

Sadye's Specialty Shop To Observe 20th Anniversary

Sadye's Specialty Shop will celebrate its 20th anniversary with its usual yearly sale in a manner befitting its 20 years of growth, beginning Apr. 11 and ending Apr. 20.

The big feature of the sale, declared Mrs. Sadye Moses, proprietor, is that it will provide the most extraordinary values ever offered locally.

Mrs. Moses said she began her business Apr. 11, 20 years ago when celery was bringing $3 a crate in the field, and business "was really something to talk about."

Sadye's Specialty Shop was first started in the building now occupied by Hill Hardware Co. before the building where it is now situated was constructed.

Mrs. Moses stated, as she recalled the early days of the establishment of her business here.

Mrs. Moses, who said she felt like a pioneer, said she had a business people, pointed out that during the 20 years of its existence here, her establishment had operated continuously in an effort to be of the best service to local residents.

Asserting that Sanford had shown a magnificent growth and progress in the past two decades, Mrs. Moses predicted Sanford will eventually be on a par with Orlando as a shopping center.

Kate Smith Gets Highest Pay Of Women In Radio

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK, Apr. 10. (AP)—The highest paid woman in radio—Miss Kate Smith—has a 15-minute chat at noon five days every week.

It is believed her current three-year contract calls for more than $3,000,000.

This is the contract with the famous "waah" clause. It is so drawn up that it can not be broken unless the U. S. becomes engaged in a war for a period in excess of five years.

If you go up to 1820 Broadway and ride the elevator to the top you will find a door with the word "Kated" in black, square letters on the door. Miss Smith's manager and representative is Ted Collins. Kate and Ted have incorporated. They own shows together, they make investments together. It is said there is no contract between them.

Their own part of an island in Lake Placid on which are five buildings, two boat houses and a number of speed boats. There Kate Smith spends her summers, swimming and aquaplaning.

On May 1, Kate Smith will be 31 years old. It was just nine years ago on her birthday, that she began her broadcasting career. Previous to this she was merely a lonesome girl, not very happy, singing in a Broadway show and working with comedians whose jokes annoyed and distressed her. Collins heard her sing and came around to see her. He wanted to interest her in along Norway's fjord-marked coastline, was confused by conflicting British and German claims.

Sea Battle Causes Heavy German And Allied Sea Losses

Germany said they scored hits on four battleships, two battle cruisers, two heavy cruisers, and two transports.

Britain reported five German cruisers had been hit, and at least one of them sunk. Prime Minister Chamberlain reported to the House of Commons that a bitter dawn battle of Narvik resulted in two British destroyer losses and that two others were damaged. He said at least one German destroyer was sunk and three others hit and left in flames.

His French colleague, Premier Reynaud, said there was "great battle" raging in the North Sea but gave no details. He accused Germany of occupying Norwegian ports with military units who had been smuggled aboard merchantships.

Fighting, touched off by German's invasion of Norway yesterday, was the bitterest general naval conflict of the war thus far as waves of warplanes supported belligerent fleets.

Germany said her land occupation of Norway was proceeding on schedule with control already established in most important centers.

Travelers reaching Sweden said a battle was in progress between Norwegian troops and German land forces supported by planes at Elverum, 75 miles northeast of Oslo. The Norwegian Royal family and government were said to have taken refuge yesterday at Elverum, near the Swedish frontier, but shattered communications hid their whereabouts today.

Britain's foreign secretary, Lord Halifax, announced that German negotiations with Germany would be regarded as "action taken under duress" and would not deter Britain from fighting to drive the Germans from Norway.

His statement responded to reports from Berlin that an agreement "mutually satisfactory" to Germany and Norway probably would be reached soon as a result of negotiations.

Iceland's parliament took over control of its own foreign affairs as the Swedish frontiers of Denmark with which Iceland is united under the Danish crown. Parliament said the invasion had made King Christian X unable to exercise his powers.

Less than 24 hours after unleashing her swiftly striking forces, Germany last night announced the capture of all important Norwegian military bases, the complete occupation of Denmark without a struggle, and aerial successes in attacks on the combined French-British fleet off Norway's western coast.

Shortly before midnight, the German high command in Berlin said resistance in Norway was broken and that the capital, Oslo, was in German hands. With that phase of the invasion completed, the Germans said they were ready to repulse any Allied attacks.

The high command then announced the Nazi air force had dealt out "heavy losses" to British and French fleet units west of Bergen, which is in German hands. Two battleships and two heavy cruisers were reported hit several times.

In London, the Admiralty denied the German claim that two battleships had been damaged by bombs but said two cruisers received "very slight" damage from bomb splinters.

At the same time, the British war office reported all leaves of the British expeditionary force in Finland had been stopped "until further orders."

The German communiqué relating to action against an Allied fleet confirmed other dispatches that strong Allied naval units were engaging German forces in fog-shrouded and storm-tossed sea.

First intimation that Britain and France, stung by Germany's sudden invasion of two traditional neutrals, had reacted promptly to the challenge was given by Prime Minister Chamberlain when he told an uneasy House of Commons that "powerful units of the navy are at sea."

He refused to tip further the Allied hand in helping Norway.

As Germany consolidated her gains in Denmark and Norway, he issued proclamations to the citizens of the two countries to cooperate with the Nazis, speculation arose whether Sweden was next on the Nazi list.

However, a Swedish broadcaster heard in London said the Swedish government had informed Germany, in reply to a query, that it intended to preserve strict neutrality.

Denmark and Norway on the same day those neutral countries were invaded.

A high command communiqué said the air raid on the Allied warships occurred off Bergen in the northernmost area of the North sea. It gave this report: "On the basis of radio reports so far, the following first partial results have been established: Two battleships were each hit directly by bombs of heavy caliber; two heavy cruisers likewise struck by direct hits; one ship, listing heavily, lies motionless and another is burning.

"Great oil patches cover the sea."

(British official reports said no battleships had been hit but that two cruisers received "very slight" damage.)

The German bombers took off from Danish and Norwegian airfields during the afternoon following up scouting reports from the North sea.

(A Berlin radio report received by the National Broadcasting company in New York said a German airplane base had been established at Jutland, at Denmark's northern tip.)

The high command also announced that only at Oslo and Kristiansund was "stronger resistance" met and that both places had been captured.

Other important bases in German hands are Narvik, an outlet for Swedish ore bound for Germany, as well as the airports of Bergen, Trondheim and Stavanger.

In the 38-years reign of Henry VIII of England, 72,000 criminals were executed.

BERLIN, Apr. 10. (AP)—The German neutrality pact, which was newly won Scandinavian airport, last night was reported by the high command to have struck a heavy blow at combined British and French operations on the stormy North sea while the Nazi army reported the occupation of all important military bases in the North.

Americans In Scandinavia Reported Safe

U.S. Minister To Norway Flees With Government To Some Point In Interior

Oslo Residents Flee To Sweden

Long Column Of Cars, Buses And Trucks Remove Civilians

WASHINGTON, Apr. 11.—(AP)—The American legation at Oslo, Norway, has broken through the wall of silence separating it from the state department for nearly two days and announced that all Americans there are well so far as is known.

Mr. J. Borden Harriman, United States minister to Norway, is with the Norwegian government at an unnamed point in the interior.

Panic-stricken residents of Oslo, the Norwegian capital occupied by Tuesday by the Germans, fled by every available conveyance yesterday after British warships were reported to have forced the rocky Oslo fjord and threatened to bombard the city unless it was surrendered within a few hours by its Nazi masters.

The city was ordered emptied of its population at 11:15 A. M. The British, said delayed dispatches reaching here by way of the Swedish-Norwegian frontier, were reported to have threatened to start shelling the town at 1:00 P. M., but whether the bombardment actually took place was not known.

Long columns of cars, trucks and buses were taking the civilians still in Oslo from the city. The crowds at railway stations were so great it was almost impossible to park up the cars.

Mothers, with children in their arms, fainted in the crush. About half the 250,000 population had left before the Nazis occupied the city.

The entry of the British into Oslo-fjord was reported to have followed a long battle at the fjord entrance, in which the Germans were believed to have lost 40,000 tons of warships, including one vessel of the Deutschland class, in contact with both British gunboats and the navy and coastal artillery of Norway.

But this battle was only one piece of a giant jig-saw puzzle of sea action yesterday that ranged from northern Norway at Narvik, to within sight of the Swedish shore at the junction of Skagerrak and Kattegat.

One unit of the British navy plunged into the mined Skagerrak and broke up a fleet of 10 German troop transports in a three-hour battle last night within sight of the Swedish coast, sinking two of the transports and a destroyer.

Other units were reported to have recaptured Tromsheim and Bergen, on the Norwegian west coast, from the Germans. An unconfirmed report indicated other British forces may have forced entry to Narvik, the sea port, after a first failure, and landed Marines there.

Heartened by the British navy's powerful thrust, the Norwegians themselves were reported to have wiped out some German units attempting to take Elverum, village 75 miles north of Oslo, to wresten place the Norwegian government finally fled when the capital was occupied by the Germans.

Hundreds of German dead were reported left on the field after a force of Norwegian soldiers, aided by hastily armed volunteers, struck back at the invaders.

The shooting up of the German navy was seen from Falsness, near the island of Marstrand, where the arm of the North Sea, the Skagerrak, meets an arm of the Baltic, the Kattegat.

Good Lawns

Good advice on how to produce luxuriant green lawns is given by Dr. W. A. Leukel of the State Experiment Station at Gainesville...

"Most of our lawn grasses," he points out, "are prostrate growing plants, with stolons running along the ground surface. From these stolons, roots grow down and leaves grow up. In Spring, new stolons and roots are produced from the stolons of the preceding season and thus a new plant system is established. The old stolons and roots function until a new top and root system is established.

"As plant roots need aeration and moisture, it's a good idea to rake dead leaves and other old growth off the lawn, and then subject the entire lawn to a vigorous raking. This will bring about better aeration for the grass roots and stolons. The old, dry cover of leaves prevents air from reaching the growing parts. So, remove the old leaves and mulch the flowers with them and give the lawn a good, vigorous raking."

If you have had a cover of rye grass on the lawn during the winter, he continues, mow it short after removing the leaves. To further stimulate growth when the soil is low in essential nutrients, apply a mixture of two pounds of muriate or sulphate of potash, four pounds of superphosphate, and two pounds of nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia to every thousand square feet of lawn. Other mixtures, depending on condition of the soil and preference of the individual, may be applied effectively. If rain is somewhat scarce, wash the fertilizer into the soil with the hose.

If clean muck can be obtained, a cover of about an inch in thickness, applied after the lawn has produced a few inches of top growth, will be beneficial if it is thoroughly washed into the grass. In dry weather, soak the lawn thoroughly and then wait several days before watering again. Frequent mowing keeps grass in a green, vegetative condition. Don't let the grass get more than three or four inches in height.

A Banner Year

A friend of ours sent us his annual report to the stockholders of his company which strikes us as reflecting the trend of business in many a so-called profit-making enterprise these days. Most local businessmen we are sure will sympathize with the directors of this company whose report to stockholders is as follows:

"Your officers are glad to report business over the last year has been vastly improved; in fact we almost broke even. "We feel that much of the company's success during 1939 was due to a more vigorous policy of trying to make the best of it all. It has been the custom of the company officers to worry too much. Under the new policy 70 percent of our officers have cut their fretting down 80 1/2 percent for the fiscal year.

"Your company was able to get a little more work done around the plant in 1939; by naming six vice-presidents in charge of visits from tax agents, thus saving the higher executives a major amount of time. We built a new wing of the factory in which all data, facts, figures, reports, explanations and apologies demanded by the government may be prepared and turned out. This plant is capable of answering 50,000 inquiries from Washington per week. Plans are being drawn for an annex in which all summaries to congressional probes can be received, filed and catalogued without confusion.

"The company has also appointed a vice-president in charge of Nervousness, a vice-president in charge of Apprehension, and two vice-presidents in charge of Grave Misgivings. "Our cash position is strong due to a new system of loose-leaf, loose-thinking and loose-fingering bookkeeping, now quite the rage. We think this means a lot of good clean fun until we change auditors.

"Getting down to figures our losses for 1939 were $1,348,486 against $2,267,233 for 1938. This makes it a banner year. "Summary: The general outlook is firm. Car loadings are doing nicely. Boat loadings are good. Auto loadings are improving. Bicycle loadings are not to be sneezed at. Our stockholders will be glad to hear that after suspending the custom over the ten years, we have decided to renew distribution of art calendars to all stockholders. "Please notify the company of any change of address so that you may be kept in touch with all bad news."

State Federation Of Labor Endorses Francis Whitehair

DAYTONA BEACH, Apr. 11 — (AP)—Packing most of the action of its three-day convention into the final session, the Florida Federation of Labor yesterday re-elected Charles E. Silva of Tampa president, chose Tampa for its 1941 meeting and endorsed the gubernatorial candidacy of Francis Whitehair of Deland.

The big gathering of delegates, numbering 48 which was declared to be an all-time high for the Federation, also staged a rousing patriotic demonstration as news from Europe told of grave developments in the international situation.

They revamped a committee resolution that would have expressed unqualified opposition to United States involvement in the European war to aid an endorsement of "our present Government" and a declaration that whatever course it chooses it will follow.

The action on the Whitehair candidacy came in ratification of the endorsement of the Deland candidate by a resolution "expressing unqualified confidence in Francis Whitehair as our representative in the national convention of the Federation."

'GUESS WHICH SIDE I'M ON NOW'

'TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY'

By RUSSELL KAY

A friend of mine who works for a living and doesn't worry very much over politics, stopped me on the street the other day and told me he had listened to all the so-called leading candidates in the gubernatorial race, and the more he listened the harder it was to make up his mind one way or the other.

As near as I can figure out, he says, they are all running on the same platform; each one offers GOOD GOVERNMENT; they all promise a BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION, more pay for teachers, nine months school, aid to the blind, the aged and dependent children; they offer a cure for everything from double pneumonia to acute ground-itch.

They all pledge themselves to build bigger and better roads, reduce expenses, and "cross their hearts and hope to die" if they add one single penny of additional taxes. They all gnash their pearly teeth and snarl at a sales tax. Salty tears well up in the eyes and run down the cheeks of each in turn as they review the plight of the widows and orphans.

Following in the footsteps of "Brether Fred," they assure us that "We don't NEED no more taxes," and promise that when they go to Tallahassee all the doors will be unlocked and the common ordinary garden variety of citizen will find his governor waiting to receive him with open arms any time of the day, at night he may choose to visit the capital. One guy even goes so far as to invite everybody to dinner at the mansion as his personal guest provided they invest a dollar in his campaign.

To prove their fitness for the office of Chief Executive, and demonstrate in advance their ability to entertain, several have engaged the services of "Bill-Billy" bands and "Golden West Cowboys" while those whose finances don't permit such campaigns "pump" are probably learning to do bar tricks of play a harp.

"Unfortunately," said my friend, "it's too late to qualify, or I'd damn it a president run myself. I'd all on a bright idea the other day," he goes on. "That would insure my election in the first primary choice to visit the capital. One guy even goes so far as to invite everybody to dinner at the mansion as his personal guest provided they invest a dollar in his campaign."

"That's all!" I say, pricking up my ears. "You've got me up on the platform, lead the customer in prayer, and then promise to absolutely and completely ABOLISH all taxes. Why don't you start by exempting home-owners and war veterans? Let's wipe out the whole troublesome mess, and one bold stroke!"

"You're right," he says, "but without any revenue there wouldn't be any government. You gotta have money for schools and roads and health and all the other things that a government has to do."

"You're right," he says, "but without any revenue there wouldn't be any government. You gotta have money for schools and roads and health and all the other things that a government has to do."

The Sanford Forum

April 8th, 1940. Editor Sanford Herald. Dear Sir: I desire to give an endorsement to Senator C. O. Andrews for his office of U. S. Senator.

I worked with the senator as a member of the old Clearing House Committee of Fifty and know how he tried and strived to aid for the benefit of the state industry. He may quarrel, but he is a great deal more than a politician. Then consider what he has done towards a settlement of the Red-Flax problem. My opinion is that Mr. Andrews is the only man in the state who has the courage and vision to stand up for the people.

There are many who are ready to vote for Senator Andrews for second term. It is my hope that he will be re-elected. I am sure that he will be a great asset to the state.

Yours very truly, H. R. BARRON

Growers Undertake "Gum Farming" Now

MAYO, Apr. 11.—A group of enterprising Lafayette county farmers have embarked on a program of "gum-farming" which is adding materially to their incomes and which promises to form the basis of a profitable enterprise for farmers similarly situated in other parts of the state.

These farmers have found that now, years after the virgin pine forests have been consumed by the big saw mills, a new crop of pine timber has grown up on many acres of farm woodland. They have adapted a careful and conservative method of chipping these trees which will enable them to maintain a source of income from the gum crops indefinitely. It is estimated that 60,000 acres were cut this year, and the prospects are that another 60,000 acres will be added next year.

Treadway Asserts Anti-Chain Store Bill Ridiculous

TAMPA, Apr. 11.—Chester B. Treadway, Orlando, managing director of the Florida Chain Store Association, declared the 'Patman Anti-chain store Bill' to be "utterly fantastic and ridiculous" in an address to newspapermen of the Associated Dailies of Florida in convention here.

"The measure, if voted a law," he declared, "will not only demolish an important part of this nation's retail business, but will adversely affect every phase of our business and social existence. The intent of this bill is to drive the chains out of business, and just how completely that objective would be realized if the bill becomes a law may be illustrated by analyzing its provisions to one or two of the chain systems with which we are familiar."

The bill would require the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company to pay $10,000 tax on each of its stores, or nearly $11,000,000 to the state of Florida alone on its 222 stores here. Sears and Roebuck Company, however, would be forced to pay $10,000 per store.

"More than a million people own stock in chain stores," Treadway declared. "Twenty-six thousand, three hundred of these stockholders live in Florida, and destruction of the chain store would deprive these people of a portion of their income."

Referring to the effect on independent merchants caused by chain stores, Treadway declared that Patman need only refer to the Government Census of Business to find that independent merchants have increased in number from 1933 to 1935 by 125,000. He said that chain stores had grown of great benefit to the growth of the state, by virtue of having disposed of surplus crops of vegetables and citrus each year, resulting in the "treasure" consumption of these products by the public.

Balkans Fear Nazi Invasion After Norwegian Thrust

By EDWARD KENNEDY Associated Press Correspondent
ISTANBUL, Apr. 11.—Fear that Germany may move into southeastern Europe to secure vital oil and food supplies, freely expressed throughout the Balkans, was heightened last night by the frank admission of numerous British and French officials in the Near East that the Allied forces are powerless—at the present—to offer effective resistance.

These officials, whom I encountered on a 3,000-mile trip through the Near East, say their army is far from ready.

These reasons are given here for the anxiety with which the Allies now regard the situation in southeastern Europe:

1. The British-French armies in the Levant, while strong enough to defend the region, are not ready to embark on a major expedition from their bases.

2. The maximum force which now can be sent out of Syria, Palestine and Egypt is 200,000 men, which is nothing compared to the army Germany can throw into the Balkans. Facilities for transporting an adequate army into the Balkans and maintaining a flow of supplies are far from sufficient.

3. The Allied air fleets in the Near East are still too weak to cope with the German air force, which could destroy possible landing ports while an expeditionary force was unloading.

4. Allied military preparations are being pushed daily and the whole question is whether the Nazis will give the Allies all the time they require to get ready.

The trepidation in the Balkans was reflected yesterday by Turkish officials. They said Turkey wants to call a new meeting of the Balkan entente within the next 10 days in order to line up pairs, vacancies, relationship of number of persons in household to the number of rooms. The fact obtained about rentals and home values will serve as guides to the price groups in which construction is called for (with census data on some from cross-checking). High-lighted sales possibilities for marketers of home equipment and fuel will be statistics compiled on toilet and bathing facilities, lighting, refrigeration and heating equipment, and kind of fuel used for heating and cooking.

The first census of business in four years was begun in January, covering 1939 operations. The completed tabulations will show the number of stores in each kind of business, total sales and sales of major commodities, employment, payroll, accounts receivable, stocks on hand, and stability, as revealed by date of original establishment and date of acquisition by present ownership.

The biennial census of manufacturing also took place during the first part of the year. From this inquiry will come useful information on number of establishments in each industry, their production, employment and payroll, cost of materials and fuel, and facts not obtained previously about expenditures for plant and equipment.

Aviation Group Of State C. Of C. Said To Be Important

TAMPA, Apr. 11. — Increased interest in Florida aviation and aircraft manufacture in the State has made the work of the aviation committee of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce of greater importance than ever before, said D. D. Brown, State Chamber president, declared today in announcing its appointment.

"Proof of this is seen in the fact that no less than three large aircraft manufacturers are today considering or have already committed themselves to a location in the South," he pointed out, adding that extensive negotiations are yet underway with several other manufacturers, following widespread distribution of an aviation brief prepared by the State-wide organization.

Work of the aviation committee during 1940 will be directed by M. E. Frost of this city as chairman, Mr. Brown said, assisted by 13 other Floridians who are deeply interested in Florida and the State's aviation future.

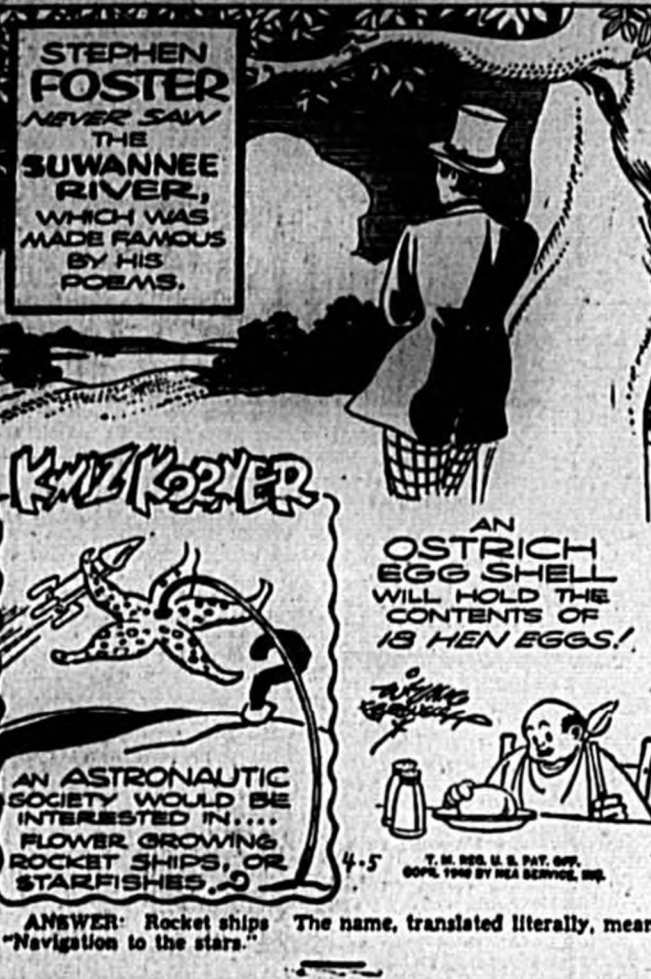

Those serving with Mr. Frost include: Ray Clements, Lakeland; J. P. Caldwell, Ft. Pierce; and J. E. Yonge, all of Miami; James A. Waterman, Tampa; E. C. Wilson, Orlando; Ed R. Bentley, Lakeland;

C. W. Ruckel, Valparaiso; H. G. Whitney, Jacksonville; J. T. Baker, St. Petersburg; Charles B. Brown, Jacksonville; Z. A. Geiger, Palmetto; and Francis Taylor, Pensacola.

Secret Service Agents Campaign Against War Talk

By JACK CULMER
LONDON, Apr. 11.—Secret service agents on Britain's "home front" are campaigning against "war talk" in a new drive to prevent German spies sending valuable information to the enemy.

The benighted blonde spy of the mystery stories is a real danger in the present war, Scotland Yard experts believe.

"People do not realize how remarkably full a dossier of information can be compiled in six months merely by jotting down one little item after another," a Royal Air Force officer explained.

"The enemy can eventually make a wonderfully complete map or chart of the disposition of every squadron."

Hotels, dance halls, and other public institutions frequented by soldiers and airmen on leave are co-operating with the government by attempting to stop the men becoming "too expansive."

"Don't gossip. Thoughtless words may kill more swiftly than bullets," is the slogan of the intensified campaign against "war talk."

Naval authorities regard the fact that hotel and dance hall earnings make no reference to sailors as a tribute to the traditions of "the silent service."

"If there is any tendency towards unguarded disclosures a member of the staff discreetly 'butts in' and turns the trend of the conversation," the manager of a London dance hall that attracts 10,000 patrons a week said.

"We have received no home office instructions on how to handle this," he said.

"We are just using common sense in trying to play our part. Generally, however, the conversation of the young folk is unimportant matters far removed from warfare."

"After all, they come here for an enjoyable time, and so far as the war is concerned, they want to forget all about it."

Another big London dance hall has enforced a "no war talk" rule since the start of the war.

"There are two reasons," the manager explained. "First, because we want the dancers to forget the war and enjoy themselves, and secondly, because careless conversation can cause great harm. If we hear any young soldiers or airmen talking about hostilities we go up to them and say, 'Don't talk here to enjoy yourselves. We don't want any war talk.'"

Officers in the army and air force hold frequent anti-gossip parades to warn their men against careless "war talk."

Forced "don't help the enemy" notices displayed in railroad stations and post offices in the first weeks of the war have been replaced by colorful posters showing Adolf Hitler cavorting in restaurants, in the street, in clubs, and on London buses.

Military authorities also have tried to discourage British soldiers from joining any of the numerous "pen pal" schemes that operate in England—correspondence clubs supply names and addresses of correspondents with whom "lonely" men can communicate as friends.

The war office issued a warning last year that enemy agents might use such schemes to obtain valuable information from men unwittingly inattentive about divulging apparently harmless and unimportant details. Women who announced they were planning to run special "pen pal" clubs for men in the fighting services were asked to drop the idea.

Applications for marriage licenses now are subjected to searching scrutiny in a move to block possible attempts by alien women to join in the cloud of British nationality through "marriages of convenience."

"We make a closer inspection of the documents of aliens than ever before, and any suspicious or even doubtful case is immediately reported to the authorities," one London marriage registrar reported.

"Some have already been reported, but I think there are few women spies today who would attempt to marry a Britisher as a cloak. It would merely mean that they would concentrate attention upon themselves and run their heads in a noose."

"Still, there is always need for us to be on the alert, and our vigilance is not relaxed. I know of one alien woman who is in prison today as the result of the routine report of a registrar of marriages."

After all, they come here for an enjoyable time, and so far as the war is concerned, they want to forget all about it."

Another big London dance hall has enforced a "no war talk" rule since the start of the war.

"There are two reasons," the manager explained. "First, because we want the dancers to forget the war and enjoy themselves, and secondly, because careless conversation can cause great harm. If we hear any young soldiers or airmen talking about hostilities we go up to them and say, 'Don't talk here to enjoy yourselves. We don't want any war talk.'"

Officers in the army and air force hold frequent anti-gossip parades to warn their men against careless "war talk."

Forced "don't help the enemy" notices displayed in railroad stations and post offices in the first weeks of the war have been replaced by colorful posters showing Adolf Hitler cavorting in restaurants, in the street, in clubs, and on London buses.

Military authorities also have tried to discourage British soldiers from joining any of the numerous "pen pal" schemes that operate in England—correspondence clubs supply names and addresses of correspondents with whom "lonely" men can communicate as friends.

The war office issued a warning last year that enemy agents might use such schemes to obtain valuable information from men unwittingly inattentive about divulging apparently harmless and unimportant details. Women who announced they were planning to run special "pen pal" clubs for men in the fighting services were asked to drop the idea.

Applications for marriage licenses now are subjected to searching scrutiny in a move to block possible attempts by alien women to join in the cloud of British nationality through "marriages of convenience."

Desserts Advised To Add Flavor To Routine Dinners

Desserts Call For Simple Standards; Please Children
By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
NEW YORK, Apr. 11.—(AP)—Meal-planners who emphasize desserts this Spring are heading in the right direction. Children cherish dessert above all the rest of a meal. It's an idea that sticks somewhere in most minds even after they're grown up. Why not cater to it? There are a few simple standards for desserts. Not that they're rich, extra fancy or intricate, but rather that they be seasonable for dessert. Not that they're costly, nobody in the family will object if you serve them a nice frilly dessert once in a while.

Fresh sweetheart roses are posed atop this spring sailor of natural rough straw. The hat is further decorated with charriseau ant moss green feathers and a clasp of tulle. With or without fresh blossoms, it's a flattering little number.

Herbert Hoover Works Hard On Relief Problems

Ex-President Spends From 13 To 15 Hours A Day At His Desk

By TOBY WYANT
NEW YORK, Apr. 11.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover extended a warm hand, pushed his swivel chair back from his letter-littered desk and relaxed. He was sitting in his fourth-floor office in a downtown skyscraper. He had been working hard all day on Finnish and Polish relief matters just as he worked once on Belgian and Russian relief. But, although he was busy, his greeting was cordial and his smile friendly.

burden of arms on the world, it will mean prosperity everywhere. But unless peace comes in the next few months, this is likely to be a long war.
'There is still the possibility of peace. The common people of the world have not wanted this war. But modern war quickly flashes from war against soldiers to war against civilians. As time goes on, the blockade of food supplies, the attacks on cities from the air, will take more toll from women and children. Also, as action becomes more violent, the lists of dead stream from the front into every family. From these wrongs other sufferings, innumerable, will sink into every household. When this state of outrage and bitterness is reached, nations cannot carry their people to peace without victory.
'At the end of a long war, the world will be greatly impoverished and that will bring a multitude of troubles to America. Our job is to keep out of it and to mitigate its effects at home and abroad the best we can.'

Hoover came from sturdy stock, and that has stood him in good stead. His fathering was a village blacksmith. He was orphaned when 7 years old. While in his teens, he toiled in truck gardens, and was an office boy. He knows what hard work means and he is not afraid of it.
This is the way he outlines his day: He rises promptly at 7:00 A. M., has breakfast, reads a morning paper and shows up precisely an hour later at one of his three offices. In the same building here (they are office buildings) with the relief work and certain educational foundations, the American Children's fund and the Boy's Club of America. He works steadily until noon, takes a little time off for lunch, until 6:30 or 6:00 P. M. then returns to his apartment. He eats dinner, summarizes, studies newspaper and his secretary, Lawrence, who has been with him many years. They talk into the night until midnight. That goes on seven days a week.
All his work has to do with charitable activities, or in the words of his secretary, 'humanitarian and scientific institutions.'
'I have no business office explained.

He spoke at 180 meetings last year and had 40 days of home in Palo Alto, Calif. But he has not been home so far this year, and though he hopes to leave for the city or so soon, he has not yet decided.
He was all smiles when he talked about this and that. He has been barred, but his eyes blazed when he discussed conditions in Europe and the privations innocent people are being forced to undergo everywhere. He is interested deeply in reactions of the war upon America. In discussing the war upon America, he said, 'The starving people abroad are feeling our fatness of surplus. It does good two ways.
'If peace comes quickly,' he predicted, 'the world will quickly recover and the effect of the war upon us will not be severe. If it results in removing the Orange Shortcake is an old standby, but always popular when made with boiled icing. Make up large-sized biscuits. Split and fill them with sliced oranges. Replace the tops and cover with a thin boiled frosting. Let stand until it is set and then garnish with sliced oranges.

This Fruit Souffle will make a hit. It is a light and delicately flavored. Melt 4 tablespoons of butter and add 5 tablespoons flour. When blended, pour in a cup of orange juice, 1/2 cup pineapple juice and 2 tablespoons of lemon juice. Cook until thick and creamy and then add 4 egg yolks, 1/2 cup granulated sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Lightly fold in 4 egg whites, beaten. Pour into a buttered baking dish. Bake in a pan of hot water in a moderately slow oven—325 degrees for an hour. Serve warm, plain or topped with whipped cream and shredded almonds.
STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE
1 box strawberries
4 hot shortcake biscuits, split and buttered
1-2 cup cream, whipped
Spread strawberries on lower halves of biscuits; top with upper halves and more berries. Garnish with whipped cream. Serves 4.
SHORTCAKE BISCUITS: Mix together 1 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Cut in 4 tablespoons butter or cold shortening. Add 1/2 cup milk and stir until mixture forms a soft dough. Turn out on slightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll 1/4 inch thick and cut with floured 3-inch biscuit cutter. Place half of circles on ungreased baking sheet and brush with melted butter. Place remaining circles on top and butter well. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

Warren Gives Platform In Address Here

These things can be done, with the money already being collected," he said.

This state will be cured of all its financial ills when "I put from 15 to 18 million dollars now going to bond manipulators for the payment of exorbitant interest rates, back in the State treasury where it belongs."

"The bond manipulators who bought bonds here after the boom collapsed at 33 cents on the dollar or less saw these bonds rise to par, and began to collect 5 to 6 percent interest on them, after the 1931 Legislature allocated three cents of the seven-cent gasoline tax to the retirement of these bonds. It is my contention that 6 percent interest is exorbitant in this day and time.

"When I threaten to take that gasoline tax money away from the payment of these bonds, the manipulators will fall over themselves to voluntarily reduce their rates. We now pay almost $31,000,000 annually in interest on these bonds; if the interest rate is slashed from 5 and 6 percent, this state will save from 15 to 18 million dollars annually."

Mr. Warren explained that this sum will be sufficient to solve the financial problems of the state without the addition of new taxes.

Asserting that his plan to reduce electric light rates from 25 to 50 percent would put millions of dollars into the pockets of the residents of Florida, Mr. Warren said that "government statistics show that in our neighboring states of Georgia and Alabama where state utility commissions regulate power rates, the people are charged from 25 to 50 percent less for their electric power than the people of Florida. A utility commission in this state, which I intend to create when I am governor, will order similarly reasonable rates in Florida," he asserted.

Roosevelt Tells U. S. Ships To Avoid Scandinavia

WASHINGTON, Apr. 11.—(AP)—Most of the North Atlantic was "blacked out" for American shipping yesterday when President Roosevelt extended the combat zone in the European war to embrace Scandinavia and some Russian ports in the Arctic.

The newly quarantined area was created by presidential proclamation under provisions of the neutrality act while the Allies and Germany were locked in a death grip for control of the Scandinavian peninsula.

It extends northward from the present zone fixed on Nov. 4, and which ended at Bergen, Norway, taking on all the peninsula and continuing into the Arctic to include the White sea leading to the Russian ports of Murmansk and Archangel.

From the present starting point on the west of the British Isles the new demarcation goes sharply northward to the southern tip of Svalbard, a group of Norwegian islands in the Arctic, then turns sharply southeast to latitude 70 north and 44 east, then continues south to the tip of Kola peninsula at the extreme northwest tip of Russia.

This leaves only one transatlantic route considered safe for American commerce and travel from the United States to ports in Spain and Portugal and through Gibraltar to neutral countries in the Mediterranean.

The zone does not embrace Greenland and Iceland, which are under the Danish crown, but these islands are so far north as to be out of the principal Atlantic shipping lanes.

American ships are forbidden to enter the zone, except by special permission, and United States citizens can not travel into them except at their own risk. Violators are subject to a $50,000 fine, or five years in prison, or both.

Supplemental regulations issued by Secretary of State Hull, more rigid than those applied when the original zone was fixed, provide that ships enroute into the newly prescribed area now must turn about. Only vessels already in the zone are exempt. There are now three Moore-McCormack freighters in Norwegian ports.

State department officials explained the Arctic limits were established on the possibility that Allied-German naval warfare will be carried around the northern tip of Scandinavia.

Roosevelt issued the proclamation after he had adopted a "stop, look and listen" policy on the status of credits recently advanced to all the Scandinavian countries.

This decision was believed influenced by Hull, Undersecretary of State Welles and Federal Loan Administrator Jones who beat a steady path to the White House to keep him abreast of developments abroad.

The officials also reportedly urged him to stay his hand on applying the cash-and-carry and other sections of the neutrality act to Norway and Denmark, pending clarification of the status of Denmark which submitted, under protest, to German occupation.

The President had planned to invoke the act last night after his hurried return from Hyde Park, but unforeseen factors apparently cropped up. Some of his advisers were said to have persuaded him to await the outcome of the Allied-German battle for supremacy in the North sea, on the theory that application of the act might not be necessary.

Tung Nuts Seen As Being Giant U. S. Industry

TALLAHASSEE, Apr. 11.—(AP)—American produced tung nuts may, in the future, supply such by-products as lamp black, fertilizer, livestock feed and ink.

Government chemists in various laboratories are experimenting with America's infant crop which may develop into an agricultural giant, Dr. Henry G. Knight, of the United States department of agriculture told the American Tung Oil association here yesterday.

The tung oil — produced primarily as an ingredient for paints, varnishes and finishing materials — is going through experiments of production and uses that may provide agricultural opportunities for a million or more acres.

Knight said American imports, mainly from China, totaled 175,000,000 pounds in 1937, but these fell off to about 80,000,000 pounds at 28 cents a pound because of war conditions in 1938.

Meanwhile, American production has increased from 150,000 pounds grown at Gainesville in 1932, to 3,000,000 pounds commanding a premium price, Knight said, because it exceeds the Chinese oil in quality.

Production at present is limited to south Georgia and the gulf coastal areas extending from Florida into Texas.

There are uses, Knight said, for all the oil now produced in America, but chemists are seeking and finding uses for by-products that may open additional fields, such as were found for cotton seed and cottonseed oils. Experiment stations are located at Gainesville, Cairo, Ga., and Bogalusa, La.

"There is no place for purely promotional developments in an undertaking as promising as the tung oil enterprise appears to be," Knight added. "We need to look at this thing from the long-time point of view, and plan our program accordingly. We should look at it from the practical standpoint instead of the sensational side."

"With conditions as they are in the world today it isn't safe to depend on raw materials that have to come from warring nations."

Other speakers discussed technical phases of tung oil production in addresses before about 200 persons attending the two-day conference here. New officers of the association will be selected tomorrow.

asserting that his plan to reduce electric light rates from 25 to 50 percent would put millions of dollars into the pockets of the residents of Florida, Mr. Warren said that "government statistics show that in our neighboring states of Georgia and Alabama where state utility commissions regulate power rates, the people are charged from 25 to 50 percent less for their electric power than the people of Florida. A utility commission in this state, which I intend to create when I am governor, will order similarly reasonable rates in Florida," he asserted.

Citing three reasons why livestock should be kept off this state's highways, Mr. Warren said: "First, roaming livestock cause the death of at least 50 people each year, the injury of at least a thousand, and untimely damage to automobiles; second, since motorists pay almost half of all the taxes collected by this state, every year, they should be entitled to some degree of safety on the road; third, too many livestock are killed on our highways, resulting in a tremendous loss to the farmers."

Urging the citizens of Seminole County not to elect a governor on "faith and hope," the speaker declared that "you'll be on charity in a short time if you do."

He said he was born "two creeks and a branch" outside of Blountstown, he said that he had served Calhoun county in the Legislature in 1927 and subsequently had begun the practice of law in Jacksonville where he took active part in the municipal government. He was elected to the House of Representatives from Duval county for the 1939 session.

He said he is a member of the Townsend Club, and that he has a unanimous record in favor of the working man. He declared himself in favor of the improvement of the State's school system, including better pay for teachers; more adequate care for the aged, and a supporter of a public health program in the state which he said had been "sadly neglected" in the past.

He declared himself positively against a sales tax and said he was not supported in his race by chain store interests.

Considerable construction work is in progress on State Road No. 5. No detours are necessary as traffic is allowed to pass through. However, motorists should observe caution signs.

3 New Umpires Are Signed For Baseball League

GAINESVILLE, Apr. 11.—Henry L. Gray, president of the Florida State League that opens a fifth consecutive season of play next Sunday afternoon, yesterday announced that with the signing of three men, the league's 1940 umpiring staff of eight arbiters is complete.

The three—described as among the best that attended the George Barr School of Umpires this season—all were hand-picked by Frosty Peters, former State League umpire who is Barr's first assistant.

They are: Allen Bell of San Francisco, Stanley Hummer of Columbia, Pa., and Eugene Lee of Prescott, Ark.

Others already signed, two of them newcomers to the league, are: Dick Powell, Ike Cowart, and Red Ryan of the 1939 staff, and Harold Schubinger of New Smyrna and C. T. "Lefty" Butler of Alachua.

Powell has spent the Winter alternating as a professional wrestler and as an Orlando policeman assigned to night duty. Cowart has been teaching school at Pearson, while Ryan has been umpiring indoor baseball and other athletic events in the North.

Schubinger, a well known athlete, is a New Smyrna who comes highly touted as a baseball expert. Butler, former resident of Lakeland, once hurled in the old Florida State League and later had his chance at the majors.

All umpires have orders to report to President Gray at Gainesville this morning for a three-day period of instructions.

All new league regulation umpires this season will draw a flat salary of $150 per month each. They must provide their own lodging, meals and transportation out of this sum. At that, Florida State League umpires are among the highest paid in Class D circles around America.

Florida Swimmers Make Fine Showing

GAINESVILLE, Apr. 11.—Four members of the 12-man University of Florida swimming team, competing in the recent national collegiate tournament, didn't come home with any big honors, but Capt. Chie Acosta, Jacksonville, and Sonny Welch, St. Augustine, did the fastest swimming of their competitive careers in the national event.

Acosta, one of the five seniors on Florida's great 1940 aquatic team, did a 23.5 in the 50-yard free style, and a 53.8 in the 100-yard event, the best times he has ever posted. As evidence of the swiftness of the nationals, Charles Barker, Michigan, last year's winner in the 100-yard event, posted a 53 flat but failed to qualify in the recent meet. This year's winning time of 51.8 tied the national record.
