Greater Sanford Chamber Commits To Race

Backers Starting Engines For Southern Air Race

Members of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Aviation Committee say they want to concentrate on the Great Southern Air Race this year, a 1,000 mile race which attracts pilots from throughout the south.

The race, scheduled for November in conjunction with Aviation Month, was cited by city and committee leaders as a promotional medium for the city throughout the nation and also a popular attraction for area residents. An open house at the airport is planned to coincide with the race.

The Chamber is committed to donating $1,200 to the air race, according to Dave Larr, executive director of the chamber. Members need to make a concentrated effort toward raising that money, he said. How to raise the money will be discussed at the committee meeting next month.

The Great Southern Air Race is a group of independent general aviation pilots from all over the Southern United States, explained Mack Lazenby, assistant airport manager at the Sanford Airport and member of the aviation committee. He noted that the race was also held in Sanford last year, and that even a few international students from regional colleges participated. About 40 or 50 planes flew into Sanford where the race began, he said.

Larr noted that Sanford will be the starting point for the race this year also. Lazenby said the race helps to promote the airport and Sanford in that "everywhere they (the pilots) fly on their itinerary, people will know they've taken off at Sanford. It gets the name of the Sanford Airport out to the public."

The 1,000 mile race is deliberately kept as inexpensive as possible so that it can be a working man's race. Pam Kettner explained to the group.

Kettner said that general aviation is on the decline but that many pilots today devote their lives to it (flying). She said that most pilots are not wealthy but that they put their money into their hobby at the expense of other things in their lives. Races such as the Great Southern Air Race may be a way to bring general aviation flying back into vogue, she suggested.

Officials Seek Solutions For Taxes, Fees

By Brad Church Herald Staff Writer

No specific goals were set for the year, but several possible topics of discussion were suggested at the Seminole County Council of Governments' first meeting of 1988, Wednesday night at the Sanford city hall.

The council, formerly called CALCO, includes representatives of all cities in the county, county government and the school board, and is unique among other county organizations in the state.

Members welcomed back Winter Springs to the organization. That city dropped out a few years ago and accepted an invitation to rejoin last month. Mayor Leanne Grove represented the city at the meeting but said Commissioner Bill Jacobs, who was unable to attend Wednesday night's meeting, will be the city's representative on the council.

Mayor Dave Goulet and councilman Henry Hardy III both attended from Longwood and Hardy will be the city's regular representative.

Sanford Mayor Betty Smith, chairwoman of the council, asked members if they wanted to set any specific goals for the coming year, and no one agreed not to. However, reports from each representative discussed emerged. They included the handling of solid waste, a possible tourist tax, joint purchasing coordination of waste water treatment and impact fees, and uniform obscenity ordinances.

Altamonte Springs Commissioner Lee Constantine suggested exploring joint bidding and purchasing. He said Altamonte Springs, Casselberry and Orlando recently joined in advertising for bids and then purchasing, to resist cut-throat bidding for their fire departments. He said the cooperative effort saved Altamonte Springs $90,000, or 18 percent of the total cost.

Jane Deese, chairwoman of the Oviedo City Council, said her city purchased asphalt through the county's contract with a vendor last year, saving that city money.

County Commissioner Sandra Gelin, who was filling in for Bill Kirchhoff, the county's regular representative on the council, said she will have the county's purchasing director set up a meeting with representatives of each city who are in charge of purchasing to talk about how they can all cooperate to obtain lower prices on some contracts.

DOA Agency Targeted

Vogt: Abolish State Agency

Staff and Wire Reports

Senate President John Vogt, D-Merritt Island, said Wednesday he will file legislation this week to abolish the Department of Administration and to create a Department of Veterans Affairs.

Vogt said the functions of the Department of Administration (DOA) could be transferred to other existing departments, resulting in a state savings by eliminating unnecessary management positions. For instance, he noted, the administration of state health insurance, now handled by the DOA, could be transferred to the Insurance Department.

Vogt said he expects administration support for his proposal to create a Department of Veterans Affairs because Gov. Bob Martinez said during his election campaign that he favored creation of such a department.

There are 4,098,400 veterans in Florida according to the 1980 census, and I think it is time that the state recognize the needs of those who have given so much for their country, Vogt said.

Vogt said he expects wide support for the legislation based on informal discussion with House leaders. He said he considered the proposal Wednesday in the interests of government efficiency and not to attack the department of which he is a member.

I don't have any political axe to grind with anybody, Vogt said.

Vila, through a spokesman, declined comment.

Martinez indicated he believed the proposal was motivated by the growing antagonism between Vila and Democratic legislators over their decision to deny a state contract to Capital Health Plan, a Tallahassee health maintenance organization.

Vila refused to answer a House subcommittee's questioning about the contract. The state's major general contract, which is set to expire in July, is being challenged by the state Division of Administrative Hearings.

If he finds the opening up of a small organization, I've got an existing agency that's doing the same thing, I think that's something we can work with, Martinez said.

But to simply come down with the hammer because you disagree on an HMO contract, I don't believe that's good public policy.

Vogt declined to comment on Vila's refusal to answer, but said she may have acted properly since the HMO's challenge is still pending. A ruling is expected next month.

It's not directed at anybody or anything, he said Thursday.

This is an issue that's been hanging around for a long time.

The Department of Administration, as with the approval of the governor, who appoints its secretary, subject to Senate confirmation.

Accidents Mar Morning

Seminole County police and fire and rescue personnel had their hands full this morning when four separate auto accidents involving an unknown number of cars and people were reported on State Road 436 in the area of the Post Lake Apartments.

A spokesman for the Seminole County Communications center in Sanford said the first accident was reported at approximately 10:30 a.m.

The spokesman said the first accident involved five cars and resulted in at least six injuries, all of which were minor.

After the initial report of that accident, he said there were three other accidents reported to which the county responded.

Store Will 'Fill Gap' Of Sharing Center

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

To fill the gap during the weekend closing of the Sanford Christian Sharing Center, the women of All Saints Episcopal Church, Sanford, are opening a three-story, 2,200 sq. foot store.

At the invitation of the Rev. Frank Super, then rector of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Mrs. Catherine and other women from All Saints maintained the store at a sharing is voluntary in the new sharing center.

The group hopes to open the store by the end of the year, Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Theresa Gaudin, who saw a need in 1971 and was responsible for first helping opening the Christian sharing center in Sanford, said she is chairman of the board of the new All Saints Thrift Shop.

After six years of operation, All Saints joined with other Sanford churches to open the Sanford Christian Sharing Center in 1977 at the invitation of the Rev. Frank Super, then rector of Holy Cross Episcopal Church. Mrs. Catherine and other women from All Saints maintained the store at a sharing is voluntary in the new sharing center.

Gaudin said. First they tore down our building and then the other buildings provided rent free by Holy Cross that were condemned by the city. When they kept boulder back and forth and finally closed down for an indefinite period, our new pastor, Father Edmund Czarnocky, asked, 'What are we going to do for the people?'

The Rev. Richard Daniluk, pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Sanford and president of the Sanford Christian Sharing Center, in announcing the plan closing said the center will reopen after it is reorganized, relocated and its services and mode of operation are assessed in order to better serve the needs of the community without duplication of efforts with other agencies.

Gaudin responded, 'We had it before and we can do it again.'

She said, 'We had spoken to the Sanford Ministerial Association and they said it was a great idea. They said that the one service not being duplicated by

Now He Tries To Save Others

Childhood Fire Almost Cost Tom Martin His Life

By Nancy Simmons Herald Staff Writer

Fire safety has been important to Sanford Fire Marshal Tom Martin ever since he almost lost his life in an Odessa, Texas motel fire. Martin was nine years old when a quick thinking by his father saved the whole family from flames.

Sadly, Martin believes most people do not know what to do when a fire breaks out and that lack of knowledge continues to cost lives.

A case in point would be the recent fire at 1203 W. 16th St. in which 96-year-old Anne B. Thomas died, as the result of smoke and heat inhalation, he said. The fire marshal said that while many elderly people stay at their home most of the time, many of them elderly do not have smoke alarms. Thomas did not have a smoke alarm.

As ugly as she must have been, a smoke detector would have helped her to get out in time, he said.

In Thomas' case, she probably woke up, sat up, panicked, and in panicking she probably took a sharp deep breath. That in itself would have filled her lungs with carbon monoxide, Martin explained. But she still managed to walk 12 feet, which Martin said was phenomenal.

People need to be educated the principles of fire safety, they need to know how to operate smoke detectors, fire extinguishers and home appliances.

Martin said he would be glad to hold fire safety sessions for any groups that ask, adding individuals can also call the fire department and talk to him or any fireman.

Fire safety became important to Martin when he, his parents, brothers and sisters were in a motel in Odessa, Tex. During the night, they heard banging on the walls. At that time, his father father told them to get out of the room.

POLICE

IN BRIEF

Woman Accused In Drug Buy Try Using Forged Prescription

Altamonte Springs police reported charging Constance K. Towle, 33, of 307 Ester Ave., Apopka, with uttering a forgery, obtaining a controlled substance by forgery and possession of a controlled substance after she allegedly presented a fake prescription for Darvocet to be filled at Kmart Pharmacy, State Road 434 at State Road 463.

The arrest was made at about 10 a.m. Tuesday after the pharmacist questioned the validity of the prescription, and Dr. Don Colbert reportedly confirmed he had not written a prescription for the suspect, police said.

Colbert had reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that prescription forms had been stolen from his office.

In making the arrest, police searched Towle's purse and reported finding a bag containing numerous tablets of the same medication, which was identified by the pharmacist.

Casselberry police also informed Altamonte Springs police that Towle is a suspect in a similar case, in which a fake prescription was filled at Gooding's, State Road 436, Casselberry, the arrest report said.

Towle has been released on $1,000 bond in the Altamonte Springs case and is scheduled to appear in court Jan. 25. The other cases are under investigation.

Hitchhiker Beats, Robs Benefactor

Cynthia C. Knittel, 25, of 24 Jackson Court, Casselberry, reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies she picked up a stranger at Live Oak Plaza, U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry, and drove him to the drug dealing area of Teakwood and Jackson streets, rural Altamonte Springs.

There the woman said the man refused to get out of her car and tried to take her purse. She resisted and a second man approached the driver's side of her car. One of the men was armed with the knife and the woman said she pulled a knife of her own to defend herself, a sheriff's report said.

One of the suspects hit her in the face and she dropped her knife. He grabbed her $50 purse, which she said contained a $150 pearl necklace and a $100 pair of gold earrings. Both men ran away, she said.

Second Tomb Tampering

Officials at Highland Memory Gardens, 3329 E. Semoran Blvd., Apopka, reported to sheriff's deputies that Sunday a second tomb was reported to have been tampered with there over the weekend.

In the first incident reported, deputies said they didn't think that entry had been made into the coffin held in that tomb. But in the second case, deputies reported that further investigation would be needed to determine if the coffin in the second disturbed tomb had been entered.

Burglaries And Thefts Reported

Paul L. McCoy, 50, of 864 Snow Queen Drive, Chuluota, reported Tuesday to sheriff's deputies that his $300 rifle and $50 scope were stolen.

Nancy Dunn Frye, 48, of 204 Dorchester Square, Lake Mary, reported to sheriff's deputies that a $170 television, a $35 telephone, $100 worth of clothes and a $260 vacuum cleaner are missing from her rental home at 117 Gum St., Longwood. Frye reported that the property disappeared between Friday and Monday when a tenant who was three months behind in rent moved out.

Two gold chains, a pocket watch and a ring with a combined value of about $245 were stolen Monday or Tuesday from the home of Sandra B. Karwacki, 39, of 101-A Georgetown Drive, Casselberry, a sheriff's report said.

Mary M. Caruso, 21, of 1000 Lake of the Woods Blvd., Fern Park, reported to sheriff's deputies that a necklace, a watch, a gold chain and a gold bracelet with a combined value of about $925 were stolen from her home Sunday or Monday.

Three Civil Suits Filed

The following law suits have been filed recently with the Circuit Court in Seminole County. All the plaintiffs in these suits are seeking damages in excess of $5,000 for suffering and loss brought about by alleged negligence of the defendants in each case. The suits include:

—Salwa Safa vs. Walter J. Wright, Benjamin E. Norbom, Warren Clark and Joe C. Sowell d/b/a Valley Forge Apartments.

In this suit Safa claims the defendants, who have a common interest in the operation of Valley Forge Apartments, at 391 E. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs, were negligent in connection with a fall she suffered outside her apartment on Jan. 10, 1986.

Safa contends the defendants failed to properly maintain the stairway leading to the front door of her apartment. Failing to provide proper illumination in the hall area outside her apartment is also alleged against the defendants in the suit.

Safa allegedly fell in that area, reportedly suffering severe injuries as a result of the claimed negligence.

—Deborah G. and Roy Lee Smith vs. the Southland Corporation.

The Smith's claim in this suit that the Southland Corporation was negligent in connection with a slip and fall accident, which occurred at a 7-Eleven store owned and operated by the company.

Deborah Smith allegedly tripped over some bolts left exposed in the concrete walk in front of the 7-Eleven store located in Casselberry.

Smith claims the trash can normally covering the bolts had been removed from the front of the store just prior to her accident, which occurred on Oct. 17, 1987.

The Smiths are seeking damages because they feel the corporation was negligent in allowing the situation in which the bolts were left exposed to happen.

—Kathryn and John Handza vs. the Zayre Corporation.

Kathryn Handza claims the Zayre Corporation was negligent in connection with an accident that occurred on Feb. 21, 1986, in which a bicycle sitting atop a display unit fell on her.

The bicycle was not secured to the display counter in any way, according to Handza, who claims said she suffered several injuries as a result of the accident.

Pizza Kwiks Reported Going For Chinese

Pizza Kwik, the pizza delivery company which is one of Jeno Paulucci's latest ventures in the fast food market, is closing down all operations this week and concentration will be put on Chinese food delivery service, according to a Pizza Kwik order taker.

A source within the Paulucci organization said she understands that some Pizza Kwik outlets have been closed, and a representative of an advertising agency which has handled the Pizza Kwik account said the agency has done no work for the company in about a month.

Pizza Kwik is a franchise operation which advertises free delivery and a free pizza if it is delivered late.

The Pizza Kwik order taker who answered the firm's telephones Wednesday night said Pizza Kwik "no longer serves the Central Florida area, but anyone who calls the Pizza Kwik number and places an order can have it delivered by other pizza parlors who have agreed to serve our customers. Or, if after learning Pizza Kwik is not servicing the area anymore, can decline the offer of getting the pizza from other pizza parlors."

Five-Day Forecast

Prune Plants Will Aid Raisin Trees

By Fred H. Cooper
Herald Staff Writer

Take a look at a weather map and you'll see a line just above Seminole County. That's the dividing line, the DMZ. Above, you'll freeze your tootsies, below, you'll have what we have: Temperatures about 70 degrees and a little rain here and there. Tonight it'll probably hit down to 55, then bounce up to the mid-70s tomorrow. North of that line? You don't want to know unless you have to go.

Freezing temperatures start north of Ocala, rain begins north of Tallahassee. Then you'll encounter real trouble. Snow at Atlanta and all parts east and west. Many highways are closed through Tennessee and the Carolinas due to ice or snow and temperatures are not far above the zero line.

Our temperature will be colder this week-end. Down into the 40s at night and the 60s during the day. But the skies will be clear to let the sunshine through.

There's been response to the message in the section regarding raisin trees, the cultivation of same, and the value of this agricultural bonanza to the prosperity of the state in replacing citrus. Yes, there were some skeptics who cited Californians as getting raisins from grapes which only shows that folks from far-out-west are not only far out but also unimaginative. Some didn't believe in raisin trees but are probably people that don't believe in the Easter Bunny or the Great Pumpkin.

However, those seriously considering the venture and brave enough to acknowledge their hopes and dreams indicated concern about care and tending of the trees. We have a solution to the soil enrichment challenge for the groves. Place prune plants in clusters around the raisin trees. Beyond the obvious benefits of the fruit growing so close to the trees, there is an even greater convenience when ready to breakfast. Just take your bowl of bran flakes out to the grove; shake a tree to secure the raisins directly into your platter; then pick a prune to top off this original, Florida-type, day-starter meal.

We can afford to consider such agricultural antics because we're not plagued with the weather problems of our brethren further north. However, when we think of further north, with snow, we think of yankeeland. Now, it's happening in Mississippi, freezing at Pascagoula and snowing at Pontotoc.

A winter storm moved across the South today dumping up to 11 inches of snow that forced many schools and businesses to close, caused traffic jams and accidents on icy roads and downed some power lines.

"All interests — and that means everyone — should not travel unless extreme emergencies dictate," the National Weather Service in Tennessee warned.

The clash of a Gulf low pressure system with Arctic air coated much of Dixie with snow that measured from 9-11 inches at Batesville, Miss.

"You can't even tell where the highway or the shoulder of the road is," said Mississippi Trooper Wayne Prather, who said Interstate 55 was open for emergency travel only.

Up to 10 inches of snow fell in northern Mississippi and troopers reported hazardous driving conditions in much of the state. Many accidents, including several tractor-trailer trucks, were reported, the Highway Patrol said.

Veteran's Groups Sues Ex-Treasurer

The local chapter of a national veteran's organization has filed suit in the Seminole County Circuit Court against a man for alleged discrepancies in books he turned in after his term as finance officer for them was over.

Veterans Local #478 La Societe Des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux is seeking damages against J.L. Tripp after the organization's audit committee discovered the man was short $1,148.50 in his accounting for group's funds, which he had control of in 1985.

The suit claims Tripp failed to render a true and accurate accounting of the funds the organization placed under his care that year.

The organization, which is commonly referred to as the 40 and eight is a non-profit organization comprised of select members of local American Legion posts. Most Legion posts reportedly have their own chapter of the 40 and eight.

Dyke Shannon, a spokesman for the state chapter of the American Legion in Orlando, said that although legion members make up the special society, it's still a totally different organization from the legion.

Shannon said the 40 and eight originally started as a sort of "honor society" for members of the American Legion around 1919. Shannon said he belongs to the 40 and eight chapter in Orlando. "Each Legion chapter usually has its own chapter of the 40 and eight," Shannon said.

"The term comes from World War I. It actually means the number of men (40) or the number of horses (eight) that could be fit into a boxcar for train travel," Shannon said.

Tripp, who lives in Sanford, said he didn't know the suit against him had been filed. He said he had no comment on the suit or the alleged discrepancy in the organization's funds while under his control until after he had a chance to look into the matter.

Man Attacked By Ten Males

A Sanford man is in satisfactory condition at Central Florida Regional Hospital after he was attacked by about 10 males. A witness gave police a description of one of the assailants.

In another incident, charges may be pending against a man who assaulted a Sanford woman in her home.

Kent Russell Clayton, 26, 106 Mayrose Ave., was reportedly walking along the 400 block of W. 15th St., shortly after 4 p.m. Tuesday, when he was attacked by 10 males, the witness told police. The males were hitting him with their fists and with a glass bottle, according to the witness, who also said that when they saw her approaching, they fled the scene.

She said they started to flee when they saw her, but before he left one of the males also threw a brick at Clayton.

That suspect appeared to be about 5-feet, 4-inches tall and weigh about 130 pounds, the witness said. He was wearing gray jeans, and a white sweatshirt with red and gray patches. He was also wearing white tennis shoes.

Police said that due to his injuries Clayton has not been able to give his statement yet.

Charges may be pending against a man who attacked 28-year-old Valerie Gramlin at her 619 S. Palmetto Ave. home. She told police the man had struck her with his fist and with a hatchet on her face and legs, at about 11:52 p.m. Tuesday.

Rescue workers stopped the bleeding, but Gramlin refused to be taken to the hospital.

charged with grand theft auto and driving without a valid driver's license. Wilkerson is set for a hearing on Jan. 6, at 1:30 p.m. Wilkerson's bond was set at $1,000.

—Scott James Lindsey, 19, of 1953 Bonanza Court, Winter Park, was arrested on Dec. 30 and 31, and charged with possession of a controlled substance (cocaine), possession of drug paraphernalia, and possession of less than 20 grams of cannabis (marijuana). Lindsey is set for on Jan. 25, at 9 a.m. Lindsey's bond was set at a total of $3,000.

Oil Spills Plague Florida's Coast

By United Press International

Oil spills have become more frequent along Florida's coasts in the past five years, although environmental officials classified the majority of incidents as minor, or less than 10,000 gallons.

In 1987, the largest spill sent an estimated 300,000 gallons of oil into the Atlantic Ocean from the Norwegian-owned freighter Fernpassat, which hit a piling at the entrance to the St. John's River near Jacksonville.

Oil from the Fernpassat spill coated 30 miles of Atlantic beaches near Jacksonville.

"It was a major spill. We hadn't had one like that in a while," said Carolann Bowen, spill control coordinator for the state Department of Natural Resources.

Final statistics for 1987 were not available, but Bowen said spills reported to the U.S. Coast Guard and the Florida Marine Patrol would be about 300.

The state recorded 329 spills in 1986, up from 272 the year before and 209 in 1984. Records showed 166 spills in 1983; 139 in 1982; 171 in 1981 and 85 in 1980.

Seventy-six of the spills reported between 1980 and 1986 were considered moderate, or between 10,000 and 100,000 gallons. Three since 1980, including the Fernpassat, were considered major spills, or more than 100,000 gallons.

"We have not had a major spill since the Fernpassat. Prior to that, it would be the Howard Starr."

The Howard Starr, a Panamanian phosphate freighter, spilled an estimated 40,000 gallons of fuel oil into Hillsborough Bay in 1978.

The oil slick, which eluded cleanup crews and lasted for days, coated several hundred acres of mangrove trees on the bay's eastern shore, from Apollo Beach south to E.G. Simmons Park near the Little Manatee River, said Robin Lewis, an environmental consultant hired by the county to study the spill.

Congress OKs $8 Million Gift

If Congress proposed a publicly funded program for building religious schools in this country, the debate and controversy would thunder across America from Manhattan to the Puget Sound. Congress, nevertheless, just appropriated $8 million of taxpayers' money to build parochial schools for North African Jews in France—and, so far, there's been nary a whisper from the public.

This is not the public's fault. In its haste to adjourn, a House-Senate conference committee quietly included the school funding measure in a $600-billion appropriations bill as a favor to Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii. No senators or representatives noticed—or wanted to notice—until after President Reagan signed the bill.

Approving one another's pet projects has always been a favorite Capitol Hill pastime. Even so, with the huge federal deficit threatening to hobble our economy, we expect members of Congress to show a little modesty, at least.

That goes for Inouye, too. During the Iran-Contra hearings, he was a voice of moral indignation. He criticized the Reagan administration's secret arms sale to Iran and the machinations of a National Security Council that had run amok. Nevertheless, his willingness to burden the federal budget with a program supported by one of his campaign contributors raises questions about his own character.

In 1985, Inouye received a $1,000 contribution from Zev Wolfson, a New York developer. Wolfson sits on the governing committee of Ozar Hatorah, the non-profit agency designated to get the $8 million set aside for school construction in France.

Ozar Hatorah may be a worthy organization, and, no doubt, the North African immigrants of Paris could use educational help. But that help should come from private donors or French taxpayers, not from the U.S. federal budget. With funding for vital American social programs in short supply, it's hard to fathom a subsidized religious school construction program in the United States, much less abroad.

Why did Inouye's colleagues go along with this inappropriate appropriation when the State Department opposed it? Most indicated they approved it because Inouye wanted it.

"It was a lousy $8 million," said Rep. David Obey, D-Wis.

But $8 million here and there, especially for projects that don't warrant any tax money, can add up.

Inouye put an ornament on the federal appropriation tree that didn't belong. We wonder what other strange, exotic programs were hung there by other legislators in a fit of holiday generosity. Like Christmas shoppers who paid for gifts with a credit card, the glow of the holiday season passes and the bills arrive. This year, despite the urgent need to trim the federal budget, members of Congress reflected the ghost of Christmases past. They still seem more adept at finding ways to spend than in figuring out how to pay for all this federal generosity.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I guess I'll NEVER be a politician."

GEORGE MCGOVERN

Democrats Should Heed Lessons Of Past

In the nearly 40 years since President Harry Truman's upset victory over Thomas E. Dewey in 1948, the Democrats have won only three presidential elections.

In the most recent presidential competition, former Vice President Walter Mondale — a man admirably suited by experience, character and ability for the presidency — carried only one state and the District of Columbia against Ronald Reagan, a result identical to my effort against Richard Nixon in 1972.

Given this discouraging win-loss ratio over the last four decades, Democrats are understandably approaching the 1988 election with a mixture of anxiety, caution and hope.

Considering the Oct. 19 collapse of the stock market, the unprecedented trade imbalance, huge federal deficits, the skyrocketing national debt, shaky Third World debts to American banks, and the troubles of American industry, there will be a temptation for Democrats to soft-pedal foreign policy issues in 1988 and concentrate on economic concerns.

Robert Kuttner, for example, in his book "The Life of the Party: Democratic Prospects in 1988 and Beyond," calls on Democrats to go back to their roots, which he defines as "a social contract guaranteeing economic opportunity and socialized security." Mr. Kuttner points to the great political and economic success of Franklin Roosevelt and his New Deal legacy to explain Democratic victories during what he calls "the grand era of the mixed economy and the welfare state (1946-1973)..."

Mr. Kuttner's analysis is persuasive — as far as it goes.

As I pondered Mr. Kuttner's prescription for Democratic victory in 1988 — "economic activism," using the power of the state to open the way for economic and social justice in American society — I realized this was precisely the vision embodied in President Lyndon Johnson's "Great Society."

Why did Johnson abandon his hopes for re-election in 1968 after his landslide victory four years earlier? What went wrong was U.S. foreign policy — based on rigid anti-communism and the belief that a Communist-infected movement, even one in a small country ten thousand miles from our shores, was a threat so serious it justified a war. Is there any doubt that Johnson and his "Great Society" ran aground on the shoals of foreign policy?

It is also instructive to recall the fate that befell President Nixon after his landslide 1972 victory. All signs pointed toward a successful second term backed by a dramatic public mandate. What happened to drive Nixon from the White House at the hour of his greatest triumphs? Both in foreign policy and in domestic conduct Nixon forgot about the Constitution and the laws he was sworn to uphold.

We are sometimes told that history doesn't repeat itself and is therefore not a valid guide to future conduct. But there are two lessons in our recent history that would be instructive for those who contemplate the 1988 presidential election.

First, foreign policy is intrinsically bound up with our domestic policies and our well-being as a society. Second, we urgently need a president who will conduct his office at home and abroad in keeping with the Constitution and the laws of the land.

Violating Spirit Of The Law

By Steve Gerstel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the waning days of the year during which this country celebrated the 200th anniversary of the Constitution, Congress tried like hell to violate the spirit of that amazing document.

The back-alley maneuver might well have succeeded had not President Reagan been insistent, although his motivation seemed less a concern for the purity of the Constitution and more a political consideration.

At issue was the Fairness Doctrine, which required broadcasters to cover controversial issues of public importance and provide reasonable opportunity for discussion of conflicting views.

First put into effect as Federal Communications Policy in 1949, the doctrine was widely assumed to be law after Congress 10 years later included a reference to it in legislation. It was upheld by the Supreme Court in 1969.

In 1986, however, an federal appeals court opened the way for reconsideration when it judged that the Doctrine had never been written into law.

It is of some interest that two of the judges on that court were Antonin Scalia, who has since been elevated to the highest tribunal, and Robert Bork, who was set to join brother Scalia until the Senate refused to confirm him.

Faced with the FCC's stated intent to repeal the doctrine, which occurred Aug. 4, Congress galvanized into action, hoping to head off the Commission ambush.

The House approved legislation making the Fairness Doctrine law 302-102 and the Senate promptly followed 59-31.

President Reagan vetoed the bill June 20 and Senate backers, realizing the two-thirds majority to override could not be reached, never even made the attempt.

That should have been the end of the matter under an honest reading of the Constitution. The Constitution is quite specific on the point.

Unfortunately, the framers of the Constitution never envisioned a legislative concoction such as the Continuing Resolution, which included in one single bill every appropriations measure for fiscal 1988 and also became a haven for much that could never on its own have made it through Congress or escaped a veto on its own.

Drug Traffickers Go High-Tech

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — Drug traffickers and law enforcement authorities are engaged in a headlong dash to discover and exploit new technology, and it's not at all that certain that the good guys will win.

This is one of the conclusions reached by a panel of Pentagon analysts who recently studied the means and methods used to detect and neutralize traffickers and terrorists. Their secret report states: "Without question, there is a dynamic 'technology race' underway between the drug trafficker — as well as other criminal elements — and the law enforcement agencies. It is by no means clear which side is better funded — or better equipped."

Increasingly, according to the report, drug traffickers are resorting to such countermeasures as tape recorder detectors, metal detectors, radar detectors and electronic alarm systems that "protect traffickers and their stash pads from court-

WILLIAM RUSHER

NATO No Pushover

Every so often some armchair strategist, intent on arguing the case for as many nuclear missiles as possible, will assert that, of course, as everybody knows, the "conventional" forces of the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact allies could roll over NATO and reach the Rhine, or even the Atlantic, "within a week."

It is only rarely that anybody argues with this kind of quack. After all, he's merely making a prediction. Besides, nobody likes to sound too optimistic about military projections, lest they tempt Fate. But it's time somebody blew the whistle on this particular assertion, because it is by no means self-evidently true.

To be sure, the conventional forces of the Warsaw Pact powers far outnumber NATO's 17 times in personnel, 2.5 times in main battle tanks, 2.7 times in artillery and 3.3 times in attack helicopters, according to a recent article by Bernard Trainor in The New York Times.

But not even these margins satisfy the accepted requirements for numerical superiority on the part of an attacking force. In addition, they don't take into account the rapid buildup of NATO's strength (from reserves based in the United States) that is scheduled to take place on the outbreak of war.

Then there is the little matter of nuclear-tipped artillery shells, with which NATO's armies can be swiftly equipped whenever the word is given. The main Soviet thrust would be led by a massive tank assault, and — given the Soviet numerical superiority in this category — it would undoubtedly be devastating. But nuclear-tipped artillery shells have the ability to kill tank personnel without even seriously damaging the surrounding landscape — a feature that appeals mightily to the Germans, on whose soil the battle would be fought.

Finally, how would you like to be the Soviet commander with the job of launching and logistically maintaining your attack from your support bases in the Soviet Union, across some 400 miles of Poland? Do you suppose the Poles will be out along the roads and railroad tracks, cheering the tanks on? Not a lot gets said on this subject, but it's a safe bet that NATO and the Poles (and for that matter the Czechs and the odd East German) have a few unpleasant surprises in store for the Red Army before it gets far into Germany, let alone to the Rhine.

A couple of years ago I asked a high NATO commander what he most wanted I expected a laundry list of military hardware, but instead he surprised me by saying that, thanks to the then-current chill in relations with the Russians, fewer Soviet generals than before were visiting the West. He wished that more of them would drop by, "just so they can see what they're facing."

A recent "net assessment" of the respective strengths and weaknesses of NATO and the Warsaw Pact powers, prepared by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, confirms this impression.

The assessment doesn't attempt to predict the outcome of a war between East and West. But taking into account such factors as the effectiveness of weapons, the quality of troops and leadership, the efficiency of command and communications facilities, the reliability of allies, and the industrial bases of the two systems, the study concludes that a Soviet attack would be highly risky and is "logically improbable."

SCIENCE WORLD

Arthritis And Relocation

By Gayle Young

UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — For over a decade people with arthritis have predictably relocated to the warm, stable climates of Arizona and Florida seeking relief from their symptoms.

But Dr. Joseph L. Hollander, the physician who first proved climate has an effect on arthritis pain, is now suggesting the stress of a move to warmer latitudes may do more harm than good for some patients.

Hollander, emeritus professor at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, cited a recent survey of 700 people with arthritis who had moved to Tucson, Ariz., because they believed the warm, dry weather would alleviate joint pain and swelling.

Half of those surveyed said their symptoms had improved since relocating, but a full third found their symptoms had become more severe, according to Hollander's report in Arthritis, an arthritis magazine.

The findings support recent research suggesting stress, as well as weather, may play a significant role in arthritis pain.

"The point I want to make is that people must not think a move is a cure-all," Hollander said in a telephone interview.

Moving is considered one of the most stressful of life's events next to death of a loved one and divorce, and so relocating for arthritis pain may contribute to the problem more than relieve it.

The National Arthritis Foundation has no figures indicating how many of the country's estimated 37 million arthritis sufferers have moved to warmer climates, according to spokeswoman Sue Manfred.

"Anecdotally, it would seem there are a lot," she said.

Manfred said the foundation recommends that people who are interested in moving visit their proposed new home several times over the course of a year to determine if they benefit from all seasons.

"Even the most stable climates change somewhat," she said. "And some people don't seem to feel better no matter how good the climate is."

"We suggest people put a lot of thought into this," she said. "It's a monumental change, especially in the life of an older person."

federal agencies."

The traffickers' high-tech arsenal also includes "night vision equipment (which) has been utilized along the borders" and "remotely piloted vessels (which) have been used along the coast of Florida." The latter "are controlled from a mother ship and are used to deliver shipments of marijuana."

Will the white hats ever gain the upper hand? The task force is not optimistic: "The use of technology by the traffickers will increase in the future and will tend to become more sophisticated as new technologies come on the market. Regardless of cost, traffickers will immediately test them against law enforcement agencies."

The experts expect the traffickers will concentrate on cellular telephone technology, for example. "The cellular industry is turning toward a worldwide market and looking at rural undeveloped areas in South America. These in turn will be linked by satellite to the U.S. telecommunications system." The traffickers will thus have an instantaneous communication network that extends from the coca plantations to the consumer.

The drug kingpins will make greater use of computers, the analysts believe. "It's only a matter of time," their report says, "before various organizations begin to utilize the same networking principals applied by large businesses and banks."

As law enforcement agencies develop better voice privacy systems to protect radio and telephone communications, the drug traffickers "may resort to jamming of law enforcement frequencies." They are also expected to make greater use of remotely piloted boats and planes.

The task force offered this bleak summary: "Cost, regulation or legality are of no concern to the trafficker. The only restraint on his use of technology is therefore his imagination. There seems to be no question but that the current 'technology race' will continue."

...Fire

his father rolled Martin's younger brother and sister into a blanket and rolled them out the door and into the parking lot before they had a chance to sit up and breathe the smoke and heat. The rest of the family was outside quickly also.

Except for two or three rooms on their end of the motel, the entire building was on fire, Martin said.

Apparently, some people in the building had been drinking and, when they realized a fire had been started, they didn't want people to know who they were, so they just banged on the walls rather than alerting the sleeping guests. "But that was enough for us to hear," Martin said.

The childhood incident would not be the only experience he had with fires. A young cousin of his would later die in a fire.

"You can't imagine what it's like to lose someone in a fire," he said quietly.

Many needless fires have cost Sanford residents loss of lives and property, he said. He recalled an incident in recent years, in which a young child died in what was believed to be a Christmas tree fire. He said however, that while it couldn't be proved, it was probable that that fire started because of excessive extension cords next to a lot of tissue paper. Many garage fires have also been started because fuel or oils, such as kerosene, have been stored near gas water heaters. He also noted that oily rags, rolled up together and stored for a long time, will ferment, and the fumes will, at some point, spontaneously combust.

Extension cords could be considered a pet peeve of Martin's. People really abuse extension cords, he said. For example, people will remove a short cord off of a small appliance, and they'll replace it with a long extension cord. But, the length of the cord is in proportion to the amount of electricity the appliance needs to use. Short electrical cords, are short for a reason. "When you replace that shorter cord with a long extension cord, the appliance is generating a lot more electricity than it needs, which can start a fire," he said.

Walking on extension cords, hiding them under carpets, draping them up along walls with nails—these actions are dangerous, Martin said. And he added that some people will not only drape the cords over nails, but will often drive nails right through the cords. Even the former action will cause friction that can cause enough heat to start a fire, but the latter action can radically expose the wires in side the cord, causing them to arc and burst into flame.

Elderly people particularly will leave containers of fuel sitting around in various areas of their homes, for easy access. Many times those fuel containers will be found near electrical outlets.

He also noted that very hot cotton clothing, taken out of a dryer, and left compacted together in a bundle or bag of some kind, can also spontaneously combust. He cited an example he had been told about, in which a man did laundry, brought it home for his wife to fold, and left her with it. She was sitting in a chair, she had no legs, Martin said. When the man came home, his house was burned to the ground and his wife, of course, was dead.

However, true life horror stories occur but individuals, with an understanding of fire prevention and fire safety, can stop tragedy from happening to their families.

The fire department does try to educate the public. One way is through the public schools, particularly during Fire Prevention Week, each October. Different programs are presented to the different age groups, he explained. The youngest children are even brought to the fire station, shown the engines, and allowed to see firemen dressed in their firefighting gear—"so they won't have to be afraid of us if we have to go to their house sometime," Martin explained.

He said the department also will teach, in group sessions, how to use fire extinguishers, the value and use of smoke alarms, etc. "We can't go into every single home in Sanford," he said, adding that firemen could instruct as many groups as asked for information. He said he would like to teach the elderly about fire safety, perhaps at the civic center.

This kind of education is a necessity, he said.

Bakker Misses Church Meeting On Allegations

FORT MILL, S.C. (UPI) — Fallen PTL founder Jim Bakker says he missed a meeting with Assemblies of God officials to clear himself of homosexuality charges because Tammy Faye is afraid to fly and he won't leave California without her.

PTL trustee David Clark, meanwhile, vowed Wednesday to fight to keep Bakker from returning to the ministry he resigned last year in a sex scandal that included an admission of a sexual tryst with Jessica Hahn and subsequent charges of homosexual conduct.

Bakker had an appointment Wednesday in Dunn, N.C., with the Rev. Charles Cookman, district superintendent of the Assemblies of God church, which defrocked Bakker last year.

When Bakker failed to show, his attorney explained he could not leave California because his wife, Tammy Faye, was afraid to fly and he would not travel without her.

"The (church's) executive committee certainly wants to give Mr. Bakker an opportunity to appear and present whatever evidence he has to clear himself," said Cookman. "We stand ready to meet with him at any time in the future acceptable to both him and members of the committee."

Bakker obtained new ministerial credentials last month from a group in Tulsa, Okla. He is not seeking reinstatement to the Assemblies of God, but apparently wants to end allegations that he is a homosexual.

Those allegations were made last summer by Chattanooga, Tenn., evangelist John Ankerburg and repeated by the Rev. Jerry Falwell, then in charge of PTL.

Cookman said attorney Jim Toms called to say Bakker could not make the trip to Dunn because Tammy Faye was afraid to fly.

Clark, meanwhile, responded angrily Wednesday to reports that the Bakkers and some of their associates have filed claims against the PTL totaling more than $3 million with the U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

The Bakkers are seeking $1.3 million, the estimated value of the PTL-owned parsonage at Tega Cay, S.C., from which they were evicted. Clark vowed to fight the claim through "all appropriate and ethical, legal action to make certain that this ministry does not pay another penny to these people."

"Considering the millions that were taken from this ministry, imagine the audacity of Jim Bakker and his wife wanting to come back to the well," said Clark. "It boggles the mind."

Under a bankruptcy reorganization plan approved Dec. 22, the PTL has until Feb. 15 to respond to the claims. Clark said PTL will contest all the claims filed by Bakker and his associates.

Bakker lawyer Ryan Hovis said his client filed the claim against PTL but money is not really what he wants — he wants the ministry back.

"We don't expect Jim Bakker to get $1.3 million," Hovis said. "We did that in order for us to have a legal claim in court. If PTL came to us tomorrow and offered us $1.3 million we'd say, 'Put it in a fund and pay the bills.'"

Medical Malpractice Bill Filed; Will Limit Non-Economic Damages

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The focus is on cutting malpractice insurance costs and getting doctors back into emergency rooms, but Rep. Sam Bell says caring for brain-damaged children may be the hidden strength of his proposed malpractice bill.

"Every baby who is brain-damaged is entitled to be cared for in a humane and appropriate manner, for a lifetime," Bell, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said Wednesday. "It's one of the best provisions in the bill."

Bell's bill is expected to be the centerpiece of next month's legislative special session, scheduled for Feb. 2-4. Lawmakers hope to stop the rapid rise of medical malpractice insurance costs, which have driven many doctors out of high-risk specialties and left some hospital emergency rooms without enough doctors to stay open.

Bell's bill includes limits on non-economic damage awards to encourage doctors, hospitals and patients to settle disputes out of court. It would provide state aid to doctors who spend more than 15 percent of their annual income on insurance.

Charles To Visit Without Di

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — Prince Charles will visit Palm Beach County in March without Princess Diana to attend a benefit luncheon and play in a polo match, sponsors said.

The Prince of Wales accepted Jori and Geoffrey Kent's invitation to attend a luncheon March 6 benefitting Masai Mara, a group they founded to preserve animals of the Masai Mara Game Reserve in Kenya.

Prince Charles also will play a polo match at the Palm Beach Polo and Country Club that day at Wellington, a resort and real estate development west of West Palm Beach.

Prince Charles and Princess Diana last visited the county during a 21-hour trip Nov. 12-13, 1985. That was her only visit to south Florida, but the prince has made the trip three times to play polo.

Ex-Official Faces New Charges

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A Department of Revenue official arrested last year for arranging a fraudulent tax refund for an accomplice, was booked Wednesday on additional grand theft and official misconduct charges.

Roger L. Laney III, formerly a bureau chief with DOR, was arrested without incident on two counts each of grand theft and misconduct for arranging fraudulent corporate tax refunds. He was booked at the Leon County Jail on a total bond of $150,000, said John Joyce, spokesman for the Florida Department of Law Enforcement.

The arrest was the result of a continuing investigation by the FDLE, the state attorney's office in Tallahassee and the DOR, Joyce said. Laney was arrested last August because of a $32,520 refund to a Tallahassee businessman.

Chuck Suggs may like baseball, but he'd love an upcoming tennis tournament.

To help the 14-year-old Lake Mary youth with his heart/lung transplant costs, The Racquet Club at Heathrow will host a Celebrity/Media Tennis Tournament and auction on Jan. 18.

Such personalities as WFTV's Pat Clark and Glen Dehmer, WCPX's Rod Luck, and Tim Raines of the Montreal Expos will have it out on the tennis court. Other celebrities are planned, contingent on whether they will be in the area that day.

Among the 50-100 items expected to be donated for the auction are a Sea Escape trip for two, Disney World passes, a weekend at the World Marriott, a deep-sea fishing trip, golf lessons, furs and income tax service.

A $1,000 corporate sponsorship package consists of two players, two foursomes of golf at the Heathrow Country Club, dinner for four at the Heathrow Country Club, banner placement during the tournament, and six drink tickets for a post-tournament cocktail party.

A $500 corporate package consists of one player, a day of tennis at the Heathrow Racquet

Art Festival Raises Scholarship Money

The fruits of the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts in October came into view today as a $6,180.79 check was presented for scholarship use at two high schools.

Festival chairman Randall Morris presented the check to Gina Veninga, then-president of Lake Mary's Chamber of Commerce, with words of gratitude to those behind the success of the first annual event.

The festival's success was measured by its earnings, more than $12,000 after expenses. Half of the profit will stay in an endowment fund for the planned 1988 Festival of the Arts. The Chamber received the other $6,180.79 to divide for scholarship funds at Lake Mary and Seminole High Schools.

"I'm ecstatic," Veninga said. "Last year, we only gave about $1,000 to each school for scholarships." That money was raised from a number of small-scale fund-raisers.

While the Festival of the Arts was the Chamber's only fundraiser in 1987, Veninga said the Chamber plans to host the festival as well as other fund-raisers this year. The extra revenue will be used for a much-needed office for the chamber of a growing Lake Mary, she said.

"The way Lake Mary is growing, 1988 can't be anything but a big year," said Marian Caraway, installed as the new president-elect today.

"We had planned on 3,000 people, but we had over 6,200 from our best estimates," Veninga said of the arts show at Heathrow.

Ohio, West Virginia Alert Guard; Oil Slick Now 100 Miles Long

United Press International

The National Guard went on alert in Ohio and West Virginia and more water utilities closed to prevent contamination by a 100-mile-long oil slick today, but water trickled toward the taps of thousands of homes outside Pittsburgh for the first time in four days.

The smelly slick that has threatened the water supply of more than 1 million people since spilling Saturday near Pittsburgh crawled at 1 mph down the icy Ohio River, reaching Steubenville, Ohio, and Weirton, W.Va., on the opposite shore.

Ohio Gov. Richard Celeste declared emergencies in eight cities that draw water from the river, and West Virginia Gov. Arch Moore ordered water tankers placed on standby for deliveries to endangered communities.

The slick oozed today toward Wheeling, W.Va., where City Manager Mike Nau said officials planned to try to treat the oily water. If that fails, Nau said, the next step is to string pipes across a bridge to pump water into the city of 50,000 from Martins Ferry, Ohio, which draws water from wells.

Mecham Faces Grand Jury

PHOENIX (UPI) — Gov. Evan Mecham spent a full day before a state grand jury investigating allegations he improperly reported a $350,000 campaign loan, but eluded reporters when he left the courthouse.

Mecham did not even leave the Maricopa County courthouse for lunch during Wednesday's lengthy session, and avoided reporters when he left in the late afternoon.

The governor's spokesman, Ken Smith, said Mecham will appear again today, but the session will be brief so he can host his bimonthly radio call-in program.

Also seen entering the grand jury room Wednesday was the governor's brother, Willard, who was the treasurer of the 1986 gubernatorial campaign.

The beleaguered Republican governor said it was his brother who compiled the campaign contribution report that failed to list the loan from Tempe, Ariz., developer and attorney Barry Wolfson. The loan was lumped in with other contributions.

Treaty Forgery Claims Disputed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department, defending the Intermediate Nuclear Forces treaty with the Soviet Union, says conservative critics have no basis for claiming a Soviet photograph supplied for the pact may be a forgery.

The administration also rejects complaints that it made major concessions in the final hours of talks in Geneva, conducted against the time pressures of an already announced date for last month's treaty-signing summit in Washington.

The INF agreement was signed Dec. 8 by President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. If ratified by the Senate, it would eliminate all U.S. and Soviet land-based nuclear missiles with ranges of 300 to 3,400 miles. Most of the weapons and their 2,000 warheads are in Europe.

First Execution Of 1988

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (UPI) — An oil derrick worker with a 9th grade education became the first person executed in the United States this year when he was put to death early today for murdering a woman during a $1 robbery.

Robert Streetman, 27, was pronounced dead at 3:26 a.m. CST after receiving a lethal injection. Texas was preparing for another execution scheduled for early Friday.

Today's execution, scheduled for just after midnight, was delayed for several hours as the Supreme Court considered a last-minute appeal and when questions arose from the Texas attorney general's office.

Israelis Detain Nearly 2,000 During Month Of Unrest

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Nearly 2,000 Arabs have been arrested in the military's monthlong crackdown on unrest in the West Bank and Gaza Strip and the army is slowly restoring calm to the territories, Israel's defense minister told parliament.

An army spokesman said the arrest of 1,978 Palestinians in the territories represents the largest number of peacetime army detentions in one month in Israel's 39-year history.

Until Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin reported the new figure to the parliament Wednesday, the military had said about 1,200 Arabs were detained since violent unrest erupted Dec. 9.

Soviets See Afghan Pull-Out

MOSCOW (UPI) — Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze said Moscow hopes 1988 "will be the last year of Soviet troops in Afghanistan" and predicted the next round of U.N.-mediated talks on a peace settlement will be the last.

Shevardnadze made the comments Wednesday in the Afghan capital of Kabul at the conclusion of a three-day visit to the war-torn nation, the official Tass news agency reported.

"We would like that the just begun year of 1988 will be the last year of Soviet troops in Afghanistan," Shevardnadze told the Afghan Bakhtar news agency in an interview carried by Tass in Moscow.

"A favorable situation is developing on the whole at the Afghan-Pakistan talks, which gives the hope for the early completion of a political settlement of the foreign aspects of the Afghan problem," Tass said.

Carlucci Hints Gulf Force Drop

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci has hinted the U.S. naval presence in the Persian Gulf may be reduced, and administration sources said Washington will not replace at least four warships set to withdraw from the waterway.

Carlucci was to travel today to Saudi Arabia on the third stop of his first Middle East tour since succeeding Caspar Weinberger as defense chief in November.

While in Bahrain, the island nation that permits the Navy to maintain a supply base critical to Persian Gulf escort operation, Carlucci met with several senior officials, including the emir, Sheikh Isa bin Sulman al Khalifa.

Carlucci earlier raised the possibility of a redeployment of U.S. forces amid speculation the United States was considering reducing the scope of the U.S. operation in the waterway.

Police Calls Up By 25 Percent In 1987

By Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford Police Department received in excess of 65,000 calls in 1987, according to Police Chief Steven D. Harriett, who says that figure is about a 25 percent increase over the number of calls received in 1986.

Population increases, citizen requests for assistance, and drug related cases account for the increase in calls, he said. However, Harriett explained that about 80 percent of the calls the department receives are needs for assistance, rather than crime-related calls. As far as the crime cases the department handles, many of those are related to drugs in some form—whether someone has distributed drugs, or been involved in a crime stemming from direct use of drugs, he added.

The police chief also named some goals he has set for the department in this new year.

The number of calls the department receives increases year by year in proportion to the population increase of Sanford and Central Florida, Harriett said. He noted also, that the department serves not only Sanford residents, but also people who work in Sanford, tourists, and the truly transient community. Calls for assistance can be anything from a domestic disturbance called in by a neighbor, to a call concerning water pipes breaking in someone's yard, to a request to check on an elderly person. Other types of assistance include traffic accident investigations, funeral escorts, or assistance to someone, elderly or handicapped, who has fallen out of bed, he said.

Steve Harriett

"Police are the most accessible form of government, for people to turn to with problems," Harriett explained.

He noted that the 65,000 calls the department received this past year, included cases of people coming directly into the police station itself, to ask for assistance. For example, people will come in to ask directions through town, or to report utility problems, or maybe even to report an actual crime, such as an assault. In many such cases, administrative personnel can take care of the caller, he said.

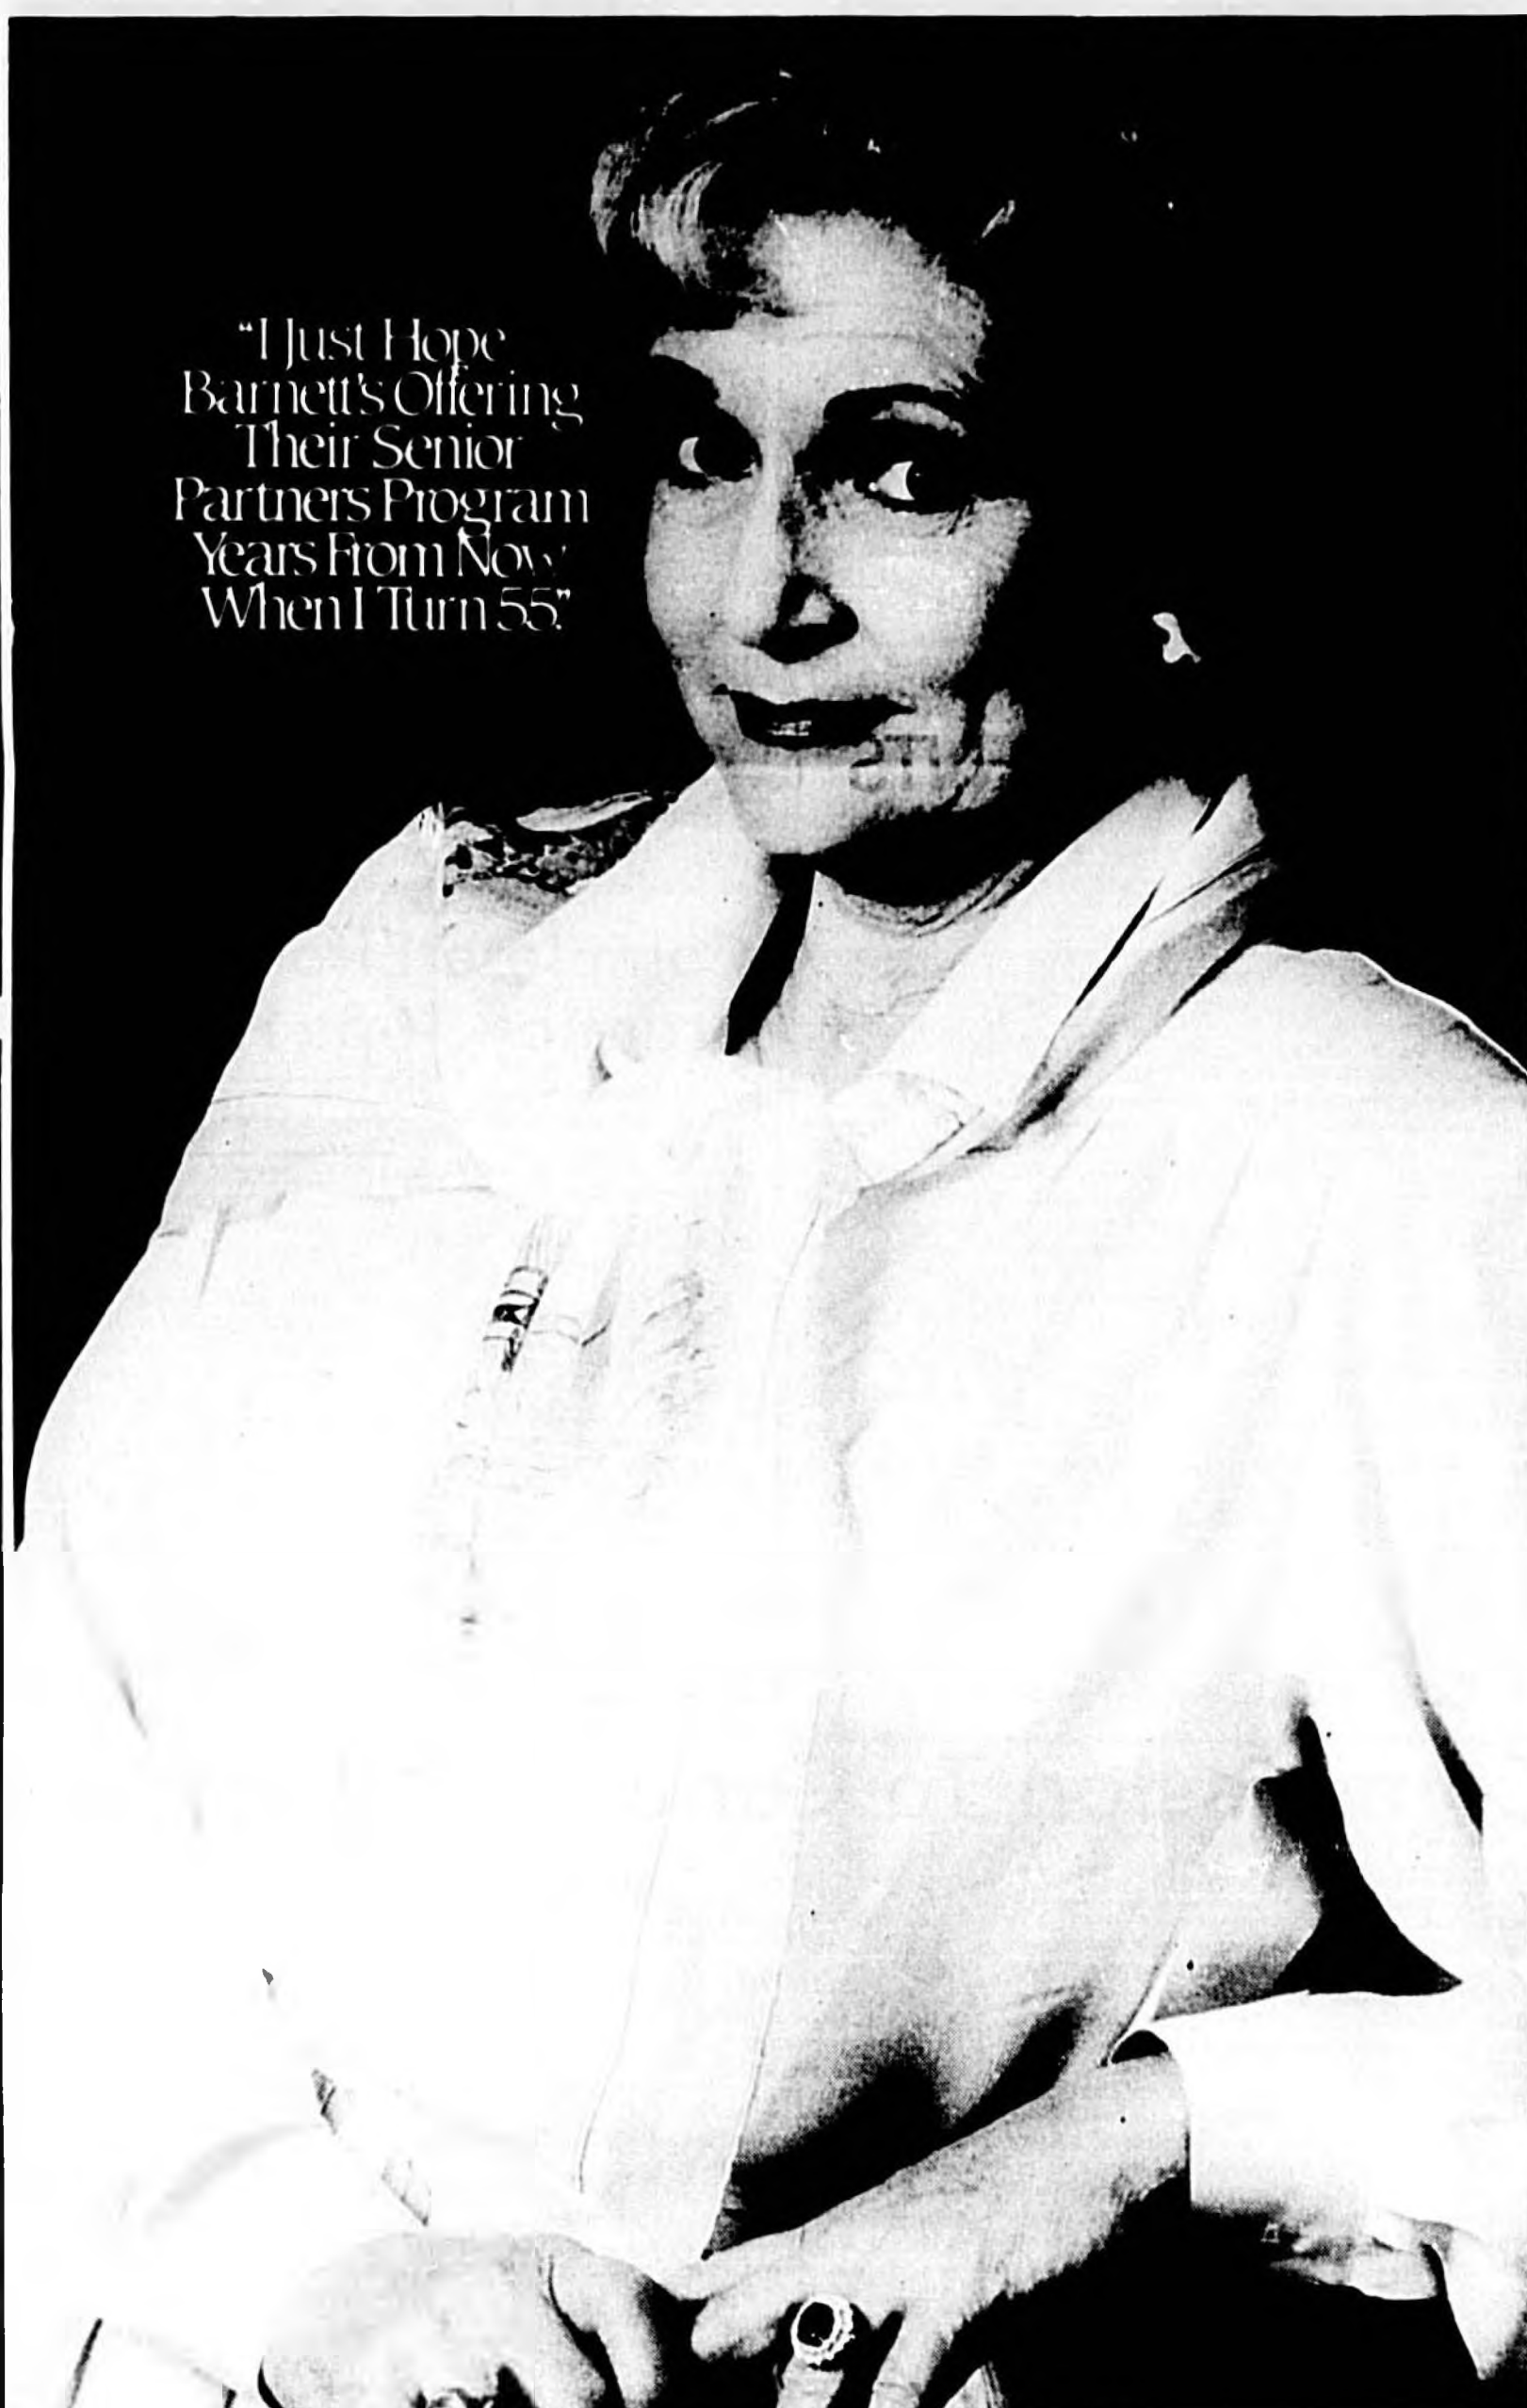

In the latter case, the person has to be willing to press charges, before the police can do anything, he emphasized. Some people will report an incident, but not be willing to press charges. In those cases, police can do nothing, unless they have actually seen the crime committed, he said.

Does the department have the staff to handle all those calls? Harriett said that one of the biggest accomplishments of the past year was to take care of those calls "in a timely manner." He explained that 72 officers are on the force, the majority being uniformed officers. The police building itself is also used to the maximum, he stated. The increasing number of calls "has required us to do some reorganizing, using different schedules and stretching the proverbial rubber band if you will," the chief continued.

He pointed out, however, that in the current city budget, allowance has been made for two additional officers to the force. (Also, recommendations for expansion of the police building are included in the city's newly approved updated version of the comprehensive plan.)

In spite of increasing demands for service, Harriett says the singular most important recent achievement of the department is that officers have also kept up with ongoing training, so necessary to the law enforcement field. He also said that he is pleased with the department's ongoing efforts in fighting the drug problem. Perhaps only about 20 percent of the calls received by police, relate to crime, but of that 20 percent, 75 percent of those calls relate to drug activity, Harriett said that police are engaged in intense efforts to educate citizens, area schools, civic clubs and churches about drugs and the problems that result from drug use. "We are trying to get the message across, of the resulting social ills that come from the drug trade whether it's pushing, selling, or using drugs," he explained.

SCC Controls Tempo, Tops Indian River, 71-64

By Mark Rytbe
Herald Sports Writer

Seminole Community College used a conscious effort to control the tempo of the game and down Indian River Community College, 71-64, Wednesday night before 351 fans at the SCC Health Center.

Seminole, 11-5, will return to action Saturday night at home against Palm Beach Community College. IRCC dropped to 10-8 and will return to action Saturday.

After dropping a 108-102 loss to The River early in the season Seminole coach Bill Payne made it clear that IRCC was a better running team. The Raiders efforts to stop the running game and play the game at their tempo proved to be the deciding factor.

"The reason the game was so sloppy is both teams were playing good defense," Payne said. "Neither team could get into an offensive flow because of the defensive efforts."

Turrell Barnes led the Raiders with a game-high 19 points, forward Barry Dunning netted 12 points as high scoring Malcolm Houston contributed 11 points which included a trio of three pointers. Robert Thomas chipped in nine points with a pair of three-pointers in clutch moments of the game.

"Thomas played really well for us tonight," Payne said. "He ran the offense well, broke the press and came up with a couple of key baskets for us."

Seminole's game plan was evident early as the IRCC squad became frustrated when its fast break opportunities were narrowed. Seminole walked the ball up and held an 8-4 lead with 12:07 left in the opening half.

After trading baskets Houston entered the game and made his presence known quickly. Houston drilled a three-pointer with 10:56 left made a steal and canned another long range jumper to give the Raiders a 16-8 edge with 10:20 remaining.

IRCC then outscored Seminole 6-2 to cut the lead to 18-12 with 9:18 to play. Thomas then penetrated and gave Barnes a nice feed inside for a bucket and an eight point lead at the 8:56 mark.

Seminole then went on a short run and managed to build a 14 point lead, 35-21, with 4:50 remaining. IRCC, though, scored the next nine points to work itself back into the game.

Stanley Brown started the run off with a bucket and a free throw, Paul Childs, who led IRCC with 16 points, then connected on an inside basket followed by a layup and a pair of free throws from David Williams. Brian Roddenberry added another point from the charity stripe cutting the lead to 35-31 with 1:03 left. Emerson added a free throw to complete the first half scoring with Seminole holding a 36-31 advantage.

"I just want to run the offense correctly," Thomas said. "We're all improving and that's the main thing right now."

Barnes connected on a short jumper with 7:32 left to up the lead to 58-50 and seemingly giving the Raiders control. Barnes hit another bucket and hit one free throw for a 59-50 edge with 6:05 to play.

"We're playing together now," Barnes said. "Now that the holidays are over we can concentrate on basketball and keep improving every day."

IRCC refused to quit as Roddenberry canned consecutive 3-pointers to cut the Seminole lead to 59-56 with 4:38 remaining.

Rob Ricciardelli connected on one of two free throws to up the lead to 60-56 with 3:58 to play.

After trading hoops Childs scored inside to cut the lead to 62-60 with 2:50 to play. Thomas canned his second three pointer to give the Raiders control for good.

Williams hit a bucket to reduce the lead to 67-62 with 2:2 to play as Childs scored another bucket inside to cut the score to 67-64 with just 1:28 remaining.

SCC's Vince Emerson slams home two points. Emerson contributed seven points in the Raiders' victory over Indian River Wednesday night.

DeLand Stuns Tribe, 56-55

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

Prior to the start of Wednesday night's game against DeLand, Seminole basketball coach Greg Robinson said that he was extremely concerned about the Bulldogs. "They really scare me," Robinson said. "Their record doesn't really indicate it, but they are a very good team."

As it turned out, Robinson's pregame nightmares came true as DeLand posted an exciting 56-55 come-from-behind Seminole Athletic Conference victory over Seminole before 411 fans at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

The Tribe has slipped to 7-5 overall and 1-1 in the SAC. DeLand upped its record to 6-5 and 1-0.

Robinson said that his team had more than its fair share of chances. "That's just the way it goes some times," Robinson said. "We had our opportunities, but it just slipped away."

With the score tied at 55 with 14 seconds left, Seminole's Reggie Bellamy went to the line for a one-and-one. Bellamy missed the front end, and DeLand called time out after the Bulldogs grabbed the rebound.

DeLand worked the ball inside to forward Denny Hinson. Hinson made a move to the bucket and was fouled. Hinson missed the first free throw, but sank the second one to give DeLand what would amount to be the winning point.

Seminole got the ball to halfcourt and called time out with eight seconds left. Guard Sammie "Spud" Edwards dribbled the ball around and tried to hit Andre "Smoothie" Whitney with a pass. But the ball was tipped by a Bulldog to preserve the win.

"We just didn't have it tonight," Whitney, who finished with a game-high 21 points,

Robinson said that his plan was to get the ball to Whitney for the final shot. "I'm not sure what happened," Robinson said. "This is sure a tough loss to swallow especially because this was a conference game."

DeLand coach John Zeoli said that was ecstatic with his team's performance. "We were down most of the game, but we just didn't quit," Zeoli said. "I have to give our kids credit. They earned this win, and they worked hard for it."

One bright spot for the Tribe was the play of center Craig Walker. Before Wednesday night's game, Walker hadn't had the kind of scoring night that he was capable of. But against the Dogs, Walker played his best game of the season.

The 6-foot-9 senior scored a season-high 20 points while collecting 10 rebounds. He opened the second half with four slam dunks in succession. "I had a pretty good game tonight," Walker said. "I got in early foul trouble and that hurt. I played well, but that really doesn't matter because we lost."

"Walker dominated the inside," Zeoli said. "He is a good ball player, there's no doubt about it."

Robinson said that Walker is

Complete Effort: Brantley Tops Howell

The key to being the state's best is getting a complete effort every game. And there are currently no teams in the state playing better soccer than Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots.

Lake Brantley, ranked No. 1 in the state, turned in another solid all-around effort Wednesday night in a 2-0 Seminole Athletic Conference victory at Lake Howell High.

The Lady Patriots improved to 12-0-1 overall and 6-0 in the SAC. Brantley hosts DeLand in SAC action Friday, then goes to Orange Park Saturday.

"Lake Howell played a lot of people on defense but we found a way to score," Lake Brantley coach Wolfgang

Halbig said. "And we played outstanding defense to hold them to only one shot."

Lake Howell dropped to 7-4 overall and 4-2 in the SAC. The Lady Silver Hawks host Orlando Bishop Moore Friday.

"It was just about a duplicate of the first time we played," Lake Howell coach Art Raynor said. "The girls have played very well against Brantley both times."

Lake Brantley took a 1-0 lead with 25:20 left in the first half when Jennifer McMaster scored on an assist from Cara Marien. It was McMaster's 14th goal of the season and Marien's 11th assist.

Miller, Radzak Spark Greyhounds

LONGWOOD — In almost every one of its six losses this season, Lyman High has held the lead in the fourth quarter only to lose it in the end. Wednesday night's game took on a familiar tone when, with 5:40 remaining, Lake Mary's Alonzo Robinson stuck in a jumper to give the Rams a 42-41 lead after Lyman had led the entire game.

This time, however, the Greyhounds came through in the clutch. J.J. Miller and Craig Radzak sparked a 16-5 run in the last five minutes as Lyman downed the Rams, 57-49, in Seminole Athletic Conference action before 121 fans at Lyman High School.

"We finally found a way to win a close one," relieved Lyman coach Tom Lawrence said. "This is the first time we've executed the entire game. And Lake Mary has a heck of a team so we were happy to get them."

Lyman now stands at 3-6 overall and 1-1 in the SAC while Lake Mary fell to 5-4 and 1-2. Lyman has another big league game Friday night at home against Seminole while Lake Mary tries to cool off red hot Ovidado Lake Mary.

"We dug our own grave to-night," Lake Mary coach Willie Richardson said. "We have to get smart and take care of the ball. We had too many ballhandling errors. We dug our own grave, but we will climb out of it."

Miller then made one of the Radzak, a 6-3 senior forward, scored a game-high 24 points and added seven rebounds while Miller, a 6-1 junior, scored 10 points and grabbed six rebounds. Lamb contributed nine points and Darryl Starks added nine points and five rebounds.

For Lake Mary, Alonzo Robinson had an outstanding night with 18 points and 16 rebounds. Miller tossed in 15 points. Prom added nine and Bernard Mitchell grabbed 11 rebounds.

Radzak scored 17 of his 24 points in the first half as Lyman built a 31-25 lead. Miller opened the second half with a three-pointer. Robinson added four points and Mitchell seven rebounds in the third quarter as Lake Mary hung within three, 39-36, going into the final eight minutes.

LAKE MARY JV WINS — In junior varsity action on Tuesday night at Lyman, coach Mike Gaudreau's JV Rams defeated Lyman, 62-47. Chris Davison led Lake Mary with 18 points and Jamon Perry added 14.

Commission To Conduct Alligator Harvest Hearing

Wildlife biologists have firmed up a proposed set of rules for a statewide wild alligator quota hunt to take place in September of 1988. The Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission will consider the rules for adoption during its meeting on Jan. 15 at the Farris Bryant Building in Tallahassee.

The proposal, which is subject to modification, would establish a license and fee structure and other regulations for the harvest of alligators four feet long or longer. The current draft of the proposal would set a $250 license fee and a fee of $30 for each alligator taken by a licensed hunter. Also, hunters could hire up to five assistants who would have to purchase $50 "trapping agents" licenses.

The number of alligators to be taken during the harvest would depend on Commission surveys of local alligator populations. The Commission would conduct a random drawing of qualified applicants to select the individuals who would be issued a license. Each license holder would be authorized to take a maximum of 15 alligators within a designated area only during the Sept. 1-30 season.

Wildlife biologist, Dennis David, who heads up the alligator management program, stated that "This would not be an open season on alligators. This would be a well-regulated and highly limited quota hunt."

David went on to say that past experimental quota harvests have demonstrated that Florida's alligator population is a renewable resource in that limited harvest does not cause a reduction in the number of alligators that live in an area over a period of time. When alligators are not harvested by humans, a predictable number of the reptiles will die of natural causes and starvation.

"We can maintain the alligator population at a level near whatever the habitat will support in each area," David said. "If we harvest only the number of reptiles that would be expected to die of other causes, the population would remain stable."

Applications for alligator harvest permits would be available from the Commission by May 1 and must be submitted between May 15 and June 1. Persons selected to take part in the harvest would be required to complete a training course sponsored by the Commission or be accompanied by someone who has completed the course.

DEER AND TURKEY SEASON ENDS JAN. 10

Florida hunters are reminded that January 10 is the last day of turkey hunting statewide, and it's also the last day of deer hunting statewide except in the Northwest Region. Hunters may continue to take deer from Jefferson to Escambia counties through January 24.

Turkey hunters may take bearded turkeys or gobblers statewide during the special spring turkey season, March 19 through April 24.

In addition, deer are legal game for the special archery and muzzle-loading gun season in the Northwest Region, Feb. 6-21.

SHUPE'S SCOOP

Hunters would be wise to pick up their rods and reels as soon as hunting season ends. Some of the best fresh water fishing of the year takes place during the months of January and February.

FISHING FORECAST

Ron Rawlins at Highland Park Fish Camp reports that specks are hot in Lake Woodruff.

Anglers are catching their limits fishing in the lily pad fields with Missouri minnows. Many bass from 8-10 pounds are being caught on wild shiners fished near floating cover in 3-5 feet of water in both Lake Woodruff and in the River.

Dall Abernethy at Osteen Bridge said that fishing is excellent for both specks and bass. Call Dell at 322-3825 and he will tell you the best spots for this weekend, as the specks seem to be scattered. Bass fishing is great with the falling water levels. Fish the run-offs for mixed bags of largemouth bass, sunshine bass, and some stripers. When the bass and other gamelish are schooling on small ditch minnows, make sure to "match the hatch" and use ultra-light spinning tackle and tiny Rapalas for some fun fishing.

Sebastian Inlet is providing steady action with spotted seatrout, big flounder, and swarms of bluefish. Catching the trout is difficult because the blues will usually jump on any lure before a trout has a chance. Huge winter flounder over 10 pounds are being caught on finger mullet bounced slowly across the bottom.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that offshore fishing has been good for sailfish and blackfin tuna. Some of these fish have been caught as close in as Pelican Flats. Good catches of grouper and snapper have been made on the inshore reefs such as Pelican Flats and on the inshore wrecks such as the lead wreck. Inside the Port, action is hot with sheephead, jack crevalle, bluefish, and a few weakfish. Trout are slow in both the Banana and Indian Rivers. It has not been cold enough to concentrate the fish in the deep holes, and they are scattered and hard to locate.

Sheephead and bluefish are stealing the show at the New Smyrna Jetties. These two species will bite when everything else has lockjaw. A few flounder and drum are also being caught, and anglers are reminded that the redfish fishery is closed until further notice from the Marine Fisheries Commission.

'Pistol Pete' Dead At 40
Maravich Collapsed During Pickup Game

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Pete Maravich, the greatest scorer in college basketball history, collapsed during a pickup game and died from an apparent heart attack Tuesday shortly after declaring, "I'm really feeling good."

ankles, became one of the most flamboyant players ever to pick up a basketball. With his shaggy hair flying, Maravich would take long, loping strides downcourt. Barely past halfcourt he might just as soon hoist a shot from 30 feet or hit an unsuspecting teammate with a behind-the-back pass.

The hospital said the exact cause of death would be determined by the office of the Los Angeles County Coroner. A dispatcher for the Pasadena Fire Department, which went paramedics to the church after Maravich collapsed, said he suffered an apparent heart attack.

Maravich scored 3,667 points during college, an average of 44.2 points a game. Even though college players at that time were eligible for varsity play for only three years, no four-year player has since matched Maravich's total. His field goal and free throw totals of 1,387 and 893 remain major college records.

Maravich's inability to play for a consistent and winning team continued in the NBA. He was selected third in the 1970 draft by Atlanta and made the All-Rookie team.

Stocks Open Sharply Down

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened sharply lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 6.30 Wednesday, was down 26.69 to 2011.11 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 693-263 among the 1,344 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 17,840,000 shares. The market's new year rally slowed Wednesday in moderate trading as prices managed only modest gains on the strength of a late afternoon rally.

"It was a very indecisive, directionless day," said Al Goldman, market strategist at A.G. Edwards & Sons in St. Louis. "Neither the bulls nor the bears can claim victory. The bulls might argue it's not too bad.

Dollar Dips Ending Rally; Gold, Silver Mostly Mixed

By United Press International

Profit taking and what currency traders described as continued market uncertainty ended the dollar's new year rally today and sent the currency lower on most major world currency markets. Gold was mixed.

Japan Expected To Ease Markets

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita will offer to open Japan's government construction market, liberalize restrictions on certain farm products and increase financial support for U.S. bases when he visits Washington next week, a political source said Thursday.

Takeshita, in his first trip to the United States as prime minister, is scheduled to arrive in Washington Tuesday for talks with President Reagan and congressional leaders.

The new Japanese leader, elected Nov. 6, is intent on making a good first impression and hopes the concessions he brings will blunt U.S.-Japanese trade friction as a major issue in the 1988 U.S. presidential campaign.

treatment was met with skepticism by Mayor Owen Sheppard of Casselberry. Sheppard said "This is a forum where we can just talk about those problems, but we can't solve them. We are just representatives of our various governments and even if we reach agreement here it won't solve the problem because we are only one member of our government."

Other members agreed that problems between governments probably can't be solved by the group, but are still worth discussing and exchanging ideas and views.

Commissioner Glenn was who suggested that a tourist tax might be a topic of discussion. She said the county hasn't considered such tax for about three years and maybe should again.

The Sanford Chamber of Commerce Tourism Committee decided this week to also explore the possibility of levying such a tax countywide, or just in Sanford.

Glenn also suggested the topic of obscenity ordinances. She said the county will soon consider a model ordinance and said it would be desirable for all cities in the county, and the county government, to have uniform ordinances.

Constantine also urged all representatives to submit nominations to the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council for outstanding planning and development in their communities. He and Glenn, who are members of the regional council, said the planning agency recognizes outstanding projects every two years. This year the awards will be presented at a banquet in April.

Also on the program Wednesday night was a presentation on Sanford's WINS program, the Goldsboro neighborhood redevelopment plan. The council decided the host government of each meeting will present a short program on any topic it wishes.

The council also decided to invite state legislators to its March meeting, which will be held at the school district administration building. The February meeting date was changed from its scheduled date Feb. 3 to Feb. 10 because of a conflict with the Florida League of Cities legislative conference in Tallahassee on Feb. 4. The Feb. 10 meeting will be at the county services building in Sanford.

Members of the council are Smith, Constantine, Sheppard, Dees, Kirchhoff, Jacobs, Hardy, Nancy Warren, representing the school board, and Lake Mary Commissioner Thomas K. Mahoney, who was absent from Wednesday night's meeting.

Farr suggested that an open house at the airport be held in November in conjunction with Aviation Month. He explained that during that event, area residents could go out to the airport and see what all is there, and that perhaps the businesses located on airport property could also open their doors to the public.

Lazenby said later that an open house would give area residents an opportunity to see the airport. He explained that tenants at the airport would open their doors on a volunteer basis that day. "They're an integral part of the airport. People don't realize how much industry is out here."

Finally, the committee discussed the possibility of a new brochure about the airport, as one of the committee's projects this year. Farr said the old ones are gone and that the advertisements need updated anyway. He also suggested updating the map that had been on the brochure. Lazenby suggested the possibility of the committee printing up double sized business cards, which would be folded over, which would contain a layout of the airport, and list area air frequencies

Divisions within the department consider challenges to state regulations, the oversee retirement and health insurance programs for state workers, and handle hiring and other personnel matters. The department also oversees the Florida Commission on Human Relations, which considers allegation of job discrimination, and the Division of Veterans Affairs.

Other functions have been transferred to the governor's office or other state agencies in recent years, and proposals to abolish the agency have been floated before.

Vogt said its remaining functions could also be doled out to cut down on administrative costs. For example, the state health insurance program would be moved to the Department of Insurance, and agencies would handle their own personnel matters.

Veterans Affairs would become a full-fledged department under Vogt's proposal, something Martinez called for during the 1986 campaign and endorsed Wednesday. Martinez' only demand was that he not be forced to share control over the department with the state Cabinet. Vogt said the demand was acceptable to him.

Since the state constitution limits the number of state agencies, an existing department would have to be dismantled to make room for a Department of Veterans Affairs, Vogt said.

Capital Health was the high bidder for the contract to serve state employees in the Tallahassee area last year. Vila rejected its bid even though hundreds of state employees protested they would be forced to quit doctors they have trusted for years.

Tallahassee lawmakers tried to pass legislation during one of last year's special sessions to postpone the awarding of HMO contracts until June 30. The measure had the support of Vogt, House Speaker Jon Mills and Rep. Mike Abrams, D-North Miami Beach, chairman of the House committee on Health Care.

But House Republicans rallied around Vila, a Republican appointee, and denied sponsors the two-thirds majority needed to take up a bill outside the call of a special session.

DOUBLE DECREASE IN EIGHTY-EIGHT

Starting in 1988, Florida Power customers will be seeing double — a double decrease in their electric bill rates.

Why? Lower inflation, lower interest rates and changes in the tax laws have lowered our costs of doing business. The savings are being passed on to our customers with lower rates for the second time in two years.

The new decrease will be about twice as much as the 1987 decrease. That means twice the savings for our customers. It means that Florida Power continues to offer rates that are among the lowest in the state. And that means a lot to us... and our customers.

Hazel, Woodrow Cash Mark Golden Wedding Anniversary

Hazel and Woodrow Cash of Sanford, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Jan. 19, at a gala reception given in their honor at Holy Cross Episcopal Church parish house, Sanford. The event was hosted by their daughter Nancy Cash, a music teacher in the Washington D.C. area, their son Jack, an employee at the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, and his wife Jane.

Preceding the reception, their son, also an ordained Deacon, performed the ceremony when his parents renewed their wedding vows.

Hazel Hampton of Galax, Va., and Woodrow Cash, Bluefield, W. Va. were married Jan. 19, 1938 and moved to Sanford in 1948.

Cash worked in dry cleaning in Sanford until 1978 when he went to work at the Navy Base in Orlando where he remained until his retirement.

Mrs. Cash was employed by Sanford Atlantic Bank for a number of years before her employment with Seminole County Sheriff's Department where she remained until her retirement four years ago.

Cash has been a member of Sanford Masonic Lodge many years where he still serves as secretary. He is also a member of the York Rite Bodies where he is Past Grand High Priest, a charter member of Bahá Temple of Orlando Shrine, and a member of the Scottish Rite Bodies. In 1985, he was honored by the Scottish Rite by being coronated a 33 degree Mason.

Mrs. Cash is a member of the Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. where she serves as first vice president. She is also a member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the Garden Club of Sanford Inc. The Cashes have been members of the First United Methodist Church, Sanford, for 40 years.

The couple's two grand children are: Joshua Cash, 4, and Jennifer Cash, 3.

Approximately 100 guests were invited to the reception and renewal of vows ceremony. A strolling violinist entertained the guests who were served a buffet, cake and champagne punch. Silver candelabra containing lighted candles, gold-tipped flowers and an arrangement of red roses graced the serving tables.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Cash's sisters and families, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Shaw and their daughter Dana, Winter Park, and Dr. and Mrs. H.L. Stephenson, Washington, D.C. Also attending was J.W. Cash of Sanford, brother of the honoree.

A video tape of the 50th wedding anniversary celebration was made by Jack Cash for his parents as a living tribute to a memorable evening.

What is the secret ingredient for a happy, enduring marriage of 50 years?

Mrs. Cash sums it up with one word, "Patience."

Home Economists Wear Many Hats

NEW YORK (UPI)— Home economists, those folks who do much more than teach how to make fudge or thread a needle, are rushing to join in the first ever sign-up for certification, sponsored by the American Home Economics Association.

Of some 25,000 members offered a chance to become charter members in the program, 14,500 had signed up by year's end, Carol Tyler Townsend, director of the new AHEA certification program, said in an interview.

To the consumer, the impact will be assurance of a high level of professionalism when dealing with a home economist who has been duly certified.

So what does that mean? The answer — from the AHEA announcement about the program:

"By becoming a certified home economist, C.H.E., a practitioner establishes that they have attained a measurable level of professional competence and are committed to continuing development within their field of expertise."

"To remain certified a C.H.E. must complete 75 approved Professional Development Units, PDUs, in a three-year period."

Townsend said certification of practicing home economists is the first prong of the new program.

The second kicks in during the 1988 college graduation season. Some 22,000 who majored in home economics will be invited to sit for the first ever certification exam for new grads.

According to Townsend, candidates will be given a chance to display their knowledge about many facets of home economics, as taught and practiced today. It's more than cooking and sewing. "People mistakenly think home economists just teach how to make fudge or sew clothes," Townsend said.

"There just is not a clear perception of what home economists do or of what home economists do."

"People still do work in the traditional fields such as cooking and sewing, family management and family relations and problem solving."

"But a person who majors in home economics also may add concentrations in clothing and textiles, foods and nutrition, consumer and financial management, family and child development, interior design — including design of interiors for the handicapped."

As Townsend and the AHEA tell it, home economics today is a field that touches every home, and a lot of banks, hospitals, hotels, supermarkets, clothing and furniture manufacturing companies.

She said that is because home economists are at work in the design and marketing of many products for the home, from frozen foods to carpets and appliances.

They also are involved in the other industries, from banking to furniture making and fabric production.

"Home economists teach in high schools and college," Townsend said, "but they also are found in food plants working on processing and packaging, in design studios working on textiles and lighting, in grocery stores researching information for consumers."

The Groveport-Madison Freshman School, Groveport, Ohio, teacher was honored along with Sharon Fox, home economist from Albuquerque, N.M.

Fox was given the Teacher of the Year title for helping teenage parents to arm themselves for a job.

Water's Miracle Claims Make Hucksters Rich

DEAR DR. GOTT — Recently, a friend started selling catalytic water, called "Willard Water." You dilute two tablespoons of this in a gallon of distilled water. It's supposed to clear up skin rashes and bladder infections, and give you tons more energy. Have you ever heard of it?

DEAR READER — Fortunately, I haven't. This smacks of hucksterism and quackery. The urge to attribute healing qualities to drinking water has provided an age-old market, in which slick entrepreneurs have capitalized on the public's naive perception that we can improve our health by drinking special water. This has formed the basis for the considerable business successes of companies selling mineral water, both domestic and foreign.

Of course, people often buy mineral/bottled water for reasons of taste or to avoid tap-water chemicals. In a test comparing unmarked samples of drinking water, the participants concluded that New York City municipal water — right out of the tap — was superior to bottled brands. In fact, most municipal water in this country is just as pure and healthful as the more expensive, commercially available, packaged drinking water.

Residential wells are another story. Wells can be contaminated by bacteria and dangerous substances; this well water can be unhealthy because there is no quality control. I advise people with wells to have their water periodically checked by reputable laboratories for bacterial contamination and the presence of hydrocarbons and excess minerals.

No special drinking water — such as catalytic water, mineral water, water from spas or water supercharged with hydrogen peroxide — is likely to be more beneficial than ordinary tap water.

An anecdote. In the center of my town, there is a small fountain from which tourists and weekenders regularly and assiduously fill jugs. These people believe that this water is the best tasting and most healthful for miles around. It comes from a spring on the mountain, drains into a catchment basin and is then delivered through a long pipe to the fountain in town. A couple of years ago, a friend of mine — curious to identify the reason for the success of this water — traced the pipe up the hill and examined the spring. In the basin, he found a dead chipmunk and two dead mice. The water is still tasty; no particular effort has been mounted to sanitize it. Each to his own, said the farmer as he kissed the cow.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report on ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE discusses symptoms, management and new studies of this tragic and irreversible disease. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
The late Adam Meredith, a member of Great Britain's winning World Championship team in 1955, was eccentric in his bidding but brilliant in his declarer play. Note today's deal, played by Meredith in four spades. (Three no-trump was easy, but Meredith expected four-card support when North jumped to three spades.)
Declarer allowed the king of diamonds to win trick one. On the diamond continuation, East discarded a heart and Meredith won the ace. If East ruffed the second diamond, he would not be helping the defense, since he would eventually be squeezed between hearts and clubs.) Declarer next played three rounds of spades ending in his hand and led a heart toward dummy. When West followed, Meredith won dummy's ace, cashed the ace and king of clubs, and played another club. West could not gain by ruffing this trick and discarded. Meredith won dummy's club queen and played dummy's last club to East's jack, meanwhile discarding the last diamond from his hand. East had nothing left to lead but hearts, and when he led one, West once again had nothing better to do than to discard. Declarer won dummy's king and played dummy's last diamond, ruffing. Trick 13 was Meredith's losing heart, on which East's high heart and West's master trumpcrashed.

Search For Pal Leads To FriendFind Company

By Jane Sutton
UPI Feature Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — An entrepreneur's search for the long-lost pal who was best man at his wedding has blossomed into a computerized firm that reunites old war buddies, former schoolmates and childhood sweethearts for $149.95.

The FriendFind company was created by Philadelphia native Michael Gold, 49, a Vietnam Marine Veteran, restaurant and footwear entrepreneur and former stockbroker.

Gold set out to find Stanley Zimmerman, the best friend and best man he had lost track of since his wedding 14 years earlier. For 14 months he wrote letters, made phone calls and queried a quoniam.

"I kept reaching dead ends. Finally somebody told me he had attended the University of Louisville. I contacted the school and they agreed to forward a letter to his last address. They wouldn't give me his address. It got forwarded one or two more times and finally he got it."

"I got a phone call and he said, 'It's Stanley.' We were immediately best friends again."

"Fighting me, you can be lost of people eager to be a friendly voice from the past," Gold set out to write a how-to-use book called "Help Me Find My Friends."

While I was interviewing people around the country, people would say, "Why don't you just help us find friends instead of writing about it?"

He took his unfinished manuscript to some computer programmers last January, and they used it as a guide in developing an efficient step-by-step search process.

The book manuscript turned into the FriendFind kit, which sells for $149.95 in stationary stores, and by mail and phone order. The kit contains an instruction booklet with a two-page application and a promise to search for the missing friend.

The applicant lists his vital statistics and those of the absent friend — date of birth, home, town, schools attended, club memberships, and jobs and military history and anything else that might provide clues to the last one's whereabouts.

The data is entered into the computer at the company's Fort Lauderdale office.

The computer tells us where to begin our search, where to look to be most likely to find your "lost" friend.

Using the computer to keep things organized, the FriendFind staff ferrets through phone books, alumni pages and business directories. They may advertise in the personals column of our through public records if the need arises.

It's like a true-to-life detective game, said Gold.

The company began its initial operation in 1983 and has since that time had more than 100,000 kits sold in two months to date.

Gold has recently been promoting the service as a guest on radio and TV talk shows around the country. He arranges reunions in the viewing or listening area and reads a list of people sought in that area.

On an Indianapolis TV morning show, he staged a reunion between two 60-year-old women who hadn't seen each other since 7th grade. For a guest spot on a radio show in Providence, R.I., he tracked down a long-lost high school buddy for the host.

His company reunited a former Marine from California with the drill instructor who trained him at Parris Island prior to the Korean War. The instructor turned up in Bowling Green.

Margaret Jacobson of Riverside, Mich., was reunited in December with Ruth Deady, a high school friend she hadn't seen in 24 years. Formerly Deady was living in Farmington Hills, Mich., just 15 miles away. Their reunion took place during a television talk show in Detroit.

"It was great," said Deady. "We were back to good friends in high school. We used to hang out and have parties together and just whenever I had thought about her, I thought the company would find her. I was doing just what I had to do. I was happy."

The two women will meet to catch up on their lives again.

"We were waiting 24 years to find her. It's only a matter of time and now we're getting it."

new clients a day, so it's not up to date. We expect to be able to find in excess of 20 percent."

There is no time limit to the search and a guarantee that the missing friend will be sought or that once found, he or she will want to rejoin the acquaintance.

To protect privacy, the missing friend is notified that he or she is looking for them and given the option of contacting FriendFind and they should return the contact.

That requires that the company be held accountable for reuniting missing clients, many such a statement that they are seeking the person qualified to rejoin the missing.

"We don't work for the public, we work for the people who are looking for their friends. We're going to produce."

That challenge, says Gold, is what the company is all about.

When a client contacts the company, they are given a list of missing friends. If a friend is found, the company will contact the missing friend and let them know they are being sought.

The company is looking for more clients and is currently accepting applications for new clients. The company is currently accepting applications for new clients.
