem: I am trying to dig my way out of debt. For years I was addicted to credit cards, and I am now in the process of paying all my bills, but it's taking most of my money. I told Joe I was saving my money to build a nice nest egg, but actually most of it is going to pay off these old debts. He thinks I have a lot of money saved, when actually it's been spent.

Do you think I need to tell him the truth? I plan to keep my financial situation to myself until after we are married and all my bills are paid. What is your best advice, Abby?

BILLS PAID, NO SAVINGS
DEAR BILLS: Tell Joe the truth now. Deception is a rotten foundation for marriage. If he marries you thinking you have a nice nest egg and then learns that you have deceived him, you are apt to find yourself with an empty nest.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is terminally ill, but she enjoys having company on her "good" days. Her friends have been wonderful about visiting her — always calling ahead to see if Mom is up to having visitors, and they never stay very long, which is also most considerate.

Now, the problem: One of Mom's oldest friends always brings her news about who's dying, sparing none of the details. She is also a gossip, but that's not as depressing as the list of people who are dying.

Is there any way I can tell Mom's old friend to please bring only cheerful news? After this woman leaves, Mom is so depressed she can hardly eat.

DEVOTED DAUGHTER
DEAR DAUGHTER: Yes. Meet the crepe hanger at the door and ask her to please keep her visits positive and cheerful — no news about who's dying, as "Mom" is very emotional at this time and bad news upsets her.

Sugar substitute unsafe for some

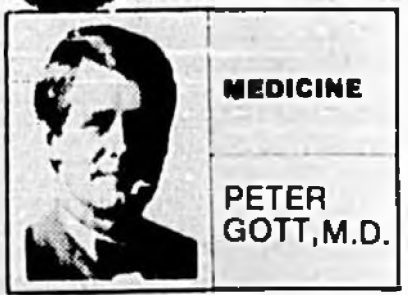

DEAR DR. GOTT: It seems all diet soda bottles have a warning on the label: "Phenylketonurics. Contains phenylalanine." Is this for diabetics, or not to be used by diabetics? What is the ingredient?

DEAR READER: Aspartame (NutraSweet) is an artificial sweetening agent used in many products in place of sugar. It is an appropriate sugar substitute for diabetics and people on low-calorie diets. However, it is dangerous for people who have the inherited metabolic disorder called phenylketonuria (PKU). These people lack an enzyme that is necessary for the metabolism of phenylalanine, an amino acid that is used to form certain proteins. Unless a phenylketonuric avoids phenylalanine, the amino acid builds up in the brain, causing mental retardation (in children) or seizures. As part of its structure, aspartame contains phenylalanine; therefore, people with PKU should not consume products sweetened with aspartame. However, other sweeteners, such as saccharin, are safe to use.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 73-year-old father has undergone colon cancer surgery with follow-up chemotherapy treatments. My mother, also 73, had benign polyps removed. I have no problems that I know of, yet I wonder if I should be concerned with this family history.

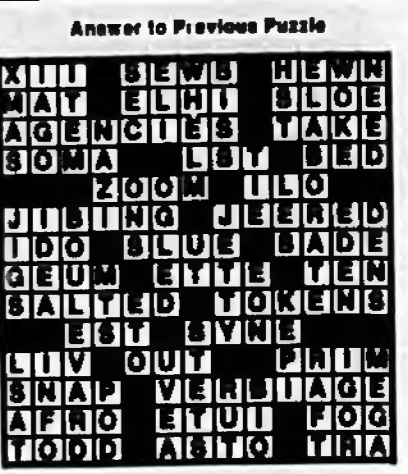

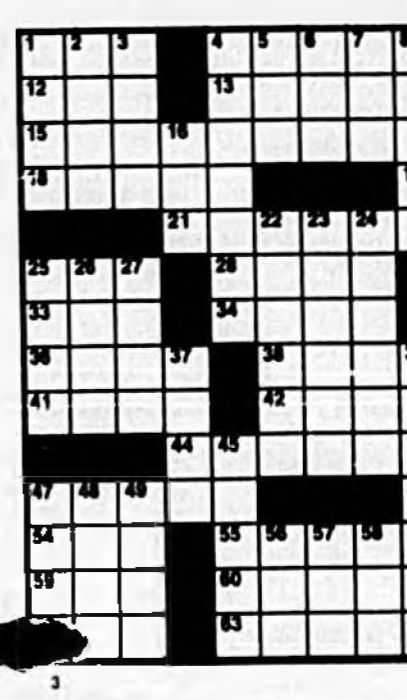

DEAR READER: Colon cancer runs in families. Given your family history, your risk is increased. Therefore, you will need to pay more attention to your colon as you grow older. In my opinion, you should have routine annual tests for hidden blood in your stool; such tests are simple, inexpensive and easily performed at home. In addition, you should have a flexible sigmoidoscopy performed about every five years after the age of 45 or 50. If you are found to have polyps (harmless outgrowths of bowel lining), you may need periodic colonoscopy during which a specialist examines your entire large bowel with a fiberoptic tube. Ask your doctor about this. To give you additional information, I am sending you a

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
In the methods used by North-South, the jump to two no-trump was only an invitation to game. Why then did North go on with only 12 high-card points? His answer would be: "I have a five-card suit, an extra 10, and prime cards (A-A-K). And South is an expert declarer." His last reason was the best. South correctly read the nine of hearts as denying the queen. So he rose with the king in dummy, retaining the A-J for entries to his hand. Then he attacked diamonds. He played dummy's low diamond. When East followed low, South rose with the ace and played back a low diamond. West's king beat the ace. West played another heart; South won and led the jack of diamonds. East could take the queen, but declarer still had a heart entry, and the subsequent play of the 10 of diamonds would set up his remaining diamonds. Declarer's play was best. It's true that putting in the 10 of diamonds when first playing the suit from dummy would win when East held K-Q-x or K-Q-x-x of diamonds, but in the first case it's only a matter of overtricks, and in the second case, when East holds four diamonds, it is more likely that West will hold one of the high honors. Count them: When West holds a doubleton, it can be K-9, K-8, K-6, K-5, Q-9, Q-8, Q-6, Q-5 — a total of eight combinations. If West holds two cards in the suit without the K or Q, there are only six combinations: 9-8, 9-6, 9-5, 8-6, 8-5 and 6-5.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 4, 1990

Exciting and rewarding times are in the offing in the year ahead. Lessons you've learned from experiences, both bitter and sweet, will provide the framework for your new successes.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This could be a rather extraordinary day for you if you do everything in accordance with your highest ideals. Don't adjust or lower your standards merely to put others at ease. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The motives behind your behavior towards friends today will be charitable and compassionate, even though you might do your utmost to conceal your tender inclinations.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A dear friend who holds you in high regard may work on your behalf today without your knowledge in order to make something difficult in which you're involved easier.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Something you're desirous of doing today may appear to be unrealistic to the casual observer. However, you'll instinctively know how it can be done, even if it's a mystery to others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Someone you've recently met is very anxious to get to know you better. You're aware of this, but you have not encouraged the relationship, even though you sense you should.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A reliable associate who has been helpful to you previously can be of considerable assistance again today. If you need anything from a buck to a bicycle pump, go to him first.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you are lucky enough to be involved with someone today whose objectives closely parallel yours, both stand an excellent chance of achieving your aims.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.

21) If there is something you have to negotiate or sell today, keep in mind the buyer is as anxious to profit from the deal as you are to sell.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) People with whom you have dealings today will automatically sense your strength and resolve. It won't be necessary for you to be aggressive in order to get your way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Loving gestures you make toward your mate today will not readily be forgotten. If your mate has a special wish that is within your power to grant, make it come true.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Friends whose companionship you enjoy are obligated to socially will have a better time being entertained at your place today than they will if you take them out on the town.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you're desirous of having something you've loaned to another returned, a gentle reminder today should do the trick, because the recipient of your gesture has been having a troubled conscience.
