Trappers catch 6-foot lizard

PEMBROKE PINES — Trappers on Tuesday captured an exotic 6½-foot lizard that had been terrorizing a neighborhood by lunging on ducklings and sunbathing on docks around a manmade lake.

"We'd been getting calls saying that there was a 'Loch Ness monster' up there," said Todd Hardwick, the owner of Peaky Critters. "They had noticed that all the baby ducklings had vanished from the lake, and it was climbing out on their docks and sunbathing and panicking everyone."

So a resident on the lake in this suburban city in western Broward hired Hardwick, who laid down a trap filled with raw chicken necks.

The creature was a water monitor lizard, an endangered reptile usually found in Southeast Asia.

Mall worker raises stink

TACOMA, Wash. — A postal worker who tried to prove that mail service is fast and efficient learned something was rotten in the postmaster general's office.

Joe Jenkins, who sorts packages for the post office, wrapped a carton containing a dozen raw eggs in foam and sent it parcel priority Feb. 13 to the postmaster general in Washington, D.C. He said he hoped a safe and speedy arrival would boost the service's image.

When Darl Wilson, secretary for the postmaster general, saw the package on Feb. 19, she "thought it was a prank."

She said the package arrived in one piece, but she and other employees didn't bother unwrapping it after they got a whiff of its contents.

"We stopped because they started to stink so we didn't open it up any further," Ms. Wilson said.

She tossed the package in the garbage. Postal service spokesman Steve Korke said the eggs apparently arrived intact. But Jenkins isn't so sure. He said the odor indicated the eggs had broken.

Jenkins, who works for the Kent post office between Tacoma and Seattle, said he intends to test the system again by mailing an identical package.

Kuwait City freed

Country all but liberated; tank battles rage in Iraq

By JOHN KING
Associated Press Writer

KUWAIT CITY — With Iraq's shattered occupation army in chaotic flight, allied forces today reclaimed Kuwait's capital. Deep inside rain-darkened Iraq, U.S. forces were reported to be crippling Saddam Hussein's best troops.

Amid wild rejoicing, Kuwaiti troops hoisted the country's colors in downtown Flag Square — the traditional site of National Day celebrations. Allied troops paraded triumphantly into the capital.

A Pentagon source said U.S. Marines today secured Kuwait's international airport, south of the city. Marines in M-60 tanks fought Iraqi armor there Tuesday, destroying more than 100 Iraqi tanks, the source said.

Far bigger tank battles were taking place to the west, in Iraq, where U.S. armored forces were engaging the Republican Guard.

The allies have reported relatively light casualties for such a huge operation, but deaths were mounting. There were at least 36 allied deaths, not including the 28 American troops killed in

Jazzin' it up at Crooms

As part of Black History Month, Crooms School of Choice, Sanford, and the Central Florida Jazz Society, Orlando, presented a program to celebrate the part black musicians played in the history of jazz on Tuesday at the school. A quartet of local musicians, top photo, including Michael Kramer, piano; Pete Portec, bass; Jim Cheek, drums and Sid Wienberg, horns, entertained a full house. Jimmy Brooks, bottom right, owner and operator of First Impressions, Sanford, and a group of his pre-school aged children clapped along and listened attentively to the smooth sounds.

City pool plan gets split push

By VICKI DeBORMIER

SANFORD — Though they made the commitment to apply for a state grant to help build a community swimming pool at Seminole High School, the Seminole County School Board was divided over the issue.

If the district's proposal is approved by the state, construction would take place during the 1992-1993 school year.

While board chairman Joe Williams and member Jeanne Morris stated that they felt Sanford needs a recreational pool, there were concerns raised that the district would not be best served by making such a commitment at this time.

"What if, God forbid, we have more budget cut backs?" board member Barbara Kuhn asked. "We will need money for other things."

Other members of the board argued that it was their job to set priorities and stick by those choices.

The school board already has sufficient land to construct the pool and a locker room facility on Seminole High School's 53-acre site, 2701 Ridgewood Ave. in Sanford. It will cost approximately $800,000 to $1,000,000 to build the facility.

According to the criteria for the state grant, the district will have to commit 25 percent of the money, or about $250,000, to the project.

The City of Sanford will have to pay 50 percent of the cost of

County, city reach compromise

LAKE MARY — Seminole County commissioners gave support for a Country Club Road entrance to Lake Mary's proposed Liberty Park, but not without opposing the city's request to discard the county requirement for a left-turn lane into the park site.

City officials asked county commissioners Tuesday to waive their standard requirement for the turn lane, citing low speeds on the road south of Rantoul Lane and the low amount of traffic the 20-acre nature park would attract. City officials also said to install the turn lane, they would have to widen a bridge south of the site and do earthwork which would cost about $150,000.

The lane would also require the removal of several trees in the park, officials said. The $120,000 project must be complete by Nov. 1 or the city will lose their $45,000 state grant for the park, said Lake Mary City Manager John Litton.

But commissioners were concerned about the safety of park visitors turning in at the entrance. Without a turn lane, park visitors could get rear-ended. County Engineer Jerry McCollum said he requires turn lanes for any construction facing a road greater in number and scope than a single home.

Commissioner first voted 3-2 to oppose the waiver, with only commissioners Bob Sturm and Jennifer Kelley favoring the waiver. Commissioners then decided to reconsider their vote at commissioner Pat Warren's request, although commissioner Larry Furlong opposed that action, saying the turn lane was

Traffic safety tests get underway

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Tests of a concept intended to improve traffic safety have temporarily narrowed 25th Street to two through lanes from U.S. Highway 17-92 west to Old Lake Mary Road.

The test started Friday when contractors began preparing the road for resurfacing, said Steve Decker, county traffic engineer, and will run between two and three weeks. If tests show narrowing the road does not improve traffic, it will be returned to four lanes, he said.

The road was built in the early 1950s as an "old-style four-lane road," Decker said. The lanes were built to be only 11 feet wide, and no turn lanes, medians or shoulders were provided for, he said.

For the test, a 12-foot turn lane has been added between two 13-foot through lanes, Decker said. Three-foot shoulders on either side of the road may prove more safe for bicyclists and for motorists turning right at driveways and side roads.

School plans new site for the arts, play

By VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board agreed at Tuesday night's meeting to have their Business Advisory Committee review the options for land purchases near Lake Mary Elementary School for the construction of a new art and music suite. Land will also be used for the expansion of the school's play area.

When the final approvals are made, the suite and the purchase of the land will be paid for with money remaining in accounts from the 1985 bond issue.

"We have a budget we have to work within," said Richard Wells, assistant superintendent for facilities.

Wells offered the board several options for completion of the project. The board remanded all options to their business advisors for review.

A 1.7 acre site along Lake Mary Boulevard is available to the school board for $495,000. It is a commercial site.

A five acre site behind the school, recessed from Country Club Road, is comprised of both residential and agricultural sites.

Williams felt the site along Lake Mary Boulevard would be too close to what will soon be a four lane highway for the safety of the students at play.

That site is available for about $600,000.

Assistant defender found in contempt

PORT PIERCE — An assistant public defender's Colorado ski vacation has cost him another $1,000. Clifford Barnes was found in indirect criminal contempt of court Monday by Circuit Judge Carl Harper of Pensacola, who cited Barnes for causing a delay in a murder trial. Barnes said he volunteered in December to assist a colleague with the first-degree murder trial of Marvin Bigham after former Assistant Public Defender Mark Edwards quit his job. But the Feb. 19 trial date conflicted with Barnes' ski vacation. Barnes' colleague, Assistant Public Defender Lucky Osho, asked retired Judge William Frye III on Feb. 14 for a continuance in the trial. Frye denied it, saying a vacation was not sufficient legal grounds to delay the trial. Osho testified Monday. Barnes went ahead on his eight-day trip Feb. 16.

Police dog may be given nose test

BARTOW — A prosecutor is fighting an attempt by a defense attorney to give a police dog a nose test to verify his tracking ability — a skill that helped link a man to a brutal murder case. Assistant Public Defender Bob Norgard wants Axel from the Polk Sheriff's K-9 corps to be tested by an American Kennel Club judge. Deputy Jim Bryan and his 2½-year-old male German shepherd assisted in the investigation of David Joseph Pittman. Pittman was arrested last year and charged with three counts of first-degree murder in the deaths of his estranged wife's sister and parents. In a subpoena issued Friday, the deputy was told to bring the animal to the Lakeland Linder Airport on Wednesday, where the dog was to be evaluated by an American Kennel Club judge. Assistant State Attorney Hardy Pickard, in a motion filed Monday, challenged the right of the defense to stage such a test, saying the public defender has no authority to issue a subpoena to a state witness to participate in an experiment or test.

Jury convicts four on drug charges

MIAMI — A federal jury convicted four men, three of them former law enforcement officers, of racketeering conspiracy and various drug charges in an alleged scheme to rip off suspected drug dealers. The jury Tuesday convicted former Metro-Dade police major Roberto Gonzalez, 41; his brother, Jose C. Gonzalez, 44, a Metro detective; Jorge Fonte, 39, a former Broward Deputy Sheriff and a former narcotics detective with the Nevada State Police; and Manuel Rodriguez, 57, a Sunrise auto repair shop operator. Three other men named in the indictment pleaded guilty to one or more counts and testified as government witnesses during the seven-week trial. The indictment charged that between 1981 and 1987, the group robbed drug dealers of large quantities of marijuana and cocaine and more than $1 million dollars in cash. Judge Edward B. Davis set sentencing for April 30. Attorneys for the four defendants said they would appeal the convictions.

Extortionist arrested

MIAMI BEACH — A man accused of faking kidnappings to extort sex from women was lured into a police trap and arrested, authorities said. Richard Anthony Trinchera, 27, of Hialeah was arrested at a hotel on Miami Beach Sunday where he had arranged to meet the mother of a man he claimed to have abducted, police said. Trinchera was charged with attempted sexual battery and extortion. Trinchera telephoned the 66-year-old woman and told her he would kill her son unless she had sex with him, Miami Beach police spokesman Tom Hoolahan said. The woman called authorities. They asked her to play along and she agreed. Some officers took a room next door to her and waited. They arrested Trinchera after he knocked at the door. He was unarmed. Trinchera has attacked several elderly women in northeast Dade since December by using the same hoax, Metro-Dade police said.

Police officer saves heart attack victim

WEST PALM BEACH — A police officer dropped his ticket book and helped save the life of a man who suffered a heart attack after his son was stopped for speeding. Officer Bob Olsen, along with a passing schoolteacher, kept the 74-year-old man alive until paramedics arrived a few minutes later, authorities said. The victim, Jules Freedman, was in guarded condition in intensive care Tuesday at Humana Hospital. Olsen was monitoring traffic Monday when he clocked a car doing 64 miles per hour in the zone posted 40, said Sgt. John English.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

HRS changed investigations

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — The way the state of Florida investigates its responsibility for child-abuse deaths was changed after the abuse death of a toddler led to the first prosecution of a state caseworker — but that system may be modified again. Before the initial change, the inspector general in the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services investigated 35 cases and demoted, suspended or fired workers in nine cases. A year after Lakeland toddler Bradley McCoe suffered fatal injuries during abusive toilet training in July 1989, the primary investigation of child abuse deaths was left in the hands of the state's 11 HRS districts. There have been at least 16 cases in which HRS had some involvement — but not once have the districts found themselves to blame. The district-level reviews haven't been thorough enough, according to Bob Williams, acting HRS secretary. He told The

"I think we've suffered from the perception in the past that we try to hide behind our mistakes."

— Bob Williams

Tampa Tribune in a Tuesday story that he wants the inspector general's office to again be involved in each case. The new district reports will say whether a death could have been prevented, recommend improvements in the child-protective system — and lay blame. Williams said. It will also be made clear if workers did all they could, he said. "I think we've suffered from the perception in the past that we try to hide behind our mistakes," Williams said. In Bradley's case, the inspector general concluded "his death might have been prevented if HRS employees had followed department policy and regulations." The Lakeland toddler was killed just two months after HRS workers returned him to his parents. Prosecutors later used the inspector general's report to win indictments against four HRS workers accused of failing to report evidence that Bradley was being abused. Bradley's main caseworker was convicted of abuse for not giving critical information to a judge and for not reporting signs he was in danger to the HRS abuse hot line. Two others were acquitted and prosecutors dropped charges against the fourth. In July 1990, a month after Bradley's caseworker was convicted, B.J. Cosson, the director of the HRS child protection system, ordered that all child-abuse deaths be reviewed by workers in the district where the death occurred. Before, the inspector general had investigated abuse or neglect of children in HRS facilities and deaths of children whose families previously had been reported to HRS for abuse or neglect; districts did their own parallel investigations.

Allegations against drug czar nominee resurface at hearing

Martinez, under oath, denies allegations of wrongdoing

By CAROLYN SKORNECK Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — It seemed for awhile that former Florida Gov. Bob Martinez would get through his Senate hearings to become the nation's drug policy leader without any reference to old allegations of bribery and perjury. But Judiciary Committee Chairman Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., raised the matter late Tuesday, long after most spectators and reporters had left the hearing room. He allowed Martinez, who was under oath, to put his denials of any wrongdoing on the record, and he did so. The hearing already had covered such matters as Martinez's drug-fighting record in Florida. Democratic members of the committee criticized that record as placing too much emphasis and money on law enforcement crackdowns to the detriment of drug treatment and prevention efforts. Martinez had defended numerous drug treatment programs initiated in Florida. Asked whether he supports "treatment on demand," the nominee said, "Everyone that wants treatment ought to have it." He said some statistics on waiting lists for drug treatment do not accurately reflect real needs because a person who gets into one treatment center may have signed up for several, but is never removed from the other lists. The former teacher also stressed his commitment to education, the kind that occurs in the homes and in youth organizations. Such things as promising to provide college tuition to a young student if that student works hard and stays out of trouble is a drug abuse-fighting technique even though it may not be labeled as such, Martinez said. Democratic committee members and one Republican, Sen. Arlen Specter of Pennsylvania, urged Martinez repeatedly to move the current budget breakdown — 71 percent for law enforcement and international measures, 29 percent for treatment and education — toward a 50-50 split. Martinez responded to each senator but never gave a direct answer. Martinez, denying the contention of several Democrats that he was nominated by President Bush because he was an out-of-work Republican who needed a job, pointed to years of work fighting drugs in a state whose geographical location has given it a history of drug problems.

Executions by injection save money

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — To save time and money, Florida executions should be by lethal injection rather than electrocution, a task force formed by Gov. Lawton Chiles has concluded. But Larry Spalding, head of the state agency that represents death row inmates, said he wasn't interested in promoting one method over another. "I'm not one of those that's real comfortable with the debate on what's the best way to kill people," Spalding said. "The whole thing kind of gets rather bizarre when we're talking about humanity and the death penalty." He said he didn't think lethal injection was more humane than electrocution. For three-quarters of a century, those on Florida's death row have been put to death at Florida State Prison near Starke in an oak electric chair. But after smoke and flames erupted from the cap covering an inmate's head during an execution last May, defense attorneys charged that the chair was broken and had become an instrument of torture that violated the ban on cruel and unusual punishment in the U.S. Constitution.

Greyhound track ordered closed

By CURT ANDERSON Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Allegations that dogs were mistreated and animal waste was improperly stored prompted state officials to close a Key West greyhound track. The Department of Business Regulation ordered Berenson's Key West Greyhound Track to cease operations in an order describing 40 infractions of pari-mutuel wagering and health regulations. There has been a management "uncooperativeness by track personnel and in some cases, misleading of the wagering public," DBR Secretary Janet Ferris said. "This agency can no longer tolerate the many safety violations, and most important, the lack of humane treatment for the greyhounds that race." The track on Stock Island just north of Key West has held greyhound races six days a week since November, General Manager Richard Dinardo said. He said most of the violations have already been corrected. "We've gone out of our way to be cooperative with them and they've stabbed us in the back," Dinardo said. "We took care of every one of them that came to our attention." Among the violations, Ferris said, were abandonment of 38 greyhounds in October that were later found in a "grossly underweight state." Sixty-eight more dogs were found in stages of malnutrition and dehydration earlier this month.

Bob Hope, wife break ground for Delores Hope Chapel

By BILL KACZOR Associated Press Writer

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. — The thoughts of Bob Hope and wife Delores turned to U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf as they broke ground for a chapel to be named for Mrs. Hope at Bob Hope Village, a home for Air Force widows and dependents. "The military becomes so important at times like this," Hope said Tuesday. "You forget, you know, when we're not at war that they're there, but you don't realize how important they are. They stand out very large at moments like this." The Delores Hope All-Faiths Chapel is scheduled to be dedicated in October when Hope will return for a benefit performance, one of many the comedian has given in this Florida Panhandle city over the years. "I just hope that when it's built that there will be lots of people using it and thanking God for all that we have," she said. Money from Hope's benefits here have gone to the Air Force Enlisted Men's Widows and Dependents Home Foundation, which built and operates Bob Hope Village and a second apartment complex, Teresa Village, both in Fort Walton Beach. Hundreds of residents and military personnel from nearby Eglin Air Force Base and Hurlburt Field attended the groundbreaking.

POLICE BRIEFS

Pair arrested after speeding

Shonda Evitter Williams, 21, of 1512 W. 15th St. in Sanford, and Ronald Thomas Matthews, 23, of 400 Tulane Dr. in Altamonte Springs, were arrested on Monday on outstanding warrants.

Matthews had been driving on I-4 when officers using a stationary radar allegedly found he was traveling 78 miles per hour in a 55 mile per hour zone.

A computer check of the auto tag revealed that it was registered to a Buick, not the Dodge which Matthews was driving.

When Matthews and Williams were stopped, a computer check of their identification revealed that both were wanted on outstanding warrants.

According to the arrest reports, Williams was wanted on a petit theft charge.

The pair was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Traffic violations bring arrest

Todd David Bush, 25, of 730 Pampas Grass Ct. in Lake Mary, was arrested on Monday and charged with being a habitual traffic offender and with altering his auto tag.

Bush, also known as Todd D. Cook, was stopped by police who noted that his auto tag, which had expired, had been altered, police reported.

Bush had allegedly altered his tag by placing a "92" over the "91" in the expiration date.

A computer check revealed that his license had allegedly been suspended three times for failure to pay traffic fines, had allegedly been revoked for 180 days for driving under the influence of alcohol and had allegedly been revoked for five years for being a habitual traffic offender.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility. Bond was not set.

Suspended license doesn't stop driver

Guy Charles "Bam" Gordon, 26, of 305 Dorchester Square in Lake Mary, was arrested on Monday and charged with driving with a suspended driver license.

Gordon was arrested when he was pulled over for flashing his headlights to warn other drivers that an officer he had just passed was conducting a stationary radar check for speeders, police reported.

A computer check of his identification revealed that his driver license had been suspended in 1983 and had not been reinstated.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $100 bond.

Theft reveals warrant

Christopher Wayne Wigelsworth, 30, of 1311 Santa Barbara Dr. Apt. 26 in Sanford, was arrested Monday and charged with retail theft.

Police officers took him into custody after Wigelsworth allegedly took a blue t-shirt from the Hay Me Up Feed Store, 2499 Old Lake Mary Rd. in Lake Mary without paying for it.

Employees allege that he fled with the clothing on a yellow bicycle. Police found him near the store on the bicycle and in possession of a blue t-shirt.

After he was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility it was discovered that a warrant for his arrest on an outstanding DUI charge was active.

He was held without bond.

Customer leaves crack with money

Charles Ortiz Gano, 20, of 1830 Harnes Ave. in Sanford, was arrested on Monday after the clerk at the convenience store where he had purchased some gasoline called police.

Gano had allegedly left six pieces of crack cocaine with his money when he paid for his purchase.

He was apprehended a short distance away and transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held without bond.

DUI arrest

Wayne Ronald Parker, 35, of 114 Drew Ave. in Sanford, was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol after he was stopped for traveling 65 mph in a 40 mph zone. A road side sobriety test showed him to be intoxicated.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held in lieu of $100 bond.

Month's rash of break-ins puzzling to area police

Associated Press

ORLANDO — Robbers who seem to know the antiques business have stolen up to $250,000 worth of old treasures in the Orlando area in the past month, dealers say.

Yet the burglaries could be unrelated, with antiques dealers saying they see no pattern in the crimes. There are no suspects.

The largest and latest hit was a display at the National Guard Armory Building in Orlando last weekend. Robbers broke in through a kitchen roof vent and stole jewelry and other items valued at more than $100,000.

The Antiques to Cherish shop lost up to $50,000 in merchandise to burglars Feb. 6, and other shops in Orlando's "Antique Row" have suffered losses since then.

At midmonth, someone stole $6,800 in firefighting antiques, including a $4,000 lantern, from the Orange County Historical Society Museum's fire station. The thief even pried a 3-inch emblem worth $200 to $300 off a 1915 firetruck.

The robbers have passed up expensive-looking but medium-priced antiques for the most-treasured items.

Most of the dealers have no insurance because of its prohibitive cost for such items, they say. The items from the historical museum evidently were taken by visitors, who were allowed to tour the old fire station unescorted. Museum Director Sara Van Arsdale said only escorted tours will now be permitted.

Police said the armory robbery required planning as well as expertise.

The antiques show has been held monthly at the armory for the past 11 years. Thirty or more dealers usually open their displays on Friday and leave them there overnight. A guardman makes sure the building is empty before leaving the grounds for the night.

After everyone left last Friday, robbers climbed up a ladder to the roof, removed a kitchen vent fan and climbed into the building.

'School' toilet torched

From staff reports

A portable toilet at the construction site of Heathrow Elementary School, 5713 Markham Woods Road in Lake Mary, was destroyed by a fire that was set by an unknown person.

The damage to the Porta-Pottie toilet was estimated at $400.

No arrests have been made in this case.

Universal returning to future

ORLANDO — Universal Studios Florida is launching its Back to the Future ride with an extensive promotional campaign aimed at luring guests to the park this spring and summer.

Back to the Future is a $40 million attraction that will likely be the cornerstone of an elaborate media event — a second grand opening, industry analysts speculate — this spring.

Universal's grand opening last June was marred when three key rides failed to operate properly, including King Kong and Jaws.

The 30-second sweepstakes-style spots, will give viewers a chance to win a free trip to the park.

Based upon the blockbuster movie trilogy, the Back to the Future ride features 24 DeLorean cars and a 3-story high screen that surrounds guests, creating the illusion of a ride through time.

After ethics panel, voters get final say

In the Keating affair, the U.S. Senate as a whole is being judged as much as the individual senators charged with misconduct. That's what makes the Senate Ethics Committee's verdict on each of the Keating Five so important.

The committee reportedly is split along partisan lines, with the three Democrats wanting to discipline all five while the three Republicans are prepared to pass on Sens. John McCain of Arizona (the only Republican charged) and John Glenn of Ohio. Special Counsel Robert Bennett has said both lawmakers were relatively blameless in this affair.

The six members of the Ethics Committee, who have sat through 25 days of hearings and listened to exhaustive testimony from scores of witnesses, including the senators themselves, should be well-equipped to decide the degree of culpability of the five men charged, but there's no doubt that each deserves some rebuke.

California's senior senator, Alan Cranston, deserves the harshest judgment. He accepted the most money from Charles Keating and went to extraordinary lengths to help him. During the course of the Senate hearings, Cranston's chief fund-raiser testified in disarming detail about soliciting sums of as much as $250,000 at a clip — initially Cranston wanted to ask for half a million — and of Cranston receiving checks from Keating's representative in his private Senate office. When the fund-raiser was asked if she was aware of the Senate rule prohibiting fund-raising on Senate premises, she said she had never heard of such a rule.

At the other end of the spectrum, Glenn and McCain, who attended the meetings at which federal regulators were pressured to go easy on Keating's failing Lincoln Savings and Loan, are probably guilty of no more than bad judgment and of violating the admittedly broad but appropriate and necessary Senate standard that prohibits "improper conduct which may reflect upon the Senate."

Sens. Donald Riegle of Michigan and Dennis DeConcini of Arizona lie somewhere in between.

No matter how wisely or well the Senate Ethics Committee does its job, the voters will ultimately deliver the final judgment on each one of the Keating Five, and that's as it should be. But the Ethics Committee must make it clear — to its own members and to maintain the confidence of the American people in the institution — that it will not tolerate such behavior among its members.

National Anthem rescue

Somewhere between the dawn's early light and the rockets' red glare, "The Star-Spangled Banner" gets mangled — and not only by Roseanne Barr. Almost no one can hit the high notes, and at one time or another, just about everyone has forgotten the words.

Credit Whitney Houston with rescuing the national anthem from the bores and the bunglers. The pop singer's rousing rendition at the Super Bowl, picked up by radio stations nationwide, has become such a hit that it seems destined for the Top 40 even before being released as a single.

Sure, Houston's version taps into wartime patriotism. But whatever your feelings about the war, there's something stirring about the rehabilitation of a song that the rest of us can barely hum on key. Rather like watching one of those old Fred Astaire movies in which Fred, lighter than air, is dancing on the ceiling. Maybe, with a little practice...

Don't let colleges bilk Uncle Sap

Stanford University is hardly unaccustomed to controversy. Its recent decision to scuttle a mandatory Western Culture course ("Hey, hey, ho, ho — Western Culture's gotta go") raised the hackles of those who refuse to recognize the enormous contributions of women and blacks to the intellectual heritage of Western civilization.

More recently still, people who regard university campuses as being particularly dedicated to freedom of speech were shocked when Stanford adopted regulations threatening expulsion for any student who made statements deemed unduly offensive to any one of various protected minorities.

But these and most other examples of Stanford's knack for controversy involve standard liberal obsessions that happen to be especially popular on college campuses nowadays. The most recent flap concerning Stanford, however, is about a much older and grubbier subject, and one with which liberals are supposed to be much too high-minded to be personally interested: money.

Our media have been slow to pick up on this topic, despite their well-known concern for the frugality with which government money ought to be spent. (Remember the $500 Pentagon ash-trays?) Yet if preliminary estimates are to be believed, Stanford University has in recent years blown as much as $200 million of the taxpayers' hard-earned dough on expenditures that had no reasonable relation whatever to the purposes for which Stanford received it.

Like many other universities, Stanford is not only a teaching facility but a great research institution as well, and the government regularly pays it to conduct all sorts of research in which the whole country is legitimately interested. This is, in fact, one of the major ways in which the federal government subsidizes higher education.

But Stanford appears to have fallen into the habit of charging up to such research contracts all sorts of expenditures that have no defensible relation to them. The university yacht, for example, was overhauled and refurbished at the (unwitting) expense of the American taxpayer.

The house of university president Donald Kennedy was enhanced with antique; and one of his closets even got a cedar lining, in the high name of "research." In one of the glossiest extravaganzas of all, even the tab for the champagne wedding reception held to introduce the president's second wife to the Stanford community in her "role as official Stanford hostess" got passed along to Uncle Sap.

There is simply no doubt about Stanford's culpability here; the university has already admitted inappropriate charges totaling half a million dollars, and has agreed to pay that amount back to the government. All we are haggling over is the full amount due, which is almost surely much larger. A couple of congressional committees have finally been prodded into looking into the matter, and even our torpid media are finally bestirring themselves. Too much of the cat is out of the bag now to allow the matter to be ignored, or to wait for interest to die down.

Stanford has in recent years blown as much as $200 million of the taxpayers' hard-earned dough.

General's style gets high marks

RIVADH, Saudi Arabia — The commander of U.S. forces in Saudi Arabia, Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf, knew going into the war that his counterpart in Iraq, Saddam Hussein, was not the best that the Iraqi army had to offer.

Schwarzkopf told us that Saddam is the one general he would prefer to match wits with. The American commander has a higher regard for some of the battle-hardened Iraqi Republican Guard generals than he does for the Iraqi dictator who insists on meddling in all military decisions even though he is not a gifted general.

In fact, Saddam was rejected by Iraqi's military academy in his younger years. Only when he became political leader of Iraq did he make himself a lieutenant general and then field marshal. Saddam's paranoia made him wary of relinquishing any authority to his officers, even if they were better strategists than he.

"The higher the centralization, the happier I am," Schwarzkopf told us. "That just eliminates initiative on the part of the subordinate. And that's a good way to lose a war."

Schwarzkopf, known affectionately here as "The Bear" among his troops, believes in giving his generals as much latitude as they need. It's a philosophy that flows down from President George Bush, who has not proved himself to be a micro-manager of war.

The president rarely communicates with Schwarzkopf. We noted that Bush is famous for reaching out and touching his subordinates. But Schwarzkopf said, "The president of the United States has not personally called me at all," and then the general amended his statement, remembering a call from Bush to wish him a Merry Christmas.

So Bush doesn't call to get a general's eye view of the situation? "Absolutely not," Schwarzkopf said. "The president hasn't called one time to tell me to do anything."

Leaving the war to the generals is not the Iraqi style. "The Iraqi military doctrine emphasizes detailed planning and approval at the highest levels, and no deviation from the plan. In other words, they have a very detailed plan dictated from the highest level, approved from the highest level and properly executed by the troops in the field," says Schwarzkopf.

"We do exactly the opposite. ... The commander clearly makes his intent known ... but we encourage maximum initiative on the part of the supportive commanders in the execution of their missions."

U.S. intelligence sources say that Saddam's insistence on micro-managing his war against Iraq cost him lives and victory. Saddam ordered a temporary halt to that war in the early days so his people could regroup. At the time Iraq was winning, and military strategists speculate that Iraq could have been beaten if Saddam had pressed the war instead of taking a break. The war dragged on for eight years.

In 1982, some officers who complained about Saddam's military skills were executed.

"Saddam Hussein is not a military man," Schwarzkopf said. "He thought of this war in tactical terms. He never thought of it in strategic terms."

In the early weeks of fighting, Schwarzkopf got several different and sometimes conflicting reports describing Saddam's state of mind when he realized he had miscalculated. "One time he was totally out of control (and) they had to call in doctors to give him tranquilizers." Other reports said Saddam was "serenely calm," and still others said he had taken to "pulling out his pistol and shooting people, which isn't necessarily calm by my definition."

Leaving the war to the generals is not the Iraqi style.

Taxpayers refuse reform plan

WASHINGTON — Disenchanted or uninterested, four out of five taxpayers have been opting against the presidential campaign fund checkoff, leaving the government short of subsidies for White House candidates early in 1992.

While that alarms reformers, it probably will be just fine with a good many voters, who don't know much about the public financing of presidential campaigns and don't care much for politicians anyhow.

And it won't concern President Bush's re-election strategists because he's not going to need a costly campaign for the Republican nomination to a second term.

The financing that's at risk will be for Democrats campaigning for the nomination to run against him. There aren't any yet. A campaign slower than usual in getting started has been put on hold by the Persian Gulf War.

But there will be a cast of Democratic candidates. They will qualify for federal subsidies to offset the cost of their primary election campaigns, and they will be looking for money early in 1992, when it counts most.

They'll get some, but how much, and when, hasn't yet been settled.

The new budget anticipates nearly $158 million in federal election campaign spending next year, and there isn't expected to be enough checkoff money to cover it at the beginning of the election year.

The presidential election campaign fund is financed through a system that permits each taxpayer to check a box designating $1 for the purpose. It doesn't cost the taxpayer anything extra; it simply earmarks the dollar. The checkoff has covered expenses since the 1978 primaries and presidential election, a post-Watergate reform.

Since then, 49 out of 50 candidates for major party presidential nominations have taken matching campaign funds, and accepted the spending limits that go with them.

The only exception was John B. Connally, who raised nearly $13 million in his quest for the Republican nomination in 1980, and won one delegate before he quit the race. Ronald Reagan was a critic of public financing, but he used it every time he ran.

The system guarantees financing for national party conventions, and for the general election campaigns of the major party nominees. Each will be entitled to at least $55.1 million in 1992.

Candidates in the 1992 primaries are expected to qualify for about $98 million in federal campaign funds, according to the Federal Election Commission.

The Treasury wants to set aside the funds to pay for the general election campaign, and let the primary election candidates share what's left — only about $14.5 million at the beginning of the campaign year.

John W. McGarry, chairman of the Federal Election Commission, said the government should instead make payments from the fund based on the receipts that will be coming in later in the campaign year. Even then, there would be an estimated $3 million shortage.

McGarry said the Treasury proposal means candidates wouldn't get the money when they need it most, in time for the early primaries and caucuses that can make or break a nomination bid.

And reformers worry that if that is the outlook, candidates will go it alone, avoiding the limits on both contributions and expenditures that go with the federal campaign funds.

Presidential candidates qualify for matching funds for primary campaigns by raising at least $5,000 in small contributions — $250 or less — in each of 30 states. Then the government matches the first $250 of each contribution.

It's all supposed to be pay-as-you-go with the checkoff funds, but the dollar-a-taxpayer rate hasn't been increased since the system began, while the subsidies are adjusted for inflation.

At the same time, taxpayer participation has slumped, from nearly 29 percent in 1980 to 20.1 percent in 1988 and 18.9 percent in 1989.

One way out would be to increase the checkoff amount. Another would be to have Congress appropriate enough to cover campaign payments, no matter what the checkoff produces.

Neither would be needed if more taxpayers checked the campaign box on their returns. The election commission is trying to persuade people to do that with a program intended to increase awareness of the campaign finance system.

But in a time of public disenchantment with politicians, that's not an easy sell. When the commission had focus-group surveys conducted in November and December, it found that most people don't know much about the campaign fund — and when they learned, some didn't like it.

"... It was often difficult to keep the group focused on the subject at hand because of their anger at politicians and a perception of wasteful spending by government," said one report.

A campaign slower than usual in getting started has been put on hold by the Persian Gulf War.

Proposal would allow condemned to marry

Associated Press

STARKE — Florida's Death Row inmates will be allowed to marry if a proposed rule permitting the ceremony goes into effect next month, officials said.

Perri King, an assistant general counsel for the Department of Corrections, said the state agency began considering changing the rule after several Death Row inmates requested permission to marry. Officials could find no reason to forbid their marriages.

The old rule prohibiting marriage by Death Row inmates has been on the books since the early 1970s and the new policy is expected to become effective March 20, Ms. King said.

Kerry Flack, a DOC administrator, said she doesn't know why Death Row inmates were prohibited from marrying.

"I guess it was us being concerned and trying to save some people from getting into something they were not prepared for, or would not be able to deal with," Ms. Flack said.

The proposed rule, however, would prevent Death Row inmates from marrying other prisoners.

In the past, inmates have sometimes been married by proxy, an arrangement not viewed as legal by prison officials, Ms. Flack said.

One such marriage was by inmate Robert Waterhouse, who was married to a woman in Tijuana, Mexico, in February 1988. A stand-in groom was used because Waterhouse has been on Death Row since 1980.

If the rule change goes into effect, the Waterhouses are planning a second marriage that both can attend.

Mrs. Waterhouse, who moved from California to Gainesville after the Mexican wedding, said she has no regrets about her marriage to a Death Row inmate.

She began writing to him at the suggestion of a friend who had visited Death Row inmates and the romance blossomed.

"Robert has fulfilled more in me than I thought any man could ever give me," she said.

Housing plans prompt criticism

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A Seminole County task force recommendation to encourage the profit-rich construction of $112,500 and $78,000 "affordable" homes brought criticism from two commissioners, developers and affordable housing advocates alike.

Commissioners noted statistics that showed 310 families are waiting for subsidized housing provided by the Sanford Housing Authority. Another 80 families are waiting for Seminole County Housing Authority subsidized housing.

"How do these recommendations provide shelter for them?" asked commissioner Larry Furlong.

"It really doesn't," answered county planning director Tony VanDerworp. "We don't have any proposed (building) code changes for them."

"The need for more moderate-priced housing is the greatest need," said Lynn Lawrence, chairman of the task force.

Commissioner Pat Warren said she was concerned that the affordable housing plan offered "truly" affordable homes to those seeking to own their own home.

According to county figures compiled from federal housing and income guidelines, a family of four earning a total of $18,750 a year, considered "very low income," should be able to afford $489 a month principle, interest, tax and insurance (PITI) payments on a $48,875 home.

A "low income" family of four, earning a total of $30,000 a year should be able to afford a $75,000 home at $750 a month

PITI payments. A "moderate income" family of four earning a total of $45,000 a year should be able to afford a $112,000 home by making $1,125 a month payments.

The "affordable" house prices were determined by taking 30 percent of the monthly salary of federally-determined median incomes for Seminole County and calculating the house that could be bought for those payments.

"My main concern is this report does not address the needs of the critical group, the very low income," Furlong said. "I don't think there's a shortage of $100,000 homes. I have a real concern about the things that are being done in this program that are essentially handouts to moderate-income people."

Charles Palmer, of Preferred Homes, Maitland, said federal Housing and Urban Development (HUD) minimum guidelines for housing payments suggest a low-income family can afford only a $58,000 home. People earning lower amounts are better off renting, Palmer said.

"Nothing you can do to provide self ownership to people making less than $25,000 a year with this plan," Palmer said.

Under the proposal, developers will be given incentives such as higher densities and relaxed subdivision regulations in return for building at least 40 percent of the homes in the subdivision affordable to low-income families and the remainder of the homes for low- or moderate-income families.

Commissioners accepted the report, but urged further staff analysis.

War

Monday's Scud attack.

At least 11 Americans had died; seven belonged to the 82nd Airborne but were attached to French forces in Iraq. Thirteen Arabs, 10 Britons and two Frenchmen also were among the dead.

The extent of Iraqi casualties was not known, but they certainly were far greater.

French forces pushing north into Iraq secured a small town about 100 miles north of the Saudi border, and French and U.S. combat units made their way as far as the Euphrates River, AP correspondent Jeffrey Uicker reported from the headquarters of the Army's XVIII Airborne Corps in northern Saudi Arabia.

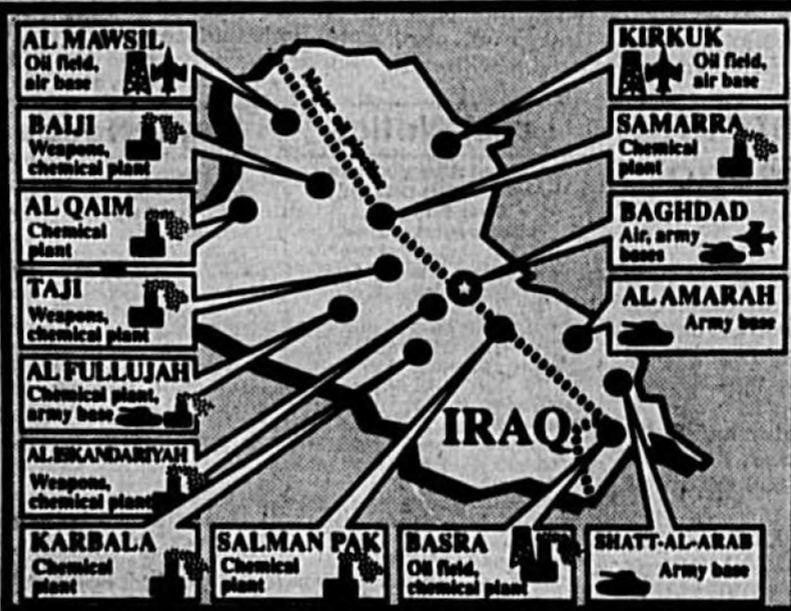

The 101st Airborne Division's air assault units were the first to reach the river, linking up later with their infantry. The 24th Infantry Division (Mechanized), heading in a slightly different direction, and the 82nd Airborne Division, working with the French 8th Armored Division, were also deep in Iraq.

The allies made it clear that Saddam would not be allowed to survive the Persian Gulf War with power and prestige intact. On Tuesday, when Saddam pledged to withdraw, President Bush said the war would press on "with undiminished intensity."

Baghdad radio claimed today that the withdrawal from Kuwait was completed "by the first light this morning." Allied commanders said the Iraqis were fleeing en masse, but that it was not known how many remained in Kuwait today.

A prime escape route for Iraqi troops could already be cut off. An Iraq military communique today said allied paratroopers had landed at an air base near Nasiriyah, 175 miles south of Baghdad on the Euphrates. A senior military official in Washington confirmed that U.S. troops had captured an airfield near Nasiriyah.

Capture of Nasiriyah would seal off routes running north toward the Iraqi heartland from the southeastern Iraqi city of Basra — since allied bombing raids have knocked out bridges across the Euphrates.

On the battlefield, the number of Iraqi prisoners was climbing so fast that U.S. military officials said they could no longer keep track of numbers beyond the 32,000 total the command reported late Tuesday.

Surrendering Iraqis shouted "Salaam! Salaam!" — "Peace! Peace!" — as they raised their hands. One U.S. official described an incident in which an Iraqi tank and a armored personnel carrier came upon a U.S. humvee stuck in mud.

"They helped the humvee get out of the mud — and then they surrendered," he said.

In Iraq's bomb-ravaged capital, Baghdadis — long without electricity — huddled around battery-powered radios, listening for news of the war.

"You have fought against 30 countries led by the most vicious war machine in the world," Saddam told his people on Tuesday. "Greater victory is certain" in the future, he said.

But the gloom in Baghdad was palpable. Air-raid sirens wailed and a dense, dust-laced fog covered the city, AP correspondent Salah Naarawi reported from the Iraqi capital. Allied aircraft raided the city again Tuesday night.

Iraq is seeking a cease-fire, but a majority of U.N. Security Council members are insisting that the Baghdad government accept all 12 council resolutions on the conflict before a truce can be considered, diplomats said.

In addition to calling for an unconditional Iraqi withdrawal, the U.N. resolutions call for Iraq to pay reparations and renounce all claims to Kuwait.

In Kuwait, the entrance of the allies brought unbounded joy.

"The flag of Kuwait is once again fluttering over Kuwait!" Kuwait radio said jubilantly. "Thanks be to God that the nightmare has ended."

Kuwait City bore the scars of nearly seven months of Iraqi occupation. Power lines were down, running water was available only in parts of the city, cars were stripped and gasoline was in short supply. Rain made greasy by Iraqi-set oil well fires fell today.

Kuwaiti diplomats said U.S. Marines were combing neighborhoods for Iraqi stragglers.

Kuwait's U.N. ambassador, Mohammad Abulhasan, said there were no immediate plans for the Kuwaiti emir, Sheikh Jaber al-Ahmed al-Sabah, and other leaders to return to the capital from exile in Saudi Arabia.

"When the emir will return depends on the situation inside Kuwait. There are lots of booby traps, mines, etc.," he said. The emir, Sheikh Jaber al-Ahmed al-Sabah, and other members of the ruling family have been in Saudi Arabia since Iraq's invasion on Aug. 2. U.S. Army and Saudi special forces had earlier filtered into the city in advance of the larger allied force. Some U.S. commandos were clad in Arab head-dresses and carried small, easily concealed automatic weapons.

Despite Iraq's claim the withdrawal was complete, it was unclear just how many of the 300,000 to 400,000 Iraqi troops once in Kuwait remained.

U.S. commanders described the road north from Kuwait City to the Iraq's narrow southeast corner and Basra clogged with retreating Iraqi vehicles, which U.S. pilots were attacking.

An Iraqi military spokesman, speaking on Baghdad radio, complained that Iraq's enemy had "demonstrated all his cowardly, mean and lowly characteristics" by attacking retreating troops. The allies have said they will go after any Iraqi forces that had not put down their weapons.

In the fourth day of the allies' blistering land assault, U.S. military officials in Riyadh said today that the fierce desert warfare since Sunday had knocked out 26 Iraqi army divisions — about 280,000 men — and 500 tanks.

With the drive into Iraq by more than 100,000 U.S. and allied soldiers, the focus has turned to Saddam's best troops — the Republican Guard — and the bid to trap them east of invading allied units and south of the Euphrates, thereby cutting off any escape route.

In a battle inside Iraq west of the Kuwaiti border, one tank division of the 10-division Guard was all but defeated, said U.S. military officials in the Saudi capital of Riyadh.

Two U.S. divisions — the 3rd Armored and the 1st Infantry (Mechanized) — clashed with one of the Guard's three heavy armored divisions, the Taw Al-Kana.

The other two Guard armored divisions remained intact, said the U.S. military officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity. They said one division was loading its tanks onto heavy highway carriers, either to retreat or to reposition.

Tests

he said.

"There was no problem with through traffic, just with cars turning left," Decker said.

Preliminary analysis of traffic flow on the road shows the idea working well during the first few days of testing, Decker said.

Decker said two lanes of traffic, with provisions for a turn lane, can be adequate to handle the volume of traffic on 25th Street, even with traffic from 150 new apartments located just off 25th Street across from Georgia Avenue. An average of between 11,000 and 12,000 cars travel the stretch of 25th Street between U.S. Highway 17-92 and Old Lake Mary Road every day, he said.

Decker said he has met with Seminole County School Board officials to discuss use of traffic from Seminole High School and Lakeview Middle School, located just off 25th Street on Georgia Avenue. He said he has also met with Sanford city officials to discuss potential traffic problems.

Unrelated to the test, a portion of 25th Street between Hardy Avenue and Old Lake Mary Road has been closed to traffic for work on the CSX rail line, Decker said.

Decker said the county may also conduct a similar test on Sanford Avenue, south of 25th Street, where its four lanes are only 10 feet wide and there is no turn lane.

East of 17-92, Decker said, 25th Street traffic moves smoothly, with wider lanes and a turn lane. No plans have been made to narrow that section of the road to three lanes, he said.

At the 17-92 intersection, 25th Street lanes were recently realigned for smoother traffic flow, Decker said. The county also created a right-turn-only lane on the eastern side of 25th Street onto 17-92, he said.

purchase and $300,000 available for the construction of the art and music suite.

Wells, when pressed by board member Sandy Robinson for his "expert opinion on the land purchase," said that he believed the five acre site would be the better deal for the school district.

"In the long run, I think that would be the wisest choice," he said.

The board recommended that the business advisory committee review each option before making a recommendation to the board.

"We would like to move on this quickly, though," he said.

The board agreed that they must be aware that sellers may ask more for their land because they know that the school board needs the land.

"We have to be prepared for that," Wells said.

The Business Advisory Board will make their recommendations to the board next month.

a standard county development requirement.

Sturm then requested commissioners defer the turn lane requirement to the second phase of the park development, expected to occur after the park is opened in November. Sturm also suggested the 40 m.p.h. speed limit on Country Club Road be lowered at the park entrance and McCollum work with city engineers to shorten the length of the turn lane.

Litton said that was an acceptable compromise. Commissioners voted unanimously to approve the plan. Litton said after the hearing without the Country Club Road entrance, the city would have to seek permission from a nearby church to allow park visitors to drive through the church parking lot to get to the park.

Caution delays recovery

By JOHN D. McCLAIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Many of the nation's top business economists say the refusal of consumers to resume spending is the biggest threat to economic recovery.

But even if consumers return to shopping malls and automobile dealerships soon, these analysts say large debt burdens and a lack of pent-up demand will moderate any growth in the economy.

Nearly half of the 84 economic forecasters surveyed by the National Association of Business Economists put consumer caution at the top of their list of factors that could worsen the recession.

"The role of consumer psychology was very important, according to our forecasters, partly because of the size of that sector," Richard D. Rippe, NABE president and chief economist for Dean Witter Reynolds in New York, said in announcing the survey on Tuesday.

Consumer spending represents about two-thirds of the nation's economy. It fell 3.1 percent from October through December 1990, leading to a fourth-quarter decline in the gross national product, the nation's total output of goods and services.

The Commerce Department today was releasing its first revision of the fourth-quarter GNP based on additional information that was not available when it made its initial estimate of a 2.1 percent decline last month.

The Bush administration and most economists believe the economy continues to decline during the current quarter, although at a slower pace. The two consecutive quarters of negative growth constitute what generally is defined as a recession.

The administration contends the economy will resume growth during the second quarter, a forecast with which 42 percent of the NABE economists agreed. A consensus of 52 economists surveyed by the publication Blue Chip Economic Indicators also predicted the recession will end by spring.

Both surveys project the recession will be shorter and milder than the average downturn since World War II. These eight recessions averaged 11 months, during which the economy fell 2.5 percent.

The NABE forecast calls for year-over-year growth in 1991 to fall 0.2 percent, while the Blue Chip survey projects growth to edge up just 0.1 percent.

As the business economists were releasing the results of their poll, the Conference Board in New York published its latest survey showing consumer confidence improved moderately in February.

The business-supported research group had reported consumer confidence plunged at the beginning of the Persian Gulf crisis last August. And while confidence improved slightly, it remained at sharply depressed levels and consumers were less positive about current economic conditions than they had been in January.

New Arizona governor; Daley wins in Chicago

By MIKE SILVERMAN
Associated Press Writer

Republican Fife Symington, a land developer making his first run for office, won Arizona's marathon governor's race today, surging past Democrat Terry Goddard for the second time in four months.

In Chicago, Mayor Richard M. Daley hailed his victory in a Democratic primary Tuesday as proof that the city had overcome the political and racial divisions of the past decade.

With 89 percent of precincts reporting in the Arizona runoff, Symington had 430,350 votes or 52 percent, and Goddard, an ex-mayor of Phoenix, had 393,878 votes or 48 percent.

The Republican newcomer also led the November balloting, but wrote-in votes kept him from gaining a majority and forced the runoff. Both times, he trailed in early returns until votes came in from conservative Maricopa County, which includes Phoenix and its suburbs.

"This has been a hard-fought race," Symington said. "We all need to pull together now and make this a better state."

Goddard urged his supporters to press for their political agenda. He wouldn't say if he would run for office again, but said, "The battle continues long after tonight."

Symington, 45, takes over a state facing layoffs because of a projected deficit of more than $200 million. The state also stands to lose the 1993 Super Bowl because voters rejected a paid Martin Luther King holiday.

Arizona has had more than its share of political problems in recent years, including the impeachment of Gov. Evan Mecham, Senate Ethics Committee investigation of both U.S. senators over contributions from S&L financier Charles Keating, and a Phoenix police sting that recently produced indictments against eight current or former lawmakers.

In Chicago, with 96 percent of precincts reporting, Daley had 398,406 votes or 64 percent, followed by Cook County Commissioner Danny K. Davis with 189,346 votes or 30 percent. Former Mayor Jane M. Byrne had 36,825 votes or 6 percent and Sheila Jones, a supporter of political extremist Lyndon LaRouche, had 2,075 votes, less than 1 percent.

Gorbachev Says he could lose out to radicals

By LESLIE GREENBERG
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW — Mikhail S. Gorbachev warned of civil war if radicals promoting recent street demonstrations succeed in ousting him as president.

In distancing himself from the forces of radical reform in favor of Communist Party traditionalists, Gorbachev set the tone before a March 17 national referendum on holding the Soviet Union together. The radical reformers have said they will try to use the vote as a referendum on Gorbachev's six years in power.

In his speech Tuesday night, Gorbachev singled out his main political rival, Russian Federation President Boris N. Yeltsin.

The Russian leader last week accused the Soviet president of abandoning perestroika, his program of social and political reform, for personal power. Yeltsin demanded Gorbachev's resignation.

"The democrats are striving for power," Gorbachev said in his speech, referring to Yeltsin and other reformers. The Soviet leader was speaking to intellectuals in the Byelorussian republic capital of Minsk on his first domestic trip outside Moscow in six months.

"Since their initial plan for a lightning capture of power by legal means through the Congress and Supreme Soviet (legislative bodies) did not work, they decided to use what some analysts define today as 'neoliberalist tactics.'"

"You know what I mean. It's the transition of the struggle to the streets: organizing demonstrations, rallies, strikes and hunger strikes."

OPEC could cut surging oil output

By SALLY JACOBSEN
Associated Press Writer

VIENNA, Austria — Once the Gulf War ends, OPEC will be prepared to rein in its strong oil production if demand falls too much, Indonesia's oil minister said Tuesday.

"If a cut in production is needed, we will do so," said Ginandjar Kartasasmita, one of a half-dozen ministers attending informal talks of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The ministers made no decisions at their secretive session Monday, Ginandjar said. It was hastily arranged about a week ago to consider ways of avoiding a price crash once hostilities end in the oil-rich Persian Gulf region.

"There is no agreement yet," he told reporters. "We are discussing ideas and tossing ideas about."

Other oil ministers attending the meeting were from Algeria, Nigeria, Gabon, Libya and Venezuela. No one from the important Persian Gulf states turned up. Their absence, especially that of Saudi Arabia's influential Hisham Nazer, ensured no actions would be taken.

The 13-nation cartel is scheduled to hold a formal monitoring session on March 11, possibly in Geneva.

At that meeting, the ministers will likely decide to reimpose their quota system and end their production free-for-all, begun shortly after Iraq invaded fellow OPEC member Kuwait on Aug. 2.

But any move to cut back OPEC production will likely meet resistance.

By DAVID CRARY

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia — As the extent of the Iraqi rout became clear, U.S. troops expressed plenty of sympathy for the throngs of surrendering Iraqi footsoldiers, but none for their commander-in-chief.

While Iraqi POWs received food and prompt medical care, it was evident that U.S. forces across the battlefield supported President Bush's decision to seek the outright capitulation of Saddam Hussein.

"Someone has to pay for all this, and it's him," said Sgt. Leondrias Williams, 26, an equipment operator from Winston-Salem, N.C., advancing with the 82nd Airborne Division through southern Iraq.

"We have to destroy these guys or we'll be back in the near future to finish the job," Williams said.

Deeper inside Iraq, where elements of the 18th Field Artillery Brigade helped French troops capture an Iraqi air base, Spc. Joseph Young, 20, of Wintendon, Mass., likened Saddam to a "guy who is mostly farmers, regular people who were forced to join the army or have their families killed."

—LCPL Steve Van Waus

to toppled Panamanian strongman Manuel Noriega.

"We'll have to go in after him like in Panama," Young said. "He's a war criminal and he has to be run down."

Even with Iraqi troops on the run, U.S. soldiers displayed deep suspicion of Saddam.

"I think he's a madman. He's got no respect for his people," said Spc. Rick Brown, 25, an equipment operator with the 82nd Airborne from Crown Point, Ind. "I think he just wants time to regroup his forces. It may be a trick to let down our guard."

Another member of the 82nd, petroleum supply Spc. Eric Hanewold, 20, of Jancerville, Wis., said the allies should disarm the Iraqis "like the Germans after World War II."

"They should have some military to protect themselves, but we don't want them to come back here again," he said, referring to Kuwait.

Despite these unforgiving attitudes, there was commiseration with the Iraqi POWs, some of whom were evacuated aboard a C-130 transport plane to Saudi Arabia on Tuesday for medical treatment.

"These guys are mostly farmers, regular people who were forced to join the army or have their families killed. They're real nice guys," said Marine Lance Cpl. Steve Van Waus, 20, of Fort Myers, one of the escorts aboard the C-130.

The plane picked up the wounded POWs from mobile field hospitals originally set up to give emergency treatment to allied troops.

"I did not see a defeated enemy," said Lt. Col. Bob Perich of Greeley, Colo., who was helping transport another batch of POWs from Iraq. "I saw a group of people who did not want to be soldiers, who wanted to be doing something else."

Families who have information for this committee may call Osborn at 323-0105.

Americans here are encouraged, but still cautious

By LESLIE DREYFUS
AP National Writer

In a matter of hours, a war that was five months in coming and five weeks fought from the air suddenly seemed to be hurtling toward an end on the ground.

Though Americans were elated by word of allied successes in Kuwait, many still felt the tug of a reflexive caution developed over 6½ months of watching peace repeatedly fail.

"We're not going to set off the firecrackers yet," said Susan Morgado of Concord, Calif., whose son is with the Marines. "But, you betcha, we've got them ready."

The progress of the U.S.-led ground campaign was somewhat fogged Tuesday when, even as his troops were retreating from Kuwait, Saddam Hussein was telling his people their soldiers had faced a "legendary showdown" and were victorious. President Bush responded swiftly, pledging to continue the allied offensive and promising the Persian Gulf War soon would be won.

"The news is good. But it's still too soon to jump for joy," said Robbie Nathe, executive director of Support Our Country's Military in Plymouth, Minn. "We want our men and women to come home first."

Near Camp Lejeune, N.C., Alvin Crane was putting letters up on a sign outside the Phoenix 24 Hour Diner on Marine Boulevard: "God Bless the USA in its Quest for Freedom."

Many were prepared to press on with the battle. "As far as I'm concerned," said Michael Engelskirchen of Fayetteville, N.C., "we should go right on to Baghdad."

Relatives of 527,000 U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf were among the most committed to insuring the peace, even if it meant delaying reunions and ticker-tape parades.

IN BRIEF

TRACK and FIELD

Cook shines for Lake Mary

LONGWOOD — Lake Mary's Shannon Cook grabbed a pair of first-place finishes and a second in a high school track quad-meet at Lyman High School Tuesday night.

Cook finished first in the shot put (32-2) and in the discus (119-11) as well as came in second in the triple jump (32-3).

Other multiple place winners for Lake Mary were Tami McGinnis (first in the 330 low hurdles, second in the long jump), Christina Olson (fourth in the 220 and fifth in both the 100-meter dash and triple jump) and Monica Licciardello (second, 330 low hurdles, and fourth, 110 high hurdles).

Also placing for the Rams were Heather Hoest and Jaumeiko Coleman (tied for third in the high jump), Heather Vaughn (third, long jump), Amy Downs (third, triple jump), Kaica Rohlehr (second, 110 high hurdles), Aimee Tharp (fifth, mile run), Heather Bonck (third, 440 dash), Amy Mosseri (second, 880 run) and Staci Ferguson (fourth, 880 run).

BASKETBALL

Scott, Turner boost Magic

OAKLAND, Calif. — Rookie Dennis Scott matched his career high with 35 points and Jeff Turner scored a season-high 28 Tuesday night as the Orlando Magic won consecutive road games for the first time this season, 131-119 over the Golden State Warriors.

Orlando, 4-22 on the road this season, has won seven of its last 10 games despite an 18-36 overall record.

Schayes helps Bucks top Heat

MIAMI — Dan Schayes tripled his scoring average for the second consecutive game Tuesday and the Milwaukee Bucks made an early 22-point lead stand up for a 119-106 win over Miami.

Schayes, averaging 9.6 points per game, scored 29. He had a season-high 31 Saturday in a victory over Cleveland.

Sherman Douglas and Willie Burton led the Heat with 18 points apiece.

COLLEGE HOOPS

SCC men try to stay alive

DAYTONA BEACH — Given that Coach Bill Payne has little more than a patchwork lineup to send on the floor, it's amazing that the Seminole Community College Raiders are in the semifinals of the Mid-Florida Conference basketball tournament.

Tonight, the Raiders will try to advance to the tournament final when they travel to Daytona Beach Community College for a 7:30 p.m. game with the Scots. Last Saturday, the Scots defeated SCC 71-57 in the regular season finale for both teams.

On Monday, the Raiders advanced to this evening's semifinal by beating Valencia Community College 75-72. SCC, short-handed because of injuries to three of its five leading scorers, employed the nearly unbeatable combination of teamwork and tough team rebounding to beat the Matadors.

In tonight's other semifinal match-up, Florida Community College at Jacksonville visits Central Florida Community College in Ocala.

FSU upsets Southern Miss

TALLAHASSEE — Michael Folite scored 21 points and pulled down 14 rebounds Tuesday night as Florida State wiped out a 16-point deficit to take an 85-83 Metro Conference victory over 14th-ranked Southern Mississippi.

Florida State (16-10 overall and 8-5 in the Metro) climbed back into the game with an 11-2 spurt to open the second half that brought the Seminoles to within 48-43. Charlie Ward's layup with 10:32 left gave the Seminoles a 55-54 lead.

Aubry Boyd added 20 points and Edwards 19 for the Seminoles, who have won three straight games as they bid for a second-place finish in the Metro Conference.

COLLEGE BASEBALL

Miami overtakes Florida

CORAL GABLES — Pitcher Jose Prado upped his record 3-0, leading Miami to a 4-2 victory over rival Florida Tuesday night.

Florida (8-5) jumped out to an early 2-0 lead in the second on Bo Camposano's single to left center scoring Mario Linares and Brent Killen.

Miami (12-2) cut the lead to 2-1 in their half of the second on Chris Anderson's double, scoring Juan Llanes.

The Hurricanes chased Gators starting pitcher John Burke (0-1) with three runs in the sixth.

Hufford drives OCS Rams to Region IV title

From staff reports

HAWTHORNE — Liz Hufford scored the game-winning basket on a drive down the lane with three seconds left to give the Orangewood Christian School Rams a 55-54 come-from-behind win over host Hawthorne in the 1A-Region IV girls' basketball championship game Tuesday.

Hufford, a 5-foot 8-inch sophomore power forward, finished with 27 points, tying the Orangewood Christian school records. She also collected 10 rebounds and 10 assists to complete the triple-double.

Six of Hufford's points came in the fourth quarter, when the Rams overcame a 49-40 deficit with a game-ending 15-5 run.

Christa Hogan, who scored seven of her 13 points during that quarter, led the Rams.

he led off the third inning with a single, stole second and later scored on Ricky Eckstein's RBI single.

Tribe lets Patriots escape in eighth

By PHIL SMITH
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Jeff Shaw and Eric Castaldo each drove in two runs to lift the Lake Brantley Patriots to a 6-4 come-from-behind victory in extra innings over the Seminole Fighting Seminoles Tuesday afternoon at Seminole High School.

After rallying from an early two-run deficit by scoring two runs in the top of the seventh, Lake Brantley, 3-5, claimed the victory with a four-run outburst in the eighth inning.

Dennis Harney began the rally by reaching on an error. After Randy Siegal singled, Jeff Butler doubled to score Harney with the eventual winning run. Shaw then singled home Siegal and Butler. Castaldo later hit a single that plated Shaw.

"Our young people really came through for us today," said Lake Brantley Coach Mike Smith. "We started four sophomores and two freshman and they all played well."

The Tribe rallied against Jamie Moeny in the bottom of the eighth when B.J. Osborne walked, David Eckstein singled and Ricky Eckstein walked to load the bases with one out.

After Moeny retired Ray Adock on a pop-up, Matt Freeman doubled home Osborne and David Eckstein to cut the margin to 6-4. But Moeny struck out Demmie Beamon to end the game and earn his first win of the season.

The Tribe, now 3-5, took a 1-0 lead in the first inning

High-powered Silver Hawks rip Seminole

By BILL KERNS
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Lake Howell pounded out 25 hits to clobber mistake-prone Seminole 23-4 in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls' softball game played Tuesday afternoon at Fort Mellon Park.

Following a well-played season-opening loss to Lake Brantley (ranked fourth in the Class 4A state poll), Seminole's lack of enthusiasm Tuesday came as a surprise.

"We were flat, period," Seminole coach Greg Register stated. "We made a lot of mental mistakes. Physical mistakes we can handle, but we've got to stop mental mistakes. We just played Lake Brantley and played pretty well. But today, we just didn't play well, period."

Lake Howell scored at least three runs in all but one inning and played solid defense.

"We were very pleased with a conference win and a good overall performance," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said. "We hit well today (and) we're trying to improve on defense."

The tone was set in the first inning when Lake Howell scored five runs as Kristy York, Tina Leman, and Wendi

Brian King matched Allen with 22 points for the Bulls while Brian Holland added eight and Erik Beltran and Ryan Murray four each.

The Hawks came back to win another squeaker, 32-30, over the Sixers. Shawn Hawkins led with 12. Also contributing were Reynolds and Allen (six each) and Victor Kelly and Gruber (four each). Randall Smith was the top Sixer with 19 while Frank Cilents had nine.

The Pistons edged the Trailblazers 34-32 in overtime with Mark Pipkin scoring nine, Matt Lynch seven and Scott Harrell five. Eric Sotnick led the Blazers with nine. Mark Sotnick (eight), Gary Turner (seven) and Jeff Daniels (four) helped out.

The Spurs put on a final rush, winning two straight games to finish second. They beat the Pistons 39-19 and nipped the Sixers 40-37. Doing the damage in the first game were Josh Craig (14), Brian Kennedy (eight), Greg Ickes (seven) and Mike House (six). Providing the offense in the second game were Kennedy (21), Craig (10) and Ickes (eight).

Pipkin led the Detroit gang with five while Harrell and Greg Blachated had four each. Smith scored 21 and Zach Bowden and Brent Herman six each for the Sixers.

The Bulls knocked off the Blazers 42-37 with King scoring 27. Kwin Martin added 11 and Holland four. Pacing the Blazers offense were Mark Sotnick (14), Anderson (eight), Eric Sotnick (seven) and Turner (five).

Girls
The Bullets finished the season 11-1 to edge the Kittens (10-2) who lost to third place South Seminole 25-19. South Seminole was led by Angel Rhodes (10), Sabrina Young (eight) and Christine James (four). Lisa Liljenquist (eight), Shyonna Tossie and Carrie McAuliffe (four each) did the damage for the Kittens.

South Seminole also beat Tusawilla 40-30 with James (12), Young (eight) and Cara Ison and Rhodes (six each) pacing the offense. Kelly Kohn topped all scorers with 24 points for Tusky with Sabrina Little adding four.

The Jackson Heights Kittens came back to topple the Jackson Heights Air-Lions 38-10. Leading the attack were Liljenquist (11), McAuliffe (10), Stephanie Noisoux (nine), Angela Goff (four) and Cindy Liljenquist and Michelle McCauley (two each). Doing the scoring for the Air-Lions were Rebecca Venezia (four) and Brooke Shurm. Jody Hayes and Amanda Martinet (two each).

Tusawilla beat the Maitland Gators 33-23 with Kohn tossing in 18. Corey Murray and Hollie Watts helped out with seven and four, respectively.

Escape

when Ricky Eckstein reached on an error, stole second and scored on a single by Ray Addock. Seminole added another run in the third inning when B. J. Oubourne singled, stole second and later scored on Ricky Eckstein's RBI single.

Seminole's Robbie Morgan pitched well for six innings, allowing no runs on two hits while striking out six and walking four. But Morgan ran out of gas in the seventh and was replaced by Jon Eltonhead after hitting Stegall with a pitch and surrendering a single to Butler.

Stegall later scored on Castaldo's ground out and Butler scored on Tom Penny's single to tie the score at 2-2.

"Robbie Morgan pitched a great game for us until he got tired and let the first two men on in the seventh," said Seminole Coach Mike Powers. "I was able to put Eltonhead in when I wanted to, but they hit the ball and we didn't."

Softball

Van Horn each singled and both Dianne Lowe and Joy Joseph tripled. Seminole added three errors.

But rather than giving up, Seminole rebounded for two runs in its half of the first on singles from Andrea Ruffin, Argie Walker, Rita Frison and Tiraney Jones.

"Coach Register is doing a great job with this team," stated Luciano. "They're much improved."

A five-run fourth inning for the Silver Hawks locked the game away with the score 13-3. Leman, Van Horn and Michelle Nason all singled and Kat Foldeau tripled for Lake Howell. But what made the inning were seven Seminole errors.

"We're much better at hitting," said Register. "But there's a lot of work to be done on defense. We've got to work on it. Mentally, we're hurting."

Leading the Lake Howell attack were Leman (four singles, triple, three runs, six RBI), Joseph (two singles, two triples, five runs, four RBI), Lowe (two singles, triple, double, five runs, two RBI) and York (three singles, five runs).

Regional

fourth-quarter rally and also had eight rebounds, played a major role in the Rams' comeback by shutting down Michie Williams in the second half. After scoring 14 points in the first half, Williams was limited to four second-half points by Hogan.

Playing in front of a crowd of approximately 300 fans, a third of which were rooting for Orangewood Christian, Hawthorne jumped out to a 21-9 lead after one quarter. After cutting the lead to 33-28 by halftime, the Rams went to a man-to-man defense in the third quarter and pressed the home team.

By the end of the third quarter, the Rams had managed to slice another point off the 44-40. Hawthorne scored the first five points of the fourth quarter, then saw Orangewood Christian sprint by them down the stretch.

Orangewood Christian, 23-8, will play in the 1A-Section II title game this Saturday. If Hilliard won Tuesday's Region III title game, the Rams will host the sectional game. But if St. John's Country Day defeated Hilliard, Orangewood Christian will be on the road to Jacksonville.

Low-fat diet choices good for your heart

Healthier eating for our hearts sake is something that concerns us all. Heart disease is prevalent. Seldom a week goes by that we don't hear of someone who has had a heart attack, or a bypass or some problem of the heart. Neighbors, friends, family...then it becomes real! I believe in preventive medicine, and one thing we all can do is to eat foods that are heart-healthy and prepare them in a heart-healthy manner.

Ground turkey is lower in fat than ground beef. Substitute it whenever possible. Serve this versatile Mexican-flavored meat sauce in a variety of ways...as a tortilla filling, over chips, as a salad or potato topping.

MEXICAN TURKEY MIX

1 lb. ground turkey
1 small onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1 can (15 oz.) kidney beans, undrained
1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
1/4 C. water
2-3 tsp. chili powder
1/2 tsp. cumin

Crumble turkey in 1 1/2-qt casserole. Add onion and garlic. Microwave on 100% power, uncovered, 5-8 minutes or until meat is no longer pink, stirring twice. Drain. Add beans, tomato paste, water, chili powder, and cumin. Mix well. Cover with lid. Microwave on 100% power, 7-8 minutes or until mixture boils, stirring once. Let stand about 5 minutes before serving.

Toss with shredded lettuce with some taco toppings for a main dish salad. Spoon into baked potatoes, adding cheese, tomato or pimiento sauce.

This popular family entree can be made with ground turkey.

QUICK TURKEY PORCUPINE MEATBALLS

1 lb. ground turkey
1 small onion, chopped
1 egg, slightly beaten

1/4 C. quick-cooking rice
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/4 tsp. poultry seasoning
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed tomato soup
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Combine ground turkey, onion, egg, rice, salt, pepper, and poultry seasoning; mix well. Form into about 16 1 1/2-inch meatballs. Arrange in a 8-inch round baking dish. Combine soup and Worcestershire sauce; spoon evenly over meatballs. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave on 100% power, 10-11 minutes or until meatballs are set. Let stand several minutes before serving. One cup of leftover cooked rice can be substituted for the quick-cooking rice.

Herbs go a long way in adding flavor and interest to foods, and the microwave enhances the natural flavor of foods. Try this breaded fish recipe that uses no salt (heart happy).

LEMON-DILLED BREADED FISH FILLETS

1/4 C. dry bread crumbs
2 Tbsp. Parmesan cheese
1/4 tsp. dill weed
1/4 tsp. paprika
1/4 tsp. garlic powder
1/4 C. lemon-flavored yogurt
1 lb. favorite fish filets

Combine bread crumbs, Parmesan cheese, dill weed, paprika and garlic powder on waxed paper; mix well. Spoon yogurt into shallow dish. Cut filets into serving-sized pieces. Dry each with paper towels. Dip filets, one at a time, in yogurt and then into crumbs, coating evenly. Place in 12 x 8-inch glass baking dish. Cover with paper toweling. Microwave on 100% power, 4 1/2 - 5 minutes or until fish flakes apart easily with fork.

For half a recipe, use half the ingredients in an 8-inch round baking dish. Reduce time to 2 1/2 - 3 minutes.

Fresh fruits and vegetables are a wise choice, followed by those that are frozen. Canned foods almost always have salt added; therefore not a wise choice for heart happy dieting.

Heart dieters need not avoid all desserts, but they do need to make wise choices. Simple fresh fruits are smart, remember the old adage "an apple a day"!

ROSBERRIES
2 medium pears
8 whole cloves
1 C. cranberry pieces

2 Tbsp. sugar
2 tsp. cornstarch
Peel, halve and core pears. Place cut-side-up in 1-qt. microwave-safe casserole. Sprinkle with cloves. Combine juice, sugar, and cornstarch, mixing well. Pour over pears. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave on 100% power, 8-9 minutes or until pears are just tender, gently stirring juices once. Serve warm or chilled.

Other juices, such as cranapple or raspberry, can be used and the sugar can be omitted.

(Midge Mycoff is a certified home economist and coordinator of the Single Parent Displaced Homemakers Program at Seminole Community College. Send questions about microwave cooking to her at the Sanford Herald, 309 N. French Ave., Sanford, 32771 or phone: 323-1480, ext. 360.)

Fish stews, seafood soups are quick and easy fixes

By Alison Claire
NEA Food Editor

Fish or shellfish stews and chowders are at their best when served the same day they are prepared. However, with the busy schedules of today, cooks may make these dishes on the weekend and refrigerate them for a quick meal at the beginning of the week. There's nothing like coming home to a hot bowl of tuna chowder, spicy crab soup or oyster stew.

Refrigerate the cooked shellfish dishes and use within two to three days. Remember, though, it is the first-day freshness that makes these steaming soups so popular.

Making an oyster stew is the simplest and can be done quickly after work. If oysters are bought ahead, keep in mind that freshly shucked oysters have a shelf life in the refrigerator of five to seven days while frozen shucked oysters need not be thawed before using in stews, casseroles and other cooked dishes.

Rule No. 1 in preparing fish or shellfish is not to overcook. Seafood becomes tough and loses much of its flavor when this is done. And, don't forget that seafood seasonings, as well as herbs and spices, used in stews and chowders heighten the flavor without a real need for salt. Obviously, this is an added boon for those watching their sodium intake.

TUNA CHOWDER
1 pound yellowfin tuna steaks, skinned and cubed
1 10 1/4-ounce can low-sodium

chicken broth
1 cup potatoes, diced
1/2 cup EACH onion, carrots and celery, chopped
1/2 cup frozen corn
1/2 teaspoon dried basil
1/4 teaspoon dried thyme
1/2 cup low-fat milk
1 tablespoon parsley, chopped
In a large saucepan, mix broth with 1 can of water. Add potatoes and simmer 10 to 15 minutes until tender. Remove cooked potatoes from broth, reserving liquid. Puree cooked

Man serving time would rather serve country

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this letter from the Adams County Detention Facility in Colorado. I am sitting in here with about 600 other inmates, doing time for small crimes.

Why couldn't we be given a chance to prove ourselves to society by fighting in the Middle East? Just think, we are drug-free, alcohol-free and are in good physical condition because we work out seven days a week. We would be perfect for battle if given a chance.

Why doesn't America give us a real second chance? Please print this in your column for people to see.

NOT SERVING OUR COUNTRY

DEAR SERVING TIME: After you finish serving your time, you may get the chance to serve your country, but not before. A high-school diploma is required for acceptance in the military, after which there is a minimum of six weeks' training.

The ability to conform to rules and regulations is vital to survival in combat situations. You could be the exception, but most people who are "serving time" have a history of being unable (or unwilling) to conform to the rules of society.

So, while I salute your patriotism, you must prove yourself to be a good citizen before you're given the chance to be a good soldier.

DEAR ABBY: I am divorced and have been approached by a divorced lady who apparently would like to go out with me. This lady has a very pretty face, but she is about 50 pounds (at least) overweight, and because of that, she doesn't appeal to me.

However, before her divorce she was very slim and attractive.

I could be very interested in her if she got her "old look" back again. Should I try to tell her this, or would I be better off just to forget about her? Also, am I a terrible person for not being able to get serious about a lady with a weight problem?

DEAR LINDA: I do not recommend telling a woman that you could be interested in her if she got her "old look" back. You are not necessarily a "terrible person" for not being able to get serious about a woman with a weight problem. Everyone has a right to his — or her — own preferences, but by your own admission, you are judging the book by its cover.

Why don't you invite her out anyway? And if she can overlook your shallowness, you may be able to invite her to slim down a bit.

DEAR ABBY: Can anyone out there give me some new ideas on what to give nurses and aides at holiday time? My mother is in a nursing home, and although I bring them candy, cookies, etc. to share, so does everyone else.

DEAR NEW JERSEY:

M-O-N-E-Y. The color goes with everything, and any size will fit into their wallets. Buy an appropriate card and slip a few dollars, or five — or whatever you can afford — into the envelope. It will be appreciated. Trust me.

DEAR ABBY: Last summer my son nearly died as the result of a car accident. Please print this letter to help ease a mother's conscience for not having said these things to the appropriate people some time ago. Do not disclose my name or city. Let those who have done similar deeds believe that these words are meant for them, because they are:

To the couple who stopped to call the police: Thank you!
To the paramedics who faced that gruesome scene willingly, and worked tirelessly in the middle of the night: Thank you!
To the emergency nurse and receptionist who held my son's hand: Thank you!

To the surgeon who skillfully set his broken bones and tidily stitched each laceration: Thank you!

To the eight people whose blood flowed through my son's veins for a few precious hours: Thank you!

To the intensive-care nurses who sustained his life and made him a part of theirs: Thank you!
To all of you: I cannot begin to put into two little words what will fill my heart forever. Please accept them as a symbol of something that never could be measured — a mother's love and gratitude. Thank you!

MOM: Your gracious letter provides an opportunity to offer these words of caution to anyone who gets behind the wheel of an automobile: Please drive carefully, alertly and defensively.

Haldol may induce muscle twitching

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: About five years ago, I was given Haldol for chorea and have had involuntary movements of my tongue and face, unsteady gait and weakness ever since. Is there anything I can do to counteract this problem?

are you expelling it too freely? For the purpose of an answer, I'll assume the more common complaint: too much gas.

To help you with this problem, I suggest the following: Be careful when you eat to avoid swallowing air, stay away from carbonated beverages and sorbitol, don't eat foods—such as beans and spices—that you have found give you gas. In addition, try simethicone, an over-the-counter anti-gas compound available in chewable peppermint-flavored pills. If these suggestions are ineffective, see your doctor for more specific advice.

DEAR READER: Haldol (haloperidol) is a useful drug for the treatment of certain emotional upsets associated with behavioral disturbances (psychotic disorders). Despite its benefits, it has one serious drawback: It can cause tardive dyskinesia, a syndrome consisting of involuntary muscular movements of the tongue, face, mouth or jaw; occasionally, the extremities may be involved. As you can see, these symptoms are similar to chorea.

Although most patients with Haldol-induced tardive dyskinesia improve when the drug is stopped, in some patients, the affliction is permanent and irreversible.

I urge you to be examined by a neurologist. Such a specialist will be able to determine whether your uncontrollable muscle twitching is due to the Haldol or some other condition, such as primary nerve disorder. Also, the neurologist will be able to advise you about further treatment to control your symptoms.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 67-year-old and have a real problem expelling gas. There's also frequency without warning and noise! Can you help?

DEAR READER: Intestinal gas is one of mankind's most troublesome conditions. It results from swallowed air and certain edibles that pass through the intestine relatively undigested.

When these substances reach the large bowel, bacteria metabolize them, producing gas in the process. Such substances are beans, legumes and sorbitol, an inert sugar used as flavoring.

Your statement about expelling gas is unclear. Are you having trouble expelling it, or

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Poor Sam! (He's the hero of "Intermediate Bridge in Three Weeks," Alan Truscott's latest book.) Here we find him in an ambitious contract of six no-trump, reached because his partner let all his aces go to his head. North should have raised two no-trump to only four no-trump, a gentle invitation to slam. With only 18 high-card points, Sam would have passed. But North did bid six no-trump, and Sam had to wrestle with his slim chances.

He started out right, winning his king of spades and playing K-A and 10 of hearts. That established the heart suit with only one loser. West continued with a second spade, South winning the ace. Sam didn't think much of his chances, but he perked up when he played K-Q of diamonds and East showed out on the second diamond. If Sam could believe his eyes, it was apparent that East held both black suits. So Sam played a third diamond to dummy and ran the hearts, watching closely to see if his seven of spades might become a winner. On the last heart, East kept the queen of spades, but he had to come down to only two clubs. Declarer threw his last spade away and made the last three tricks with A-K and 9 of clubs.

Skill is fine at bridge, but it never hurts to get lucky. (C)1991, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

Three friends could play extremely constructive roles in your affairs in the year ahead. One will be a new acquaintance while the other two will be people you've known for a long time.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may feel as though your mate is making too many unreasonable requests of you today. With closer analysis, however, the opposite might be true. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is not a particularly good day to work on endeavors that are beyond your scope or talents. It might be wise to wait until you have qualified help to assist you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try to avoid groups or cliques today that contain members you dislike. There is a possibility something unpleasant could result, owing to your lack of tolerance in dealing with these people.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Undesirable end results are likely if you attempt to do several important assignments simultaneously. Usually, you're pretty good at balancing several things at once, but not today.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's best not to discuss secretive matters today with someone who previously betrayed your confidence. This individual still hasn't learned to keep a lid on certain things.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Due to a lack of resources, you might not be able to buy something you desire or do something you want to do today. Let this serve as a warning: Be more prudent where finances are concerned.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The demands placed on you by others might be a bit more heavy than usual today. Try to help where you can, but let them take care of matters that they're capable of handling on their own.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In order to expedite situations today, you might be inclined to ignore essential details. Unfortunately, this could make what you do valueless.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's best not to become involved in speculative ventures with friends at this time. There is a chance you may end up feeling victimized, blaming your pals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Important objectives might not be achieved as easily as you think today. Whether you'll be successful or not is questionable because of a lack of fortitude on your behalf.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be extremely careful about making verbal commitments and/or signing your name today. These are critical areas where indifference could create penalties.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you're involved in a joint venture, make sure the responsibilities and liabilities are equally distributed. Everyone must pay a fair share.
