But everythers there is "waste—disgraceful waste," Mrs. Roosevett declares. Costly machinery, she insists, should be better taken ears of instead of being left. be better taken care of instead of being left out in the weather to rust.

"What would it mean to this country." Mrs. Reosevelt asks, "If in the course of the next ten years, instead of road machinery being left out to rust to uselessness; and moriey were spent only on such things as are really valuable to the communities and for salaries of officials who really work. We would be able, she feels sure, to keep our schools open, pay our teachers, better salaries, enjoy better health conditions, and have traveling libraries "sadly needed in many rural communities."

But where the greatest waste lies, Mrs. Roosevelt beves, is in unnecessary bureaus, commissions, and other public offices. Citing the State of Washington, she commentls very highly an organization of young Democrata, which has inaugurated a campaign there to consolidate sounty offices, and "where one man can do the work, to employ only one man." "The obvious place to start this re-creation and education of ourselves," she says, "Is into the United States.

In the smallest possible units of our town and county districts where the greatest waste lies, just as it does in my own State of New York."

Most taxpayers, we feel sure, will heartily agree with Mrs. Roosevelt's suggestion that government waste should Cube desired concessions on this be eliminated and that unnecessary public offices should be abolished. There is a feeling among many that the to convert the Mayland burden of government is falling too heavily upon the a houselst or sanitari-shoulders of the taxpayer, and that if taxes were properly reduced there would be considerably less need for so much
