 organization here, therefore on Mar. 22 1889, 54 years ago, this organization was founded. A man by the name of W.B. Nichols, a marble dealer, was its first member. The following are a few of the charter members, and at the same time, other names that have been added to the roster over this period. The old times here tonight will undoubtedly recall some of them who live now only in memory. Many of these people have moved to widely separate places, and some, alas, the stretch of years has taken them to their graves.

 Next was a man by the name of J.W. Smith, and I notice by the minutes that a communication was received in reference to him from a Palmello Lodge as late as 1917. Then follows W. B. Marsh, John W. Wellington, W.S. Whitney, and as late as 1916 the minutes show where a communication was received in connection with Whitney; Charles S. Partridge, John A. Rowan, banquet hall, where justice was meted out to oysters, pumpkin pie, sandwiches and coffee.

 "On May 11, 1943, this Lodge held a meeting the same night as the Armistice was signed and if you recall there was a widespread influenza epidemic at that time and there was hardly a house in town that did not have sickness or the sign of death on its doorstep. So this organization decided to suspend all meetings during the influenza epidemic. I noticed however, by the minutes, that the meetings were not suspended. They continued to meet once each and every week and again the faithful few carried on. The growth of this organization was noticeable when 21 members indicated at our meeting. In 1942 this lodge had grown in strength and like a lion, felt its strength and wanted to use it.

Therefore on the 18th day of January 1943, the Odd Fellows BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION was organized with H.J. Lehman as President, J.J. Boyd, Vice-President, W.W. Van Ness, Secretary and Treasurer. The Board of Directors consisted of W.W. Van Ness, J.J. McClelland, J.K. Smith, John Ledwith, J.J. Boyd, J.E. Lehman, and J.A. Loring. Of course you are familiar with the progress since that time. There stands today a tangible tribute to the wisdom, foresight and persistence of the Officers of this Organization, supported by a cooperative and enthusiastic membership. And that is the very thing that we are working to tonight. Each of us, and those and many, it stands silent and silent and you have a right to be proud of what you have done in addition to the fact that you have helped to build a better world for our children and our grandchildren.

AND THE LODGE LODGES have been organized in many parts of the country and the members of these lodges are working to build a better world for our children and our grandchildren.

Americans Find Funny Names In New Guinea

AP FEATURES

AN ADVANCED BARE IN NEW GUINEA—Citizens of Peculiar Name Coffee, meat, and other pieces whose names encourage whimsy may find some comfort in the maps of New Guinea and New Britain. They are rich meat for seekers of place-names that make people pause and wonder—but they are no comfort to the American and Australian soldiers who have to untangle them.

New Guinea's Wamakloknokana, Bedamumunop and Klabatogata must raise right along with Dnepropetrovsk in anybody's jaw-breaking contest. But then there are such easy ones as Ta, Ba, Eia, Bau, Hau, No, Mo, Omo, Not, Owo, Wuwu and Egrad.

The biggest headaches here are similarity and repetition. For instance there are three villages named Gal, all in the same vicinity.

On field telephones, through which even the best voices take on a raspy gravel, quality, imagine what can happen to Arawa and Trawa, Asimba, and Awaga, Irua, and Irua, Mrs. and Mrs. Poponate and two Poponitias, Guna, Gum, Guna and Gunu, Buna and Puna two Buis, two Husos and three Busus. Three rivers in the Buna area are the Amboga, Samboga, and Emboga.

Lots of names are plain double-talk, such as Bida Bida, two Wagga Wagga, Bibi and Yu. Then there are Bena-Bena, airdrome, Kwabikwabi point, Papa Papa point, Bada Bada bay and the Nawa-Bawa district.

Rev. R.H. Spears of Homestead will be revivalist speaker at Lake Mary.

Relatives Should Be Frozen Like Labor

By SPOON RIVER HAM

AP FEATURES

Freezing jobs and workers don't go far enough, since it don't take in relatives. Relatives are a non-pariah commodity that is afloat of been rationed in the first place.

Now that spring is in the air, the big movement of families wanting to live off the fat of their kin has set in.

Travel agents ain't strong enough to hold 'em. I bet a crow's eye view would show these trucks creeping out in all directions, like streams of ants, some taking some by car, all hunting the land of plenty, with their ration books locked in the bank back home.

Aunt Susie, who never liked coffee, can expect plenty of company. Uncle Liah, who bragged about his store of rationed goods, will think the 17 year locusts are back.

I figure that freezing looks will set in about the second day after company arrives. Any host that don't turn burner after that faces starvation.

Yes sir, I think Mr. McNutt ought to freeze relatives in their tracks, before they eat their kin folks out of the house and home.

Light Docket Is Heard In Court

The last session of City Court to be presided over by Judge F. L. Miller, Friday evening, offered only a light docket.

Frank Hunt Herdon of Orlando, charged with driving while drunk, left court before his case came up, and so forfeited bond of $51. His driver's license was revoked by Judge Miller.

A pistol figured in the case of John Henry Coleman, negro from whom it was taken after he had been arrested for making threats against a negroess. He was given $25 and costs on this charge, or 75 days, and a like penalty for disorderly conduct.

White cases included. Tom Harley from whom $5 bond extracted for drunkenness; James Meyer, reckless driving, $5 bond extracted; and Wesley Cunningham, drunkenness and disorderly conduct, case continued.

Negro cases included: Essie Mae Holloway, drunk and disorderly, who was transferred to a State Hospital; Eddie Mae Coffey, transferred to County Jail; Elton Evans, gambling, $35 bond extracted; Josephine Blackman, gambling, $35 bond extracted; Hector Smith, reckless driving, case continued; Floyd Morgan, gambling, case continued; J.E. Jones, operating a gambling device, case continued; Eddie Williams, drunkenness, $11 bond extracted; and Evans Du Bose, failure to take treatment for contagious disease, sentence of 30 days suspended.

YOU CAN HELP BUILD THIS BOMBER!

"It may sound funny to hear a girl like me say that you can help build a bomber—but it's true just the same."

"I take thousands of long distance telephone calls to build one of these great bombers—calls to every part of the country and the many thousands from changing addresses plans to maintain the delivery of parts. These long distance calls are as important to me as any other work I do."

"To help speed the building of more bombers, ships and guns, won't you please make only the most necessary long distance calls and be brief on all calls? In this way you will definitely help us win the war and our men at the front who need more food, more of all kinds of war necessities."

"The next time you reach for your telephone to make those long distance calls, won't you please remember the men at the front who need more food and more of all kinds of war necessities?"

Allied Forces Storm Nazis Near Bizerte

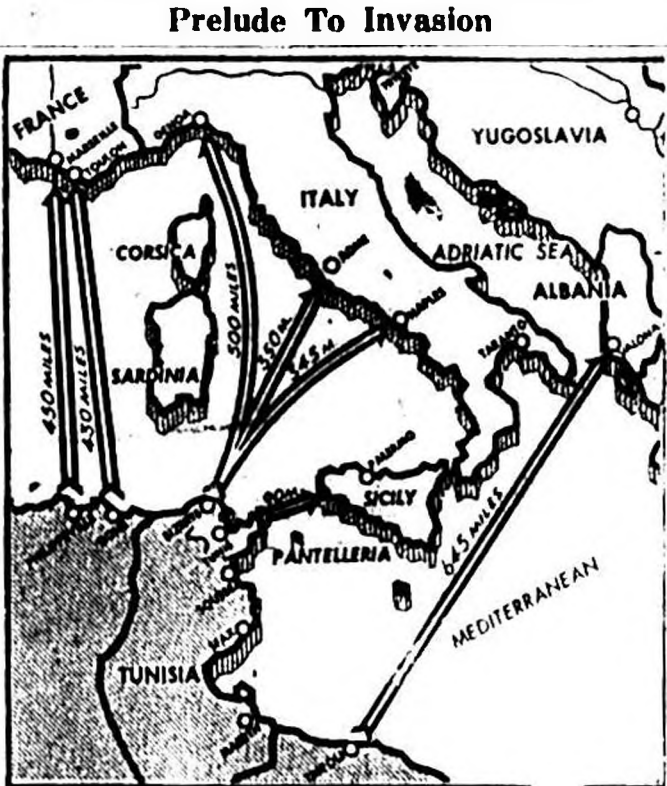

Americans Beat Off Counter-Attacks As French Drive Wedge Below Tunis

LONDON, May 5. (AP)—The largest of four-engine bombers yet sent over German forces dropped nearly 1,500 tons of bombs last night on Dortmund, Ruhr Valley industrial city, an R.A.F. commander said. The air ministry reported the "very heavy" saturation attack cost 30 bombers.

Great-ton bombs were dropped and participating pilots described the raid as the heaviest of the year. Tens of thousands of incendiary bombs were loosed, starting flames which big explosions spread into great conflagration.

Another American column, striking from Matruh, was reported within five miles of Ferryville in the Bizerte dock area.

The communiqué said the Americans beat off counter-attacks and continued steady progress toward Bizerte while the British First Army repulsed a counter-attack east of Medjedel-Bab, in the coastal zone. French troops were reported to have driven a wedge in the Bizerte sector during the last 24 hours, and again recommended the Longwood charter, and the second relating to the Slavia drainage district.

Gatling, who was flying with the "Hell's Bells" squadron, dived from 8,000 feet to 1,500 feet and dropped a bomb which landed on the destroyer squarely amidships.

Max Rates Louis As Greatest He Has Ever Fought

But Declares That Schmeling Could Hit The Hardest

By DILLON GRAHAM
AP Features Sports Editor
NEW YORK—There's no doubt in Pvt. Max Baer's mind as to who was the greatest fighter he ever fought. Joe Louis, the chocolate hammer who laid off Max's chin some eight years ago. But it's a big surprise to learn that Baer doesn't rate Jim Braddock, the Irishman who took the title among the top ten battlers he has met.

Baer's in the army now, an enlisted private at McClelland Field, Calif. Max is an instructor in the physical training division of the Sacramento Air Depot Control Area Command, teaching boxing and wrestling to thousands of soldiers in California and Nevada.

In a bull session with his khaki-clad mates the other day Max was asked to rate his opponents. Louis gave him his worst licking, knocking him out in the fourth round in 1936, so Max didn't hesitate in naming Joe as No. 1. Max Schmeling is second on Baer's list and he considers his defeat of the German in 1935 as his greatest triumph.

Continuing with his rating of fighters, Baer put Tommy Laurin in third place, Primo Carnera in fourth, Ernie Schaaf, fifth, Johnny Rizo, sixth, Paulino Uscudun, seventh, Tommy Farr, eighth, King Levinsky, ninth, and Tom Honey, tenth.

"That Nazi, Schmeling, hit me harder than any other man. It was in 1935—'Dempsy always told me that when a man hit me hard, I should hit him for the middle and when back. Well, sir, when Schmeling took that terrific punch at me that broke my nose—he just seemed to surround me. There were Schmeling's on all sides of me and in front of me, so I aimed for the middle, and sure enough, one back, too."

the Nazi went down. "I was at the peak of my fighting career that year—the year before I won the title. If I'd fought Louis then I'd have won. I'd have beaten him. As it was I took on the Louis fight in 1932 because there was $150,000 in it.

"Two months before, in a match with Eddie Simms in Cleveland, my hand had been smashed and I went to the hospital. The doctors said it would take eight months to harden the cartilage; but the offer of the Louis fight was good and I couldn't say no. Naturally, I didn't last long."

Baer had plenty of tough fights in his flistic career. The most grueling was in Reno, Nevada, July 4, 1931, when he fought Uscudun with the temperature 115 in the shade. Dempsy was promoted, his help train Baer and went with him to Reno. Ancil Hoffman, manager of the Baers, and the man who really put them on the map, was there, too of course.

But it was Dempsy who gave him advice on how to fight, then turned around and gave the decision to the other man.

Max said: "I'd hit Uscudun and he'd say, 'You can't win.' Finally after 20 rounds in the blistering heat, Dempsy gave Uscudun the decision. Next day, though, Jack was my best man when I got married the first time! He was my friend!"

Baer thinks it very likely some of the units in the Sacramento area will produce good fighters—perhaps even professional prospects for that after-the-war period.

"You can't tell—I might even be back in the ring myself. Most people think I'm through. Maybe I am, but if you say you're through, that's all there is to it. If you withhold a decision, there's always a chance for a comeback."

"Look at Braddock. He was a down-and-out old man when he fought me. I was going to be big-hearted and let him make ashwing. I didn't train. I was so cock-sure, so undertrained, that he won the fight after we'd gone 15 rounds." With a wide grin, Max said, "Maybe this old man will fight you, too."

Boxing Is Called Great Sport For Men In Service

AP Features
NEW YORK—Boxing should be the last sport to be eliminated if it becomes necessary to halt athletic activities for the duration. That is the opinion of men stationed at the U. S. Maritime Training Station, located near here on Hoffman Island.

The latest of the sports polls being conducted by AP Features among service men all over the United States, found 1,134 members of the Merchant Marine stationed on the small island in New York Harbor, taking part.

Next to boxing, the seamen thought basketball should be the last to be curtailed, right after baseball.

Here is the order in which the men of Hoffman Island think sports should be eliminated—if it becomes necessary:

Bowling, ice hockey, golf, horse racing, wrestling, tennis, football, baseball, basketball and boxing.

In the same poll the Hoffman Island men voted on sports as to their general interest and morale value and boxing again came out tops. Basketball was second and baseball third.

The others rated in this order: tennis, football, wrestling, ice hockey, horse racing, golf and bowling.

Lt. Benny Leonard, the former world lightweight boxing champion, is director of welfare and athletics at Hoffman Island. In addition to tutoring Leonard often boxes with the men.

"Sports, especially group athletics, are a major factor in developing quick thinking, coordination of mind and muscle, and they teach men to keep cool under fire," Leonard says.

"My thought is that if a ship gets hit, the athletic type of man will not go haywire. He will use his post, keep his eyes open and his head high. For he has been hit in the nose before and has the courage and stamina to take it and carry on," he says. "That is why I think the men at Hoffman Island will make great seamen."

Leonard tries to get every man at the base to compete either in varsity or inter-barracks athletics. His assistants are Jack March and Alvin March, who won the tennis title at Hoffman, was a tennis professional before entering the service and taught at various resort spots. Arniek, a boxing, football and basketball standout, was well known in Pennsylvania as a basketball official.

AT THE BATTLE FOR THE EL GUINJAR VALLEY, south of Gafsa on the Central Tunisian front, the U. S. Army 2nd Corps saw plenty of action. HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, May 5. (FNS)—Termining the so-called "emancipation" bill for married women, recently introduced in the legislature, a "delusion and snare," Ello Jo Stollberg, prominent woman attorney of Broward county, warns Florida married women that they have more to lose than gain should the bill pass.

Present laws, Miss Stollberg points out, protect married women against suit on contractual obligations, such as debts, mortgages and accounts and they would lose such rights under the bill.

"By becoming a free dealer a woman no longer operates as though single and can handle her own estate, while husband must have her signature to sell his, and the bill gives no rights not now available by free dealership," she states. "Every married woman should be opposed to this legislation which offers nothing and takes many advantages they now enjoy."

In an open letter to the press an dwomen's clubs, Miss Stollberg urges women to acquaint themselves with the bill and register their protest to representatives and senators.

Mailing Restrictions Told By Mrs. Holly

Restrictions governing the mailing of parcels to service men outside the continental limits of the United States, were today announced by Mrs. M. T. Holly, acting postmaster.

"No parcel will be accepted for mailing overseas weighing more than 5 pounds or exceeding 16 inches in length or 16 inches in length and width combined. This includes parcels addressed in care of the Postmaster or the Fleet Post Office at New York, San Francisco or Seattle," she stated.

"Instructions of the Navy Department now in effect require that personnel of the Navy must contain the continental limit of the United States have their mail addressed to Fleet Post Office, at either New York, San Francisco or Seattle, and also that no parcels be mailed in any one week when sent to the same address by the same person or firm."

prices which have got out of hand. The prices of meat, fruit and canned vegetable, coffee, among others will be rolled back.

Third, to establish specific dollar-and-cent prices for foods, so that all may know-sellers and buyers alike—what the legal price is. These prices will be printed in small booklets which the housewife can put in her handbag when she goes to market, and will be otherwise displayed.

Fourth, to bring the retailer, the racketeer, the black market operator to justice. These parasites feed not only upon the consumer but upon the overwhelming majority of businessmen who are eager to abide by the law and our regulations under the law. I propose with your help to enforce these ceiling prices and to exterminate these criminal operators of the illegitimate markets.

"The main responsibility for control of the black market is with you, the American people. In a short time you will know the legal price for practically all food you buy. If you pay a higher price you are a law violator. If you are charged a higher price the seller is law violator. I do not think the United States Army could enforce price control completely without the active cooperation of the American people.

"You can enforce it if you refuse to pay above those established by law. The claims justice and to exterminate these criminal operators of the illegitimate markets."

GAINING TOMATOES

Versatile and popular for serving in its fresh state, the tomato is one of the earliest of all vegetables to can at home.

Tomatoes are not, as are fruits, therefore, they are subject to can than non-acid vegetables such as peas and beans. You can process tomatoes in a boiling-water bath instead of the pressure cooker required for practically all other vegetables. Vitamin loss is negligible. Fresh tomatoes are light-colored, deep red when ripe, and have a thick, firm skin.

The hot-pack method is a good way both to can tomatoes and to give in hot sauce—imperial and other tomato sauce. The firm, ripe tomatoes with no damaged spots, are laid in a layer of 1/2 inch in a sterilized can. Sprinkle with 1/2 cup of vinegar and 1/2 cup of water. Seal the can and process in a boiling-water bath for 15 minutes.

Senate Approves Passage Of Bill Reversing Clocks

adopted unanimously by the House. Rep. W. E. Hancock of Madison sponsored it.

It called for Appropriations and Finance and Taxation Committee to investigate new sources of revenue, to the end that the appropriation for old age assistance may be doubled.

The House formally described as "stratagem action against his own government" the attitude and efforts of John L. Lewis in a proper and regular manner in punishment of his crime, the most heinous that can ever be committed.

TALLAHASSEE, May 5 (AP)—The pressure starts this week in the 1943 session of Florida Legislature.

In five more working weeks, the Senate and the House must shape the fiscal program of the State and its multiple functions for the next two years in which war conditions may upset normally good revenue sources.

For instance if the Federal Government did something that affected the sales volume of liquor and beer, Florida's revenues for old age pensions and a good chunk for schools—would be decreased, just as they got a $2,000,000 blow when gasoline rationing halted horse racing last Winter.

And if gasoline rationing is further tightened, or if horse racing is not resumed next Winter, the financial problems will continue to be there.

As yet the Legislature hasn't acted on new tax bills. Finance and taxation committees said they wouldn't make up any program until they know what the appropriations are going to be, and the appropriations committee's have brought in their reports. They may come this week.

President Philip H. Heall of the Senate and Speaker Richard Simpson of the House have worked the two branches at top speed, and Heall has kept the Senate calendar virtually cleared every day.

"We're ready to consider the wheat is presented," President Heall said.

The Governor, reporting the $3,500,000 of revenue lost in horse racing suspension must be replaced, recommended a cigarette tax of three cents a pack. He said the bill hasn't been introduced, but he expects it soon.

A stormy course for the cigarette tax appeared assured on the basis of comments by legislators when Governor Holland made his biennial message.

A three percent general sales tax with a constitutional amendment linked to it, was offered

A WHACKY WEEK COMES TO EAST

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A week of dizzy doings in East Tennessee.

A chick was hatched in Chattanooga with three legs.

A couple asked the Knox County Court clerk for their marriage certificate, which couldn't be found on the records. The "newlyweds" were shocked to learn after explaining their marriage license was stolen the night after the "wedding" along with the "bride's" purse that they weren't legally married at all.

The mare on William Hancock Thoms gave birth to twin mule colts, an event that occurs but once in several thousand such occasions.

A Johnson City lad, only 12 years old, obtained permission from his parents to ride a streamer train to Knoxville and back just for the thrill of it. His conversation with the train conductor and he caught a truck ride from Knoxville to Tallahassee, Fla.

Two home-sickness caught up with him. On the return trip, he collapsed from hunger in Atlanta.

A lamb in an East Tennessee county was discovered—without any moves.

In the House Monday by Rep. Lacy Thomas of Lake to help finance schools and take taxes of real estate.

He said it would "stabilize the 1941 tax equalization program in the point that its continued successful operation would be assured."

Governor Holland has recommended a constitutional amendment to eliminate school district taxes, but Thomas wants also to eliminate all but three mills of general county school taxes and substitute two-thirds of the sales tax revenue he estimated at $2,400,000 a year.

One-third of the sales tax under terms of his bill would go to old age pensions and other welfare.

The other two-thirds would be apportioned among counties for their public schools, with provision that counties then could levy only three mills of property taxes or capital improvements in schools.

The constitutional amendment in Thomas' plan would be submitted to the people in the 1943 general election, and, if ratified, it would put the sales tax into effect January 1, 1945.

Lt. Gen. Andrews Dies In Iceland In Plane Wreck

LONDON, May 5. (AP)—The headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Frank Andrews, the American European commander, said full information is still lacking today on the crash of the Allied plane in which Andrews and Blanche Adina Wright Leonard of Washington, touring United States troops abroad, were killed in Iceland.

LONDON, May 5. (Wednesday)

Lieut. Gen. Frank Andrews, commanding general of American forces in the European theater of operations, was killed Tuesday in an airplane accident in a remote part of Iceland, his headquarters announced early today.

A headquarters communiqué issued shortly after midnight said:

"Lieut. Gen. Frank Andrews, commanding general of American forces in the European theater of operations, was killed late yesterday in an airplane accident in an isolated locality of Iceland.

"Full information confirming the accident is not yet available.

"Due to wartime secrecy, it previously had not been announced that Andrews was in American-occupied Iceland.

"Succeeded Eisenhower Andrews, 59, succeeded Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, now commander in chief of Allied forces in northwest Africa, Feb. 1.

"On his appointment he had said that his first job was to increase bombing of enemy targets and to 'prepare for the reception of the larger American force undoubtedly to be brought to the United Kingdom.'

A few minutes after the announcement that Andrews had been killed, the British air ministry announced that American bombers resuming their offensive had attacked industrial targets at Antwerp, Belgium, Tuesday afternoon and had returned without loss.

(From The Poetry Chap Book)

He said "The roots and grass keep faith, which is

"Reason for the greenness, inter- woven, filling

"Space between darker greens, it once was gravel,

"And used to be raked and hoed to keep out spilling

"You would hardly guess that a path was ever here

"Now, in the spring, when old re- numbering

"Drives deep roots down, I walk here, and I wonder

"Pride feels that the fact of growth's persistence,

"Glad for the grass, to be there when I'm under

At the same time that farmers are being asked to "plant to the limit" they are being denied the cost of production on certain crops. Price ceilings are unfair to them since such arbitrary calling fall to take into consideration the volume of production which may be cut so low by insects, frost or other causes as to make it impossible for the farmers to come out under the ceiling prices.

This is what happened in the case of potatoes and as a result the farmers refuse to sell even the limited quantity they have. Can you blame them?

Germany propaganda suggests that the Nazis may stake their fortunes on an invasion attempt of Great Britain. Such a move if successful would just about wind up the war as far as Europe is concerned and leave the United States with a pretty nasty world situation on its hands. But if the Germans did not dare to attempt such an invasion in the Spring of 1940 just after the evacuation of Dunkirk when the British army was demoralized and almost wholly without weapons, we don't see what chance of success any invasion attempt would have now.

The Civil Air Corps (CAC) estimates that it has been settled for 10 days. And whether the truth will last longer than that depends on whether Secretary Jones and John L. Lewis can agree on this 28 day increase for the miners. Mr. Lewis still insists on that, as well as certain other concessions, whether the mines are operated by the government or not, whether there is a war on or not. We venture the opinion that Mr. Lewis will get what he wants. He has got the law on his side, he has got the support of the New Deal wing of the CIO, and he has got the support of the American people.

Bombing American Cities

Anyone of at least six ways may be used by the Axis powers to bomb our cities from coast to coast — mid-western cities included — before the end of 1943, James M. Landis, Director of Civilian Defense, declares in the current issue of The American Magazine.

"Persons whose business it is to evaluate the chances of our being bombed convince me that before this year is out the air raid siren may blow in earnest in at least a few, and maybe many, American cities," the Civilian Defense Director writes.

The six methods that can be used by enemy bombers, as listed by Director Landis, are: 1. German long-range bombers can take off from France and bomb New York, Philadelphia and other eastern cities, and possibly return to their bases.

2. Japanese long-range bombers can take off from Kiska in the Aleutians, where Japs are now busy building runways, and bomb Pacific Coast cities and as far inland as Duluth, Minn., and possibly return to their base.

3. There is the additional and very real danger that somewhere in the central plateau of Greenland, in the icy, wind-swept wilds of Labrador, or in the almost uninhabited Hudson Bay region, the Nazis may attempt to establish secret land bases. Such points could be used by Nazi bombers as intermediate stops enroute to raids on our Eastern cities.

4. Through the use of carriers, Nazis and Japs could bomb eastern and western cities, respectively. There is reason to believe that the Nazis have built, as others have built, numbers of small carriers converted from medium and large ships of their merchant marine. And no one can doubt that the Japs have carriers.

5. Through the use of seaplane bombers, Japs can bomb the Pacific Coast and Germans the Atlantic coast. These bombers could be based on submarines moored at appropriate intervals in the ocean lanes, and approach to within a short distance of our coasts without being detected.

6. And finally, the Germans, through the use of their highly-developed airplane catapult equipment, could approach our Atlantic shores with a speedy naval task force and catapult two-engine bombers from cruisers and battleships for raids on our coast.

Referring to a global air map, Landis points out that mid-western cities are about as close to Nazi air bases in Norway as the eastern coast cities are to bases in France. Furthermore, he says, raiders can fly the northern route with little chance of detection before they arrive over their American targets.

"Very recently a giant bomber returned to this country via the northern Great Circle route over the Atlantic," Landis reveals. "Both army and civilian defense posts throughout much of the area were alerted to report its passing. Despite this foreknowledge, the bomber penetrated as far into the United States as a certain eastern state without being once spotted by observers or picked up on our listening apparatus."

Pointing to the dropping of a Japanese incendiary bomber near the California-Oregon boundary line last October, Landis says this is "conclusive proof that our shores are not invulnerable to aerial attack."

A Sure-Fire Way To Conquer Fear

By Dale Carnegie

"I was so terrified that I awakened suddenly one night and found my bed shaking." Who do you think said that? Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion of the world and now a Commander in the Navy. It happened during the long training period before his first fight with Jack Dempsey. Here is the story as Gene told it to me.

"Even in my sleep," he said, "I had visions of myself being beaten into a bloody mass by Jack Dempsey's terrifying punches. I had been devouring the newspapers every day and they all prophesied that I would go down like a slaughtered ox before Jack's ferocious attack. I knew right then that I had already lost that fight in my mind. And I knew that I would probably lose it in the ring too unless I regained my confidence. I knew that courage could be developed just as you can develop your muscles. So I set about immediately with all the determination I possessed, to conquer my fear.

"I quit looking at the papers. I quit thinking of Jack's killing punches. I avoided the thoughts that were breeding this paralyzing fear and began thinking of my own advantages, of my long period of careful training. I reminded myself of my intimate knowledge of Jack's fighting technique, of my own triumphs in the ring. In other words, I deliberately filled my mind with heart-warming thoughts of courage and self-confidence to drive out the thoughts of fear."

Gene Tunney used the best of all possible ways to get rid of fear thoughts. But this technique isn't new—Epicurus taught it under a fig tree in Athens 300 years before Christ was born. He said, "The only way you can drive out a thought you don't want is by concentrating on another thought to take its place."

Albert Edward Wiggam summed it up when he said: "If you can keep your attention fixed on courage instead of fear, you can literally walk through hell and be unafraid."—Your Life Magazine.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By RUSSELL KAY

While those who are economy minded may consider this a poor time to be talking about appropriation increases that will run into the millions, the bill of Representative Jerry Collins of Saratoga, while calling for more money, deserves consideration as a sound investment rather than an expense.

He asks for this money to provide increased pay for school teachers—not for BOLES, but school TEACHERS. And there is a lot of difference. If such an appropriation is made and it is safeguarded so that none of it will go for anything but the purpose intended, it would prove constructive legislation and should go a long way toward meeting a situation in this state that is becoming downright serious.

Juvenile delinquency is a problem in Florida today and probably is not much worse in any other state. It is time that the firm steps are taken to check it. Much as we may dislike to face the ugly facts, recent surveys show that the juvenile delinquency problem in this state is becoming more serious by the day.

Florida Is First To Obtain Grease Quota

Florida was the first state in the nation to obtain its monthly household grease quota, it was announced today by the State OVI office.

March collections totaled 75,000 pounds or 101 percent of its quota. So great was the achievement that Paul C. Cabot, director of the Salvage Division of the FBI, wired congratulations from Washington to the state salvage organization and through them to the individual households who have made such an outstanding record.

Grease is a critical war time need. Pre-war imports of fats and oils have been cut off due to the war in the Pacific. Demand, however, is still high, because of its ten percent glycerine content, has greatly increased. It is used for explosives, drugs and medical supplies, gun recoil, depth charge releases and many other war needs.

While increasing the pay of our school teachers would not entirely solve our child delinquency problem, it would certainly help. The next to the parents themselves, the teachers have a greater influence over our children than anyone else. We have already lost too many experienced and valuable teachers and unless we show some appreciation of their work and effort we stand to lose a lot more. No one can blame a teacher for giving up such work when she can find more pleasant employment at twice or three times the salary.

This problem of juvenile delinquency is complex. It is not going to be easy to solve, but if we retain our capable teachers and succeed in attracting others of experience and ability with better salaries, we have already taken a long step in the right direction. For teachers, given support and encouragement of parents and school officials, will naturally stamp out this dangerous and growing evil.

Representative Mabry Carlton of the 12th district has given much thought to the problem and has introduced a number of bills designed to combat this condition which threatens the health, happiness and welfare of our future citizens.

If enacted into law, the Carlton bills should help materially, but laws alone won't solve the problem. There is a need for much educational work among parents and it will take the combined effort of state, county and municipal officials, school authorities, parent-teacher groups, welfare organizations, civic clubs and the public as a whole if any real headway is to be made.

The effects of Representative Collins and Carlton are praiseworthy and deserve serious and careful consideration. Perhaps as committees delve into the question additional helpful answers will present themselves.

Florida Is First To Obtain Grease Quota

Florida was the first state in the nation to obtain its monthly household grease quota, it was announced today by the State OVI office.

Cabot, director of the Salvage Division of the FBI, wired congratulations from Washington to the state salvage organization and through them to the individual households who have made such an outstanding record.
