

St. Johns District: Budget With Marshland Funds OK'd

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The St. Johns River Water Management District adopted a $17.8 million budget Wednesday night, agreed to more than double its tax rate in the new year and worked its way toward solving a long-standing disagreement between Orange and Seminole over drainage.

The nine-member district board which includes Michael Gray of Sanford among its members, voted 7-1 to adopt the budget.

The budget includes a $5.1 million allocation to acquire marshes and other wetlands within the flood plain to regulate the river's flow, thereby protecting and preserving the endangered water way.

Some $3.5 million to $3.9 million in state money from the "Save Our Rivers Act" is to be combined with the management district money for the acquisition.

The tax rate to fund the budget was set at 27 cents per $1,000 assessed value of real property.

This was a 15 cent increase over last year's 12 cents per $1,000. Gray, who supported the budget and the tax rate, said most of the increased taxes will be used for the wetlands purchases.

He noted the district has received offers for the sale of parcels which are considered necessary in the effort.

"It will not be necessary to go through condemnation procedures to acquire that property," Gray said.

Tax Rate Is More Than Doubled; Seminole-Orange Flood Dispute Is Resolved

John A'Albora of Cocoa voted against the budget and tax rate, opposing the district plan to acquire the property.

A district official said a person with a home valued at $50,000 and with a $25,000 homestead exemption will pay $7.25 in water management taxes under the proposed budget, $3.63 more than during the current year.

Last year's St. Johns River Water Management District budget totaled $11.4 million.

control by the district of large developments in both counties to protect the region's water quality.

Magnant said today Seminole County feels it is in a unique position of the 19 counties by being the only one in a very heavily developing metropolitan area.

"Whatever occurs in Orange County significantly impacts Seminole County" from a drainage standpoint, Magnant said.

He said the management district has the responsibility as the overview agency on water management and it is forming guidelines which must be complied with by all development.

As an example, Magnant said a weir (a dam-like structure only on a small scale) is being built in Lake Matland by Orange County.

Magnant said that review by Seminole County of the situation showed that the structure could raise the water level in Lake Howell in Seminole and cause flooding.

Magnant said agreement has been reached between Orange and Seminole that the weir will not be operated until the water management district does a flood control study.

"There are at least four pathways through which Orange County at the top of the hill dumps water into Seminole County. We are staying on top of this and monitoring," Magnant said.

JROTC Grows Seminole High To Add Military Training, Too

Seminole High School has received approval for an Air Force Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps (JROTC) program after a six-year wait and the program is expected to be available for students in the 1983-84 school year.

School principal Wayne Epps said today he received a letter from the Air Force notifying him that SHS had worked its way to the top of the list of those high schools nationwide who have applied.

Application was first made by Seminole High School with the Air Force and approved by the School Board six years ago. At that time, Don Reynolds was school principal. Epps said the school stuck with the Air Force program request because it is considered the best offered by all the military services.

Reynolds, now principal of Lake Mary High School, where the county's first JROTC program began this school year, said the Marine Corps JROTC program is working well there.

"We have 99 students enrolled in the classes which began the week after school started," Reynolds said. The students, who are participating, spend one hour daily in either classes or drills taught by a commissioned officer and a non-commissioned officer supplied to the school by the Marine Corps.

The experience includes learning military history, leadership, and discipline as well as formations, drills and the parts of weapons. Later, a firing range will be built at the school, Reynolds said, and the Lake Mary students will compete with JROTC students at other schools.

While the Air Force JROTC had been his first choice at Seminole, why did Lake Mary choose the Marine Corps program?

"I didn't really choose the Marine Corps. I contacted all the services to see where we had our best shot and the Marine Corps local recruiter, Sgt. Ike Moon, played an important role," Reynolds said.

He said the students then almost unanimously selected the Marine Corps.

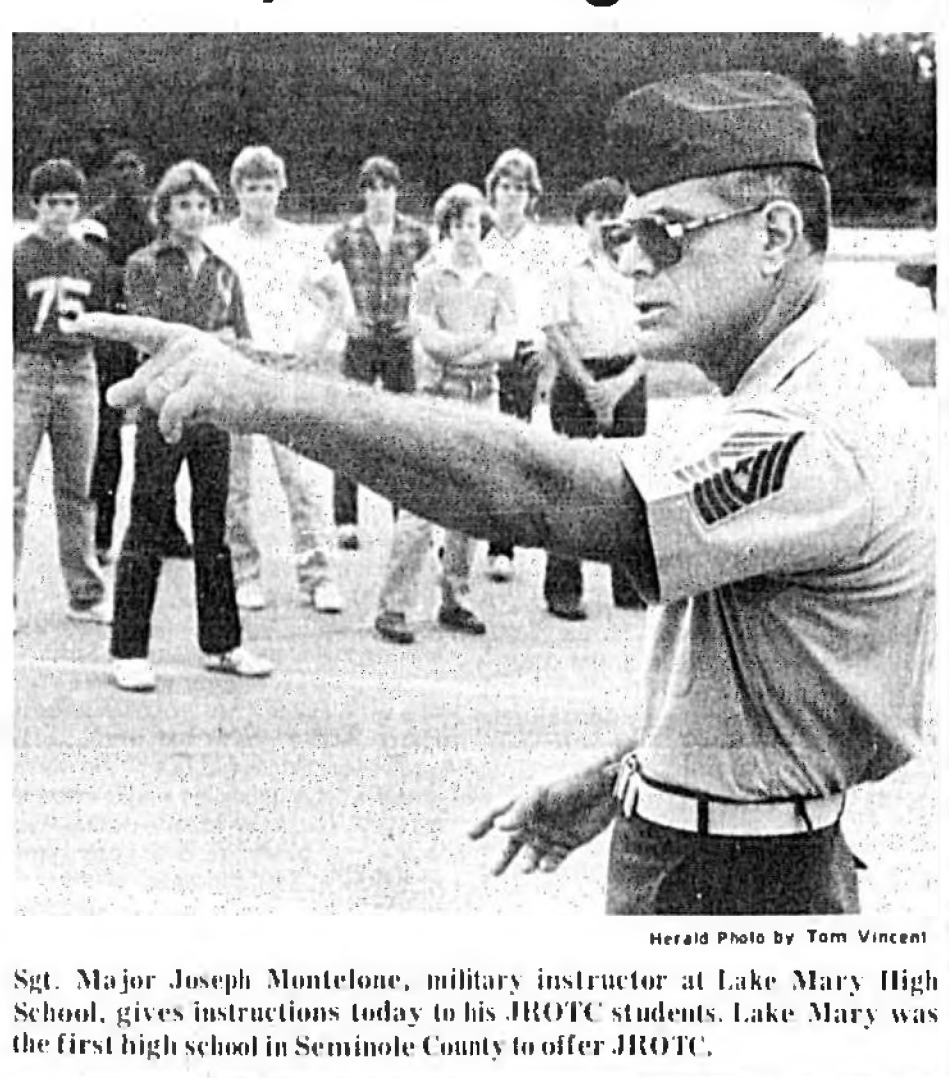

Epps said he has continued to update Seminole's application for the Air Force program, saying that program is the best offered by the military services because of the great variety of career opportunities in that branch.

In addition, of all the service academies, the Air Force Academy is most attractive to Seminole's students with the Naval Academy running a close second, Epps said.

A JROTC program gives students an edge to getting military academy appointments and also an edge toward gaining ROTC scholarships, he said.

Epps said since the Air Force JROTC is such a desirable program, there is a long waiting list of schools seeking it. Seminole must yet get a final approval, and Epps said he expects this early in 1983.

"Technically, we haven't got the program yet," he said. "Usually, only so many units are authorized and because of the popularity, a new school can't get the program unless another drops out. But Seminole is at the top of the list," he said. — DONNA ESTES

On SAT Test Seminole Students Outscore U.S. Kids

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County students who took the Scholastic Aptitude Test in 1982 scored slightly higher than last year and were significantly above the state and national averages.

Dan Dagg, assistant superintendent of Seminole County Schools, said Wednesday night county students increased their score in the verbal portion of the test from 434 in 1981 to 435 this year.

In the math portion of the test, the county average in 1981 was 475. This year's math average is 481.

Overall, the county average climbed from 909 in 1981 to 916 this year.

Dagg was enthusiastic about the results. He said it is too early to make any significant evaluations about the scores since they were just released Wednesday.

Florida students averaged 426 on the verbal part of the test and 463 on the math portion. The state average, overall, is 889.

The national average for the verbal part of the test is 426. The national average for the math is 467. The overall average is 893.

Officials of College Board, a non-profit New York group that sponsors the exam, said Florida students improved their score at the SAT this year, part of the first nationwide upswing in scores in 19 years.

"This year's rise, however slight, is a welcome sign for educators, parents and students that serious efforts by the nation's schools and their students to improve the quality of education are taking effect," said George Hanford, College Board president.

The 2½-hour SAT exam, administered several times yearly to college-bound high school seniors, is a multiple-choice test and is scored on a scale of 200 to 800. Several prestigious colleges and universities admit few students with a score of less than 550 or 600 on either the math or verbal sections.

In 1963, the national average score on math section was 502 and 478 on the verbal section. Last year, the national averages were 467 and 426, and officials said that was the first national upswing in scores since 1963.

Division Probes Continue Ex-Parks Secretary Pleads Guilty

A former Seminole County Parks Division employee has been given six months probation and ordered to pay restitution for services she received illegally from county workers.

Jonnie Butler, who resigned as a secretary-bookkeeper on Sept. 8, pleaded guilty to malfeasance before Seminole Circuit Court Judge Harold F. Johnson Wednesday.

Mrs. Butler, a resident of Geneva, was ordered to pay $350 in restitution for materials used to construct a doll house and wire her trailer.

Mrs. Butler agreed to make the restitution but denied she knew the wire belonged to the county.

One of Mrs. Butler's former bosses, Facilities and Parks Coordinator John Varney, was fired in July for several offenses including authorizing the construction of the doll house Mrs. Butler received and ordering county employees to rewire her trailer.

Varney still faces those charges and two others in Seminole Circuit Court.

An investigation of the parks division began last spring when several employees complained that fellow employees were pilfering equipment and misusing county purchase orders.

The sheriff's department and state attorney's office have been investigating the division for the past several months and the probe is expected to continue for another five to six months.

Meanwhile, an internal investigation by Director of Public Services and Development

John Percy, Personnel Director Lois Martin and Assistant County Administrator Jim Easton is expected to last another three weeks.

Percy said employees in the division will be interviewed separately and information from those meetings will be compiled into a report to be given to County Administrator Roger Neiswender.

Neiswender will then recommend action and forward the report to county commissioners.

Officials Work To Save Gasping Fish

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

In spite of a massive effort to save the fish population in Lake Adelaide in Altamonte Springs, which began Wednesday afternoon and continued through the night, 100 more dead fish were found this morning.

Four air compressors were brought to the lake after residents around the lake reported seeing large schools of fish on or near the surface gasping for breath at about 1 p.m.

City workers pumped air into the lake through plastic pipe in an effort to raise the dissolved oxygen content which at one point Wednesday had dropped to 0.2 parts per million. By late afternoon the level was up to 0.4 to 1.4 depending on the area of the lake, City Manager Jeff Etchberger said.

City officials hoped for sunshine today while continuing to operate boats and compressors. The four compressors and two boats worked through the night, when the dissolved oxygen level dropped to 0.0 for three hours, according to Pollution Control Superintendent Dave Holloway.

At 10 a.m. today, Holloway said the DO level was up to 1.0 and climbing and there had been no more dead fish pop to the surface in the past hour.

"Hopefully, we've saved a good portion of the fish," he said. "We are in a holding pattern now until the DO stabilizes. Hopefully we will get some sunshine, because there is only so long we can keep going. We've got some tired men."

Holloway said the DO content was down in nearby Lake Florida and there was some algae, but not nearly as bad as Lake Adelaide.

Etchberger was on the scene directing the operation with a walkie-talkie and operating one of the half dozen boats circling the lake to help with the aeration. Thirty workers from the water, street, pollution control and fire and police departments of the city were joined by volunteers, including City Commissioner Cheney Colorado. Seminole County, Matland and Winter Park loaned equipment.

A half dozen fish were found floating dead around the shore Wednesday including three bass which ranged from 4-10 lbs., but most were shiners, Etchberger said.

"There was a lot of algae on the lake Monday," said Etchberger, "then we had two days of cloudy weather and the algae died using up the oxygen in the water."

Homeowners around Lake Adelaide and Lake Florida, who have long been concerned about pollution and nutrients from drainage into their lakes, have been invited to a meeting to be held at 6 p.m. Tuesday in city hall.

OSHA Cites Firm In Wall Collapse Which Killed 3

A citation has been issued against the contractor who was demolishing the Burpee Seed Co. building last month when it collapsed, killing three workers.

The Robert Barbour Construction Co. of Sanford was cited by the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration for a "serious" violation in failing to have adequate engineering studies of the building to insure workers' safety.

The "serious" designation means there was a hazard that was or should have been recognized that caused an employee's death or serious physical harm, OSHA investigators said.

A spokesman for OSHA said the citation carries a maximum $1,000 fine. The citation can be appealed by Barbour within 15 working days. If an appeal is filed a hearing examiner from the OSHA review commission would hear the case and the commission would make a final determination.

The OSHA citation said "an engineering survey was not performed by a competent person to determine the condition of the framing, floors and walls and the possibility of collapse of any portion of the structure prior to permitting employees to start demolition operations."

Workers from Gracey Construction Co., which was subcontracted to prepare the building for demolition were working in the building when a second floor wall collapsed shortly before 5 p.m. on Aug. 13.

The wall buried three men, including the company owner, in the rubble. The men were dead at the scene. Killed were William Gracey, 55, 255 Palmetto Ave.; Nathaniel Bailey, 31, 612½ Cypress Ave. and Vincent Foster, 29, 1120 W. 14th St., all of Sanford.

Officials at the scene said the wall was left unsupported after timbers and planks were removed and a Sanford police investigation blamed the collapse on a strong gust of wind.

State officials are also investigating the collapse and further citations are possible.

IN BRIEF

Troops Will Go Only As Far As Eastern Mediterranean

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense sources say U.S. Marines en route to Beirut so far have been ordered only to go as far as the eastern Mediterranean to link up with French and Italian forces.

No further orders were issued spelling out when the Marines are to embark in Beirut, how many men will go ashore, where they will be deployed, what heavy weapons they will take with them from their ships, if any, or how long they will remain in the divided city, the sources said.

President Reagan announced his intention Monday to return the Marines to Beirut at the request of the caretaker Lebanese government and in concert with similar moves by France and Italy following the reported Christian Phalangist massacre of Palestinian men, women and children at two camps guarded by Israeli forces.

Tempers Flare Over Prayer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two months of an uneasy calm in the Senate over anti-abortion and pro-school prayer measures finally erupted — with a nasty exchange and some earthy digs.

The verbal fireworks lit up the Senate Wednesday during the third unsuccessful effort by conservatives to halt a liberal filibuster blocking action on the prayer legislation. The vote was 54-56 — six short of the needed 60.

A fourth attempt to stop the filibuster was to be made today and it was expected to end in another defeat for Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., sponsor of the prayer measure and a previously shelved anti-abortion amendment.

The force of the liberal argument since the filibuster began has been that the measure sets a dangerous precedent by stripping the Supreme Court of jurisdiction in cases involving voluntary prayer in schools.

Rich Welfare Cheaters

BOSTON (UPI) — A computerized check of bank accounts in Massachusetts indicates welfare recipients nationwide may be hiding as much as $16 billion from government authorities, Gov. Edward King says.

The spot check of 63, or 6.2 percent, of the state's banks turned up $25 million in undisclosed assets, King said in a report Wednesday. One recipient had more than $200,000 in the bank, six others had accounts with $100,000 or more, and a total of 280 people had at least $20,000 apiece stashed away, it said.

King said if the findings are applied to the entire nation, a "conservative estimate" of $7 billion to $16 billion in liquid assets would be disclosed.

He called for stricter regulations and closer inspection of recipients' finances by all states to curb the abuse.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: The summer of 1982 ended today with a chilly whimper and record low temperatures in the eastern half of the nation — a preview of what's ahead in the winter months, some forecasters say. Autumn made its debut at 4:46 a.m. EDT after summer's last full day Wednesday plunged the Northeast into cold storage for a third straight day, and more than a dozen cities in the Deep South shivered in a sudden cold snap. The year to date churned forth the coldest days on record in this century for many cities. Spring was late, plagued with last-minute blizzards and floods. Summer was almost non-existent with wild see-saws of cool to scorching temperatures, dashed by torrential rains, floods and destructive twisters. If fog is any indication, one folklore forecaster says the nation is in for another long bout with cold and snow. "My diary shows 28 fogs out of 31 days in August," said Helen Lane who predicts weather from her home on Crab Orchard Mountain 65 miles west of Knoxville, Tenn.

Things at Seminole County Library's Sanford branch library have really changed. The facility has received a new look. The library received a refurbishing over the past several months, including the installation of new shelves, track lighting, new carpets and wall coverings. Above are scenes

Library Referendum Issues Emphasized

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The $7 million library bond issue vote is only two weeks away. And volunteers are trying to build up interest.

A volunteer working for passage of the county's proposed library bond issue on the Oct. 5 election ballot presented information on the proposition to the Lake Mary City Council

Janel Ankiel, saying she is working with the library referendum committee on the project, told city officials that passage of the bond issue will mean an increase in taxes of only 27 cents per $1,000 assessed valuation on real property. She said the expanded and improved county library system will be equal to the Orlando Public Library.

She noted the Casselberry branch facility will be relocated from the Seminole Plaza Shopping Center to another location on U.S. 17-92 and that new branch libraries will be built at other sites including Lake Mary and Wekiva-Forest City.

"The current system is woefully inadequate," Ms. Ankiel said.

The construction program would be completed within five years after the bond issue is approved, she said.

In addition to the new branch libraries, she said some 50,000 new books are to be purchased from the bond funds. Costs of operation and salaries for new employees for the branches will be paid by the County Commission in the library's annual budget, she said.

Roger Dixon of the city's planning and zoning board said while he is not against improving the Seminole County library system, he has "a hard time believing it will be equal to the Orlando Public Library." He said he is bothered that Seminole separated itself from the Orlando system at all.

Bill Durrenberger, also of the planning and zoning commission, indicated he also thought the separation was a mistake. He said that latest concept in libraries is for regional facilities, not systems in each individual county.

And Councilman Dick Fess said many people are thinking the tax rate necessary to pay for the bond issue is being understated and the cap on the tax will actually be $50 per year per household.

Mayor Walter Sorenson said the plans for the libraries, according to Ms. Ankiel's information, seems an "incredible amount of mileage out of $7 million.

Ms. Ankiel left literature concerning the bond issue and bumper strips supporting the issue at city hall to be available to Lake Mary citizens.

Double Tax Solution Predicted Within 3 Months

All but one of the Seminole County's 12 parks provide "real and substantial" benefit to city residents, representatives of five of Seminole's seven cities have agreed, removing that as a bone of contention over double taxation.

But further consideration of the double taxation question, especially in the county's Public Works and the sheriff's department, were delayed until after County Administrator Roger Neiswender returns from a two-week vacation.

And Sanford City Manager W. E. "Pete" Knowles called a halt to the discussions until representatives of all city residents can be present.

The only park, which Knowles insisted and others agreed, is a strictly neighborhood park with no benefit to city residents was Sunland Park, part of the Sunland subdivision on Sanford's south side. Knowles said the park serves primarily residents of the subdivision. Winter Springs City Manager Dick Rozansky, Longwood City Administrator David Chacey, and Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson were prepared to continue discussions Wednesday. But Casselberry Mayor Owen Sheppard left the meeting for another appointment. Altamonte Springs City Manager Jeff Etchberger was absent because of a fish kill in Lake Adelaide and Oviedo Mayor Robert Whittier was ill.

Knowles said the county's public works and sheriff's departments are major areas where many of the cities believe double taxation exists — where services are provided specifically for residents of the unincorporated areas using countywide revenues. "The next meetings will be critical," he said.

Knowles predicted that the committee will come up with something in about 3 months which will solve the double taxation issue in Seminole County for the next 100 years.

Ultimately, Knowles said the committee expects to determine what areas of county government benefit all county residents equally and what areas primarily benefit only the unincorporated areas.

Knowles has pointed out that a similar committee in Orange County reached such an agreement several years ago on services with the end result that city residents pay a lower county tax rate than do residents in the unincorporated areas.

The group agreed to set the following schedule of meetings, for further discussions on the issue — Oct. 12 and 26 and Nov. 3, all at 1:30 p.m. and all in Knowles office at Sanford City Hall. Neiswender will return from his vacation Oct. 11.

The study of county operations performed by Kelton and Associates of Deland, said that 67 percent, or 343 miles, of the county's total 514-mile road system provide no real and substantial benefits to city residents and should be paid for by the property owners in the unincorporated area.

The Kelton study says the "residents and taxpayers of the cities should not continue to pay a major portion of the maintenance and construction costs for these local roads nor should they bear a share of the cost of the public works director's office, engineering, traffic engineering, drainage engineering, right of way and other related costs for these roads. Any benefit received by a city resident's occasional use of these roads is incidental. The abutting property owners are the primary beneficiaries of these roads," the report says.

The Kelton report contends that 32.5 percent of the sheriff's department's patrol and investigative activity occurs within the cities and city residents should pay only this share of the cost.

Feather Facing Suit Over Mortgage

Fed-Up Homeowner Catches Burglar

John S. Ralston, 45, of Sanford, had had enough. His home had been burglarized several times in recent weeks and he was determined to catch the culprit.

According to a police report, Ralston stayed home from work Wednesday, hoping the bandit would strike again.

At about 9:35 a.m., Ralston said he heard a knock on the front door but didn't answer it. The person then went to the rear of the house and called for Ralston's son, Keith.

Getting no answer, the burglar pried open a window and crawled into the house, the police report said. Once inside, he armed himself with a pool cue.

However, Ralston had armed himself with a pistol and confronted the intruder in the living room, holding him at gunpoint until police arrived.

Arrested and charged with burglary was a 14-year-old Seminole High School student who was housed in the Seminole County Juvenile Detention Center in Five Points.

COMMISSIONER SUED

Legal trouble is brewing for Seminole County Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather.

This time it's a mortgage foreclosure suit in which a former real estate associate of Feather's is seeking $85,609 he claims is owed in a promissory note.

Steven B. Clippinger of Fort Lauderdale filed the suit in Seminole County Circuit Court and asked that Feather be ordered to pay the note or sell the property Feather used as collateral in the note.

Feather said he's trying to sell the property on State Road 434 near Meredith Manor Boulevard in an effort to repay the mortgage.

Feather said he has reduced the price of the property, a four-acre parcel along S.R. 434, by $250,000 to make a faster sale. He said the current problems were caused by high interest rates which have filled the real estate market.

Records filed in the case reveal that Clippinger loaned Feather $30,000 in 1978 with the understanding the pair would split profits from homesites in a project called Brantley Harbor East.

In 1981, Clippinger intervened in Feather's divorce proceedings to protect his investment. The mortgage and promissory note were issued at that time.

Feather made a payment of $10,000 on Jan. 25, 1982 but failed to make a payment of $46,250, plus interest which was due April 11, the court records show.

J.P. Carolan III, who holds a mortgage on one parcel of the property, also is named in the suit against Feather.

Police, responding to a silent alarm, found Howard hiding in a cardboard box, wearing a camouflage fatigue jacket, court records said.

In the second case, Donald Wayne Carden, Jr., 20, of 1404 Cardinal St., Longwood, was convicted of breaking into the Sweetwater Mushroom restaurant, 227 Altamonte Commerce Blvd., Altamonte Springs.

Carden was fired from the restaurant on July 22 and a week later was found hiding on top of a walk-in cooler inside the restaurant by an employee making an unscheduled delivery, court records said.

According to a sheriff's report, Keith Hodges, 18, a cook at the Pizza Put at 2607 State Road 436, was leaving the restaurant at about 12:45 a.m. when a man wearing a ski mask and brandishing a pistol jumped out of the bushes and forced him to lie on the ground.

The gunman demanded the keys to the restaurant, discovered Hodges didn't have them and ordered him to run from the scene.

Just prior to the assault, Hodges had parted company with restaurant manager Kathy Taylor who deputy John Ranking theorized was the bandit's probable target.

Workmen Struggle To Free Ship Stuck In Miami River

MIAMI (UPI) — A ship with a potentially dangerous cargo was stuck on the bottom of the Miami River today as workmen with tugboats struggled to free it. The 225-foot Poinciana ran aground in the downtown area river suddenly at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday as a tugboat began pulling it away from the dock for its trip to Haiti the Dominican Republic. Workers began removing the cargo of 1,380 drums of hypochlorides and muriatic acid Wednesday night, port official Eugene Hissey said.

Sexy Con Man Hits Orlando

ORLANDO (UPI) — A smooth-talking caller who authorities believe extorted money and sex from at least five Florida women by telling them their husbands have been in traffic wrecks has struck the Orlando area, police say. Officers said Wednesday that an Orlando woman gave an undisclosed amount of cash to a man and gave in to his demands for sex last week after receiving a phone call that her husband faced prosecution for fleeing a traffic accident. The caller, police said, has struck in Boca Raton, Lauderdale Lakes, Fort Lauderdale, Miami and Orlando.

Next German Leader Faces Sick Economy

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — With unemployment rising and an average of 1,000 firms collapsing every month, West Germany's future conservative government will inherit an economy at its lowest point since World War II.

In an attempt to halt the slide into depression, the new conservative government expected to be led by Christian Democrat Helmut Kohl likely will impose tough and socially unpleasant measures that will bring Bonn's economic policies closer to those of President Reagan or Britain's Margaret Thatcher.

Kohl, who has arranged an Oct. 1 parliamentary no-confidence vote expected to oust Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, has said the new government's foremost task will be "to reduce the unacceptable level of unemployment and revive the falling economy."

To achieve that aim both Christian Democrats and Free Democrats — who are now likely to form the next West German government — have called for stringent cutbacks in state spending. Welfare payments, student grants and unemployment benefits are likely to be the first victims of the cuts.

Proposals for higher taxes by Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's government to finance increased spending are likely to be abandoned under the Christian Democrats and Free Democrats who have consistently opposed the idea.

Begin: 'No Inquiry'

United Press International Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, rejecting demands for an inquiry into the west Beirut massacre, tangled today with splits in his coalition and charges that letting Lebanese Phalangists near Palestinian was a "dumb idea."

The Knesset Wednesday, backing Begin, voted 48-42 against setting up an independent inquiry of the massacre.

But Energy Minister Vitzhak Berman, of Begin's Likud bloc, objected and resigned. Deputy Foreign Minister Yehuda Ben Meir and Education Minister Zevulun Hammer threatened to quit unless an inquiry is started within two weeks.

Ben Meir and Hammer are members of the National Religious Party, a key member of Begin's coalition. The government's hold on power would be threatened if the NRP, with its six votes, failed to vote with Begin.

A $74,000 Bargain Sanford Buys Pumper

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

A new 1,000-gallon-per-minute fire pumper truck is to be delivered to Sanford's Fire Department before Christmas. And the $74,000 truck is costing the city 25 percent less than similar trucks are costing other cities in Florida.

The major difference between the new American LaFrance truck and ones Sanford and other cities have bought in the past is that the new one is being built with a commercial chassis and standard parts.

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles said using a standard vehicle and cutting out the "fancy gingerbread" means not only an advantage in initial price, but also means that parts will be readily available.

Assistant Fire Chief Tom Hickson said the commercial chassis is manufactured by the Ford Motor Co. and the automatic transmission is built by Detroit and

Allison Diesel. Service for the new truck will be available locally, Hickson said. Hickson said the new truck will replace a 1957 engine, a "25-year-old work horse in its day, but that day is over."

The new truck will provide what is needed for a front line pumper, Hickson said. The estimated cost of repairing the old truck was twice as much as its original purchase price and not feasible, the assistant chief said.

In addition, delivery time for a custom pumper is six to eight months, Hickson said, while Sanford's new truck will be delivered in 90 days.

Knowles said a custom fire pumper costs $100,000 to $110,000. Knowles and fire department personnel together worked out the specifications for the standard fire truck, the manager said.

The city has gained approval from Flagship Bank for the financing of the vehicle to purchase over three years at 9.5 percent annual interest.

The interest rate was based on 70 percent of the prime rate.

Hickson said with the new fire pumper the department will be in excellent shape.

The Sanford Fire Department has its central (main) fire station at 1303 South French Ave. and its second station on U.S. 17-92, north of Lake Mary Boulevard.

The central station has six pieces of equipment including a front line pumper, a back up pumper, an 85-foot tower truck, purchased a year ago for $300,000; a rescue vehicle, a tanker and a brush truck.

Station 2 has a front line pumper, a backup pumper and a rescue truck.

With replacement of the 1957 American LaFrance, the department will have a 1983 LaFrance and a 1974 LaFrance as front line pumpers. Backup trucks will be a 1972 model and another old 1957, which is likely to be replaced later, Hickson said.

Trains Returning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the nationwide railroad strike halted by an act of Congress, freight and commuter traffic roared back toward normal today and away from what could have been an economic calamity. "We expect... rush hour to be normal," with 120,000 commuters riding the rails, said Chicago's Regional Transportation Authority Director Lewis Hill. "The railroads don't foresee any hitches."

Owen Pride, spokesman for Seaboard Coast Line Railroad in Jacksonville, said the resumption of regular freight operations will be complete by later today.

"We began calling crews late Wednesday night for the freight runs and regular crews began manning the trains shortly thereafter," Pride said.

Amtrak passenger service on northbound trains from Florida began today on normal schedules, said Debbie Marciniak, Amtrak spokesman.

Southbound passenger service from major northern origin points will be arriving in the state Friday, she said, noting these trains normally take longer than a day from point of origin to Florida.

President Reagan cited "vital national interest" Wednesday in signing legislation — passed by Congress just hours earlier — that ordered 26,000 locomotive engineers to end their 4-day-old walkout.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers said they would comply and predicted most workers would be back on their respective passenger and freight trains within 12 hours.

A management spokesman said some trains would begin rolling immediately and the rail system nationwide should be back to normal operation within 24 hours, although a ripple effect may be felt in the economy for up to two weeks.

The strike affected between 100 and 150 railroad employees at Sanford. Amtrak passenger and freight trains were expected to be back on track at Sanford by late Thursday.

Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis said a prolonged walkout would have cost the economy $1 billion a day and idled nearly a million workers within a month in addition to more than 400,000 rail workers.

With the walkout over so soon, Ago Ambre, a senior Commerce Department economist, said "The impact is imperceptible."

The walkout had caused havoc for many rail commuters, but supervisory personnel, filling in for strikers, kept more than half the freight traffic moving.

...Kids Do Better In Their SAT Tests

Florida seniors who took the test between the summer of 1981 and last spring scored an average of 426, the same as the national average, on the verbal section. That's a two-point increase over two years ago.

In math, however, Floridians scored 463, four points below the national average but the same as college-bound high schoolers did two years ago.

For the last five years, the average Florida score remained in a five-point spread in both the math and verbal sections. Average math scores ranged from 461 to 464 and verbal scores from 424 to 428 in that period.

Ralph Turlington, state education commissioner, said he was not happy with Florida's mid-level rank among the 50 states and "would like to see a larger increase" in test scores.

But Turlington was pleased 38.7 percent of all Florida seniors took the test compared to the national average of 33 percent. The greater the number of students taking the test in a state, the lower the average score in that state, College Board officials said.

Even though Florida educators strive to be among the top 13 states by 1986, they set no goals for the average SAT score, Turlington said.

Instead, they want to see more students score better than 700 on at least one section of the exam.

Turlington said he does not want to see poor performers not take the test just because they pull down the state average. Urging more people to take the test might encourage them to improve their studies, he said.

The SAT scores, along with results from the American College Test and Achievement Tests, will be used as indicators in the state's efforts to improve education, said Turlington.

The Middle East's Political Reality

For all the attention that is focused on the Middle East, there is little appreciation of the transitory nature of governments in that troubled region.

Americans tend to regard the nations of the Middle East as permanent entities comparable to nations such as France and Spain, which have endured for centuries. The nations of the Middle East don't belong in this category. They are largely synthetic creations.

For hundreds of years, the region was part of the Ottoman Empire. Turkish domination extended from Egypt to Lebanon. There's no political or constitutional link between Egypt's past and present, for example.

The Turks ruled Egypt from 1517 until the British intervened in the late 19th century. Lebanon, which now holds the attention of the world, also was under Turkish rule until the French intervened in 1861.

France was in control there until the end of World War II. Syria likewise was under French rule until 1940.

The pattern elsewhere in the Middle East is the same. Jordan and Saudi Arabia were the products of British influence at the end of the first world war. Britain created governments and armies of both.

Given this history, there is no reason to believe that these entities will endure forever or that their boundaries are fixed for all time. The Middle East nations are the result of international conflicts and negotiations among the great powers.

What does this mean? It means that nations in this region may change their shape and character in the years ahead. The changes may be inevitable because each of the nations embodies bitter conflicts among population and religious groups. Egypt, for example, is experiencing increasing conflict between Coptic Christians and Muslims.

It is conceivable that the entire region may be reorganized in years ahead by creating new political entities based on population and religious groups.

Partition of countries to ensure peace is nothing new in history. It was carried out most recently when the Indian sub-continent was divided after World War II into India and Pakistan. Partition seemed inconceivable in the 1930s. By the 1940s, partition was a necessity. The same situation may prevail in the Middle East.

Changes of this type produce unexpected results. It is possible, for instance, that the Christian population of Lebanon would prefer to be part of Israel than incorporated in Lebanon with a Muslim majority.

Historical perspective on the Middle East should enable Americans to have a better understanding of the possibilities in negotiations.

In the Middle East, the United States is dealing with a much more fluid situation than exists in Western Europe. The United States, therefore, should take a creative approach to the region and not be bound by the pleadings of the nations there which present temporary political arrangements as fixed for all time.

"OK, put it down SLOWLY, an' hand me your wallet."

Seminole County will be in the swim of things this Sunday when the Leukemia Society Super Swim Classic is scheduled to take place. In Seminole some 400 swimmers are expected to participate ranging in age 3-82. The action will be held 1-5 p.m. in Days Inn pools near Sanford. Swimmers obtain pledges from sponsors for each lap they swim up to a maximum of 200 laps. Money raised will go for leukemia research and patient aid.

The Sanford-Seminole Jayceettes are in charge of the Super Swim in Sanford. Anyone wishing to sign up, who hasn't already done so, may call Sherry Kitner at 323-4979.

For the fourth year, the Central Florida Chapter of the Leukemia Society of America held the Executive Golden Lap in conjunction with the Super Swim Classic. It took place on Sept. 18 at Rosemont Golf and Country Club and $4,000 was raised for the cause.

Prominent persons in the professional, business, government, education and media community were invited to swim one lap for a minimum sponsorship of $200. Several Seminole Counties exhibited their prowess in the water for the event. They included School Superintendent Bob Hughes, Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce President Jack Horner and his wife, Peggy; Dick Fess, vice president of business development for ComBank, Altamonte; and Ed Sennett and James Weinberg, representing The Wall Street Co., Altamonte Springs.

At its recent annual corporate meeting and dinner, the Seminole Youth Planning Council bestowed on Barbara Fingerma, outgoing president 1981-82, the Eugene Minietta Service Award. This award was designated three years ago by the Seminole Youth Planning Council to honor each year that person whose service to the council is most outstanding.

Judge Dominick Salfi, chairman of the board, presented this award to Fingerma who was recognized for "dedicated effort, boundless energy and enthusiasm in service to the Council and the youth of Seminole County." Judge Salfi also presented certificates of appreciation for special service to outgoing officers Bob French, vice president; Nancy Warren, secretary; Dorry Bragg, treasurer.

The Seminole Youth Planning Council's federally-funded project, the Seminole Youth Service System, closes its doors on Sept. 30 after serving since 1978 as the only central source of youth service information and coordination in Seminole County.

The Council will meet on Oct. 6 at 7 p.m. at the agricultural center, Five Points, 17-92 in Sanford to elect officers for the coming year and establish direction for future effort.

If you would like to join the Council in its efforts to understand and meet the needs of Seminole County youth, you are invited to attend this meeting. For further information please call: Judy Klingman, Executive Director at 322-9146, Sanford.

Energy Exporting Taxes

DENVER (NEA) — The severance taxes levied by the coal-producing states of the Rocky Mountains have ignited a political dispute as hot as the fires in the Midwestern power plant boilers which use this region's coal and their fuel.

Even though the U.S. Supreme Court presumably resolved the controversy when it ruled in July 1981 that Montana's severance tax was a constitutional exercise of the state's authority, the debate continues unabated over the legitimacy and equity of the levy in that state and, to a lesser extent, similar severance taxes in Wyoming and North Dakota.

Members of Congress from the Midwestern states which are the largest consumers of coal from the Northern Rockies repeatedly have sought (but failed) in recent years to secure passage of federal legislation which would supersede state laws and require a substantial reduction in the tax rate.

Although Montana's severance tax rate varies according to the heat quality of the coal and the manner in which it is mined, the levy averages 30 percent. The state last year collected $99.2 million in severance taxes.

Wyoming imposes a 10.5 percent state severance tax on coal production while local governments levy an additional ad valorem tax which averages 6.5 percent, bringing the total to 17 percent. Severance tax revenues in 1981 amounted to $138.3 million.

North Dakota's coal severance tax is 85 cents per ton, adjusted to match changes in the wholesale price index. Last year's severance tax collections totaled $103.4 million.

Opponents of those taxes argue that the region's coal is a valuable national resource which belongs to the entire country rather than to the states where it happens to be located by geologic and geographic coincidence.

In addition, those critics claim that the tax is illegal because it is not actually imposed on individuals and corporations in the coal-producing states but instead is "exported" to coal-consuming states elsewhere in the country.

Those arguments, however, cannot withstand the scrutiny of an objective examination of the issue.

The region's coal may, in theory, be a national resource but the severe social, economic and environmental problems caused by the extraordinarily rapid development of energy "booms towns" are the responsibility of the states.

Severance tax revenues are desperately needed by the producing states to finance those communities' expanded requirements for police and fire protection, educational and health care facilities, water and sewer systems, roads, housing, social services and land reclamation.

The "exporting" of various state taxes to consumers in other states is part of a national pattern. Scores of states and municipalities, for example, impose an occupancy tax on hotel and motel rooms which are used almost exclusively by travelers from other cities and states.

Greed May Lead To OPEC Collapse

WASHINGTON — Try to fight back your tears: My sources tell me the Arab oil countries are in deep trouble, and are unlikely to pull out of it anytime soon.

Some analysts even go so far as to predict that OPEC — the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — is on the verge of collapse. A confidential White House memo I've seen put the situation bluntly, and with undisguised satisfaction: "The oil weapon has been laid to rest once and for all. The Cartel is dead. R.I.P."

Rest in peace, indeed. What makes the demise of OPEC's stranglehold on the Western industrial countries particularly gratifying is that it was brought about by the sheikhs' insatiable greed.

By using their "oil weapon" as a gun at the head of the industrial nations, the OPEC sheikhs not only helped bring on the recession that has cut down on their one-time customers' need for oil; they forced the victims of their monopoly to find alternative forms of energy to run their factories and heat their homes.

Math Teacher Shortage

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
UPI Education Editor

The newest celebrity along academic row: a qualified mathematics teacher.

The species is in such short supply that Richmond Public Schools in Virginia, for one example, recently put a $2,000 bonus on the hook dangled before certified math teachers it hoped to sign up for two academic years.

The payout: $1,500 for the first year; $500 for the second. A teacher who leaves before the two years must give back a portion of the bonus.

In Oklahoma City, Okla., certified math teachers new to the system get a $500 bonus.

The shortage of qualified math teachers is threatening national defense and the proper working of the economy, Dr. Stephen Willoughby, president of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics said.

"It is scary," he said.

In the Armed Forces, for example, sophisticated weapons require math calculations. Many in the military are just too dumb at math to figure how to point guns in the right direction, to hear Willoughby, a professor of education from New York University, tell it.

The current math-dependent economy, he said, is suffering from the shortage of qualified math teachers, too. With teaching so poor, not enough math-competent persons are being turned out for jobs in industry.

Willoughby said the economy, in this math-dependent high technology era, will hurt as a result.

The NCTM president, a Greenwich, Conn., resident, claims the scene is scary for both national defense and the continued smooth-running of the economy.

Willoughby fears national math stupidity — which he links to the shortage of qualified teachers — will worsen to the point that kids in the next 10-to-15 years will not be able to get a decent math education.

In an update on the shortage, the NCTM makes these points:

—Mathematics teaching has the severest shortage of any subject area in 1982.

—Since 1977 there has been a 77 percent decline in the number of secondary-level mathematics teachers prepared in 600 teacher-training programs nationwide.

—Among newly employed mathematics teachers, 50.2 percent were judged by principals to be unqualified to teach in that field. Many had been employed on an emergency basis because school officials could not find qualified teachers.

If the salary of math teachers doubled next week, the shortage of qualified teachers in the schools probably would be eased, Willoughby said.

Low salary is the reason math teachers in droves fled from the classroom in recent years, taking higher-paying jobs in industry.

Willoughby places some hope in proposals before Congress that would permit industry to join with schools in solving the problem of qualified math teachers.

One such proposal is the "Precollege Mathematics and Science Teacher Assistance Act."

It calls for:

—Seven percent interest loans to college students preparing to be elementary and secondary mathematics and science teachers. (The shortage of science teachers is severe, too.)

—A tax credit for high technology employers who hire precollege mathematics and science teachers for summer jobs.

—A tax credit to firms that permit fulltime employees the hours away from work to teach mathematics and science in public schools.

The NCTM cited these other solutions by various states:

—FLORIDA. Teachers not certified to teach middle or junior high school math can take tuition-free courses to gain certification.

—ALABAMA. Undergraduates who seek math teaching certification are eligible for loans of tuition, books, room and board for each year of fulltime study.

Last Ditch Effort

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Hill has been the arena for the "Superbowl of lobbying," thanks to a proposal to change the way in which antitrust damages are assessed. The issue involves big money for corporations on both sides of the proposal — and they have spared no expense in unleashing what may be the greatest array of lobbying talent the Hill has ever seen focused on a single issue.

We have reported on this "Superbowl" several times in recent months, but an update is in order, since the focus of the "game" has changed.

The proposed bill, which is now making its way through the Senate, would change the way antitrust damages are assessed against groups of co-defendants found guilty of antitrust violations.

General agreement was reached long ago on the new method, which no longer is very controversial. But a bitter debate still rages over a question that, on the surface, appears to be a technicality: Should the effective date of the new method cover only suits filed after passage, or should the new method be made retroactive to include suits currently in the courts?

There now are three very large antitrust actions in the courts, and the corporations could save up to $1 billion if the effective date is made retroactive to include these cases. In effect, that $1 billion would come out of the pockets of another group of corporations — those that are co-defendants in these suits, but which agreed to a settlement before trial.

The matter seemed resolved when the Senate Judiciary Committee voted to approve the legislation with the retroactive effective date. But the bill still faces floor passage, and the corporations who oppose retroaction — and their lobbying forces — are making one last stab at eliminating retroaction in the final legislation.

Opponents imply that the Republic might well crumble if the effective date were made retroactive to current cases. The lobbyists call the retroactive form "the price-fixers' relief act" (ignoring the fact that their clients are price-fixers who agreed to a pretrial settlement) and say that its passage will result in "legal chaos and gross injustice." Normally, in a "technical" matter like an effective date, the full Senate almost automatically will agree with its committee's decision. But this issue has become so politically charged — and so much money is at stake — that the outcome is still uncertain.

The proposed Missing Children's Act, on which we also reported previously, is still inching along the pipeline.

Its sponsors note that more than 1.8 million children leave home each year — 150,000 of them under mysterious circumstances — and they want the federal government to establish a computer registry of missing children. The proposed computer system would be maintained by the FBI's National Crime Information Center.

This seems to be the type of legislation that would sail through with little objection. However, Justice administrators and the FBI began furious lobbying to stop it.

Under the proposed legislation, if local police did not file a report, parents could go directly to the FBI. The FBI objected to giving parents direct access to the system: It did not like the potential cost.

coming year, and it shows an increase of several billion dollars, even though it is obvious that the country's one source of income — oil — is producing drastically less revenue than it used to. The government doesn't dare to reduce its domestic expenditures, for fear of revolution.

There's an additional, macabre dilemma faced by the Saudis: The Iran-Iraq war poses a threat to the Saudi regime the longer it continues. If Iran wins, its radical Moslem revolution could topple the Saudi regime. Yet supporting Iraq is costing the Saudis more than they can afford, while risking the Ayatollah Khomeini's wrath.

On the other hand, as long as the war continues, the Saudis can sell more oil, relieved of competition from Iran and Iraq, which are too busy fighting to pump oil. In fact, one source said: "If Iran and Iraq were to stop fighting, Saudi Arabia is finished."

In any case, one thing seems clear: OPEC's once-vaunted "oil weapon" is beginning to look more like a cap pistol every day.

Letter Writing Stressed

For those who have been putting off writing to faraway friends and family members, this is the week to do it.

The Postal Service, along with several educational associations, is sponsoring National Card and Letter-Writing Week on the theme, "Letters Lift Spirits. Write!"

Posters in schools, libraries and post offices throughout the nation are featuring a colorful balloon that demonstrates graphically the good feelings that letter and cards generate.

"The written word, as expressed in letters, is important in influencing opinions, lifting spirits and preserving memories," said Sanford Postmaster James Covington.

National Card and Letter-Writing Week and the importance of letters is being emphasized by the Postal Service, the National Association of Elementary School Principals, the National Council of Teachers of English, the National American Library Association, the National Art Association and the American Family Society.

Local classroom teachers will be encouraging their students during NC & LWW to write letters as "Volunteer Scribes" for elderly or invalid persons unable to write for themselves and to participate in a national stamp design project.

Students in grades kindergarten through 12 are invited to submit their drawing in school. The teachers will then send the art to local post offices so it can be exhibited there, as well as in schools and libraries.

The designs will be reviewed by members of the National Art Education Association before being submitted to the Postal Service's Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee. The committee will recommend selected designs to the Postmaster General for final approval.

Bureaucracy Strikes Again

United Press International

Three Cheers for Government Bureaucracy

Government bureaucracy has struck again — and this time, it really struck. Richard Durfee got the surprise of his life when he showed up Monday at the abandoned gas station he owns in Tampa. Durfee was carrying a city-issued permit to repair his roof. But the guys from Omni Contracting he met there were carrying a permit of their own — to tear down the building he bought two years ago. He got there just as a bulldozer was making yet another run at it.

What's going on here? he asked. A permit mix-up, that's what. Durfee was issued a May 28 permit he says is still good. David Anderson, Inspectional Services chief, said the building was condemned and had to be torn down. But nobody told Durfee — until he saw the wrecking ball. Anderson says the county didn't do anything wrong. Durfee says they did. Now what? "I guess I have to hire an attorney," Durfee shrugged. The city already has. Meanwhile, Durfee's building that once was, is no longer.

Where There's a Will, There's a Way

Even in these uncertain times when the American work ethic and ingenuity are said to be on the wane, there are folks like Tom Fitzpatrick who go and show that, by golly, we still have it after all. Fitzpatrick is a construction worker working on Miami's rapid-transit Metrorail system. The transplanted northerner has had a garden for 10 years but had no place at his new home to plant one. So, Fitzpatrick creatively planted — on his own time — 11 rows of fruits and vegetables at the construction site. Metro official Jim Martla was the first to spot the plot. "I thought, 'What the hell is that?' It's not something you expect to see at a construction site." Indeed not. Among the tomatoes and piles of rock are cantaloupe, broccolli, zucchini, green peppers. Just goes to show, where there's a will, there's a way.

Burt Goes Condo

Burt Reynolds, who presumably has plenty of places to rest his head, is out looking for another one. Reynolds, a part-owner of the Tampa Bay Bandits in the new U.S. Football League, may buy an Indian Shores condominium for a mere $250,000 so he'll feel at home when he watches his team. The 2,400-square foot condo has three bedrooms, two baths, a 54-foot-long tiled balcony overlooking the Gulf of Mexico AND a balcony overlooking the Intracoastal Waterway. The decision may be made on the answer to a question developers have put to the FAA — may Burt build a helicopter pad on the roof so he can fly across the bay to Tampa Stadium? Come on FAA, don't ruin Burt's fun.

What Are You Doing So Far From Home, Teddy and Jimmy?

Those two old friends — Sen. Edward Kennedy and former President Jimmy Carter — who showed us all how well they get along during the 1980 Democratic primary campaign — were both in Miami this week, but luckily didn't run into each other. Kennedy was in town to weigh support for yet another run at the presidency in 1984. Knowing he can count on several prominent Miami residents, he went after the unknown, dining with Mercy and Raul Masvidal, a bank chairman who voted for Ronald Reagan. Carter came to Fun City to discuss his library and international policy center. Not surprisingly, he found time to rebuke another old friend of his and Kennedy's — Ronald Reagan — for not taking a more forceful role in Lebanon.

Down but Not Out

Jim Kelly, the University of Miami's star quarterback who was a Heisman Trophy candidate before he separated his shoulder last weekend, has been receiving some, well, rather strange calls from wellwishers. Kelly, who had been touted as a No. 1 draft pick next spring, had surgery Monday and is out for the season. He has been showered with get-well messages, many from folks he doesn't know. Friend Greg Zappala said one person called Kelly's room at the football dorm and played religious music. Someone else called and said she had a "spur-of-the-moment idea from God that she and her group should come in and help heal Jim." Zappala said he would leave that to the doctors, who do have good news: Kelly will be able to have a pro career.

Hard Times

No matter how hard they try, some people just can't get a break — like 57-year-old John Bryant of Orlando. Bryant recently was ordered to appear in court to serve as a juror, but he never showed up. He was ordered back to court to explain why he hadn't appeared — and explained that he was afraid of losing his spot in a line at the unemployment office. Circuit Court Judge Frederick Pfeiffer said he was sorry, but that will be two days in jail anyway.

Sam Raines' Fly Sacks Sessions, 1-0

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

There wasn't much difference between league-leading Cook's Corner and Sessions Wednesday night in the Sanford Men's Fall Softball League.

One run to be exact. Sam Raines' fly ball to right field in the sixth inning chased home brother Ned Raines with the only run as Cook's Corner remained unbeaten (4-0) with a narrow 1-0 victory.

Ned Raines doubled to open the inning and moved to third when John Boggs reached on an error. Sam Raines followed with his run-scoring fly ball.

The tally ruined an excellent pitching performance by Steve Scribner who checked the usually explosive Cook's bats on five hits. Terrell Ervin and Ned Raines had two hits each. Sam Raines had the other single.

Doug Braswell hurled the shutout for the Corner, allowing just three singles. Brian Hanrahan, Kerry Myers and Robbie Hanrahan each had a hit for Sessions.

Cardinal Industries Belts S & H, 11-3

In Wednesday's second game, a six-run second inning carried Cardinal Industries past S & H Fabricating, 11-3.

Randy Brown opened the inning with a single and Billy Griffith reached on an error by the left fielder. Chuck Woodworth stroked a single for one run and Ed Gentile followed with a single for a 2-0 lead. Rocky Jernigan doubled home two more and Larry Pressley ripped a triple to score Jernigan. One out later, John Westbrook chased home Pressley with a base hit.

Cardinal made it 7-0 in the third on back-to-back doubles by Griffith and Woodward before S & H finally broke the ice on singles by Fred Conquest and Dave Perry. Conquest scored on an error by the center fielder.

In the fifth, Gary Scott reached on an error by the right fielder and eventually scored on a fly ball by Brown. Cardinal added two more in the sixth on singles by Gentile and Ben Green along with a sacrifice fly by Pressley and a run-scoring single by Westbrook for an 11-1 bulge.

Fabricating added its final tallies in the seventh on singles by Tony Wynn, Andy Fennel and Steve Machesney. Fennel and Machesney had RBI. Pressley picked up the win while Jim Black suffered the loss.

Whitehead's 3 Hits Drain Mobilite, 4-2

In Wednesday's final game, the Pookie Bears used a perfect 3 for 3 night by Niki Whitehead to subdue Mobilite, 4-2.

Mobilite jumped on top, 1-0, when Harry Jones reached on an error, moved up on a single by Julius Griffin and scored on a single by Thad Brooks.

The Bears tied the game on a walk by Wayne Crocker, a base knock by Bill Lee and a ground out by Fred Aiken.

Mike Lawrence scored in the second after reaching on an error to move Mobilite ahead, but Whitehead doubled and scored when Doug Burleson reached on an error for a 2-2 deadlock.

Whitehead singled home the deciding run in the fourth and the Bears added an insurance run in the fifth when Burleson tripled and eventually scored on a sacrifice fly by Crocker.

Lawrence and Brooks had two hits each for Mobilite. Gary Snell picked up the mound decision while Mike Vanderpool took the loss.

Frakes Tries To Pickle Herring In Football Forecast

Holy moly. What are these poor prognosticators going to do?

Cliff "Hanger" Nelson, after a mediocre 13-15 record, was probably relieved when the NFL players went on strike. Nelson has an alternative though, the great outdoors. On the other hand, all Jerry Greene will have to do is sit in his office and collect cobwebs.

Meanwhile, Fearless Fister still has high school and college contests to prestidigitate on. If you ask me, college and high school are more exciting anyway. Besides, the Tampa Bay Bucs cost me one-fourth of my losses.

Going into the third week of picking, my record stands at a not overwhelming but consistent 16-8. Last week's guest picker, UCF head coach Sam Weir, recorded a 9-3 record.

This week, the Seminole High-Lake Mary High football rivalry is put on the burner as Rams quarterback Kyle Frakes (who is out for the season with an injury and had to be put to work somehow) and Seminole defensive back Tim Herring go head-to-head.

EDGEWATER AT SEMINOLE

After two weeks of playing tough squads, the Tribe finally plays a patsy. Edgewater was 1-9 and so far they are 0-2 in '82. If the 'Noles don't commit about 25 turnovers (if they do, Jerry Posey might have to be commuted), they will cruise to their first win — Tribe by 13.

Frakes' pick — Seminole by 5. Herring's pick, of course, Seminole by 7.

BISHOP MOORE AT LAKE MARY

Another battle between two teams looking for win number one. Bishop

Moore has the size and experience advantage while Lake Mary has the home field. Bishop Moore scored nine points and actually took the lead on Lake Howell while the Rams have not reached payday yet — Bishop Moore by 9.

Frakes — (Greg) Shatto runs wild, defense makes big plays — Rams by 3. Herring — Lake Mary too inexperienced — Bishop Moore by 10.

TITUSVILLE ASTRONAUT AT LAKE HOWELL

Don't go to this game unless you're prepared for an all-out war. Astronaut is ranked second in the 3A state polls and Lake Howell is yearning for the limelight. Don't run to your bookie, but, I have to go with the upset — Silver Hawks by 2.

Frakes — Astronaut by 3. Herring — Astronaut by 12.

WINTER PARK AT LYMAN

Another big matchup between two strong teams. It looks like Winter Park is stronger though with a 2-0 record compared to Lyman's 1-1 mark. The Greyhounds seem to be over all of their injuries, so the only affliction this week will be to Bill Scott's pride as the Lyman coach gets his second straight dose of bad medicine — Winter Park by 7.

Frakes — Winter Park by 6. Herring — Winter Park by 4.

LAKE BRANTLEY AT BOONE

This game has the possibility of being a sellout. But the Rolling Stones won't be available to perform at halftime so it won't be. Some good advice would be to bring your sleeping bags, it could be a scoreless tie. The way I see it, the final outcome will be 4-2 with safeties being the only means of scoring — Lake Brantley by 2.

Herald Sports Writer

Frakes — Boone by 12. Herring — Brantley by 3.

TRINITY PREP AT ST. PETE SHORECREST

Shorecrest will be without its quarterback, top rusher and receiver, but they do have a game plan. The punter will play quarterback out of the shotgun formation and kick every time they have the ball on offense, with the possibility of a faked punt deep in its opponent's territory. Trinity Prep should coast — Trinity by 21.

Frakes — Trinity by 14. Herring — Trinity by 14.

MISSISSIPPI STATE AT FLORIDA

A lot of people are saying that this is the year of the Gator. Maybe in China — not in the U.S. Mississippi State runs a type of offense called the wingbone and it will have the Gators mystified, in an upset — State by 8.

Frakes — Go Gators, Florida by 10. Herring — All the way, Gators by 14.

UCF AT VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE

What kind of a name is VMI Keydets? That name made me want to pick UCF and, if the Knights had a little more experience, I would have picked them. If I didn't know better I'd say the VMI stands for Very Miserable Identity — Keydets by 12.

Frakes — VMI by 10. Herring — UCF by 1.

FLORIDA STATE AT SOUTHERN MISSISSIPPI

You might call the FSU defense the black hole of college football. Southern Miss. has an exciting offense, led by quarterback Reggie Collier and will roll up enough points to hold off the Seminoles — Southern Miss. by 10.

Frakes — FSU by 1. Herring — FSU by 7.

MIAMI AT MICHIGAN STATE

Michigan is a long way for the Hurricanes to travel, especially without quarterback Jim Kelly. The Miami defense should keep things close but without Kelly, the offense is a big question mark and may turn into a big fizzle. In another upset — Michigan State by 4.

Frakes — Miami by 14. Herring — Miami by 3.

ALABAMA AT VANDERBILT

It doesn't matter where this game is played, the Crimson Tide will massacre Vandy — Alabama by 42. Ex-Lake Howell wideout Chuck Scott will start for the Commodores.

Frakes — 'Bama by 35. Herring — 'Bama by 10.

MICHIGAN AT UCLA

The Wolverines like playing Pacific Coast teams. But they usually play at Michigan's stadium (which seats over 100,000). UCLA has the edge here — Bruins by 6.

Frakes — UCLA by 3. Herring — Michigan by 7.

Well, that will do it for week three. Look here again next week to find out how the Frakes-Herring duel turns out.

Mediator—Owners Yea, Players Nay

Pro Football

NEW YORK (UPI) — To mediate or not to mediate? That is the question.

With the NFL strike now in its second day and no negotiations scheduled, the possibility of bringing in a federal mediator, a move which helped settle last year's 50-day baseball strike, was met, as expected, with conflicting viewpoints.

The NFL Players Association, which called a work stoppage Monday that resulted in the league announcing that tonight's Kansas City-Atlanta game will not be played, is against a federal mediator stepping in at the present time. The NFL, Management Council, which represents the owners, has been calling for a third party for weeks.

"They (management) gave a total rejection to our last proposal and a mediator's role would only be to come in if we are close," said NFLPA spokesman Frank Woschitz. "We're waiting for management to come up with the next offer."

Woschitz said it appeared at least another meeting would have to take place before the federal mediator, Kay McMurray, entered the talks.

"Our player reps have said in a resolution that now is not the time for a federal mediator and they haven't changed their minds," he said.

Jim Miller, a spokesman for the NFL

Management Council, reiterated the players' position.

"We're willing to meet with them without a federal mediator," Miller said, "but if our horns are locked, the federal mediator will be helpful in getting us together. The mediator is hesitant to force himself into it because (NFLPA executive director Ed) Garvey says it's not the time for mediation. If there's a strike on, then when else is the time?"

McMurray, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service in Washington D.C., says he's ready to step in.

"I talked to both sides Tuesday night and told them I'm available," said McMurray, reached Wednesday night by telephone. "Management has been saying they would welcome a federal mediator but the Players Association has not responded."

While the union is waiting for management's new offer, management is waiting for the union to change its last offer.

"We hope the union will reevaluate its proposal concerning a wage scale tied to a fund," said a spokesman for management. "Our system has worked successfully and has allowed the current

$1.6 billion offer by management."

However, Garvey said management earlier agreed to a wage scale.

"For six months Jack Donlan (executive director of the NFL Management Council) has said 'If you get off a percentage of the gross, we will discuss a wage scale,'" said Garvey. "So last Friday we took a dramatic step. We withdrew our demand for a percentage of the gross."

"They caucused and rejected it. They said they were unilaterally opposed to a wage scale. They denied everything they had been saying."

The union is seeking 50 percent of the money NFL owners get from television contracts, a wage scale based on seniority, increased medical insurance and other benefits.

Garvey also urged NFL owners to remove their "hired guns" from the negotiating process and send in negotiators — either Commissioner Pete Rozelle or a panel of owners — with the authority to reach a contract agreement.

"The strike could go a long time," Garvey said, "but I don't think that would necessarily cancel the season. There's a lot of ways to make it up. There's a dead week between the playoffs and the Super Bowl for one. And the players are prepared to extend the season."

The league said no decision has been made as yet regarding the 13 other games that were to have made up the season's third regular-season weekend but the TV networks were anticipating the worst.

Several players already have said they would not honor the strike. "I do not believe in this strike. I do not believe in the wage scale," said Cincinnati linebacker Reggie Williams.

Tampa Bay quarterbacks Doug Williams and Jerry Golsteyn also voiced their disapproval.

"My stand is this," said Golsteyn. "I just feel the Lord blessed me tremendously in the last few months. It would be like slapping Him in the face and saying 'You haven't done enough for me.'"

Raiders, Coliseum Could Collect Over $82.5 Million

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Raiders and Memorial Coliseum could collect more than $82.5 million from the National Football League in the aftermath of a two-year antitrust battle, it was reported.

The Daily News of Los Angeles said in Wednesday's editions that court documents revealed the Raiders are seeking $22.5 million damages against the league while the Los Angeles Coliseum Commission is asking for $4 million. Antitrust awards are automatically tripled, the newspaper said.

NCAA Wins Skirmish; Bigger Battle Looms

College Football

DENVER (UPI) — The NCAA may have won a legal skirmish, but the war still looms ahead in a bitter fight with the universities of Oklahoma and Georgia, two perennial football powerhouses, over the televising of college football contests.

Officials for both sides in the dispute have admitted more than a quarter of a billion dollars is at stake over the next four years, including $60 million this year alone.

The NCAA won its temporary victory Wednesday when the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals stayed a lower court order that nullified existing network contracts to televise football games. The stay was ordered after the court received a 26-page brief, much of it warning of a dire impact on college and high school sports.

Last week, U.S. District Judge Juan Burciaga of Albuquerque, N.M., declared the multi-million TV contracts between the NCAA, ABC, CBS and the Turner Broadcasting Co. null and void on grounds they violated federal antitrust laws.

The NCAA asked — and received — a temporary stay of that ruling until it could appeal the decision.

In issuing the stay, a three-judge panel, made up of Circuit Judges James Barrett of Wyoming, James Logan of Kansas and Stephanie Seymour of Oklahoma, agreed to expedite the appeal. They set deadlines for the filing of briefs and said they would hear oral arguments after the last brief was filed by Nov. 15.

"Motions for extensions of time will not be favored," the court said. "This matter will be set for oral argument promptly after it is at issue."

The dispute involves the NCAA's four-year television contracts with CBS and ABC as well as a two-year pact with the Turner Broadcasting System, a cable network. The total worth of the contracts was estimated at $281.5 million.

"The (Burciaga) decision in this suit is the only judicial determination which has ever invalidated any aspect of the NCAA's football television program in the more than 30 years that the program has been in force," the NCAA lawyers said in their motion.

In asking for the stay, the NCAA argued it was unlikely the judge's order would be upheld on appeal and said it most likely would be modified.

Birka, shown with elephant trainer Bill Shields, donned a hard hat and grabbed a paint roller when she showed up for work at the RCA Zoo House in Hidden Lakes Wednesday. The house will be auctioned off Nov. 13 to benefit the zoo.

Pachyderm Joins Work At Zoo House

Birka, a 5,000-pound Asian elephant from Circus World, came to Sanford Wednesday to lend a trunk at the site of the RCA (Residential Communities of America) Zoo House at Hidden Lake. The nearly completed three-bedroom, two-bath house valued at $54,970 will be auctioned on Nov. 13 with net proceeds to benefit the Central Florida Zoo.

Sanford Mayor Lee Moore, usually the soul of brevity when it comes to making speeches, seized the occasion to deliver a few choice remarks about possible plans to move the zoo to Orlando which he referred to as "that monster to the south which would gobble us all." Moore said city officials want the zoo to stay at its present location outside Sanford and that local support such as the RCA house will go a long way toward keeping it here.

As 14-year-old Birka posed for cameras wearing an elephant-sized hard hat and grasping a paint roller in her two-fingered trunk, Zoo Executive Director Al Rozon announced that the zoo's new elephant compound will be dedicated on Oct. 9. Once it's completed, Maude, the zoo's 8,500-pound circus elephant who has been living at Circus World while her new facilities were completed, will be packing her trunk and moving back home. Maude helped raise $18,000 last March for the elephant paddock.

The zoo's big fundraiser, the annual Wild West Auction and $50-a-plate dinner will be held Friday at the Expo Centre in Orlando beginning at 6 p.m. — JANE CASSELLBERRY

School Board To Study Using Schools Year-Round

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer
Formation of a subcommittee to develop ideas for year-round school programs has been approved by the Seminole County School Board.

The subcommittee will report to the board's Capital Outlay and Planning Committee which is charged with identifying future needs of the school district and which of those needs will be the most urgent.

The creation of the subcommittee was a compromise between board member Pat Telson and Superintendent Robert Hughes.

Mrs. Telson wanted the board to authorize a committee to draw up programs for using schools on a year-round basis. But Hughes argued that the committee's goal would duplicate efforts of the Capital Outlay and Planning Committee.

Mrs. Telson, who has brought the subject before the board numerous times, said several "professional" people had volunteered to explore the matter.

"They would look for something innovative that has never been used before. It won't cost taxpayers or the school board anything," she said.

But Hughes argued that the committee on which several school administrators serve along with County Administrator Roger Neiswender and planner Woody Price, has already looked into the issue.

"The problem I have is that working with the committee is counterproductive," he said. "It's kind of mind bogging to get a bunch of people in a room and say, 'Think of something that's never been thought of before.'"

Hughes said Dr. Hortense Evans, a school board administrative trainee, has also studied several year-round school programs which have been used in Florida and other parts of the country.

Board members Allan Keeth, Roland V. Williams and William Kroll voted against Mrs.

Telson's proposal. Nancy Warren supported it.

During the discussion, Keeth suggested a computer program could be worked up to identify where the school system could make changes to allow it to run more efficiently. Since the goal of the board is to minimize construction needed to meet the demands of growth in the county, the program could identify ways to limit new building.

Food Prices Moderating

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's broad measure of consumer prices rose only 0.3 percent in August, as falling food and gasoline costs helped temper the August inflation rate, the labor Department said today.

The Consumer Price Index for August, if spread over twelve identical months, would show an annual inflation rate of only 3.3 percent, department analysts said.

But more impressive was actual past performance of the price index so far this year. If the moderate inflation through the first eight months held steady through December, as most analysts expect, 1982 would produce a rate of only 5.1 percent, the Labor Department said.

DAR Hears Author Of Cookbook

The Sallie Harrison Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met in the Sunshine Room of the Florida Power & Light Co. for the September meeting.

Regent Genevieve Brunley presided and welcomed members and guests to the first meeting of the year.

Committee chairmen reports were made during the business meeting and a short essay was read on the meaning of the Constitution. It reminded members to be especially aware of the great document during Constitution week, beginning Sept. 17th when the nation celebrates the 195th anniversary of the signing of delegates from 12 states in 1787.

Lourine Messenger program chairman introduced the guest speaker Mrs. N.A. Helfrich Jr., author of the cookbook "From the Melting Pot."

Elizabeth Paulucci Helfrich was reared in a Minnesota mining town where immigrants from 25 nations lived, worked and shared their native cooking talents. The author told many historical bits about the background of recipes in her book. Her wit and culinary skills are evident. She took extended studies at Cordon Bleu School and continues to collect recipes, judge cooking contests and travel extensively.

At the conclusion of the meeting, members sampled some of the delectable party foods brought by the guest speaker as well as refreshments served by hostesses, Elizabeth Kelly and Virginia Kelly, during the social hour.

'Marked' Teens Can Get Help

DEAR ABBY: You recently publicized a program to remove gang-related tattoos from juveniles. This project was inspired by Dr. Karl Stein, a Los Angeles plastic surgeon, and his attorney wife, Sandra.

Dear Abby

As a result of your column, the Steins received more than 1,000 letters. Many young people were found to be good candidates for removal of graffiti-like tattoos and are now free of this gang stigma. Because so many teenagers wanted to get "untattooed," a 15-minute film titled "Untattoo You" was produced by our school district and a local cable TV company. It focused on the dangers of amateur tattooing, and showed how difficult it was to remove small tattoos from hands and faces as well as larger tattoos from backs, stomachs, arms, etc. The "stars" of this film were the juveniles themselves, candidly discussing the reasons they were tattooed and why they wanted to have them removed.

This film was first place in a national cable educational film competition. We also plan on making the film available for national distribution to other school districts and community-service agencies working with juveniles.

A non-profit foundation is being established to pay for film copying and mailing costs. For information regarding this film, interested parties may write to me directly:

DEAR ABBY: Much has been written in your column about the health hazards of smoking and drinking but there's another habit I never see mentioned — chewing tobacco! My husband has this habit. The effect on his breath, teeth and gums is awful, not to mention what it must do to his mouth and stomach. (I know he's not supposed to swallow it, but since it's impossible to spit in church or other public places, what else can he do?) He's a very considerate man, and he doesn't keep six or seven cans around the house to spit in, but everytime I want to lean over and give him a big fat kiss, I see a big lump in his cheek, so I lean over in the other direction and forget it. I love him, but when I see him put that pinch between his cheek and gum, I'd like to slug him.

Am I the only woman who feels that way?

TURNED OFF IN TEXAS DEAR ABBY: I'm sure you're not. But don't be so quick to assume that only men chew tobacco. Some women have the habit, too.

DEAR ABBY: Please settle an argument for me. My friend says anybody who wants to attend a wedding that's held in a church may attend, and nobody can keep him out because a church is a public place. Of course, the wedding reception is something else, and unless a person has been invited to the reception, he can be kept out.

What do you say? CONFUSED BRIDESMAID DEAR ABBY: ALL churches are open to the public. And unless the wedding is that of a celebrity, the public may attend. However, to protect celebrities and public figures from curiosity seekers, the invited guests are asked to present their invitations at the door. Then ushers are posted at all the doors along with security guards to eliminate the gatecrashers.

People with good manners go only where they're invited. If you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped ($2 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38223, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Judge Gives Two 'Supreme' Justice

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — A judge unhappy with a state Supreme Court ruling that drunks should not be jailed had police deliver two men charged with drunkenness to the Supreme Court building.

Jay Goldman, a Charleston Municipal Court judge, said he was responding to the state Supreme Court's recent ruling that it was "cruel and unusual punishment" to jail chronic drunks. The court gave authorities one year to end the practice.

Goldman said the court's no-jail ruling was ambiguous and he did not like the one-year delay in putting it into effect. "I consider that being partially pregnant," Goldman said. "Either it's constitutional (to jail drunks) or not."

Goldman said he shipped the two men, who had appeared before him several times before being drunk, to the high court "because they have more facilities at the state to handle this than we do."

The action drew mixed comment from the justices, who never saw the pair.

"I know he has a difficult and frustrating job," said Justice Thomas E. McHugh. "I hope we can channel our efforts into seeking solutions to alcoholism rather than playing games with those inflicted with it. A judicial officer has an obligation to be a leader in striving to ensure human rights."

"I think Judge Goldman has made a good point," said Justice Darrell V. McGraw Jr. "I think he's trying to make the point that we do something. We need some kind of facility for the chronic alcoholics."

Getting Rid Of TB Is Tedious, Long Battle

ATLANTA (UPI) — Tuberculosis, the great respiratory killer of decades ago that filled sanitariums with thousands of victims, is hanging onto its reputation as a tenacious disease difficult to eradicate.

The knockout punch is a long way down the road, says Dr. Laurence S. Farer, director of the tuberculosis control division of the national Centers for Disease Control.

The incidence of tuberculosis, or TB, has leveled off for the past three years after declining steadily since the 1950s. From 1968 through 1978, there had been an average decrease in the number of cases of 5.6 percent. Since then the decrease has averaged just 1.4 percent.

There were 27,373 cases of TB in 1981 with a case rate of 11.9 per 100,000 population, a slight decline from the previous year. In 1953, when records were first kept on a national basis, there were 84,304 cases for a rate of 53 percent per 100,000 population. As recently as 1977 an estimated 3,000 persons died from TB.

"It's going to be a long, slow process in getting rid of this disease," said Farer in an interview. "It's a long, tedious battle. It's house-to-house fighting unless we get some breakthroughs."

Farer said cases of the bacterial lung ailment among Indochinese refugees accounted "somewhat" for halting the decline of the disease. But "they have not been responsible for spreading TB to anybody else." He said the refugees are treated before arriving in this country and the treatment is continued after they get here.

"The fact is, TB is not declining rapidly in our own population."

Characterizing tuberculosis as "a poor man's disease" because it spreads rapidly among under-nourished people living in close quarters, Farer said, "We still have lots of poverty in this country and large reservoirs of infected people. We may have reached the irreducible minimum."

Tuberculosis is caused by a bacterium called "tubercle bacillus" that affects mainly the lungs. Persons contracting the infection may develop an active case of the disease or it may become dormant and "wake up" years later. Farer estimates there are 10 million Americans with dormant TB infections.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
Re: Lake Mary Boulevard from Markham Woods Road past US 17 92 to CR 427 425
The Lake Mary Boulevard Corridor Study Citizen Advisory Committee will hold a public hearing on Thursday, September 30, 1982 at 4:00 PM, or as soon thereafter as possible, in the Seminole County Agricultural Center Auditorium, 4320 S. Orlando Dr., Sanford, FL 32771 (just west of US 17/92 one mile north of the "Five Points" intersection with CR 427 and SR 419). The public hearing is being held to inform the public of the results of the transportation study and receive public comments before final recommendations are made by the Citizen Advisory Committee to the Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County, Florida. Your attendance and participation is encouraged.
Seminole County has secured the professional services of the traffic engineering firm, Foxworth Associates, Inc. to prepare design concepts for road widening, signalization and an access plan which anticipates future development. In addition to auto and truck traffic, provision will also be made in the design concepts for transit, bicycle and pedestrian users. The Committee's recommendations will also include what actions must be taken (by whom) and how the plan will be funded (by whom). Once the recommended plan is adopted by the appropriate governmental agencies it will be reflected in transportation budgets and management decisions and new proposals for land development in the corridor will be reviewed and authorized in keeping with the objectives of the plan. The practical significance of the study recommendations, therefore, should not be underestimated.
For additional information about the study and/or the public hearing contact Woody Price, AICP, Seminole County Planning Director at 323-4330 ext. 181.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
Re: Lake Mary Boulevard from Markham Woods Road past US 17 92 to CR 427 425
The Lake Mary Boulevard Corridor Study Citizen Advisory Committee will hold a public hearing on Thursday, September 30, 1982 at 4:00 PM, or as soon thereafter as possible, in the Seminole County Agricultural Center Auditorium, 4320 S. Orlando Dr., Sanford, FL 32771 (just west of US 17/92 one mile north of the "Five Points" intersection with CR 427 and SR 419). The public hearing is being held to inform the public of the results of the transportation study and receive public comments before final recommendations are made by the Citizen Advisory Committee to the Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County, Florida. Your attendance and participation is encouraged.
Seminole County has secured the professional services of the traffic engineering firm, Foxworth Associates, Inc. to prepare design concepts for road widening, signalization and an access plan which anticipates future development. In addition to auto and truck traffic, provision will also be made in the design concepts for transit, bicycle and pedestrian users. The Committee's recommendations will also include what actions must be taken (by whom) and how the plan will be funded (by whom). Once the recommended plan is adopted by the appropriate governmental agencies it will be reflected in transportation budgets and management decisions and new proposals for land development in the corridor will be reviewed and authorized in keeping with the objectives of the plan. The practical significance of the study recommendations, therefore, should not be underestimated.
For additional information about the study and/or the public hearing contact Woody Price, AICP, Seminole County Planning Director at 323-4330 ext. 181.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL For Friday, September 24, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY September 24, 1982
You are likely to become involved in many new interests this coming year, and the times ahead could be quite exciting. However, try not to have so many irons in the fire that you do not complete what you start.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You are extremely effective today, provided you are dealing with persons who operate on the same wavelengths. However, if you run into opposition you might not use your best judgment. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
You're the type who always tries to reciprocate when others are helpful to you. Today, uncharacteristically, you may be more concerned with taking than giving.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Expenses could get out of hand today if you associate with persons who are able to spend more freely than you can. Abide by your budget, not theirs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
This is one of those days when you may fail to leave well enough alone and interfere with something which is running smoothly, only to cause unnecessary complications.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Today friends will accept you with your shortcomings, provided you are prepared to overlook theirs.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Once a touchy issue is resolved today, let it lie and be forgotten. Rehashing it could undo all the good you've done.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You're capable of handling difficult situations early in the day, but unless you make sure they are bonded together solidly all could later unravel.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
If you are making changes at work today be sure the solutions you arrive at do not later create a set of new problems. There's a chance they might.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Important agreements should not be entered into hastily today. If you jump the gun you may have to abide by some unfavorable terms.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Be sure that either you or your mate are on the scene today if you're having work or service performed around home. Unsupervised, you may get poor results.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Use a light hand when dealing with those in your charge today and you'll have no problems in getting them to do your bidding. Heavy measures invite rebellion.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Your material prospects are very encouraging today, but it's possible you might do something foolish which could offset your gains.

His Temperature Change Questioned

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a healthy 32-year-old male, 6 feet 1 and weigh 185 pounds with a slight pouch at the waist.

I would like to know what are the effects of sudden temperature changes from 140 degrees and over to an air-conditioned room from 70 to 80 degrees numerous times in a work day?

Since I perspire quite heavily and must remain in hot temperatures for long periods of time, what is the best way to restore body fluids lost by perspiration? I know excessive salt is detrimental and my employer stopped supplying salt tablets years ago. How do I know if I am getting enough fluids or too much?

DEAR READER—The sudden temperature changes you describe are not as harmful as people think, although if you are rest in a cool room after exertion it might contribute to muscle cramps. The truth is the periods of cooler temperature help your body eliminate the heat that has built up and are very beneficial in the prevention of heat stroke. Many people get into trouble with heat waves because they do not have a cool room to sleep in and the body never gets a chance to really eliminate a build-up of body heat.

If you sweat a lot from sports or work you can lose too much salt and water. Salt tablets are not usually recommended any more but if you lose too much salt it should be replaced or you will be prone to muscle cramps. You can get the salt you need by adding salt to your food and by drinking at least a quart of fortified skim milk a day. Drink a lot of orange juice or other fruit juices too for additional potassium. Don't be fooled by the current hysteria about salt intake. Your body does need a minimal amount and must replace salt lost from sweat. Weigh yourself daily. If you begin to lose too much weight that is not accounted for by your diet, then you should make it a point to drink a lot more water. Body weight is an excellent guide.

I'm sending you The Health Letter 7-12, Heat Stress: Cramps, Exhaustion, Stroke, which will clarify the heat, salt problem for you. Others can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 30-year-old man and have been dating a divorcee of the same age. Although sex has not entered the relationship yet, it most likely may, along with marriage. She would like to have children. She has told me that she has venereal herpes.

I understand this is an incurable viral disease and that it is only infectious during a flare-up. I'm extremely impressed that she told me in advance of any potential exposure. I'm sure that was very hard to do.

Can we reasonably avoid the infectious periods so as to prevent infecting me?

DEAR READER—Just recently a new medicine has been approved to help control herpes simplex 2, sometimes called genital herpes. It is acyclovir, marketed as an ointment called Zovirax. It will not cure herpes but it will shorten the time required for healing of sores caused by the initial attack and will shorten the time live viruses are present in the sores. That should mean it will shorten the time the lesions are contagious. There will be more learned soon about its effectiveness and limitations since it will be widely used.

Had he rebid to three diamonds, North would have gone to four hearts. A three-heart rebid would undoubtedly find North passing.

The Prof won the opening lead in his own hand and promptly led a low trump toward dummy. West produced the 10 and dummy's queen fell to East's ace. The deuce of clubs came back. West took two clubs and led the 10 of spades.

The Prof won in dummy, led a trump and promptly finessed the nine after East played low. It held and the rest of the tricks were claimed.

"Horseshoes," murmured East.

"Just correct play," replied the Prof. "It was the use of restricted choice. West's play of the heart-10 was forced since he had a singleton. Had he held jack-10 he might have played the jack. Thus my finesse was about a two-to-one favorite to win. Still, I was lucky. Had I held the 10 of trumps instead of the nine, restricted choice would not have applied and I would probably have played for the 2-2 break and gone down."

Here is the Professor bidding his hand to the limit as usual. Many experts would merely have rebid three of some suit instead of jumping
