The entire month of August is National Catholic Month, National Water Quality Month and National Business Recruitment Month.

The first full week in August has many interesting observances. They include National Smile Week, Psychic Week, National Video Game Week, Beauty Queen Week, National Clown Week, and in Owensboro, Ky., this is Preserve the PONY Week.

Superstar: Woman plays Jesus

BARRETT Minn — The line from the religious rock opera asks, "Jesus Christ Superstar, do you think you're what they say you are?"

It's a good question for this production, in which the Son of God is a woman.

It wasn't some kind of social statement, just a lack of available males that led the Prairie Wind Players, community theater troupe to cast women as Jesus and the apostles.

"To tell you the truth, my first thought was, 'Is there another play we can do?' A woman as Jesus was a hard thing for me to envision," said Tim Ray, who is directing the production of "Jesus Christ Superstar."

When the troupe held tryouts for the musical in early June, 25 women and only four men showed up. None of the men were right for the part of Jesus.

Ray pondered and stewed before finally asking Melissa Nyman, an English teacher in nearby Morris, to be Jesus. Like any good actor, she tried to find common ground with her character.

"There's Jesus, who was sometimes a frustrated teacher," Nyman said. "I tell myself, 'Hey, I can surely play a frustrated teacher.'"

Players say the reaction their neighbors have had to the female Jesus is philosophical, along the lines of, "Well, isn't that something?"

Enthusiastic support has come from Nyman's father. She said he's more excited about her role than she is.

"I went to church with him," she said, "and when we were in the coffee line, he'd tell everyone we'd see 'She's Jesus!'"

Black males' plight

Summit to help youths plagued by poverty, drugs, unemployment

By KELLEY MITCHELL
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A group formed to study problems faced by Seminole County's young African-American males will share its findings and some solutions to those problems this week.

Of the just over 4,000 black males ages 15-24 in Seminole County, 50 percent drop out of high school and are unemployed, according to statistics from the Seminole County United Way Advisory Board. The group also found that one out of four African-American males between the ages of 20 and 29 are in prison, under some form of parole or probation or are influenced by drugs, poverty, and gangs.

The Seminole County United Way Advisory Board, a group of volunteers and professionals from the private and public sector of the county, have been working for the past year toward formulating a plan to help these young men.

This Thursday and Friday the Task Force will hold a two-day summit entitled "Survival of the African American Male: Century 21" at Seminole Community College. The conference is the result of studying crime statistics, surveying numerous young males in the area

"I feel the past year has been a real education for some of the members of the Task Force and has opened some eyes on the problems our young men are experiencing."

SANFORD — Most of the spectators at the Firematics firefighters competition on Saturday huddled under the trees to the south of the parking lot at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

The metal bleachers that had been erected for their viewing comfort were bathed in sunlight and were avoided at all possible costs.

"It's just too hot to sit out there in the sun on those metal seats," said Florentine Jones of Sanford who had brought her daughter Suzanne, 6, an aspiring firefighter, to see the

Shelter's leaders replaced again

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The revolving door to the leadership of the Humane Society of Seminole County has spun again.

Norma Spivey, society executive director and board treasurer, resigned both posts last Wednesday. Society president Dr. Joseph Vaughan said Spivey's departure was entirely her own choice and the board did not want her to leave.

Spivey did not return calls Friday.

She had just gotten tired, said Vaughan. She had gone a year with no pay. No one wanted her to go, but it can be hard on a person.

Vaughan said a board selection committee is negotiating with Krista Morgan of New Orleans to

There's plenty more to come

When the Herald and I agreed to write and run these "Way Back When" articles in September of 1990, I remember, while driving home I figured I could do about 20 or 25 columns before exhausting things to write about. Would you believe I have done and the Herald has published nearly 150 of these articles?

JULIAN STENSTROM

I have all columns done for publication into November. And would you believe I have enough notes for at least another 60 or more. I'm trusting the good Lord to let me live long enough to write the articles planned about families and events that should be remembered in print.

To give you an idea, I have articles planned about Dentzel and Frances Stafford — a pair of the nicest and closest friends I ever had. I have notes about the Ferguson and the Ed Biggers families, the Sanford Marina, the Merle Ginder assassination, the plaques that came from

Miracle baby recalls outpouring of support

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

Four decades ago a baby boy was born in Sanford and in a few short weeks the community rallied together in a fund-raising effort to save his life.

That same baby boy credits the community's support and a miracle from God for saving his life, enabling him to celebrate his 40th birthday today.

Allen Luther Harkey was born August 1, 1953 at Fernald Loughton Hospital in Sanford, the first child of Bernard and Mary Alice (Herndon) Harkey. It was a difficult birth and mucous built up in the baby's trachea. After about five weeks, the condition worsened until one afternoon, Alan's parents rushed him to the hospital and an emergency tracheotomy was performed. A tube was inserted in the baby's throat, allowing him to breathe and for accumulating mucous to be removed.

rooms at the old Seminole Memorial Hospital when individuals or clubs contributed special furniture for those facilities, the McLander Arcade building, and when later Sheriff Percy Mero once operated an auto garage and was Sanford's Hupmobile dealer.

I have several stories to do about the Sanford Police Department plus photos. I want to do a story about Jimmy Wright of the Ox-Fibre Brush Company and local baseball association official who was murdered almost 16 years ago by the convicted Gregory Mills who is still on death row at Starke. Among dozens more I've got a story to tell you about the late W.T. Stapleton who had a typewriter with a history you just might not believe and a yarn about produce brokers A.H. Moses, his son Morris and daughter Stella who married Joe Orilt, and a story about Rose Levy. And, folks, that's just the tip of the iceberg.

Finally, do you remember two years ago when Red Barber and I got into a disagreement that on a baseball field he would call a "rhubarb"? It took me over two years to figure out what happened and next January I was going to clear it up. Red died last fall and I'm trying to figure out how I should do it.

A few weeks ago and for some reason I got to thinking about my old friend George Willis. Two or three years ago George and his dear wife moved from Sanford to Madison, a nice town in the Florida panhandle. I saw him once in 1991 when he visited Sanford for the annual meeting of the Seminole Sunrise Kiwanis Club. George to me was, and still is, one of the finest, down-to-earth and kindest gentlemen I guess I've ever known.

So one morning I hauled off and sent him a card for no other reason than to let him know he had friends in Sanford who missed him. George was in real estate here. Now has his own brokerage office in Madison.

I got a nice reply. He sent me some copies of a couple of weekly newspapers published in Madison County. It reminded me of a weekly paper that was published here in Sanford back during the 1930s. How many of you old timers remember the "Seminole County Democrat"?

For the life of me, however, I can't remember the name of the editor and publisher.

Anyway, George is familiar with my column and said if I wrote anything about him to let his many friends in Sanford know that he misses them too.

Received a call recently from Janet Grant I found to be very interesting. Her mother came to Sanford on one of the steam powered riverboats that brought cargo as well as passengers from Jacksonville to Sanford and, of course, carried cargo and passengers back to the Duval County city. I'm sure many of you know most of Duval County is now a part of Jacksonville. There are only two areas that kept their own municipal status when all the other cities and Duval County became one. The only areas in Duval not within the Jacksonville city limits are Jacksonville Beach on the east and Baldwin on the western boundary of the combined city and county.

Getting back to Janet, she told me her grandfather, Clarence E. Schulte was an engineer on one of those riverboats.

I don't know why but I've had quite a few folks call and asked if I remembered the time one of the steamers sank while cargo was being loaded at the old St. Johns Riverline warehouse.

I recall that incident and have mentioned it a couple times before in the columns I've pounded out on this old manual typewriter.

I not only remember it but I went down to see it. The vessel was the "Osceola." It had been unloaded and warehouse employees were loading it for the trip back to Jacksonville. I cannot recall why but the Osceola went to the bottom. It wasn't very deep and they found ways and means of floating the vessel. But I'm not sure how much cargo it carried to Jacksonville.

Why? Well the cargo going north was crated oranges. Remember, this was before citrus concentrates came into being. Orange juice went north inside the oranges.

What happened to the floating fruit? For some reason they must have swelled. They burst the crates and the area where Holiday Isle is now was covered with tens of thousands of floating oranges. It was, indeed, a sight to behold.

I meant to tell you last Sunday when I wrote about Ed Tison that I met him recently at the reunion of his Seminole High class held at the Heathrow Country Club. Let me tell you he's quite a guy. SHS can be proud of him. By the way, he has a condo at New Smyrna and spends vacations there and does a lot of traveling back and forth to Sanford. There's no doubt about it. He loves Sanford.

New attitude, facelift at Lakeview

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — They've got a new attitude at Lakeview Middle School.

And now, says principal Jim Shupe, they'll have new and improved facilities to match.

"We're going to be starting off the new year on a real positive and exciting note," he said. "Things are better all the time."

Over the last few weeks workers have been at the school pulling up carpeting, putting down tile, delivering new items and plugging in telephones.

The frenetic activity at the facility will be, if all goes well, complete before the teachers and students return to campus toward the end of August.

"It's going to be a much better place to learn," said Shupe.

The old telephone system with a mere three lines was the first to go earlier this summer, replaced by a new seven line system with telephones in every classroom.

"Communication, especially between the teachers and home, is so important to education," Shupe said. "Teachers will be able to call parents right from school if there is a problem and begin to find solutions immediately."

Shupe said the phone system's expanded capabilities will also allow the school to add features to their already-established homework help-line and allow the school to call parents automatically each time a student is tardy or absent from school. Important messages will also be delivered to parents via telephone as well.

Carpeting around the school is being replaced with brighter linoleum tile that Shupe believes will make the building "more cheerful."

All the student restrooms are being renovated and the tables in the cafeteria and in the faculty dining area are being replaced with new, "state-of-the-art" folding tables.

The road leading to the school, which has been a chalky dirt road since a path was carved to the school when it opened, is "finally" being paved.

"But," Shupe said, "the highlight of all the work is the new $135,000 high tech lab that is being installed in the eighth grade wheel."

The lab is being paid for through a State of Florida Technology in Education Grant. Shupe said Lakeview was one of only 80 schools in the state to be given money for such a lab last year.

Replacing the old wood and metalworking shop, the high tech computer lab will give the students exposure to technologies such as electronics, laser technology, fiber optics, robotics, Computer Aided Drafting (CAD), applied physics, communications and desk top publishing.

"It is an integrated approach to math, science and language arts," Shupe explained.

The changes and additions to the school are expected to be complete by mid-August and the road paving, scheduled to be completed in September, is expected to be done ahead of schedule, in time for the start of school.

time we showed off our new attitude with some changes and a positive new school."

College TV classes gain in popularity

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Television instruction programs have been growing in popularity for Seminole Community College students.

More than 300 students a term enroll in the six or eight classes ranging from Introduction to Oceanography to Principals of Economics.

"It's a matter of convenience," said Bob Ledford, director for continuing community education at SCC. "There are just some people who can not make it on campus for classes and this is a unique opportunity to continue their education."

The majority of students who participate in the classes have previous commitments with family or work.

Some of the students, Ledford said, are self-directed learners who are highly motivated to do the work on their own.

Classes are viewed on CableVision of Central Florida (Channel 19) and TCI, formerly Storer Cable, (Channel 9). The cost is $35.50 per credit hour, the same as with all other college preparatory classes at SCC. Books must also be purchased.

"This isn't a cost savings for the student, it is just more convenient," Ledford said.

The courses are taught by national experts in the field, but local instructors create the examinations for the students who enroll in the classes at SCC.

Students who enroll in the class are required to attend an on-campus meeting three times over the course of a term. They meet for an initial orientation session and then must be on campus to take both the mid-term and the final exams.

"Other than that, they can watch the program at its regularly scheduled time, or they can set their VCR and record it to watch at whatever time is convenient," he said. The college also records the show and allows students to view the tapes in the SCC Library or at the college campus at Hunt Club.

Ledford said students who enroll in the television courses are most likely the older, non-traditional students who are easing their way back into the academic life.

He said that more and more people are returning to school to complete their educations or to train for new careers and that the television courses are helpful for those working their educations around jobs.

"We've had more and more people signing up for these classes," he said. "They usually fill up pretty quickly."

Ledford said because the television courses are increasing in popularity, the college is considering adding more classes in the future.

Summit

Clyde Perry, human resource area manager for Siemen-Stromberg Carlson and director of the Task Force said, "This effort has been a labor of love. We want to not only show our youngsters we love and care for them, but that we have a genuine interest in their struggle for the future."

The two-day summit is free to youths ages 11 through 25. A donation of $30 per participant is being asked from the community to offset expenses.

The workshops are broken down into four categories, education, job skills, role models/families and the African-American male.

• The Education workshops, chaired by Corine Van-Wilson, will focus on social problems the young men face in public schools. Subjects will include: Self-esteem, emphasizing positive self-esteem, recognizing latent strengths and limitations, transcending negativity currently exhibited by "the brothers in the hood" mentality; Invisible Student, will focus on peer pressure, dysfunctional families, institutional racism and other negative perceptions; Dropouts/Pushouts looks at the process of alienation and self-fulfilling prophecy.

• Job Skills, co-chaired by Bill Blackburn, president of Southern Bank, and Tim Giannoni, of Private Industry Council, is offered to prepare participants for the work force and to inform them of the job market. Job Training, a motivational workshop, and interviews will be the subjects covered.

• Role Models/Families, chaired by Bruce Scott, paralegal with Central Florida Legal Services will highlight Values, an analysis of the family with an aim to examine the structure, morals and standards that make a strong unit; Family Planning, discussions on fatherhood and parental responsibility specific to teen pregnancies; Mentorship, role models from the community will field questions and indulge in dialogue with participants.

• African-American Male, chaired by Sharon Laisure, Seminole County deputy county manager, will include Behavior, examining the undergirding of the males. Attention will be directed toward differing values and how they shape beliefs; Activities will cover community service organizations as a solution for social problems, including drugs, crime, gangs and peer pressure.

Speakers will include educators, business people, representatives of local and state government, chambers of commerce, law enforcement, professional sports figures, and others.

Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu, nationally renowned author of a number of books on the plight of the culture, will speak during the summit and will give a special presentation, which is open to the public, on Thursday, Aug. 5 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the Fine Arts Auditorium at Seminole Community College. Admission for this special event is $20.

Police said that he had followed her from work last week and filmed her, but that she had "lost him" on Lake Mary Boulevard. They said she also complained that he had followed her for about 30 minutes on a Saturday morning last month.

Police said he refused to give police any information regarding his name, address or other vital information.

Police said the employee who was being filmed by him told police that she recognized him and she was in fear for her safety.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held without bond.

Incidents reported to the sheriff's office

•A Lake Mary man reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that, after an altercation with a patron (the suspect) at Calico Jack's in Altamonte Springs, the suspect followed him in his car and pulled up along side him as they stopped for a light on State Road 434 between Montgomery Road and Interstate 4 and pointed a 9mm handgun at him.

Deputies said the suspect threatened to shoot him, though he did not do it, nor did he get out of the car.

Deputies said the victim sped from the scene and was not followed.

•Seminole County sheriff's deputies report that witnesses saw two black males on bicycles riding away from a residence in the 2300 block of W. First St. Sanford, with items including fishing rods and reels, scuba gear and a tackle box.

The owner of the home was contacted and confirmed that the items were missing.

Local teacher has a hand in national test

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — It's been an exciting summer for Anna VanLandingham.

The Advanced Placement economics teacher and head girls basketball coach at Lake Mary High School has coached a national team to basketball victory and learned more about the AP economics exam in a week than many teachers learn over a career.

VanLandingham was selected as one of 2,400 faculty consultants by the Educational Testing Service to read and grade the essay portion of the AP exam in economics. The reading took place at Trinity College in San Antonio, Tx.

"It was an amazing experience," said VanLandingham.

She said that as an AP teacher, she received an application to vie for a spot as a faculty consultant. Being in her first year in that position, she didn't count too heavily on being selected.

She said she was "thrilled" to be selected, but until she actually arrived in San Antonio, the addition to her resume was the only reason she saw for attending.

"But when I got there...wow..." she said.

"It was a mecca," she said. "I learned so much about what other people out there are doing in their classrooms. Not only in high school, but also in college."

VanLandingham said Educational Testing Service spent a day training the consultants in the grading methods for the Advanced Placement test. They are very specific, she said, in how points are awarded and in what they look for on each exam.

"It let me get a new perspective on the fairness of the tests," she said. "I see how they have a whole set of guidelines that make me feel very comfortable about how fair the test is."

She said she graded about 50 tests a day for four days, a workload she says seems staggering in retrospect.

"But you didn't even notice at the time," she said. "It didn't seem like so much work."

She said she believes she is bringing back so much more to her classroom after her experience. She said she has learned about new teaching methods, about what is expected on the examination and about what people all over the country are doing in economics.

"It was awesome," she said. "I hope they'll select me again next year."

Seminole County shouldn't pay for Orlando project

Despite much grandstanding by Seminole County commissioners last week to blunt property owners from the blow of proposed tax increases, three of them banded together to form the narrow majority needed to send $200,000 of your money to Orange County to help finance the expansion plans of the Orlando Science Center.

And the three, Pat Warren, Daryl McLain and Bob Sturm, promised to send the center another $800,000 during the following four years. Warren and Sturm said they'd double the amount if the school board didn't ante up with a similar appropriation.

Saving taxes? Since the first of the year, Orlando Science Center supporters have pounded the halls of the County Services Building and filled commissioner's mailboxes with praise and support for a $32 million expansion proposal for the Orlando attraction. According to the science center's own funding proposal, all but $4 million of the money would come from state and local governments.

Where is the financial support from industry which has so much praise for the project?

School board officials are almost ready to send another $200,000 a year of your money to the Orlando project.

But a minority of our elected county officials say 'Wait, a minute.'

Commissioners Dick Van Der Weide and Larry Furlong say the county has too many priorities to fulfill before taxes can be shipped south in large bundles. Seminole County residents will go wanting while Orlando's science center grows.

School board member Nancy Warren says local schools have suffered through several years of layoffs and packed classrooms due to income limits. "We have to meet the needs we already have in Seminole County," Warren said, echoing Van Der Weide and Furlong. And the Sanford Herald.

The Orlando Science Center is a wonderful service. Each year, thousands of children and adults from throughout central Florida benefit from its wonderworld of science. Many Seminole County folk benefit from the center, too. A third of the center's membership are Seminole County households.

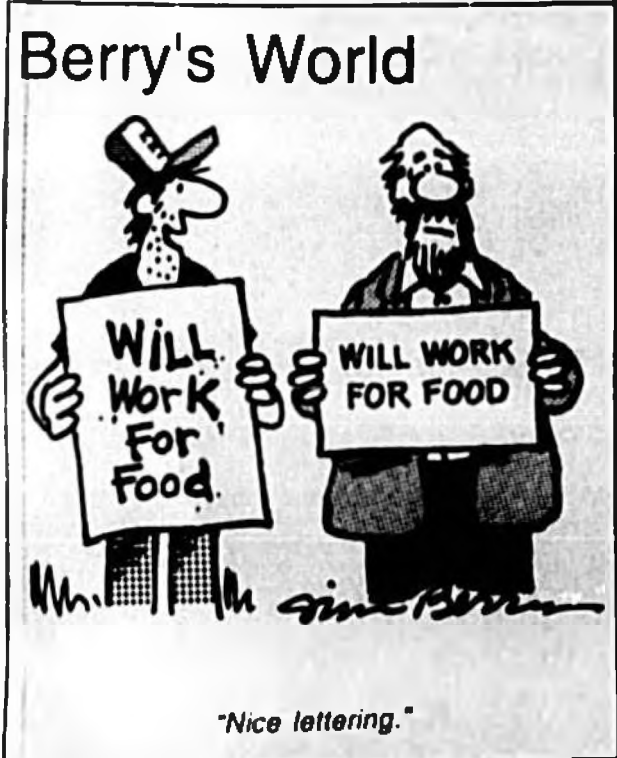

But first and foremost, the Orlando Science Center is just that, the Orlando Science Center. If center trustees wish to expand, and we applaud those plans, support needs to come from Orlando and Orange County.

But financial support should not be limited to public funding. Martin Marietta, Hughes and other high-tech companies along the Space Coast and central Florida need to support the center's plans. It is they who will ultimately benefit most from the gee-whiz fascination of today's children.

We do not support Seminole County taxpayer's dollars being spent for the project when too many needs will go lacking. If Seminole County residents are required to pay a surcharge or our students be required to pay admission, so be it. But the rest of us should not be forced to pay for another county's project.

Deficit should be country's priority

Bankruptcy 1995 by Harry E. Figgle Jr. and Gerald G. Swanson, Ph.D. is an enlightening book. One does not have to be an economist to understand that America's fiscal policies are leading us to the point where we will no longer be in control of our country. Our national debt along with the entitlement programs will account for more money than will be collected from tax revenue. At that point we will be at the mercy of foreign lenders to keep our dollar afloat. According to Figgle, we are doing what wars have never done, destroying our country from within.

Figgle details how America became involved with deficit spending. President Lyndon B. Johnson introduced this type of budgeting. His war on poverty and the Vietnam war resulted in his leaving office with a $44.8 billion deficit. Each president has added to the deficit, some more than others. When President George Bush left office in 1992 the total deficit spending had escalated to $1.04 trillion.

Congress has been a major player in building the deficit. Congress has remained hostage to special interest lobbyists. Millions are spent by domestic and foreign interest groups to influence congressmen and congresswomen. Foreign countries and foreign corporations have been very active and effective.

The Grace Commission, named for its chairman, Peter Grace, consisted of chief executive officers of large corporations. They were commissioned by President Reagan in 1982 to discern ways of eliminating waste in federal spending. Figgle was a member of the commission. Some of the other members were: James E. Burke, chairman of Johnson and Johnson; Robert W. Galvin, chairman, Motorola Corp. and Donald R. Keough, president of Coca Cola.

SEMINOLE OPINION

Some of the commission's recommendations for reducing government waste were: closing an Army base built in the 1800's for use as an outpost for Indian wars, reducing Defense Department installations from 4,000 to 312, curbing excessive expenditure for items (the U.S. Navy bought hammers costing $436 each), eliminating unnecessary studies, i.e., a study to measure the average size of airline stewardesses' noses, recognizing when a project is completed and ceasing funding it, i.e., the Rural Electrification Administration. Ninety-nine percent of rural America has electricity. This agency loans 2 billion annually.

Another facet examined was "budget chicanery." Ploys used in presenting the budget are multiple. Estimated revenues are always in excess of actual projected budgeting which predicts increases in a particular expenditure and alleges savings by not spending as much as the projected increase. Shifting items from one place to another on government books. Not displaying some costs, for example, the cost of the Persian Gulf War was omitted from the budget, borrowing from Social Security and other trust funds with no plan for repaying the IOU's. More than $1 trillion had been borrowed from these sources as of 1992.

Figgle's assertion is that there is still time to do something if the president and Congress will address what should be our number one priority "the deficit." In 1991 the United States allocated more money to pay interest on the national debt than for any other single budget item.

Next week Figgle's solutions to our problems.

Childhood short, law sluggish

BOSTON — It's just about over now. The legal moving papers are all in order. The change of parental address has been finally determined.

The last ditch effort to stop the process that will turn Jessica DeBoer into Anna Schmidt failed on Monday (July 26) when Justice Stevens denied the emergency request. All that's left now is the packing.

By August 2, a two-year-old girl will be transferred from her adoptive family to her biological family, from the people who raised her to the people who conceived her, from those she loves to those she doesn't even know. She'll be moved from Michigan to Iowa like a piece of furniture awarded in a property dispute. Only furniture doesn't feel loss or confusion.

For all of the emotion surrounding it, this never was an easy case. In February 1991, an unmarried woman and the man she claimed to be the father gave a baby up for adoption. Weeks later, this despairing and regretful Cara Clausen told the biological father, Dan Schmidt, the truth. He decided to go after the girl and the adoptive parents decided to fight back.

The human story behind the case forced many of us to think about nature and nurture, about the rights of parents and the best interests of children. In the end, many were shocked at how little the child's view counted in the eyes of blind justice.

When Jessica DeBoer becomes Anna Schmidt, the people most deeply affected will be the host of maybe, would-be, might-be adoptive parents all over the country. They will be touched by another fear about adopting children they want to call their own.

What this case raises, after all, is the specter that in some places, in some circumstances, any biological parent who hasn't given up his rights can come in from the cold to claim a child.

In a most bizarre Florida case, two biological parents have pursued the daughter who was switched at birth. Since discovering the switch five years ago, a distraught Regina and Ernest Twigg — who raised the other child until her death — have virtually stalked Kimberly Mays. Now the 14-year-old is going to court to try and "divorce" the Twiggs on the very same day Jessica becomes Anna.

But the much more common, everyday, garden-variety fear is of the unknown father. After all, most birth mothers who give children up for adoption either don't know or won't tell who the father is. He may be a stranger or a one-night stand — what some have called a sperm father.

She may not want him to know; he may not want to know. Dan Schmidt himself had fathered two earlier children. One he'd abandoned, one he'd never seen. Though he worked with Cara all through her pregnancy, he never asked if the child was his.

In real life rather than courtroom dramas, unwed or 'unknown fathers' are rarely anxious for custody or even for identification. Paternity suits are, on the whole, filed by women pursuing men, not by men like Schmidt forging links to their offspring.

But in the law these days, equal rights have sometimes streaked ahead of equal responsibility. We share a powerful cultural desire to promote fatherhood, to nurture the nurturing men. In some places, the law has become too willing to distribute the full rights of fatherhood — even to men who contribute only genes and the labor of lovemaking.

The appearance of a man like Dan Schmidt to stop an adoption and reclaim a child is rare indeed. But there is the real risk that his victory could become another barrier to would-be adoptive parents, to adoption itself. There are too many barriers already. You can count them in the children who languish in foster care.

In the wake of this case, clusters of proposals are being considered for a new and uniform law that would strike a balance between the rights of fathers and the needs of children to be placed in caring, permanent homes as soon as possible.

In some, a known father's rights would hinge on how early he came forward and how willing he was to raise a child, not just to prevent adoption. In others, the rights of unknown, even unknowing fathers, would be terminated at some point — perhaps 30 days — so a child could become part of a family.

With luck we may yet learn from this terrible story. We may learn that the current law cares too much about biological ties and not enough about caring relationships. That it cares too much about parents' rights and not enough about children. That childhood is painfully short and the law is brutally sluggish.

But for the moment we only know this: Two years ago, an infant went before the courts; now the law has sent a toddler packing. They call this justice. I wonder what Jessica — or should I say, Anna — will call it.

She'll be moved from Michigan to Iowa like a piece of furniture awarded in a property dispute.

Summit targets black male youths

On August 5 and 6, the year-long efforts of a diverse group of Seminole County citizens will culminate in an event titled: "Survival of the African American Male: Century 21." The "Summit" as it has been dubbed will explore the plight of African-American male youth in Seminole County between the ages of 11 and 25. If just 10 percent of black youth in that age range respond to the organizers' invitation, some 400 young people would be in attendance. Anything less than this number would send the troubling signal that the youth in question are themselves not concerned about their own plight. If that be true, how much concern can the larger non-African American community be expected to show?

My own somewhat pessimistic view is that maybe half the projected 10 percent will actually attend and even then the speakers and presenters will most likely be "preaching to the choir." Why? Because the group to whom this summit is actually targeted is the "one-out-of-four African-American males between the ages of 20 and 29 who are in prison, jail, or under some form of parole or probation," and those younger ones who are most "at-risk" of becoming part of this grim statistic. Such individuals are not likely to be in attendance at this week's summit, and therein lies the problem: How do we get the message across to those young males most in need of hearing it?

This guest editorial is offered in the hope that someone who reads and agrees with its premise will clip and share it with at least one representative member of the target group. Young black males who are the subject of the upcoming summit don't even know who they are or what their God-given potential is. What they perceive themselves to be is a result of the circumstances of their birth and the environment in which they were raised. "How can you expect to soar like an eagle, when you hang around with turkeys?" They don't even know that they possess and demonstrate attributes which, if applied to constructive, productive and positive pursuits, could earn them the respect and admiration of society in general and their peers in particular.

What attributes are needed by persons seeking success through legal means in American society? Intelligence, ambition, courage, drive, determination, energy, stamina, guile, intestinal fortitude, and the entrepreneurial instinct, to name a few. What traits are necessary for one to succeed as a "street hustler?" You guessed it, same as the above.

These young are taking the "path of least resistance" and easy access to money and the things money can buy. Until and unless those who control wealth and power in Seminole County get serious about eliminating the underlying "causes" of the subject problem, there will be no solution. White folks cannot solve black folks' problems, but seem unwilling to allow the latter sufficient resources so we'd have the capacity to solve them ourselves. Many of the same people who profess alarm and concern for the plight of African-American male youth, engage regularly in activities that undermine, deter, and even destroy black adults — men in particular. Do they not realize or care that the black adults they routinely run roughshod over are the parents and role models of and for black youth?

The monstrous problem we will be attacking at next week's summit is the result of generations of inequity, injustice, and negative programming. Any attempt to avoid facing up to this fact will doom the summit to failure.

contest. "Who can sit out there?" A few, who were unable to secure spots under the trees, sat briefly on the seats and then retired to the shade to stand for a moment of relief. Suzanne watched with amazement as the firefighter teams, representing fire departments from across the state and throughout the southeast worked their way through six events, including ladder climbing and hose preparation and use. "I think it's pretty neat stuff," Suzanne said. "I wish they'd let me try."

Lorraine Elther traveled from southern Alabama to see her cousin John compete in the Firematics contest. Her cousin is a firefighter in Alabama. "We have hot days just like this in Alabama, so the weather ain't so bad," she said. "You just gotta be prepared." Elther took a long sip of water from a canteen shaped like a fire hydrant. "You gotta have water," she said. Lennie stood patiently near the plastic tape that separated the crowd from the contest. The three-year-old waited until there was a break in the action and then, with the nodding approval of his mother, ran quickly to where water had gathered during the bucket brigade competition and splashed through a puddle and returned obediently to his mother's side before they headed toward the sidewalk on First Street. "They came over here when he spotted the water on the ground," explained Elther. "Guess he just wanted to run through it." The firefighters struggled valiantly through their contests despite the heat, barely noticing the sun, it seemed. "They're used to the heat," Florence Jones observed.

Harkey

The tube was left in place several weeks so when doctors attempted to remove it, they encountered difficulties and recommended the couple take the baby to a Philadelphia specialist. The tube had bonded to Alan's trachea which collapsed when doctors tried to remove it. The Harkeys spent nearly $2,000 for the four weeks the infant was hospitalized in Orlando. Bernard Harkey worked as an auxiliary operator at the Florida Power Corporation plant in Enterprise. The family did not have medical insurance. To defray costs and help pay for the trip to the specialist, a fund-raising drive was started by the Castle Memorial Sunday School class of the First Methodist Church where the Harkeys were members. As word about the baby's plight spread, contributions poured in ranging from a few pennies to $25. After the story was broadcast on the radio and picked up by the wire services, donations came in from outside the Sanford area as well. Congressmen gave anonymous contributions and an airline stewardess on the flight to Pennsylvania donated a few dollars. Even a newspaper carrier delivering to the Harkey home donated by marking their bill for $2 paid in full. Despite the community support, the Harkeys lost their Sanford home and moved to Ft. Lauderdale to be near a physician who kept watch on the baby. Little by little, the doctor tried to wean the infant from the breathing tube. After his mother came to believe there were no doctors or specialists left to help her son, Harkey said his mother knelt in prayer in the Ft. Lauderdale hotel where the couple was staying. Harkey said he has been told his breathing was so labored and loud, he could be heard outside in the corridor. The doctor had not given the couple much hope for the infant's survival. "She said, 'Lord, there goes the last of them. The best the doctors can do and there is no hope for my child. If you want him, he's yours. Take him. But if not, heal him.'" Harkey recalls being told. The breathing stopped. "She thought I was gone. In fact she said it took all the courage she could muster to get up off her knees and walk over to where I was lying. They told her it would come to that point. When she walked over, I was breathing as normally as I am now," Harkey said. The next morning the couple took their son back to the doctor. "He walked out into the waiting room and said, 'I just don't understand what I'm seeing.'" My mother told him what had happened and said, "It's a miracle," and he said, "ma'am, I don't doubt it." When he was in his 20s, Harkey returned to Sanford to find some of the doctors and people who had given to the fund drive. He has a number of relatives in Sanford and returns periodically. "I wouldn't be talking with you today if God hadn't intervened. That's not just my opinion, that's what the doctors say," Harkey said. The Harkeys lived in Sanford until Alan was in seventh grade when the family, including Alan's sister, Sarah, moved to northern Florida. After working in public service as an assistant to two state senators and a U.S. Congressman, Harkey decided to devote his life to full-time Christian ministry. He now serves as the U.S. director for Christian Blind Mission International, an organization that raises money to provide medical services in Third World countries.

Morgan's resume indicates her experience includes animal caretaking at the Central Florida Zoological Park and Florida Audubon Society Center for Birds of Prey in Maitland. Vaughan said he knew Morgan when they worked at the zoo together. Spivey became a full-time volunteer director last September when the paid position filled by Diane Albers was eliminated amid a management controversy. Although much of the board has served a year or less, Vaughan said calm has returned to the society, which has been plagued by internal squabbling for several years. During the late 80's and early 90's, a succession of directors and board members left amid some controversy. The late president Bo Simpson closed board meetings to both public and members. Vaughan said he has reopened the board meetings to members and the public and encourages more professionals, such as bankers or insurance businesspersons, to join the board. "I'm doing the best I can to make it proper and upright," said Vaughan, a Lake Mary veterinarian. "I'm trying to do it right." Vaughan said the society currently has about $350,000 in its building fund to replace the dog run destroyed in an April fire that killed 72 of 100 dogs housed in the structure. In a June 30 financial statement provided by Vaughan, the society paid about $24,000 in operating expenses in June, including about $14,500 for personnel expenses. During the same month, the society took in $77,736, including $50,465 to the shelter "fire" fund. The fire fund had a total of $355,374 by June 30, according to the statement. Vaughan said all of the fire contributions are pegged solely for replacement of the shelter buildings.

Let's

DEAR TEENA: Is it alright not to have a "best" friend?

I hear just about everyone talking about their best friend, but I don't really have one friend that I am closer to than anyone else. I have lots of friends and three or four that I would consider my best friends. Is this wrong?

FRIENDLY, SANFORD
DEAR FRIENDLY: No, it's not wrong to have more than one friend that you feel very close to and that you can trust.

Not everyone has a best friend. Some people feel more comfortable going to different friends with different experiences or problems.

The important thing is that you feel comfortable with your friends. Don't worry about what everyone else is doing.

DEAR TEENA: I can't stand the way I look.

I have a nose the size of Bill Clinton's and hair like a Brill-O pad. I have braces and pimples and my glasses are so thick I look like a snail.

My mother says I'm beautiful, but she's my mother and she has to say that.

If I'm so beautiful, why do the guys call me "Honker Head," "Four Eyes," and "The Zit Queen"?

What can I do to make myself better looking and how can I shut the guys up who keep picking on me?

UGLY DUCKLING, SANFORD
DEAR DUCKY: First of all, you have to remember that, like the old saying goes, "beauty is only skin deep."

Your mother probably sees all the good qualities you have and knows that you are a kind and beautiful person inside.

The guys with whom you are dealing with are obviously immature or they would not be calling you names. When they grow up, they'll probably see the beautiful person inside you too.

As difficult as it may be to do, try to ignore them. You have to build up confidence in yourself. It's not what they think that's important. It's what you think.

If you want to change your physical appearance, however, you might want to consider a few simple changes. Wear your hair a different way... maybe cut it short or wear it pulled back with lots of fancy hair ribbons. Maybe, if you can afford it, get contacts. And, remember the braces aren't forever.

And don't forget, if you feel beautiful and are beautiful inside, you are beautiful.

DEAR TEENA: I think my boyfriend is a compulsive liar.

He always tells me these really outrageous stories about things he's done and places he's been.

We're only 15, but he said he's been all over Europe and that he used to tutor Chelsea Clinton in math when he lived in Arkansas and he used to model clothes in New York.

I don't know if I believe him. What should I do?

CONFUSED, SANFORD
DEAR CONFUSED: I don't know if he's telling the truth or not.

The problem is that you don't believe him. Even if he's telling the truth, the fact that you don't believe him is going to be a barrier to you building a strong, loving relationship with him.

You need to either learn to trust him or to get out of the relationship. Try talking to him about your feelings.

DEAR TEENA: I'm scared of my girlfriend's dad.

He has an awful temper and is always yelling at me for some nit-picky little thing or another.

He doesn't like my hair, he doesn't like my car and he said he would kill me if I lay a finger on his daughter.

My mom and dad raised me to be a gentleman and I would never do anything to harm my girlfriend.

I don't mean to get him angry and I don't want to put her in between any conflict, but I don't know what to do.

TROUBLED, LAKE MARY

DEAR TROUBLED: You need to take some time to talk to your girlfriend's father.

Let him know how you feel and try to put him at ease about your intentions toward his daughter.

He may be trying to intimidate you or he may be genuinely concerned for his daughter's well-being. Try to be understanding about his perspective on the situation.

But you did say he has an "awful temper." Be careful how you approach him. Be calm and gentlemanly.

Also, talk to your girlfriend about the situation before you approach him. She may have some suggestions about how to best handle the situation.

DEAR TEENA: My sister is a real religious fanatic and it's getting on my nerves.

She complains about the music I listen to. She complains about my friends. She tells me I'm going to Hell because I'm a sinner.

I don't do drugs. I don't "sleep around." And, as far as I know I've never broken any of the Ten Commandments. But, because I don't spend three hours a day reading the Bible and I don't go to church except on Sunday, she is condemning me.

How can I get her to see that I'm not all that bad?

NOT A SINNER, SANFORD

DEAR NOT: You're right to see the problem is not with you, it is with her.

She is a fanatic about her religion. She may well believe that she is warning you about your impending doom for your own good, but she is making your life miserable in the process.

We all have a right to our own religious beliefs. While she is free to tell you, with your consent, about what she is experiencing through her religion, she shouldn't force you to listen.

She also shouldn't try to frighten you into believing what she does with threats of Hell and damnation.

Talk to her. Tell her how you feel. She may not understand that she is "getting on your nerves."

Sending the kids off to college: be sure they have the essentials

Moms, remember those lists of things for the kids to take to camp?

"Three t-shirts, two shorts, one jeans, one sweatshirt..." You wondered how they could be so exact.

You'll be wishing you had one of those lists when you're getting your student ready for college.

You certainly want your fledglingly-equipped for his or her first time out of the nest, but one short glance at the dorm room... any dorm room... tells you there's no room for excess.

Having been through this last year and being in the midst of doing it again this year, perhaps I can help.

There are basically four categories to worry about: clothes, linens, school supplies and that ole devil, miscellaneous.

Clothes. The student's first major adjustment will be living with strangers. He or she won't realize immediately that the second major adjustment will be that most colleges force their student to... walk. In all kinds of weather. Including downpours.

If Florida students don't have to worry about blizzards, then the tropical "frog strangler" more than compensates. Getting to class on time sometimes means wading through ankle-deep puddles.

After a pair or two of expensive sports shoes are ruined, the student will wangle his way to a shoe store selling "duck shoes." They're clunky and ugly but if an older student can persuade your fashion-conscious teenager they're essential gear, a parent can save some money by shopping around and the student is spared a budget buster.

A huge umbrella is a good idea too.

Linens. Linens can be disposed of fairly easily. Sheets, towels, pillow, a mattress pad, a heavy blanket or comforter and a light blanket. Do buy a folding wooden laundry rack to hang damp towels (or swimsuits) on.

A word of caution, however: some schools have "extra long" twin beds, so don't buy sheets until you find out for sure.

Some sort of window covering will come with the room. If it's only blinds and you're feeling indulgent, you may want to hang a valance, but regular curtains only get in the way.

Your student will be definitely be sharing a bathroom, probably with a minimum of six or eight people. Shower shoes are a good idea and a shower box is essential. Not only is it needed to carry soap, toothpaste, toothbrush, razor, etc. back and forth, but it also keeps this sort of personal stuff from getting mixed up with other people's stuff.

The problems start with

Pat Southward volunteers a lot of time at Seminole High School helping students and teachers in a variety of ways.

school supplies. Not until he or she starts living away from a household does the student realize how much he or she depends on resources held in common: the household stapler, the kitchen scissors, Mom's Scotch tape, the pencil sharpener in the garage. Other items that either have to be taken from home or budgeted for include typing paper and ribbons, envelopes, stamps, notebooks, pencils, pens and transparent markers.

The last are, by all accounts, the essential implement for modern higher education. With reading skills declining, the ability to highlight topic sentences and key ideas has achieved unparalleled importance.

But the rubber meets the road in the Miscellaneous category.

This is the area where you have to keep your wits about you and your eyes open to notice all the amenities of daily life that are never noticed until you're stranded hundreds of miles from home, often without transportation and unable to resupply.

For your information, here is our list:

Homemade first aid kit. Your student will have neither the space nor the need for a lot of any kind of this, and will prefer what he or she is used to. SMALL quantities of the following: band-aids of various sizes and shapes; the family's accustomed remedies for stomach ache, constipation, headache, cuts and scrapes, runny nose, allergies and insect bites; and sunscreen and sunburn cream even if the school is far from the beach. Remember, there's always sports.

A minimum tool kit, with a hammer, a screwdriver, a Phillips head screwdriver and pliers. The pliers will open stuck jars; the hammer will be needed to hang pictures or brackets to lift wires and extension cords (another item) off the floor; and the screwdrivers will come in handy for everything from tightening drawer handles to installing the answering machine.

Answering machines seem to be expected not only by the student callers but also by the adults your child will be dealing with: "We'll call and leave a message when your loan money comes in." Most schools require the students to supply their own phone. Both of these items should be coordinated with the roommate.

A minimum sewing kit. Even boys will want to sew buttons back on and those commercial washers can be rough.

Laundry gear is fairly simple, mainly something to collect dirty clothes in, a laundry basket and a stain stick. What's essential here is instruction in case your student doesn't know that red often runs and dyes everything in the washload pink. Jeans and black clothes run, too, and students who aren't careful can get a heather gray wardrobe in a hurry.

Probably because college is so expensive, a lot of students choose to cook in their rooms.

Years ago that was forbidden, but today many dorms have a place set aside to cook and/or allow microwaves and small refrigerators in the rooms.

Cooking supplies obviously imply a pot or two and then: a sharp knife, a can opener, a couple of plates and bowls and a few knives and forks. It also means a dish soap and a dish cloth, paper towels and minimum cleaning supplies. A dish pan can serve double duty as a storage box to keep the whole works.

Since not everyone who cooks in the dorm is going to be stocking up on the soap and cleaning supplies, you can count on bugs. Your student will need a place to store the non-refrigerator food. A plastic under-bedder storage box will be big enough to hold cereal boxes and Rice Krispie Treats from home.

Furnishings are fairly easy. Check whether your student is going to need a lamp. A lot of dorms come with only the central ceiling light. A study lamp can save the kid's eyesight and maybe his or her life if he or she likes to pull "all-nighters" but has an early-bird roommate.

I'd also recommend at least a small clip-on fan. The door has to stay shut if the student expects to get any studying done and even with air, it can get stuffy.

Finally: the absolutely essential, don't-leave-home-without-it items: an all-surface marker pen to put your student's name on all this stuff.

DID YOU KNOW?

THE WORD PLUMBER CAME FROM ONE OF THE MATERIALS THAT THEY USE — LEAD, THE LATIN WORD FOR LEAD IS "PLUMBUM" AND THE ROMANS USED LEAD PIPES FOR THEIR WATER SUPPLY AND DRAINAGE.

Breastfeeding Week celebrated

The annual celebration of World/Florida Breastfeeding Week will be celebrated Aug. 1-7. The theme this year is "Breastfeed...Give Your Baby A Healthy Start". World Breastfeeding Week is a unique opportunity to influence and educate the community on the importance of optimal infant feeding and nurturance.

Florida Breastfeeding Week is celebrated with state and community events and promotional activities. Florida's observance is planned to coincide with World Health Organization (WHO) and UNICEF to mark the anniversary of the Innocenti Declaration. The Declaration calls for all governments to promote and protect breastfeeding as the optimum form of infant feeding.

Community events planned for the weeklong celebration include:

- World Breastfeeding Walk, Aug. 1, is set for noon to 6 p.m. at the Orlando Fashion Square.

- Breastfeeding classes for interested Seminole County residents: Aug. 13, at the Seminole County Public Health Unit in Casselberry, 10-11:30 a.m. Free of charge. Call 830-8147. Aug. 27, at Seminole County Public Health Unit in Sanford, 10-11:30 a.m. Free of charge. Call 322-2724 ext. 3338. Classes are held monthly at the alternating sites on the 2nd and 4th Friday's of the month. Door prizes will be given the month of August to celebrate World Breastfeeding Week.

There are nine active trained Peer Counselors in Seminole County. Training class began July 13 with four more volunteers. They will finish their 20-25 hours of training Aug. 31 and begin volunteering their time in the WIC clinic, over the phone, teaching breastfeeding classes and making other community presentations about breastfeeding.

"WIC agencies that have active breastfeeding peer counselors in their clinics are making great strides toward increasing both the incidence and duration of breastfeeding," according to Judy Swiatosz, I.D., breastfeeding coordinator.

The breastfeeding rate of WIC moms in Seminole County is currently around 20 percent.

Since January 1992 when Seminole County had its first six trained peer counselors, our volunteers have put in over 1,000 hours of helping women breastfeed and the number of women breastfeeding has greatly increased.

Fitness Factor

Avoid knee injury by conditioning joints

Many common knee injuries can be avoided if athletes would properly condition the joint.

"The knee is like a mechanical device," said Dr. David Lintner, an orthopedic surgeon at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "It can only stand so much wear and tear without proper maintenance."

Conditioning should include strengthening and flexibility exercises for the muscles that provide support around the knee.

Well-conditioned muscles can withstand more of the pounding that knees absorb during running or jogging. Conditioned knees also stand up to more of slashing and jumping movements typical in many sports such as basketball, racquetball and tennis.

Common injuries in these sports include strains and sprains, which can take several days or weeks to heal. In more severe injuries, ruptures of the ligaments, tendon, cartilage or muscle around the knee could require surgery and weeks or even months of recovery time.

Lintner recommends developing both strength and flexibility in the quadriceps and hamstrings, the muscles leading down the legs and around the knees. He also suggests building strength in the gluteus muscles which add support to the hips. This improves balance to decrease the risk of serious falls or knee-twists.

Exercises to Strengthen the Knee

A good way to begin increasing strength in the legs and hips is by doing squats. This is an easy exercise that benefits overall leg strength.

Place the feet 18-24 inches from the wall and lean so the back is flat against the wall. Slide down until the thighs are at a right angle to the wall. Hold, and slide back up.

Lintner says leg presses using weights also strengthen the legs while providing variety in an exercise routine. Using a weight machine, the weights are pushed away from the body with the feet while in a sitting position on the bench press.

Another good weight exercise is leg curls. A weight is strapped to the ankle and the leg is bent at the knee until the heel touches the buttock. This can also be done while laying flat on the stomach.

Some people make the mistake of relying heavily on knee extensions, another weight-bearing exercise. The leg dangles off a bench and lift weights upward at the knee.

"This exercise can be beneficial, but can also do more harm than good because the kneecap can become irritated," Lintner said. "Talk with a weight-training expert about the need for extensions and the proper way to do them."

Lintner says toe lifts and heel lifts can also be included in a strengthening routine.

Standing straight, raise up on the toes and go down again several times. Repeat this on the heels as well to increase strength in the calf muscles and improve overall leg tone.

"Stretching is a vital part of any exercise program," said Lintner. "Runners especially should always remember to take 10 or 15 minutes just to stretching the hamstrings and quadriceps muscles to prevent injury."

A regular routine of these exercises several times a week, along with whatever activity a person enjoys, will decrease the risk of a knee injury," said Lintner.

Jacarra Tillman, 10, clowns for the camera to remind her friends and neighbors in Sanford about the importance of recycling.

What happens to stuff you recycle?

By SHERRY NEWKIRK
Special to the Herald

Recycling is more than just collecting material. It's also re-processing the collected material into new or reusable products. It's also purchasing those new products made from recycled material. And it's called "closing the recycling loop."

Seminole County Parks and Recreation Division is helping to complete the recycling loop by purchasing products made from recycled rubber, plastic and aluminum.

At the new Seminole County Sports Training Center located at Sylvan Lake Park, recycled rubber mats are being placed just outside tennis and racquetball courts to help clean debris off the shoes of players as they enter the playing area. This should help preserve the playing surface of the courts.

These 10 rubber mats are made by recycling old rubber tires. For more than 40 years a Tennessee company has produced these mats by taking in waste tires, de-banding them, cutting them into long strips, assembling the strips onto rods, then cutting the rods to meet the preferred size of the mat.

In addition, 30 benches constructed from recycled plastic have been ordered. Two different styles will grace the facility, a flat bench style and a contoured-back bench style. If the recycled plastic benches wear well, more will be ordered when current park benches need to be replaced.

Inside the new soccer complex, recycled products are on the floor, in the walls and on the ceiling.

The ceiling tile is comprised of 50 percent recycled items, such as newsprint, packaging material and slag from steel mills which is spun into mineral wool.

From the same company, the county also purchased recycled plastic restroom partitions. Both the partitions and the benches are 100 percent high-density polyethylene plastic (HDPE).

Up to 15 percent of the HDPE content comes from post-consumer plastic recyclables, such as those collected curbside in Seminole County. The remaining content, up to 85 percent, comes from scrap in the plastic manufacturing process.

New floor tile at the soccer complex is also manufactured with recycled material. Tailings, a waste product of feldspar refining, are used as the primary raw material. In addition, waste generated during the tile manufacturing process is also reused.

June efforts take another upswing

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — Seminole County recycling efforts took another upswing in June, increasing 600,000 lbs. above May pickup rates.

A total of 8.2 million lbs. of newspapers, glass, yard waste and other reusable garbage was collected by the county and seven cities last month, according to a report by the Seminole County Recycling Office. The county is required to track all garbage generated with the objective of meeting the state's 30 percent reduction goal by the end of next year.

Residential yard waste collections increased quite a bit between May and June. In May, 2.6 million lbs. of yard debris were collected. In June, 3.2 million lbs. were collected.

Unincorporated residents disposed of 595,700 lbs. of yard waste last month, compared to 418,769 lbs. in May. Sanford yard waste collections dropped from 662,480 lbs. in May to 463,600 lbs. In June, Lake Mary collections jumped from 61,560 lbs. to 177,260 lbs. Longwood collections increased from 181,920 lbs. to 281,060 lbs.

Unincorporated curbside recycling efforts increased slightly from slightly less than 1.2 million lbs. in May to slightly more than 1.2 million lbs. in June. Sanford recycling collections dropped from 163,300 lbs. to 149,180 lbs. Lake Mary collections also dropped, from 55,813 lbs. to 44,506 lbs. Longwood collections increased from 97,023 lbs. to 113,070 lbs.

Newspapers continue to represent the primary household garbage recycled throughout the county. Of the 2.1 million lbs. of household garbage placed in curbside bins for recycling throughout the county, 1.3 million lbs. were newspapers. Glass amounted to 566,848 lbs. and steel cans totaled 129,694 lbs. Plastic containers totaled 74,449 lbs. and aluminum cans reached 55,221 lbs.

IN BRIEF

LOCALLY

Seminole High physicals

SANFORD — First-year Seminole High School head football coach Ernest MacPherson has announced that physicals for all athletes interested in playing in any fall sport will be given on Tuesday, August 3rd and Thursday, August 5th, starting at 5 p.m. both days.

The physicals will take place in the Multi-purpose room next to the Gymnasium. MacPherson also said that the first fall football practice will be Monday, Aug. 9 at 8 a.m.

AROUND THE STATE

Lightning signs Savard

TAMPA — Denis Savard, one of hockey's most exciting players the past 13 seasons, left the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens for the Tampa Bay Lightning.

The six-time All Star signed a three-year contract with the second-year team. Savard had 16 goals and 34 assists last season despite missing 21 games with a shoulder separation. He had five assists in 14 playoff games before missing the last four games with a broken foot.

In three seasons with Montreal, Savard had 72 goals and 107 assists in 210 games.

AROUND THE NATION

Belcher goes to White Sox

CINCINNATI — Tim Belcher thought pennant contenders had soured on him during his July slump. The White Sox proved him wrong.

The AL West-leaders obtained the right-hander from the Cincinnati Reds for minor-league pitchers Johnny Ruffin and Jeff Pierce.

Belcher, 31, was one of the most-discussed pitchers in this month's trading sweepstakes. Belcher usually finishes strong and has playoff experience — he won a game for the Los Angeles Dodgers in the 1988 World Series.

Belcher is 9-6 with a 4.47 ERA in 22 starts but has failed to make it past the fifth inning in five of his last six starts.

Ruffin, 22, was 3-4 with a 3.30 ERA in 29 relief appearances at Class AAA Nashville, while Pierce, 24, a converted outfielder in just his second year as a pitcher, was 3-4 with a 2.59 ERA and 18 saves at Class AA Birmingham.

Andretti a blur at Michigan

BROOKLYN, Mich. — Mario Andretti stole the show in time trials for the Marlboro 500, turning the fastest qualifying lap in motorsports history.

The 53-year-old Andretti took the pole position for the 500-mile race with a blazing lap of 234.275 mph on a virtually perfect day at Michigan International Speedway.

His effort knocked Newman-Haas teammate Nigel Mansell's 233.462 off the pole and was considerably quicker than the 232.618 by Roberto Guerrero in 1992 at Indianapolis that had stood as the fastest official qualifying lap.

The record-smashing lap on the bumpy 2-mile, high-banked oval was not quite as quick as the hand-timed unofficial Indy-car closed-course record of 234.5 set by Jeff Andretti, the younger of Mario's two racing sons, during a test session on Feb. 23 at Texas World Speedway.

Arte Luyendyk was a solid third at 229.885, followed by Raul Boesel at 229.562, Paul Tracy at 227.468 and defending race winner Scott Goodyear at 227.408.

NASCAR stars get dirty

MINERALWELLS, W.Va. — It was back to earth some for NASCAR stars who drove in an exhibition race on the city's dirt track.

Rusty Wallace, Dale Jarrett, Cale Yarborough, Neil Bonnett, Jimmy Spencer, Kenny Wallace and Derrick Cope raced each other Friday night during a rare weekend off from NASCAR racing.

Some NASCAR drivers got their starts on dirt tracks, but few still race on them.

Jarrett, for one, said he enjoys racing on dirt when he gets the chance.

"Dirt's a different concept. You feel the car a little more on dirt," he said. "Dirt track racing is great. I hope it never goes away."

Henderson going to Toronto?

OAKLAND, Calif. — The Toronto Blue Jays, locked in a five-team battle in the American League East, acquired outfielder Rickey Henderson in a trade with the Oakland Athletics.

The trade is contingent on the approval of Henderson, who has a no-trade clause in his contract, according to spokesmen for the teams.

Loss drops Altamonte Dodgers into deep hole

From Staff Reports

APOPKA — Chris Tibbets pitched a great game for the Altamonte Springs Dodgers on Saturday morning. Unfortunately for Tibbets and the Dodgers, Apopka's Derrek Kirkland pitched a better one.

Playing in the Florida Amateur Baseball Association tournament at Apopka's Jay Barnes Field, Kirkland blanked the Dodgers (Lake Brantley High School's summer team) on three hits to lead Apopka to a 3-0 victory and into Saturday night's winners' bracket final against Hammock Brothers Roofing (Boonet).

In an elimination bracket game Saturday afternoon, Bates Team Sports (Dr. Phillips) defeated Trail Lincoln-Mercury (Cypress Creek) 5-4 in nine innings.

This morning at 10 a.m., Altamonte Springs will play Bates Team Sports, the winner advancing to face the loser of the Apopka/Hammock Brothers Roofing game at 1 p.m.

The potential championship game matching the winner of the Apopka/Hammock Brothers Roofing contest against the losers' bracket survivor is scheduled for 4 p.m. Sunday. The "if necessary" game is set for 11 a.m. Monday.

Apopka gave Kirkland all the offense he would need with a two-run rally in the second. After Brad Gierke singled and Albert Colon doubled, Jeremy Rupp drove both home with a single.

An Altamonte Springs' error in the fifth inning led the way to Apopka's third run.

Keith Walsh provided most of the offense for the Dodgers, contributing a bunt single and a double. Jeff Shaw added a single.

Pernfors lands in finals

Associated Press

MONTREAL — Mikael Pernfors landed in the final of the $1.65 million Canadian Open tennis tournament and couldn't hide his surprise.

"I never thought it would happen again," said the former Seminole Community College star, who downed Petr Korda 7-6 (7-4), 7-5 in the semifinals at Larry Stadium.

The victory put Pernfors, a former top-10 player on an injury comeback, in position to win a tournament for the first time since 1988, when he won in Scottsdale, Ariz.

"I thought if I played really well I'd go two or three rounds and if I came up against a really good player, I'd lose," said Pernfors, 30, of Sweden.

In today's final, Pernfors will face 13th-seeded Todd Martin, a six-foot-six righthander, who drubbed unseeded Richey Reneberg 6-3, 6-4.

Pernfors, who will pass the $1 million mark in career earnings this week, missed about two years of play and underwent Achilles tendon surgery in 1991. His world ranking dropped to 1,001 before he began his comeback.

He rose to No. 95 going into the Canadian Open, giving him direct entry into the field for the first time this year. He is the lowest ranked player ever to reach a Canadian final.

Pernfors has not dropped a set in his first five matches, including upsets of Sanfordin-born Jim Courier, the No. 2 player in the world, and No. 8-seed Alexander Volkov.

"I don't know if you can call it luck because it happened three days in a row, but I just seem to be able to make these guys make mistakes," Pernfors said.

Pernfors runs down every ball, mixing lobs and drops with consistent ground strokes in a baseline game. As he did against Courier and Volkov, he kept returning the ball and waited for Korda to make 55 unforced errors, mainly ground strokes into the net.

Martin, from East Lansing, Mich., is No. 20 in the world.

The 22-year-old had an even more impressive run to the final, downing Boris Becker in the third round and Andre Agassi in the quarterfinals.

Richards rolls over seniors

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — Dominant. That's the only way to describe Barbara Richards' play at BowlAmerica Sanford this past week.

Bowling in three different women's senior league's, Richards rolled the high series and high individual game in all three leagues.

Myron Gates almost matched Richards in posting the best week among the men, as he had the high series and high individual game in both senior leagues in which he participated.

The highest series of the week for the men was an 899 score in a four-game series turned in by Don Caniglia in the Scratch League and a 598 three-game series rolled by Jimmy Carroll in the Tuesday Nite Mixed League.

The highest women's series scores for the week was a 761 by Nancy Johnson for a four-game series in the Scratch League and a 579 for three games by Linda Moss in the Sheriff's Department League.

The highest individual games rolled during the week was a 258 by Rhonda Kennedy for the women in the Scratch League and a 266 by Bill Gatchell for the men, also in the Scratch League.

MONDAY SENIORS FUN LEAGUE

Gates' 562 series was 27 pins better than the 535 turned in by Don Bangs in the Men's Division. Gates also rolled the best individual game, putting up a 201 to top the 190 turned in by Elmer Stuffed.

Richards started her hot week by outrolling Helen Dechelle 551-518 for the best series in the women's division. Richards' 33-pin margin was built on the

Marlin stopper, family battle Angelman's syndrome

By STEVEN WINE
 AP Sports Writer

MIAMI — Bryan Harvey's 6-year-old daughter smiles all the time, and he wants people to know why.

A perpetual grin is one symptom of Angelman's syndrome, the rare neuro-genetic condition that makes it impossible for Whitney Harvey to talk or care for herself.

As the Florida Marlins' star relief pitcher, Harvey is taking advantage of his prominence to increase awareness about Angelman's. Whitney's case was initially misdiagnosed, and he and his wife, Lisa, want to help other parents avoid the fear and frustration of wondering what's wrong with their child.

Whitney's smile brightens newspaper and television accounts about her condition, and it always prompts a response.

"Every time somebody does a story, I hear from a lot of families," said Jill Hendrickson, national coordinator for the Angelman Syndrome Foundation in Gainesville. The foundation was established in 1991 with $20,000 Harvey won and donated after being named American League Relief Pitcher of the Year.

"In the United States there are approximately 600 known cases of Angelman's," Hendrickson said. "Probably close to 200 of those were diagnosed because of the Harveys. I can't say enough nice things about them."

Experts suspect that up to 7,000 cases of Angelman's may exist in the United States.

"We don't know how many have been misdiagnosed," Harvey said. "That's why we're trying to get the word out."

When Whitney was 2, doctors identified her condition as cerebral palsy. But her behavior and mannerisms differed from children with that disorder, which made the Harveys skeptical of the diagnosis.

Then one day a genetic specialist visited the school Whitney attended.

"As soon as the specialist saw her walk, she said, 'I think I know what she has. I think it's Angelman's syndrome,'" Harvey said. "So we were just lucky the specialist came along."

Angelman's was first identified in 1965, and it was just six years ago that geneticists traced its cause to a missing piece in one chromosome. Life expectancy generally is not affected by the syndrome, but it severely impedes physical and mental growth.

There's no cure, which means Whitney likely will never talk. She has found ways to communicate, though.

"If she wants something to drink, she goes and gets a cup," her father said. "If she wants something to eat, she goes where the food is. If she wants to go outside, she points outside."

"She's a pretty smart kid. She understands a lot that we tell her, but she can't talk to us and tell us anything."

That's the most difficult thing about raising a

Preparation, education are best defense in war against mosquitoes

We may not all be outdoorsmen, but all Floridians have to deal with pesky mosquitoes. Listed below are some tips for avoiding and repelling these irritating insects:

- Mosquitos generally are more prevalent in wooded and swampy areas, and tend to be most active during dawn and dusk hours.

- Wear protective clothing such as long pants, long-sleeved shirts, shoes and socks during times and in locations of high mosquito incidence. Be aware that they can bite right through T-shirts and other lightweight clothing.

- During periods of excessively high mosquito incidence, stay indoors as much as possible.

- Use insect repellent before going into the high-risk areas or when outside during high-risk times. The most effective protection may be obtained through the use of products containing at least 20 to 30 percent diethyl toluamide (DEET). Do not allow the repellent to get in your eyes, mouth or nose.

- Do not rely upon electronic bug killers or ultrasonic repellents for protection. They have not shown to be effective.

- When in high-risk locations, or during high-risk times, do not wear perfumed soaps, sprays or other sweet-smelling formulas that might attract mosquitos.

- Keep windows and screens in good repair.
- Extra care should be taken with children under the age of five, adults over 55, and those with weakened immune systems due to chronic illness. These individuals are at greater risk from mosquito-borne diseases.

Some people may be sensitive to DEET, and experience skin reactions such as rashes. For this reason, health officials recommend that products containing DEET not be used on children under the age of 5. For those who are sensitive to DEET, products containing oil of citronella may provide an alternative.

snook (season closed), tarpon, redfish, flounder, ladyfish and Jack crevalle. Live bait on the outgoing tide is best in the daytime. Jigs and a wide assortment of lures work fine at night.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports slow offshore trolling action. Barracudas have taken over local reefs and wrecks, and it is tough getting a bait or a hooked fish past these toothy marauders. Some king mackerel and jack crevalle are hitting live bait in the buoy line.

Guides are still reporting great action with redfish on the flats of the Banana and Indian rivers.

Ponce Inlet has been calm, and anglers are taking advantage of this opportunity to catch a wide variety of fish such as sheepshead, redfish, drum, bluefish, jack crevalle, and flounder. Live or dead shrimp is bait of choice.

Florida golf course run by HRS

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

CHATTAHOOCHEE — Hidden in the pine woods along the Georgia-Florida border near Lake Seminole is a lush golf course unlike any other.

There's nothing unusual about the layout, or the pin placement, or the slope of the greens.

What's different about Seminole Valley Golf Course is who runs it — the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services. The course is part of the 620-acre Florida State Hospital mental institution.

Scorecards bear the HRS logo. "It's the best-kept secret in the state of Florida," said John Schwenke, a golfer from Marianna who plays the course. "Nobody knows it's here."

There are no signs directing the public to the nine-hole, 3,100-yard course, most of which actually lies in Georgia. A black iron gate with HRS signs on it marks the entrance, just a chip shot away from the hospital's forensic unit, which houses the criminally insane.

The golf course owes its existence to the forensic unit.

Brit Dennis, deputy administrator at the hospital, said the new unit sits on what was once a nine-hole course built by a group of doctors decades ago. When the state Legislature was eyeing Chattahoochee as a site in the early 1980s, townspeople wanted the course kept.

So Sen. Pat Thomas, D-Quincy, and then-Rep. James Harold Thompson got $200,000

tucked into the 1983-84 budget to essentially move the course. The budget item didn't say anything about golf. The money was for "centrally managed facilities maintenance and repair."

"A great percentage of the people of the Chattahoochee area are employees of the state hospital or the prison," said Thomas, who becomes Senate president on Oct. 11. "They wanted it to continue."

With the help of labor from River Junction Correctional Institution, the course was built. It opened in November 1986, mostly on tax-exempt land in Georgia owned by Florida.

Two full-time HRS employees run the course, several others donate a portion of their time to it and some prison inmates work as laborers. All told, about $49,000 in state salaries go toward the course.

The greens fees, which are cheaper than many public courses, go into a trust fund that pays for things like seed and fertilizer. Dennis said there's about $84,000 in the account. But the course has never operated at a profit, losing $7,200 last year.

Anybody can play the course, if they can find it. Dennis said even a patient could play, but he doesn't think many do.

Norman "Champ" James, the hospital utilities supervisor who spends about 10 percent of his working time on the course, said most golfers are local folks, not politicians or HRS higher-ups.

"We get the people who can't afford to belong to a country club," James said. "They're the common, ordinary working folks who play here."

A new regime at HRS is about to change things, however.

New agency Secretary Jim Towey has ordered that the course be sold or leased to a management company and that HRS get out of the golfing business. Towey's letter on the subject followed inquiries by the Ft. Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel.

"We're not the department of health, rehabilitation and golf," Towey said. "We pass out food stamps, not golf stamps."

Dennis said the hospital is exploring a number of options to divest the golf course.

Schwenke and other golfers said a management company will never run the course with the same loving care as HRS.

"It'll go downhill, no question," he said.

But even James, who takes obvious pride in his greens and fairways, said the course is probably a relic that government can't afford to run.

"Nobody questions that running a golf course is really not HRS' business," he said. "It was another time."

child with Angelman's, Whitney's parents agree.

"The only thing I wish she could do is talk, because when something is wrong, sometimes I can't figure out what it is," Lisa Harvey said.

Whitney walks with a stiff gait and takes medication to control seizures, which are now infrequent but at one point occurred with awful regularity — up to 50 times a day. She likes to be outdoors and tries to keep up with her 9-year-old brother, Kristopher.

Because of her active nature, Whitney requires constant attention.

"She doesn't know what can hurt her," Harvey said. "She would walk right in a pool and drown."

A $4 million reliever with 29 saves in his first 31 chances this year, Harvey rarely pitches badly. And he quickly puts the occasional sub-par performance out of his mind.

"Some nights it bothers you," said Harvey, 30. "But when I go home, I've got Whitney and Kristopher and Lisa waiting on me, and once I walk through the door, baseball doesn't matter anymore. They don't care."

Starting next month, Harvey will be on his own for the rest of Whitney runs to the television set when it shows her father during a game. A Fu Manchu mustache and 95 mph fastball can make him seem menacing, but he also has a Southern drawl that becomes even softer when the subject is his daughter.

"It was a little tough at first," Harvey said. "But the way we look at it is that God sent her to us. She's our blessing. There's not a day in my life that I wouldn't want her in it just the way she is."

New life for old house

Renovators in Sanford historic district saving past for future

By ED KORQAN
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — A rundown home will soon become a model home in Sanford's historical district.

Dave Sumner and his wife, Oddette Nimmo of Nimsum Enterprises, are both busy in Sanford rebuilding homes that were built in Sanford around the turn of the century. Many of these homes are in an area that is now designated the historic district of Sanford. The area is recognized on the National Register of Historic Places.

Sumner and Nimmo have rebuilt six homes in Sanford and are now working on their seventh. This home they have appropriately named the "monster" because so much work is involved in getting it back to its original condition.

A tour through the house on Myrtle Avenue would startle you. The home for many years was used as a rental. When all the partitions were torn away from the wall, new windows and doors appeared. The house over the years had been divided and then redivided. Its walls were covered with more than four layers of wallpaper. Much of the wood inside the home was rotting and it all had to be removed. The bathrooms and closets were so tiny a modern day family would never be happy living in the home.

Many of the fixtures have been torn away from the walls. Even quite a few door openings had been replaced with makeshift doors and fixtures. The front door which must have been beautiful in its day, has been beaten and scratched up. The exterior of the home was in just as bad shape including the pool in the backyard.

It was so disappointing when the Summers saw the pool area. Such a beautiful area was trashed completely. The pump had been stolen, the pool was filled with mud and algae lined the sides. The pool had a wire cage installed over the top of it so nobody could fall in.

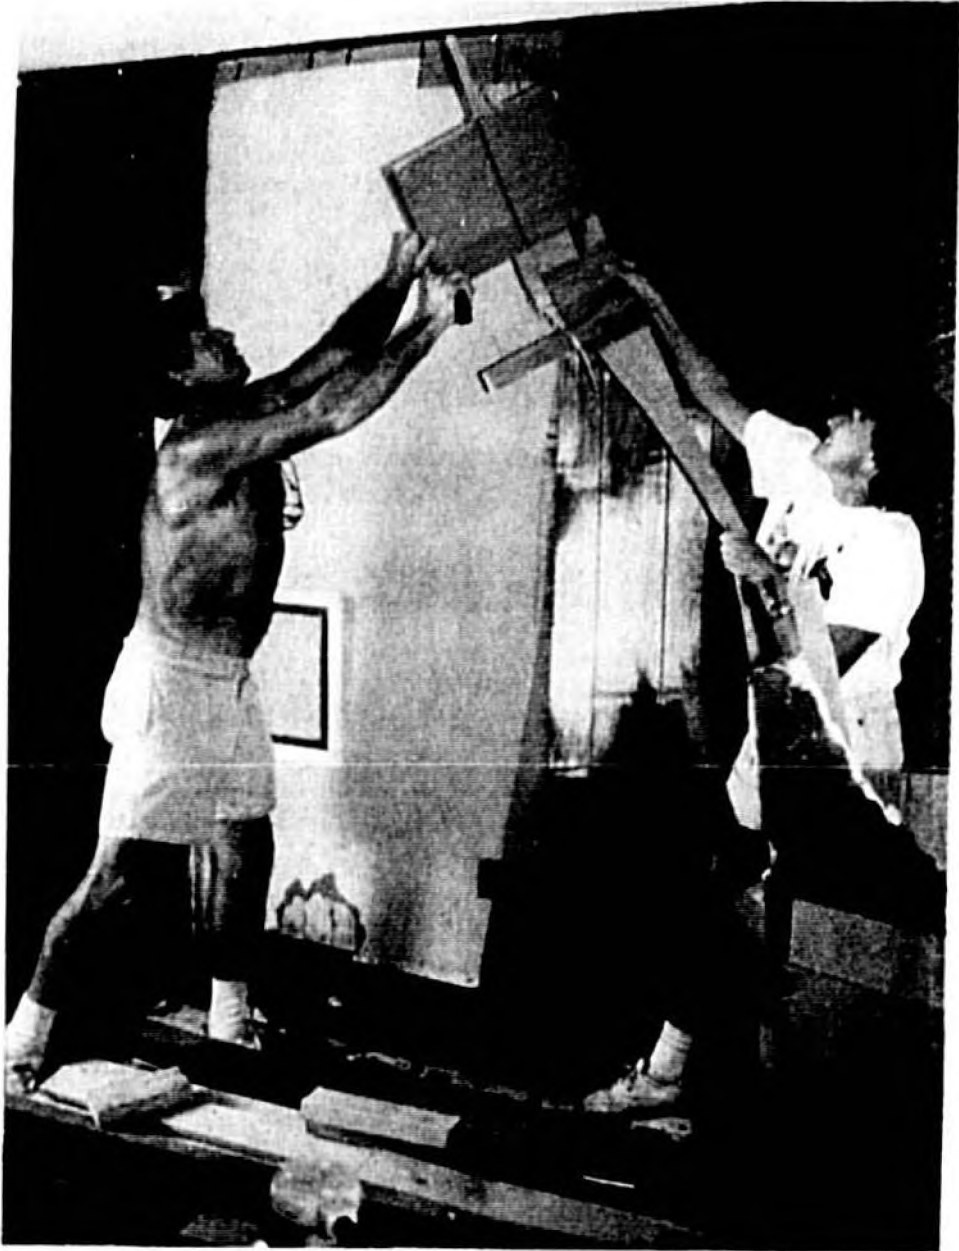

Work is in full swing now and in approximately six months this two-story home will become a model in the community.

The exterior and the pool area is almost completed. The pool deck has been completely redone and the pool cleaned out. A fence originally installed very close to the deck has been moved back away from the pool. Even the landscaping in the backyard has been changed.

Central air has been installed in the home and the work inside the home is going on everyday.

David Sumner explained, "When we began working on the house we just completely tore everything that is bad, out. This house was in the worst shape of any of the homes we have worked on. Fortunately the structure is sound. We have to replace a lot of the paneling, flooring

Guests were 'wild' about zoo benefit

By SARABECCA ROZIER
Herald Correspondent

Saturday, July 24, the Central Florida Zoological Society presented Black Tie on the Wild Side IV, Gala and Auction to benefit the Central Florida Zoological Parks' conservation and education programs for the central Florida community at Walt Disney World Dolphin hotel.

Television personality Danny Treanor welcomed the over 600 guests including 47 corporate tables at $1,500 each table. Quite a growth over the 33 corporate tables from last year.

Kathleen Palmer, president of Central Florida Zoological Society also welcomed guests who arrived in both black tie formal and "animal related formal attire." Palmer also talked about the discussions underway for a 10,000 acre expansion of the park in conjunction with Desert Ranches of Florida.

Edward S. Posey, director of the Central Florida Zoological Park introduced Guest Speaker Jack Hanna, director emeritus of Columbus Zoological Gardens. Hanna graduated from Muskingum College

In New Concord, Ohio. Hanna was director of the Central Florida Zoological Park in Sanford from 1973 to 1975. In 1978 he was appointed director of the Columbus Zoo which has over 6,000 animals and a staff of 120. Known as "Jungle Jack" by many, Hanna turned the Columbus Zoo into a remarkable success. His unique style of "animal enthusiasm" has led to frequent appearances on "Good Morning America," "Late Night with David Letterman," and "Larry King Live." Hanna showed many excerpts of very humorous film clips of highlights during these appearances.

Hanna is a popular and respected spokesman for all zoos. He holds high ideals of conservation that serve as the cornerstones of the zoo profession. Hanna's travels during the past five years have taken him to India, Europe, 10 countries in Africa, South America, the Galapagos Islands, the Amazon, China and various spots throughout North America. Jack Hanna's book, "Monkeys on the Interstate" was released in June of 1989. Hanna

Load the buggy and head for the country estate

For several years now, my husband and I have loaded the buggy every July and headed for my paternal family reunion at the country estate of a cousin and his wife in Mississippi.

And this year was no different. Battling the heat, rain and zany travelers along I-75 and I-10 has become quite a tradition but we dread the same old routine, year after year. Let's face it, interstates seem unfriendly, remotely cold and definitely without charm and personality. Every year, we ponder where we'll have lunch, but in our hearts, we know. I have boldly printed on the map, "No eating places between Tallahassee and Marianna." And we nearly starve until the Marianna exit where we bravely order a succulent Big Mac, fries generously sauced in ketchup and a yummy, thick chocolate shake. Oh yes, we yield to our indulgences on the road what is forbidden fare on the homefront. Pig out time.

After spending our first night in Mobile, we headed for the scenic, golden beaches along the Mississippi Gulf Coast to explore new territory since our visit last year — Mississippi's new alluring dockside gambling casinos. Billboards along the crowded highway gloriously tout the casinos as "non-stop gaming excitement," "three floors of Mardi Gras fun," "sizzling Las Vegas-style action," "four football fields of fun," etc.

Once inside, the casinos were all the billboards claimed — and then some. Nobody mentioned, though, that the slots are like vacuums and don't stop until they have sucked up your last cent.

It was most interesting to note that most of the gamblers sprawled out in front of the colorful slot machines were seasoned senior citizen women who seemed to be having a ball pumping coins as fast as they could into the noisy one-armed bandits. However, men were in the majority at the table games. Win, lose or draw, everybody seemed to let the good times roll.

One woman said she had been there an hour and was still a "little ahead" on her original 10 bucks. Another said she had lost her shirt and then about that time, the jangling machine literally poured out 100 bucks in beautiful silver dollars. She

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. George (Lisa) Dague

Hirt, Dague wed in traditional ceremony

SANFORD — Lisa Lynne Hirt and George Alan Dague are announcing their marriage today. They were married March 20, 1993, 7 p.m., at First United Methodist Church, Sanford. Pastor Clifford V. Melvin performed the traditional ceremony. Soloist for the wedding ceremony was Penny Mewborne of Gainesville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Hirt of Deltona. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dague of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a full-length white satin gown with a v-neckline and short sleeves. Two satin roses accented each sleeve at the shoulder. Alencon lace appliques decorated with seed pearls and sequins formed a bridal point at the waist giving the bodice a traditional look. A pyramid design of Alencon lace and seed pearls decorated the front of the gown at the hemline. The billowing chapel-length train, trimmed with Alencon lace, was also accented with lace appliques embellished with sequins and seed pearls. Her illusion veil was caught by a band of white satin roses and seed pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of pink tulips, mauve alstromeria, white neesia, blue delphinium, raspberry statice and ivy.

Lori Hirt of Casselberry, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a tea-length dress of periwinkle blue taffeta. The fitted bodice was highlighted by a portrait collar with a periwinkle blue flower at the neckline. She carried a bouquet identical to the bride's.

Bridesmaids were Wendy McKee of Lake Mary, and Beth Askew, Orlando, sisters of the bride, and Sharon Vickers of Deltona, sister of the groom. Their gowns and bouquets were identical to the honor attendant's.

Wesley Reese of Oviedo served the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Jack Kaiser, Jerry Kaiser and Nicky Whitehead, all of Sanford.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church hall. Cathy Prager of Casselberry, a friend of the bride, was in charge of the guest book. Carolyn Pickles, Osteen, the bride's aunt, served the wedding cake and punch. Also assisting were the bride's cousins Rita Drinkwater of Orlando, Renee Hirt, Osteen and Elois Wilkins of Sanford, a family friend.

Following a wedding cruise to the Bahamas, the newlyweds are making their home in Lake Mary.

The bride is employed as beauty care clerk at Publix Super Market in Casselberry. The groom is a maintenance technician for Cablevision of Central Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth (Patricia) Gersten

Couple exchange vows in Hawaii

Patricia Ann O'Connor and Kenneth C. Gersten, M.D., are announcing their marriage today. They were married May 18, 1993 in a civil ceremony at Diamond Head Beach Park, Honolulu, Hawaii. A guitarist performed the "Hawaiian Wedding Song" as they exchanged vows at sunset overlooking the Pacific Ocean. They presented each other with traditional Hawaiian wedding leis fashioned of baby red rosebuds.

The bride is the daughter of John and Catherine O'Connor of Merritt Island. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Rita Gersten of New York, N.Y.

The bride chose for her vows a white satin gown in the hi-low fashion embroidered with lace at the hemline. The off-the-shoulder gown featured puffed sleeves decorated with soft white satin roses. The fitted bodice and waistline were accented with seed pearls and sequins. The slim skirt was bustled at the back of the gown with a large bow. Her illusion veil was held by a band of fresh flowers consisting of red rose petals, white baby's breath and interspersed with greenery.

The newlyweds are presently making their home in Heathrow. They plan to take a belated wedding trip to Niagra Falls, N.Y. in late August.

Dr. Gersten is on staff at HCA Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford.

Families celebrate togetherness

The Horne, McCloud and Porter families held their 9th annual reunion celebration July 16-18 with the McClouds, Riggins and Hesters hosting the three-day affair.

The reunion began Friday evening with a get-together meal and pool party. The family members of over 50 persons gathered for the Saturday morning cook-out and family softball game. All of the aches and pains came out during the day.

As the evening neared the family returned to their hotel to prepare for the annual family banquet and fashion show. The children, teenagers and adults modeled the latest in fashions, school, church, sport and bridal attire. Highlighting the fashion parade and acting as master of ceremonies was Gregory Gerrod of California. Musical talents were also displayed by family members.

Special honor goes to Rev. Frank and Daisy McCloud who celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary during the family reunion.

The Horne family was represented by Anna Horne McCloud Mellock of Waycross, Ga.; Porter family, Ralph Porter, Brunswick, Ga.; McCloud family, Frank McCloud, Sanford. The second, third and fourth generations shown are Geraud or Gerald?? Riggins, Steven Wilson and Dominique Riggins.

The Sunday morning worship service was celebrated at Mt. Sinai Missionary Baptist Church, the Rev. A. Miller, pastor. After the service and a fellowship dinner, family members departed for Albany, Ga., New Jersey, Winter Haven, Miami, and California. We salute the matriarch of the McCloud family here in Sanford, Mrs. R.B. McCloud.

grabbed the coins up, clutched on to them for dear life and headed for the exit fast.

Just like Vegas and Atlantic City, casino action is made extremely attractive where hospitality reigns supreme. Cute cocktail waitresses in daring mini-skirted outfits sashay through the crowds to take orders for free drinks 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and one Mississippi casino had a supervised play area on the third floor for children.

Don't expect any casinos anywhere in Mississippi except on the Gulf or the Mighty Mississippi River where several are springing up in Vicksburg and Natchez. And now, Louisiana is ready for dockside casino gambling where a plot right in the middle of the downtown action next to the huge convention center is reserved for the world's proposed largest casino.

After combing the casinos along the scenic route, we finally reached our destination — New Orleans — or as the natives put it, "Nawlins," the City of Enchantment. And it is enchanting — from the broken-down buildings to the narrow, cracked, cobblestone streets that have probably never seen a repair job.

Our hotel, on Canal Street, was on the 20th floor overlooking the river that seemed so peaceful and calm at the New Orleans port in contrast to the wild, angry river in the Midwest.

New Orleans is a party place where a Mardi Gras atmosphere rages year-round. The most popular street is probably Bourbon Street, the birthplace of jazz. The most famous street in the Vieux Carre' or French Quarter is closed to traffic afternoons and evenings. The passing crowd is delighted by the sound of rival jazz musicians Fancy wrought iron railings and traditional provincial architecture are distinct trademarks of Bourbon Street where everybody seems to enjoy the sights, sounds and food of the French Quarter.

During our exciting visit to New Orleans, we parked the car at the hotel garage where it remained until our departure. We walked all over the French Quarter and did the open-air French Market which we agreed is not up to par with our own Flea World, excluding marvelous produce and fresh seafood and meats.

We took a plantation tour, a cruise down the river, a tour of the historic old city and visited the St. Louis Cathedral and Jackson Monument. Then there were several museums, the Superdome, Aquarium of the Americas and restaurants.

Breakfast at Brennan's, a quaint French restaurant on Royal Street, was pure delight. The food, elegant ambiance and service were out of this world — as well as the price. All of the sidewalk cafes lured luscious beignets (French doughnuts) with beverages. We had our fill of Creole and Cajun dishes and a lot of marvelous seafood.

Shopping (or rather, mostly looking) along the famous Riverwalk, a huge enclosed shopping mall on the river, was quite an experience. Name it, and it was there, but usually with a very handsome price tag. The streets were filled with all kinds of people. A fitness convention was in progress at the center when fitness buffs gathered from all over the world. Dixieland jazz was heard on numerous street corners while young dancers put their best feet forward in the interest of picking up a few bucks.

Then there were pickpockets. One afternoon, we boarded a bus in front of the hotel to take another tour. There were just the two of us standing there waiting and when the bus pulled over to the curb, I quickly boarded, noticing two well-dressed men hurrying to the bus. One pushed his way around my husband, stepping on his foot, to get in front of him while asking directions from the bus driver as the other reached his hand in Carl's pants pocket. Carl cracked down on the pickpocket's hand and they both fled, after which he boarded the bus where the passengers and driver were unaware of the aborted pocket picking.

After doing Nawlins, we headed back down I-10 to Saucier, near Gulfport, to join the family from Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. It was wonderful seeing everybody again and once again, feasting to the fullest. We are all a year older and there have been no births nor deaths in the family since last year. However, we do have two more family members, the handsome young men who married two of my precious first cousins, twice removed.

Our last leg of the journey was the best part — getting back home. Outside Tallahassee, we left the interstate to absorb some suburban ambience on the cloudy Sunday afternoon.

Introduced many of the exotic animals present, including a Canadian lynx, a 10-foot python, a young llama, "Gertie" a macaw parrot, and a Batelear eagle from Africa.

Both the parrot and eagle performed for the vast audience by responding to a call from their handlers to fly from their release point to the stage where the handler awaited. It was a crowd pleasing spectacle. Also, a beautiful young cougar and orangutan among others were introduced and Hanna told a little about each animal.

Both co-chairwomen, Lynne Hartman and Diane Hancock, spoke to the audience and were on hand throughout the evening to make sure this Black Tie on the Wild Side IV ran smoothly.

There were over 350 silent auction items including every art medium, exquisite jewelry, art and interior decor; original design jewelry; formalwear; restaurant and resort gift certificates; days of beauty for him or her; country club memberships; Orlando Magic pre-season skybox party or Florida Citrus Bowl package; golf outings; many, many central Florida attraction packages, all this and much more because of the diligent work of Maria Leerdam and her auction committee.

The live auction conducted by Art Grindle offered over 12 magnificent items such as a new 1993 Mercedes 190E, 2.3 liter, 4 cylinder, automatic 5-passenger sedan, a sticker value item of $33,130 went for the bargain price of $26,250; a new 1993 Honda Civic DX and a lady's diamond and sapphire cocktail ring. These plus other exciting and exotic auction items and dancing sent many who attended this event home on Cloud Nine.

The Starlight Safari on the Wild Side took place in one of the Dolphin ballrooms that was grandly decorated like a Jurassic Park movie set. Upon entering the ballroom there was a stand of real palm trees with dry ice emitting steam from the rocks and flora surrounding the trees with a fake python wrapped around the exotic plant life. Around the sides of the ballroom were artistic groups of plastic and foam animals painted with neon paints and black lights from overhead making the animals glow and appear real as their green eyes followed you around the ballroom. The stage had the head of a black panther type animal with glowing red eyes and the mouth wide open with bared teeth. His head must have been 30 feet tall. On another side of the ballroom was a screen showing film clips relative to zoos, animals and the evening.

The myriad tables were clothed in jungle print tablecloths with small palm plants with neon and star decorations as the centerpiece. Because the theme was the "Wild Side," which meant unusual as well, the incredible dessert plate was featured instead of the usual salad. Some of the plates had chocolate caged animals set on

The main course was poached salmon and assorted vegetables. The sorbet for cleansing the palate came prior to the last course — the salad (indeed a walk on the "wild side!")

Your most successful endeavors in the year ahead could be those which tend to exclude partners. Think very carefully before inviting others to participate in your ventures.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't let it be said of you today that you're a pussy cat as long as everyone agrees with you, but can turn into a tiger if anyone dares to twist your tail. Major changes are ahead for Leo in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1.25 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The way you're presently handling a critical financial matter is not optimum, but it should produce desirable results. Don't change anything this late in the game.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) If you rely upon yourself to create a lucky environment to make your breaks today, you should do okay. However, if you count on others, it's anybody's guess.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An objective you're presently pursuing is very substantial and meaningful, and can be achieved. Do not let associates or detractors convince you otherwise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your judgment is reliable today, although you personally might not believe this to be true. Don't ponder over things to the state of inactivity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Financial matters could be a trifle tricky for you today, so be careful. To remain in the profit column, you must not let your expenditures overpower your resources.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Friends you enjoy socially might not be equally as appealing to your mate. You'd better get his/her input if you're putting together a guest list today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Owing to an unusual chain of developments, unearned benefits might come your way today. If you fail to share your good fortune with others, the source could be shut down.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your ego might get a big boost today, because others tend to find you extremely attractive mentally as well as physically. Be yourself and let your personality sparkle.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you handle your financial affairs effectively over the next few days, there are strong probabilities for a surplus. Its size will depend upon your involvements.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An opportunity might unexpectedly develop for you today, but this situation won't be limited solely to you. You must act before others beat you to the punch.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could be fortunate today in developments where you are left to your own devices. In matters where you're directly controlled by others you might not be.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Analyze joint ventures very carefully today, because they might contain more problems than promises. Each component must be examined on its own merits. (C)1993, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

There is something magical about a bridge deal in which an apparently certain trump trick is made to disappear.

Today's deal was reported by Guy Dupont in the French newspaper Le Figaro. It was played brilliantly by Roger Benabou.

After his partner made a three-spade overcall, North spent some time trying to get to seven, but eventually he gave up the fight. (Usually it pays to be cautious after a pre-emptive bid.)

West led the heart six. Benabou won with dummy's ace and made the farsighted play of ruffing the heart five in hand. He unblocked the club ace before leading a spade to dummy. When East discarded, it looked as though declarer had two unavoidable losers: one spade and one diamond. But Benabou cached dummy's K-Q of clubs, discarding diamonds from hand. He ruffed the club 10 in hand, cashed the A-K of diamonds and played a spade to dummy.

Finally, Benabou led dummy's heart jack. After East covered with the queen, South discarded his last diamond, as did West. Dummy remained with the spade ace and diamond eight. East had two hearts. South held the 10-9 of spades, and West the J-7 of spades.

When East led a heart, South ruffed with the spade nine. What could West do? If he overruffed with the jack, dummy would overruff with the ace and South's spade 10 would win the last trick. If he underuffed, dummy's diamond loser would be discarded.

This is known as a Smother Coup. It is a rare bird in the aviary of bridge.

Workshops focus on money

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce will present three workshops in August and September. They are designed for the business leaders who want to learn more about money management techniques.

Tax Consultant Vivian Howard explained, "We have offered these workshops before, and they were so popular they were sold out with people still wanting to get in."

The workshops are offered to chamber members at no cost.

They are being presented by the principals of BSI Financial Services, who are certified financial planners.

The actual presentations will feature two chamber members, Whelchel and Howard, Inc., a local accounting firm serving the area for the past 30 years.

Vincent T. Howard, CPA, PA., is a local CPA who was raised in Sanford.

Vivian Howard said, "The presentations are designed to educate business people on the basics of money management techniques, and motivate them to accomplish their financial goals."

The first class, "Estate Preservation" is scheduled for Tuesday, August 24, from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. Howard commented, "This will help in understanding why estate planning is important for all of us. If your net taxable estate is over $60,000, you need to learn how to minimize your probate costs, reduce estate taxes by 80 to 90 percent, and utilize trusts to benefit your family."

On Sept. 16, "Tax Strategies" will be the subject. "This is about understanding our tax laws and applying them to obtain the maximum benefit from our dollars," she said.

The third workshop is called "Wealth Accumulation." It is scheduled Sept. 30th. "The focus here," she said, "is to better understand how money works for you. The basics of investing are discussed such as inflation, compound interest, stocks, bonds, mutual funds and tax deferred/free earnings."

Howard urged people interested in one or all of these seminars to register as soon as possible, as space is limited.

All of the workshops will be held at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building, 400 E. First Street in downtown Sanford.

For information or registration, phone the BSI Financial Services office, toll free, at 1-800-881-0336.

The series of workshops designed for businesses continues at the University of Central Florida. The courses are being offered by the Center for Executive Development, College of Business Administration.

After a busy July filled with "Train the Trainer" classes, only two courses are being offered in August. They are as follows:

● Aug. 9-10 Warehouse Productivity and Improvement. The workshop teaches skills needed to run a warehouse more productively. The classes cover basic productivity measurements, improving receiving, putaway, picking and replenishment methods, and developing labor standards.

The tuition cost for the class is $595.

● Aug. 30-31 — Essentials of Management for Warehouse Supervisors. The class expands on productivity into the fields of managerial skills to improve morale and efficiency, and resolve conflicts and determine priorities.

The cost for this workshop is also $595.

Most programs can be conducted in-house, upon the request of an employer. For information on in-house training offered by UCF's College of Business Administration, phone Terry Lewis at (407) 823-2446.

Head Teller Maureen Lucie, left, received a service award this past week, from Dennis Courson, President of First Seminole Bank.

The Deltona mother and grandmother is considered a founding employee, and was honored with a plaque for five years of service.

It's chamber showtime for area businesses

By NICK PFEIFAU

SANFORD — The Greater Seminole Business Show is coming up on August 11 and 12. Over 110 businesses will be represented during the event at Seminole Community College.

The two full days of activities are sponsored by the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, Seminole Community College, Florida Hospital Altamonte, and the Central Florida phonebook.

All of the large booth areas for the event have already sold out. The Chamber's Lisa Blackwelder said there are some tables still available. "Advance reservations for the tables were $160," she said, "but that was only until July 10. Now the price is $185, and there are just a few left."

The tables include two folding chairs, signage, a listing in the program, and 25 complimentary tickets.

The event is considered by chamber officials as an opportunity to market directly to over 2,000 Central Florida business professionals who attend the expo. Activities sponsored by Seminole County Businesses include an on-going golf clinic, hot air balloons, and demonstrations by the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

The business show is open to the general public. Hours are noon until 8 p.m. on August 11, and 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. on August 12.

Blackwelder said free complimentary tickets are available at a number of locations including Barnett Banks, Sun Banks, the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, and the office of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, at 400 E. First Street in Sanford.

For additional information, or a table reservation, phone the chamber office at 834-4404.
